PREFACE

About two years ago, when I first started writing novel-length hotwife erotica, I began a story about Claudia, a very pretty blonde, and her husband Mike, and their adventures on a yacht in the Caribbean with their skipper, the very black Jack Gillette. I was about 15,000 words into the story and enjoying myself immensely when (that dastardly) Ben Boswell, who I had only very recently made friends with, published Dark Tide: An Interracial Adventure On The High Seas.

Which is, as I'm sure all fans of this genre know, an excellent book.

So, after much cursing and fist-shaking, I shelved this story.

I think, though, enough time has passed between Ben's publication and the publication of Claudia Changes Tack. Readers will notice some similarities, especially in the setting of the book. But rest assured it is a different story and one I hope you enjoy.

As always, thanks to all the readers who support this genre and independent authors, especially in erotica.

And thank you to my dear, dear, beta readers, without whom this book would be riddled with existential errors, sailing impossibilities, and some pretty funny typos. Everyone, but no one more so than me, appreciates your good work!

1: LOTS OF SWINGS

“What do you think they’re doing up there?” my wife whispered.

Claudia propped herself up on her hands. She was looking up at the ceiling, as though she could see through the deck and get a view of Joe and Brandy, and whatever it was they were doing up there.

Her tone was playful, which I was relieved to hear. She propped her head on her hand and looked at me, and I was also relieved to see a little smile creeping into her mouth.

Claudia was recovering from her initial reaction to the discovery we had made last night about Joe and Brandy. The fit, graying Joe and his much younger, trophy-wife Brandy, were unabashedly into “the lifestyle.”

Well...

To clarify, the “discovery” was mostly Claudia’s.

I was not actually unaware that Joe and Brandy were swingers.

Truth be told – and I wasn’t about to tell the truth to anyone - Joe and Brandy’s status as swingers may have even been a deciding factor in my decision to join them for a lengthy cruise on their sailboat in the Caribbean. It had been a toss-up between going with them, or with another couple in my sailing club.

I’d be lying if I said that Joe and Brandy’s sexual energy didn’t appeal to me more than Don and Angela’s... well, lack of it.

The official story – for both my wife and Joe and Brandy – was that we were there strictly to try out the sailing life.

Sailing only.

I wanted to get my own boat, and I dreamed of spending weeks in the water, cruising around from island to island. And I really had in mind sailing, not what Joe and Brandy were up to (however much their “lifestyle” admittedly piqued my interest).

I had always loved sailing. I had a small boat of my own before I married Claudia, for racing in the lake. Claudia never cared for it, especially the racing part, and the boat was a J/22. Not exactly woman-friendly, and the one time I took her out the weather soured and she ended up vomiting over the side until we reached shore.

For a few seasons, the boat had sat largely unused in a very expensive marina. I moved it north, where it languished some more. I sold it when Sam, our oldest, was a year old, and it became obvious to me that I wouldn't be sailing any time soon.

Now, the kids were a little older and could stay with Claudia's parents for weeks at a time, though. I had joined a sailing club just to have access to a boat and get back in the swing of things.

I really hoped I could convince Claudia to join me in some more peaceful sailing. If I got a big enough boat and sailed in the ocean, those factors would be challenging enough to replace my racing desires. (Or so I hoped.)

And the "big boat" part, I could tell, appealed to Claudia.

Claudia had reluctantly agreed to come on this cruise after I had shown her pictures of Joe's boat, a luxury 50m super-yacht. It was really a marvel, from Claudia's perspective and from mine. For Claudia: the master suite had a marble bathtub and shower, and the cabin was spacious enough to stand upright comfortably after ducking through the hatchway, even if you were tall, like me. Joe had spared no expense on furnishings and fixtures: new red oak hardwood floors gleamed everywhere, leather couches and tasteful modernist decor followed a fashionable mineral gray theme, splashed with red, throughout the boat. There was a large deck for sunbathing, and it included an area large enough to have couches and tables (in the same ultra-fashionable theme) and an optional pull-out canopy.

From my perspective, it was a huge boat with two masts, and incredible fully-automated system that allowed for manual override.

Joe, who had shelled out a lot of extra dough to be able to sail his own boat, did not believe in automation. He liked to have at least one extra pair of hands on board to help out, which is where I came in.

(Brandy, apparently, knew how to sail but would only do it under duress.)

Claudia had envisioned a lot of relaxing sunbathing, reading on the deck, floating in clear Caribbean waters on an enormous flotation device, and sipping martinis on the gray couch on the deck under the stars. I had really waxed poetic about all those things.

She had also liked that the huge yacht would not (could not) be involved in any racing. After I had shown her pictures of the inside to assure her that it had not been stripped down for such a purpose, she had agreed to take this cruise.

I just wanted a boat. I wanted her to have a really good time on a yacht and hopefully agree to let me get one (I would break the news to her later that our boat would not be nearly this fancy).

Back to the issue of Joe and Brandy: in order for Claudia to have to have a good time, I had to get her on the yacht, and in order to do that, I figured it might not have been the best idea to tell her about their lifestyle.

It wasn't that Claudia was a prude. I just didn't need to take any chances.

Joe and Brandy, for their part, had assured me that our inclusion on the boat didn't in any way implicate us in their lifestyle. They had assured me that the Caribbean was full of couples who did want to play, and they had also assured me that they were not extremely overt about their practices.

But the topic had come up at dinner, because they had run into some "friends."

It had started off innocently enough. Even I had thought the "friends" were just "friends" when they first arrived. I suppose that even though Joe and Brandy had chatted lightly about their lifestyle, I hadn't really imagined it as a real thing they did.

The friends were a couple closer to Joe's age, Mark and Audrey Marino. Audrey might have been in her mid-forties, but the only way you might have guessed it is because she told you. She had long, sun-bleached brown hair that flowed to the middle of her back. She was tanned, with slender, sexy legs she seemed to have stolen from a twenty-year old. Her husband was a fit man in his late forties, a little gray, suntanned and athletic.

Dinner went along like any other dinner, with everyone having wine and chit-chatting, talking about what they did and whether they liked it. All normal.

But at the end of dinner, Joe headed back to the navigation area to check on something. We were sitting at the table on the deck under the canopy, and Brandy offered to get us more drinks.

She returned from the cabin and handed us the drinks, went back for the rest of them, and then, as casually as ever, came back and sat down on Mark's lap.

The way she did it was so natural that for a moment neither Claudia nor I noticed. Audrey was talking, and she didn't miss a beat. Brandy's thighs were bare and she kicked her feet playfully.

I remember thinking it was just an innocent game they played, Brandy and Mark. Claudia must have thought that as well, because she didn't seem very ruffled by it.

And then she leaned in and kissed Mark.

But not a peck on the cheek.

They kissed like dirty porn stars. Their tongues were out of their mouths, darting in quick circles for all of us to see.

Audrey looked right at them and smiled, then kept talking.

Claudia almost dropped her wine glass. Her jaw literally fell open until she was gaping like a cartoon.

She looked over at me.

I held up my pointer fingers, which was ersatz sign-language for "I can explain," and hoped she would catch my drift.

I wasn't exactly sure how long this would go on. A quick check back at the navigation area revealed that Joe had his eyes on the deck, and not the controls.

While it wasn't the first time I had imagined what it would feel like to watch my own wife with another man, this was the first time I had such a visceral reaction to imagining it. Looking at Joe watching his wife sent a thrill through me, as I pictured myself in his position, and Claudia on Mark's lap. Claudia's mouth getting probed by his tongue, Claudia's thighs being felt up right there on Mark's lap, her ass resting on the hard, solid length of his cock.

My own dick got hard almost instantly.

I had no idea what to do, so I leaned forward to get my martini, and I focused on it as though it were the most important thing in the world. But my mind was on those two, on Joe and how he must be feeling, on my own fantasy about Claudia.

Claudia, for her part, froze completely.

I don't know how things might have ended, if Brandy hadn't broken off to push her hair out of her face and look over at Audrey. She turned slightly on Mark's lap, and her butt must have rolled like a hot wave over his cock.

As she turned, she saw Claudia and her aghast expression.

Audrey followed her eyes, because Brandy actually looked a little apologetic. “Oh, sorry. Claudia, excuse us, I forgot you guys aren’t...”

Mark brought his fingers up to Brandy’s dress, a skimpy little black thing that dipped low across her breasts. He peeked in at her ample bosom.

Then, it was as if Brandy’s statement made its way through his mind. “Oh,” he said. He turned to look at my wife.

His eyes moved over Claudia’s body, and as they did a rolling wave of heat moved from my toes to my head. My cock throbbed.

“Too bad,” he said.

Audrey bit her lip. “You sure?” she said to me, with a smile.

I nodded and set my hand on Claudia’s to reassure her. I took a sip of my martini. “We’re sure,” I said cheerfully.

Brandy stood up. She slapped Mark on the thigh. “Let’s go downstairs,” she said. “Leave these two to watch the stars.”

Mark shrugged, his hands moving up Brandy’s skirt, far enough to have his fingers on her mound. Audrey stood up, and the three of them giggled their way back to the hatchway. Snippets of their conversation reached us: “Really?” “Such a shame.”

And then their voices faded as they went deeper into the boat.

Claudia turned to me. “What the?” she mouthed.

I shook my head, as though I was as much in disbelief as she was. I set my drink down.

She pulled her feet up under her, and set her cheek against her hand. “So Joe... he like, knows about this?”

I moved my head in the direction of the control room, which was empty. “Looks like.”

“Are they... swingers?” she said. But she didn’t wait for me to answer. “Oh my God, they are. They’re real, actual swingers.”

She opened her mouth wide and looked at me in disbelief.

I did my best to turn the expression on my face into disbelief.

Claudia sipped her drink. We sat in silence for a moment. It was a beautiful night, warm and lightly breezy. The marina was alive with light laughter, people having drinks and dinner on their boats.

“Well, I don’t want to go down there now,” Claudia said.

I was relieved, at the time, that she didn’t seem overly scandalized, like it wasn’t something she couldn’t live with. She held up her glass. “But I want another drink,” she complained.

Then she looked at me, and we exchanged a look before we started laughing.

“What should we do?” she asked.

I shrugged. “There’s a bar over there,” I suggested. It was part of the marina, and it seemed to be pretty hopping.

Claudia looked over her shoulder. She had already had quite a bit, and it was unusual for her to drink so much. “Yeah,” she said, happily. She set down her glass. “Because I definitely don’t want to run into those guys, you know... down there.” She grinned.

“Well,” I said, slapping my thighs. “Let’s go. If my lady wants a drink, then a drink she shall have.”

The drink turned into about four, and Claudia got pretty plastered.

She kept returning to the scene on the boat, though. She really wanted to talk about it, even though she wanted to act like she was scandalized about it.

“So, do you think that... is this like a thing they do, when they come down here?” she said, leaning across the table conspiratorially after her second gin and tonic. Her speech was slightly slurred, and she had a gleam of excitement in her eyes.

She didn’t wait for me to answer. “Because those guys... Mandy and Sh...shark... no, Audrey and Mark,” she paused to laugh at herself before she got serious again. “They knew them, like, they do this all the time!”

She finished her sentence by waving her hands in the air excitedly. Then she shook her head and folded her arms across her chest. “I mean, can you imagine?”

I played with the corner of my napkin. I could imagine, and in fact I did imagine, something similar.

I wasn’t so much interested in the swinging side of things – though don’t get me wrong, women like Brandy and Audrey were beautiful, and their bodies, so different, so unique, provided their own set of attraction for me.

But I was less into thinking about that than I was into thinking about my own wife. About her body, and her curves – being explored and plundered by another man.

“You’re not into it, are you?” Claudia said.

She had a teasing tone to her voice, and she was smiling when I looked up at her.

“Of course not,” I said, and I hoped it sounded convincing.

Claudia brought her fingers to her lips and strummed them over her plump lower petal. “I wonder if all of these people are swingers,” she said, her eyes moving around the restaurant.

It was on my lips to ask her if she wasn’t into it, and I wanted to say it desperately.

But I wanted that boat. I really did. So even though I’d had a lot to drink, and my wife was looking a little stimulated by the idea of swingers, and the night was pretty and warm and a lot of enticing people in swimsuits surrounded us, I kept that last question to myself.

For then.

We ended up drinking too much and stumbling back to the yacht. It was a lot of fun, walking around drunk with Claudia. We almost boarded the wrong boat, which was pretty funny because the one we nearly got on was half the size of Joe’s boat.

Joe and Brandy were on the deck when we got in. Brandy looked over the railing and smiled at us. She reached out a hand to help Claudia up the gangplank.

“Looks like you two discovered the drink specials at Mory’s,” Joe commented.

Claudia looked around. There was no sign of Audrey and Mark.

I ran my eyes quickly over Brandy, wondering if they had actually gone to do what I thought they had with Audrey and Mark. I wondered how it worked: did they all have sex together, or separately as couples? Did Brandy play with Audrey? (My mind created a filthy picture, of the two of them being fucked by the wrong husband from behind while they kissed and rubbed their breasts together)

And what did Joe do afterward? Did he like to reclaim his wife, taste another man’s cum on her lips, or maybe in her cunt?

I knew that’s one place I would never go, personally, but there was something twistedly delectable about thinking about it, imagining Claudia’s pussy filled up and dripping seed from another man...

I had to stop. I was getting worked up again.

“You two better be careful,” Joe said. “The number-one cause of death in the Caribbean is drowning in a marina.”

Brandy put her hand on my arm as she passed me, carrying a drink she had produced out of seemingly nowhere. “He’s just talking out his ass,” she said.

“Could be true,” Joe mused. “It’s very dangerous being this drunk on a boat.”

Claudia’s eyes grew wide and she looked at Joe seriously.

Joe cracked a smile. “I’m just teasing you, Claudia, dear. Get as intoxicated as you like. Just be careful your inhibitions don’t get lost completely.”

As he turned to me Joe raised his eyebrows. “Someone might take advantage of that,” he said under his breath, so that only I could hear. “Get you a drink?” he said more loudly. “Not that you need one.”

“Oh, gosh, I’m wasted,” Claudia giggled.

I looked over at her. She really did seem to be losing her inhibitions. Either that, or she’d completely forgotten about Audrey and Mark. She reclined on the couch and put her feet up.

Because she was wearing a short skirt over her swimsuit, there was a direct line from where I was standing up her skirt. Her bikini had somehow folded a little, oddly at an angle, and the smooth, bare curve of one of her outer lips was showing.

Joe handed me a glass, and I brought it to my mouth without taking my eyes off my wife’s pussy.

Then I realized that Joe, too, had paused right where I was standing, and that his eyes were trained right between Claudia’s legs.

Claudia seemed to not be conscious of what she was doing – she was recounting a story to Brandy – but then again, I couldn’t be sure. Surely she knew her bikini, at the very least, was being shown to all? She played with her hair, lying on the pillow wantonly, and moved her legs without ever blocking our view.

Heat was building inside of me as I stood next to Joe, knowing that he was watching my wife’s pussy beneath her loose bikini, and enjoying the view.

But I especially enjoyed savoring the idea that Claudia was perhaps doing some of it intentionally. The more I watched her moving her legs about playfully, hiding her pussy and then revealing it, the more I thought she knew what she was doing.

And the more Joe enjoyed it as well.

This went on for a bit, and then the girls' conversation deflated with a decrescendo-ing sigh from Claudia, the end of some girlish laughter about whatever they were discussing.

Claudia looked over at us, but she didn't change the position of her legs when she saw we were both staring. Brandy also turned to look at us. She brought her drink to her lips and took a seductive sip, running her tongue along her upper lip to get a stray drop with her tongue.

"What are you two doing over there?" she asked, in her husky voice. She was smiling.

Joe gave her a grin. "Indeed." He hopped up and over to his wife.

Claudia stared openly at the two of them as Joe slid his hand along his wife's thigh and under her swimsuit cover up right to her pussy, where he stroked her openly as he leaned in to give her a kiss.

This was a little too much for Claudia. She watched, transfixed, for about a second, and then she sat up abruptly, as though being shaken out of a dream, and looked at me with a kind of desperate expression on her face.

Joe and Brandy were kissing quite passionately, and Claudia and I looked at each other, wondering if they were just going to fuck right there on the deck. Claudia pulled her feet over the side of the couch and leaned forward to set her drink down. She was getting ready, I could see, to clear her throat and tell everyone she was going to bed.

Before she could, however, Joe and Brandy separated their mouths with a loud, sloppy smack and Joe collapsed between Claudia and Brandy. He had his hand on Brandy's knee, and I felt my insides turning over in circles of desire, hoping he would set his other hand on my wife's knee.

I felt it so viscerally as I imagined it, it almost seemed like it happened: he placed his large, sailor's hand on Claudia's knee, moving his thumb over the inside of it, up to her inner thigh. Just a little flicker, just a tiny bit over the line.

What would Claudia do, if he did that? Would she let the shiver it gave her travel up and down her thigh, enjoying the thrill, before she made a big show of moving away? Would she jump up and say she had to go to bed? Or would she maybe go rigid with excitement and fear of impropriety, and wait and see what happened?

Joe reached forward and took the drink he had set down on the table instead. But he did extend his arm over the back of the couch, encircling my wife without touching her. He looked at me. “Whadya doin’ over there, Mike? The ladies are all here.”

Brandy’s eyes glimmered mischievously as she smiled at me.

Claudia clasped her hands together. She wasn’t leaning back on the couch, so Joe’s hand wasn’t touching her – yet. She looked at me, almost as if she wanted help.

I would have loved it if she had reclined, and Joe had run his fingers over her shoulder, but I wanted Claudia to be comfortable (and I’ll just be honest – getting my own boat was still somewhere at the forefront of my mind at this point, so I didn’t need Claudia having even a remotely bad time).

I yawned, loudly and theatrically. “Guys,” I said. “I think I need to pack it in. Aren’t we taking off tomorrow?”

“Yeah,” Claudia said quickly. She wasted no time standing up and gathering her glass from the table. “I shouldn’t have even... I’m pretty drunk...”

She lost her balance a little, and Joe reached out to take her hand. He held it firmly and smiled up at her. “Careful, there,” he said in a low voice.

I felt like they looked at each other there for a moment, and a semi-illicit thing passed between them, a flicker of heat. But then Claudia gave him a nervous laugh, and stepped away. “Thanks,” she said.

She practically ran over to me.

Brandy curled up, leaning in to Joe. “’Night,” she warbled, her voice husky and sexy. She winked at me.

I followed Claudia below deck.

When I closed the door to our cabin, Claudia turned to face me. “Holy crap,” she said, and her eyes were wide. “Those two are...” Her eyes widened and she shook her head.

“I think Joe has a thing for you,” I said, putting my hands on her waist. I pulled on her gently and she let me bring her close to my body. I admired the nice view I had of her breasts snuggled in her bikini below my chin.

“He’s... first of all, I’m about ten years too old for his tastes,” Claudia said. “And he’s... not my type.”

I stepped back and gave my wife an expression of disbelief.

“Huh,” I said. “So it’s not so much that he’s not your husband, as that he’s not your type.”

Claudia’s face did some really remarkable things. “I... no...” she held her hand to her head. “No, that’s not what I meant,” she said quickly.

“Hmm,” I said. I was actually pretty trashed so my inhibitions were at an unusually low point. I slid my hand into her little skirt. “So you wouldn’t even think about another man, not even in a situation like this one?”

Claudia was caught off-guard by this. She was also drunk, and it was slowing her reactions.

And, I discovered as I slid my fingers into her bikini bottoms, she was also a little bit wet. The smooth, freshly waxed surface of her pussy (a nice treat for me, courtesy of her plans to wear a bathing suit all the time) was slick with her juices.

I raised my eyebrows.

“I... of course not,” she said. She moved in my arms, squirming a little. “That’s... not what I...”

I was stroking her clit now, and she was losing her train of thought. How much of that was drunkenness and how much of it was her giving some serious thought to “another man,” I have no idea. I was a little too drunk to find out.

I pushed her onto the bed and tugged off her skirt and her swimsuit bottom. I fell onto her, kissing her. Her body was warm and she responded to me by pressing up against me.

It was a pretty standard lovemaking session – a little drunken, but nothing too wild.

Except for the fact that Claudia was, without a doubt, wetter than usual. And for being so drunk, she came like a rocket.

The next morning had started out like any other; breakfast, Brandy not awake yet.

Joe had made himself a cup of coffee and then told everyone he was moving the boat. He used the motor to get us out of the marina and then down the coast a bit, out in the middle of the water near a strip of beach with some roofs tucked away in the jungly forest.

Joe had then gone for a swim, jumping off the side of the boat and disappearing for an hour.

Brandy had come up to the deck lazily, her small robe loose around her fantastic body. She had microwaved something with the sloppy, dorm room etiquette of a late millennial, smiled at us, and trudged back to her room.

We went to the deck to get some fresh air with our coffee. It was a glorious morning. Joe had returned, and we had all sat there on the deck without saying much.

Claudia moved to the lifeline and hung her feet over the side. I joined her. And there, sitting side by side at ten in the morning, holding coffee cups, we had gotten wildly turned on.

I couldn't even say what had precipitated it.

She had reached over to feel my cock, and her fingers played with it through the material of my swim trunks. I slid my finger under the hem of her shorts, seeking her swimsuit, or her panties, with my fingertips.

As she had stroked my cock, I could feel that precum had started dripping out and making my suit stick to my cock. We had looked at each other, both of us, I think, a little surprised by the sudden and uncharacteristic heat between us, seemingly prompted by nothing at all.

I had yawned theatrically. "Eagh. I need a nap."

And Claudia had followed suit.

That's how we ended up stretched out on the bed at eleven in the morning, sweaty and smelling of sex. It was beyond my wildest expectations for this trip.

Claudia ran her fingers through her honey-blond hair.

She was an alabaster princess, mostly Scandinavian in heritage. Her hair was the darkest thing about her, and in only two days of sun it was bleaching out. Her eyes were an icy, pale blue. The round pools of flesh around her nipples, and her most intimate parts, were pale pink like her generous mouth. Absolutely nothing covered the pink petals of her pussy, which I took the time to sneak a peek at by lifting the sheet.

"You have a sunburn," I said.

Claudia panicked and looked down at her body. "What?!" she said.

Finding that I had lied, she slapped me playfully on the butt, which is what I had really been after, anyway. "I do not," she said, almost defensively.

I traced the line of her swimsuit along her shoulder and over her breast. I made a circle around her ample bosom, and under it, back up to her shoulder on the opposite side. “You do have a tiny bit of a tan,” I said.

My fingers started down, headed for the barely visible tan line on the lower half of her body. Even though we had just sneaked in a quickie, to my surprise and delight, I was ready for another round. The sea air seemed to have invigorated Claudia.

Or possibly – and this was a hope I nurtured very close to my heart, because it was so unlikely – possibly, she had been invigorated by Joe and Brandy’s lifestyle?

“Hey-you-guys!” Brandy’s voice, a singsong lilt heavily coated with the valley-girl intonation so typical of her age group, called down through the forward hatch. “We’re leaving for the beach in like fifteen if you’re coming.”

We heard her feet above us. “I know you’re not sleeping,” she teased. “Come on, Mike. We have to sail a bit to get there.”

Claudia smiled at me. “Come on, Mike,” she said.

“You better come up, too,” I said. “You’ll get sick down here.”

Claudia rolled onto her back and gave a sexy, feline stretch that almost set me to wanting to fuck her again. “I’ll be up in a bit. I, um... need a different suit.”

I picked up her bikini bottoms. They were, in fact, encrusted with her dried excitement. They smelled incredible. I took a long inhale.

Claudia pushed herself up like a lightning bolt and snatched them from me. “Gross!” she said.

I shrugged and shimmied into my swimming trunks. Then I headed out the door.

“Sunscreen!” Claudia warned me.

“Sure thing,” I said, not really intending to follow up on it.

Claudia took her time coming up to the deck, and by the time she got there the boat was heeling hard in a brisk wind and we were really clipping along.

She had put on a new bikini, a purchase she had made in Nassau. I secretly believed that she had been influenced to buy the skimpier suit after seeing Brandy sunbathing in her own skimpy bikinis. Brandy had taken her shopping, and had repeatedly complimented my wife’s excellent body.

This all happened before she knew that Joe and Brandy were swingers, but I liked to believe that she had been a little interested in the attention that men were giving Brandy. A little turned on by the idea that they would give it to her as well.

The new suit was black, and, as she had said herself, she was really glad that she had gotten a Brazilian wax before the trip. This was standard procedure for Claudia whenever we went to a beachy vacation (and was just one more motivator for me to get a yacht)... but because we hadn't been on a beachy vacation in quite some time, the wax was as new and exciting to me as though she hadn't ever had one before at all. I loved to cup her smooth pussy in my hand while we spooned. I loved the feel of her bare skin, the promises her wet insides just beneath the surface...

The bikini was one of those skimpy bits that had nothing but small triangles to cover her breasts and her mound, and the suit became a little loose when it was wet. Not loose enough to actually see anything, but loose enough to tantalize with the promise of revealing some private part of her.

Over the bikini, she had a very loose-fitting cover-up. Alternating transparent strips teased like a stripper's costume, giving snippets of her bikini'd body and then hiding them away, over and over again from just below the curve of her ass to her shoulders, where it hung sexily and loosely.

She sat down on the couch on the deck, a little unsteadily because of the heel of the boat, and stretched her legs out to get some sun.

"Hun," I said, from the navigation area. "You have to have your life jacket on."

Brandy held up the end of her own life jacket and grinned. Even the spectacular Brandy had to wear one. They were, luckily, those self-inflating ones that didn't cover up too much of the ladies' lovely swimsuits.

I had a hard time concentrating on trimming the sails with those two stretched out in the cockpit. Which says a lot, because I love sailing. Claudia returned with her life jacket on, and it pulled her swimsuit cover up to a delectable length that let a small part of her well-turned ass hang out. She started to apply sunscreen, rubbing the white liquid along the length of her legs erotically.

Joe got the boat on a steady course and I hopped down to the cockpit to help my wife get the sunscreen everywhere it needed to be. Then we settled in for a quick sail to the mysterious Kaya's Beach, near Rock Sound.

