A Hotwife Takes It... Easy

Luke and Harriet are on vacation in America having just attended The Hotwife Key Party. They delay their trip back to the UK for a few days and head down towards Mexico on the Pacific Coast Highway. During a stopover in San Diego, they come across a volleyball tournament and stay to watch.

Glowing with a golden tan, Harriet soon becomes the centre of attention for one of the men's teams. The young, tall college guys just won't leave her alone.

Luke is a little concerned because, even though Harriet is a hotwife, she's just had a very busy weekend. He points out that this break was so she could take it easy, but Harriet has other plans.

She assures him she can take it.... Easy!

Chapter One

Luke opened his eyes and saw Harriet sleeping soundly beside him. Careful not to wake her, he slipped out of bed and walked to the hotel bathroom. He used the loo, showered, and brushed his teeth. When he returned to the bedroom, his wife was awake.

“Good morning,” she said, smiling.

“Hi. Sleep okay?”

She nodded.

Luke opened the balcony door curtains to let in the Californian sun, then returned to the bed and kissed her.

“Hmm, you taste of toothpaste,” she whispered.

“I won’t tell you what you taste of.” Last night, she’d sucked a black bull’s cock and licked a Japanese woman’s snatch at the Hotwife’s Key Party. On returning to the hotel, she’d also sucked him off.

“What can I say?” She pushed the sheet down to reveal her boobs. “I’m a bisexual slut.”

He watched her face, waiting to see if she would say more. Images of her performing cunnilingus on Japanese beauty Misaki made his cock thicken. “Is that official?”

“Which part?”

“Both.”

She bent her leg and used a foot to push the sheet completely off. Her tanned body looked so good against the white cotton. “I guess there’s no question about the slut part. Since you convinced me to become a hotwife...” She ran her finger down her tummy to her smooth, hairless sex. “...I’ve had half a dozen other men in here.”

“Really?” He quickly counted them. The sax player in Oslo, Noah during her threesome with Maisie, the two guys in Fuerteventura, Glen Ten and Kurt, the bulls from the contact forum, and now Nixon at the Key Party. “Actually, you’ve had seven.”

She laughed. “Just making sure you’re keeping count.”

“And the bisexual part?”

She parted her legs. “Come fuck me, and I’ll tell you a secret.”

“I’ve just taken a shower.” It wasn’t a rejection; he was already climbing onto the bed.

Harriet bent her knees. He quickly got into position, looked into her eyes, and entered her. Both let out a quiet sigh.

“So,” he said, after several slow thrusts. “Didn’t you mention something about a secret?”

Harriet opened her big brown eyes and looked up at him. “It’s about my evening with Noah and Maisie.”

“Ahhh...” He’d always suspected something had gone on between the two women, but Harriet had steadfastly refused to tell him. She’d filled him in on the many ways they’d made Noah come, and how he’d brought them off, but there were still intriguing details missing from her description of that night.

Harriet’s eyes sparkled. “Well, while Maisie and I were taking turns sucking Noah’s cock on her couch, I kissed her.”

“Did anything more than kissing happen between you and Maisie while you were all downstairs?”

“No.”

“What about upstairs?”

“We got him stretched out on the bed and sat on him. We took turns sitting on his cock and his face. While we were doing that, we kissed some more and caressed each other’s breasts.”

Luke closed his eyes to visualise it. It was a sexy image. “That’s all?”

“No.” She clenched around his cock and held onto his buttocks as they made love. “After Maisie and I had come, Noah fucked us both doggy-style, spending half a minute or so with one before moving to the other. This went on for a while.”

“I seem to remember you said he came inside Maisie.”

She laughed. “That’s right. Well, we all slept for a while but I woke in the night and decided to get more fun. So I woke Noah up by sucking his dick.”

Luke slowed down his thrusts, hoping to delay coming until she finished her story.

“While I was doing that,” Harriet whispered, “Maisie woke and started to eat me out.”

A shiver ran down his spine. “Really?”

“Hmm.”

“Did she make you come?”

“She didn’t get the chance. Once Noah was hard, he wanted to fuck. I don’t think he knew what Maisie was doing. He just pushed me onto my back, got on top, and entered me.”

“What about Maisie?”

“I told her to sit on my face.”

Luke tingled all over. So, they’d performed oral on each other. But... “I thought you said Noah had come inside her?”

She smiled. “He had, and that was her worry.”

“So what happened?”

“I made her come with my tongue and cleaned Noah’s cum from her pussy while he blew his next load into mine.”

Luke spasmed and came immediately. Harriet cried out and pushed up, grinding herself against him until she came seconds later. They jerked and trembled through their orgasms. Afterwards, they lay panting for breath. Eventually, he met her eyes, his mind still racing. “Has anything else happened between you since?”

She leaned up on an elbow and looked into his eyes. “Yes.”

He tried to keep his face neutral, but evidently hadn’t achieved it.

“I’m sorry,” she said. “I wanted to tell you about it but was waiting for the right time.”

“And this is the right time?”

She nodded. “Last night you saw me with Misaki. I’m pretty sure it didn’t look like that was my first time pleasuring a woman.”

“It didn’t, no. Come on, don’t leave me in suspense.”

“A couple of weeks after our night with Noah, she asked if we could talk about what had happened between us. I went round to her house when she was working from home. Tia was at school and Finn in nursery.”

“I’m guessing you did more than talk.”

“We talked a lot about what happened, then...” She sighed. “Then we went to bed and I had sex for the first time without a man being present.”

“How was it?”

“I missed cock.”

He laughed. “That’s not answering the question.”

“It was nice.”

“Did you both climax?”

She held his gaze for a second. “We both came more than once.”

“Have there been other times?”

“No, and I doubt there will be. But I felt like I needed to tell you. I don’t want us to have secrets.”

“Thank you.” He remembered watching her with the beautiful Japanese woman the previous night. “What did you think of Misaki?”

“Truth?”

“Yeah. Like you just said, I don’t want us to have secrets either.”

“I loved her. She was stunning, sexy, and everything anyone could want in a woman.”

He couldn’t help wondering if the fun would’ve continued if they’d stayed at Casa Del Grande Toro overnight. Many of the guests had taken up the hosts’ invitation to do so, but Harriet had wanted to leave the party after her playdate. By the time their limo had arrived, one of the other hotwives was getting gangbanged in the swimming pool.

“Do you think Misaki fooled around with the other hotwives and bulls after we left?”

“No. Nixon is her only male lover, and he’s only allowed to see one hotwife per month.”

“Really?”

