

I MARRIED A PARTY GIRL¹

BEN BOSWELL KENNY WRIGHT

I MARRIED A PARTY GIRL

BOOK 1

KENNY WRIGHT

BEN BOSWELL

Copyright © 2022 by Kenny Wright and Ben Boswell

All rights reserved.

Cover design by Kenny Wright

Cover image © wundervisuals / istockphoto.com

First digital edition electronically published by KW Publishing, February 2022

No part of this book may be reproduced in any form or by any electronic or mechanical means, including information storage and retrieval systems, without written permission from the author, except for the use of brief quotations in a book review.

CONTENTS

Chapter 1

Chapter 2

Chapter 3

Chapter 4

Chapter 5

Chapter 6

Chapter 7

Chapter 8

Chapter 9

Chapter 10

Chapter 11

Chapter 12

Chapter 13

Chapter 14

Chapter 15

About Kenny Wright

About Ben Boswell

Also by Kenny Wright and Ben Boswell

So, are you going to call Ash when you're in Atlanta?"

"I doubt they want to see me."

I was putting away dishes, and Kenzie was finishing off a glass of wine in the kitchen.

"Why would you say that?" my wife asked.

I chuckled. "If I were married to Ashley, I wouldn't be looking to spend time with other dudes."

Kenzie laughed, and then with her hand saucily on her hip, she replied, "Oh, you think you're so irresistible?"

"You can't resist me."

"I have low standards."

"Ouch," I said. "Mean... but true."

"Seriously, Brad, I'm sure they'd love to see you. You don't need to spend every night at the strip clubs."

I tried to look scandalized. "Jeez, Honey, I don't do that."

"Uh huh. You never get a lap dance when you're out of town on business?" Then before I could answer, she chuckled and threw her hand up, "Forget it. Don't answer that. I don't want to know."

"I'll call them. What's her hubby's name again?"

"Seriously? We went to their fucking wedding."

I winced extravagantly. “Baby, the kids!”

“Are asleep. And anyway, have you ever listened to how the little fuckers talk to their friends?” She laughed at my reaction, then continued, “His name is Dave. And what’s with the Baby and Honey?”

“I’m just feeling the love.”

She laughed. I loved the way she laughed. Eyes narrowed and shining. It was her laugh that first caught my attention. Well, that and her tits.

“Come on, she’s my one of my oldest friends. Just pop in and say hi.”

“You sure you and Ashley never hooked up?” I asked.

She rolled her eyes. “Yes, of course we did. All the time. Friday at Chi Omega was lingerie and pillow fight night followed by carpet munching until dawn.”

“I’ll take that as a yes.”

“You do that. So, you’ll call them?”

I smiled. “Of course. Now... since the kids are in bed....”

Kenzie walked over. Well, not walked as much as... sashayed. I took in her curves. She’s my wife, so my thought wasn’t cool. Not PC. But it was, fucking sexy bitch. Long, wavy dark brown hair, hazel eyes, and that body. Ouch.

“What are you thinking?” she asked seductively.

“Do you still have your waitress outfit?”

She giggled. “My Hooters uniform? You know I do.”

My dick stiffened. It was our dirty little secret. Not that there was anything wrong with it. But yeah, she was my waitress, Kenzie with a heart over the “i.” I still have the napkin on which she gave me her digits.

Kenzie walked over to me and pressed up against me. I cupped her hips and stole a glimpse into her cleavage. I kissed her full lips.

“Put it on,” I suggested.

“You know Ashley has one too?”

“She does?”

“Uh huh. Does that really surprise you? Maybe she’ll model it for you.”

I laughed. And then stepped away from the trap. “You’re the only woman for me.”

She rose. I sighed. “I better be. And no Hooters outfit tonight. It’s late. But if you help me fold the laundry, maybe I’ll make it worth your while?”

“Maybe?” I said.

She chuckled. “Depends on how good a job you do.”

Apparently, I am the best damn laundry folder in the whole fucking world. Or at least that’s how Kenzie made me feel.

I’m not sure if this is romantic or creepy, but not only is my wife a babe, she’s also exceptional at the whole sexing thing. I mean, mad skilz, as the kids might say. It’s not just that she can suck a golf ball through a garden hose, but she’s also a master with her hands. When I’m on top, she makes me feel like a star, legs in the air, toes curled. And when she’s on top, God, fucking heaven. Seeing her face twisted in ecstasy, her big boobs bouncing, feeling her pussy sliding up and down my shaft. Mind-blowing. It’s only too bad that between work and kids and, well, just life, we did this much less often than we used to.

“Jesus, you’re good at that.”

“Thanks, Honey,” she replied. “That doesn’t make me feel too much like a whore.”

I laughed. “Sorry. I meant, you’re a terrible lay.”

She slapped my chest. “I don’t know why I put up with you.”

“Because of the dick. You can’t get enough,” I proposed.

She laughed. “True enough. But then again... it’s not like you have a monopoly on that.”

“Oh. You have a boyfriend for when I am out of town?”

“You think just one?”

“Haha.”

“And just when you’re out of town?”

“Ouch.”

“You started it.”

“Did I?”

She got up out of bed. My eyes followed her perfect ass as she picked up her brush and walked over to her bureau. She began brushing out her hair, still naked. I can’t quite explain why I found that so sexy. It’s like she’d majored in playing me. Not that I minded in all honesty.

“I’ll call Ashley and Dave. It’ll be nice to see them. Do they have kids yet?”

Kenzie turned to face me. I stared involuntarily at her full boobs.

“Eyes up here,” she said. Then laughed. “Never mind. Keep looking. Nice to know they still have you mesmerized after almost fifteen years.”

“Forever.”

“No kids. And don’t mention that. I think it might be a sore spot.”

“Oh? Why do you say that?”

“No real reason. She’s never mentioned it, but I mean, who wouldn’t want some screaming poop monsters of their own?”

“Sane people?” I suggested.

“You love ‘em,” she replied.

“Of course. Couldn’t imagine life without them.”

And I couldn’t. Two kids. A boy and a girl. A dog and a cat. A house in the suburbs. A great job and a beautiful wife. What more is there in life?

This is a nice house, Man.”

I looked around at Ashley and Dave’s spacious home. It was new construction, which meant open-plan living spaces and high-ceilings and a white kitchen.

“Thanks.” Dave clapped his hand on my back. “We actually just had it built. Moved in, like, what? Two months ago? So sorry for the mess.”

I looked around, puzzled by that. The only mess that I saw were some picture frames still leaning against the wall, and a random box in the corner.

“This is a mess?” I chuckled. At home, our walls seemed to be forever lined with clutter—toys, craft supplies, random kid artwork. The dining table was covered in paper, mail, empty glasses and dishes and it was stressing me out just thinking about it!

“Dave’s a bit of a neat freak.” It was Ashley saying it, coming down the wide stairway to join us. Even dressed casually, she was breathtaking. A loose, white sweater hung off of one shoulder, revealing a slender, white bra strap, and her jeans clung to her shapely calves and thighs before disappearing into a pair of suede ankle boots. “But I wouldn’t have married an architect and expected anything different.”

She sidled up to Dave and hugged him close. Something about the way that they looked at one another made me think of newlyweds. There was a sexual energy that passed between them that I don’t normally associate with couples who’ve been together for so many years.

Or maybe it was just how hot Ashley looked. Not even her sweater could hide her full tits, or the shine of her long, golden hair, or how bright her deep, blue eyes were. She could wrap her arms around a telephone pole and make it seem sexual.

It got me thinking about Ashley in her Hooter's uniform, and how good that must look stretched across those big breasts—bigger than even Kenzie's, which was saying something.

Ashley noticed me looking, but just smiled to herself. I secretly blamed Kenzie for that. She's put the thought in my head.

"How's it going, Brad?" she said instead. "Long fucking time, Man."

Even her voice dripped sex. Not that it was a low and husky sex-operator one, but she carried the confidence of one. Much like my wife.

"Yeah. Kenzie says hi, and sorry she couldn't join me."

"Holding down the fort?"

I tried to gauge whether the kids thing really was a sore spot or not. I couldn't tell, but felt awkward anyway. "She said she couldn't just blow off her job."

Ashley laughed. "Now that doesn't actually sound like her. You make that up?"

And Kenzie hadn't said it. "I didn't actually ask her."

"Because you wanted some 'alone time,'" she said with big, exaggerated air quotes. She smirked at Dave. "This one likes strip clubs, too. Don't you honey."

Dave finally found his voice. "By 'this one,' you're talking about yourself, right? If I recall, last time we went to one, you were practically insisting."

And that sounded just like the wild Ashley that I'd pieced together over the years.

She rolled those big blue eyes of hers. “God, you’re going to hold that over me forever, aren’t you? We were in Vegas. Isn’t there some saying about that?”

Glancing at me, Dave said, “Don’t worry. Most of what happened there has stayed there.”

I had a very vivid, very sudden image of the busty blond making out with a naked stripper. My pants tightened as I fought that fantasy down. It didn’t help when the stripper morphed into my wife.

“So, um, thanks for having me over for dinner.”

“Right. Dinner. Come on, let’s eat. Spaghetti’s getting cold.”

Spaghetti came with wine. Quite a lot of wine. Despite that—and the way our evening began—the conversation was pretty neutral. I talked about my work and what I was doing in Atlanta. Brad and Ashley caught me up on their lives, and since I barely knew them, that amounted to learning anything about their lives.

He was an architect, and she was a teacher at the local high school, and yes, my mind immediately went to how lucky those kids were to have an English teacher who looked like Ashley. In fact, I’d enjoyed enough wine by that point that I just blurted it out.

“If I’d had a teacher like you back in the day, I probably would have paid more attention in English Lit.”

It was the kind of thing I would say to my wife. Being a recruiter for a consultancy, she was frequently visiting colleges and giving presentations, and I couldn’t help myself. But Ashley wasn’t my wife.

“Sorry, that didn’t come out right,” I said.

“You’re as bad as Dave,” she said with a chuckle. “I prefer my lovers a little older than that, though. Now those boys are just about perfect.” She glanced at the TV in the next room.

“You follow Liverpool FC?” If there was one flaw to Kenzie, it was that she didn’t care about sports. She was that woman who called hockey goals points and touchdowns home runs.

“Dave does. I just look at the eye candy.”

“She’s got a crush on Salah,” Dave said.

“You know how I like those darker skinned boys.” She wiggled her brows at her husband.

“I’m a huge Liverpool fan,” I said, ignoring whatever was going on between them. “What do you think of this year’s club?”

And that was how Dave and I bonded. What started as a chore-like, obligatory house visit became something actually enjoyable—beyond just getting to ogle my wife’s best friend, I mean. Dave was actually the kind of guy I could be friends with...if he didn’t live thousands of miles away.

In addition to being a Liverpool fan—and an English Premiership fan in general—he was into cycling, like me, was training for a half triathlon, like I was, and probably the most common thread between us, he was a good looking guy married to a woman who was still way out of his league. The struggle was very real.

Beyond that, he was just a nice guy. Easy-going, funny but in a mild-mannered way. That unexpected kinship was so powerful that it distracted me from Ashley enough that I didn’t realize she was standing until she was on her feet.

“Well, I’m going to head up,” Ashley announced. “If I don’t see you before you head out, it was nice seeing you, Brad.”

She opened her arms for a big hug, and I held it for most likely too long. “It was good to see you.”

“Glad you finally remembered I existed,” she said. “But I’m glad you guys are getting along.”

“Night,” I said.

“Good night.” She looked pointedly at Dave, brows raised, before disappearing towards the stairs.

I knew that look well enough. It was time for me to leave. I pulled out my phone to order an Uber when Dave turned to me and said, “We are lucky guys, aren’t we?”

His eyes were still on the stairs, where his wife had gone.

“Yeah, man. Sorry about that comment about the high school guys.”

“You kidding me? It’s a real thing.” He looked at me, quickly adding, “Not that she’d ever go there. Way, way too young. Definitely not her type.”

“I was only kidding anyway.”

“No worries. No worries.” He went to the kitchen and popped open another bottle of wine. My head throbbed as I imagined my hangover tomorrow, but I still let him refill my glass. “You know how it is. I’ve seen Kenzie on Facebook. She’s definitely not lost it. Looks even better now, honestly.”

“Thanks,” I said. This felt a little awkward.

“It’s, like, really good to have someone else to talk to about this.”

I wasn’t sure what this was, but I’d seen Ashley’s look. “Yeah, it was nice, but I probably should get going.”

“Naw, stay. It’s not Premier League, but Falcons-Saints tonight. Should be a barn burner.” He took a gulp of his wine. “Where does that expression come from anyway?”

“Damned if I know. Maybe people burned barns for sport back in the day?”

I followed him back into the family room. Very modern. White leather sofas, chrome and glass side tables, and a wall of mirrors. He clicked on the game just as the camera was panning over a line of fetching cheerleaders gyrating sensuously.

“They don’t have that in Premier League,” he noted.

“The one flaw.”

“I wonder how hot soccer fans get close to the players?”

I laughed. “You ever seen when they pan the crowds? Not much of that going on. At least not Premier League. Now, La Liga. Mmmm. Anyway, I think it is more than just about girls wanting to get close to athletes.”

He rolled his eyes. “Uh huh. Just like straight guys joining the drama club. Has nothing to do with getting friendly with hot, crazy, actor chicks.” He took a swig of beer. “You know, Ashley was a cheerleader back in high school.”

That didn’t surprise me. Petite, good-looking, blonde. She fit the stereotype.

“Yeah, she was apparently pretty good. A flyer. You know, the girls they throw in the air. Fearless. Might have gotten recruited, except....”

He cupped imaginary breasts.

“Huh?”

He chuckled. “Boobs came in.”

I shook my head.

“I don’t know. Unbalanced her. Lost her aerodynamics. Anyway, I guess those were enough to attract the attention of buff wide receivers with a lot less work.”

I forced a laugh. I mean, on one hand it was sort of exciting to hear him talk about Ashley that way. On the other hand, it was a bit awkward.

“What about Kenzie? Did she cheer?”

“Naw. Not into sports I told you.”

He nodded pensively. “Musicians then. I could totally see that.”

I had to give him credit. That was insightful.

“Actually, yeah, she was dating a guitarist before we met.”

“Just one?”

“As far as I know.”

“Oh, you know,” he insinuated. “Any rappers?”

Okay, that was more than a little awkward. But despite that, I felt like I had to give him something.

“I don’t know about rappers, but she did date a fireman for a while.”

He nodded and laughed and reached out to clink his glass to mine. I wasn’t sure what I was cheering, but I went along with it.

“You boys seem to be having fun.”

I looked up and my mouth dropped open. Ashley was dressed to go clubbing. A skin-tight royal blue, cleavage baring party dress, short enough that it barely seemed to cover her shapely ass. Black thigh-high boots with spiked heels. Hair in loose spiral curls, golden bangles on her wrist, and choker necklace.

“Oh, I didn’t know you two were going out,” I said apologetically to Ashley, pointedly to Dave.

She swished over, brushing close enough to me as she passed that I could smell her perfume. She bent over to kiss her husband, and I caught a glimpse of a black g-string before I looked away.

“We’re not going out. I am,” she said with a smirk that let me know she’d caught me looking.

She turned to her husband. “You’ll be up when I get back, right?”

He nodded, his eyes a little glassy. “Of course. That’s the best part.”

She chuckled. “Sometimes.”

Then ass swaying, she crossed into the kitchen. Her heels click-clacked across the tile in the foyer, and she was gone.

“That’s my vixen,” he said.

We watched the game in silence for a while. Saints started out on fire, but Atlanta kept it close. Dave seemed distracted, and I thought I should probably leave. I finished my wine and put it down on the table decisively in preparation to go.

He startled. “Oh, right, right, sorry, we’re both empty.” He rose quickly and went to get another bottle. The third? Maybe fourth of the evening.

“No, no, that’s okay—”

He refilled my glass again and sighed. “Sorry. I just get so.... You know what it’s like when they go out.”

I nodded in some vague sense of solidarity.

“Does Kenzie play when you’re out of town?”

“She’s mostly with the kids when I travel, though I guess she did go see a friend’s band the last time.”

“Still into musicians, eh?”

“Uh, I guess.”

We watched the game some more. Not much defense, but a solid back and forth contest. Dave kept pounding through the wine.

“That would be hard,” he said suddenly.

“Huh?” My ability to think clearly was clearly diminished.

“Her going out while you’re out of town.”

I shrugged. “I mean, yeah, a little. But my mother-in-law babysits, and we’ve even left the kids with her overnight.”

He nodded, impressed. “Overnight is hardcore.”

Which is probably true. I know some parents who don’t let the kids out of their sight well into their teens. “Yeah, well, we’re extreme that way.”

“Yeah, I couldn’t handle anything out of sight.”

His phone buzzed with an incoming text. He read it and grinned.

“Speaking of the devil.” He stood up purposefully and nodded toward the hallway. “Come on.” I followed him without thinking. He opened an app on his phone. “Watch this.”

With a single click, he transformed the house. The TV went off, the blinds came down, all the lights dimmed.

“Uh, romantic?” I said uneasily.

He chuckled. We turned the corner and he opened what looked like a closet door, but when I entered, I realized it was a small room, with acoustic panels on the wall, a wet bar, and a comfortable sofa facing what looked like a smoked window. He closed the door behind us.

“Sit,” he said.

I hesitated. This was creepy. But also intriguing.

“Uh, I’ll stand for a bit.”

He shrugged and sat himself on the sofa. Then with another button push on his phone, the window cleared suddenly and I realized we were looking through the back of the family room mirror into the space where we’d just been, but offering a view into the entire open plan first floor.

“Whoa!”

“Cool, eh? Perks of being an architect.”

“But what...?”

I trailed off as the front door opened. The light came on in the foyer, and I watched in shock as Ashley entered, holding hands, and trailing behind her a very tall, very slender, very handsome, and very black man in an expensively tailored grey, linen suit. I glanced down anxiously at Dave, but he was grinning excitedly.

“Ohhh, Baby,” he sighed. “You outdid yourself this time.”

Now, I don’t want to seem naive. I had an idea what was going on, but that didn’t prevent me from being shocked.

Ashley had a small, confident smile on her face, and she gave us—well, Dave, since I don’t think she knew I was still there—a wink as she led this elegant stranger into their house. The man looked around the house, seeming pleasantly surprised. She tried to lead him further inside, but he yanked back on her hand and pulled her into an embrace. Ashley rose up on her tiptoes to meet him. They kissed passionately, wetly, his hands cupping her ass, pulling up her dress. But when he tried to kiss her again, she playfully slapped his chest.

“Oh, I almost forgot,” Dave said.

Another click....

I heard Ashley's voice, amplified loud in the small room, "Patience big boy."

I looked down at Dave. He waved away my concerns. "Soundproof."

"Oh, I am big," he replied in a deep voice that made the walls rumble.

"I know it, Andre, otherwise you wouldn't be here."

"You think you can handle it?"

She giggled and walked him into the family room, her arm around his waist, his large, dark hand palming her bare ass.

"No thong..." I gasped.

Dave nodded and replied proudly, "It's Ashley's closer. Not many men can resist being handed a woman's just removed g-string."

A closer. A purpose-built voyeur room. I was reeling.

She led him to the sofa. Then with her back to us, just a few feet away, they embraced again. With the volume up, our viewing room was filled with the sounds of their wet hungry kissing. He mauled her butt with both hands, squeezing, kneading, pulling her cheeks apart to expose her enticing, puckered asshole. I gazed at Dave. He was leaning forward, staring intently, and when Andre teased her anus with his fingertip both Ashley and her husband moaned.

She pushed him away, and then edged him back onto the sofa. He sat down, arms over the back of the cushions, perfectly comfortable being in another man's home, messing around with another man's wife.

"Want a drink?" she asked.

He nodded.

She ducked into the kitchen and returned with a bottle of champagne and a single flute. She handed him the bottle, and let out a cute little squeal as he popped the cork. She poured his glass.

“Nothing for you?” he asked.

“Oh Baby, I’m going to be much too busy to be drinking bubbly.”

He took a sip and grinned. “Yeah?”

She swayed seductively, and then slowly dropped to her knees between his thighs. “Yeah.”

She unzipped his fly and cooed appreciatively, “Oh, Baby.”

Then playing to her audience, she slowly kissed around his shaft, moving aside to give her husband a nice view of Andre’s prodigious, ebony cock, which she slowly stroked up and down.

“Oh, Baby,” Dave echoed his wife.

Her slender, pale fingers gripped Andre’s hard, thick shaft, and she angled her hands so that her wedding band was visible sliding along the bottom of his prick. She kissed the head tenderly as if to thank him in advance for the pleasure she was about to receive. She licked back around so that she was again centered between his legs. It hid the view of his cock, but Ashley knew what she was doing. Thrusting her ass back, she dropped her head in his lap and began slurping noisily, giving us a great view of her ass, her pink starfish, and her lovely, shaved snatch. As she made love to his cock, she rocked sexily, and her slit swelled visibly, beginning to glisten, hints of pink poking through, and then finally, in slow motion, her pussy cleaved apart, pulsing wetly, almost demanding to be penetrated by a hard cock.

“Fuck yeah,” Andre groaned. He threaded his fingers into her hair. “Look at how much of it you can take. Damn!”

I couldn’t see the blowjob, but I could hear it—wet and gagging and hot in a way that porn is hot. It wasn’t real. This shit couldn’t be real. Before I could find my voice, though, Dave turned to me, grinning.

“Isn’t that so fucking hot?”

“Uh, yeah.”

“She’s so good at sucking dick, Man. It’s unreal.” He licked his lips, his attention mostly on the action. I could tell he had something he was hesitant to ask me—which, considering the circumstances was pretty funny.

Outside the room, Andre seemed to draw Ashley in even deeper. Her chokes grew louder, wetter. It made me think of Kenzie, although it had been quite a while since she’d given me such a loud, nasty blowjob. I’d also never dream of using her the way Andre used Ashley, like some fuck-toy.

“Did, um, Ashley ever...” Dave hesitated. “She ever do that to you?”

I blinked. Did I hear that correctly? “What?”

“Back in the day, I mean.”

“You two were engaged when I met her,” I said. Like that was the end of it. Apparently, it wasn’t.

“I totally promise, I won’t be mad. I’m just curious. That whole Hooters period is like ground zero for all of this.” He waved into the living room, where his wife was fellating a black man. As if any of what he was saying made any sense.

Ashley rose and whipped her dress up over her head, and for a second, I figured she was transitioning to the fucking portion of the evening. Instead, she only came up halfway before leaning in, her shoulder blades coming together, her hands cupping the sides of her breasts. Again, I couldn’t see what she was doing, but I didn’t need to.

“You’ve been thinking about doing this all night, haven’t you, baby?” she said.

“That feels good.”

“You like fucking my tits?” She stared up at him. “I like watching your big, black cock slide between my white titties. Mmm. Looks so naughty.”

This was another thing that Kenzie used to do for me. I still remember the first time she'd wrapped her tits around my cock. She'd come home horny from a shift at Hooters and left those small, orange short shorts on.

"She really does love doing that," Dave said, mesmerized. "I've watched her do that with so many guys, Man."

"You, um, do this often?"

"Not often. Well, until recently. This room makes it easier, you know?"

I didn't. I had no fucking idea what was going on. Which was pretty odd. I'd been around the block a few times, but this was different from anything I'd ever been a part of. Back in the day, when I was hooking up, none of us had the resources to set up this kind of operation, and I doubt anyone would have wanted to. The goal was always getting off, not watching other people do it.

Back in the living room, the action continued. Andre reached down, grabbing Ashley by the back of the neck. He pulled her roughly to him, kissing her deeply. She grabbed his cock, pumping her spit down the enormous column of hard flesh.

"So, what do you think Kenzie's up to right now?"

Hearing my wife's name sent an uncomfortable jolt through me. For a confusing moment, I looked out and imagined it was my wife out there, another man's hands fisting her dark, brown hair.

I started putting together some of the things Dave had been saying, and the picture forming was wild. Also, hilariously misconstrued.

"She's probably getting ready for bed?"

Dave barked a laugh, like I'd made a joke that I hadn't.

Ashley climbed into Andre's lap, twisting around and swinging her legs over his, facing outward. Grasping the man's glistening cock, she positioned it at the entrance of her bare, shaven pussy. Looking right at us—so clearly that I flinched, like she could actually see us—she lowered herself onto Andre, her tiny little pussy stretched around his girth.

“That shit never, ever gets old. Fuck.” Dave groaned, rubbing his cock through his pants. He looked at me, like he was contemplating asking me if he could whip it out.

I shook my head slowly. Please no.

He shrugged, turning back to his wife. “When I first walked in on her doing this, I freaked. We almost broke up.” He shook his head. “Took a long time to accept, but what the hell? I love her. She loves cock—especially BBC—so why deny her? She’s not gonna leave me.”

Kenzie’s not like this, were the words that I really wanted to say. I didn’t, and I have no idea why. Instead, I asked a question that I really didn’t want to know the answer to. “This happened a lot back when they were working at Hooters?”

“That’s when I found out about it. I pieced together that it happened before, too. Not just with us, but with their past boyfriends.”

Us. That felt molten in my stomach. “Oh...yeah?”

“Ash told me there wasn’t a boyfriend that she didn’t cheat on. She tried to be good with me, but then some guy like Andre there would crook his finger at her and the next thing she knew, she was blowing him in the bathroom.”

“That’s...” That’s what? That was fucked up? Yes. That was a crazy situation? Uh huh. That was inexplicably arousing to think about? Shamefully, sort of, kind of.

Andre bent Ashley forward. She braced herself on the coffee table as they shifted. He really began to give it to her, her plump tits swinging with each thrust. Sweat began to build on their skin. Her blond locks were wet, clinging to her forehead. And still, she continued to stare right at us.

“You remember Deshawn, right? The manager at Hooters?”

I did not. For whatever reason, though, I said, “Sounds familiar.”

“Tall black guy. Shaved head with a goatee? He had an earring. For some reason, I always remember the earring.”

Now that Dave mentioned it, the man did ring a bell. I remember getting jealous of the guy when I was in there. He’d flirt with Kenzie, and I always thought it was inappropriate. But also kind of found it sexy in a weird way.

“He’s the guy that you caught her with?” I managed to say.

“You guessed it. Even back then, it was hot. I just was in too much shock to realize it. How about you?”

“Me?”

“Yeah. You ever watch Kenzie with Deshawn?”

“Dude—”

“Or fuck, Kenzie and Ashley with him?”

“Dave—”

“Or you remember Angela? That stacked redhead who worked there? I heard all three of them did him once. Now that would have been off the chain.”

“I never saw her.”

Because she never did that with me, I didn’t add.

Why didn’t I add that?

Through the glass, things were coming to a close. Their bodies were slick, white glistening skin against dark onyx. In the low, romantic light of the living room, the lurid dance picked up steam. Andre grabbed Ashley's hair, pulling back.

And all I could imagine was him doing that to Kenzie.

When Ashley moaned at the pain, I heard Kenzie moaning instead. When Andre slapped Ashley's meaty ass, I could practically feel Kenzie's jiggling beneath my palm. Or Andre's palm. Or Deshawn's.

"Does Kenzie play when you're out of town?"

The things that Dave had asked before my eyes were truly open started to come back.

"That would be hard... Her going out while you're out of town..."

But it wasn't. Because she didn't.

"I couldn't handle anything out of sight."

Right?

I fought the urge to text her right here and now. Instead, I stood awkwardly behind Dave as he watched his wife get fucked into the coffee table by a handsome black man.

