To The Reader/Acknowledgements

There's a reason I really love this genre of erotica, and a lot of it has to do with the psychological depths (and highs) to which a hotwife/wife-swapping/cuckolding adventure takes the characters and the reader, and so also the writer.

It is, ultimately, a genre that seems to favor realism over fantasy (witness the grave unpopularity of my own books, Claire's Cowboy and Cuckold Time Machine, which I personally think are very fun but apparently went too far), and so I do my best to balance realistic characters and reactions with a story I hope people will ultimately enjoy reading. For me, it's important that the characters get to do something we likely will never be able to indulge in ourselves, at least not with the same tame and confined consequences. As I've mentioned before, I sort of look at erotica like action movies. Car chase scenes wouldn't be much fun to watch if thirty minutes of film subsequent to the chase were dedicated to watching the paramedics haul off all the fruit stand owners who will be paraplegic for life because your hero ran them over. I likewise don't feel like painting the marital aftermath of this sort of erotic adventure in too much detail.

But, my very favorite beta reader, who I am going to call Watson (and hope he laughs when I explain why), suggested a healthy dose of realism that be added to the end of this story. I really can't talk about it in detail without ruining the plot for you. At any rate, thanks W – I've made a compromise, and I hope it's satisfactory for you and other readers. (Also, you're tops).

Thanks also, as always, to my favorite authors – Ben, Kenny, Kirsten, Max. You have been great friends and colleagues, and I couldn't get in with a better crowd. (If you are a new reader, try out all of these wonderful authors in our collaborative anthology, Best Hotwife Erotica: Summer Confessions).

Kenny Wright has kindly graced this book with another beautiful cover; we should all thank him for that because my talents clearly lie in the realm of writing.

Semi-finally, it is my deepest wish that by reading this book, people are left with the impression that sexy things can happen in Canada.

My final thanks is for my readers. Thank you for your continued support, and I hope you enjoy my story!

1 THE COTTAGE

Every time.

I saw this coming, so I had already buried my desire to say, as I usually did: “God. Can we just...relax for a minute?” But I sighed audibly. Nikita shot me a fierce look, and began to wind her loose black hair into a bun. She clipped around the car and bent down to open the trunk from the drivers' side while squatted and stood to stretch my legs.

A middle-aged tightness was creeping into my joints. I wasn't some arthritic geezer, but I was starting to feel it: the slow hardening, the calcification of my body from the inside out.

I dropped to another squat and distracted myself from my middle-aged woes by appreciating Nikita's well-turned ass, displayed nicely in a pair of tight beige Capri pants, and swollen into a perfect shape as she bent over to unlatch the trunk. Nik took care of her figure the way she took care of everything else in her life: with a ruthless dedication to perfection.

The trip had begun, two days ago, with Nikita's long legs stretched out in front of her, and her black hair loose and blowing around in the wind. She had white Capris on that first day, and her olive skin teased me through the thing fabric as she skipped through the parking lots of truck stops where we playfully indulged in butter tarts, cheese curds, poutine, and other unhealthy Canadiana that were normally verboten. She had even broken her insurance-minded rules, and placed a leg on the dash for a while, giving me a nice view of her tight thigh through her semi-transparent pants, and a window to pleasant and dirty thoughts.

But, as usual, the hours of driving had worn the initial bonhomie of the trip down to silence and a desire to get there, red-eyed and humorless, without stopping.

“When will we learn this is a bad idea?” we always muttered, somewhere near Quebec City.

But we were here now, and we had a week of vacation sandwiched between our driving, and I was looking forward to Nik's more relaxed personality. If there was such a thing anymore.

She was down there longer than it took to pop the trunk, and I lingered in my squat even though it was mightily uncomfortable after so much driving, because the view of her ass was so lovely.

She was collecting scraps of wrappers, emitting her impatient sigh. I'm not as tidy as Nikita.

She stood up, and I did, too. I was overcome by the temptation, I reached out and slid my hands around her body. She let me hold onto her and slide my hand along her well-toned waist, but only for a moment. Then she pushed a stray lock of hair back from her face and squirmed away. She gave another sigh of impatience. "Let's get unpacked first," she repeated, and hoisted one of her well-packed plastic containers from the trunk.

I stretched and put my hands on my hips. This was the routine, and I knew Nik was going to get annoyed with me for standing around, but Jesus. It was a long drive, and there was a spectacular wind pushing waves onto the beach, it was hotter than usual, and I just wanted to sit on the rickety boards of the back porch with an ice-cold beer.

I opened the cooler. The ice had melted, and the beer was cool and not ice-cold, but it was good enough. Ignoring my never-put-off-for-the-minute-what-you-can-do-this-nanosecond wife, I rounded the cottage from the side and waddled through the grassy sand to sit down on the porch on the other side of the small home.

I heard the battered window slide open behind me, and I cracked the can at that moment. Nikita sighed. "Cole," she whined.

I held a second beer up. "Just come out here, and relax for a second."

Another sigh. The clattering of locks, the scrape of the screen door, and the beer was lifted from my extended hand.

It went like this every time.

"You're on vacation," I told her. "Just enjoy yourself."

Another sigh. "You're right." Her calves were next to me, firm and slender. She dropped down to the steps, and nudged me. "Sorry. I have a hard time relaxing."

We'd been coming here for five years, and every time it was the same song and dance. I laughed at the memory of it.

"What?" she said.

"It's just this happens every time."

She took a sip of her beer and gave her head a slight, upward shake. "Well," she said. "Maybe if we could go somewhere else."

Her tone was mostly joking, but there was a little irritation in it. We were trapped in Canada, with me in a residency status termed, nefariously, “implied.”

“Or at least drive through Maine,” I joked back. It would cut hours off the trip if it were possible.

She took a long drink of her beer. “God. Seriously.”

I kicked off my shoes. “Some day,” I said. “Until then, we have all of this grandeur,” I waved at the ramshackle cottage, which was quite nice inside but one of the more weather-beaten on the beach.

“Don't forget the Smiths.”

I nodded. Who could forget the Smiths? Bridge and pinocle, whenever you wanted.

Don't get me wrong, we enjoyed them, and they liked to get their gin and tonics on, but they were thirty years older than us. The rest of the cottages were inhabited by families who may or may not show up.

I liked it, because it was relaxing. I knew that Nik had a hard time sinking into it, but she usually ended up relaxed after a few days.

And we always came back here, which meant she enjoyed something about it.

“Okay,” she said, after a while. “Let's get unpacked for real.”

I saw her in the morning, through the window over the sink as I rinsed the dishes. The beach was wide and the tide was out, so she was far away, but there was no mistaking a woman like that for anyone we normally saw around here.

Or anyone you normally saw anywhere.

For one thing, she had a surfboard. Her hair was long and blonde, piled into a pony-tail high on her head and wet with seawater, clinging in a river to her bare neck and then her shoulder. She was wearing a hot pink sporty racer-back top and boy-short bottoms – no wetsuit – in that water, which, while it was at its warmest of the year, was still cold as fuck.

She was a big girl, a blonde girl with the pretty, sturdy figure of a pin-up girl. In fact, in spite of her contemporary, sporty suit, that's what she looked like at that moment, looking back over her shoulder and smiling back at the shore, her full ass jutting behind her in a pronounced and pretty curve.

Then she turned, and ran into the water. It licked her toned calves, swallowed up her hips, and she was off. She glided onto her surfboard with a practiced agility, then disappeared into the gray horizon.

That was when I realized I was standing there with our water on, staring.

Nik slid her coffee cup into the sink. "What?" she said.

"Can you surf here?" I said, after a too-long pause.

She shrugged. "I mean...maybe. I don't know. Cold, though."

An image of pebbled nipples beneath hot-pink swimsuit fabric blew life into my cock.

"I just saw a surfer," I said lamely.

Nik sat down at the table and propped her feet up. "Oh yeah?" she replied, but she was already on her Blackberry, and her tone couldn't have possibly cared less.

I turned my attention back to her. Two things were going through my mind: one, that I didn't want her to get sucked into work the way she always did; and two, I now believed we should go spend some time on the beach. I looked back out at the rolling waves, and could make out the pink of the mysterious woman's top floating above them.

I felt a little excitement stir inside of me. Not to say I'm the kind of guy to act on the presence of another woman. A few things stop me, and not all of them are noble: I'm far too lazy for that, for one. I'm also a one-woman guy. Nik is uptight, bossy, and frustratingly out of reach much of the time, but I'm essentially obsessed with her.

It was just so pleasant to have some female energy around. Young female energy. Particularly when it came in the form of a carefully sculpted, Swedish-looking surfer goddess. Especially when all I had come to hope for from this vacation was to be able to drink more beer with John in his workshop, easing the cans open one slow hiss at a time, so that his wife Elaine didn't come shrieking into the room and slap the can out of his hand while muttering incoherent threats about diabetes.

I sat down across from Nik and reached for her ankle. I placed her calf across my lap and stroked her smooth and impeccably manicured foot. Then I worked my thumbs into the center of her sole, and watched the effect ripple through her body.

I'll never know if a foot massage has the same effect on a woman that it does on me, but I have this weird experience where I can imagine, quite intensely, the feel of my own massage. It radiates right up from the sole of my own feet and into my cock as I massage Nik's feet.

I ground my thumbs in deeper, and I saw Nik's shoulder relax, and her lips part. She let her head drop back slightly, and closed her eyes. If she were capable, she might have purred like a cat. I picked up her other leg and started in on the gentle arch of her foot. Her toes were carefully manicured, painted a summery melon-red color, and the sight of her pretty foot gave me a little surge in my pants.

"No Blackberry. No work," I said. "Let's sit out on the beach and relax."

I was kneading the soft sole of her foot, and her leg was getting more supple across my leg, melting into my thigh. I could feel my cock getting hard, though I knew I would be pushing it trying for sex at this hour of the day and after talking her into it the night before.

What I would have loved to happen? For Nik to feel my twitching cock with her foot, and then move her toes over my shaft, stroking me with them. For Nik to give me a wink, and dig her bare foot into my boxers, and to feel the cold skin of her foot on my hot balls.

Nik was not exactly a sexual-spontaneity enthusiast, however. She liked to plan. The realist in me was just hoping to convince her to go outside, sit on the beach, and then perhaps we could run into the pink-clad surfer girl and her heavy, heaving breasts.

The beach. Nik likes to lie on the beach for about thirty minutes. Then she gets bored and puts me to work repairing the fence or demands that we go rent bicycles or sea kayaks. Which is probably good, because if I were left to my own devices I would just crack one open and stare at the waves.

"Hmm," she murmured, and I felt my cock twitch again. Her foot was close to my crotch, and I wondered if she felt it. If she did, she paid me no mind as she opened her eyes and leveled her head.

"Okay," she said suddenly. "But I've got to get ready."

By the time we got out there, the beach was again deserted except for a few people walking in either direction with dogs. As they passed, the dogs barked and lunged at each other, and then the sound of the surf took over. It was barely ten, but this far north the sun is wild in the sky by then, and Nik was judiciously applying sunscreen. She has pretty, light-olive skin that only toasts to a warmer shade in the sun, but she is the kind of person who never leaves the house with out a big, floppy hat, sunscreen, and dark glasses.

I watched Nik rubbing the lotion into her skin, and all the thoughts of the surfer flew right out of my head. Her limbs were perfectly sculpted by her rigid gym regimen, and though I knew she was doing it subconsciously, she was rubbing that creamy white lotion into her skin with such sensual, languid strokes that I felt myself getting hard again. She had a one-piece on, which was disappointing, but it was cute, a little retro, and very glamorous. An under wire bra pushed her small breasts into perky cups, and a low shadow was visible between the two curves. Beneath the suit I knew she had dark, mocha nipples that hardened into fat knobs at the center of a milk-chocolate, smooth areola.

I let out a sigh as she lowered her body onto the towel, lay on her stomach, and kicked her heels up. She rested her chin on another neatly rolled towel (she was impeccably prepared, going nowhere, ever, without everything she would need, even if the house was fifty feet away). She opened her book, marked, of course, with a tidy bookmark.

I shook sand out of my rag-eared paperback, and was pleased that my antics made her smile. She had applied a lip balm that was the same fruity shade as her toenails, and her skin was getting a salty flush to it already. Wisps of black hair grazed her back and teleported the shivers to my own.

“I brought your chair,” she said, without moving her head. “Could you also just get a little sunscreen on my back? Make sure I got it everywhere?”

I'm a man like any other man, and even though I knew my wife pretty well, I still heard her say this in the way a soft porn star might coo at the beginning of a video. Sure, I knew she was actually just making sure she had applied sunscreen judiciously on every last part of her body, but my hands were already feeling her satiny skin on my palms, and the shape of her bottom cupped in my hand.

I rubbed the lotion between my hands until it was warm, and I lifted the straps on her shoulders to work my palms over her shoulder blades. Up over her slender neck.

I suggested: “You'd better have someone make sure your bum is covered.”

I couldn't see her eyes, but I could feel the disturbance of the atmosphere as she rolled them right out of her head. “I got it, thanks.”

“Suit yourself,” I said, and plopped onto my own towel. I was already a little hot. My reasons for being here were to ogle Nik in her swimsuit, maybe run into the pink surfer, and to eventually claim to be so hot that I needed a beer.

2 MEET THE HUDSONS

The cool shadow of a cloud awoke me from my half-nap. For a moment I took it all in: the pleasant sound of the waves, the stinging of my skin because I had, in fact, been such an idiot as to not apply sunscreen in silent protest. I dreaded moving. The full impact of the burn would be evident then.

I sat up.

Nik was gone. Her book was lying open and it looked as if she'd been snatched away. I looked back at the house. The door was closed. Her flip-flops were still by the towel.

I looked back to the water. In all likelihood, she had decided to go swimming – and not casual, wading, fun swimming. The kind of hard-core, exercise-driven swimming that would take her out to some island and back, three hours later. It was the sort of thing Nik could end up doing: going out to burn off some energy, deciding there was some sort of competition between her and God, and then crossing the fucking Atlantic.

An exaggeration of course, but not much of one.

I couldn't see a single human form in the gray water. I felt a little twist of fear in my stomach: the waves were strong here, the water incredibly cold once you got out more than 50 yards. Really anyone sensible wouldn't get in without a wetsuit.

“Jesus,” I muttered under my breath.

What I did next may seem like a bit of an asshole thing to do, but if your were married to Nik you'd understand why it wasn't: if some battle was happening here between the sea and Nik, she was going to win.

And a different, more important, war was ongoing, and that was the war for my freedom to drink beer. In the quantities I chose.

Whenever I wanted to.

Without the look.

So I trotted up to the house, and whistled as I did a celebratory spin in front of the small fridge in the sun room – a gift from John, who had upgraded his own beer fridge secretly and wanted me to have my own, too – and selected a tall boy of an obscure Ukrainian beer, whose name was Cyrillic gibberish to me, that was sold in Quebec and contained about one and a half times the alcohol. This piece of information was also a gift from John, who had showed me the beer and told me to stock up when we drove through Quebec.

I slammed the first half of the beer, then sat down in the airy sun room to survey the sea again. I probably should have been looking for my wife, but I'll be honest: my eyes were really scanning the scene for a scrap of bright pink.

The beach was nearly dead. A few beach strollers were headed in the direction of our cottage from either side. The wind was picking up and our towels were turned over on our things on the sand.

The beer was going to my head. I was getting philosophical and nostalgic, and also turned on as I thought about the surfer-girl. I hoped I would see her again. I slammed the rest of the can, scanned the beach again, and retrieved another from the fridge.

When I sat down I looked at the figures coming down the beach. A dark couple: dark hair, with tanned or naturally dark skin, were walking and chatting excitedly to each other. It gave my heart a sentimental stir: the dark-haired woman was leggy and graceful like Nik, and there was a time when we used to have conversations like that. It's one of the things I had been attracted to about her: her fierceness, her passion, even in conversation. After being married for five years, I was rarely treated to that kind of-

I interrupted my own thoughts, because it came to me very suddenly that the raven hair blowing in the wind, and the pretty legs and trim figure of the woman on the beach, in fact belonged to my wife. Nik was strolling along with another man, talking the way she used to talk to me.

A stab of jealousy went through me. It wasn't an entirely unfamiliar feeling; Nik was a pretty woman, and she got a lot of attention from men. She sometimes reciprocated, with a flirtatious smile or an appreciative laugh. I felt the usual flare-up of quiet rage that I suspect any man gets – kind of a fun and terrible-feeling at the same time.

But this scene had unfolded differently, because in my mind those two had been a couple, and then suddenly they weren't. Suddenly it was my wife, and because I had superimposed the idea of her being that man's girlfriend or wife in the scene, I felt a more intense feeling.

It was also quite different. Part of it felt like fear: was my wife actually flirting with this guy? Maybe she was really attracted to him – and here, I narrowed my eyes and inspected him and felt even more fearful. He was a very fit guy. Not a muscle-man, but a man with abs. A guy who looked like he worked out or did some kind of work that kept him fit naturally. He was far away but there are some people whose faces are so well-structured that you can tell they're good looking from a distance, and he was one of those. A little like a fucking Ken Doll, with the shiny white teeth and everything.

So there was a little rage. A little fear (what if she became attracted to him, had an affair with him, left me here at the cottage alone?)

And then...something else. At the time I wasn't quite sure of what it was. I mean, maybe I was, and I just didn't know what to make of myself. But I got to thinking about how that guy was drinking in her nice tits, getting treated to her animated storytelling, watching her lips move and thinking about how he could get her to wrap her legs around his fit fucking torso and squeeze him tight while he sank into the hot wet center of her...and whatever it was I was feeling, it didn't get pent up in my chest or my stomach. No, it coiled up in my balls, and throbbed in my cock.

I watched this for I don't know how long. It was a surreal scene, observing my wife with this vague overlay of her being another woman. Something about that made her hotter. I was a little tipsy, and I slammed the rest of the second beer and made myself dizzy. The air was throbbing, and so was my dick, as I watched Nik push her hair over her ear, twist slightly back and forth, pointing at something in the distance.

And then she came into the scene.

I don't know how to describe the way she walked, but there was something to it. Maybe a slink, maybe a glide. Her body was big and curved and Nik was like a wispy twig next to her. Her long, dirty-blonde hair was loose and trailing behind her in the wind. She had exchanged her sporty suit for a form-fitting white dress, and the sea provided a perfect silhouette of her every curve. She sort of melted into the dark-haired man, and her hair blew out as she turned to say something close to his ear. She spoke to Nik and reached for her hand, not to shake but to squeeze.

Nik pointed at our house. The girls' hair was blowing in the wind and they both looked stunningly beautiful in their two separate ways.

I stood up and nearly stumbled out the door. The sand made me waddle awkwardly, and I wished I hadn't had anything to drink at all. I waved at them, but Nik didn't see me, so I looked like an idiot.

No choice but to keep waddling up to the water.

Nik's laugh was the first thing I was able to hear, and the three of them were chattering like a group of old friends by the time I finally reached them.

"Hey," I said, to no one in particular.

It should be said, because it maybe serves as an explanation for how stupid I was acting, that the dress this girl was wearing was made of a very, very thin fabric. It was all but transparent, and she had nothing on underneath it. The sun was shining through the back of it and so when she turned, the big caramel circles of her aureola, and her semi-hard nipples in the center of them, like partially-melted candy, were fully visible. The dark, bare coloring of her skin winked at me, and then, lower, where I could not help but let my eyes go, was a fold in the fabric where her pussy had to be, but no trace of darkness at all betrayed it.

A full bikini wax. Or whatever the fuck it was called.

I snapped my eyes back at my wife, with my mind racing on that single thought. I couldn't get it out of my mind, the idea of the bare pussy of this mysterious woman. Nik was talking to me, or about me, and she slipped her hand around my bicep. I heard the word "chef" used to describe my vocation, but I was in a tailspin in own mind. I was lost in a sea of white fabric, and all I could envision or hear or see or imagine was that woman's bare slash.

"...right?" Nik said, and I realized everyone was looking at me.

The other thing about this woman: her eyes were a strange, alluring, smokey gray color. At that moment. Later they would appear more blue, but they were in a shadow or reflecting the sea and they were so dirtily seductive somehow, that I got lost all over again.

Everyone was staring at me.

"I'm sorry," I blurted. "I had a couple of beers and...fell asleep...I'm sort of spaced out..."

This made the girl smile. Her mouth was of that strange kind: she had big lips, sensual lips, but they were a dense, flat surface in a way. Nik had removed her sunglasses and so the iciness of her look was palpable. The man looked at me with disdain, and it was easy to see he was not the kind of man who fell asleep on the beach. Or anywhere, probably.

"This is Mitch," Nik repeated, like she was speaking to a five-year-old, "and his wife, Paige. Hudson. They are staying at the Smiths' house this

I shot out my hand to Mitch, who shook it violently and nearly crushed it. Oh yeah, I thought. That kind of guy. Up at four to check his email, trade some stocks, see what's coming in and going out. “Cole,” I said, as sternly as I could manage. Because I hate guys like Mitch, but there's a masculine need to sort of...I don't know, make one's chest appear broader.

Paige took my hand, but she didn't shake it. She kind of massaged it, and her touch sent a knife of lust through me. I couldn't stop my eyes from drifting down to the plunge in her dress, to the warm shade of her skin beneath the fabric and the dark circles of her aureole. I looked back up at her ice-gray eyes, and she was staring right at me, but there was friendliness and no offense in her expression. In fact, she seemed like she was pleased that I had taken the time to visually grope her. “I'm Paige,” she said, and her voice had this lovely gravelly resonance to it. It was a relaxed voice, the voice of a woman who lived at a nudest colony and smoked a lot of weed.

My eyes went back to Mitch, and then to my wife, and the whole scene made very little sense to me at that moment.

“At the Smiths'?” I said, vacantly.

No John, I remember thinking. No beer and no pinocle.

Paige pushed her hair up with one hand, and her breasts shifted in her dress and made me want to reach over and cup them. The motion was lazy, reminiscent of a stretch, and she seemed to be yawning even though she wasn't, as she drawled to Mitch that she was going back to the house for a cat nap before they went out.

I kept my eyes on the thin line of the ocean and off of Paige's ass, which I really wanted to see moving beneath that fabric, and mumbled: “What brings you guys all the way up here?”

When I looked at Mitch his face seemed hard. He had a smattering of stubble all over his square jaw, and it seemed to have grown in while we were standing there. His eyes took another dive at my wife, and I could have sworn that something was exchanged between them.

Then he shook his head and smiled. “Wife's always wanted to come. Likes to surf. She wants to surf everywhere.”

Mitch had the kind of voice I didn't get to hear much anymore, up here. American. American businessman. A man who spoke and got things done.

“Where y'all from?” I said. I was from Washington, which is about as far away in every sense of the word from places where people say “y'all,” but I liked to use it to identify myself as American.

No Canadian would ever say that, you see.

Mitch sighed, as if this question was far too profound and troubling for him to take on. “All over. L.A..”

Nik pushed her hair back and almost sniffed at the air with interest.

Nik loved New York, but right after that she loved L.A.. The way greyhounds love races. “This must be perfectly awful,” she said. She was referring to the beach, I knew, and the fact that there were maybe 30 people under the age of fifty in this whole province, and none of them had coffee at four to check their email, if they even knew what that was.

Mitch shrugged. His eyes – and I remember this clearly – took a long, lingering walk all over Nik's body, sweeping a few extra times over her breasts, and he smiled. “It has its charms.”

I actually saw Nik ripple at this. She gave a twittery laugh, or maybe I should say it sort of erupted out of her mouth like a hatching bird, and then she looked quickly at me, as if in apology.

My cock twitched. My head was spinning.

“Where are you going?” Nik said, suddenly.

Mitch looked at her quizzically, as did I.

“Oh you mean tonight,” Mitch said, after a long pause.

I saw something flicker across his face just then. A little spark of interest, amusement, and the hint of a hunter roused. “There's some bar, Paige's heard of it from her surfer friends. It's down the highway there. You heard of it? Zigzag's? Zambuca? Something with a 'z.'”

I squinted. I was still getting over the idea that anyone would come to Canada from L.A. to surf. Without a wetsuit. And wear a see-through white dress like that.

Then I felt a strand of Nik's hair against my arm, and her hands closed around my bicep. “Oh, let's go!” she said, and gave a little hop. “Can we?”

I looked at her. Her eyes were alive and bright, and I could see she was plotting something. Deep down inside, I knew it was probably something very financial, very network-y and start-up-y, and not anything sexual. But the quiver went through me again. I looked back at the tan, muscular Mitch.

“Uh...how far is it?”

“Not far.” Mitch placed a toothpick in his mouth and turned to walk down the beach, where I could now see that Paige had decided to take a catnap on a towel, and the sun was making her skin glow right through her dress. “Stop by if you're coming, say seven.”

And he walked away, toward the statuesque Paige lying on the beach.

“Holy fuck,” I said bemusedly.

Nik looked at me, one hand up to her face to block out the sun.

“What?”

I decided not to try and explain what my comment really meant, even if I was sure of it myself, and instead swung toward her and put my arms on her slender shoulders. “Who,” I said dramatically, “am I going to play pinocle with?”

She gave me a funny look. It might have even had a little tease in it. It's hard to say, especially after all that's happened, and because Nik was never the teasing type. Not this kind of tease, anyway. “Maybe Paige knows how to play,” she surprised me by saying. “You two could get a little pinocle on.”

I couldn't think of anything to say. It was really strange to hear Nik egging me on to flirt with another woman. I decided I was hearing things.

But Nik pushed her hair from her face and squinted out to sea. “That dress,” she murmured.

Ordinarily I would have interpreted this as a catty comment. Nik was competitive, and women seemed to have some innate need to say something shitty about attractive women in too-short or too-see-through clothing.

But oddly, it didn't sound that way at all. It sounded almost...admiring.

I raised an eyebrow.

I was drunk. What the hell?

“It's some dress,” I said.

Nik slapped my arm. “So let's go,” she said, cheerfully. “I've never heard of this place but I'm curious. This place,” she waved her hands around at the beach. “Is extra-dead this year.” She turned and started to walk back to the towels, where I heard her voice of complaint rise over the wind and the waves.

“Cole,” she whined, because her book had sand on it.

I gave a final glance at our new neighbors, and my stomach shifted like the sea in front of me.

Maybe this vacation would turn out okay.

ZACH'S

Mitch drove. The car was a mystery, if they were in fact from L.A., because it was a tan Jaguar with a tan interior and Canadian plates. I have no idea where someone would rent something like that anywhere in the whole country, let alone in the boonies, but Montreal or Toronto seemed like the only possibilities. And who has enough money to rent a Jaguar, but decides to drive (as opposed to fly) all the way up to Cape Breton?

I frowned at all these thoughts, and Nik caught me, and slapped me on the arm. She professed to detest my tendency to believe in conspiracy theories, but secretly I believed she liked it.

Mitch drove like I expected him to: too fast, but deeply in control. Masculine, rich-man driving. Paige sat up front, still wearing that fucking dress, though she had put on a pair of white panties. I saw them as she climbed in to the Jaguar: a narrow strip of thong nestled in the center of her ass. Now that the sun was lower, the dress was less see-through, but not by much. She hadn't bothered with a bra, and so the dress kind of hung around in the air like fog: if the light was right, I would maybe see her nipples.

Nik had put on a black dress that hugged her at the waist and hip and flared slightly to her knee. The neck of it was a wide cowl. She had put on red lipstick and had her dark hair down in a silky, shiny mane that I knew didn't come at no expense: a variety of products and care had to be applied to her very wild chocolate brown hair to achieve that look. The attention she had put into herself sort of sliced at me, but in a strange pleasant and painful way.

I was surprised she had a dress. This wasn't exactly the sort of place one needed a cocktail dress.

But...Nik was both highly economical and liked to be prepared for all occasions. I decided I shouldn't have been surprised that she had tucked away a single, form-fitting black cocktail dress that would serve its purpose tonight. It was very sexy, but could easily be converted into a dress for a funeral if the occasion arose.

I had on jeans and a white shirt, because I am generally not prepared for anything except dinner service.

Nik had sighed at me and raked some of her hair gel through my head before we left.

Zach's Shack had the appearance of a total dive from the outside. I supposed we had seen it a million times- I had thought it was a bait and tackle shop because of a fish half-hanging from the side of the red building. Inside, though, it was lively and quite nice. The interior was shabby but in a determined way: in actuality someone had spent a great deal of money refurbishing the place and then making it look like it hadn't been refurbished.

There were pool tables, a restaurant with seafood that was rumored to be excellent, and a stage with promises of a live band later.

"How come we never knew about this place?" Nik breathed.

The women crossed the room ahead of us to a table near the stage. It was nearly the only table left. A lot of hardened men who seemed to be either fishermen or construction workers were sitting sullenly at the bar, and their eyes tracked the two women with lust.

Paige seemed to move more than an ordinary woman. She was like a liquid. She poured herself into the booth and began to fiddle with things. Mitch sat across from her, leaving Nik and I with only one choice: I sat down next to Paige, and Nik sat next to Mitch.

Paige's long hair was given a few glorious tosses, and her silky mane scraped over my skin, sending tingles through my entire body. She examined the menu with one finger between her teeth. Heat radiated from her body, or seemed to: it could have been my imagination. Just having her move next to me in her feline, sexual way made my cock hard. I stared at my own menu.

"Oh," she growled, looking up at Mitch with her smokey eyes. Her lips turned up in a seductive smile. "I'm going to have the oysters."

Seriously. She seriously said this, in a sultry voice, while she nibbled at the tips of her fingers and her lips curled up seductively. My treasonous mind offered up a picture of her slurping oysters out of a half-shell while staring at Mitch the way she was now.

Another wave of stiffness shuddered through my cock. I wouldn't be able to get up from this table all through dinner at this rate.

I looked at Nik. She was studying the menu with her characteristic intensity, weighing the pros and cons of every menu choice with an actuary's acumen.

There was a bucket of crabs and beer deal, which is what I really wanted, but when I pictured myself smashing crab shells and guzzling beer next to the slinky Paige, I nixed it. I shrugged. "I'll have oysters, too."

I don't care much for oysters, and as a trained chef I tend not to trust anyone I don't know to ensure their quality, but there was something so slimy and sexual about the idea of them at that moment that I couldn't imagine ordering anything else.

Nik folded her menu. "They have an oyster special," she said. She turned to Mitch. "You want oysters, too?"

Mitch grinned at Paige, and the air sizzled with some shared, and obviously sexual, joke or innuendo between them. "Let's all have oysters," he said.

When the waitress came he ordered white wine for the ladies, but a beer for himself. Thank god. I did the same.

Nik and Mitch very quickly ended up facing each other and jabbering about business things and entrepreneurship and all that crap I hated. I turned to Paige.

"So...I saw you surfing this morning," I said awkwardly. "Isn't that a bit...cold?"

A shiver, but an electric and sexual one, seemed to physically ripple through her at that moment, and she took in a sharp breath that she managed to make sound icy and erotic all at once. "It's so invigorating," she breathed. She shook a little, deliberately, and her great big breasts swelled like waves under the transparent material.

I think I just stared at her. "Oh," I said.

"I love surfing," she purred, and she took a sip of her wine to taste it for the waitress. When the glass was filled, she brought it to her lips and poured a great deal of it into her big mouth. "Mmm," she said. "This is a really good one. Do you want to try it?"

I was somehow holding my beer in my hand by now, and I looked at it. "I'm, uh...okay," I said.

I was acting like a complete idiot.

“So what do you do, Cole?” she said. She turned in the booth and pulled her legs up to fold her arms over her knees. This meant – and the idea seared through me, putting a streak of color on the back of my neck – that her short skirt was hiked up to her hips and her white panties were just there. If I dropped my eyes I could see them. I held her gaze, rigidly, far above her knees.

Across from us, Mitch and Nik were so absorbed in their conversation (I hoped) that they didn't notice this “turn” of events.

“I...sorry?”

Paige laughed. It was a low, wet laugh. A fun laugh. More air than anything. Her eyes were bright and knowing: all men in the world probably had to ask her what she had just said, over and over again. And she knew why.

“What do you do?” she repeated. She put her thumb between her teeth. “No, let me guess,” she said suddenly. Another beautiful shake of her long hair and a sip of wine. “You're not a business-type,” she said, grinning.

I shook my head.

In fact, “what I did,” was temporarily quite embarrassing, because I was working as a baker. In a variety of immigration mishaps and because of some bad luck with the restaurant I had originally worked at, I was left with a single job, the worst one I'd had, and no way to change jobs until my permanent residency application went through.

I also couldn't leave the country, which is why we were vacationing in Cape Breton and not L.A..

“Chef,” Paige said finally, taking her guess.

I raised my eyebrows.

No sense telling her that I wasn't. I also wasn't lying, not entirely, because that was my vocation.

Just not my job.

“I'm impressed,” I said.

Her eyes sparkled. “Your hands are all cut up,” she said, but she looked at them like she wanted to fuck them.

I shivered.

“And you?” I asked. I took a sip of my beer. “Besides surfing?”

“Oh that's all I really like to do,” Paige said. “I sit on the beach. I smoke.” She was grinning at me. “But what else do you do, Cole, when you aren't cheffing?" Her voice was flirtatious, ridiculously sexy. She was burning right through me with her smokey gray eyes.