Harriet nodded, then stroked his cheek. “Come on, let’s make use of that huge shower, then over breakfast we can talk about this road trip you want to take me on.”

* * * *

Since the organisers of the Key Party had paid for their flights and the hotel in LA, Luke decided they could afford to treat themselves on their road trip down the Pacific Coast Highway. Rather than settling for an economy hatchback, they chose a silver Mercedes S-Class Cabriolet. He couldn’t help smiling as he drove out of LA with the top down.

Harriet had her sunglasses pushed up onto her head, acting as a hairband. She put her hand on his leg. “You know everyone who sees you in this car will think it’s just a penis extension, right?”

“I don’t care. I’m driving a hot car, with a hot babe sitting next to me, down a California highway. They can think what they want.”

“Want me to suck you off so the truck drivers we pass can see?”

“I didn’t say I wanted to die in a hot car with a hot babe on a California highway.” He squeezed her hand. “We came here for you to enjoy great sex at the Key Party. Now that’s been accomplished, we’re going to have a nice break and see some sights. I think you were too nervous to fully enjoy our time in LA, but now you can relax, enjoy the road trip, and take it easy.”

She nodded, pulling her sunglasses down over her eyes and letting her hair blow free as they drove south. Luke felt like he was in the movies.

“This feels like fate, don’t you think?” Harriet asked as they drove past the sign for Dana Point, which marked the start of the coastal road.

Luke wasn’t sure what she meant. “What does?”

“Dana Point. Dana was the name of one of the hotwives at the party.”

“Oh?”

“The one we watched by the firepit. You chatted with her husband while we ate.”

“Oh yeah. Nice guy. I ended up telling him about Oslo, and watching you with that guy from the band. It was refreshing to be able to talk about it without feeling like a pervert.”

“Dana’s first extramarital shenanigans involved giving a guy a blowjob in the restroom of a casino. I admitted mine was jerking off a guy in a club.”

Luke smiled at the memory of her coming home and admitting what she’d done. He’d fucked her with an intensity that had shocked them both.

“Hard to believe it was only six months ago,” she said.

“Yeah. A lot of water under the bridge since then.” He grinned at her. “Or to be more specific, a lot of—”

“Okay, there’s no need to be more specific.”

“Sorry.” The way he was smirking probably showed he wasn’t sorry at all.

Though it was apparently a city, Dana Point was a relatively small place with a fabulous harbour. Once they’d parked, they walked along the quayside.

“Would you look at all those boats?” Harriet’s expression was one of wonder. “There must be hundreds of them. Thousands even.”

Luke nodded, dazzled by the size of the place and the number of shiny white craft sitting on the blue water. “There must be more boats than houses.”

She smiled. “Maybe the houses have sunk.”

“Now who’s being a smart-arse?”

As they strolled, the smell of the ocean and the sound of seagulls filled the clear, hot air around them. They stopped at a bar and sat under the shade of a palm tree, sipping lemonade, looking out at hundreds of white dots crossing the ocean between the shoreline and the horizon.

Harriet glanced at her watch. “I guess everyone will have left Casa Del Grande Toro by now.”

“Yeah. I wonder what went on during the night?”

“Are you sorry I made you leave?”

“Yes and no.” He gave her a smile. “I’m not complaining about us going back to the hotel and making love. That was wonderful. But...” He shrugged.

“You’re a voyeur, and watching all those beautiful women getting nailed in and around the pool would have turned you on.”

He nodded. “When we left, it was like a scene from a movie with beautiful people having sex everywhere.”

“Eyes Wide Shut.”

He snorted. “More like Eyes Shut, Legs Wide.”

“Do you think W and J would have joined the fun?”

“Maybe. A lot of cash and thought went into organising that party, so I suppose it’d be only natural for them to want more than to watch dirty movies.” Luke described the media room where the husbands and their hosts had watched the action. Video feeds from all ten rooms were shown on the huge screen, but only the husband had access to the audio to the room of his hotwife.

“I expect everything would’ve been recorded, though,” Harriet said. “W and J will have ten films to watch, with audio, whenever they want. And,” she went on, “I suspect there’ll be security cameras all over the grounds of a house like that. So there’ll be footage of all the spontaneous little get-togethers that happened, too.”

Luke hadn’t thought of that. A little part of him wished they’d stayed longer so he could have seen Harriet indulge herself with more bulls.

Once their drinks were finished, they walked back to the car and drove south out of the small city. The harbours gave way to rolling beaches of golden sand, beyond which countless surfers rode the swelling waves heading for the shore.

Chapter Two

“How far is it to San Diego?” Harriet asked as they cruised down the highway.

“Not much over a hundred miles. Should only take a couple of hours.”

She studied her phone. “Maybe we should have gone north and aimed for San Francisco.”

“That’s a lot further. As wonderful as this road is, I didn’t think you’d want to spend the entire time driving.” He reached over and squeezed her hand. “This is about taking it easy for a few days, remember?”

“Yeah.”

“Besides, I read somewhere that it’s best to travel south on this road because we’re closer to the ocean, though I can’t imagine the view would be that much different from the other side of the road. But if you’re serious about seeing the other places, we can come back next year.”

“Really?”

He nodded. “We could fly to Seattle, pick up a car and drive the entire length of the highway through Washington State, Oregon and California. We could see Portland, San Francisco, LA and all the places in between, then leave the car in San Diego and fly home from there.”

“I’d really like that.” She grinned. “And maybe we could hop on a flight to Hawaii so I can have a repeat performance with Misaki and Nixon.”

“Well, you can dream. Just don’t expect to fly first class when we’re paying for the tickets ourselves.”

They continued the journey, stopping a couple of times to admire the view. In one direction were mountains and in the other the crystal blue of the Pacific Ocean. Seeing a truck stop typical of the ones he’d seen in a hundred movies, Luke slowed and pulled into the parking lot.

“I’m going to have a burger,” he announced.

“You had a huge breakfast.”

“I don’t care. And if there’s cherry pie on the menu, I’ll have that after my burger.”

“What about blueberry pancakes?”

“They’ll have to wait until supper.”

They got out of the car and walked up the shallow steps to the front door. A few heads turned their way in the busy diner. Harriet’s lacy white top fluttered in the air con breeze, her short denim skirt flattered her figure and showed a lot of tanned skin, and her hair was tousled from driving with the top down. A middle-aged waitress gave them a wide smile, showed them to a booth, then came back a few minutes later to take their order.

Their drinks were delivered by a young waiter who picked up on their accent and told them he’d recently visited London. Their food arrived, and Luke’s burger was as substantial as he’d hoped. Harriet had ordered a salad.