"Next time, when you come, bring Kenzie. Maybe we could get an even better show."

I felt numb. I don't remember fully what I did after that. I remember nodding. Thanking him for an evening. Outside, Ashley was blowing Andre again. This wasn't over just yet, and I had no idea how long the show would continue. Just that I needed to go. The weirdness factor had now surpassed the heat index.

"You can go out the side," he said. "Just don't slam any doors and you should be good. Thanks for coming, buddy."

He didn't rise to shake my hand. He looked more eager for me to get out of there than I did, probably so he could finally drop his pants and crank it.

"Later, Man. Thanks for dinner."

He winked. "And the show?"

I cannot remember whether I slammed the door or not, but I have vague recollections of running through the neighborhood, just to get away from the insanity.

I would have liked to continue running until I got out of Atlanta and got home. But instead, I ended up back at my hotel with another day in town ahead of me. I stopped by the hotel bar for a stiff drink, a double bourbon slap in the face to calm me down.

It worked. My mind slowed from a million miles an hour to a thousand. Still fast, but at least manageable. It allowed me to come to three conclusions.

First, watching Ashley fuck was insanely sexy. I'd always thought she was a piece of ass, to put it crudely, and as it turned out, I didn't have a clue how hot she really was. I still didn't. From the way she moaned when Andre played with her asshole, I knew the show I'd seen had just barely scratched the surface.

Second, I'd be replaying that scene in my mind for years to come, and surely adding onto it with my imagination.

Third, I would never, ever tell Kenzie what I'd seen.

There, everything was now in a nice box.

Where it remained through a fitful night sleep and a day of hungover meetings.

After last night's excitement, I decided to take it easy: A visit to Hal's for a bone-in ribeye, a glass of California Cab, and an early night's sleep. So, after a shower and FaceTime with Kenzie and the kids, I went downstairs to catch a cab to the restaurant.

"Heya, Brad."

I startled at the sound of my name.

"Jumpy today?"

I turned to see Ashley walking toward me. She was wearing a tight, black leather mini skirt, and a slinky white top, off the shoulder, with long sleeves. Her hair hung in a silky curtain, her spiral curls banished through some sort of womanly magic. Black stiletto heeled pumps completed the outfit.

I flinched as she leaned in. She kissed my cheek with her full, painted lips, and held it just a moment longer than expected, squeezing my hands at the same time. Her perfume curled in my nostrils. I felt a little lightheaded. She grinned at my pallor as she stepped back.

"Uh, where's Dave?" I asked, though I really meant to also ask, what are you doing here?

She gave me a small pout. "Oh, he was a bad, bad boy last night. So, he's alone tonight, it's just you and me."

"I... um... I was just going to have a steak and then—"

"Mmmmm," she cooed, "nothing I like better than eating a nice, big piece of meat." She licked her lips, and I felt my cock twitch. "Lead the way."

She actually led me by the hand. Left to my own devices, I think I might have remained rooted to the spot. We climbed into the cab, and she crossed her legs. My eyes were drawn to the generous expanse of creamy thigh. She dragged a dark red fingernail across her smooth skin.

"So did you like what you saw last night?"

My face reddened and burned.

“I... um....”

She laughed, which gave me an excuse to stop stammering.

“You were not supposed to see that,” she chided.

“Uh, I’m sorry, I didn’t—”

“It’s not your fault. Dave is not supposed to invite guests without telling me. That’s why he’s in time out. I’ve never had much interest in locking him up, but after last night I am thinking of investing in a cock cage.”

“Uh, I....” I noticed the driver had his head tilted, listening attentively.

“Why so scandalized?” she asked. “Dave said that you told him that you and Kenzie play as well. Or is that something else I should punish him for?”

Thankfully we arrived at the restaurant, which gave me time to compose myself. Inside, they gave us a very private table. Given the way Ashley was dressed, I guess they assumed we were on a hot date. I ordered a bottle of wine.

“Look,” I began. “I think there were a series of misunderstandings.”

Ashley took a sip of wine and munched on a breadstick. It was strangely erotic, though perhaps seeing her fuck yesterday colored my perceptions. I’d probably find it sexy to watch her wash dishes.

“I guess Dave just assumed that since you and Kenzie were friends that you had the same, um, pastimes.”

“Hmmm,” she said cryptically. “And you felt no need to disabuse him of that notion?”

“To be honest, I didn’t even know what he was talking about. I guess I am naïve that way.”

“Hmmm,” she said again, clearly not quite believing me. “I’m not sure I ever pegged you as the naïve type.”

The waiter came by and took our orders. A pair of steaks, rare, and a side of grilled asparagus to share. His eyes, I noticed, spent a lot of time roaming over my “date,” which gave me a peculiar sense of pride. Even if she wasn’t really my “date,” I like the cred it gave me that he thought she was.

As he left, she continued, “Or maybe it turned you on to talk about it.”

“No, it wasn’t like that.”

“Hmmm,” she said, infuriatingly. “So, you didn’t enjoy watching?”

“I left.”

“Right away, when I walked in with him? Or maybe when we started kissing and he was playing with my ass?”

I stared down into my lap.

“Well, surely you left when I sucked his cock, right? Or did you watch me doing that? Did you like the way I waved my ass and pussy at you while doing it?”

“Okay, okay, you made your point.”

She was grinning now, clearly enjoying my torment.

“I mean, I know you didn’t stay long enough to see me impale my tight, little, married pussy on his long, thick, black cock. Did you?”

I shrugged.

“Rooted to the spot in shock, I take it? Did you watch him bend me over the coffee table and pound me from behind?”

“Yes,” I sighed.

“Even when he slapped my ass and pulled my hair?”

I nodded.

“But you didn’t enjoy any of it? Even when I licked my juices off his delicious shaft? Or when I jerked his come right onto my tongue?”

I shook my head. “I left before that.”

She laughed and took a gulp of wine. The waiter returned with our steaks. He topped off our glasses. She cut into her slab of meat and speared a juicy piece.

“Okay, okay, it was super hot,” I admitted.

“Are you going to tell Kenzie what you saw?”

I chuckled. “No. I don’t think she could handle it.”

Ashley laughed. A loud, barking laugh. People at other tables turned to look at us. Ashley, of course, seemed to delight in the attention.

“What?” I said.

She waved me off. “Nothing, nothing. Sorry.”

We ate in silence for a few minutes.

“So have you and Dave been, um, doing this sort of a thing for a long time?”

“You sure you’re appalled and not actually curious?”

“Why can’t I be both? Appalled and curious? Shocked and turned on? Are any of those actually mutually exclusive?”

“Fair enough,” she replied. “But I feel like I am doing all the giving and you’re doing all the taking. I’ll answer your questions, but you have to answer mine.”

I shrugged. "I'm an open book."

She smirked in a way that made me feel like I'd walked into a trap.

"So, you and Dave, long time?" I asked again.

"Well, there is a tree falls in the woods aspect to that question."

"Huh?" She had an uncanny ability to go from direct to cryptic in a heartbeat.

She tilted her head and looked at me through her eyelashes. "Brad, Brad, Brad, do I need to draw you a picture?"

"Ah, I guess you do?"

She laughed. "Well, well, well, KiKi definitely found herself a babe in the woods." She took another sip of wine. "So, there are basically two paths into the lifestyle. Door number one is that a couple is together for a while. Things get into a rut, and they decide they need to spice things up. That's not Dave and me."

I nodded. No kids. A wild girl like Ashley... yeah, hard to imagine that they were having a boring sex life.

She continued, "Door number two is a moment of revelation. Woman discovers a man's secret, shameful fantasy, and it turns her on enough that she decides to act on it. Or maybe..."

"Dave walked in on you?"

"Mmmm, yeah. I wasn't very discreet. In truth, I never stopped seeing other guys when we started dating. And once we moved in together... well, it was just a matter of time before he stumbled onto me with my legs in the air and screaming another man's name."

"And he liked it."

Another laugh. “You have no idea.” She finished off her wine. “Win-win for me. Husband gets turned on, and I get to, um, indulge my own little fetishes.”

I thought of Andre’s huge cock. His dark skin. His muscles. Once you go black, you never go back. Little fetishes indeed.

“Though,” she leaned forward and whispered conspiratorially, “can I tell you a secret? I sorta wish he hadn’t caught me, because messing around behind his back was actually even hotter. There is nothing quite as wicked and exciting as interacting with your man as if nothing were amiss when you have another man’s come dripping out of your pussy.”

I felt my throat tighten, and I took a gulp of wine to hide the fact that I couldn’t talk. See, even though I don’t think she meant to, Ashley’s comment made me think of Kenzie. What was she doing back at home “alone”? How many dinners had she cooked me with another’s man’s come inside her? Was the only difference between me and Dave that Ashley had allowed herself to be caught, while Kenzie was better at covering her tracks.

Ashley smirked at me, and I had the sense she was reading my mind. I half expected her to confirm my suspicion, fear, whatever.

Instead, she pressed on. “I’ve been answering a lot of your questions. My turn.”

I braced myself, feeling this powerful feline prepare to pounce. “So...” She leaned in. “I know all about Kenzie’s sex life before you came along. What were you like?”

“Um...” I wasn’t even sure what she was asking. I was too stuck on the ‘before you’ part of her previous statement that I couldn’t follow the actual question. “I don’t know.” Then, “What?”

Ashley looked delighted in her impatience, and I got the very distinct impression of a predator playing with her prey. “Like how many girls did you fuck?”

“Not sure this is appropriate.”

“Oh, come on, Brad. I just told you how I get off on cheating on my husband. Least you can do is give me a number.”

Kenzie and I hadn’t actually had this conversation. It wasn’t because I didn’t want to know hers, that I wasn’t curious. I just didn’t want to own up to mine, worried about how she’d judge me.

“Don’t tell me you were a virgin when you met Kenzie—”

“Forty-one.”

Ashley lifted her brows and flared her eyes. “Wow. So not completely a babe in the woods. That’s quite impressive, Brad. No wonder she fell all over herself with you.”

“She said that?”

“I think it was more like, ‘I’ve never come so hard in my life.’”

I can still remember that night. Both of us were trying to one-up each other, like we were having a fucking competition. I was Andre to her that night, back when it was just a one-night stand and maybe I’d never see her again.

“I’ll be honest, I was curious as hell,” Ashley went on. Her mouth curled up in a way that made me distinctly think of how it would feel wrapped around my dick. “Still am.”

I cleared my throat. “So, is this why you and Dave haven’t had kids?”

In the context—hell, in any context—it was a wildly inappropriate question. A real buzzkill. But I needed to change the subject and it was the first thing my drunken brain glommed on to.

Ashley’s sultry, playful mood melted away. She sat back. She stiffened, her shoulders rolled back—and not in a deliberate way to emphasize her tits.

“You really think that?” With her head high, I knew that I’d touched a nerve.

“I’m sorry. I shouldn’t have asked.”

She sized me up. “Is that what Kenzie told you?”

“What? No!”

“Whatever. For your information, we tried having kids. I’d fucking love to have a couple of rug rats running around. It’s just...not in the cards for us.”

Congratulations, Brad, I thought. Now things are even more awkward.

“I’m sorry. I didn’t mean to imply—”

“That a slut like me doesn’t want a family?” She seemed to delight in my discomfort. “Your wife should be proof enough for you.”

Here was the perfect opportunity to dig into Kenzie’s past, and the first question that sprang to mind was, Did she sleep with anyone while we’ve been together?

I chickened out.

“I’m sorry. I’m having trouble keeping my foot out of my mouth. You’re kind of distracting.”

I glanced into the deep cleavage created by her tight white top, and she laughed.

“Not to mention, you know... last night. Put yourself in my shoes.”

“Fine, fine. I suppose you are in a certain... frame of mind.” She swirled her wine. “And I suppose that you’re mostly right. I am a pretty shameless slut.”

“What’s your number?” I asked.

“How many guys have I slept with?” Before I could nod yes, she added, “Or how many women?”

“Um... both?”

She barked a laugh. “I think I’m around twenty-five ladies now. And I’ve actually lost count of the guys. More than your number, though.” She finished off her wine. “A lot more.”

“Well then.”

We stared at one another. “My turn to ask something?” she asked.

“Sure.” I nearly gulped.

“It’s been a while since I’ve been to a strip club. Want to go?”

I half-heartedly tried to beg off, but Ashley squeezed my hand insistently, and anyway, I didn't really have the strength to turn down a visit to a strip club in the company of a beautiful and lustful woman. Not that this would be the first time I'd done so. It is just that there is a difference between a strip club visit as a married man and as a single guy. And of course, the difference between going as a married man alone and going with your wife's sexed-up best friend.

Still, walking into the Pink Pony felt a little like coming home. The open space, long U-shaped stage, the black couches that lined the wall, dozens of dancers either working the floor or chatting in small clusters by the bar. I spent a lot of time here when I was at Georgia Tech and after.

Having Ashley with me changed the dynamic. The bouncer, a burly black man with a shaved head, walked us over to a couch with a great view of the room. I could see Ashley checking him out, and I knew he wouldn't have to work particularly hard to get his dick inside her.

"Comfy Pasha?" Ashley said with a laugh.

I was sitting back on the couch, man-spreading, my arms draped over the cushions. I shrugged. She curled up close to me, sitting on her knees on the sofa.

"You look right at home," she added.

"I spent a lot of time here."

"So, you went after Hooters girls and strippers."

"I only ever banged one Hooters girl."

“So far,” she replied, her hand grazing my knees. “So, I’m guessing strippers made up a chunk of your 41?”

The cocktail waitress came over, a pale skinned goth-type, wearing fishnet stockings, platform heels, and a faux-leather, one-piece short shorts/bustier. She had black bangs, dark red lips, and a line of piercings over her right eye. I ordered a scotch, Ashley a glass of champagne.

“Is she your type?” Ashley asked.

“I think she’s trying too hard.”

She laughed. “Most guys wouldn’t kick her out of bed.”

“Neither would I, but look around.”

There were all types of girls. A blonde in a babydoll dress, a striking redhead in a green party dress, a slender Asian girl, maybe Vietnamese or Thai, in a schoolgirl outfit... I’ve always lost it for a schoolgirl outfit.

“And you had your pick?”

I chuckled and tried to shrug modestly.

“Oh stop,” she said as she slapped my shoulder. “You’re grinning like an idiot, and you just want to spill the beans. I’m one of the few women you’re likely to meet who will be amused and maybe even a little impressed by the details.”

Our drinks arrived and I took a sip. She was right. I desperately wanted to tell her about the good old days.

“Well, I had sort of a system.”

She laughed. “A system, eh?”

“In all honesty, I stumbled onto it. I didn’t have much money, so I’d go late. Most girls work until about 4:00am, so after a night out with the guys I’d drop by, nurse a beer or two, and just talk to the girls between customers.

So, here's the thing. While most of the girls would never actually fuck one of the old guys with money who make up their bread and butter, they do still get worked up doing it."

"And you were just the kind-hearted, good-looking young guy to help them out with that."

"Take 'em out for some pancakes and coffee, then back home for a day of banging and napping."

I often thought back to those days. Sharing a messy futon with a sexy, uninhibited woman, back when my dick had no problem getting hard five or six times on a lazy morning. Spooning turning into tender lovemaking transitioning into hard sweaty fucks. Falling asleep for an hour and then doing it all over again.

"Hmmm, sounds fun," Ashley purred. "I always love morning sex. So why settle down?"

"Well, Kenzie blew my mind too."

"Sounds like you'd both put in your 10,000 hours before you met."

I knew she meant it as a tease, but it still got under my skin. Hooters girl or not, I'd always assumed... or rather assured myself... that whatever skills I'd picked up through practice, Kenzie had come upon through instinct. Ashley was making me rethink that.

"How many men was Kenzie with before she met me?"

Ashley laughed. "Oh, Baby, that's a question for her, not me. But a girl like her, you know she never had any problems getting male attention." She paused to let me contemplate that. Then she doubled back, "So, you two still blow each other's minds?"

Ouch. That question hit close to home. Before essaying a response, I took a sip of my scotch and observed the dancer on the main stage. She was, like Kenzie, a long-legged, long-haired brunette. Unlike Kenzie she was pretty tatted up, a cursive poem on her rib cage, a snake curling up her leg. I've never been much into ink on a girl, but from the way she shook her ass to Cardi B's Money Moves, I could tell she'd be a good time, the kind of girl who likes to fuck doggy style, rolling her hips and thrusting back instead of just taking it.

"I mean, we've been together a long time, and with the kids, it—"

"So no."

"It's not like that. I mean... We do still blow each other's minds... just not as often as we might like."

"Are you tempted to cheat on her?"

"No. Of course not. I mean, you know, tempted? Sure. But not tempted if you know what I mean."

"So, if I got little Miss Schoolgirl over there... yeah, I noticed you keep going back to her... to join us and we offered to tag team you, you'd say no?"

"I'm happily married."

She chuckled. "You've probably had two women at the same time, but Brad, have you ever had a woman tongue your ass while another deep throats your cock?"

"Oh Jesus," I groaned as my cock swelled.

"Hey guys, you two looking for a little spice? I'm Pepper." The Asian girl had noticed us checking her out and come over. She spoke with a Scarlett O'Hara accent.

"No you're not," Ashley replied.

Our new arrival gave her a little pout. "How about Tila? They say I look like her."

She did, in fact, look a little like Tila Tequila.

“Sit,” Ashley said. “But tell us your real name. I have to know your name before you can eat my pussy.”

She sat down on the other side of me, mimicking Ashley’s curled, sitting on her heels, posture.

“Your girl is crazy. I’m Emily,” she said as she stroked the side of my face with her long fingernails.

“She’s not my girl,” I replied.

“I’m his wife’s best friend. He watched me get fucked by another man last night.”

Emily fanned herself. “I’m going to need a drink for this.” She waved down the waitress and ordered a vodka cranberry, and Ashley ordered another round for her and me.

“Are you a dancer?” Emily asked Ashley.

“I give it away for free,” she replied. “What’s the name of that bouncer?” She nodded with her chin toward the man who’d seated us.

“Carl?”

“Does he party?”

Emily laughed. “What sort of freaky scene are you trying to set up?”

“Just sorting out options.”

“Do I get a say in this?” I asked.

Ashley ignored me and spoke directly to Emily. “He’s married. I offered to lick his ass while you sucked his dick.”

“You don’t get a say either, apparently,” I noted.

Emily laughed, then turned to Ashley. “He is cute.”

Ashley took the other woman’s hand and pressed both their hands against my crotch.

“Hey!” I said.

“And he’s got a big cock,” Ashley said.

They stroked me up and down, massaging my balls, squeezing my shaft. I peered down into Ashley’s cleavage, and Emily breathed in my ear. “Yeah, he does.” But then she added, “But I can’t fuck a customer. We’ve been busted for that.”

“But you can jerk a customer off, right?”

Emily grinned. “Sometimes guys just lose control? Not my fault, right?”

“Hmmm,” Ashley said, “I like the way you think. So, about Carl....”

“You want me to invite him over?”

“How about we go in the back for a while, and he can check up on us a little later,” Ashley suggested.

“You’re both hot, but you know I’m working, right?” Emily said.

“Of course,” Ashley said. She squeezed my balls. “Brad is very generous.”

I laughed. “How much?”

“$200 for 15 minutes. $300 for 30. Or $500 for an hour. Oh, and a bottle of champagne.”

“An hour,” Ashley answered for me.

“Ugh.”

Emily nibbled my ear. “Don’t worry, Baby, it’ll be worth every penny.”

I nodded. This was stupid, but I was thinking with my dick. At least, I gave myself credit, I knew that was what I was doing.

The stripper took each of us by the hand and led us through a thick, red velvet curtain into the VIP area, stopping at the entrance to update the bouncer guarding access. We went through another curtain into a private area, consisting of a U-shaped sofa with a black, lacquer coffee table in the middle. As Emily maneuvered me into the center of the sofa, a perky, young blonde in red hot pants and matching bra delivered the champagne. She popped open the bottle and poured three flutes.

Emily took a sip and then slid across my lap to cuddle up to Ashley. “So, you still want your pussy eaten?”

Ashley laughed and then grabbed a handful of Emily’s hair. She kissed the stripper hard, her hand reaching into her blouse and rubbing her breasts.

“Yeah, but I’m in charge, right?”

Emily hissed in pain as Ashley pinched her nipple. “You’re in charge,” Emily confirmed in a throaty whisper.

Ashley yanked open the other woman’s blouse. Emily’s breasts were small, but pert and lovely. Ashley’s fingernails were digging into her sensitive areola making Emily squirm.

“Brad, you should kiss this one and make it better,” Ashley said. She dragged her nails across Emily’s chest and seized her other nipple. The girl yelped and arched her back in pain.

“Please,” Emily whimpered. I thought she was begging Ashley, but instead, she was looking at me and cupping her breast in my direction. She hissed again as Ashley’s nails dug in.

Though small chested, her nipples were impressively plump, and the one Ashley had tormented was a dark red, looking almost black in the dim lighting. Emily was writhing side-to-side, all of which made it very hard to resist temptation. So, I didn’t... resist that is. I leaned down and sucked her titty into my mouth. She moaned softly in relief, her hand running through my hair, but that was short lived as Ashley dug deeper into the other nipple, making her squeal. Pain and pleasure, one breast tortured, the other soothed. Ashley was delightfully twisted.

We switched back and forth between nipples, and Emily's squirming shifted lower, less twisting her chest from side-to-side, and more her hips grinding against the sofa.

"I think our little toy is getting excited," Ashley said. "Is your pussy wet?" she asked Emily.

"Yes," she gasped, as I continued to suck her nipple.

Ashley reached beneath the girl's skirt and slowly pulled down her white thong, the fabric glowing in the black light, luminous against Emily's dark skin. Emily shivered and Ashley eased the panties over her platform heels.

"Sit in his lap," Ashley commanded.

I leaned back on the sofa, and Emily climbed on me and leaned back against my chest.

"Play with her titties," Ashley ordered me.

I cupped her small breasts and gently rubbed her damp, sore nipples. She cooed in pleasure. Ashley paused to take a gulp of champagne, and then slid to the floor between our legs. She slowly ran her hands up Emily's thighs, making the stripper shiver against me. Fingertips brushing against her pussy, she lifted up the little plaid skirt.

"Mmmmm, that is a pretty pussy. It is going to look so hot stretched around your cock."

"I can't," Emily sighed.

Ashley chuckled and leaned forward. I had an amazing view, down over Emily's cute breasts, her flat stomach, and down between her legs a gorgeous blond moving in to taste her pussy. Ashley's tongue flicked out, and Emily threw her head back and moaned. She turned toward me and sucked on my ear.

“She’s soaked,” Ashley said. “Just a thin layer of fabric between her wet cunt and your hard cock.”

Ashley looked up at me, her mouth glazed with Emily’s juices. She rubbed the stripper’s clit with her thumb. Emily ground against me and gasped into my ear. Ashley slowly pressed her middle finger into the girl’s pussy.

“She is so fucking tight,” Ashley cooed. “I want to see you split the little whore open. Make her scream, like in the old days.”

It was wildly tempting. Emily was no longer protesting about the rules, and from the way she was rubbing against me and moaning in my ear, I was pretty sure she’d go along with it.

“I can’t,” I said.

Ashley laughed. “Your loss.”

She kissed her way up Emily’s body, moving my hands aside so she could suckle the stripper’s nipples, then further up, sandwiching Emily between her and me. The girls kissed. It was wet, sloppy and inches from my face. Judging from Emily’s moans, Ashley was still playing with her pussy, and as they continued to kiss, Emily suddenly shuddered unmistakably climaxing in my lap.

Ashley leaned back and then stood up, leaving the shivering girl in my lap. She refilled our champagne glasses. Emily gulped hers eagerly as she stared up at Ashley.

“Do you want to eat my pussy?” Ashley asked.

Emily finished her glass and nodded, dropping to her knees. Ashley chuckled. “Oh Baby, I want to take you home, and keep you locked up in my basement as my personal toy.”

Ashley's creepy thought did little to break the mood. Instead, Emily crawled forward and wrapped her slender arms around Ashley's legs. Ashley reached behind her and unzipped her skirt and peeled it off. She was bare assed, her shaved pussy swollen with excitement.

"Do you like that?" she asked me.

I nodded.

"Does Kenzie still like to go out dancing without panties?"

"Still?"

"Mmmm. We never wore anything under our short skirts. Easier to get in trouble that waaayyyy... ugh...." she moaned as Emily licked her pussy.

Ashley yanked down on her top and pulled out her heavy breasts. Eyes closed she pinched her own nipples as Emily loudly slurped on her pussy. Then she fixed me with a fiery gaze and lifted her hard nipples to her mouth, one at a time. Then she ran her hand through Emily's hair, and moaned, "Oh God, she's good at that. Almost as good as Kenzie."

I shivered and clutched my glass tightly. It was the only thing keeping me from rubbing my cock.

"Whoa, what's going on here?"

We all looked over at the entrance to our space to see Carl, barrel chested in his black suit.

Emily rocked back on her heels. "Nothing," she replied absurdly given that her face was shiny from Ashley's pussy.

Ashley turned to face him, naked from the waist down, her big tits out, nipples hard. She licked her lips.

"I hope you're on a break. 'Cause I need a cock."

He grinned and spoke into his headset. "Taking a break." Then he pulled off his earpiece and tossed it on the table.

Ashley stepped up to him, and running her red fingernails over his suit, dropped to her knees before him. She unzipped his pants, and pulled out his flaccid, but already impressive cock. Without hesitation, she took him into her mouth. He ran his dark hands through her thick, blonde hair.

Emily crawled back over to the sofa and sat beside me, her tits still out, her thighs spread. She dropped one hand into her lap, the other into mine. She ran her fingernail up and down my shaft through my pants.

Ashley bobbed up and down on Carl's prick, and then slowly pulled back, revealing his fat, wet hard-on. She rose quickly and turned around to face me. Then without breaking eye contact, she slowly bent at the waist and thrust her ass out. Carl didn't need any more prompting. He grabbed a handful of her hair and pressed his huge prick into her steaming hole.

Carl thrust into her, harder and harder. His thighs slapped against her ass. Ashley moaned louder and louder. Emily's fingers squished into her cunt, and her other hand gripped my shaft.

"Your wife is so fucking hot," Emily moaned.

She wasn't my wife, but it could have been, and for just a second, I was watching Kenzie take a big, black cock from behind, like a dirty whore.

"Oh fuck," Ashley gasped, her eyelids fluttering.

"Take it," Carl groaned, throwing his head back.

"Oh God," Emily cried out, shuddering.

"Jesus," I hissed, as my pants filled with goo.

I had my Uber drop Ashley off at home.

“So, you’re going to tell Dave all about this?” I asked.

She laughed. “No. Remember, he was a bad boy. No details for him. Just a peek at his wife’s gooey snatch.” She paused. “You sure you don’t want to add to it? Freshen up my creampie?”

The Uber driver cleared his throat.

“No,” I whispered.

“What are you going to tell Kenzie?”

I laughed. “Um nothing?”

She leaned in and kissed my cheek and breathed in my ear. “You should tell her everything. I doubt you could shock her if you tried.” Then she reached for her door, and in an amusingly posh accent said, “Thank you for a lovely evening.”

My head screamed bloody murder at me the next morning—my last planned full day in Atlanta. I am at an age where I can still be a little stupid one night, but my body balks at two in a row. I took a shower that did nothing, downed four Advil for breakfast, and then thought better of it and grabbed a banana at the coffee bar in the hotel lobby.

