

A romantic couple is shown in a close embrace within a shower. The woman, on the left, has long dark hair and is wearing a dark, lace-trimmed strapless top. She is looking up at the man with a gentle smile. The man, on the right, has short dark hair and a light beard, and is looking down at her. He is wearing a simple black cord necklace. They are both wet, with water droplets visible on their skin. The background is a textured, light-colored wall, possibly a shower curtain or wall tiles, with water spray creating a misty atmosphere. The overall mood is intimate and sensual.

Sydney's Sin

Kirsten McCurran

Sydney's Sin

By

Kirsten McCurran

Other ebooks by Kirsten McCurran

Truth or Treat

Bound By Two

The Coach's Wife

Flirting With Trouble*

Swinging Saved Our Marriage

Her Other Husband

*A Snap Decision

Kissing In a Tree

Kelly Crosses the Line

Kelly Can't Help It

Substitute Wife

Swapping Around the Christmas Tree

Sex Equity

Stormbound: Seduced by the Neighbors*

Because He's Watching

Eve's Swinging Friends Series

It Started With a Joke

It Started With Mistletoe

It Started Over Coffee

It Ended With an Announcement

*Free ebook

SYDNEY'S SIN

© 2012 Aphrodite Omnimedia. All Rights Reserved. No part of this work may be reproduced for distribution by any means physical, mechanical or electronic without the explicit written permission of the copyright holder.

This is a work of fiction. All characters and locations are fictitious or used fictitiously.

Cover Design: Kenny Wright

Image licensed from bigstockphoto.com

First digital edition electronically published by Aphrodite Omnimedia, December 2012

I just stared at Sydney. I couldn't believe what was coming out of her mouth. Even more so, I couldn't believe my reaction to it. I was so turned on. For the first time in six years of marriage, I didn't know what to say to her.

"Kevin, say something. Please," she said, tugging on my arms.

Sydney and I were alone in one of the many rooms of the big, old Victorian house that belonged to her former boss. Although this part of the house had been set aside as an in-law suite on the first floor, I could hear the sounds of the party. It was hard to comprehend that the world kept turning for everyone else while mine had just been turned inside out.

"Syd, I..."

Tears welled in her eyes. I had to stop that, because I wasn't really angry. I mean, I was feeling some anger. The fact that Nick thought he could make a pass at my wife pissed me off, just as it would any other man. But, anger was not my overriding emotion. I saw the worry on her face and knew I had to say something.

"Tell me what happened again. Tell me everything." Not only was I buying time, but I really wanted to hear it all. Every little detail. Don't judge me.

"I don't think the details are important, honey. I think we should just go home."

"Just humor me, please."

I could tell Sydney wasn't thrilled to go through it all again, but she was hardly in a position to turn me down. I eased us over to the high, four-poster bed and we sat on the edge, making her spiked black heels dangle toward the floor. Sydney is only about five-foot-five. Nick's got to be at least six feet. He must have towered over her. She was so distracted she did not fix the split in her crimson wrap dress, exposing the lacy tops of her nude stockings—and the red garter belt straps holding them in place. I suspected from the dress—it was one of my favorites because of the way it conformed to her slender frame—that she had worn it with plans for us later. The garter belt confirmed it, and made me wonder what else was under that dress. Only a simple knot held the garter in place. Unbidden, an image of Nick untying that knot flashed through my mind.

“I was upstairs,” Sydney started. I tried to block everything else out and focus on her words. I wanted to put myself there. “The line for the bathrooms down here was too long, so I thought I would try my luck up there. I was just hoping I wouldn’t run into anyone having a drunken hook-up.” She smiled at the irony.

“I was coming around the corner to come back down and find you when I ran right smack into Nick. Literally. I think I might have fallen over if he hadn’t put his arms around me. You know I haven’t drunk much in the past year because of breast feeding, so I think the wine’s been hitting me pretty hard. I was grateful he didn’t let me tumble over, but then he didn’t just let me go either. Are you sure you really want to hear all this, hon?”

I nodded. “Yes, I’m sure.” A strange look came into her eyes, like she realized what I was really asking for. Before, she couldn’t even look at me while talking—the pattern on the wallpaper was fascinating—but now her hazel eyes were fixed on my face, studying me.

She continued. “Nick said, ‘I was just looking for you.’ I asked him why, and he said he was hoping to catch me under the mistletoe. You know the flirty kind of relationship we always had at work, so I didn’t really think anything of it. I told him that it might be nice, but he really shouldn’t try to corner married women under the mistletoe. It might not go over well with their husbands.

“That’s when he asked me, ‘Who could object to one little kiss?’ I answered—I swear Kevin, it was the wine talking—I said that I guess a nice, friendly kiss is harmless. We were completely alone in this big, house. I don’t know what I was thinking. I offered him my cheek, and he kissed it, very softly and sweetly. But then... then he took me by the chin...and he really kissed me.”