As they ate, Luke noticed Harriet kept glancing over his shoulder and giving little smiles. There were mirrors on the pillars, and when he looked in the one behind Harriet, he saw a lone man sitting at the counter, watching her. The guy was about forty with short dark hair and stubble. He wore a white t-shirt under a set of grey coveralls, which made Luke think he was probably a truck driver.

Luke picked up his glass of coke. “How’s the salad?”

He took a sip, then put his glass down. “You seem to have an admirer.”

“Hmm.”

The thought of men lusting after his wife brought on the usual buzz in his gut. “Do you think—?”

Harriet reached over and gripped his hand. “Ask me later.”

She stood up, and when Luke checked the mirror, he saw the truck driver was already walking towards the restrooms. Before Luke could say anything, Harriet had followed. He turned his head just as his wife disappeared through the door at the far end of the diner.

The place was getting even busier and there were families at a lot of the tables. Surely with kids and parents going in and out of the restroom, it’d be impossible for anything to happen. Maybe Harriet wanted the chance to flirt, and it was Luke’s dirty imagination working overtime.

He took another bite of his burger and chewed. An image filled his mind — his wife bent over the restroom washbasin with the truck driver fucking her from behind — and he shook his head to clear it. He finished his burger and glanced back at the door to the restrooms. People were going in and out through the far door, but there was no sign of Harriet. Or the trucker. He checked his watch but wasn't sure what time she'd left the table.

The waitress came to collect their plates and offer him coffee. He accepted. When he'd drained his cup, he checked his watch again. Harriet had been gone for at least fifteen minutes, and he began to worry. What if the guy was a psycho and had snapped when Harriet followed him to the restroom? Panic set in.

Just as Luke stood to go and check the restrooms, he saw his wife walking across the parking lot towards the diner door.

Relief, anger and arousal swept through him, all vying for first place as she stepped back inside. As she approached with pink cheeks and a smug grin, there was no doubt what she'd done. Preoccupied with how busy the restrooms would be, he hadn't once considered that there would be a big rig outside with a bed in the back of the cab and all the privacy they'd need.

Harriet slipped into the booth opposite him and looked down at his empty coffee cup. "Did you ask about cherry pie?"

He frowned, unable to find any words.

"If they've got it, I may have a slice, too." She pushed her calf against his under the table. "I seem to have worked up an appetite."

Finally, he found his voice. "What the fuck were you thinking?" he hissed.

"I was thinking about fucking."

The playfulness in her eyes usually gave him a hard-on, but at the moment he was still too stunned. "He could have been a weirdo. He could have knocked you out cold, driven you off in his truck and done God knows what."

The waitress appeared with the coffee jug and another cup before she had a chance to reply. "D'you want a coffee, hon?"

Harriet looked up and flashed a beautiful smile. "No thanks, but do you have cherry pie?"

"Sure do. You want a slice?"

“Yes please.” Harriet nodded at her husband. “And I expect he’ll want some, too.”

Once the waitress had moved away, Luke sighed. “I think you were taking a big risk.”

Harriet leaned over the table and grinned. “Well, I was taking a big something.”

Whatever he was about to say got caught in his throat, and he shook his head. “Jeez, what has gotten into you?”

She raised her eyebrows, and he laughed.

“Okay, don’t answer that,” he said, leaning back. “I’m still too shocked to appreciate the sexiness of it. I just...” He shook his head again.

“I thought you’d get turned on thinking about what I was doing.”

“I was too worried to be turned on. I didn’t know where you were or anything about the guy.”

The waitress returned with a tray holding two portions of pie and a small jug. After placing the plates on the table, she held up the jug and smiled at Harriet. “You want cream, hon?”

“Oh yeah.” She glanced at Luke. “The more the better.”

After the waitress had retreated, Harriet picked up her spoon and started eating.

Luke stared at her, then did the same.

Between mouthfuls, she flashed him another smile. “Got any questions yet?”

“Hundreds, but I guess the first one is, why?”

“I guess I wanted to make up for leaving the party early last night.”

“I already told you I was happy to—”

“Not just to make it up to you, but to make it up to myself, too.”

Luke was puzzled. “What do you mean by that?”

“I don’t know, I guess I...” She bit her lip and frowned. “I think I was a little intimidated by the other hotwives.”

“Why on earth would you be intim—”

“Because I felt like a novice.”

Luke blinked. He found it hard to believe Harriet would feel that way. “But you looked fabulous, and I don’t mean just the dress and the shoes. You looked fabulous, and as far as I could see, there wasn’t a woman there who was—”

“I’ve only ever had two real bulls. The other women must have had dozens.”

“That doesn’t mean—”

“Dana sucked a guy off in front of everyone before the party had even started.” She shook her head. “I wouldn’t have the nerve to do that.”

“Was that why you didn’t want to stay after your playdate?”

“No. I knew beforehand that I wanted us to go back and reconnect. But maybe...” She shrugged. “Maybe a little part of me was too scared to stay in case I couldn’t live up to what the other wives did.”

He couldn’t understand her reasoning at all. She’d had sex with numerous men in the last few months, and he felt certain that every single one of them had been blown away by the experience. “So you decided to pick up a guy in a truck stop just to prove you can be as slutty as the other hotwives?”

Harriet hesitated for a beat, then shrugged. “Maybe.”

With Luke’s panic subsiding, the familiar cocktail of jealousy, pride and arousal thrummed through his body. “And how was it?”

She looked around the diner, then down at their almost empty plates. “Want to get the check so I can tell you in the car?”

“No, tell me here.”

“Okay.” She leaned over the table and looked deep into his eyes. “The guy was staring at me. I thought he was cute, so I gave him a couple of smiles to let him know I was enjoying his attention.” She licked her lips. “I liked the idea of him running his rough hands all over my body, so when he went to the toilets I decided to follow him.”

“Were you hoping to get enough privacy in there?”

“No, I’d guessed that he was a driver and hoped he’d have somewhere we could go.”

“You suggested it?”

“Mm hmm.”

“And what did he say?”

She smiled. “He seemed pretty happy with my suggestion.”

“And once you were in his truck?”

“He seemed pretty happy with everything.”

“Did he have a name?”

“I didn’t ask.”

“Did he have a condom?”

“I didn’t ask that, either.”

Luke felt another twinge of anguish and excitement. “Did you come?”

“Yes, twice.”

“And he came inside you?”

She nodded.

“Jeez, Harriet. What were you thinking?”

“I was thinking that I wanted to feel his thick cock pulse as he shot his load.”