The plan was to check out tomorrow morning, Saturday, and catch an early-ass flight home so that I could make it in time for Graham's soccer game. Instead, almost involuntarily, I found myself calling Gracie, my PA, and asking her to change my flight to tonight.

"It's been a long, few days, Grace," I said as I slipped into an Uber, my single roller bag of stuff beside me. "Need to get back."

"Long, few days" was an understatement. So much had happened in the last two, and I was still hungover enough that even a simple review felt dizzying. I'd watched my wife's best friend fuck a stranger. Two actually. I'd learned that her husband had designed a house so that he could watch her fuck strangers. We'd gone out to a strip club, and what had first felt like a trip down memory lane had turned into a total cluster.

What are you going to tell Kenzie?

I'd fooled around with a stripper. I could still feel her tits in my mouth, feel the soft nipple harden into a tight, rubberized bead. I could feel her hand squeezing me through my pants until I lost it.

"We're here," the driver said, clearing his throat. How long we'd been sitting outside the office building, I had no idea. I thanked him and slipped out. Get a grip, Brad. Time to get to work...

...which was a total fog. I'm an investment advisor with Wells Fargo and spend the majority of my time flying up and down the Eastern Region giving seminars and presentations to companies who use us for their 401k's and pension plans. I've always said that I could do these presentations in my sleep, and today nearly tested that boast.

I think it went well? No complaints, and I managed all the hard questions without trouble—the dirty secret is that there aren't any hard questions once you've heard them all a hundred times.

I only had the one company presentation in the morning, so after a quick bite in the city, I headed to the airport. Gracie had come through with a flight home today, although it wouldn't put me down in Chicago until around nine.

I started typing the text out to Kenzie that I'd be home tonight, rather than tomorrow, then stopped. I can't really explain why I did. I told myself that it would be a nice surprise for her—that I'd walk in and she'd throw her arms around me and kick her legs up and we'd fall into the bedroom and make love. And I could leave Emily and her tasty tits and Ashley and her dirty little secrets behind me, like all of Atlanta was a dream...or a nightmare. I wasn't one-hundred percent sure which.

But deep down, that wasn't what I truly believed. What I was thinking was more complicated, and honestly, I didn't want to dwell there. But Ashley had planted a seed—or maybe she'd nurtured one that had been there all along—and now, all of a sudden, the life that I left behind when I left for Atlanta—the beautiful wife, the two kids, the dog and the cat and the great house in the great neighborhood—didn't feel quite so perfect.

The house was dark as the Uber pulled up in front, the symmetrical windows of our colonial staring down at me with black, vacant eyes. I actually double-checked that it was actually my house, and not our neighbor's. But no, that was our magnolia tree outside and the pale-yellow siding that Kenzie had chosen.

It was just... dark. Which was weird, because while it was late—9:45pm, to be exact—it wasn't that late. Graham was ten. Melanie was almost eight. I couldn't remember the last time they'd been asleep this early, particularly on a Friday night. They usually dragged out bedtime as much as they could.

I'd been in a fog all day, and as I pulled my bag up to our front door, those complicated thoughts I'd been trying to fend off swirled just beyond reach.

One of those things did penetrate, though, just as I unlocked the front door.

"Oh. You have a boyfriend for when I am out of town?"

"You think just one?"

That thought arrived at the same time as some of the stuff that Dave had said, about Kenzie playing when I was out of town. At the time, I thought he was talking about going out with friends. Now... she wouldn't play that way, right?

The empty house whispered a different answer, one that left a ball of ice in my gut and a heavy weight on my shoulders. My heart raced. I felt feverish as I called out, "Kenzie? Honey?"

It's not like our house was empty, but I swear I heard my voice echo back on me. Only it came back as a taunt. "She's not here, buddy. Where, oh where, could she be?"

Then Ashley's voice, naughty and giggling. "A girl like her, you know she never had any problems getting male attention..."

And, "Does Kenzie still like to go out dancing without panties?"

And, "You should tell her everything. I doubt you could shock her if you tried."

“Kenzie?”

No answer.

I had a girlfriend once who cheated on me. This was back when I was in high school, and relationships were a lot more tenuous. Thirty-nine-year-old-me would have known better, but teenage me was dumb and thought this was love with Lara Fitzgerald. Then I saw her climb into the passenger seat of Mark Hill’s Mustang, and I still remember that feeling of dread that rose through me. Dread that turned to a kick in a gut when he wrapped his hand into her hair and pulled her in for a kiss that told me as much about their level of intimacy as if I’d walked in on her bouncing on his dick.

That’s kind of how I felt in that moment, pulling my suitcase into the kitchen like an anchor.

Not that I thought Kenzie was Lara—Lara who turned me into the man-slut that I became. Yes, it was nice to have someone to blame for some of the shitty stuff I pulled during those years. Kenzie was different. Different than all the other women I’d been with before. Kenzie changed me.

Or had I just been fooling myself all along?

The front door opened, and like a sudden tidal wave, a raucous cacophony washed over my quiet contemplation.

“Okay, PJs you two, then teeth brushing and straight into bed.” Kenzie was in full drill sergeant mode, the mode we often got when leaving a friend’s house too late. “Upstairs. No more stalling. It’s so late. Go!”

I froze where I stood in the kitchen, one hand on the handle of the fridge where I’d completely forgotten what I was getting. I heard the kids grumble before stomping up the stairs. Close to ten was well beyond either of their bedtimes. Where had they been?

Kenzie’s heels clicked along the hardwood floor, headed in my direction, and I had to stop myself from looking for a place to hide. This was my house. I had a right to be here.

She didn't see me at first. She had her head down, the screen of her phone catching the contours of her cheekbones and reflecting off the gloss of her lips. She wasn't dressed anything like Ashley had the last two nights, but she also wasn't dressed in her mom-uniform, either. In a slim, high-waisted, black skirt and a tailored, white blouse with wide lapels, she carried a sexy-corporate vibe, all balanced perfectly on a pair of spindly, ultra-tall stilettos.

I'd seen her dressed like this before. Hell, I'd probably seen this very outfit before. But Atlanta had reframed the way I saw the world, and suddenly, I didn't just see a sexy version of my wife; instead, I saw her the way everyone else must see her—particularly every young, attractive man she came in touch with. I observed the curves created by all her tight clothing, the flare of her hips and the narrowing of her waist. The way her breasts pushed out her blouse and started to stretch the buttons. I wondered whether the translucent, black hose that encased her legs meant the rest of the lingerie she wore beneath was also black.

I saw the heels differently, too. She didn't need to wear heels like that. As a recruiter, she was on her feet all the time. Most of her colleagues wore flatter soles, more sensible footwear. Kenzie had always worn heels. She'd always been a vixen—before me, the whole time she was with me... after me?

She smiled at whatever she read on the phone, her gloss-coated lips parting as she laughed to herself. She started typing back. I cleared my throat.

"Jesus fuck!" she cried, clutching her phone to her chest. She squinted in my direction. "Brad?"

"Surprise?" I said. In my head, this whole meeting was supposed to be funnier or cuter or more innocent than it felt now.

"You scared the shit out of me. What are you doing, standing in the dark like some kind of stalker?"

Checking to see if you brought a lover home with you tonight? I did not say, although the thought, like everything these last few days, threw me off balance. I'm not a huge fan of that uncomfortable feeling of being completely in the dark on things. The financial markets were uncertain. I didn't want my own life to be.

“I got an earlier flight home.”

“Clearly.” Kenzie recovered quickly. “You on the run from some big scary men at the Pink Pony?” She delivered the name of the strip club with a playful sneer.

The ground shifted beneath me even more. Had Ashley spoken to her? How much did she know? “You... what are you...?”

Kenzie sighed. “I got an alert from AMEX last night after you charged over $500 there.”

“Oh. Right.”

She went to the sink and poured herself a glass of water. I couldn't help checking out her ass in her skirt, the way it conformed to her round, plump buttocks, tight enough that it would require a thong.

Or nothing at all.

“Does Kenzie still like to go out dancing without panties?”

“New rule,” she announced, catching me looking. “If you want to see me get undressed, it'll cost you.” She cocked her hip and smiled mischievously. “$250. I'll give you half off. Family discount.”

From upstairs, as if on cue: “Mom! Melanie is using my toothpaste!”

Kenzie rolled her eyes in that direction. Were her lashes always so long and so dark when she worked? “Why don't you go upstairs and ‘surprise’ them, too.”

“Hopefully I'll get a better reception.”

Kenzie must have realized that she hadn't even greeted me. I'd been on such an edge that I hadn't realized, either, and now that I had, I wondered why she didn't. She floated over to me. In her heels, she only had to lift her head a little to look me in the eyes. "I'm sorry, Honey. Welcome home."

She hugged me close, and I buried my face in her thick, dark hair. She smelled faintly of perfume. Did she always wear that to work? Why was I being so paranoid?

"Where were you? I was surprised when no one was home."

"I had a work thing." She pulled back, meeting my eyes like she was making herself look at me. "The kids were at Christy's."

"A work thing on a Friday night?"

Her blue eyes flared. "You caught me. I was actually on a date, although I only had time to give him a quick beej."

"Mommmmm!"

She smiled at me. "So maybe I should go brush my teeth, too, eh?"

With a peck on the lips, she turned and sauntered upstairs.

"Whew, that's done," Kenzie said, shutting the bedroom door behind her. I was sitting on the edge of the bed waiting for her.

"Mel still wants you to cuddle with her? Isn't she too old for that?"

Kenzie frowned. "My baby girl is still only eight. And I think it's cute. Don't take that away from me."

"I never would." This was a good reminder of who this woman was now—a mother and a wife and someone who would do anything for her family.

Still, “You ever think about what it would be like if we never had kids?”

Kenzie was still in her work clothes, although she’d exchanged her heels for a pair of slippers. The look was incongruous, but also so fitting of the woman I saw before me.

She looked at me crookedly. “Not really. Do you?”

“No, not really.” Beneath her stare, I began to heat up. This wasn’t heading in a great direction. “Just thought of it after hanging out with Ashley and Dave.”

It was like something switched off inside Kenzie. The warning bells were gone. She tilted her head to the side and looked at me more playfully now. “What happened?”

My turn to tense up. My turn to wonder what she knew. Was Kenzie aware of the games that Ashley and Dave played?

“Um, they are just in a different place, you know? And their place is just so tidy.” My laugh sounded forced, even to me.

“So, their neat house suddenly has you wondering what life would be like without kids?” Her voice was flat, her lips pressed together in a tight, straight line. She raised a dark eyebrow at me expectantly.

I sighed. “I went to dinner. It was great. Normal, minus the, you know, restless kids asking for desserts or more juice or if they could go play video games.”

“Now that does sound nice.” But she still wasn’t letting me off the hook.

“Anyway, Dave and I put on the football game and got to talking. He’s a nice guy. Turns out we like a lot of the same things—”

“Anyway,” Kenzie interrupted, handling my stall tactics the same way she handled the kids’.

“Anyway, at some point, Ashley goes upstairs. I swear she tells me goodnight, but I can’t remember. We keep talking, Dave and I, and then...” My heart was pounding. I looked at Kenzie, who’d settled in at my side and was staring at me with this intense expression, like she knew what came next, but needed to hear it anyway. “And then Ashley comes down in this crazy-hot party dress, kisses Dave goodbye, and leaves.” My face was on fire. “I think she said she was meeting up with some girlfriends, or something, or maybe she just said she was going out?” I blathered.

Kenzie regarded me quietly, processing it all, maybe reading things I really didn’t want her to read. One thing she wasn’t was surprised.

“So, you and Dave went out and spent $500 at the Pink Pony as Ashley was out with...girlfriends.” I heard the hesitation. That wasn’t my imagination. “And you wish we could do that?”

“No, it’s not like that.”

“Maybe you like the idea of me in a tight little party dress?” She rose, running her hands over the high-waisted skirt she wore. “I still have a few in the back of my closet.”

“You do?”

“Wonder if they still fit.” She lowered the zipper on the side of that skirt. Slowly. Sinuously. “My hips are a little wider now, after the kids.”

She turned away from me as she shimmied free of the skirt. Beneath, her hose turned out to be stockings, which wasn’t particularly unusual for Kenzie, just another reminder of how hot my wife was. The stay-ups were topped with a dark band that cinched around her taut thighs.

She saw me looking and released her dark hair from its ponytail before going to work on the buttons of her blouse.

“I actually think I prefer the way you dress now.”

“Do you now?” She peeled back her blouse, revealing the matching black bra and thong. “Or do you just like the way it comes off?”

“I mean, that’s one of the most important criteria I use to evaluate all women’s clothing.”

Kenzie laughed out loud, breaking the mood. For a moment. Then she shook her dark hair out, reached behind her back, and removed her bra, and the mood was back.

In the last few days, I had seen a lot of tits, from the strippers’ to Ashley’s to the porn I’d watched in my hotel room before going to sleep. I was biased, but to me, Kenzie’s was the best of them all. Even after two kids, they hung like ripe grapefruit, full and juicy and perfectly round. I loved how they shifted as she stepped up to me. I loved how they bounced as she put a knee between my legs, leaned down, and brought her lips right up next to mine.

Before she kissed me, though, she said, “You sure you don’t want me to try a dress on? Maybe I could find a blond wig so you can—”

I shut her up with a kiss, pulling her into my lap. I was done with all the teasing. I needed my cock in someone before it exploded. But first—

“Oh!”

I swung Kenzie around and onto her back. First, I needed to show this woman how much I missed her sexy body.

I watched her squirm as I slowly peeled down her thong, exposing her smooth, glistening pussy. Unlike Ashley, who was entirely bare, Kenzie now sported an inverted triangle of closely trimmed hair above her clit. The rest of her was shaved smooth, and as I lapped my tongue across those lips, I noted that she must have touched it up just that morning.

“Mmm, yes. That’s so good,” she sighed.

I loved how vocal she could get, a dirty announcer to our sex play. Back before the kids, she was even louder, screaming and thrashing and barking “fuck!” and “harder!” Since the kids started growing up, she’d learned to mute herself.

I pushed two fingers into her as I focused my tongue on her clit. I wanted that louder woman she was. I wanted to make her scream.

Instead, she clamped her thighs around my head, her whole body bucking as she rode my face. “Yes, that’s so... so fucking good,” she whispered.

I tried harder, swirling and flicking my tongue fast enough that my jaw and tongue ached. Twisting my fingers, I brushed my thumb down her taint and across her asshole.

Her whole body seized up, arching back. I heard her cry, muffled by her thighs. Encouraged, I pushed my thumb against her anus. Everything tightened around me—her legs, her fist in my hair, her cunt against my mouth. She started to shake. I licked faster, fingered harder, thumb shoved to the first digit into her ass.

She went off, a groan like the quake of a volcano, low and deep and guttural. She practically shoved me away as things became too sensitive, too much. I didn’t let her recover. I slid over her, kicking my pants off and freeing my ramrod hard cock.

“Oh, fuck!”

With one thrust, I was inside of her, sliding along the snug, warm embrace that was both familiar and entirely new. As I shut my eyes, in that flash, I saw something else—not me with Kenzie, not me with Ashley, not even Ashley with one of her two black lovers. In that wild and heated moment, as Kenzie arched beneath me and I filled my hands with her soft tits, I saw Kenzie as she was before me—maybe as she could be now—getting drilled by somebody else. Somebody stronger than me, more aggressive than me. Somebody with a bigger cock who could get her to scream again.

My fantasy played itself out through me. I became that man. I became Kenzie’s Andre. Her Carl. I was the Hooters manager she may have once dated, Deshawn, grabbing her by the hips and giving it to her hard, watching her tits bounce and sweat cover her body. I flipped her onto her hands and knees and took her from behind, squeezing her ass and wondering if she'd be up for anal sex tonight. We'd never done that. Fingers and tongues, yes, my dick in her ass had always been one step too far... at least for me.

Deshawn would love to do it. He probably did.

That stray thought ended me. I rammed forward, grabbing her by the shoulders. She flexed forward, her body scooping low, her head rocked back. I reached around and grasped her by the neck, feeling the tremors of her moans beneath my fingertips. Squeezing, I cut just enough oxygen off to heighten her orgasm. Squeezing, I came hard.

"Jesus," she sighed, falling sweaty and limp beside me when it was over. "What the hell was that?"

I felt sheepish, now that the heat of the moment had passed. "Missed you is all."

"She must have been something."

"Hm?"

Kenzie snuggled in beside me. "The stripper."

"Oh." I laughed. "I wasn't thinking about strippers."

"Ashley then." Kenzie kissed me.

"No—"

"It's okay. She's hot. I get it."

That wasn't it, but I chose not to correct her. It was easier this way. There were fewer questions, and Kenzie didn't seem too upset by the prospect.

As I started to drift off to sleep, Kenzie at my side, my strength sapped by the power of our orgasm, she said, "Maybe we should go out sometime. See if my old dresses still fit.”

And because I was tired, and because I’d spent last night with the free-speaking Ashley, I said, “Thought you did that when I was traveling, anyway...”

I fell asleep before I heard a reply.

Charlie rolled his eyes at my pint of amber as he sat down across from me at the Smith and Wollensky's on the river.

"What? I can't have a beer with lunch?"

"Slow day at work?"

I shrugged. "Slow enough that a couple of beers won't make a difference."

"A couple, eh?"

"I got here early, and you're late."

He put his hands up in a gesture of surrender, and when the waitress came by a moment later he ordered a beer of his own, along with a bacon cheeseburger.

Charlie and I go back to college, and we still make time for a weekly lunch. Or at least try to. Between work and family, that weekly lunch is more of an aspiration than a reality. Sort of like sex with Kenzie.

"How are things at home?" he asked. "Kenzie still keeping you on the straight and narrow?"

"Sorta. I was just in Atlanta for work."

He laughed. "Uh oh. Pink Pony still open?"

I nodded. Charlie and I lived together in Zeta house for two years, and he was witness to much of my debauchery. I was dying to share the story about Ashley and the stripper and the bouncer, but it was too much, even with an old friend like Charlie. Though maybe after another beer. Instead, I deflected. “I had dinner with Ashley and her husband. Remember her?”

He cupped his hands in front of his chest. “Who could forget?”

“I think Kenzie might have been seeing another guy when we first started dating.”

He laughed. “Dude, weren’t you still banging that Steffi chick until like, six weeks before you popped the question.”

“Fuck no. Six months. And I wasn’t banging her. We just... it was a mistake. Her boyfriend dumped her, and—”

“You had to stick your dick in her. Yeah, this story doesn’t make you seem like a douchebag at all.”

“Fine, whatever. That’s not my point.”

“What is your point? That Kenzie dated other guys before you, and there was some overlap? Big fucking deal. What, you’re suddenly worried she gave you sloppy seconds one night? It’s probably more common than most guys realize.”

“You think?”

“Sure. Doesn’t everyone have a recollection of your girl coming home from like a happy hour or a nightclub, and she’s super frisky, and really, really wet?”

I chuckled. That would be sort of hot actually. I tried to remember if that ever applied to Kenzie, but then it occurred to me that most of the time when we were first dating she was really, really wet when it came time to fool around.

Charlie cut short my musings. “Why are you thinking about Kenzie’s old boyfriends?”

“I’m not. It’s just. Well, Ashley is still hot, and they have no kids, and it seems like she and her hubby are... I don’t know... having fun.”

“Having fun how?” he asked, eyebrows arched.

“Oh, I don’t know. She dresses up all sexy, and she likes to go to strip clubs. You know, fun.”

“Dude, I’d have thought you, of all people, would have gotten that shit out of your system.”

“I have.... But maybe I wish I hadn’t.”

He laughed. And, as the waitress came by, he ordered another round of beers. I groaned. That would be my third. I’d need to take a nap.

“Fun girls,” Charlie began, “are crazy girls. Crazy girls are fucking trouble. We’re too old for that.”

“Speak for yourself.”

He smirked smugly. “Amanda.”

I groaned. She was a fun girl all right. She insisted on anal sex on principle, saying that not taking advantage of all three inputs was like wasting food. I brought her to the Pink Pony one night, where she, after a half dozen tequila shots, jumped up on stage and stripped naked and began rubbing a beer bottle against her pussy. Before I could drag her off, she traded punches with one of the strippers, and threw her shoes at a bouncer. It was a miracle that the police were not called. She sucked my dick on the way home in a cab, had the driver stop so she could puke, and then continued until I finished in her mouth. She also set my couch on fire, accidentally... I think... and I finally broke up with her after the third I’m late drama.

“Yeah, she was a handful.”

“Sisi.”

Less colorful. Crazy hot in bed. Gymnast flexible. A real spinner... literally, she'd ride my dick and go from Cowgirl to Reverse Cowgirl between strokes. Turns out she was married to a Marine on deployment to Iraq. I'm not sure if it was fear or shame that made me end that one. Fine... it was fear.

"Okay, okay. I mean, I'm not asking for Kenzie to be crazy like them, but just for her to be a little crazy like she used to be."

"You mean, like when she was dating other guys at the same time as you?"

"I don't know that she did that."

He chuckled. "You know what, Brad, you should thank your lucky stars Kenzie is the grown up in the relationship. Especially since she's kept it all together. Know what I am saying?"

"Yeah. You're saying you like my wife's ass."

He raised his glass in a toast, "She does have a grade-A pooper."

I left him hanging. "How's Maggie?"

He shrugged. "Dude, like I said, count your lucky stars. Mags wants another. Like what the fuck, when did we become Mormon?"

Maggie and Charlie were already proud parents four times over.

"Ouch."

"Yeah. So, you just think about that when you're getting all midlife crisis-y and wanting Kenzie to be more fun."

I nodded. Perspective is a good thing. I was lucky to have a friend like Charlie.

My moment of clarity lasted through my afternoon nap, and my train ride home. The kids were playing quietly, and I smelled chicken roasting in the oven with a little over 50 minutes left on the timer. Which meant....

I gave the kids a hug and a kiss, and then made my way down into the basement where, as expected, Kenzie was working on that fine booty.

She was on the Peloton, staring intently at the workout on her screen. I stared intently at her. She was wearing a pair of short biking tights and a sports bra, and that's it. The instructor was calling out a series of jumps, going from seated position to standing, over and over. We're married, so technically, I don't think it counts as creeping, even if my cock got hard watching her ass bounce up and down.

None of this should have been a problem. You're supposed to have the hots for your wife. The problem was that instead of just thinking about how nice her ass would be bouncing up and down on my cock, I started thinking about the many other men who would like to see her ass bouncing up and down on their cocks. And then I started thinking about how many other men had seen her ass bouncing up and down on their cocks.

When Kenzie and I started dating, she knew I was a playa. And I knew she was a Hooters girl, and judging by her skills in bed, I presumed that she'd been around the block a few times as well. But, and here are the issues that my trip to Atlanta had uncovered: first, we'd never actually gotten into all the gory details; second, I had sort of assumed that whatever she'd been up to beforehand ended when I arrived on the scene; third, I always sort of comforted myself with the idea that I was the bigger slut than she. Now, I was thinking about all three of those things, even as I watched a bead of sweat run down her back, and her perfect butt rising and falling in a way that might make even the Pope rethink his vows.

Then her workout switched from frantic to cool down. She sat back down in the saddle, wiped down her sweating forehead, and rolled her shoulders. Even that struck me as sexy. Then she turned around, and jolted.

“Jesus, Brad, what the fuck has gotten into you?”

“What? I can’t watch my sexy wife?”

She cut short her cooldown and unclipped from the pedals. She was still breathing heavily as she approached me, and my eyes disappeared into her heaving bosom. I looked up to find her incredulous.

“Yeah, you can, I guess, but can you do it without coming off like a sweaty dork?”

“Like the guys who used to ogle you at Hooters.”

She looked at me all squinty eyed. I tensed as if readying myself for a punch. “What did Ashley tell you about me?”

“What do you mean? Jeez, nothing.”

“You’re a terrible fucking liar, Brad. It’s one of your best features. It’s also why I don’t ask you questions I don’t really want answers to, like what you got for $500 in the champagne room. So out with it.”

“Nothing....” I trailed off as her eyes seemed to darken in fury. “I mean, she....” I struggled to find the right thing to admit. I thought of Ashley getting eaten out by Emily. Oh God, she’s good at that. Almost as good as Kenzie. “She, um, sort of hinted that you and she used to, you know, get it on.”

Kenzie burst out laughing. “Really, Brad, you expect me to believe that’s what’s got you all worked up? As if you hadn’t had that lurid thought in your little brain all these years? You don’t think we saw you and Charlie elbowing each other anytime she and I got close enough for your lesbo fantasies to kick in?”

“So, did you?”

“Did I what?” she asked, batting her eyelashes. “What exactly do you want to know?”

“Did you and Ashley, um, make love?”

Another laugh. “You can do better than that.”

“Did you and she... eat... each other’s pussies.”

She stepped in close, and I could feel the heat rising off her sweaty body. She licked her lips, slowly, her tongue making a full circuit.

“Mmmm, yes we did. She is such a juicy, dirty girl.”

I shivered at both the words and her use of the present tense.

She continued, “It was a great way to end an evening out... or sometimes get it started.” She reached down and cupped my package. “Doesn’t substitute for this.” She gave me a squeeze. “But it is a nice supplement.”

Kenzie paused and took a step back. She wagged a finger at me. “But that’s not what Ashley told you that’s gotten you worked up. And until you fess up, I’m afraid there is going to be no sexytime for you.”

“Wait, what?”

“Bzzzzt,” the oven timer buzzed. Kenzie nodded towards the main floor. “Now you’ve thrown off my timing. So, while I shower, you need to get that chicken out of the oven and onto the table.” She pushed past me and headed up the stairs. I swear she was swishing her ass more than usual.

“Kenzie....”

“Chop chop, Brad. And I might be a while. The showerhead and I might be tempted to reminisce about Ashley.”

With the kids down and my heart rate back into the double digits, I waited for Kenzie to come to bed. She was taking her time, and when she appeared, it was obvious why. Instead of her usual PJs, she had broken out her lace boyshorts and tank top set, which I'd last seen when we took a long weekend, just the two of us, down in Key West. She proceeded to futz around for several minutes, making sure I got a nice view of her butt and shots of side-boob.

"Are you done?" I finally asked.

"Doing what?"

"Trying to get me worked up."

"Trying?"

"Succeeding," I admitted.

She turned and tilted her head adorably. "Oh, what a shame then that you're on time out."

"Ha ha. Doesn't that mean you're on time out too?"

Kenzie crawled onto the bed, giving me a peek at her delicious cleavage. I steeled myself. I wasn't about to be played quite that easily.

"Yes, but you're a man."

"So?"

"So, I think that I have more self-control than you do, and if it turns out I don't, I suspect I could get my needs met more easily than you can... handsome and sexy though you are."

“This is ridiculous,” I protested.

“Yes. It is. So spill it. What did my evil, little friend put into your head that’s gotten you all worked up?”

She curled up onto the bed, her boyshorts riding up so that her long legs and toned thighs taunted me with the possibility of her ankles locked behind my back as....

I sighed. “It’s silly.”

“I’m sure. So....”

I sighed again. She flipped her hair and drummed her fingernail on her belly. Temptress.

“It’s just... well... she sorta mentioned... or maybe it was Dave... that back when you worked at... the restaurant... that maybe you... sorta... had a thing with your manager.”

She looked at me quizzically. Then said, “You want to know if I fucked DeShawn?”

“Did you?”