The waitress arrived to save the day, placing several trays of oysters on the table. Everyone dropped their conversations to survey the food and comment on how good it looked. I was grateful for the breakup of the conversation between Paige and I, because it had been quite...inappropriate-seeming. I was also grateful that she slid her legs back onto the floor and I no longer had to force my eyes anywhere but the place they most wanted to look: the slash of white between her legs.

I had pictured a table full of raw oysters, naturally, but there were five plates with a variety of oyster preparation. Still, Paige did not disappoint. She dove into the raw oysters, bringing the ragged shell to her lips and sucking the slick wet oyster right into her mouth with a loud slurp. Her body gave a faint purr after she did, and then she rubbed her lips together. "I love raw oysters."

Even Nik watched her eat the second one, and there was really no way for anyone to tear their eyes away from her. She was like some porn goddess putting on a show of it. She also seemed to not only not mind that we were staring at her, but to actually crave it. Another oyster slipped into her mouth and she hummed with the same sexual pleasure as before.

Nik reached for a raw oyster a little hesitantly. "I don't know..." she said. Then she looked at Mitch.

He got his own raw oyster. "Just put it here," he said, bringing the shell to his mouth, "and suck it up."

He demonstrated.

Nik copied him. The gray oyster slithered into her mouth and she looked up at the ceiling as she tasted it.

Now, a few things here: I had never seen it personally, but I was sure as shit that Nik had eaten a raw oyster before this moment. She was foodie and a bit of a snob, which is how I met her, so the idea that this had never happened once in her life was preposterous.

She was sure acting the part though. She giggled.

"What do you think?" Mitch said. He was leaning closer to her, scanning her face for her reaction. Really playing up the older, richer, guiding man type.

I glanced at Paige, and saw that she was utterly unbothered by the way that her husband was interacting with my wife. She was scooping a bit of Oysters Rockefeller from the shell and turning the spoon upside down to hollow the meat out with her tongue.

So I heard, rather than witnessed, Nik say: “Oh, yeah...it's...I think I like it...” with a girlish twitter.

“Try another,” Mitch suggested.

I selected a raw oyster and set it on my plate. I inspected it for quality of preparation. Seemed fine. I took an Oyster Rockefeller and sniffed it.

I could do better. Too much Parmesan.

I opted for the raw oyster and sucked it up.

Paige put away the rest of them, without really asking if anyone cared. No one, it would seem, did particularly care if she sat there sucking raw oysters into her mouth and tossing her hair around. She sucked down her glass of wine and poured a little more into her glass.

She exchanged a mischievous look with Mitch. “Hmm,” she said. “These really do make you horny. ”

As she said this, she squirmed a little in her seat, and I imagined her nice white panties turning cream-colored with her excitement.

I looked at Nik. She seemed – and this was a little odd – more fascinated by Paige than anything else.

Paige stood up suddenly. “I'm going to play pool,” she announced. She looked at Nik and jerked her head back, in the direction of the pool tables. “Coming?”

Nik looked amused. Which was strange.

“Come on,” Paige said, and she had a tone that was actually irresistible. “I need a wing man.”

Nik shrugged, and stood up. Paige had a certain quality to the way that she spoke that was both laid-back and demanding. If she wanted you to play pool, well, then, you would.

They made a pretty picture at the pool table. Nik racked the balls, which surprised me, because in all my life I hadn't ever seen her play pool. Then of course we, and the rest of the bar, were treated to the very pretty image of Paige bending over to line up her shot.

The neck of her dress fell down low, exposing her tits nearly all the way to the nipples. They swung, big and beautiful and braless, as she drew the stick between her fingers, and rubbed it a few times back and forth to line up the shot. All the obvious, cliched images of poles and fingers bubbled over in my mind, and I felt my mouth going dry from hanging open so long.

I looked over at Mitch who had turned himself to lean on the booth and look directly at the area where the two were playing pool. Then I looked around the bar, and saw that nearly every man was watching the same scene with interest, even the men with lady friends couldn't help but steal a glance at the game.

Now my wife leaned over the table to line up her shot, and I saw the men at the bar watch her ass with enjoyment. The pair really did make a stunning sight: one big, blonde girl with huge tits, and one lean, dark, beauty. They looked very exotic paired off like that, their contrasts highlighting their assets.

The girls were smiling and chatting with each other, walking around the table, holding the sticks in their hands.

“Nik is really hitting it off with Paige,” I said, absent-mindedly. She wasn't usually this friendly right away, with anyone. Come to think of it, she was really friendly with Mitch as well.

Mitch ate an oyster and watched the ladies. He said nothing in response to my statement.

After a few minutes, some young guys – younger than us, at least – approached the table. Swaggered up to the table, more like it. I felt a drop in my chest, and an urge to wave Nik back to our booth. I looked at Mitch.

His gaze had gone from mild interest to a much more profound kind. But surprisingly, he didn't seem concerned about men coming to hover around his beautiful wife. He almost seemed...pleased.

I looked back at the table.

Paige was leaning one knee against her stick, and smiling seductively at one of the guys. Her mouth was moving and she was evidently negotiating some sort of proposal with him. Her hands were moving up and down the pool stick, very suggestively. Every snake of her hips seemed to push her closer to the guy.

She was flirting. Heavily. Obviously.

I looked at Nik. She was a little uneasy. The friend of the lucky man who had Paige's attention had turned his sights on Nik. The guy was clearly flirting, rounding up the balls, making a joke. Nik was giving him a nervous smile, and watching Paige, and looking like she sort of wanted to make a run for it.

I looked back at Mitch. He was still just watching the whole thing. It occurred to me at that moment that the expression on his face was more like that of a coach or a director, and less like that of a husband. It was almost as if this was some sport or scene he had put into play and was now analyzing, pleased with how it was turning out.

It was weird.

I looked back at the girls, and they were now racking the balls to play a game of pool with the two young men. Nik seemed to have eased up a little. She was holding her pool stick in front of her and speaking to the guy who had been hitting on her. I watched her give her own hair a toss.

The next ten minutes consisted of Nik and Paige leaning over the pool table, and lovely views of either their asses or their tits swinging over the green felt. Mitch continued to stare like a director. At one point, the guy who had been hitting on Paige leaned over with her, at what appeared to be her own request, and helped her line up her shot. When she stood up, she leaned back against him.

Paige's libertine behavior seemed to be rubbing off a little on my wife. In one sizzling moment, Paige walked by her and placed a hand on her shoulder, cozying up against Nik to whisper something into her ear. Paige's lips were very close to Nik's ear, and whatever she said made Nik smile.

Of course my mind went straight into the gutter.

After this scene, Nik seemed to be drunk on some kind of flirting elixir. She giggled and bounced her little tits, and she even placed her hand on one of the guy's hands to tell him something.

I watched her hand on his, a brief tap, then she paused, the heat of her palm lingering on the back of his hand, and then she tapped again.

Nothing outrageous. Just a little flirting.

The girls evidently lost the game, because I heard Paige's throaty cry of disappointment. The girls bid them farewell, but of course the men were more interested in following them than claiming their pool table. They offered them a beer to make up for their loss. Maybe a rematch. I couldn't hear from where I was, but I could watch the swirl of movement, and the way the men stayed close by Paige and Nik.

Jealousy was flaring up inside of me as I watched Nik, her wedding ring glinting very obviously on her left hand, chat and smile at the man who was flirting with her. But she at least seemed a little hesitant.

Paige was remorseless. The guy had a hand on her knee now, and they were leaning together like old lovers.

I finally couldn't bear it anymore. "That doesn't bother you?" I said to Mitch.

Mitch didn't move his eyes from the scene. He shook his head.

At that point Nik looked over at me, and when her eyes met mine, I saw her face change. She excused herself, and then spoke to Paige, who smiled at her and whispered something lengthy in her ear. The two of them seemed to glance over at me, and I thought I saw Nik smile.

But she looked confused as she came down the steps to the area where we were sitting. She looked behind her, then sat down next to me. She put her hand on my arm, and had the look of a guilty dog who has just been caught eating chewing on a favorite shoe.

"Have fun?" I said, because there was something about her expression, and the guilty look on her face, that I was oddly enjoying. By enjoying, I mean it was stirring up my dick.

When her remorse visibly deepened, I felt myself enlarge again. In reality, my cock had been semi-hard watching this whole scene unfold, and I had only a little way to go to full readiness.

She looked at Paige. "Paige is er...still.."

We all followed her gaze to Paige, who was now walking her fingers up the length of the man's arm. The friend who had been hitting on was standing up with the obvious intention of making himself scarce.

Paige reached out and took his arm. She pulled him down to the table and beckoned him to sit down.

In the corner of my eye, I saw that Mitch gave a slight nod, almost as if to indicate that this was precisely what he wanted.

Nik stared at Mitch, and then looked at me for guidance.

I watched Paige, a sense of awkwardness closing in on my chest, and also excitement, and also curiosity. She was full-on flirting now, playing with her hair and the small pendant on her neck, drawing attention to her bare breasts beneath the fabric. She was saying something to the two of them now, and it certainly didn't look chaste from where we were sitting.

Nik cleared her throat, and looked down at the plate in front of her. She took an oyster.

"Are we...staying for the band?" she asked.

Mitch didn't move. His eyes were on Paige like a hawk. I looked at Nik and spluttered, cheerfully and with the intention of breaking the weirdness, "I...maybe...sure, why not? It'll be fun. Or maybe...we should?"

Nik shook her head a little, disbelievingly. Her mouth turned up at one corner and we shared our respective awkwardness at the whole scene.

Mitch turned to us very suddenly. "Kids," he stated. "I'm going to have to go soon. Can you all take a cab home? I'll pay for dinner to make it up to you."

He stood up, dropping $200 on the table.

Nik leaned her head a little to see what Paige was doing.

"What about...?" she murmured. She was looking back and forth from Mitch to Paige with the same confusion that I was.

"Oh," he said, very casually. He smiled. "She's leaving, too." His eyes swept down, and then from Nik's face to mine. "Want to join us?" he asked. Very quickly, because he knew the answer would be a confused uncertainty, he chuckled.

Then he left the table, and he walked right past Paige and her two "friends" on his way out the door. Paige waved at him, and blew him a kiss. They exchanged, to Nik and my infinite confusion, a thumbs-up.

Nik poured herself some more wine from the bottle, emptying it.

"What the fuck is going on on?" she whispered to me.

I mean, it was obvious, wasn't it? In a way? Surely Nik thought the same thing I did?

We watched, as though it were a movie now, as Paige continued to flirt. She crossed and uncrossed her legs, and she leaned over the table to say something while she drew lazy circles on the surface with her finger.

The guys were practically salivating, whatever she was saying. But they too, exchanged a look of disbelief at whatever it was she was telling them.

"They can't be...like, she isn't going to...?" I murmured.

Nik gulped the wine. She hit me gently on the back of the arm when Paige – and her two friends – stood up. Paige led the way, her hips swinging from side to side.

A full minute passed as we stared at the door they had left by, and then Nik covered her mouth to stifle a wet laugh. "Are they swingers?" she cried. "Did we just...did they just...?"

I shook my head and looked around for the waitress. I needed a beer.

“With those two guys!” Nik said. When I looked at her she was wearing her “flabbergasted” face.

I played with the neck of my beer bottle and looked at the wall behind where Mitch had been sitting. “I don't know,” I said coyly. Then I shrugged.

Here it should be pointed out that I said this with plenty of “jokey” tone, so that if, as I anticipated, Nik was completely horrified by the idea and wanted me to be joking, I could claim that I was joking.

Part of me, though, was serious, as I made the following suggestion:

“Might be kind of fun, wouldn't it? Hot night, two hot guys...” I let my voice trail off suggestively.

Nik was staring at me, open-mouthed.

She was scandalized.

But she was happy-scandalized.

She was a little drunk, I could see. She hit me with the back of her hand again.

We grinned at the wall.

“And what's with Mitch?” she said, abruptly. “I mean...is he going to pick up a girl or something...or...” she turned to me. Her eyes were alight with gossipy delight. “You don't think he's like, bi- or something? And then...but those two guys were not. How does that even work, I wonder?” She bit her lip and smiled.

“I think he just wants to watch,” I said.

Nik crinkled up her nose and looked at me in absolute confusion.

“What?”

The waitress appeared and I begged her for a beer.

Now it was my turn to have fun. “How are we gonna eat all these oysters?” I said. “Maybe we should get a doggie bag-”

“We don't have a dog,” Nik said, slapping me lightly for a third time with the back of her hand. “Don't change the subject. What do you mean, 'he's just going to watch?' Did he tell you that? Come on, dish the dirt.”

I looked at Nik. Now this was promising: her eyes were lit up and she was getting excited and flushed. Which, if I had thought about it, should have been a sign that something was up with my wife.

“He didn't say anything,” I said, slowly, really dragging out the suspense. “Just...”

“Just what?”

I shrugged. The waitress set a beer down next to me and I took a slow draw of it.

“Cole,” Nik said sharply.

I set the beer down. “I mean, it's hot, right? Watching your wife with another guy.”

“What?!”

I shook my head sincerely and crossed my own chest like I had entered a church. “Not me,” said quickly, but with a teasing smile. “Not me, just...some guys. Certain men.”

Nik's mouth stretched open wider and wider, and it was really quite lewd what I thought of at that moment. “No way,” she said. “You really are into it, huh?”

She said this almost like she had made the wrong bet on a horse. A little regretfully.

“I'm not...it's just...it's a thing,” I assured her.

“For who?” She was amused.

“Well,” I said, looking back at the door. “Mitch, for one.”

She continued to look at the wall. She took a sip of my beer, because she had polished off all the wine. She was shaking her head.

“But not you?” she said suddenly.

I had no idea what her tone was. Hopeful? But hopeful that I would say “yes?” Or “no?”

What to answer here?

I shrugged. My motto in life is to be the kind of guy that everyone thinks is always joking. This way, you can claim to have been making a joke whenever you were serious about something and it went awry.

“I dunno. I could get into it.”

“Stop it.”

“I could. It was sort of hot, watching you flirt with those two...”

“I wasn't flirting!” she said, indignantly.

“Sure.”

“I wasn't!”

But she was smiling now, winking without winking, playful and teasing.

She lowered her voice. “You think she's like..I don't know...having sex with both of them?”

“I hope so,” I joked.

Nik covered her mouth and giggled, which was a surprising reaction from her, in a way. I say “in a way” because Nik was usually competitive and a little uptight, but she was also occasionally (and only ever occasionally) a real firecracker.

“God,” she remarked. “This is seriously the craziest thing I’ve ever seen with my own two eyes. I mean, I knew people did this but...” she smiled.

“Well, we should do it!” I said jovially. It should be noted that this suggestion was maybe, 87% joke and 13% serious. It percolated up into my consciousness that Nik’s competitive spirit could be capitalized upon here, but I myself was only into the idea in theory at that point. I didn’t really believe Nik would take anything I was saying seriously. “Can’t have Mitch and Paige having all the fun, being hotter than us.”

There was a moment, after I said this, and I have no idea how long it lasted. To me, in my memory, it seemed like an eternity. Nik’s eyes narrowed just slightly in competitive determination, a flush moved across her cheeks, her eyes seemed to boil to lighter shade of brown. Her jaw moved slightly from side to side – just ever so slightly – and for a moment her face froze in this expression; behind her countenance I could almost see the quick mechanics of her mind on high. The air between us seemed to be turning to plasma, rippling in the heat.

Then her face softened, and she laughed.

But she said:

“Maybe.”

Her voice was teasing, and she gave me a final, glinty flash of her pretty eyes, before she dove into the remaining oysters, and said no more.

“You shouldn’t eat those,” I said, because I could think of nothing more at that moment, I suppose, to say. “They’ve been out.”

Because Nik was joking, of course...right? She wouldn’t actually consider doing something like that? I was joking, right? I wouldn’t want to watch my wife sandwiched between two young men, taking their cocks inside of her...

Nik ran her eyes over me as I was thinking, and I almost felt like my fantasies were exposed to her.

My cock was hard, and my skin was tingling. I sought out the waitress and asked for the number to a cab company. I wanted to get home and talk Nik into hopping into bed.

Nik, however, surprised me by not needing any talking into bed. Two minutes into the cab ride, she slid her hand between my legs, along my thigh, and then drew it back so that her pinky finger grazed my cock. She smiled when she discovered that I was already hard.

She didn't do much else on the way home, but she moved her hand occasionally, as if to make sure that I was still turned on. She looked out the window, which she had rolled down. Her hair blew around and tickled my arms.

I followed her into the house after paying the cabbie, and she turned around and pounced on me, throwing her arms over my shoulders and kissing me wetly. I would have made some kind of comment of surprise, but she didn't release me, and pretty soon we were headed toward the bedroom. Nik slid her hands down my chest and into my jeans as we walked, and she dug in and closed both of her hands around my cock. A shudder went through me and she smiled.

"Whoa," I finally managed to say, when she released my mouth for a breath. She stood back from me and pulled the dress over her head.

"What's with you?" I stammered, but I was also stripping off my clothes as fast as I could and instantly regretted the question. If your wife, after all, is interested in having sex, don't ask questions. That was the one thing I had learned from marriage.

Nik's chest rose and fell with excited breathing. "I just..." her eyes were bright. She covered her mouth. She giggled. Then she fell toward me and her hot skin was suddenly touching me everywhere.

I pulled on her bra from the front, and her breasts popped out. I moved quickly down her neck and chest to take one of her delicious nipples into my mouth. I felt her body stiffen along with her nipple, and I bit lightly into her to get her to squirm. She buried her fingers in my hair and grasped tightly.

Inspired, I reached behind her and grasped her ass, pushing my hands under the transparent mesh of her black underwear, and I (sort of) lifted her to throw her on the bed. She laughed and I fell on her, pulled at her panties from the top to get rid of them.

She surprised me further by whispered into my ear, as I came up to kiss her on the mouth: "Will you go down on me?"

I widened my eyes in surprise, but my brain was ready for this one: don't ask questions.

Nik wasn't really into oral sex, in either form, which was a little annoying for obvious reasons, so I headed down before she changed her mind. I trailed my lips over her abdomen, and was pleased when she rose up to meet my mouth and her skin turned bumpy with excitement. I pulled her underwear away as I moved down, and I lifted my body to pull them down her legs.

I used my thumb to pry her lips open, and I was surprised when the tip of my thumb met with a sea of hot, sticky liquid, coating her outer lips, welling up from inside of her. When I pulled her open, her gash was soaked and the scent of her body filled the air.

I was as hard as I had been in a long time, and this was certainly as wet as Nik had been in a long time, too. I tried to control myself, lapping first at her outer lips, then trying to move slowly and delicately into the center of her gash. I flicked my tongue at her clit and she gasped.

But Nik herself seemed to have no patience. She grabbed me by the back of my head and pushed me deep into her folds. My mouth filled up with her excitement, and she pushed so hard I had to struggle to find the places I wanted to give my attention to. I used my tongue to explore, and dipped into her searing hot, soaked hole. She was quivering inside, pulsing with anticipation. I moved up, and my tongue found the hardness of her clit, tricky and slippery in the rest of her flesh. I pressed against it, and began to move my tongue in rapid butterfly kisses over her knob.

She pulled on my hair and arched her back to shove her cunt into my face. She began to grind against me, and then I felt her whole body tensing with her oncoming climax. Her stomach moved in waves, faster and faster with her squeaking breath, and then she threw herself back against the bed and screamed as she came.

I entered her after that, and I was so wound up that it didn't take long for me to come inside of her.

She was sleepy by then, sort of drifting off. She kissed me.

"That was...fun..." I said, hoping to rouse her to talk to me a little.

"It was," she said, her voice already drifting away. She had a sweet smile on her face.

Soon, she was asleep.

I kissed her on the forehead, counted my lucky stars, and nodded off happily.

4 THE NEXT MORNING

I was up early, because I rose at a quarter to four every morning to be at work. By five I was wide-awake, even though I would have loved to sleep. The sheets and the bed reeked of our lovemaking from the night before. But I didn't want to disturb Nik with my impatient tossing and turning, so got up and went to the kitchen quietly, savoring the memories of the night before.

Paige was out in the water early in the morning, on a surfboard. She had a wetsuit on this time, which was still very pretty to look at, but a little disappointing. Her shapely form was silhouetted in the low morning sun, and I felt a little twinge of excitement in my pants.

I decided to take my coffee outside and walk along the beach, as if I took my coffee there every morning. Perhaps I would bump into Paige as she surfed up to the shore.

She was floating on her board about two hundred meters out, but extended her hand and waved. I waved back, again with a little twinge of excitement electrifying my lower region. In my peripheral vision, however, I saw movement, and when I turned I was embarrassed to see Mitch, who was undoubtedly the real recipient of Paige's wave. He was also holding his coffee and strolling on the beach.

"Morning," I said, trying to sound casual.

Mitch took a sip of his coffee. "It is," he said. He looked into his coffee mug with a frown. "This coffee is shit," he stated.

Then silence, as we looked out on the gray water and his big, beautiful wife floating on the waves. She seemed to have very little interest in surfing in, which I wanted desperately to see.

Of course, boiling in the back of my mind was my curiosity. I could feel it building steam and getting ready to burst out of my head. I looked into my coffee mug.

"So...did you two have a nice night?" I said, and I regretted the question immediately because I sounded like an idiot.

Mitch grinned and took a sip of his coffee. "That," he said. "Fortuitous. We didn't expect to run into anyone up here except -" He cut himself off and smiled at me. "And they weren't even...you know...in the lifestyle."

I had two choices here: one was to look cool, like I knew all about whatever he was talking about. I had an adolescent locker-room feeling creeping over me, and I didn't want to be the asshole who got called out for not knowing what a clitoris was, for example. At the same time, I really was curious, and if I didn't ask Mitch, I might never meet a real life swinger again.

Also...

I looked out at Mitch's glorious and apparently libertine wife, bobbing on the waves.

"I don't want to sound like an idiot," I said, and my voice was inconsistent, loud and then soft and then squeaky. "But...I mean, I've heard the term 'lifestyle,' but what does it...like do you guys do this all the time, or like, have a club, or what?"

Mitch looked at me pointedly. "A club," he said dryly, and I had no idea how to take his tone.

I felt like an ass.

"No, there's no club," he said, and his voice was unexpectedly friendly. "It's just a lifestyle. Paige," and here he thrust his coffee cup in his wife's direction, "wears an anklet." Paige was hopping, at that particular moment, onto her board. She was agile and rose to a casual, easy balance, gliding in on a large wave with such ease that she almost looked bored.

It was then that I noticed that on her left leg there was, indeed, a slender strip of gold.

"Anklet?" I said.

"Most people don't know about it, of course," Mitch said. "But some people do."

"Anklet?" I repeated.

"If a woman is wearing an anklet, it's a sign she's a hotwife." He read the confusion on my face. "A swinger, you might say."

"So you're swingers," I said. I knew I was sounding a little thick. I narrowed my eyes. "So if a woman has an anklet it means she's a swinger?"

Mitch smiled and shook his head. "No, man. A hotwife. Hotwife is different."

Paige had picked up her board and was trotting toward us. She pulled on the zipper of her wetsuit, and the material burst open to reveal that she was not wearing anything else beneath it. The swells of her breasts were exposed almost to her nipples, and as she jogged lightly, I prayed for the motion to coax her zipper a little lower.

Lamentably, it did not. She stopped close to us, panting a little, and slicked her hair back. As she did, the neoprene folded and I caught a glimpse of her left breast in its entirety: a big areola of pale caramel, and a hardened, long nipple in the center. The shape of her tit was so round it was almost spherical. I wondered if they were fake, although they seemed natural enough.

“What are you two chatting about?” she said, and her voice was breathy.

“No good waves?” Mitch said, to my disappointment: I would have loved dearly to talk about what it meant to be a hotwife. I looked down at the strip of gold that was draped around her calf, slouching sexily over the bump of her ankle-bone. The sight of the chain caused a surge of excitement to pass through me, and I felt myself stiffening in my shorts.

“No,” Paige breathed, still sounding like she was exhausted from a bedroom romp. “Sort of dull.”

She took Mitch's coffee mug and took a sip.

“Cole here was just asking about your anklet,” Mitch said, and Paige's eyes widened. It was almost as if they shared some kind of joke about it.

I felt my face flush.

Paige turned to look at me, however, with a totally open expression. Her blue eyes were wide open and welcoming. She turned her ankle toward me and looked down her own sculpted leg at the slender band. “Nice, huh?”

“Uh..yeah...it's...” I was floundering. I briefly had the thought that Mitch was pulling my leg, setting me up to say something stupid.

“Or...oh, you're talking about the anklet,” Paige said, looking up at me and winking. “Well, don't let me interrupt. I need a towel.”

She trotted away, toward the Smiths' cottage. We both watched her go. When she was still about ten meters away from the house, she pulled her wetsuit down and exposed her bare back to us. When she stepped on the porch and took the whole thing off, jiggling and shimmying out of it, leaning over and showing her bare ass, and between it a shadow where her bare snatch was nestled.

I had no idea what to do, so I just watched. She walked casually across the porch, naked, and began drying herself with a towel. Hair first.

“A hotwife,” Mitch said, patting me on the shoulder, “sleeps with other men. While I watch. There's a lot of crossover,” he continued, and then took a slurp of his coffee, “between hotwives and swingers. But I'm more of a...voyeur.”

My mouth must have been hanging open.

“But...why?” I said, because it was the first thing that popped into my head.

Mitch gave his head a little jerk to swallow his coffee, as if he were taking a pill of some kind. He bared his teeth and hissed. “Why?” He turned to me. “Listen, maybe it isn't for you, but just imagine for a moment, that that hot little number of yours, Ni-ki-ta,” (and here he took special care with Nik's full name, to slice each syllable out at its sexiest and wettest) “were to run off and do some other guy. Because you asked her to, though. Like a performance. Let's say she treated it like a performance.” Mitch dropped his voice. “You wouldn't believe the things she might do.”

He stepped back, because he had been getting closer and closer to me.

I have to admit that by this point, I had in fact done exactly what Mitch suggested, and imagined my wife Ni-ki-ta had run off to do some other guy. That she had dressed up for it and lured him in, wearing a slender little anklet, and that I had watched the whole thing and she had, just as Mitch suggested, treated it like a performance and that I could not, as Mitch had further suggested, believe the things she had done.

My cock was throbbing now. There was no way to hide it. Mitch smiled knowingly at me. I must have had a fevered expression on my face.

“But don't you get...jealous...or...?”

I have to admit my head was swimming at this point and I don't remember what I was feeling. Mitch had planted images of such lewd and twisted eroticism in my mind that I couldn't think straight.

There were a hundred other things I wanted to ask him, and I would think of them later and regret not saying anything at the time, but I was dumbstruck. I just stood there, mouth agape, like a dumbshit.

“Mitch!” Paige called, from the house. “Where's the coffee?”

Mitch tossed his coffee on the sand, scowling at it. “Get in the car,” he bellowed back. “We've got to go buy something better!” He looked at me quickly, as though the conversation we had just been having was one about stocks or football. “Later,” he said. And he left me on the beach, mouth hanging open, with the most solid, throbbing erection I'd ever gotten...certainly, at least, listening to a man talk.

5 I TELL NIK

Nik tapped her fingers playfully on her lips, her mouth open, her eyes bright and interested. She was leaning her bare, slender arms on the counter, and her dark hair was loose and wavy with the humidity. She had a faint smile on her open mouth. "You're not serious," she said.

I had just repeated the whole story about my beach conversation with Mitch to Nik.

Well, maybe not every single part of the story. I left out the part where I imagined her on all fours, taking a big cock in the ass while I watched. I left out, too, the exact words Mitch had used to conjure this image in my mind.

I also left out how very much it had turned me on, the idea that Mitch had planted, of controlling my wife through another man. It was something that hadn't really ever crossed my mind before, but it now seemed so visceral, so intense, as if I had done it before with someone else and actually experienced it.

She seemed less shocked than she wanted to sound, though.

In fact – and this was shocking to me - Nik seemed amused by the whole idea. "It's so...like, do you think they have parties with keys and stuff, like in the sixties? And just take someone else's wife home?"

I doubted it, but I nodded. "Oh yes. I think they do."

She looked up at the ceiling and grinned with a strange sort of excitement.

She tapped her fingers on her lip again. "I wonder..." she said.

There was a long pause while she wondered, and I wondered what exactly she was wondering, and then she trotted out the door. "I'm going for a jog," she said.

She turned back around, though, about ten feet from the porch. "Hey," she called. "Do you want to go back to that place again tonight, maybe?"

Odd.

I gave her a thumbs-up.

I suppose at the time, I believed she was just interested in the seafood. Which I could do a better job with, myself, but would involve an hour-long drive to the market.

I made some more coffee, and sipped it, while scanning the gray sea for signs of the full-bodied, surfing neighbor.

6 THE ANKLET

“Okay, so what do you think?” Nik asked me, emerging from the bedroom in the same black dress she had been wearing the previous evening.

“Hot,” I said. She did look hot, but it was sort of hard to get as excited about the same black, and moderately conservative dress she had worn the night before, when I had the memory of Paige's see-through-ish number and other, extensive wardrobe choices, in my mind.

Nik gave a little twirl and extended her leg. She stroked her thigh. “Just, ‘hot?’” she purred. “That's all?”

Her voice was telling me I was missing something; that much was obvious. I looked her up and down. Her shoes looked like the same shoes from the night before, the dress looked the same...

Hair. That was where I almost always went wrong.

But no. It was still dark, still silky, worn long, which was unusual, but not unheard of.

“Uh...” I said stupidly. “Something does look different. Is it...you hair looks nice, did you do something-”

“Ugh!” Nik said, exasperated. “Look.” Again she moved her leg around and rubbed the length of her thigh.

I still wasn't getting it. Her legs looked great, though.

Then I saw it.

I can't really explain the sensation that went through me like a knife. It was searingly hot, or maybe cold. I actually felt myself shudder as though I had been shaken.

Then I blinked. Surely she was just joking.

I stared at the gold chain around her ankle. It was slender, thin, and made of two bands of gold. As I stared, I realized it was a necklace wound twice around her ankle. It clinched sexily on her ankle bone.

“You're joking,” I said, and my voice was toneless, my mouth dry.

I looked up at her eyes.

“Oh, come on!” she said, flouncing over to me. “It's just for fun. I think they're full of shit, personally. I mean...women wear anklets all the time. I just want to see if there's anything to it.”

I must have looked worried.

"Honey," she said, leaning onto my knees. "We're in Cape Breton. No one even knows about the internet, let alone about wife-hot...wife..."

"Hotwife...ing," I offered.

She smiled, and leaned her knee on mine. "It's just for fun."

My cock was responding in a much different way than my mind. My cock was sure of what it wanted, and it apparently loved the idea of Nikita, my wife, wearing an anklet and finding out if it sent a signal to other men that she was a hotwife.

My brain, of course, was spinning around wildly.

"But where did you...why do you..?"

Nik was wiggling a little, in that sexually charged way that means, "I can't hold still because I'm so turned on." She touched the sloping collar of the dress. "I don't know. I think I just...let's just see if it's any fun," she said. "I know you want to."

I stared at her. I did. I did want to. But I also didn't.

"It's just a game," she continued. "It's not like I'm actually going to do it."

My cock throbbed.

"Live a little," she said. "Please. For me?"

"Okay, but you're not gonna run off with some fish-scented Islander, are you?"

She put her finger to her lower lip, and looked up at the ceiling. "But they're so fishy," she said. "And, I can probably have all the crab I want."

"I'm serious," I said, and my voice sounded quite drastically serious.

Nik giggled, and then her face fell to match my level of seriousness. I could tell she was a little annoyed by me in that moment, because she was trying to have fun and I was getting far too serious for her little game. "Oh god," she said. "Forget it."

She put her foot up on the chair next to me and leaned over to unhook the anklet.

A lot of quick thinking happened in my mind between that moment and the next, and before I really knew what I was doing, I had reached out and grasped her hand. "No," I heard myself saying. "No, go ahead and wear it. Let's see what happens."

Usually by the time Nik gets that exasperated, she's made a decision and you'd sooner get peace on the Gaza Strip than her to back down from it.

So I was surprised, pleased, and scared, when her mouth flickered at the corners with amusement and mischief. Then she let go of the latch, and stood up.

“Let's go then,” she said.

7 A SPIN

All in all, it was a little disappointing. It was thrilling. It was a narrow escape. It was...like nothing I had ever done before.

Zach's, when we first arrived, was a little empty, and the people who were there were mostly families. So much for erotic.

The waitress watched us as she pulled menus out from beneath the hostess stand.

"There's a patio," she said. Her accent was strong and I looked at her for a few seconds before I understood what she saying.

"Outside," she continued, while my mind caught up. "It's small. But there're no kids out there. Right now."

I looked at Nik. She shrugged.

"Do you want to sit there?" the waitress asked. By now, a slight edge of exasperation was creeping into her voice.

"Yes," Nik burst out. She shrugged at me. "At least it'll be a nice evening. And the food's good."

"The food is most certainly good," the waitress said. She held the menu over her head as she moved among the empty chairs and out to the patio.

The patio was indeed tiny, and it let out on to a not particularly spectacular view, which is probably why it was so small: scrubby grass and a smattering of dry, windblown trees obscured a narrow strip of sand and any view of the water. But it was breezy and a perfect temperature, and the light caught Nik's face just-so. As we sat down, I realized that I was a little bit relieved to have her all to myself, instead of baiting men in Zach's.

We ordered white wine, and Nik ordered raw oysters again. She shrugged at my expression of curiosity. "I got a taste for them," she said, coyly.