Sydney stopped and watched me. Could she see what I was really thinking? My cheeks were burning and I felt like it was written all over my face. It certainly showed if she looked down at my pants. They weren’t tight, but my hard-on was tenting them out. My hand was trembling when she covered it with hers.

“I didn’t do anything at first,” she continued. “I think I was too shocked to move. No one besides you has kissed me since I was in college. It was weird to have an unfamiliar set of lips on mine. You’re always clean-shaven, but Nick has that stubble. It was rough on my skin. He was soft at first, but when he realized I wasn't resisting he held me tighter and slipped me his tongue. I started tingling—everywhere. Kev, I'm sorry."

My entire body was still, except the throbbing in my cock. I was enthralled. I gripped her hand tightly, and whispered, "Tell me all of it, Syd."

"God, I lost myself in that kiss." She said. "I held him, and his fingers teased through my hair. He massaged my neck and I felt weak, like he was the only thing holding me up. He was touching my butt—he's always told me how much he loves it—and I couldn't help it, I wanted him to touch me more. But then he moved his hand to my breast. When he squeezed, it was like it snapped me back to reality. I pushed him away and I told him I had to go. It's so embarrassing, but I think I may have actually run away from him."

"I went to the bathroom to try to pull myself together. I felt like I looked like a slut. Everyone who saw me was going to know. I fixed my make-up, and came to find you. Can we please go home?"

I didn't answer. I couldn't. My mind whirled all over the place. I stared at Sydney and was relieved that she wasn't on the verge of crying anymore. She still looked upset, but she looked suspicious, too. She had to be wondering why I wasn't throwing a fit. The same question nagged me. I mean, I was upset. No man is going to be happy to hear his wife was just kissing another guy—and that she liked it. It did not matter if she initiated the kiss or not. But I was as turned on as I was upset. That mental image of Nick grabbing my wife and kissing her was a shot of adrenaline. Was this what it was like to do coke for the first time? It felt like I had never been so hard in my life.

"Say something, Kevin."

I couldn't speak. I didn't know how to tell her what I was feeling.

Sydney's eyes narrowed. "You like this, don't you?"

"I don't know if like is the right word."

"Talk to me damn it. I am so confused."

"Okay," I finally said. "It turns me on. You told me about Nick kissing you, and it turned me on. I know it's crazy."

"It is crazy! Why does that turn you on? Why doesn't it make you mad?"

"It makes me mad. It does. It's pretty ballsy to kiss another man's wife like that. But thinking about you kissing him turns me on, too. Somehow, the thought of being able to watch you with another man gets me off."

Sydney sat there dumbfounded. She had to be reeling as much as I was. She bit her bottom lip, something she always does when she's nervous and searching for something to say. She stared down into her lap, and murmured, "Have you always felt this way?"

"A little bit, I guess. I mean, it's not something I ever thought about doing. It's just like one of those fantasy things," I answered. "Sometimes I go online and read stories about guys who share their wives, and it's hot."

"And you want to share me?" Her voice was unsteady.

"I never really thought about it. It was always just abstract, but when you told me about kissing Nick—"

"He kissed me."

"Nick kissing you, I just had this reaction."

Sydney seemed to soften. I would have killed to look inside her head. She moved her hand out from under from mine and placed her fingers on my crotch. I shuddered when she grasped my hard-on. She worked my shaft through my pants and I held onto the bed post to stay steady.

"Why does it turn you on?"

"I don't know..."

"Do you wish I hadn't stopped him?"

The truth just tumbled from my lips: "Yes."

"You're insane," she said, but she did not stop touching me. Did this turn her on, too?

"I...I know."

I took a deep breath and put my hand over hers again, holding it over my cock. I had to compose myself. "What are you thinking, Syd?"

"I don't know what to think. This is—I don't know. I can't believe we're discussing doing this here."

"But we are. Do you think I'm a freak?"

"No, I love you. I just don't understand."

"Does it turn you on too?" I had to know.

"What?"

"Thinking of being with another man?"

"Kevin, I don't know."

A dangerous idea from uncharted territory was pushing itself forward from the back of my mind. She jumped when I touched her leg, and tensed when my hand moved higher, but I did not relent. I pushed my hand between her thighs, forcing them to part. I could feel her heat before I even touched her pussy. She gasped when I made contact.

"It does turn you on," I accused. Her fine lace thong was damp.

"I...of course it does. I like being kissed by a handsome man." She closed her eyes.

"I know you think Nick is hot." I pressed harder. Whimpers turned to moans. She'd never admitted it, but I knew that her flirty relationship with her co-worker turned her on. She liked that another man, one so hot, found her sexy. I'd always felt there was a little more to it than just flirting—obviously there was on Nick's end—but I had always been afraid to say anything until now.

"I do..."