Luke was angry at her recklessness, but his cock was swollen and wet. The idea of his wife fucking the guy in his truck turned him on more than he could explain. “Did he have a bunk in the back?”

She shrugged. “I don’t know. The bench seat was huge, and he just laid me down on that.”

“Did you talk at all?”

“Not really. I just hitched my skirt up and pulled my panties to the side.”

“No foreplay?”

“None was needed. He was hard and I was wet.” She leaned closer still until their noses almost touched. “He fucked me hard, and I came within a couple of minutes.”

Luke’s throat tightened as he imagined his beautiful wife stretched out beneath the other man. “What about him?”

“He lasted a long time. By the time he reached his first, I was well on my way to my second. I came again when he flooded me.”

Luke knew she was phrasing things in a way to turn him on, and it was working. “What happened to you taking it easy for a few days?”

“That was your idea.”

“You don’t want to take it easy?”

“No. I want to prove that I can take it and that I can be easy.”

He reached out and squeezed her hand. “You don’t need to prove anything to me.”

“I need to prove it to myself.”

He let out a long breath. “But you can’t be as reckless as that again. Don’t get into a truck with a total stranger.”

Harriet lowered her eyes. “I’m sorry, I didn’t think about what could go wrong. I promise not to go anywhere without you again.”

“Thank you. So, what next?”

“Can you wait for your release, or do you need me to ease the pressure in your balls?”

He laughed. “No, I can wait.”

“Okay, so let’s pay the bill and get back on the road.”

Chapter Three

It was late afternoon when they got their first sight of San Diego, the city's distant skyscrapers distorted by the heat haze rising from the highway. It took them another hour to get into the city and find somewhere to stay. They chose a hotel in the Mission Hills area.

Once they'd checked in, Luke put down their bags and glanced around their room. It was big, bright and clean. "Nice place," he said as Harriet went to inspect the bathroom.

She came out and pouted. "There's no whirlpool bath."

He laughed. "What can I say? I'm a cheapskate."

"Hmm." She stepped close and nuzzled his neck, sending a shiver down his spine. "But I love you anyway."

He smiled. "Shall we go see some sights?"

"Aren't you going to fuck me first?" She took her lower lip between her teeth and looked up at him with big doe eyes.

Luke's cock thickened immediately. "I didn't think you'd be horny. I mean, it's only been a couple of hours since you fucked the trucker."

"Maybe I'm the demanding type." She pushed herself against him. "Maybe I'll need to be fucked every couple of hours for the entire trip."

He laughed. "I don't think I could manage to keep up with that schedule."

"I don't expect you to." Harriet placed her hand on the bulge in his jeans and smiled. "You'll be getting a lot of help."

"I'll be getting help?" Butterflies took flight in his stomach. With just a few words, she'd applied the spark and was now fanning the flames.

"Of course you will." She kissed his neck again while unbuckling his belt. "I can't expect one man to satisfy all of my slutty needs for two whole days."

Despair and desire coursed through his brain, though his body only showed evidence of the latter. "You're going to continue proving your sluttiness the entire trip?"

Harriet had freed his dick from his trousers and was slowly pumping it with her hand. "Mm-hmm." She took a step back towards the bed, tugging him with her. "But right now, I need you to flush all of the trucker's cum out, just so whoever I pick up next knows that my pussy belongs to you."

He laughed out loud. "I think maybe you should save that sort of talk for the other guys. I don't need you to act like that to get me going."

She sat on the bed and shrugged. "I'm trying to harness my inner slut."

"If you're going to insist on acting that way, maybe I should harness my inner Dom and just use you any way I see fit."

Her eyes opened wide. "You'll... Really? You'd do that?"

He swallowed, worried he may have offered something he wasn't capable of. "If that's what you want."

"I'd love that. Not forever, obviously." She flashed him a beautiful smile. "I love our relationship, and don't want that to ever change. But for these two days, maybe you could be a little more domineering. A little less of the sweet, kind you."

Luke had to force down his doubt. "Well, I'll start by ordering you to suck my dick."

Without a beat, she opened her mouth and took in his full length. He groaned as he felt the tip of his cock slide into her tight throat. Luke closed his eyes. Her mouth was soft and warm, and he realised he was still on a plateau after what happened at the truck stop. There was no way he could last long. If he really possessed an inner Dom, he needed to find it soon. He had to find some way of wrestling control back.

"Okay," he said, trying to sound more confident than he felt. "You're going to keep sucking that cock until I'm right on the edge."

Harriet opened her eyes and looked up at his face without stopping her rhythm.

"And then, when I'm ready to blow, I want you to turn around and kneel on the bed. I'm going to blow my load into the creamy mess inside you, and then you're going to walk around the city with two different men's cum inside your slutty hole."

She moaned, sliding her head back and forward, letting his cock almost all the way out before swallowing it again. There was an eagerness to her actions that turned him on even more, which brought about the ending sooner.

Luke gripped her hair and pulled her head back, and she quickly turned to kneel on the bed. He flipped up her short skirt, yanked her thong aside, then stabbed his cock into her soaked hole. Harriet let out a moan, and Luke erupted within seconds.

As she rocked her hips and rubbed her clit, he felt her fingers grazing the base of his shaft. Her ass-cheeks were slick with the juices that had seeped out of her during the drive. Without giving it any thought, he slid his thumb into her butthole.

Harriet squealed and rubbed faster, then he felt the clench of her orgasm on his thumb and his softening cock. Her contraction was so powerful it forced his dick out of her, but Harriet kept her hand busy as she rode out her pleasure.

Luke removed his thumb and slapped her backside. "Stop playing with yourself and lick my dick clean."

She turned around and stared up at him with pink cheeks and a shocked expression, but she did as she was told without breaking eye contact.

The post-orgasmic chemical change in his brain threatened to overcome him, but he forced himself to remember this behaviour was what she wanted. He eased her head back and smiled at her. "Okay, that's enough. For now."

Harriet smiled, obviously amused, and raised her eyebrows in expectation of his next instruction.

"Time to go for a walk around, but I don't want you to clean up before we go." He grinned. "I like the idea of all the goo seeping out onto your thighs."

Harriet straightened her thong and stood up, smiling.

"You'll need to re-apply lip gloss, though. I want all the men staring at you."

She quickly touched up her lips and then joined him at the door. "Where are we going?"

"I thought we could leave the car here and walk into the Old Town. It seems to be really close."

Once they were on the street, she slipped her hand into his and leaned her head against his arm. "It's nice here."