“Yeah. Jesus, he was hot as shit. I’m pretty sure he worked his way through the entire day shift, and half the night.”

“Oh.”

“What? Did I ever claim to be pure as the driven snow? Or what?”

“No. I mean, you know, but I didn’t think you were....” I trailed off, having painted myself into a corner.

“A slut?” she suggested.

“I did not say that!”

“So what is it? The whole manager/employee thing? Or is it that he’s black?”

I must have reacted, because her face lit up. “Oh my God, that’s it. You’re, like, freaked out I was with a black man! What, do you want to know if he had a big cock?”

“Did he?” It just came out. I tried to say, “never mind,” but her laughter drowned me out.

“Why yes, Brad. He was very, very, well endowed.”

My throat was dry. “Yeah?”

She laughed. “Yeah, Honey, I could barely get my hands around it. I couldn’t fit more than the head in my mouth, though I’m sure you won’t be surprised to know I tried... and tried... and tried. But it did all fit, deliciously, in my pussy.” She reached out and caressed my cheek. “Do you have a problem with any of that?”

“Uh, no.”

“So... what’s with the weirdness?”

I sighed. “Well, I was just wondering if you were still seeing him when you and I met?”

She nodded gravely but couldn’t contain her grin. “Ah. Now I get it. So, this is a complicated issue.”

“That’s a yes.”

“It’s complicated,” she repeated. “First of all, I wasn’t seeing him. I was periodically fucking him. Second, when you and I met, we weren’t dating either. We were hanging out. We hooked up. It was months before you would have called me your girlfriend. And actually, Brad, you and I never had a conversation about being exclusive. At least not until our marriage vows.” She gave me a pointed stare, and I wondered if she knew about Steffi. “I guess that was third. So, fourth, was there a period of time when you and I were hooking up, and he and I were still fucking?” She paused, clearly enjoying having me on tenterhooks. “Yeah. Is that a problem?”

I shook my head.

“So, what’s....” She suddenly giggled. “Oh, God, it turns you on.”

“No!”

“Yes!” She laughed louder. “That’s what you’ve been thinking about!”

“Kenzie....”

She hopped up onto her hands and knees excitedly, her big boobs swaying enticingly. She was grinning and crawled forward so that her face was inches from mine.

“Oh, Brad, I’ve always thought you were so above that. Jealousy is for squares, right? But here we are almost a decade and a half down the road and the idea that another man was having me! Ravishing me! Taking me! While I was your woman is making you nuts! I love it.”

“Ha ha.”

“So last night, is that what you were thinking about?” She laughed as my poker face failed again. “And here I was thinking I should get myself a blonde wig, when really all I had to say was,” and now she let her voice drop an octave, throaty and rough, “Oh, God, DeShawn, I can’t get enough of your huge, black cock.”

Hoo boy. That was like rocket fuel.

“Do you miss it?” I growled, shoving her over, and crawling above her.

A plump breast escaped her tank top. Her hair was askew. And her eyes were wide and wild.

“You have no idea, Baby. He was so strong, and so big.”

I grunted and sucked her nipple into my mouth.

“He would pick me up and just bounce me up and down on his huge cock.”

I reached down and tore off her shorts. I cupped her pussy. She was drenched. Thinking of him. Thinking of DeShawn’s huge prick. Two fingers slid in easily. She crunched upward and kissed my neck, biting my ear. I roared and dropped down onto her, spreading her legs. I freed my cock and shoved it in hard.

“That’s it, DeShawn, fuck me hard. Fuck me so that I forget all about my white boyfriend!”

My vision clouded. This wasn’t a game. She’d said that to him. I knew it. I was slamming into her. She was so wet, so hot. Her body writhed beneath me. Her nipples were rock hard. Her hands on my ass, clawing at me, urging me on.

“Oh God, DeShawn, no one makes me come like you do, no one ever will!”

She punctuated that in the most convincing way possible, her pussy clenching wildly as she bucked against me. “Oh God, oh God, oh God!” she hissed.

My thrusts were ragged, desperate. She licked my ear and breathed into it. “I have a date with Brad later tonight, Baby. Go ahead and fill me up, DeShawn. Let’s give him some sloppy seconds.”

My breath caught. My loins exploded. I was dizzy. A gallon of jism inside Kenzie’s pretty pussy. A perfect gift for her boy... husband.

I collapsed onto her, gasping for breath. She shoved me off her and we lay side by side.

She laughed. “God, you’re an open book, aren’t you?”

I couldn’t speak. She was acting as if she were just playing to my fears, my fantasies... but she wasn’t. I knew she wasn’t. I may have been an open book, but Kenzie’s never been that good an actress. That was Method. That was real. Maybe not word for word, but she wasn't making it up in the moment. She was tapping into her... our... past.

If I was an open book, then Kenzie was like one of those diaries with the cheap locks—her thoughts just secure enough to be inconvenient. I could ask her about them, but honestly, I wasn't sure what I'd be asking —
“Honey, do you ever think about going out to a club, meeting a hung black man, and taking him home so you can fuck him while I watch?”

I could imagine the reaction. The judgement. The questions that that would bring. I hadn't been totally honest with her about Atlanta. Anymore weird probing would only lead to probing of her own.

Not that I even wanted any...of that. Of what Dave had. I liked my life. I was happy with it.

So I told myself for about two weeks. Then Ashley came to visit.

“She's coming here? For work?” With the news of Ashley's arrival, I felt off-balance. As much as I'd tried to forget about the ashen-haired slut, I just couldn't.

Kenzie seemed to take particular delight in my discomfort. She smiled, crossing her arms and leaning against the doorframe, pleased with herself.

“Yes, Brad. You of all people should know that people travel all the time for work.”

“Right. I meant, she’s staying here? With us? In Evanston?” That wasn’t what I meant at all, but it was a legitimate question. Evanston was a suburb of Chicago, and while we loved it, it would have been an unusual neighborhood to hold a convention.

“Oh, I see the confusion.” Kenzie detached herself from the doorframe and flowed into the bedroom. Dressed in a pair of cropped skinny jeans and a loose blouse, she looked like her suburban mom self... only with Ashley back in the conversation, her whole look was infused with sexuality.

She moved across the room, to her dresser, knowing my eyes were on her ass.

“That would be fun, wouldn’t it?” She unsnapped her jeans and pulled the tight denim over her hips, treating me to a glorious view of her plush buttocks. Her thong was beige with a wide, lacy band. It was the kind of panties I would have taken for granted a month ago, almost utilitarian in function. Now I noticed her and wondered how I could have not.

“Like old times,” she went on, teasing. “The two of us could get ready together for a night out...” Her blouse came off next, leaving her in just her bra and thong. “Have some drinks here with you first.”

She half turned to me, pausing in her narrative to glance at me. “Maybe take a shower together.”

“You used to do that?” I felt like my eyes were trying to force their way out of my head.

“We needed to keep that water bill down somehow.”

I couldn’t tell if she was fucking with me, but the image was hot enough that I didn’t really care.

“Of course. Always the conservationist,” I said.

“Always. Also, it’s much easier when someone else shaves your bush.”

With that, she slipped out of her thong, and my attention zeroed in on her trimmed pubic hair. I couldn't tell how much she was fucking with me, but I learned long ago that the best way to handle Kenzie is to play right along.

"That why you don't shave it all off anymore? Lack of help? Because all you have to do is ask."

Kenzie ran her finger through her trimmed triangle. "I always thought you liked a little hair."

Again, I couldn't tell if she was serious or not. I did like it, thought it was sexy as hell. Probably even preferred the womanly touch. But I was also mired in her past, in a time when she did shave it all, when she entertained men with big, black cocks that would look so obscene pushing into a bare, white pussy—

"Anyway, no, she's not staying here, as much fun as that would be." She released her tits from her bra as she sauntered up to me, naked. "She's staying in the conference hotel. At the Hilton."

"Too bad." I was already pulling off my shirt, ready for some fun playtime. We'd been having more of that these last few weeks.

"She's coming over for dinner, though. So we can repay her for the night they hosted you."

I seriously doubted that.

Kenzie raised a brow, seeing something in my expression. "You have something to say?"

I grabbed her ass. "Nope. None at all."

She didn't believe me, but let it go. I took her hard that night, the image of Ashley with Andre once again fresh in my mind.

I honestly didn't know what to expect with this visit. The sexed-up part of me was working overtime, conjuring up wild scenarios. Kenzie would surprise us by sending the kids to her mom's. We'd have dinner. Drink a lot of wine. Reminisce about the old days. One thing would lead to another and suddenly Kenzie and Ash would be making out on the sofa as I watched.

Or maybe she'd have some muscular black guy along with her, another "friend" of hers who lived in the area. Same scenario would play out, only the friend and with his BBC would be sandwiched between the two women.

Or maybe, instead, she'd come over, have dinner, I'd put the kids to bed as Ashley and Kenzie would prepare for a night out, heading into the city, sans panties, like old times.

I did half-expect her to arrive in a party dress. She didn't. In fact, it was cool enough that spring evening when she arrived that she wore a winter coat.

"It's sixty degrees. What are you doing, wearing that thing?" Kenzie greeted her friend.

"It's fucking freezing out there!" Ashley said, exaggerating the Georgian in her voice.

Kenzie cleared her throat and stepped aside. "And these are my two lovely children, Graham and Melanie. Graham, Mel, this is my old friend, Ashley."

I could practically see the change come over Ashley. She actually looked bashful and I swear, she blushed. Considering all that I knew, that didn't seem right. "Oh, hi, kids. I'm so sorry. Pay no attention to—"

"Ashley here is a teacher," Kenzie explained. "Of children. One would think she'd know better."

Kenzie seemed to get a real kick out of holding her friend's feet over the fire. I knew the feeling. At least I wasn't alone there.

"I'm just not used to..." She glanced at the kids as she trailed off. She wasn't used to Kenzie being a responsible adult. I stepped in, figuring it was my time.

"Hey, Ashley. Long time, no see."

"Oh, hi, Brad." She actually seemed relieved to see me, which felt unexpected, but good.

"Kids, Auntie Ashley here is from a much warmer place than Chicago. To her, this is cold."

"When I left Atlanta, it was in the 90s."

Kenzie turned to me. "And that's why we moved here, Brad. That sounds awful. Ash, tell them the last time it snowed there."

"A couple years ago, I think we got flurries?"

Melanie made a face. "Aw, man!"

Graham played along, but he seemed more enthralled by the attractive blonde than anything else. Poor guy.

"Please invite me inside before I turn into a fu— An ice cube."

"Are you really a teacher?" Kenzie said as she ushered her friend inside.

"Of seniors in high school. It's different."

"Oh, those poor boys."

Dinner was normal, surprisingly, bizarrely normal. We might as well have had Kenzie's sister over, or Janice Tippings from down the street. It was so normal, in fact, that I almost forgot about all the things that this woman had done with her mouth just two weeks ago, and all the wild and dirty things she'd said.

The weirdest thing was how attentive Ashley was with the kids. Normally, when we had another adult over, the grownups mostly spoke to one another, and Graham and Melanie ate quickly before slipping off to do their own thing. With Ash, she spent most of her time talking with them.

"So you're in fourth grade, Graham? You like school?"

He knew better than to tell a guest no, even though I was pretty sure that's how he felt. "Yeah, it's okay."

Ashley saw right through him. "But you like soccer more?"

He lit up at that.

"Your mom posts about you all the time. You're doing travel soccer now?"

"Yeah! And rec, although that's mostly just for fun. All my school friends are on there. Mom says that I'll have to choose next year which to do, but I really like both. Like, in rec, I get to..."

And off he went, the normally closed guy a sudden font of stories. Thing was, as I watched Ashley listen and ask pointed questions, she wasn't just humoring him. She seemed genuinely interested. Same with Melanie, when they started discussing books.

"Oh, I loved reading, too. Your mom introduce you to Nancy Drew yet?"

"No, not yet. My cousin's reading that. I'm mostly into Magic Treehouse ____"

"Oh, Jack and Annie!" Ashley said.

"Yeah. Dad used to read them to me, but now I don't need help."

Kenzie and I exchanged amazed looks. Most of the time, when we asked the kids how their day at school was, we got a "good" or an unenthusiastic “fun.” Ashley was like the child-whisperer.

“God, I love kids,” she said after we’d put them to bed—and after the kids had given “Auntie Ashley” a tour of their rooms and begged her to read them their bedtime stories.

“Are you the same woman who dropped the F bomb as soon as you walked in?” Kenzie asked.

“Sorry about that. Bad habit.”

“I think it made you get some instant cool points from Graham.”

“Then it was worth it.” We’d retired to the living room and opened a bottle of wine. My earlier fantasies of watching a lesbian make out session were miles away. “You’ve got some amazing kids. Smart and good looking. Both of them are going to be problems when they’re older.”

“Let’s not go there, please,” Kenzie said.

“Sorry. Also a bad habit. Especially in the presence of two who are so... experienced.”

Heat crawled up the back of my neck as Kenzie glanced at me. I knew what she was thinking—how does she know that about you? I shrugged and moved us along.

“So, you’re here for how long?” I asked.

“Conference is tomorrow through Saturday, but I extended through Sunday. Figured I’d take advantage of being alone in a new city.”

I very deliberately did not look at my wife, although looking at Ashley and her suggestive brow lift was no better.

“If you can, try and get tickets to Second City,” I said. “Hilarious.”

“I’ll try and do that.” We all knew that she wouldn’t. “My backup plan was to go out somewhere. Know any good clubs, KiKi?”

“God, no,” she laughed. “I can honestly say that I haven’t stepped foot in one since we moved here.”

“We barely get into the city,” I added.

Ashley could have delivered a biting comment on how settled and lame we were. Instead, she looked in the direction of the stairs, where the kids were (hopefully) asleep, and sighed. “You should make sure the kids get to know the city. Take advantage.”

This was...strange.

She turned toward Kenzie. “Also, come on, girl. Live a little yourself!”

“Hey, we do okay.”

“No, we’re not aiming for just okay. Brad, can I borrow your wife Saturday night?”

My whole body quaked at the way she looked at me. “Uh, why don’t you ask her? She doesn’t need my permission.”

“Great. I’ll remember that. Kenzie?”

Kenzie was watching the exchange with curiosity. Her eyes lingered on me for a half-a-beat longer before she turned back to Ashley. “Sure, sounds fun. I warn you, though, my new bedtime is around ten o’clock.”

“Then we’ll have to make your first drink a double RB and V.”

“You aren’t selling this one, Dear.”

“So...” Kenzie began. Things rarely go well when she starts with a “so.”

“Hmm?”

It was late. Really late. Well past Kenzie’s proclaimed bedtime of 10:00pm, which on a normal night was about right. By the time Ashley caught her Uber into the city, it was pushing one in the morning.

Kenzie crawled into bed beside me, snuggling close enough that I could smell her minty toothpaste. “So, what was that all about Ashley calling us experienced?”

“I don’t know. You tell me?” I said. Knee-jerk response.

“Or is there something you need to tell me about the two of you?”

That she offered to fuck me in a cab? That she took me to a strip club where a stripper gave me a handjob? I think I kept my face mostly still. “No, nothing like that.”

“Then what? Because last I checked, you two weren’t that close. Now you’re all evil glances and double entendres. So out with it.”

Kenzie didn’t look mad, per se. Just... curious. I could see her mind working, putting it all together. She was too smart for me sometimes. I needed to stay ahead of this.

“There’s not much to tell. Drinks were flowing. We got to talking about our pasts. Exchanging numbers, that sort of thing.”

She made the leap that I needed her to make. Her eyes clicked into place. “So that’s why the sudden curiosity about my past.” Then, those impossibly blue irises came into sharp focus. “Did you guys talk about me?”

“Not exactly,” I started. Kenzie pressed her lips together, coaxing me to say more. “I did ask, but she wouldn’t tell me. Said that was a question for you.”

“That’s my girl. She’s right, of course. So? Do you really want to know?”

“Do you want to tell me?”

Like that, the bed took on the tense feeling of a Mexican standoff—her loaded question answered by one of my own. Did I want to know? Yes and no. Kenzie was making the calculations, too.

“Would you think differently of me if my number was higher than yours?” she asked quietly. She was de-escalating.

“You don’t know my number.”

“Exactly.” She softened, moving closer to me. “I don’t want to know it. It won’t change how I feel about you. It won’t change any of this. It’s the past.”

Meaning none of it should change the way I felt about her, either. Yet these last few weeks are proof that it did. If I learned she’d fucked fifty men, would it change it more? One hundred?

“If you want to know, I’ll tell you. I’ll tell you anything you want. No question is off-limits.”

A lot of questions sprung to mind in that moment, and it wasn’t just a number. I was curious about how many one-night stands she’d had. How often she’d fucked a man she’d just met. How many threesomes she’d had. Foursomes. More. Whether she’d ever been tied up or fucked a man for money or... there was an endless series of potential queries.

Instead, I settled on a more innocuous one, albeit a real one that I’d been kicking around all night long. “Are you going to hook up with Ash on Saturday?”

That broke the tension. Kenzie slapped my shoulder. “No!”

“Aren’t you...don’t you miss it? Just having dick all these years, I mean?”

“You know what? Put that way, I’ve been so deprived!” she said sarcastically. “Sorry to break it to you, but all of that was a phase.”

“You don’t see Ash and think about it? Even a little?”

Kenzie laughed out loud. “I mean, maybe? But not really. She doesn’t make me all wet, if that’s what you’re asking.” She reached over and cupped my crotch. “You’re the only one who does that, Baby.”

I snorted.

“Sorry to disappoint, but I’m not a closet lesbian.”

“I’d settle for closet bisexual.”

“Then you met me during the wrong phase in my life.”

I thought about some of the things I knew, about DeShawn and Ashley and Kenzie. “So you and the other Hooters girls... did you ever...?”

“Did we ever have a big Hooters orgy?” Kenzie sounded delighted. “Maybe all of us coated in chicken wing sauce?” She laughed. “You have quite an active imagination.”

“And this surprises you?”

“Not really.” She turned away from me. “Now please let me go to sleep. I need to get some rest tonight.”

“Got to save that energy for Saturday.”

She laughed, breathily, through her nose, but said nothing more. A moment later, she was asleep.

In those days leading up to Saturday, I felt stuck in a state of over-caffeination. I couldn't sit still. My Fitbit reported a constantly elevated heart rate. My stomach was in knots. I couldn't stop thinking about Kenzie going out, about how she used to in the past. What would happen this time, when she did? More to the point, what did I want her to do?

Ashley didn't help. She teased me from afar, with her texts.

<Ashley>: Looking forward to hanging out with your wife. It'll be like old times. ;-)

<Brad>: That's fine. Just take pictures.

It was a cheeky, non-serious response. I didn't actually think there'd be anything to take pictures of. Instead, I set up a trap for myself.

<Ashley>: That's right. Almost forgot how much you like to watch. Don't worry, I always have my phone ready.

I couldn't help laughing to myself. This was more like the woman I'd expected to show up for dinner. The dots on my phone bounced. I waited for her next text.

[Ashley]: Like this? From last night.

For a second, I didn't know what I was looking at. It just looked like a flesh-colored blur. Then I got it. It was a close-up of Ashley's face, her lips and nose, her mouth stretched wide around a thick column of dick.

<Brad>: Jesus. Don't show me that!

<Ashley>: The cock makes you uncomfortable. I'm sorry. How about this?

The next photo was just of Ashley, a bathroom selfie of her getting ready. She was naked, her full tits on display, her bare snatch drawing my eyes.

<Ashley>: No dick there.

<Brad>: As hot as that is, please stop.

I could just imagine Kenzie finding this text thread. At least it would read as me doing the right thing. She didn't need to know how long I stared at the image.

<Ashley>: Fine, fine. I'll stop.

<Ashley>: Until Saturday night!

Saturday night. It loomed, simultaneously frightening and exciting. I did my best not to think too hard about it, even though I seemed to always be hard.

The shower was running when I slipped upstairs. It was Saturday evening and the kids were in the den, watching a movie that I'd tried to watch with them. I don't think I processed any of it.

Stripping down, I let myself into the steam-choked bathroom.

"I was wondering if you were going to join me," Kenzie said.

"I may not be Ashley, but I can help you get ready for your night out." I pulled the shower curtain back and drank in my naked wife, her back turned to me, shampoo suds snaking down her curves.

Turning, she slicked her hair back, then reached down and wrapped her hand around my erection. "Mmmm, you'll have to do, I suppose."

We kissed. Like, we really kissed, deeply, passionately, getting lost in it as our hands explored. We'd been doing that more and more lately. Kenzie noted it. "What's gotten into you, lately?"

"What? Can't a husband get turned on around his naked, soapy wife?"

"You can. But you haven't until recently." She stroked me. "You're not still thinking about me hooking up with my bestie, are you?"

“Well, maybe a little.” I didn’t add, But that’s not the only thing.

“Mmmm, you naughty boy. Thinking about the two of us out there, dancing with each other? All those guys watching us?”

My cock jumped at that. Kenzie lifted her eyes to mine. “You like that idea.”

“I...” I thought about lying. Decided against it. “Sure, I do.”

“Does it stop at watching us dance?” She squeezed me. “I don’t think it does.” She stepped close enough to mash her big tits against my chest. “I haven’t forgotten how you reacted to DeShawn.”

“Honey...”

She lowered herself to her knees. “Is this what you’re thinking may happen?” she asked, staring up at me, never breaking eye contact. “That I’ll find someone who I just can’t resist?”

She slathered her tongue down the underside of my cock, teasing my balls before pulling back. “What if he’s bigger than you? What if he’s much bigger?”

My nostrils flared as I sucked in a breath.

“I should probably brush up on my deepthroating skills, shouldn’t I?” She sucked the tip into her mouth, releasing me with a loud pop. “Just in case?”

Without another word, she swallowed me whole. All of me. All the way back into her throat, until her lips touched my pubic hair. She held me there, choking on it, her eyes watering before she released me with a gag.

“Definitely need more practice.” She went to work, bobbing along my length as she slowly acclimated her throat to my girth. The hottest part? As I sank deeper and deeper past her lips, she shut her eyes... to let her mind drift? To fantasize? Or was she just playing me?

What a view. With her hair and face wet, those long, dark lashes fanning out along her pronounced cheeks, the rest of her kneeling and naked body sweeping away from me, she was like a sexy water nymph.

Only in my mind's eye, I saw what she was probably seeing—not me and my cock shoved down her throat and opening her esophagus, but another, well-hung man.

That, plus the way she cupped my balls and squeezed down ever-so-slight, did me in. Feeling the first blasts of my come strike the back of her throat, Kenzie pulled back, letting me splatter the bridge of her pert nose with a thick dollop of pearly juice.

At last, she opened her eyes, staring up at me with unabashed delight. Her lips curled up, mouth still open as she gasped and took the facial like a gift. My second burst hit her forehead. My third painted across her cheek. She grabbed my cock, jerked the last drops free before wrapping her lips around it again.

I shuddered, pulling away, the sensation too intense. She leaned forward, letting the shower spray wash my come from her face.

“How was that? Think I still have it?”

It wasn't a sincere question, so I didn't bother giving a sincere answer. “Still a little rusty. More choking sounds, I think. Guys love choking sounds.”

She stood, rubbing my cock through her cleavage. “I'll keep that in mind...” she whispered, her breath smelling like my come. “...for later tonight.”

I convulsed a little at the tease. Not to give her the upper hand, though, I pushed her away from the showering water and grabbed her razor and shaving gel. “I may not have Ashley's gentle touch, but I can help you out a little.”

My turn to sink to my knees. My turn to bury my face in her sex. I licked her, tasting her sweetness despite the cascade of water and film of soap. I felt the invisible prickles of her hair along her swollen lips, tracing my tongue higher, up along her excited clitoris. Above, the inverted triangle of trimmed hair sat like a dark yield sign. I kissed it one last time.

“Now this is trust,” Kenzie said as I lathered up her mound. She set her foot on the edge of the tub, opening herself up as I began touching up her shave job.

“Brad, what are you...”

I ran the razor blade right through the center of her sparse bush. “Just helping you get those hard to reach places.”

With a few more swipes, she was once again as bare as a pool cue, and I’d never seen something so sinful. I buried my face into her snatch, making sure that I didn’t miss a spot.

“Ho, God,” she gasped. “That’s so...ohhh... sensitive!”

And she felt even better. I pulled her over me, draping her legs over my shoulders so that I supported her whole weight. She rode me, her back braced against the wall, my mouth covering the entirety of her bald snatch. I felt like I had a direct line into her libido, and I teased and slurped and swirled until she was thrashing above me and the weight of her was just too much.

When I let her down and she curled up into a ball beneath the spray of the shower, shuddering, I stood and stepped out of the shower,

“That movie’s probably close to done,” I said. “I better get down there.”

Kenzie took one last, closed-eyed breath, then looked up at me. “Thanks for helping me get ready,” she said sweetly.

I was on edge after that. Despite toweling off and changing into a fresh set of clothes, I felt like a film of sweat was trapped against my skin. I sat down with the kids, who didn't seem to notice that I was even gone. We finished out the movie together, after which they immediately asked to watch more TV. I was half-inclined to let them do it. The prospect of being an adult right then was daunting.

"Time for bed. Come on, let's go." The dad in me won out in the end, and despite some moaning and whining, I eventually got them upstairs and into pajamas.

Kenzie joined us in the hall bathroom, wearing a light jacket that she'd zipped up most of the way, hiding whatever she wore beneath.

"Mah, yoo look boodiful!" Melanie commented around a mouthful of toothpaste.

"Oh, thanks, dear. Just some makeup."

Just some makeup indeed. Kenzie was the kind of woman who didn't need makeup, but when she did wear it, you could hardly tell. Tonight, I could tell. Liquid eyeliner darkened her eyes, metallic eyeshadow and mascara and blush accentuated her natural beauty, turning into someone immediately out of my league—and my league was pretty pro!

"Mommy's meeting up with Auntie Ashley tonight. You two be good and listen to your Dad."

The kids spit, rinsed, and gave Kenzie hugs goodnight. I would call it completely domestic if I couldn't actually see that the dress that she wore barely reached the bottom of her belted jacket, or that I didn't recognize the golden, open-toed stilettos she'd chosen.

I followed her downstairs, grateful that the kids didn't follow, and pulled her into my arms. "You look great," I said, kissing her, tasting the waxiness of her deep, red lipstick. "Like, wow."

She stepped back, opened the belt of her coat, and slowly pulled the zipper down. “Just a peek,” she said. “Just to drive that naughty mind of yours a little crazy.”

The dress was a strapless pink, wrap dress that showed off a healthy amount of her breasts and a scandalous swath of her legs. When she stepped toward me, more of her thigh slipped into view where the wrap parted.

“That’s...” I felt flustered. With my own wife. Of 15 years! “I don’t recognize that. Should I recognize that?”

When Kenzie smiled, I saw the woman I first met, so many years ago—hot, confident... single. “It was actually Ashley’s bridesmaid gown. I thought she’d get a kick out of it.”

“How did I not recognize that?”

“Think you may have been too caught up in the bride. Remember that slutty white thing she wore?”

Now that I did have vague recollections of.

Kenzie closed up her jacket, stealing away my view. Setting a hand on my shoulder, she said, “Don’t wait up for me.”

There was so much I wanted to say in that moment, and I could tell there was so much she wanted to say too. “I wasn’t expecting you to come back tonight.”

She lifted a brow. “Is that so?”

“I figured you’d crash in Ashley’s hotel room.”