"You didn't want to make him stop..."

"No..."

My stomach flipped. This was so hot, but hearing my wife tell me she wanted another man was still a shock to my system. Was it possible to want something so badly and be afraid of it at the same time? Sydney demanded my attention by tightening her grip on my cock.

"Let's get out of here. I want to be alone with you," she said.

The dark idea I had been resisting finally burst forth, forcing all other thoughts out of its way. It would not be denied.

"No. I want to stay."

"Why, honey? I want you to take me home and fuck me. Hell, fuck me right here," She said.

It took every ounce of willpower to not rip that dress off her right there. I did want to fuck her so badly, but I wanted something else more. How could I tell her?

"We should stay. Maybe you'll run into Nick again..."

Sydney's eyes flew open. "Are you saying..."

"Yes."

"You want..."

"Yes," I panted.

"No, I want to hear you say it," she demanded.

The words no longer came easily. I knew once it was said—once I put it out there—I couldn't take it back. "If you run into Nick again...if he gets you alone...it would be hot..."

Sydney didn't look shocked anymore. I couldn't tell just what she thought, but she kept a steady gaze on my eyes and continued a firm grasp on my cock. Still sitting on the bed, I pressed into her pussy harder, and her hips moved as she rubbed back against me.

"You don't want me to stop him this time?" She finally asked.

"No, don't stop him. Just go with it, Syd."

Her words were barely audible, just a breath: "Do you want me to fuck him?"

My heart froze. That was the logical conclusion, but I truly hadn't considered that. I was only fixated on Sydney in his arms, kissing him, his hands all over her. I'd never been so aroused. But I couldn't imagine her fucking Nick. I didn't think I could handle that.

"No, I'm not ready for that."

The wallpaper was suddenly fascinating again. Sydney could not look at me, and I realized what I had just said. I'm not ready for that. Yes, it implied that was something I could want. I hadn't meant to imply that, but if I said that was it something I wanted? I couldn't face that, not right now. I was only in the moment.

Sydney took a deep, cleansing breath and finally looked at me again. She simply said, "Okay." She slipped her hand from my prick, and pushed mine from her lap.

"Okay?" I wanted her to say so much more.

"Let's go back to the party."

What was she thinking? It seemed like she'd agreed to let something happen with Nick, but she didn't come right out and say it. I wondered if that would be too difficult—make it too real. She smoothed her dress and looked at herself in a mirror over the antique dresser. She was more than presentable. She was beautiful. I couldn't blame Nick for wanting her. But I hated that he had no respect for me and thought he could just take her. My feelings about him, however, did not stop me from wanting to use him to make this crazy fantasy come true.

Hand in hand, Sydney and I walked down the hall and returned to the party. We refreshed our drinks—we desperately needed it—and returned to mingling. One of the partners and his wife came over and we forced small talk. Our minds were miles away. The twinkling lights that were strung everywhere and the evergreen bunting, with little red bows, were too festive for my dark mood. Gaiety had no place in my universe tonight. The things on my mind could only take place in quiet, dark rooms, hidden from prying eyes. Only the mistletoe that hung over doorways interested me. They were reminders of Nick kissing my wife.

Once we freed ourselves from the polite chatter, Sydney and I went our separate ways at the party. Neither of us spoke it, but we both knew why. I retreated to the other end of the room, where a group of guys were discussing their fantasy football prospects, a conversation I would have been fully engaged in any other time. I was able to nod and pretend I cared while keeping my attention on Sydney. She drifted around the room moving from group to group, her eyes searching. She moved on to the adjoining library, and I wanted to follow. Those few minutes while Sydney was out of view killed me. All sorts of wild, impossible thoughts flashed through my head. It wasn't like Nick was just going to grab her and molest her right in the middle of the party.

When I was finally able to move to the other side of the room, where I could see into the library, I found she was indeed standing with Nick. She'd found him, or it was the other way around? It didn't matter. They stood close together. She laughed and casually touched his arm, the way women do when they're flirting. It was so strange to see my wife doing that with another man. Jealousy stirred in me, but my cock stirred in my pants. Really, it had never gone soft. And it was no contest. I was dying to know what they discussed. It was probably something about work or gossip about coworkers, but in my mind they were talking about how hot their kiss was, and they were wondering why they hadn't done it sooner. In my head, it went like this:

"I knew you always wanted to kiss me, Syd."

"I didn't kiss you. You kissed me."

"And you didn't stop me."

"I did."

"But not for a while. You wanted it, you just got scared."

"Maybe. It's just that I have a husband, you know?"

"I know, but that doesn't mean you should ignore what we're feeling."

"Oh, it doesn't?"

"We've both wanted this for years. We've been good, we've denied ourselves, but why do we have to? I know you're married, but that doesn't have to stop us. No one has to know anything ever happened between us. We're both grownups, we know it's just about sex."