"Yeah. Tomorrow we'll explore it some more."

They walked down the streets and through Heritage Park, where some of the old Victorian architecture reminded them of England, but there were many other unusual and impressive buildings which had been built in the late nineteenth century.

When they came to a street with several restaurants, they decided to stop for a drink. After taking a seat at one of the tables on the pavement, they both ordered beer when the young waitress came over.

"No blueberry pancakes?" Harriet teased.

"No, but then I'm not the one who's determined to overindulge on this road trip."

She laughed, casting an eye at the other customers at the tables. "Speaking of which, who are you going to make me do next?"

"You want another today?"

She shrugged. "I'll do whatever you tell me to do, Sir."

Luke blinked, wondering if he could actually fulfil his side of the bargain. He had no doubt that Harriet could fulfil hers.

The waitress arrived with two beers and a dish of nuts. As she walked away, Luke nodded at her pert bum in the tight jeans she wore beneath her apron.

"Do you want me to proposition the waitress for you?" he asked.

Harriet laughed and shook her head. "I got all I need from a woman last night. For the rest of the trip, the only thing on the menu is cock."

"Any cock?"

"Within reason. I mean, don't expect me to suck off any tramp we find sleeping on a park bench, but other than that—"

"You'd fuck ugly guys?"

"I do that all the time. You should see my husband."

"Ha ha." He glanced down the street. "I was expecting all the stray dogs in the city to be following you."

"Because of the mess seeping out of me, or because I intend to behave like a bitch in heat?"

He chuckled. "Always the smart answer."

She raised her beer bottle in a toast. "You'd better believe it."

Once their drinks were finished, they left the bar and wandered around more of the Old Town. Even though it wasn't much after seven o'clock, the sun was already getting low in the sky. Luke didn't want to risk walking too far in a strange city, so they made their way back to a bar a hundred yards from their hotel. Luke hesitated just inside the door and peered around the room. It felt surreal, almost like a scene from some weird movie. Everyone was unbelievably tall. Luke was a shade over six foot, but most of the men were about six inches taller. Harriet was only five-four, and she was wearing flat shoes. She must have felt like a dwarf. Even the handful of women in the bar were at least as tall as Luke. Everyone gave the newcomers friendly smiles and stood aside to let them get to the bar.

Once he'd been served, Luke smiled up at the guy next to him, who was probably about twenty years old and at least six foot six. "Is there something in the water in San Diego that makes everyone grow so tall?"

The guy grinned. "I wouldn't know. I'm just visiting."

Harriet squeezed in next to Luke. "So are we."

"Sounds like you've travelled a lot further than us. Are you Australians?"

"English. Where've you travelled from?"

"Idaho. We're here for the tournaments."

"Tournaments?"

"Volleyball and beach volleyball, running over the next two days," the twenty-something said, then introduced himself as JZ. "Come and watch the games." He looked at Harriet. "You can be our good luck mascot."

She smiled. "Where's it being held?"

"The early rounds will be at the university campus, but the later stages are at the sports arena. It's all pretty close."

By now, the rest of the guy's friends were surrounding them, all smiling and ogling Harriet. A guy with short hair and a goatee laughed. "As far as our team's concerned, it'll be just at the university. We've never progressed to the later stages."

"We'd love to come and watch," announced Harriet.

A collective whoop went up from the men standing around them, who all raised their glasses in a toast.

Over the next couple of hours, they laughed and chatted with the young men. The guys couldn't seem to keep their eyes off Harriet, and Luke wondered what they'd say if they knew she was standing there with two men's cum in her sloppy, leaking pussy. Both Luke and Harriet answered questions about England and what they did for a living. It turned out that a couple of the guys were students majoring in computing, and they both asked for a job when they graduated. There was a lot of friendly banter with members from other teams as well, and the entire evening proved to be a lot of fun.

Luke and Harriet bid them all goodnight around eleven, assuring them they'd be there to watch their first game.

"We're the Moscow Reds," the one with the goatee told them. "There'll be boards telling you which court we'll be on."

Luke thought he'd misheard. "Moscow?"

The guy nodded. "That's where we're studying, though the club's not actually part of university."

"There's a Moscow in Idaho?"

"Sure is."

"Okay. See you tomorrow." On the street outside, Luke slipped his arm around Harriet's waist and held her close. "That turned out to be a fun evening."

"Hmm."

"Are we really going to watch them tomorrow?"

She looked up with a surprised expression. "Of course. We just said we would."

"Yeah, but..." He shrugged. "They'd been drinking and they may not even remember us by then."

"They will."

"Do you really want to spend your day in San Diego watching volleyball?"

She nodded. "It'll be fun. We can do some sightseeing before the tournament, then maybe go out to dinner somewhere nice later on."

They soon reached the hotel and went straight to their room to take turns in the small shower stall before going to bed.

Harriet snuggled up to him. "Do you know anything about volleyball?"

“Yeah, we played it at school.”

“How many players are there in a team?”

“Six for volleyball, two for beach volleyball.”

“Oh, okay.”

He closed his eyes, assuming the conversation was over.

“Luke?”

“Huh?”

“Do you think the length of men’s cocks is proportional to their height?”

He was momentarily flummoxed, then said, “I guess you’ll have to find out tomorrow.”

“Is that an order, Sir?”

His pulse kicked up a notch. “Do you want it to be?”

“Yes please.”

He swallowed. “Okay, it’s an order.”

Harriet reached down and gripped his cock. He was already hardening, and she pulled him on top of her. Nothing more was said. The sex was heated and relatively brief. When she came, she bit his shoulder. As he neared his own release, he pinned her arms above her head and pounded her with force. After he’d come, he collapsed on top of her. She stroked his back until he fell asleep.

Chapter Four

Luke and Harriet decided to drive into downtown San Diego to get breakfast and see the sights before heading to the university in time for the Reds' first match of the tournament. The day was already warm as they drove down the wide palm-lined boulevards. After finding somewhere to park, they walked for a couple of blocks and found a small café, where they ordered eggs Benedict, drank orange juice, and watched the early morning bustle of the city. Breakfast finished, they spent an hour walking along paths overlooking the ocean and the impressive Coronado Bay bridge.

On their way back to their car, Harriet pulled Luke into a sportswear shop. "I need to get myself something for the tournament."

"Heels and stockings?" he asked, hopefully.

She ignored him, picking a pair of black trainers with a red sole, a black vest, and a silky pair of red shorts. In the shop, she didn't try on anything except the trainers. They walked back to the car and drove to their hotel.