Kenzie laughed sharply. “I bet you did.” She reached between my legs, where I was hard once again. “Don’t go abusing yourself too hard tonight, Baby. Something tells me I’m going to need some of that when I get back.”

Or you could just get it while you’re out.

The stray thought flitted through me, discordant and threatening.

“Have fun, Kenz. I’ll see you in the morning.”

And with one last, chaste kiss, I watched my wife walk out the front door.

My dick gives me what seems like great advice in the moment, but I can't say much for his foresight. There in the shower with Kenzie, shaving her cooch and getting her all worked up seemed like a super sexy idea. Genius even. But once the front door shut, I started having second thoughts about sending my wife out into the night that way. Right now, she was in an Uber, heading downtown, with a shaved pussy, and a lot of dirty thoughts in her mind. Meanwhile, I was stuck at home, with the kids. See, that's short-term thinking right there.

I obviously wasn't thinking about Ashley. Well, I was, in the sense that I was sort of hoping that Ashley would discover what I'd done... in the most intimate way possible. What I wasn't thinking is what actually happened.

<Ashley>: Oh dirty boy, you really want KiKi to get wild.

I checked my watch. Unless Kenzie had hitched a ride on one of Elon Musk's new hyperloops, she was still in the car. Which meant....

<Brad>: She told you?

<Ashley>: She thinks you're just being silly. But we know better, don't we?

Did we? So, yes, thinking about Kenzie being a little slut back in the day was hot. And thinking about her getting it on with Ashley was super hot. But I wasn't sure I wanted more.

<Brad>: I was just thinking of you. Figured you'd prefer munching on a shaved box.

<Ashley>: I do! And I also enjoy watching a freshly shaved, married pussy sliding up and down a stranger's thick, hard cock! Let's see if I can't get both.

I stared at my phone and then glanced down at the tent in my pants. My dick having ideas again.

<Brad>: Ashley, it's not like that. I'm not like Dave. And she's not like you.

<Ashley>: LOL.

I waited for more. Waited for those little dots to appear to tell me she was typing that, yes, she understood, and she was just teasing me. And they were just going to have a little harmless fun. But that was it.

BAM! I jolted. I lifted my eyes to the ceiling. Graham. Even at 60 pounds, he could make the most terrifying sounds as he bounced out of his bed to go to the bathroom or grab a toy from his closet. We'd have to reinforce the floorboards when he became a teen. I checked my pants. Didn't need to traumatize the boy. When I was sure nothing was showing, I went upstairs to try to get him back to sleep.

By the time I wrestled Graham to bed... and by wrestle, I mean literally, he insisted we wrestle on the floor of his room for 20 minutes... Kenzie was downtown at a trendy, retro-style Tiki Bar, Three Dots and a Dash. I know because I received a text from Ashley with pictures of their drinks, some sort of fruity concoction served in a mug adorned with skulls.

<Ashley>: I was going to get a Vicious Virgin but felt a Strip and Go Naked would be more appropriate.

<Brad>: Ha ha. Cute.

<Ashley>: Especially considering how we paid for them.

I puzzled over that for a moment until her next text came. A picture of two thongs, one black, one red, neatly arranged on the bar in front of the broad-chested bartender. He was a young guy, with sandy hair, hazel eyes, a squared jawed, and three days of stubble. Judging by his grin, the girls had slipped off their panties at the bar.

<Ashley>: Which is mine, and which is KiKi's?

I thought about it a moment. My wife had gone out wearing a pink dress, which meant that red would clash, so....

<Brad>: Yours is red. Hers is black.

<Ashley>: Very good, Brad. Now can you guess how we're going to pay for the next round?

It was hard to imagine what they might do next. They couldn't flash him their tits, could they? Not in public. But maybe in private?

I texted Kenzie.

<Brad>: Uh... Baby, you don't need to get crazy, you know.

<Ashley>: Oh, you're done texting Ash?

I groaned. In retrospect, I probably should have let her know about my exchanges with her friend. Before I could formulate my reply, she sent another.

<Kenzie>: Don't worry. I'm in good hands... or soon will be.

Then the tag team:

<Ashley>: Oh Sweetie, sometimes you're behind the wheel, and sometimes you're just along for the ride. Don't worry, I'll make sure Kenzie doesn't do anything I wouldn't do.

Which, of course, conjured up memories of Ashley impaling herself on Andre's huge cock, just as she'd intended. If not for the kids, I think I'd have hightailed downtown to catch up with the girls and prevent anything untoward happening. But I couldn't leave them alone, and I quickly dismissed the thoughts of getting a sitter. That would be desperate. And I wasn't that. I mean, while Ashley was crazy, I was pretty sure my wife was still sane.

I puttered around the house doing chores. I tightened up all the kitchen cabinets, and then got to work reorganizing my tools. Mindless busywork.

My phone buzzed.

<Ashley>: So I have good news and bad news. After we put our panties on the bar, we haven't had to buy a drink since. Guys keep sending them over. On the other hand, we're getting pretty drunk.

<Brad>: Um, which is the good news and which is the bad?

<Ashley>: You're right. They're both good news. Lots of prospects, and KiKi is loosening up! She says you're turned on about her being with a black guy.

<Brad>: I did not say that!

<Ashley>: LOL. Don't worry.

Which, of course, just made me worry more.

I texted Kenzie.

<Brad>: Um, Baby, so, you know, just because something is hot when we talk about it, doesn't mean I want it to happen.

<Kenzie>: LOL. Don't worry.

And then a moment later.

<Ashley>: If you keep texting her, I'm going to make sure she gets a big black dick in her tight little hole.

Followed by:

<Kenzie>: She's just messing with you.

And then:

<Ashley>: Am not.

I rolled my eyes. They were fucking with me. Ha ha. I was sure they were giggling drunkenly thinking of me back home reading these texts.

I resolved to ignore them as much as I could. I sorted my workbench. You know how socks seem to disappear in the washing machine? I have the same problem with Phillips head screwdrivers. I had a dozen slot heads, but all of the Phillips seemed to have vanished into thin air.

While I pondered this weighty matter, my phone buzzed again. I groaned. I didn't really want to play this game with the girls, but I also knew I couldn't not, a fact they obviously knew and obviously found amusing.

<Ashley>: We're going to dinner. But the guys insisted we do a pair of shots first.

I rolled my eyes. And then another text came in, a video this time. Uh oh.

I clicked to play. It was loud. Music in the background. Voices, laughter. I couldn't really make anything out. The image swirled and then came into focus on Ashley, all blond hair and cleavage. She was laughing and holding a shot of some brownish liquid in her hand. More laughing and cross talk, and then she asked, "So you ready?" A muffled "yeah" came the answer, accompanied by a giggle. Ashley placed the shot between her tits. She reached out and pulled Kenzie in, her arm wrapped around my wife's head. Kenzie leaned into her friend and threw her head back, the drained shot glass between her lips. Hoots, hollers, laughs.

"Now me," said Ashley.

The camera swung to Kenzie, and it occurred to me that someone other than the girls was filming. I hoped it was the barkeep. I suspected it wasn't.

Kenzie placed the shot between her breasts. Ashley didn't lean in right away. Instead, she reached out and cupped my wife's boobs.

"What are you doing?" Kenzie asked.

"Just making sure everything is positioned right."

"Ha. Take the shot, Idiot."

Ashley dipped between my wife's tits and threw her head back. I expected the camera to swing back to her, but it didn't, because as Ashley stepped back, she yanked down Kenzie's top. It took my shocked wife a moment or two to react, during which her tits were completely exposed. An explosion of hoots followed as Kenzie corralled her boobies and squeezed them back into her dress. The camera stayed on her the whole time.

"Cunt," Kenzie hissed, but she was laughing.

"Now we're even!" Ashley replied.

"That was over fucking fifteen years ago."

Ashley laughed, and the video ended.

Haha. What fun. My wife doing body shots and having her tits exposed while surrounded by a bunch of horny dudes. I looked at my watch. It was barely 9:00pm. The evening was still young, but Ashley had already managed to get my wife's thong off and bare her tits to a full bar.

I texted my wife.

<Brad>: Um... seems like things are getting a little out of hand.

<Kenzie>: Things will calm down now. We're going to dinner. Catch 35.

I let out a sigh of relief. It was an expensive seafood place on Wacker, right off the river. High ceilings, light wood, funky chandeliers that looked like brass planets orbiting a star. There would be no body shots and titty flashing there.

I moved to the garage. For some reason we tend to collect bungee cords. Dozens of them of varying length. I set about organizing them by size and function. As I said, my mind was elsewhere, and I was looking for distraction.

When the phone buzzed again, I groaned. Like, out loud.

<Ashley>: Did she tell you about our dates?

Now I growled. Like a dog. Grrrr.

I knew I shouldn't, but I couldn't help myself. I texted Kenzie again.

<Brad>: You have dates?

<Kenzie>: Just a couple of guys we met at the bar. They were going to dinner too, so.... Just being friendly.

My wife is no shrinking violet, no little innocent. These “guys” had seen Ashley and Kenzie paying for drinks with their panties, getting silly on free booze, doing shots, and caught sight of my wife's tits. Even if Kenzie didn't see them as dates, they were definitely already thinking about whether they'd rather pin her ankles to her ears or fuck her doggy style.

Ashley followed-up with a text. A picture of the four of them by the hostess stand at Catch 35. Ashley, Kenzie, and two handsome black men on either side. Big smiles all around. Ashley's "date" was squared jawed and broad shouldered. He was wearing a grey suit jacket over a black shirt, with a gold chain around his neck. My wife's man was taller, with dreads and a tight beard, and wearing a black suit over a stylish black and white patterned shirt. They made two lovely couples, an interracial fetishist's wet dream.

<Ashley>: Don't we look hot?

<Brad>: Yes, very.

<Ashley>: Tony and Jaylen. Jay is KiKi's.

Jay and KiKi. Nicknames. Cute. I had to give Ashley credit. Up until now, she'd been a little too obvious in her teasing. Over the top. Almost a parody of a hotwife. That worked for Dave, I guess, but it was something I could dismiss. But what she was going for now was subtler and scarier. I could totally see Kenzie with a guy like Jaylen, striking and stylish. They looked great together, comfortable and well matched.

I resisted the urge to text back. It was a calculated gamble, but I was increasingly feeling like the more I reacted, the more I encouraged them, a fact I completely understood because, even though I was bearing the brunt of it, I could well see what a fun game it might be to torment me. So, for the next hour, I laid low. I finished reorganizing the bungees by size and color, and moved on to sharpening the kitchen knives with a whetstone.

<Ashley>: You're not asleep yet, are you? Night is still young.

<Brad>: Not yet. How was dinner?

<Ashley>: Delicious! A couple of bottles of wine. Lobster tails. Lots of laughs. On dessert now.

She sent me a picture of Kenzie and Jaylen, huddled close, sharing a piece of Chocolate Lava Cake with cranberry sauce.

<Ashley>: They make a great couple. Boys paid for dinner. It was very expensive, but I'm sure we'll make it up to them. Going dancing next. They have an in at PRYSM.

I decided to text my wife.

<Brad>: Um, Baby, this is fun and all, but you don't want to lead these guys on.

<Kenzie>: Who says we're leading them on?

And then the pile on.

<Ashley>: LOL. I'll send pics.

Having never been to PRYSM, I checked it out online. Seemed like a typical high-end nightclub. Balconies overlooking a crowded dance floor. Low booths with bottle service. Women in tight, sexy party dresses, with lots of cleavage. Men in stylish, slim-cut suits. They'd fit in quite well.

I didn't hear back from the girls for a while. 11:00pm turned to midnight. I resisted the urge to text or call. By now, I'd run out of home projects, and I'd poured myself a stiff drink as I mindlessly watched sports highlights on TV.

I trusted Kenzie and knew she was just messing with me. But having been around the block once or twice, I had some reason for concern.

So, back before I met Kenzie, a couple of years out of school, I was hanging with friends, doing what amounted to a pub crawl. A half dozen of us, picking up and shedding ones and twos as we went from bar to bar. Among the group were Jen and Ken. She was a tall blonde with big boobs, just my type, and a little out of his league frankly, though the bro code precluded me from making a move on her. After all, lots of girls out there, hot ones too, willing to get freaky without too much effort. But anyway, Ken was ignoring Jen. The usual stuff. They'd been together for a while, he was a UNC grad and kept checking the basketball game on the TV. She started flirting with me to piss him off, and I thought it was fun to mess with him a little.

We were hammered. There was music and we were dancing and getting a little silly, handsy. And before I knew it, we were off in a corner, making out, getting hot and heavy, and Ken was nowhere to be seen. Long story short, she sucked me off in the bar, and then we went back to my place and fucked like bunnies half the night. All of which was very hot and sexy, but both of us woke up hungover as fuck and feeling guilty as hell. So, I well knew that booze, music, and attractive people mixing together sometimes leads to unintended consequences.

All of which is a long way of saying that when Ashley's next text came in, I was already primed to think the worst. It was a video. Kenzie out on the dance floor with Jay. The music was loud, thumping bass; the club was dark, colored beams of light cutting through the heavy air; beautiful people moving to the beat, flush with alcohol and heat. It was a sensuous, hypnotic scene even on my phone.

The camera was centered on my wife. At first, they were moving together facing the DJ, arms in the air, swinging to the beat. His arms dropped down to her waist, and she turned away from him. She leaned back against him, they swayed together, his hands on her hip and belly. He was nuzzled in over her shoulder, and she rolled her head back toward him. I couldn't tell if they were kissing, or just trying to talk over the music. His hand slid upward, up beneath her breasts. He'd have probably gone further and fondled her tits, but she leaned forward and started grinding her ass into his crotch sensuously as he held her hips. Take away the clothes and they'd be fucking standing up. He was probably hard as a rock, and she surely could feel it, and instead of stopping, she continued to thrust against him.

The video stopped suddenly, and I was panting and my heart was pounding. I watched the video again catching subtler things. Her smile, his confidence, a connection that felt palpable.

<Ashley>: I'm getting wet just watching them. Are you hard, Baby?

I wasn't hard. But I wasn't wholly flaccid either. It was an erotic scene, even if it involved my wife, and even if I was participating remotely as it were.

<Brad>: You asking me for a dick pic?

<Ashley>: Anytime, anywhere. Though I think we have plenty of dick to go around. I'm betting Jay is hung like a fucking horse.

<Brad>: Why aren't you out there dancing instead of texting me?

<Ashley>: Need to balance my pleasures. The rest of the evening will be all that much hotter for knowing you know what is going on.

I thought about how to respond but couldn't find a formula that didn't feel either needy or encouraging. I took a sip of scotch and watched an insane dunk on the TV. It was getting late. The kids would be up early, and I knew I should try to get some sleep, but there was no way I would be able to as long as Kenzie was at a nightclub. I texted her.

<Brad>: Hey, Babe, getting late. You guys calling it a night soon?

She didn't answer. Time passed. I flipped channels aimlessly.

It was closing in on 1:30am when I got the next text.

<Ashley>: Time for a game.

<Brad>: Not really in the mood. Ask Kenzie to text me.

<Ashley>: After our game.

I sighed.

<Ashley>: Are you ready?

<Brad>: Yes.

<Ashley>: You know how I asked you to guess panties before? Now, we're going to see if you can guess pussies.

She sent me a pic.

I groaned. It was an upskirt, shot under a table. Obviously from earlier in the evening at dinner given the lighting. And also obviously of Kenzie. The dress and shoes were a giveaway. It was subtle, not like she was deliberately showing off, but also unmistakable. My wife, bare-assed, at dinner with her slutty friend and two hunky men.

<Ashley>: So... me or KiKi?

I knew she wouldn't let up.

<Brad>: Kenzie.

<Ashley>: Correct! She has a beautiful pussy, doesn't she? And she loves showing it off. Okay, how about this one?

Another picture. This one was darker. A couple on a black leather sofa. Cropped to show a pair of legs. A woman's bare shins and thighs, and between them a flash of snatch. Beside her a man in black pants, his dark hand close to the woman's leg, maybe touching, maybe not quite, but close enough to create an electric tension.

<Brad>: Kenzie again?

<Ashley>: Very good, Brad. Are you seeing a pattern? Now, this one you'll really like.

I gasped. No longer just a creeper shot, this was a carefully framed picture of a man's dark hand palming a woman's thigh, the leather sofa still visible beneath. His thumb inches from her pussy, open slightly, a hint of pink.

And then another. His hand cupping her mound, slit cleaved open, glistening with excitement.

And then another. His middle finger inside her. Her legs now spread wide.

I thought back to my friend's girlfriend, Jen. The way I'd slipped my hand down the front of her jeans, feeling her excited and hungry. How quickly her scruples and mine evaporated when I touched her wet pussy.

<Ashley>: Brad? You still there? That was 30 minutes ago. Want some live video?

Before I could answer, I got a FaceTime call from Ashley. I answered it without thinking.

It was loud. I frantically adjusted the volume.

A couple on a bed, sheets askew, covers thrown aside.

A man's muscular ass rising and falling.

A hard, thick black cock pounding into a white woman's pussy. His hands beneath her ass.

A woman's groans. "Ugh ugh ugh."

He was fucking her hard, deep. The camera zoomed in closer. He was thick. No rubber. Her pussy clung to his shaft on each stroke.

"You like that black dick, Baby." His voice was deep.

"Ugh ugh ugh."

"Better than your husband gives it to you."

"Ugh ugh ugh."

The camera angle widened. I could see his v shaped torso, powerful shoulders, dreads.... I shuddered. It was Jaylen, Kenzie's "date." Her legs were in the air.

"Ugh ugh ugh," she cried out, toes curling.

"That's it, Baby, cream on my big cock."

He fucked her harder still. She grabbed his ass and urged him on. Harder. Harder.

“Having fun?”

I jolted and looked up. Kenzie. Standing in the doorway of the family room. Grinning at me.

“Ugh ugh ugh,” from my phone.

She strode over to me. I looked from the screen to her and back again, not quite sure what was going on. My confusion made her laugh.

“That’s not you?” I said.

“Maybe he already finished with me,” she said. She raised up her dress. No panties. Her shaved pussy right in face. “Take it out,” she commanded.

It took me a second to realize what she wanted. I unbuttoned my jeans and pulled out my cock. I was rock hard. She climbed in my lap, and confidently impaled herself on me. She was wet, more than ready. She grabbed my hand and angled the phone so we could both see it. Jay was fucking Ashley even faster.

“That’s it, Jay, fuck my married pussy,” Kenzie gasped in my ear.

“Ugh ugh ugh,” Ashley moaned from somewhere across town.

Kenzie ground against me in time with her friend getting fucked. Ashley’s moans sharpened. My wife gripped my neck tightly. Her cunt was so wet, so hot.

“Oh Jay, you’re making me come,” Kenzie moaned.

She dropped down on me hard and ground against my pelvis. Her pussy spasmed on my shaft and I pumped my load into her tight hole.

“Oh fuck, Baby, that was hot,” I gasped.

She laughed. “You thought that was me, didn’t you?”

I shook my head. “No... I.... I wasn’t sure,” I said.

“You wished it was me,” she said.

I shook my head. But I wasn’t sure. Not about that.

So, what I want to know is this..." Kenzie's question seeped through the veil of sleep like a spill of ice-cold water. She was on top of me, her body warm and lush. She sounded unfairly alert after being out late last night. "...last night, you watched Ashley— married Ashley—have sex with a guy who was definitely not Dave, and you barely reacted."

I turned over, opening my eyes. I felt hungover, although it was more from lack of sleep than too much to drink. "What time is it?"

"7:15."

"How are you so chipper?"

"I'm a mom. It's part of the job description." She twisted my nipple. "And apparently avoiding the question is part of yours. Come on, Brad. Man up and tell me already so we can get on with things. You know how I feel about secrets and communication and all that."

So that was that. She knew. Of course, she did. Ashley would have told her all about it at some point. About how I'd watched with Dave as she fucked Andre. About how we went out to a strip club later. About it all. I got the feeling there weren't too many secrets between those two.

"I was going to tell you..." I began. But what? Why didn't I tell her? She was right, we mostly told each other everything. It's what made us work as a team. The one blank spot there was, oddly, when things got deeply sexual. Ironical, considering our pasts.

Or maybe not ironic at all.

"You know what's weird? I actually wasn't going to tell you." It felt good to tell the truth. I felt more like myself. But it was also scary. "Just like I don't really talk about my past all that much.”

Kenzie looked contemplative. Like this epiphany was dawning on her at the same time.

“And like how you don’t talk about yours much, either,” I added.

That snapped her out of it. “Hey, I’m an open book. Ask me anything.”

“Right, I have to ask you. That’s a passive form of open communication, right? For example, how is it that I didn’t know that you hooked up with Ashley until last week?”

“You never asked.”

“Actually, I’m pretty sure that I did. And if I recall, you always gave jokey answers, which, I’ll point out, is kind of your way of deflecting.”

Kenzie glanced down and away as she ran through her memories. Her lips curled down, too, her brow knitting together. I recognized this reaction, too. She did it when she realized she’d been too hard on the kids. She was her harshest critic.

“Look, honey,” I took her into my arms. “I’m not saying this to make you feel bad. I’m the same way. It’s just... interesting, is all. I guess. I’ve told you all about the time I got caught shoplifting a carton of cigarettes from a Kroger’s when I was in middle school, or... I don’t know... how I totally got caught lying on my resume when going after that first job out of college ___”

Kenzie laughed at some of my more embarrassing stories. “Or how you dropped Graham off at the wrong school in first grade because you didn’t actually remember which school he went to?”

“Right. All that stuff I can tell you. I know you’ll roll your eyes, but... I don’t know...”

Kenzie helped out. “But I’ll think it’s funny? Laugh, but not judge?”

“Something like that.”

“Oh, Brad. You have to know...” She stared at me. “I judge you all the time.”

We cracked up together. That felt good.

Kenzie took a deep breath. “I get it. I mean, I don’t, but now that you bring it up, it’s true.”

“So last night. Did you and Jay actually do anything naughty?”

“Depends on how you define naughty,” she started to say, then caught herself. “I’m doing it again, aren’t I?”

After all the heavy talk, my cock started to stir. “Help me interpret that.”

“I danced with him. You saw that.”

“I did. You grinded up against him?”

“Mmhm. I felt his... cock.” She rolled her eyes. “Why did I just hesitate before saying that? Jesus, now I’m going to be second guessing everything.”

“Did you do anything more than dance?”

Kenzie stared at me, but I didn’t think she saw me. “God, this is so weird. I have this overwhelming desire to answer your question with a question. Like, You sure you want to know?”

“So you did?” My stomach trembled. My cock came alive. “Those pics that Ashley sent... were those... was that actually you, under the table at the club?”

Kenzie slipped her hand beneath the sheets. I wanted to flinch away from her. Like I could hide my erection. Like it was something to be ashamed about at all. Her fingers were warm and soft as they wrapped around my shaft.

“You wish it was,” she said. Not a question.

“A part of me does. Hard to deny that.”

She squeezed me. “Hard indeed.”

“So, it was Ashley,” I said, moving the conversation on.

“All but the first two.” The mixture of disappointment and relief was unreal. Kenzie, perceptive as always, saw it all. “But I wasn’t completely a good girl last night.”

“Yeah?”

“I may have kissed Ashley on the dance floor.”

“May have?”

She groaned inwardly. “Why do I default to teasing? I did. Tony and Ash joined us. The guys wanted to watch us dance. One thing led to another and we were making out like old times.”

“Damn, that’s hot.”

“But also...” She met my eyes. I shivered. “...as we were out there, Jay came up behind me. Put his great, big arms around me. I could feel how hard he was. Feel how...masculine he was. So when I broke the kiss with Ash, it just seemed natural to turn my head and kiss him, too.”

My gasp sucked all the air from my body. I felt concave.

“Fuuuuck.”

“How do you feel?”

“Conflicted.” My throat was dry. “But, obviously, turned on.”

“Oh, I can tell.” She started to stroke my dick as she interrogated me. “Jealous?”

“Yes.”

“Ash told me that’s important. That if Dave didn’t feel jealous, that’s when she’d start to worry.” At some point, I must have shut my eyes. Kenzie’s voice drifted there in the dark, sweet and tantalizing all at once. “So, you’re relieved that it wasn’t me in those photos? Or in that video?”

“Yes.” It was the truth, but there was some weird part of it that rang false.

“You know, I almost did. After Ashley told me about your encounter with that whore at the Pink Pony, I thought it was only fair.” She cracked the accusation like a whip, snapping the last hope I had that she didn’t know about Atlanta. “I thought about blowing him and having Ash video it, so you could watch it like you watched her with her perverted husband.”

“Did you?” I was too far into my imminent orgasm. Too far gone to deal with her anger.

“Did I think those things? Yes, Brad. Did I do them? Of course not.”

She was stroking me fast, her handjob skilled—another reminder of her past.

“You could have.” I was close.

“Oh, believe me, I know I could have...”

I groaned, biting back the urge to spray.

“He was huge. So huge. Does it make me a slut to tell you that my mouth actually watered?”

I couldn’t tell if this was her fucking with me again. If she was falling back into her old ways, joking and teasing and nibbling around her true feelings. I was too far gone to really care. I noticed her arousal. The flushed cheeks and heavy breaths. She was with me, but she was also back out with Ashley and strange men.

“I wanted to take it out. To go down on him, right in the club.” Her hand jacked faster. “It was like old times. With Ashley there. With the booze and the music and the guys and it is so hot to know that people are watching me being a total, uninhibited slut....”

“Oh, fuck, Kenz...” I couldn’t hold out any longer. I bucked up, coming up off the mattress as I spewed a load into the sheets.

I deflated, my libido going with it. I was lost again. Lost and uncertain.

“But you didn’t?”

Kenzie looked torn between being frustrated with me and open to having a deeper conversation. I’ve seen that look, too, usually aimed at the kids, and usually at the end of a long and exhausting day. “Do you really have to ask, Brad? Is that where we are now?”

“I’m just trying to understand what actually happened.”

“What happened was that Ashley and I went out for drinks. Guys were hitting on us. It did feel like old times, without the added pressure of having to actually meet anyone new. And then Ash dropped the bomb on me. You, Dave, that pervy room of theirs. The Pink Pony.”

“I’m sorry. I really should have told you.”

“You really should have, yes. I was so fucking pissed. And not even so much what you did there, but that you didn’t tell me.” She sighed, like releasing a pressure valve she had on me. “So we hatched this plan to get back at you. To lead you on. I was actually going to keep you in the dark forever. We made sure you had no way of knowing who was who.”

“That’s pretty evil.”

“Ashley’s pretty evil.” She grinned. “Anyway, it was only supposed to be drinks and some photos. Those body shots. Then dinner happened, and it was fun, thinking about how you’d be all twisted up here. Drinks continued to flow. I swear, I was going to leave after dinner, but...” At last, she looked sheepish. “I guess it wasn’t hard for Ash and the guys to talk me into dancing.”

“You started to enjoy it.”

“I did. More than I should. For a second there, I forgot all about...” She glanced around our bedroom, with the pictures of the kids on the nightstand and the collage of places we’d visited on the wall. “...all this.”

“It’s okay, you know.” On the nightstand was a framed photo of the two of us on our honeymoon. I picked it up. “We’re not just these people. This doesn’t define us.”

“And the bank account of the Pink Pony is grateful for that.”

“As is Jay,” I shot back.

“That’s... fair.” She took the photo from me, scanning it. We went to Cabo San Lucas, and this photo captured all the beauty of that place, of that moment. The ocean glittered behind us. A swath of the white sand beach curved out of the frame. We stood side by side, Kenzie holding her wide-brimmed hat on as we smiled at the camera and wind tugged at her dark hair.