I was relieved to be able to order the crabs, without being self-conscious about it in front of the ethereal Paige.

I leaned back in my chair and absorbed the sea air. After a glass of wine, the evening actually seemed to be perfect: we were alone, Nik was sucking slimy oysters out of their half-shells, dolled up and flirtatious. Life was good.

“So really,” I said, after a long pause staring into the trees and out at the darkening beach. I had, at that moment, been picturing Paige's naked body stretched out on the beach. “What do you think they're doing here?”

“Who?” she said.

Nik raised her wine glass and took a long sip. She seemed unusually amused with my question. “Mmm. Maybe they're running from their taxes or something, you know? Or like...I dunno,” she sucked in her breath. “Maybe they're on some kind of lifestyle tour.”

“Hmm,” I said. “In Cape Breton? Who in the world even knows this place exists?”

She brought the wine glass to her lips and looked out at the beach with a smile.

It was at this point that I realized that Nik was quite drunk. At that moment, a band struck up inside. We had actually been there for quite a while, having a very nice and very romantic date, I realized.

The music was a kind of jazzy bluegrass, which sounds terrible but was somehow good.

“Let's move inside,” Nik said suddenly, seeming to suddenly forget all about Mitch and Paige.

I was fine where I was, but there was a chill picking up from the water, and the wind was getting stronger. “Do you want to just head home?” I asked.

Nik grinned at me. She bounced her naked foot playfully. “Let's just go have one drink. I want to see if there's anything to this.”

I raised my eyebrows.

“Just for fun,” she said.

This comment made my cock hard. Maybe the comment itself, maybe the careless way she said it.

At the same time, it pissed me off for some reason. Maybe the comment itself.

Maybe the careless way she said it.

I sat back and looked in both directions. “It's Cape fucking Breton,” I said incredulously, knowing she would know what I meant: this was a place for fishermen and old people. Not exactly a nightclub.

She shrugged, and a flush went over her face indicating that I had sort of pissed her off, too. “There were some hotties here the other night,” she challenged. Then she waved her hands impatiently. “Whatever. I still want another drink, though, so let's get one.”

She stood up and walked into the restaurant with her half-full glass of wine.

I waited for the waitress to come back, which seemed like forever, because I didn't want her to think we had skipped out on the bill. I had waited tables for quite a while on my long slog to chef, and I was sensitive to things that broke the unwritten code of conduct. It felt like an eternity out there, alone on the cooling patio.

It seemed like the music was getting heavier and sultrier inside the restaurant. Inside my abdomen, my feelings were churning. I was acting a little bit like an idiot, and I wasn't sure why. I felt the tentacles of jealousy wrapping around me – but that didn't really bother me. That was a natural feeling, an explicable one. The other feelings inside of me were the ones making me uncomfortable. Like the fact that one part of my mind was playing out a rational fantasy in which I stood up, grabbed my wife by the arm, and told her it was time to go home because she was being drunk and silly.

The other part of my mind was running a fantasy, though, in which I went into the restaurant and found Nik grinding with another man on the small dance floor. The hot-cold pain of it twisted right above my cock and just below my stomach, a kind of strange mix between lust, love-sickness and actual sickness.

What the fuck?

Tiring of waiting for the waitress, I stood up. She appeared right at the moment. “We're going to the bar,” I told her abruptly. I felt a surge of drunkenness splash over me, and it smacked into the adrenaline that was curiously surging in my veins.

When I entered the restaurant, it was like a different world than the one we had entered earlier: there were a lot of people there now. Not all of them fishermen, and not all of them old. A lot of them looked...well, a lot like us. Middle-aged couples, a group of solo men at the pool table, some younger adults in a big group at the table enjoying the music.

I scanned the room. My pulse was racing. I knew it was Nik working me up, but it seemed unusually high for the circumstances. I had a tinny ring in my ears. I hoped I wasn't getting sick from the oysters I had vowed not to eat.

Nik was at the bar. She had two glasses of wine in front of her, and one of them was half-empty. Her left hand was on the glass, her fingers moving up and down the stem of it. I don't know why this was the first thing I saw, or why it flared inside of me like a lit match: the sight of her hand, with our simple gold wedding band on her ring finger, and her subtly lewd display on the wine glass stem. She was sitting on a stool, her legs crossed, leaning into the bar and talking to the man next to her.

I know it couldn't have taken me very long to get across the room: it was a small room, and I had a direct line to where she was. It felt like an eternity, though, as I crossed the room and watched my wife. She was bobbing her anklet ankle lightly, making sure that anyone who was looking to notice that sort of thing would notice it. She tucked her silky hair behind one ear and leaned close for the man to whisper in her ear. Whatever he said made her smile. She placed her hand on his arm and her mouth formed the words of her reply.

Then she took a sip of her wine, and was looking over her wine glass at him as she did.

When I reached the bar, I wasn't sure what to do.

I looked the guy up and down. Truthfully, he was an okay-looking guy, but nothing to write home about. I felt a little less threatened. I had a wave of embarrassment pass over me, realizing suddenly that I had been exaggerating the things I was seeing: Nik had her hand on the wine glass stem, but she wasn't stroking it. She was bouncing her ankle lightly, like anyone does if they sit cross-legged on a stool. And she was just talking to this guy. She had two glasses of wine in front of her, for fuck's sake.

She looked over at me with a quick, mischievous grin as I approached.

The feeling that washed over me was another difficult one to define. Fine, I decided. She wanted to play games? Far be it for me to stop her.

I edged up to the bar and sat down, letting Nik decide if she wanted to say hello to me or not.

I heard her tell the man, "Oh, that's my husband."

He lifted his fingers from the bar in a salute, but he didn't leave, not the way you'd expect a guy to scam once this sort of awkward moment has taken place: you're flirting with a woman, her husband shows up, you stop talking, say hello, and then make an excuse to leave, right?

But this guy, instead, said to Nik: "So 'Nik,' that's short for Nicole?"

“Nikita,” my wife said, and the word unfurled from her mouth like velvet.

And this guy? He made this sound, a little bit like a growl. “That seems more like you,” he said. “Very exotic.”

I rolled my eyes in the other direction and nudged Nik's leg gently under the table. If there's one thing she hated people saying, it was : “that's so exotic,” in response to her name. If they mentioned the movie La Femme Nikita, she really lost it.

Which is why I was surprised to hear Nik respond:

“It's Greek.”

Except she didn't just say this, she sort of slurred it. It was also a huge lie.

For some reason, I was more turned on than I was amused or confused or even jealous.

“You don't look Greek,” the man said. “I mean, I knew a lot of Greek girls in college. You ever hear of a Greek tragedy? You know, when their nose is too big for their face?”

Nik's nose was a tiny little upturned thing, probably imported to Canada long ago from France, and about as far away from a “Greek tragedy” as you could get.

And Nik responded: “Oh, I'm half Russian.”

Such lies.

I had, in all my life, never heard Nik lie much. Certainly not about anything trivial. Certainly not like this, at a bar, for kicks.

The game was making me uneasy, but it was also quite fun.

The man, I could see, was really digging this crap she was feeding him. “That must be it. It's a very hot combination.”

I felt my cock throb and I shifted in my seat. One thing I hadn't given any thought to in this whole idea was what I was supposed to do.

I took a sip of wine. I decided to look busy. I waved at the bartender, a girl with a tremendous set of breasts, which she allowed to spill out of her black top liberally. Her face was plain and unmemorable, which is probably why. “What kind of wine is this?” I asked. She shrugged.

Nik was saying something to her man-friend next to me, in her fluttery, flirtatious voice. I felt a little burn creep over the back of my neck as I tried to listen to what she was saying and pretend to be having a deep conversation with the now-impatient bartender about the wine.

Nik let out a chirrupy bird laugh. “Oh my gosh! I...no. No,. no...is that what that means?”

She smacked me on the arm. “Honey,” she said, in a cloying voice. “Did you know about this?”

The man was already losing interest and evidently becoming quite annoyed. “Know what?” I said, innocently.

“Apparently,” Nik purred in my ear, and the hum of her breath sent spikes of heat through my body, “If you wear an anklet, it's a sort of signal or something that your-”

The guy lifted his drink and smiled at us just then, and spun around to attend to something else.

“Oh my god,” Nik said. “I can't believe it worked just like that.” She wound her arm around my neck and pulled my face close to hers. “I sat down and then he just popped up, like a genie.”

So two things here: one, Nik's voice sounded like she should be doing recordings for a sex line - it had that wet, cunt quality to it like any second she'd say something terrifically dirty. Which, combined with the scene I had just witnessed and the way she was raking her fingers through my hair and breathing on my earlobe, had my cock turned into a painfully throbbing mass.

At the same time, it was a little obscene. This was not the Nik I knew. Nik, who never went by Nikita because she didn't like the way people said things like: “That's a very sexy name.” Nik, who was just not a “spontaneity” kind of girl. Nik who was a fairly uptight and moderately conservative woman.

I had that wild feeling in my stomach, of being out of control. It felt identical, and I noted this to myself at the time, as the sensation that had almost made me vomit into near-space the one and only time I went skydiving.

Something felt very, very, out of control in all of this.

I watched the disappointed man retreat to a table in the corner, where three other people were seated. Their eyes went briefly to us, a look of disdain flitted across a woman's face, and then they returned to whatever they had been doing all along.

Nik, meantime, spun around and surveyed the bar. “I wonder if this is something that just everybody knows,” she said, almost breathlessly. “And we had no idea all along, you know, like one of those things you just miss for some reason, and then you find out about it and everyone is like, “what the hell?” Like Captain Crunch. You know?”

(In a perplexing turn of events, even for Canada, Nik had gone her whole life to age thirty without ever having seen, heard of, and much less tasted, the popular breakfast cereal Captain Crunch. She was as shocked by everyone else's reaction to this information, as every person in the free world was by the statistical unlikelihood of a person getting all the way through life in North America without being part of a conversation about Captain Crunch ripping off the roof of your mouth.

But there it was.)

“You didn't know about it, did you?” Nik said. “The anklet?”

Her voice was, and perhaps I was just imagining it - suggestive.

Her eyes were consumed by her pupils and she looked like she'd thrown back a whole bottle of ecstasy or something.

I shook my head.

“I wonder if someone else will come over here?” she mused.

She said it like she was really hoping for it. She was stroking her knee and looking around the room like she was fishing for something.

“Okay,” I said, taking her elbow and spinning her back to the bar on the stool. “I think it's time we skedaddle.”

Nik laughed. “Not yet,” she said, and now she was just teasing, which sent a flood of relief through me. “I'm just getting started.” She leaned in and whispered to me conspiratorially. “Aren't you even a little bit curious? Like, if we sat here, how many guys would come over? Don't you want a statistically valid sample size...”

She went on and on while I asked for the check and paid the bartender.

“Okay, sexy-Susan,” I said. “Let's get out of here.”

Nik just giggled, in a low, rumbling way that made my cock even harder. There was a small part of me that might not have minded seeing what did happen here, but she was making me pretty nervous.

8 PORN STARS

We were all over each other in the car, but I wouldn't say it was superheated. Just fun and a little sexier than Nik had been in a long time. She was stroking my arm, leaning against me. She kissed me.

It was a short drive, and we started up toward our own house from the driveway end where the cabbie let us off.

Nik grabbed my arm as I approached the house, fumbling with the keys. "Hey," she whispered loudly. She tugged at me.

I turned to face her, and she was looking at the Smiths' cottage. A light was falling through the window onto the sand, and the movement of people inside sent ripples of shadows across the pale yellow on the ground.

"Aren't you curious?" she said.

I stared at Nik for a minute. This was pretty unlike her. At the same time...was I curious? Was I fucking curious about what Paige, the big-breasted Swedish supermodel was doing inside that house?

"Uh..." I gurgled. I wasn't sure what I was supposed to say here.

"You want to?" Nik said, her eyes on fire with a very devious quality. She was looking out across the sand.

"We shouldn't," I said, mostly to have said The Appropriate Thing, and be able to claim, later to have done so. But I was already moving with Nik, edging a little closer to the edge of the walk and into the sand.

We crept across the dark beach: the sun had just disappeared, and an ink-blue sky gave some light, though not much, to the sandy, windswept grasses that surrounded the area around their cottage.

"What if-"

"Shh!" Nik hissed at me. She had taken the lead, and now, even though we were quite a bit a way from the house, she was creeping along as if she were avoiding sniper shots.

"Nik," I said, but the surf ate my voice up. I had just pictured peeping up into the house and meeting the stare of Mitch, his dark eyes burning through me.

And what if they were on the lam, or serial killers? Then what?

There were only two outcomes here, I realized: we were either going to get caught and feel like assholes, or we were going to get shot by American bank robbers.

“Nik,” I whispered hoarsely.

She was already crouching under the ledge of a window, and she was smiling. She must have been quite tipsy. She covered her mouth.

I joined her, not knowing what else to do. I opened my mouth to say something, urging her to come back with me to the house, when we heard a woman's sultry voice – Paige's, obviously – moan.

Only one kind of activity would lead to that kind of moan.

“Oh, it hurts,” she moaned, but the way she said it was not like “it” hurt, but rather a drawl that oozed almost as much as whatever she was claiming was “hurting” her. “It's so big. Oh. Oh. Oh.”

Nik stared at me, her eyes as wide as they had ever been.

My cock had just sucked up all of the blood in my body, so I was looking back at her in a half-trance.

Again:

“Oh!” But this was like a dripping, melting “oh.”

Another one.

Then a sharp, squealing one.

“It's so big. Oh, it hurts,” Paige moaned again. Her voice ended in a pant.

From what I could determine by the sounds of the voices, Paige – and whoever it was whose big thing was hurting her – were in the room that the window above us let into. This window was closed, but another one, on the other side, was open.

I thought quickly. The light was on in this room, which meant that whoever was in there wouldn't be able to see out the window.

I whispered this to Nik. “Right?” I said.

She furrowed her brow. It sounded right, of course, and if I had been in any other situation I would not have hesitated to say that it was right and anyone who doubted it was an idiot. But we were about to poke our heads up and look in on a very illicit scene, and I wanted Nik's reassurance that I was 100% correct.

She shrugged, and nodded.

I looked at her helplessly.

And then she turned and propped herself up on her knees, to peek into the window with just enough of her head peeping over the ledge to look in.

I pulled her back, because I decided we were less likely to be seen further away from the window. And then we knelt there, like two kids watching TV, mouths open.

The room – which no one had taken any pains to cover or hide – was illuminated by the overhead light and also a professional-looking white light and umbrella as if from a photographer's studio. Mitch was in the room, and I actually saw him first: but there was no chance of him seeing us. His eyes were fixed on the screen of the camera he was operating. He was standing, quite close, to a large, naked man. The camera was pointed down, in order to capture the part of the scene that I took in next.

Paige was on a settee of sorts, her head down and her ass up. She was tied at the feet by coils of large and theatrical rope, reminiscent of rope from large freighters. Though what did I know? The knots were elaborate and excessive, so that her ankles were bound quite expertly together, although whether they were attached to anything, I don't know. Her feet moved in slow circles, marking her discomfort. Her hair was splayed across her face and the settee.

The camera, however, was most likely only capturing the huge cock of the man who was fucking her, moving in and out of her ass.

I blinked.

It was, indeed, in her ass. Like anyone, I've watched enough porn to see that right away. Her hole was stretched to accommodate the man's immense girth, and he was sawing away remorselessly at her tight ring, even as she moaned and complained about how much it hurt and was too big.

I heard the low rumble of the man's voice as he said something to Paige, but not the words: probably something like, “that's it, baby.” He squeezed her ass and began to hammer her as her moans crescendoed to a squealing, anguished chorus. “It's too big! I can't take it anymore!” she cried, though obviously she was enjoying herself a little. The man slapped her round ass and kept right on going, right over her moaning, willing, and crying.

Then, he slowly drew back, and Paige's voice let out a strangled cry as the many, many inches of his cock withdrew from inside of her. He was long, and his cock just kept coming out. When he finally withdrew the fat, meaty crown of his huge dick from her hole, we could see the gape he had left behind: a red rim with a dark black inside of it. Mitch reached out a hand, without dropping the camera, and pulled on one cheek of Paige's ass, while the man pulled on the other, and stroked himself until his white cum began to spurt from the tip of his cock. Most of the ropes of white cum splashed against Paige's throbbing gape; they gushed out with each pulse and coated her reddened eyelet with creamy goop. Strands of cum landed on her ass and her back, and the man just kept exploding like a fountain.

I stared as Mitch dipped a finger into her ass, and shook it around inside of the hole, jiggling the fresh cum of another man in his own wife's ass. His voice rumbled, but like the other man's we couldn't hear anything.

We should have probably left at that point, but we were both paralyzed in shock, and, at least in my case, the hot frenzy inside of me. The man moved away from Paige, and sort of collapsed in an armchair. Mitch handed him the camera.

It wasn't over yet. My balls were aching and my cock was so hard I could barely breathe. I could feel precum bubbling up on the tip of my dick. When I looked over at Nik, she was staring unabashedly at the scene before her, and the expression on her face seemed to kick right through the end of my cock. She was getting off – really getting off – on what she was seeing.

Mitch went around to where his wife was still lying, her hair covering her face, on the settee. He pushed her hair out of her face, and we saw her smile as she looked up at him. He combed her sweaty hair away from her face with his fingers. It was then that I noticed that her hands were bound between her legs, part of the same mound of ropes that held her feet, so she was immobile in the position she was in. All of her ripe, round flesh just propped there to be taken advantage of however they pleased.

Mitch unzipped his jeans and his cock popped out. He was a large guy as well – not nearly as big as the monster who had just taken her in the ass, but good-sized. Paige's eyes went to his cock, and it was like she gave him a long massage with her intense gaze. She licked her lips.

He guided his cock to her mouth, and the man now holding the camera extended his arm to better capture the shot as she took him inside of her. He grasped her by the hair and pushed her onto his cock. His meat disappeared into her mouth, and he kept going, pushing her until her neck twisted and she craned downward, all the way until her lips kissed the base of his cock and smashed against his balls.

And then he pulled her up and down his shaft, using her hair, which he wound around his hand, as a handle. Faster and faster, her lips stretching wide to take him in, until he gave a groan that we could hear and pulled out of her mouth to explode all over her face. Paige let the cum splatter her cheeks, and kept her mouth open to get as much of the waterfall of white froth as she could into her mouth.

The man who had been inside of her rose at this point, and walked over to film her face as she lay there panting and licking the cum that she could reach from her lips. Just before I fell back onto my heels, I saw her tongue extend out to lick up a glob of cum that had landed on the settee.

Nik and I exchanged glances, and then we crab-crawled backward until we felt safe standing up and running back to our own house.

We entered the house half-laughing, half-shocked. Nik was covering her mouth in her typical gesture of disbelief, and shaking her head. Her eyes were wet with submerged laughter, and when I closed the door she exploded. She was shaking her head, and wordlessly waving her hands at me.

This could have meant anything: if Nik was put in the position of having to be quiet, anywhere, she got the urge to laugh. She has almost laughed at funerals, church services, weddings, in court when she was testifying about a car accident, and on more than one job interview. She was the worst person you could ever try to rob a bank with.

The mood, though, changed suddenly, almost as though a match were struck. Nik looked at me, and her laughter stripped away from her expression and her body language.

We didn't say anything to each other, but the communication of our eyes was enough: that had been, however outrageous, hot.

My cock was almost painfully inflated. I went for an unusually animalistic tone, and pushed Nik up against the wall. She responded to me by pressing against my body and clawing at my clothes. It had been a long time since we had gone at it like this: usually we neatly removed our clothing and then slid under the covers before we even touched each other.

She tugged my shirt up and over my head, and then her hands dove into my jeans and into my underwear, until her fingers found what they were seeking and closed around my stiff cock, hard. I pushed her dress up, and fumbled my way into her panties. A pulse of excitement went through me, that I knew she could feel with her talon-like grip around my dick, when my knuckles scraped against the soaked fabric of her panties at the same time my fingers dipped into her wet pussy.

She was so wet. Wet like I had already made her come several times. I grinned at her, and she grinned back. Then she pushed me away.

“Take your pants off, soldier,” she said. But she didn't give me even a second to do it. She reached for my fly herself, and yanked on my jeans. Only then did she grab the bottom of her dress and lift it up over her head. As she did so, I shimmied out of my jeans. She tossed her dress on the floor and our bodies came back together again.

Her skin was hot and her hands seemed to move everywhere, all over me, eagerly. Finally she found my cock with both of her hands and she stroked it hungrily. Her thumb swept over the crown and a pleased smile came onto her face as she found that precum was dripping from the tip of my cock.

She pushed me back onto the bed, and I was forced to sit down. She climbed onto my lap, using one hand to free her breasts from the lacy black bra that suspended them.

The juices from her cunt were oozing onto my cock, and I could feel her soft curls, damp with excitement, dancing over my inflamed organ. My cock jumped and flapped against her, but she was busy squirming over me to get herself out of her bra.

Her freed breasts barely moved, even when they were let loose. She rose on her knees so that they were right in front of me, and I sighed with disappointment because her wet cunt lifted with her body and was further away. Still, I had a nice view of her nipples, melting like milk chocolate into her areola. I swept my tongue around the perfectly tidy circle, and then I flicked at the center until her nipple bubbled and hardened. I teased her for a bit, while I slid my hands over the roundness of her ass to stroke her inner thighs, which were sticky and wet. I pulled her nipple into my mouth at the same moment my fingers burrowed between her legs. Her clit was hard and wobbled beneath the pressure of my fingers, which made her gasp and shift on top of me.

I turned my attention to the other breast, and I was pleased that she squirmed as I teased her again. Her juices were gushing from her now, and her hips were gyrating in an absent-minded way: she was ripe and ready to burst.

She dropped her hand behind her, and found my cock. She caressed it in long, firm strokes, cupping her palm over the wet crown and drawing it down along the shaft until we were both as wet and sticky as if we had fucked. The scent of her rose from between our trembling bodies.

I couldn't take any more. I grabbed her by the ass and pushed her down onto my shaft. Her pussy was hot, and so wet that she slid over my cock like butter. When her hole kissed the base of my cock, a wave of her moisture gushed from inside of her and bathed my balls. The hot, honeyed juices slid over my sac and I felt myself reaching the point of no return. I tried desperately to take my mind to another place, but she leaned back and thrust her breasts forward. Her pussy clamped around my shaft and she began to bounce on my lap, shaking her tits and stroking my cock, squelching out her excitement all over my thighs and balls.

"Fuck," I said, and I was about to warn her that I was going to come. I gripped her ass to try and slow her down, but just then her whole body seemed to seize up and she squealed violently. She slammed her weight onto my cock and buried me deeper than I thought possible inside of her.

I exploded, and I felt her pussy turn to pure liquid as I pumped her full of cum. I pressed my face into her tits and yelled, out of control. Her cunt squeezed and pulsed around me, and I shuddered with each throb of her soaked pussy.

I slid my hand down, over her ass and into the crack, where she was gushing all over me. I had a thought, an errant thought, about what it might feel like to dip into my wife's wet slit and feel her excitement for another man.

My cock, which had only half-drained, pulsed with new life.

Nik growled. "Really?" she said.

She pushed me backward, and I fell onto the bed. She was still on top of me, and I was still inside of her.

Surely she wasn't going to try for more?

But it seemed that whatever had inspired my wife that evening was still inspiring, and my cock was equally enthusiastic. I felt my dick sputter and thump to life inside of her hot, wet pussy. Soon she was rocking herself on top of me, grinding her cunt into my pelvis. Her juices and my cum gushed down my balls to the crack of my ass. Nik closed her eyes. Her tits bounced as she rose and fell and rocked herself to another wet, sprlurting orgasm.

I had only to think that perhaps inside her head, with her eyes closed, she was imagining another man, to send myself over the edge and fill her overflowing cunt with even more cum.

I woke up very early in the morning, while the sky was still dark blue. Nik was still lying on my chest, which was unusual for her, and so even though I had to pee, I lay there watching the sky brighten to a pale blue, enjoying the weight of Nik's head on my chest. She shifted, and I could feel her soft breasts shifting against my side.

The previous evening filled my head almost immediately, and my cock stiffened into a tent pole beneath the light sheet. I started to stroke Nik's smooth back as the images I had seen played out in my mind in a montage of filthy pornography along with memories of the wild sex Nik and I had indulged in when we got home.

I rolled over, and played with Nik's soft skin. The sheets were still damp from all of our lovemaking, and her thighs were sticky and stained with our mingled cum. I fully expected her to awaken and slap my hand away. But she just smiled, and made a sexy sound that seemed to actually be inviting me in.

I took my chances and rolled on top of her. It was easy to slip my cock inside of her pussy, and she responded by blooming open for me and wrapping her legs around my torso. Her eyes snapped open and we looked at each other while we each rose to a fevered orgasm, sudden and almost jarring.

I groaned as I came inside my wife for the third time in only about five hours. It was gauche, but I had to marvel at the stats as I panted on the sheets.

Finally, I decided to get up. As an early riser, I could only take so much of lying in bed in the morning. I swung my legs over the edge of the bed. My cock was a little sore from so much sex, I noted with perverse pleasure.

“So...” Nik said. Her voice was playful.

“So,” I said.

We looked at each other and laughed.

I could tell she wanted to say something about the night before. Nik has a way of getting a little fidgety inside of her own skin when she wants to say something and it's gnawing at her.

"So," I prodded. I tried to make a face that conveyed how welcome I was to talking about whatever it was, while not betraying how much I wanted it to be about last night. But I could see it would take a little more prying and coaxing, so I gave it a long pause before saying: "Eggs Benedict or Stuffed French Toast?"

Both of these options were ludicrous proposals. Nik ate 1500 calories per day and she subtracted anything over that amount from all the days to come. The total was running for all eternity and nothing could ever be canceled out. Last night's boozefest would typically have her eating a small bowl of yogurt with a few berries on it for weeks.

"Mmmmmm," she purred, and slid under the covers sensually. "Can I have both?"

I was standing now, sliding my boxers midway up my legs. I stared at the lump beneath the sheets, a little flabbergasted.

I whisked them away.

"Alien!" I yelled, pointing at her. Because it was almost as if my wife had indeed been replaced by an alien. The good kind. The sexy kind. A not-entirely-objectionable kind.

Nik's response was to laugh at my joke: even further evidence of her having been abducted.

Then she sat up. She was naked, of course, and the scent of her sleep-skin reached my nose at that moment. Her pert breasts bounced lightly to a rest, and she curled her slender legs up beneath her. Her black hair was tousled. She had a disorganized, ravished appearance that was getting me hard again. Her eyes were bright as she pushed some of her thick hair from her face. "Well," she said suggestively. "I worked up quite an appetite last night."

My boxers were still at this point, at my knees, in what would have normally been a display of rampant optimism.

"Oh yeah?" I said. I started to move my legs so that the boxers slid down my calves. "Want to have three things for breakfast? I'll make you three things, if you want."

At this point, I was simply joking. It was so over-the-top, a suggestion like that. It was the kind of suggestion that Nik, as a I knew her long ago, when our relationship was still fresh and new, wouldn't have even considered.

But this Nik looked at me with a sudden seriousness. Her playfulness was still embedded in it, somewhere, but she was wildly serious when she said, in a low, sexual purr:

“What do I have to do to get three things?”

9 MEET PRETTY HALEY

Nik folded her book and nudged me. "Psst," she said. "There they are."

"Just act natural," I said. Then I added, "And don't laugh."

This set Nik's whole body to convulsions, as she tried to keep her laughter inside. It wasn't, of course, that she even seemed to find it funny. It was just her typical inability to not laugh when she wasn't supposed to.

Mitch and Paige seemed like any ordinary couple, other than Paige's voluptuous and now almost scandalous appearance. She was clad in tight jean shorts, the kind that looked like they belonged on the pages of a men's calendar, cut very high in back to reveal the full swell of her ass where it met her thighs. Her top was made of creme crochet, with very large holes in the pattern, and no sign at all of anything underneath it. Just her skin, all of her smooth and pornographic skin...

They were out, though, it seemed, for a mid-morning stroll. Nik raised her hand up to wave at them, and they wandered in our direction. Mitch and Paige, it was understood, were too cool for waving.

I had a hard time deciding where to put my eyes. As Mitch approached, he devoured Nik, whose small, hard bottom looked especially divine, I was sure, from where he stood. He made no attempt to hide the way he was looking her over, and his expression was stirring up an extreme disquiet in me, but one I was sort of enjoying. At the same time, Paige was, indeed, not wearing anything at all beneath that crocheted top, and the shape of her breasts seemed to be everywhere, buoyant and bountiful. The crochet came together in a tighter knit right where her nipples would be, but if I looked hard enough I knew I could get an eyeful.

"Morning," Nik said.

Paige had a mug in her hand and she brought it to her lips and savored whatever was inside, more like it was a rare whiskey than anything. Then she hummed: "Isn't it beautiful?"

"No surf, though," Nik said.

I looked back and forth from each woman to the other. They seemed like old friends now, the way they talked to each other.

It was kind of hot. Even if it made no sense.

Paige shrugged and tipped her head back. I stared at her long, flawless neck, and naturally thought about how she had it stuffed with cock little over twelve hours ago, which made my own cock press uncomfortably into the sand. “So much sun, though,” she practically moaned. “I love it.”

“She'd sit in the sun all day,” Mitch said tonelessly, his eyes still all over Nik. I looked over at my wife, to see how she was absorbing this raking-over of her body. She was kicking her feet up playfully and smiling up at Mitch.

I scowled, and something turned in my stomach.

“I'm going to sunbathe naked,” Paige said. “Do you think anyone would have a problem with that?”

I stared at her. Nik leaned sideways to look at her without taking her head from her hand. “Really?” she said. But it sounded halfway between a genuine question and sarcasm. Like someone had just pointed out that a politician was about to lie.

Paige shrugged. “You know...I hate tan lines.” Her voice was sluggish and uncaring.

Mitch gave her a look at this point. It was difficult to read.

“Right,” Paige said, and yawned. “Stay off the subject.” She shrugged and sat down on the sand in front of me, cross-legged.

Her jean shorts crawled up her inner thighs, and I could see all the way to where, if she hadn't shaved herself so completely, her bush would be. She was smooth and richly tanned right up to her snatch.

“Did you have a good time last night?” Nik said, brazenly. I shot her a look. What was she doing?

“Marvelous,” Paige said, a wry smile on her lips. Mitch took a sip of coffee and nodded.

“Would you recommend that place?” Nik continued, and I slid my leg over to hers, because I could hear her reporter-investigator voice coming on, and Nik was not exactly subtle.

Mitch looked down at Paige, and we all stared at her, as she smiled up at the sun. Finally she said: “I liked the oysters at Zach's much better.” And after a silence: “And the men.”

Mitch smiled. I looked at Nik. She was smiling, too, a sort of shy and scandalized smile.

“We saw you were home kind of early,” Nik said.

Oh god.

“We thought maybe the place was a bust,” she continued.

Paige moved a little, and I was having a hard time not staring at her as she did. Her top was sliding up and over her nipples, her jeans seemed to be moving up her thighs even more, and my wife was asking her not-so-subtle questions about her porn career.

“Oh, we had some work to do,” Paige said.

Please, dear God, I prayed. Nik, shut up.

At the same time, I sort of hoped she'd keep going.

And keep going she did.

“Oh really? That's a strange...it was like nine or so. What do you guys do, anyway?”

“Videos,” Mitch said, without hesitation of any kind. His voice was plain and unapologetic. Direct.

It seemed that Nik was caught off-guard. Her mouth fell open, and I could tell she was now having another inclination to start laughing.

“Videos,” I repeated, trying to salvage the conversation. I wasn't really sure how I wanted to salvage it, but I was sure that if Nik started laughing it was going to be awkward. More than it was. Paige's smooth inner thighs and ass were trying to pull in my gaze, so I looked desperately to the left. “Like, documentaries or-”

“Porn,” Paige said. She tossed her hair a little.

There was a strange silence.

Nik was going to start laughing, I could tell. She had such a funny thing about that. If something was shocking, she could get really silly.

“Porn,” I repeated, just to keep things on track. “Like...actual porn.”

“It's sort of amateur,” Paige said, lightheartedly.

“It's just one of our businesses,” Mitch said, in the same toneless voice he always used.

I looked over at Nik, as if to ask her if she were satisfied with herself. I had no idea what to say.

“So you...you actually sell this stuff on the internet?” Nik continued.

I raised my eyes. God, she was being direct.

Paige yawned and stretched her arms up. Her top slid over her tits and I had a nice, nearly unobstructed view of her nipples. “Business talk,” she said lazily. “I'm out of here.” She hopped up and trotted down to the water's edge.

Mitch looked down at Nik. "It's a pretty simple business model," he said. "I'll tell you about it if you're interested." He gave her another salacious going-over with his eyes, and he seemed to almost be winking. "You could probably make a good career for yourself, as a matter of fact."

"Okay," I said, jumping up to a crouch. "That's probably enough..."

Mitch grinned. "Take it easy tiger, it's just a thought."

He left a nice long pause between this and his next sentence, just enough to smirk at me and make me dislike him intensely for a moment. "We just do it for the thrills, but we make a pretty good buck doing it. Problem is, Paige, she's got this porn-star look about her, and lotsa folks want a girl-next-door kind of look." His eyes went back to Nik, and moved along the shape of her body while practically broadcasting his dirty, pornographer's thoughts.