“So Brandy was telling me,” Claudia said in a whisper, taking my arm and shutting the door to our room even though I was only retrieving our beach towels, “that this is a... you know... swinger’s island.”

I raised my eyebrows.

“What does that even mean?” she said. She held her hand to her mouth, as though in shock, but her eyes were smiling.

“There are a lot of swings,” I said.

She slapped me on the arm. “Such a corny joke. I’m serious. Like... if we go, we don’t have to... you know....”

I pretended not to know. I made a stupid face and cocked my head.

She slapped me lightly again on the arm. “I’m serious. We don’t have to, um... participate or anything, right?”

“Actually,” I said, after giving it some thought. “I don’t know.”

Claudia bit her thumbnail. “Well, should we ask them? Maybe we should just stay here.”

I smiled. “Oh. I thought you were totally into swinging.”

This was a complete joke, but Claudia’s face did a very strange thing at that point. “Nooo,” she said quickly. “No, I’m – oh, God, you’re joking.”

“Hmmm,” I said. “You almost seemed a little... guilty-sounding there.”

“What?” Claudia said, and this was the most guilty-sounding thing of all. “I’m not... what are you talking about?”

Butterflies exploded in my chest. She was really acting like someone who’s just had her dark desires ferreted out. Someone caught watching porn, or thinking about something they wanted to keep private.

Well... it was really more like she was in fifth grade, and I had just accused her of “liking-liking” Mike Dyle The Class Hunk or something.

“So you’re not into swinging?” I teased.

“Stop it.”

“I’m just making sure. Definitely a ‘no?’”

“Shut up.”

“Because you seemed a little -”

Claudia rolled her eyes and threw the door open. “I swear it is like being married to a thirteen-year-old,” she complained.

But her sense of humor was intact.

I watched her butt as she mock-stomped down the hallway, and then I quickly gathered our beach stuff, and joined her on deck.

There was a little raft with a motor for getting to beaches, and the four of us fit snugly in it with all of our beach gear. Claudia and Brandy were thigh-to-thigh at the bow, and they were quite a lovely sight and fertile ground for my imagination as we motored in to the beach.

The ladies stepped out and we dragged the boat to shore.

Brandy was off immediately, and from the way she was welcomed by the handful of people on the shore, in the shade of a tree, she was well-known on this island.

I wondered how well-known.

Claudia waited for me to join her, beach bag clutched to her chest to ward off any potential swingers. Then she took my hand as we walked in the direction Brandy had gone. Joe waved us on; he had a few things to take care of with the raft.

Brandy had joined some friends under the shade of some palm trees, and not knowing what else to do, we headed that way.

“Oh, my God,” Claudia said, and she paused in the sand for a moment. It was a fraction of a moment actually, and then she regained her composure and kept walking.

I saw what she was talking about: ahead of us, down the beach, there were several people bathing in the sun and playing a kind of badminton in the water.

Totally naked.

We kept walking.

After all, we were all adults here.

“I’ve heard about these places,” Claudia said in a low voice, “but I’ve never actually... you know. Seen it.”

“Claudia!”

It was Brandy’s voice.

“Claudia, Mike!”

I had a hard time dragging my eyes from the couple playing badminton in the water. The woman was tan, with a large, exotic build. Her long black hair was wet and snaked along her shoulders and back when it was slapping her as she moved in the water. She had big, pretty breasts that were bouncing as she very competitively dove after the shuttlecock. She glistened with seawater and suntan oil, and if I caught her at the right angle I got a glimpse of her dark bush, neat and clean, between her round, dimple-free golden thighs.

Her partner was a Mediterranean-looking man, unremarkable in build, except for the very large cock that dangled between his legs, flopping in and out of the water as he, too, dove for the shuttle cock.

Claudia squeezed my hand, and we headed toward our friends, who, thankfully, were still clothed, although Brandy was doing her best to look unclothed: she was wearing a bikini that almost exactly matched the color of her skin, a slightly almond-colored white, darkened by the sun. From a distance, she looked naked and featureless, like a Barbie doll, which was about what her build amounted to.

“Guys,” she said excitedly, because she said everything in an excited, breathy voice, “these are our friends Kelly and Greg.”

Kelly was an athletically-built, dark-haired beauty with the sort of vintage features you’d expect on a pin-up girl from the fifties. She even had a stain of red on her lips and dark sunglasses that obscured her eyes, but her nose was petite and upturned and there was no doubt that she was quite pretty behind the sunglasses. She was wearing a polka-dot one-piece, also reminiscent of the fifties – but her athletic body sort of clashed with the whole look.

She extended a hand and smiled in greeting.

Claudia looked at me, and then took her hand. “Nice to meet you,” she said. Her voice was a little strange.

I watched Claudia. She seemed almost... star-struck by her new “swinger” acquaintances. Needless to say, this was the last reaction I had expected her to have. I could tell that she was attracted to them, interested in them. When Claudia gets interested in things, her eyes light up a little from behind and move around quickly, like she can’t possibly get in as much as she wants to before the world ends. She comes across as a little nervous when she does this, but those who know her best know she is actually investigating.

Thinking about her curiosity made my stomach twist a little. I could feel the sensation traveling downward, to my cock.

Greg moved closer to Claudia, and extended his hand. He was a very fit guy, probably in his mid-thirties. His movements and his stance were those of an athlete, and his physique confirmed the diagnosis. His stomach was flat and rippled by muscles, and his biceps neatly defined by the shape of hard work at the gym or in some athletic endeavor. He was tan, and his brown hair was bleached by the sun. "I'm Greg. Pleased to meet you," he said, and his Australian accent came through, unmistakably.

I saw Claudia's eyes travel quickly over his body. She put her hand out, and he brought it to his lips. I stared as he placed my wife's fingers sensually against his mouth and gave her a kiss that was just a little too.. intimate.

The sensation traveled right through Claudia, I could almost feel it. "Claudia," she managed to say.

She actually stumbled a little over the first syllable of her name.

And the two of them stood there smiling at each other, as if no one else was there. The moment lasted just a bit longer than proper, before Greg extended his hand to me and shook it. He had a firm grip, but not the kind that came from business or politics, where he was out to prove something. Just a guy with a lot of muscled strength in his fingers.

My heart kicked wildly in my chest and I stepped to put my legs a little further apart, because I was actually getting a light erection just being near all these possibilities. I wasn't even actually allowing myself to think about them.

"Ah, ah, ah," Brandy said, waving a finger at Greg. "These two are just... along for the ride. We promised them we wouldn't put any pressure on them."

Greg smiled, and a disbelieving puff of air came from his nose. "That's fine, mate," he said, but he was looking at Claudia with a charming, bad-boy kind of gaze. "You might change your mind, though."

At this point, Kelly and Brandy exchanged a look. Then Kelly reached up to her husband with an empty glass in her hand. "Honey," she said. "Get me another drink, would you."

Greg took the glass, and looked around at the rest of us for drink orders.

Brandy laughed again, and Kelly echoed it, which made me a little uneasy for some reason. Claudia gave me a look that at least let me know she wasn't in on whatever the ladies were laughing about together in complicity.

Brandy picked up a mat and a towel and stepped into the sun. "Oh God, I'm actually like, so tired," she said. "I'm going to take a nap." She looked back at us. “A real one.”

Claudia’s jaw dropped a little, but she snapped it back up into a smile very quickly.

Kelly shifted in her chair. “You want a chair in the shade?” she said to Claudia. I stared openly as her eyes ran up and down my wife’s body, sensually lingering on each curve. “You look like you need to stay out of the sun.”

I felt cold. I wasn’t super into girl-on-girl action, but watching Kelly check my wife out like that, so blatantly and right in front of me, was still a thrill.

“I have.. I use... I just put on... a lot of sun... screen,” Claudia stammered.

Kelly’s lips moved in a strange way, and her eyes moved over Claudia one more time. “I see.” She smiled and turned to me. “I suppose you’re going to put it on for her?”

There is no reason I have to, I thought about saying.

But Claudia looked at me desperately. “I’m a little beat,” she said quickly. “I think I’ll... go out in the sun, next to that tree there in case of... too much... sun.” She nudged me. “Come help me get my sunscreen on.”

We trudged through the sand, almost business-like in our quest to reach the tree. “Oh my God,” Claudia said, as she turned and swung her towel out in front of her.

At first I thought she was talking about the interaction with Kelly, but then I noticed she was looking at something. I followed her gaze and saw that Brandy was adjusting herself on her towel, stretching out. Nothing peculiar there...

And then I squinted.

She had taken off her skin-colored suit. The only real way to know that was because her breasts, pointed straight at the sky, were topped by the two red-pink dots of her fat nipples, and a big swath of pink aureole below them. She stretched her legs out, and a slightly darker area between her legs indicated that she had also taken off her bottoms.

She looked stunning. Even though her bikinis left very little to the imagination, what there was, that we were now privy to, was incredible.

“Are these people going to gang-rape us on the beach?” Claudia said, in a low whisper.

But when I looked at her face, it was a mixture of pure jest, a little bit of shock, and what seemed like... excitement.

I shrugged. "Do you want them to?"

Now, several days ago, even, Claudia would have quickly turned this into a pure joke, by saying something outrageous. Or she would have been so stunned that she would have moved to the far end of the beach to stay away from the possibility.

What she wouldn't have done – and what I didn't expect her to do – was plop down on her towel and keep looking at the scene on the beach with a shrug.

"Here you are, Claudia, my dear," a male voice said behind us.

We both looked up to see Greg handing a drink to Claudia, three more grasped in his right hand by sheer force, the tendons on the back of his hand stretched but not straining. He handed a beer to me from his left hand.

Then he winked at Claudia, who became a little flustered. Her chest heaved with a deep breath she took, and her upper lip trembled a little.

Greg gave off a little more charming heat, and left.

I sat down next to Claudia, on my towel which I had tried to lay out nicely but was largely in a heap.

"Maybe," I said suggestively, "you want Greg to gang-rape you."

Claudia stirred her drink and brought the straw sensually to her lips. "Hmm, it's not really a gang-rape unless there's more than one guy."

The straw dropped a shiny droplet of gin and tonic onto her lips. She put her thumb into her lips and sucked off some lime that had had gotten on her fingers when she squeezed it.

That wasn't a "no" to the idea of Greg.

I felt my cock throbbing to life.

I ran a finger along Claudia's thigh, and I was pleased to see that the back of her neck bristled with goosebumps. The same thick feeling of excitement that had grown between us on the boat was gathering in the air now. I could feel it. I longed to slide my fingers into Claudia's suit to see if she was feeling it as intensely as I was.

She gave me a look, one that was both inviting and somewhat admonishing at the same time.

We looked out onto the beach. The badminton players were still at it, though they had been joined by a third man. This guy was wearing black swim trunks. The game was getting more tightly-knit; they had moved in toward each other and they were talking much more than playing the game.

I watched and sort of spaced out as I was doing so, tuning out everything else that was happening around me. There was something extremely sensual and sexual about the way the three of them were playing badminton, and it wasn't just that they were naked.

Eventually, the woman and the naked man moved so close to each other that the badminton shuttlecocks were just a pretense. Quite suddenly, there in the open, the naked man was trailing his fingers over the large breasts of the woman, who was standing casually, with her hand on one hip, letting him do it.

The other man was watching. Just standing there, close to the two of them, and watching.

I became very suddenly aware of where I was, and my eyes flew around the scene on the beach. There were a few couples together on towels. Some of them seemed to have their eyes on what was happening in the water, and some of them did not.

To our right, Joe and Greg were involved in a discussion that was taking all of their attention away from the water.

I looked back at Claudia, who was transfixed by the scene in the water.

Watching her face, a cocktail of feelings traveled through me. I was surprised – “bowled over” might be a better expression - by Claudia's reaction. I had hoped to keep Joe and Brandy's lifestyle a secret (though I could see now how completely preposterous that idea had been). But I had planned for the contingency that it might come out on the trip, and thought of all the ways that Claudia might react.

Except... the way she was actually reacting.

My cock pulsed again.

“So are they...” Claudia murmured, twisting the straw between her fingers sensually and rubbing the top of it along her lower lip. It was one of the most sexual things I'd ever seen in my life, and certainly from Claudia. Her eyes were big, swallowed up by her excited pupils, and her mouth seemed redder and fuller as she dragged the straw over her lips like she was teasing a cock.

“Are they going to just... do it? Right here?” she finished finally.

Her eyes were still on the group, who were moving out of the water, hands all over each other.

The man wearing his swim trunks seemed to be there mostly to watch, but when they reached the beach he slid his swim trunks down and took his cock in his hand. The woman and the man who had been playing badminton were all over each other now.

Claudia cleared her throat when the sensual woman dropped to her knees.

I looked over at my wife. The explicitness of the scene had evidently become too much for her. She was blushing. “I am... eghem. Taking my snorkel and going.. out... way over there,” she said, pointing to the right of the couple and an area of the water that looked safely abandoned.

She grinned at me, like “can you believe this shit?” and slapped my leg. “You come, too,” she said.

Then she fished her snorkel out of her bag, stood up, and practically ran to the edge of the water.

I allowed myself a glance back at the scene on the edge of the water.

The woman had gotten on her knees and her badminton partner had his hand in her dark, wet hair. He was cradling her head with his large hand, and her face was pressed close to his pelvis.

“Holy...” I said under my breath.

The boxer-clad guy was now unclothed, and he was standing quite close to the pair.

The woman’s head shifted suddenly, and the boxer-man had his hand in her hair.

I looked away quickly. Claudia was wading into the water.

While the scene of the dark-haired woman sucking two cocks on her knees in broad daylight in front of this whole crowd was a sight I could hardly take my eyes off, Claudia’s full bottom blooming from behind her small bikini, a patch of sand on the right cheek, was calling to me.

Also, even for me, this was a little... risque.

I took my snorkel and followed Claudia into the water.

The water was crystal-clear, and the sand beneath it was white. I could see Claudia’s body in vivid detail as she stretched out and floated, then flipped over and began to swim in graceful strokes. She was an avid swimmer, and her arms and legs moved in synchronized motions that hardly splashed. I watched her move away from me, using a somewhat futile breast stroke to try and catch up with her.

At last she slowed, and her legs floated down to the floor of the bay. The water was still no more than four feet deep, even though we were so far out.

She had also, I noticed, moved slightly to the left, in a direction closer to the threesome on the beach.

I kept swimming, enjoying the view of her body in her swimsuit, the streaks of reflected sunlight rippling over her body.

“Wow,” I heard her voice as I neared. “I can’t believe it’s this shallow all the way out here.”

I stood up. She had propped her snorkel on her head. The nose-piece had left a small crease of red on her nose, but other than that, her sea-water clean face was fresh and pretty, a rosy tint in her cheeks. She was smiling, and her hair was clinging to her cheek and her shoulder, still blonde even though it was wet.

“Isn’t it great?” she said to me.

I pulled her close to me, because the energy driving me earlier on the beach had not worn off. “It is great,” I said.

She wrapped her legs around me and floated easily in my arms, her heels against the small of my back. I knew she could feel my erection against the fabric of her bikini. I slid my fingers under her bikini straps and peeled the top away until just the part covering her nipples remained.

“Mike,” she breathed, a faint protest, partially encouraging. But she looked past my shoulder toward the beach.

I could feel the heat between her legs against my cock, and she pushed her hips forward to grind against me. I leaned forward and bit the salty fabric of her bikini right where I thought I might find her nipple. I was satisfied as my teeth found a hard pebble, and she sucked in her breath.

Taking the fabric between my teeth, I pulled it down and away from her breast until her pink nipple was exposed. I swirled my tongue over the silky flesh of her areola, lightly on the first pass, and then pressing urgently the second time. Then I sucked her already-hard nipple into my mouth and played with it with my tongue.

He squirmed against me. Again, she said, “Mike,” in a vague kind of protest. But her body was pushing against mine, and she was not trying to actually stop me as my hands slipped down to her bikini bottoms and slipped under the fabric.

Her skin was rubbery with seawater wetness, all along her innermost thigh and her outer lips. But when I probed into her inner lips I found the slick, unmistakable wetness of her excited cunt. She was really, really wet. Even though the sea was sucking her juices away quickly, they just kept coming, so her pussy was a slick, slippery, hot anemone.

I shimmied out of my boxers, just enough to free my cock. I was still sucking on her nipple, and I moved my mouth to attend to her other one.

I pushed her bottoms aside with my fingers and guided my cock to her pussy. She was many degrees hotter than the water around us, and the heat kissed and then enveloped the tip of my cock and made me throb with desire.

She pushed herself onto me, and I felt my cock encased in one thrust in her hot, liquid pussy. She was so lightweight in the water that we were able to fuck almost effortlessly, but the angle of her pussy stroked parts of my cock in a new way, almost like masturbating with the wrong hand.

For a moment we just fucked quietly, the water lapping around our slowly rocking bodies. I was enjoying the immersion, in her, in the water, in the moment, and I pictured her with her eyes closed doing the same as me.

She began, very rapidly, to get a little wild. She started to grind hard against me, and speed up the pace. She placed both hands on my shoulders to get better leverage, and she began to really fuck me.

When I opened my eyes and looked at her face, her mouth was open and her pink mouth panting a little. Beads of seawater or sweat dotted her cheek and her forehead, and her eyes were open wide.

She was looking – staring – over my shoulder.

At the scene on the beach.

I could feel her pussy clenching around my cock, an orgasm rising up inside of her and hardening her insides as it prepared to shake her. Her pussy was incredibly wet, incredibly hot, and she was fucking me with more abandon than I could remember her having in a long time.

I knew that she was watching something on the beach – some debauchery that I would have loved to have seen – but I didn't dare move to take it in. Staring at her face, at the expression in her eyes and the slackness of her mouth as she rose to the crest of her climax was more erotic for me, anyway.

It was almost like catching her masturbating to some porn, which I often fantasized about, but never imagined she would do. Now, here she was, her pussy tightening up around my cock and her juices gushing into the ocean, all because she was watching some live sex on the beach.

She gasped, and thrust her hips forward. At that moment, her pussy clamped down hard around my cock and she squeezed her eyes shut as if it were too overwhelming for her. Her fingers dug into my shoulders, and for a moment her pussy was so tight, hot and wet around my cock I thought maybe the world had frozen in time.

Then, in pulses, her cunt began to relax.

I don't know if she kept watching what was happening on the beach, but I liked to think so.

I grasped her hips, and she leaned forward and bit into my shoulder gently as I fucked my cum into her. As I did, I thought about her, leaning onto my shoulder, her teeth biting gently into my flesh, and her mind miles away – or just meters away – thinking of another man.

After I came, we floated in the water, clinging to each other and panting lightly with the exertion. Claudia's pussy throbbed around my cock, hot and still gushing. Her skin was hot against mine, and the water around us seemed very cold by comparison.

Finally, she leaned back, her arms still hanging on my shoulders. She had a sheepish look on her face but also a little smile.

I turned around, so that she had her back to the beach. The sheepishness of her expression increased as I looked over her shoulder.

"Hmm," I said. "What were you watching so intently, I wonder?"

I felt her cunt constrict around me, and a faint blush traveled from high on her cheekbone down to her jaw.

On the beach, though it wasn't extremely clear, I could see the entangled bodies of three figures in the sand. Likely our badminton threesome. Their legs were entwined and they were writhing on the beach like snakes, though I couldn't see much detail because they were blending into the sand.

My cock, which was still semi-hard inside of Claudia, pulsed with excitement.

I looked at Claudia. Her face was flushed, and her body was still searing hot. She shifted on my cock and sent another tremble of excitement through me.

But her face – the flush of her cheeks, the greedy look in her eyes – is what really made me start to get hard again, as incredible as it seemed.

“What are they doing now?” she whispered, her eyes on mine.

Her cunt pulsed around my cock, and I could feel all the blood rushing back to where it had come from.

“I can’t see very well,” I said.

Claudia leaned to the right, and used her strong swimming stroke to propel me with her legs so that we turned in the water, perpendicular to the beach.

We faced each other, and Claudia had this kind of half-smile on. Then her eyes lowered and swung to the left, sneakily, without turning her head. The smile on her face made my cock pulse inside of her again, and she lifted herself up and re-adjusted her weight on me, driving me even wilder.

“I think they’re... oh my gosh,” she said. She moved her eyes back toward me, but kept them lowered. She brought her fingers to her mouth, almost like she was too ashamed to say anything. “I think she’s... they’re... you know...”

I did not know. I waited, watching her face, and my cock thickened inside of her. I was ready to go again, if only Claudia would watch the trio on the beach and tell me about it while she did.

“What are they doing?” I prompted, and I slowly slid inside of her, in and out. She squirmed in my hands, and her body heat seemed to spike yet again.

She giggled nervously. “They’re like, double-teaming her.”

I knew what this meant, but I had the urge to get her to say something more about it.

“Double-teaming her, how?” I said.

Claudia blushed.

I pushed myself deep inside of her and used my hands to move her hips against my pelvis. Her lips parted as she took obvious pleasure from it.

“One of them in her... you know, up front, and the other in her... ass.”

There was no mistaking that however much trouble she was having talking about it, she had no problem getting off on it. Her pussy oozed with another shot of excitement, and it kissed the length of my cock, hot and creamy.

I really wanted to see the scene on the beach myself, but more than that I wanted to watch Claudia's face as she watched it. I had never seen her like this before. I had certainly never fucked her underwater – twice in ten minutes – before.

I turned so that Claudia had a view of the beach scene over my shoulder.

She started to lean forward, and I used a hand to push her by the chest so that she leaned back a little and I could see her face.

She took the cue and braced her body against mine with her hands straight against my shoulders.

I watched her face as she looked at the beach scene and I grasped her hips, moving her body along the length of my shaft. Her eyes were so absorbed by the scene that again she almost looked hypnotized, and her mouth hung open sensually. The water lapped at her nipples, and her pussy was still so wet and overflowing that I was sliding through her like butter.

Finally her eyes closed halfway, and her mouth fell open a little more. "Oh God," she said.

"What are they doing?" I asked her.

But Claudia was too close, too caught up in whatever she was seeing, and, at the end of the day, still a little too reserved to tell me. So I moved her in a half-circle and took in the scene myself as my wife came for a second time:

The woman on the beach was on her hands and knees, and she had a cock in her mouth and another behind her, though whether it was in her pussy or her ass could not be seen from that distance.

What I did get to see, and what made me come at the same time that my wife's pussy squeezed out her own orgasm, was that after a few moments of this, the man who had his cock in her mouth came, and then the one behind her moved from her ass to her mouth. She turned around to meet him, and she got to work sucking his cock.

The three of them collapsed on the sand.

Claudia leaned forward and placed her lips on my shoulder to muffle a giggle. For a moment we floated in the water like that, Claudia breathing onto my skin, my ears still pounding with the force of so much exertion in succession.

Finally Claudia slipped away from me, and the very cold-feeling water gripped me instead of her warm body. She dropped her feet to the ocean floor and adjusted her bikini. Her face went a little red again.

“I can’t believe we just did that,” she said, and her eyes darted back to the beach.

“I can’t believe we just did that twice,” I said.

Claudia gave me a sheepish smile, and then she let herself fall back to floating on her back. She adjusted her bikini top and her long, pretty legs unfolded in the water. I noted with some satisfaction that her bikini bottoms were the tiniest bit stretched out of shape. I admired the way they were a little loose against the curve of her waxed pubic bone, hinting at the shape of her cunt, almost giving me a peek at it.

“Do you think anyone noticed us?” she asked, cringing slightly.

I took her foot and pulled her back to me. She floated by, smiling, and I trailed a hand over the curves of her body as she passed by me. “I don’t know,” I said, with a shrug. “I think the other scene probably attracted more of an audience.”

Claudia’s eyes went back to the beach. “Oh my God,” she said. “Everybody’s disappeared except...” she cleared her throat. “You know. Those guys.”

I looked behind me, and Claudia slapped me in one of those, “don’t-be-so-blattant” slaps. A scan of the beach revealed that Greg, Kelly, Joe and Brandy had, indeed, disappeared. The trio had been reduced to just two, and the woman was sunbathing on a towel as though nothing had happened. The boxer guy had his boxers back on and he was sitting up, looking out into the water with sunglasses on.

He seemed to be looking at us.

“Maybe they just went to go get drinks,” I suggested, and this made Claudia smile.

“Oh man,” she said. “How do we... like, when is it okay to go back there?”

“What do you mean?” I teased.

Claudia blushed again.

“C’mon,” I said, pulling her along by the foot and placing a hand under her to help her float like a goddess in the water. I slid a finger under her bikini top, along the curve of her bottom. “You didn’t seem to be... bothered by it about five minutes ago.”

Claudia kind of snorted. “That’s different,” she said, and her voice was very fun, very endearing. She crinkled up her nose. “I can’t go up there and just walk by some people who are... you know..."

I lifted my shoulders and raised my eyebrows, as though I were ignorant of the whole thing.

"Having sex," Claudia said. She grinned and put her hand to the side of her mouth as she said it, and I really couldn't tell if she was embarrassed or just making a joke at that point.

"Why not?" I said. I was half-joking as well, equally unsure of how much I was teasing and how much I was making a serious suggestion. "It was really hot. Maybe we should try something different."

Claudia looked very shocked, very suddenly. She drew her feet down to the floor of the ocean again and stood, moving her hands as though she were treading water, in a crouch that brought her chin down below the water. "You aren't serious."

I looked behind me. Greg was emerging from the shrubbery, two drinks in hand, and the sensual Brandy was next to him, naked, her mouth open in a laugh, her hands on his arm. They looked as much a couple as she and Joe did.

For a moment a delicious surge of proxy-jealousy tore through me.

"I don't know," I said, tipping my head slightly in the direction of the beach. "Everyone seems to be having a good time."

Claudia made a face. She moved her head in a slow shake, "no," and stared at the scene on the beach. "I don't know," she said. "I think all that stuff is like... sexy as a thought, and then... not really that great in real life. Like... they can't be all that happy in their marriage."

I let myself sink into the water until I was facing her. "I don't know," I said. "They seem okay to me."

Claudia shook her head slowly again. "No way."

"Why not?"