She smiled at the photo before setting it down. “So tell me, Brad. That FaceTime video. Did you really think it was me?”

“I...I don’t know.”

Her next question was hesitant, a message delivered at the end of a long and difficult journey. “Next time, you want it to be?”

Did I not know? Or did I not want to address that part of me?

“And if I answer that question with one of my own?” I asked.

“You want to know if I want to do it.” She looked pleased with her own insightfulness. “And you’re right, the urge to say something vague or silly is so hard to resist. That's so weird." She brushed her hair away from her face. "Okay, so honest answer... it's not cut and dry."

I waited her out as she collected her thoughts. After fifteen years with this woman, I didn't think I'd ever feel that new relationship energy—asking a question and truly not knowing the answer—and truly wanting to know it. I felt that now.

"So, the easy answer is no. I don't want it. I want you. I want this life that we've built. I agreed to spend my life with you because I don't need all of the rest."

"Sure, of course."

My heart raced. A but was coming, and it made me feel dizzy.

"It's an honest answer to give when I'm home, or you know, living my day-to-day life. But..." She glanced up at me. "But it's not the one I would have given last night." She took a deep breath. "Last night, in that moment, honestly... honestly I wanted to be a party girl again."

My face was flush as my heart pounded blood into it. My come wasn't even cool on the sheets and I was getting hard again.

"All that stuff I said was true. I wanted to go down on him in the club. I wanted to climb into his lap and impale myself on his big, hard cock. I wanted to do very bad, very irresponsible things with this fucking stranger." She looked scared. For a moment, I thought she was worried about my reaction. After her next question, I realized she was worried about my answer. "So knowing all that, next time, do you want me to be on that FaceTime video instead of Ash?"

Did I? I'd watched Ashley fuck three different men now, and deep down, a very real part of me wished that Kenzie could be that woman. Now that I knew she could be—that sometimes, she wanted to be—did I really want that?

"Mommy!" Melanie called out from down the hall.

Kenzie sighed. “She’s eight. I don’t understand why she can’t fucking get out of bed herself?”

This was how our girl still woke up, as if incapable of getting out of bed without our assistance. Kenzie kissed me and climbed out of bed. She was a mom again, and my wife. Her matching pajama top and bottom reinforced the shift back.

Grabbing her robe, she said, “You think about your answer. Give it to me when you’re ready. Oh, and while I’m waking Sleeping Beauty, can you take care of the sheets for me? You made quite the mess.”

With a spin and a smile, she left the room.

Our conversation in bed was about understanding, not closure. Kenzie's admission that she wanted to be a party girl again, even if just in the moment, was not something that I could just wish away, even if I had wanted to. And anyway, she was right, I didn't want to wish it away.

When I first saw Kenzie in her tight orange shorts and cleavage-baring tee, I wasn't thinking that she was smart and funny and would make a great mom. I thought she was a piece of ass. And I wasn't hoping she was a nice girl, who I could take on numerous dates to museums and the theater before we tentatively kissed and slowly became comfortable enough to initiate a physical relationship. I was hoping instead that I could buy her a couple of Jagr shots and she'd sit on my dick, which, by the way, I did and she did. That was a good thing because, honestly, given where I was at the time, if she hadn't been a cheap date, an easy lay, a party girl, I wouldn't have put in the effort to get to know her better.

I pondered that. Not all the time. Not obsessively, because that's not how I am, but now and again, in the shower, or during my commute, in those quiet moments before falling asleep.

The workweek zoomed by. Between work and kids, the daily grind, Kenzie and I didn't immediately revisit our conversation and recent events. But it obviously hung between us, an unseen presence, neither particularly malevolent nor ominous, rather just an unresolved issue that just felt more convenient to ignore for now. And then Friday evening, as we were cleaning up dishes after dinner, it came to a head.

"You remember, I'm going to LA next week, right?"

"Of course," I lied.

"You forgot."

“I didn’t.”

She rolled her eyes at me. “It’s on the calendar.”

Yeah, I really should check that more often. “Right, right.”

“What’s it for again?”

She turned back to the sink before answering. “It’s the kickoff for Opportunity Initiative.”

It was an annual recruiting event to increase minority representation at large consulting firms. Three days of schmoozing with talented, put-together young African-American and Hispanic men and women.

“You should invite Ashley to come along.”

Kenzie wheeled around, and hand on hip, asked, “Where did that come from?”

I actually blushed. “I don’t know.”

“You don’t?”

I shrugged. “I don’t know. Just got a vision of a roomful of young black men in suits and I thought of her.”

“And me, apparently.”

“You did make out with someone like that recently.”

“Yeah, I was pissed at you, remember?”

“You know, I’ve been thinking about that.”

“Uh oh.”

“What? I’m a good... um... thinking... guy.”

She smiled. "Okay, Good Thinking Guy, let's hear it."

"Well, and look, I'm not going to make excuses about the whole Atlanta thing, but I also don't think you're coming clean about your night out with Ashley."

"How so? I admitted that I was turned on and fantasized about fucking Jay."

"Yeah, but you made it seem like you just got carried away. You know, no malice aforethought."

"Which is true."

"Oh come on, Baby, you've been around the block a few times. You knew where the little game could end up. Drinking, dancing, flirting, that's all asking for trouble."

"Sort of like going to a strip club?"

"Well, sorta, but not exactly."

"Oh?"

"Yeah, Baby. I mean, I'm not saying you can't score in a strip club. I've done it plenty. But you need to get lucky and put in a lot of time and effort. Inertia in a strip club leads to an empty wallet and blue balls. Whereas on your little adventures, well, let's say it would have been easier for you to fall onto Jay's dick than it would for me to score."

"I'm a girl, you're a boy. Old news."

"Exactly. Old news." I paused and took a deep breath. "Leading those guys on could easily have gone wrong."

"Ashley had it under control. She was perfectly happy to end up with both of them. Hell, I think she'd have been pissed if I'd muscled in on her action."

"Ha."

“Okay, you’re right,” Kenzie conceded. “She’d have loved to see me get crazy.”

“Right, so you knew going in that things might get out of hand.”

“I...” She paused. “I don’t know. Honestly. I mean, yeah, you’re right. When I was thinking about going out with Ashley I did, you know, fantasize a little about the... good old days. And you didn’t help with that stunt in the shower.”

I nodded. “I don’t want you to do things to get back at me.”

She took a step closer and held my gaze. “And what if I do things because I want to?”

“Do you?”

“Complex question, Brad. Lots of layers, you know. Moving parts.” The flush was back in her cheeks.

“Look, Baby, I’m just saying, you and me, we both know how this works. The last few weeks have been interesting, but I don’t want us to drift into anything. If we’re going to do something, we should do it, open-eyed.”

“Do what?”

“Spice things up?” I said.

“Oh, like Ashley and Dave?”

“I’m not like Dave.”

She ran a hand across my cheek. “No. You’re not. Okay, Brad, so be honest. Do you want to spice things up because it turns you on to think about me with other men? Or because you think it’ll get me on board with you being with other women?”

“Maybe both?”

“Hmmm. I’d have thought we both got that out of our system when we were younger.”

“Did we?”

She laughed. “I guess not.”

When I awoke Saturday, morning light was streaming through the windows and the spot beside me was empty and cold. It was 7:45, which in my world counted as “sleeping in.” It’s funny how things change over time.

When I first met Kenzie, she was a night person. To her, ten o’clock was early. Things started to change even before the kids, though. For both of us. It was all part of adulting—get up, shower, drink coffee, go to work. I still slept in on the weekends, though. Kenzie, on the other hand, liked to take advantage of the quiet.

We hadn’t talked more about her trip out to LA last night, although based on the heated sex we’d had, it was on her mind as much as it was mine.

I rubbed the empty spot where Kenzie had been. Where was this going? And what did I really want? Until she had asked the question directly, I hadn’t fully considered all the possibilities. I just wanted us to do this thing with both eyes open.

What I knew was that when she went out to LA, I wanted her to flirt with someone, and honestly more than flirt. I wanted her to get into a situation that could easily lead to more. I wasn’t sure I wanted her to fuck someone. But I did know I wanted it to be a possibility. What I wasn’t sure about was my own motivations.

When I finally pulled myself out of bed, the kids were already up and Kenzie was shuffling them off to their overbooked Saturday morning activities—Melanie to gymnastics, Graham to soccer. “Graham? Graham, get your shoes on. Melanie, where are your socks? Didn’t you just have them on? Come on, we’re going to be late.” Lenin gets credit for the phrase, “two steps forward, one step back,” but I am pretty sure it was coined by some parent trying to get their kid ready in the morning.

I watched her from the top of the stairs, trying to connect the literal soccer mom in her tight jeans and hooded sweatshirt to the party girl that had initially caught my eye. I could do it, but only abstractly.

“Little help here?” she said, seeing me at last.

I hopped into action, moving to help get the kids dressed and out the door. This was a typical Saturday morning, although sometimes it was me as the harried out. We alternated. We liked to be fair like that. Every other Saturday, one parent got some quiet time.

I did the responsible thing first, mowing the lawn and edging the grass, then took a shower before screwing around. Normally, my time-killer of choice was the Xbox. Today, I pulled out our wedding album.

It’s crazy how young we looked twelve years ago. Fresh-faced, skinnier than we had a right to be, and completely unprepared for a life of kids and mortgages and the suburban life we now have. I looked like a kid. Funny to think how, at the time, I felt so worldly, so experienced. God, I must have been an annoying prick.

In her wedding gown and veil, Kenzie glowed. I remembered that dress—she’d pulled it out a few times since. Strapless, the bodice sculpted to her curves in an alluring, yet elegant, way, it was tight all along her body before flaring out into a long train. Beneath, white, lacy lingerie that didn’t last the night. Lace-topped white stockings still reminded me of that wild, marital night.

I flipped to a photo of the bridal party. On the end, in a pale pink dress, was Ashley. She looked the same as ever, all blond hair and big boobs and long lashes. I always imagined that she was a wild one, but now that I knew, definitively, that she was, my mind played out like a porno.

“You look so pretty in that dress,” she’d tell Kenzie on the morning of our wedding. They’d be alone, somewhere bright, the summer sun streaming through the windows. “I’m going to miss our special nights together.”

The two would kiss—sweetly at first, before the passion took over. The kiss would turn into more. I could practically hear Kenzie’s moans as Ashley went down on her friend one last time. Up under the dress. Lapping at Kenzie’s juicy pussy.

The other bridesmaids were hot, too, from Kenzie’s sister, Aileen, to her other best friends. Were they as wild? Did they know about Kenzie’s wild side? Suddenly, that sun-drenched scene turned into a lesbian orgy.

I flipped the page, moving through pictures of the ceremony, the reception. But now, everything was sexual. I saw guests that we’d invited, who’d always been innocuous, and wondered if they were past lovers. Did she have sex with the fit, older looking guy who was some friend on her side of the family? Ashley had brought some guy she was seeing—this was before Dave; had Kenzie sampled him first?

“Get a hold of yourself,” I muttered aloud. I was cracking up—not something that I was used to. It wasn’t jealousy I felt, either, but there was certain energy there, humming away. Almost like new relationship energy. I wanted her. I wanted her right now, and not the young bride in these photos, but the sexy, more mature—yet still edgy—woman she was now.

As I turned to leave, Kenzie’s open laptop caught my eye. I don’t know why, but I brushed my fingers across the trackpad, expecting a password prompt. Instead, the desktop snapped into view, bright and unprotected. Which made some amount of sense, I supposed. This wasn’t her work computer, and Kenzie always hated dealing with any kind of password.

There was nothing incriminating on the open web browser. A page that listed some museum activities in the city was pulled up, the window half-scrolled to some program on butterflies at the Field Museum.

I chuckled to myself. That, right there, was the new paradigm. Kenzie made a wonderful mom, something I never realized I wanted in a partner until I had it.

I almost left it at that. Only when I started to close the lid of the computer, I saw another window minimized in the toolbar. I clicked it automatically, expecting to see a ticket purchase window or something. Instead, I felt like the floor shifted beneath my feet.

Porn. Behind the window of domestic responsibility was hardcore porn. And not just any porn. It was a paused movie of interracial porn. The title above said it all: “White MILF fucked by two BBCs.” The paused movie caught things in action. There, a brunette with pale white skin and large breasts sat astride a black man, his cock buried in her shaved snatch. To her right stood another man, even darker, standing akimbo as the supposed MILF sucked him.

I sat down heavily in the computer chair, staring at the screen, trying to wrangle my thoughts. This was shocking on many levels, but why? Kenzie was a sexual woman. She wore thongs because she liked the way they looked. She liked to dress in a way to show herself off. She loved sex. So, it made sense that she also looked at porn.

Yet this was still wild. It still had my heart racing. I guided the cursor to the back button of her window—in private browsing mode. Clicking and holding, the long list of her recent browser history opened. This wasn’t the only movie she’d watched, and all of them had one thing in common: they all featured black men fucking white women.

“Jesus,” I breathed. I shifted, having to adjust myself. I was hard. Really fucking hard. “Kenzie, you naughty, naughty girl.”

I selected one of the movies at random: “Best friends share black cock.” The movie started playing automatically, a couple of young women—both blondes in this case—talking animatedly in a cafe.

Kenzie had even plugged-in headphones, and I doubted that she needed those when doing research on the Field Museum. I pulled them on, listening and scrubbing through the scene.

It was a generic setup: these friends are talking about their relationship woes when their waiter, a black man wearing a comically small, short-sleeved shirt, takes their order. They make eyes at one another. They talk about him when he's gone. Without much more buildup than that, the three of them are in a bedroom somewhere. One of the blondes makes out with him as the other works open his pants. He's fucking huge, like all the black guys in porn are. Like Andre was, so these guys exist in real life too. They take turns going down on him, then on each other as he lines himself up and fucks them, one at a time.

It was definitely sexy, but even hotter was the thought of my wife watching this early in the morning, touching herself, biting her lip to keep quiet as her orgasm slowly built. As she imagined being in this film, possibly remembering a time when she did something similar with Ashley and Deshawn.

Only now, she wasn't the young and free-spirited Kenzie that she was. Literally juxtaposed on top of this fantasy was a woman who planned activities for our kids. Somehow, that made all of this that much sexier.

I closed the window completely, and since it was a private browser, her history went with it. It was only after I'd done it that I realized how irreversible the action was. If she remembered that she'd left this screen open—possibly to come back to that scene with the two guys—then she'd know that I was there.

Then again, maybe she just forgot to close it. I know I've done that before. Maybe Kenzie had caught me before and done the same thing. As established, for two very sexual people, we kept our sexuality to ourselves.

I guess that was the snag that kept tugging at me. She didn't tell me about the porn. She even knew that I was okay with it, that I was hinting at opening things up about it, and unless this was her first time ever looking at interracial porn, she had conspicuously omitted this little habit.

When she got home, I wondered if she'd tell me. I watched her, waiting. She didn't immediately go to her computer, although she did eventually, carrying it out of her workspace as she announced, "So I was thinking we could head to the Field Museum. Look at this, Melanie. There's this butterfly show I thought you'd like."

She showed our daughter the exhibit without fear that it was covering up porn. It was so unreal to watch that I wondered if maybe I'd imagined what I saw. She didn't look up at me, either. There were no furtive looks, no knowing lifts of a brow in my direction. Her secret was safe with her.

Or so she thought.

Question was this: was I going to call her out on it?

Ididn't. Not right away at least. There wasn't a moment that quite seemed right, not with the kids in the picture. We kissed goodbye on Monday morning, me on my way to work, she to the airport.

I can take care of the kids. I like doing it. We have fun together. There is a special daddy and kids mode that kicks in when mom is out of town. It's not like Kenzie is a huge ballbreaker, but things are more relaxed. Pizza for dinner. Bedtime is a little more flexible. And if Graham wants to wear shorts even though it is barely above freezing, well, kids are tough and anyway if he's cold, that's a good life lesson, isn't it? Kenzie finds this amusing, her mom less so.

Kenzie's mom, Linda... she must have been a sparkplug back in the day. We were going through some photo albums one Christmas and came across a picture of Linda. It must have been late 1960s or early 1970s. She was probably 18 or 19. Long, brown hair, barefoot, in a loose hippy dress, braless, with flowers in her hair. Instant boner. I would have loved to discuss the philosophy of free love with her, if you know what I mean.

Linda is still a good looking broad. Sixty-seven, but she could pass for fifteen years younger. Her hair is grey now, and she wears it in a short bob. But she still has a sparkle in her blue eyes that makes me think she still likes the D. Hard to believe that Pierce, Kenzie's dad, all suited and proper, could keep up with her in bed. But anyway, I digress.

Whatever Linda was doing in muddy fields while listening to Hendrix had not wholly imbued her with a chill attitude regarding her "little darlings," as she refers to Graham and Melanie. She insisted on taking them to dinner and putting them to bed. That was fine with me. It gave me a chance to head out and catch the Bears-Packers game over at Buffalo Wild Wings.

I sat at the bar, ordered 20 wings, Wild, and a string of IPAs on draft. Kenzie and I had been texting all day, the usual banalities. On time. Have a good flight. Landed. Great. I was three beers into the evening when she texted again.

<Kenzie>: Mom says she has the kids. You watching the game?

I replied immediately.

<Brad>: Yeah. B-Dubs. You?

She took her time to respond.

<Kenzie>: Game is on. No one is paying attention.

<Brad>: Yeah? Why?

As I waited for her to text back, I checked out the room. It was, not surprisingly, a sausage fest. Well, except for my bartender—slender, short, with surprisingly big boobs, dyed black hair in bangs. Her name tag said Taylor, and the number on her back was 69, which my dirty mind insisted was not random.

<Kenzie>: Happy hour. Big crowd. Sunny outside. And anyway, no one in LA cares about football.

Then a second later.

<Kenzie>: Lots of pretty girls. You'd be in heaven.

<Brad>: Feeling underappreciated?

<Kenzie>: I'm plenty appreciated, Baby.

My stomach fluttered.

<Brad>: Yeah?

<Kenzie>: You really think I'm short of attention?

<Brad>: No. I bet you're beating them off with a stick.

<Kenzie>: Ouch. No. I'd much rather beat them off with my hand.

I grinned.

<Brad>: Ha ha.

<Kenzie>: Seriously. Lots of hot dudes.

I tried to process that. Was she asking permission to do something? Well, if she wanted something she should ask.

<Brad>: Not here.

<Kenzie>: Less competition for you.

<Brad>: Not many cute girls either. Well, except for Taylor, the bartender.

<Kenzie>: You have the hots for her?

<Brad>: Lol. Sure. She's young. Has a nice ass.

<Kenzie>: Go for it.

I stared at my phone. This was getting interesting.

<Brad>: Ha. What is this? Some kind of test?

<Kenzie>: More like a competition, Studburger. Which of us can get laid first?

<Brad>: Studburger? Anyway, not really a fair fight. You could lure a guy into the alley in like 30 seconds flat.

<Kenzie>: I'll spot you. You manage to get at least a handy before midnight your time, and you win.

<Brad>: What do I win?

<Kenzie>: If you win, then I won't fuck the nice, young, black man who just bought me an Appletini.

Now that was interesting. Mixed motives and all that. But that said, I'm a competitive fuck, and my wife had just thrown down the gauntlet.

I looked over at Taylor, who was chatting with a couple of older, overweight guys wearing Bears jerseys they must have purchased in their slimmer days. I watched her going through the motions with them. Her smiles were shallow and her kohl-lined eyes looked bored.

It was 9:30 in Chicago. That gave me two and a half hours to work with. If that's what I wanted.

I re-read the whole text thread again, trying to puzzle out how serious she was being. As I got to the bottom, a new message slid into view. This one came with a photo.

<Kenzie>: His name is Terrance. Hot, isn't he?

The photo was a selfie, of course, with Kenzie standing in the foreground and a very dark-skinned black man just behind her. She looked hot in her black tank top, her tits spilling out and a cocky smile on her dark maroon painted lips.

Whatever bar they were at must have been outside, because the sun was pouring into the frame, and both had their sunglasses on.

<Brad>: Enjoy the Appletini, babe, because that's all you'll be getting from him.

<Kenzie>: Happy hunting.

Under the bar, I pulled off my ring. It was a weird feeling, something I did when at the beach, and never for nefarious reasons. Slipping it into my pocket, I traced the indentation it left, a groove that said, "Property of Kenzie Burbank."

"Can I get you another?"

Taylor was back, the vision of her momentarily chasing away thoughts of what was happening in LA. My IPA was empty, I realized. When did that happen?

“Another would be great.”

“The Goose Island?”

“Please.” I like a good Chicago beer as much as the next, but I also liked that the tap was right next to me. “You ever get tired of that?”

She looked at me, interest finally peering out around her bored eyes.

“Hmm?”

I nodded towards the guys who’d been falling over themselves trying to flirt with her.

She cracked a smile. She was a cute one—rounded cheeks, dark brows, her dark hair falling loosely on either side of her inward curling bangs. I couldn’t not compare her to Kenzie, and while my wife is in another class of hotness, I already knew that Taylor would be a lot of fun.

“Oh. Ha. If I got tired of it, I wouldn’t be working here.”

“So you like the attention.”

She hesitated before answering, and I could see her checking me out more closely.

“What girl doesn’t?” She finished pouring the beer and sat it down before me. “On your tab?”

“Brad, yeah.”

The smile was back. “I remember your name, Brad.”

She turned away, fully knowing that I was checking her ass out in her tight, black leggings. A lot of girls with petite frames like Taylor had no ass at all, but as I had told Kenzie, hers was nice—round, firm, plush. And right now, she put an extra wiggle in it. For me. That was a good sign.

It had been years since I'd tried to pick anyone up. Despite my past, I never cheated on Kenzie. Never even considered it. I didn't propose to her out of obligation. I didn't do it because it was "the right thing to do" at our stage in life. I did it because I loved her and I could see myself being with just her. If I wanted to fuck other women, then I never would have proposed.

That said, it would be a lie to say that I didn't look at Taylor and feel the old rush of this pursuit. Moreso, the longer the night stretched, the hotter Taylor became. The more I wanted her.

Kenzie didn't let up on the gas, either.

<Kenzie>: How's it going, Studburger?

Here's the part that seemed to pull me in all kinds of weird directions. While the old me would happily take Taylor's little body for a ride, the new me was less motivated by that. I was pursuing her to keep my wife from fucking another man, while at the same time, I was slow-rolling the seduction so that my wife could fuck another man. I didn't consider myself an indecisive guy, but as I sat at that bar and watched my Bears throw away their game in the fourth quarter, I couldn't help but wonder if that was me.

<Kenzie>: I'll take your lack of response as a good thing. For you. Because if not, I cannot wait to discover if this guy's cock is as big as his ego.

Her text rolled through me like the initial tremors of an earthquake. I still wasn't sure if she was fucking with me or not. I still didn't know what I wanted.

Taylor came back and watched the game with me for a bit. Though the crowd wasn't particularly heavy, I've been in enough bars to know that anytime a bartender pauses to spend time with a client, it's calculated. Maybe she wanted a bigger tip. Or maybe...

"Big football fan?" I asked.

She shrugged. "Of course. And pizza. And threesomes."

I gaped. And she laughed.

"Haven't you read Gone Girl?" she asked.

And then I remembered the passage about the Cool Girl. I laughed as well.

"A reader," she said. "I like that."

"Well, sure, I'm not just a pretty face."

She turned around to look at me again, and then she nodded slightly to herself as if to confirm that I did have a pretty face.

So, this will make me no friends, but I know I'm a good-looking guy, blessed with good genes. I used to take that for granted, but as I watched my friends and colleagues transition to dad bods and beer bellies, I kept it off. Mostly. Having broad shoulders and a barrel chest helped mask some of the extra weight, but I worked hard for this. Despite all of that, it was gratifying that I could make a young, pretty girl notice.

I was having fun. I hadn't felt this kind of giddy excitement in a long time.

When Taylor swung by, I gave her the warmest, most appreciative smile I had in my arsenal.

"My shift is off. Mind if I close you out? If you want more, Evan there can fix you right up." She stuck her thumb in the direction of the new guy taking over. He was tall, pasty, and a good seventy-five pounds overweight.

It wasn't even eleven o'clock. I'd figured that I still had about 45 minutes to work with. Suddenly, my runway got a lot shorter. That's okay. I worked best under pressure anyway.

"More what?" I asked.

She rolled her eyes at me, but her smirk let me know she was amused. "Beer?" she said.

Looking at the television, where the Bears fell even farther behind, I said, "Nah, he doesn't do it for me in quite the same way. We'll need to find someone else for our threesome. You can close me out."

Taylor laughed a bit tightly, surprised by my forwardness. I wondered if she'd forgotten her own Cool Girl line from earlier. "Be nice," she said with a smile. Mixed messages. I wondered if I'd blown it, and immediately my mind shifted to LA, and Kenzie, and her handsome new admirer. It wouldn't be the worst thing if I failed, but I didn't like to fail.

She came back with the bill. My mind worked through how to proceed as I opened the check presenter. I was so preoccupied that I almost missed it as I scribbled down a healthy tip and my name. There, at the bottom, was Taylor's number, along with a "Call me sometime."

It made me laugh, because this was almost exactly the way I'd picked up Kenzie so many years ago. Back then, I'd waited a day to call her. Tonight, I didn't have that luxury.

I closed the bill up and slid it over to her. "Why don't we skip the phone call. You free now?"

I was running on adrenaline and booze and momentum. This window was closing. Time to act.

"I..." Taylor released a nervous laugh. A strand of dark hair caught in her lips before she brushed it away. "Give me ten minutes, then meet me out back."

“Take your time.”

Taylor walked towards the “employee’s only” door, pausing to look back at me with a smile before disappearing out of view.

In that moment, short and sweet as it was, I was able to slow down, take a breath. I was buzzed. I was horny. I was about to do something really stupid and incredibly reckless, and if I paused to think about it, I still wasn’t convinced that this wasn’t some kind of test. After all, Kenzie did fuck with me when she went out with Ashley.

That gave me an idea, though.

<Brad>: I win. B-)

I stared at my phone as a riot broke out inside of me, watching and waiting and willing for those three dots to start bouncing, for Kenzie to react. A minute ticked by and heat started crawling across my scalp. Had I miscalculated? Was this a test after all, and I’d completely failed?

Another minute elapsed. I knew because I was staring right at the digital clock on my phone, which kept trying to darken with inactivity. Definitely a test then. I knew it. The guy from the photo, Terrance, was probably long gone by now. Hell, more than likely, Kenzie was already in her hotel room and in her jammies.

I laughed to myself, wondering just how long I should let her twist in the wind. She’d kept me on the hook for what? A half hour? Longer than that? This would serve her right.

But no, I couldn’t. I wouldn’t. Any moment now, Taylor would come back into the bar wondering where the hell I was, and I needed to be long gone before then.

I started to type out my text. “Just kidding... you really thought that I’d—”

But her text came first, beating me to the punch.

<Kenzie>: Well done, Brad! And with an hour to spare. Terry's gonna be sooo disappointed.

Really? She wasn't mad? And then, because I could just ask her that:

<Brad>: Really, you're not mad?

<Kenzie>: Honestly? It's a weird feeling. Like, I'm all jealous, but also, like... turned on? Horny? This how you guys feel all the time?

How was she so cool about all of this? A moment later, I got the real answer.