While Harriet changed, Luke studied her new outfit. There was a lot of tanned skin on show, and she looked fabulous.

"Lose the bra."

Her eyebrows went up, but she reached around, undid the clasp and slipped it off. Then she straightened her vest and looked questioningly at him. Her smallish boobs held their shape with no sag, her nipples pushing sexily against the cotton.

“Looks good to me. Since you’re emphasising the Moscow red theme, I suggest some bright red lip gloss.”

Harriet walked to the mirror and applied it, then turned to face him. “Will I do as a lucky mascot?”

“I’m sure they’ll think so.”

The university was only a few minutes’ drive from their hotel. The tournament turned out to be a much bigger deal than Luke had expected, with thousands of people milling around the vast sports fields, which accommodated six rows of ten courts each. They found the board announcing all the games, and located the Moscow Reds’ first match on court D8.

Games were already in session, and there was a cacophony of noise. Each court had a small, cheering crowd and players shouting instructions at each other during the rallies. Each point won brought a toot from the referee’s whistle and whoops from the team who won the point, followed by a round of high-fives.

Luke spotted the guys from the bar, all kitted out in their red vests and bandanas. Seeing Luke and Harriet, they gathered around, all talking at once.

“Hey, you guys came!”

The players had introduced themselves last night, but Luke couldn’t remember any of their names except JZ’s. Fortunately, each player had his name, or nickname, written on his vest. They surrounded Harriet, looming over her so Luke could hardly see her petite frame, each commenting on her outfit and how she made a great mascot. She smiled and laughed along, evidently enjoying all the testosterone-fuelled attention.

She and Luke stood at the edge of the court and watched the players get into their positions. Once the ball was in play, she and Luke shouted encouragement and cheered for each point won. There were a lot of local students watching the game, and Luke noticed quite a few of them checking out his wife as she jumped and cheered on the sidelines.

The Moscow Reds won the first set, narrowly lost the second, then won the final one, giving them the match. There were high-fives amongst the players and, when they walked off court, Harriet gave each one of them a hug. As she reached up to each player, her skimpy red shorts rode up to expose an inch of bum cheek. The others obviously noticed, and Luke got a buzz from watching their reactions.

Ned, the guy with the goatee, announced that their next game would be against Carolina's Sixty-Niners. The guys jeered at the opposition's name, but cheered when he pointed out they had time to visit the beer tent before the match.

He turned towards Luke and Harriet. "You guys gonna come with us?"

"Oh yeah," Harriet said, taking a step forward and slipping her arm around Ned's waist. "Definitely."

"Cool." He grinned, put his arm around her shoulders, and led the way to the beer tent.

Luke spent the next forty minutes watching Harriet laughing and flirting until JZ ambled over to him.

"Dude, can I ask you something?" he said, glancing back at his teammates.

Luke knew what was on the guy's mind. "Sure."

"It's just that..." His long, wiry arms came out, palms up. "We're all having a great time, and we're really happy that you guys came to watch the game, but..." He nodded towards Harriet, who was sitting on a bench next to one of the other players. Both their legs were out straight, but her foot only reached halfway down the guy's shin. "I don't want to be a killjoy here man, but she's hot. I'd hate for any of the guys to say or do something that's gonna diss you."

Luke shook his head. "Don't worry about it. We're having a good time, and Harriet's obviously enjoying herself." He gave a smile. "And if she wants to have a little fun, or even more than a little, I'm cool with that."

JZ's eyes opened wide. "You mean...?" He blinked several times. "You'd be okay with that?"

"Not all Englishmen are the stiff-upper-lip sort of guy."

"Wow man, that's so fucking cool." JZ gave a broad smile, then frowned. "But that might cause a fall-out between the Reds."

"Why should it do that?"

"Everyone'll be fighting for her to choose him."

"There'll be no need for her to choose."

“Seriously?” JZ gaped. “Oh man, this is just so...” He blew out his cheeks. “How can I concentrate on the game now?”

“Maybe she’ll only put out if you win.”

JZ sighed. “The Lord giveth, and he taketh away.”

Luke laughed out loud. “I never had you down as the religious type.”

JZ glanced over at Harriet, who was now sitting on the knee of the guy with the long legs. “I’m not. But I’m praying for a win now.”

“I don’t think a win’s that important. Just enjoy the game, and I’m sure your reward will come.”

Before JZ could answer, Ned announced it was time for their match against the Sixty-Niners. The players trooped out and headed toward the courts, Harriet walking between two guys who were both about six-six.

During the wait for the previous game to finish, the players stood to one side, doing stretching exercises. Luke took the opportunity to join Harriet and slide his arm around her waist. “You seemed to be enjoying yourself with all the tall young men in the bar.”

She looked up and smiled broadly. “Of course I was. Like you said, they’re all tall and young. And athletic.”

“Oh yeah, I forgot about the athletic bit.”

“I didn’t.” She looked back at the guys on the court. JZ whispered something to his team mates, and they all glanced back in her direction before stepping forward to greet their opponents. A grin creased Harriet’s face. “If I were a cruel person, I might emphasise the difference in names.”

“Huh?”

“The Moscow Reds are red-hot, whereas you’re only lukewarm.”

He laughed. “So you’re having a good time?”

“Yeah, I’m having a blast.”

“Well, you’ll certainly be getting a blast later.”

She looked up at him. “What d’you mean by that?”

“I’ve just told them you’ll be up for taking them all.”

She laughed. “No, you—”

“Yes, I have.”

She stared. “All of them? I don’t think I could take—”

“You’ll do as I say.”

Her eyes and mouth opened wide, and he felt a twinge of guilt about being so bossy. But only a tiny twinge. His inner Dom woke up and took over. "At least for the rest of this trip."

She glanced back at the court before looking up into his eyes. "Do you really want me to take them all?"

"You said you wanted to release your inner slut." He broke out of character briefly to add, "After we get home, we can go back to discussing things first, as normal."

She chewed her lower lip, her eyes shining. "Would you still love me if I took on six guys at once?"

"You know I would. And later..." He bent to whisper. "I'll become your seventh."

They held eye contact as their pact was sealed. Then the referee's whistle broke the spell and the game started.

This match was harder, the opposition noticeably better than the previous team the Reds had played. Their new friends lost all three sets, and the players looked pretty dejected as they trudged off the court.

"Tough game," Luke said.

JZ shrugged. "Those guys are a different class. They'll easily qualify for the next round because their final match is against the team we played this morning."

"Does only one team from each group go through?"

"Yeah. But that means it doesn't matter what we do in the next match." JZ grinned. "And beer tent's still open."