"It's true," Paige called out, returning from the water's edge as though she had never left the conversation. She smiled at Nik.

"Anyway," Mitch said, his voice dry again. "Check it out. We post all our stuff on XXXStream. Paige is PrettyHaley triple-x."

I glared a little, tried to keep my eyes from wandering to Paige and my mind from wandering to all the porn I was going to need to check out later, when Nik said probably one of the more shocking things I had heard come of her mouth, at least up until then:

"Triple 'x,' like all one word, 'prettyHaley-x-x-x?' Or t-r-i-p-l-e-x?"

"Three x's," Paige purred, returning from wherever she had gone so temporarily.

"And Haley is...?"

"H-a-l-e-y."

I stared at my wife. The exchange between the two of them seemed almost rehearsed, and they both had this odd little smile on their faces. I could not figure out what Nik was up to for the life of me.

"Okay," Nik said, as casually as if they had just set a date for coffee or recommended a book to each other. "We'll check it out."

Paige pushed her hair from her face and enjoyed some more sun in her sexual manner. "Does anyone want to go sea kayaking with me later?"

"I'm in," Nik said, almost immediately.

I was getting a subtle kind of whiplash, mostly in my eyes, from shifting back and forth from porn-star Paige to my weirded-out wife. Don't get me wrong, I was aware that it was every man's dream to have his wife tell a porn star she would “check out” some of her porn, and then agree to hop in a sea kayak with her (well...sort of the dream, though a little more surreal and dreamlike than dreamy).

But a really, deeply unsettling feeling was snaking around inside of me as well.

Nik turned to me and rubbed my back. “You can finally get your beer-drinking in,” she teased.

“I like sea kayaking.”

“We only have one kayak,” Paige said, and her voice dripped out of her mouth like honey. She was so sorry, her voice said. But she would have fun with my wife and make it up to me later...

I tried not to let my mind get the better of me and my cock, and I tried not to let my face frown itself into the pout I could feel coming on and which I couldn't entirely explain to myself. I forced a smile. “Great. That'll be just fine, actually. I have some beer, I have a chair, it's perfect for me.”

Nik looked down at her book. “What time?”

Paige sighed, as if this sort of question troubled her deeply and philosophically. “Oh maybe in a few hours. I am going to take in some sun.”

Mitch shot her another look.

“Oh, there's no one here,” she whined, and trotted away to the cottage.

Mitch tossed the rest of his coffee on the sand. “I have some work to do,” he said. He let his eyes move all over Nik's body again, and then he trotted off to the Smith's cottage as well.

We watched them leave in silence.

“What the hell, Nik?” I whispered.

She pushed her sunglasses up and turned on her side and rested her head in her hand. Her breasts pressed together delightfully and she slid her hand onto her hip seductively. She bit her lip and grinned. “Come on,” she whispered. “Aren't you even curious to see what they're up to? I mean, Paige is like...a real, live porn star maybe.”

Her eyes were hungry, searching mine for my reaction.

I stared at her. “I didn't realize you were into...porn.”

This was a subject we'd of course gotten into, a few times while we were drunk and sharing secrets. Nik had admitted to watching porn, and “admitted” is the best term for it, because I practically had to drag it out of her. She was almost squeamish about it. She wouldn't tell me, at the time, the kind of porn she had watched, or how much of it, or whether she liked it. So we had pretty much left it at that. That was years and years ago, though. I suppose times change.

"I mean...I don't know. It's kind of different if it's someone you know, you know? Plus.." her mouth twisted into a devious little smile, and she nudged my leg with hers, dragging her knee along the outside of my thigh seductively. "It was kind of fun, the other night...you know, watching?"

We had let our voices rise above a whisper, and at that moment Paige slipped out of the cottage and began to walk, close to the water, along the beach. We stopped talking and Nik rolled back onto her stomach to watch her.

Paige kept walking until she was in the middle of the beach, where there wasn't a house near the sand, and lay her bamboo mat and towel down.

And then off went the top. Her big breasts jiggled free. She stood there and folded her top up neatly before tossing it at the corner of her towel.

Her hands went to the buttons of her jeans. Then they were sliding, right off her hips.

She was totally naked. She was glorious.

She sat down on her mat, and then lay down.

Face up.

We were still staring when she reached next to herself and found a small tube of sunscreen. I watched as she applied it to her fingertips, and then grasped her own nipples to run it over her nipples only. Her fingers worked it in good, twisting and kneading her own nipples and working the white creamy sunscreen into them. My cock was pushing itself against the hard sand and I had to adjust my body.

Then Paige took her finger, and slid it down her body, hovering over her skin.

Until she hovered over her gash, and with one slender finger, she swiped it over herself right between her legs.

I didn't have a good view, but my imagination provided the details for me.

"Holy fuck," I said absent-mindedly. My brain caught up to my mouth almost immediately, and I almost cowered in expectation of a blow from Nik. Instead she was silent. She was staring at Paige.

Her expression was both hot as hell, and also, I have to admit, a little terrifying. Rather than appearing scandalized, or shocked, or indignant, as I would have expected her to, she looked interested. Almost admiring.

Then she rested her chin on her hand and opened her book. “Let's talk about it later,” she whispered to me.

“So?” Nik said, setting down her wine glass.

I was staring at the plate in front of her, where I had carefully arranged a bacon-wrapped filet mignon, a skewer of tiger shrimp, and a twice-baked potato, or in other words, more than Nik's typical daily caloric intake. All that remained of her steak was a small scrap of too-fatty bacon; the tails of the shrimp, sucked clean of shrimp flesh, were the sole remnants of the skewers; and a few green onions scattered on the plate spoke for the baked potato. She was on her third glass of wine.

“Uh...so...” I said.

“What should we do?” she said. Then she picked up her wine and swirled it around in the glass. She leaned forward. “Should we check it out?”

I knew what she was talking about, of course. How could I not? I'd been thinking about it all day. After Paige had rubbed her sunscreen into her nipples and sunbathed stunningly naked for half an hour, she had flipped over onto her stomach and done it for another half hour, with her bare ass and the crevice between her buttocks leering at me across the sand. So while Nik read her book, I lay there on top of my now-painful hard-on, trying to focus on the sea and rid myself of thoughts about what kind of pornos Paige made, and how many of them I might be able to watch, and whether or not I was actually going to watch them, in the mother of all fantasies I never even had, with my wife.

Then Paige had stood up, shaken off her towel, put on her clothes, and walked past us. “I'm going to grab a snack,” she said, “and then head out. Good with you?”

“Sure,” Nik said. “I uh...just realized, though, I don't have a wetsuit.”

“I have an extra one,” Paige said. “Come over in like ten, you can change there.”

And off she had gone.

Then my wife had left me, and gone into the Smiths' cottage with the porn star and the porn king, to try on wetsuits, so I spent ten minutes imagining Paige pulling and tugging on the tight rubber material to get it all snugly fit over Nik's hips, and thighs, and abdomen, and breasts. Of course my mind embellished the scene with a few friendly squeezes here and there.

Then I watched them head out to sea in a kayak together. And I sat there with my beer for about two hours, my cock hard as a rock and my brain being no help to make it deflate. The whole time, of course, trying to resist the urge to go into the house and look up the porn before Nik got back.

The two disappeared around a jut of rock on the north side of the small bay where we were. It would be at least an hour before they would be back. I had plenty of time to go in, check out some porn, and be back on my lawn chair in the sand, my cock relieved and my spirits lifted.

But something made me stay. I had a very deep sense of unease, and I wasn't entirely sure why.

It was maybe just a bit too much. This was the kind of thing I fantasized about, sure, all the time. Meeting a hot porn star, and my wife taking an interest in her. But this thing with Mitch, and these weird feelings I was having that were half-enjoyable, and half-sour, as I watched my wife flirt with him, and flirt with the men at the restaurant. That conversation with Mitch, and all the feelings it stirred up in me...all this stuff was...well, a little darker than I was used to.

I grappled with it all afternoon. I was hard as steel, and yet I was also brooding. I even told myself, aloud, at one point: "Cole, fucking relax. Your wife's in a kayak with a porn star."

This made me laugh at myself. But the dark cloud returned a little later.

It was the way Nik was acting, I knew it. So...enthusiastic. So into Paige, and Mitch, and things I would have sworn she would have reacted so much differently to.

But what the hell was I so upset about it for? On the face of it, wasn't it just outrageously hot?

On and on, I had brooded and ached on the beach.

Nik had come home, and I made dinner.

Now she was looking at me brightly. Should we check it out?

It. The porn.

"I think we have to," she said, when I didn't answer. "I mean, I don't think I can live with the curiosity. Do you?"

I shrugged, smiling.

“What?” she said, and she seemed truly surprised.

“I don't know,” I said. “I just...I guess I'm just shocked that you, are like, into it.”

She took a sip of wine. “Well, aren't you?” she said, and beneath the table she found my leg with her foot. “Come on. It'll be fun.”

I made a show of looking for my laptop, even though its location had been radiating in my mind all afternoon.

“The internet is really slow,” I said. “So it might be choppy.” The only thing we could get all the way out here was an ultra-expensive satellite internet that was good, but pretty slow for video. I knew because in previous years I had spent my fair share of time looking for a way to watch porn.

“What was the site?” I said, as if I didn't remember or had never heard of it, both untrue.

“XXXStream,” Nik breathed. She was behind me now, her lips close to my neck, and I felt a wash of goosebumps prickle my skin all the way down my spine.

“We can pay as we go, or get a subscription,” I said.

“Get a subscription,” she said. “It's a good thing to put on your credit card.”

I laughed. She was being a bit facetious. I had recently been informed that not only could I not leave the country, and not change jobs, I was additionally a credit-less loser who had to have a secured credit card with a limit of $200 for a year or so to re-establish myself in Canada.

But it was also hot as hell hearing my wife tell me to get a subscription to a porn site.

“It's a perfect thing to put on that card,” I said, and I reached into the drawer where my wallet was stashed to get it out.

“Okay,” I said, after entering the information, “Now their names?”

Nik's breath accentuated each syllable as she breathed:

“PrettyHaleyxxx. All one word.” She said each 'x' languidly, with an extra puff of hot, moist air on my skin. I shivered and typed.

“Wow,” Nik said, sitting on the edge of the table next to and behind me. Then, with a little snort-laugh that seemed to have escaped her unauthorized, she said: “There's last night's...oh my god, is that the views?”

My eyes were all over the page. I had no idea where to look first. Paige's round bottom was everywhere, and a few of the thumbnails included her ass with a huge cock inside of it. Her pussy was everywhere, spread open and all of its red, tight folds wet and yawning open. Her mouth was all over the page as well, wrapped around cock after cock.

“Let's watch this one,” Nik said, after a long pause as we stared at the page. “Wife kidnapped and gangbanged.”

My cock, which had been ballooning in my pants for the thirtieth time that day, jerked to attention. But I gave her a sidelong look. I couldn't tell if she was being serious. Half-serious? Totally sarcastic? “Really?” I said. My voice sounded strangled and hoarse.

She shrugged, and I thought I saw a little flicker of disappointment on her face. “Or...whatever. If you're not into it...” she looked up at the screen and began searching for another one. “There's 'Everything Goes in Haley's Holes,’” she said, smiling. Again with the same odd tone, the one I couldn't read.

I scrambled. “No, no...I mean, yeah, whatever, but if you want to watch the kidnapping one, I was just surprised that...” I sounded like a middle-schooler, talking to a girl for the first time.

I mean, the thing is, that's the one I wanted, too. The word 'wife' had set something off inside of me.

Nik looked at me sincerely. “Oh god, just press on one of them, I just want to see.” she squealed.

So I clicked on “Everything Goes.”

And everything did, in fact, go in Haley's holes. Or rather, Paige's holes.

First a man's large dick, and there was no telling if it was Mitch's or not. I could see Nik watching with a kind of specific curiosity, though. Was she sizing it up, trying to remember if it was the same cock she had seen the night before? Her interest in another man's cock sent a shudder through me.

Then a nice close-up of the cock in Haley's pussy, and then her ass, but then...

“Wow,” Nik breathed softly. “That's really...”

Her voice trailed off.

Paige was now literally taking all kinds of things into her holes, at once.

I was stunned. My eyes were glued to the screen. It wasn't as if I had never watched this exact scene in a porno before. It was just...well, as Nik had pointed out, it was different if you knew the girl.

We watched to the end, with an almost morbid fascination. It was shocking how much Paige could take. It was even more shocking that Nik sat all the way through it.

The video stopped, and the website helpfully produced a new selection of our neighbor's porn videos for us.

I looked at Nik. Her mouth was open, aghast. "That was...I cannot believe that...Paige?" She shook her head. "Okay let's try another one."

She clicked on the kidnapping video before I could ask her, surprised, if she really meant that.

A man in a black suit, with a black mask over his face, came into the field of vision of the camera and knelt down so that he was looking into it. Behind him, Paige was tied to a chair, naked in all of her glory. She was sitting there so loosely tied and preposterously seductively, that I smiled and Nik gave a wet snort. I mean, it was silly, like all scripted porn was.

The man's eyes were dark and so was his skin. "She can't hear you, if you're saying something. Now shut up and listen to me."

The video had suddenly taken on a twisted bit of theater, and I was intrigued. In fact, it was kind of fascinating that they had gone through all the trouble of scripting it so well. Very clever actually. I was now the husband, listening to a ransom video.

The man placed his hands on Paige's shoulders and loosened the gag, so that it fell from her mouth. She started crying and saying, "Please, honey," in a poorly acted but semi-convincing voice. In spite of how cheesy it was, I felt myself getting a little turned on by the idea of the story.

The man grasped her hair and slapped her lightly on the cheek. "Shut up!" Paige whimpered and started sobbing softly to herself.

Paige. She was so beautiful. Her big, full breasts were bare and heaving with her poorly acted sobbing (she in fact, if you looked too closely, seemed to be unable to contain her own amusement). But her face was wet with convincing tears, and the actor playing the kidnapper was actually quite menacing.

"We have your wife, as you can see. And we'd like some money. It's a bargain really: If you pay us like we ask, we'll keep her mouth pristine for you.”

Another character came onto the screen, and squeezed Paige's mouth at that moment.

“Pay us a little more, we'll keep our cocks out of her cunt.” The other man, also deliciously dark (which was getting me stirred up in ways I had never before considered), began moving his hands all over Paige's body now. Down her bare shoulders, in between her legs where her bare snatch was off-camera. “And for another few hundred thousand dollars, we'll stay out of her ass. You can have your wife back, unopened, for just a few hundred thousand dollars. But, if you fail to comply with our rules, we'll take a little piece of her, one at a time. And the price will never go down, even if we do get our cocks wet. Got it?”

I stole a glance at Nik. She was half-smiling, watching intently. Her expression was unreadable again.

“Call the cops and we'll send you all the action on video, but you'll never see her again.”

Nik sighed. I could tell she thought the story line was a little cliched.

“First thing, as a little sample that you can follow instructions, I want you to wire me this amount of money.” He held up a piece of paper with $100,000 written on it.

Nik reached out with impatience and fast-forwarded the video a little. “It's too silly,” she said dismissively.

When the video played again, the “kidnapper” had taken out his enormous cock by now. It was a tremendous, veined, brown member, and thoroughly erect. Paige was shaking her head in theatrical defiance, and she pinched her mouth closed. The “kidnapper” moved the tip of his cock along her pursed lips. “Open up. Open it, honey,” he said. “Do it or this will all be over right now.”

Paige closed her eyes, in a moment of decent acting, and then opened her big, red mouth. The man pushed inside of her, and her cheeks puffed out with the enormous slab of meat he shoved into her mouth. He tilted her head by grabbing her hair, and even though she was gagging, he went in deeper and deeper, until we could see the bulge of his cock straining through her neck and throat.

Next to me, Nik trembled. But her eyes were locked on the screen and she was absorbed by what she was seeing, in one way or another.

The kidnapper from the porno grasped Paige's hair and began to move her head back and forth, back and forth, over his gigantic member. Sticky, wet, slurping sounds were coming from the audio. It seemed like Paige could barely breathe, she had so much dick in her mouth and her throat.

I didn't really want to be, but I was transfixed by how open her mouth was, how spread her lips were, red and perfect against the dark purple of the man's huge cock. In and out, until I could see that he was tensing his muscles and getting ready to come, then he pulled his cock out so that just the tip was in her mouth. I saw the white cum splashing all over her lips, onto her cheeks. So much of it, until she was sticky and glistening with his semen, like icing on a little cake. She gasped for air and he tilted her head toward the camera. Her eyes were wet and reddened, and mascara streamed down her face. There was white cum all over her mouth, dripping down her face and mixing with the spit and tears.

And me? What did I think about all of this?

I let myself get carried away with the story, thinking this was Nik, not Paige...Nik getting used like a little whore.

I looked at Nik as the scene paused a little to change, indicating that some time was taking place in the narrative. Her face was flushed, and her lips were parted in an expression that, again, was impossible to read. Was she turned on? Disgusted? I couldn't tell.

The truth was, it turned me on, no matter what the answer to that question was.

The video lost a little bit of steam with a hasty succession of story-line shots: the man wired the money and got back online to negotiate with the kidnappers.

Nik clicked ahead.

In the scene that filled the screen, Paige was tied to a chair.

She had a sexy, sensual smile. She licked her lips, like a porn star would on a shoot.

The first man, whose black-clad torso and hips were already on screen, unzipped his pants and was guiding his big, dripping cock toward her mouth. This time she looked right at him, looked right at his cock as though it were a nibble of some delicious food someone had offered her. And then she stuck out her tongue and started to lick him. Smiling, purring, licking her lips to get him wetter and wetter at the tip of his huge purple cock.

And then she turned to the other one, another gigantic black man with a cock that was as long as the other's but somehow, almost impossibly, thicker. He was moving toward her, stroking his own cock to get it ready for her. She opened her mouth to lick him as well. She placed her plump red lips around the tip of his shaft and sort of popped the air around them, smiling and moaning a little. “

The one on the right, the bigger one, placed his hand on her hair and she opened her mouth up for him, smiling, just before he pushed her face onto his cock. He pushed her head all the way down to the base of his enormous shaft, and I heard as Nik's mouth dropped open in shock (or admiration) next to me. On screen, Paige lifted her head, and a long strand of glistening saliva trailed from her mouth to the big cock she had just swallowed..

The other man grasped her, and smiling still, making a sound like mmmmmmmm, she went all the way onto his cock.

They took turns bobbing her head over their cocks and lifting her up. Between sucks she fluttered her pretty eyes up to them, before turning, ever so willingly, to gulp down the cock next to her. Thirsty, hungry: devouring all of that huge black cock, smiling when her mouth wasn't full of meat.

“Okay,” one of them said. “We gotta hurry this up.”

Then the one on the left grasped her hair when she turned to open up for the other one, and pushed her down deep while he thrust himself into her quickly – obviously exploding cupfuls of hot cum into her throat. She swallowed it all up like she was downing a glass of delicious wine. When he pulled out of her his dick was less outrageous, and the white, glue-like cum gushed out of her mouth and all over her lips.

I snuck another glance at Nik. She was staring at the screen, absorbed by what she was seeing. I don't think she even saw me watching her. Her mouth was open but her lips formed a light smile.

Nik skipped again, but she didn't seem to be doing it because she was repulsed: rather, she had a hungry look on her face. She wanted more.

Paige was gagged again in the next scene, and her face was streaming with the erotic, willing tears she had shed while gulping down those two cocks.

I heard a finger snapping, and a man came out from behind the camera. His big dick was out, twitching in anticipation. He moved around behind Paige, standing over her, letting his member fall into her hair, rubbing himself on top of her head.

“So your husband hasn't wired us enough money yet,” he said.

My eyes were glued to the purple cock that was moving over Paige's head.

“Have you ever let your husband fuck you in the ass?” the man mused, his cock pushing strands of Paige's hair all over the place.

She just shed her very dramatic tears.

“That's a no,” an off-camera voice said.

The man started talking again, and the plot was pretty obvious and not really well-acted: get the money or that's what he'd do to the wife.

Nik skipped again. I hoped, deep down inside, that she wanted to see that part. I'm not really into anal sex – not actually doing it – but watching it was another story. And watching Paige, who I knew, who I saw in real life, take that man's enormous cock in her ass...well, I didn't want to miss it. Especially with my own porn-enticed wife trembling next to me.

Paige was on a bed when the new scene started playing. Her spectacular ass was in the air, and she was lying with her chest on the bed.

“I can be real gentle this first time, open you up like a flower,” one of the men said.

“We'll take it nice and slow,” the other one said.

He moved his hands over her ass and watched his own hands, and I think he even licked his lips. The man on the right placed his hands on the small of her back and her belly, tipping her so that she was arched up for the one behind her.

Out of seemingly nowhere, the man on the right produced a bottle of lube. I heard it squirt as he put a fair amount in his hand. He was behind her now, moving his hand a little, but I could tell he wasn't in her. Probably just making lazy circles around her anus.

“Now, I'm gonna start with one finger. You gotta just relax, okay? Just push out on it, I know that seems weird. Try pushing it out and your ass will relax and you can take it all in. And then it will start to feel good, and before you know it, you'll be asking me for more.”

Paige lifted her face and grimaced, yelping a little.

“That's it, baby. But just relax. Relax by pushing out.”

There was silence while she squeaked and squirmed, and then the man said: “That's it.”

His hand was moving back and forth now, and Paige's face started to relax.

“You like that, little girl?” the man said.

Paige lifted her head, turning back to him, and in a deep, throaty (cum-sticky throaty) purr said: “Oh yeah.”

“I'm gonna give you a little bit more then.”

And then she gasped, and made a whining noise, like she was really being tortured, but she started panting, and the man's hands started to move with fluidity again. He smiled. “That's it, baby doll. That's it. You got a nice tight ass, Haley. Nice soft, pink ass. Open up for me.”

The man on the right pushed her back into position again, and kind of held her there. “Hold that ass up, girl,” the one with his fingers in her asshole said. “There we go.”

He leaned over her, and pulled her hair so that her face tilted up and I could see her squint with both pain and pleasure. “Now. I'm gonna get my cock in there. It's the same thing, doll. Just open it up for me, relax, and it will only hurt for a little bit. I'll slide it in there like butter.”

The one who was watching this whole thing pushed her down onto the bed. Her ass was up in the air, the two round mounds of her buttocks clear to see, and his giant cock was out, aiming right for her. The second man placed his knee on her back, and his hands on either buttock.

I knew, even though I couldn't see it, that he was holding her down and holding her open. “Oh god,” Paige moaned, but it was a false fear that vibrated in her voice: she was hot as hell for this cock in her ass. I heard more lube squirting off-screen,, and then he started in.

I imagined that little hole opening up for him, all that purple meat stretching it open, starting to fill her up. From under the second man's leg there came a high-pitched squeal, getting slowly and slowly louder.

For a while she just made nonsensical noises. She gripped the bed and the sheets into little balls and sobbed lightly. But it was all theatrical. Much like what we had witnessed the night before.

“It's too big!” she finally whined. “Oh god, it's too big!”

“You can take it,” he said. His eyes on were on himself, pushing open her pink ring, sliding his cock into all that dark, soft ass. It must have been so tight on his cock.

Paige started crying, but it was a porn-star grade cry. “Oh,” she screamed. “Oh, god. No, it's so big I can't take it. Ohhhhhh, it hurts!” She was screaming in her pseudo-agony for a full minute until he grasped her hips and tugged, pushing his gigantic cock all the way in to the very base.

Paige moaned, muffled by the sheets she had balled into her own face.

“There you go sweetheart. All opened up. Just relax,” he pet her like a dog. The other one pulled away and sat on his knees, his big cock pointed at her. He was so hard he looked like his cock would rip apart at the seams.

“Relax, Haley,” the one fucking her said. “Squirm a little, that's right. Just relax.”

She must have relaxed, because he stroked her ass a bit and said “That's good. There we go.”

Then he reached over and pulled her up to her hands and knees by her hair. “Now I'm gonna take you for a ride.”

I could only really see Paige, her hair falling into her face where it was not balled up in his hands, her mouth open wide and her eyes open to the ceiling. “Oh god,” her mouth screamed. “Oh, god!” Over and over again while her hair bounced and her head bobbed and the man behind her thrust and thrust into. I could hear his skin slapping into her ass, and she screamed and moaned and said, “Oh god!” about fifty times.

Behind her, finally, the first man said, “Oh fuck,” and bent over her, panting, sweating. All that could be seen on the screen, next, was her asshole, pink and distended, gushing out his white cum.

But then he moved off to the side, and the second one, the one who had been holding her open, moved behind her. He jerked her head up and wasted no time, pushing himself inside of her.

Paige screamed and tried to drag herself away from him: his cock was much thicker, much bigger than the other man's. “No, I can't!” she screamed, but he dragged her towards him and somehow pulled her onto his cock. He pulled on her hair until she was seated on his lap. Naughtily though, with her ass opened up and coating his cock.

“Ooooooohhhh,” she cried, half-moaning, half-crying. But you could tell she liked it, that she was enjoying her abuse as much as she was in agony from it.

Now her lithe body was stretched open from cunt to hair, arched like a cat, her huge tits bouncing lightly as he thrust in quick little spurts up into her, deep inside of her.

He placed his mouth near her ear and whispered something I couldn't hear. She cooed and screamed, and then she – screaming – began to move her body up and down his shaft. First she moved slowly, wailing her sticky-wet, cum-drenched agonizing wail. Then she started making porn-grade moans, screams, and grunts. Then, the slutty, cuckolding, whoreish, dick-sucking, dirty little bitch of a cheating wife started screaming in ecstasy, bobbing up and down on that cock like she was riding a horse. She was sweating buckets, screaming oh yeah FUCK me just like that!

I was trembling now with all kinds of feelings. I tried not to shake with too much excitement as I watched, imagining Nik instead of Paige, imagining my own wife being a terrible slut.

“Make me come!” Paige's character shrieked.

I felt a cool kind of painful pleasure slither through me.

Nik looked over at me.

I felt a wave of embarrassment, as though she had been reading my thoughts about her, as though she knew that what I was imagining was that my own wife was as dirty and unfaithful as the character, played by Paige, in this silly video.

Nik surprised me, though, by sort of smiling at me. She reached over and used one hand to unzip my pants, and her fingers wrapped firmly around my cock to pull it out.

She was still looking at the video, which was going on and on. Paige was getting banged senseless by her “kidnappers,” and she was starting to love it and beg them to fuck her in the ass.

Nik started to give me a handjob, and I was paralyzed by the obscene sexiness of the whole scene. I stared at the screen and watched, enjoying my wife jerking me off.

Then I realized I should probably return the favor. I slid my hand into her pants and beneath her panties. She was so wet that I encountered her juices almost immediately. She shuddered when my finger slid over her clit, and I began to stroke her as we both watched the obscene porno our neighbor had made.

We both came in just minutes, and it was a wild, unhinged orgasm, at least for me. Nik seemed to get off on it too: she doubled over as she gasped, and her whole body shook with pleasure when she came.

The video was still going, and we looked at each other and laughed. Nik closed the laptop. “I think that should do it,” she said, grinning.

11 UNCHARTED TERRITORY

We moved to the bedroom after an awkward silence.

“So,” I said, finally.

“So,” Nik said with a grin.

I wasn't sure what to say beyond that. This was uncharted territory for me, and it was as weird as it was exhilarating. Nik was taking me completely by surprise, and I wanted to talk to her about it, but I wasn't even sure what direction I wanted the conversation to go in.

Did I actually want my wife to be as turned on as she seemed by such wild, filthy porn?

Maybe I just wanted to suspect it, and not hear her say it.

Or maybe I wanted her to be a little more than just turned on, maybe I wanted her to want to experiment a little.

And then there was the frightening thought, and it gave me a shiver every time my mind ran over it: when I pictured Nik “experimenting,” I wasn't the man in the picture. My mind liked to linger there, too.

The dirty thoughts I'd had while we were watching the video were also nagging at me in the back of my mind. I wasn't sure how I felt about them at all. Obviously, I wouldn't have imagined Nik in Paige's place unless it turned me on, but was that just fantasy of the kind I would never act on, or was there more to it?

I went in circles every time I thought about it.

Nik was turning me on.

But it wasn't like Nik, plain old Nik, was turning me on. It was...this other side of Nik.

More Nikita than Nik.

She was making me very, very nervous.

I felt exhilarated.

I felt out of control.

I reminded myself that I also had nothing, nothing at all, to base any of these thoughts on. So far, all Nik had done was watch our dirty neighbors in some dirty porn and get wet and have sex with me, her husband.

And flirt with another man at a bar, I reminded myself.

Nik turned her head on the pillow and surveyed my face. "Why so thinky, chum?" she said.

I smiled and tried to muster a light-hearted expression. "I'm not thinky," I said. "Just..."

She propped herself up on her elbow. "I know," she said. "It's hard to believe Paige is that much of a...a...slut." Her eyes were wide with wonder.

But here's the thing: it wasn't the kind of admonishing wonderment, or judgmental amazement I would have expected from Nik. She had another expression on her face, one that was more awed in a kind of...well, impressed way.

Or impressionable.

A knife went through my gut. At the same time, seeing my wife's face all brightened up with interest at "how slutty" Paige was being was giving me another erection.

Nik chewed on her lip and then pressed her fingers to her mouth. She seemed to have an inner, private thought of her own that made her smile.

"What?" I said, lifting my head.

She shook her head. "No, nothing, I'm just...it's weird, you know, she's like...she's so...normal-seeming, you know? Like when we went out in the kayak she's like, this kind of girl I'd hang out with, she's fun and stuff. And then, wham! she's like...getting gangbanged in a porno. And I guess, you know, like...she wears those clothes and everything so it isn't that surprising, but still..." She looked at me. "It's sort of cool," she said in a giggly whisper. "The girl next door, you know? Literally."

She plopped back onto her pillow and looked up at the ceiling.

"Did you like it though?" I ventured, and I almost couldn't believe that was the thing that my mouth decided to say. Of all the things I was thinking about, leave it to me to go in this direction.

Nik covered her mouth. Under her hand, though, I caught a glimpse of her smile. "You know..." She closed her eyes slowly.

Of course the answer was yes: she had been so wet that she couldn't legitimately deny it.

"Do you think it's strange, though?" she inquired, and she seemed genuinely interested in my answer, not an affirmation. "That Mitch films her?"

I lifted my head again and rubbed the back of it, where I was itching. "I dunno," I said, playing it cool. "Some guys I think get off on that. And anyway,” I turned and punched the pillow. “He said as much. That's why they do that whole...wife-hot thingy.”

I deliberately messed up the expression to pretend it wasn't burning a hole in my mind.

Nik looked at me and squinted. She never fell for that kind of “I'm-so-casual-about-this-it-hurts” trick, and if anything I was actually giving myself away even more, which was a lesson I never seemed to learn.

“What does he get out of it, I wonder?” she said, after a while.

I pressed my lips together.

She looked at me. She wasn't letting me off the hook. She had sniffed out that I had something to say about the topic, and she wasn't going to drop it now.

She blinked. Slowly and deliberately.

You had better tell me, she was saying.

“Okay,” I said. “I can tell you what he told me. You really want to know?”

She nodded.

I shrugged.

“What is it?” she prodded. “It can't be any nastier than what we just saw.”

My eyes were rigidly fixated on her lips, because the way she had said “nastier” was so filthy and seductive in and of itself that I could barely think.

I splayed my fingertips. I felt my lips forming the following words, but my mind was going in all kinds of directions, the sound of Nik saying “nastier” drowning out every rational thought I was trying to have.

“It's like...so, it's kind of a control thing, a little bit, like...she'll do all this stuff with another guy but it's...she's doing it because he told her to. That's what I got out of what he said.”

My brain caught up with what I had just told Nik, and I was very pleased with how coherent and accurate it was.

Nik was silent.

“That fits with Mitch,” she said, finally, as if she were some kind of authority on the subject. A strange smile was lurking on her lips.

Silence.

“What do you think about it?” Nik said abruptly.

She turned to me. Her face was resolute.

I wasn't getting out of this one.

A painful ache was twisting around in my gut. I didn't much like – even though I did very much like – the way Nik was taking an interest in this. She wasn't asking out of mere curiosity. No. The tone of her voice was more like she was feeling something out, something of her own design and own desire.

More like she was seeing if she could get away with something.

The thought punched through me and made my heart feel like it was in a vice grip.

I shrugged again. “I guess...” I said. “I guess I can see how a guy like Mitch could be into that kind of thing.”

“But you're not?” she said. Disappointment seemed to frost the edges of her words.

I splayed my fingers again. “I mean...”

What did I mean? I suddenly had no idea what I meant or what I thought about it. Nastier, nastier, nastier, Nik's voice was whispering in my head. I closed my eyes.

Nik placed her fingers on my chest, and walked them around on my skin. “You weren't turned on at the bar? Not even a little?”

I opened my eyes and looked at her. “I mean...”

But as I vacillated, she slid her hand down and found my hard cock. “Not even just a teeny-tiny bit?”

She was grinning.

She swung herself on top of me, and I was inside of her before I could really give any thought to response, so I never gave one. Not really.

Nik had a smile on her face as she eased herself onto my cock, and it remained there as she rode me until I came (an embarrassingly short time later). It was the kind of smile with fathoms of water beneath it, a lot of it very dark, and no telling whatsoever was at the bottom.