Claudia looked at me. "Are you asking me that seriously?"

She was getting a slightly pissed-off tone to her voice, so I decided to back off.

"I mean, I'm not saying it's for me," I said, slowly. "I'm just saying... they seem okay with it."

"Would you be okay with it?" she challenged me.

This was a loaded question.

If I dug deep, the answer to this question was: "it's complicated."

The thought of Claudia having sex with another man cut two ways when I thought about it. One cut was very, very pleasant. The other was a smoldering jealousy, a terrifying feeling of risk.

But Claudia was looking at me with a very challenging expression, and I was gathering that she wanted a certain answer. “It’s complicated” was not the right answer.

Not yet, anyway.

“No... God. Of course not,” I said.

My tone sounded convincing to me.

Claudia seemed satisfied by this answer, and her face softened.

She floated again, and I ran my fingers along her legs, my eyes on the rippling, loosened fabric of her bikini bottom and the shape of her mound. My mind on the idea of her lying with her face on the hard, shoreline sand, her eyes staring directly at me, and a big, fat cock that wasn’t mine sawing in and out of her.

“I mean,” she said, after a while and unprompted. “It’s fun to fantasize about, I guess...”

My cock started to twitch to life again, even though I was numb with that fucked-out, pleasantly emptied feeling.

“But it’s kind of like anal sex or something. More fun to think about.”

I lost my smooth composure. I pulled on her leg and jerked her toward me. “What?!” I said. “Anal sex, or something? Do you fantasize about anal sex?”

I was pretty sure that in my whole life I had never heard Claudia even say the word “anal.” Not even in the term “anal-retentive,” which she deplored.

“No!” she said quickly, and with such a measure of defense that I knew it was a lie. “Just... you know. I know people do, and then it isn’t... oh, never mind.”

She was really flustered.

I was about to say something to keep the conversation going – not that I was really into anal sex, so much, as I was into the fact that I seemed to be uncovering a secret side to my wife, a new layer of her sexual mind that I had never even suspected existed – but Claudia spoke first.

“So, seriously. How do we get back up there without, um... you know. I don’t want my fingers to get pruny.”

She was smiling again.

My heart was on a bit of a roller-coaster ride. I was seeing exciting sides of my wife, sexualized sides of my wife, and mysterious parts of my wife, as though there were a whole other person inside of her that I hadn't met yet.

She was looking past me to the beach. "I think they're, uh... that part's wrapped up," she said.

She floated past me, turning onto her back again and looking back at me as she used her arms to propel herself toward the shore.

"Well come on," she said. "I don't want to go up there myself."

And she flipped over on her stomach at that point. A breeze had picked up and the surf was just loud enough to interfere with her voice, so I don't actually know if I heard this correctly or not. But I think she said:

"Who knows what they'll do to me?"

And that, ladies and gentlemen, whether I heard or not, set me to thinking.

A lot.

About them doing all kinds of things to her.

2: AN IDEA

We wrapped up the day on the beach fairly tamely, to my surprise. Joe said he couldn't be boating around drunk and he was taking the raft back to the boat around four, so we sat in the sun on the beach. Around three Claudia moved in toward the group for some shade, so I went with her.

That's when I got my first glimpse of another guy checking my wife out, intimately, and in front of me.

Claudia set her towel on the sand and leaned back against a pile of beach bags so she could be lying down and still upright to drink an iced tea that Greg had fetched for her.

I was behind my sunglasses, as was Claudia, so no one had any way of knowing what we were looking at. I suppose Greg maybe guessed that I was asleep behind my dark shades – a tactic I made a note to use in the future.

As to how oblivious Claudia was to what she was doing and how Greg was reacting to her, I will never know. Something had piqued her interest, there was no denying that.

Before he retrieved a drink for her, there were several occasions when Claudia ran her fingers under the form of her bikini, as though to adjust it. When she did this, the material lifted from her body, enough for Greg to catch a glimpse of her shaven pussy. And he practically gazed at it.

This was stirring – I didn't know if Claudia had her eyes closed, or open; if she was doing it with the intention of giving Greg a little glimpse and savoring that she was making him hungry for her, or if she honestly had no idea that he was peeking each time she did it.

Then she spilled a little bit of her drink onto her chest. The cool pink liquid made her suck in her breath, and look down at where the daiquiri had piled on her chest and started to melt. A slow trickle of sweet, sticky pink was snaking between her breasts.

“Shoot,” Claudia said.

Greg was watching the daiquiri as it made its way down her body. The look on his face, though, was that of an unabashed predator. The thoughts he was having about my wife were practically broadcasting from his hungry eyes.

Claudia tried to pull her towel up to wipe it off, but it was under her body and not long enough. “Shoot,” she repeated. “Do you have a napkin or something?”

She said this to both Greg and Brandy, but it was Greg who responded, after a thoughtful pause.

“Maybe I could lick it off,” he suggested.

I had to fight hard to keep from jerking my body at his words. I wanted to look like I was asleep, to continue to watch... to see what my wife would do.

Claudia turned her head slightly in my direction. She gave me a sharp look, and then she looked back at Greg and gave him an uncomfortable smile. “I.. no, not.. no, thanks, to that,” she said.

Brandy laughed, a low rumble in her throaty warble. “Leave her alone, Greg. There’s a towel right there.”

Greg took the small hand towel Brandy was pointing at, never taking his eyes off Claudia and the sticky daiquiri sliding over her chest. He stood up, leaned over her, and wiped it off.

My cock throbbed.

Claudia took the towel from him quickly and said, “thanks, I...”

“Greg, I told you, she’s not in the lifestyle. You’re pushing it,” Brandy said, a little more forcefully.

Greg stepped back, still admiring my wife. “That’s awfully sticky stuff,” he said. “You’re going to want to -”

Claudia jumped up. “I think I’ll go get in the water,” she said. “Just to...” She looked at me, and I must have done an excellent job of pretending to be asleep, because she looked away quickly and trotted off.

I fought to keep my breath calm and hopefully keep my cock from alerting everyone to my heightened state of arousal.

“That,” Greg said, watching Claudia as she walked to the beach. “Is a shame.”

Brandy sipped her drink. She was using a straw and she was doing it like she was sucking a cock. “Maybe so,” she said, “but you’re going to foul out if you keep acting like that.”

Both of them looked over at me, and I closed my eyes even though I knew they couldn’t see them through the sunglasses. The conversation died away and when I opened my eyes and veered them to the left, I was able to see Claudia in the water.

She began by splashing water on herself at the shore, but when she looked up at the beach and saw the number of men who were watching her lustfully (or at least, I imagined they were), she decided to slowly stroll into the water and sit down in the shallows to relax with her back turned to the beach.

Before long, it was time to head back to the boat, and so we piled into the raft and Joe motored us back.

Upon boarding the boat, I noticed that Claudia had a bit of a sunburn. I touched her back gently, and left a white thumbprint on her pink skin. "Oh, babe," I said. "You're not gonna like this."

"Shit," Claudia said. "I forgot to re-apply." She frowned, looking over her shoulder as though she would see her own sunburned back.

"Help me get some aloe on it, would you?" she said.

This seemed like a purely perfunctory request, until we ducked into the hatchway and down the steps. In the living area she looked back at me, a little impishly. "Why didn't you offer to lather me up again?" she said.

She pulled her cover-up off as she walked and reached behind her to untie her bikini.

The material slid open and the small pieces of fabric dangled forward, sliding off her arms. She was bared by the time we entered our compartment and I closed the door.

Claudia jumped playfully onto the bed and opened a cupboard to grab a bottle of aloe. The bottle sputtered, sounding to my ear like a bottle of lube, as she poured a little onto her palm.

But then she looked back at me. "I think you should do this," she said. "Make sure you get me everywhere."

I was fairly unused to my wife acting like this. Maybe there had been a time, long ago in the past and so buried I could scarcely recall it – but I sort of doubted it.

Something was definitely taking a hold of Claudia and activating her libido.

I got onto the bed on my knees and held my hand out. She squirted the gel into my hand, which felt icy-cold and for some reason was very arousing against my palm. Then she turned so that her back was to me.

I swiped it onto her shoulders, and she shivered a little. Goosebumps spread over her upper body, down her spine. I used my free hand to tug on her bikini and see if they had gone all the way to her bottom; they had.

Slowly, I rubbed the aloe in to her skin, and the goosebumps faded away except for at her neck. I kissed her, and slid my hand down to her butt, between her cheeks. It was still wet with aloe as I slid down to her anus and then quickly back up, not wanting to alarm her. While my fingers were there, I noticed that she was already getting wet.

“So,” I said, feeling a little brave. I traced my fingers up and down the length of Claudia’s torso. “I want to hear more about this... anal sex fantasy,” I teased.

Claudia slapped my hand away, but she did it playfully.

“Okay,” I said, when she didn’t offer any anal sex fantasy up. “If not that, then let’s hear more about this watching other people fantasy.”

Claudia put her arm up over her eyes. “That’s not my fantasy,” she said, a note of mystery in her voice. Her mouth was turned into a strange expression, a slightly pained smile. I couldn’t tell if she was smiling in spite of herself, or the other way around.

I lowered my head and crouched a little to kiss her on the stomach. “Are you sure?” I breathed onto her navel. “I feel like I wasn’t the only one who was really turned on today.”

I rubbed my lips over her skin, and I felt her muscles ripple with a ticklish flinch. When I looked up to her face, the smile was taking over her mouth. Her nipples were hard as little stones.

“Maybe you feel just a little bit inclined...” I said.

Claudia lay back on the bed, turning so she was on her back. “You’re serious, aren’t you?”

I stretched out next to her. I decided to just spill it. Claudia was interested, I could tell.

I pulled on the strings of the bikini bottoms until the whole thing opened up to her bare cunt. I moved my hand down to her soaked pussy. “I’ll tell you the truth,” I said, “if you tell me the truth.”

Claudia’s eyes widened, but she seemed to be giving me consent.

Sexy, wild-eyed consent.

“The thing I liked best about today,” I murmured, “was Greg looking at your pussy when you adjusted your bikini.” I smiled. “Did you know that he did that?”

Claudia's eyes went wide and she opened her mouth to protest. I put my finger on her lips. "Oh, come on, Claudia. You did it like three times. Are you going to try to tell me you didn't want him to see?"

A stain of red crept over her cheeks.

"It's okay," I said, working my fingers into the soaked folds of her pussy. "I liked it. In fact, I liked it a lot."

Her eyes went wide again.

I kissed her mouth, and I found her clit with my fingertip. I was scarcely able to believe how wet her pussy was, and that this was the fourth time that day we would be having sex. Her body rippled with pleasure when I stroked the face of her clit.

"I have a fantasy," I said. "Do you want to know what it is?"

Her lips parted, and she gave me a quick nod.

"Will you tell me what yours is if I tell you?"

Again, the same glassy-eyed nod.

I whispered into her ear, making sure to get her lobe wet with my breath and my tongue. "I like to picture you with another man," I breathed. "I like to fantasize about you letting a man like Greg fuck you while I watch."

My cock pulsed as I said this, and I felt Claudia's body ripple with excitement.

She seemed a little stunned by the revelation, and I kissed her mouth again, probing inside with my tongue. "Now you," I said.

Claudia looked a little stunned. "I..." she said. She rolled over, so that I was spooning her.

"You promised," I told her, kissing the back of her neck.

"I... I, um... is that really your fantasy?"

I sort of laughed.

"And what would you... what would you want me to do...?" she murmured. A long pause as my whole body went cold-hot with excitement. "With Greg? What would you want me to do?"

I slid my hand down to her pussy again and found her clit. It felt like it actually pulsed in my fingers.

I slid a finger inside of her, and fanned them out to slide one over her slick anus, one into her cunt, and one against her clit. She lifted her leg a little to help me. Her body twisted in excitement.

My cock throbbed against her ass, and I could feel precum gushing from the crown. Not much would have to happen for me to spill all over her, violently.

I used my free hand to push her hair from her neck. “What would you do, Claudia?” I breathed.

I stroked my finger over her puckered anus. “Would you want to let Greg do something to you that you fantasize about?”

She didn’t respond, she just squirmed.

I made a slow circle over her anus, and she gasped. “Would you let Greg put his cock in your ass?” I said. “Would you like that?”

The precum from my cock was dripping on her lower back and her butt now, hot and wet. My cock was aching.

“I... maybe,” she said.

I pushed the tip of my cock against her anus.

“Not... no, not yet,” she said. She pushed her butt back against me and tilted it so that my dick slid down to the soaked hole of her cunt. I hooked a hand under her thigh to lift it, and nudged her torso forward a little to slide my cock into her cunt. Her warm pussy felt so hot, so liquid around me, that I almost came like I was an adolescent again.

I moved slowly in and out of her, and both of us reverted into our own fantasy worlds. I knew she was thinking about her dirtiest thoughts, the ones she couldn’t yet tell me about. And I was thinking of them, too: picturing Claudia’s little butt-hole stretching open as a big, thick cock pushed inside of her and she moaned in pleasure.

We both came at nearly the same time, hard and violently like the times on the beach. So many orgasms had actually made me feel a little weak, a little dizzy. I shuddered my cum into her and let my arm fall over her. Slowly, my cock slipped from her pussy and the hot wet cum from inside of her bathed my dock and my balls.

Then we lay there.

“How much of a fantasy is this?” Claudia said, breaking up the silence very suddenly.

I kissed the back of her neck. “Truth?” I said, nuzzling her. “It’s not just a fantasy.”

Claudia’s body went stiff in my arms for a second. She turned to me. “Really? You’d really like to... you know... share me with someone else? Greg?”

I couldn't read her tone.

I put my finger on her nose and slid it down the cute little slope.

"Why? You wouldn't like to have sex with a guy like Greg?"

She looked away. "Well, not... no. No, not really."

My heart soared. Her tone was one she only used when she was lying. She was really, really lying now.

"Why's that?" I said.

"I don't understand," Claudia said, defensively and to avoid the question, "why you would like that kind of thing."

But the way she said it, looking toward the wall, was not a tone of admonishment. Or even, really, disbelief.

It was the kind of tone you use when you want someone to say something else. To elaborate. The kind of breathy, greedy tone a person uses to get sordid details without actually asking for them.

No problem, Claudia, I thought. I can oblige.

"I think I like the jealousy," I said. I kissed her shoulder. "I think I like... I don't know, exactly. The idea that you're giving a performance for me."

I wasn't actually sure what the answer was, myself. I knew I wanted to see her pussy filled with Greg's cock, I knew I wanted to watch her be defiled. But I couldn't exactly say why.

She turned so that she was facing me, looking over her shoulder. "Is that it?" she said.

I shrugged.

She turned back to face the wall. I couldn't get a very good read on what she was thinking.

"Don't you have some kind of fantasy, say... anal sex... that you have a hard time explaining?"

She stretched her fingers out in front of her. "Yeah but that's a fantasy. You sound like you actually want to do it. Or... me to do it."

There was a long pause while my heart raced against her back.

"Look," I said. "I do want you to do it..."

She waited. "But...?"

"Huh?"

She wriggled around to face me. "It sounded like there was a 'but' in there."

“Well... ‘but,’ I don’t want you to do something you don’t really want to do...”

Claudia looked at me, her eyes scanning my face. “But?”

She was smiling, which was good news for me. “But...” I said. “Well, it seems like maybe you’re not as opposed to it as... you want me to think.”

She turned to face the wall again. She let out kind of a “harrumph” as she did.

“And what makes you think that?” she said, after a while.

For a second, I thought she was mad, and I racked my brain for the best answer to her question, the one that was going to defuse the situation. I didn’t feel like ruining all the fun we’d had with a fight, nor did I feel like endangering my boat plans by pissing Claudia off.

Don’t get me wrong: I loved the idea of Claudia being into this.

You just get to a certain age and you’re able to calculate chance a lot better. I figured I had about a 1% chance of Claudia agreeing to fuck some other guy, and an 85% chance of convincing her to get this boat as long as she didn’t sour on the whole thing because we had some stupid fight.

I was gathering her up in my arms, ready to kiss the back of her neck and soothe her, when I realized that she was kind of giggling.

“And what makes you think that?” had been a joke. A joke, because she knew that she was turned on by it. She was admitting it.

Wow.

My heart started to race, and against all odds, I could feel my cock getting hard again.

“Anyway,” she said, kissing my hand. “I don’t think I’d actually go through with -”

She cut herself off when she felt my cock throb against her bottom.

Turning slightly to face me, she widened her eyes in amazement.

“Wow,” she said. “You really do like that idea.”

We didn’t finish that conversation, because we were too occupied with other things.

3: CHANGE OF PLANS

We fell asleep after that, and when we woke up it was about 9 pm and Joe and Brandy were in their suite. It was impossible to know if they had guests over or not, so Claudia and I giggled as we tried to figure out how to cook something in the kitchen, which was surprisingly convoluted considering that the boat could almost sail itself. Claudia lay on the couch on the deck while I hopped over to the marina bar and obtained some take-out sandwiches for us.

It was a beautiful night, yet again, and pretty fun lounging around on the deck with Claudia. We found the hammock and giggled some more trying to string it up, found some beers and took a break to drink them, and then figured it out on the next round. Then we swung in the hammock as we watched the stars, which were glorious. We were both asleep again in no time.

I woke up because I was cold as hell. I wrangled myself free of the hammock and looked around for some blankets. I finally had to drag the covers from our room upstairs, but I never got back to sleep after snuggling back in. By then it was dawn and seagulls had begun screeching away for the marina to get busy dispensing their breakfast.

Joe hopped onto the deck and waved good morning to us, then offered to make us some coffee.

We drank it in the hammock while Joe hopped around on the boat, performing a weekly check of the automated systems, the winches and the cleats of his boat. I snuggled with Claudia, our feet hanging off the hammock, and thought about how it was the perfect day so far. The vacation couldn't have been going any better than it was: my wife was aroused and wanted to have sex all the time, she liked the boat, and I was on my way to a better love life, maybe even a sexual fantasy, and at the very least a rekindling of our marriage – which like anyone's had gotten a little stale. I was almost 100% I was going to have her blessing to get my own boat, and that she would join me enthusiastically in adventures on the -

“FUCK!”

Joe yelled from the bow, and it was no ordinary yell from a man like Joe. Not an “I’ve fucked something up” or “something is out of place” yell.

This was a “kicked in the balls” yell.

I leaned forward to get out of the hammock, which we were sitting in facing the stern. When I looked back at the bow of the boat, Joe was nowhere to be seen.

That’s when I started to put together all the seconds before, and remembered the slight movement of the yacht right before he yelled...

I made my way quickly to the bow and looked over the edge.

Joe was on the dock, and the sight was horrifying. “Shit,” I said.

His leg was clearly broken. The femur. His face had already gone white with shock and another awful yell was building up from behind his anguished features. “God DAMMIT! FUCK!” he screamed.

I looked back at the hammock. “Get Brandy!” I yelled at Claudia. My logic had taken several leaps: I didn’t know what the emergency number was here, and I didn’t have a phone. Brandy was actually pretty boat-savvy and good in stressful situations, and she surely had some idea.

Just then, someone in a marina uniform came running down the dock. “He needs a doctor!” I said. I climbed over the pulpit, and that’s when I realized what must have happened to him – he either fell or stepped wrong off the bow.

I looked back down at his leg and then paused, taking my time to make sure I didn’t end up with the same fate. His leg was twisted at such a terrible angle – no bone protruding but it was somehow warped and obviously broken. I felt queasy for a second and then I closed my eyes and pulled my shit together.

“Call 911!” I repeated. “He needs an ambulance.”

I dropped onto the deck and crouched by Joe, who was hyperventilating now.

“Joe, buddy,” I said, gripping his shoulder. “Look at me. You gotta calm down.”

Joe just yelled, loudly.

It seemed like forever, while a small crowd grew and I tried to talk Joe into calming down because I had no idea what kind of first aid to administer to a person with a broken femur. Brandy came and held his hand, and then a man pushed through claiming to be a doctor so we all backed off.

He was assessing the injury when the paramedics arrived – in the end, they came quite quickly, even though it seemed like hours as Joe sat there growing pale and yelling in absolute agony. They gave him some morphine and then they told him they were going to straighten his leg.

And that, ladies and gentlemen, is part of the story you don't even want to hear about.

They packed him up and the ambulance left with Brandy in it. "I'll call you.." she said vaguely.

We watched them leave.

"What the hell happened?" Claudia said. "Jesus."

"I think he just... stepped off the boat wrong..." I looked up at the bow. Claudia followed my gaze, and so did the onlookers who remained on the dock.

The small crowd degenerated into tales of medical trauma, and so Claudia and I listened for a bit and then faded away aft to board the boat. We sat down, stunned, on a seat in the navigation area.

"I can't fucking believe it," Claudia said.

"Me either."

"What do we do?" she asked. She looked around. "I mean... I guess we just wait, right? To hear from Brandy? Or do we go to the hospital?"

My phone rang some time after that. It was Brandy.

She sounded pretty shaken.

"He's in radiology right now," she said. "I don't... no one can tell me anything – excuse me, excuse me, nurse?" Brandy interrupted herself to ask the nurse where radiology was. She breathed back into the phone. "I don't...."

"Do you need us to come down there?" I offered.

Brandy paused. She seemed ready to cry. "I don't... you know, can you get the, I forgot his insurance stuff, can you get it and bring it down here?"

"Can do," I said, trying to be cheerful. "I'll just... where is it?"

"It's, um... gosh, I think it's in our room under the – sorry? Yeah, just a second – I have to go now, it's in our room in the brown bag, I think, I'll... I'll text you in a bit or, you do that if you don't find it..."

There was lot of talking on the other end of the phone, and Brandy was confused as she was confusing.

"What hospital?" I said.

"There's...what? There's only one," she said. "I have to go."

"Shit," I said, pocketing my phone.

Claudia looked worried. “Well... let’s go. She stood up and headed to the deck.

We got dressed quickly – Claudia in a white sundress that looked stunning on her, cutting sharply between her breasts and quite short. I wanted to complement her but it didn’t seem like the right time.

I found Greg’s insurance cards in the brown bag, exactly as Brandy had said.

We walked quickly to the information center at the marina and asked how best to get to the hospital. The attendant called us a cab and we headed into the town in the heat.

The simple beauty of the island near the marina soon gave way to the stark reality of Caribbean living: heat swelled up around us as we headed inland, the buildings deteriorated, evidence of hurricanes cropped up in piles in abandoned lots. There was a whole reality in which people had to actually live their lives.

The sight of it was jarring. Luckily it was only about seven minutes to the hospital.

We found Brandy in a waiting room, who was relieved to see us but still had no information.

Then we waited for about two hours.

Brandy leaned on her knee and let out a sigh. “Guys,” she said. “It’s awesome of you, but you don’t have to wait here. Why don’t you go back, have some lunch, and I’ll call?”

“No,” Claudia said, though her voice betrayed her desire to do exactly that. “We couldn’t -”

“No really,” Brandy said. “Joe wouldn’t want you sitting around here. Go – make sure the boat’s okay, and maybe pay up for a few days extra at the marina?”

So we went back at her insistence, and then I decided to take her some lunch. “You should stay here,” I told Claudia. “I think Joe would feel pretty bad about ruining your vacation. I’ll be right back. There’s nothing you can do, anyway.”

Claudia was torn. Hospitals gave her the willies, but she didn’t want to be a jerk.

I smiled. “Joe wouldn’t sit around waiting for you,” I said. “He’d squeeze in a dive or something.”

Which was true.

This seemed to console her, so she agreed to stay and pay the marina, get some groceries, and tidy up the boat for his return.

When I got to the hospital, Brandy was nowhere to be found. I sat down in the waiting room, which had burgeoned with locals in the time we'd been gone, and I sent her text.

After about ten minutes she came down a hallway and scanned the room. I held up my hand and she came over to me, hurrying. She seemed flustered.

"What's up?" I said. I held the Tupperware contained with a sandwich and salad out to her. "We made you some lunch."

"Thanks," she said, pushing her hair from her face. She set it aside and shook her head. "I can't eat."

"What's going on?" I said.

She exhaled and blew her hair from her face. "It's a really bad break," she said. Her eyes were getting teary. "He needs surgery. They can't do it here. They're getting a med evac going and getting him prepped."

"What?" I said. "You have to be kidding!"

She shook her head. "I, um... there are so many things to do. I have to -"

"Is he up? Can I talk to him?" I interrupted.

Brandy shrugged. "Not now. He's pretty out of it. They can't set the bone without a vascular surgeon or something." She took out her phone and answered it.

"Yes. Oh, thank God, thank you for calling me."

She pushed her hair away from her face as she listened to whoever was on the other line.

"Oh," she said, finally. "Jack, Jesus, thank you... what else do I need to -"

Brandy looked more relieved with each passing second. She held her hand to her heart. "Thank you. Oh, wow, thank you so much... that's, above and beyond. We... well, you know we'll make it good with you in Nassau. Thank you, Jack."

"Who was that?" I asked, when she held the phone silently, staring at the screen.

Brandy shook her head. She looked noticeably less tense. "These are some guys we hire sometimes to sail our boat. They called right back, they're going to do it, and they booked, or, got a flight for me and everything on a cargo plane that will leave whenever I want to go so I can get there at the same time as Joe."

Oh yeah. The boat. There were so many details that were falling out of the sky on us.

"What do you need us to do? Should we go back to Nassau?"

Brandy looked at me. "God. You won't believe this, but just before Joe got knocked out by the fucking morphine, do you know what he was saying?" She laughed, and wiped a tear from her eye. "Not, 'I love you baby,' or anything like that. He said, 'Make sure Claudia and Mike stay for the whole trip. Mike needs to get that boat.'"

She employed a deep voice to imitate Joe.

What a guy.

"That's... no, we should just go back with -"

Brandy held up a finger. "No. I'm serious, this is what he said. Twice. So no doubt you have to do it."

"But..."

"Look, this crew is just two guys. They can run the boat themselves, if, you know, anything comes up. Actually, Jack could sail that boat himself..." she got caught up in her own thoughts for a moment. "But, basically, anyway... you guys have fun, stay on the boat while they take it back, and that way you only lose a few days off the trip, and we'll all have a good laugh about this in Nassau."