All of them went back to the refreshment area, where there were outdoor stalls selling barbecue that smelled great. Luke and a couple of the players joined the food queue while Harriet went with the rest of the players into the beer tent. Ten minutes later they congregated on hay bales laid out as bench seats.

Harriet came to sit with Luke, passing him a beer as he passed her a burger. She glanced around to make sure they wouldn't be overheard. "So, I've been thinking."

He smiled. "What about?"

She shook her head in dismay. "An hour ago, you said you've arranged for me to be gangbanged by six guys. What do you think I've been thinking about?"

“Oh yeah. That.” He gave her a teasing smile. “It’d slipped my mind.”

“Liar. I bet your cock’s been dribbling all morning.”

She wasn’t wrong. “And you’re not wet at all?”

Harriet ignored the question. “So, the guys are all camping out in a campsite set up in one of the local parks.”

“Okay...”

“But they only have small tents, not a nice big one.”

“How many times to do I have to tell you, size isn’t—”

“It is if you want to watch me being the centre of attention for all those guys.” She shrugged. “We can either take them all back to our hotel room, which will look dodgy at best, or we come up with an alternative venue for what you have planned.”

Luke thought about it. If they’d checked into a motel where the rooms were straight off the car park, they could get into the room without the need to walk past the reception desk. He gazed around the campus. There were portable shower blocks and toilet facilities at the perimeter of the field but far too many people around.

Ned and a guy called Jude came over to chat with them.

“It’s a pisser we got drawn in the same group as the Sixty-Niners, but we still have the beach comp tomorrow.”

“You’re in the beach volleyball tournament as well?” Luke asked.

“Yeah.” Ned waved his finger between himself and Jude. “Only us two, and that’s a much smaller tournament. Only a dozen courts, though you’re welcome to come watch that too.”

“Where’s it being held?” Luke asked.

“Mission Beach. We can show you later if you like. We’ll be going over for a look around after our last match here.”

“Yeah, great.” Luke smiled, but he wasn’t very hopeful of finding any privacy on a beach in San Diego.

The final game was much closer, with the Moscow Reds winning the first two sets, losing the third and ending up second in their group. It wasn’t good enough to qualify for the next round, but they were pleased to have won two out of their three matches.

After another visit to the beer tent, Ned led them towards the car park. He turned to Luke and Harriet. “We may as well all travel to the beach together.”

Five minutes later, they reached a Dodge panel van, which reminded Luke of The Mystery Machine from the Scooby Doo films. “This yours?”

“Sure is.” Ned unlocked the side door and slid it back.

Inside was a spacious area with carpet on the floor and bench seats on either side. Excitement thrummed in Luke’s groin. This was the perfect space for Harriet to be the centre of everyone’s attention. When he glanced at her face, he could tell that she was thinking exactly the same thing.

Chapter Five

Ned climbed into the driver's seat, and Jude sat alongside him in the front. Harriet and Luke sat on one bench seat with JZ, and the three other guys took the one opposite, their eyes all firmly fixed on Harriet's legs.

Ned started the van and pulled out of their slot but soon came to a halt. "Could be a while here, people," he said, glancing into the back. "Looks like everyone's leaving at once."

"Maybe we should wait for the queue to die down," Harriet said, pressing her leg against Luke's.

The driver shrugged. "We could be here some time."

"That's okay." She sat forward and peeled off her vest, revealing her bare breasts. "I can think of a good way to pass the time."

Ned and Jude turned around, their eyes going as big as saucers when they saw her. Ned quickly reversed into a vacant space. As the two guys got out the front doors, Luke decided to swap with them. That way he could keep an eye on what was going on inside and outside of the van. The last thing they needed was other people gatecrashing the party.

By the time Luke had turned around to watch, Harriet's shorts and panties had been removed. She was kneeling on the carpet between the bench seats, wearing only her trainers. The guys were all pawing her, Chad gripping his already-stiff cock and pointing it at Harriet's face. She bent over and took him into her mouth. JZ moved up behind her and ran the tip of his cock through her folds a couple of times before pushing inside.

Luke heard his wife's groan, but she didn't release the cock in her mouth. She sucked Chad for a while, then Bodie, sitting to Chad's right, pointed his dick at her face. Harriet released Chad and moved on, bouncing her head up and down and taking Bodie's full length into her throat.

JZ withdrew and allowed Jude to take his place. Harriet had now taken four of the player's cocks inside her, two in her mouth and two in her pussy. Jude gripped her hips and fucked her hard with long, deep strokes.

Harriet's stifled moans told Luke she was already building up to her first orgasm. He watched, trembling. His cock was bone-hard and dripping freely inside his shorts.

Harriet grunted, releasing the cock from her mouth as she pushed herself back to meet Jude's thrusts. Luke watched her face as she came, her eyes closed and painted red lips forming a perfect O. She looked incredibly sexy.

Jude suddenly pulled out and shot a thick cord of semen onto her back. A couple of the other guys cheered, then Ned elbowed him out of the way and took his place.

The California sun beat down on the panel truck, and the inside heated up. Everyone developed a sheen of sweat, even Luke. From the front seat, he watched his beautiful wife surrounded by men, their muscled bodies glistening with sweat and their veiny cocks coated with her juices.

Harriet moved over to suck the last guy on the far bench. She'd now sampled all six cocks, one of which had already spat its load. Luke could tell from the expression of the guy she was sucking that he'd probably be the next to come. Either he'd been turned on from watching the action, or he was less experienced than the others, but after less than a minute in Harriet's mouth, his eyes squeezed tight and his body jerked. Without skipping a beat or spilling a drop, Harriet kept bobbing her head until he'd finished twitching.

Ned pulled out and Chad was about to take his place when Harriet announced her knees were getting sore. She was quickly helped to one of the bench seats, where she was laid flat on her back with one foot on the floor and the other leg raised up against the side of the van. Chad finally got his cock inside her, and Bodie crawled over and fed his cock into her mouth.

The van wasn't high enough to allow anyone to stand upright, particularly men so tall, so the others either knelt or half-crouched around the two men using her body. Harriet was rocking her hips and pulling Chad deeper, no doubt approaching her second orgasm. He fucked her hard and then held still. Knowing he was coming inside her seemed to get her over the line. She dropped her head back and screamed, releasing Bodie's cock from her mouth in the process. He wanked his cock while waiting to get it back in her mouth. She parted her lips just as he exploded. Though she pushed her head forward to catch the subsequent spurts, most of his jizz hit her in the face and hair.