"And how would it work, Nick? How do you propose I cheat on my husband with you?"

"This is a big house, Syd. We could slip away so easily and no one would notice. Where is Kevin right now?"

"I don't know."

"Exactly. It's easy to lose each other in a house this big, with so many people around. We could go off and come back and he wouldn't know anything. We get to do this—we get to have each other—and no one finds out. No one gets hurt."

"And you think I could do that? You think I could just go off to a bedroom with you, Nick?"

"I know you want to. I know you want to fuck just as much as I do. I know you can do it. Stop playing around."

I was so distracted by the imaginary conversation in my head that I nearly missed Sydney leaving the study through the other door. Nick looked impatient as he stood there by himself, sipping a beer. He waited impatiently—she must have told him to give her a head start—then left the empty bottle on a table before leaving in the same direction as my wife. I had to grip the wall to keep from following close behind.

Follow I did, but only after a couple minutes. It seemed they were both headed in the direction of the wing where I'd found Sydney earlier. I turned a corner and stopped short. They were at the end of the hallway, engaged in an animated conversation. I pulled back, but then peeked around the corner. I couldn't help myself, and just had to hope they were too engaged with each other to notice they were not alone.

Nick touched her cheek and she pushed his hand away, but only the first time. He leaned closer, she shook her head and tried to turn away. But he forced her to turn back. Anger flared inside me that he felt he would lay hands on my wife. But Sydney didn't pull away, signaling it was okay. She was allowing him to be forward with her. He must have seen that she wanted his hands on her. The jealousy in me grew, along with my cock. They spoke in hushed tones, and then kissed.

The blood in my veins turned to ice. I could barely see her behind him, but then she held his back. She was in his arms. I wanted to see more. I wanted to see that kiss, but I feared if I did my heart would stop. The kiss was perhaps a minute or two. An eternity for me. It appeared that Sydney stopped it again. Her face appeared around his shoulder and she saw me.

Sydney's eyes widened, and then her expression hardened. She pulled Nick down to kiss her. I staggered against the wall. She was thinking she could not go through with it, but then saw me watching and it firmed her resolve. Whatever happened next was assuredly my fault. Nick turned the doorknob and they slipped into the bedroom where Sydney and I sat just a half hour ago planning this. Events had come full circle.

The wood-paneled wall against my back was the only thing keeping me on my feet. I panted and realized I was on the verge of a panic attack. All I could think was What have I done? It was folly to send my wife off with another man—especially one as handsome and fit as Nick. A guy like Nick had probably been with a lot of women and knew what he was doing. He was confident enough. Would returning to her husband be a letdown for Sydney after being with Nick? Any sane man would storm down that hallway and put a stop to this right now. And yet, I couldn't. This was happening because I wanted it, and that hadn't changed. The thought of my wife being with another man was a rush like no other. I don't think I knew how strong the fantasy was until I'd spoken it tonight.

My brain filled with images of what was happening in that bedroom. Had Nick taken her right to the bed or did he undress her first? I thought about her thigh highs and garter belt. I knew he would like those. Maybe Sydney was undressing for him at that very moment. She likes to put on a show for me sometimes. Showing off for her younger lover would excite her even more, I'm sure. I needed to know what they were doing.

No planning went into this, so I hadn't thought about what I would do while Sydney was off with Nick. I couldn't just sit back and wait for her to find me after the fact and tell me what happened. Waiting was killing me already, and it had only been a couple minutes. I had to know what was going on in that room! It was hard to concentrate with all those crazy thoughts buzzing around in my head, but I closed my eyes and thought. There had to be a way to peek in on the action.

I wound my way back through the corridors until I found the big kitchen at the back of the house. Servers, hired for the evening, hurried around me without taking notice, and I slipped out the back door. One of the prettiest features of the boss's old Victorian mansion was the wraparound porch. All the smokers congregated in front, chatting and drinking under the festive Christmas lights. But the sides were dark, partially obscured by high bushes and shrubs. If I could make my way around the porch and find the right window, perhaps I could watch.

I tripped once, and nearly twisted my ankle in the dark. Stumbling, I slammed my thigh into an old, unyielding wrought-iron rocker, which creaked loudly in the night. I paused, but there was no reaction to the racket. I proceeded with more caution.

Most of the first floor windows at the back of the house were dark, and I hoped they weren't in one of those rooms. Sydney could have turned out the lights when they went into the bedroom. If she had, I would pass them by. The first window with a bright light was a bathroom, and I had to duck quickly past to avoid being seen. The guy pissing in the bowl was looking toward the window when I went by. The next lit window I came to emanated a soft glow, and I crouched down, peering just around the edge. I seemed to remember lace curtains hanging in the window of the bedroom, but then wouldn't all the curtains match? I saw movement. The room was occupied. But I had to scrabble over to the thin gap between the curtains to really see anything.

