

kenny wright
ben boswell

parallel
ines
PART 2

Parallel Lines: Part 2

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Parallel Lines: Part 2 © 2015 by Kenny Wright and Ben Boswell

Edited by Stephen Rudolph

Cover design by Kenny Wright

Cover image © Vasilchenko Nikita/bigstockphoto.com

First digital edition electronically published by KW Publishing,
July 2015

First print edition published by KW Publishing, July 2015

Printed by CreateSpace, Charleston SC

With the exception of quotes used in reviews, this book may not be reproduced or used in whole or in part by any means existing without explicit written permission of the copyright holder.

This book is a work of fiction and any resemblance to persons, living or dead, or places, events, or locales is purely coincidental. The characters are productions of the author's imagination and used fictitiously.

Contents

Cover

Copyright Information

Chapters

One

Two

Three

Four

Five

Six

Seven

Eight

Nine

Ten

Eleven

Twelve

Thirteen

Epilogue

Bonus Chapter

Q&A with Ben Boswell and Kenny Wright

About the Authors

One

The theory is appealing. Married people don't lose their desires for others just because of a ceremony and a piece of paper. Better to periodically indulge with others rather than let resentment and frustration grow and fester. An affair, or perhaps mutual affairs, entered into openly and without lies, can be seen as a paradoxical investment in the relationship. Meg and Mal. Married a decade and with three kids. Meg had had a fling. So had Mal. And what could be the harm in that?

Mal woke up sore all over. Between the sex with Elena and Zoe and his restless sleep, his body had had no time to recover. Even a nice, hot shower didn't snap him out of it. The kids didn't care about how he felt, though, and within a half hour of him waking, they were up, too, ready to charge through a new day.

Once he was able to stamp down his exhaustion enough to review things, though, his outlook got cheerier. Meg would be coming home today. The experiment had run its course, and while he was nervous as hell to review their "findings," he was also excited. Meg had fucked another man—sounded like they'd fucked a lot—and while he felt the bite of jealousy, he was equally excited.

So after the shower, he pulled on a pair of shorts and a t-shirt, made a kick-ass breakfast for the kids, and began to the chaotic routine of entertaining three kids on a Saturday morning.

Today, Meg would be home. He smiled. Yay!

*

"Oh, my God...oh my God!" Meg screamed. David had her bent over in the large, walk-in shower of her hotel room. She clutched the handicap railing, her knuckles white, and held on as her junior attorney drilled his enormous cock deep inside her. She thought that after these past couple days of fucking, that she'd get over the size. She hadn't. She still felt so full. And to think, he'd had that thing in her ass—

Slap! David's hand landed on her meaty ass as he rode her. She yelped, but welcomed the pain. She deserved it. She'd been bad. So very, very bad.

Last night, she'd had a threesome with none other than Melanie Anderson. She'd kissed the woman, she'd gone down on her, she'd fucked David as Melanie ate her out. And craziest of all? In the sober light of morning, she wasn't disgusted by her actions. She was surprised by them—shocked, even, that she'd done something so crazy—but not disgusted. Even now, thinking about kissing the beautiful blonde sent a naughty thrill through her.

Slap! David's spank jarred her out of her revelry.

"You've got such a spankable ass, baby," he said. "And you need to be spanked, don't you?"

He rubbed his hand across her backside, then slapped her again. She grunted.

"I'm going to miss fucking this body every night," he said. His hand returned to her ass and he ran a thumb down her crack. "I'm going to miss being able to fuck you every morning."

He pressed his thumb against her asshole, sinking the thick digit inside. Pain and pleasure seared through her. After last night's workout, she knew she couldn't handle another round of anal sex, but a wanton piece of her almost begged for it.

Reason won out. "Enjoy it...while it...lasts...." she groaned.

"Oh, I will, don't worry. Something tells me that we're going to be working late more than a few times when we get home. Burning the midnight oil." He pressed his thumb deeper into her ass at the last word. She thought of oils and lube, of his cock sinking in back there as he bent her over her desk at work.

This would end as soon as they got on the plane. She should have told him, but she liked the fantasy of it extending beyond, so she held her tongue.

"Maybe we can even get Melanie to fly out for a reunion?" David mused. "Does that excite you?"

Meg didn't answer. She couldn't. Things were heating up too much. All she could manage was an unintelligible moan.

His thumb pressed into her harder. "Maybe this time, she can bring a strapon and fuck you as I take your ass again.... Oh, you like that, don't you? I can feel you react. Little bi-action get you going? Want to feel her soft tits under you as I fill your ass with hard man-meat?"

Meg went off, a wash of illicit excitement racing through her like a flame. She ducked her head low between her shoulders and tightened her grip on the bar. The spray of the shower intensified. She felt each hot prick raking along her back. She felt full of cock and fingers, of a bad girl screaming to get out.

David pulled free of her just as she was coming down from her orgasm. She felt empty without him inside her and started to protest when he turned her and pushed her to her knees.

“You know what I love about shower sex?” he asked, grabbing the bar soap and lathering up his hands. “We can be as messy as we want, and everything’s washed away a moment later.”

He soaped up his cock, then pulled her kneeling body back to him. She knew what he was going for immediately, collecting her full tits in her hands and wrapping them around his monster.

“God, baby, that feels so fucking good,” he moaned. He thrust his hips against her, fucking her cleavage as he raced to his own relief. “When we get home, I’m going to fuck you in your own bed.”

Meg started to laugh. No matter how much control he thought he had over her, there were a few things that were off-limits. The thought of bringing him into her own home was a line she couldn’t imagine crossing.

But before she could burst his bubble, he added, “Maybe your husband will want to watch. You’re into that, right? That’s your game? Your arrangement?”

She’d forgotten about that admission. She’d forgotten that Melanie had pried that secret out of her. Oh, God, the game suddenly changed. The experiment had gotten out of control.

Whatever fear she felt, David got off on the idea. He tit-fucked her a couple more times before yanking back, jerking his length, and exploding across her face. He painted her with come, ropes striking her cheek, her chin, her red hair, her tits. He roared as he marked her. As he claimed her as his own.

It was still exciting in that naughty way, like smoking a cigarette on the backside of school, but her mind was already transitioning back to real life. This had been fun, now she knew that reality waited, just a plane ride away.

Mal knew he'd written Meg's flight time down, but couldn't find the damn slip of paper anywhere. Organization wasn't one of his strong suits, he knew, but it didn't usually get under his skin so much. He paused from rifling through the papers on their desk, took a deep breath, and calmed himself down.

She'd forwarded the flight confirmation to him way back when. He could just check his email and get the arrival time. No need to get all stressed out because he'd lost the note.

He booted up his computer and searched for the email. It took a moment to find the reservation, simply because the email hadn't come from Meg but her administrative assistant, who'd booked the flight and made the reservations. Flight was set to land at 6:59 pm, later than he'd thought originally. He hadn't anticipated that, and wondered if he still had time to call up their regular sitter, Jamie, as he copied the flight number and arrival time down.

He was about to close the browser when something caught his eye. David's name was on there—David McKinley. Something about seeing their names made him uneasy. It sent a wave of anxiety through him, although he had to admit it was pretty damn exciting, too. David McKinley in seat 12A. Megan Trammell in 12B. He wondered if their hands would roam during the long transcontinental flight. He knew it was unlikely, but would they join the mile high club?

It was exciting, in a weird way, to think about her being so bad.

Then he laughed. The Meg he knew would never take that risk. Even if David wanted it—and he wouldn't blame a guy for trying—Meg wasn't the kind of woman to do things just because a man wanted her to.

The unease didn't go away, though, but that was to be expected. These last few days had been crazy by anyone's definition. A little anxiety was probably a healthy thing. And anyway, soon they'd be touching down and he and Meg could talk things over.

Maybe that was the true source of his roiling stomach. That conversation would be as difficult as it was exciting. It was one thing to think about it in the abstract, but hearing details of what Meg had done would be intense. And then there were his own confessions. Like having a fucking threesome. He considered not telling her about Zoe before he reminded himself that they didn't have secrets.

Elena texted him mid-day, asking him if he was free. He actually did consider it—this would be his last chance before normalcy, but decided against it. He wanted to save his energy for the homecoming.

He fed the kids an early dinner, then packed them up in the minivan around 6:30. The airport wasn't too far, but he didn't want to be late. He wanted to be there as she exited the terminal for that Hollywood reunion. He checked his email one last time, just to confirm that he had all the information right. He looked at the flight number. The time. The date.

The date. At first, he read the purchase date, a full three weeks in the past, before quickly confirming the arrival day—today. But something about the purchase date nagged at him. He looked at it again, casting his mind back three weeks. Three weeks.

“What the fuck?” he said aloud.

Three weeks ago was before the outing at Pumped. Before they'd talked about the experiment. And David's name was on there as well, purchased before Mal even knew about David at all.

He felt like someone had pulled the rug out from under him. Everything slipped sideways. His stomach dropped. Fire licked the back of his neck. He worked through it, jumping to conclusions and not caring. Had they fucked before this weekend? Had Meg been cheating on him all this time?

It made sense. The idea of the experiment was hers. She was always a very logical person, never one who liked giving up control. Was this her way of regaining control after she'd started cheating on him? He'd never thought of her as someone who'd be willing to open up their marriage, but if she was already banging this kid—

“Dad! Come on, let's go!” Justin shouted from the front door. “Car's packed. Let's get Mom!”

Woodenly, Mal shut down the browser. If it weren't for the kids, he probably wouldn't have gone at all. Instead, he practiced a few breathing techniques, put on a smile, and headed for the minivan.

*

The plane set down right on time, just as Meg liked. She looked over at David, who smiled at her and patted her leg. Was she imagining that cocky possessiveness in the gesture? Had it always been there and she'd been blind to it, or was it new?

They deboarded. Meg wasn't sure what she was expecting as she stepped onto solid ground, but she realized that she had been expecting something. When she'd gone skydiving, the moment they landed, she felt relief like it was a tangible thing. They were safe again. They were in control. She felt none of that now.

David led them toward the terminal's exit and the baggage claim beyond. This wasn't something she'd expected, either, to have David at her side. She'd always imagined the reunion to be just her and Mal, running the last few feet to each other, unable to keep from smiling.

She spotted Mal down at the end of the corridor, flanked by her kids. That was unexpected, too. They should have been getting ready for bed. At this rate, they'd go to bed late, which meant they'd be cranky tomorrow, which meant—

"Mommy!" Darryl's excitement at seeing her dispelled all of her irritation. He ran to her, throwing his arms around her. Angela and Justin were there a second after, enveloping her with their warm hands and familiar smells.

"I missed you so much, mommy."

Tears welled up in Meg's eyes. She missed them too, she realized. Missed them like she'd missed a part of herself. She just hadn't realized it until they were whole again.

It made her shameful at what she'd done, even with her agreement with Mal. How could she even think about risking this?

She looked up, finding Mal standing apart, regarding her. His face was blank, and when he smiled up at her through the hugs, his smile didn't quite touch his eyes. Fear twisted inside of her, but she buried it. Later, she assured herself, regaining control of her emotions. Later.

"So these are the rugrats?" David asked.

David. Right. She'd almost forgotten about him. "Yes, sorry. These are my babies."

"I'm not a baby!" Justin complained.

"I'm not either," Angela agreed.

"I'm not either," Darryl said, although she figured he was mostly just repeating what his older siblings had said.

“This is Justin, Angela, and Darryl. Guys, this is Mr. McKinley. We work together.” A flicker of guilt ran through her. She buried that, too.

The kids mumbled hellos, growing shy all of a sudden. Mal came over as she stood and introduced himself to David himself.

“I’m Malik. Nice to meet you, David.” They shook hands, firm enough to be borderline painful.

“Nice to finally meet you, Mal.”

“Likewise,” Mal said, his smile reminding Meg of a wolf baring his teeth.

“Your wife has been incredible to watch,” David said.

Meg winced, hearing the double entendre. Mal must have heard it, too, and again she cursed herself for letting David know about their arrangement. She wanted to hurry this on.

“Well, we better get home. Need to get the kids to bed.”

David nodded. “Nice to meet you guys,” he said to the children. For a moment, she saw the charming young man she’d been drawn to before this trip. Then he nodded at her husband and the alpha male was back. “You too, Malik. Meg, I’ll see you Monday.”

Mal watched the exchange without a word. At last, Meg moved up to him and kissed him softly. “Sorry about that,” she whispered.

There was something hard about him. “We’ll talk later,” he said.

They both shivered.

Two

A tense car ride home transformed into a frantic evening of kids' bedtime routines, an interlocking cycle of baths, reading, and tucking in that didn't conclude until nearly 8:30pm.

Meg was exhausted and hungry. After a long night, an exuberant morning, a transcontinental flight, and then the obvious tension of the scene at the airport, all she really wanted was a glass of wine and bed, but she knew that wasn't a realistic option. She and Mal needed to talk.

As the recently-absent parent, Meg was responsible for final tuck-ins. When she finished up, she finally got a chance to change out of her traveling clothes. She looked inside the closet. Sexy nightie? Or flannel PJs? She didn't have it in her to get dressed up. And anyway, judging by Mal's dark mood, sexy time would need to take a back seat to a good air-clearing talk. Flannel PJs it was.

When she came downstairs, Mal had laid out a selection of leftovers. He refilled his wine glass and poured one for her. Uh oh, he'd started without her.

"So..." she began. "I guess this didn't work out like you expected?"

"No, but it worked out like you did, huh, Meg?"

"I'm not sure what that means."

"Oh? How long?"

"How long what?" she asked.

He shook his head, disappointed.

"Oh, come on Mal, out with it. What are you talking about?"

"The plane tickets, Meg. You bought them before Pumped. Before we talked about anything."

Ah fuck. "Okay, I can see how that would look bad...and I guess it is bad, but it's not what you think."

"What do I think?"

She frowned. "You think I've been having an affair with David."

He nodded.

"I haven't. Not physically."

"Emotionally?" In some ways that would be worse. Mal's worst case scenario had been that Meg was screwing around behind his back. Now he wondered if maybe she was in love with David.

Meg snorted. “Hardly. No, I mean, I guess my fantasies about David were more, uh, extensive than I admitted. It was, well, something of an obsession.”

“So you planned to go to California with him to consummate it?”

She shook her head. “No! Mal, you have to believe me. I never intended that. Yeah, when the issue came up about him helping out on the case, I let it feed my fantasy. But that’s all it was. All it was going to be.”

“You expect me to believe that?”

“Mal, I don’t know what I expect. And to tell you the truth, I don’t know what would have happened if he and I had gone to California. I was playing with fire. You’re right to be suspicious, but I swear, nothing, nothing happened before we talked about it.”

“Nothing?”

“It was all in my head.”

Mal nodded, but Meg could see he wasn’t completely mollified. And she had to admit, he was right not to be. Not because she’d lied, but because he was probably right. The trip to California was going to end in sex regardless.

Mal forced a smile. “So, did you have fun?”

“Did you?” she replied, immediately regretting the effort to deflect the question. “Sorry. Yes, Mal, I did. It was a little crazy.”

He nodded, thinking of Elena and Zoe double-teaming him. “I’ll say.”

She raised an eyebrow. Him too? That was good news, even if she felt a pang of jealousy.

“So, how are we going to do this?” he asked. “Want to flip a coin to see who goes first?”

Meg chuckled. “I’ll start. You’d kill me if you found out I made you wait to hear this.”

Oh God, she had a big disclosure. Mal shivered as anticipation and jealousy traded hammer blows in his skull.

“We had a threesome,” she said.

Mal’s eyes went wide, all of his emotions intensifying as he had a vision of Meg on her hands and knees getting fucked from both ends.

“Who was he?” he asked, dry-mouthed.

She looked puzzled, then figured it out. “No, not a he. A she. You know her. Melanie Anderson.”

Mal stared incredulous. “What?”

“I know, it’s crazy. But David, Melanie, and I had...um...sex together.”

“And you?”

She nodded. “Yes. I went down on her. Well, actually, she was straddling my face, but....”

He shivered, excitement suddenly overwhelming jealousy.

“Oh my God. How...why?”

“She got into a fight with her ex at the club, and basically used us to make her escape. I don’t know. We ended up at her place, and...it happened.”

Mal was grinning like a lunatic. Meg smiled as well.

“And you liked it?”

She nodded. “It was hot. Especially since...while she was sitting on my face, David was, um, making love to me.”

“Making love?”

She blushed. “Fucking the hell out of me?”

He wanted to hear more about Melanie. About what it was like for Meg to give oral to another woman. About everything that had led up to the moment, but her response had opened up a new avenue, one he couldn’t ignore.

“Was he good?”

No lies. That was the deal. But did no lies require using all of her powers of description? Meg had been debating that issue. She knew she’d admit that David was a good lover, but did she have to mention that he was exceptional? Mindblowing? Would Mal be able to deal with the truth? The whole, unvarnished truth?

“Yes....” She hesitated. “Very good.”

“Is he big?”

Ah fuck. Mal had promised himself he wouldn’t ask that. So desperate, so needy. And yet, bam, there it was. It had just come out. And worse, Meg was blushing and nodding.

“Yes.”

Let it go. Let it go. He didn’t need to know more.

“How big?”

He could see Meg was reluctant to answer. Very, very big.

“I love your cock, Mal.”

Oh fuck. At least she hadn't pretended that size didn't matter, but the reassurance she was trying to provide was nonetheless making things worse.

"I'm serious, Mal. I love how you feel inside of me. I never want to lose that. Even when I need a tub of lube and you need a handful of pills to make it happen, I want your cock inside me."

He laughed at the image of geriatric sex. Somehow he knew Meg would still be a piece of ass. "Okay. I get it. And I appreciate it. So horse cock?"

She giggled. "Melanie called him Mr. Ed."

Mal chuckled as well, though it did sting. "I'd imagine she's seen more than a few."

Meg shrugged. "Not that I think you'd need a ton of experience to realize it."

"And you liked it?"

"Yes. It was pretty amazing."

Mal tried to fight back his growing hatred of David. Young, handsome, overpaid, and blessed with a huge prick. The motherfucker had better have been Mother Theresa in his past life.

"Okay, so sounds like you had fun."

Meg nodded. There were a lot of details she would share later. But she needed to get one more out right away.

"I let him, ah.... We had anal sex."

Mal's eyes went wide again. "Really?"

His imagination ran wild. He could see them, Meg on her hands and knees, taking his huge cock in her tight, little ass. Squealing like one of those porn whores. It couldn't be. Not his wife. And yet, she'd admitted it.

She nodded. "I can't explain it. It...we...I don't know. It just sort of happened. It just felt right at the time. I'm sorry. I wish I'd done that with you first. The threesome, too."

"I had a threesome, too," he replied.

Meg looked at him quizzically.

"When?"

"Huh? Just now. Well, not just now. Friday. Elena and her friend Zoe dropped by after—"

"Dropped by? Here?"

Mal shrugged. "I had the kids. I couldn't go out."

“Exactly, Mal. The kids.”

But Meg wasn't just thinking about the kids. She was also thinking about Mal's little whore in her house. And not just one little whore, but two.

“The kids were asleep. I changed the sheets.”

“You did it in our bed?”

Uh oh. “I'm not sure why you're so upset.”

“Really Mal? No idea? You bring two whores into our home with our kids and fuck them in our own bed.”

“Jesus, Meg. How is that worse than traveling across the country with your boy toy and giving him your ass.”

She shook her head. “Really Mal?”

“Yeah, really, Meg.”

The stared at each other angrily for a few moments.

“Look,” Mal began, “I'm sorry. Okay, I didn't think it would be an issue. Anyway, look, I had fun with Elena and Zoe. You know, crazy. So I guess, we both had a little craziness, and now it's out of our systems, so...”

“That's not a complete thought,” Meg noted, a little coldly.

Mal nodded. “Well, Meg, it isn't up to me to dictate a conclusion. What do you think should happen now?”

Meg felt like she was being buffeted in ten directions at once. Guilt. Anger. Jealousy. How could he fuck those girls in their home, their bed? She felt violated.

But mixed with that was excitement. Lust. Mal was hinting he was done. And Meg felt that way too. Back at home, it was time to go back to normal. And yet.... No lies.

The truth was that her anger at Mal seemed to tear a hole in the dam she'd tried to build. Whatever she'd done, she'd done with prior consent and far, far away from home. His betrayal was different. More personal. And it shredded her determination. A leak in the dike that threatened to destroy all her self-control.

“Meg?”

She took a deep breath.

“Mal. I don't know.”

Mal nodded.

If you love someone, set them free. He didn't own her. And it didn't matter if her anger was genuine or justified. It would end when she wanted it to end, and no sooner. That was just a fact of life. He took a deep breath. Acceptance.

“Okay, Meg. Okay. You need to want it too...or not want it.”

“Is that some sort of yoga, Zen bullshit?”

Mal smiled beatifically. “Yeah, Meg. It is.”

*

Despite his determination to let go, Mal slept fitfully. His muscles remained tense and no amount of focus and breathing could seem to force them to release their anxiety. A large part of it was Meg. So close, yet so far. He could hear the slow rhythm of her breaths, feel the warmth spreading from her body, sense the way she settled in the mattress, almost as if to draw him in. He knew she wanted her space. He wanted to respect that, and yet he yearned to move in closer, share her warmth, her presence.

It was nearly morning before he gave in. Through the curtains, the pre-dawn sky began to lighten, shades of grey replacing the black of night. He slid in close and wrapped an arm around her warm, soft, flannel-covered body.

Meg was the only woman Mal had ever been with. He hated the way she sometimes compared herself to the skinny girls who attended his classes, or the emaciated middle-aged ladies they met at parties. It was so hard to explain. The language of “curves” was appropriated by the chubby and out-of-shape, but that wasn’t Meg. Meg was a woman. She had curves. She wasn’t fat. She wasn’t full-figured. She was slim, beautiful, with a woman’s hips and breasts, soft in the right places, hard and tight in others. She couldn’t do a handstand to save her life and they’d never have sex while she executed a standing split. She didn’t have visible abs or veiny arms. And that was okay. Because Meg was the sexiest fucking bitch he’d ever known.

“Mmm,” she said as she stirred.

“Hey lover,” he whispered softly.

“Mal.... I’m sorry about last night.”

He knew she wasn’t. Not really. But he appreciated the sentiment.

“Shhh, baby,” he replied. “It’s okay. You don’t need to hide your feelings.”

“Okay.”

“I missed you while you were away,” he said.

“I missed you, too.”

“Yeah?”

No lies. “Some of the time. I wished you could have been there.”

“To watch you.”

“I... No. Not like that. Not you, in a chair, watching me with another man—”

“David,” Mal interrupted. “He’s who you’re talking about, right?”

“Yes. David,” she replied. It felt weird to say his name now, in bed with her husband, after all that had happened.

She continued. “I wouldn’t want you to be an observer.”

“You’d want us both at the same time?”

She groaned softly as she thought about it. “Maybe. But that’s not what I mean either. I mean, I wish I could have shared the experience with you. Not recount it. Not have you watch. Not have you participate, but share it somehow.”

“That good, huh?”

She hesitated. No lies. “Yes.”

She wasn’t trying to hurt him. He knew that. He sensed that the admission was painful for her to make. It still hurt.

“Tell me.”

“Oh Mal, baby, I...”

“Tell me.”

She took a deep breath. “When he’s inside me, there is nothing else. The world closes in. No thoughts, no worries. No past, no future. Just this feeling of completeness, of being filled, taken, belonging....”

“Belonging to him?”

“Yes. But more of it being where I belong. I can’t explain it. But then we’re done. And I regret it. Feel guilty. Miss you. Worry about...”

“Being able to stop?”

She turned her head and looked at Mal with tears in her eyes. “Yes.”

She looked away again and continued to speak. “The whole time in LA, I kept thinking, this is just a fling, just a fling, when we get back, everything will be back to normal. And then last night, when you told me about fucking those whores in my bed—”

“I’m sorry. You’re right. That was a shitty thing to do.”

“It was,” she acknowledged. “But, fuck, I was grateful when you said it because my first thought was, he owes me and I can fuck David again if I want because of it. Your misbehavior excusing mine.”

Mal slipped his hand inside her waistband.

“Don’t,” she said softly. But she didn’t try to stop him.

He slid his hand down over her soft, downy belly, over where until recently he’d have found her trimmed muff, but now only bare, smooth skin. Lower to where her mound rose gently, and then within to feel her warmth and wetness.

“You were dreaming about him.”

“Yes,” she sighed. “I’m sorry.”

“Don’t be,” he replied as he pulled down her PJs from behind, exposing her gorgeous, round ass.

“Don’t,” she repeated without conviction.

She felt him press in closer, felt his hardness against her ass. She had a sudden apprehension that he was about to take her anally, hard, without preparation, painfully. She almost welcomed it, knowing she deserved it. But instead his hard cock brushed against her pussy, finding her wetness, before sliding in gently.

“Oh God, Mal.”

“I love you, Meg.”

“I love you, Mal.”

“And if you need to keep fucking David—”

“I don’t, baby, I don’t. All I need is you.”

He made love to her slowly. His hands slid under her pajama top and cupped her perfect breasts, his thumb gently circling her nipple.

“All I need is you,” he echoed. “And all I want is you. All of you. But you have to want that, too. You can’t do it just because I want it.”

“I do want it. I just want you,” she moaned.

“Shhh. It’s okay. It’s okay. We have years and years and years together. And I don’t want those years to be burdened with regrets. I want you, but I want you on your own terms, not mine.”

“Mal, no....”

“Yes, Meg. Yes. Do you want him still?”

He thrust in harder.

“Yes,” she sighed.

“Are you thinking of him right now?”

“Yes.”

“Thinking of him fucking you?”

“Yes.”

“It’s okay, Meg. It’s okay. Think of him if you want, but come for me.”

“Mal....”

He fucked her faster, faster.

“Come baby,” he urged.

Meg gasped. Snapshots racing through her mind. On her back in the hotel room, sucking his huge cock, perched on the sink in the restaurant, out on the dance floor, eating Melanie’s pussy while he fucked her hard, the exquisite pain of his huge prick plunging into her tight, little ass.

“Oh God, Mal, oh God.”

She came and Mal immediately followed as he felt her body shudder beautifully.

He kissed her sweaty neck. “You’re amazing, you know that?” he sighed.

She wanted to reply. Some assertion of eternal devotion. Or at least an expression of profound gratitude. But she couldn’t find the words. Not now, not yet. She grasped Mal’s hand and squeezed it tight, wedging between her breasts. Mal smiled. There was nowhere he’d rather be.

Three

Monday was a new day. Or so Meg told herself as she got ready for work. Sure, she'd spent last week getting her brains fucked out by a guy she was supposed to be supervising. He'd used her like his whore. He'd fucked her ass and made her eat another woman. And she'd loved every moment of it.

But today, Monday, was a new fucking day, damn it!

She wore a pant-suit, telling herself that it had nothing to do with anything that went on last week, and not believing it for a second. She still checked out how good her ass looked in the clingy suit, but at least she had the grace to blush.

Things were still a little tense between Mal and her, but it was now an acknowledged tension. Mal was ready to stop. Meg wasn't so sure. Mal didn't want to force her to stop until she was ready. So stubbornly, Meg had decided that she was done, too. She wasn't going to let Mal play the holier than thou card, even if that wasn't what he was doing.

Her resolve lasted until precisely 8:44, when she saw David in the elevator heading up to the office. At that point, her heart started fluttering and she actually felt her knees shake a little.