As the two guys backed off, JZ entered her once again and Jude fed his cock into her mouth, which brought home something Luke hadn't considered. These guys were all young and fit; some of them, maybe all, would be able to come twice. Harriet could end up taking twelve shots of cum by the time this was over. Although a little concerned for her wellbeing, the idea of it sent wicked thrills running through him.

Luke was now uncomfortably hot, but nobody in the back seemed to be suffering. The air was thick with the smell of sex. Harriet slid to the floor and lay on carpet between the benches, legs bent and arms stretched out above her head. Jude positioned himself between her knees, pushed them wide and entered her. She let out a guttural groan.

Rather than groping her or sticking their cocks in Harriet's face like earlier, the other guys seemed happy to hang back. Luke watched his wife getting nailed. Jude was giving it to her hard, the sweat dripping from his face onto her flat belly. Glancing at the guys surrounding them, Luke saw they were all slowly wanking, keeping themselves hard while waiting their turn.

Jude ploughed into Harriet with force then, just as he had the first time, he withdrew and sent his cum up onto her belly. Ned practically pulled Jude out of the way and immediately entered her. He fucked her slowly, taking his time and watching her face. She said something to him that Luke didn't hear, and he smiled. She reached up and wiped the sweat from his brow. Then he picked up the pace and Luke realised Harriet's moans were getting louder. As Ned fired his load inside her, Harriet reached her third orgasm. The two of them writhed together for another minute or so, then Ned finally withdrew.

Before anyone could take his place, Harriet rolled over and raised up onto all fours, which was the position she'd started in. Luke heard her tell the guys she'd take two at a time, and as Chad fed his cock into her mouth, the guy whose name Luke couldn't remember entered her from behind. The guy behind came first, spilling his seed inside her, and he was immediately replaced. Harriet looked up at her husband with shining eyes and cum smeared all over her face as she was railed from behind. Luke remembered her doing this the very first time she'd taken another man during their marriage. In Oslo, she'd stared into his eyes while the sax player had fucked her. She was doing it again, and Luke found it difficult to breathe. Bodie increased the speed and force of his thrusts, then with a grunt he dropped his head back and added his own cream to the mess inside her.

The van was suddenly silent. JZ leaned on one of the bench seats. The other five guys were kneeling or sitting on the floor of the van, breathing heavily. Harriet had taken them all twice, and the young guns were out of ammo.

Luke cleared his throat. "Well guys, I guess we won't be going to the beach with you today, after all."

Chad handed Harriet a vest from an unused kit for her to wipe herself down with, then JZ passed Harriet her clothes. By the time Luke had got out and walked around to the side door, she had her shorts and vest on. JZ held her hand to steady her as she climbed out to join Luke on the field.

Still naked, Ned leaned just his head out of the door. "We'd love to see you both at the beach tomorrow, but either way, this has been our best tournament ever."

The others shouted their agreement.

Luke smiled. "We'll find you, I promise."

Then he slipped his arm around his wife's waist and guided her back to where they'd left the car.

"Are you okay?" he whispered, glancing at her. There was still cum in her hair.

"Are you?" She sounded worried.

"I'm better than okay." He pulled her closer. "I'm married to the sexiest woman I've ever seen."

* * * *

When they got back to their hotel room, Luke started to draw a bath. He returned to the bedroom, dropped to his knees, and untied Harriet's trainers. After removing them, he peeled down her shorts and panties. Her entire groin area was covered in cum, some dried on her skin, some still wet and seeping out of her. He stood up and pulled off her vest, revealing more dried-on jizz all over her torso, front and back.

She brushed her lips against his cheek. “Didn’t you say something about being the seventh?”

“That was before I knew the first six would want to use you twice.”

“But aren’t you horny?”

“Yeah, but I’ve got you for another fifty years. I can wait.”

She gave a tired smile. “Thank you.”

“Do you want a drink?”

“I’d love a bottle of water and a glass of white wine.”

He leaned forward and kissed her forehead. “Go get in the bath, I’ll be back in five minutes.”

Luke went down to the hotel bar, ordered Harriet’s drinks and a beer for himself, then returned to their room. After giving Harriet her drinks, he sat on the bed and thought about everything he’d witnessed in the van. His cock thickened, but he ignored it.

Harriet eventually walked out of the bathroom wearing a white robe. Her makeup was gone and her hair was tousled from towel drying.

He smiled at her. “How are you feeling?”

“Satiated.”

“I’m not surprised.”

She opened her robe to show the pale blue bikini she’d worn at the hotel pool in LA. “I thought we could go for a swim.”

Luke nodded. “I’d like that.”

He quickly changed into his swimming shorts and a clean t-shirt. Five minutes later, they lay on loungers at the side of the hotel pool. Even though it was a little after six, the sun still felt warm on his body.

“What do you want to do tomorrow?” he asked, wondering if she’d prefer not to see the six young men again.

“Go to the beach and watch the volleyball. We said we would, and I’d like to keep our word.”

“Okay.”

Harriet grinned. “Besides, if there are only two players in a team, that’ll be much easier for me.” Before he had time to answer, she got off the lounge and walked over to the hot tub. She lowered herself into bubbling water, lay back and closed her eyes.

Luke saw several of the men around the pool cast admiring glances at his wife and smiled at the thought of them knowing how she’d spent her afternoon.

Tomorrow would be their last day in San Diego. They'd have to drive back to LA tomorrow evening for their flight back to England the following morning. Their trip to California had been better than he could ever have dreamed, and they still had the beach volleyball to look forward to.

The Hotwife Key Party: Harriet

Harriet and Luke's life has evolved over the last six months.

Their start-up software business gained momentum and several large contracts. That success allowed them to buy a glorious Edwardian sandstone house in a picturesque town in the Peak District. Not only does it have four bedrooms, two bathrooms and extensive gardens, the barn has been converted to a modern office, which means no more rush-hour commuting.

But the most fulfilling transformation of all is in their sex life. After Luke watched Harriet give herself to another man on Christmas Eve in Oslo, it opened a whole new world of pleasure for both of them.

She followed that up with two threesomes, the first with a man and a woman, the next with two men. A chance encounter with a bull in the Canary Islands leads to the couple joining a contact site so Harriet can sample some alpha bulls.

Being members of the contact site also elicits an invitation to attend an exclusive party in California. Harriet and Luke accept, knowing this might be a once in-a-lifetime opportunity to enjoy a truly hedonistic experience. So, like countless would-be starlets before them, they pack their bags and head for Hollywood. But unlike the vast majority of would-be starlets, all of Harriet's dreams are fulfilled.