They weren't on the bed yet. Sydney was in his arms, kissing him passionately. Her body pressed into his, and his hands were all over her perfect, round ass, honed by hours of yoga. Not an ounce of resistance remained in her body. Her sweater was on the floor by their feet. The Tiffany lamp on the night table was to Nick's back, casting their faces in shadow as they kissed, but I could tell my wife's mouth was completely open to him. She looked so small against him, just as I thought she would. She had a hand behind his head, and she used it to make him stoop even lower. That brought his neck in range, and Sydney's lips glided to it. She's got great lips, and by the way he stiffened, I could tell her kisses on Nick's neck had the same effect on him they always have on me. He had to be as hard as I was, and I was aching. Seeing her do something to him that I love so much was a razor to my gut, but my cock throbbed.

The night was freezing and my teeth chattered when I first stepped outside, but fire coursed through my body now. I gripped the windowsill with aching fingers unaware of how tightly I held on. Nick held her head in both hands, stroking her soft brown hair as she kissed and sucked his neck. I wanted to feel her lips so badly just then, but I'd given them to someone else, hadn't I?

Nick pulled at the knot that was holding her wrap dress closed, and Sydney covered his hand with hers. As much as I wanted this, my heart leapt when I saw her stop him. I guess part of me wanted her not to go through with it. But he kissed her again, she sagged under his fire, and her hand dropped away. The knot yielded and her dress fell open. Sydney stepped back from him, but I wasn't under the illusion she was stopping him this time. She playfully pushed him toward the bed and followed. He sat on the edge and she pulled her dress open. The thin silk flowed over her body and puddled on the floor. I could guess Nick's reaction by the familiar, crooked grin on Sydney's lips. She had presented herself to him and he liked what he saw.

Sydney was the embodiment of sex in matching red lace bra, thong and garter belt. Only her nude thigh highs and black heels broke the Christmas color. The bra was lightly padded and pushed her small, firm breasts together to create a nice valley of cleavage. Nick reached for her and she stepped between his legs, pressing his face against her chest. The old, thin-paned window didn't block me from hearing her moan when his lips touched her flesh. Her fingers clenched in his thick, sandy hair. He reached around her back and then tossed her bra on the floor. Nick wasn't wasting any time. It was frustrating to be stuck with looking through the window. In my mind's eye, I could move all around the bedroom and see everything, like I was watching a movie. Reality wasn't nearly as fulfilling. Sydney held the back of his head and pressed his face to her chest, while Nick clearly kissed and sucked on her nipples. The moans I heard through the thin glass did not surprise me. She is blessed with extraordinarily sensitive nipples. When I tease those puffy, pale pink tips she loses her mind. I can have her soaked without even touching her pussy. It was so strange to see her react that way to another man's touch. Why did seeing another man driving my wife crazy make me so hard?

Sydney moaned his name and pulled him back up for a kiss. Nick lifted her by the butt and they both fell back flat on the bed, which creaked under their weight. He massaged her ass like he couldn't get enough of it. My heart thudded in my chest. Now that they were on the bed, and Sydney was half-naked, it felt much more dangerous. They rolled so Nick was on top of her.

Nick teased her by kissing and then pulling back. She hates to be teased. She leaned forward and their tongues fought before he kissed her again. Sydney flicked the buttons on his shirt open rapidly as she could. He kissed her neck and she arched her back from the bed just as she smoothed her hands over his bare, muscular chest. I keep myself in pretty good shape, but Nick looked like he spent serious time in the gym. My wife has always said she's not into really built guys, but it looked like she was enjoying Nick. She seemed to admire his chest like a work of art. Seeing her ardor for him made my cock surge in my pants. Without thinking, I dropped a hand and started rubbing myself through my pants.

I heard Nick speaking to Sydney, but couldn't make out the words. I thought I heard him say stockings, so maybe he was telling her how hot her lingerie was. He said something else and I heard her musical laugh. They were sharing an intimate moment, and it made me burn. Nick shed his shirt completely and lay on top of Sydney again. She attacked him with a kiss.

The couple in the bedroom seemed content to just make out for a while and my fear subsided. Perhaps they wouldn't go any further. Watching my wife so ardently kissing another man scrambled my brain. I guess in my fantasy I saw her as more of a reluctant participant. I saw her being seduced. But Sydney clearly wanted this as much as Nick did. My heart sank even as my cock rose.

Nick scrabbled down her body again, taking a lot of time with her breasts. She hung her head back, and thank god her eyes were closed or she may have seen me lurking outside that window. The look on her face was pure ecstasy. He knew exactly how to touch her. Sydney bit her bottom lip, but then gasped and cried out. That cry echoed in my head. Once he had her squirming and moaning, Nick moved lower, kissing down her stomach until he was kneeling on the floor between her spread legs. A quick yank brought her butt to the edge of the bed, and he rolled the thong down her legs. My wife was totally exposed to him!