"Morning," he said. A simple greeting that felt so fucking loaded.

"Hey. Morning to you," she replied.

"Nice suit." He eyed her up and down, and she had to fight the urge to pull her blazer tighter around her. "But you accidentally did up one too many buttons."

He reached out, and before she could stop him, he deftly unfastened the second button from the top. It was enough to turn the modest blouse into a borderline one. "Hey!"

When he stood up on his toes, he could see right down the front. "Oh, white lace. Very sexy."

"David, stop it. We can't." She refastened the button.

"Can't what?" he said innocently. The doors to the elevator opened and they slid back into their roles as partner and junior attorney.

"We'll talk later," she muttered.

"Can't wait."

Meg resisted the urge to roll her eyes...and yet a part of her quivered—the part that couldn't wait, either.

David stopped by the receptionist, Kaylee's, desk to say hello. The blonde smiled brightly at David as they began to flirt, and Meg felt a pang of jealousy. Before the weekend, she'd always figured that it was Kaylee, with her reputation, who'd been the one flirting with David. Now, her eyes were open. Was David sleeping with her, too?

She hated how envious that made her. She turned away, banishing the troubling thought. She was back in her world, where she was in charge. Time to start acting like it.

*

Mal couldn't settle himself Monday morning, and as much as he tried, breathing techniques and personal meditation were just not working. His wife was going to spend the entire day with a man she couldn't resist—a man who'd gotten her to do things that Mal didn't think she was even interested in doing.

And projecting forward, today wasn't the only day like this. Meg would see Mal every day until one of them moved on. She'd said that all she wanted was Mal, but he knew the truth of it—she was still under David's spell.

The meditation didn't help with the anxiety that settled over him, but it did help clear his head, and he realized that he was of two minds on the matter. One part of him wanted this whole episode to be over. The experiment had run its course. He'd had fun, but had also discovered that Meg really was all that he needed...and he wanted Meg to have come away with the same conclusion.

But she hadn't. And that was sexy, too. That was where the other, smaller, deeper part of his mind went. Meg, the only woman he could ever imagine sharing his life with, had a thing for dirty sex with other men—and that only made her sexier. He thought about her at work, bent over a conference table as David pounded her with his wonder cock, and it made Mal hard—jealous, sure; insecure, absolutely; upset that she'd do that, check. But excited beyond measure? 100%.

These two emotions should have been mutually exclusive, but Mal had learned long ago that nothing in life was either/or. He could be turned on by his wife's sexual side—even happy for her—and still wish that things were different.

He put on a smile. No sense in going there. Life was too short to worry about things out of his control.

That was the mantra, anyway. Living it was harder. Luckily, his job was all about trying to do just that.

“Hey, Teach. I brought a friend,” Elena said, sliding into the yoga room with Zoe right behind her. They both wore skin-tight outfits that accentuated their young, coltish bodies.

Mal released a long, measured sigh. At least they’d be a nice distraction.

“Hey, Elena. Hey, Zoe. You’re the first to arrive.”

“Hey, Mal,” Zoe said. Her short blond bob was held back by a bright blue headband that drew out her sparkling blue eyes. “Looking good.”

“Um, thanks.” He looked no different than usual, wearing a pair of loose yoga pants and a t-shirt.

“Maybe we’ll get lucky and have a private lesson,” Elena said.

On the one hand, Mal hoped that she was right. On the other, he looked at the door and prayed that someone else would join, preventing him...them...from doing anything stupid. As fate would have it, he got his wish...in the form of his wife’s close friend, Tammy.

“Guess we have to share,” Zoe pouted.

Tammy gave Mal and Zoe a curious look as she walked in, her yoga mat over her shoulder. “Hey, Mal.”

“Hey, Tam. I’m surprised to see you here.”

“Yeah, well, I’m taking a little bit of a break from the gym right now. Thought I’d try something new.”

“Ah,” Mal said. It was impossible not to read into that, though. Had things gone sour with Rodney? He’d have to ask the personal trainer when he saw him later in the week. “Well, welcome to Body Flow 2.”

Elena watched the exchange, judgment and jealousy written all over her face as she regarded Tammy.

Uh oh, thought Mal. He stepped in to try and defuse the situation. “Tammy, this is Elena and Zoe. Elena’s been taking my class for a few weeks now. Elena, Zoe, this is a friend of mine, Tammy.”

“Nice to meet you, Elena. Zoe.” Tammy had a grace that he’d always admired, always composing herself like she was at a dinner party with high ranking dignitaries. It was hard to reconcile this woman with the blonde who he'd watched get fucked by Rodney in the gym, but then again, hadn't Meg been just as bad?

"Hi, there," Elena replied, her smile looking forced.

"Hey," Zoe echoed.

Mal had been so used to the forward, confident Elena that it was odd watching her look like the younger woman that she was—and next to Tammy's crisp ponytail and composed elegance, she looked more like a girl than the slut who'd visited him in his home.

Others filed in. Class began. The awkwardness of the exchange was lost for an hour in the flows and poses of his lesson. Maybe it was his mood today, but he pushed the class harder than a Body Flow 2 class should have been. When it was over, Tammy approached, a sheen of sweat on her pale body.

"Whew, that was hard, Mal."

"Sorry about that. This class looked like they wanted a challenge today," he said.

"Yeah, it was good," she agreed, wiping her brow. Her sweat-slick face and neck reminded him of the moment he'd watched her with Rodney.

"See you later, Teach," Elena said from the door.

"Later, Elena," Mal replied. He felt Tammy's eyes shift between the two of them and hoped to God that she didn't suspect. Not that it mattered all that much, really, since he knew her secret—and she knew he knew—but still, he wasn't ready to let her in on the experiment.

"So, you going to join me on a regular basis?"

"I don't know if my body could handle it," she said with a laugh.

"Your body could," he said, giving her a once over and immediately regretting it.

"Well thank you, Mal. I'm happy to see that you noticed."

Tammy had the kind of body that Elena would probably have in ten years: still lean, still toned, and unfairly slender despite the kids. Meg was always envious of her friend, no matter how much Mal reassured her that he liked her curves more.

"So...I'll see you around?" he said.

"See you around."

Mal stood in the empty room for the longest time, breathing slowly, in and out, trying to get his emotions under control. It wasn't that he was attracted to Tammy. Not exactly. She was attractive, of course, and he'd fantasized about her before, but that wasn't it. No. Tammy reminded him of Meg, which in turn reminded him of where Meg was. With David.

Sighing at last, he straightened up the room, rolled up his mat, and headed for the door.

"Grabbing lunch?" April asked from the front desk.

"Yeah. I'll be back in a few."

"It's gorgeous out there. Have fun."

He went out the back door, where he'd parked the minivan in the back alley of the small, suburban strip mall.

"There you are." Elena's voice made him jump.

"Finally," Zoe added.

They were standing by the exit, still dressed in their workout clothes. Zoe had her arms folded across her breasts, looking cold. Elena stepped up to him, placing a hand on his arm.

"We were beginning to wonder if you and that chick were up to something."

"Tammy? No, it's not like that. She's my wife's best friend."

"Good," Elena said. She rolled her eyes towards his minivan. "I've always want to fuck in one of these."

Mal took a sharp, quick breath as he followed her eyes to the Toyota Sienna. He thought of how upset Meg had been when she learned that he'd invited Elena into their home. Was the van as off-limits? The kids weren't around....

What was he even thinking? He was done with this. Meg could fool around to get it out of her system, but he was through with this. Right?

"I'm sorry, I don't...we're not going to...."

Elena smiled at him, shifting on the balls of her feet as she watched him struggle. "Tell you what. All we want is a ride to the train station. If you want to, say, stop along the way at a secluded park or something, we won't tell."

"Neither of us are in any hurry to get home," Zoe added. She was already heading for the minivan.

Mal sighed. Just a ride. That was all. Just a ride.

*

Every other Monday, the partners got together for a strategy meeting that took up most of the day. They were usually boring as hell, but Meg was happy to have it today. It meant that she could avoid David without being obvious, and she could keep her mind off of how much she wanted to fuck him again.

The partners commended Meg for her work in LA with Melanie Anderson—the Anderson matter, as they called it. She made sure to put in a good word for David, and tried not to blush while doing so. She thought she'd done a good job covering, but during a break, when Susan stepped in beside her at the coffee machine, one look at the older partner's face told Meg that she hadn't. Not entirely.

"So is David as big as he looks?" Susan said.

Meg nearly spilled her coffee as she stirred in some cream. Her face lit up. She glanced around, but no one else was in ear shot. "I'm...I'm sorry?"

Susan leaned in. With her gray eyes wide, she looked so earnest. Meg was convinced that she'd heard the older woman incorrectly. Then Susan whispered, "Is his cock as big as it looks through those pants?"

This time, Meg wasn't caught quite so off guard, but she did hate the way she tried to laugh it off. "Um, how should I know?"

Susan grinned. She had tarter around her teeth, the telltale sign of someone who'd spent her life smoking. "Don't be selfish, Meg. Let an old woman live vicariously."

"I'm not sure what you're talking about. I'm...I'm married."

"So was I. A couple of times. But I know how this works."

"I guess I don't," Meg said. "Besides, he works for me. That would be ethically wrong."

Susan's grin didn't waver. "I know how that works, too, but if you refuse to confirm my suspicions, maybe I'll just ask Kaylee. Rumor has it that she knows all about what he's packing."

"That little whore." It just slipped out before Meg could stop herself. She realized what she'd said, shooting a glance at Susan, her face going white.

Susan nodded solemnly. "Very ethically wrong, I know." Susan laughed throatily. "Look, I'm not going to judge. That would be wrong. And your secret's safe with me. We girls need to stick together. It may be socially understandable for a male partner to drop his trousers, but as soon as a woman in power spreads her legs, our professional career is compromised. It's fucked up."

Meg had always liked Susan's candor. Still, she couldn't bring herself to admit her fling to the woman, so instead, she just nodded. "Thanks."

Susan gave her a couple seconds to change her mind before shrugging. "Well, at least tell me if you had a good trip or not. Leave the details out."

Meg felt the smile tug at the corners of her lips, and by that time, it was too late to contain it. She blushed, but there was nothing to be done. "Yeah, it was good." Then, after a brief pause: "Really good."

"Thought so." Susan reached for her coffee and took a step away. "See you back in there."

Meg thought about Susan. She really liked the woman, but she didn't like the idea of being in the senior partner's shoes in twenty years. Susan had never had children, so that already set the two women apart, but she'd also had three husbands, and was currently single. Meg couldn't imagine being married to any other man than Mal. When she thought of herself in her old age, it was always with Malik at her side, still lean and tall while she stooped over a walker.

Was that the future that she was putting at risk? And for what, an enormous cock?

*

"Roomy," Zoe said as she crawled into the third row of the van. The middle bench had the booster seats strapped into them, so the two women had to go all the way back.

Mal expected Elena to sit up front with him, but was surprised when she got in back with her blond friend. He felt like a chauffeur, all the way up in the front.

"Very domestic, Mal," Elena said.

"I think it's kind of sexy," Zoe said. She sidled up beside Elena, her hand dipped down and out of sight behind the middle seat. "Naughty, don't you think?"

Elena inhaled sharply, her eyes growing wide. "Yeah. Very naughty."

Mal tried to ignore them. He fired up the minivan and drove it out of the parking lot, happy that the tinted windows hid his passengers.

“So you just want me to drop you off at....” His voice trailed off as he glanced at them in the rearview mirror and saw that they were kissing. And not just teasing kisses, either, but the deep, wet kiss of lovers.

Their lips separated, but their eyes remained locked for a lingering moment before they both looked to the front of the car.

A horn blared out, drawing Mal’s attention back to the road, where he was drifting in his lane. The girls giggled.

“Hey, Mal, why not take us back to your place?” Elena said. “It would be a lot less dangerous.”

That wasn’t going to happen, but suddenly that resolve that he’d felt over the weekend—that he was done with Elena and the experiment—started to slip away.

“Ooh, nice and wet,” Zoe said, kissing her friend’s neck. “Is that for me? Or at the thought of our driver up there?”

“Both,” Elena said, her eyes never leaving Mal’s up front. She gasped at whatever Zoe was doing between her legs.

Mal forced his attention back to the road, but Elena was right. This was dangerous. He needed to park somewhere before he crashed the three of them. He’d just watch, he maintained. Just watch....

The problem was, in the overdeveloped suburbs, nowhere was safe. Parks during the day were crowded—especially on a nice day like this. Parking lots were being used as parking lots. Scenic overlooks were actually scenic overlooks, not make-out spots. So, with a lack of places to go, he drove them back to his place. His garage was about the only place he could think of to go, and since the kids were at school, it was also the most private.

Elena and Zoe made out the whole drive there, making it very uncomfortable for Mal in the front seat. He adjusted himself, but desperately wanted to pull it out. Zoe kissed along Elena’s neck before asking, “These windows are tinted, right?”

“Yeah,” Mal replied.

“Good.” She reached down and pulled Elena’s top off, revealing her perky tits. A moment later, she dipped down and took a hard nipple into her mouth.

Mal drove faster, pulling into the driveway with a screech. He winced, hoping none of the neighbors were around to witness his shame.

Hitting the garage door opener, he waited impatiently as it slid out, stealing glances into the back. Elena was fully reclined into the seat, her head tipped back as Zoe worked her breasts and played with her pussy.

The door opened and he drove them inside, quickly closing it behind them.

The women started to break apart as he cut the engine and unbuckled, but he shook his head. "No, we don't leave this minivan. Only reason we're back here is because it's private."

"Kinky," Zoe said. She went back to Elena's half-naked body again as the brunette looked over her friend's shoulder at Mal.

"Why don't you come closer?" she said. "You'll get a much better show."

Mal knew he shouldn't. He was safe in the front, with a bench seat and a pair of boosters between them to keep him out of trouble. He was almost able to resist. Almost.

Then he thought about Meg again. Meg at work, with David and his horse cock. If things were reversed, would she be able to stop herself? No, probably not.

He unbuckled his seatbelt and climbed into the back, sitting uncomfortably on Angela's booster.

Now that he had a better angle, he discovered that Elena was naked. Her legs were splayed, her bald pussy glistened on display as Zoe worked two fingers inside her. She raked her fingers through Zoe's straight, white-blond hair, pulling her tighter against her chest.

Zoe's ass was pressed against the middle seat, her yoga pants sitting low on her slender body. Elena saw Mal looking and smiled. "Go ahead and touch her."

Mal shouldn't have, but he couldn't resist. He slid his hand across that bare band of skin, pushing it up under Zoe's tank top. She had such smooth, healthy skin, like butter in the sun.

Zoe pulled off of Elena's tits and looked over her shoulder. "You've got a nice touch, Mal."

She whipped her tank top off, giving him better access to her upper body. Her tits were fuller than Elena's, but nowhere near Meg's glorious mounds.

Meg.... What would she say when he told her about this? Would she be hurt? Or would she see it as yet another excuse to keep fucking David?

A pang of jealousy rang through him at that. She was fucking him. She was still fucking him.

Mal pulled his shirt over his head, smiling inwardly at the way the two twenty-somethings stared at his bared upper body.

“Joining us?” Elena asked.

“If I can fit back there,” he said.

“We’re all flexible, right? Isn’t that what yoga’s all about?”

He pulled his loose pants off along with his boxers, freeing his swollen cock. Zoe reached out and took it in her hands as he climbed into the back seat between them. Elena kissed him as Zoe twisted her head into his lap and took him into her mouth.

Her blowjob was so much more aggressive than what he was used to. So different than Meg.

Elena broke the kiss and stared at him. “Don’t you even think about coming in her mouth,” she said.

“Wouldn’t dream of it,” Mal said, groaning.

Out of nowhere, Elena produced a condom. “Put this on him, slut,” she said, passing it down to the blonde.

Zoe pouted, but took the wrapper from her friend and did as she was told.

Elena crawled up into Mal’s lap, facing the front, and impaled herself on his cock with a loud hiss. She clutched the back of the center bench as she lifted herself along his length.

Zoe got naked beside them, revealing her long, svelte body. She had a tattoo of a rose on her left hip that Mal didn’t remember from Friday night, and another on her lower back.

“God, he feels so fucking good,” Elena said with a gasp. She leaned back, twisting around to kiss him as they fucked.

Not to be left out, Zoe returned between his legs, tonguing his balls as Elena bounced on his shaft. The sensation was exquisite.

Zoe’s mouth left him for a moment and Elena released a sharp moan. Mal could still feel Zoe’s soft hair on his thigh and wished he could have seen the blonde eating her friend, but concentrated on fucking Elena instead. Taking her hips in his hand, he took control of the situation. Elena had fucked him before. Now, he held her over him as he drove up, working his abs with each thrust.

“God, you two are...soo...uh...” Elena was breathless. Sighing. Moaning. Mal held her fast, fucking her faster. His stomach muscles screamed. His biceps protested. He reached into himself and found the resolve to continue. He pounded up, faster and harder, drawing her into him with each upthrust, pulling her away with each downstroke. He bounced her in his lap like a rag doll as Zoe’s tongue flashed across her clit.

“Fuck, you guys! Fuck!” She screamed inside the small cab of the minivan, loud enough that Mal was happy to have all those walls separating them from the outside world.

When Elena slumped off of him, her body limp and sweaty, Zoe was right there beside him. Her smile was damp with the other girl’s come. “My turn.”

*

Meg sat in her office. Alone. The long meeting was done. The day was nearly done. She was checking email when she heard the soft wrap on her open office door.

She knew who it was. She’d been waiting for him to come by all day. Looking up, she saw David standing just inside the door, smiling at her.

She cursed herself for the way her heart fluttered at that smile. How could she have thought that it had been boyish, once upon a time?

“How’re you doing?” he asked. “Still jetlagged?”

“Yeah, a little.” She’d feel it more later tonight, when it was late and she couldn’t sleep. “You?”

“I’m used to staying up too late and getting up too early,” he said.

He stepped inside the office and gently shut the door behind him. Meg’s heart shuddered at the click of the lock.

“David....” she said.

“Yes, Meg?”

God, that smile was so insufferable.

“Open the door, please.”

David shook his head. “Why would I want to do that?”

“Because I’m your boss and I told you to?”

He came around her desk, invading her space, and leaned up against it. “Out there, you’re my boss. When we’re alone, though, I call the shots.”

She stared at him defiantly, but couldn't help but feel breathless in his presence. His hand brushed across the front of his pants. Her eyes followed it, betraying her. When she looked back up at him, he was smiling again.

"I know you've been thinking about it," he said. "I've been thinking about how good your lips feel around it."

Damnit, but she licked her lips.

"All weekend, I couldn't wait to see you again. To feel you again."

"David, we can't."

"Why not? You want it. I want it. Your husband is cool with it."

"We're in the office."

He looked around. "I know. Exciting, isn't it?"

Meg thought of Susan's advice. If rumor of this got out, her reputation would be ruined. Even still, he was so tempting. "Time for you to leave, David. I have some phone calls to make."

For the longest moment, Meg thought that he was going to unzip himself. Her heart skipped a beat. If he did that, she didn't know that she'd be able to resist him.

So she went on the offensive. "You've got Kaylee, anyway. Why do you need me?"

She didn't know how she expected him to react. Embarrassment? Denial? Whatever it was, it wasn't what she got.

David's smile formed slowly, like dawn breaking on the horizon, until it was bright and she wanted to look away.

"Okay, if you want to play that way." He pushed himself off the desk. "See you around, Meg."

And out the door he went.

Four

Meg had to catch up, so after calling Mal to let him know, she worked into the early evening. It was nearly 7:30pm when she finished up. A long day, but not particularly unusual. She knew if she walked around the office, she wouldn't be alone. Susan would be there surely, and so would the handful of associates currently bucking for partner who needed to make sure their hours were stellar. But the support staff would be largely gone, and the office quieter than usual.

Meg always liked this time of day at work. There is a weary collegiality among those who work late. It was one of those few times that she really felt she was part of a partnership rather than just having a job.

Tonight, though, she had a bit of an ulterior motive. She'd kicked David out of her office earlier. Too many people around and she didn't like his presumptuousness, but that didn't mean she didn't want to see him at all. With a little privacy, and on her terms, things might be different. As long as Mal was okay with it, and he seemed to be, and as long as she was in control, there was no real harm in continuing to enjoy David's company on occasion. Having sent him away earlier established her position. Now, going to him at her convenience would lay down another marker.

She walked slowly down the quiet hallway, peering into the mostly empty offices, stopping periodically to speak to the other late workers. As she approached Richie Wong's corner office, she breathed a sigh of relief. The lights were out. He was gone for the day. He was David's closest supervisor, the one most likely to walk in on...whatever might be happening in David's office later on. She turned the corner and sighed again, this time in disappointment. David's office was dark as well. He too was gone for the day.

She shook her head and smiled ruefully. Surely this was a good thing. Hooking up at the office, even in the quiet of the early evening, was reckless. Stupid even. But David was right, it was also exciting.

She returned to her office and packed up a few files to review at home. Then she turned out her lights and walked to the exit. She felt fluttery. As she passed each empty office, she imagined David waiting for her, ready to pounce, startling her as she passed, pulling into a darkened office, pressing her up against the door he'd close behind her. A fiery, explosive quickie that would leave her weak-kneed for the drive home.

But he wasn't stalking her. He didn't accost her. Didn't molest her.

She descended to the parking garage without incident. As she approached her car, she had another brief vision of him lying there in wait, shoving her into the back seat...or no, wait, better, bending her over the hood of the car.

She settled into the car and turned the ignition. She put the car in drive. She breathed a sigh of relief...and of disappointment.

*

The kids were already in bed when Meg got home, but not necessarily asleep. She ducked into their bedrooms one at a time, kissing them goodnight. Justin was still awake, and she was able to get from him an update on soccer practice as well as receiving from him a reminder that he wanted a new bike for his upcoming birthday. She didn't mention that Mal had already bought it and hidden it in the garage.

She changed out of her pant suit, into a pair of tights and a t-shirt, and headed downstairs to find Mal in the kitchen. He eyed her lustily. Even after getting fucked silly by Elena and Zoe, the sight of his wife in tights and a snug tee was enough to get him excited. Damn the curves on her. The curves and also the suspicion that she had only just left her lover.

He stepped up close and cupped her gorgeous ass.

"Working late, eh?"

She pressed back against him. His hand felt nice. It made her realize how primed she was.

"Yeah, lots to catch up on."

"I'm sure David was there to give you a hand."

She chuckled. "Actually, he left early."

"So, no hanky panky?"

"Uh, nope...not yet," she replied.

She turned and gave her husband a wet kiss.

He felt a weird mix of emotions. Relief. Also some disappointment, both for himself and for her. Guilt. It definitely complicated his plans to tell Meg about Elena and Zoe and the minivan.

"You're disappointed," she noted, reading only part of his turmoil.

He nodded.

“You really are turning into a kinky one, aren’t you?” she teased. “You like the idea of me with another man.”

“I just want you to be happy.”

“But don’t you think it’s reckless to have an affair with a co-worker?” She didn’t let him answer. “Or is that part of what makes it hot?”

“Probably. So what happened. I can’t imagine he wasn’t interested.”

She nodded. “Oh, he was.”

“So?”

“I was afraid someone might walk in on us.”

“Don’t your offices lock?”

“I was afraid someone might hear us, too.”

“You’ve never been much of a screamer,” Mal countered.

“I am with him. I can’t help myself.”

She noticed Mal flush. Excitement? Anger? Had she gone too far?

“I can imagine. With that big horse cock. Especially when he puts it in your ass.”

Excitement. Definitely excitement. Meg suppressed a giggle.

“Hmmm, yeah,” she sighed. “Was that what you were thinking about? That was why I was late? Were you fantasizing about me, bent over my desk, with David fucking my butt?”

Mal squeezed his wife’s ass more firmly. He had been thinking about it. Is that the same as fantasizing? And there was no denying his excitement now. Was that because of the image in his mind of David’s fat cock plunging into his wife, or was it just in response to her excitement?

“I’m not sure,” he replied. “Maybe I need a demonstration.”

“Huh?”

Mal resolved her confusion by spinning her around and pressing her against the breakfast table. She bent over and thrust her ass out in his direction, accentuating the delicious curve of her butt. He slowly peeled down her tights, just to mid-thigh.

It was so sexy. Her pretty ass. A hint of shaved pussy from between her legs. Her hips swayed slowly with excitement. He reached out and pulled her cheeks apart. It wasn’t something he’d have done before. It would have felt like he was defiling her, and she might have felt violated. But not now, not anymore. He stared at her cute, little puckered anus. He couldn’t imagine how any cock could fit in there, much less one as prodigious as David's. But somehow it was sexy to think about it. About David's big prick sawing into his wife's tight, little ass. About her squealing in pain and pleasure as he sodomized her.

A herd of elephants hurried down the stairs. Or at least that's what it sounded like. Meg desperately pulled up her tights; Mal sat quickly to hide his erection. Justin slid into the kitchen in his socks.

"Oh, Mom, I forgot, I need to bring in cupcakes for tomorrow! We're having my party tomorrow instead of Wednesday because of the field trip."

Meg and Mal both groaned, both in sexual frustration and at the annoyance of having to make a trip to the store to pick up the cakes.

*

Meg volunteered to go out to the store while Mal tucked Justin back into bed. Happily, it was a short drive. As she pulled into the parking lot, her phone rang. She picked it up absentmindedly, assuming it was likely Mal with another item or two to purchase.

"Hey."

There was no response at other end. Just...sounds. Random, muffled sounds. She looked down at the phone. The call had come from David. That was a little surprising. He was more of a texting guy.

"David?"

Still no answer. She chuckled to herself.

"Hey, idiot, you butt dialed me," she laughed into the phone.

More rustling. Breathing. She was about to hang up when she heard it, a soft, unmistakably feminine moan. Curious, she turned up the volume and listened closer. Not just a moan, but moans. Getting louder. The rhythmic slapping of flesh on flesh.

Now high-pitched squeals. "Oh God, oh God, oh God."

Meg groaned. Kaylee. That little slut with the big tits and the big eyes and those cock-sucking lips. How did he have her? Up on her hands and knees, while he pounded her from behind? Or did he have her folded in half, legs over his shoulders, spread open, defenseless as he speared her over and over.

Hearing David with Kaylee made Meg unaccountably jealous. They were not exclusive. She was married after all. And yet the knowledge that after she'd turned him down, he'd simply gone off and found another girl to fuck was infuriating.

"Oh fuck," the young woman cried. "Yeah, just like that...like that." She was obviously getting close. Then came a plaintive whine. "No, baby, don't stop, don't stop."

He chuckled. "You love it, don't you?"

"Yes," she gasped. "Please, please let me come."

"You're a whore."

"Come on, baby, don't stop."

"Say it."

She groaned in frustration. "Okay, okay, I'm a whore."

"A dirty slut."

"Yes, yes," she cried out. "A dirty, slut whore. Now, please make me come."

He laughed again and the rhythmic slapping resumed. She squealed in delight.

"Oh God, oh God, oh God, yes, yes, yes," Kaylee screamed.

Meg could almost see them. David's huge prick pistoning in and out of Kaylee's wet pussy. The look of pure bliss on her face. Meg moaned. She realized her hand had snaked its way into her lap, was rubbing her own wet snatch through her tights.

"Yes," Kaylee screamed again.

"Yes," Meg echoed softly.