I frowned. "I don't know, Brandy, it's seems sort of shitty-"

"Nah," she said. Then she smiled. "He wouldn't have cut his trip short for you, you can bet on that," she said.

I smiled. "True enough."

So I sat down with her while she ate and gave me the details of her arrangements.

Claudia was on the deck in her suit when I got back to the marina. There were quite a few guys on their own boats who were unabashedly admiring the view.

And from the way that Claudia had oiled herself up and spread her hair out like a halo behind her, she knew it, too.

I took a moment to admire my wife. Her skin had acquired a faint golden tan in a few days of sun, and the natural blonde highlights in her hair were brighter, giving her hair a very surfer-girl kind of look. Her stomach was flat when she was lying down, and the line of muscle of her thigh revealed that her workouts were paying off. She had one leg up, and the black fabric was snug against her bare pussy, a soft mound hinting at the shape of her cunt. It barely covered her breasts, and she had taken the straps down – though she was not quite brazen enough to take the whole top off.

Brandy would have. She did it all the time.

I looked at an older man who was staring openly at her over the deck of his own boat.

I could see he wished Claudia would take it off.

“Stepping on,” I said loudly, though the boat was so big it barely shifted with my weight.

Claudia didn’t stir, other than to lift a hand above her and give me a faint wave.

I went to the deck and stood next to her, admiring the view, my hand on a shroud.

Claudia stretched out. “Oh, I was having the nicest daydream,” she murmured.

“Bad news,” I said, after letting a few perverse thoughts go through my head. “Joe’s gotta get flown back to the US for a surgery.”

Claudia sat up. A light scarf she had placed on her face slid off. “What?” she said. “It’s that bad?”

“It’s a bad break,” I said. “Complicated.”

Claudia frowned. “Jeez. It was such a... what a crazy accident.” She frowned. “Poor Joe. When is he leaving?”

“Soon as they get a med evac ready.”

“God,” Claudia said. She shook her head. Then she squinted up at me. “So... what’s he going to do about the boat?”

“Well, he said he has a temporary crew that can get it back to Nassau,” I said. I folded my arms over my chest. “Thing is, he’s asked me to go along.”

Claudia shrugged. “Can’t you just sail it back there?”

My wife. Still totally clueless about sailing.

I smiled. “I could. If everything went perfectly. But nothing ever does, and if anything breaks, this is impossible to sail solo.”

She frowned again. “This is really a bummer.”

I sat down next to her and picked up a foot. I started to massaged the high arch. "I don't know," I said. "I think we can find a way to have fun."

She propped herself up on her elbows when she leaned back. Her bikini was peeling away from her nipples, and a thumbnail of her areola was peeking out from the top of the fabric. "Oh you do, do you?"

I pressed hard into the sole of her foot, and her eyelids dropped a little in pleasure.

"I do," I said.

She reclined and spread her hair out behind her again.

"You better watch out," I said. "There are a lot of men staring at you."

Her jaw fell open, and she gave me such a serious look of shock that for a moment I thought she was serious. "There are?" she said. Then she fanned herself. "Well, I'll be."

I had no idea how to react to this, so I just sat there looking at her with what felt like a very stupid expression on my face. It was halfway between a smile and a look of concern for someone who has hit her head.

"Don't you feel a little bad... or, should we feel bad about just... going on without him?" she said.

I shrugged. "Brandy herself said he wouldn't wait for us," I said. "And apparently it was his last wish before they knocked him out with morphine to set the bone for travel."

Claudia shook her head and grinned. "What a guy," she said. Then she lifted her other foot so that I could massage it as well. "Well," she murmured. "We might as well make the best of it."

And indeed we would.

“Mr. Holt?”

My stomach dropped through my groin as I looked at the man standing on the deck, who I knew, without introduction, was “Jack” Galette. Brandy had quickly contacted the crew who would come to assist us, and they were going to be there the next morning.

And here he was: Jack.

He had his hand up over his eyes to shade them. Bulky muscle in the arms and calves on an athletic build, the stance of a seafarer, legs apart slightly, ready to move quickly. He was tall, impeccably dressed in an immaculately white polo shirt and navy shorts.

His skin, beneath the shirt, was such a dark shade of black that it almost looked like coal.

I dropped onto the dock, and he towered about a head over me. I’m a fairly tall guy – 6’1 – so this very, very black gentleman must have been about 6’6.”

I extended my hand. “I’m Mike,” I said.

My hand was in his grip – a strong grip, one solid shake, and no weird shenanigans – as he pressed his lips together and then said, in a very light Caribbean accent, “I’m Jack Gillette. Mr. Joe sent me to get the boat back to Nassau.”

“Great,” I said.

In reality, my insides were doing catapults and cartwheels, and I couldn’t get my mind to focus on anything but the man’s enormous hands and his long, muscular limbs.

And what they would look like next to my wife’s skin.

But I kept it together.

“I thought you had -”

“One more crew member, yes sir.” He pointed to the marina, where a man was approaching with a heavy container on his shoulder. This man was lighter-skinned, more Hispanic-looking than black, and he was dressed in the same spotless white shirt and navy shorts. “That’s Mr. Ricardo Sandoval.”

The dark man squinted at the boat. “May I come aboard?” he said. His English was fairly unnatural-sounding, so I suspected he didn’t actually speak it.

“Uh... yeah, yes, of course, let me just...” I hopped onto the boat. “Let me just tell my wife you’re here.”

I was looking at him as I said this, and maybe hoping to see some flicker of interest in his face.

But his countenance remained professional, scowling slightly into the bright sun. “Yes, yes, of course,” he said.

I nodded and dropped down through the hatchway, my heart pounding.

“Claude,” I said, hurrying to the state room, where Claudia was stepping into her bikini. “Claude, the crew is here.”

She pulled the bikini bottom up quickly over her hips, and looked up at the sunroof in alarm.

“They’re not on the boat yet,” I said. “They’re.. uh... just out there.”

Claudia was looking at me strangely. My heart was beating wildly in my chest.

“You okay?” she said. She squinted at me.

I scratched my head. “Yeah. Okay. Yeah... just...”

She made a strange face. “Okay... well...” she looked around and found a cover-up. She pulled it over head. “Let’s go... meet the new crew.”

I followed Claudia through the hatchway. Underneath my skin an excitement tingled, but there was also a strange nervousness, kind of like a first date.

I stood behind her as Claudia shook hands, first with Jack, then with Ricardo. I savored the sight of the man’s big paw enclosing her small hand, of the firm, veined muscle of his forearm, three times as thick as hers, as he gave her a gentle shake.

They were both wearing sunglasses, so it was impossible to see where their eyes were. But I noticed – or I thought I noticed – Claudia’s body shifting a little. She stood up straighter, she thrust out her breasts a little. She gave her hair a toss and she smiled brightly.

“Well... I... I don’t know what to do,” she said. “Can we... stay on the boat? Will I be in your way on the deck over there?”

Jack paused for a moment, during which time I could only imagine that he was looking her up and down behind his sunglasses. “Oh,” he said.

“Mr. Joe told me you were going to be my first mate.”

And then a lick of his lips, and a smile.

Claudia opened her mouth to protest that she didn't know how to sail, and then she got the joke and laughed appreciatively instead.

Arousal clawed at my lower abdomen. How appreciatively was she laughing? It seemed to me to be very appreciatively.

“Okay,” Claudia said. “Well... I'll be over there if anyone needs me.”

And there was a pause, as the two of them looked at each other. A moment that was, deliciously, just a little too long.

My hopes soared.

My wife trotted away and stretched out on the striped lounge chair on the deck.

“You know what you're doing, man?” Jack said, turning to me.

Ah, the possibilities embedded in this question.

As much as I liked to pretend, Jack really was just asking me about the boat. I nodded.

“Great, can you rig the sails? I've got to check the other things.”

He disappeared through the hatchway. Ricardo was already at work on something aft.

I looked at my wife on the deck, her lean body glowing in the sun. I wished I could ask her what she was thinking, or pry open her mind and find out if Jack Gillette had sent the kind of shivers through her body that I hoped he had.

In the beginning, though, it seemed like I was alone in my fantasy. Jack was all business, and he was a solid sailor. In fact, he likely could have sailed the boat himself, and he certainly didn't need both me and Ricardo to run around trimming sails.

We sailed to Freetown, a short hop especially with the good wind. Claudia spent the day on the deck, flipping from her back to her stomach, reading a book and snoozing. She did not seem to be paying much attention to Jack, and he didn't seem to be paying her much attention either.

Disappointing.

I plopped down on the deck after a while.

Claudia lifted her sunglasses. “Hey there,” she said. “I thought you had to do sailor stuff all day.”

I squinted at the navigation area. “It’s all pretty automated. I’m just backup. I’m starting to think Joe just wanted us to come along so we could finish our trip,” I said. “Anyway. You need sunscreen.”

I pressed on her leg and a white mark stained her thigh.

“Jesus,” she said. She dove under the lounge chair and retrieved a bottle of sunscreen.

She dumped it into her palm, and then she surprised me by letting out a sexual “Oh!” She fluttered her eyes up to me. “It’s so hot,” she said. “Feel it.”

I dipped my finger into the white cream, and indeed it was hot, which was very arousing for some reason I can’t explain.

Claudia started on her arms, rubbing the lotion over them. But then she made a real show of rubbing the creamy sunscreen into her chest. Her fingers dipped into her bikini, and she rubbed and rubbed the sunscreen into her skin. Her hands were inside her bikini top, massaging her own tits, for far longer than it would have appeared to have taken her to rub the sunscreen in. She tilted her head back and ran one hand over her chest and up her throat.

She dropped her head and stretched her legs out. “Will you get my legs?” she said. “And my back? I really get so lazy about my legs.”

I stared at her. This was not, in any way, factually true. One, Claudia did not get lazy. Two, to my knowledge, she had never departed the planet of “Totally Insane and Anal Retentive About Sunscreen.”

Lastly, I had never been asked to “get her legs.”

So something was up.

She smeared the big glob of sunscreen into my palm, not waiting for my reply.

I started, happily, at her feet. I smeared the white cream along the length of her calf, and then I began massaging it in at the sole of her foot, then her ankle, then her calf. I moved up, my hands greasy and slippery on her toned thigh.

And all the while, I couldn’t help thinking – and hoping – that Jack Gillette was watching and enjoying the show. Hoping that the show was making him think about getting Claudia’s legs in his own hands.

And hoping that Claudia was thinking the same thing.

When my fingers reached the top of Claudia’s thigh, I slid my fingertips along the hem of the bikini, lightly enough that I gave her shivers.

It was a little obscene for a semi-private setting, but she didn't move away.

I took it as an invitation to do more.

I didn't look around to see where Jack and Ricardo were – I could only hope that they were watching.

My heart beat with the fear that any second, Claudia would jump or slap my hand away and tell me to stop. But as my fingers moved along the sweet, smooth inner crease of her thigh, she just parted her legs a little more, slowly.

I hooked my pointer finger under her suit, and tugged on it lightly. "I have to make sure I get under the straps," I mumbled.

Claudia had to know that I was pulling her bikini away from her skin so much that someone would get a glimpse of her pussy if he was at the right angle. She had to know because I used my other hand to lewdly rub the sunscreen in all over her gash, my fingers moving all over her shaved cunt.

My cock was getting so hard thinking about how she was just lying there, letting me do this in full view of our crew, who were practically strangers.

Dark, beautiful strangers.

I let her bikini snap back to her skin. She had a faint smile on her lips – faint and mysterious.

I traveled over her torso, rubbing the lotion in and under her bikini top the same way. My breath was shaking as I pictured the black captain looking out from the shaded navigation area to see my hands cupping my wife's breasts in broad daylight. Under those navy shorts, was his cock getting hard thinking about doing the same.

And how could I let him know it was okay by me?

Claudia's nipples were hard under my palms, which only turned me on more.

Then she flipped over, and I began the whole delicious thing again. My fingers slipped through the crack of her bottom as I reached from both sides under the back of her bikini. I spent a great deal longer than necessary rubbing and rubbing the lotion into her skin, daydreaming that Jack was watching.

Imagining that Claudia was hoping and dreaming about the same thing.

I slid my finger along her panties as I headed back down to her legs, and as I passed in the center of her bikini, I found that the center of her bottoms was damp. I brought my fingers to my nose to confirm that it wasn't sunscreen. The sweet smell of Claudia's excitement reached my nose long before my fingers got close.

"Hmm," I said.

Ordinarily this was the kind of thing that would make Claudia roll her eyes at me or sit up suddenly and look around, scandalized.

Instead, she lifted her feet and kicked them playfully. "Hmm," she said, imitating my tone. She turned her head away and rested it on her arms.

Hmm.

I looked around. It was a painfully bright day on the water: the sky was clear above us and the sun was strong and nearly above us in the sky. The white of Joe's spotless yacht glared. So it wasn't difficult to find Jack: his dark skin stood out against the mainsail. He was leaning against a shroud, his head turned slightly toward the nothingness in the water.

If he looked in our direction, he probably wouldn't be able to see my hands, or anything but Claudia's feet as they kicked back and forth.

Ricardo doubtlessly had the wheel, which meant he wouldn't see if...

I slid my fingers back up along the length of Claudia's thigh. Under the fabric of her panties.

As my fingertips dipped into the hot moisture between her legs, exploring the softness of her pussy until I found her clit, I had to wonder what it was that had Claudia so hotted up.

I slid my finger along the face of her little button, and her kicking legs slowed, until finally she rested one heel nearly against her round bottom, and the other she extended behind her to the end of the chair.

I watched as her excitement built beneath her skin. Her pussy began to overflow onto my fingers, and her mouth opened with a little gasp. She raised her ass just a tiny bit as she neared her orgasm, but other than that she did not move.

When she came, she let out a little gasp and her whole body shook. The leg perched over her bottom jerked back and forth involuntarily, and I grabbed it and sucked her big toe into my mouth.

This was too much for her and she twisted beneath me, turning her head back and raising up on her arms. "Mike!" she said.

As all of this was happening, I saw a shadow moving over the white edges of the deck, and then the teak deck area itself. Without looking up, I knew it was Jack. I let Claudia's toe go, and I very slowly slid my hand out from under her panties.

When I looked up, he was standing less than a few feet away, and he was looking right at us as though he had been looking all along. His face was calm and serious, and though I couldn't be sure, I believed he had seen the very last of what I was doing to my wife.

So much the better.

Claudia whipped her head around when she became aware I was looking at something.

When she saw it was Jack she sat up very quickly, pulling a towel up with her – looking, ultimately, much more guilty of doing something sexual than if she had just lain there.

“Jack,” she said. “Hi. Are we... are we on track to get to the cay?”

I smiled beneath my calm expression. Was my wife... getting flustered? She was acting almost as though she had gotten caught.

“Everytin’ is on track. I’m coming to see if you want us to catch some fish for lunch.”

“Fish,” Claudia babbled. “Fish, yeah, fish sounds...” she turned her head to look at me, as though whether or not we should have fish was the most important question of the day. Jack met my eye, and I couldn't say what he was thinking, exactly. Claudia adjusted her towel again, laying it out on the lounge chair as if that's what she had meant to do with it all along.

I could still smell her pussy. She had really soaked her bikini with her orgasm, and her scent was on my fingers.

“Fish sounds... good, I don't know... what do you think?” She continued. She turned back to Jack. “I.. do you have fishing poles, and stuff?”

Jack smiled. “I’m going to catch them with my bare hands,” he said, swooping his big hands through the air and making a fist.

Claudia relaxed a little with the joke. “Right,” she said. She laughed at herself, and regained some of her composure. “Okay... well...”

“There's a grill,” I offered helpfully, pointing at a storage box tucked under the seats on the deck.

“Great,” Jack said, clapping his hands together and rubbing them. His legs flexed as the boat heeled heavily, but he was such a seaman that he could reach casually for a shroud to steady himself. Claudia gripped the chair and I pushed against my feet.

Jack called to Ricardo and said something that sounded like Spanish, heading back to the cockpit.

I swatted Claudia playfully when the boat slowed and the heel subsided. “What was that?” I asked.

It’s important to note that my ordinary Claudia, the Claudia before this trip, would have been more embarrassed about herself (and probably wouldn’t have even acted like that).

But this Claudia spread her towel out and stretched out, face up, on the lounge chair, her sunglasses covering her eyes again. She had a little smile on her lips as she rolled her shoulders to get into a good place.

“I don’t know,” she said mysteriously.

There’s no point in explaining that I was hard as a rock at this point, and I wanted to take Claudia downstairs (or take Claudia right there on the lounge chair), but at the same time it was almost better having to sit there, unsatisfied, while Claudia sunbathed with that little smile on her face.

Jack returned in about fifteen minutes and asked me if I was up for taking command of the boat while he took command of fishing.

“And what about you, Miss Claudia? You want to do some fishing?”

This was a no-brainer, but before he even finished his sentence, I could see where it was going. Claudia had flipped over onto her stomach again, and she was propped up on her arms now, her back arched so that she was a very statuesque succession of curves: round breasts against the lounge chair, sweeping back, the swell of her bottom. Her bikini, conveniently enough, had ridden up on one side, exposing nearly all of one of her buttocks, and there was no mistaking that Jack’s eyes swept over it quickly.

Claudia, for the record, hates fishing and all sports, but fishing most of all. Or better stated, she had negative interest in fishing.

She slid her sunglasses from her eyes and let her feet kick playfully behind her as she “contemplated” the question.

“Yeah,” she said, and I felt a stab of pleasurable jealousy through my heart. “Sure, why not?”

Then she sat up, flipped her feet around in my direction, gave me a wink, and pulled her cover-up over her head.

Jack gave me a smile. “Rick is waiting for you to take over the boat,” he said.

And then he smiled broadly at my wife and they headed back to the aft deck, where he had some fishing poles set up.

I followed them to mid-deck, where the navigation area was. Ricardo nodded at me, and handed me the wheel. He said something that I could not discern in Spanish but which I assumed was the standard line, which hardly mattered in a fully automated boat, and I nodded back.

Joe’s boat was so automated – the sails could be operated from the navigation area – that really one person could, conceivably, pilot the ship himself, although it was inadvisable, with the various problems that could and almost always did arise with a sailboat. It wasn’t really my kind of sailing, any more than driving a huge automatic vehicle was my kind of driving, but it certainly was amazing.

My mind, though, was not on sailing for long. Before long, my neck began to itch just thinking of what was undoubtedly going on behind me, with my wife and Jack.

I checked all the instruments and made sure we were well clear of any other boats. There were a few small boats portside, but they were motorized yachts and headed in the other direction as far as I could tell. We were a good distance from the shore of a small island.

I gave a glance behind me at the cockpit.

They had gotten right into it, and the sight was better than I expected: Claudia was holding a pole in one of the seats, between her legs, in a position that suggested exactly what I wanted it to suggest. She had both hands around it, and Jack was close to her, one hand on her back, one hand on the pole with hers.

I savored the sight and looked back out the windscreen of the control room. I checked everything again: boats, heading, speed, depth of water. It wouldn’t do to wreck Joe’s sailboat because I was watching a black man go fishing with my wife.

When I turned back again, the scene had changed slightly.

To my delight, Jack still had his hand on Claudia’s back. The other hand on the pole, and his mouth very close to her jawline as he explained something to her.

All in the name of sport.

Claudia was speaking now; I saw her jawline move and the profile of her face as she smiled.

They were remarkably close to each other, remarkably comfortable.

It would have been almost nothing for Jack to take his hand and slide it up the pole between Claudia's legs. He could pretend his hand slipped, and slide it right up against the black triangle of bikini that covered her bare pussy.

He leaned closer to her. His muscled torso was against Claudia's arm and part of her back now. She could surely feel the shape of his body against her, through his starched white shirt.

I had to tear my eyes away to look back at what I was doing.

As I had been sitting there mesmerized by my wife and Jack, a ship had appeared out of seemingly nowhere, starboard side. Another sailboat, coming closer.

I quickly made an announcement that we were tacking and started to set up the boat for a tack – no small feat with all the sails and the unfamiliar controls.

Ricardo appeared at the starboard door. "Help?" he said. "And... Mr. Gillette he say, you slow please." He made the sign of a fishing rod being reeled.

"Uh..." I said. I beckoned Ricardo into the control room to help me out.

I pretended to pay attention, while Ricardo jabbered in Spanish about the controls, but I stood at an angle so that I could see out the back window of the room to what Jack was doing with my wife.

Now they had a big fish, and the boat was slowing so they could reel it in. Jack was standing behind Claudia, the full front of his body pressed against her backside, the whole length of my wife's curves against him. His strong arms encircled her, and he was holding the pole with her, pulling it back, letting it out, so she could reel in whatever they had caught.

I saw the flapping fins of the fish, and then Jack jerked it from the water. Claudia jumped, and he had to steady her as the big fish flopped onto the deck and she squealed and laughed and tried to get away from it.

In an epic display of masculinity, Jack slid his arm around my wife, consoled her, and then pounced on the fish to hold it down as it flapped its huge body to its death out of water.

I watched, fascinated. My wife was definitely flirting with Jack....

The fish they had caught was a Wahoo, which didn't mean a ton to me as I wasn't much of a fisherman.

"It's very good to eat," Jack assured us. "I can grill it up, and it will make a delicious meal."

Claudia's face was still flushed with excitement. "Oh, thank you, Jack. I don't.. have any idea how to.. you know, cook it."

Within seconds Jack had a knife out and he was slicing the fish up and tossing the guts into the water.

"Are we allowed to eat the fish here?" I said, and instantly regretted sounding like such a rule-abiding dork.

Jack looked up at me, his big pocketknife embedded in the fish's guts. He smiled. "This is the Caribbean, Mr. Holt. You can do whatever you want." These final words weren't necessarily sinister, but they were pregnant with possibility, and he looked over at Claudia with a smile after he said them. He grinned at the fish and continued to cut. "Go, you two, I'll grill this up and bring it to you on the deck."

"Thanks, Jack," Claudia gushed. She turned toward the deck, and then halted abruptly and, in a hum of nervous, adolescent-like activity, babbled: "Thanks again, that was, it is...that was so much fun!"

I started back toward the deck and Claudia followed me. When we were safely in the shadow of the control room I turned back to her. "So... that was some pretty athletic fishing," I said.

"It was fun," Claudia said, feigning innocence.

"Jack is pretty strong," I pressed.

Claudia slid onto a couch and stretched out. "He is," she said, seductively.

She let this entrance me for a moment, but then she broke up into laughter. "Stop it," she said. "That fish was really... strong."

"I didn't realize your were so into fishing."

Claudia smiled and put a hand to her cheek. "I'm not into fishing," she said coyly, and my cock twitched to life. Claudia smiled and put a scarf over her face as she relaxed in the sun, a few glistening drops of sweat between her breasts.

Jack appeared with the grilled fish after about half an hour, making short work of gutting it and getting it grilled.

“Wait,” Claudia said, when he dropped off a steaming plate of the fish and Ricardo deposited two plates and silverware on the table for us. “You’re not having some with us?” she said.

Jack hooked his finger aft. “I thought we would eat in the cockpit,” he said. He smiled.

“Oh, no... you should eat with us,” Claudia said. “Yeah, yeah, have lunch with us, Jack.”

Jack looked unsure.

“I insist,” she said. She looked quickly to me.

“Yeah,” I said. “Please. Come and eat with us.”

“Okay,” Jack said, still a little uncertain. “I’ll go and get some plates and our fish.”

Claudia and I exchanged looks once he left.

This was fun, this shared complicity with Claudia, but I couldn’t help feeling a little agonized by not knowing how seriously she was taking it. We’d had that conversation, after all, and so I knew Claudia was being game and flirting with Jack to give me a little thrill.

But for some reason, this ached even more than if Claudia had outright rejected the idea. It was like I was going to have just a taste of what I wanted, and then have to endure the pain of never getting it.

Or was I? I couldn’t tell. Claudia was really taking things to a new level.

She looked over at me and arranged her hair, and then reached into her Bikini to arrange her breasts perfectly within the fabric. “How do I look?” she mouthed.

Jack was already back, with the silent Ricardo in tow. Claudia smiled at them – Jack first, and scooted over on the couch and patted the seat. “Here, Jack, you can sit by me.”

Jack looked over at me for my reaction. The couch Claudia was on was a small two-seater, and this invite was definitely approaching the line of inappropriate.

I smiled at him and extended my hand in that direction. “Have a seat, man.”

He shrugged and did as we asked, and when he sat down Claudia made no effort to make more room for him. His heavy thigh was against her leg, and while his shorts came to mid-thigh, there was a large patch of his black skin against hers. His muscled bicep was touching her arm.

It would have been so easy for him to put his hand on her knee. I imagined it there, covering her white thigh, slowly creeping up the length of her leg.

I leaned forward on my elbows to hide the mild erection I was getting.

“So, Jack,” I said. “Do you do this kind of thing all the time?”

Fairly lame, but Jack seemed to welcome the question. “You know, I make a very good living doing this? Mr. Joe can sail his own boat but you’d be surprised how many guys come down here and have a boat they can’t sail, or they can’t sail in the bad weather. Sometimes I bring a boat from Europe, that kind of thing.”

“From Europe?” Claudia said, a little too breathlessly to be realistic. “Isn’t that dangerous?”

Jack took this moment to break into Spanish, which he seemed to be very, very fluent in, to say something to Ricardo, who laughed and made what sounded like a wry joke before digging into his fish. He was eating a bit like an animal, and now that he was seated next to me I was impressed by the full size of the man.

“Ricardo says he only sailed hurricanes when he became a sailor,” Jack said. “Crossing the ocean is nothing for him.”

“Still...” Claudia said. “Do you go to Europe while you’re there?”

“Oh yes,” Jack said.

“I like the beaches,” he added with a smile.

“You have such an interesting life,” Claudia mused, either not picking up on or choosing to ignore the reference to topless beaches.

“How’d you become a sailor?” Claudia took a delicate nibble of her fish.

“Oh wow,” she said, “this is so delicious.”

Jack smiled at her. “Same way I became such a good cook.”