They were speaking again and I held my breath and kept perfectly still, straining with my entire body to hear what was being said. I caught snippets of their conversation.

"I wouldn't have thought...shaved..." Nick said. He caressed her thighs and leaned forward to kiss her flat stomach.

"I'm usually not." Sydney's voice carried better. She was loud and clear.

My wife did not keep herself shaved. Was this something she had planned for me tonight? I'm always after her to go bare, but she insists it's too much trouble. It sounded like she'd done it as a surprise to go with her sexy lingerie. I felt like a fool. Sydney had made all these preparations for a special night with me, and here I'd just handed her off to another man. Nick was enjoying everything that was meant for me. Again, I had to fight down the urge to bang on that window and tell her to stop, to leave with me. I'm ashamed to admit that it wasn't only the desire to watch my wife with Nick that stopped me. I didn't want him to know that I knew anything about this. He couldn't know that I'd wanted this to happen. I knew how I'd look in his eyes. I could just imagine the sneer on his face. The ugly word rang through my mind. Cuckold.

Once my shock subsided, I returned my attention to the bedroom and saw Nick kissing Sydney's thighs. This was definitely further than I thought it would go. The only direction I'd given my wife was to not fuck him, but I thought it would just be some kissing and touching, maybe he would finger her. They wanted more than that. I wondered if Sydney wanted to stop things at all.

"Nick!" Sydney cried, throwing her head back again so I could see her face twisted by desire. She had one hand on the back of his head, and the other grasped at the comforter beneath them.

Sydney's mouth open and closed, but only stuttered moans escaped, no words. Looking down her body, the position of Nick's face between her legs left no doubt that he was going down on her. Of course I wondered if he did it better than I did. I tried to judge by her moans. She's not ordinarily a shouter, but she is very vocal with her moans in bed. And based on the way she writhed and moaned on the bed, Nick had to be pretty damned good. Her legs were over his shoulders and her heels dug into his back. His hands covered her breasts and she gasped when he pinched those delicate nipples and pulled on them. The window muffled the sounds of my wife's passion, but did not block it. I wasn't sure if I was thankful for that or not.

I loved watching Sydney's face while Nick ate her, but she robbed me of that when she looked down at him. She must have wanted to watch. She propped up on one elbow and tightened her fingers in his hair. I couldn't see much now, but hearing her cries and seeing her body move was enough. I had to stop touching my cock or else I was going to make a mess in my pants. It was almost too late when I heard Sydney wail as she came. Hearing another man make my wife cum gave me chills.

It did not end there. I didn't expect it to at this point. Nick rose to his feet and dropped his pants and boxers. By the time Sydney sat up on the bed, his swollen cock pointed at her accusingly. I was glad that her head blocked my view of his shaft, because he was quite large. Larger than me for sure. My wife reached for him and I could tell by how her head moved she was kissing his cock. I wanted to see, but didn't. Just watching Sydney's head moving and seeing the look on his face told me enough, though. I'm no expert, but I've always felt that Sydney is very good with her mouth. By the way her head bobbed, I could tell she had a good rhythm going.

"Oh fuck, Syd..." Nick moaned. "That's fuckin' good." How much of his cock did she swallow?

Nick stroked her hair and held the back of her head, but he let her keep her own pace. I could just hear his groans through the window, and I was perversely proud that my wife was so adept at getting him off. Maybe it was because I knew at the end of this she would still be mine and he would only have this small sample of her skills. She started sucking faster, and it looked like she was going deeper. I wished I could have seen if she was swallowing that whole monster. Nick kept moaning her name, and he moved his hips to work his cock into Sydney's mouth. It looked like she was ready to let him cum in her mouth. Just the thought of that made my cock surge.

I was rubbing myself again—ready to see Nick get off in my wife's mouth—when he pulled her head back. I was confused. Didn't he want to finish—or maybe he was going to try to finish on her face. I couldn't see Sydney letting him do that. But he did neither. Instead, he bent to kiss her, while easily lifting her petite body and tossing her back on the bed. They only stopped kissing briefly, and then he joined her on the bed.

Sydney looked so hot lying on the bed in her garter belt and stockings, while Nick enjoyed her body. Now I could see everything perfectly. I was so excited it didn't dawn on me to be worried about their position on the bed. She seemed to love touching his muscular chest, but then her hand gravitated straight to his cock, still slick from her mouth. Nick's hands were everywhere. He pinched and teased her nipples until she moaned into their kiss. But when he focused lower, she went crazy. His two fingers pushed into her pussy so easily I knew she had to be soaked. He slowly fingered her and Sydney broke their kiss to bury her face in his shoulder. It hardly muffled her moans. Nick was in complete control of my wife's body.

"Oh Nick," Sydney gasped, pushing her pussy at his fingers. Her nails dug into his bicep. Her other hand grasped his cock even harder.