"Oh, God!" Kaylee exclaimed.

"Oh...God," Meg sighed.

"Fuck meeeeeee!" Kaylee begged

"Fuck me," Meg mouthed as well, closing her eyes.

"I'm coming," both women groaned at the same time.

When her head cleared, Meg looked back down at the phone. With a disgusted grunt, she disconnected the call.

She went through the store in a daze, stuffing the ingredients for the cupcakes into her basket. Her mind wandered to the phone conversation. Her momentary self-loathing turned into triumph. She'd show David. She'd get back at him, whether he realized it or not. You got me extra fired up, she thought. And now I'm going to fuck the shit out of my husband instead of you!

She laughed, thinking that Mal wouldn't know what hit him. She checked out and nearly skipped back out to the minivan. Even though she only had one bag, out of habit she opened the rear door and tossed it into the back. That's when something caught her eye. Something shiny.

Squinting, she bent closer. When she realized what it was, her heart seized. No. He wouldn't, would he? She picked it up, examining the condom wrapper. She could still smell the spermicide. This was pretty new. From today? But he hadn't mentioned anything about today. And in their van?!

"Argh!" She balled the foil up and threw it into the night. The wind caught it and blew it away, leaving her less than satisfied. Her greatest frustration? With this slight, now no one would be getting laid.

"Argh!" she shouted again.

*

Mal lay on the sofa. Wow, shit had gone south in a hurry. The fucking condom wrapper. Meg had been furious.

He groaned. Really pissed. Hard in fact to figure out what she was most pissed about. Was it that he'd fucked them in the minivan, which Meg for some reason seemed to feel was just particularly egregious?

The kids sit back there!

Or was it that Zoe had joined in the fun again.

One threesome is an experiment. Two is bringing another person into the relationship.

Perhaps that he hadn't mentioned it.

What happened to no lies, Mal?

Or worse, was it the fact that Mal had made it seem like he was ready to stop.

I've been feeling fucking guilty all day and I didn't even fucking do anything. Meanwhile, you were out fucking your two whores!

He groaned again. He knew Meg would cool down eventually. But wow, this whole swinging thing was not for the faint of heart.

*

Meg immediately felt guilty after kicking Mal out of the bedroom. It wasn't that she wasn't upset. She was. But she also knew that part of her anger was just envy. It wasn't fair that Kaylee got David and Mal got Elena and Zoe, while all she got was a little self-love in the front seat of a minivan. She'd been all ready to work out her excitement on Mal, and instead he'd just borne the brunt of her frustrations.

Still, it was a shitty thing to fuck those two girls at the house again, even if it was in the garage, and it did roil Meg to think about the kids finding Dad's condom wrapper on the backseat floor, even if they probably wouldn't recognize it for what it was. So maybe a night on the sofa would do Mal some good.

It definitely wasn't doing Meg any good because what she really needed was a cock. She chuckled and wondered if this is what sex addiction felt like. Can that sort of thing come on later in life? Maybe it was true that women peaked sexually later than men...though try explaining that to Mal and his young groupies.

Her phone buzzed with an incoming text.

[David]: Enjoy the show?

She groaned. It had occurred to her that it wasn't a random butt dial, but rather a deliberate provocation.

[Megan]: I don't know what you mean.

[David]: lol. Judging by when you disconnected, seems like you listened to the end. Were you playing along at home?

She blushed. Lucky guess? Or did he really know her that well already?

[Megan]: Is there a point to this?

[David]: I put a meeting on your schedule.

Meg switched over to her calendar app. Sure enough. 10:30am the next morning. David McKinley. Anderson Matter. The reckless, arrogant shit.

[Megan]: That calendar is public.

[David]: Which is why I scheduled it as Anderson Matter and not Meg gets her twat stuffed. Though that would be more accurate.

And people say women are difficult.

[Megan]: Whatever. We'll talk about this tomorrow.

[David]: No, Meg. No talk. Tomorrow I walk into your office at 10:30. You're bent over your desk waiting for me. Panties off. Skirt hiked up. Ass toward the door. No talk. I just go balls deep. So get yourself ready....

[Megan]: What if I say no?

[David]: You won't. I'd love to text more, but I'm entertaining.

A picture appeared in her text client. Kaylee and her dick-sucking lips wrapped around David's huge shaft.

She slammed the phone down. "Fucking asshole," she hissed under her breath.

*

Meg spent a sleepless night telling herself she'd never do it. On the drive in, she psyched herself up to tell him off. As she walked into the office, she reviewed her planned comeback and put downs.

Then she walked by Kaylee at the receptionist desk. The big-breasted, doe-eyed blonde looked a little haggard, a little less perfect than her normal self. Meg clenched her teeth as her mouth filled with the metallic taste of jealousy. That should have been her looking haggard. That should have been her sipping that double espresso.

"Morning," Meg said pleasantly.

Kaylee looked up at her. Her smile didn't quite touch her eyes. "Morning."

"Late night?" Meg couldn't help herself.

"Yeah."

Kaylee didn't elaborate, which was fine with Meg. It meant that Kaylee didn't know that David had been texting her while the girl blew him. Kaylee didn't suspect what kind of relationship Meg and David had. That was important. Susan already knew about them. If rumors spread....

Which is exactly why she wasn't going to do what he'd told her to do. When he walked into her office, she'd be behind her desk, reviewing some paperwork as always.

So why then did she shave her pussy this morning, thinking about doing exactly what David wanted? Why did it make her so wet? Why had she run that razor over her mound, thinking about how good it would feel when he entered her again? When his balls swung against the soft, exposed skin with each thrust....

Ten o'clock ticked by. She had her paperwork out on her desk. She was reviewing. What any of it said was lost to her as the minutes labored by. 10:15. 10:24. 10:27.

"Oh, fuck this," she muttered. She got up, fully intending on going to the door and locking it. That would teach him. That would put him in his place. She was the partner. He was the junior. He worked for her, not the other way around.

And yet.... When she slid her panties down her thighs, they were soaked. She bunched her skirt around her waist, exposing her bare pussy to the airconditioned air of the office. Her stomach quivered. Her heart raced.

The hardest part was that last minute. Bent over her desk, her naked ass pointing at her unlocked door, knowing that anyone—another lawyer, her secretary, the mail guy, a janitor—might stumble onto her. She closed her eyes and resigned herself to it, feeling the cool office air on her soaking, wet pussy.

The door clicked open. Her heart pounded in her ears. Had he locked the door? She couldn't be sure. Was it even him? She didn't dare look.

There was barely a pause. She felt strong hands on her hips. And then inch after endless inch of fat cock plunging deep into her swollen, sopping cunt, filling her in a way she'd never known was possible, in a way that only one man could.

She came before he even hit bottom, and then again and again as she held on to her desk, white knuckled, biting on her lip to avoid screaming for the rest of the hour-long "meeting."

Five

Mal was done with the experiment. At least his side of it. Elena was everything a guy could asked for—she was hot, confident, bisexual, and was smart enough that she'd soon have esquire after her name—but she wasn't Meg.

So he was done....

...until he saw her again in class. Zoe wasn't with her, thank God, but that didn't make resisting her any less difficult. In the end, he ended up fucking her after class, with the door locked and his hand clamped over her mouth to keep her quiet.

Then felt immediately guilty for doing it.

*

Meg felt guilty, too. She loved the feeling of David's cock inside her. She had to sit gingerly after her afternoon session with him, particularly because of the way he'd fingered her asshole, but still, she wished she could have been stronger.

Paradoxically, she couldn't get enough of David. With that young man, she didn't want to be strong. She wanted to be taken. It was all very fucking confusing.

Her phone rang. She picked up it without bothering to look at the caller ID. "Hello?"

"I think Mal is having an affair."

Meg blinked. The statement swelled up and knocked her on her metaphorical ass. She looked at the ID, connecting the voice with her friend, Tammy, more due to that text prompt than the voice itself.

"What?" Meg asked.

"I'm sorry to tell you.... Maybe we should do this in person. You free for a late lunch?"

"I'm not, actually. But...." Meg sighed. "But I know."

"You do?"

"Yeah. We have a...we're trying something out. An arrangement. Hold on a sec." Meg got up and shut her office door. "How did you find out?"

"Wow, Meg. I never would have guessed."

“You’re kind of the reason!” Meg shouldn’t have felt so defensive, but she did. “We got the idea when we saw you with that guy at Pumped.”

Well, not really. But that had been the catalyst, so it wasn’t much of a lie.

“So...what are you saying?” Tammy asked. “You’re letting him sleep around?”

“It’s...mutual.” She felt some shame in admitting it, but also a huge amount of relief. To be able to talk about this with someone who wasn’t Mal felt great.

“Holy shit, girl! Who? Anyone I know?”

“A guy from work. Don’t think you’ve met him.”

“Work? Dangerous stuff there,” Tammy said.

“Yeah.” That wasn’t what Meg had hoped to hear, but it was the truth, and confirmed what she’d been refusing to acknowledge herself. “So how did you find out about Mal?”

“It’s with this girl in his class, right? Thin, brunette, mid-twenties?”

Meg felt jealousy tighten down on her chest. She actually had never met Elena, didn’t know what she looked like...and preferred it that way. Hearing this description was disheartening.

But no less disheartening than when Mal had met David at the airport? She put herself in Mal’s shoes. Here he was, picking his wife up after being apart from her, only to come face-to-face with the man she’d been sleeping with. David was attractive, young, and worst of all, held a cocky superiority over the man he’d just cucked. Meg suddenly felt very, very low.

“Meg? You there?”

“Hm? Yeah. Sorry. Yes, that’s her.”

Tammy went on. “I suspected something yesterday. He seemed awfully smiley with her. But I figured I was imagining things. Then it was the same today. He barely even acknowledged me, either, which was weird. After class, I started to leave, then remembered something I’d forgotten in the room. When I went back, I...heard them.”

Meg listened, emotion tugging her in a million different directions. She felt jealous, of course. Angry that he’d be so careless. An acute sense of betrayal that she knew wasn’t fair. And arousal. A sick part of her wished she could have been there to listen. It would have been amazing to watch Mal make that slut scream.

“Thanks for the head’s up, Tam.”

“You okay, Meg? You sure you don’t want to get together? Maybe after work?”

“I’m good. Really.”

Meg already knew that she’d be getting home late, but she wasn’t going to be meeting her friend.

*

David wielded his cock like a club, holding it at the base as he thumped it across Meg’s bare pussy and clit. Each thud forced a sharp moan from her, forced her to spread her legs wider, to arch her back even more.

They were in a conference room, after hours. All the lights were off except for the emergency ones, the door was locked, and the shades were drawn. She’d done a walk around and everyone had gone home. They were alone. And even still, she was deathly afraid that someone would discover them. And yet she couldn’t resist getting another dose of David’s mighty dick.

“You like that, don’t you? Can’t get enough.” He taunted her, stepping forward to saw his member along her lips without penetrating.

“Do it. Stop teasing me.”

“First I want to hear you say it. Tell me how much you want this.”

“I want it.”

“It?” He raised an eyebrow.

“Your cock. I want your cock.”

“Okay.” He changed angles and entered her, scrambling her brain.

That’s what he did to her. He scrambled her. She couldn’t think straight when she was with him, when he was in her. She did things that she shouldn’t. She invited him to a conference just to be with him. She lured him into this meeting room after hours to fuck him. She risked everything—her job, her career, her marriage.... And was it worth it?

“Say cheese,” David said. She snapped her head up just in time to see the flash go off on his camera phone.

No, he wouldn’t!

“Damn, baby, you look good like that. Nice tits.”

“Delete that, David.”

He continued to fuck her, but was thumbing something on his phone. She hoped he was deleting, but feared something worse.

“First I need to SnapChat it.”

“What? No!” She barely even understood what SnapChat was, other than that it was the “Internet.” And the last thing she needed was for her to be out there, on the Internet, where anyone could stumble upon her. She’d been upset that Mal had been careless with Elena, but this was a thousand times worse.

“It’s cool, Meg. Your face isn’t in it.” He turned his phone to show her the obscene pic. He’d cropped it so that only her chin and her dark red hair were visible. She had to admit that she never would have suspected it was her. It looked more like a still from some amateur porn shoot, with her tits and swollen nipples, her bald pussy stretched around David’s monster dick, but still....

“Delete it.”

“Oh, come on, Meg. Lighten up a little.”

“Delete it, David.” She felt steel in her voice for the first time since LA. She was the boss. Time to start acting like one.

David was unfazed. He leaned down, pumping his cock down to the hilt. It took all of her willpower not to swoon back onto the table.

“Lighten. Up.” His order made her shudder. Fire licked up her spine and across her scalp. She shut her eyes, her orgasm catching her completely by surprise.

David pulled out of her, crawling onto the conference table. He straddled her chest, resting his cock between her tits. Instinctively, she closed her tits around his girth. David reached back and began fingering her still sensitive pussy.

“Now this is a pic,” he said.

“Please....” Her voice was hoarse. Shaky.

“Fine. But squeeze those fat tits harder, slut. Fuck me nice and tight with them.”

She did as she was told, feeling a second orgasm build in the wake of the first. He rubbed her clit hard. She bit her lip, wishing he’d lighten up, but not daring to correct him. Mal would never have been this hard. He always had a light touch.

David tit-fucked her faster. Harder. His cock caressed her neck and speared her chin until she rocked her head forward so that she could suck the tip with each thrust. It became a game. How much could she take. How much could he swallow. At last, he yanked his cock from between her tits, jerked off twice, and exploded across her face.

They cleaned up in silence. For the first time, things felt awkward. The 10:30 meeting had ended with him zipping up and leaving without a word. The times before that had ended with them passing out. Now, getting dressed in the silence of the conference room, it just felt...weird.

*

Mal was still up when Meg finally got home. She looked disheveled, her hair uncontained and wild, her blouse was rumpled. She looked exhausted.

“You have fun tonight?” he asked from the bed.

Meg released a sigh. He couldn’t read her.

“I’m not mad,” he said. He meant it. Mostly. If they were going to get through this, they needed to start talking more. That would start with him. “I was with Elena today, too.”

“I know.” Now he did see something in her face. Hurt, maybe? He regretted saying anything—he regretted being with her at all—but it had happened. “Tammy heard you.”

Mal’s body went from comfortable to overheated. Tammy had...heard? She knew? “She knows?”

“She does now.” Meg floated over to the bed, taking a seat on the end. “We’ve got to be more careful.”

She wasn’t saying it in a chiding way. She wasn’t talking down to him, as he was half-expecting. The statement was as much for her as it was for him, he realized.

“You do him at work?” Mal asked quietly.

Meg nodded. “Twice.”

Jealousy smacked him in the gut. He quickly got it under control. “Wow,” was all he could manage.

“I’m sorry, honey,” she said, going to him. He could smell...David on her. His cologne. His musk. His...come?

His cock swelled at the thought of sloppy seconds. Meg with another man hurt, but there was no denying how hot that was, too.

“We need to be smarter about this,” she said. She kissed him, then backed off and shook her head. “No, sorry. I need to be smarter.”

“You can’t help yourself when you’re around him,” Mal stated.

“No. I don’t know what it is—”

“His cock, maybe?” He threw in a laugh, but he felt cold despite it.

Meg smiled weakly. “Yeah, maybe.”

But there was more to it. He realized what that cold feeling was: fear. Did she have feelings for him? That was his nightmare. That was the real danger of this...this fucking experiment. But if she did, he couldn’t do anything about it. She needed to work through that on her own.

“No more sex at work for me,” she said firmly. “And no more sex at your studio. ’Kay?”

“Sounds like a wise move.”

Six

Mal was going to stick by his promise. Elena was hot, but Meg was hotter. They'd had sex last night, after their promise, and while it wasn't anything as crazy as the sex he'd been getting from the younger woman, he'd go for Meg every time.

Only the next time he saw Elena—during his shift at the gym—it appeared that keeping his promise would be easier than he thought. Elena strolled into the gym on the arm of a tall, dark, and handsome guy, closer to her own age, and judging from the way she stared up at him, they were more than just friends.

Mal knew he had no right to be jealous, but he was so jealous he felt bile rise in his chest. He wanted to knock the guy down and put a knee on his throat. The caveman reaction was as strong as the one he'd felt when he'd first encountered David.

He breathed in slowly, through his nose, out his mouth, and searched for his inner peace.

"Mal, I want you to meet Josh," Elena beamed. "Josh is here to try out yoga with me."

Josh offered a humoring smile to Mal. Clearly he was only here to get closer to Elena. He didn't even see Mal as a rival.

That day, he pushed the class extra hard, and smirked as Josh fumbled and flailed about.

*

"But it's not fair," David whined. "Who the fuck cares if I filed those papers a day late. The judge certainly doesn't."

David sat across from Meg in her office, complaining about how he'd just been chewed out by one of the senior partners.

"I'm not some fucking clerk," he went on. "I mean, we all make mistakes. Right?"

He looked to Meg to agree with him, and while she wanted to, she couldn't. She agreed with her colleague. "We do, and we all need to own up to those mistakes."

David's jaw set. It was amazing that two weeks ago, she would have seen a cute, charming young man sitting opposite her, rather than the petulant young man. In some ways, that was good. It meant she knew what she had to work with. On the other, it was a stark reminder of how much younger he was than her, and how entitled the new class of lawyers was.

"Don't take his side," he said.

"This is the real world, David. This is how things work. We all had to take our lumps. It's your turn now."

His eyes met hers. "I'll show you how to take some lumps...."

Meg felt a tingling between her legs, but the taunt had less of an effect on her. "I'm sure you will," she said with a laugh. "But we're not talking about me right now."

David groaned and rolled his eyes. "Fine, whatever."

Meg shook her head. "Yesterday was a mistake. We can't have sex in the office anymore. It's too risky."

When he looked up at her, she realized how fragile her sense of control really was. If he pushed, would she be able to resist him? History said not.

He studied her. She wanted to look away, feeling like he was picking her apart. This is what would make him a great lawyer. He just needed to mature some more. "Then how about this weekend. I'm going to a wedding out in a vineyard past Charlottesville. Be my date."

He was crafty. He knew not to press her on the office thing, so he offered her a chance to repeat LA. "Anyone I know?"

"Nope. Friend from law school. No one would suspect."

Meg resisted the temptation to lick her lips. That was safe, right? She'd be away from her friends and colleagues. Away from the danger of being caught. She could dance in his arms at the wedding and get carried back to his room at the end of the night.

"I don't think so," she said. It was a bad idea, no matter how safe. She clung to the petulant version of David to ward off the temptation.

David shrugged, trying to look nonchalant, but Meg knew him enough to see the signs: the tightness in his jaw, the stiffness in his shoulders. He wasn't happy.

"Fine, whatever. I'll take Kaylee instead."

Meg's nostrils flared.

"Change your mind?"

"Have fun with her, thinking of me."

*

“What’s wrong?” Mal asked. He sensed that something was bothering Meg. She’d been unusually quiet through dinner. Then it occurred to him—despite their agreement, she’d fucked David again.

“David invited me to a wedding this weekend.” The confession came out in a rush, so fast that Mal didn’t understand at first. And it was definitely not what he was expecting.

“What?”

“I told him no,” Meg said, ignoring his question.

“Hold on. He invited you to a wedding? Like as a date?”

“I told him I wouldn’t fuck him in the office. I guess this was his solution.”

Mal started to laugh when something else occurred to him. She’d been sly before about a weekend away. Was this another setup? “How convenient.”

Meg froze, mid-mope, and looked up at her husband. “What’s that supposed to mean?”

“Nothing. Just sounds...convenient. You lay down the law, and all of a sudden there’s a simple solution you’ve got in your back pocket.”

“Now hold on a second. You seem to have missed the thing where I said that I said no.” She looked pissed because she was pissed.

“But why did you say no, Meg? You clearly want to go.”

“I....” No lies. “I’m trying to be good.”

“And that’s what’s put you in a mood.” He sighed, trying to regain control of his own emotions. He was upset, but that wouldn’t do any good here. “Look, when I said that I want you to be happy, I meant it. When I said that we both needed to want to stop, I meant that, too. You should go.”

Meg softened, too. A worry line appeared between her brows. “No, I really shouldn’t.”

“I’m not going to be the one you blame here,” he said. “You’re not going to hang your regret on me.” He pulled out his phone. “In fact, I’m going to go out of town myself. With Elena.”

“Mal....”

He brought up Elena’s number, wondering if Meg would call his bluff. She didn’t. She just watched him type out a text to Elena.

[Malik]: You free this weekend? I have a weekend alone. We could go somewhere.

He showed the text to Meg, who looked sick just reading it. It didn't help that the text right above read: you free? i need to feel your big, hard cock in me again.

Meg turned away. Mal said, "I'll call my parents. Have them take the kids for the weekend."

Meg's phone buzzed at the same time Mal's did. She checked it, saw that it was from David, and looked furtively at her husband. He was preoccupied with checking his own phone.

[David]: change your mind yet?

It was like the man was spying on her. She unlocked the phone just as a second message came in from him, this one with a photo attached.

[David]: maybe this'll change your mind

The photo, of course, was of David, naked from the neck down, his enormous cock at full mast. It was one of the most obscene things she'd seen in a while—definitely not sexy. Why did men think that was attractive?

On Mal's phone, Elena's text had him thinking.

[Elena]: Sort of. Want to go to a wedding with me?

*

It was crazy. It had become a contest of wills. Mal was going to goad her into continuing to see David until she made an affirmative decision to quit it. But of course, the very fact that he was provoking her made her want to resist. That was the thing about Mal sometimes. That easy going thing could morph into a sort of unconscious passive-aggressiveness.

And it was unconscious. Meg knew that. They'd been together long enough that she knew how his mind worked. Mal was obviously getting a little bored with the experiment. Oh sure, pride and his male, reptile-brain impulse to stick it in any fertile young thing ensured he wasn't going to just sit on his hands while Meg was still having sex with David, but he was ready for it to end. But the idea of putting his foot down offended his hippy-dippy, mellow-dude ethos. He needed her to be the one to end it.

All of that made perfect sense. Meg got it. And yet, right now, she needed Mal's help. It wasn't that she was out of control, or addicted... addicted to what anyway? The thrill? The danger? His cock? Meg shuddered. Fuck, David was addictive. And fuck, that was embarrassing to admit. Arrogant, immature, reckless, promiscuous. David bundled together about every personality trait Meg had always hated in the high school jocks, college frat boys, self-satisfied, law-school classmates, cocky senior litigators, egomaniacal millionaire clients. She'd been running away from Davids her whole life. Had run straight into the arms of Malik, with his hard body, and his soft attitude precisely because he was so unlike the Davids.

Mal was right. He could be a big goof, but he had an instinctive touch with people. He was right, she would resent it if he insisted she stop seeing David. And yet, as much as she hated to admit it, she needed his strength added to hers to end it. Sooner or later, she knew she'd be able to assert herself. Or at least she wanted to believe that. But what would be the cost to her and Mal if it turned out to be later rather than sooner? There were already wounds, but no scars. But would that still be true after this weekend? After more office assignments? After additional "business" trips?

She pulled up the image of David's big cock on her phone. She groaned. Ugh. Men are idiots. But if they are so stupid, then why hadn't she deleted it? And why did she keep pulling it up and looking at it?

*

It was weird watching Meg pack for her weekend. Mal was again struck by how hard it is to be a woman. He'd packed in minutes. He picked the charcoal suit. White shirt for the wedding, pink for the pre-wedding dinner. A couple of ties. Boxer briefs. Workout clothes. Razor, aftershave. The ties were the hardest part. They had taken 90 seconds to select.

Meg, by contrast, was still in the dress-selection phase of it. Classy wedding, but at a vineyard. Would that make it less dressy? Mal realized he didn't even know where they were going. Out by Richmond was what Elena had told him. It didn't make a difference to him.

But to Meg it meant the difference between a long dress—that only works indoors—and a shorter one—I'll look underdressed if we're in a ballroom. Was the reception in the evening—black then, or red—or afternoon—floral print. A million variables just to decide on that. Then shoes. Accessories. Makeup. And of course, underwear.

Mal suspected Meg was deliberately tormenting him on that score. When had she acquired such an interesting collection of skimpy and frilly bras, panties, teddies, bustiers, garters, and stockings? He'd seen many of them. Most? He wasn't sure. How many had she bought for David? Worn just for him? And as she packed, why did it seem like she picked just the sexiest, most provocative ones?

She noticed him looking.

"What?" she asked.

"Those are, um, something."

She laughed and held up a teeny, tiny, see-through lace demi-cup bra and thong panties, neither of which would even begin to contain his wife's ample charms.

"Doesn't Elena dress up for you?"

Mal thought about it. He was sure she did. And she looked great. Always. Yet, no matter how tight and short her yoga clothes were, it wasn't the same as a pair of frilly panties. Elena's clothes said, I'm a fit, hot bitch. The clothes his wife was packing said, instead, I'm going to fuck your brains out.

"Not really," Mal admitted.

Meg gave a small pout. "Poor baby. Maybe you can find a support group. My young, nubile, nymphomaniac lover doesn't dress up for me. I'm sure you'll get a lot of sympathy."

He forced a smile. "Maybe it can meet at the same time as yours. My horse fucked lover is insatiable."

"Don't tell me you're jealous, Mal."

Yes, yes, yes. "No, of course not."

"Good, me neither," Meg replied not fully convincingly. "We're just having fun."

Mal nodded. "Just having fun." Then added, "So you need help picking?" He nodded toward her skimpy panties.

"You want to help me choose what I wear for David?"

Mal laughed. "Yeah, so, um, where are the granny panties?"

"You gonna wear tighty-whiteys for Elena?"

He rolled his eyes. "I don't have anything like what you have."

"Right, Mal, those skin-tight boxer briefs aren't revealing at all."

“Less talk, more lingerie, Meg. How am I supposed to help unless I see the options?”

“You really want a fashion show?”

“Of course.”

“Even though we’re talking about what I’m going to wear for David?”

Ouch. “Yeah, put those on.”

Meg looked down at the tiny bra and panties set in her hand. “These?”

Mal nodded. A more ornate bustier, garters, and stockings set might have been more showy, but he wanted to see those.

“Yeah.”

“Here?”

“Go in the bathroom and change.”

She shook her head and laughed, but she slipped into the bathroom. She emerged a moment later.

Mal gasped. Wife, mother, lawyer, smart, successful, fun chick, tough girl—so many ways to describe her. And yet, right now, the only thing he could think was sex pot. It was like those bra and panties had been designed for her. She almost overflowed the bra, creating the most spectacular cleavage, and the bra cups were sheer enough to give a taste of her red, swollen nipples. She turned around, and Mal admired how the panties bisected and seemed to frame her booty. Round and firm, but with just the right amount of jiggle, Meg’s ass was a like a ripe apple. You just wanted to take a bite out of it. She spun back around, and flipped her long, red hair over her shoulder.

“Oh God, Meg, those. Definitely those.”

She approached Mal.

“You sure?”

She played with her bra strap. So sensuous. She enticing. So unlike the normal Meg.

“He won’t be able to keep his hands off you.”

Both Meg and Mal shuddered at that.

“That’s what you want, isn’t it?” Mal added.

She bit her lip. “I shouldn’t.”

He laughed. “We’re well past that, aren’t we? Past the blushing schoolgirl shtick.”

“We are.”

“So, say it.”

"I want to drive him crazy," she admitted. A pause. "Like he drives me crazy."