12 THE NEXT DAY

Nik went out in a kayak again with Paige the next day, and I sat on the porch of the cottage marinating in the worst and best thoughts I've ever had. I wondered what the two of them could be talking about, out there on the water. I wondered if Paige was whispering terrible, dirty ideas into my wife's ear. Maybe they tucked into the next cove over, lay down on the beach, and giggled while they played with each other's tits...

I had to go jerk off in the shower twice because of the things I came up with. But it wasn't all lovely, adolescent-level desire: the nervousness, the jealousy, and the fear, clouded my whole day.

I finally reached such an epic level of paranoia that I felt I would come out of my skin. That's when I, Cole Ryerson, after two beers and while on vacation, arose from my chair and went for a run down the highway.

I regretted it almost immediately. I was out of shape, it was humid as hell, and the sun was glaring through the watery sky to poach me alive. But I didn't stop for about a mile, because I had to burn off some of my bad energy.

When I reached a neighboring cove, I scrambled down the brushy hill to where I could see the water, of course hoping to find Nik, or maybe catch Nik, but there was no sign of anyone in the water or on the shore. I scrambled back up, scraping my legs to hell, and jogged back to the cottage. It was uphill and by now I felt sick from the jostling of all the beer in my stomach.

I stripped off my shirt when I got back, and dove into the water. It was surprisingly warm for about ten feet out, and then turned ice-cold and jarred me to my senses. I stayed out until I felt chilled, and then waded in.

Nik was somehow in the kitchen when I returned. She exited to the porch as I approached the cottage. Her hair was wet and slicked back from her face, where a light sun blush had crept over her cheeks and ignited her faint freckles. Her lips seemed very red, much plumper than usual.

She was also wearing a bikini. It was a shiny gold fabric. The top was a little large: the triangles spread wide over her breasts and there was a very large gap of her olive skin between them, revealing the full shape of her breasts and the sweet curve of them, almost to the center where her aureole turned to dark mocha. Her nipples were hard and obvious beneath the fabric. The bottoms were also loose and daringly skimpy.

My eyes widened, and I was dismayed to feel my cock burgeoning without authorization from my brain at all.

Nik smiled at me. She shook herself a little, and the bikini threatened to come undone and slip right off. "You like?" she teased. "I borrowed it from Paige."

She looked down at her own breasts and adjusted the suit. "It's a bit risque," she commented. She tipped her head back and took a long drink of water from the tall glass in her hand. "Where were you?" she said casually, after emitting a satisfied gasp at the end of her drink. Her eyes went up and down my body. "Did you swim?" she said, arching her eyebrows.

"I went on a run," I said, dryly.

She extended her hand and gave me what was left of her water. It was ice-cold, and the glass was slippery with condensation. "Huh," she commented. She narrowed her eyes and then turned to toss a pillow out of her way on the small couch on the patio. "Do you feel like going out with Paige and Mitch tonight? They're going in to Sydney, which is like," Nik rolled her eyes skyward, "I tried to tell them, there's no 'nightlife' there, but they want to go."

I stared at her. I gulped the water. I tried to sound casual.

"Do you want to go?" I said.

Sydney was really not an exciting town, by anyone's standards. Summer gave it a little boost of energy, and scraped away the thick grime of winter depression from its exterior, but it was hardly worth driving to.

Nik crossed her legs, and bounced her foot around. She made a strange face, scrunching up her nose and almost grimacing, but somehow still looking happy at the same time. "I think...I do," she said, as if she couldn't explain it to herself.

I shrugged. Inwardly, my heart was racing and my blood pressure threatening to burst an artery, but I had no real explanation for why this was getting me as riled up as all that. Half of me wanted, really wanted, to spend the night with Paige and Mitch, and see where things took us. It felt like a razor's edge, and I liked the feeling of some kind of life being breathed back into me by the excitement.

The other half of me was acting like an idiot. I wanted to pack up the car and take Nik home before she got any weirder. Any more alluring, any more dangerously unlike herself.

Still...that bikini.

“Let's go,” I said, as if I had no cares in the world. “If you want to.”

And then my fool mouth kept right on going. Unauthorized. “Maybe you can borrow something to wear from Paige.”

The nearly-transparent white dress filled my head.

Nik tapped a tooth with her forefinger. The gesture unsettled me: she had never done that in all the time I had known her. “Already taken care of,” she said, with a wink.

Then she stood up, and put a hand on my shoulder. “I'm going to go get some sun while it's hot,” she said.

I was inside the cottage before I realized that that statement, too, was as odd as her tooth-tapping, or porn-watching, or anklet-wearing.

Hot.

But not very Nik.

Not Nik at all.

I felt a cool discontent spreading through my chest. But my extremities – and one in particular – were on fire.

13 SYDNEY

“What do you think?” Nik said, emerging from the bedroom.

I wasn't sure where to look. The dress she had borrowed from Paige was, in a word, stunning. It was somehow silver and black at the same time, in some way my male mind couldn't fathom. Black lace peeked out from the low-cut top, where the pleasant shape of Nik's pert breasts was plumped up and displayed in silvery, lacy, shimmery glory. It was sleeveless, and fit her slender form tightly, all the way to the very short skirt, which flared ever-so slightly, and has an alarming slit in it that ran almost to the middle of her ass. The effect was elegant and slutty at the same time.

I let out a puff of air. Several thousand things popped up in my mind as possibilities to say (“get back in there and put some clothes on;” “you look like a prostitute;” and “fuck”) but my mouth and brain negotiated only a caveman-like monosyllable:

“Hot.”

“It's almost too much,” she said. But then she shrugged. “You ready?”

Her eyes seemed to be genuinely asking this question.

“I feel under-dressed,” I said. And I did. Again, I was sporting my best outfit: jeans and a white shirt.

“Oh god, whatever,” Nik said. “It's only Sydney.”

She smiled at me.

And so away we went. I followed her out the door. As she stepped out of her shoes to head across the sand to Paige and Mitch's cottage, I noticed it.

The anklet.

The sight of it spiked through me and wrenched my gut in two directions at once.

I could have said something, of course, but it wound me up so much that I just followed her. Truthfully? I wanted to see where it would go.

Paige was dressed in a surprisingly plain black dress, which was not conservative by any standards, except by comparison to her other clothing (and lack thereof). The dress plunged low between her breasts and low in the back, down to a wide c-curve that almost reached her ass. Other than that, it was an ordinary black dress, and completely opaque.

“You're dressed conservatively tonight,” I said, as she sat down across from me in a leather couch at the club. Nik and Mitch had offered to get drinks for us – or more appropriately, Mitch had told me that's what would happen – and Paige had slung her arm through mine and climbed the stairs with a slinky, feline walk, dragging me behind her.

I wasn't sure why I said it, but as usual, Paige was warm and unbothered by everything. She responded to almost everything as though she was lying on a float in a Caribbean sea.

“I didn't want to take the spotlight off Nik,” she said, after a long enough pause that I thought she wasn't going to answer me.

The gleam of the gold anklet around Nik's ankle floated through my mind, and stirred something around inside of me. Paige's lips parted a little in what seemed like a mildly perverse pleasure at my reaction.

“It's just a game, Cole,” she said, and she reached to pat me on the knee. “You know that.” Her fingers made a circle over my knee, rubbing against the outline of my kneecap, and an electric wave jolted down my thigh and straight into my cock. I stared at her hand as she continued to play with my knee. She was grinning. I knew I shouldn't just let her stroke my knee, but I was sort of helpless to stop her. Her big breasts were swinging right in front of my face and her mouth was so inviting with her unhurried wickedness prying it open.

The club was a little dead, but when I had commented on it, Paige had smiled lightly and told me to wait a bit. She had said it with the authoritative air of someone who knew all there was to know about the life of clubs and bars.

Mitch's presence hummed next to me, and he sat down next to Paige. Nik set my drink down but walked to the railing and looked over to the dancefloor. She gave it a mild scowl and kicked up a foot. Then she trotted back and sat down by me. “I warned you guys,” she said. “There's not much 'life' in Sydney's nightlife.”

Paige pulled her feet up next to her and stretched a little to curl up around Mitch like a kitten. “It'll pick up,” she said. And then: “Did you watch our videos?”

The question was so abrupt, and the memory so visceral, that I got a little dizzy between all the blood flushing across my face and going to my cock at the same time.

But it was Nik who answered. She appeared to be unaffected by the question, and, very unlike herself, she also appeared to be unbothered by it. She smiled and took a sip of her drink. “We did,” she purred, and she gave me a sensual glance.

“Which ones?” Mitch bellowed. “Which ones did you like? I like to know what sells.”

Paige leaned her head back on the couch and brought her fingers to her magnificent, cock-sucking throat. She let out a mild groan. “Oh god,” she said. “Always with the money.”

“I don't do anything unless I can make money at it,” Mitch quipped, and gave me a strange kind of manly-compadre wink, as if we shared the same ambition.

Paige lifted her head, slowly, sexually, the way she did everything. If someone had been only looking at her from the neck up at that moment, they might have believed a man was at work eating her out. “I don't do anything unless I can have fun doing it,” she purred.

“We watched the kidnapping one” Nik said, with a strange, complicit smile.

Paige's eyes seemed to fold in on themselves as she struggled to remember it. Then they came to life. “Oh yes,” she said. “That was fun.”

Paige leaned on his leg and moved her hands over it. “See then, baby, everyone is happy.”

“What did you like about it?” Mitch said, looking at Nik and devouring her with his eyes. I couldn't tell if his question had a purely market-research bent to it, or if he was playing some kind of sexual game with her by asking. I felt a wave of anger crash against my chest, but I decided to stay quiet.

Nik, who ordinarily I would have expected to get flustered and begin flapping around or giggling, looked quietly and contemplatively at the ceiling. She held her drink in the air, partway to her mouth. Then she laughed. “I don't know,” she said. “It was... hot.” She looked right at Mitch as she said this.

I could feel a trickle of sweat coursing down my back.

"You mentioned it was profitable," I found myself saying, and I knew I wanted to change the subject. Paige leaned her head back in a gesture of exasperation and made a noise. "Oh god," she complained. She sat up and reached over to take Nik's hand. "Let's go and dance," she said.

Nik frowned a little. She actually seemed reluctant to leave the conversation about the porn industry and money. "It's dead down there."

Paige grinned and winked. "For now..." Her eyes dropped to Nik's foot, and it was obvious she was guiding Nik's gaze to the anklet. "You want to give things a little..." her eyes shifted to me and Mitch, quickly, and then back. "...whirl," she finished. It was evidently not the word she might have chosen. "Let's have some fun," she said.

My chest tightened. "Hold on," I interjected, and I put my hand out on Nik's arm. "We're not talking about..."

Paige's eyes grew wide and her face lit up with amusement. She opened her mouth and moved her jaw from side to side. "Oh Cole, it's just for fun." Her eyes went back to Nik. "Isn't it?"

I looked at Nik. She shook her head lightly. Then she turned to me and elbowed me playfully. "It is," she said, in a strange tone that sounded serious, but did not match her face at all. "Just for fun," she repeated. "It's not like I'm going to..." She shrugged.

Paige stood up. She was looking down at me now, along the curves of her magnificent body. "Although," she mused. "You may find you like it."

My cock was rock-solid, so there wasn't really a lot of denying, even to myself, that I might like some part of "it."

Then Paige laughed, and leaned over a little to ruffle my hair. Her fingernails scraped at my scalp and sent a delicious shudder through me. "Cole, I'm just fucking with you. Nik here isn't the type. Are you?"

Nik stood up as well. She gave a strange smile as a response.

And the two smiled at me and clasped their hands together to trounce away to the stairs.

I looked back at Mitch after they bobbed down the stairway. He was turned around to watch them as well, and he exhaled deliberately and loudly when he turned back to me. "That's some number, that Nikita. You're a lucky man."

He leaned forward and set his drink down. "You were saying," he said, in a suddenly business-like voice, "about profits?"

My mouth was hanging open and I wasn't able to answer him. I was so distracted by what the voluptuous Paige might be getting up to with my wife that I barely understood his question. I felt like I should get up, and go talk to Nik, and reaffirm the loose promise she had almost made: that she was just flirting, this was just for fun, and she wasn't going to take off with some random guy.

"I...yeah...what, sorry?" I babbled.

Mitch shook his head. "Loosen up, guy," he said, and his comment made my skin crawl. "Just enjoy your wife getting attention. I'm telling you, it's a great thrill." He leaned back again and spread his arms out over the back of the couch, the same pompous way he had at Zach's. He looked out over the railing, but here wasn't anything he could see from where he was. "Of course," he said, his voice distant, "you'd be in good shape if she did get it into her head to take things a little further."

Not knowing what else to do, I downed my drink.

A waitress, who appeared very annoyed by having to climb the steps just for us, stopped at the top of the stairs and looked at me pointedly. I held up two fingers.

"I don't know what you ordered," she said, crossly. She pushed herself away from the banister and dragged herself closer to our table.

Mitch turned around. "Oh hello darlin,'" he said. I couldn't see his face but I knew he was dragging his eyes all over the waitress, who was waif-like with a pretty face and the sour expression of an angsty teenage girl turning her mouth downward. "Aren't you just a lovely little thing," Mitch cooed.

The girl's expression changed and I rolled my eyes inwardly.

"You from around here?" Mitch continued, and the girl stepped forward. The ice was breaking with her, and she gave a shy smile.

"I grew up in Sydney," she said.

Mitch murmured his approval. "It must be cold here all winter," he said. "What do you like to do for fun?"

The girl gave a light laugh. "Uh...in the winter? There's..." she suddenly realized what he was insinuating, but incredibly, instead of getting annoyed, she blushed and smiled more. "There's not much to do," she said.

"You have a boyfriend?"

She shook her head and shrugged at the same time.

“Shame,” Mitch said, and he extended his fingers to just an inch or so away from her slender thigh. “Such a waste. What's your name, darlin'?”

“Samantha.”

“Samantha,” Mitch repeated. It was so smarmy, the way he said her name. I felt my stomach twist.

He let a silence linger in the air, and Samantha said, “You're not from around here, I take it?” to end the silence.

“Well, Samantha, my buddy and I here are just in town from L.A..”

“L.A.?” she gasped. “Oh god...what are you doing here?”

Mitch shrugged, as if he didn't want to say. “Just a bit of scouting,” he said. “Well,” he added, “not tonight of course. It's supposed to be our night off.” He turned back to me. “But a scout's work is never really done, is it, Cole?”

I stared at him. I was too shocked to answer. Samantha put her hand on her hip and cocked her head. The effect Mitch was having on her was evident. I could see her thinking, and I could see from the smirk on Mitch's face that it's exactly what he wanted her to be doing.

He gave me a smug grin before turning back to Samantha. “Darlin,' could you get my buddy here a nice big whiskey double? What's your top shelf?”

She twisted her hair and apologized before divulging that it was Dewey's.

And I was stunned to find myself making a lame joke. “That'll do-'er,” I practically shouted.

What the fuck was I doing? I had no idea what the fuck I was doing.

Mitch's body rippled with distaste, but he kept sailing, with his smooth voice. “And get one of those for me, too,” he said.

He turned back to me and raised his eyebrows. “Smooth,” he said.

I was feeling wildly uncomfortable. I didn't like how Mitch had implicated me in being from L.A., and also a sleazy guy who pretended to be a scout, and I didn't at all like where he seemed to be headed with that waitress. I certainly didn't want to be a part of it.

Once she was gone, though, I remembered the other thing that was making me uncomfortable as hell: my wife was downstairs with the over-the-top sexy porn star Paige, wearing an anklet and planning to “have some fun.”

Whatever that meant.

Deeper inside of me, there was an even greater discomfort, however: I was uncomfortable with myself. Because I was dying to look over the edge and see Paige and Nik dancing. I was hoping to see them dance with each other, but if I was honest with myself, I was also hoping to see them dancing with some other guys.

“You need to relax,” Mitch said, out of nowhere.

This irritated me. “Look,” I said. “I think it's great what you and Paige have going, and I'm not judging you, but this is my wife.”

Mitch's face was unchanged for a beat, and then he broke into a smile. A relaxed smile, the smug fucker. “Sure, man.”

I stood up and leaned on the railing.

The dance floor had a few more people on it, but no Paige and no Nik. I scanned the area frantically.

I found Paige's light, wild hair first. She had climbed up on some sort of box to lean in to the DJ, whose eyes, I could see from here, were trained on her big tits. Nik was leaning against a nearby wall, legs extended and crossed in front of her. For a moment that was all I saw, and then she moved her head in a nod, and I realized that the man standing next to her was talking to her.

Nik brought her drink to her lips. She had a straw in it, whatever it was, and she sipped through it while she listened to whatever the guy was telling her. He was a young kid, wearing baggy pants and looking far too young and far too thuggish to be talking to my wife.

Nik laughed, opening her mouth, and placed her hand on the kid's arm.

Flirting.

Mitch appeared next to me. He rested his arms on the railing. He had the whiskey in his hands now.

“See what I mean,” he said, pointing in the direction of Paige. My eyes didn't move from my own wife. “It's pretty entertaining.” He took a sip of his whiskey.

I watched for a while and then I decided to go to the john and get my head on straight. I wanted to go home. Nik wasn't doing anything, really, just talking to pother men. I had no real reason to be in a sour mood, but something seemed “off,” and I couldn't help myself,

When I came out from the restroom, the club was like a completely different place. I had no idea how it had happened, but the place had filled up with a crowd. A lot of them were quite a bit younger than us. I felt pretty out of place.

I swept my eyes over the dance floor, where I had last seen Paige and Nik. In spite of the uptick of people, Paige and Nik were easy to find: they were easily the most attractive women at the club that night, and it could well be, given where we were, that they were the most attractive women the place had ever seen.

I leaned against the bar and positioned myself so that I had a good view of the two of them. I really didn't want to return upstairs and listen to Mitch hit on every girl around. In a Canadian club, girls could legally be as young as nineteen, and some of these kids looked like they had conned their way in, which wasn't that unusual either. It seemed to me he was playing with fire, and also, he was being dick.

This is what I told myself was the reason for staying downstairs where I could see my wife and Paige. I also told myself that I was enjoying their display of vague lesbianism. Who wouldn't?

But I knew that what I was really staying there for, deep down inside, was the chance to be close by if some other man came to flirt with my wife. And not to step in and stop it: no, I wanted to watch the whole thing. I wanted the same thrill I'd been getting from all the other men Nik flirted with.

I just wasn't, at that particular moment, able to fully admit it to myself.

At first, Paige and Nik were dancing close together. Lights flashed color on their sweaty skin, and they seemed to be really caught up in the dancing itself. They both had their eyes closed most of the time, and they gyrated and thrust their tits and asses in jarring movements along with the beat. Paige's body was a spectacular sight as she swung her hips and bounced with the music. Rivulets of sweat were forming on her neck and her chest, and then snaking down into the crevice between her breasts. Her dark eyeshadow looked black and dramatic in the light, giving her a dirty, underground whore kind of look. She was a really spectacular sight, the kind of woman you couldn't actually believe was present in front of you and dancing. Every man in the club had his eyes either fixed on her, or sneaking back to her. Of course. She was a real-live porn star dancing in the middle of the floor.

Nik was also dancing in, for her, an unusually loose and fluid way. I stared at her. Then I slowly began to see what I hadn't thought about before. Even though she was next to the stunning Paige, Nik had her own brand of sexiness, and she was probably drawing just as many guys to her as Paige. Her body wasn't as overbountifully sexual, but in the dress she was wearing she gave off the same soaring sexiness as Paige.

My stomach twisted. Maybe even more so.

Her face, awash in the alternating colored lights of the club, was occasionally frozen in the flash of a strobe. Her features burned through my mind for a moment: her dark eyes, her pouty lips, her upturned nose. She didn't just look like regular old Nik, as I had come to think of her: she looked like a savagely sexy Nikita.

My imagination began to take off with that thought, and my cock was hard again in no time at all as more and more distance formed in my mind between the woman who was my wife, and the woman on the dancefloor who looked like her.

It took a while, and I imagine a great deal of liquid courage, but eventually some hulky, alpha-looking males approached the two of them. Something sizzled inside of me as a dark-skinned and very tall guy slid in behind Paige and began to grind with her. Paige wasted no time in leaning back against him, scooting her ass right into his crotch, and letting him slip his dark hands around her waist.

I looked at Nik. She didn't seem to notice or care that Paige was dancing with a new partner. A brave man was behind her now as well.

I sucked in my breath, and then I stopped breathing altogether, as I waited for the man to make his move. He was obviously a buddy of the man dancing with Paige: not black, but with the same athletic swagger as him. When he finally stepped in to place his hands on my wife's torso, he looked down at her with a possessive stare. His face was close to the back of her neck, where he could breathe in the smell of her, and his hands were on her gyrating abdomen. A knife of pain went through me. I felt enraged, and my heart began to pound wildly with jealousy.

At the same time, though, I didn't move. I knew I wasn't going to. I didn't want to stop this. I wanted to see more. As much as I was silently willing Nik to move away, or to turn around and slap him, I was also silently willing her to keep going. Hoping he would move his hands over her body. Maybe lean in a bit more until his lips were against her skin...

They danced like this for what seemed like an eternity, and I kept my eyes glued to whatever I could see, among all the dancers I had to look through, of the guy's hands. They didn't move much: they were firmly encircling her narrow waist, and enjoying the feel of her pulsing body in his hands. But he didn't slide them over her curves to cup her breasts, at least not at first. I realized, standing there and watching the scene, that I was willing him to do just that, from across the room.

It was because of this that I didn't see Paige disappear. After some time, I realized she was gone: both Paige and her big, black jock friend.

No matter. I kept staring at the man with my wife.

Nik continued to grind up against him. Finally, his hands began to slide slowly upward. Between the flashes of light I could see their position changed: now on her ribcage, now wedged into the slight fold where her breasts met her chest. Now moving over the swell of her tits.

Nik reached her arms up, and placed them around the back of the man's neck. Now his mouth was close to her ear, and I could see that he was moving in to kiss her earlobe, or the back of her neck. Her sweat must have been just in front of his lips.

Across the dance floor, Nik looked up and met my eyes. She smiled as the stranger nuzzled her ear, and his hands moved over the front of her body. I knew there were things I couldn't see, like the man's hard cock pressing against her lower back, where surely she could feel it. Like her nipples, which were surely hard beneath the slippery fabric of her dress.

The man moved his hands down, and they went to her thighs. Nik kept her eyes on mine, and the devious smile remained on her lips as the man palmed her slender thighs and delicately edged the short skirt of her dress up, and up...

The pain in my chest was stopping me from breathing. His hands were traveling by increments further and further up my wife's thighs, under the dress, and they would keep going if I didn't do something. But my eyes kept returning Nik's stare. Her eyes were wild with mischief and lust, and her expression was turning me on almost as much as what the man was doing to her. And stabbing through my heart with jealousy almost as much as well.

Finally, Nik turned in the mans arms. Her body slid around in his hands, and then they were on her ass, cupping her firm buttocks. She pulled him close to her, and for a terrible moment I thought she was going to kiss him. Instead she pulled him close to whisper something in his ear. Another jolt of terror went through me: was it possible she was actually making some kind of arrangement with him, and planning to meet up?

I watched his face. A curtain of disappointment fell over it, and then he smiled.

Strangely, I could feel the same disappointment pouring over myself.

Nik pushed gracefully through the dancers, heading toward me. She was smiling. She took a hard right when she reached me, and grasped my hand to pull me along as she did.

I followed her, through the thickening and increasingly young crowd, to the parking lot.

When we got outside she let out a loud laugh. Then she turned to face me. She pushed me back against a wall and slid her fingers under my shirt, caressing my chest. "So?" she said. "Did you like it?"

My cock was swollen against her thigh, so she already knew I had. We kissed, and I moved my hands up and down her skimpy dress, looking for a way to get inside of it and touch her skin.

"Listen," she said, breaking off our make-out session. "I told that guy I was going to the bathroom. I think we should probably just...you know."

I looked back at the club.

"Paige left a long time ago," Nik said, sensing my question. "They're going to the...Prince...the...one of the royals, it's named after...anyway, a hotel. But it sounds pricey. I think we should just go to...somewhere else, you know?"

I was a little bit peeved at Paige and Mitch, as much as I was also intrigued. Anyway, we hadn't really firmed up our plans and I suppose no one could have made the drive back to the island anyway. And my wife was squirming in my hands, and my cock was hard, so I pulled her out to the main street and we began looking for a cab.

Which, it turns out, at that hour of night in a place like Sydney, you are better off calling for. We ended up stumbling upon a hotel while we were looking for a cab, and by then we were both so worked up that we got a room without even considering the quality of the place.

14 A TALK ABOUT SOMETHING

Nik was playing with my hands, holding them up and stroking the length of my fingers. We were exhausted, and we'd ordered room service because we were so hungry and spent after making love twice. It was early morning now and we hadn't really slept much.

"Cole?" she said in a sweet voice, abruptly.

"Mmm," I said. I was sleepy, overcome by the full emptiness of having such hot sex with a woman, twice in one night.

"I want to talk about something."

I felt a quiver of fear ripple through me, and then a tinge of annoyance. I sort of wanted to just enjoy what we had. But Nik was right, we needed to talk. She was just being her usual, proactive self, taking care of things and confronting them, as she did with everything, before anything got out of hand.

"Okay," I said.

She let out a light laugh. "Oh god," she croaked. "I'm not even sure how to tell you about this."

She paused, and then she dove in. She spoke very rapidly, because that's what happens to Nik when she's trying to get things taken care of.

"So look, you know I've been, like...sort of...making friends with Paige, right?"

She didn't pause much for me to affirm this. She opened her mouth to say something, and then, after scanning my face, seemed to decide better of it. She formed a few words before saying:

"So anyway, she's gotten me thinking – just thinking, you know, not...I'm not saying that we have to do it or anything, it's just kind of a thing I'm thinking of..."

As she went on and on like this, for what seemed like an eternity, my heart began racing. I couldn't believe she was actually going to propose doing this for real. And what was I going to say? I was trying desperately to race ahead of my thoughts and think it through, when Nik concluded:

"...of maybe..." she giggled. "Trying it out?"

I was silent. I could actually feel my heart in my chest.

"You know, making our own video," Nik said.

What?

"Huh?" I said. I felt like I needed to be sitting upright all the sudden. I pushed myself up against the headboard. "What?"

Nik sat up with me. "Too much? I mean, here's the thing. I wouldn't put my face in it or anything. And...look, I know it sounds crazy, but you know how we've been like, messing around with watching and stuff...I kind of...I'm kind of into it."

"Into hotwifing?" I said.

She raised her eyebrows. "No silly. Into, like...voyeurism. You know? I like people...watching me." She put her hands up to her face and pushed her hair away, laughing a little. "Oh god," she said. "I know it's weird. I just...I'm really getting...it's a rush, you know. And Paige was telling me all about making videos and then she puts them up there and just...all these people are watching, and so she knows that while she's making them, and I got to thinking about it while she was telling me and it's just...I don't know." She turned to me and put her hand on my arm. "I know it's a little crazy. I just...I thought I'd ask you, see what you thought."

I was a little slow coming around to this. My own mind was still trying to make Nik's request fit into what I had hoped she was going to say.

"So you want to make pornos," I said finally.

Nik collapsed on the bed. "I mean, you don't have to make it sound so...trashy. I just want to make one video. Like, to try it out."

"But a porno," I said.

She sat up and turned to me. "Oh come on. It's just amateur porn. Everyone's doing it."

I stared at her. "Who...?"

She blinked. "What?"

"Well, I mean...who with?"

"Don't be stupid, Cole."

I wasn't trying to be. I really wasn't. I was being a filthy pervert, but I certainly wasn't doing my best not to be stupid.

"Oh, with me. With me?" I said.

"Of course with you, you idiot."

She looked at me, and her face started changing, from amusement to confusion, to a slightly annoyed expression of realization. "Oh you thought I...but I thought we were just playing around with all that."

I kept my mouth closed, considering my options. Or trying to.

“You didn't think I was going to actually...?” she said.

I shrugged.

Nik's mouth dropped open. Then it was taken over by a disbelieving smile. A little glint came into her eyes. “Wait. You wouldn't actually want me to?”

I shrugged again and looked down at my hard cock.

“Cole!” she said. But the tone of her voice was not as harsh as I might have expected, if she had been really revolted by the idea. I let her simmer for a few seconds.

I wanted to jump in and ask her to do it. Maybe this was my chance.

But I was paralyzed by something. Maybe fear that she would say no; maybe by the fact that it would be a step in our marriage we could never take back. I hesitated. Then I changed course entirely. I was off the rails, out of control, and I didn't know how to steer the conversation the way I wanted it to go.

“Okay, you know what? I'm...I could be into it,” I said.

Why not? There were worse things in this life than your wife wanting to make a porno with you.

Nik looked at me.

“I'm into it,” I insisted, laughing a little to lighten the mood. I guided her hand to my cock, and closed her fingers around it through the white sheet. “See?”

Nik grinned.

15 BACK IN CAPE BRETON

We went back to Cape Breton the following afternoon. Paige and Mitch had found us in a breakfast cafe, where we were contemplating how on earth to get back to the cottage. They sat down and began chatting as if we had made plans to meet up and return home together all along.

I was as mildly annoyed by Mitch and Paige's carefree casualness about everything as I was secretly jealous of them. Paige looked radiant: her face was fresh and without makeup, her long hair was slightly tousled, and she smelled like soap. Her cocktail dress had somehow transformed in the late morning light, and she looked only slightly overdressed. Nik was still wearing her borrowed dress, and she looked like a woman who had been very naughty the night before. It was a little ironic, given what I suspected Paige and Mitch had gotten up to.

"Well," Paige declared. "Did you two have fun last night?" She exchanged a knowing look with Nik, who smiled but didn't respond. Mitch ordered black coffee and told us we should probably get on the road soon. I had a million questions for them, but I was too uneasy with their libertine ways, and their lack of planning, to say anything. Nik slept in the car on the way home. Mitch and Paige had a very dull and average married conversation.

We were exhausted, and we went to bed early.

The next morning, Mitch was standing at the water's edge, drinking his usual cup of coffee. I found myself standing next to him, and, stranger than that, consulting him about my wife's plan.

"What'd you guys get up to after the club?" I asked, trying to sound casual. I didn't really like Mitch, but I felt like I needed to get in with him to get this whole thing under control.

He looked me plainly in the eye. Then he winked. "You know. Same old."

I swallowed. "Did, uh...did Paige go home with that guy?"

Just asking the question triggered a whole slew of thoughts in my mind, and I could feel something stirring in my cock.

"It's amazing," Mitch said, turning his eyes back to the ocean, "I thought this was going to be such a dull time."

I felt the same sense of unease slither through me that I felt whenever I really thought about Paige and Mitch, outside of their sexual exploits. After all, what were they doing here? This was the last place on the planet you'd expect to run into people like them. Nothing fit about them. Why did they rent from the Smiths? And what had happened to the Smiths, for that matter?

It was easy to start hatching a serious conspiracy theory right there.

But even if all of that was on the up-and-up, there was still the matter of what it was they were doing here. And why they were still making their porn, and why they had evidently brought all of their professional lighting to do it. The internet was slow and patchy here, it seemed like the worst place on earth to upload a video. I wasn't even certain that the Smiths had internet at all. It all made so little sense.

I really wanted to pry into all of this, but Mitch was such a hardened-looking man, with such a gruff exterior, and the kind of stone-cold expression on his face that made me feel afraid of asking him anything. I felt some kind of dark secret was lurking in the mystery of Paige and Mitch, so I didn't ask.

I also didn't like Paige's subtle influence over Nik much. I liked Paige – there was everything to like – but the juxtaposition of her breezy, surfer-girl attitude and her slutty porn-star persona, here in the wind-swept sands of Cape Breton, also made her a little scary.

And yet, in spite of all this, there was also no denying that my wife was turning me on like she had never turned me on before. We were having the most incredible sex we'd ever had, even compared to the beginning of our relationship. I couldn't deny that the two of them were as alluring as they were creepy. And my cock wasn't letting me think straight.

So we stood there for a bit, and then I blurted out:

“So, Nik wants to make a video.”

Mitch nodded, and there was something very sinister in his nod. Almost as if he had been just waiting for me to say this, like he was pulling the strings somewhere behind it all. Disturbing, half-baked thoughts fluttered through my consciousness.

“You should post it,” he said. “I'm telling you. Nikita would be an instant hit.”

My chest felt tight. “Well, I don't think...she wants to do it without her face, you know. And just...just for fun, we might not even post it.”

Mitch frowned. Then he shrugged. "I guess that's how you have to start," he said. "You have a camera?"

I hadn't even thought about this. To be honest, I had been envisioning us returning home, getting away from these two characters, and then doing this in the privacy of our own home. It dawned on me, just as Mitch said this, that Nik was the kind of person who got an idea and wanted to do immediately. Of course she was.

"I uh...I guess we were thinking just do it on the iPhone," I said, stupidly, although I hadn't even thought about it all.

Mitch turned to me. "Bad quality. Hard to hold." He put his hand on my shoulder. "Just tell me. If you want to borrow a camera. Or anything like that."

"Oh no," I said quickly. "No, nothing like that...it's just -"

He lifted his mug toward me and pointed. "She should shave her bush, too. Does she do that?"

I went completely cold. It was so utterly lewd to be having this conversation, wasn't it? And Mitch so matter-of-fact about it.