<Kenzie>: Besides, I already blew Terry in the bathroom just after I sent that earlier text. Turns out, he does have a cock to match his ego.

And if there was any doubt that she was fucking with me, the photo that followed completely snuffed it out. Taken from above, the image was clearly Kenzie, her blue eyes staring up into the camera as her lips wrapped around a dark—and very thick—cock.

It was shocking. It sent a bolt of jealousy through me that was so pure and raw and intense that I swear I was having some kind of attack. But with it, just as strongly, came the pleasure. The lust. The blissful elation.

Still, I was myself, and while we seemed to be playing a game where neither of us fully understand the rules, I did understand one thing.

<Brad>: You slut. You cheated!

<Kenzie>: Oh, Brad, technically you're the one who cheated. :) I said that I wouldn't fuck Terrance if you won. Never said anything about sucking his cock.

While that was technically true, the implications didn't sit well with me.

<Brad>: You better not fuck him.

<Kenzie>: You sure you don't want me to?

I wasn't sure at all, and my ramrod hard cock was certainly making his case, but that wasn't the point.

<Brad>: Doesn't matter what either of us want. A bet's a bet. Tell the nice young man goodnight and go back to your room. Maybe you'll have better luck next time.

<Kenzie>: Hope you fucked your slut really good.

Oh, I plan on it, I thought.

<Brad>: I still have an hour before I turn into a pumpkin.

And with that, I finally left the bar and made my way out into the rear parking lot.

“Oh, fuckkkk—” Her breath caught, held, then spilled out in a rush—
“FUCK ME!”

Taylor rose and fell above me, her full tits bouncing in the dim light of the back of her RAV4. She slapped the roof, bracing herself against the low cab as I fucked up into her sweet, tight body.

She’d almost left by the time I made it back there. Smoking a cigarette and looking pissed off, she looked ready to pick a fight. I was beyond all that. Either we were going to do this, or I was going somewhere else to get the job done, but right then and there, I needed to fuck.

Besides, I needed to get some action by midnight to make me not a liar.

When I took the cigarette from her, pinned her against her SUV, and told her “Sorry, I’m late” while blowing smoke across her face, I knew I had her. This one had a dark and submissive streak. She’d be fun.

“Fuck, that’s good.” She sighed, snapping me back into the moment.
“You’ve got a great fucking cock.”

I rubbed her clit with my thumb, doing hard circles along the smooth skin of her bare mound. She was so easy to play, an instrument that I could pick up even now, after all these years.

I grabbed her, pulled her down to me so we could kiss. Or attempt to, anyway, through her moans. The kissing was the strangest part for me, more of a transgression than any of the rest. It was intimate and wet and wrong and yet so completely necessary. Sex and intimacy are so intermingled for me. Always has been, with every single lover. What people always get wrong is that intimacy means love. It doesn't. But for the sex to be good, it needs the intimacy.

We shifted in the darkness until I was on top, driving down into her. This was how we ended things, with the SUV rocking on its shocks and Taylor losing her mind to the stroke of my cock and the caress of my hands.

Somewhere, Kenzie was with her nice, young, black guy. Or not. Somewhere, she was telling him that she needed to go. Or not.

Maybe somewhere, with lust and jealousy coursing through her, she decided to fuck him anyway. I'd never know, she probably told herself. It was just this one time.

Or maybe not.

I exploded inside Taylor's tight pussy, but it wasn't this particular brunette that I lusted for. And it wasn't my cock fucking her.

I've never completely understood swingers. The whole thing always seemed more than a little strange. If you and a girl are into each other, what could be better? Who the fuck needs strangers in the mix? Thursday evening changed my perspective.

Kenzie came back from L.A. After the events of Monday night, we'd pulled back. Our phone conversations were perfunctory and practical. Our texts similarly restrained. But from the moment she walked in the door, the sexual tension was palpable. Needing to act normal in front of the kids just seemed to heighten everything. I was waiting for her in our bedroom as she did the final tuck-ins. I heard her coming down the hallways, her bare feet padding rapidly across the hardwood floor.

She entered. She'd changed into skinny jeans and a white ribbed tee when she came home, and neither seemed to be able to contain the raw sexual energy she exuded. She was flushed and gasping in quick, shallow breaths. Her chest heaved up and down. She stared me down and closed in on me. She kissed me hard, teeth pressing painfully against my lips. Her fist closed against my chest, yanking at my chest hair.

"Ouch. Jesus."

She shoved me backward. I outweigh her by 80 pounds, but she launched me back against our bed. I looked up at her, in shock and, frankly, arousal. She unzipped her jeans and wiggled out of them, pulling down her skimpy white thong at the same time. In the weeks since Ashley's visit, Kenzie had grown her pubes back out. At some point between her leaving for LA and now, though, she'd shaved it off again.

I noted it the way one probably takes stock of his life as a tiger pounces—as Kenzie pounced. She noticed my expression as I stared at her shaved snatch, moist and puffy, and she knew she had me off-balance. She advanced on me, and I admit I was a little frightened at her animalistic vibe.

Frightened, but not enough to prevent my dick from going into full blown nuclear hardon mode. It throbbed and ached, and Kenzie didn't care. It wasn't my dick she wanted. Not at the moment. She moved in fast and pushed me onto my back. She crawled across my body, crushing me beneath her, and before I knew it, she was straddling my face with her very obviously aroused pussy. She ran her fingers through my hair and closed her fist.

"Fuck, ow!"

"Stop your whining bitch," she growled. "Start eating."

I obeyed. Instinct took over. I mouthed her mound and sucked on her pussy. She was wetter than I'd ever seen, and I'd gotten her plenty wet over the years. I slurped on her tangy juices.

"Did you do this to your little whore?" she asked.

I broke free long enough to gasp. "No."

She forced herself back onto my mouth. Grinding against me. The mixture of her nectar and my saliva ran down my chin.

"So, you just fucked her, huh? You gonna see her again?"

I tried to break free but couldn't. So, I just shook my head instead.

She laughed.

"I did fuck Terry," she said. "This morning in fact."

My eyes went wide.

"Yeah, and now you're wondering if you're tasting him, aren't you?"

I shook my head but also sucked deeper into her snatch.

“Hmmm, yeah, Lover, you’re trying to see if you can tell. So tell me, Baby, can you taste his big fat dick?” She ground harder. “No rubbers,” she added. “Skin to skin. After I swallowed his big load on Monday, I wanted to get one deep in my pussy. So, can you taste—”

I growled and threw her off me and quickly rolled onto her. She tried to shove me away. I pinned her arms above her head and kissed her wetly.

“Can you taste him?” I asked.

She laughed. “Yum. Yeah. I fucked him right there in the hotel sauna. I kept hoping someone would walk in on us so they could see what a slut you married. And after he came inside me, he fingered my hole and fed me his come. Go ahead, Baby, kiss me again.”

I did. Our tongues wrestled. Full-blown combat. Still pinning her arms above her head with one hand, I freed my racing erection with the other. I thrust in hard. She was wet and loose.

“Is that all you got?” she taunted.

“Maybe I need a tighter hole,” I growled.

“I don’t do that. This is the most you get.”

I was tempted to flip her over and take what I wanted, but even though she was loose, she was so hot and dripping that I couldn’t pull out.

“You’re a whore,” I growled.

“You wish. Then I’d be bringing home some money for my pimp. But instead, I’m giving it away for free.”

I moaned.

“Go ahead, Baby, come in my sloppy cunt.”

“You come first,” I grunted.

“Make me.”

I’ve admitted being a competitive fuck. And that kicked in. I kissed her hard and fucked her hard. Her pussy squished as I slammed into her. I felt her hard nipples digging into my chest.

“Did you really fuck him?” I asked.

“Yes,” she hissed.

“You’re turning into Ashley.”

“And you’re Dave.”

I thrust in harder still. She hissed.

“No.”

“No,” she echoed. “You’re Ashley too.”

“You’re not allowed to fuck any more men,” I grunted.

She laughed. “Yeah, what will you do?”

I gave her three hard thrusts and then paused. I looked her in the eyes.

“The next time you fuck another man without my permission, I’m going to fuck you up the ass.”

Her eyes went wide and then her eyelids fluttered. She gasped and her pussy spasmed on my cock. I lost it immediately.

“Was I tasting another man?” I asked.

We snuggled in bed, naked, beneath just a sheet.

She laughed. “No. I wouldn’t do that to you.... Yet.”

“But you did fuck Terrance?”

“Mmm. I’m sorry. But you got me so angry with Taylor that—”

“Oh fuck, stop that,” I said, cutting her off. “Stop making this about being angry with me. Just admit you’re a slut.”

“Is that right, Fuckboy?”

“Yeah. You know it is,” I said.

“I don’t know.”

“Be honest. What’s your biggest regret from your trip?”

She opened her mouth to answer and then paused as she reconsidered. “To be honest, I wish I’d fucked Terry sooner. He had an amazing cock.”

I chuckled. “Wow, that’s fucking shallow.”

She shrugged. “I do like the D. Always have.”

“Is that why you married me?”

“It helped that you knew your way around my lady parts. And that you’re hot. And honestly,” she added, “I did like that you wouldn’t be able to judge me for my slutty past.”

“I love your slutty past.”

“You don’t wish you’d married some dumb virgin who would just worship your cock?”

“Well, now that you mention it, that does sound pretty cash money, as the kids say.”

“You don’t know shit about the kids.”

“I banged a 23-year-old bartender.”

She laughed. “Touché.”

We lay together for a few minutes. There was a peaceful comfort between us that I’ve never felt with another woman. Even though we were talking about some pretty intense shit, there was still that bond, that intimacy that went beyond the fact that we loved fucking each other.

“Are you angry at me?” she asked.

I shook my head. “No.”

“What happens now?”

I hesitated, wondering if maybe I should pull things back. But instead, I replied, “I thought I’d already made that clear. If you fuck another man, I’ll fuck you up the ass.”

She squirmed; her body’s temperature seemed to go up ten degrees. I waited for her to say something quippy, to make light of the situation. To diffuse. But she didn’t. She didn’t say anything, her tongue caught by whatever thoughts were tumbling through her mind.

I wanted to probe. We’d never had anal sex. Even back when we were mostly fuck buddies and I’d brought it up, she told me that her ass was off limits, and I’d left it at that. I wondered if she was weighing the discomfort taking it up the ass with getting to fuck another guy. It left a white, hot ball in my gut that she was tempted enough to pay such a high price.

“Tell me about Taylor,” she said at last.

Okay, so maybe she wasn’t thinking about other guys.

“Like what do you want to know?”

“Just...” It was weird hearing insecurity in Kenzie’s voice.

I ran my hand along the curve of her hip and down over her ass. “She wasn’t as good as you, Baby, if that’s what you want to hear.”

Kenzie chuckled. “No, I know that. But I’m also not a 23-year-old anymore, either.”

“Which is a good thing. Taylor was hot, but a little too skinny for me.”

“Says every guy who wants to flatter a curvier woman. No, it’s fine, Brad. I get more than enough attention to stroke my ego, don’t worry.” She shifted in my arms, kissing my shoulder blade. “I was just wondering how it all went down. Tell me a story.”

“You want details? We did it in her car. She was on top—”

“No, not like that. Like... build up. Tell me how you seduced her.”

“Okay, but there’s not a whole lot to say. She worked the bar, I flirted with her. She left her number on the check—”

“She did not!” Kenzie laughed, covering her mouth.

“All good sluts think alike, I guess.”

“So you have her number?” Her voice was even, the question seemingly casual. I heard the potency in it, though. I heard the undertone.

“No. I tossed it. We skipped the whole phone flirting thing and just went into the back parking lot.”

“Such a charmer.”

“I wasn’t trying to make her fall in love with me. I just wanted to one up you.” I rubbed my thumb across her cheek. She had a funny look on her face—her processing face, like she was still trying to decide how she felt about all this. I remember she had the same look when I first told her that I loved her. “How are you feeling?”

“Weird.”

“Jealous?”

“Oh yeah. But also... I don’t know. Proud?”

“I get that, for sure.” I brushed my hand lower, finding her nipples hard.
“So are you going to tell me about... how you ended up with Terrance after all?”

“I was stewing over not fucking him Monday when you were with Taylor —”

“And by stewing you mean playing with your clit.”

“Maybe a little.”

I raised an eyebrow.

“Or maybe nonstop,” she admitted. “One of the two. Then this morning I went down to the gym for a quick workout, and—”

“What were you wearing?”

She smirked. “Oh, just a pair of short tights and jog bra.”

I shivered a little. Dressed like that Kenzie is a walking hardon.

“And he was there, pumping iron, looking all buff and sweaty.”

“Did you really do it in the sauna?”

“It was there or on the Stairmaster. Have you ever had sex in a sauna?”

I shook my head.

“Mmmm. So hot and sweaty.”

I imagined them both glistening as she rode his big, black cock. I shook my head to clear it. “Seems like you’d overheat in there.”

“Yeah, that’s part of the fun. It’s that risk.” We lay there quietly, listening to each other’s breathing as our exhaustion started pulling at us. “You mad?”

“No. It’s hot.”

“Why is that, Brad?” This wasn’t the beginning of an argument. She sounded more curious than offended.

“I don’t know. Reminds me of the old days, I guess. Maybe I’m just a nostalgic fuck.”

Kenzie snorted, but it didn’t have its usual edge. She was drifting off. Almost asleep. “I’m not the girl you once met,” she said softly.

“I know.”

“Just like you’re not the same man.”

“Sure, but those people that we were... they’re also not gone, either. They’re still part of us, even if we’ve moved on.”

And these last few days had been a very hot reminder that Kiki is still very much alive and well in the woman falling asleep at my side.

She fell asleep before she could respond. I’m not even sure she heard me.

One thing that was certain was that neither of us were ready to call it quits. Kenzie's observation stuck with me. This felt like nostalgia. This felt like the early days, before the kids, before the house and the mortgage and the move out to Chicago.

Only we had all that, too, which made balancing on this knife's edge even sharper. Graham and Melanie were constant reminders of what we had to lose, of what the stakes were. They kept the old Brad from fully emerging. They kept the old Kiki in check, and the super mom version of her in control.

Still, we both felt the nostalgia, like hearing a song from our youths. It changed how everything was framed, and once that was there, I couldn't shake it.

Like how she kept herself shaved bare after that. Or like how much sex we were having, and how good it was. It was almost like I was having an affair with Kenzie, and she was having one with me. That's how good it felt. There was a new relationship energy crackling between us.

Like how the world suddenly felt full of potential now. I would walk into Starbucks and wouldn't just see pretty women waiting for their lattes, but potential conquests. It was a bad, demeaning, misogynistic point of view, but my past proved that I was often more right than wrong about these things.

“Hey, you two. Come on in!” Carol Baylor was always cheery. She had that kind of personality, whether she was in the checkout line at the grocery store, passing you on the street, or, like now, greeting guests at the front door of her own home. Her smile was bright and wide and could swallow you whole.

She gave Kenzie a hug first, then me, then led us into her large home.

Here’s where my new frame of mind really colored things. We’d known the Baylors for years, ever since I worked with her husband, and I’d always thought that Carol was attractive, albeit in a quieter, more conservative way than Kenzie. While Kenzie was curvier—even where she was lean—Carol’s features were sharper, constructed from angles more than anything. She had a sharp chin, defined cheekbones, a sable bob that brushed the back of her neck so cleanly I wondered if she touched it up each morning.

She was attractive, but not in a way that I normally went for. To me, Carol’s beauty was always more academic. Tonight, as she opened the door and welcomed us in, I saw her as more. I saw a woman beneath her cardigan and knee-length skirt. I saw a potential conquest, the way I used to back when I was young and dumb and single.

“Come on, cowboy,” Kenzie said as I just stood there. “Let’s not keep standing out here in the cold.”

Her smile told me she knew exactly what I was thinking. To Carol, she said, “You’re looking great, Carol. Are you doing something new with your hair?”

It was a statement aimed at me, and Carol didn’t know what to do with it. She touched her bob, smiling uncertainly. “Well, I did just get it trimmed.”

“It looks great, doesn’t it, Brad.”

“She always looks good,” I agreed.

“Oh,” Carol said with a blush. I knew the look she gave me, fleeting and shy. I could have her, I realized. Had that always been the case, and I just never noticed it until now? “Thanks. Uh... so Bob’s running behind on the steaks. I told him an hour ago to get started, but... you know how he can get.”

I didn’t, although I did recognize the annoyance. I saw it in my parents when I spent too long with them. It was the tension between two people who had overstayed their time together.

“Carol, I’ll help you get the drinks. I’m sure Brad here can get things back on schedule. Right, Honey?”

“I’ll check on him.”

We split up, as usual. The men and the women. It was all so domestic I almost laughed, although honestly, it was a welcome familiarity after the games Kenzie and I were playing.

I found Bob Baylor in their enormous kitchen, frowning at the cast iron grill plate he’d laid out on his eight-burner range. “Hey, man, how’s it going?”

“Hey, Brad. Long time, buddy.”

Bob looked about the same—a good looking older man who seemed born with a golf club in his hand. Maybe he had a little more gray in his hair, but he looked younger than a guy in his mid-fifties.

As I walked in, he was preparing the steaks, patting them down. “Need a hand?” I asked.

“Sure. Get us a couple beers.”

“I think the girls are opening some wine.”

“Probably a white, too,” he said. “No matter how much I tell her you don’t drink white with red meat.” He shook his head.

That’s how the evening seemed to go. When we weren’t talking about something really mundane, like overseeding our lawns before the first frost, or how he did the last time on the back nine, I was listening to him gripe about Carol.

It got really bad when the two were together, sniping at one another in a passive-aggressive way that was nearly as mundane as lawns and golf.

Things only got interesting at all when I noticed how Bob stared at Kenzie whenever he thought she wasn't looking. I could see the longing in his eyes. It was hard to be jealous, even if I were the jealous type. Kenzie wasn't interested in Bob. Or at least, she wasn't interested in this Bob—the sad, suburban empty-nester stuck in a marriage that seemed to revolve around collecting grievances.

I could imagine her being into a different Bob, though. Professional Bob, in his tailored suits and black Beemer. The kind of guy everyone called Mr. Baylor. I knew Kenzie liked young, fit, black men, particularly musicians, though that hadn't seemed to matter much of late. But I sort of suspected she might also like to be taken under the wing of a powerful older man, with whom sex wouldn't be a sweaty bang, but rather an erotic game of control and submission.

I chuckled to myself. It was all in my head. Maybe Kenzie would like that, maybe she wouldn't. It turned me on though. I wondered if she was having similar thoughts of me with Carol, breaking down her ice princess effect. Getting her down on her knees and making her beg for my cock.

“What's so funny?” Kenzie asked.

“Huh?” I said.

“You're grinning like an idiot.”

I looked over at Carol and Bob who seemed surprised to be interrupted in their bickering. I held up my glass.

“Just the wine getting to me.” I said.

Kenzie chuckled. “He’s turning into a lightweight as he gets older.” She gave me a smirk that let me know she was kidding, and also that she knew what I was thinking.

“Same with Bob,” Carol chimed in.

He rolled his eyes in disgust.

“Oof, that was brutal,” I said once safely in our car.

Kenzie chuckled and nodded toward the clock on the dash. “Only nine o’clock. Felt like we were there forever.”

I pulled out into the street.

“Early enough for us to go home and make our own fun.”

“Ha. Saturday night. Home by quarter after nine. We’ll be Bob and Carol before too long. Anyway, kids will still be up and upset if we don’t let Jenny put them to bed.”

Jenny was the kids’ favorite babysitter. Mine too now that she was a college student and it was appropriate to fantasize about her lithe body and full lips. “Jenny” and “bed” in the same sentence was enough to get me going.

Kenzie seemed to read my mind. “We’ve known her since she was fourteen, Brad.”

“And now she’s all grown up,” I replied.

Kenzie slapped my wrist. “Pervert.”

“Okay, so you want to go get a drink or something?”

“Now there’s an idea.”

We parked by Sherman Plaza and walked down Church. It was swarming with college kids, and we ended up at the Bourbon ‘N Brass which has a bit of an older crowd, especially earlier in the evening, and Jazz bands rather than Hip Hop or Rock. True to the name of the bar, I had an Old Fashioned and Kenzie a Manhattan. We settled into one of the leather sofas.

“Cheers,” I said.

She took a sip. “I feel so sophisticated.”

“Remember our first date?”

“Jagr and sex. Good times. You think Carol and Bob were ever like that? They don’t seem like the type.”

“At least not anymore. I mean, they’re both good looking, and—”

“Aha, so you were thinking of banging her.”

I took a sip. “Sure. But I was thinking even more about you banging him.”

Kenzie laughed. “Wow, that evening down in Atlanta really got under your skin.”

“Naw. It’s not that. Well, it is, and it isn’t. It’s not like I’m constantly fantasizing about you with other men, you know....”

“So what did you imagine him and me doing?”

“Something of a Fifty Shades thing, I guess. He’s in a suit and you’re in a short dress.”

“Oooh, do I get spanked?”

“Of course.”

The band started up. It was a Jazz trio, fronted by a handsome, delicate fingered black guitarist. From the way he handled the strings, I could totally see why a woman might have the hots for him.

“Do you like him?” I asked.

She rolled her eyes. “God, Brad, you’re incorrigible.” Then after a moment. “But yeah. Very hot.”

“He’d play you like an instrument,” I said.

“Yeah, he would. But not tonight.”

“No?”

“No. I’m not ready to take it up the butt.”

I laughed. “I wasn’t serious about that.”

“No take-backs,” she countered.

I felt my cock twitch. She was into it. Maybe not this evening, but at some point she was going to fuck another man, and as punishment take me in her tight, gorgeous ass.

“Let’s finish these drinks and go home,” I said.

“Easy Tiger. Still too early. Anyway, why is it always me getting fucked in your imagination?”

I shrugged. “Don’t know.”

She looked around the room. “What do you think about her?” She directed my gaze to a slender blonde sitting at the bar. She was with another couple of girls but was gazing off into space while stirring her drink, a Whiskey Smash by the looks of it. She had creamy skin and big blue eyes behind a pair of black Hipster Frame glasses.

“She looks bored,” I said.

“Exactly. Much too pretty to be bored on a Saturday night.”

“Uh oh.”

“Have you ever had a threesome, Studburger?”

“Seriously, Babe, don’t call me that.”

“Or what? You gonna fuck me up the ass for that too? You didn’t answer my question.”

I did have a threesome. Once. Didn’t go well. It is difficult to pay equal attention to both girls, a problem made worse by the fact that one of the participants was my girlfriend at the time, and even though it was her idea, she got all jealous once things got going.

“Not really my cup of tea.”

“You don’t think you can satisfy two women?”

“I have enough trouble keeping up with you.”

“Ha! Tell you what, if you can’t satisfy her, I’ll take care of it. And you can always owe me one. I know where you live.”

“Kenz, I don’t really want to try to pick her up.”

“Then let me.”

Now, that sounded hot. Just watching Kenzie try would be interesting. “Be my guest.”

“Oh, you’re so generous. You do know that most guys would give their left nut for this offer?”

With that, she rose and I watched her cute little ass as she maneuvered to the bar and edged in beside the blonde. I was curious to see what kind of suave approach my wife might attempt, and chuckled when instead she clumsily knocked over the blonde’s drink. The younger woman jolted back, and I could see Kenzie apologizing. As this continued, I could easily imagine the dialogue.

Oh my God, I'm so sorry. Let me buy you another. No, you don't have to. I want to.

When the bartender arrived to help clean up, Kenzie ordered another round, and as they waited, she kept up the banter.

I am such a klutz. No, you're not. Do you like this place? Love the drinks. Yeah, me too. What are you having, can I taste yours?

Kenzie took a sip of the blonde's drink and offered a sip of her own. The younger woman nodded appreciatively.

A Cosmo. You ever watch Sex in the City? Naw, I think I saw the movie?

Kenzie said something and the blonde laughed. My wife causally reached out and ran her hand over the other woman's forearm.

I waved over the waiter and got another drink and watched the show.

It was a master class in seduction. Kenzie had her laughing, and then leaning in close for conspiratorial whispers. When the blonde's friends packed up their phones and got ready to leave, she remained behind with my wife. Kenzie tried on her glasses. More giggles. They started talking more intently. The blonde got a little flush, and she was hanging on every word, her gaze alternating between Kenzie's eyes and her full, red lips.

Then suddenly, the blonde peeked over Kenzie's shoulder, right at me. I turned away quickly. When I looked back at them peripherally, I could see more giggles. Then the blonde looked at me again, this time longer, and when I turned my head slightly, she held my gaze a bit more before looking away. Kenzie whispered in her ear, and I saw the blonde nod her head slightly. Kenzie gave her a small kiss on the neck before pulling out her phone.

A moment later, I got a text.

<Kenzie>: Settle up and get us a hotel room. Then come over.

I looked up and they were both looking at me. Oh shit, I thought, game on.

I made a reservation at the Hilton Garden Inn two blocks north and closed out our tabs. I walked over to the women.

Kenzie stood as I approached. “Brad, this is Laura. Laura, Brad. Isn’t he cute?”

Laura reached out her hand, and we shook hands, both of us a little awkward, not quite sure about the protocol. When your wife picks up another for a threesome, do you greet her with a handshake or a kiss?

Kenzie was less flustered. “Where to?”

“Garden Inn.”

She smiled and took Laura’s hand. “Let’s go.”

I followed behind them. They were both clad in tight jeans. Kenzie a bit taller, but similar body types. Two great asses. I tried to keep cool and not let my imagination run away with me. This might still turn out to be a bust, or worse. But for right now, it was hard not to feel a little smug.

In the hotel lobby, the girls remained behind as I went to the front desk. The clerk raised an eyebrow at me. I shrugged and hoped they wouldn’t make an issue of three, obviously buzzed and horny people showing up to use their perfectly nice property as if it were a seedy, hourly motel.

I got the room key, and the girls joined me in the elevator. As the door closed, Kenzie suddenly pulled Laura into a deep kiss. I thought she might be coming on too strong, but she had a better read on the situation. The blonde melted into my wife’s arms. Kenzie nibbled on her lower lip, and Laura let out a soft sigh. I adjusted my hard on.

They kissed their way down the hallway, then past me into the room as I held the door for them. I wasn’t quite sure what the plan was. For now, I was just a voyeur, but it was pretty amazing.

Kenzie put on some sultry music as Laura sent shy glances in my direction. In her heavy-framed glasses and her blond hair down and slightly mussed, she looked like sex on legs. My wife agreed, sliding up behind her once the music was set and the scene was ready.

“She’s so fucking cute, isn’t she?” Kenzie kissed Laura’s neck, hugging her from behind. Laura sighed, shutting her eyes and leaning back into my wife. Kenzie flicked her eyes up at me as she pinched the bottom of Laura’s tank top and pulled it up. Her flat stomach, pierced by a dangling piece of silver jewelry, made her round, C-cup breasts look ever more enormous on her. The lacy, antique white bra seemed almost too delicate to hold them.

Laura turned in Kenzie’s arms and the women were kissing once again, deep and wet. I could hear the soft smacks as I backed into an armchair by the door to the balcony. Kenzie pulled Laura’s glasses off, tossing them onto the table beside me. Laura didn’t waste time, reaching out to start working on my wife’s sheer blouse.

“Someone’s eager,” Kenzie laughed. “Come here.”

They climbed onto the bed, shedding their clothes until both were in their bra and thongs. Kenzie reached behind herself, freeing her tits to give Laura access to her plump nipples. The coed dove in and wrapped her lips around the hard nibs.