It was like a kick to the chest.

"Does that bother you?" she asked.

"Of course! Fuck Meg, it kills me to see the power he has over you."

She took a step back. "So, what do you want?"

"What do you want?" he echoed.

"Don't do that," she groaned.

"Do what?"

"Fuck you Mal."

He smiled ruefully. Bittersweet. Even her outburst betrayed her ambivalence. She didn't turn and run. She didn't cover herself up. She just stood there and spat an invective.

"Show me your tits."

"Fuck you, Mal," she hissed again.

"Oh, they're only for him now?"

Pure provocation. She bridled.

"Yeah, you'd fucking deserve that. Anyway, isn't fucking Elena enough for you?"

Was fucking a verb or adjective there? No matter.

"She's a piece of ass," he acknowledged. And though he felt guilty about saying it, he knew Elena would take it as a point of pride. "So are you."

He rose and moved aggressively toward his wife. Meg gasped, shrinking from him, yet felt her excitement surge. Beneath that loopy-goopy exterior Mal had an almost frightening raw sensuality. He was a cheetah, long and lean and so tight, and a killer in his own way. It was what Elena saw in him. What she often forgot when he was playing Mister Mom with the kids.

"He gets to fuck you," Mal growled. "But you're mine."

He grabbed her by the back of her neck. Damn, he was strong. His other hand dove into her bra, pinching her already hard nipple.

"Let go of me," she hissed. "I don't belong to anyone."

She didn't mean it. Or maybe she did. Part of her did. Part of her didn't. She wanted him to stop. And she didn't.

"You don't even know what you really want."

"Not like this," she whined.

He peeled down her bra. Her beautiful breasts spilled out. He bent down and took a nipple into his mouth, sucked it until she cried out in pain.

“You sure?” he asked.

“Yes,” she growled even as she cradled his head closer. “No,” she admitted a moment later.

He gave her a hard shove back onto the bed. She lay there breathing hard. He stripped quickly. Meg’s eyes went to his hard prick. Smaller than David’s, but it was still intimidating. It wasn’t an issue of size, but of his desire, his intent to have her. She knew she couldn’t fight him. Knew she didn’t want to.

He launched himself at her. Her legs spread instinctively, even as she tried to push him away. He leaned down and tried to kiss her. She turned her head away.

“Get off me,” she hissed.

“No,” he grunted.

Mal grabbed her hair in his fist. Forced her to look up at him. He kissed her again. This time she melted, her tongue wrestling his.

Mal snaked his hand into Meg’s panties. The lace felt rough, scratchy on the back of his hard. He wondered how women could stand it. His palm, by contrast, pressed against her shaved snatch. Baby smooth. She’d been touching it up daily. For him, he realized. It made him angry and yet also aroused.

“Thinking of him? This is how he handles you, right?”

Meg groaned. He was too close for comfort in his assessment. Mal was being rough, disrespectful. It was like David. And also as with David, it unaccountably turned her on. Feeling his hunger. Knowing he wanted to fuck her. Not make love, fuck. She wanted to kiss him, melt against him, and yet, she knew that would make him soften as well, and she didn’t want that. Not right now, not yet.

“Don’t Mal, I’m still sore from him.” Goading him.

It worked. Mal let out a low, feral growl. “Too bad,” he hissed. He pressed a finger inside her. Her pussy was drenched and swollen.

“You let him come inside you?”

She hadn’t. She’d swallowed. “Yes. I tried to clean up, but he just comes so much. I can feel it coming out of me for days.”

She felt him tense. Angry. She liked it.

“You’re a slut.”

“For David I am.”

Playing with fire. Would he hate her more than he wanted to fuck her?

“Then you won’t mind if I fuck you like this.”

Mal edged aside her sheer panties and thrust inside her, hard. Success.

“You bastard,” she gasped. Then, incongruously she wrapped her legs around his waist, ankles locked, squeezing him painfully.

He yanked back on her hair and attacked her throat with sloppy, wet kisses. She was humping back against him. A bitch in heat. He pounded into her, treating her like nothing more than a convenient hole. She scratched at his back.

Her explosion was sudden, uncontrollable. She shuddered and bucked. Mal barely held on, plunging fully into her, emptying his balls.

He let go of her hair. She released her leg lock. They panted, sweaty against one another.

“That was...awkward,” she said finally.

“And...sort of hot?” he suggested.

“And dangerous.”

“It makes me crazy to think of you with him,” Mal admitted.

“Do you want me to cancel?”

Mal laughed. “Maybe I like being crazy.”

“Oh, you’re crazy alright,” Meg replied. “And not wanting me to cancel has nothing to do with you wanting to fuck the skinny, young bitch Elena?”

“She’s a sweet young woman.”

“She’s a whore.”

Mal laughed.

Meg laughed as well. “I guess I’m one to talk.”

“I don’t think any of us are in a position to cast stones.”

“I just don’t know what happens next.”

Mal kissed his wife. “We enjoy the weekend. Then we talk.”

“Promise?” Meg’s tone had a desperate urgency.

Mal wasn’t sure what he was agreeing to. Enjoying? Or talking? But he knew what Meg needed to hear. “Yes. I promise.”

Seven

After dropping off the kids, Mal picked up Elena in the minivan.

“Sweet ride, lover,” she teased.

“You didn’t seem to mind last time.”

“Well, we needed a place to fuck. Now we have a comfy hotel room.”

Mal chuckled. Elena was disconcertingly direct. “Okay, so where to?”

Elena checked a sheet with printed directions.

“Out 66. Then 29.”

“I thought you said we were going to Richmond?”

“Isn’t that toward Richmond?”

“Um, no, Richmond is down 95.”

“Whatever. It’s all fucking Richmond down there, isn’t it?”

“Jesus, Elena, where are we going?”

“Relax, stud. Over 100 miles on 66 then 29. Plenty of time to figure it out. And plenty of time for other things, too.”

She unbuckled her seat belt. Complete un-self-consciously she draped herself over the center console of the minivan and reached for his zipper.

“What are you doing?”

“I’m going to suck your cock while you drive. Doesn’t your wife do that for you?”

She unzipped him and fished out his prick.

“We usually have three kids in the car.”

“Well, now you don’t.”

And with that, she swallowed him deep and swirled her tongue around his rapidly hardening cock.

Mal couldn’t help but wonder if this is what life would be like with Elena. Their entire relationship, such as it was, seemed to revolve around his cock. She wanted it all the time. In her mouth, in her pussy. No anal yet. But surely it would be available this weekend. Where was Elena when he was younger? Or maybe that was the point. When he was younger and hornier and more desperate, a woman like Elena would not be interested. She seemed to relish the challenge of turning out an older, married man. Not that he’d been much of a challenge. It was a miracle she was still interested despite that.

Elena rose up, swirled his glans, and swallowed him again. Damn, she was good.

*

“That’s it Meggy, let’s see how many times you can make me come before we get there.”

David had already finished in her mouth once before they even hit Vienna. Now, as they drove down 29 in his BMW 330 convertible, he was once again close.

“You’re going to be useless to me tonight,” Meg complained.

David laughed. “Don’t worry, baby, nothing will keep me from getting hard enough to wear you out.”

“Lovely.”

He pressed down on the back of her head. She opened wide in self-defense and allowed his fat prick back into her mouth. She’d managed to talk him into putting the top up before she blew him. A small victory.

“Fuck yeah, it is,” he groaned as he felt his prick touch the back of her throat.

*

Mal drove up the long, tree-lined drive.

“Why didn’t you tell me we were coming here?”

Elena giggled. “What are you upset about? I don’t even know where the fuck we are. This is like some winery, right?”

“Yeah, Tallensford. It’s pretty well-known. And we’re nowhere near Richmond.”

“Whatever. This is where the wedding is. We have a king-sized bed, lots of wine, and two days of partying ahead of us. This is gonna be wild.”

“You have no idea,” Mal noted.

Mal had spent the last thirty miles slowly coming to terms with—but not quite believing—the coincidence. Somehow, he and Meg were going to be at the same wedding...with their respective lovers. Wild. Dangerous. Crazy.

The main house was huge—plantation style, but actually recently built to take advantage of the boom in Virginia wines. With its large lawns, tended orchards, and grand staircase, it was a lovely place for a wedding.

When Mal and Elena checked in, they were assigned to a cute guest house on the grounds, red brick and azaleas just coming into bloom.

Elena dropped her bag and threw herself onto the bed.

“Let’s break this bitch in,” she suggested.

“I’m pretty sure we’re not the first people to fuck in here.”

She smiled. “Yeah, but we’ll be the first people to fuck as good in here.”

And damn, she was true to her word. A naked, sweaty goddess, writhing on Mal, playing with his balls, delighting in his muscles. No difficult emotions, just that delightful sensation of a pretty, hard-bodied young woman bouncing up and down on his cock. She’d milked him twice on the ride down and he felt like he could last forever.

Elena seemed to realize it as well. She used him like a particularly responsive sex toy. And he was happy to play along. His thumb rubbing her hard clit, his index finger tickling her anus, his palms cupping her small breasts. Massaging, pinching, rubbing, pulling, spanking. She growled and came once, then twice, then a third time until she collapsed onto his chest, her face buried in his neck, licking and sucking and moaning. He rolled them over, and rose up high. It was still daylight, so he could watch his prick plunging again and again into that tight, shaved muff.

When he finally came into his condom, Mal felt drained, completely and fully. But it just seemed to fire her up.

She jumped up. “Damn, you’re a great fuck, you know that?”

Mal laughed. He felt like he was barely keeping up.

“Alright,” she continued, “we have like thirty minutes until drinks. So get cleaned up, lover. I plan to show you off.”

*

Meg let the hot water flow over her body. God, she was sore all over. Being bent over David’s fat cock for the whole ride was bad enough, but then when they’d gotten into their room, David had insisted on testing out their bed, which they had done with him fucking her hard enough that she worried that their big, solid bed would collapse beneath the pounding. Having a young, wildly endowed lover was not for the faint of heart. The reception and dinner would be a welcome respite, but she knew David would be back at her after.

And shit if that thought didn't get her wet. Even now, barely recovered from their latest coupling, the knowledge that he'd want more, later, made her feel fluttery, giddy. David made her feel like the sexiest woman on the planet. He wanted her, always, and everywhere, and yet he never allowed her a swelled head, he always made it seem like he was doing her a favor. And he was. His ability to drive her out of her mind was unbelievable.

The bathroom door opened. She barely had time to register his form. He was naked. Erect. He stepped into the shower. Shoved her up against the hard tile wall. No words, no romance. He just drove his fat prick into her willing snatch, and then fucked her hard enough that each stroke lifted her off the ground, made her gasp and grunt and then finally come, exhausted, shuddering as he continued to ram into her, again and again, until he filled her with another load of come.

*

Mal was feeling anxious. Well, as anxious as is possible after being fucked within an inch of his life by a sexy, voracious, young woman. He scanned the room full of impossibly well-dressed and attractive men and women.

Mal had managed to get a few details. The bride, Deborah, was a UVA law student. The groom, Ted, at Georgetown Law. Ted was a friend of Elena's from their first year legal research and writing section. Deb was a friend of David's, and Mal assumed one of his many conquests. She was a sexy girl, tall, big blue eyes, long, mahogany hair. Mal wondered if Ted realized they'd invited one of his fiancées ex-lovers to the wedding. Maybe it turned Ted on. Maybe he liked the idea of them saying their wedding vows in front of a man who'd fucked his wife-to-be. It was an idea that would never have crossed Mal's mind before, but after the last few weeks, he realized that human sexuality was stranger and more twisted than he'd previously imagined.

Mal knew he'd run into Meg sooner or later. He'd been working through the perfect line. Surprise? What are you doing here? Anger? Are you stalking me? Flirtatious? Well, now this is interesting. Eyebrow raised, big smile.

"Mal?"

It was genuine surprise on her part.

“Hi Meg,” he replied.

He wanted to say more, but couldn't. She was breathtaking in a clingy, green satin dress, her hair an unruly mass that fell in loose spirals over both shoulders, her face, flushed, embarrassed, aroused. Mal noted David's hand, possessively on his wife's lower back, the shit-eating grin of a man who'd just gotten laid.

“Hey Mal, what brings you here?” David asked.

“Attending a wedding.”

Elena cleared her throat. “You guys know each other?”

Mal groaned. “This is my wife...and her boyfriend.”

David grinned wider. He seemed ready to combust in self-satisfaction.

“And Meg, this is my friend, Elena.”

David smirked. “Hey, Elly baby, how you doing?”

Mal nearly lost it. David had fucked Elena, too?

Elena laughed. “Death, taxes, and David McKinley being an asshole.”

“You know each other?” Mal asked.

“Oh, David knows every single woman in the metro area. He's not discriminating. But no, we don't know each other. I have better taste.”

Meg bridled. “You sound jealous.”

Elena smirked. “Have fun, sister. I'm going to be with a real man tonight.”

She gripped Mal. Mal smile apologetically at his wife.

“You couldn't handle me,” David taunted.

Elena rolled her eyes ostentatiously. “Baby, you couldn't handle me. But have fun with the b-team.”

Mal looked at his wife. Happily she seemed more amused than upset. She could see that he wanted to respond. She shook her head and grinned. Don't.

A man cleared his throat into a mic. A forthcoming announcement. All eyes turned toward the stage.

Mal leaned in toward his wife.

“You okay?”

She laughed. “I like her. She's got spirit.”

Mal grinned. Meg knew Elena was no real competition. And she wasn't. Elena was young, gorgeous, smart, and a fucking nympho. But Meg was the shit and she knew it. Good for her.

“We're still gonna talk after the weekend?” Mal asked.

Meg nodded. “After the weekend, Mal. After.”

There was a brief announcement about dinner and dancing after. Mal watched as David pulled his wife into a passionate kiss.

He turned toward Elena. She nodded. “I’m game,” she mouthed.

And of course she was. Whatever David would do with Meg, Elena was more than willing to match with Mal. He looked over at his wife, locked in a passionate embrace with another man, his hands roaming over her luscious curves. As much as Meg might enjoy it, Mal knew she’d be just as happy to be cuddling quietly with him before a fire. But that’s not where they were.

Mal turned toward his date, and Elena melted into his hands. She lifted her leg and wrapped it around his calf. His hand cupped her hard, round ass. The two couples stood side by side, kissing in a way that might make any other observer suggest they get a room.

Elena and Meg made eye contact.

Game on, bitch.

*

They took seats on opposite sides of the room, although this pre-wedding dinner was only half as large as the wedding itself would be. Or so Mal heard. It meant that all he had to do was look up and he could see Meg, flirting away with David. And flirt she did. David had his arm on the back of her chair, the other hand on her knee as they whispered and laughed together.

Mal was hot with jealousy, yet despite all the sex, his cock started to find new life.

“Hey, hey, remember who you’re here with,” Elena said, snapping her fingers in his face. When Mal looked at her, he expected anger. Instead, she just looked amused. “I’m going to have to up my game, looks like.”

“Sorry. It’s just...weird is all.”

“That goes for the both of us.”

Mal suddenly saw things from Elena’s perspective. She’d come here with her fuck buddy, looking for a good time. Now, here she was faced with the potential drama of dealing with the guy’s wife—or at the very least, their weird and sexually deviant lifestyle.

“I’m sorry. I wasn’t thinking.”

Elena smiled. "It's okay. I think it's actually kind of sweet. You really do love her."

"I do."

Elena sighed happily, like she'd just finished watching a romantic comedy. "She's lucky. You're a good guy."

"Who's having an affair with his yoga student," Mal added.

"Is that what this is? An affair? Because it looks pretty mutual to me," she said.

Mal followed her eyes back to David and Meg. David was leaning into her, kissing his neck as she laughed breathily.

"If anything, I'd love a man who'd let me play like that. Not many guys are so secure."

Mal wished that he felt that secure. "So you're looking to settle down?" he asked, shifting the conversation away from him.

"Someday. Not now, but sure, someday. I want what you guys have."

Mal smiled, although inwardly, he worried again if he was risking everything.

Dinner was served. Wine from the vineyard was paired with each plate, and with it, the conversation flowed.

"So you went to law school with the bride-to-be?" Meg asked David.

"Yeah, we all graduated together a couple years back."

Meg swirled her wine and took a generous sip. "God, that makes me feel old."

"What are you talking about? You look better than anyone else in here, Deborah included."

He had to say that, but it still made Meg feel good. He was the choice bachelor here, and yet she was the one on his arm. "Thanks, but that's not what I mean. I'm not just talking about looks."

"You mean there's something other than looks to talk about?"

Meg couldn't tell if he was joking or not, until he winked at her. "I probably identify more with their parents than their friends."

David pushed his hand up her knee and onto her thigh. He was close enough that she could smell his cologne, which was quickly becoming wonderfully familiar. "This weekend, when you're with me, forget about all that."

She wanted to, but inevitably her eyes were drawn to Mal across the room. Elena was frighteningly beautiful. She had long, dark hair, large, exotic eyes that suggested an Eastern European ancestry, and the kind of body that only someone in her twenties could have. Most worrying of all, she looked good with Mal. Their beauty complimented one another.

She turned back to David. “What are you going to do to help me forget about it all?”

David’s grin caused her heart to race. “Oh, I have some thoughts....”

Across the room, Mal and Elena sat with one other couple and a bunch of young women who’d gone to school with the bride at UVA. They mostly stuck to their private conversations, but about halfway through dinner, something caught Mal’s ear.

“I was hoping David would come alone,” said a pretty, strawberry blonde.

“You and half the other single chicks here,” laughed her friend.

“You included,” the strawberry blonde shot back.

Elena nudged Mal with her elbow, smiling at him as she flicked her eyes in their direction. As if he could possibly have missed this conversation.

“You two are lucky he brought someone,” the third woman said. “I’ve...heard that he’s gotten pretty dominant now. And rough. It wouldn’t be the same.”

“You’ve heard, huh?” asked one of the others.

“Yeah. Just heard. In no way did we meet randomly in a DC bar one Friday night when I was visiting and end up in bed with him and his friend. And in no way did my jaw hurt like hell the next day.”

“You slut!” said the strawberry blonde. “Now I really wish he’d come alone.”

“That redhead must put out for him,” the third went on. “That’s the only reason I could see him bringing her.”

The women eyed Meg with envy. “Those tits are fake.”

“Totally.”

Mal smirked at Elena, who mouthed, Are they?

Mal shook his head, prompting Elena to look impressed. Then, she stood and offered him her hand. “Come on, let’s dance.”

Meg watched Elena lead her husband to the dance floor with the sexual version of morbid fascination. Mostly, she was intensely jealous—scratch the bitch’s eyes out jealous. But that wasn’t all.

As she watched that tight young thing in Mal's arms, she couldn't help but cheer for him—even as she hated it. Like being happy when her celebrity crush found love. But that wasn't quite it, either. It wasn't so much that she was happy purely for Mal's happiness. It was more like...pride. Mal got that pretty young thing to dance with him, to fuck him, to have a threesome with him twice. Her Mal. Her husband, who was still hot enough to land anyone he wanted, still wanted Meg. That made her feel sexier than David ever could.

"Hey, I wanted you to meet my roommate back in law school, Brad." David drew her back to him and their immediate surroundings. Standing above him was a good looking man about David's age, with styled, dark hair and a jaw that looked cut from granite.

"Well, hello," Meg said.

"David had told me how hot you were, but he wasn't even close," Brad said. "It's very nice to meet you, Meg."

Meg blushed as she shook his hand. She wondered what David had told Brad about her. Then she remembered the SnapChat photo. It hadn't shown her face, but her hair had been visible. And was that Brad studying the shade of her curls? She blushed even harder.

"So did you bring a date?" Meg asked, forcing them to move along.

"No date. There's no one special enough in my life right now to bring to a wedding."

"How sad," David said. "All the girls catch on that you're a terrible lay?"

Brad laughed. "Hey, man, coming alone keeps my options open, if you know what I mean." To Meg, he said, "Nice to meet you. You must be special for him to give that up."

Meg couldn't help checking out his ass as he left. She turned to David. "Did you share that pic with him?"

It didn't take her years of experience as a litigator to know that David was guilty. He didn't even try to hide it. "Well, not exactly. I shared it on SnapChat, and Brad follows me."

"Jesus," she muttered, horrified. "How many others saw?"

"It doesn't matter. They won't put it together."

"Brad did." She knew then that she couldn't continue this game with David. At least not so publicly. Anyone who met her with him in this context would figure it out. How many other women had unruly, burgundy hair like hers?

“Relax.”

Meg looked in Mal and Elena’s direction again. They were still dancing. “I can’t.”

“Then let’s start trying.” He stood and pulled her toward the dance floor. She gave a token amount of resistance, then let herself be pulled. He was right, she was already here, and if this was going to be her last time with David, she might as well have a good time.

“Your wife is really hot,” Elena whispered to Mal. She had her arms draped around his neck in such a way that he couldn’t see Meg coming out onto the parquet floor to join them.

“Thanks.”

“She’s got some questionable taste in men, though.”

“Hey, now,” he said.

Elena nuzzled his nose with her own. “I wasn’t talking about you.”

“He’s that bad, is he?”

She glanced over his shoulder, where David had finally moved into earshot. “Mostly he just thinks with his dick. I’m amazed that he got a job at all. Maybe he showed up to the interview without pants.”

Mal laughed. Meg heard it, too, and quickly figured out who they were talking about. She laughed, too, before she could help it. David’s expression soured.

“He’s actually a great lawyer,” she said for him. “Although if he’d interviewed without pants, maybe we would have offered him a higher starting salary.”

“Oh, hi, you two,” Elena said. “If that’s how it works, how about offering me a summer position? I have some great...assets.”

David looked hungry. Mal felt irrationally possessive. Meg, surprisingly, looked intrigued. She looked pointedly at Mal and said, “Well, I’ll have to check with your references, first.”

Elena laughed loudly enough to draw attention. “So if I do this....” Elena kissed Mal hotly. “...does that improve my chances? Or hurt them?”

Meg laughed herself, despite the absurdity of the situation. The girl had moxie, that was for sure.

Elena eyed Meg up and down, taking in the green dress and the wealth of cleavage that it offered. “Of course, I’d also love an interview. One-on-

one. I'm good at those."

Mal's heart leapt. Now there was a scenario he'd never thought possible. Meg seemed to consider it, too, before looking at him and rolling her eyes. "Look at him," she said. "You've got him all worked up. Maybe you should take care of that before it becomes a problem."

Elena looped her arm into Mal's. "You're right. I will totally do that."

With that, she led Mal out of the room, leaving Meg to wonder if she'd taken the upper hand or not.

*

"Where are we going?" Mal asked as they walked out into the evening air.

"Exploring the vineyard," she said distractedly. They were on the trellised patio, where naked, wooden rounds were sitting open—tomorrow's wedding reception, he presumed.

She moved through the tables, out to the edge of the patio. Beyond, the rolling hills of grapevines disappeared into darkness. Above, stars lit the sky in a way that was only possible out here in the country. It was beautiful, and Mal found himself wishing that he were here with Meg, not Elena.

"Why are you here with me?" Elena asked, startling him from his thoughts.

"What's that?"

She looked over her shoulder at him, her face unreadable. She reached down and removed her heels before stepping into the grass.

"Come out here. The grass feels good between your toes."

Mal took his shoes off and joined her. He decided to ignore her question until she was ready to ask it again. "I see the appeal in moving to a place like this," he said. "It's so peaceful."

"It would get boring," Elena said. "But it's nice to visit." She took his hand in hers and led him down the hill.

There was a path at the bottom that meandered through a small grove of trees. On the opposite side was a small building, more of the vineyard, and a small clearing where white chairs were lined up, facing a trellised dais. In the afternoon, when the wedding would take place, the view beyond would be picturesque.

"They're lucky. The weather will be good," Mal said.

“I could see myself up there one day,” Elena said, studying the dais. She sighed and looked at Mal. “Why are you here, with me?”

“Because you invited me,” he said dumbly.

Elena turned to him. “Only because you invited yourself. I was just getting over you, you know.”

Mal blinked. He thought he knew what she was talking about, but maybe he was reading it all wrong. “Are you sure about that? Because there were times there when I felt pretty....” He trailed off, uncertain of whether he wanted to say the next thing.

“What? Used?”

“Maybe, yeah.”

“Try and be the Other Woman and you may truly understand how that feels.”

Mal could practically taste Elena’s bitterness.

“You’re a real catch, Mal. At first, sure, you were just a bit of fun—the hot yoga guy. But you’re a lot more than that, aren’t you? That’s what a woman like Meg saw—”

“Elena, we can’t. I’m married and I can’t—”

She sighed, put her arm around him, and pulled him close. “Oh, I know. Sorry, I didn’t mean for this convo to get so heavy. I must have had more to drink than I should have.” Turning to Mal, she looked up into his dark eyes. “Look, I think you’re great. And you’re fun. I just need to keep reminding myself that you’re totally unavailable.”

“I am.”

“But that I can still have some fun with you.”

“You can.”

She pulled Mal through the grass, down the aisle, empty chairs flanking them, to the small, raised dais. Mal could almost hear phantom wedding music around him. Almost see people standing, waving to the happy couple. It felt wrong on so many levels, yet the last conversation had set his mind at ease.

Elena pulled him up onto the stage. In her heels, she would have been nearly as tall as him, but she hadn’t put them back on since leaving the patio. She reached up and pulled him down to her for a kiss, making up for the difference in height with passion.

She looked out over the empty chairs. “One day, this will be me,” Elena said, almost like she was convincing herself that she deserved it. Her face fierce.

“It will be.”

She looked at Mal, moonlight casting shadows across her sharp beauty. “But since it’s not, and we’re alone, might as well take advantage.”

With that, she sank down to her knees, unzipped his pants, and blew him, right there where tomorrow a man and a woman would exchange their vows.

*

Meg stood next to David, nursing her glass of wine and wondering again why she was here. David knew these people—or at least close to half of them—and she knew none. The thing that really kept her feeling like a third wheel, however, is how little she wanted to reveal about herself. There were a lot of future lawyers in this crowd, and she had a reputation to maintain back up in DC. She’d rather be thought of as David’s date than Meg the partner.

She yawned, wondering what time it was. She realized that the drive was finally catching up with her. It had been a long and taxing day, and more than just physically exhausting.

To his credit, David noticed, turning away from the conversation he was in.

“Tired?” he asked.

“Yeah. It’s been a long day.”

“Maybe some fresh air will help.”

What really would have helped was some sleep, but she didn’t miss the playfulness in David’s eyes. Despite all the sex, she was still tempted. “Fresh air would be great.”

*

“Elena.... Elle.... I think someone’s coming.”

Elena had worked his cock back to its full, erect length with her wet mouth, and had begun to take her time teasing him. Not that he was really close. He’d come so many times today that he was amazed she’d even gotten this far.

That’s when he thought he saw movement up near the main house—just the briefest of flickers, someone passing in front of the lamps, a soft laugh on the tail end of the wind. But Mal had been hyper aware of how exposed he was, so detected it immediately.

“Baby, we need to move,” he said more urgently.

Elena sucked on him one last time, pulling her mouth away from him slowly. A string of saliva stretched from her lips to the tip of his cock. “Let them watch,” she said.

Mal reached down and pulled her to her feet. “Come on, get up here.”

Elena pouted, but let herself be pulled up. Mal looked around. The only place they could really hide was the small copse of trees they’d come through. If whoever was up there at the main house was coming down here, they only had a couple minutes to hide safely.