Claudia raised her eyes to get him to continue while she took another bite of fish, and I’m sure you may find it hard to believe that she was eating some grilled fish sexually, but that’s what she was doing. Her white teeth were nibbling, bared, at the flesh of the fish like she wanted to tease it.

“I am a natural,” Jack said, and he lowered his eyes just a little, along with his voice. It was the kind of smooth-toned, Barry-White kind of thing that would have made my panties wet if I didn't have a cock.

Claudia's chest rose and fell with her attempts to hide her excitement.

There was a very heavy moment between the two of them before he broke it up with a little laugh, and started in on his fish.

The two of them were done in almost no time, and Jack clapped his hands together. "Well, we have to get sailing again if we want to get to port."

I stood up.

"It's all right, Mr. Holt, you relax with your wife."

There was a very short pause, while his eyes went back and forth from me to Claudia.

"Maybe take a nap," he said, smiling.

But there was no doubt in my mind what he was insinuating.

5: DRY RUN

I decided Jack had a good idea, though. I devoured my fish (it was really very good) and then I grabbed the plates and invited Claudia to a “nap.” She smiled, uncrossed her legs, and led the way.

“What’s up with you?” Claudia said, throwing herself onto the bed and reaching for something on the shelves at the head of it. Her swimsuit cover rode up and over her ass, revealing the pleasant shape of her ass in the slightly twisted bottoms. She turned on her side, holding a clock in her hand that she started to set.

“What’s up with me?” I said, smiling. “What’s up with you?”

Claudia smiled. “Whatever do you mean?”

I checked the door to make sure it was locked. I shrugged. “Oh, I don’t know.” I raised my voice an octave and batted my eyelashes. “‘Oh, Jack, it must be so interesting traveling all over the world,’ ‘Oh, Jack, why don’t you eat with us?’ ‘Oh, Jack, it must be so dangerous!’”

I smiled to let her know it was... mostly okay with me.

Claudia rolled her eyes.

“He is good-looking, though,” she said, finally.

My cock, which had been inflating at a slow and steady pace all evening, sort of aching in that half-aroused state, came to full attention.

“Oh, he is, is he?” I said.

Claudia let the clock fall between her legs. Her hand was resting on her thigh. I don’t believe she meant to do something so erotic at that moment, and I scarcely know why it was so erotic, but it was. She had her hand in a fist and she was resting it right between her legs, which had fallen open, almost butterflyed.

“Is he good looking in a way that is better left to the imagination, like... hmm... anal sex? Or is he good-looking in a real way?” I said.

For a moment, I could see all kind of things were going through Claudia’s mind. A faint smile turned her upper lip slightly into a smile, and her eyes seemed to get glazed.

She gave her shoulders a teasing, slight shrug. “I don’t know,” she said. Her voice was quiet, and she looked down at the clock.

Things had suddenly gotten quite serious.

I climbed onto the bed and straddled her, pushing her knees down and her legs through my own. “What do you mean, you don’t know?” I said. Absently, I placed a hand on her stomach and trailed it down, over the bikini-bottom, and right between her legs, where, unmistakably, my fingers felt the sticky wetness of her excited cunt.

“You ever been with a black man?” I asked.

I pushed my thumb against her clit, which was hard enough that I could feel it through her bikini. Her mouth opened a little, and her eyes looked wild and alarmed. “I... no. You know I haven’t.”

But there it was: the tell-tale flush that crept down her lower cheek, a spread of dilating capillaries that told me the truth I wanted to know: was this line of thinking making her flustered?

“But you’ve thought about it,” I said. “Surely?”

I slid my thumb along the hem of her bikini bottom, right between her legs, following the line of with a feathery touch. There was no mistaking the honeyed scent coming from between her legs, or the wetness of the fabric as it grazed my knuckles.

“I...” she started to protest.

“You have,” I said. “I feel pretty sure of it.” I slid my finger under the fabric and into the wet mess of her flooding cunt.

I decided to go for it.

“In fact, I feel pretty sure that you’ve given some thought to our very own captain,” I suggested.

Claudia’s eyes dilated, definitively. She looked scandalized, unsure of what to do. But her body was responding to my touch in quite a different way – much more assured.

I began to stroke her clit, like I had on the deck.

“Mike,” she said, in a whisper. “I don’t think... I don’t know...” Her face was pleading with me, almost like I was torturing some secret from her, but she was pushing her hips toward me, whether she knew it or not.

“He’s a really good-looking guy,” I said. “You said so yourself. So I can understand how you might think about him...” My fingers were closing on her clit now, pinching out the bundle of nerves that would make her squirm. I had a trick that I hadn’t used in a long time, of squeezing her most sensitive skin from the hood of her clit and rubbing the back of my fingernail over it until she started shaking because the pleasure was too intense.

Claudia shuddered underneath me and she gasped. I held her down with the weight of my body. “Maybe you were thinking about him earlier? Maybe you were hoping he was watching you on the deck?”

Claudia’s eyes went wide with alarm, which I took as confirmation.

My cock was practically exploding now. I had gone from mildly aroused to blue-balls aching all afternoon, and now that I finally had her here, admitting (more or less) to daydreaming about the dark, athletic captain, I could hardly keep it together.

“Were you thinking about his cock?” I said, and I felt Claudia’s body stiffen. She turned her head slightly, averting her eyes and chewing a little on her lip. Her cheeks were flushed, but I wasn’t sure if that was out of embarrassment or because I was bringing her close to the edge.

I stopped what I was doing, and felt a ripple of disappointment go through her – she had been very close. I tugged at her bikini bottoms, pulling them down like they were panties. I used my fingers to pry her open, and I slid my cock inside of her. “Were you thinking about him getting his big, black cock inside of you?”

I myself was nearly over the edge, but it surprised the hell out of me that these words, along with my cock in her pussy, sent Claudia immediately into a climax. I think it even surprised her. The idea made its way through her mind, I could see, very quickly: Jack’s veined, thick cock, and the way it would feel inside of her, against her aching clit from the inside out.

Claudia mewled, and closed her eyes, and her pussy throbbed around me, just before I came inside of her.

Claudia was the first to laugh, pressing her hand against my chest. “Oh, my God,” she whispered. “We’re... I can’t believe we’re...” She made another laughing noise.

“We’re like teenagers,” I said, rolling off of her and lying against her side.

Claudia looked at me. She turned to face me. Her expression changed from one of light laughter to slight guilt. “Um,” she said. “I... I was just saying all that because, you know... you seemed turned on by it.”

I propped my head up on my hand. “Too bad,” I said. “I was hoping it was real.”

Claudia gave a sharp laugh, like I had just told a joke. But it quieted down as she kept looking at me, and started to realize I was serious.

“Not really,” she said, her voice much lower than before.

I touched her mouth. “I don’t know. It seems like you’re really turned on by it. Like you’re... more than just curious.”

Claudia’s mouth opened. “And you... what? Are you serious? You don’t mind?”

I put my hand to my forehead and rolled onto to my back. “It’s not that I don’t care. I just... I don’t mind the idea so much...” I sat up and faced her again. “No, scratch that, I think it’s a very hot idea. I like the idea very much.”

Claudia stared at me.

“Of me... having... sex? With a...?” She looked up, and for a moment I was worried that the moment was going to be ruined by her pointing at the ceiling and making me laugh. “With another man? Actually?”

Her tone was disbelieving, but not as shocked as I might have expected it to be.

I moved my shoulders in an acquiescent shrug. “To me it’s really hot. It seems like you’ve been really turned on by it, too. Here, I mean.”

Claudia’s mouth was still open.

“But you’re...” she stopped herself. She rubbed her eye. She sniffed. Her eyes dropped to the bed.

“Am I serious?” I said, finishing her sentence for her, because she could not.

There was a tense moment of silence. On the one hand, I didn’t want to say something here that I might regret: I still wasn’t 100% how Claudia would react.

“I think I am,” I said. “But,” I said quickly, to calm Claudia down, because her mouth was opening in an expression of shock, “I’m only serious if, you know, it’s something you’re into actually trying.”

Claudia’s mouth snapped shut. She played with the fabric of the comforter. “For real,” she said.

I nodded.

Claudia sighed and looked at the wall.

Then she laughed, nervously. She put her hands to her head. Then she shook her head.

“I... no. No, this is too crazy. I mean...”

She looked at me. “Are we actually having this discussion?” she said.

We stared at each other, because we both knew the answer to that question.

“Wouldn’t you get jealous?” she asked, finally.

I thought about this for a moment. “Yeah, I... of course -”

“Because it doesn’t seem like Joe gets jealous,” she said. “Or like, that friend of theirs.” She looked back at me. “I don’t know. I feel like I would get jealous.”

I took her hand. “The thing is, you know... these are two different things. Those guys are swingers.”

Claudia looked at me. “Yea-ha,” she said, like I was an idiot.

“That’s... not really what I’m into.”

She folded her arms. “You just want me to do it?”

I nodded.

“And you wouldn’t get jealous? Or weirded out?”

I paused. “I would. It’s... that’s kind of the thing.”

Claudia looked at me. I could tell she was getting excited. Her breath was rapid, her eyes were dilated.

She wanted this. I could tell.

“How about we say, we’ll try it. One time, with one person?” I said.

I knew I had to take control, make the decision, give her a little push. The kind of push where she still felt like she had a say, but where I was also the one responsible for the idea.

After 15 years of marriage, I knew this was the best tactic with her.

“Just one person,” she said. Excitement lurked in her eyes. “With Jack?”

I smiled as I shrugged, trying to suppress my excitement. “He’s here,” I said, and I worried that my quivering voice would give away that my heart was kicking its way through my chest. “And you’re attracted to him.”

Claudia started to protest, but then she changed her mind. She smiled, blushed a little, and tapped her fingers on her arm.

“Okay,” she said. “Okay... okay, we could try it.”

I stared at her.

“No. No, this is too crazy,” she said.

I reached out and touched her. “It’s not,” I said. “People do it all the time.”

She arched her eyebrows.

“Trust me,” I said. “This would be... this would make me really happy. And... there’s no denying that you’re just a little bit curious... right?”

She shrugged, but her lips also had the same quiver of excitement as my voice.

“So let’s try it.”

She bit her lip.

And then she said the magic word:

“Okay.”

That night I woke up out of a lovely sleep, a very deep one, with the sort of start you have when you have a terrible dream. I sat up, a little disoriented about where I was, thinking I was at home and not finding any of the contours of the dark walls to match where I envisioned myself.

The confusion drained away quickly, as did any memory of the dream, and I slid a hand out to the side to find Claudia’s warm body and enjoy a feel of her soft bottom.

But my hand slid over cool sheets and nothing else.

I looked over at her side of the bed and had another little jolt of panic.

Of course, I thought, lying back down, she was only in the bathroom. Claudia had a lot to drink and she probably felt like I did only worse – a little unsettled and groggy – but also, she probably had to pee.

I closed my eyes, and I started to drift off, expecting Claudia any second, looking forward to feeling her body, toying with the idea of starting something in the middle of the night – why not?

And then I opened my eyes.

A lot of time had gone by, and Claudia still wasn’t back.

I sat up again, listening to the sounds of the boat.

The door-handle turned, and I reclined so that I was lying down with my head on the pillow, an eye on the door. I watched as Claudia crept into the room and tiptoed to bed.

She was so focused on being quiet that she looked at her feet, her eyes wide with that unused-to-the-dark kind of look. When she finally looked at the bed, she practically jumped. She threw her hand against her chest. "Oh! Mike! Jesus!" she said. She climbed into bed and pulled the covers around her. "Why are you staring at me in the dark like a creep?" she whispered.

I rolled toward her and put my head on my hand. "And where have you been?" I said.

I said it suggestively, and I only partly even imagined that there was anything to suggest, but I was thinking that Claudia might have been up to no good, alone on the boat, wandering around at night.

Claudia lay down, and she closed her eyes. That same smile from the deck quivered on her upper lip. "Oh, just... I couldn't sleep. So I went above deck."

"Oh yeah?" I said. "And?"

I fully expected Claudia to tell me to go to sleep.

Instead she turned toward me. "I ran into Jack," she said in a whisper. "He couldn't sleep either."

My cock was throbbing to life.

"No?" I said.

Claudia shook her head. "And so, at first we just talked. And then... you know, since we had that talk, I thought I'd see how far I could take things."

I stared at her.

"So I reached out my hand and put it on his arm, like this," she said.

She dropped her eyes. She rubbed my bicep sensually.

'And?' I prompted.

She fluttered her eyes back up at me. "Promise you won't be mad," she whispered.

My heart leaped.

"You said it was okay," she continued.

Now she actually looked nervous, and my own body was flying. Was she serious?

What had she done?

She waited, and her lips trembled like she was going to say something, but no words came out.

I put my finger on her lips. My senses were on high alert now, seeking the scent of her, scrutinizing her face for traces of wetness, or having been messed up when she sucked on another man's cock.

“What did you do?” I said, my voice trembling. “Tell me, it’s okay.”

“One thing led to another...” Claudia said. “He kissed me, and then he took my hand and put it on his cock.”

An electric ripple traveled down my spine.

“So I... you know... he asked me if I wanted a taste,” Claudia said.

I sucked in my breath.

She looked at me. “Are you mad?”

I took her hand and guided it to my cock, in order to most easily explain what I was feeling. “I’m... why didn’t you wake me up?” I said.

Claudia squeezed my cock. “There was no time, and I thought... you said you wanted this...”

My cock throbbed in her hand.

Claudia’s face changed suddenly and she leaned back, looking at my face. “Are you really okay with that?” she said.

My head spun.

Claudia smiled, leaning toward me. “I didn’t really,” she said.

“Huh?”

She slid down my torso, under the sheets. I lifted them to see her better, and she shrugged them away. She had my cock in her hand and she was placing it against her lips. “I didn’t do any of that,” she said. “Or anything like this.” She licked the crown of my cock, making a circle around the ridge between the shaft and the head.

My balls throbbed. My head was spinning. “What?” I said, stupidly.

Claudia smiled. “I was just sort of... checking. You know, that you mean what you say.”

“You didn’t touch his cock?” I said.

Claudia shook her head. “Not yet.”

Then she took me into her mouth, and kept her eyes on mine as she swallowed the length of my shaft. She gave me the most incredible blowjob she had ever given me, and it was over far too soon because I was so wound up. She even swallowed my cum and licked me clean before rising up to her knees and smiling at me.

She stretched out beside me.

“Wow,” I said finally. “You... had me going there.”

Claudia gave a giggle. “I know,” she said.

A silence filled the room.

Then she turned her head to look up at me. “Do we really want to do this thing?” she said. “You really want to?”

I touched her lips. “I do, if you do.”

She settled back on my chest.

There was a long pause while my heart jumped wildly.

“Let’s do it tomorrow,” Claudia said.

And that was it. That’s how my wife decided to take the plunge.

6: THE REAL THING

The next morning, Claudia was up bright and early, taking a shower. I sat up and wiped the sleep from my eyes, taking a moment to absorb the events of the night before while I listened to the water in the bathroom.

I was about to get up and get in there with her, and already I was anticipating the feel of her body beneath my hands, but the water gave a final loud splash and I was too late.

Claudia opened the door a moment later. “Good morning,” she said.

She kissed me and sat on my lap. “I need to go into town... isn’t there a little town here? With shops?”

“Shopping?” I said, and there was no way to hide the slight annoyance in my voice. I kissed her quickly, though, and turned it into a joke. “Anything for my sweet princess,” I said.

Claudia rolled her eyes. “The reason,” she said, placing her hands on my shoulders and leaned forward to chew on my earlobe, sending a chill through me, ‘is because I need a new swimsuit.” She leaned back and smiled at me. “You stretched that one out. And I thought I would get a new dress. Something... I don’t know, a little sexier than my sundress.”

She grinned when she felt my cock throb under her thigh.

Then she hopped off and moved around the bed to the wardrobe where her clothes were hung neatly. “Hurry, get ready,” she said. “I think it’s a haul to get in there.”

We were moored, also, so we had to take a raft to get in to the island. I hopped out of bed.

“Your wish is my command!”

The town of St. Maria was the typical Caribbean town: a cluster of colonial buildings with storefronts built into them to sell clothing, handbags, and jewelry to all the wealthy women who preferred to spend the day in town than bonefishing on choppy seas with their husbands.

Jack and Ricardo, as a matter of fact, were planning to spend the entire day fly-fishing from the bow of the boat. This was the one time in my life that shopping seemed infinitely better than a day on the water.

I enjoyed walking around with Claudia in the salty Caribbean air, the warm sun on our backs and the excitement between us tingling in our fingertips as we held hands. It had been a long time – such a long time – since that kind of spark had existed between us, since we had held hands and felt really connected. Claudia was light, carefree, excited: she had some of the same energy I remembered in her from long ago.

We were striking out at the cluster of shops, finding only tawdry club dresses or too-innocent sundresses. We took a time out to have a fish dinner at a small hotel with a lovely patio leading down to a pretty beach. Claudia kicked off her shoes and played with my feet under the table.

She was smiling at me.

I wanted to tell Claudia that she was beautiful and dangerously seductive no matter what she wore, but I couldn’t quite find the words. I was so excited about the prospects ahead of us that evening, so enamored of her flirtatious, animated personality and the way it was lighting up her face, that I just smiled.

After our lazy lunch, we tried the last shop.

I found the black dress tucked away among some red lingerie.. I had actually been imagining Claudia in something red, and thinking more about lingerie, so at first I pulled it out to get it out of the way.

The dress had been a little rolled up, and it unfurled when I took it out. The fabric was a strange semi-transparent material that looked transparent with light coming through one side, and then opaque if I held it the other way.

I was playing with the material like this when Claudia saw me. “That’s scandalous,” she said.

But she came over and took the hanger from me and held the dress up.

She replaced it on the rack with a strange smile. “I couldn’t wear that.”

Now that I could see the dress in full, as it hung on the rack, it looked very sexy. The neck hung low, and slits came up on either side of it.

I took it off the rack again. “You know how you were asking me,” I said, holding the dress up against Claudia’s sundress, “how to get the conversation going with Jack?”

Claudia looked down at the dress and made a noise through her nose. “Sure,” she said, pushing it away, “but this is... it wouldn’t look good on me anyway. That’s a dress for models and... I don’t know.”

“This dress is actually very flattering to many women,” said a sales clerk, appearing out of thin air. She was an attractive, almost Asian-looking woman with black hair to the middle of her waist. “You should try it, it’s even your size. Everyone who tries it is always very pleased with it.”

Claudia let her mouth hang open. “Oh, I know it won’t look good,” she said, shaking her head.

The woman smiled and winked at her. “Everyone who bought this dress said the same thing to me. It is like a magical dress. You should give it a try. If I’m wrong you can have twenty-percent off anything else in the store.”

Claudia laughed.

I pushed the dress at her. “Oh, just try it,” I said. “I like twenty percent off.”

The woman smiled, but like someone who knew she had already won the game. The price tag flipped over and I saw that if her gamble paid off, we’d be dropping quite the load of cash here on something that could likely be folded up and tucked into a wallet, but no matter.

Claudia shrugged. “Okay,” she said. “I’ll do it. Just to prove you wrong.”

She trounced away to the changing room.

“Oh my God,” Claudia said from behind the curtain. She sounded truly distressed.

The curtain hooks screeched across the bar as Claudia threw them open. “It is a magic dress,” she said.

My jaw dropped.

The long, slender straps of the dress, which hung by them over her neck like an apron, let the top of the dress fall so that it was just barely clinging to her breasts. A fold of fabric in the middle made a u-shape lower than her sternum, but two criss-crossing straps held the fabric in place – precariously – over her breasts.

Inside the transparent and not-transparent fabric, which shimmered enough to stop all the light from going through it, Claudia’s figure was like a silhouette. It was both tight against her skin and a little loose, and at the bottom, it swung easily and seductively around her legs. The two slits came to the middle of her ass.

If the material had not been very heavy with the weight of the real little chunks of metal sewn into it, the dress might have come across as trashy. Instead, it was incredibly sexy, and Claudia looked perfect in it.

“It’s really expensive,” she said, holding the tag in her fingers. “But it.. I think it looks really good.”

“You look incredibly sexy,” I said.

The sexiest I had ever seen her.

“It’s a magic dress,” said the woman, who appeared from nowhere again, agreed. She folded her arms across her chest. “I can only give you ten percent,” she said.

“We’ll take it,” I agreed.

She winked and turned toward the cash register. I took the opportunity to slide my hands up and under the fabric of the dress. I was searching for her underwear, to slide my finger over the silky fabric before she disappeared into the changing room.

I raised my eyebrows when my fingers kept going and I found nothing but the smooth curves of her pussy lips, a tiny droplet of wetness on the front of them, that smeared as my thumb went over it.

Claudia shrugged, and wriggled free of my hands. “My underwear are white,” she said. “It looked bad.”

She shut the curtain. “Besides,” she said. “That’s how I plan to wear it.”

My gut started to simmer, sending a wave of pleasure through my limbs and my other... extremities.

“Jesus,” I said under my breath.

We shopped around for a little longer, but in the end, we decided there was no real need for anything to highlight the dress. Claudia found an ice-blue swimsuit, and she tried it on for me. It was delightful, and maybe it would have caused an uproar inside of me if I had seen it before the dress, but I couldn’t get the sight of her in the black dress out of my mind.

“We should probably get back,” I said, around four.

Claudia agreed, and we strolled back to where we had left the raft at the marina. Claudia relaxed while I got the boat out and onto the sea. She looked very pretty in the afternoon light, her faint tan against her sundress, which was nothing to sneeze at. I smiled at her.

This was the moment, the one moment, where my heart took a sudden plunge, and not in a good way. Did I really want my sweet wife, the woman who was smiling back at me in her cream-colored sundress, defiled by some stranger? A big, black stranger, who would probably fill her pussy up with so much cock she would never be satisfied by me again? This was a fantasy for me, but would it turn sour if we actually did it?

Who knows what would have happened, if, at that exact moment, Claudia hadn't leaned on her knees to shout at me over the motor. "Before we get there, I think we should have a plan!"

I slowed the motor. "Like what?" I said.

Claudia shrugged. "Like..." she looked out over the water and pushed a stray strand of hair from her face. "Like, I don't know... how are we going to bring it up with him? I don't..." she turned to me and laughed. "I don't know what to say."

And then the black dress flashed through my mind.

Dark, seductive, nearly transparent, barely clinging to her body.

"Just put on that dress," I said, my mind already miles away, envisioning Jack's dark meat filling her up while she gasped, holding her legs open and staring at the disappearing inches of his cock.

Claudia gave me a look.

"Trust me," I said.

"But what if he.. turns us down or something?"

I shook my head. "Oh, Claudia." I revved the motor up and we began to speed along again. "You have no idea how men think," I said.

Claudia rolled her eyes.

I smiled and steered the raft.

Completely unconcerned about getting turned down.

Especially if Claudia wore that dress.

It turned out that our plan came together even more easily than we expected.

"Hey, hey," Jack called from the bow of the ship, where he was sitting on a lawn chair that looked straight out of a 1980's garage sale. "I thought you would never be back! I was starting to worry."

We boarded the ship – Jack following us around the length of the boat, reaching down to help Claudia up the steps.

When she reached the top he smiled at her, and they were very close to each other. “I see you did some shopping,” he said.

Claudia smiled, and the moment simmered for a moment and then it was gone, Jack reached down from the boat. “Hand me some of those bags,” he said.

“Where’s Ricardo?” Claudia said, looking around.

“Oh, Ricardo, he went to town, he likes the bar scene in St. Maria,” Jack said. “I’ve been here by my lonesome all this afternoon.”

I couldn’t believe our luck. I had been wondering how to get Jack separated from Ricardo while we enacted our plan – and while I didn’t have any problem with the big, mute man watching (or even participating) – it definitely seemed like it would be easier for Claudia like this.

Jack lifted the bags nimbly over the lifeline and followed Claudia back to the cockpit. “So, what did you buy?” he said. “New suit? Maybe one of those dresses they make from hemp? Very famous in St. Maria.”

I was up the ladder by then, and I could hear my wife clearly as she turned to him and put a hand on her hip, diving right in. “Do you want to see it?” she said.

And, not waiting for an answer – because even Jack was caught a little off-guard – she popped through the hatchway. “I’ll be right back.”

Jack looked at me, and I smiled.

I could see he was getting the picture, but he still wasn’t 100% certain.

“Hey,” Claudia called. “Can you have some drinks with us, Jack, or are you on duty?”

Jack raised his eyebrows. “I can have a few... we’re moored.” He looked at me.

“Get something going, honey,” Claudia called.

So dutifully, I popped into the cabin, to search for the proper cocktail to have while my wife seduced the ship’s captain.

“What do you think?” Claudia said, stepping through the hatchway and spreading her arms out to show off her dress.

I sipped my drink and watched Jack’s face.

His jaw went slacker the longer he looked at her. I could tell he knew he shouldn't be staring so openly, sliding his gaze all over the exposed curves of Claudia's breasts, the smooth line of her leg where the slit revealed all.

No panties, I noticed.

I was sure that Jack did, too.

He recovered nicely, though, and took a sip of his own drink.

"That's... an amazing dress."

Claudia smiled for him, and then she very daringly stepped forward and placed her hand on Jack's chest. "Thank you," she said, in a voice that would best be described as cloying.

She walked nimbly out and up the steps to the deck. "Let's go sit up here, shall we?"

When I sat down next to her she whispered:

"I'll make the first move, I take it?"

I nodded, staring at my wife with a dumbfounded expression on my face.

We spent a few hours on the deck, with Claudia stretching herself out and moving her legs this way and that as we talked. A good rapport was building, and I was starting to wonder when Claudia would really bait him. I loved that she left it for so long, leaving me to wonder if she would do it at all. I was barely present for the conversation, my mind far away on other things, agonized with anticipation.

The excitement that was building up inside of me required a lot of drinks to tamp down.

Finally, Claudia climbed on her knees and leaned over the back of the couch, letting her dress ride up to just where her bare gash could tantalize Jack (under the pretense of retrieving her sunglasses, which were still on her head).

Jack stared at the sweet spot between my wife's legs, and he seemed to turn on, like a program in a robot. I watched his face transform as he looked at the sliver of my wife's pussy hanging from her skirt.