"Unless she's got some really full one. I think there's a market for that, but really, you're better off bare."

I had no idea what to say. Multiple, permanently-ingrained images of Paige's cunt wafted through my mind. "Uh, well, you know, it's just for fun so it's not like...it needs to be, you know, professional," I stammered. The ridiculousness of the conversation overtook me suddenly. I looked back at the cottage.

"You know, Paige could probably help her out. Yeah. Why don't you send her over this afternoon and we'll get it sorted?" Mitch said.

I had no idea what to say. As I had so many other times, I felt control over the situation slipping through my fingers, and I was too caught up in my own desire to grasp hold of it. The truth was, the idea of Paige "helping her out" was incredibly seductive to me. My wife getting waxed and groomed for an adult video was alluring, and my cock was hard to prove it. My desires, though, were in combat with the sense that I shouldn't be letting another man direct my wife's sexual explorations like this.

And yet, I thought, wasn't that exactly the poison that was burning the most sensationally in my blood?

"Uh...okay..." I said lamely. "I have to talk to Nik about it, I guess."

Mitch turned to me, and tossed the remainder of his coffee on the sand as he did so. “Cole. You seem like a guy who's having trouble knowing what he wants. You know what you want. You just don't feel like it's right for you to just make it happen.” He clapped me on the shoulder again. “It's all set up. You can make it happen. Just...be a man about it.”

He walked past me and toward his own cottage.

I was too stunned, and too angry, and too annoyed that he was maybe giving me some decent advice, to say anything. I squinted in the direction of the sand dunes on the far side of the bay.

Then Mitch called out. “You wouldn't be here talking to me about it if it wasn't true, man.”

Inside, I felt my blood boil.

But as I trudged back up to my own cottage in the sand, I knew he was right. In a way. I knew what I wanted. Maybe I should just be a man and make it happen, I thought.

I couldn't shake an uneasy feeling, though. The same feeling I got when Mitch responded to me telling him Nik wanted to make a video. The kind of feeling you get from a person who is always one step ahead of you. From a person who feels like a persistent adversary.

It was the kind of feeling, I realized at the steps of the cottage, you get when you're being conned.

Or already have been.

“What if they're con artists?” I said, looking out the window back at the cottage after we ate lunch.

Nik was stretched out on two chairs at the kitchen table, in only her panties (because she claimed to be “hot”), and her bare legs were devastatingly sexy. She turned a page of the awful local newspaper and continued reading it as though she were wholly immersed. She snorted lightly. “What's the con? They're going to steal all the sand in Cape Breton?”

My face flushed. “I don't know. But what's with them? What the hell are they doing here? And why...” my voice trailed off. I had almost said, why are they trying to turn you into a porn slut, and a hotwife? And I was glad I hadn't been so stupid.

If there was one thing I still knew about Nik, it was that she would be furious if I even hinted that she might not be making her own decisions, purely out of her own will.

And if there was anything I knew about myself – and it was becoming apparent to me that I didn't know all that much about myself - it was that I didn't really want to take any of this off the table. Not completely.

“Why, what?” Nik said, moving her whole head to scan the paper. She really enjoyed the Cape Breton Herald, which read like a satirical magazine with its in-depth coverage of ducks crossing roads.

“Well,” I said, trying to hide my real thoughts, “why...why aren't John and Elaine here? And why would they -Mitch and Paige - come here, to this place, of all places -”

“Paige has this thing,” Nik began, and then she was sucked into something she was reading.

I folded my arms with impatience.

“Paige has what thing?” I snapped, after a few moments.

Nik looked up at me. “Paige has this thing, where she..I dunno, she wants to surf like, up and down the coast of everywhere. They were going to Africa but they canceled because of Ebola or something.”

I threw my hands up. “Oh. Okay. That makes sense, then. Because whenever someone cancels a trip to Africa, Cape Breton is where they go. 'Cape Breton: A Great Backup For Canceled Safaris'”

Nik sighed and rolled her eyes. “She wasn't going on safari.”

I stared at her. “Okay, then.” I said helplessly.

Because what else could I say?

Nik folded her paper and uncrossed her legs. She stood up and kissed me on the cheek. “I'm going to pop over to see Paige about something,” she said. Her voice was playful, and her eyes had the wanton gleam in them she had been getting more and more frequently.

I felt an impotent fury building inside of me. What was it she was going to see Paige about? She had that look in her eyes, and so I could easily guess it was about something to do with her new-found sexual experimentations. Mitch had suggested it – but how had it come back to Nik already? There hadn't been time.

Coincidence, Cole, I told myself.

And if it wasn't a coincidence? What was I insinuating? That Mitch had some kind of mind-control over my wife?

“What are you doing over at Paige's?” I said abruptly, and my voice sounded much more cross than I meant it to.

Nik was wrapping a skimpy, short sarong over her panties – and they were panties, not a swimsuit. I stared in disbelief, because that was one of the last things the woman I'd arrived in Cape Breton five days ago with would do. “You'll see,” she said, in a teasing tone.

Her voice sent an electric shock through the center of me, and it offset the unease.

Just exactly.

So I stood there, paralyzed, and watched her go.

16 THE FIRST VIDEO

Nik returned in the evening, much later than she had promised to come back. I had spent most of my time fuming, and talking myself out of stomping over to the Smiths' cottage to find out what was going on over there.

I did not, after all, want to look like a jealous husband, or desperate one. If my wife went over to a porn star and her smarmy pimp husband's house for the afternoon, wearing nothing but a sarong and some panties, I was all right with it.

I glared at the ocean and drank beer to prove my point to myself. All the while, erotic and painful idea churned in my mind.

Nik came across the sand around seven. She seemed tipsy.

"About time," I grumbled. "I'm hungry."

Nik said nothing and continued across the sand. I inspected her figure, her attire, her hair. She seemed about the same, although I hadn't really paid much attention to what she looked like when she left. Her hair seemed a little damp.

I ignored it.

Outwardly, I ignored it. Inside, my mind was racing to all of the possibilities. I hadn't seen her in the water, so the only way for her hair to have gotten wet was a shower. And why did a woman take a shower at a friend's house?

I stood up and went into the kitchen, where I had laid out a nice dinner, just to prove that I wasn't spending the whole day obsessing about Nik and what she was doing at Paige's place.

"Chicken cordon blue okay?" I grunted. I knew how I sounded, and I hated it, but there was no way to cleanse the mild pout out of my voice.

Nik smiled and sat down on a stool by the counter. She poured us two glasses of wine and looked at me playfully. She was really having fun at my expense.

Whatever. I took my wine glass and turned back to the chicken.

"So aren't you even going to ask me?" she said, and her voice was sultry. The teasing look she had been getting lately was alive in her eyes. I could feel it, without even seeing it. I could hear it in her voice.

I knew what she was talking about, exactly what she wanted me to ask her about. I was both hating and enjoying the cold feeling slithering around inside of me. “Ask you what?” I inquired childishly, turning around to show her how utterly clueless I was. Such a nonchalant man.

She rolled her eyes and smiled. Bit her lip in a sexy, porno-grade way. “What I did with Paige this afternoon?”

Of course, my mind took its usual trip through my dirty fantasies about women spending the afternoon together, beginning with the two of them bouncing on the bed smashing feather pillows together, and ending with something much dirtier including dildos. My cock twitched and I couldn't help grinning salaciously. “Oh yes,” I said. “Tell me what you did with Paige this afternoon.”

Nik rolled her eyes again, this time at my over-the-top voice. It was my way, I guessed, of trying to rein everything in and get it all – whatever “it all” was – under my control.

“Well, I borrowed a camera,” she said.

A shiver went through me.

I reached for my glass and took a sip of wine, unsteadily, which I hoped she didn't see. “Oh yeah?”

My cock had come to life and was now aching.

She grinned. “And...well, Paige had some suggestions about...aesthetics, that I think were really useful.”

My mouth went dry. Even though my head was practically spinning around like a demon's, and deep down inside I had some vague idea of what she meant by that, I struggled to put my finger on what “aesthetic” suggestion Paige could have made.

Unless...

“Do you want me to show you?”

I babbled a little. “I uh..yes...I do...but I have this...chicken...” I waved in the direction of the chicken.

She smiled. “Don't worry about that for now. Let me show you.”

I stared at her.

“And then I have to tell you about something that I did.”

My eyes widened and my abdomen felt like it had turned to a block of ice. Nik was amused with herself.

“It was...sort of bad. Not something that can't be undone, or anything, but just...I probably should have asked you first.”

She was biting the end of her thumb now. I couldn't even begin to get my head around what was going on, or why, even though my wife seemed to be confessing to some bad deed, it was only turning me on.

“Wha...?” I said, stupidly. “What did you...?”

Nik stood up, still smiling deviously, and went to the bedroom. When she came out she was holding a camera in her hand and turning it on. She sat down on a stool and scooted it close so that she could see the screen where I could see it if I leaned over the counter. It gave me a nice view of her breasts, down her tank top, and of her legs, crossed so that the sarong slid open all the way to her panties.

I was dying to know what was on the video.

But she just held the camera between her two hands for the moment.

“Okay, so...when I went over there, at first I was just telling Paige that I was thinking about...you know.” She nudged me. I supposed she was talking about making a video of the two of us, although I couldn't be sure of anything at this point. “And then, Paige told me that I had to...you know,” Nik made a quick circle over her crotch with her fingers. I must have looked confused (though I knew exactly what she was talking about), because she added. “Shave. So...then Paige tells me all this other stuff about how it's hard to like...I dunno, get things set up right, and she's telling me all these things, and then she makes a suggestion.”

Nik paused, reading my face.

“O...kay,” I said, because she seemed to want me to say something. It was all I could think of, because imagining Paige and Nik talking about making pornos and shaving had my cock so hard there was no blood left for my brain.

Nik watched me for another moment, and then she opened the viewer on the camera. “So she tells me that this kind of thing would like...play really well. On the internet...you know, and that...I mean, it doesn't matter, I'm still undecided about whether I would even put that kind of thing up, but...okay, let me just show you.”

She pressed play.

For the first few seconds, I couldn't figure out what I was looking at. My mind had been digging up all kinds of dirty images as Nik had been talking, and my cock had spun up all kinds of fantasies, but I still wasn't prepared to see what I was seeing.

The woman on the screen was a lithe, olive-skinned beauty. I surveyed the toned and slender body for a full ten seconds, delighting in the hard nipples, the shapely breasts...and then it really hit me: this wasn't some internet porn star who looked like my wife.

It was my wife.

My mouth opened but no sound came out, and my already-painfully hard cock actually thudded to an even more-painful plane of readiness. I could feel cum pouring out of the tip of my cock.

I couldn't take my eyes off the screen.

“Have you ever done this before?”

Paige's voice. Slow, beautiful, seductive. Laid-back. The camera swept over Nik's body, though, and even up to her face – which was certainly not hidden. Nik was smiling, a little blush on her cheeks. She looked slightly bashful, and yet she was fully naked and letting someone film her -

I felt a cool shudder go through me. Letting someone film her. And who would that have been?

On the screen, Nik shook her head to answer Paige's question.

“So you're a virgin?” Paige teased.

Nik, who was not behaving like Nik at all, but rather like some young, naive schoolgirl who was doing something terribly naughty for the first time, giggled again. It was really...lewd, and cliched, and the sort of bimbo-like thing I would have ordinarily found very unattractive, so I was surprised by how much it made my blood race to my cock.

The camera moved away from Nik's body, and Paige moved onscreen. She tossed her hair over her shoulder. She was wearing only a sexy pair of black lace underwear that cut through her ass in a tight thong: her breasts were bare and swinging with every movement.

“Okay,” Paige said, lightheartedly. “Hold very still...”

Paige was shaking something in her hand.

And then I realized: my wife was relaxing on a long chair, with her legs open.

Paige sprayed the can she had been shaking right onto Nik's open legs, and I stared in disbelief until what it was that was happening slowly made its way through my mind. A white, creamy forth coated the springy curls between Nik's legs, and then puffed up to a pillowy cream. Still smiling, and laughing, Paige leaned over and began to swipe something into the foam.

Slowly.

Carefully.

And then the chill inside of me sharpened suddenly and almost too painfully as I put it all together: this was scene of the buxom, porn-star Paige next door...shaving my wife's pussy.

Paige slid the razor – and the realization that it was a razor, an ultra-sharp edge in her hands, sliding down the most sensitive skin on my wife's body – down each side of Nik's legs, pausing to wash the razor off in an off-screen basin of some kind. I looked at Nik. She was holding her legs open, and staring down at what Paige was doing to her with a sort of demented fascination.

Paige leaned forward and her nipples dipped into the foamy shaving cream. She laughed, as though it had been an accident, but it was obviously done on purpose. She swiped the cream off with a leisurely finger. “Oops,” she said.

Then, she patted Nik's pussy dry, and wiped the remaining shaving cream away. My wife's pussy was now almost entirely bare, except for a neat landing strip left by Paige.

And I saw that between the now-bare, slightly reddened lips of my wife's pussy, she was glistening with excitement.

“There,” Paige said. “Now my new friend Veronica can go home and make a nice, clean video if she wants to.”

And then a deep, male voice. “But she might be back.”

Paige looked at Nik, and her eyes dropped to her wet pussy. “Maybe,” she suggested.

Nik smiled, another flush spreading across her cheeks. She pulled her legs close together. Smiled shyly – but I have to say, it looked as though she were deliberately hamming it up, putting on an act, making herself seem more bashful than she was. “I don't know,” she said, coyly.

I hated admitting it to myself, and there was no real way to deny it: it was hot as hell. The video ended as Nik stood up to wrap herself in a bathrobe. Even though I felt angry, and the thought of Mitch filming my wife in such a lewd scene was making my blood boil, the sight of it had seared through me, and I felt like my skin was on fire from the inside out. My cock was so hard it felt like it was going to split down the middle.

I looked at Nik. "I can't believe you did that," I said.

I wasn't really sure what my voice sounded like when I heard it.

Nik set the camera down. She slid her hand between my legs, and found my cock with her hand. She made me jump as she rubbed her fingers up and down the pulsing length of my cock through my swim trunks, which I was still wearing from earlier in the morning.

She opened her mouth, teasing me. And what could I really say at that point? I could tell her I was angry, but she had evidence in her hand that I was also extremely turned on.

"You're not angry, are you?" she said. She slipped her hand into my swimsuit and sought out my dick. When her fingers encountered the welling cum at the crown, she smiled. Again, she had the real answer, no matter what I decided to say.

"One thing just led to another," she said, and her voice was deep and almost a moan. She pushed my suit down and pulled my cock out. "And I thought it would be kind of fun. It's just between us for now, of course. Sort of a present."

I stared at her. I had no idea where to begin, and the only thing I could really think about was the image of Paige sliding the ultra-sharp blade of a razor over my wife's skin, or the white foam dabbled on her nipple. My cock was stealing all the energy to think or even breathe from me.

I watched as Nik took the camera back into her hands and played with it. I knew she was turning it on, and I just stared at her a bit helplessly as she did. My cock bounced in my lap, and I felt even more precum ooze from the tip. No matter what mixed feelings churned in my stomach, I wasn't about to stop her.

I couldn't.

I saw that the red light of the video was on, and Nik pushed the table away noisily to position the camera so that she could film what she was about to do. I didn't know how I felt about it, but my cock screamed in pain as it somehow filled even more.

Then Nik slid down to her knees. "If you're really mad about it," she said breathlessly, "then maybe I could make it up to you? Maybe you can think of some way to punish a bad girl like me?"

I sucked in my breath as she grasped the base of my cock in her hand and leaned in closer to my throbbing member. She licked the crown, swirling her tongue around to get every last bit of the precum that had drained onto the head of my cock. Her hot tongue was wet and she made several lengthy sweeps around the ridge between my glans and my shaft, sending a shudder through me as she rounded the sensitive underside.

“How about,” she said, “I do my best to make it up to you, and then if you're still mad, we can think of something else?”

And before I could answer, she rose up a little on her knees, and opened her mouth to take my entire shaft inside of her.

And then she began to give the most theatrical and insane blowjob she had ever given me. She took my entire shaft into her mouth, all the way to the base. When her lips grazed my balls, I felt my pent-up energy surging inside of me. She slid her mouth up to the top of my cock, and then paused with her lips at the crown, massaging my swollen head with her mouth. Then down again, and then she began to pump over my cock, bobbing and slurping with her wet mouth dribbling spit over my shaft.

I was gripping the legs of the chair, and I felt myself going over the edge. I let go of one of the legs and reached for her head, to try and give her some indication that I was going over. I could feel my cum pooling in the base of my cock. But she didn't relent, and it was too late: she was all the way at the base of my cock when I felt myself bursting.

She closed her lips around my shaft and sucked hard as she slid back up the crown, sucking the cum right out of my dick and into her mouth. She went slowly, sucking every last drop from me as I gripped her hair with one hand and the chair with the other. I opened my mouth but no sound came out until she popped off the end of my shaft. She looked up at me and smiled, as a final burst of cum spurted from my cock and onto her lips.

She let out a light laugh, and then her tongue emerged from her mouth and licked up the white seed that had washed onto her lips.

I was panting. Stunned. My cock twitched and throbbed. I looked over at the camera as she reached over to the table, still on her knees, to turn it off.

“There,” she said. Then she turned back to me, her hands playful on my inner thighs. She twisted seductively between my legs, still on her knees, smiling mischievously. “That should make a good little collection for us,” she said.

I stared at her. I was still breathing raggedly. Her fingers found their way to my balls. She lifted my cock with her other hand. Her nails tickled my sac and she smiled more as a shudder went through me. “Unless...you're still mad at me?”

She stood up. My inability to speak quite evidently turned her on. “I'm not quite done with you, yet, though,” she said. She put the camera in my hands.

I followed her into the bedroom, and she peeled off her clothes as she walked. First the tank top, then the sarong, then she shimmied out of her panties at the edge of the bed. She was gloriously naked, and the setting sun gave her a sexy, bright silhouette. She took the camera from my hands and tossed herself onto the bed, scooting up to the pillows, where she reclined and opened the camera.

Then she looked up at me, and spread her legs open. I stared at her nearly bare, still-reddened pussy, and a shudder went through me as I recalled the image of Paige's nipple in the shaving cream, so close to my wife, wielding a razor...

“You know what I would really like?” Nik said.

She didn't answer the rhetorical question for me, she simply trailed her fingers along her soaked gash, and then turned the camera on. I could hear the first parts of the video with Paige.

Dizzy, almost in a trance, I climbed onto the bed and got on my knees. I could smell her tangy scent from where I was, mingled with the astringent scent of shaving cream. For a moment I had the terrible, and delicious, thought that she might have done something else entirely after the video had been turned off, and that she hadn't taken a shower yet.

God, why did it turn me on so much?

I peppered her thighs with a few kisses, but I was eager to get to her cunt, and she seemed eager for me to go there. I could hear the audio from the video, Paige's sultry voice, and my wife seemed to well up with excitement as she watched it. She kept her eyes on the video as I dove in to her wet pussy, wasting no time with teasing, and just going straight to her hard, slimy clit. I sucked her honeyed flavor into my mouth and pressed against her knob with my tongue. Her body rose sharply against my mouth, and she gasped. The video was now on to the blowjob she had given me. I could hear the sounds of her slurping and sucking on my cock, and my own labored breathing.

And then she dropped the camera and clutched the sheets, and her whole body seized in a rocketing orgasm. I felt her juices gushing onto my chin, and I held her in my mouth, biting every-so-lightly on her clit so she could not escape. I played with her well past her orgasm, and she pulled on my hair and tried to writhe away, but I kept on going until she shuddered away every last drop of her climax.

Then I collapsed on the bed, my head by her hip, and we both zoned out for a while.

“Okay,” I said finally. “I think we need to talk.”

Nik lifted her arm and put it over her head. She stretched her legs out. The stretch was feline and sexy, and very unlike her. She seemed to growl deep inside. “Ohhh,” she said. “I know. I was afraid of that.”

I looked up at my wife: she had a faint smile on her lips still.

I crawled up to her.

Don't get me wrong: this was fantastic. But it was also unnerving.

I propped myself up on my elbow next to her. “What do you mean, you were afraid of that?” I asked her. I couldn't help sliding my hand over her body, from her pelvis, which was wet and sticky, up along her ribcage and then over her breasts. She jerked and laughed, pulling her arm down to cover her ticklish ribs.

“I don't know, Cole...can't we just be like: 'that was fun?'”

I sat up and spun around, dropping my feet over the side of the bed. The camera had fallen to the floor and was blinking that it was low on batteries. I gave a long sigh, which sounded much more dramatic than I meant it to.

“I don't know, Nik,” I said. “I mean, this is great...” I rubbed my temple. I didn't know what I meant to say after that. I felt her fingers on my ass, right at the top of my crack, and then walking along my spine.

“Don't try to tell me you didn't like it,” she said. “Because I know that's a lie.”

I turned back to her. It was true: my cock had barely gotten soft since she had sucked me dry, and it was already filling up again.

“It's not that,” I said. “It's just...” I stared at her, as she stretched again on the bed. She had an amused little grin on her face. “I just...you're so...different.”

“Is that a bad thing?” she purred.

I hesitated. I sighed again. I put my hands on my face and wiped off the sweat.

“I don't know, Nik,” I said into my hands. “It's not bad, it's just...it's so...”

She propped her head up on her hand, resting her elbow on the mattress. All the pillows were on the floor. “What are you worried about?” she said.

I looked at her.

What was I worried about?

I shook my head. “I don't really know...I just...it feels really...not like you, you know? I feel a little bit like it's out of control or something.”

She frowned, but it was a fake, comical frown. “What's out of control?” she said.

“Nik, I'm not really joking around here,” I snapped. “Stop being so...I don't know, casual about things.”

Her face went serious. She sat up. “Cole,” she said, and her voice was much more sensitive. “I know I went a little...over the line with the...shaving video -”

“Yeah,” I said. “You did.”

A flash of anger went over her face. “Wait a minute,” she said. “You've been getting off on this whole...hotwifing thing, ever since Paige and Mitch showed up here. Don't act like you haven't.”

I rubbed my forehead and closed my eyes.

There was no way I could deny that.

“I just did it because it seemed like it'd be hot. And you know what? You thought it was hot. ”

There was also no realistic way for me to deny that.

“I know,” I said, still rubbing my forehead. I didn't have a headache, I just needed something to do to warrant closing my eyes. I needed to think. I needed to get this conversation back on track, whatever that meant. “I know Nik,” I said. “It was really hot. I know. I'm not saying it wasn't...it's just...it's...what are we doing?”

I opened my eyes.

She smiled. That same devious, dangerous smile. “Experimenting,” she said.

I stared at her again. Was this actually my wife? I shook my head in open-mouthed disbelief.

“Look,” she snapped, suddenly. She twisted around and got onto her knees, and before I could do anything about it, her fingers were closed around my cock, which was doing me no favors by betraying my obvious, perverted attraction to what was taking place. “If you really don't like it, we just don't do anything more. Okay? We just delete the video, we never watch it, and we go back to the way things were before, and I'll stop flirting with other men, and that's that. And you'll never,” and she emphasized “never” with a hard squeeze over my aching shaft, “have to have your cock sucked by me while you watch Paige shave my pussy again.”

In spite of my burgeoning erection, I pushed Nik away a little. “Nik,” I complained. “It's just...”

Nik let out a sigh of exasperation. “It's just what, Cole?”

“Look, don't get me wrong,” I said, grasping her wandering hand. “I obviously really like...well, whatever you're doing...it's just that, you're so...different. You know?”

She batted her eyes. Then, reading something in my face, she got a little serious. “You're serious,” she said. “I thought that was part of the fun for you.”

I sighed again. “It is...it is, it's just...it's also really unnerving, you know? I mean...where is it going to stop?”

Nik sat back on her heels and then twisted around to sit cross-legged. Oddly enough, she didn't seem to be considering the question for the first time. It flitted over her face, as though she had a file of notecards about it in her mind.

She shrugged. “I don't know,” she said, finally.

“I mean...do you actually want to make more videos? Do you want to put things on the internet? Are you serious about it?”

She looked at me sassily. “I don't know, Cole. Are you actually serious about watching me fuck some other guy?”

It was my turn to seriously consider the big question that had been plaguing me:

Was I actually serious about that?

Nik reclined against the headboard and stretched out her legs. “I didn't expect this,” she said, after a long pause.

The statement lingered in the air, and then Nik's eyes jerked up, as though she had only just realized what she said.

Quickly, she added: "But it gives me...like, such a rush, you know? The idea that it's being filmed? The idea that someone is watching?"

She flitted her eyes. "And so, you know, if you're serious, and it seems like you are, then I think I could get that same rush out of...I don't know. Actually doing it. Sleeping with another guy."

I felt my pulse soaring again, and my heart was fluttering so hard against my chest that I started to worry about getting hauled off in an ambulance before I could make a decision about this one way or the other. Everything I had seen in the past two weeks, from Paige tied up and taking it in the ass, to Paige shaving Nik's cunt, to my own wife looking at me from across the dance floor while another man slid his hands all over her body, filled my head at once. It almost overwhelmed me.

I did want it. Some part of it. Not everything I was feeling, but some of it.

"Actually doing it," I repeated.

Nik's eyes caught fire again, and she got onto her knees.

She was excited. She had a great idea.

"Listen. What if I could get my thrills, and you could get yours?"

I felt another knife twist in my stomach. Longing, and jealousy, raged inside of me. I felt pretty ill, like I might actually throw up. Part of me wanted to erase this entire vacation from my life, and the other part of me – the part that was winning out in my mind – wanted to keep Nik talking.

"How's that?" I said.

"Okay," she said. "What if...what if I did what you wanted...and actually, you know, did it? And then, as a sort of trade-off, you let me do something I want to do." She looked at me, and could see I was having trouble seeing past my desires to remember what she wanted to do. With a sigh, she spelled it out: "Like make a video, and put it on the Internet."

"No way," I said sharply. "No way are you putting those videos on the internet."

Nik's face sharpened to a venomous glare. "And why not?" Then she waved her hand at me, suddenly exasperated. "Not with my fucking face in them, Cole. Of course I'm not crazy."

I had no idea what to say.

We sat in a tense silence for a second. “Look,” she said, taking on a nice-guy tone. “I can't explain it, not really well. But I haven't felt this excited since...” she looked at me, and I couldn't help but smile. “Yeah,” she said, “you're the same. It's been a long time. And I just want to try something new. And you're sort of pissing me off here, because so do you. So I'm thinking, why not kill two birds with one stone?”

I narrowed my eyes.

“What's that supposed to mean?”

She brought her fingers to her lips. “It means: I get what I want, and you get what you want.”

I rubbed my forehead with the back of my thumb.

“Okay,” I said, “you know what? It sounds enticing. It sounds fucking great. But what if...”

She raised her eyebrows. “What if...?”

“Well, what if it all goes wrong?”

She was silent.

“It seems,” I said loudly, “like it would be very easy for things to go wrong.”

“Cole,” Nik said, and her voice was very, very serious. “You are the fucking American here. You're supposed to be like, 'oh, we can totally do it, it's no problem. Rah rah rah, Team America!' And I am supposed to be the...” she ended her sentence with a wet laugh, “the uptight Canadian who's like, 'how will this help me save for my RRSP, eh?’” She laid on her Canadian accent extra-thick at the end.

I laughed in spite of myself. It was a common complaint of mine, to be sure, that Canadians were not risk-taking enough to even try a new soda. It was a much-needed joke.

“Oh god,” I said, wiping a tear of laughter from my eye. “That was good.”

“We need ground rules,” Nik said, looking straight ahead. Having made her joke, she was down to business.

I knew the face she was making.

It was Nik's face of determination.

The matter was essentially settled. Nik was going to do what she wanted. I could see it in her face.

And now, I could either help set up the ground rules, or I could end up in her wake.

“Fine,” I said, to salvage my masculine pride. “Let's do it.”

It wasn't entirely “fine,” and I didn't exactly know what we were doing, but it sounded better if I acted like I did.

In typical Nik style, we had to hash out the rules before we could get to anything else, like relieving the massive hard-on that I developed while talking about the rules.

“So first,” she said, suddenly business-like. “We agree that if I do something you want – having sex with another man – then I get something I want.”

I furrowed my brow. “I guess so,” I said, because it was theoretically right, but something seemed a bit manipulated.

Like me.

“So, you first. What are your rules about the internet?” Nik hammered on.

“Uh...” I said. “I haven't really...I guess, don't put your face on the internet.”

Nik frowned. “That's sort of limiting. How about a disguise of some kind. Like...I don't know? A masquerade mask-thingy?”

I stared at her.

“And a wig,” she offered.

“Sounds like you've been giving this a lot of thought...” I murmured.

She shrugged. “You know me, Cole. When I want something, I want it.”

It was true, but I couldn't help feeling like something – or someone, specifically Mitch – was somehow tugging the strings of what Nik wanted.

“I have a rule,” I said suddenly. No sex with Mitch.”

Nik looked a little disbelieving, and genuinely surprised. She also seemed to find it funny. “I uh...okay. Why Mitch, in particular?”

“I have my reasons.”

She tapped her teeth again, thinking. “Okay,” she agreed. “Anything else? Anyone else?”

“Nobody we know. No friends or anything like that.”

“Nobody?” she said.

“Why, did you have someone in mind?”
She laughed. “Maybe.”
I squinted at her. “Who?” I said, my stomach twisting into knots.
She shook her head. “I was just joking. Okay, no one we know. No friends -”
“And...yeah, actually, let's say, you have to get approval first.”
“Approval of the guy?”
I nodded.
“And what about you?” she asked. “Are you going to be doing any of this?”
“Do you want me to?”
She thought for a second. “No. Not really. Is that unfair?”
I thought for a second. “Actually, I guess...no, I don't...it's not really about that.”
She smiled. “I didn't think so.”
I shook my head. “This is a weird conversation.”
She smiled at me. “It is. But let's have fun with it. I think it'll be good for us, you know?”
It had been, so far.
“Look, there's something that's really important to me,” I said. “And it's...I don't know, it might seem odd, given what we're thinking about doing...”
“No emotional connection,” she said, nodding as she did.
She seemed to have it all figured out.
I nodded. But for some reason, her immediate understanding of what I was going to say was more disconcerting than reassuring.
“Okay. What else?” I said.
She looked at me.
“Honesty,” I said. “We tell each other everything.”
There was a pause here. Nik appeared to be thinking very deeply, dissecting the words. “Okay,” she agreed. “We tell each other everything from here on.”
And then her hands were back on my cock.
So we ended up with:

The Rules

*No sex with people we know
No emotional attachment to the person we have sex with No having sex with Mitch
Hide your identity on the internet
We tell each other everything.*

In retrospect, I should have been a lot more circumspect in the development of those rules. A lot more precise about the way I remembered them.

But you live and learn.

17 GAME ON AGAIN

It was funny, but after all of that, we ended up spending the final two days of our vacation in Cape Breton like – well, Cape Bretoners. We went excitedly to Zach's one night, but the place was nearly dead and we ended up having a nice dinner and a relatively tame conversation about vacations, places we'd love to visit, and other neutral, middle-aged topics. Like regular couples, out for a regular dinner.

Paige did some more surfing and naked sunbathing.

Nik and I had great sex and sat on the beach musing about whether or not we would ever really go through with our new plan. We also spent a lot of time hypothesizing about our strange neighbors, and why they were here. I still deeply suspected that I would get caught up in some kind of con, but Nik still felt I was being ridiculous.

“Still,” I kept saying. “Why are they here?”

Nik would groan from under her hat. She had taken to wearing the delightfully skimpy gold bikini every day, and letting me protect her fair skin by rubbing suntan lotion all over her, on her chest and under the straps, under the fabric of the bikini for good measure, beneath the bottoms, where her snatch was almost entirely bare and her skin was smooth...

“They're here for...Paige,” Nik would sigh. “I've told you that a hundred times.”

I looked out at the weak waves lapping the shore. It still seemed suspicious.

“And why did they make a video here?” I would continue.

“Oh, you just never stop. Anyway. They're leaving.”

And so were we.

We liked teasing each other about our new plans, but as time went on, it all started to seem like a dream, like plans you make and then never fulfill. I enjoyed Nik's dirty talking about the man she was going to fuck while I watched, but it started to seem less and less like it would actually happen, and certainly not here. Paige and Mitch were leaving, and once they were out of our lives, it seemed unlikely that Nik and I would act on our “experiment.”

It was fine. I was actually okay with that. In some ways I was disappointed, in others relieved. Nik seemed to have awakened a new force of sexuality inside of her without actually having to do it, and I got the feeling from her that she was also resigning to not really go through with it.

Funny, that.

I was watching Paige take in the last rays of afternoon sun, her erect, enormous breasts pointed like silos at the sky, her nipples hardened by a cool breeze coming off the ocean. It was a particularly lovely view because I was observing over the scantily-clad curves of my own wife. It was giving a mild erection – but only mild, because I had a fucked-out happiness radiating all over me. Nik had talked very dirtily about taking another guy's huge cock inside of her while on all fours with me pounding into her. She had even let me slip a finger into her ass, which we hadn't done for a long time. When she came her ass squeezed my finger and her pussy had kneaded the cum from my cock. All the while she told me how big “his” cock was and how it was stretching her out.

It had been fucking amazing.

Unnerving, but amazing.