“This way,” he said. Swiftly, they circled around the outside of the chairs and ducked into the underbrush just as he heard a woman’s laugh. A very familiar woman’s laugh. Mal’s heart trembled. It was Meg.

He looked at Elena, who was staring at him with wide eyes and a knowing smile. She put her finger to her lips in a shushing motion, as if Mal needed prompting.

“Wow, I can’t believe they’ve already set up for tomorrow,” Meg said. She stepped into the clearing, looking radiant in her green dress. Like Elena, she had her shoes dangling from her hands, her bare, painted toes in the grass.

“I was hoping that they would,” David said. He pulled her along the aisle, heading for the same spot that Mal and Elena had occupied just a couple moments earlier. The ceremonial area was small enough that they were still close enough that Mal could see everything.

“Oh, you’re bad,” Meg giggled once she realized David’s intent.

That giggle tore through Mal as he listened. She sounded ten years younger with David—who was arguably ten years younger. Mal loved the woman that she’d become, but he tasted the sweetness of nostalgia as he watched David collect her into his arms. They kissed up there on the dais, and with the dark hills of the vineyard behind them and the trellis overhead, it looked like a pre-wedding photo of two lovers. Meg even kicked her leg up as David’s tongue invaded her own.

Mal felt a pulling on the front of his trousers. Elena whispered, “Some unexpected entertainment.”

She fished out his cock, which had never grown completely soft, but was all of a sudden hard as a nail, and began to stroke it as the couple on the stage ran their hands over each other.

“So are you still tired?” David asked.

“A little,” Meg said playfully.

“Well, we should do something about that.” David stepped back. “Take off that dress.”

He said it with enough authority that even Elena took a sharp breath. If Mal had spoken to his wife like that, she would either have laughed at him, or slapped him. He tensed, waiting for one or the other now. Instead, she reached behind her back, lowered the zipper, and shrugged out of the tight green outfit. Her eyes never wavered from David’s.

“Feeling more awake now?” David asked.

“Getting there.” Meg wore a black bra with a matching thong. Nothing more.

“Lose the bra.” This time, as he spoke, he started to casually unbutton his shirt. “Let’s see those tits.”

“You like them, don’t you?” Meg said. She reached behind her again, unclasping the bra, but caught it against her chest before it fell away.

“About as much as you like my cock,” he replied. He pulled off his shirt, looking brazen in the moonlight.

Mal knew he had a better, harder body, but as he watched Meg drink in David’s shirtless torso, he felt a twinge of insecurity. Was that how she looked at him? Mal wondered.

“What if someone sees?” Meg asked.

“Then they see.” David unbuckled his pants and pushed them over his hips. His cock sprang free, not even fully erect but already as long as Mal could ever be.

“Jesus,” Elena whispered.

Mal knew that David was large, but seeing it first hand was totally different. The look of hunger on Meg’s face hit him like a body slam.

“Stop wasting time,” David said. “On your knees.”

Mal would never talk to his wife like that. Could never talk to her like that. Not without sounding ridiculous. David meant it. Meg obeyed.

That moment may have been the hottest thing he’d ever seen his wife do. She dropped to her knees, looking up at her young lover as she wrapped her hands around the biggest dick Mal had ever seen. Still keeping eye contact, she lifted him into place and took it into her mouth.

“No way she gets even half of that in,” Elena said. She stroked Mal idly as she watched, something to keep her hands busy as much as anything else.

Meg did what Elena didn’t think she could do. She opened her mouth and swallowed over half of David’s thick pole. And kept going.

“That’s it, slut,” David encouraged. “Suck it. You like how big it feels, don’t you?”

He reached down and sank his fingers into her unruly curls, pressing more of him against her throat.

Mal could hear her gags. He waited for her to pull back, to tell him to stop. Instead, she stepped up her game, palming his ass as she worked him.

“Damn, that’s impressive,” Elena said.

“Gag on it, bitch,” David goaded. “Show me what you’ve got.”

Meg went for it, swallowing as much as she could manage, using her throat to massage his swollen glans. Drool poured down her chin, frothy and slick. Meg had to yank back to catch her breath.

“God, baby, that’s good,” David said, touching her face. “Hope you impressed our audience.”

He looked out towards Mal and Elena. Mal’s heart climbed halfway up his throat as shock seized him. He knew? They were caught?

“Oh, I’m impressed,” a man’s voice said, no more than fifteen feet away. Out of the trees, just off the main path, stepped a young man about David’s age with dark hair that glistened with product.

Mal looked from this new man to the couple up on the stage. David looked smug. Meg looked shocked, her hand instinctively covering her breasts.

“Well that was scary as fuck,” Elena whispered in Mal’s ear.

David, on stage, said, “You remember Brad, don’t you, Meg?”

“David, what’s going on?”

“Just reliving my wild college experience.”

Mal watched this new man, Brad, making sure that he didn’t know that he and Elena were there. Brad made no indication of it, totally focused on the kneeling Meg.

“Ever been with two men?” David asked.

Meg licked her lips, trying to figure out how she felt about this. “No.”

“Oh, then she’s in for a nice little treat, isn’t she, Brad?”

Meg knew how wrong this felt. It was time to leave. This game had gone on for too long. Her agreement with Mal was to be with one man, David, not David and Brad. Then again, Mal had fucked two women, too, so she had a free pass if she wanted it.

Looking at Brad all dark and hot, she knew at least part of her wanted it.

David lifted her to her feet and turned her to face Brad. She kept her hands over her breasts, although that urge became a little absurd as David pulled her thong over her hips.

“She’s hot, isn’t she?” David asked.

“She’s one sexy bitch.”

“Sucks cock like one, too.”

Meg’s ears burned. Mal’s heart raced. Elena’s breath became quick and shallow at his side.

“Want a taste, Meg?” David asked. “You only get two cocks if you ask nicely.”

She wanted to tell him what an asshole he was, but she just couldn’t manage the words. Instead, she watched as Brad pulled his shirt off, showing off his hairy, muscled chest.

She closed her eyes, her pulse hammering around her. She already knew what she was going to do. Thank God Mal wasn’t here to see this.

“I’m sorry, I didn’t catch that?” David said.

Meg opened her eyes. Brad had his pants off now, too, his erection pressing obscenely against his boxer briefs.

“Yes, I want it,” she said defiantly. “Give me both cocks.”

Mal stared at his wife, utterly stunned. Utterly turned on. It was Meg, but it wasn’t. And together, that paradox was fucking amazing.

David grinned at his friend. He fished a condom from his pants and sat down on the stage, his feet in the grass. Rolling the rubber on, he smiled up at Meg. “Take a seat.”

This, Meg could handle—which in and of itself would have been an insane thought two weeks ago. It was everything that came after that was going to be crazy.

She sat back on him, facing out, facing all those empty chairs. She shivered, thinking of them filled. Thinking of performing. It was a sexier thought than she would have expected.

“Oh, fuck, Meg, that’s never going to get old. You’re like a virgin. Every time.”

Meg held her breath as David entered her. He was right. She still hadn’t gotten used to his size. She wondered if anyone ever would.

In the trees, Elena whispered to Mal, “I need your cock. Now.”

She kissed him hard before producing a condom out of nowhere. Turning to face the tree they were hiding behind, she lifted her dress around her waist and pressed her hard ass in his direction.

Mal didn’t need to be asked twice. He rolled the condom on, tugged her thong to one side, and entered her with as much urgency as he was feeling. Elena did a good job biting down on her moan.

Not that Meg would have heard it. Blood was roaring in her ears as Brad stepped in front of her.

“Hi,” he said, like they were meeting in perfectly ordinary circumstances.

“Hi,” she replied, sounding way calmer than she felt. Reaching out, she pulled his boxer briefs down, feeling a blip of triumph. She felt his need as she circled her hand around it. Felt his desire in his trembling breath. This may not have been the first time he’d shared a girl with David, but she was still deeply exciting for him.

She closed her mouth around his cock, determined to give him the best blowjob of his sweet young life.

Mal matched his thrusts with Meg’s bobbing head, who couldn’t stop moaning around Brad’s cock. Below her, David’s shaft split her, diving in and out in lewd concert.

Elena crossed her arms against the tree, her head hanging between her shoulders as her orgasm built.

Mal was close behind her. Even after the blowjobs on the drive up and the fuck just before the reception, he felt his final climax of the night just a moaned breath away. He steadied himself on the tree, over Elena’s head. Heat collected under his clothes, and he wished that he was as naked as the men with Meg. Sweat beaded on his forehead. He felt it drip down his face. He felt it run along his spine, under his shirt. He felt his balls tremble, then tighten.

“Ngh!” Meg moaned. Or would have had she not had a mouthful of cock. The vibration of that moan did Brad in. He exploded a hot mess into her mouth and down her throat.

She ground her cunt into David below her, wanting to feel the full spread of him. He hit places she never knew she had, so deep that it hurt. It was too much, but so amazingly good at the same time.

Meg came hard, come escaping her mouth as she rocked back into David's arms. Brad finished on her face. Mal came inside Elena, who had lost it before Brad had. David finally joined them, pumping his balls into the rubber as Meg cried out in his lap.

Mal and Elena slinked away after that, before the trio on the wedding dais came to their senses.

"That was insane. Your wife is impressive."

"I'm not entirely sure that was her."

Elena laughed too loudly, covering her mouth as soon as she did it. They fled the scene with her giggling the whole way.

"You've never done it with two guys?" Mal asked.

"Contrary to what you may think, I'm pretty picky when it comes to my lovers. You just barely made the cut."

"David didn't?"

"Nope." Her smile was sinful. "Not until I saw the size of him, anyway."

She laughed again at Mal's expression.

Meg, David, and Brad weren't so fast to leave, although when Meg heard a woman's laugh pierce the night, she started hurrying up. If a person could be totally fucked out, Meg was there. She was going to sleep hard tonight.

Back in the room, David pressed a bottle of water into her hand. "Drink up. Tonight was just a preview."

Eight

Meg loved the sensation of Mal's naked body pressed up against her. It had been so long since they'd slept together all night in the nude. The bed was so warm and soft, and his body felt delicious, his hand snaking up between her breasts. She felt his hardness pressing against her ass. Hmm, this was unusual. Meg ground her ass against her husband's erection. His hand slid down over her stomach, finding her pussy.

"Wake up princess, I need some place to put my morning wood."

Meg startled. David. Wait, how did he get into their room? Oh, the wedding, right. Waking, the pieces came back together, though she couldn't shake the feeling that she'd been with Mal just a moment earlier. David was now thrusting against her, trying to get inside her.

"Slow down," she sighed. "I haven't even brushed my teeth yet."

He laughed. "Don't worry. I don't want to kiss you. I just want to fuck."

She groaned. Always the romantic. And yet, she couldn't deny it. His urgency, his hunger for her, even his peremptory tone was weirdly exciting. His fingers found her slit.

"That's it baby, you always get nice and juicy for my big cock, don't you?"

She couldn't have answered even if she'd wanted to. He entered her and as always it took her breath away, leaving her light headed and giddy. She sighed contentedly.

"You love it, don't you?"

Meg didn't answer. His voice like an insect buzzing in her ear when all she wanted to do was focus on the sensation of his huge prick sawing inside her. He grabbed a handful of her hair and yanked hard. She yelped in pain, and yet, the pain seemed to mingle with the pleasure in her loins, somehow coming together to make it even more intense. His other hand was on her clit, circling it, pinching, pressing, all too hard, and yet just perfect. Even aside from his cock, he could play her body like an instrument, and yet that cock, always that cock, plunging, stretching, demanding her attention, yet too potent to allow her to focus on it, on anything.

"Tell me you love it," he demanded.

He yanked harder on her hair. She gasped in pain. No, no, no. He's arrogant enough. I've said it enough. No more, no more.

"Yes," she gasped.

Fucking idiot. Control yourself.

"What do you love?"

Fuck you, David. Fuck you and your big...delicious....

"Your cock. I love your big cock."

"You'd do anything I told you. Anything."

No. No. No!

He thrust into her harder, harder.

"Yes, oh God, anything," she cried out.

He slowed, just a little, relaxing his grip on her hair, slowing his assault on her clit. All just enough for her mind to clear a little.

"I have big plans for you tonight. Lots of single guys at this wedding. Lots of guys looking to get their dicks wet. We're going to have a little gangbang tonight."

"No," Meg gasped.

He laughed. "Oh yeah, Meggy. And I'm gonna let your dumb husband know all about it. About how ten guys are pulling a train on his hot, slutty wife. You know you like the thought of it. Ten hard cocks pounding into your ass, your cunt, coming in your mouth, on your tits. You know you want it, Meg."

"No," she hissed.

She tried to squirm away, but his grip was too tight. He began thrusting harder again, his hands pulling, pressing. She melted. Her willpower evaporated.

Just let me come, and then I'll tell him off.

"Say it, slut. Tell me you're my gangbang whore. Tell me you'll do anything for me."

No!

Still harder. Deeper. It felt like his cock was even bigger than usual.

"Say it," he commanded.

No!

He wrenched her hair. She hissed in pain. So close, so close.

"Say it now, whore."

No!

He pinched her swollen clit. The pain piercing, and yet, bracing, exhilarating.

“Say it!”

Fuck you, David. Fuck you. Fuck you. Fuck you. Fuck you!

The curses chimed in her head in time with his deep thrusts. Even her anger, her desire to tell him off was twisted by his rough fucking. Bent into a mantra of passion. She could feel her orgasm building from deep inside, bubbling, desperate to get out. She just needed a trigger.

“Say it,” he growled.

“I’m your whore,” she grunted.

“Gangbang whore,” he corrected.

“Yes.”

“Say it.”

“I’m your gangbang whore,” she gasped.

It inflamed him. His prick seemed to swell. He thrust in even harder, twisting her hair, grinding her clit into dust.

“You’re going to let ten guys fuck you.”

Not a question. A statement. And yet, Meg felt compelled to reply.

“Yes.”

“Fuck your cunt?”

“Yes.”

“Your ass?”

“Yes.”

“Come in your mouth.”

“Yes. Yes. Yes! I’ll do it. Anything. Everything.”

It was like a weight was lifted from her chest. Exhilaration. Freedom. She was his. Her body his to dispose of as he saw fit. Her mind flooded images of her previous submissions. Blowing him in the hotel room. Letting him sodomize her at Melanie’s. Bent over her desk, bare-assed, waiting for him to take her from behind. Impaled on his cock and blowing Brad, a total stranger.

And now she pictured it. Tonight. Naked on the bed, surrounded by a roomful of horny, drunk strangers. That expectant moment before the bravest among them fell upon her and took her, in every and any way. And David in the middle of it. Stroking his beautiful, hard cock, urging them to use her harder, rougher.

Her eyes were closed tightly, but the flash of light was still blinding, coming from behind her optic nerves. And the heat. A nuclear blast centered on her sex, radiating in waves over her body. She was bucking and growling. David behind her, shuddering as well. Filling her with his hot seed.

Gasping, gasping, hot breaths. She was drenched in sweat. Dizzy. Giddy. Mortified. Horrified. Frightened. She'd lost control with him. Again. Always.

Anything. Everything. And David wasn't the sort of man to simply pocket that. To revel in his dominance alone. No, he'd need to demonstrate it. To himself. To Meg. To Mal. To all the single men at the wedding. That this hot, married bitch was his to use and gift at his pleasure.

He rose from the bed and disappeared into the bathroom. She needed an escape. Some time away from David to think and reconsider. She picked up the phone and dialed the spa. The massages were all booked, but they could offer a mani-pedi and facial, and best of all, the only slot still open was right now.

Meg rose and dug into her suitcase for yoga pants and tee shirt.

"Where are you going?"

David was back, naked, his huge prick at half-mast.

"We're just getting started. Need to get you nice and warmed up for tonight."

Meg hesitated. She fought against his gravitational pull, resisting the urge to drop to her knees before him and suck his cock hard so he could fuck her again, bring her again to that place of madness.

"I want to look pretty for you," she replied. "Going to get some work done."

She wiggled her nails in his direction.

He snorted. "Alright. Whatever. But weddings bore the shit out of me. So get back in time to let me drop a load before we go."

Always the charmer. Meg turned and made her escape.

*

Mal eased himself into the hot tub. Instead of doing yoga alone he'd decided to lift instead. Every once in a while, he enjoyed the change of pace, even if it always left him sore. It also didn't leave him as calm.

Indeed, that was part of the point. Lifting was aggressive. There is a certain primal satisfaction about lifting a heavy weight overhead. Lifting is a way to engage frustrations rather than letting them go.

Mal was feeling oddly frustrated and anxious. He really shouldn't have been. He was having a great time with Elena. She was beautiful, fun, and insatiable. She'd woken him with a lovely blowjob, ridden him expertly through two orgasms of her own, and then when he was ready to come had positioned herself to take his load all over her face. Elena was a keeper. Except he already had a keeper, and there was the frustration because his keeper was with her lover...staying in the very same resort, attending the very same wedding.

"Yo, eskimo bro."

Mal looked up to see David slowly lowering himself into the hot tub beside him. Mal's eyes were drawn to David's huge, prick dangling between his legs. He immediately regretted it, but it was too late. David's shit-eating grin was proof he'd noticed.

"Eskimo bro?" Mal asked. Some sort of ethnic slur?

"Yeah man, we've shared the same igloo, right?"

Mal groaned. He fought his various urges. To pop David in the jaw. To just get up and leave. Deep breath, deep breath. He twisted his face into a neutral expression and closed his eyes. Here was another potential difficulty with swinging. What do you do when it turns out your wife has shitty taste in men?

"I'll tell you man," David said. "Meg...she's a fucking animal. But you know what I'm sayin'."

When Mal didn't bite, he continued, "I mean, with that fucking body, she could easily be a dud. You know, just lie there. But damn, she's up for anything, isn't she? Titty-fucking. Up the ass. Swallows."

Mal now looked over at his wife's lover. David was younger and had about three inches on him, but Mal was pretty sure he could take him. Not that Mal was a fighter, but he just had the sense that David would go down pretty fast if they came to blows.

"I probably shouldn't be telling you this," David added conspiratorially. "But last night, she even sucked off my buddy Brad. It's like she can't get enough. And man, the best thing is how fucking grateful she is."

Mal raised his palm.

“David, man, what the fuck is wrong with you?”

David smirked. Success. He’d gotten under Mal’s skin.

“What’s the problem, bro?”

Mal chuckled. Bro. “The problem is you. You’re a good looking guy. You’ve got a huge prick.”

David’s smile grew.

Mal continued. “You’ve got to be pretty smart and talented to get and keep a job at Mason Rhodes. So why are you such a fucking douche? You’re a genetic lottery winner, show a little class.”

David hesitated. It was unexpected. He’d been waiting for more naked jealousy. Not...this.

“I have big plans for Meggy tonight.”

Mal had had enough. “Good for you. Have fun.”

He rose and climbed out of the swirling water. But before leaving he leaned down. “But if you hurt her, I swear, I will motherfucking kill you. Got it, bro?”

David forced a smile. “Don’t worry. I’m just giving her what she’s always dreamed of.”

But Mal didn’t hear the reply. He’d already turned and strode from the room.

*

Meg sat in the spa chair, hands resting on the table, feet up with cotton between her toes to let the nail polish dry. Her facial was coming up shortly, but she was waiting to be called. A woman sat down beside her. Meg turned to acknowledge the new arrival.

Ah, fuck.

She forced herself to smile.

“Hi, Elena.”

Elena nearly choked in surprise, and then burst out laughing. “Oh Jesus, Meg? Should I find another seat?”

Elena’s laughter was infectious. Meg grinned. “No, sit down. Nothing awkward about sitting next to my husband’s....”

What was the correct word? Whore came to mind. No, that was mean-spirited and ungenerous. Girlfriend? No, too respectable. Companion? Lover?

“Fuck-buddy?” Elena helpfully suggested.

Meg groaned. “Okay, this is awkward.”

“Seriously, you want me to move?”

Meg shook her head. “No. Stay. It’s awkward, but that isn’t your fault.”

Elena nodded. There was a moment of silence, then she asked. “So can I ask you a question? It’s something I guess I don’t quite get.”

Meg inclined her head. “Sure.”

“So, is he, um, that good?”

“Huh?”

“David. I mean, for you to step out on a guy like Mal, I mean, he must be something.”

Meg tensed a little. Was this coming from Mal? Was Elena feeling protective of him?

“Mal and I have—”

“Right, an understanding,” Elena interrupted. “I get that. I’m not accusing you of anything.”

Meg nodded, though she still did feel indicted somehow. Was that her own guilt?

“So what are you asking?”

“Oh, come on, Meg. You know what I’m saying. I think you guys were just planning on a quick fling, but it’s dragging out.”

“I don’t see Mal pushing you away either,” Meg grumbled. She immediately regretted her tone. Why was she being so defensive?

“I’m pretty sure Mal is only still messing around with me because you’re still with David. You know that, right?”

“Don’t sell yourself short,” Meg replied. Still, Meg knew the younger woman was right.

After another few moments, Elena spoke. “You never answered my question. Is he that good?”

“I’m sure you could find out yourself.”

Elena looked at Meg curiously. “Why do you keep deflecting?”

Because it is none of your business. That was part of it. Because it is embarrassing to admit. That was closer to the truth. Meg sighed. “Yeah. I guess he is.”

“He is huge,” Elena noted.

Meg raised an eyebrow. “So you’ve been with him?”

Elena laughed. “No. But, we, um, saw you last night. Me and Mal.”

Meg blushed scarlet. “You saw everything?”

“I don’t know about everything. But we did see you sit on his prick and suck off his friend.”

“Oh, God. And Mal?”

“To tell you the truth, he seemed turned on. But then again, he doesn’t have much of a right to complain, does he? You know about Zoe?” Meg nodded. Elena continued, “And anyway, I was there to comfort him.”

Meg sighed. She hoped Elena would interpret it as a sigh of relief, though it was also her own anxiety kicking in.

“Good, good. It’s good that Mal wasn’t upset.”

“So it’s just his cock?”

Meg shook her head. Elena was good. She stayed focused on her line of questioning despite distractions. She had the makings of a good litigator.

“No. Though, oh my God, it does take my breath away. It’s also the way he is....”

“A cocky bastard?”

“Yeah. You know, overpowering.” Meg cringed at how that sounded. “In a good way, I mean. Well, I think. And also the things he says....”

“Dirty?”

Meg rolled her eyes. “Filthy.”

“I can see how that would be hot. But, even still, I mean, doesn’t that get old?”

Meg laughed. “I’d have thought so too. But, not yet.”

Meg paused. It was weird, but it felt good to talk about it.

“I think I’m, ah, a little addicted.”

“That’s a strong word.”

Meg nodded. It was weird, but confiding in her husband’s lover felt natural. Or maybe not so weird. Elena wasn’t a friend. She wasn’t a colleague. But still she knew what was going on.

“It is, but, I sometimes have cravings for him—”

Elena waved that off. “That doesn’t mean—”

“There’s more. I tell myself I won’t go back to him, and then I can’t help myself. And also, he, uh, makes me do things I know I shouldn’t. That I would never do normally. That I never thought I would do.”

“Like have sex in public?”

“With a stranger. Yeah. I know I should quit him, cold turkey, but I can’t. Maybe I haven’t hit rock bottom yet.”

Meg shivered as she said it. Rock bottom. Was that what tonight was? Giving herself to ten men, ten strangers, to take and use her for their own pleasure. Is that why she was resigned to doing it? To hasten her fall? To finally give her the strength to break free? And what if it wasn’t enough? What would David demand, and what would she surrender next?

“Jeez, that’s dark Meg.”

Meg chuckled darkly. “I sort of wish he’d get hit by a bus.”

It just came out, but she realized there was some truth to it.

Elena put her hand to her mouth. “Really? Wouldn’t you feel awful?”

“Well, yeah, now I would. Now that I’ve said it aloud. But I sort of think if it had happened before I’d have been relieved. I might still be if it happened now. See what I mean about being addicted?”

The younger woman seemed too shocked to respond, though she nodded cautiously.

“Anyway, what about you and Mal?”

Elena hesitated. “I...I guess I wouldn’t mind if you were hit by a bus.”

Oh fuck. Meg looked over at Elena. A younger version of me. The lyrics of the Alanis song echoed in her head. Lyrics that she used to scream out with her friends, even if they didn’t quite get what they meant. Is she perverted like me. Would she go down on you in a theater. Or a minivan. And would she have your baby? I’m sure she’d make a really excellent mother.

“Ready to become a mother to three?”

Elena laughed. “I’m a little young for that. Though, I’ve always wanted a lot of kids. Three would be a nice head start.”

“Are you serious?”

Elena shook her head. “No. But you know why?”

Meg looked at her blankly.

“Because Mal is desperately in love with you. And I’m not about to let myself really fall for a man who is unattainable. But if you got hit by a bus? Or, hell, went so far down the road to rock bottom that he gave up, then yeah, I could see getting serious with him. And believe me, I wouldn’t be the only one.”

Meg nodded. “He is a pretty good catch.”

An attendant appeared in the doorway. “Elena Maskova?”

Elena rose. "Don't forget it, Meg."

Meg sat in shock. It had never quite occurred to her that Mal might someday not be there for her, that she might get so carried away that she pushed him away. And now she'd been warned. If she did, that little hussy Elena would be there waiting to scoop him up....

And yet. David. She still tingled from him, and the thought of what he had planned for her tonight had her angry and scared and, God damn it, turned on. Fuck.

*

Elena finished drying her hair and brushing it out. She was wearing a new dress, bought just for the occasion. Lavender and silky, form fitting with a generous slit up the thigh. Classy, but it allowed her to flash a little of her well-toned legs, which is precisely what she did as she walked back into bedroom, leaning up against the doorway in her best fashion model pose.

Mal was on the bed, resting on his elbow, in his black suit pants and white shirt, looking relaxed yet ready.

"You look good enough to eat," he said, smiling.

"I think you're all talk."

Mal bounced to his feet, sending a small shiver through Elena. There was an animal aura about him. He moved like a big cat, with the grace and power of a predator.

"You think?"

"I do," she replied with a smirk.

He dropped to his knees before her and slipped his hand into the slit of her dress. His palm cupped her inner thigh. Her muscles tensed at his touch. Mal relished the contrast between her smooth, soft skin, and firm, toned muscles. He slowly explored further up her leg, making her shiver as his fingertips traced circles over her sensitive skin. And then still further, until her could feel her heat.

"You're being a good girl," he noted as his grazed against the fabric of her panties.

"Not so good," she chimed.

He reached up and slowly pulled down her panties until he could see what she meant. She wasn't naked beneath her dress, but close, her panties just tiny, flimsy, stringy things, pink and translucent. He lowered them to mid-thigh and left them there, stretched across the gap between her legs.

He ducked his head through the slit in her dress, inhaling deeply of her musky excitement. He licked up the inside of her thigh, higher and higher, until he reached the vee between her legs. He flicked gently at her slit, gradually opening her up with his tongue. He loved the taste of her, tangy and sweet, and even more the way her body softened as he probed deeper. He raised her dress around her waist so he could look at her as he ate her pussy. She was so beautiful that way, face framed by her long, dark hair, her eyes heavy lidded as she smiled down at him. He sucked her clit into his mouth. She gasped softly and placed her hands on the back of his head, pulling him close. She was soaking wet now, her juices glazing his face, moaning louder.