Claudia was pretty well-imbibed, but she seemed to have struck precisely the right level of breaking with her inhibitions without being sloppy drunk. Enough to make her eyes look alive and not glassy. Enough to get her to say:

“So, Jack,” without slurring. She leaned on one of the tube-like pillows and gave me a brief, flirtatious look of complicity. “You must... run into a lot of interesting situations, doing your job.”

There was no mistaking the sexual overtones of Claudia’s voice. She moved her fingers over the length of the pillow, which was now making us all think of Jack’s cock.

I saw Jack’s body stiffen a little. But he played it pretty cool: he brought his drink to his lips and made a conciliatory face. “I may,” he agreed. He said this to no one in particular, and then he took a sip of his drink and set it down.

“What kind of situation do I find myself in here?” he murmured finally.

He looked over at Claudia then, and his face became very serious, very hungry. It was a smoldering look, meant partially to seduce. I could see that it made Claudia melt from the inside, and her composed exterior seemed ready to cave.

Her lips parted and she seemed unable to take the next step by speaking.

I set my glass down on the table. “It’s the kind of situation,” I said, and I was surprised by my own confidence as I said it. My voice sounded good, firm and commanding. “That you probably found yourself in with Joe and Brandy, once or twice.”

Jack pressed his full lips together and released them with a smack, doing that thing black guys seem to do when they’re thinking something over. He ran his tongue over his lips. “I see,” he said. Then he looked at me. “I think it’s best if I clarify what this is. Just to make sure we’re all on the same page.”

I looked at Claudia, and so did Jack.

My wife surprised me completely by rolling up from the couch and onto her heels. The loose black dress was surprisingly transparent against the lights on the masts, and we could both see her figure through the material. The cow neck of the dress barely clung to her breasts, the shape of them nearly tumbling from the material.

Both of us looked at her in awe – she looked really, incredibly hot at that moment.

And then, she reached down and grabbed the hem of the dress, pulled, and slipped the whole thing over her head.

It took my breath away. Not just because she was, in the space of a second, kneeling on the couch absolutely naked, but because it was the sort of bold move I had never even dreamed of my wife making.

For a moment my heart pounded in my chest and it was the only thing I could feel. The sheer excitement of it.

This was my wife. And she was seducing another man.

A very black man.

Claudia rested on her heels, looking Jack right in the eye. She had no panties on, no bra – her whole, lightly tanned white body was exposed to him, her nipples hard and glowing a pretty pink, her pussy smooth and bare, nothing more than a tiny pink slit for Jack Galette to slip his big black cock into.

He licked his lips again and looked over at me with raised eyebrows.

You really want me to fuck your wife? his face said.

It was fairly surreal.

I moved my head forward to assent, and I knew it looked smooth and controlled as I did it. Inside, I was boiling, and my mouth had gone utterly dry.

Jack pushed himself off the couch and stood up to his full height.

He pulled his shirt off by reaching behind him and grabbing the back of it to pull it over. His chiseled torso shone in the light of the masts. White light on black skin, the glow catching on the sharp curves of his muscles.

He stepped forward to Claudia and pushed her hair over her shoulder, sending a wave of goosebumps over her skin. “You ever been with a black man, little girl?” he said.

He had one hand on his belt buckle, and he was slowly sliding it through the metal clasp. Claudia’s eyes dropped to watch his fingers work the leather, and she shook her head.

For a moment I thought she was feeling the need to back out, and my heart dropped with disappointment.

But then she looked up at him and gave him a smile.

He unzipped his shorts and pulled out his cock.

It was only semi-hard, and it unfolded from inside his underwear like a dark elephant trunk. He was uncircumcised, and the organ swam in his brown foreskin.

He held it in one hand and lifted it, to point it at my wife’s mouth. I saw it twitch and grow fatter, even as he waited for Claudia to take the hint.

Claudia stared at his dick, and then she looked over at me. I didn't move except to nod slightly, as I had for Jack.

And then, she turned back to him. She lifted her eyes, almost a little afraid, and he reached forward and pushed her hair from her face as he moved closer to her. He guided his cock to her lips, and rubbed it gently over them. "It's all right, little girl," he growled. "It won't bite you. Just give it a taste."

It made my limbs go a little cold, hearing Jack go from somewhat reticent to bossing my wife like that, but it also made my cock hard as stone. I sucked in my breath and waited to see what Claudia would do.

She opened her mouth, and her tongue emerged to lick the crown of Jack's cock. The big organ throbbed to life, and he pulled back on the foreskin to free the shiny crown of his shaft. It was a bulbous, thick knob at the end of his ever-growing shaft, which was getting so hard that veins were protruding through the foreskin, which had been stretched membrane-thin by his growing column.

Jack reached forward and put a hand in Claudia's hair.

She opened her mouth obediently for him, her hands on her thighs, as he pulled her to him and dipped a few inches of his cock into her mouth.

It was thick enough that her cheeks puffed out with the effort of taking even the first few inches of him in.

He guided her head himself, her hair in his fingers, making her bob on the very end of his cock. The sticky sound of my wife's mouth sucking on the end of another man's dick crackled in my ears, and I had to unbutton my shorts and loosen the zipper of my pants to get the sharp teeth from clawing into me.

Claudia was sucking on the end of his dick for a while, and then she looked over at me, and I almost lost it. Right after she met my eyes, Jack pushed on the back of her head and pulled her face further toward him, sinking a few more inches of his cock into her mouth.

Now Claudia was having trouble breathing and sucking. Her nostrils flared with the effort and her eyes watered a bit.

Jack released her head and she backed off his cock, releasing him with a wet smack. His dick was so hard now that it just remained in the air, pointed at her face.

Claudia was breathing pretty quickly. She looked up at Jack and he pushed a strand of her hair from her face. "What's the matter?" he cooed.

“Too big for you?”

He brought the tip of his cock to her mouth, and rubbed it over her lips.

My own cock was practically exploding now. I sucked in my breath to retain my composure, and even managed to reach forward and take my drink from the table and bring it to my lips.

Claudia had nodded in response to Jack’s question, and she was opening her mouth with a renewed determination on her face. Jack lifted his heavy cock and slapped it lightly on her lips a few times. “That’s it, you can do it. Just open up.”

Claudia looked down, and started to take his cock into her mouth again. Her cheeks filled out, her nostrils flared, and she managed to get more than three-quarters of the way down his shaft. I saw her stomach roll with a spasm of gagging, and Jack held her head so she couldn’t pull off immediately. “That’s it,” he coaxed her.

He let go of her and she gasped for air when his cock fell out of her mouth. Spit covered her lips with a shiny gloss, and a string of saliva linked her lips and his dick for a moment, caught in the lights of the ship, before it fell in a glob on the sofa.

Jack started to move to re-position himself, but Claudia held out a hand to his pelvis and grabbed his cock. She began to pump it with a forceful grip. “No,” she said. “I want to get it all in.”

My eyes got so wide I thought they might fall out on the couch.

Claudia took a deep breath and brought his cock closer to her mouth. Then she plunged over his dick and let more and more of it into her throat. She gagged, but she kept going, and made it very nearly to the base of his cock.

Then she began to suck on him. Her breathing was strained, puffing out her nostrils as she sucked him hard, never releasing his dick from her mouth. I stared at my wife bobbing up and down on Jack’s cock, all the black meat filling her whole throat.

She looked over at me again, and I had to close my eyes and grip the couch to keep from bursting all over the two of them right then and there.

I struggled not to touch my cock. I wanted to see this through to completion.

Jack was the one who finally put an end to her cock-socking. “You have to slow down, honey,” he growled.

He pushed her back and onto the couch, so she was lying down. He nudged her legs open.

Her cunt was swollen with excitement, her clit bursting from the petals of her pussy. She was so wet it glistened and there were smears of her excitement on her inner thighs.

Jack looked back at me and gave me a smile. Then he extended his hand and placed his thick black fingers on my wife's pussy, slipping them through her gash like he was dipping into hot butter.

He brought his finger to his mouth and licked her juices off.

"Mmm," he growled.

I could smell her from there – sweet, honeyed, wildly aroused. My mouth watered with desire to taste her, and feel her slippery petals under my mouth.

But Jack was going to go there first.

He pushed her legs open and up, so that her pussy was open to him, and then he knelt over her and his bright tongue began to explore my wife's cunt.

I stared at the way his tongue slid along the folds of her pussy, up and over her freshly-waxed lips, teasing the ridge of her clit and making her mouth hang open.

He sucked her clit into his mouth, pressing his big lips against it.

I flicked my eyes up to Claudia's face. Her chin was pressed to her chest, her neck contorted so that she could get a good view of Jack as he ate her out.

Then he moved in for real, his big hands holding her thighs. He sealed his mouth over her whole pussy, and I could tell by the movements of his jaw that his tongue was hard at work, lapping at her clit.

Claudia's stomach began to roll in excited waves as her breathing went frantic. "Oh, oh, oh, oh!" she began to squeal, but there was nothing disingenuous about it – she was really losing control. I could see that by the way sweat was beading on her forehead and her abdomen was wobbling in crazed waves of flexed muscle because she was so overwhelmed.

She was looking at Jack, who had lifted his eyes to watch her face. But just as she rose over the crest of her orgasm, she lifted her eyes and looked at me.

The look was almost helpless, a look like she had been caught in the act of something, or taken something way, way, too far. She looked at me as though she could not believe what she had done.

Then she threw her head back and squinted her eyes closed, and her whole body went rigid and then limp, in cycles, as her orgasm shuddered through her. She was making a sound between a scream and a sob.

Jack kept going, and now his lips were making wet smacking noises as he lapped at her overflowing cunt. His big cock was dangling between his legs, rubbing against my wife's left leg, reminding her it was there and still needed servicing.

My own balls felt like they were being squeezed in a vice, but I could see there was still more to come.

I took another sip of my drink, trying to steady myself as I watched with my blood pounding in my ears.

Jack reached for Claudia's head, and brought her up to his face. He started to kiss her, and then he commanded her in a low voice to taste herself.

Claudia ran her tongue all over his mouth, and his lips. Her face was flushed and she still looked kind of shocked when she glanced over at me – her tongue and Jack's entwined dirtily in a game of twister.

I tried to indicate with my expression that everything was okay, and I think she got the message, but it didn't really matter if she did or not: Jack was consuming her now with his lips, digging into her mouth, getting her to taste her own cunt on his lips. He held her firmly by the neck and made her still as he explored her mouth thoroughly.

He tilted her backwards, and Claudia was now a little like a limp rag doll, overcome by her powerful orgasm. His tongue moved from her neck to her breasts, made a swirl around her nipple and then sucked it into his mouth.

Claudia's eyes flew open and she started to gasp again.

He lifted her up and positioned himself underneath her, guiding her dripping pussy to his cock. He shifted, and I didn't have the best view anymore, just his muscled back and my wife's legs wrapping around him.

"Oh, oh, my God," Claudia said hoarsely, and I knew that he was slipping his huge slab of meat inside of her.

He held her with one hand behind her back while his other hand explored the contours of her body. She was sweating now, and her body shone in the light. She looked over Jack's shoulder at me, her eyes wide with disbelief as the huge cock filled her completely and Jack began to bounce her on top of him.

I stood up, and moved around them to have a better view. There was an empty chair across from the couch, and I eased myself into it.

From that angle, I could see Claudia's body bouncing over his dick, and the slick, shiny length of his shaft as it pistoned in and out of her. Claudia began to get wilder as it went on, and I saw her legs flex as she began to take over the act of fucking.

She leaned over him and got more of her weight on top of him. She started to really grind on top of him, and he released the hand holding her up and used it to explore the crack of her ass and her sweaty body, rubbing her butt and slipping his fingers down to her asshole, teasing her.

"Oh, I'm going to come!" Claudia said, and she began to fuck him harder, bouncing on top of him with a wild hunger.

Jack growled and thrust himself deep inside of her. "That's it. That's it, baby, ride that cock."

He watched her, as I did, as she went wild and really humped him, until she threw her head back and screamed as she came again.

Her body went rigid and then limp, and she leaned forward and collapsed on Jack's chest.

He pushed her back onto the couch, without pulling his cock out from inside of her. Her legs were still wrapped around his torso, and he lifted up a little until he was on his knees again. Then he grabbed my wife by the thighs and hammered himself into her.

Claudia let her arms fall above her head, and her body slid along the couch as he fucked her like a rag doll. She was evidently so overwhelmed by her last orgasm that she could only lie there and moan until he at last looked up at the canopy and groaned.

He slammed into her hard, with three wet splats, as his cum burst inside of my wife.

At last they were still. Jack was panting very lightly from the exertion, and his cock was still inside of Claudia.

He looked over at me, and for a moment I wasn't sure what he wanted. He shrugged, and that's when I realized he was inviting me to get in on fucking my wife with him.

He slid his cock out of Claudia, and it landed with a wet slap against his thigh.

“Well,” he said. “Unless y’all need me for something else this evening...” he looked at Claudia and then at me. “I have some things to attend to in the control room.”

He slid his hand over Claudia’s body, and then he stood up, pulling his pants up with him. He snatched his shirt and gave me a nod, carrying it away as he whistled and stepped off in the direction of the navigation area.

Claudia rolled over, almost in a fetal position, and looked at me. Her face still had the slightly stunned look that she had gotten when Jack made her come the first time. Her cheeks were flushed, and she shivered as a breeze came in off the water. Her whole body was wet with sweat.

“I can’t believe I... we...” she said.

I stood up and wriggled out of my loose pants. My cock was hard and I wanted to fuck my load into my filthy wife. “I’m so proud of you,” I said. “That was... amazing.”

Claudia pushed herself up and started to come toward me, but I worked my way to kneeling on the couch and pushed her back to lying down.

I nudged her legs open and touched her cunt with my fingers. She was so wet that her thighs and her ass were shiny with her juices and Jack’s cum, and his creamy load was oozing slowly from inside of her. I caught the musky undertone of his cum under the scent of her pussy.

My cock throbbed.

I played with her swollen pussy, her engorged clit. She trembled each time I passed my fingers over her clit, but I kept going until I got her worked up again.

I guided my cock to her clit and rubbed my head over the face of it. Claudia bit her lip, and writhed underneath me. I slid my fingers inside of her.

I could feel all the cum, the slight stretching of her cunt. “Is your pussy sore?” I asked.

Claudia dropped her eyes. “A little,” she said.

I moved my cock to her opening and slid into her slowly. She moaned as I did, and I lowered my mouth to take her lips in mine. The same mouth that had sucked on Jack’s cock, the same mouth he had probed so deeply and smeared her own juices all over.

As I got closer to her, I saw that her cheeks were wet with sweat and water that had escaped her eyes, probably when she was sucking his cock.

Her mascara was slightly smeared under her eyes, and a smudge of lipstick – light, pink gloss I hadn't even known she was wearing, clung to her upper lip, smeared a little. The effect was so filthy and trashy that it almost sent me over the edge.

I fucked her slowly, trying to distract myself so that I could get her to come one last time for me. She pushed up against me and she was getting warmed up, her body straining against mine. But the image of her looking at me with her mouth full of Jack's cock flashed through my mind and I came hard inside of her without much warning.

"Fuck!" I practically spat, and I felt my face get red and my arteries nearly burst from my neck. It was the most consuming orgasm I had ever had.

Claudia grabbed me by the back of the neck and ground her hips against my pelvis until at last her mouth opened in a little puff and she gasped. I felt her pussy squeezing my cock, all of the hot liquid, the mixed cum, gushing around my dick.

I collapsed on top of her.

"Jesus," I said.

We lay like that for a little while. I pressed my face into Claudia's neck, and she stirred delectably. Then she shivered. "It's too cool," she said.

She sat up and slipped the dress over her body. It slid over her, the thin material caressing her curves, sticking in places where her skin was still damp.

Jack wasn't anywhere to be found, and we didn't see him below decks as we passed to the cabin. I was fairly grateful for that – I wasn't sure what to do with the awkwardness of having him lingering when I really wanted to get Claudia to myself for a while, to find out if she was okay, to feel her body and have it to myself.

When I closed the door I took her in both hands and kissed her. As soon as I felt her lips beneath mine, warm and soft and treacherous and responding to me, I was overcome by passion. I kissed her for a long time, in a way that we hadn't kissed for years.

We moved to the bed, and I lay down with her. I moved my fingers over her body, tugging the dress up and over her head to free her and pull her close to me. I was overcome by unexpected emotions, feelings of tenderness as well as arousal.

We kissed for a long time, and I gently caressed her body long after I was aroused enough to enter her. When I finally did, we engaged in the most intimate lovemaking we had for a long time. It was slow, and raw, and I felt it more in my chest, inside my heart, than anywhere.

When I finally pulled away from her, though, Claudia looked at me with a serious face.

“What is it?” I said. I drew my finger from her ear to her cheek, eliciting a little smile. But the worried expression remained beneath the surface of her face.

“Come on,” I coaxed. “Are you worried about what we did?”

Claudia gave a little shrug. “I’m the one who did it,” she said.

I propped myself up on my elbow. “Are you serious?”

Her face revealed that she was.

I moved her head with my finger on her chin. “Hey, Claudia, listen. I asked you to do it. I wanted you to. We’re in it together.”

Claudia looked at me, and her eyes seemed a little wet, like she might cry.

“What’s still troubling you?” I said.

I was sort of enjoying this little game of guilt. In fact, it was flattering to me that she hadn’t just thrown herself into it and never looked back.

But it troubled me if the guilt cut too deep. Or worse yet...

“Didn’t you like it?” I asked. “I don’t want you to do something you don’t enjoy.”

Claudia bit into her lip even harder and averted her eyes. “It’s not... um, so much that...”

This is the point where I felt a little fall, inside of myself. Not a terrible one; it was almost fun.

But still a drop, a jump off a cliff.

I had a feeling about what she was going to say even before she said it.

“I think I maybe...”

There was a long pause.

“Maybe I liked it a little... too much.” She brought her eyes back to meet mine, questioning how I would react.

I wasn’t sure how I felt about what she said.

I hadn't given it too much thought, to be honest. My thoughts had all been centered on just coaxing her into actually doing it. I hadn't really anticipated how I would react, and when I imagined how she would react it was only a vague idea of her reaction, an outline, something surreal and yet something I felt sure I could control.

"What do you mean, 'too much?'" I said.

Claudia closed her eyes. "I don't know... I felt... maybe 'too much' is the wrong phrase."

Oh, but it's the one you used, I thought.

"What did you mean, then?"

Claudia opened her eyes. "I think I just felt... out of control."

I let this sink in.

"Out of control" matched the way Claudia had behaved. "Out of control" was a better phrase.

I leaned over and kissed her.

"It's supposed to be a little 'out of control,'" I said, my voice a fountain of assurance. "That's kind of the point, I think."

Claudia seemed reassured by this. She turned on her side and we spooned.

In very little time, it seemed to me that she was falling asleep: her breath became slower and deeper, and she seemed completely at ease, at least enough to fall asleep.

I, on the other hand, was still turning that phrase over and over in my mind, the phrase of her original choice: "Maybe I liked it a little too much...."

Her first choice of words, whether she felt they were what she meant to say or not, kept me awake well into the morning.

7: THE FANTASY ISLAND

I slept poorly after I finally did fall asleep, and I woke up when Claudia stirred and pushed herself over onto her stomach, propping herself up on her elbows. She pushed her hair out of her face. It was slightly damp from the heat and humidity, tangled and mussed by our activities the night before.

My cock came to life straightaway as soon as all of those activities replayed in my mind, a montage of very sexy, very filthy things. The scent radiating from Claudia's body made me throb even more, as I remembered that she was still dripping with Jack Gillette's cum, and mine, and her own.

Her voice echoed huskily in my mind: I liked it a little too much.

We made love again, slowly like the pace of the lazy morning. Nothing crazy or wild, though it did take a lot for me to hold back from coming almost as soon as I felt her hot pussy around my cock.

She rolled back onto her stomach afterward, and looked forward at the headboard as though she were reading tea leaves.

"I'm sort of embarrassed to go up there," she said, suddenly.

Then she looked at me, and laughed nervously.

"Because of Jack?" I said, though obviously that was the only answer.

Claudia extended her arm and lay her head on it. "Do you think he told Ricardo?": she whispered.

I paused a little too long. I felt pretty sure that Ricardo knew the score, and if not, Jack had almost certainly told him. How could he not?

I shrugged.

Claudia rolled onto her back. "Oh, my God," she said.

I leaned over and kissed her. "Come on," I said. "These guys work for Joe and Brandy all the time. I'm sure they know how to be cool about this..." I wasn't sure what to say.

Claudia adopted a very funny snobby British accent: "This sort of... affair," she said, like she had marbles in her mouth. She waved her hand in a circle above her as she did.

We both laughed.

She looked over at me. "Seriously," she said. "Go check it out."

She sat up and swung her legs over the edge of the bed. She stretched out to her full glory, and she looked even more beautiful than usual. "I'm going to take a shower."

"Check it out?" I mused. "What do I 'check out?'"

Claudia trotted to the bathroom. "I don't even know," she said. "Just... if it's super weird. Or, I don't know. They want me to be the yacht whore all the way home."

"Hmm," I said.

Claudia stopped by the door to the bathroom, her hand on it to keep it from swinging into the room, an annoying thing it did that I suppose was inevitable, even on a luxury yacht.

"'Hmm?'" she repeated. "'Hmm,' like... you want me to be the yacht whore?"

I felt my mouth move open a little, but no sound came out.

"Michael!" she said.

"You're the one who said you liked it too much," I protested.

Claudia put her hand on her hip.

"Are you serious right now?" she said, after a long pause.

I looked at the foot of the bed. "I say," I said diplomatically, "let's see what the day brings."

Claudia squinted. "Oh my God," she said. "I have to pee."

And she shut the door.

"Go check things out," she called from behind the door.

I had to pee as well, so I went to the shared bathroom near the rooms Ricardo and Jack were sharing. I was wary of running into either of them, at least down here in the cabin of the ship. It was the kind of over-tense energy you just didn't want, like dogs on a leash in a small space. It would be fine if I saw them first on deck.

Luckily, and as I suspected, they were both up there already, getting the boat rigged for sailing. Or, whatever you do when you have a fully automated boat. Checking things.

I popped up, and Jack was facing me, working with some halyards. "Mr. Holt," he said. "We're thinking of setting out in about half an hour. There's a good wind."

His tone was professional, polite. There wasn't a hint of his having fucked my wife in it.

“Sounds good,” I said, hoping my own voice remained unchanged from the day before as I spoke.

Ricardo gave me a polite wave from the bow of the ship.

Nothing seemed weird there either.

Jack came toward me and leaned on a railing. “So we have a couple of options,” he said. “There’s a good wind, like I told you – we can get all the way to Highborn today, I believe.”

I nodded.

“But... there is a very small island about 10 miles from here. A little tiny but out of the way, but it’s very beautiful. A nice resort... Not too many people know about it. Why don’t you ask your wife if she has any interest in it? We can make Highborn the next day, Nassau on schedule. Good weather for the whole week.”

He was smiling at me, like he was asking me if I wanted fish or chicken for dinner, but the implication was clear about that island. And what kind of “resort” was there.

“I’ll see what she wants to do,” I agreed.

Jack hit the banister lightly with two thumps, gave me a thumbs-up, and headed back to attend to rigging the boat.

I headed back to the cabin and started some coffee for Claudia, who had consumed quite a bit more than she usually did. Then I went back to the master suite.

Claudia was still in the shower, and I invited myself in to admire the view. I was feeling pretty good about Jack and Ricardo being fairly casual about what had happened the night before, and my mind was already on to the island and the possibilities that awaited us there.

I only hoped that Claudia would take it the same way.

Her body shone with water and ribbons of sweet-scented floral soap slid over her curves as she rinsed shampoo from her hair. Her eyes were closed but she smiled in my direction. “I hope that’s my husband,” she said, in a mysterious tone.

My heart skipped. What if it wasn’t me?

I waited, and Claudia kept smiling. Keeping her eyes closed she took a loofah and soaped herself up, rubbing the sponge sensually over her body. “If it’s not him,” she teased, “it would be very inappropriate.”

And then Claudia, who was not known to me for her exhibitionism, cupped her breasts and played with her nipples. I stared as she slid her hands over her hips and briefly tucked a finger into her slit.

She turned in the shower and bent over, as though to pick something up, giving me a nice view of her ass and her bare pussy peeking between her cheeks.

I almost couldn't believe this was my own wife. When she stood up, pushing water out of her hair, she was still smiling cleverly.

I wondered how much of it was purely imaginary to her. If there wasn't some part of her that didn't want the man in the room to be someone other than her husband.

She opened her eyes, and smiled at me. "So?" she said.

I cleared my throat. I was feeling a little bit frisky after that show had mixed with my imagination, but I was also exhausted. "I... um... Jack... has two options for us."

Claudia turned and rinsed her hair again. "Hmm," she said, sensually.

"One is that we sail straight to Highborn. There's a good wind."

"Mm-hmm."

"And the other... there is an island, apparently, a little out of the way. He said you might like it."

Claudia turned back to face me. "That almost sounds like Fantasy Island or something. Sort of... what was that show about?"

I smiled. Claudia was too young to know that show as anything but a cultural reference. "Be careful what you wish for," I said, uncertainly. I had been a kid when I watched it.

Claudia grinned. "I thought so."

She turned off the water. "Can you hand me that towel?" she said, pointing to a fluffy, unused white towel she had somehow found.

I gave it to her as she opened the door.

She wrapped herself in it and took a hand towel to dry her hair.

God, she was beautiful.

She looked at the floor as she thought. "And why does Jack think I'll like this island?" she said, finally.

She met my eyes.

"I think you know," I said.

"And what about you? Did he think you would like this island?"

I thought about my answer for a moment. "I think Jack is more concerned about whether or not you 'll like the island."

Claudia's cheeks took on a glow. It wasn't really a blush, as much as a fire beneath her skin. "And what about you? Do you think you'll like this island?"

I nodded.

Claudia looked down at her body as she adjusted her towel. "I don't know. Should we be doing this?"