On the beach, Paige sat up, and slid her arms into a shirt with no buttons, a wrap of some kind that didn't close in the front and was made of a very thin white material. It was long, and came just to the bottom of the swell of her ass. It was the only thing she was wearing when she strolled at a leisurely, surfer-girl pace, to where we were sitting.

Her nipples were dark beneath the fabric, and she had wrapped the shirt loosely in front of her, but I could see, from where I was sitting when she came to rest next to us, her smooth gash between her legs. “Hey guys,” she said, in her laid-back California voice. Her long hair picked up in the breeze.

Nik removed her hat and smiled up at her. “Hiya.”

I took a moment to appreciate my view, and my life, as I think any man who ever finds himself in the presence of two such gorgeous creatures, should do.

“So, when are you two leaving?” she said. “We're going tomorrow. We thought we'd drive through...” She seemed to get distracted by something, and she looked at Nik, lowering her chin. “Montreal,” she said suddenly. “You know. Go to some clubs.”

Go to some clubs. She looked at Nik as she said this, and the two of them exchanged such a salacious look that I practically came all over myself just watching it.

Her implication was clear. Go to some clubs.

Nik and I had been planning to stay in Cape Breton for two more days. I actually felt a sense of hopeless disappointment sliding through me to know that Paige and Mitch were leaving. And relief. I adjusted myself to it quickly, and decided it was for the best.

But I was about to get sideswiped.

“Oh, perfect,” Nik said, in her new-found sultry voice. “We're leaving tomorrow, too.”

I looked at Nik, and she silenced me with her eyes.

There were a lot of complications with this plan, namely that we hadn't packed, and we were running out of money, as we always did at the end of our vacation, and Montreal was thirteen hours away...

Nik caught my eye again, and it was as if she could read my thoughts.

“It's a perfect plan,” she said insistently, with a wink.

And just like that, the game was on again.

18 MONTREAL

“Back in civilization,” Nik sighed, opening up the window of our far-too-expensive hotel in downtown Montreal, which I had used some air miles for, but was still not entirely covered. Nik left the curtain open and turned back to the room.

Leaving the windows open, she slid out of her bathrobe and stood at the foot of the bed, admiring the red dress she had purchased while I was sleeping. My eyes went from her body to the window with trepidation, and I felt my cock getting hard. Was she an exhibitionist? Was she going to start doing this all the time?

She slipped a pair of red panties – also a new purchase – up her legs and over her ass. A thong of lace wedged between her tight asscheeks, and she shimmied a little to get it positioned just right. She gave a little twirl. “You like?”

These were the panties my wife would be wearing when she tried to reel in another man to fuck.

She slid the dress over her head, squirmed a little, and pulled it into place. It was a stunning, form-fitting fabric with a deep gash at the neck, plunging down to reveal the curves of her breasts and even a bit of her sternum. The red complimented her skin tone and her dark eyes and hair. The dress was tight on her ass, but just long enough to avoid her looking like a prostitute. She looked fantastic.

I stared at her nipples, the faint outline of which could be seen through the dress.

“No bra?” I said.

She shrugged. “It doesn't work.” She traced both of her hands along the deep plunge of her neckline. Then she smiled.

I expected her to say: “Last chance to get out,” or something like that, but she didn't. She winked, and trounced into the bathroom, where she combed her hair and put on a red lipstick that perfectly matched her dress.

And with that, we were off.

My wife was going to sleep with another man.

The hotel we had stayed at was Mitch and Paige's suggestion. Apparently. They had somehow told Nik about it, though I couldn't see how there had been any time for that discussion. I was starting to get paranoid about those two. About the way they were all sharing information in some magical way, about the way everyone except me seemed to be two steps ahead with every plan.

In the hotel, there was a club, and the club was, as Paige had apparently promised, quite hopping and hip on a Friday night. We met up with Paige and Mitch there, and we clustered together for a bit, having a few drinks. But Mitch pulled me away from the ladies. He didn't say much, but I knew he was in on Nik's plan.

It sort of infuriated me, but what could I do? I wasn't about to put the brakes on everything just because of Mitch. Who, I reminded myself, was out of the running.

I was thankful Mitch didn't much want to talk. He was watching his own wife.

Or maybe mine. It was hard to tell.

But Nik and Paige, for a long time, just seemed to be flirting with each other. They started dancing before anyone else did, and they were having a great time hanging all over each other and laughing. It was quite a sight, and they had the full attention of every man in the place (and a lot of dark looks from all the women), but no one seemed brave enough to approach them.

Until they walked in.

As soon as the group of three guys – all of them athletic, enormous, pressing out against their expensive shirts – walked into the club, the energy changed palpably. Women turned in their direction, even if they didn't actually turn in their direction. Guys sort of shriveled and cowered, or bristled – even if every action was minute, it was there. These were the real men in the club now.

And they turned to Nik and Paige.

“Game on,” Mitch murmured.

And just like that, I watched Nik and Paige turn from giggly to serious. The men looked at them with hardened, hungry stares. My cock throbbed as the two groups gravitated toward each other.

This really seemed to be happening.

Would Nik end up with one of these men? The very tall, dark-haired white man with stubble on his face? Or the sandy-haired blonde, a little smaller, but wolf-like in his eyes? Or would she end up with the largest man of them all, the dark-skinned, well-shaven, hard-eyed black man?

I lost all sense of time. The groups merged together. I heard Paige's low voice, Nik's crackling laugh.

Drinks were bought.

After about half an hour, when it was clear the men were going to stick to these two ladies, Mitch and I moved closer to the bar, where we could hopefully overhear what the group was talking about. I felt my skin tingling with excitement, and the back of my mind playing out the possibilities for the evening. It really seemed like this was the night: Nik was going to go through with it, and I was going to get to see her with another man.

"Paige, huh?" I overheard the large black man saying, in his deep and slightly accented voice. "And Nikita?"

Paige moved flirtatiously to affirm what he had said.

"Hmm," he rumbled. "I would have thought it was the other way around."

I saw Nik bristle in my peripheral vision. "Oh yeah?" she said. "And why's that?"

The man looked her up and down, and chuckled. "Just...Paige here seems more like a Nikita." His accent, a dark, African French, clung to the name and made it sound perfectly filthy.

I turned at this point, because I wanted to actually see Nik's reaction. "And why's that?" she said.

I could see a competitive blush crawling over her face. It was at that moment I knew that Nik was not only going to go through with her plan, she was beginning to see it as a mission to get under the skin of this particular man. Her eyes narrowed.

The man chuckled again, and I could see his interest pique. He was now taking in my wife, and her viciously competitive, huntress eyes. He was giving her the once-over she had certainly deserved, but which he had probably neglected to do because Paige was such a sexpot and drew so much attention to herself.

I watched the man's eyes move over Nik's body, lingering on her pert breasts, undressing her with his eyes. Nik's face, for her part, had a bright flush of triumph on it. She put her hand on her hip, drawing attention to her narrow waist and flat stomach. She gave her hair a toss.

"Yeah," the guy said, his voice low and hypnotic. "Yeah, I guess I see it now," he conceded. Then he looked back at Paige, who was amused by the whole interaction and biting into a cherry with mild disinterest. His eyes also walked all over her body, and I saw a flicker of annoyance in Nik's eyes.

I could tell that Nik's competitive spirit was taking over. She had set her sights on this enormous man. It was incredibly hot. She seemed to have forgotten that I was even in the room for a moment, and she began to flirt unabashedly with him.

Mitch slid in next to me at the bar and grinned. "Well, well, well," he said. "Looks like Nikita has awakened."

There was no real reason to be annoyed by Mitch, or his saying that, but it got under my skin. I could frankly enjoy everything much better without Mitch and his sly comments.

I said nothing, and looked into my beer, while I strained to see what my wife was doing in the corner of my eye, and tried overhear the conversation. I could see Nik's red-clad body moving closer and closer to the man, and she tossed her head back and laughed, and put her hand on his arm. Closer and closer she was getting.

Then suddenly, she suggested that they go dance. A brilliant move, one that left the still relaxed and amused Paige with the friend, who was more than happy to take his buddy's place talking to the gorgeous blonde.

I turned to watch my wife, and I felt a searing pain when I saw her. She had gone right to full-attack mode, and was grinding her ass against the man. He had his hands on her waist – hands so large that they practically circled her entire waist. He seemed to be moving her body for her. Nik lifted her eyes to meet mine. She drew her finger from her lips down the center of her chest, and then mouthed: "Yes?"

Mitch gave a light harrumph. "This your first time?" he said.

And I said, "yeah;" though at the time, I wasn't sure who it was for, Mitch or Nik.

Or Nikita, because that's the woman who was grinding against the man on the dancefloor.

Mitch turned and rested his arms on the bar. His eyes were on Nikita, the way they had been on the girl at the bar in Sydney. It was a cold, calculating stare. A businessman's stare. I got a cool, unsettled feeling from the way he was looking at her, one that I would eventually recognize as foreboding.

But my wife was on the dancefloor with a big, alpha, black man. She turned to face him, and rested her arms on his shoulders. She leaned in close to him, and I watched in torrid disbelief, my cock completely out of my control and stiffening to an almost painful erection, as she whispered into his ear. They were still moving to the music, although slower, and Nik was pressed up against him. He could feel, I knew, her firm breasts, and smell her lavender-scented hair. Her lips were next to his ear, and I watched as his face changed while she told him whatever she told him. His eyes widened, a grin began to turn his big lips upwards. Then he turned slightly, and looked over at me.

Our eyes met, and then I understood what Nik was telling him. I felt cool in my extremities as the man met my gaze. I hadn't imagined that Nik would actually propose to the man of her choice. And yet I could see from his smile that this was precisely what she had done.

Mitch clicked his tongue and sort of hissed. "Wow. She's...not very hesitant, is she?" He grinned at me when I turned to glare at him. "Lucky man," he said, patting me on the shoulder. "It took some doing to get to Paige to that point."

Another deeply unsettling wave of cold went through me.

Mitch slid past me to join Paige, and I didn't know where to look.

And then they were there. Nik – Nikita – and the man. Nik had her hands on him, her left hand with our meager wedding band gleaming against his shirt, moving up and down his chest seductively. Her other hand on his back somewhere, maybe on his ass. She was smiling, and she was a transformed woman. Fully in control of herself and the situation, as she said:

"Honey. This is Andre."

Andre had a smug grin on his face.

"I've told him about our arrangement," Nik continued, and she met my eye and leveled me so that I didn't burst out saying that we really had no specific arrangement. She was urging me, hypnotically, to play along.

And I could see that I really had no choice. Everything had been set in motion. And my wife was going to fuck a big black man. I could either play along, and enjoy myself (which my cock very obviously was interested in doing), or I could ruin the moment and probably get the guy angry and piss off my wife.

After all, this had been my idea.

"He's up for it," Nik was saying. "So why don't you go get comfortable, and Andre and I will have a drink, and we'll see you upstairs?"

I looked at Andre. He was amused. He reached toward the bar, where my drink was, and without blinking an eye, he took it, and had a sip.

"Mmm," he said. "Whiskey man. Good taste."

I felt my chest tighten. Nik looked at me and nodded.

I looked wildly around. Mitch was facing me, talking to Paige, and he didn't look at me, but I could see he was watching in the corner of his eye with interest.

The words he had spoken to me what seemed like so long ago at the beach came back to me in that moment.

"But don't you get...jealous...or...?"

"Oh yes," Mitch assured me. "That's the best part. But the thing is, I'm really the one in control."

I felt in my pocket for my room key.

And then, trying to be suave, and maybe succeeding, or maybe not, I held it up. "See you there," I said.

I looked at Nik, hoping to catch perhaps a glimmer of uncertainty in her eyes. But she just winked.

It was on.

19 WATCHING

I felt extremely drunk as I made my way back to the hotel room. This was all going right, but it was all going wrong. I fumbled with the key, entered the room, and looked around.

Was this what Nik had meant by our “arrangement?” We had no arrangement of this kind. To be honest, I'd never even thought about it.

Mitch and Paige had done it this way, though. Presumably.

I sat down on the bed.

Then I sat up immediately, realizing they would be on the bed soon, if all went as planned. Writhing around together. Andre's enormous hands all over my wife's pale, slight frame. His big lips sucking her nipples and then maybe her whole breast into his mouth. His big cock stretching her open, her thighs winding around him. I shivered as the memory of the feel of Nik's body beneath me, her ankles digging into my back, took over my body for a moment.

And now this other man would have that feeling.

I went to a lounge chair in the corner and sat down. Then I stood up, and rearranged the lighting. I didn't want Andre looking at me, not the way he had downstairs.

I opened the fridge and took out three bottles of alcohol and lined them up on the table next to me.

My cock was throbbing. I shifted in the chair.

“What are you doing?” I said aloud.

But it was too late, wasn't it? The time to put the brakes on all of this had come and gone.

And there was a truth I was overlooking: I really wanted this.

I slammed a shot of whiskey from the bottle. I looked down at the swell of my cock in my pants. A small stain of precum was forming in the crotch.

I wanted this.

Then why did I feel like I had swallowed a block of ice, and a hot knife? Why was my chest so tight?

I drank the rest of the bottle and opened another one.

Time seemed to freeze. I started to watch the clock compulsively: it was right there, never-changing.

After fifteen minutes I had a terrible thought: what if this wasn't what Nik had intended at all? What if she had meant something else by "our arrangement?" What if she had started to come up here and been so overcome by Andre's fingers playing with her clit in the elevator that they had skipped the room altogether? What if she had fucked him in a stairwell or a car, and she had become so taken with him that she was off to his room, or his house, or wherever he would take her?

My pulse raged. I stood up and paced the room.

Should I look for her? Should I leave, and risk them coming here? What if she got here and I was gone? Maybe she would think she needed to put the brakes on, that I had second thoughts – and I realized, as soon as I thought this, that the last thing I wanted was for Nik to pull the plug on this.

I opened the door and looked both ways down the hallway. It was empty.

I went back in the room. Now twenty minutes had passed.

Calm down, I told myself. She said they were having a drink.

I sat back down.

I stared at the motionless numbers on the digital clock.

Then I heard a knock at the door.

I froze, not knowing what to do. Was it them? Had she lost her room key? I really didn't want to get up and let them in: I had the lighting arranged just-so, and I now had it in my mind that they would just come in, and put on a performance, and I would be a silhouette in the darkness watching.

Again, knock.

"Co-oooo-le."

Paige.

I stumbled to the door. I was utterly lost, and had no idea what I was expecting. Half of me secretly hoped that Nik had traded in Andre for Paige. Or maybe brought them both.

Paige was standing with one arm leaning against the wall. Her beautiful body stretched, as always, into some kind of sexy, serpentine form. She smiled. Her left hand was suspended next her, and she twisted it.

"Did you fall asleep or what?" she purred. My eyes swept over her breasts and then to what was in her hand:

A camera.

“Nik asked me to bring this by.” She bent her arm forward and dropped it into my waiting hand, which I hadn't even realized I had extended.

“Wha...?”

“Part of your deal, right? She does what you want, and you do what she wants?”

I looked quickly up and down the hall. “Am I in the right place?” I asked desperately.

Paige's lips never lost her calm, sexy smile. She rolled her eyes. “You know how to work that, don't you?”

As she said this, her hand went to my cock, which she squeezed through the material of my pants. “I could maybe...relieve you a little, so you last longer, if you'd like,” she said.

My jaw dropped open.

It was against the rules.

“I have...I don't...I think...”

Paige smiled, and withdrew her hand. “Have fun,” she said, in her catlike voice, and then she waved her fingers as she turned and sauntered down the hall.

I sat back down in the chair and fiddled with the camera while I started the painful wait again. I turned it on and off, filmed and checked on the film (later, I would be annoyed by these shorts that led to nothing, when I was looking for the actual video). I tried in vain to figure out how much memory was left on the card. I adjusted the lighting again – all the time with my ears perked up for any sound that would indicate that my wife and her recently chosen lover would come into the room.

After what seemed like an eternity of sitting, which I finally resigned myself to, with my arms draped on the handrests and my cock erect in my lap, a jolt sizzled through me as the sound of a keycard clicking into the lock resonated from my own door.

There was a thud after that, and light giggle. Nik's giggle. I imagined them outside, with Andre pressing her up against the door, unable to wait even a moment before fondling my wife's breasts and kissing her with his gigantic mouth. Maybe he had his hands on her thigh and was sliding them up to feel her dripping pussy beneath her panties.

If she was even wearing panties.

The door rattled against the frame for a few moments, proving that my guess was probably correct.

Then I remembered the camera. Shaking, I picked it up and turned it on, and set it down on the table next to me. From there the view was excellent, of the bed at least. I had contemplated, and envisioned myself, standing up, moving around them, the way that Mitch had with his own wife. Getting a nice close-up of the man's cock inside of her, moving to get her face as she gasped and shrieked with her unfaithful orgasms.

But I knew I wasn't bold enough, and that my hand would be unsteady. Better, this first time, to play it safe.

The door rattled again, and then I felt the small implosion of air as the door opened.

I suddenly wasn't sure what to expect, and I felt a stain of discomfort rising from the back of my neck. My chest felt tight again, and I could feel the pulse of my heart all the way to the tips of my fingers.

They weren't going to...talk to me or something, were they?

But Nik was in front of Andre, and he had his hands around her waist. She looked over at me, and gave me a delicious smile. Her eyes seemed to wink, though I know they didn't. She slide her hands over Andre's hands and leaned her head back against his broad chest as they walked into the room, waddling a little to stay close to each other.

Andre looked at me as well, over the top of my wife's head, while his hands were full of her tits. His stare was cold and dominating, but I met his eyes. I wasn't sure what he was doing, but after he looked away he didn't look back at me again. Maybe he was checking to see if this was really what it seemed; a man who wanted to watch another man fuck his wife.

He turned Nik around abruptly after that, and held her by the base of her skull and her neck, close to his face as he kissed her passionately. I squirmed a little in my chair. His hand was buried in her dark hair, but I could see the shape of them, nearly as big as the back of her whole head.

He moved his other hand around her body to cup one of her tight buttocks. I heard a murmur of pleasure from him as he squeezed.

And then, his big fingers slid down her ass, to the hem of the red dress. He slid his index finger along the hem, back and forth, almost like he wanted to tease me more than her. The part between her legs was right here, just above it. He continued to stroke the fabric, back and forth, back and forth, and my cock felt like it would explode as it twitched and flopped inside my pants with every pass of his dark fingers over the fabric.

And then his finger disappeared beneath the hem, between her legs. As his hand moved up to the sweet spot between her thighs, my wife shuddered in pleasure. The tight sides of her dress started to pull up as his hand went further and further. I saw his finger move back and forth in a different direction now. Slowly, half-hidden, but clearly stroking her through the material of her panties. He still had her mouth beneath his, and he was slurping away at her face. Nik moaned, and his finger plunged up between her skirt and further under the fabric.

He dropped his other hand and used both hands to impatiently pull her skirt up. A very strange modicum of relief washed through me to see that her red panties were still neatly in place, with the lace resting prettily on her skin, nestled between her firm asscheeks, narrowing in a v-shape to tuck beneath her ass and snuggle up against the soaked folds of her pussy.

I started when Andre lifted a big hand and slapped it down on Nik's ass. A hard slap echoed through the room, and he closed his hand over her flesh and kneaded it. Then he used the same hand to work the lace panties down her ass, peeling them away until they hung down against her thighs. His other hand pushed the dress up, and over her head.

When the dress was at the end of her arms, he twisted it and held her arms suspended above her head. His hungry eyes drank up her breasts, which were free and must have been pert against his dress shirt. His hand moved around her body, and down the front of her, where I knew he was sliding his fingers into her wet pussy. I saw them between her legs from behind her. He used two fingers to pry her legs open, readjusting her. And then the pink tip of his finger poked in and out of her glistening wet flesh as he stroked her clit. He held her hands suspended above her head, and even though she writhed in his grip, he had her held quite fast. He lowered his head to her chest, and though I could not see it, I knew by Nik's gasp that he had taken her chocolatey nipple into his mouth. She writhed and moaned, and then began to howl as she came closer to her orgasm – her first of many. I watched his finger between her legs, getting slick with her juices, until she let out a tortured cry and her legs began to shake so much that I thought she would fall.

He released her nipple with a pop, and walked her toward the bed with her hands still suspended over her head, caught in her twisted dress. Her panties worked their way down her thighs as her legs moved, and her thighs shone with her juices. The scent of her cum and excitement wafted across the room, wild and tangy. I gripped the armrests and tried to steady my breathing.

Andre tossed Nik onto the bed. He handled her like a limp doll.

Nik wriggled free of her dress, though, and rose up to her knees. Andre was standing at the foot of the bed, removing his clothes. Nik looked over at the table, took in the camera, and then lifted her eyes to smile at me again.

Then she turned back to Andre, who was lifting his white undershirt over his head.

His chest was broad, and the curves of his tightly cut muscles had been hidden beneath his shirts. Nik ran her tongue along her upper lips and her eyelashes displayed the slow movement of her eyes up and down Andre's fit body. She looked back up at him, her eyes bright with excitement. Then she began to walk herself on her knees, to help him remove his belt.

I watched as Nik's fingers closed around the zipper of Andre's fly. She tugged slowly, and the zipper crawled open. The bulge of his cock, still encased in his underwear, spewed from the open zipper, and I saw Nik's eyes widen. She ran her fingertips over the shape of it before she dipped her hand into his underwear.

When she pulled his cock out, it was I who widened my eyes. His cock was not even fully erect, because it still had a light wobble to it, and it seemed to go on forever, flopping in her hands like a big, black snake.

Nik stared at it.

Andre was watching her face, amused. He had obviously encountered this kind of reaction before, and clearly enjoyed it.

Then he put his hand up to Nik's hair, and ran his fingers through it, but I could tell he also applied a gentle downward pressure. His cock twitched to a new hardness, and started to point out in front of him as he did so.

“Take a nice long look at it,” he said, a smile on his face. But he started to push Nik down with his other hand.

His cock was getting bigger and bigger. It was far too heavy for it to point straight out, and he used his other hand to support it so that by the time he had pushed Nik down, folded over herself, it was right where she could take it into her mouth.

I sucked in my breath.

Nik looked up at Andre, and he gave her a final stroke through her hair. Then he pushed her down onto his enormous cock. Nik opened her mouth, and her lips wrapped around his meat.

I stared. His cock had to be the thickest I had ever seen, and Nik's mouth looked stretched to its maximum. It was also long – if I had to wager, it was going to be a full foot long by the time it was done growing, which it still, impossibly, seemed to be doing.

I saw Nik's stomach spasm as she gagged, about five inches down his shaft. There was still so much more to go, and there seemed to be no way that Nik could take any more.

She pushed back against his hand, and he let her come up for air. A sticky glob of spit stretched between the tip of his shaft and her lips.

She gasped for air.

But he didn't give her long. His fingers worked their way into her hair tightly and her head went down again. She had no choice but to open her mouth and let him impale her on his cock. This time she gagged again, though less so, and he kept pushing.

“That's it, baby,” he said. “Just open up.”

A shudder went through me as Nik swallowed another full inch of cock.

Then back up again, gasping for air.

This time it was Nik who plunged down his dick, and tried to go further. She stretched out, jutting her ass up in the air, to get herself at a better angle. She swallowed even more of his cock, while he watched her smugly from above.

Back she went, up for more air. Saliva gushed from her mouth. Her eyes were wet and her mascara was starting to pool beneath her eyelids. She opened up again, and her mouth was full of cock again. Her lips stretched to a thin line, and her cheeks puffed out, and still she kept going, until she had gobbled up about eight inches of his cock.

Then she began to bob up and down on it, his hand on the back of her head. But it was Nik who was directing her own slut mouth over his cock.

“Make some noise,” he said. “I like to hear it.”

I could not believe he had said that. I believed it even less when my wife began to gurgle and cack, making lewd, filthy noises as his cock rammed against the back of her throat. When her lips closed around him at the crown of his cock she hummed. Then back down again, spreading her lips wide, and she cacked.

This went on for much longer than I could ever have hoped to make a blowjob of this level from my wife last: I would have exploded long ago in her throat. Andre, however, leaned back on his fisted hands, resting on his knuckles, his biceps tight, and let my wife service his cock for what seemed like an eternity.

He finally reached forward and grasped her hair, pulling it back so she had to look up at him. Her face was wet with her spit, and her eyes had watered to make her mascara run.

“Dirty little slut,” he tisked. Nik smiled.

“Turn around,” he said. “Get on all fours.”

Nik obeyed, and Andre wasted no time adjusting her body, pushing her into the exact position he wanted her in. He used his big hand to draw handfuls of her cum up from her pussy to her ass. She was so wet he was able to smear it all over her bottom, almost like body oil. He pulled her asscheeks apart and played with her puckered hole hole with his thumbs.

I could see that Nik's legs were quaking as he moved his fingers over her body. First her clit, then her asshole.

My own cock was screaming in pain.

He made a few circles around her ass. Nik moved her feet in circles and crossed them, and rocked back and forth. She moaned. She tossed her hair over her shoulder. It was incredible, and disconcerting. Then my eyes fell on the camera again.

She was giving a performance.

Andre had his heavy cock in his hand again now, and he was stroking himself on the underside with a practiced movement, while playing with Nik's ass and driving her wild. He moved his cock closer to her body, and I felt my chest wringing out again as I realized I had no idea what he would do next: would he fill up her pussy, or were his sights set on something else? And how would Nik react?

He used his knee to push her legs further apart, and I watched his thumb dip into her puckered asshole. She gasped in pain, but he was well lubricated from her gushing cunt, and he slid in to his knuckle easily. He brought the fat, dark head of his cock closer to her pussy, and used it to rub her clit.

“Oh god,” Nik cried. Her voice was high-pitched and sultry. She tossed her hair back and bucked like an animal as Andrew wriggled the fat head of his cock between the outer lips of her pussy, and rubbed against her clit. He moved his thumb in and out, while Nik moaned in obvious pleasure.

The glans of Andre's cock was so big that it pushed out against her outer lips. Against the wet folds of her pussy it suddenly looked like a monstrosity. I wondered what Nik was thinking right now, with that fat hardness against her. Surely she could feel how wide it was, surely she knew after cramming it all into her mouth. But if she worried, she showed no sign of it as she ground against him.

“Fill me up,” she cooed. Her voice was gravelly and hyper-sexual. “I want to feel your cock in my pussy.”

I stared, with my cock throbbing so painfully I thought I might burst open – beginning with my cock but ending with my whole body – as Andre grasped my wife's ass, and his body pushed forward.

As the first half-inch of her cock spread her open, she let out a pained, strangled squeal and dropped her head to the bed. Andre pulled her back up and propped her into position again.

“That pussy's tight,” he growled. “I thought you were a dirty little whore.”

I shivered. She wasn't. But she was going to be.

Again he pushed into her, and this time I could see when her pussy gave way, spreading open and sucking him in. Her whole pussy, outer lips and all, had to gape open and stretch to a strained white to accommodate him. In he went, inch after inch. It seemed to go on forever as he slowly stretched her out, fitting his gigantic cock inside of her to get her ready for the fucking he was about to deliver.

The final inches of his cock took more work, I could see: Nik was filled up and there wasn't much room for more. But he kept going, and he seemed pleased as he watched the many inches of his cock disappearing inside of my wife. "Yeah," he coaxed, seemingly impressed, "That's it. You're gonna take the whole damn thing."

His cock finally disappeared inside of her, and my mouth was hanging open and so was his, when his balls crushed up against her lower pelvis as she took it all. The entire, enormous thing.

I looked at Nik. Her face was sweating now, and she was obviously in a little pain or discomfort, but she had a determined look on her face as well.

Andre pushed her hair from her face and she turned to the side with the motion of his hand. I stared at my wife's ass, unable to believe that all twelve inches of that enormous cock were inside of her at this moment, stretching her pussy to the max, filling her so fully I was surprised she could breathe.

"You think you can take this big cock for me like a good girl?"

Nik nodded.

"Is that the biggest cock you ever had in your pussy?"

She nodded again.

"I can tell. You like a big cock inside of you?"

Nik nodded again.

"Why don't you tell me that. Tell me how much you like a big cock filling you up."

Nik just panted, and Andre reached forward and pulled her onto his lap by her hair. She gasped at the change in position, and squirmed on his lap. I could see the front of her pussy now, and it was so stretched I could barely see the shape of her parts. Her clit had been pulled apart so that it was nearly flat. Andre's fingers flicked over her button, and she let out a yelp. "I like big cock filling me up," she said. She almost yelled it. Her limbs were shaking.

"You think you can take it?"

"I want to," Nik said.

"I'm gonna give it to you hard. All twelve inches of my cock. You think you can take it?"

"Yes," Nik panted.

He pushed her back onto the bed. "Get your hands up there," he said. "Pull your ass apart. Let's give everyone a nice show of what a dirty little slut you are."

Nik placed her hands on her ass, and Andre moved them so that she was pulling her own ass apart. The view was spectacular: every detail of her stretched, unfaithful cunt was on display, full of cock and about to be abused.

I felt a gush of cum at the tip of my cock. I wasn't entirely sure that I could keep from coming in my pants, even if I didn't touch my cock.

Andre slowly pulled the length of his shaft out of Nik's pussy. It was slimy with her juices, and she made the strangest sound as he withdrew. He went all the way to the final few inches.

My cock quivered. Nik dug her fingernails into her flesh.

And then, hard and furious, he slammed his cock back into her hole. All the inches of his dick he had so carefully stuffed into her went slamming inside of her at one.

“Oh. Fuck!” Nik shrieked. “Oh god!”

And then he began to piston inside of her, pounding every inch of his cock deep into her. He went moderately fast at first, but then he gathered momentum and began to slap into her ass rapidly, abusively, thrusting all those inches of fat cock all the way to the base as Nik held on to her ass for dear life and bit into the white pillowcase with her wet mouth.

Like when she sucked Andre's cock, this too seemed to go on forever. I heard my wife's panting rise in pitch, and I saw her abdomen tighten, as she neared her own orgasm. She screamed as she came, and the already slurpy sounds of Andre sawing into her turned to outright squelches as she came again all over his cock.

Spent, Nik's whole body went limp. She kept one hand on her ass, but without much enthusiasm, and her other hand fell to the bed beside her. Her body began to move forward toward the headboard, as Andre continued to fuck himself into her, unrelentingly. Her ankles, even, fell open, and she opened her eyes. She was distant and fucked-out: Andre could fuck her however he wanted now. She was simply going to lie there and take it.

Andre grasped her ass and rammed himself into her violently. Finally, he tipped his head back and looked at the ceiling. His face screwed up in the throes of his boiling pleasure, about to burst from his cock. His rippled abdomen shook as he pummeled into Nik, until at last he groaned and tensed.

He thrust deep into my wife, and all of his seed rammed its way home, filling her up. His orgasm seemed to last forever, and I could imagine how much cum was spurting out of his cock into my wife's unprotected pussy. He slowly withdrew, and he was still squirting bursts of cum when his cock flopped from inside of her.

He leaned back on his heels, and panted for a moment.

Nik didn't move. There was a nice view of her face in the video, which I would see later when I watched it. She brought her thumbnail to her mouth, and bit it, and her dark eyes were wet and vacant over her tear and spit-covered face. She left her ass in the air, with her battered gash (which looked like a punched ripe piece of fruit) gushing Andre's creamy loads of cum in pulses from her throbbing cunt.

Andre, who now seemed more like a consummate professional than anything else, sighed, and stood up at the foot of the bed. He admired his handiwork as he shook out his boxers and pants and slid them on.

He looked over at the video, still filming, smiled at me – I was not entirely sure if it was a smile of complicity or smugness - said “All right. Later,” and whistled as he left the room.

“Nik,” I said quickly.

I saw her smile faintly.

It was all I needed to confirm that she was okay, because at this point my cock was ready to explode or give me an aneurism. I stood up, knocking a small bottle from the mini-fridge to the floor. It was still half-full, and I stumbled to the bed while I tried to pull down my pants and get myself free. I was clumsy, moving like drunken madman, as I climbed onto the bed behind Nik.

I stared at her pussy, dripping with another man's cum. I stared as she reached beneath her body with one hand, and slid her fingers through her ravaged, silky, soaking, dirty pussy. It was her left hand, and our wedding band gleamed in the dirty froth that filled her cunt.

I pushed her hand away, and the acrid scent of cum rose to my nostrils, below it the layer of her smell. I thrust my cock into her pussy, and it was so wet, and hot, and dirty, and definitively looser, that I only had to thrust twice to add my cum to Andre's. The orgasm literally shook me from my head to my toes, and I screamed as I looked up at the ceiling.

I had never come so hard in my life.

I panted, trying to recover from my orgasm, and the vague awkwardness that invades a room after sex where some boundary has been crossed began to take up space around me. I wasn't sure what to do next.

Nik, however, still had plans for me. She moved forward, sliding slowly off my cock until it dropped from inside of her. I was still a little hard, I noticed.

Before I could figure out what was happening, Nik had turned around and flipped onto her back. She positioned herself underneath me, and starting at my sticky balls - which were dripping with Andre's cum, my own, and hers - she began to lick me clean. She worked her way up to the underside of my shaft, and I stared down at her as she used her tongue to clean off my cock in long strokes.

Any softness in my cock disappeared, as I watched my wife cleaning the mingled juices from my dick. Finally, she flipped back up, onto her knees, and began to suck my cock. Her mouth was hot and wet, and, I knew, filthy with the residue of another man's cock. I couldn't believe what a filthy whore my wife was, and every image that I let into my mind, every idea of her mouth being full Andre's cock, her throat coated with his precum, her pussy full of his white cream, made my cock pulse to near-orgasmic harness in a matter of seconds.