“Stand up. I want you,” she groaned.

He rose and she kissed him wetly, eager it seemed to taste herself on his lips, his tongue. Her hands reached for his zipper and in an instant she was inside and stroking him firmly. He was already hard. She pressed her legs together and her panties slid to her ankles. She eased one of her heeled feet out of the underwear. She fished out his cock.

“I want you inside me.”

“I don’t have a rubber,” he sighed.

“I don’t care. Just...do...it!”

It was reckless. And yet, he couldn’t resist. He stepped in close. With a dancer’s grace, she lifted a leg and wrapped it around his waist, pulling him against her. In her heels they were almost the same height. She angled backward and his cock slid easily into her hot, wet snatch.

“Oh God, Mal,” she moaned through wet, desperate kisses.

Standing, he couldn’t thrust hard. Instead, they undulated against each other, a passionate, sultry dance. Still, they managed to slowly work themselves closer and closer, kissing, always kissing, until finally Elena’s gasps transitioned into a soft, desperate wail as her pussy kneaded his cock. Her orgasm triggered his, and he came hard, deep inside her, still standing, still kissing passionately.

It had been a delicious, memorable session. And yet, after, Mal felt truly guilty, as if, for the first time, he’d really and truly cheated on his wife.

Meg grunted. It was all she could do. She was on her hands and knees, and David was taking her, doggy style, his huge prick stretching out her swollen, already-battered pussy. He had his thumb in her ass, and three fingers in her mouth, pressing down on her tongue.

“That’s it, slut. Get used to it. Three holes filled. That’s what they’re gonna do to you tonight.”

Meg wanted to scream No! And yet, she knew that even if he wasn’t gagging her she wouldn’t. She couldn’t. Not yet, not yet. It was too good, still, too good. No, she was David’s, at least for tonight, and who knew for how much longer until she figured out how to refuse him.

Nine

Meg was happy she'd chosen the dress that she had—the otherwise black number patterned with flower blooms, bursts of color to give her style. It worked with the garden-style wedding. She fit in with the other women wearing their upscale summer dresses.

Not that most guys were looking at her dress. They were looking at her tits, which practically spilled from the tight bodice. They were looking at her legs, made even more shapely by her tall, beige pumps.

The dress wasn't that short, but she also wasn't wearing any panties. So it felt really short. She kept tugging at the hem each time a light breeze made its way up her thighs. David had made her shave right in front of him, just to make sure that she was nice and smooth for all the guys who'd be fucking her, and she was extra sensitive to that breeze.

The clearing looked different in the daylight and filled with people, but as Meg glanced at the dais where a minister now stood, she couldn't help but remember how she'd been up there on her knees last night for David, or how she blew one man as she fucked another. That had been hot, but in the light of day, so, so reckless. And Mal had watched?

The sky was cloudy, matching her mood. Off on the horizon, storm clouds gathered. And all around her, people moved through the rows, chatting, talking, carrying on like the rain wasn't coming.

She sought Mal out and found him easily. He was sitting on the groom's side, right next to his beautiful whore.

And she was beautiful. Meg had written her off before this trip as just a pretty body. She knew she couldn't make that mistake anymore. The girl had a quick mind to go right along with that body, a sense of sexual adventure that only David had been able to draw out in Meg, and when the time was right, Meg knew she'd make some man very happy. Her man?

The idea chilled her. She knew it was a risk, and as she thought about what could happen tonight, she knew how close to things she was pushing it. Elena herself had made that much clear. Still, she couldn't help wondering if maybe she could get away with one more night. Couldn't help thinking, This is the last time. The last time....

Mal watched as David led his wife down the aisle, the younger man's hand resting on the small of her back. David nodded at Mal with a cocky grin that Mal wanted to punch off. Elena seemed to sense his tension. She rested a hand on his thigh, leaned in, and whispered, "Ignore him. He's an asshole."

Mal relaxed. She was right. He was. So why was Meg with him?

"I know, but still..."

She squeezed his thigh. "I know."

Meg didn't miss Elena's hand on her husband's thigh, nor the way he found comfort in whatever Elena said to him. They had a connection, and it twisted her stomach into a knot. They were good together. Too good. This had to stop.

"Hey, Brad," David said beside them.

"Hey, man. Hey, Meg," Brad greeted, his eyes dipping into her cleavage.

"You ready for round two tonight?" David asked.

"Seriously?"

"Yeah, man. Meg couldn't get enough. Isn't that right, Meg?"

Meg was intensely aware of the people sitting around her, listening in on this, judging her. David wasn't being subtle at all. They may have been miles from home, but she couldn't risk it, especially in a crowd of future lawyers.

"David, not now."

"Oh, come on, babe, tell the man how much you—"

"Later." She'd regained a bit of steel in her voice—that side of her that she'd almost forgotten about since David came into her life. It felt good.

David leaned in, his face hard. He spoke in a low growl. "Yes, later...."

She shivered, and not entirely out of fear. Last night. Just one more night....

The ceremony began, yet as beautiful as the bride was, and as touching as their wedding vows were, Mal couldn't stop looking over at Meg.

She looked gorgeous. Her auburn locks had been tamed into an up-do that brightened her face and elongated her creamy neck. It also opened up the vastness of her cleavage, which had attracted a small gathering of admirers.

Seeing Brad sitting with them made Mal anxious, though, a reminder of David's control over his wife. He'd made her suck that man's cock. What else could he make her do?

“You’re thinking about last night, aren’t you?” Elena whispered. She smelled like vanilla. Intoxicating.

“Yeah. I can’t help it,” Mal admitted.

“It’s just an infatuation, you know.”

Mal looked at the young woman beside him. She studied him with those large, luminous eyes of hers, and in them he saw compassion.

“Yeah, I know.” Did he? Was it?

The wedding went on. The rain held out, but those clouds drew closer. Meg stole her own looks at Mal when she didn’t think he was looking. But he seemed to always be looking. Their eyes met once. They shared a smile that melted her heart. What was she doing?

She gasped as she felt David’s hand come to rest on her thigh, just above the knee. She looked away from Mal, to David, and gave a brief shake of the head. He just grinned, his hand climbing higher. Her pussy tingled, even as she closed her legs.

“You wet for me?” he asked.

She didn’t answer, but she was. She was so wet.

David knew it, too. At least he smiled like he did. She looked away, blushing, and he chuckled.

The bride and groom walked down the aisle, wed and one, and all the groomsmen and bridesmaids followed. They looked so happy. So carefree.

Elena watched, feeling her heart yearn for something like that, for finding someone like that. She reached out and took Mal’s hand. He couldn’t be hers, she knew, but for one night, maybe she could pretend.

Meg saw the gesture. She felt the hair on the back of her neck rise. She tasted jealousy like never before. What was she doing? What was she thinking?

“Time to party,” David whispered. Let’s get a couple drinks, then head up to our room. We’ve got a long night ahead of us.

Right. That’s what she was thinking. She squeezed her thighs together as her pussy started buzzing once again.

*

Mercifully, like last night’s dinner, Meg and Mal were seated on opposite sides of the patio from one another. Even still, it killed Mal to watch Meg laugh with David, to clink her glass of champagne with David after the Best Man's toast, and not with him. To share a kiss with David.

The patio had been tented since last night in anticipation of the rain, but it held out for the time being. Dinner was served. First dances took place. The bride smeared cake all over the groom's face. Then dancing began.

Deborah and Ted had spared no expense. They had a small swing band instead of a DJ, and as Mal watched David spin his wife dexterously across the laid out dance floor, he decided he hated the man even more. Guys like him had everything—successful career, attractive women, and an ego that let them harness it with confidence.

"See that bridesmaid over there?" Elena asked.

Mal came out of his trance and followed Elena's eyes. The bridesmaid was attractive in a sweet, country girl way. Her blond hair was done up, like all the others, and she wore her pale blue dress better than most. She stood alone, her arms folded beneath her large breasts, but looked content just to people watch.

"Yeah, what about her?"

"You think she's hot?" Elena asked.

Mal looked again. He wouldn't classify her as hot, per se, but she was definitely pretty. He told Elena as much.

"Think she's ever been with another woman?"

Mal choked on his wine. "What?"

"Think she experimented back in the day? Sweet girl like that, going down on another, equally sweet girl?"

"I...doubt it."

Elena tapped a finger on her lips in thought. "You're probably right," she said. The blonde seemed to sense them looking at her and turned to look at them. Elena waved and smiled. The bridesmaid waved back, trying to place them.

"Do you know her?" Mal asked.

"Nope, but I'd like to get to know her. She looks innocent enough, but I'm pretty good at reading people. I bet she's just looking for the right person to have a good time with."

"You think so?" Mal asked, looking at the blonde skeptically. She'd gone back to people watching, although she seemed more tense now that she knew that she was being watched, too.

Elena asked, "Want to see if we can get her to go back to our room?"

"Seriously?" Mal's cock hardened instantly.

"Hey, your wife got some group play. Turn about's only fair, right?"

At the mention of his wife, Mal went looking for her. He spotted her just as David spun her into his arms. Their eyes met. Mal's chest clenched.

"It's definitely only fair."

Elena smiled mischievously. "Okay, so here's how we do this. You go up to her and ask her if she wants to dance."

"Me?"

"Yes, you. We don't want to scare her off."

"And what will you be doing?"

"Just follow my lead. Trust me."

Mal didn't know what he was doing, but he stood up, made sure that his erection wasn't too obvious, and made his way over to the blonde.

"Hi," he said. "You look lonely. Would you care to dance?"

The blonde looked puzzled. She looked past his shoulder, where Elena sat. Elena waved at her and smiled encouragingly, and the blonde seemed to relax. A little, anyway.

When she looked back at Mal, she really looked at him, eyeing him up and down. Her lips curled up, pleased with what she saw. "Sure thing."

Good God, she even had a Southern lilt. "I'm Mal, by the way."

"Misty."

"Pleased to meet you, Misty." Mal led her out onto the dance floor. "You're friends of the bride?"

"Mmm hmm. We went to high school together. You?" Haa-school.

"I'm here with a friend. She knows the groom."

"A friend, huh?" Misty asked with a cute smile.

"Of a sort," Mal said.

"She's not the jealous type?" she asked. They began to move to the swing beat, falling in with the rest of the crowd.

"Why should she be jealous? We're just dancing," he said.

At that moment, Mal caught sight of his wife being spun around by David. He wished he could have taken his own advice as he felt jealousy rise through him like smoke through a chimney.

"Fair enough." She spun into Mal's arms, pressing her hip against the seat of his trousers. "But you're thinking about a lot more than just dancing, aren't you?"

Mal blinked, surprised by Misty's forwardness. When he looked over at Elena, she was smiling knowingly, too. She was right, this girl was more than she seemed.

Meg noticed that Mal had a new woman in his arms. She sought out Elena, who was sitting on the sidelines. The brunette spotted her looking. Elena's smile seemed to say: See, I can share and not get jealous.

Meg straightened her back and refocused on David—David, who led her like he fucked her: hard, dominating, and a little too confident for his own good.

"You almost ready for part two?" David asked as they left the dance floor, stopping close by Elena. "You ready to feel a cock in every hole?"

Her heart sang. She wasn't. She couldn't. But she had the hardest time denying this man.

"Let's just go back to our room," she suggested. Where was the steel she'd felt earlier? Where was her backbone? "I just want you tonight."

She did. That's all she wanted. His cock, one last time, stretching her, dominating her, making her scream.

She thought David would push it, push for more, but he didn't. He just grinned his cocky grin and led her toward the doors. Toward their rooms.

Elena watched them go, his suggestion still ringing in her ears. Ready to feel a cock in every hole? She was proud of Meg for standing up to the suggestion. The last thing David needed now was an ego boost.

Mal led Misty off the dance floor. He still couldn't believe that this was where things were headed, but there was no denying the way Misty's eyes shyly met Elena's. That was hot and exciting, but if he was really honest with himself, a part of him had hoped that somehow, despite all odds, he'd find himself with Meg at the end of the night.

Meg. He looked around for her, but didn't see her. Nor did he see David. Panic swept through him as Elena rose to join them.

"She just left," the brunette said. She placed a hand on his arm. "With him."

Mal forced a casual nod, despite the anxiety that rushed through him. That's where the night was headed, of course, and no amount of wishful thinking could deny it.

Elena suggested. "Why don't we take a walk? The three of us?"

*

David and Meg were all over each other as they entered the dark hotel room. She was happy to get out of the party without a trail of men following her...mostly. A really dirty side of her wondered what that would be like to be used like that, to be the center of all that attention.

“This what you want?” David demanded. He pushed her into a sitting position on the bed and freed his cock.

She reached out and wrapped her hand around it. She’d hoped that seeing him again, naked and full and hard, would relieve the tense, reckless feeling that had been following her all night, but it didn’t. So she shut it out by leaning forward and swallowing David’s cock.

“So eager, aren’t you, babe?” He touched her hair, touched the copper spirals that were gathered into her bun. He stepped back. She nearly whined as he pulled his cock away. It swung, semi-hard, as he kicked off his pants. “Get naked.”

She shivered at the order and did as she was told. She reached behind her, unzipping her dress, loving the way his eyes drank in her nearly naked body. He circled the bed, went to his suitcase and started digging for something in there.

“It turns you on to give up control.” It was a statement more than a question, and under normal circumstances, she would have disputed it. But the evidence was against her when it came to matters of David.

She unfastened her bra and let her tits spring free. For the first time since the beginning of their torrid affair, she felt exposed in front of him. She felt the urge to cover herself as he swept his eyes across her breasts and down between her legs.

“Leave the heels on,” he instructed. “I like you looking like a slut for me.”

She nodded, but her eyes finally landed on what he had in his hands. A long cord of black rope and a black, satin blindfold. She’d never liked the idea of being tied up. Mal had tried it once, years ago, and they’d just laughed at how poorly it had gone over. Now, with David, she shivered.

“Get on your knees, Meg. Put your face on the bed and your hands behind your back. Time to give up a little more control....”

*

“I think the storm missed us,” Misty said.

Mal, Elena, and Misty had wandered through the clearing of the wedding—which had already been dismantled—and out into the vineyard proper. Misty may have thought the storm had passed, but Mal still felt it in the air, which practically crackled with energy.

“I love Virginia summer nights,” Misty continued. She was nervous, but did a good job hiding it. “They’re so much cooler than down in Atlanta.”

Mal had never thought of a Virginia summer as cool, but he figured that everything was relative.

“It’s still humid,” Elena said. They’d all been walking side by side, but Elena stepped out ahead of them and turned to face Misty. “Makes me all sticky.”

Misty smiled impishly. “Me too.”

Elena reached out and took the blonde’s hands in hers. “I kind of like it.”

A low, rumble of distant thunder rolled across the sky. Misty and Elena laughed.

“Maybe we didn’t miss it,” Misty said.

Elena stepped closer to her. “Maybe not.”

Mal’s heart leapt. His cock, which had maintained a state of semi-arousal all night, finally came alive. He watched, holding his breath, as Elena leaned into Misty. Misty closed her eyes, her lips parted, full and wet. Elena glanced at me out of the corner of her eye, smiling and mischievous. Then her mouth found Misty’s and the two melted into one another’s arms.

Misty pulled back after a moment, surveying Elena’s lips as if in disbelief that she’d actually kissed another woman. “I’ve never done...this before.”

Elena looked at her with fire in her eyes. “Then this is going to be a lot of fun for you.”

Elena stepped back up to Misty before Misty could respond, and kissed her again. Mal watched Misty yield, her hands going around Elena’s neck, her tongue jockeying for position. He could practically see her innocence peeling away.

It was one of the hottest things he’d ever seen. Or should have been. Instead, he thought about Meg and David. He thought about his wife, wherever she was, getting pumped by another, younger man. His breath caught. His cock swelled even more. He felt sick.

Thunder rolled through the night, getting closer.

*

“Look at you.... So vulnerable.... I could do anything I wanted right now.”

David’s voice caressed her, low and deep, so sure of himself. She could feel him circling her, could just barely hear the crunch of the inn’s floorboards under his weight. She shifted, but couldn’t move. Not much.

She was laying face down in the center of their bed, her hands bound behind her back, a blindfold shutting everything else out. David was right, in this position—naked, her knees tucked beneath her, her ass high—she was very vulnerable. Panic fluttered at the edges of her sanity, barely held at bay.

She felt fingers on her pussy and jumped. “You’re wet,” he said. She felt his breath against her ear. He was close. “You like being tied up?”

“It’s...different.”

“You like it,” he said. He pressed his fingers into her, two digits that slipped all the way to his knuckles. “You like that loss of control.”

His thumb traced her asshole. She whined, but didn’t respond.

She felt the bed shift. He was climbing up behind her. Because she couldn’t see anything, the rest of her senses were extra sensitive. Her ears burned as she listened to the clink of his belt being unbuckled. She could practically see him kneel into place behind her.

“Look at you,” he said again. He ran his fingertips across her ass and lower back before shifting again. “Ready to get fucked?”

As he said it, his hands slid into her hair, grabbing her by the bun and pulling back. Pain ripped through her. Pain and something else—something primal.

“Yes!” The cry slipped out from the dark corners of her mind.

“Slut,” he spat. She felt his cock caress her pussy. She felt the swollen ridge of it as he dragged it through her wet gash and over her clit.

“Stop playing and fuck me,” she moaned.

“Like this?” He pulled back, the tip of his cock splitting her open. It felt so good. So fucking good.

Too soon, it was gone. She groaned. Started to protest.

“Or maybe like this.” He pressed himself against her anus, pushed, and split her open. Fire and pain bloomed through her, scrambling her brain.

“Yes!”

All too quickly, that sensation left her, too. She felt him shift. Move off the bed. Stand.

“Don’t stop,” she whimpered.

Meg heard him zip his pants up. Chuckle. “Are you telling me what to do?”

“Please....”

“Please what? You’ll do anything for more?”

Meg’s blood ran cold. He was playing her. He was maneuvering her. She wasn’t stupid. She knew what he wanted, what he’d been taunting her with all day. But she couldn’t. She wouldn’t. She thought of Mal out there, doing whatever with those two sluts, and while she was jealous, she was also happy for him. He was getting what she got last night. They were even. If she let David share her with a room full of men....

“Hey.”

She jumped at his voice, closer than she’d thought. Right against her ear. She should have smelled his cologne. Should have felt his heat. But she was too distracted.

“I’m going to fuck you. Brad is going to fuck you. A couple of the groomsmen that I met today are going to fuck you.”

“No,” she said. She hated how weak she sounded. She’d intended to spit it in his face. Instead, she sounded so fucking unsure of herself. She wasn’t, right? She didn’t want this—

“Fuck!”

His fingers pressed into her cunt. Three this time. Three and still not as thick as the cock she’d grown to love.

“I’ll be back.” He chuckled. “Don’t go anywhere.”

Somewhere outside, thunder rumbled.

*

Mal watched as Elena’s hand crept under Misty’s dress. They continued to go at it, hot and heavy. Mal kept on watching, unsure of whether to join or leave, or what to do.

That's when he felt the first drop of rain strike his cheek. He brushed it away with a hand, but two more landed. Then more. Like a shower being turned on, the sky opened up. Elena and Misty broke apart, shrieking. Mal looked up, water washing across his face.

The trio made a break for the main building, laughing the whole way. By the time they made it back, though, they were soaked, drawing stares and more laughs.

"Guess I was wrong about the storm," Misty said.

"Yeah, maybe a little," Elena said, holding her thumb and forefinger just centimeters apart.

Misty wiped the rain from her face. "I better go back up to my room and get changed." She twisted her fingers through her blond hair, suddenly nervous again. "Look, don't take this the wrong way, you two, but I think I'm going to turn in. I've had a lot to drink tonight, and.... You both are so beautiful, and I'd love to keep doing..." She looked at Elena and blushed some more. "I've—"

"Shh," Elena said. "You don't need to explain. Maybe we'll all meet again some other day."

Misty sighed, relief clear on her face.

They watched her go, wistful but happy that she'd spoken up. "We should probably get changed, too," Mal said. "Or we could just go back up to the room and stay in."

Elena laughed. She liked both of those ideas, but before she agreed, she saw David across the room, talking to the guy from last night. Meg was nowhere around. She would have thought nothing of it, except for the thing she'd overheard David say to Meg earlier: Ready to feel a cock in every hole?

Meg had said no without saying no. She'd tempted him upstairs for some one-on-one action, but David wasn't the kind of guy who liked to be denied. Elena watched him move from Brad to another single guy. Her suspicions rose.

To Mal, Elena said, "You go on ahead. I'll meet up with you in a second. I need to say goodnight to a few people."

"Okay, see you up there."

Elena watched Mal go. He was a good guy. He could have been the guy. Elena considered her options. She could let David carry out his plan—if indeed it was his plan to round up a gangbang for Meg—then let it slip to Mal what his wife was up to. It would probably crush him, and crush their marriage, and then he'd be free for her to take.

Cut-throat, but sometimes that's how you had to be in this world, especially when there were so few guys out there like Mal.

Ten

“Calling in reinforcements? Is Meg too much for you?”

David turned around, practically running into Elena. Soaking wet, she looked fantastic. Her lavender dress clung to her like a second skin, and it had already left her sculpted shoulders bare. Her makeup hadn't smudged, miraculously, and her dark hair was slicked back and sexy.

“Elena, what the hell happened to you?”

“I was having some fun playing in the rain.”

“You like getting wet, don't you?”

“Don't you wish you knew,” she said back. She looked at the guys that he'd rounded up, congregating by the bar. She thought of Meg taking them all, one after the other. It tickled something inside of her, naughty and sadistic.

But it wasn't her.

“So you need all those men to help you out?” she said. “Man, she must be good.”

David took the bait. His face hardened. He pushed his shoulders back. “I could handle her and you without breaking a sweat.”

She grinned a cat's grin. Little David was now her bitch.

“Yeah? Prove it.”

*

Alone on the bed, Meg shivered. Was it a thrill or a chill?

Time passed slowly. He was really going to do it. David was going to gather men to gangbang her. And she was going...to let him.

Naked, her ass in the air, she imagined them walking into the room. Not ten like he'd originally threatened, but still three or four strangers. Probably disbelieving David at first, but then surprised, amused, pleased to see her, bound and blindfolded.

The men surrounding her. Laughing. Crude talk. Cheap whore. Dirty cunt. Dumb slut. Hands reaching out to grab her butt, her breasts. Tentatively at first, then David leading the way, fingering her pussy, her ass.

More laughter, darker now, emerging through low, throaty groans. Clothes rustling. A finger pinching her sensitive nipples. A thumb in her ass.

An excited question, Really, man, we can fuck her?

David's smug response, Yeah. Fuck her ass. Fuck her cunt. Come in her mouth. She'll do anything for me. Right, slut?

Dry-mouthed, pride too, keeping her silent.

SMACK!

Hard on her ass. A yelp of pain.

Say it, whore. Say it, or I'll never fuck you again.

Her face burning with embarrassment, but that desperate urge to please him. That horrible fear that he might follow through on his threat. That urgent need to feel him inside her, just one more time.

Yes. Softly tentatively.

SMACK!

Louder bitch, and beg for it.

The words, wild, crazy, tumbling out. Yes, yes, they can fuck me. Please fuck me. Please.

The bed shaking as a man joins her. Hands on her ass. David? Brad? Someone else? A zipper being lowered. A fat prick pounding into her suddenly, mercilessly. Her pussy just a snug hole for this man's amusement. Not David, not big enough. A stranger. A new man fucking her. More movement on the bed. A hand grabbing her hair, lifting her head, then another cock shoved into her mouth. Fingers in her ass. Dark laughter.

Meg shifted on the bed. No! She couldn't do it. But did she still have a choice? Still bound, would David take no for an answer?

She twisted her wrists and was surprised that the cord loosened as easily as it did. Had David been lazy? Was he just so overconfident in his control over her that he didn't think she'd even try to free herself? A little more effort and she was able to pull a hand free. She realized with a start that she was actually a little disappointed he hadn't bound her more competently. That at some level, she almost wished he hadn't left her a choice, other than to submit to the lusts of a group of strangers. It was a strong enough sensation that even after she freed her hands, she remained on the bed, naked, ass in the air.

Finally, she rolled over, sat up, and removed the blindfold. She hesitated, unsure how to proceed. Get dressed and leave? Remain on the bed and wait for his return? She wondered how David would react when he saw she'd disobeyed him?

Surprise, then anger on his face. He'd stride over, shove her hard onto the bed, then slowly, smugly unzip his pants, pull out his bruising tool.

Hold her down.

The other men hesitating.

Hold her down!

More forceful, bending them to his will as he'd bent her. Strong hands seizing her arms and legs, though they didn't need to. David would already be upon her, between her legs, shoving his huge cock into her embarrassingly willing pussy. Thrusting deep, relentlessly, breaking her will to resist.

You love it, whore.

Yes.

And you're going to let them fuck you, too.

Yes.

He'd roll over on his back, holding her close, impaled on his cock. His hands gripping her ass, spreading apart her cheeks.

Fuck her ass!

A man releasing the grip on her leg. Firm pressure on her lower back. A second fat cock entering her now, this time in her ass. A yelp of pain. A groan of delight. Moans as two cocks alternated thrusting roughly into her.

Is that what she wanted? To be fucked by strangers? Forced into it. Raped? That's where the submission fantasies led, wasn't it? It was an addiction. One that needed more and more extreme situations to recapture the thrill. Until what? Rock bottom? And what was that? Mal leaving her? Or just Meg herself becoming so disgusted with herself that she couldn't stand it anymore?

She rose and looked herself in the mirror. A slut in high heels.

"Idiot. Get a fucking grip."

But even as she said it, she couldn't help but notice her flushed cheeks, her rapid breathing, and the slick wetness on her thighs.

*

"Where are we going, sweet cheeks? My room is in the main building."

Elena smiled, leading him out to the small cottages where she and Mal were staying. "We need to get Mal."

David reached out and grabbed her hand, pulling her back toward him.

“We don’t need that loser. I told you, I can handle both of you, no problem.”

“We’ll see. Anyway, he’s my date, and I’m not going to ditch him.”

Elena could see David rethinking it, wondering if his original plan might not be more entertaining. She had to lock him down, fast.

“Plus, you know you want to fuck Meg in front of her husband. Make him watch her take your big prick.”

David grinned.

“Not just her, but you, too.”

“Right, you’ll fuck both his wife and his girlfriend right in front of him.”

“Okay, let’s find him.”

When Mal opened the door to their room, Mal wasn’t particularly pleased to see Elena with David. And he was even less enthusiastic when Elena suggested they join David and Meg for a little fun. He was going to refuse when he noticed the imploring gaze in her eyes. Did she really want this? No, there was something else going on.

“Um, okay, I guess.”

Elena smiled brightly. “Yummy.”

She took a man in each arm and led them back to the main complex of the vineyard, taking a detour through the reception, which had moved inside. Anyone watching would have easily noticed that the two men seemed surprisingly less enthusiastic than the slender woman between them.

Walking past the bar, Elena, with a flirty smile, reached into a bowl filled with ice and pulled out an unopened champagne bottle. The bartender noticed, but waved her on. Mal chuckled. Her shameless confidence was both cute and appealing.

*

As they approached the room, David’s excitement grew as he thought of Mal walking into the room and seeing his wife, naked, bound and blindfolded on the bed, her wet cunt and tight, little asshole on display and ready to be taken.