“Feels so good, Babe,” Kenzie said, although I didn’t know to whom. She raked her fingers through Laura’s golden tresses. “I love how soft girls are.”

They kissed again before turning to me. “Give us a show,” Kenzie said, her hands continuing to explore Laura.

“Huh?”

“Show us what you’ve got.”

I stood, feeling suddenly very exposed and awkward as the girls watched me. I kicked off my shoes quickly.

“Slow down,” Kenzie directed.

Feeling even more self-conscious, I reached for the bottom of my shirt. Laura gave me an encouraging nod, and when I pulled it above my head, she let out an appreciative “ooh.” Or maybe that was just a response to Kenzie slipping a finger inside her thong. As I took off my pants, Laura returned the favor, so that I was now standing in front of two very sexy women eagerly fingering each other’s pussies. My dick was rock hard, a shiny circle of precome on my boxer briefs.

“Take it off,” Kenzie said.

“You two still have clothes,” I replied.

“Yes, we do.”

I shrugged and stripped naked.

“He’s not bad, is he?” Kenzie asked.

“Mmm,” Laura replied. “He has a nice cock.”

“Let’s show him your pussy,” Kenzie said.

Laura swallowed audibly and nodded. Kenzie knelt in front of Laura. She reached up and slowly pulled the blonde’s thong down her slender legs. Tracing back up her thighs, Kenzie gently pressed them apart.

Looking back at me, she said, “Mmmm, good enough to eat, don’t you think?”

She was right. Laura’s pussy was swollen and wet, her light brown pubic hair shaved down into a narrow wedge, like what Kenzie used to have. Kenzie ran her fingertips along the blonde’s lips. Laura groaned.

Kenzie gestured me to kneel beside her. She gripped my cock, smiled at me like a co-conspirator before leaning in and kissing Laura’s snatch.

“Oh, yes,” Laura sighed, making her squirm. This close, just inches away, I could see everything. The way Kenzie’s tongue glistened as she dragged it along Laura’s plump pussy. The way her clit thickened under my wife’s attention. The gentle kiss Kenzie left at the base of Laura’s pubic arrow.

Kenzie pulled back, kissing me hard. I could taste Laura on her mouth, on her tongue. The young woman’s scent filled my nose. My wife reclined, staring at me with a playful intensity I hadn’t seen in a long time. Then, with a grin, she pressed my face toward the gleaming slit before me.

At first, I licked her a little tentatively, uncertain what my role was here. Staring up at Laura, she was already out of her mind, her eyes shut, her head lolling back. I ran my tongue along her slit, the way Kenzie had a moment before.

Suddenly, Kenzie’s lips were around my cock, swallowing me deep into her mouth. I passed along the passion to Laura, slurping loudly at her juicy pussy. I got my fingers involved, opening her up, finding her g-spot and ravaging it.

Her hands tightened in my hair, holding me in place as she bucked up. “Oh fuck, oh, fuck!” she gasped.

Kenzie swallowed me into her throat, all the way down to the root, and I nearly lost it. Laura bucked up against me, wrapping her thighs around my head and smothering me. I ate her through her orgasm, flicking my tongue until my jaw hurt. If Kenzie could do that to me with her throat, I sure as hell could rock Laura’s world with my tongue.

Kenzie relented first, moments before I was about to come. Like she knew it. Laura pushed me away, her body shaking and sweaty. “Enough, enough...” she begged.

“Did you like that, Baby?” Kenzie asked Laura. My wife’s voice was thick, husky, like she’d had a cock stuffed in her throat these last few minutes.

Laura nodded mutely.

Kenzie glanced at me. I knew what to do, moving to the side and giving way to her. She gave me a kiss on the lips before turning her full attention on Laura's lovely, young body. This wasn't a show for me. There was no faking that look Kenzie gave the blonde as she began kissing up her body, starting at the soft inside of Laura's hip. My wife was bisexual. How had I missed that for all these years?

Crawling over Laura, she kissed the girl's belly bar, then higher, along her ribcage, removing Laura's bra in the process, and over her tits. She teased each nipple but didn't linger. She had a destination. Higher still, along Laura's collarbone, the sweep of her neck, the back of her jaw. Her chin.

When their lips came together again, the kiss was pure passion. It was deep. It was wet. It was soft and hard in the way that only two women could ever achieve. It left all three of us breathless.

Kenzie broke it, her chest heaving, and looked back at me over her shoulder. "Fuck me," she ordered.

Grabbing her thong, I peeled it away from her slick pussy and down her legs.

"Say it again," I said, finding my voice at last. I slid my hand up the inside of her thigh, putting pressure against her shaven snatch.

"Fuck me," Kenzie hissed.

I climbed onto the bed, between both their legs and sank my prick deep into my wife with one quick thrust. She was so wet. So hot. She gasped, ready for me, burying her hair in Laura's neck as she weathered the penetration. I slowly churned inside of her, giving her time, knowing that it would be worth it.

"Fuck, that feels good," she said at last, kissing Laura softly. "It's been so long since I've been between a man and a woman." She nibbled along Laura's neck. "You want to feel him inside you?"

Laura moaned.

“He’s got a great cock.”

“Mmmm...” was all Laura could manage.

I pulled my prick out of my soaking wife. Was she for real?

“Do it,” she said. “Fuck her.”

I placed my cock against the coed’s equally delicious pussy, Kenzie still sandwiched between us. Been so long since I’ve been between a man and a woman. But not the first time. That spirit of competition was back as I pushed into Laura.

“Oh fuck, that’s good,” she moaned.

I fucked her slowly, wanting to relish the moment. I caressed my wife’s back as I did it, kneading her perfect ass. It was wider than Laura’s, more womanly. More to grab on to. I would take Kenzie’s mature body over Laura’s every time.

Still, Laura was a good fuck. As Kenzie nuzzled her neck, Laura clawed at the bedsheets and thrust her hips to meet mine. I gave it to her, driving her close to the edge before shifting back to my wife. Laura whined before Kenzie smothered her with a deep, hard kiss.

Grabbing Kenzie’s hips, I fucked her hard as the sloppy sounds of their lesbian make out session drove me on. The fucking became too much for my wife, who broke free, panting hard. Rising onto her hands and knees, she whispered, “Get beside me.”

Laura obeyed, maneuvering onto all fours beside her. I reached out and palmed Laura’s ass, slipping my hand between her legs to play with her wet snatch as I screwed Kenzie. The girls kissed when they could, hungry and desperate for anything sexual.

I switched again, shifting over to Laura’s gyrating ass. This time, when I entered her, I had full reign of her young body. Taking control of her hips, I drove home.

Kenzie sat up on her knees, running her hand up my arm and across my shoulder. “That’s hot,” she whispered, watching me fuck the coed. I could smell pussy juice on her fingers as she traced my jaw and drew me close. “Fuck her until she screams, Babe.”

We kissed, Kenzie’s tits pressing into me, her nipples carving along my biceps. I could taste Laura on her, too.

“God, I love you, Babe.” My voice was shallow, out-of-breath.

“Such a stud.” Kenzie dropped her hand down to Laura, giving her ass a sharp smack. “Let’s see how this bitch eats pussy.”

Kenzie crawled up the bed, positioning herself in front of Laura’s face, and spread her legs. Her mound was shiny with excitement, shaved and smooth and so fucking sexy. In the moment, I saw the old Kenzie, a coed once again, just like Laura. Only she was also my wife, the woman she’d become.

She pulled the blonde’s face to her snatch, and Laura eagerly ate her out. Our eyes met over Laura’s bouncing, golden hair. Kenzie’s grin spread to me, infusing me. This was what she’d been working toward all along, this shared moment. Laura was for now our little fucktoy, taking my prick deep inside her as she licked Kenzie to climax.

The nymphomaniac-nostalgia of seeing my wife with another woman gave way to a clearer view of her. She wasn’t out-of-control, like she may have been in the past. Yes, she was driven by her lust and libido, by a craving to get off on Laura’s soft lips and softer tongue. But she was also doing this for us. She’d orchestrated this part of the evening so we could seduce this girl together, fuck her together, get off on her... together.

I thrust into Laura hard enough to drive her face into Kenzie’s snatch. The girl did her best to maintain, to lick, to play. She shifted, tossing her blond hair as she got her fingers involved, driving two easily into Kenzie’s depths.

Kenzie gasped, fingering her nipples as her whole body bowed backwards into a fleshy, heavy arch. Watching my wife come will never grow old, and here, in this hotel room with this stranger between us, she didn't hold back. She came loudly, unrestrained and unreserved. She grabbed Laura's head, riding her face as her abs tightened and her moans rolled on and on.

My balls clenched. My breath caught. I pulled out of Laura just in time to drop a huge load all over her ass and back. The poor girl reached between her legs with her free hand, fingering her clit to join us a moment later.

Kenzie and I shared one final look, one final moment before we had to deal with the logistics of getting cleaned up and dressed. Before life returned. I wanted to live inside that moment forever, a shared space that wasn't quite our past and certainly wasn't our present.

Later, after dropping Laura off at her house by campus and on the way home to relieve the sitter, Kenzie turned to me, a hand on my leg. "Still think we might turn into Carol and Bob?"

I laughed. "Probably not."

It was that look we shared over Laura's sweaty, heaving body that stayed with me long after the blond coed became a memory. We were a team, two halves of a wild, carnal whole. Kenzie may have been a party girl in the past, and may have party girl tendencies now, but she was now my party girl, just as I was her party guy.

We didn't play with others in the months that followed, although the potential for games was always there, biding its time. Our sex life was revitalized. We couldn't get enough of one another, fucking like we were dating again.

The most intense moments were when I traveled, which was something that I started looking forward to more than ever. Before Ashley had re-entered our lives, Kenzie's teases about going on dates had no bite behind them. Now it was all I could think about. Kenzie certainly didn't discourage this kind of thinking, either.

<Kenzie>: I've got Jenny coming over to watch the kids tonight.

The text came at the end of a long day of meetings in Philadelphia, and immediately sent a thrill through me. Before I could respond, another text came through.

<Kenzie>: Just saying. So, call the landline when you say goodnight to the kids.

No winking emoji. No further explanation. She was almost daring me to ask her the question she knew was on my mind. I didn't want to give her the satisfaction.

<Brad>: Will do. Thanks for the head's up. Have fun!

<Kenzie>: Oh, I plan on it.

And to give me even more to stew on, a minute later, she sent a selfie of herself in the bathroom wearing a push-up bra, thong, and a pair of stockings.

I thought it was all a ruse, right up until I called home to say goodnight, and Jenny the babysitter actually did answer the phone. I was already composing a text to Kenzie before I was even off the phone. I can't remember what was even said. My heart was racing.

<Brad>: You really went out?

She didn't respond for two full, stifling, heart-in-my-throat hours. I was turned on and jealous and completely distracted. Then, just after eleven, I got another short text.

<Kenzie>: Hence the need for a babysitter.

Then, at last, an emoji. A simple smile.

<Brad>: Any fun stories?

<Kenzie>: So many! Maggie got Elizabeth the cutest matching onesies. Double jogging strollers are huge. Those twins are going to be so spoiled when they come. Oh, and I won that game where you can't say the word 'baby' or you lose.

Right, it was her coworker, Elizabeth's baby shower. I had completely forgotten.

<Kenzie>: But I don't think those were the fun stories you meant, did you, lover?

<Brad>: Evil.

<Kenzie>: Miss you!

That wasn't the only time she teased. Seemed like every time I went out of town, I wondered if this would be the trip that she crossed the line again. That this time, when I came home, she'd greet me at the door, kiss me sweetly, and whisper, "I owe you my ass." It was like being edged at a glacially slow rate.

I began to wonder if the ultimatum was too much, a line that she wouldn't cross, no matter how tempted she got.

Anal sex was one of the few things that Kenzie had deemed off-limits. Actually, when I stopped to think about it, it was the only thing that she'd denied me. Now, my tastes aren't too extreme. I'm not much of a BDSM guy—no Fifty Shades in our bedroom, although I have spanked her a few times, and she'd never complained. I'm not into watersports or anything. We've fucked in almost every position. She's fucked me with her tits, let me come all over her face, her chest, her hair. She'd kept her snatch shaved bald ever since LA. Kenzie is down for almost anything. It's just the back door that has been a firm no.

Which is fine, honestly. I respect boundaries. Not many women will pick up a coed for a threesome on a whim, so who am I to complain?

Honestly, it wasn't the fact that I wasn't going to get to pop her anal cherry that singed me with disappointment every time I came home to a happy and faithful wife. It was that faithful part.

I thought back to the conversation that I had with Charlie, just after I came back from Atlanta. How I'd said something like how I wished that Kenzie would be "a little crazy like she used to be," I thought I'd put it.

He'd called me on it then, because at the time, we'd been talking about my suspicions that she was fucking other guys while we were together. At the time, I'd dithered and then changed the subject. But was that really what I wanted?

The threesome with Laura was crazy hot, but it was Kenzie's confession that she'd fucked Terrance the morning before coming home that I kept going back to when my mind was idling. I'd think about it in the car on the way into the office. Or in the elevator. Definitely in the gym as I passed by the sauna.

The thing was, Kenzie was so... Kenzie. So put together. So collected. Melanie could be screaming at Graham as the dog clawed to get outside and she had a million pots and pans on the stove, and Kenzie handled it. She got frazzled, sure. Any human being would. But even frazzled, she barely showed it.

“How do you do that?” I asked one evening in late April, after we finally got the kids to go upstairs and change into their PJs.

“Hmm?” Kenzie asked, scraping Melanie’s barely touched vegetables into the compost bucket.

“I don’t know. Not just scream at them to get out of the kitchen? Melanie was literally hanging off of you at one point.”

“Oh, that.” She chuckled. “I got plenty of practice on a Friday night at Hooters.”

While I could see that fending off the crush of guys all pawing for attention could have been like dealing with kids, it wasn’t. I let the joke stand, though, and wrapped my arms around her from behind. Tonight, she was wearing a tight pair of jean capris and a loose blouse that nonetheless looked hot on her.

“See, I seem to still have one of those guys from the Hooters days hanging off of me now.”

“I’ll show you hanging off.”

She looked at me side eyed. “That doesn’t even make sense.”

I swept my hands up under her blouse before she could stop me. “I’ll show you not making sense.”

Kenzie’s laugh came loud and genuine as she pushed my hands away and twisted free.

“You’re a goof.” Her turn to wrap her arms around me. “And I love you.”

“I love you, too.”

We kissed, but before it could get going, the kids returned. “Mommy and Daddy, sitting in a tree,” they sang together, delighted, completely forgetting whatever they were bickering about so that they could tease us.

Which was fine. Which was wonderful. We laughed. We pulled them close and hugged them. We all rolled upstairs, did the bedtime routine, and crashed out.

It was a great life. I couldn't ask for anything more. Sexy wife, amazing kids, good career, nice house. It was everything.

It was also the problem. As Charlie had said, Kenzie was the grownup in this relationship. Around our kids and in our perfect lives, she always would be.

Little did I know that a “solution” would arrive before the end of spring.

I was walking into the office when the text came in.

<Ashley>: Are you the reason that Kenzie's not taking the job?

I had no idea what she was talking about. Kenzie hadn't mentioned anything about a job. As far as I knew, she was happy working the Chicago recruitment circuit. Something about this text set an alarm off, way in the back of my head, so I decided to sit on it and not reply right away.

By the time I sat down behind my desk, another text was waiting for me.

<Ashley>: Don't tell me you're jealous, because that's pretty weak.

<Brad>: What the hell are you talking about?

There was a long pause after that. Or maybe it was just me and my chest tightening and tightening as I filled in the gaps.

<Ashley>: She didn't tell you about William & Crawford?

<Brad>: I don't know what that is.

<Ashley >: Whoops. Well, talk to her. I think it'll be good for you guys, for all kinds of reasons.

I did some internet sleuthing after that. William & Crawford was apparently a data-driven agency based out of Atlanta, and from what I could tell, it was pretty big. At least in the executive and professional placement side of things. Kenzie was offered a job there?

I texted Ashley.

<Brad>: You behind this job?

<Ashley>: Sort of? Just talk to her.

I knew I wouldn't get anywhere else, so I left it alone for the rest of the day and tried focusing on work. One thing did nag at me, though, and that was this thing about being jealous. Why would I be jealous about a job? Something wasn't adding up, and that something grew and gnawed and left me queasy by the time I got home.

Kenzie was Kenzie. I watched her closely, trying to figure out whether she had anything to hide. If she did, I couldn't tell. It was like any other night. We ate. We cleaned dishes. We put the kids to bed and were exhausted by the time the house was quiet.

We were parked in front of the TV, Kenzie on her phone as we streamed an episode of Queen's Gambit.

"So, Ashley wants to know why you're not taking the William & Crawford job."

At last, a reaction. She froze, staring down at the phone for one long and pregnant moment before refocusing on me. It was that reaction that plucked something discordant deep within me. "She texted you, did she?"

"She thought I was the reason," I said. Kenzie just stared at me quietly, waiting for me to show my hand. "Why would she think I was the reason?"

"The job is in Atlanta. We live in Chicago."

She didn't answer my question, and that, more than anything, was curious. "What's the job? Why would she even think you'd consider that?"

She sighed and put her phone down. "They're looking for someone to build up their college recruiting division. W&C places executives in fortune 500 companies, mostly, but they want to start recruiting younger talent, too. Basically, build career-long connections. I guess Ashley thought of me and threw my name into the hat."

That was a pretty big deal. Right now, Kenzie managed a small team of recruiters, most of it in the greater Chicago area. She was great at what she did, and always seemed content. This, however, would have been a sizable promotion.

“Sounds like a big deal. I feel like I’m missing a piece of something here.”

“So right. Ashley knows about it through an, um... a mutual friend of ours.” I raised a brow. “Deshawn. We—”

“Worked together at Hooters. I remember.” Now I was starting to get it. “He’s there now?”

Kenzie finally started to relax. She even laughed. “You can wipe that grin off your face,” she said with a smirk. “It’s not like that.”

“Like what?” I couldn’t wipe the grin off my face even if I wanted to. I slipped closer to her, sliding my hand up the inside of her thigh.

“It’s a big company. Lots of people. I don’t think I’d even see him... not that I even would take the job.”

“But there’s a possibility that you could.” I dipped in and kissed her neck, tickling her. She laughed but didn’t push me away. “There would be lunches and company picnics and the occasional late-night meetings.”

“Those are things that happen at companies,” Kenzie said with a giggle. “But Baby. It’s in Atlanta.”

Far from home. Far from us. It wouldn’t work. Not really, I knew. Not only would Kenzie never leave her kids, but I wouldn’t want her to, either. Family was more important than this insane fantasy we were playing.

“Maybe they’ll let you work remotely. After all, recruiters are mostly on the road, right?” I was reaching, of course, but it was a fun reach. “And think about how good it would look on your resume. Building an entire arm of such a large agency up.”

I ran my hand higher, slipping it beneath her short, summer dress. This time, when I kissed her neck, I drew a sigh rather than a giggle.

“You’re amazing, Honey,” I whispered. “I think it’s time to stretch yourself a little.”

I pressed my fingers against the front of her panties. She was hot, if not totally wet yet. Brushing my thumb against her clit through the satin, Kenzie shivered. “That’s what this is all about, isn’t it?” Her voice was husky. “You want me to stretch myself?”

I chuckled. She laughed. The tension, however, didn’t completely break. “What can I say? I’m a supportive husband.” I pushed her thong to the side and rubbed along her smooth gash.

She moaned. “They’ll never go for it. I have no leverage.”

I nipped at her earlobe. “You also have nothing to lose.”

Kenzie pulled back, locking eyes with me. “I have everything to lose.”

“You won’t lose me.”

She kissed me hard, her tongue forcing its way into my mouth. I pulled her into my lap and ran my hands across her ass, pulling up her dress. She finished the job, lifting it over her head to leave herself in a bra and panties. We kissed again, like we had something to prove.

We didn’t speak. We were beyond words, our bodies trembling for one another. She stripped my shirt off as I undid my pants. She rose onto her knees, grasping my cock as I wiggled my pants down my legs. Free, I pushed her thong to the side as she sank onto me with a shared gasp.

Kenzie clawed at my head, lowering her cleavage into my face as she rode me. She felt so good, her hips gyrating with the kind of magic that I’ve rarely ever experienced with another woman. She knew what I wanted. She knew what I liked. That’s where we were. That’s what was at stake here.

My orgasm caught both of us by surprise. Maybe it was that risk. Maybe it was the possibility. I don’t know, but all of a sudden I was there, filling her with my seed as she grinded her way to a climax of her own.

We fell in together, breathing hard and holding one another on the couch. The sound of the television was back. The world of our suburban life emerged like the sun after a warm, drizzling rain.

“So are you going to give them your terms and conditions?” I asked, stroking her hair.

Kenzie’s laugh was throaty—not the silly, playful laugh of before, but a more suggestive one. “I’ve only had a phone interview.”

“Oh? When were you going to tell me?” It wasn’t a defensive question, and I hoped that it didn’t come off as one.

“Sorry, it all happened kind of quickly. Ash asked for my resume, then the next thing I knew, they were calling me.”

“What did you tell them?”

“That I couldn’t. That I had a family here and didn’t want to move.”

“And?”

“They still want to bring me in for an interview. In person.”

“When?”

“Next week. But I declined.”

“Don’t be such a wimp.”

She laughed. “You really think that sort of juvenile taunt will make me change my mind? What are you going to do, double dog dare me?”

“Triple dog dare. Look, Babe, I’ve always dreamed about being a kept man. You know the reason I married you was your high earning potential.”

“I thought it was my tits and ass, and the fact that I choked on your hog on our first date.”

“Was that you? It all blurs together.”

“Ha.”

“Seriously, Kenzie, you’ll regret it if you don’t at least see what’s on offer.”

“You think?”

“I do.”

She hesitated and I knew I had her.

“Tomorrow, call back. Better yet, email them back right now before you lose your nerve. Tell them your terms. Like I said, you’ve got nothing to lose.”

She looked at me again, and for a second there, I thought she’d repeat her response from before—“I have everything to lose.” That would have been the grownup Kenzie talking, the wife and mother version.

But then the smile was back. I saw the light in her eyes. She shrugged. “Worse thing they tell me is no, right?” She picked up her computer and began composing her email.

I retreated to the kitchen and poured myself a beer. That was weird, I thought to myself. Why was I so eager for her to pursue the job? What was in Atlanta that I really wanted her to be a part of? Was it the job? Was it the hope that Ashley would continue to rub off on her? Or was it that I sort of wanted her to get back with Deshawn?

It was all very confusing. So, I did what I often do when confused....

I finished the beer.

To be concluded in book two...

ABOUT KENNY WRIGHT

Kenny has been publishing hotwife erotica for nearly ten years (and writing for much longer than that). He writes what he likes to read: steamy, explicit erotica that's just crazy enough to be true. He believes in a world where men read and appreciate erotica, and hope to contribute to it word by word.

Find him online at www.kennywriter.com, or follow him on Twitter at @kennywriter.

ABOUT BEN BOSWELL

Ben is a typical family man with a wife and kids and an overactive imagination. He is longtime reader and author of erotic fiction. You can reach Ben at ben.boswell.author@gmail.com or on Twitter @BenBoswellAut.

ALSO BY KENNY WRIGHT AND BEN BOSWELL

Parallel Lines: An Experiment in Temptation (Part 1)

“I don’t want an open marriage, but if you’re interested, then maybe we could try an experiment.”

Megan and Malik Trammell have been together for over ten years. They have love. They have great jobs. They have three kids. And they are suddenly each faced with a nearly irresistible temptation.

David McKinley is young and hung, a junior lawyer at Meg's firm, where she finds herself wanting to break every rule in the book. Elena Maskova looks like a model and her wicked smile hints hints at a willingness to do just about anything.

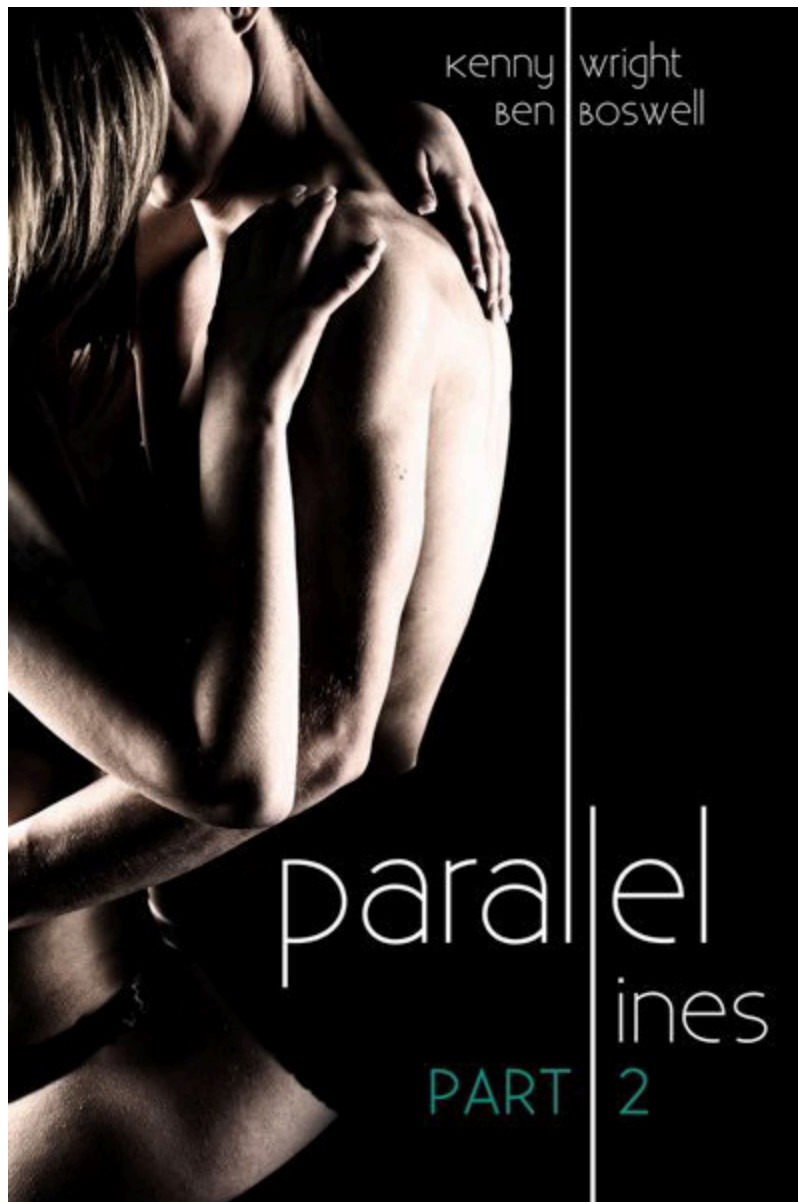

So they try something new--they have decided to have flings. Only one rule: no lies.

Find out what happens when their mutual adventure begins to diverge

Learn more at kennywriter.com

Parallel Lines: An Experiment in Temptation (Part 2)

"Just one more time..."

The experiment is behind Megan and Malik Trammell. Or is it? Their parallel flings exceeded their wildest imagination. They both did things they never dreamed of doing--crossing lines they never thought they'd cross.

Now it is time to stop. Only problem, Meg wants more. Could what began as an experiment in temptation end up destroying their marriage?

Read the finale of this story of a marriage experiment gone askew.

Learn more at kennywriter.com