My hand dropped down to Nik's head, and when I felt myself coming, I grasped her hair and held her filthy mouth to the base of my cock while I sprayed my seed into the back of her throat.

When Nik came up for air, she wiped her mouth and smiled. It was evident in that moment, I see now, looking back on it, that my wife had become a different woman.

She got up and turned off the camera.

"Wow," she said, flopping backwards on the bed.

I joined her.

We were silent for a moment.

"That was hot," Nik said finally.

I looked over at her. "So you're sure you're...I don't know, okay with it?"

She laughed. "Uh, yeah."

"That guy had a big cock," I said.

"Really big," Nik agreed. "Almost too big."

I was silent for a moment, and when I said the next bit, I tried to sound nonchalant. "Are you still going to be able to have sex with an average-sized guy like me now?"

Nik laughed again. But she didn't answer my question. "You know what I really liked?" she said. "I liked the feeling of being watched." She turned over and kissed me on the cheek. "Thank you for using the camera. I wasn't sure Paige was going to make it up here."

I smiled weakly.

"Okay but...I mean, this video is just for us, right?"

Nik looked a little disappointed, but she smiled for me. "Well, yeah...I mean, I guess it sort of breaks the rules."

I nodded. I felt a little strange at that moment. Nik had her fingers entwined with mine, and she was looking at me with a loving gaze. But her disappointment about the video was apparent, and it made me feel like she was a little bit out of control.

"You didn't want to put that on the internet?" I pried.

Nik sighed. She traced her own finger down her hip, and watched her caress as she did. "I mean, sort of. It's pretty hot." She turned back to me. She kissed me again on the cheek. "But if you don't want me to, that's okay. That's what we agreed, right?"

I nodded, my mouth hanging open a little in disbelief.

"That means, though," she growled in my ear. "That you owe me."

Nik slid her hand down my body at that moment, and as foreboding as it was the way she had just pronounced my debt, and as unsettled as may have felt, I was also wildly turned on. Just the touch of her hand sent my cock to getting ready again.

"Now," Nik said, reaching for the camera. "Let's check on our camera-work, shall we?"

And so I never got around to clarifying, or even thinking much about, what I "owed" Nik.

20: BACK IN TORONTO

Nik had to go back to work that Monday. Life returned to normal: me up early to get to the bakery, and Nik home late from her job. But our sex life was definitely renewed: even though we were tired, we didn't tire of fucking like rabbits every night. I don't know what Nik thought about, but I couldn't get my mind off what I had seen. All I had to do was think of her pussy filled with another man's cock – but especially that enormous bull Andre – and I got so hard that I needed to jerk off if she wasn't around.

Still, I wasn't going to suggest anything like that ever again. I felt like I had gotten my fill with that single video. The experience had been dangerous and exhilarating, but I felt like we were flying a little too close to the sun. Our sex life was better for it, but I couldn't help feeling a certain kind of distance from Nik now when we hung out or talked.

About three weeks later, I came home early after only about three hours of my shift. I felt a little sick.

It was about half an hour past the time Nik usually left for work. I opened the door carelessly, and tossed a flier on the counter.

Then I saw her movement, and I heard the sound of her voice.

Crying out, orgasmically. “Oh, fuck!”

Ice-cold water filled my veins, and I jerked my head toward the sound.

It took a few seconds to process the picture, and relief washed over me quickly, then a wave of disappointment (for I had been, while jealousy and fear coursed through me, also getting excited). The TV was on, a video playing, and it took a second to realize it was the video, and Nik was watching it. The back of her head was against the couch.

Fearfully, and I must also admit a little hopefully, I stepped forward to see her full body, almost hoping or expecting to see a head rise from between her legs. Nik looked up at me. Her fingers were in her panties, and her face was flushed with a nearing orgasm. She closed her eyes, holding a finger up to indicate she wasn't finished. Her fingers moved rapidly beneath the fabric of her panties, and her lips parted as she let out a puff of air when she came. Her hand dropped next to her, found the stop button on the remote, and the video disappeared.

“I felt...sick...”

I was confused. Unsure of what to say. Nik's behavior was, to say the least, a little strange. It was hot, but so strange it made me a little dizzy.

I was also a little sick, and that wasn't helping me with any of this.

I looked at her face.

In truth, even with eyes closed like this on the couch, she did not seem like the same woman I had married. Her body seemed to have transformed, as had her way of moving. Even resting, as she was, she was radiating a different quality, a more sexual quality.

I rubbed my eyes. I wasn't thinking straight.

I started to go to the bedroom.

“Cole?” Nik said, although by now I think even in my own mind I had begun to think of the woman I was sharing a condo with as Nikita.

“Yeah?”

“When you get up make sure to remind me, I have something I want to run by you.”

21 THE PLAN

“No way,” I said, shaking my head. “No. It's too much.”

Nikita leaned over the kitchen counter. Her arms were bare and a slinky tank-top with a droopy neckline gave a glorious view of her breasts all the way to her nipples. She was wearing bangly bracelets – another unusual touch for Nik – and they scraped the countertop as she slid her arms across to run her fingertips over my forearm.

“Honey,” she said. “Don't forget our agreement. I haven't.”

I shook my head.

“Would it be different if you could come?” she said finally.

I nodded.

This made her recoil, and she sat back up in her chair defiantly.

“Then,” she said very slowly. “It's not fair for you to say I can't go.”

I felt like I got whiplash. “Huh?”

“Look,” she said leaning forward. “We have rules. You remember?”

And the agreement was, I would do what you wanted, which I did. And then I get what I want. And what I want is to make a video and post it on the internet. If you'd be okay with this if you could go with me, and you're not because you can't, then you're being an ass. You aren't trusting me to hold up my end of the bargain, which is bullshit, because I trusted you.”

I narrowed my eyes.

What was under discussion was an offer, from Paige and Mitch of all people, to go and visit them in L.A.. I had felt relief when those two had driven off, and here they were back in our lives.

“Maybe make your video,” were the exact words of the email from Paige, which I had read and re-read a dozen times by now.

I was invited, of course, the email had gone on to say.

But I couldn't go. I was stuck in Canada if I wanted to keep working and not have my residency application set back a hundred years.

Nikita folded her arms across her chest. “Look, Cole...everything we're doing here is about trust, right?”

I sighed. “I know, Nik. I know that. But this is just...too far.”

She tapped her fingers on her arms. “How so?” she challenged.

“Explain how this is 'too far.' The rules are, I don't sleep with Mitch. We tell each other everything. I get to make a video, and the only thing we said about that was, I had to hide my face. It can't be someone we know..." she was holding up her fingers to count off the rules of our agreement, and now she pulled her hand back into a fist. "That's it. And this doesn't break any of those rules. Does it?"

I stared at her. The now-familiar pangs of jealousy and lust were pounding through my body. My chest felt like someone was standing on it, and my cock was going wild with excitement.

"No, but..."

Nikita slid off her chair and came around the kitchen island to me. She slid one arm over my shoulder and with the other hand she found my cock, the great betrayer of my true desires. She rubbed it, and I responded with an uncontrolled flex. "I know you're just worried because I'll be there all by myself," she warbled in my ear, sending prickles down my neck and my spine. "Maybe you're a little bit jealous that I'm going to be in the sun, at a real beach, having fun..." she squeezed my cock through my boxers. "But you just have to trust me."

The next three days went by in a blur.

Nikita called me, as promised, when she arrived in L.A.. The conversation was an ordinary one: Paige had picked her up from the airport, and driven with her laid-back surfer attitude in a topless jeep on the terrifying freeways in L.A.. Nik had been certain she was going to die.

They had the cutest little place. Well, actually, it was huge. But charming.

"So it seems like...I don't know...okay?" I had asked, slightly dazed.

"It's fine," Nik had said. "Please stop worrying. We're just going to the beach, going shopping, doing ordinary stuff."

I wanted to ask about the video, but my voice was caught in my throat.

"Nik," I said instead. "I love you."

"I love you, too, honey. Please stop worrying, okay? Everything is going to be fine. It's not like some crazy sex dungeon here or anything."

I laughed. It was what I had been imagining.

“Okay. Just...remember the rules, okay?” I said.

She didn't hesitate, and her voice was soothing. “I won't forget them, Cole. I love you. Now go to bed.”

The next day she called in the afternoon. Four hours behind me, she had just woken up. They'd had a party the night before, she had met all kinds of interesting people. Nothing had happened. They had planned to make the video that night but the party had kind of gotten out of hand, and they had forgotten about it.

The days were torment for me. I had to be at the bakery at 5am. I worked blindly, my mind filling with fantasies of Nik, drinking and smoking pot with Mitch and Paige, surrounded by tanned, porn-star men and women. By seven, I was already imagining orgies centered around my wife, and the idea was as intoxicating as it was troublesome. I could barely make it home, riding uncomfortably on a bike, to jerk off in the shower.

On Saturday, she didn't call me at all. I left two messages on her phone, and I called ten or so times, but I restrained myself from doing anything more. I knew I had to simply let my wife do whatever she was going to do. I had to trust her to only break the rules of our marriage that we had agreed to break.

She called very early in the morning on Sunday. Some quick math informed me that it was three in the morning in L.A.. Her voice was slurred, and she had the hopeless giggle she acquired whenever she got really drunk.

“Sounds like you're having fun,” I said, trying to sound neutral.

Nik sighed. “Listen,” she said. “I'm sorry I didn't answer your calls...we were, you know, busy.”

I felt my cock stiffen. “Busy, huh?” I said. I was trying not to sound like an overeager teenager.

“Mmhmm,” Nik purred. “That kind of busy.”

An involuntary, low gasp escaped my mouth. My hand was headed toward my cock. “So you did it?” My attempts not to sound desperate were pointless, I realized, and I resolved to give up.

there were a lot of other people around her, listening, and one of them had maybe begun to stroke her thigh...maybe Mitch, that stupid fuck, with his beady, hungry eyes trained on her, sucking her in...

She cleared her throat. "A...what is it? I'm sorry, I had a lot to drink afterward to celebrate. Mitch is editing it right now. It should be up in like an hour or so." There was a pause. "A masquerade mask!" she screamed, suddenly. "That's it."

I was stroking my cock now. "And so...how was it?" I croaked, unable to hide my need to hear about it. "What did you do?"

A laugh, the likes of which I had never heard before, escaped Nik's throat. It was a deep, sexy laugh, a sort of slap-in-the-face kind of laugh, but at the same time fun. "It'll be up soon, Cole. Why don't you just watch it?"

I was silent.

"I don't want to ruin the fun of anticipating anything for you," she said.

"But just tell me something," I panted. "Who did you...what happens...?"

I could almost see Nik's face through the phone as she smiled. Her smile changed the shape of her breath, and I knew she was standing with one hand on her hip, her eyes lit up with that devious, sexual energy. The thought of her expression alone almost sent me over the edge.

"Just some guy," she said.

"Did he have...a big...cock?" I couldn't believe my own perversion as I began to stroke myself furiously.

Nik let me wait, and then she growled: "Huge."

She gave it a moment to sink in, for my mind to conjure images of her last escapades, of my imagination to kick into overdrive, and then she said, cheerful as pie: "Look for it to come up. My user name is 'SlutWifeNextDoor.'" She let out a light laugh here. "Mitch's idea. I have to go darling. See you tomorrow." A kiss into the phone, much too loud, nearly shattered my eardrum. But I didn't care, because my cum was boiling at the base of my cock and I was about to burst all over the couch.

The line was dead when I came to my senses, and so I hung up the phone and went to my computer, where I was going to spend the next six hours searching desperately for my own slutwife, and her very first porn video.

22 SLUTWIFE NEXT DOOR

I refreshed the page and searched desperately, between pacing around the apartment, for the next six hours. I tried to steady myself with some drinks, but I ended up just making myself sleepy. The anticipation was too much to bear for such a long time. I lay down on the couch, just to rest my eyes.

When I woke up, it was three in the morning. I was disoriented. I felt hungover, I had no idea what time it was. I looked at an empty bottle of vodka and slowly the memory of the afternoon, and of my wife's bad behavior, began to rise up in my mind. I lunged at the computer.

I typed slutwifnextdoor into the search engine, and the video appeared.

NEW! The site declared.

I stared. The thumbnail of the video was obscene. Unbelievable.

I rubbed my eyes.

The thumbnail showed an enormous cock, buried inside of...

Was I seeing this right?

Buried inside a woman's ass?

It looked like Nik's ass.

But surely I was seeing this wrong.

I looked down at the user name again.

SlutWifeNextDoor.

Then I felt another electric shock traveling through me. Cold and hot. My face flushed and my skin began to churn, while ice seemed to encrust my insides.

There were already dozens of comments.

I scanned them and my cock began to throb. My stomach twisted. I'd fuck her tight ass anytime; If this your wife your one lucky man; this little slut can take a lot of cock; excellent dirty wife takes it all...

On and on.

I looked over the string of tags beneath the thumbnail. I wasn't sure why I was doing this: to torture myself, or to drag out the anticipation even more. I couldn't even decide, and I still can't, if it was turning me on or making me ill. My eyes zeroed in on the tag, first time anal.

I clicked on the user profile.

Hi! I'm Veronica and I've been a good wife for nearly ten years. Now I want to try some new cock. Come with me on my adventures. Xoxo.

Jesus.

It was obscene. So...lewd, so filthy.

So fucking hot.

So I did the only thing left to do.

I played the video.

I was mildly surprised to see Paige at the beginning of the video, though I realized soon after that it really wasn't surprising at all.

"Hey," she was saying, almost as though she was caught mid-sentence, in her laid-back surfer voice. She was sitting, as though for a formal interview, except that she had no shirt on, and the beautiful swells of her breasts looked even larger than usual. Her nipples looked engorged. "It's Haley, and I have something special for you."

It was so terribly cliched, the way she was talking. Inwardly, I rolled my eyes a little, but there was no cynicism from my cock, which was responding exactly the way "Haley" wanted me to: pulsing and hardening.

"Today," she continued, and stretched out her arm, "I have a new friend."

The screen filled up as another person came to sit next to Paige-Haley, and even though I knew it was going to be my wife, I was still stabbed through the chest by the sight of her. She was wearing a black masquerade mask that covered the top half of her face, which I suppose obscured her nose and her eyes enough to hide that it was her from the general population.

But I knew it was her. That was my wife. Her sweet mouth, her slender frame, her bare, supple breasts, and her small chocolate nipples. My extremities (except for my cock) went numb with the shock of it, even though I had known this was coming.

This was the internet. This was XXXStream, and the woman on the screen was my wife.

"This is my friend...." Paige hesitated, and Nikita smiled.

“Veronica.,” she said, sexily, and I felt another painful knife of half-terror slice through me as she pronounced the “-nic-” with extra emphasis.

Paige tipped her head back and gave a throaty laugh of appreciation for Nikita's little joke, her little flirtation with danger. “Yes, Veronica. And Veronica has to keep her face hidden, which is such a shame, because people think she's a very conservative housewife, don't they?”

Nikita nodded, and smiled.

“But you're not really, are you?” Paige asked Nikita, and she moved her hand up to Nik's chest and began to trail her fingers down my wife's breasts, spending extra time on her nipples, swirling around them until they popped up into hard pebbles. Nik shook her head.

“You're actually a little naughty, aren't you?” Paige said.

Nik bit her lip, as though she simply couldn't say.

“Well,” Paige said cheerfully. “Let's see just how naughty you can be, shall we?”

After that, things moved very quickly. The camera must have moved away, because the scene suddenly became much larger, and a man was almost immediately standing in front of my wife. I could see only the back of him: his buttocks, very fit and porn-star-ish, and then his long, erect cock, extending almost impossibly in front of him for inches and inches.

I was impressed: this man's cock was maybe not as long as Andre's, but it was much thicker. It was the fattest cock I had ever seen, in any porn, anywhere.

Paige was now stroking Nik's hair, and she reached out her hand to grasp the big cock in front of her. I shuddered with perverse pleasure as Paige guided the fat slab toward my wife's face. Nik opened her mouth, and behind the black mask her eyes flitted upward to look at the man whose cock she was about to suck. Paige pushed her head forward lightly, and in the big cock went.

Paige was smiling as she pushed Nik's head further and further down the man's cock. “That's it,” she said. Paige looked up at the man and smiled. “I don't know,” she mused. “It seems like maybe she's had a big cock in her mouth before.”

My wife's mouth was filled now, stretched open as wide as it could go. She was blinking rapidly and struggling to manage breathing and taking more of the big cock into her mouth.

“Is that the biggest cock you've ever had in your mouth?” a male voice, evidently the owner of the gigantic dick, said.

Another wave of utterly perverse excitement seared through me as Nik nodded, her nostrils flaring as she struggled to breathe. Paige smiled, and pushed her head forward a little more.

Paige pulled Nik's head back and she gasped for air as the gigantic member flopped from her mouth. The man held his own dick and rubbed it along Nik's lips. She licked at the glistening crown with her tongue as she answered. “Not this big,” she panted.

“So you've had some other practice then?” he growled, and Nik nodded as Paige pushed her down onto his cock again, this time further, and Nik's eyes fluttered closed for a moment as she probably gagged on the enormous piece of meat.

“Oh yeah,” the man said. “She's a dirty little slut, you can tell. You can tell she's had some practice.”

Nik looked up at him, and nodded slightly, though she couldn't move her head much because of the fat cock in her mouth.

Nik nodded.

“Why don't you show me how much you like it, you dirty little slut?”

Nik began to bob her head along the length of the big cock. She had to gasp for air occasionally, and when she did, saliva dribbled onto her chin. She gobbled and slobbered and sucked the man's fat member like the dirtiest imaginable whore. Paige watched with amusement, and her sexy grin was so obscenely hot I didn't even know where to focus my attention.

Nik was taking a breath and looking up at the man, when, in a typical sloppy editing job that comes with amateur porn, the scene abruptly changed, and Nik was on all fours on the same black leather couch. Now the man was on his knees behind her, and he was going in, heading for my wife's pussy with that gigantic piece of meat held in his hand.

Nik moaned as he entered her, and I was disappointed and at the same time relieved that I didn't have quite the view I had before, of Nik's pussy stretching to accommodate such a giant cock. I could hear the sloshing of her wet, dirty cunt as he slammed against her, his big balls swinging below him and slapping against her with each thrust.

“She likes that,” a male voice said, but it was not the man who was ramming her from behind.

A very cold sensation went through me as I realized it was Mitch.

“You ever had two cocks at the same time?” Mitch asked. I realized he was holding the camera. My guts felt wrenched in all directions. Was Mitch going to fuck my wife? If he was, it had certainly happened, and there was nothing I could do about it.

I felt sick, but my cock was throbbing and gushing precum as I watched the fat cock move in and out of Nik's bare snatch.

Nik howled. “Let's get another cock in here, one for her to suck on,” Mitch said. And magically, another man appeared. He was less well-endowed, but his cock was still large. Nik lifted her head and looked up at him with a smile, as he brought his erect cock to her lips. She kissed the tip of him before she opened up and swallowed him whole.

I stared in horror and ecstasy as my wife took a pounding from behind and sucked on a second cock. It seemed to last forever.

Another abrupt edit.

Now Nik was lying on her chest, with her ass in the air. Her hands were balled up into tight fists and her eyes were squeezed shut behind the mask. She let out a howl, but it was also a deeply sexual, slutty moan at the same time. The man who had been pounding her pussy now had his finger in her ass, and he was gently finger-fucking her. “Is this your first time?” he asked her, and Nik nodded her head.

The man produced some lubricant from seemingly nowhere, and stroked it over his cock. The camera moved in and behind Nik, so that the screen was largely taken up by her ass. But it was expertly shot, because her face, pressed against the couch, and the tortured expressions of her mouth, would all be captured by the camera for the next part.

The man placed his swollen member to the pink pucker of my wife's asshole. It was so tiny, and the crown of the fat cock covered it completely. It looked like an impossibility. Nik brought her fingers to her mouth, the fingers of her left hand, and our wedding ring – our actual wedding ring – flashed in the glare of the light.

I was suddenly floored by what I was seeing. This was really my wife, really making a porno, and she was about to get her ass filled by a huge, fat cock.

Nik let out a howl and bit on her fingers as the man pressed forward. To my great surprise, her ass opened up for him. There was a slowness to his thrust in the beginning, probably some resistance from her, and then he just slipped in, inch after inch. "That's it," the man growled. "Good girl." Nik pushed herself up to all fours, and Mitch mumbled: "She's a real natural."

Nik was still squealing and howling, and while her voice carried the tone of pain, a little crying and whimpering, she was clearly exaggerating it. She was acting. I could tell. It was reminiscent of Paige's performance, long ago at the cottage; so much so that it seemed coached. "Oh!" she cried. "Oh, god, oh, it's so big, it's too big, I can't!" But she herself was rocking back and forth, pushing her ass against the man to get his cock deeper inside of her. "Oh! Oh!" she squealed.

I took my own cock out and began to stroke it, figuring this was the end. The man began to pound her, and he reached forward and grabbed her hair. I found myself silently urging him on, to thrust his cock even harder into my slutty wife, to really punish her unfaithful hole with his huge cock...

I stopped mid-stroke, nearly bursting, because the scene changed again.

What was I looking at?

It was Nik's pussy, spread open, her legs extending on either side. And below...dear god. Her ass. Full of cock. She was sitting on someone's lap, her legs spread open, and she had her ass stuffed with cock.

No. No way.

I stared in disbelief, disbelief that almost stopped my orgasm from rushing forward, as my wife, this woman who was on the screen, took another cock into her pussy. I heard her strangled moan, and I watched with a mixture of sickness and lewd lust as Nik took two cocks at once, both men slamming into her so hard that her whole body shook violently. Her feet, encased still in a pair of black stilettos, jiggled in the air. She screamed as they pummeled her.

I came without even touching my cock. My cum splashed against the screen. Still I stood there watching, my mouth open, as the video came to an end: the man in her pussy withdrew and ejaculated onto her bouncing tits, as the man in her ass continued to push and pull her body up and down on his cock furiously. Then he suddenly pushed her onto the floor, and his cock slid out of her. The first man pulled her head back so that the second man, who had just removed his cock from her ass, could spray his cum into Nik's open, smiling mouth.

And then another abrupt cut.

“So how was it?” Paige was asking a freshly showered (apparently) Nikita, who was wrapped in a towel and wearing a new, white mask.

My whore of a wife smiled, and gasped, “It was incredible.”

Nik smiled devilishly.

“So we'll maybe see more of you, then?”

“Oh yeah,” Nik said.

And the video ended. Another one began loading automatically, and I slammed the lid of my laptop down, immediately regretting it because there was still a splatter of cum on the screen.

Holy fuck.

My heart was raw, but I couldn't deny that this was, single-handedly, the hottest thing I had ever seen. The orgasm that had burst out of me without me even touching my cock had sent me stumbling to my knees on the floor. It had been incredible.

But this was my wife for suck's sake.

My wife the porn star.

I sank backward into the couch.

And then, like an addiction, I felt the laptop calling to me. Calling to me to open it. Calling me to re-load the video. Calling me to watch it over and over and over again. To read the comments. To jerk myself off again and again, all the while thinking about how my wife was a dirty, filthy, amateur internet porn actress.

Fuck.

23 NIKITA RETURNS

By the time I left for the airport, SlutWifeNextDoor's first video had amassed hundreds of thousands of views. My wife was an amateur porn sensation. Comments ranged from the mildly appreciative (what a lucky husband, love veronica cant wait 4 more) to the unrepeatable filthy (I want 2 c her ass blow out a big load of cum, hope hubby eats her out). Etcetera...

Nikita was dressed in a creme-colored dress that hugged her figure. It was short, and her legs were sculpted and firm hanging beneath it, helped along by a wood-colored pair of ridiculously tall heels that shaped her thighs into a thoroughbred's.

She looked sweet and slutty at the same time.

I got out of the car and opened the door for her. She crossed the pickup lane and threw her arms around me. I couldn't help it: I dove into her mouth when she kissed me. I knew my cock was hard as a rock against her body, and her little smile indicated that she felt it, and she liked it.

I rounded the car to help her with her suitcase. The sun was low in the sky, and the bite of fall was already in the air. There was something uplifting about it all, for a moment. After all, what was there to be glum about? My wife was an amateur porn star, who took huge cock in the ass and loved it.

I liked it; she liked it.

I looked at her long, tanned legs. "You got a nice tan," I said.

The woman standing next to the car threw her hair back and smiled broadly at me as she rubbed her legs sexily against one another. She had her Blackberry in her hand, and she was busily typing on it. "I really wanted to get a nice tan while I was there," she said. Then she smiled. "Is that all you have to say?"

Her hair seemed lighter, too. In so many ways she looked like a different woman.

The feeling of trepidation that had been swamping me on and off for the past month came over me again.

"Nik," I said, not really knowing what I would say next.

She looked up again from her Blackberry. "Yes?"

"I love you."

She lowered her sunglasses and looked me in the eye. "Oh no. You're not...we're still cool with all this right?"

I smiled. "Of course."

"And you liked it?"

I nodded. She smiled triumphantly.

She opened the car door and glided into the vehicle with a snaky sexiness.

Or maybe just her regular sexiness, I reprimanded myself. Don't see things that aren't there.

I got into the car and immediately began looking in the mirror for a way into traffic. "So," I said. "What would you like to do first? CN Tower? Center Island?" I couldn't stop myself from making jokes. I felt a little unsure of myself. Uncertain what to say to this woman, who seemed like such a different woman than the one who had left five days ago.

Nik stretched an arm over and ruffled the hair just above my neck. "I think you know," she said sexily. I felt my cock twitch. I pulled into traffic.

There was a silence for a bit.

"So your video is really...popular," I said, finally talking about what I wanted to talk about.

Nik placed her fingers to her lips and sucked in her breath. "I know," she said. "It's really taking off, isn't it? Much more than I expected." She turned to me. "But what did you think? I know it was a little..."

"Over the top?" I suggested.

"But you liked it, didn't you?" Her tone was matter-of-fact, as if she already knew the answer. To be fair, she wasn't wrong. I suppressed a smile.

She leaned back on the headrest. She seemed satisfied with that little conversation about this big thing in our lives.

I looked over at her. A strange feeling was coming over me, and I wasn't entirely sure what it was. What was it?

I missed my exit and cursed under my breath. We'd end up driving all over town at this rate.

I realized Nik was looking at me after a while. She raked her fingers through my hair again and smiled. "Cole," she cooed. "Tell me what you're thinking."

I shrugged. "I don't know. I guess I just...didn't expect you to become some kind of...star. I'm not sure how I feel about it. I mean...maybe we're in too deep. Sort of over our heads. You know?"

Nik – I should say, Nikita – smiled and leaned back in her seat. The traffic was heavy so I had to keep my eyes on the road, but I could see her smug smile in the corner of my eye.

And then it hit me. The thing that was bothering me.

She shouldn't be so sure about how she felt about it, either.

Yet she was perfectly calm.

Perfectly in control.

With her smug little smile, the way Nik got when she...

“Don't you feel a little...I don't know, in too deep?” I prodded, and my voice was drifting away, lost.

...when she had made some plan, some little puzzle, and all of the pieces...

Nikita smiled again. “Sweetheart,” she said calmly. “Don't worry about it. It's all just business.”

...fell right.

Into.

Place.

We traveled about five miles, or maybe I should say ten kilometers, before everything hit me like a wave. A big movie-style montage of everything Nik had said over the past month. Every exchange, every glance between her and Paige and Mitch. The way the whole month had just fallen so neatly into place. I pulled over on the shoulder of the road.

Like one of Nik's plans.

I stared at her. Nik. My wife. She wasn't spontaneous; she was a planner.

A dye-in-the-wool, long-term planner.

Nik was starting to giggle.

She waved her hand in the air. “Honey, I'm sorry. I'm not laughing at you. I'm really not. I just...you know how I get. I meant to tell you. I meant to tell you a long time ago. And I don't want you thinking that....I don't know, the whole plan was like this right from the start.” She gulped at the air and wiped her eye. “I'm seriously not laughing at you,” she said, pointing her finger in my direction to quiet me. “And this whole...hotwife thing?...I didn't even see that coming. That was all you. So that's like...your own doing.”

She sucked in her breath, and her eyes scanned my stunned face. I was gripping the steering wheel with such intensity that my knuckles were white.

“Oh honey. Don't be mad at me,” she said.

“You knew them,” I seethed. “You knew them all along.”

Nikita rubbed her nose and shrugged a little. “I went to school with Paige,” she sniffed. “I haven't seen her since...we just....oh for fuck's sake, Cole, she's on my Facebook page, it isn't like I was keeping it some huge secret. It was kind of a fun surprise for you, or that's what it was supposed to be. I originally intended for us to have a threesome, actually. Or that's how I envisioned it in my mind. It's just...you were having such fun with it, and I didn't really know how to break the news to you after a while, and you were into this other thing, which I didn't expect at all, so we just kept going. With the game. For fun.”

I shook my head. I was feeling overwhelmed; though truthfully, the more I thought about it, the more sense it all made. “I don't believe this.”

“Oh come on,” Nikita said, laughing. “What the hell would two people like that be doing in Cape Breton?” She laughed and looked out her window. “Paige does want to surf the coast of everywhere, though. That part was true. She had a good time surfing. I think.”

I stared into the gray skyline. “Naturally she did. And the videos?”

Nikita sniffed again. “Well, that...I mean, that part was part of my master plan. I've been talking to Paige about it forever.” She smiled. She tipped her head teasingly. “I had to find a clever way to get you to let me do it.”

My jaw was hanging open and I actually thought it might fall off.

“So you...you, you....what?”

Actually, what? What the fuck was going on here?

Nikita shook her head. “Honey,” she said calmly. “It's just business.”

She reached across the car and found my cock with her hand. Her eyes trapped me in her gaze.

“Let me ask you this. Are you having a good time?”

I stared at her in disbelief. I could not believe this woman was my wife.

But what was the answer to that question?

“I am,” I said slowly, and I looked down at her fingers as they began to pull on the zipper of my pants. “But...” Her hand slid over my shaft and her fingernails grazed my balls. I interrupted myself. “Jesus. Honey. We're on the 400 here.”

“But what?” she prompted, and she leaned over, lowering her body, stroking my shaft and looking up at me with her interested and devilish eyes.

“But I...I'm also...”

Nik leaned over. “I'm listening,” she whispered against the head of my cock, her hand stroking the length of it.

I meant to say, “but I'm also not.”

I was having a good time, but I also wasn't.

I never really got around to it, though.

24 SO THAT'S THE STORY

So that's the story about how my wife convinced me to let her make amateur porn.

Kind of amateur porn. She flies out to L.A. to film it, and it looks more like professional porn made out to look like amateur porn, if you ask me.

The truth is, I have no reason to complain. She makes a pretty good dime. I get to watch my wildest fantasies come true. So far, and as far as I know, she's never broken those first rules we set up.

There's a thing about that, and it gnaws at me late at night sometimes. The rule about honesty. The way Nik manipulated the wording. Whether she was really honest “from now on” as she had promised.

Sometimes I get to believing it was a betrayal. Anger boils up inside of me and I think about confronting her, about telling her I can't forgive her.

The truth is, I just feel like I shouldn't forgive her, when I get to thinking about it too much.

It's complicated, though.

Because at the end of the day – and you can think whatever you want about this – I really dig Nikita. And Nik.

So I get to thinking some more, and I find a ways to justify what she did: we've all had a hard time stopping a lie when it gets out of control like that; no real harm came from it; she did it because she wanted me to be happy, and things took an unexpected turn...

I know. Sometimes I can't even believe myself. But men do crazy things for the women they love. And crazy things for the women who drive them wild with lust. Nikita is both of these women in one package. I'm helpless.

When I first moved to Canada, I went fishing in June. We were out on the lake, the sun was hot. Someone dropped an oar in the water. I dove in after it. I didn't know any better. I'm from Arizona.

It turns out there's a thing called Cold Water Shock. Basically it works like this: you start uncontrollably gasping for air, and then you drown. So Nik leaned over the side of the boat and screamed at me to get my breathing under control, and somehow I did, to everyone's great surprise and (hopefully) relief. If I hadn't been 27 at the time, I'm pretty sure I would have died. I got hypothermic once they pulled me in, and we all had to go back to shore and track down some paramedics.

But for a minute there, after I got my breath under control, and they tried to figure out how to get me back into the boat, I was in this ice-cold, clear blue water that went on and on below me for hundreds of feet, under a blue sky, and I couldn't feel my body.

I don't recommend it. But it was the most fucking invigorating experience of my life.

I'm pretty sure we're in too deep. But, as Nikita (and I've started calling her that, because that's more the kind of girl she is) told me, when I mentioned for the millionth time that very thought:

There's nothing to do at that point but swim.

Thank you for reading. I hope you enjoyed my story as much as I enjoyed writing it.

He just can't help but imagine what it would be like to stand in his gallery, looking at Reyes' lurid photos, knowing his own wife is the model, knowing how the photos were taken.

Please note, this is the novelized version of the short story Black and White, with significant changes to all scenes depicted in the short story, as well as the point of view. There is, however, some repetition: scenarios which occurred in the short occur in the novel. There are plenty of fresh new adult scenes, however. Please enjoy.