“Just wait ’til you see her,” he gloated at Mal. “See how your wife greets me.”

Seeing the sour expression on Mal’s face, he twisted the knife in deeper.

“Well, she’s not just waiting for me. She’s expecting me to bring some friends along, if you know what I mean. Bet you never realized what a dirty little slut she’s become, what a dirty little slut I turned her into.”

Mal looked over at Elena who was smiling wanly. Had she known? Was that the whole point of this, to somehow pre-empt a gangbang? Well, fuck that. If Meg was that obsessed with David to let him pass her around to strangers, if she had lost all of her self-respect in pursuit of this infatuation, then he wasn’t sure he could be with her anymore.

He steeled himself. Focus on your breathing. Keep it under control. See what is going on.

If she was there, waiting as David expected...splayed naked on the bed—maybe even playing with herself at the thought of being used by a bunch of men—how would he react? He explored his options, then quickly settled on one. He wouldn’t sacrifice his own pride. No anger. No recriminations. Not now. Not yet. Just turn and leave.

David unlocked the door and threw it open with a flourish.

“Honey, I’m home.”

Despite his determination to keep cool, Mal could feel his heart pounding in his throat. He followed David into the room. The bed was a little rumpled, but still made. Was that a cord on the floor?

“David, we need to talk,” came Meg’s clipped tone.

Mal looked up to see his wife stride out of the bathroom, wrapped in a white, resort bathrobe. She seemed determined. Maybe even a little angry. At least until she spotted her husband.

“Mal?” And then a moment later, “Elena?”

“I told you not to move,” David hissed.

Meg held up her hand to quiet him. “What’s going on?” she asked.

It fell to Elena to answer. “Mal and I thought it might be fun for us all to play together tonight. And David graciously agreed.”

Meg felt a surge of confused anger. What is Mal’s whore talking about? But then the pieces clicked. Somehow Elena had learned David’s plan. And she’d, somehow, managed to talk both David and Mal into blowing it up. Meg's gratefulness mingled with irritation that Elena thought she needed help...and yet, she kind of did.

“What do you say, Meg?” Elena asked hopefully.

Meg grinned. “Sounds like fun.”

Eleven

It wasn't so much tension as awkwardness that permeated the room. Two couples, pleasantly lubricated. They knew each other. They had agreed on intentions. And yet, in the sudden silence after Meg's assent, it was almost unbearably uncomfortable.

"I'll put on some music," Elena suggested.

She plugged her phone into the alarm clock, and a slow, hip-hop beat filled the room.

"My banging mix," she admitted.

Meg had settled down on the bed, and looked over at Mal who was still standing by the door. Had he screwed Elena to this playlist?

Elena next looked over at David. "Crack it open."

David was still a little shocked at the turn of events that derailed his planned gangbang. He seemed surprised to see he was holding a bottle of champagne. As he popped it open, Elena returned from the bathroom with four plastic cups, which David filled one at a time.

Elena handed one to Meg. "Classy," Meg joked.

"Classier than getting gangbanged," Elena whispered back.

Meg blushed as Elena sat down on the bed beside her.

"You two planning how you're going to entertain us?" David asked, noticing, but not hearing the exchange. He was slowly recovering his equanimity. "Come on, put on a show."

The younger woman looked over at Meg. Hungrily? Even after all that had happened over the past few weeks, making out with another woman still made Meg anxious.

Elena turned toward David. "Why is it always the girls who need to put on a show? Why don't you boys start? You'd like to see a little man-on-man action, right Meg?"

Meg laughed. She didn't really, but she liked the idea of seeing David squirm a bit. Imitating Elena's sassy tone, she added, "Yeah, come on guys, show us how real men suck cock."

Mal, smiling, said, "What do you say, big boy?"

David shook his head. "Oh no. No way."

Mal turned back toward the women. "Looks like you girls are out of luck. But there are other ways to put on a show."

With that, he tossed off his jacket and with graceful ease bent over and lifted himself into a handstand. Still in the air, he lifted his left hand off the floor, and slowly bounced himself around on one hand in a full circle.

Meg giggled.

“What?” asked Elena.

“He did that same trick when he was first trying to get me into bed.”

Mal spun out of the handstand and landed softly on his feet.

“It worked,” he noted. “Panties came right off.”

“That’s not that hard to accomplish,” David snarked.

Meg playfully gave him the finger.

“Anyway,” Mal continued, “you should be impressed I can still do it. It’s been fifteen years.”

Elena, who did seem impressed, looked over at David. “Top that.”

David hesitated, apparently thinking of whether he had any feats of strength that could match it. Finally, though, he smirked, his hands moving to his zipper.

Elena laughed. “Oh, of course, Mr. One Trick Pony.”

“More like horse,” Meg replied quickly.

She looked anxiously over at Mal. But her husband just grinned.

“Fine, if you guys aren’t interested,” David said a little petulantly.

Elena reassured him. “No, go ahead. I’m actually one of those girls who likes getting dick pics sent to me.”

David seemed to light up.

Elena tweaked him. “And David, I’m sure, likes to send them. Probably has a whole album of them. My dick at sunrise. My dick at sunset.”

Meg giggled and chimed in. “My dick on the beach. My dick skiing.”

Elena took over again. “My dick next to a beer can. My dick next to a cucumber.”

David seemed to deflate.

“Oh, come on, we’re just teasing,” Elena said with a smile. “Come on, seriously, whip that bad boy out. I want to get a good look. Not fair that only Meg’s gotten a close up look at it.”

Meg blushed again. Another wary glance at her husband.

But Mal seemed amused. He added, “Oh, Meg’s gotten more than a look at it. She’s about ready to write a dissertation on the damn thing.”

Meg grinned. “It certainly is long enough to be a dissertation.”

Mal realized there wasn't really any risk that David wouldn't whip it out. He lived for opportunities to do so. And, Mal thought ruefully, who wouldn't?

"Fine, but I take no responsibility for the consequences," David noted with a smirk.

"Consequences?" Elena asked, eyebrow raised.

"The stains on your dress when you wet yourself."

Meg laughed. Did the cocky fucker actually have a sense of humor?

David slipped off his suit jacket and tossed it at Mal, who with a grin caught it, folded it, and respectfully placed it on the top of the dresser. David approached the women sitting on the edge of the bed.

"Prepare to be awed."

Mal felt a twinge of jealousy as he watched his wife—and his lover—giggling, holding hands, eyes glued to David's crotch.

"Get on with it," Meg said.

David obviously loved being the center of attention. He took his time unbuckling his belt, pulling it off, loop by loop. He handed it to Meg.

"Hold onto this. We might need it later."

Meg turned toward Elena. Doubling over the belt in her hand, she playfully slapped at the younger woman's thigh. Mal groaned. Excitement? Surprise? He wasn't sure. He felt a little like an outsider to all of this. Meg, David, Elena, they all seemed in thrall to their passions. Was he the only one with doubts?

David certainly didn't have any. He unbuttoned and unzipped his trousers, letting them fall to the floor. He kicked off his shoes and stepped out of them, leaving him in just a pair of silk boxers that did little—okay, nothing—to conceal the snake in his pants. Obviously, that was the point.

Seeing their eager expressions, David paused.

"Swap spit, ladies," he sneered.

Mal noticed Meg bristle. Good for her. But she was no match for Elena who eagerly wrapped her hand into Meg's reddish locks and pulled her face toward hers. Meg's resistance broke in milliseconds as Elena thrust her tongue deep into Meg's mouth. As they broke their embrace, Mal couldn't help but notice the way his wife's tongue continued to flick desperately at Elena's lips.

"Help me out," David ordered.

Meg and Elena shared a glance, and then each reached out to grab one side of his boxers. With a nod, they yanked it down, exposing David's huge, half-hard prick, which continued to bounce comically for a moment or two.

"Dayum," Elena giggled.

Meg nodded. "Yeah."

"I can't believe you can swallow that whole thing."

"Well, not the whole thing," David corrected. "Show her," he demanded.

Mal was amused to see both women turn toward him and incline their heads slightly as if to ask his permission to proceed. He laughed.

"Go ahead. I'm curious, too."

"Go ahead," David echoed with a smirk, "show your husband how you suck my cock."

Meg blushed, but barely hesitated. She grabbed hold of David's fat prick and lifted it. She leaned in. So much closer than last night, it seemed an even more unlikely trick. The head of the damn thing seemed as wide around as a beer can, and he knew his wife couldn't suck a beer can...or could she?

Her mouth opened wider, her cute pink tongue snaked out and swiped the head of David's cock, and then shockingly, amazingly, she took him inside her. Deep, deeper. Mal could hear his wife's wet, sloppy sounds as she inhaled three-quarters of him. But as David had taunted, the base remained, flared, a couple inches of prick still unswallowed.

Even more impressive was as she pulled back, inch after endless inch of his now wet shaft slowly passing Meg's plump lips, her mouth had not just dampened his cock, but turned it hard, rigid, standing at attention. She swallowed him again, a little deeper this time, Meg's throaty gurgle a testament to how far he was penetrating her.

Elena was staring, rapt. "Fuck that's sexy," she gasped.

She turned toward Mal for confirmation.

He couldn't help but nod. It was fucking sexy. Who would have thought that seeing his wife sucking on a monster cock could be so exciting? And yet, damn it, it was. Only one thing could make it better....

Elena seemed to read his thoughts. She smirked, reached over, and pulled Meg's robe off her shoulders, putting her stunning breasts on display. As Meg again devoured David's prick, Elena leaned over and sucked one of Meg's nipples hard into her mouth. Meg hissed and grunted in quick succession, responding to the two very different sorts of stimuli she was experiencing.

Meg bobbed on David's tool, but this time, as she lifted up she let him fall from her mouth altogether, stroking him wetly with her hand.

"How'd you learn to do that?" Elena asked.

Meg blushed. "I had a boyfriend in college...."

Elena giggled. "Lucky bitch. Black guy?"

Meg's skin went as red as her hair. She nodded, then shot an anxious glance at Mal.

This was interesting. Meg had never before mentioned a wildly hung black guy in her past. Interesting and sort of hot. Both the substance and the fact that she'd never mentioned it. Definitely worth exploring.

He laughed. "She's always had a taste for the exotic," he noted referring to his own Persian ancestry.

"Your turn, Elly," David suggested.

Mal could see she was torn, hating to seem like she was submitting to him, yet obviously hungry to take her turn sucking on that once-in-a-lifetime prick.

"What's the trick?" Elena asked Meg.

Meg giggled. "Um.... okay...."

She stood, shedding her robe as she did, apparently completely comfortable with her nudity. As she should be, Mal noted proudly. Damn, the body on her. He could feel his own prick stirring as he watching his wife flouncing around the room.

Meg finally spotted what she was looking for. She marched toward the mini-bar. She opened it and rummaged through it, yanking out some small bottles of tequila, two cans of Sprite, and a couple of packets of olives.

Mal shot his wife a curious glance.

"Don't worry, Mr. Ed is paying," she said with a grin.

She sat back down beside Elena.

"Okay, so you've done tequila shots?"

Elena smirked. "A few."

"Same principle."

She prepared her materials, and then she demonstrated.

"Something salty to distract the gag reflex."

Meg popped an olive.

"Then the burn."

She poured a splash of tequila along David's shaft, and quickly followed with her mouth, swallowing him deep even as she slurped up the alcohol. Then she backed up and took a swallow of Sprite.

"And the relief."

Elena looked from Meg to Mal in shock. Mal shrugged, just as much taken aback. He looked over at his wife.

"I think Meg and I are going to need to have a long talk after this." But his smile made clear it would be a pleasurable talk.

Meg grinned as well, but didn't allow herself to be distracted from her mission.

"Your turn," she said to the younger woman. "But take off the dress. I don't want to be responsible for stains either."

With an alacrity that betrayed her excitement, Elena shimmied out of her dress. Meg glanced up at her erstwhile rival jealously. She wore nothing beneath her dress, and despite everything, the sight of this gorgeous, skinny, young thing set Meg off.

"Easy access, huh?"

Elena smirked. "Sorry, sweetie, did I distract you from your demonstration of how to suck your lover's cock?"

Meg's temper flared, and almost immediately abated. She had no right, none to be upset. She laughed. As much at herself as anything else.

"Okay, so you ready to try?" Meg asked.

Elena nodded. She followed Meg's protocol. Olive. A pour of tequila. Swallow the prick....

She got maybe half into her mouth before she gagged and withdrew, coughing.

Meg chuckled. "And now you do it again, and again, until you get it right."

A sip of Sprite. A deep breath. Olive. Tequila. Swallow.

This time deeper. A little longer before the gag kicked in. Elena lifted off David's cock, her spit dripping from the head of his cock. She wiped her mouth with the back of her hand. A gulp of Sprite.

Mal looked on amused. He didn't really know Elena that well, but he knew her well enough to know she wouldn't stop until she'd mastered it, or at least had beaten Meg.

Again she inhaled David. Deeper now. Her eyes watered, but she didn't retreat. Not right away. She popped up and then immediately sucked him back deeper into her mouth. Still not quite in Meg's league, but impressive on its own. She lifted up again. She was beginning to sweat.

"Damn, that's hard work," Elena sighed.

Meg grinned. "It took a me a lot of practice, too," she said empathetically.

Mal groaned. He couldn't help it. His wife's words conjured the image of a younger Meg on her knees, bobbing up and down, up and down, on a huge black cock. Yeah, definitely something they'd have to talk about.

"Less talking, more sucking," David grumbled. He palmed Meg's head, and Mal couldn't help but notice that his wife didn't resist as David shoved his oversized tool down her throat.

David looked down at Elena. "Don't just sit there drooling. Help her out."

"Yes, sir," she replied in a mocking tone.

The effect of it was somewhat diminished when she proceeded to bend low and suck David's heavy balls into her mouth. Meg and Elena worked together on his package, trading his scrotum and shaft back and forth. They spiced up each switch by licking up and down the opposite sides of his prick, meeting at the head, their tongues wrestling and then melding into passionate kisses.

David grinned at Mal. "You've got great taste in women. Which one do you want me to fuck first?"

Mal chuckled to himself. The guy had two gorgeous women slobbering on his knob, and he was still looking to score points.

"Let them fight it out," Mal answered.

Elena's eyes lit up. "I want to see him fuck Meg," she said eagerly. Then turning toward Mal, she added, "Is that okay?"

Mal shrugged. "Meg?"

Meg looked from her husband to David and back again. God, did she ever want it. But she hesitated. She didn't know if she could do it in front of Mal...and Elena. Yes, they'd already seen it, but only from afar. She worried about how Mal would react when he saw what David did to her. Worried too about what David would make her say and do when in the thrall of passion, but she was helpless to resist him.

Mal was worried, too. About what he'd see. About how he'd react to seeing David taking his wife before his eyes. He was under no illusions. She'd love it. And David, he knew, would stop at nothing to make sure Mal knew it. And yet, there was a part of him that wanted to see Meg lose herself completely and utterly. To see her writhing in passion, gasping, moaning. Suppressing his own mixed feelings, Mal smiled and gave her a small reassuring nod.

David didn't wait for Meg to respond. Now that Mal was on-board, he knew Meg wouldn't be able to resist. He shoved her back onto the bed.

"Scoot back and spread 'em, slut. I'm gonna wreck you."

Meg obeyed as if under a compulsion, her eyes locked on David as he strode forward and crawled onto the bed between her legs. He was stroking his fat cock, eyeing her eagerly.

As David approached the bed, Elena rose and quickly approached Mal. She sidled her slender body next to him and wrapped her arms around his neck. Feeling his tension, she gently kissed his cheek.

"You okay with this?" she asked.

He nodded. "Yeah, I think so."

"It's meaningless, you know," she added reassuringly. "Just like us."

He looked into her eyes. Saw that she'd indeed carefully chosen her words. A fork in the road.

Meg's sultry moan caught Mal's attention. Had he missed seeing David enter her? No. The younger man had just pressed two fingers into his wife.

"You're always so wet," he gloated. He pressed his glistening fingers against Meg's lips. "Taste yourself."

Glassy-eyed, Meg obeyed, licking and sucking as he pumping her fingers in and out of her mouth.

"Okay, show time," David exclaimed.

He rubbed his fat tool up and down Meg's glistening, shaved snatch. Once, twice, three times, and then suddenly, in one firm, confident stroke, plunged inside her as Meg shuddered and gasped.

Hot flashes, bursts of light, Meg could feel her body surrendering to him. Her nipples were so swollen they ached, her knees curled up toward her chest automatically, opening herself fully to his thrusting cock. And he pounded into her again and again.

Elena moaned excitedly in Mal's ear. She clawed at his shirt, tearing off two buttons in her haste to get it open. Massaging his erection through his pants, she leaned down to suck on his nipple painfully. Meg's moans, and the sound of David's huge prick squishing into her, seemed to inflame Elena further.

Mal was conflicted. He couldn't tear his eyes away from his wife getting roughly screwed just a few feet away, and yet it was impossible to ignore the luscious, naked creature writhing next to him. Elena had managed to sneak her hand into his pants and was stroking him roughly. He felt her mouth on his, kissing him, her tongue thrusting into his mouth.

"Give it to me," Elena demanded.

Just as Meg found herself surrendering to David, Mal found himself instinctively responding to Elena. He slid out of his pants and pulled Elena over to a chair in the corner. Elena growled and straddled him, grinding against him until his hard cock slipped into her steaming, wet cunt.

Despite the mental fog that David's hard thrusting engendered, Meg's attention was gradually drawn across the room, to the sight of the slender brunette riding her husband—Elena's tight little ass rising and falling on Mal's prick as she writhed in his lap. Meg noticed the way her husband's hands caressed his lover with a tenderness that seemed incongruous to the enthusiasm with which they were screwing. As Meg's eyes panned upward, and she saw they were kissing, passionately, wetly—their connection palpable.

Elena looked back over her shoulder. Her gaze met Meg's. A silent message passed between them.

Make your choice, bitch.

Meg closed her eyes. She couldn't watch them anymore. It was too difficult, and anyway, she was couldn't process it anymore. Not with David still hammering her, possessing her body, scrambling her brain.

Elena fixed Mal with a fiery gaze. "Let's go to the bed."

Mal hesitated. It was hard enough seeing Meg with another man, hearing those sounds—her moans, the squish of his cock plunging into her wet pussy, the bed creaking from the force of their fucking. He didn't know if he could stand it with them even closer, close enough to touch.

Elena was insistent. "Come on, Mal, now."

He nodded and rose easily. Elena wrapped her arms and legs around him, continuing to thrust against him as he carried her over to the bed. They fell on the mattress beside Meg and David, bouncing upward until the two couples were side by side.

David looked over at Mal and grinned. Watch this, he seemed to be saying.

Hooking his arms beside Meg's knees, he folded her completely in half. Mal's eyes were inevitably drawn to her pussy, angled upward to receive his huge cock. Wet, stretched, her labia clinging to his fat shaft. It seemed unbelievable that she could take him. But she was, and her cries of passion left no doubt about her enjoyment.

He heard a muffled gasp, and then looked up to see Elena contorted, leaning over, kissing Meg awkwardly, and all the hotter for it. Wet, sloppy, more tongues than lips.

"Oh, yes," Meg cried out.

"You love it, whore," David growled. "Tell me you love it, you love me."

Meg shook her head, but she didn't deny it. Couldn't deny it.

Still harder David fucked her. She cried out again.

"Say it, Meg. Say you love me."

Mal looked at his wife's face. Her eyes were closed. He could tell she was fighting it, but it was a losing battle. This cocky, young asshole owned her. She could refuse him nothing. He closed his own eyes, trying to focus instead on the glorious sensation that was Elena's tight, hot snatch.

"Say it, slut," David insisted.

Mal heard Meg swallow, clearing her throat. He couldn't listen. Couldn't stand to hear those words. Yet he knew they were coming. It means nothing. It is just the throes of passion. But his reassurances instantly rang hollow.

Meg gasped out, "I love...."

Mal braced himself.

"I love...."

Another swallow. Mal could sense the effort it was taking her to get words out.

"I love you...Mal."

It took him a second to process it, but then his eyes flew open. He looked over at his wife, her head bouncing with the force of David's thrusts, but their eyes remained locked on each other's.

"I love you," she repeated.

He smiled. "I love you, too," he mouthed in response.

David fucked her frantically, like he was trying to fuck the tender exchange out of her, but she just smiled brightly and closed her eyes. When her hands went to David's ass, urging him on, the younger man knew that he'd lost.

Without opening her eyes, she said, "Don't you...dare...stop...." She shuddered and sighed, her face contorting before relaxing into a happy, relaxed grin.

With a start, Mal looked down at Elena. She was looking up at him. There was a tear on her cheek.

He leaned in close and kissed it away. "I'm sorry."

He expected more tears, but instead, she laughed. He looked up to see her smiling.

"No, silly, that was beautiful."

Meg groaned. Her hand was on David's chest. "I need a break."

David sneered, but before he could refuse, Elena chimed in. "Good, my turn then."

David raised an eyebrow in surprise, but before he could react one way or another, Elena squirmed out from beneath Mal and launched herself at the younger man, knocking him off Meg and onto his back. Elena sat on his chest.

"Time to put up, or shut up," she taunted.

And with that, she shimmied down and impaled herself roughly on his big prick.

"You think you can take me?" he grunted.

She just smiled.

Mal reached out for his wife. Her body was hot and sweaty from another man, but he wanted nothing more than to hold her tight. He pulled her against him, spooning her from behind, both of them turned toward the sight of Elena and David fucking roughly.

Meg reached between her legs and guided Mal's hard cock into her pussy. He held his breath. Every man's worst nightmare, to be so immediately compared to a much bigger cock. And yet, he couldn't tell the difference. She was hot, wet, and still delightfully snug. His hand slipped between her large breasts as he gently churned into her. After all that had happened, she was still his Meg.

Twelve

Watching Elena ride David was hot in a totally different way than watching Meg with him. With Meg, the sight left him turned on, but crippled. David had dominated her, even from his back, making her a slave to his cock. And that was fucking hot as hell...when Mal could stomach it.

Elena didn't let herself be dominated. She turned everything around. She was the one fucking David. She was the one who set the pace and left him wanting more. Watching the two of them fuck was like watching a couple of pros go at it. Even when David lifted Elena off of him, flipped her onto her knees, and rode her from behind, Mal and Meg could feel his desperation.

Not that they spent the rest of the night just watching Elena and David fuck. They were reunited—truly reunited. This wasn't a brief respite before their next extramarital encounter. They were together again—different, but the same.

Mal savored every moment of the reunion. Elena was hot and young, but Meg was Meg. He loved her body, her smell, the way she gasped and sighed as they made love.

"You feel good," Meg whispered. So good. Not too much. Not too full. It didn't "hurt so good," or was so big she felt overwhelmed. He felt good. He felt right. They matched.

"Is that all you have? Fuck me harder!" Elena demanded beside them. "You've got a nice big cock, now use! It!"

The challenge spurred David on. He grasped her slender hips and pumped her with everything he had. Meg licked her lips as she watched. A small part of her was jealous of what Elena must be feeling. But now, with Mal inside of her and the comparison impossible not to make, she realized that nothing felt as good as this man that she loved. How could she ever want anything else?

"I'm coming," David groaned. "I'm coming!"

"Shut up and do it!" Elena hissed through her clenched teeth. Her forehead was beaded with sweat, her hair damp.

David grunted, pressing the full length of his horse cock into Elena. For all her defiance, Elena couldn't deny how fucking amazing that felt.

She curled beneath him, joining him in a swift climax that left her broken. Almost.

When she opened her eyes, she looked at the couple beside her, laughing tiredly. “You guys enjoy that?”

“Yeah,” Meg said as Mal nodded over her shoulder.

Elena reached out and touched Meg’s nipple gently. “I’m not sure who I’m more jealous of, you or Mal.”

She tweaked Meg’s nipple. Meg gasped.

“David’s out of commission for at least a few minutes. Want to play?”

Meg still wasn’t sure how she felt about playing with other women—in a general sense—but in this situation, she was open for anything. She gave Elena a brief nod, and Elena moved in.

Their lips met, kissing not for show, as they’d done while sucking off David, but with genuine attraction. Meg quivered at Elena’s soft touch—Elena’s mouth on her mouth, her fingers on her breasts, sliding lower, lower, to the moist rise of her mound.

Meg gasped as Elena lingered on her clit, adding to the already intense union of Mal behind her. The women broke their kiss, and Elena smiled wickedly. She said, “I want to taste you.”

Meg’s heart beat raced. She nodded.

“Want to taste me?” Elena asked.

Mal’s cock jumped inside of her. It had been sexy watching Meg kiss Elena, but even then, he didn’t think things would get this far. He waited for Meg to turn the offer down. He waited for this fantasy to end.

“Yes,” Meg whispered.

Elena’s eyes lit up. “I was hoping you’d say that.” She kissed Meg again, passionate and deep, before pulling back, flipping around and moving into Meg in a sixty-nine.

Still in the spoon, Mal looked over Meg’s shoulder just as his wife took her first tentative lick along Elena’s shaved pussy.

Meg tasted David’s come, and rather than turn her off, it made her want to go back for more. She curled her hands around Elena’s thighs and buried her head into the other woman’s snatch.

Elena moaned, then wasted no more time reciprocating. At first, she focused on Meg, doing things to her clit that even Mal hadn’t done. Meg’s moans swept across Elena’s cunt. Mal watched, thrusting faster, harder. Their hips made wicking sounds along the mattress.

“That’s so hot,” Mal groaned into Meg’s ear.

Elena shifted down Meg’s pussy, licking Mal’s shaft as it entered her. Mal groaned, pressing all the way into his wife in surprise. Elena tongued his balls, rolling them in her mouth before withdrawing and letting him return to fucking Meg.

Meg pulled out from between Elena’s thighs long enough to look back at him. “Put it in her mouth.”

The next time he pulled back, he let his cock slip completely free of Meg. Elena was there, swallowing and swirling it before sliding it back inside Meg. It was sloppy. It was awkward. But it felt so damn good that they kept doing it again and again.

Until David joined them.

“The real party can start now,” he said, walking over to the trio on his knees, his cock hard in his hand.

“Oh, thank God,” Elena said. She may have sounded sarcastic, but when he positioned himself against her pussy and pushed that giant slab of meat that he called a cock into her, her cry was very much genuine.

Just inches away from both Meg and Mal, the penetration was obscene. Mal felt Meg’s pussy squeeze around him, heard her groan. David heard, too, and withdrew from Elena after a couple strokes to feed it into Meg’s mouth. She sucked it automatically, then pointed it back at Elena’s slit.

“Sorry,” Meg said to Mal.

“Don’t be. It’s hot,” Mal said. It was, and at last he felt like he wasn’t making some kind of concession.

“You like me acting dirty?”

“Dirty. Innocent. Sweet. Sexy. I like it all.”

She kissed him over her shoulder, wet and slow. He tasted Elena. He even tasted a little of David. But mostly, he tasted Meg, his wife and partner.

Of the foursome, Meg came first, but Elena and Mal weren’t far behind. Mal pulled out just as he started to explode and pushed his cock toward Elena, who took a blast across her face before she was able to start swallowing.

David was still going strong, and Elena was still hungry to receive. Mal and Meg got dressed and left them as round three began—Elena on her back with David driving into her splayed legs.

As they left, they heard Elena say, “Keep fucking me, big boy. I’ve got all night.”

Meg smirked at Mal and pulled the door shut. “Ah, to be young,” Meg said.