It looked like he was going to have Sydney cumming again, but then he slowed his fingers, and he must have whispered something in her ear, because she was shaking her head. Nick thrust his fingers hard into her pussy again, and even as she shook her head, she cried out. She bit her lip, but couldn't control her passionate moans. Nick kept teasing her pussy and the shaking of her head grew weaker and weaker.

I stopped rubbing my cock. I knew what Nick was doing. He was telling my wife they should fuck. She struggled to resist. I know she wanted to honor our agreement. But I could tell by her body language that Sydney had trouble resisting. I could see that she wanted Nick. She wanted to fuck him—no matter what she'd told me. I prayed she would stay strong. I did not want her to give herself to Nick totally. I was torn apart. I knew if I didn't intervene she was going to give in. And yet...I stayed silent outside the window. I did nothing while Nick convinced my wife to fuck him.

Sydney closed her eyes and released his prick. She lay there passively as Nick moved on top of her. Nick whispered something and she opened her eyes. I saw the conflict on her face, but it was replaced by need when his cockhead brushed her lips. Her legs opened wider. She stared right into his eyes and nodded. Right up until the last minute I murmured under my breath, "Dontdoitdontdoitdontdoit."

Nick speared my wife with his cock and her mouth dropped open in a wordless cry. He buried that entire monster inside her with one stroke. Her eyes stayed fixed on his as he started to slowly rock his prick in and out of her. I was motionless except for my heart thudding in my ears. I was utterly defeated. This was not what I wanted, but it was my fault. I set this in motion. Did I really expect Sydney to play around with Nick and not have it end here? How naïve was I? Of course he would try to fuck her, and I knew she found him attractive. I should have known she would want it. No, I couldn't blame her. This was all my fault.

Sydney shouted his name when he lifted her right leg over his shoulder and really started giving it to her. Her yoga flexibility was coming in handy. In this new position, he drilled her deep, and Sydney gasped as he filled her more than I ever could. Nick wasn't holding anything back as he fucked my wife. And despite my shame and anger, it was too hot for me to resist. I pushed my hand into my pants and stroked my cock. Now that we were here, I wanted to see Nick fuck Sydney. I wanted him to make her scream.

"Yes! Yes! Nick! YESYESYES!" Sydney shouted. I hadn't heard her that fired up in a long time. If anyone came down that hallway, they'd know someone was misbehaving. I had to hope no one would recognize her voice.

Nick grunted something to her, but I couldn't hear it over her moans.

Sydney clawed at his arms and he lifted her other leg over his shoulder. Instead of leaning in and folding her in half, he sat back and cradled her perfect ass in both hands, while her high heels rested up by his ears. Her breasts bobbed pleasingly as Nick drove inside her. He pulled her legs apart so they formed a wide V and pulled her to his cock. She wailed his name and I knew she was cumming again. I know what that look on her face means. He was fucking my wife like a porn star and she loved every second of it.

Nick leaned in again, and he did bend Sydney in half this time. Her ankles were by her ears. It was in this position that he finished her. The bed creaked beneath them as he pounded Sydney as hard as he could. His grunts joined her moans in a symphony of unbridled lust. She held his face in both hands and stared at him, as if willing him to fuck her even harder.

I couldn't take it. With a sad moan, I shot my load and a stain spread across the front of my pants. I was humiliated, and yet, I'd never felt more alive. Is this how a junkie feels when his high kicks in?

Since I never thought Sydney would fuck Nick, I never thought about protection. She didn't either. She wailed his name once more and came a final time when he buried his cock inside her, clearly unleashing his load. He seemed to pump his cum inside my wife forever.

When it was done, Sydney's legs flopped to the bed, and Nick fell on top of her. They clung to each other, and seeing my wife in her lover's arms in post-orgasmic bliss was a bridge too far. I skulked away from the window and left them in peace. I had to get away.

I picked a careful path to the car and avoided any awkward encounters. I dabbed at my pants with tissues I found in the backseat, but there was no hiding what I'd done to myself. Insane as it was, I was embarrassed for Sydney to see it. I waited fifteen minutes, and sent her a text, telling her I was waiting in the car.

Almost a half hour passed before I saw her slim silhouette approaching in the lights from the house. Wrapped in her long coat, she was the image of propriety. Only three of us knew what she's just been doing in that bedroom. Her lipstick had been fixed, but her hair was not quite in place. If one knew what to look for, they would know she'd been up to no good. I kept the engine running, so the car was warm when she joined me.

"Why are you waiting out here? People asked where you went," she asked.

"What did you tell them?"

"I said you weren't feeling well and we had to leave."

"Nick was probably hoping that would give him more time with you."

Sydney looked away. "He did offer to drive me home."

"Were you tempted to go?"

"Are you okay?"

I let her non-answer slide.