She looked back up at me. She seemed to really want the answer, which was kind of a turn-on in and of itself. It had been a long time since Claudia seemed to want my advice about anything, anything at all.

I sat down on the edge of the tub and pulled her to me. I stroked the back of her knee, which made her giggle. Then I slowed the pace, and her face became serious when I looked up at her.

"Listen," I said. "I don't want you to do anything you don't want to do. That's the most important thing. But... if you're asking me if I want to try this, then... the answer is yes."

I bit the towel and tugged at it like a puppy. Claudia clutched the towel to her breasts and lifted her knee to ward me off. "Stop it," she said. "This is serious."

"Okay," I said.

She sat down next to me. "I just... don't you think we should have, like... I mean, don't Joe and Brandy have rules, or something?" She set her elbows on her knees, a semi-childish gesture that was as endearing as it was incongruous.

"What do you want the rules to be?" I said.

I'd make any rules she wanted.

She lifted her knees up by pointing her feet forward onto her toes. They bobbed around playfully. "I guess... well, is this island a, you know... like that first one we went to? With a lot of people?"

"I don't know. I'm guessing so."

"Well," she said. "I'm not so much into... um... that."

Interesting.

"How do you mean?" I asked.

Claudia smiled sheepishly. "I don't want you getting in on any other women. Really. And I'm not..." she looked up at the ceiling and sighed loudly. "Oh, how to say this? I'm not so much into doing it with just anyone."

My heart slammed around in my chest with excitement. “Check and check,” I said. “Not a problem.”

She was quiet.

“So, just for the record, you’re not into just anyone because...?”

She looked at me sharply. Then she looked back at her feet. “Oh, don’t make me say it,” she said, that sheepish voice creeping into her throat again.

I stroked her arm with my hand. “What’s that?” I asked. It was a bit devilish of me, since I already knew what she was going to say.

“You know,” she said. “I just like... him.”

There’s no point in trying to hide from this narrative that I would have loved to press my wife into saying that she loved big black cock, but I decided not to push my luck. I slapped my hands on my knees.

“Okay. So no ladies for me, and no...”

“Just no... I don’t know. Crazy swinging. I’m not into it.”

Claudia sounded firm on this issue.

Which was fine with me. I wasn’t really into it, either. I was perfectly happy with what I’d managed to get her to do, and I wasn’t going to get greedy.

“What about Ricardo?” I asked. “He’s kind of... you know.”

Okay, so maybe a little greedy.

Claudia slapped me on the knee. “Oh my God!” she said. “This is... this is crazy enough.”

I held my hands out, palms open, Okay.

“And this is the other thing,” Claudia said, holding a finger up. “I get to decide what I want to do.”

Of course, I nodded.

Of course, because at the time I chose to interpret that as: she would decide whether to do something or not.

I didn’t think Claudia – who at the time seemed a little prude when I compared her to my dirty thoughts – might want to do something beyond what I might have approved of. If I had asked.

“Agreed,” I said. “It’s your show.”

She kissed me. “Okay,” she whispered.

“Okay.”

She cocked her head. “So, how did he seem? Was it weird?”

It took me a moment to understand what she was referring to. “Oh,” I said. “Jack. No. Actually... no, he was perfectly normal. I think... yeah, he’s just used to this, like I said.”

Claudia tapped her teeth. “Huh,” she said. “Okay.”

And then she kissed me again and walked into the room.

She was wearing a cover-up when she came out for coffee. Bare feet, sweet-smelling, hair still wet and clipped up in a twist. She put her feet on my lap and I massaged the soles gently, getting a little turned on as I did, and we read an old paper.

Jack popped down to tell us we were taking off, and soon the boat began to keel.

“I think I’m going to get some sleep while we sail,” Claudia commented. “I... didn’t get enough last night.” She smiled at me and trotted off to our room.

I joined Jack and Ricardo on the deck. Jack was busy sailing, and he mostly ignored me, except to ask me if I could check on a halyard that seemed loose on the sheet.

I settled in on the deck and enjoyed the breeze, even though I’d rather have been sailing the boat. Under normal circumstances, that is. I was actually just fine, preoccupied with my thoughts about Jack and my wife as the hours ticked by until we arrived at this mysterious island.

“So,” Jack called back to us. “What do you think?”

Most islands in the Caribbean look about the same. There’s no shortage of crystal clear waters and azure horizons, white beaches fading into lush green jungle, and pretty women scattered on them in scant bikinis.

But this particular bay was incredible: just meters from where the boat was anchored, which presumably had to be twenty feet deep to accommodate the keel, a plateau of white sand that extended for what seemed like half a mile to the beach yawned wide in either direction. A few people were sitting in the water, football fields away from the shoreline, reclining on their elbows. A few others were walking, almost as if they could walk on water, closer to the beach.

“It’s so shallow here,” Jack proclaimed, “it’s like a hot tub. But don’t worry, there’s a lagoon you can go to to cool off.”

He was smiling broadly.

The beach itself was dotted with umbrellas and colorful towels, so there were some signs of life.

Jack smiled. “There’s a nice resort on the other side, but I like this beach.”

Claudia clasped her hands together. “Ooh” she squealed. “I’m finally going to get to float on my mattress!!”

She had really been waiting for this. She had brought an inflatable mattress with her and she had envisioned herself floating on it in waters exactly like this, but it hadn’t worked out for most of the trip.

Claudia retrieved her mattress, and Jack gallantly blew it up for her when it became apparent that we had no idea where the air pump was, and Claudia’s countenance began to wilt the longer it took. Claudia stood by him as he huffed into the mattress, and for a moment I was outside of the scene completely, watching my wife as her life might have been with another man, or having an affair.

It was exhilarating.

He got Claudia into the water, and then sat down to blow up his own mattress.

“Is this island the kind of island I think it is?” I said.

He smiled as he continued blowing. When he took a breather he looked out at the beach. “It’s probably better.” He started puffing again. On his next pause he smiled at me. “It can be kind of wild at night. Maybe we’ll see how the day goes?”

He dropped his mattress onto the swim platform and nimbly settled on it. Then he looked at me. “No swimming for you?”

“Not yet,” I said dryly.

At some point in all of this air mattress hubub, Ricardo had appeared and given me a nod in greeting. Jack and him exchanged a few words, and Ricardo dropped the raft into the water. He headed off to the port side of the boat, away from the beach.

“He likes to fish,” Jack said, by way of explanation.

Jack pushed off, his muscles rippling as he did, and I settled in to my deck chair to unabashedly watch the scene unfold.

His dark skin shone like onyx in the sun. He used his thick arms to paddle himself slowly in the direction of my wife, the alabaster goddess, who was moving slow circles on her light blue “floaty.”

I remembered, at that moment, that there were a great pair of binoculars in the control room. I practically ran to the control deck, not wanting to miss a minute of Jack and my wife, and then scrambled back to the chair I had set out.

Jack was just floating up to her when I got back.

With the binoculars, I could see them like they were right in front of the boat. I focused on Claudia's face. As Jack approached, she smiled, and turned her head in his direction.

Jack reached out and caught her floaty to bring it close to his. He maneuvered his way so that he was floating side by side with her, his head at her feet, hers at his.

And then he wasted no time, and neither did my wife. His black hands were on her feet almost immediately. He was telling her something, his big lips moving, smiling, as he no doubt said something seductive and rubbed her feet.

He began at the soles of her feet, like an ordinary foot rub. I watched as his hands moved over them. No doubt her feet were dry and smooth by then, warm to the touch. He pushed hard circles into the bottom of her foot, and the mattresses slowly turned so that I couldn't see Claudia's face, just Jack's.

And then his hands moved up to her ankle. The dark skin made an easy-to-see silhouette against Claudia's skin as his hands traveled from her ankle to her calf, massaging. The mattress moved alongside his, as he pulled her by the legs so that her upper body was getting closer to his.

I sucked in my breath. He was really going in hard and fast.

The mattresses floated slowly around, and Claudia's face came into view.

She had a strange smile on her face as Jack moved his hand up to her knee.

Then she suddenly smiled broadly, and then laughed. She jerked her leg.

He must have tickled her, right under the knee, sending goosebumps along the back of her leg. This was Claudia's most erogenous zone, and if he kissed her there she'd purr like a cat and her pussy would well up instantly.

Claudia was no longer kicking, no longer laughing. She stretched her legs out and Jack moved his hand beneath them. Her face had changed into a serious, steamy expression.

The mattresses slowly turned. Now Claudia's legs were facing me, and I could only see the back of the pillow on Jack's mattress supporting his head.

But his hands, sliding up, up to Claudia's pale blue bikini bottoms – that I could see. I watched as he paused on her upper thigh, strumming his fingers over her flesh.

What could they be saying to each other? I wondered.

Was he charming her with some kind of ordinary tale, stroking her thighs as though she were a girlfriend and they shared some kind of casual intimacy?

Or was it something more overt, more sexual?

And how did Claudia feel about it? Did she like him telling her, explicitly, what his sexual plans were for her? Did she enjoy it if she had a new man to listen to, new stories to hear, while new fingers – dark, strong fingers – strummed over her thighs?

The mattresses had stopped turning, the momentum they had been given dying out in the still water. Luckily for me, I had a view of Claudia's outstretched body, and her face. A sliver of Jack's face, enough to see his mouth and the smile on it as he spoke to my wife.

And most fortunate of all, a clear view to his fingers, which were inching up her legs. He was sweeping them over her skin now, ever closer to her bikini bottoms.

Claudia's face was serious, her lips slightly parted. Then she smiled; apparently he had said something very funny.

His hand moved up, turned over to brush her thigh with the back of it. He edged the mattress alongside hers, making it begin to spin again, very slowly. His fingers were on the strings of her bikini, playing with them.

Claudia appeared to be looking at the boat at that moment. It was hard to tell with her sunglasses. From where she was, I knew she could see me, though she would be slightly uncertain as to what I was doing.

The dark fingers tugged at the strings that held her bikini to her hip. The long bow slipped slowly through its coiled self and then unraveled, and the powder blue fabric hung loosely over her pelvis, a little crumpled, a little corrupted.

Claudia was motionless now, both her body and the look on her face.

Slowly, Jack peeled back the bikini bottom, letting it open like a flap. I couldn't see the details of my wife's bare cunt that he could, but I knew he was there, enjoying the view, enjoying the knowledge that he had fucked her the night before and he would get to sheathe his cock in her sweet, hot cunt again.

They floated there, with her bikini open to him, and him saying god knows what, for what seemed like an eternity but was probably just a brief moment of time.

Then Claudia shook her head and laughed, and took the bikini bottom and tied it back together again. I watched my wife lean forward and say something with her mouth in its most seductive pout, before she rolled off and into the water.

Jack paddled lazily after her, taking her mattress with him.

Claudia returned to the mattress after a few long strokes away and then a tidy flip to come back. She propped herself up on the mattress and slicked her hair back.

And there they remained for quite a bit of time, Claudia and Jack chatting with each other flirtatiously.

Claudia, I realized after a while, was teasing him, drawing it out, teasing me as well.

The sensations coursing through my body were extraordinary, but along with the pleasure of seeing of her with Jack, throwing herself into her teasing, I felt sharp, ice-cold needles of jealousy in my gut. As my wife smiled and leaned on her air mattress, I had fleeting moments of imagining what it would be like to reflect back on this moment, sometime in the future when Claudia had left me for Jack, thinking about what an idiot I was for taking this kind of chance.

Still, I sat there watching them, sinking into the pain and the exhilaration.

When they finally paddled back, pausing along the way for Jack to clasp Claudia's hand in both of his and make her laugh - I crept away and up to the deck. As deeply as it was paining me, I had a craving to keep playing the voyeur. To watch my wife as though I wasn't here, and there was nothing I could do to stop her from what was inevitably going to happen.

They were laughing as they boarded the boat. The playful, teasing giggling of two people who have just met and still enjoy every single thing about each other. A knife of nostalgia cut through me: we were like that, once.

I was sitting on the couch, looking aft toward the cockpit. I had thought about hiding myself better, really getting into the voyeurism, but then I decided it was silly. Also I wanted to look like I had control over things, even if there was part of me that realized that was no longer entirely true.

They stood in the cockpit for bit, and Claudia lifted her hair so that Jack could do something – and it seemed very contrived – to her bikini strings. Maybe they needed tightening, maybe she had asked him to check some absurd thing that required no checking.

Claudia held her hair up, and Jack did whatever she had asked him to do, and I waited, entranced, for the inevitable. It seemed like minutes passed before Jack leaned in to her neck, and nit into the strings of her suit with his teeth. Then he pulled, slowly, and the bikini began to come undone.

Claudia lifted her eyes to meet mine: she had known exactly where I was, exactly how I would be seated there watching her. The look she gave me burned right through my core. I hadn't seen Claudia with an expression like this – mischievous, in control, sexually aroused, all at once – in all my life.

I felt another free-fall of my guts. A hundred doubts percolated through my head at once: what if my wife changed and would never be the same? What if she lost control? What if this ended our marriage? What if it was all a stupid mistake, a risk too great? What if Claudia was actually the architect of all of this and I was being cuckolded?

But the bubbles of anxiety burst as quickly as they arose, because beneath all of this was the much stronger arousal, the need, to see her take things all the way.

The string reached the end of the knot, and the bikini peeled away, letting Claudia's pretty breasts – two light triangles in the center of her tanned skin – be freed up. Jack wasted no time getting his large hands over them, kneading them and rolling her nipples between his thumb and forefinger. While he did this he sucked on her neck, on her earlobe, kissed her shoulder, made his way down one side of her neck and then back and around again.

Claudia continued to stare at me with that look until she could take more, and her eyes closed – halfway at first, then heavily shut – as she was overtaken by the ecstasy of Jack’s attentions.

His hand slid down, dipping into her bikini bottoms. I had to rise up from the couch to see his hands fondling her beneath the fabric. The knuckles of his hand pushed out like a tent and then dropped, and it was plain to see that he went ahead and plunged into her cunt, which I’m sure was already wet.

He walked her forward to the bench set against the aft wall of the cabin, and Claudia put her hands against it. I heard a little gasp, but all I could see now was Claudia’s hair as her head moved, down and then up, shaking a little.

Jack had moved down, and so from the motions of Claudia’s head I could only guess that he was sliding his tongue into Claudia’s delicious, soaked folds.

I moved forward to the opposite couch, and then crept into the navigation area.

I could now see Claudia’s bare chest, her hand clenched around a cleat, her mouth open and her eyes rolling back in her head as she leaned back and mewled. Behind her, I could see Jack’s legs, as he knelt to play with my wife’s pussy with his tongue.

And evidently, he was doing a great job.

Claudia whimpered and breathed hysterically until at last she let out a strangled scream.

Jack rose behind her, his skin like onyx oil in the sunlight. Claudia’s body was trembling and she was still whimpering with the waves of ecstasy that rolled through her.

Her jaw dropped, and I knew that Jack’s cock was sliding inside of her. His body moved close to her, and he pulled her hair away from her neck as he slapped his thighs against her ass. His lips moved next to her ear, and Claudia seemed to like whatever he was saying, as he hammered his cock into her.

I wondered if he was telling her about all the things he planned to do to her. And what they were.

I stared openly, forgetting myself, as Jack pounded into my wife until she began to squeal again. “Oh God,” she said. “Oh God, I’m going to come again!”

Her voice sounded strange to me, almost unhinged.

“Oh God!” Claudia yelled again, and her eyes went wide. “Oh, oh!”

My wife screamed again as she came, and dropped her head, her hands against the boat to hold herself in place while Jack hammered into her.

I was surprised, though, that instead of speeding up to blow his seed into her pussy, Jack leaned forward and started to talk to her again, his hips static, his arms alongside hers.

Claudia and Jack, together, pushed away from the wall of the cabin then, and for a moment I didn't know what they were going to do. Claudia's sweaty body writhed in Jack's arms as he turned her around and kissed her wetly.

And then I knew, as they twisted and moved, and then dropped out of sight: they were going below decks.

I went cold for a moment, and then I looked around the boat. Then I heard Claudia's laugh, and I remembered: the master suite hatchway: a darkened window that, conveniently enough, we had left open this morning.

I stepped on the deck quietly, almost creeping – not that Joe's yacht was the sort to creak – and then I lay down on the warm wood and peered into the master suite.

“... to try it,” Claudia was saying. Her voice was breathless.

The scent of sex hit my nostrils, even from there. Claudia's sweet pussy, and Jack's musky, masculine smell.

I had to put my hand over my eyes to shield myself from the sun, and see into the room, where Claudia's lithe body was propped on her hands and knees, her head turned back to watch what Jack was doing to her. And Jack had his dark hand between her legs, massaging her, making her writhe in pleasure.

I heard the squelching of her pussy as he finger-fucked her. He was watching her face, his own almost serious. “You sure about this? You've never done it before.”

Claudia mewled again, as Jack's hand twisted inside of her, evidently trying to convince her that she did want his – whatever it was. “I want to try it,” she said.

A cold feeling sank through me, before I even saw what “it” was. Jack slid his fingers from inside her pussy and then up higher – into her ass.

“Oh! Oh, go slow,” Claudia said. She turned to face the headboard of the bed, biting her lower lip. Her feet twisted. “Oh!”

Jack pressed on her lower back gently to get her to arch it in a feline pose that made her ass bloom into a perfect bubble. I also got treated to a much better view of the dark two fingers that were sinking into her ass.

“That’s it,” Jack said.

He brought his cock to her pussy with his other hand, and drew the glistening juices of Claudia’s pussy up to his cock. His dark hand stroked the long, meaty, veined length of his cock, getting it wet with Claudia’s own cum.

His fingers crept slowly out of Claudia’s ass, and then the fat head of his dick was at the eyelet of her anus.

He pressed on her back again, getting her into position. “I’ll go nice and slow,” he growled. “Just relax.”

Claudia threw her head back, and looked up – not at me, just at the ceiling, her face contorted into an animal expression, as Jack Gillette sank his fat cock one inch at a time into her ass.

“Oh!” she said, over and over again, but it was evident that Claudia enjoyed it, once he got going. She enjoyed taking every last inch of Jack’s dick into her rear. I could see it on her face.

When he finally had himself all the way inside of her, and his pelvis fit up against her ass like two pieces of a puzzle, Jack reached forward and hooked a hand under her chest.

He lifted her slowly, until she was almost sitting on his lap.

“Oh my God!” Claudia wailed.

Jack pressed her against his chest, and licked her ear. His free hand slid down between her legs, to the exploding flower of her cunt. It was so wet that it shone, and he expertly guided his fingers to her clit.

Claudia did not have to bounce very long before both she and Jack were breathing heavily and gasping, and within moments I could see the pulsing of Jack’s cock as his seed poured into my wife’s ass, filling her up.

Claudia yelped, and wriggled in his arms, as her own orgasm overtook her. He pushed her forward and she collapsed onto her chest as he threw a few good, hard fucks into her to get every last drop of his cum inside of her.

They lay like this, panting.

The long black snake of Jack's cock finally flopped out of Claudia, and slapped wet against his thigh. He jiggled his balls, which were sticky with his cum, and Claudia rolled onto her side.

Jack climbed over my wife's body, and kissed her on the mouth.

The action was unexpected for me, unsettling. My cock was hard with excitement but my stomach twisted with a cold uncertainty when he did this. "That was some first time, beautiful," he said. Then he stood up and opened the door to the bathroom. "I have to shower," he offered by way of explanation, and closed the door.

Claudia rolled onto her back. Her body, fully naked, sticky with her juices and the cum of another man, most of all between her legs, was spread out for me to view.

She looked up at me through the window. And smiled.

Then she stood up, putting her hand on the door.

"Wait," I said. "Don't shower yet."

Claudia looked up at me strangely, and then she shrugged, lying back on the bed.

Jack was in the shower for quite a while, and then he emerged: a dark, glistening black man with an almost perfect body. I stared at Claudia's face as she looked him up and down. She was back to interacting with him as though I wasn't there, as though she didn't even know that I was.

She pulled the sheets around her. "I think I'm going to take a little nap," she said.

Jack smiled, leaned over my wife again, and kissed her. "I'll get things packed for tonight."

As luck would have it, when I propped myself up on the deck in a crouch, wondering what to do next, I saw Ricardo approaching in the raft. I stood up, dizzy from the scene I had just witnessed, and he thrust his hands into the air. He had a string of fish clutched in his fist.

Jack was just popping out of the cabin at that moment, and he went portside to salute the victorious fisherman.

Which gave me the perfect opportunity to scurry around the navigation area to starboard, and drop into the hatchway and the cabin without having some kind of awkward moment with Jack.

Because if there was one thing I hadn't thought through very well, it was how close quarters could get when you were letting another man fuck your wife on a yacht – even a very big one.

Claudia dropped her eyes from the ceiling when I opened the door and closed it behind me.

“I was just talking to you,” she said, pointing up at the hatch.

I said nothing. I was too full of conflicting feelings, wild need, and my pumping blood, to think of anything to say.

Claudia must have read this on my face, because she climbed onto her knees and let the sheet drop from her body.

Up closer, she smelled even more like the scents of sex, and her body was even more obviously adulterated. Pink, rubbing burns tinted the lips of her pussy, and cum had stuck to the insides of her thighs.

“So,” she said. “Did you enjoy the show?”

A noise that I would best describe as a rumble came from my throat.

No matter for Claudia, who was sliding my belt from the loops, edging closer to me, smiling. She took my cock in her hand, and got onto her hands and knees. Her ass was facing the mirror headboard now, and when I glanced up at it I saw I had a view of her ass: the slightly gaped hole and the trickle of white cum sliding down to her red cunt.

“I think I’m too sore for anything else,” Claudia was saying, and she was looking at me with a smile when I looked down at her.

I looked back up at the mirror.

Jack had been everywhere in my wife this afternoon, and there was still more to come -

But Claudia had her mouth around my cock now, and her tongue was making swift circles around my shaft inside of the hot liquid of her cheeks and throat.

I stared at her ass, and the back of her head in the mirror, almost as if I were watching her fuck someone else again.

When I came, I didn’t even try to stifle the yell.

We ate the fish Ricardo had caught together on the deck. I expected it to be a little weird, but Jack had an easy-going way about him, a way of putting on his navy shorts and white polo shirt and returning to his role as ship’s captain as opposed to bull, that was unnervingly professional.

The subsequent events remain hazy in my memory, maybe because I had too much to drink, maybe because of what we were doing, maybe because of the Caribbean air or because all the substances being smoked on the beach went to my head.

After the fish, I settled in on the couch in a very relaxed way, so much that I was almost worried Jack had drugged me and was going to take advantage of my unconsciousness to have his way with my wife.

The I remembered he already had.

The beach lit up with Tiki torches and bonfires, and I noticed that a series of white, box-shaped items had been constructed on the beach since the early morning. I struggled to remember if they had always been there, but the warm, hazy feeling that was coming over me didn't facilitate me thinking about it for long.

Claudia changed her clothes at some point, I think while I was having a conversation, in pidgin English, with Ricardo. Suddenly she was in a white sundress, glowing in the early evening light. I kissed her, Jack disappeared for a while, and then almost suddenly he was standing in front of us, rubbing his hands together.

"Okay," he said with a broad grin. "Who wants to go to the fantasy island?"

A sequence of lovely moments: Claudia smiling at me from the other side of the raft, the sun lighting up her face. The water, almost warm enough to be a hot tub, licking at my heels as we climbed out of the boat.

And then, just like that, Claudia was in front of me, her fingers entwined with Jack's, and I was walking behind them, as if they were the couple and I was the third wheel, or not even there.

We sat down at a fire, which was actually a professionally built fire pit. There were a lot of the same kinds of couples around us, laughing, kissing, trading partners, grouping up instead of pairing up. I looked around: the white boxes were actually little rooms; beds with mosquito netting on them and curtains that no one seemed to be drawing.

When I looked back at the fire, Jack was smiling at me over the flames. I smiled back, because why not?

It was a strange reality, settling in on me in a way that felt neither right nor wrong. I watched Jack and Claudia together, and even though Claudia kept looking over at me to smile or say something, Jack seemed like her partner.

I said I wanted to go for a walk on the beach, and I did. I weaved in and out of the many couples and threesomes, some of them on the sand and some in the beds, and I had strange and mixed emotions. Oddly, I didn't find it very erotic: I felt displaced, unreal, like I was watching another world through a crystal ball or something.

When I got back to our fire, Claudia was flirting with another man, a stranger, with one hand in Jack's lap. Our own group hadn't gotten wild yet: it was still at the level of the end of a college party – people starting to reach out, find their lover for the evening, brush their fingers over breasts and awakening erections.

I stared at Claudia's fingers tracing the shape of Jack's cock through the navy shorts. Ricardo was drinking a beer and staring at my wife, so I joined him. Claudia's free hand was on the stranger's arm, drawing her fingers up and down the length of it.

This went on for a while, and I sort of faded out of the scene, even though I was still there. It wasn't a very conscious choice, and reflecting on it now, it was odd. I knew where the evening was headed, I could see it in my wife's fingers on Jack's cock, her smile for the strange man, in the hungry expression on Ricardo's face. I could probably have put an end to it, or gotten more involved, but I just kept watching, reflecting on it from the outside. I wasn't sure if it was thrilling or horrifying.

Claudia leaned forward and kissed the new man, and she laughed when his stubble tickled her face. Jack put a hand on her white skin and drew it down the length of her arm.

And at that moment, I realized that part of the pain deep in my abdomen was from having to piss.

I excused myself to do so, and Claudia looked up at me, her face suddenly registering everything that was happening.

"Are you okay?" She said. "Is everything all right?"

I knew that if I wanted to stop anything, that was the cue. Jack's fingers strummed on Claudia's arm and he looked at me expectantly. The stubble-covered stranger brushed his lips over her shoulder. Ricardo took a swig of his beer.

"I just have to piss," I said, and I smiled. "Everything's fine."

It took a long time to piss, even though I had to go so bad. My cock was too hard and I couldn't think of anything to get it to calm down. Whatever disconnect I had been feeling in my mind, my body was definitely here on this island.

I laughed a little to myself when I realized how far into the jungle I'd traipsed, given how intimate we were all becoming in every other respect. It was pretty silly to be all the way out there to piss.