Mal pulled her into his arms. “Hope you’ve got a little left. I want you all to myself.”

“I think I can find something.”

Thirteen

Meg and Mal didn't immediately go back to Mal's room. The night seemed too charged to go to sleep, even if their bodies were exhausted. So they wandered outside, where the summer storm had passed, leaving the night damp and cooler than before.

"How long do you think they'll go?" Meg asked. She didn't feel an ounce of jealousy.

"I have no idea. A while, if Elena has any say."

Okay, maybe she felt a little jealous at that. But it was less intense than when she'd first met Elena yesterday—was that just yesterday? Or when she'd heard that Elena had been to her house, or had had sex in her minivan?

Mal's voice sounded quiet enough that it could have been a comment just for him. "You know, you scared me there for a while."

"I'm sorry." She took his hand in hers, leading down the trail toward the wedding clearing. "I scared myself."

Mal didn't say anything. He knew when it was appropriate to listen, and he knew she had more to say, even if it was going to be hard.

She went on. "I got...carried away."

"We both did."

Meg shook her head. "No, I don't think so. You...you always knew what this was."

"And what was that?" he asked.

"Just some fun. A fling, at most."

Mal felt chilly, despite the pleasant evening air. "And you were looking for more than that?" Even the question stung.

"No, not like that. I wasn't looking to replace you. Or leave you or anything. I just got kind of...obsessed."

"With David."

"Yeah." Admitting it felt good, but she also felt terribly guilty. "The whole time, I kept telling myself, One more time. This is the last time. With LA. Then after. Then this weekend."

"And now?" Mal asked.

"No more. I now understand what I was risking." She squeezed his hand. "Who gives up a man who can do one-handed handstands in the nude?”

“Very true. Personality is way overrated.”

They passed through the small thicket of trees into the clearing of the wedding, now just a neatly manicured lawn. Mal thought about the beautiful wedding they’d just witnessed here. That felt so long ago. When he was in their shoes, he never would have guessed that in ten years, he’d been walking with his wife, talking about their flings with other people. Life was crazy.

“You think Elena and David will hit it off?” Mal asked.

Meg looked around the clearing, trying to picture David and Elena up there—trying to picture David up there with anyone. “I don’t really know Elena, but I hope not.”

“Jealous?”

“Nooo, no.” Meg laughed. “I wouldn’t wish any woman on David. Not right now. He’s still so immature.”

“With a cock like that, I can almost understand,” Mal said.

“Are you jealous?” Meg kidded. They paused in the clearing, and Meg turned to Mal. “I think Elena would be good for him. She’s smart, witty, and seems like she’s a good match in the bedroom....”

“But?”

“But in many ways, she’s too good for him. She kind of reminds me of me when I was that age.”

“If you were a bisexual nymphomaniac,” Mal added.

“Maybe I was. Just didn’t know it until now.” She raised up on her tip toes and kissed him lightly.

“Really?”

“Well, you have to admit that I’ve been behaving like a total slave to my desires,” she said.

“And bisexual?” Mal asked. He stroked her cheek, seeing her flush in the moonlight.

“Yeah, probably. I wasn’t sure the first time, with Melanie. Things were kind of, um, crazy then. But tonight, with Elena....”

“You were turned on.”

“God, yes. So pretty, and sexy, and....” She blushed even more. “And such a good kisser.”

“Yes, she’s very good with her tongue.”

Meg pushed him gently and laughed. “You know, I got worried there, too.”

“Worried about what?”

Meg rolled her eyes, still smiling. She wondered what it must be like, walking around as oblivious as a man. “Elena as my replacement. I told you, I saw a younger me in her. Hell, she’s even an up-and-coming lawyer.”

Mal hadn’t ever thought of it that way. “I’d never—”

“I know. I know now.”

Mal collected Meg in his arms. He could still smell sex on her, heady and arousing. “You are the most important person in my life. I hate that I sometimes take you for granted.”

Meg felt tears form in her eyes. “We both do. I will never do that again.”

“You will. We both will.” Mal kissed her forehead. “I’ll just have to find Elena when you do.”

“Har har.”

“You’re welcome to join us,” he said.

“How generous of you.”

“You’re the one taking me for granted,” Mal said.

Meg shook her head. God, she loved this man. “I can’t believe I was so addicted to a big dick. I never thought I was the type.”

“Well, it was a pretty big dick. But that wasn’t the only thing about him, was it?” he said.

She thought of how he controlled her. Dominated her. “No.”

Mal was thinking the same thing. “There might be other ways to scratch that itch.”

Meg smiled. Said: “Yeah? We should try it.”

“So where does that leave us now?” Mal asked.

“We stop seeing other people?” Meg offered.

Cold turkey. For some reason, the idea left Mal disappointed, but not because of him. He said, “You can, if you want to....”

“I know I can stop....” She trailed off, seeing the true meaning of his statement. It sent a shiver of temptation through her—just one more time?—but no. More firmly, she said, “No. Nothing’s worth risking what we have.”

If this was going to work, they needed to be perfectly open with one another. About everything. He said, “I discovered something about myself.

Things got carried away with David, for sure, but even with him, it was pretty...exciting. Now, I'm not saying David is a good idea, but we don't have to stop these experiments, even if we stop the David one."

Meg wasn't sure what to make of that. She said, "You just want to keep sleeping with twenty-somethings."

He shook his head. "No, that's not what this is about." He broke into a smile. "That's more of a pleasant side effect."

"But you like the thought of me—"

"Fooling around with other guys," he finished.

Meg liked the idea more than she cared to admit. Then, because they were being open, she admitted it. "I like that idea, too. Especially if it helps us discover things that we can later share."

Mal nodded. Finding out that Meg was more open-minded than he'd ever imagined was definitely a big plus. "Next time, let's just be more open about how we feel," Mal said.

"And if you feel uncomfortable at all, let me know," Meg finished.

"Deal."

"Deal."

"So right now, all I want is you," Mal said. He pulled her towards a secluded bench near the point he'd been at just before the rain. "And I know just the place."

Epilogue

Meg felt a trickle of sweat run down her back, and it was from more than just the DC summer humidity. She walked down the hall of Mason Rhodes like everything was normal. Like she was just visiting the bathroom as she always did, taking care of business like everyone else, and that her thong wasn't balled up in her hand.

She nodded at people as she went. At Kaylee, the receptionist. At Richie Wong and Susan debating restaurants. It was a little past one o'clock, so most people were out to lunch. That made it a little better.

Meg slipped in behind her desk, but left the door open—just as she'd been instructed. She felt safe behind the large, beech desk, despite the way the breeze stirred against her bare pussy. Her bare, wet pussy.

She looked at her phone again, re-reading her instructions.

Take off your panties, sit in your office, and pull your skirt up to your waist. Then wait.

She shivered again, unable to do anything but pull her skirt up. She looked down at herself, at the way her mound glistened with excitement. She reached down and touched it, careful to avoid her clit. She'd shaved it just that morning, shaved it completely bare, knowing that today would probably lead to something like this.

She texted back:

[Megan]: Okay, done.

She kept nervously watching the door. Anyone could walk in. Her office wasn't in a high traffic area, but there was still traffic. She nodded to a couple of interns on their way out to lunch, wondering if they'd see how flushed she was.

Then, anyone walked in, in the form of Elena.

"Hey, Meg," Elena said. "You have a couple minutes?"

Meg was proud that she didn't look down, where her pussy was exposed. She kept her eyes on their newest Summer Associate, Elena Maskova. "Sure, come on in. How's your first day been?"

"Busy. So much paperwork to fill out," the brunette said, sashaying into the room and sitting in the chair across from Meg.

"Well, we are a law firm. And we've got some sensitive clients."

“Thank you again for offering me this position. This is huge,” Elena said.

“Well, I got you the interview, but you impressed the hell out of the partners. I wouldn’t be surprised if you had a position here when you pass the bar. Just don’t screw it up.”

“Yes, ma’am.”

Meg laughed, holding up her hand. “Please, none of that.”

“So what’s the best way to impress the partners? Give me the dirty details.”

“Well, Mason has a wandering eye, but if you show too much skin, he won’t respect you, so watch that. Rhodes plays politics. Try to get on cases with high visibility, then let him know what you did on them. Keep things real with Susan. She’s no wilting flower, and doesn’t appreciate other women who are. And keep away from David, he’s trouble.”

Elena grinned. “Trouble can be fun.”

Meg smiled non-committally. She continued, “With the rest, just work hard. They’ll notice and appreciate it.”

“And you?” Elena said, raising a brow.

“Oh, you don’t need to impress me.”

Elena grinned. “Just keep impressing your husband, you mean?”

Meg blushed, thinking about her text, then she looked at the door. If word got out.... “Like I said, just don’t do anything to screw this up.”

Elena lifted her phone, read whatever was on the screen, then looked at Meg. “Well, that may be hard considering the orders I got from Mal.”

Meg’s heart started racing faster. “Which are?”

She stood, reading off her phone as she stepped back to the door. “When everyone else goes to lunch, you’re to go into Meg’s office, close the door, crawl under the desk, and lick her pussy until she comes.” The door clicked shut. Elena pulled off the innocent, deer-caught-in-headlights look so well. “Would that be considered ‘screwing up’ or ‘impressing a partner’?”

Meg’s heart began to race. So that was his game. “That qualifies as impressing my husband, I suppose,” she said with a smile that wouldn’t quit.

“We’re going to have a lot of fun this summer, aren’t we?” Elena said, slinking back across the office.

“I’ll have to think of some way to thank my husband.”

Elena lowered herself to her hands and knees, crawling under the desk.
“We can brainstorm together....”

Bonus Chapter

Susan walked down the hallway toward her office. With a newly refilled cup of coffee in her hand, she was ready for the most productive part of the day—the evening, when the secretaries and paralegals and document staff went home and the place became actually quiet and almost peaceful. She knew she shouldn't think that way, but she couldn't help but believe that the lawyers who remained were the ones doing the real work. An outdated view, perhaps, with all the talk of work-life balance, but then again the numbers didn't lie. You couldn't bill when you weren't working, and you couldn't properly serve high-end clients by pushing off their work to the next day.

Meg was in her office. Good. She liked the younger woman but was a little worried about her. Married, three kids, and a newly discovered adventurous streak—it might make her a good dinner companion, but it raised doubts about her commitment to the firm.

They exchanged a smile and Susan continued on her way, giving small nods to the other hard chargers—Richie Wong, and course both Mason and Rhodes, who even after all these years still often burned the midnight oil.

Susan had almost reached her large, luxurious office when a mane of blonde hair rushing down the perpendicular corridor caught her eye. Only one woman in the office had hair like that—that little twit Kaylee.

It was irrational, but Susan couldn't help it. Kaylee just got under her skin—an affront to women everywhere. Her job required her to make precisely one decision: if it was before noon, she was to greet callers or visitors by saying, Rhodes Mason. Good morning, how may I help up? If it were after noon, she should say, Rhodes Mason. Good afternoon, how may I help you?

Somehow managing this distinction usually seemed beyond Kaylee's limited capacities.

She should never have been hired. She never would have been hired, except that while she was interviewing with Donna, the office manager, Rhodes, that horny old goat, had spotted her and her blond hair, her blue eyes and big tits, and made it clear he wanted her hired.

Susan snorted. It would serve him right for that little hussy to marry him and walk away with half his money. She certainly dressed more to attract male attention than project a professional atmosphere. Even today, in her plaid skirt and white blouse, she looked more like a slutty schoolgirl than the public representative of a large law firm. Though, in fairness, with curves like hers, even a nun's habit would look at least a little risqué.

She looked at her watch. 6:30pm. What the fuck was Kaylee still doing around at this time? Or more accurately, who the fuck was she doing at this time?

Susan changed course and chased after the blonde. She rounded a corner just in time to see the door of the "cave" being pulled shut. Now she knew something was up. The "cave" was their emergency conference room, the place where they usually put new associates to work wading through boxes of files doing discovery. It had recently been David McKinley's small slice of purgatory as he worked on Richie Wong's document-rich cases. But it was also a conference room, which meant it had the usual equipment, speakerphones, projection screen for teleconferences, and of course, a small AV closet from which to manage it.

The door to the AV room was locked, but Susan had never relinquished her master key from her stint as the office's managing partner. She didn't like to be a sneak, but it had served her well once in the past when she'd had to ransack a new lateral partner's office when she suspected he'd poached a client from her.

This caper, however, seemed likely to be more fun.

She ducked into the AV room and peered into the small conference room through a two-way mirror. As she'd suspected, David was in there, sitting confidently on the cluttered table, grinning at the new arrival. Susan slipped on a pair of headphones and flipped a couple of switches to listen in.

"You're late," he said.

Kaylee was pressed against the door. She put her finger to her lips.

"I think Susan was following me," she whispered.

David laughed. "Don't worry, I can handle her."

"Seriously."

"Seriously, don't worry about her. Now, show me."

"What if she—"

He stood abruptly. "Show me, slut."

She startled, but her eyes now seemed glued to his. Kaylee's cheeks reddened.

“What first?” she asked.

“Tits.”

She nodded and began unbuttoning her blouse, exposing her lovely cleavage and sexy white, lace bra. Slipping off the sleeves, she let the blouse fall to the floor. She reached behind her and unsnapped her bra, slowly easing it off. David stepped closer, watching her eagerly.

Her full breasts spilled out and Susan saw it, a thin gold chain that connected to vicious-looking metal clamps affixed to each of her swollen, crimson nipples.

He smiled and reached out, placing his hand on the chain, pressing down. Kaylee let out a hissing gasp. With his other hand he traced the outline of her puffy areolas.

“Very nice,” he noted.

He yanked on the chain and pulled her toward him. She yelped in pain, but he cut her protests short by leaning forward and shoving his tongue into her mouth. He kissed her roughly, his hand manipulating the chain so that her muffled sounds alternated between moans and whines.

Suddenly he shoved her away.

“Now the skirt.”

Kaylee was breathing hard, eyes wide. She reached down and unsnapped her skirt, eased it over her hips and let it slide to the floor.

Susan wasn’t surprised that the little slut wasn’t wearing panties, nor that she was shaved. Anything else would have been more surprising. But she was surprised to see a slender string descending between her eyes. Susan recoiled slightly. Some sort of weird tampon play? But then she realized the it wasn’t a string, but another slender chain, also gold.

David was grinning. “Good girl.”

He kneeled down and reached out, seizing the end of the chain. Kaylee gasped softly, beginning to squirm. David pulled harder, and Susan watched in shock as Kaylee’s pussy seemed to spread open by itself, and then a round, glistening crown emerged. Kaylee sighed as a slick, black ball, the size of a billiard ball came out of her. Another chain from the ball disappeared inside her. She moaned as he continued to pull on the chain until, with another sigh, a second, gleaming sphere spread her open again.

Susan chuckled. No wonder the little bimbo couldn’t keep track of morning or afternoon, with clamps on her nips and those things inside her.

And then a second thought. Had David done the same sort of things to Meg?

There was no real time to contemplate that. David stood and dangled the wet balls in front of Kaylee face.

“Lick ‘em clean,” he ordered.

She hesitated just a second, just long enough for him to rest his fingers on her chain connecting her still-clamped nipples. She yelped in pain, but immediately craned her neck and set to licking her own juices off the metallic spheres. David seemed mesmerized by the sight of her pretty, little tongue flashing over the surface. Susan, for her part, was increasingly drawn to the rapidly growing bulge in David’s pants.

He draped the linked balls over the chain connecting her breasts. As their weight tugged on her nipples, she let out a soft whine.

“On your knees, slut,” he said.

Kaylee didn’t hesitate.

“Now beg for it,” he commanded.

She blushed again, but she too was now staring at his bulge.

“Please, baby, let me suck your cock.”

“You’ve been thinking about me all day.”

She needed. “All day, baby. All day thinking about your big, fat cock.”

David smirked obviously pleased. He unbuttoned his shirt and peeled it off. Kaylee licked her lips in anticipation. And then he slowly undid his belt and unzipped his pants. He had a look of pure joy on his face, as if there was nothing he liked better than to whip out his cock.

“Holy shit,” Susan gasped.

She immediately covered her mouth, hoping the mirror was thick enough to muffle her exclamation.

He was huge. Again, she thought about Meg. No wonder she’d seemed so shaken up after that trip to California. That was the kind of prick to make a woman rethink her priorities. It was almost too big.

Kaylee didn’t seem to think so. She was wide-eyed, her mouth lolling open in a subconscious invitation. David didn’t hesitate. Shrugging out of his pants, he took a step toward the young blonde and decisively thrust his prick into her willing mouth.

Susan came from a generation where oral was vaguely frowned upon. It was seen as slutty when she was growing up and then subject to what’s in it for me? feminist criticisms later on. Watching poor Kaylee gagging on that huge slab of meat, her eyes watering, gurgling sounds coming from deep in her throat, did little to change Susan's perspective, though she could see the appeal for David. Even if it didn't feel good, which she suspected it did, she could see how exciting it would be to dominate a woman that way, forcing her to literally choke on his manhood.

David took his time with Kaylee. Holding her head in place, he sawed his fat tool into her mouth over and over until it was dripping with her saliva. The frothy spit ran down her chin and dripped onto her large, heaving breasts. Each thrust also set the metallic balls in motion, click-clacking against each other as they dangled from the chain between her tits, further distending her battered nipples. Periodically he'd pull out and let Kaylee enthusiastically feast on his heavy balls.

Finally he stood her up and led her over to the conference room table. He sat her on edge and pressed her legs apart.

"Oh God, give it to me," Kaylee begged.

He laughed. "You're a horny little slut, aren't you?"

"Yes," she gasped.

He fingered the chain between her breasts. She whimpered softly. He lifted up the balls and dangled them before her face.

"Open up."

She eyed the large metal sphere. She shook her head.

But he just fixed her with a fiery gaze until she melted. Submissively she opened her mouth wide and let him insert one of the balls, the other dangling from her chin. Susan was really beginning to feel sorry for Kaylee now, but as she watched, the blonde's expression suddenly transformed, her eyelid fluttered as David pressed his oversized cock into her hungry pussy.

He used her twat even harder than her mouth. But this time, there was no ambiguity about it. Kaylee loved it. She reclined on the table on her elbows and lifted her knees into the air, spreading as wide as possible for him. Her hips pumped to meet his hard thrusts. Even when he yanked on the chain connecting her nipples, she merely writhed faster, harder against him.

"That it!" he hissed. "Take it, cunt."

Her eyes flashed with excitement. He filled her completely, balls deep and remained there as her body began to shudder, her eyes rolling back into her head. And then he was shivering as well, filling the pretty young woman with his seed.

He laughed. "Damn, you're a hot piece of ass."

He eased the metallic ball from her mouth, and unclamped her battered nipples.

She winced as blood flowed back into her nipples, noting through her clenched teeth, "I'm more than that, you know."

David ignored her comment as he slowly slipped his cock from her battered pussy. He thrust two fingers inside her swollen snatch and then fed them into her mouth.

Susan quickly exited the AV room and using the master key slipped into the conference room.

David was still feeding Kaylee come straight from her pussy.

"Very impressive," Susan said dryly.

Kaylee startled. She hopped off the table, but then stopped when she noticed that Susan was holding her clothes, and David's, in her hand.

"You won't need them quite yet," Susan noted.

David had spun slowly, and shamelessly stared down the senior partner.

"How long were you watching us?" he asked.

Susan gave him a thin smile. "Long enough. You do know this sort of activity is against the rules, don't you?"

"Not all the partners are as uptight about it as you are."

"Thinking of anyone in particular?" Susan challenged.

David hesitated. Then backed down. Meg might have been his plaything temporarily, but she was still a partner and Susan's friend, and he seemed to realize it was better not to play that card.

"We're consenting adults, and anyway, it is after hours," he replied, trying a different tack.

"Tsk, ts, ts, Mr. McKinley," Susan chided. "Weak, very weak. Try that sort of thing in front of a judge and you'll not only lose your case, he'll hold you in contempt."

David shrugged. "What do you want, Susan?"

She smirked. "I think you need to learn a lesson. Need to face the consequences of being such a bad, bad boy."

He glanced down at his long, flaccid cock. He raised an eyebrow.

"Oh, not like that, Mr. McKinley. No, what I think is that you need to be punished."

"Punished?"

Susan nodded. "Bend over that table, if you please."

He hesitated, but then with an amused smirk, he complied. He edged Kaylee out of the way and bent over the polished surface, his firm ass jutting out toward Susan.

Kaylee looked shocked. "Look, ma'am, this has nothing to do with me...."

"He needs to be spanked, and you need to spank him."

Kaylee was incredulous. "What?"

"His ass, Kaylee. Spank it."

"Ms. Miller, please, I don't—"

"Do it. Now!"

Kaylee looked from Susan to David and back again. Tentatively, she reached out and swatted his butt.

Susan laughed. "Harder."

Kaylee smacked him again.

"You can do better," Susan insisted.

SMACK!

That one was satisfying, but he was a muscular young man, and it was not making much of an impression.

"Again," Susan growled.

SMACK!

"Owww!"

It was Kaylee who'd cried out in pain. Susan shook her head. Stupid little simpleton. Fine.

Susan slipped David's belt from his pants. She folded over the soft leather and handed into Kaylee.

"Use this," she suggested.

Kaylee looked aghast. "I can't!"

"Do it!"

Kaylee seemed close to tears, but she couldn't resist Susan's command.

SWACK!

This time, David jolted, and an impressive red streak appeared across his firm ass cheeks.

"Again!"

SWACK!

"Again!"

SWACK! SWACK! SWACK!

“Please Ms. Miller,” Kaylee whined. “No more. I think I drew blood.”

Susan looked over at David’s firm, red ass. There was indeed a smudge of blood on his right cheek. He was breathing rapidly, slowly shifting his weight from foot to foot. And also, peering between his legs, Susan could see that his cock was again rock hard.

*

Meg and Elena were eating lunch outside. It was a gorgeous day, and even though Meg knew Mal would rather they were inside eating each other’s pussies, they’d decided on a normal, gossipy, outdoor lunch instead. And there was a lot to gossip about.

“I still can’t believe it,” Elena said.

Meg nodded. “I didn’t think Susan had it in her.”

“Or David.”

Meg shrugged. “That surprises me less. He always seemed out of place in an office. But I thought for sure Susan would die at her desk.”

Elena laughed. “Instead of retiring down to the Dominican Republic with a boy toy?”

“She’s definitely an inspiration to us all,” Meg said.

“Ah, so you’re still planning on trading in Mal, are you?”

Meg laughed. “By that time, honey, he’ll be doing his one-armed handstand trick for a whole new generation of hard-bodied little sluts.”

“Ah fuck. I guess that means I need to find a man of my own.”

“Yup, just like Susan did.”

Elena nodded, raising her Diet Dr. Pepper. “To Susan.”

Meg clinked with her iced coffee. “And David. May they live happily ever after.”

Questions and Answers from the Authors

How did you approach writing a book together?

Kenny Wright: It was pretty free form. Unlike my collaboration with Kirsten McCurran, where we wrote from the perspective of our own characters, Ben and I switched off sections. He'd write some, then pass it to me. I'd add a few parts, then send it back.

Ben Boswell: We largely followed “improv rules”—basically the requirement to agree to whatever the partner has created. So, no going back and deleting each other's text, and no dismissing it either by, say, after the fact labeling the other author's contribution as a dream sequence. Now, we did have a basic idea in mind for what the story was about, and toward the end we had some discussions about how to proceed, but on the whole, this was very much unscripted. We followed the story and characters...and indeed, I think some parts of the story turned out differently than either of us had anticipated.

What challenges did you face?

BB: The difficulty with an unscripted, improv rules approach is that sometimes what the other person writes confounds your expectations. There were several times when I'd get Kenny's latest contribution and be like, “Okay, what do I do now?” Not in a bad way, but rather because he'd thrown in a twist or a new development and I actually had to stop, think, and ask myself, “Knowing what I know about the characters, what would they do next?”

KW: Well, this was actually our second attempt at a collaboration. The first was moving along smoothly, then quickly lost its way. There's a temptation when writing with another extremely creative person to want to top the last section or scene. That got us into trouble. This time around, we made a conscious effort to stay true to the cadence of the story and stay true to the characters.

BB: We also do have slightly different writing styles. Kenny is definitely the better writer—his prose is richer, more descriptive. Mine is more utilitarian, but by contrast, sometimes more introspective. I won't say I tried to mimic his style in my sections, but I was conscious of the need to minimize any jarring transitions. I've always admired his writing, so I hope that my efforts were successful, and also that I carry over some of those good habits to other projects.

Was it a good experience?

KW: Definitely. Ben is a great writer and storyteller, and it was not only fun to write this along with him, but an honor. He challenged me to leave my comfort zone—particularly with the female characters—and as a result, I really feel like I grew as a writer from it.

BB: Yes. And especially early on, we wrote at a frantic pace. I think we were both enthusiastic, and our enthusiasm fed each other's. But, you know, the proof of the pudding is in the reading, to mix metaphors, and so at least for me part of the quality of the experience will be whether readers enjoy it. I think they will.

What was your biggest surprise in how the book turned out?

BB: For me, it was Elena's evolution. I think we both initially thought of her as just a diversion, a sexy young plaything to occupy Mal while the real story revolved around Meg and her difficulty in reining in her desires. But Elena turned out to be more interesting and challenging, and sort of forced us to expand her role.

KW: There were a lot of surprises along the way. As Ben mentioned, Elena was one of them. Biggest one for me, though, was how cohesive the story arc turned out—particularly for Meg. If I didn't know how this thing was written, I would have sworn that it had been outlined and plotted out. Of all the characters, she evolved the most, and she's a better, sexier, more self-aware person for it.

So will we see more of Meg and Mal?

KW: Mal and Meg definitely have more story to tell, and Elena could have her own spinoff. But inspiration is a fickle thing. So...we'll see?

BB: I don't know. Maybe? I feel like the story is a complete arc. Very few loose ends left to unravel into another story. That said, I like both Mal and Meg (and Elena, and even David, the big lug), and they're all still young and sexy, and unlikely, I think, to settle down completely. I'd also love to know about Melanie, wouldn't you?

And what about more from Ben and Kenny?

BB: We're both writing a ton, and we each have a lot more story ideas than we possibly have time to write on our own. So it's likely that at some point a concept will come along that feels like a natural for another collaboration. In the meantime, we're each putting out some interesting stuff, so stay tuned.

KW: You tell me, reader. Did our experiment work?

About the Authors

Kenny Wright

I'm just a guy who writes what I like to read: steamy, explicit erotica that's just crazy enough to be true. I write romantic erotica. I write about characters that I like, and endings that feel natural. I write stories where husbands watch their wives get naughty. I write about MILFs and erotic games and loss of innocence. I believe in a world where men read and appreciate erotica, and hope to contribute to it word by word.

Find me online at www.kennywriter.com, or follow me on Twitter at @kennywriter. I also operate eroticaformen.com, which may or may not look like crap right now.

Ben Boswell

I am your typical family man with a wife and kids and an overactive imagination. I am a longtime reader and author of erotic fiction. I write in genres that I find exciting and arousing. Most of my stories are in the naughty wife, wife-watching genre, though occasionally I venture into other subject matter.

Reader feedback is what keeps me going. Please feel free to contact me at ben.boswell.author@gmail.com or visit my blog at benboswell.com. You can follow me on Twitter @BenBoswellAut.