"I don't know. When I saw you go off with him..."

"You saw us leave the party? I didn't know for sure you would follow me."

I stared out the driver's side window. "What did you say to him?"

"I said we should talk about what happened. Nick said, 'What is there to talk about? I get that it was a mistake.' He looked pretty shocked when I told him it wasn't."

"Did you tell him you wanted it to happen again?"

"I just said that I liked it, and I was sorry I reacted so badly. I wished I could take it back. He asked about you, and I told him I realized what you didn't know wouldn't hurt you."

Those words would come back to haunt her.

"Kev, you don't seem okay." She took my hand.

"It's okay, Syd. I wanted this. Just tell me about it."

"Let's go home first."

"Tell me," I replied, an edge in my voice.

"Okay." Quiet, cowed. "I excused myself and wondered if he would follow, but he did. He met me in the hallway, but you know that."

"I thought you saw me."

"How was it? Was seeing me with Nick what you thought it would be?" A hint of anger in her voice now.

"It was strange. Hot."

"So you liked it?"

Her hand left mine, but paused when she felt the wet spot on the front of my pants. That answered her question. She unfastened my belt. When she touched my cock, she found life was already returning to it. She repeated, "You liked it."

I nodded, breathed, "Yes."

"I didn't think you'd follow us. I'm sorry, but it felt weird to have you spying on us. I don't know if I could have done it with you there. That's why I went into the bedroom with him. Did you stay outside the room? Did you listen?"

So she had no idea I was at the window. I was not about to tell her. Why was it okay for her to fuck another man, but it was wrong for me to want to watch? I told a half-truth. "I did for a while. I heard you moaning."

"And that got you off." A statement, not a question.

"Yes." I was fully hard again.

"You want to know what happened, don't you? You want to hear the details." She wasn't taunting me, but she seemed to enjoy my conflict. Maybe it was easier to deal with her guilt if she watched me squirm.

"Don't tease me, Syd."

Sydney stroked my cock and told me all the gory details as she remembered them. Of course, I knew where she forgot something, or skipped over parts. I don't think she intentionally left anything out, but she was so caught up in it that it was more about the total experience, not the individual moments.

“He made you cum, didn’t he?” I whispered.

“Yes,” her voice husky. “Twice.”

“Did you like sucking his cock?”

“It felt so wrong, but I couldn’t help myself. I wanted to please him.”

If Sydney took it right up to where things crossed the line would she tell me everything? I thought she would. We didn’t have secrets. “Did he cum in your mouth?” I asked. I finally looked at her. She looked away.

“No, not in my mouth. I wouldn’t let him.” She did not elaborate.

“But you made him cum, too.”

“Yes.”

Sydney did not let me ask any more questions, but leaned across the console and took my cock in her mouth, easily deep throating me. I knew it was to avoid telling me what she’d done, but her mouth felt so good I didn’t care. Sydney did not want to tell me she’d fucked Nick, and I couldn’t get the truth without admitting I’d spied on her. I groaned her name and pushed my cock up at her mouth. I fucked her mouth as much as she sucked me and closed my eyes. It was too easy to picture Sydney under Nick, taking his cock. I blasted my cum down her throat in seconds. She kept sucking until she’d drained every last drop.

I helped her back across the seat and we just stared at each other. We’d shared something crazy and intense, and I don’t think either of us knew how to proceed. Sydney had to be wondering if I looked at her the same. And I couldn’t help but question if she still saw me as her loving, devoted husband. Sure, I had this dirty fantasy she had fulfilled for me, but it didn’t change how I felt in my heart. My head was reeling, but she was still Sydney, the girl I’d fallen in love with and wanted to grow old with. I broke the silence.

“I love you, Syd.”

Her relief was palpable. I thought she might cry. “I love you, too. I love you so much. Are we okay?”

“Of course we’re okay. Honey, we did this together. I wanted you to do it, and I’m glad you enjoyed it. We’re good. I mean it.”

“I love you so much.”

Sydney cuddled up against me as I put the car in drive and got out of there. I knew we would relive this night over and over again, but she would never tell me she fucked Nick, and I would never ask. That would always be unspoken between us. And while I loved Sydney and meant everything I said, I knew something had changed between us. We'd entered a new phase in our marriage. Deep down I knew this would not be the last time Sydney would play with another man at my urging. All I had to do was convince her to let me watch.

About the Author

Kirsten McCurran lives in the suburbs with her husband, young children and a dog named Jake. She lives out her vivid fantasy life through her writing. Kirsten is most interested in exploring the fantasies and inner sexual lives of women like her. The more she writes, the crazier her fantasies become and she's just as excited to see what she comes up with next as she hopes you are. Kirsten is the author of 13 ebooks. She would love to hear feedback on her work and can be reached on Facebook, at kmccurran@gmail.com or through Twitter @kirstenmccurran.