I looked up at the stars and waited for inspiration to come. I don't know how long I was there. The stars were amazingly beautiful; I remember thinking that. But my mind was elsewhere no matter how much I tried to take it off of Claudia, Claudia the slut, Claudia letting Jack fuck her like a whore on the yacht.

I finally relieved myself, and then I stumbled around a bit, disoriented about the time and the direction I had come from. I knew where the beach was, of course, but it seemed like the bonfires were in the wrong place when I turned around. I headed off at a diagonal angle, and then changed my mind and zig-zagged.

It had grown suddenly dark, in the way that it does out on the water where there is no city to glow in the distance. When I got to the beach there were only silhouettes of people, and they all seemed to have grouped off in different numbers than before I had left. Though it was difficult to believe, I was lost on the small beach.

I started toward a couple, but within a few yards of them I realized that the man was dark but not black. I headed in another direction, past groups in the canopied beds, and then I realized I had gone much too far in one direction down the beach.

But where was Claudia?

When I turned around I started to have my first sense of mild panic about what we were doing: had I lost her? What if Jack had kidnapped her or dragged her into the jungle to do even more things to her? I knew it was ridiculous but it's where my mind went.

I trudged through the sand, feeling a little panicked and trying not to show it, my heart racing.

No couples, no couples anywhere. All the canopies were filled with whole groups of people, three and sometimes four, and things were quickly getting wild. Moans were coming from every corner, driving me wild, turning me on, and making me more frantic to find Claudia.

And then I realized: I had passed her several times now.

I heard her voice in one of the moans, the shape of her throat in the sound. People had ceased attending to their bonfires and now only the weakest light of the dying flames and the Tiki torches reached into the tents over the beds.

The tent where Claudia was had been closed, the mosquito netting hiding not much of anything. I had to step close to see in, to see past the white blur of the mesh, but once I did I had a very clear view into the tent.

My heart nearly jumped through my chest, and my cock came to full attention so hard it almost felt like someone had slapped it.

Claudia was smiling, leaning back against Jack's chest. They were both on their knees, and he had his arms around her body, his hands dark against her skin and exploring the front of her body like he owned her. He squeezed her breasts and tucked his hands under a bikini top she had been wearing under her now-discarded sundress, plunged his fingers into her bikini bottom and stroked her gash, then drew the liquid dripping from her cunt up to her lips where he painted it on them like a lip gloss.

That wasn't what was driving me wild, though. What was driving me wild was Ricardo, which I had anticipated and almost hoped for, and the other stranger from the beach had joined him. They were watching, lying on their elbows, as Jack helped himself to handfuls of my wife.

Jack pushed Claudia's hair away from her ear and whispered something to her. His other hand was dipping back to her pussy.

Claudia's eyes went wide with alarm. "I don't... I'm not sure if I can..." she said.

I heard Jack very clearly then. "It's okay, it's okay. He told me it's okay, go ahead and do it."

Claudia looked at the two men in front of her.

Jack brought her pussy juices to her lips again, and his thick fingertips spread it over her lower lip. Then he pushed her head forward gently. "Give Ricardo a taste," Jack said.

I stared, my cock almost exploding, as Ricardo ran his tongue over Claudia's lips, and then she responded by kissing him wetly.

Jack put his hand on her throat gently to lean her head back, and Ricardo began to kiss her, starting with her neck, moving down to her breasts. He pulled the bikini away and hooked it under her breasts, so that they were pushed up.

He sucked one nipple into his mouth while Jack stroked the other, and as he did he shimmied out of his swim trunks without taking his mouth off my wife's tit.

The other guy also slid his swim trunks away, though he remained to the side, watching. I almost found him to be the most lurid of the three, holding his heavy cock in his hand on his knees, waiting for them to finish with my wife so he could have her last, dirty and limp, full of cum.

So far, no one had noticed me, and that was fine. I tried to control my breathing so no one would.

Jack was untying the bikini bottoms again, and the material fell open, revealing Claudia's bare gash.

Ricardo released her nipple and leaned back on his heels to admire her pussy as Jack slid his finger through the wet slit and into her cunt. He easily slid two fingers into her hole and started to finger fuck her with one hand while he pinched her nipple in the other.

Ricardo had his cock in his hand and he was stroking himself, though it wasn't to get ready: his cock was smaller than Jack's in length, but the girth was comparable. He was circumcised and the length of his light-colored dick was taut and the veins strained against it. It curved a little at the end, to the right, and the crown was fat and bulbous.

Jack slid his hands down to her thighs and pulled them open and apart. My wife's cunt glistened in the dim light and I distinctly heard a little slosh. She was wildly wet, and probably her cunt was still dripping with Jack's cum.

Jack's cock had been freed somehow, and it pressed between her legs, a dark snake ready to slip inside of her.

Claudia had been giving herself over to them as though she had no control, until that moment. She looked down at Jack's cock and absent-mindedly rubbed her hand over it.

Then she leaned forward and took Ricardo's cock in her hand. She admired it for a moment, maybe feeling out how different it was. So many different cocks in such a short time, I thought.

Ricardo backed up a little, so that my wife could lean forward and get her mouth on his dick.

Jack wasted no time adjusting himself behind her. He played with his cock at her opening for a bit, and Claudia moaned.

Her mouth was already full of Ricardo's dick, and Ricardo had placed his hand against the back of her head, pushing her head down to the base of his cock.

She'd had so much practice swallowing Jack's cock that this seemed to be no problem for her, and his fat dick filled her mouth with no problem. Claudia moaned again as Jack slid into her, spreading her pussy open yet again with his dark, gnarly prick.

The third man couldn't wait. He walked on his knees toward Claudia's mouth. It blocked my view, so I had to take a step to the left. Jack looked over at that point, and he must have seen me, but he turned his attention back to my wife's pussy again without acknowledging me.

Third man had his cock in his hand, and he had placed it on Claudia's bobbing cheek. Her jaw and her puffed-out face rubbed along the wet crown of his dick as she sucked Ricardo's cock earnestly. Her body swung back and forth lightly as Jack pistoned in and out of her.

The third man reached out and drew his fingers over Claudia's stretched lip and up to her ear. He pushed her hair from her face as she turned her head and let Ricardo's cock slide out of her mouth. Keeping her mouth open like a whore, she turned to the third man and took his cock inside her mouth.

Ricardo and this guy took turns pushing my wife's face up and down on their cocks, while Jack hammered her with increasing violence from behind. Her pussy was so wet that the sloshing it made could be heard over her muffled moaning.

Her mouth was full of the stranger's cock when she made a squealing noise and came.

Jack's cock slipped in and out of my wife a few more times, her cum making it slosh even more. Then he groaned, and thrust deep into her. I watched Jack fill my wife's pussy yet again. The tendons on his neck strained as his seed gushed deep into her.

Claudia had taken the third man's cock by the hand and let his dick slip from her mouth as her own jaw fell open with Jack's hard thrusts. Her face was wet with saliva and precum, water that had dripped from her eyes. She looked up at him once Jack finished himself off inside of her, and opened her mouth again with a smile, shoveling his prick into her mouth like she was starving.

Ricardo was rubbing his cock in her hair, his sticky precum dripping into her blonde strands. When Jack withdrew from inside of her, he hopped off the bed and went around to take his place.

Jack was slightly out of breath, and he reclined on the bed, leaning on one shoulder to watch as Ricardo slipped his cock into her pussy. Jack looked up at me briefly. His fingers stretched away from his bare chest, in the general direction of my wife. "You gonna get in on this?" he said.

Claudia, at that point, looked over at Jack and saw me through the mosquito netting. Her mouth was stretched open by the third man's cock and she met my eyes. He reached behind her and pushed her deep onto his dick, and she dropped her eyes to attend to her cocksucking more thoroughly.

"Fuck, that's a sloppy cunt," Ricardo said, dipping into my wife's pussy. He pushed her asscheeks open and watched his dick moving in and out of her.

I moved slowly around to the front of the tent where the opening was, my eyes on my wife being appropriated the whole time. Ricardo had grabbed her hips and was fucking her furiously, his face screwed up in determination. It was obvious that her pussy was just too wet for him to get any real traction.

The third man looked over at me and then right back at Claudia. She looked up at his eyes and he held her by the hair, holding her still so he could slam his cock into her face until he came.

When he did, he shoved himself deep in her throat and poured himself into her. "Keep it in there," he said. "Keep it in the back of your throat, I want to see it before you swallow."

I was sliding out of my swimsuit, and my cock bounced wildly.

He slid his cock from her mouth and she opened wide, like some slut from a porn video. I leaned over to see the glob of white cum in the back of her throat, just before she closed her mouth and swallowed it.

Ricardo groaned. "Fuck," he said. "Your pussy's too wet, you little slut," he said.

I looked down at Claudia, who was looking at me. She had my cock in her hand. We exchanged a lot in this look, at least I thought so. Claudia moved her head slightly in a nod, and smiled.

Such a little slut. I pushed her hair from her face and placed my cock on her whore lips, then I looked up at Ricardo.

"Claudia has a little fantasy," I said.

I slid my cock into her greedy mouth as I leaned over her to slide my fingers into her asscrack and touch her puckered asshole.

Ricardo grinned. "Oh yeah?"

Claudia made a noise on my cock, and struggled to release me. There was a wet slurp as she let my cock fall from her mouth and stroked me with her hand. She turned back to Ricardo. "I've only done it once," she said.

Ricardo already had a thumb against her hole, and he was making circles over it, entranced.

Claudia looked up at me, my cock in her hand. Ricardo guided his dick to her opening, and for a moment Claudia's face twisted with discomfort.

But then he was already pushing inside of her; there was nothing to be done. Her eyes grew wide and her jaw fell open, and she relaxed her grip on my cock.

I looked back at the inches of Ricardo's dick disappearing into my wife's ass, inch my inch.

"Oh," Claudia said, in a small voice. "Oh... slow down... oh," her voice was turning from an expression like she had been pinched into a moan. "Oh... oh, wait, oh god, it's too big... I can't..."

I looked up at Ricardo, ready to ask him to stop, but Claudia opened her mouth wide and gasped as the final inches of his dick filled her ass.

She looked up at me. "It's... so..."

Ricardo slowly drew his cock out a few inches, and then slowly back in. "Oh, my... oh my God," Claudia said.

Then, she looked down at my dick in her hand, and took it into her mouth again.

With her wet mouth around my dick, and the third cock of the last fifteen minutes, I watched as Ricardo fucked my wife in the ass. He moved slowly at first, and a murmur that vibrated over the length of my shaft built up in her throat.

He started to pump into her quickly, staring down at the same sight as me: his column squeezed by the stretched eyelet of her ass. I looked up to see that Jack was watching closely, enjoying the sight from where he was, his black member swelling back to life again.

I realized that in all likelihood, he was going to get inside of her again, that he would bury his shaft in her ass. I closed my eyes, trying to fight the thought down and keep myself from exploding, but it was to no avail: the orgasm boiled up in the base of my cock and soon I was filling Claudia's mouth with cum.

I felt it around my cock, against her soft cheeks, and when I looked down I shuddered: it was spilling out from the sides of her mouth. She sucked it off, her tongue swirling around my shaft, licking up every little bit until she released my dick and it flopped from her mouth.

"Oh, oh!" She looked up at me and tilted her head to suck some spilled cum from my balls.

I was so stunned by the scene once I came, by the extraordinary lengths my wife was going to, that everything started to happen in slow motion. I looked up at Ricardo, who looked at me. "She really likes it in the ass," he said, smiling.

I looked back down at Claudia, who had her mouth open and my balls dangling in it. She had closed her eyes and was rapt with the pleasure she appeared to be getting from Ricardo fucking her in the rear.

Her head sank down, and I sort of drifted backward onto the bed. Ricardo groaned and looked up at the canopy, yelling something in Spanish as he emptied his seed into Claudia's ass.

I felt the bed shift next to me, and Jack was moving over to take Ricardo's place. I looked at Claudia, who had sunk down to the bed, her chest against it, her eyes staring toward me but not at me. She had her hands under her chest and along her torso, and I could see that her fingers were in her pussy, playing with her clit.

Ricardo slid out of her ass, and I heard the wet splat of his cock as it fell against his thigh. I turned my head slowly from Claudia's vacant, hypnotized eyes, and caught a glimpse of Jack's shaft, thick and ready, pointed toward Claudia's butt.

I looked back at her, and her eyes went half-closed as he entered her. She mewled, her hand clutching at the mattress.

For a few minutes, Jack fucked her slowly, and then she began to howl again. The sloshing sounds of her own fingers in her pussy became louder and faster, and then she started to scream as she came. Jack sucked on his lower lip, enjoying the pulsing of her body, no doubt, as she came.

Jack reached forward and wound his hands in her hair. She was sweaty and her hair was as damp as if she had taken a shower. Jack pulled her gently back and up toward him, settling down on his feet so that he was kneeling with Claudia resting on his lap.

Claudia rose up at first, and Jack pulled her down. I could see his shaft between her legs, disappearing as she let out a howl. “That’s it. Sit right down on my cock.”

I stared at the scene: Claudia bounced up and down on his cock, her legs spread open again and her cunt just visible between them spewing her excitement and the cum Jack had already fucked into her pussy. Her thighs were soaked with cum, and her whole body was shiny with sweat. She leaned her head back toward Jack’s chest and let him bounce her over his cock as he pleased.

But then third man, who I had almost forgotten about, got in on the action. He moved toward them and fondled Claudia’s breasts. She was coming back to life again, her body tense with another building climax.

Jack leaned back, and the third man pushed her legs apart. For a moment I had a perfect view of Jack’s cock buried in her ass, his balls huge and swollen beneath it. Claudia’s pussy yawned open, and Jack snaked his arms under her thighs to hold her spread open.

Claudia opened her eyes and looked down at the stranger’s cock pointed at her pussy. “Oh,” she said. “I can’t! It’s too much.” But she bit on her lip and her hungry eyes stared at the dick that moved closer to her gash.

She stopped protesting, and stared wide-eyed as he lined his blunt cock up with her gushing hole. Juices were sliding down to her stretched asshole, probably helping lube Jack’s dick.

Jack’s cock was long enough that even sitting in this position, a good part of his dick was still inside Claudia, though it had to be pressing outward into her pussy.

“Oh my, oh my... oh my God!” Claudia shrieked, as the stranger braced himself on her shoulders, placed one leg over hers and Jack’s, and dipped his cock into her pussy.

His backside obscured her face, and all I could see was his body pistoning back and forth, a glimpse of Jack’s cock buried in her ass, and her flopping legs. Claudia squealed and screamed, moaned and mewled, until her voice finally disappeared into a high pitch shriek. “Fuck!” she yelled. “Oh God! Oh, no, I can’t take any more, oh fuck!”

Her legs went stiff as her body shook with an orgasm, and then she melted into a limp rag doll as they fucked her like a whore until they both came, filling her whole body with their cum.

When the two men's bodies ceased their lurching into my wife, the stranger fell back onto the bed and I saw Claudia. She was exhausted, a disaster, and Jack's cock was still inside of her. Ricardo had somehow gotten in, between the two of them, and guided his cock to her mouth, so she had her hand wrapped around his cock and her mouth around the crown of it, sucking away even though she was clearly half-dead from so much activity.

Cum drained from her spread pussy, and I stared at the sight while I listened to the wet sucking she was still giving Ricardo.

Jack pushed her up to get out from under her, his cock slipping out with another squelch. Ricardo cradled my wife's head and pushed himself further into her throat. He did most of the work, and Jack held her up from behind so that he could pound one last load into her mouth.

It took a long time for him to cum. My own cock was aching but I wasn't sure how to get in on this last bit of my wife.

When at last Ricardo came, Claudia swallowed dutifully, and he wiped a bit of cum from her lips and held his finger for her to suck it off.

Claudia fell forward onto the bed, stretching out alongside me, her legs tangled over Jack's. Her ass was wet with cum, shining in the light, and she smelled like the sweat and excitement of everyone who had fucked her.

I was exhausted, a little drunk. I could hear someone playing drums down the beach, and the waves began to lull me to sleep. I felt the bed shift as two of our companions left, and I pulled Claudia close to me as our sweat turned cool and the ocean breezes picked up. I found a sheet or a sari up above my head and pulled it over us. Claudia was already dozing. She faced me and snuggled into my chest.

On the other side of her body, I could feel the heat of another man, but I was too tired to care who it was.

I fell asleep.

My dreams were troubled. They were also about snow; I was walking in it with no shoes and my feet were cold as hell. I kept finding something to cover them with – leaves, or grass, but it would eventually cease to work.

Then a moose was drinking in a river next to me, and as I stared at it, the sound of the ocean slowly began to bring lucidity back to my mind.

I opened my eyes. Dawn was just starting to break, the light was blue. A Tiki torch dutifully, and almost miraculously, still whipped next to us in the light breeze, casting a strange light on the white netting of the bed.

The sound of the licking moose was still there.

I turned, and saw where it came from: my wife was facing me, her mouth open, her eyes closed, her naked body on its side. Her leg was propped up and Jack's dark hand was strung over her hip, his fingers embedded in her pussy. Her pussy sloshed as he played with her clit and dipped his fingers in and out.

Claudia moaned and opened her eyes. For a moment she just looked at me, her eyes a little stunned.

Her body was rocking slightly, toward me and back, and I dropped my eyes to see that beneath his fingers I could see his balls, and flashes of his long cock as he slowly moved it back and forth in her ass.

Jack lifted his head to look at me over her shoulder.

Claudia made another sound as Jack dove deep inside of her. He reached beneath her head with his free hand and pulled her face toward him, his fingers in her mouth. He darted his tongue around over my wife's mouth, playing with her eager tongue. All the while he stared at me.

I took it as a challenge.

I pushed myself over, and mingled my fingers in Claudia's hair. I turned her head and pressed her mouth to mine.

I dug deep into her mouth with my tongue. This wasn't so much a kiss as an act of ownership – I made sure she knew that, even as Jack pushed his cock around in her ass and made her throat vibrate with a moan.

I moved my hand down to where his fingers were playing with her soaked pussy, and I brushed them away from her cunt. Jack relented, and slid his hand under her leg, lifting it up to get me better access.

I didn't hesitate to guide my cock to the opening of her pussy.

She was so wet I slid right in, though I could feel how full and stretched she was. The hardness of Jack's cock grated against my own, through the wall of her soft pussy. I still had Claudia's mouth against mine, and she mewled into my lips. I released her too look at her face as I fucked her with Jack's cock inside of her.

I heard him breathing heavily, and then I saw his fingers digging into her arm, his lips on her neck, his teeth gritting, and he let out a low yell as he emptied his seed inside of her. I could feel his cock pulsing against mine, and the slow trickle of hot cum squelching from Claudia's filled backside.

It was so filthy. I met Claudia's eyes and she stared at me. I think if I had looked only at her eyes, I might have thought she was shocked by herself, that she had gone too far by letting two men fuck her at once in the morning like a whore. But her whole body shook with an orgasm, and her pussy clenched around me and I'm sure her ass did the same around Jack's still embedded cock, so there was no way for her to lie about how she really felt. She loved being a total slut.

I grabbed her hair and pressed her lips to mine as I hammered into her. I grabbed her raised leg and pulled it over my hip, and I heard the sound of Jack's cock flopping out of her. I fucked her until I came, loudly, filling her with one more load of cum.

Claudia was breathless, looking into my eyes, for several minutes. During that time, Jack must have rolled off the bed and gone down to the beach, but I didn't notice his departure.

It might seem strange that I would have the feelings I did at that moment. That lying there with my wife after she had done so many things outside the boundaries of faithfulness and our marriage, after she had let man after man try to satisfy needs I never knew was inside of her, I would feel the way I did: more in love with her than ever.

Claudia, for her part, seemed to be looking for my approval. In her eyes I could see that she was thinking of what she had done, wondering if it would, ultimately, be something that broke our marriage.

But we didn't say anything that morning. I pulled her over to me, and we wrapped what sheets we could find over ourselves, and slept until the early afternoon.

8: MIKE GETS HIS BOAT

We woke up to the sounds of voices on the beach.

We both sat up and pondered the scene, almost with disbelief. Though it was also a relief: all the people who had been around us in the darkness the night before, doing, I imagined, the same kinds of illicit things as us, were now up and acting quite normal. There was a game of frisbee going on in the water, and ladies sunbathing and occasionally complaining when a frisbee buzzed them too closely in their slumber.

I noticed that some of the resort staff were already at work changing the sheets on the canopy beds.

“This is really a trip,” Claudia said, almost as if she was reading my mind. “I still can’t believe places like this exist.”

Then she looked at me. “What do we do now?”

I kissed her.

“I think we swim, and then we get some breakfast, at this so-called resort. If it exists.”

We asked a few people on the beach where to get some breakfast, and it turned out that the so-called resort did in fact exist, just a short walk through the jungle on some wood boards. The island rose up and dropped off again, and there was a leaking tunnel through the hill, which is why the very normal, stylish hotel had not been visible from our side.

Jack and Ricardo were nowhere to be found, but the boat was still anchored out in the bay and I supposed I trusted Jack not to leave us there, although I had to admit that the prospect was semi-alluring.

This was not because I really wanted to indulge in more of what we had done last night, but because I wanted my wife to myself for a while.

It was a strange contradiction in sentiments, but it was how I felt. Claudia was so stunning, leaning on the table in the hotel restaurant, a veranda near a stunning pool full of beautiful people who seemed to be getting an early start on another evening like the night before. She had bathed in the water and somehow recovered her swimsuit and sundress. Yesterday’s sun had left a faint pink glow on her round cheeks, under the eye – not a sunburn, but close. Her hair was salty and windblown. She looked like some kind of surfing goddess, ten years younger, a lot more carefree.

We ate in a silence that was in no way uncomfortable. Claudia stroked my leg under the table, and we exchanged a complicit smile every now and then.

And then, suddenly, Jack was there. He smiled down at us, and I was surprised by how relaxed he was able to comport himself, given what had transpired the night before.

But I supposed that this was how people on this scene operated.

“So,” he said, clapping his hands together. “I need to know what your plans are for the day.”

Jack looked slightly harried. His phone rang and he held up a finger to apologize, he needed to take the call. He answered, then quickly broke into French.

Claudia appeared to be watching the pool.

“Sorry,” he said, putting the phone away. He squinted into the distance. “At any rate, it’s your choice, if you want we can stay another day, another two days. I have instructions from Joe to let you stay as long as you like...”

Jack looked pained, even as he smiled.

I looked at Claudia. She had a strange expression on her face.

“Let me talk to Claudia,” I said, “And we’ll tell you in... about an hour?”

Jack nodded, and hurried away, taking his phone from his pocket again as he went.

I was worried as I leaned across the table and took Claudia’s hand. Maybe this trip had become too much for her.

But she surprised me by saying: “I think he has another client, and he can’t take it because of us,” she whispered.

I had forgotten that my wife spoke very good French. She had studied in France for a year and everything.

Claudia bit her lip. She evidently wanted to say something, but she just didn’t know how.

“What is it?” I said.

She shrugged. “I’m just wondering what we should do.”

I waited while she chewed a little on her lip and thought.

“Well, do you want to stay here?”

Claudia looked around at the resort. She smiled. "I think this might be a little too... fast-paced for me."

I was almost relieved to hear her say that.

"But I'm not really ready to end our vacation," she said.

I waited.

"But I hate to screw Jack out of a lot of money by going to another... um, less... liberal island."

"Hmm," I said.

At this point, I just wanted some time alone with Claudia. We still had five days left before our flight home, and I didn't really want to spend them here, or on the boat with Jack and Ricardo. Or in Nassau, visiting Joe in the hospital.

It was Claudia who said it first, though the idea came to me at the same time:

"Can you really make that boat sail yourself?" she asked.

It was a stretch. A really reckless thing to do. It was a big yacht, an expensive one, and Claudia knew jack-all about sailing.

It was, however, largely automated. The weather and the seas were calm, the forecast was good for the next month. There was always the motor to fall back on.

"Can you learn a few things to help me out?" I said, smiling.

Claudia tapped her fingers on her lips and grinned impishly. "I guess I could learn," she said.

I set my hands on the table and looked around. "Okay... I have to find Jack, and call Joe, and do a few things, and then... we'll see."

Jack, it turned out, did indeed have an extremely lucrative contract in Turks and Caicos, and he was more than happy, if Joe was okay with it, to turn the boat over to me.

Joe, who had been sent back to Florida for an operation, must have been hopped up on morphine, because he told me to have a great time with Cynthia. I spoke to Brandy, just to be sure, and she seemed as blasé about whether we tried to sail their ten million dollar yacht around by ourselves or not.

"You have insurance, good insurance, right?" I said, idiotically.

"Mmm... I guess so. Yeah, probably."

This was a really bad idea. “Okay, well... if you’re okay with it,” I said, giving her one more chance to back out.

“You know how to sail, right?” Brandy said.

“Of course.”

“Yeah?”

“I’m so glad you had a nice time on Heller Island.”

There was a smile in her voice.

We waved goodbye to Jack and Ricardo as they boarded a float-plane in their miraculously pressed and clean white shirts and navy-blue shorts. They were the pictures of consummate professionalism, small duffel bags slung over their shoulders.

“Ready to spend the next four days all alone on a yacht, with just me?” I said, pulling Claudia close to me.

Claudia nodded wholeheartedly. She took my hand and we turned around and began to stroll through the very... happening... resort. We were headed for our raft, going back to the boat alone, for our own vacation.

“Just don’t turn it into some big marital fight when you teach me how to... do sailing stuff,” Claudia said.

“I bet not.”

Claudia kissed my hand.

“Does this mean you’re sold on the idea of getting a boat, by the way?”

Claudia smiled and leaned against my shoulder. “Let’s see how the next four days go,” she said.

What about Andrew, who keeps a secret hunger so buried perhaps he doesn't admit it even to himself? And what could be darker than Clement Ambode's already shadowy “reliability” as an all-purpose contractor in the underbelly of Lagos?

Charlotte, Andrew, and Clement will find themselves in a very dark place when their worlds collide in this ultra-sexy, novella-length cuckold story.
