PREFACE

I really agonized over this book. I went into it wanting to write a piece of realistic fiction with believable characters and real emotions. I think I largely succeeded.

The challenge is that this genre is really about escapism and fantasy. Realism is fine as long as it does not get in the way of the story. In this case, for a long time, it threatened to do so. As a consequence, I've spent much of the past few months wrestling the realism back into a story that people might actually want to read and enjoy.

I think I've gotten the balance right. There are many parts of this book that I think are, by far, the best fiction I've ever written. I hope you'll agree with me, and in particular I hope you find that the main characters feel plausible both in their emotions and behavior.

I want to thank Kenny Wright for his support and feedback throughout the process, and for the lovely cover he designed. Also, thank you to Arnica Butler for encouraging me to push the publish button and also some great comments near the end. Both Kenny and Arnica are bestselling erotica authors. If you haven't read their stuff yet, I encourage you to do so. And thank you to long-time reader Rob P. for his comments and help copyediting. I am sure there are still some typos, but hopefully we got most of them.

As always, I welcome your feedback. You can email me at ben.boswell.author@gmail.com or follow me on twitter at @BenBoswellAut.

CHAPTER ONE

“Oh shit, I forgot my phone,” Heather groaned.

Jeff smiled. “No, I took it out of your bag. The idea is to get away.”

“What about the kids?”

“That’s who you’re getting away from.”

She laughed. “I know, but they’ll want to hear from their mommy, and –“

“What, you don’t trust me to handle them?”

In truth Heather was wasn’t sure he could handle them. The incident with the six-year-old, Ally’s, destruction of the fridge, four-year-old Becky’s doll in the oven, and fifteen-month old Bobby’s diaper in the dog’s mouth, all at the same time, all in the same kitchen... the incident that had left Heather sobbing on the floor and led Jeff to book her a trip away....

“I do, but –“

“Yes, they’ll miss you,” he responded to her unstated objection.

“That’s okay. It’ll make them take you less for granted. Four days of Daddy screwing everything up will make them eager to welcome you home and encourage them to behave.”

“That’s not how it works.”

He smiled. “I know, but you need a break.”

“I’d still prefer my phone.”

“Nope. Then you’ll be tempted to check up on me. I have my own plans for the kids.”

“Oh, Jeff, no, not the whole pizza and gummy bears dinner –“

“You saying I can’t learn from my mistakes? No this time it’ll be mac n’ cheese and cotton candy.”

“Seriously, Jeff, I don’t really need to go –“

“Yes, you do. And anyway, you’ve been half away for the last couple of months. I can see that look in your eyes.”

“What look is that?” Heather asked.

“Freedom.”

“Jeff, that is so not true,” she replied defensively.

Jeff deflected. “I was just kidding. Anyway, look, give the hotel my number as emergency contact, and then, seriously, forget about us. Sit in the sun. Have some Margaritas. Fight off pushy Mexican Don Juans –“

“Oh, so I have to fight them off, eh?”

Jeff laughed. He continued, “Sleep late. Go shopping. Just have a good time. And don’t worry about the kids and me. We’ll be fine.”

Heather still hesitated. “Okay, promise me you’ll be okay?”

He leaned over and gave her a kiss. He reached into the back seat and handed his wife her weekend bag. “Go on, you’ll be late.”

She shook her head like this was all crazy, but she was eager for a break, even if his accusation of wanting to escape struck too close to home to admit out-loud.. They’d had date nights, of course, but she hadn’t spent even twenty-four hours away from Ally since she was born. And with two others since... getting away seemed unthinkable. And indeed, she hadn’t been thinking about it. Instead, she’d slowly been going crazy. At least that’s how Jeff put it.

She smirked to herself as she walked through the airport. What he really wants is for me to be rested enough to have sex with him. It was a fair complaint. She wanted that too. Making love three times in six months was no way to go through life, especially when two of the three had been interrupted by knocks on the door.

“It’s like the little fuckers have ESP,” Jeff had grumbled the second time, as his wife pulled on her bathrobe and escorted Becky back to bed. They’d completed the act, but it was less than wholly satisfying.

The plane ride down to Cancun was uneventful. Heather, stressed from the idea of being separated from her kids, hadn’t slept well the night before, and the minute the plane rumbled into the air, she was out like a light. The flight attendant had to wake her as they prepared to land.

She glanced out the window, down into lush jungle and bright sunshine. As the plane turned, she glimpses a long, narrow ribbon of beach, and the rippling expanse of the Gulf of Mexico beyond. She could already imagine how lovely it would be on the sand, beneath the hot sun, a cool breeze blowing off the ocean. Yes, she needed this.

The resort had a taxi service. Heather was the first aboard and took a window seat as the van slowly filled up. Still she was startled when a black man sat down next to her.

She chided herself for noticing that first. He was also a tall man. Fit, broad shouldered. Well-dressed in tan linen shorts and a patterned silk shirt. Probably in his late 30s, though she'd always had trouble guessing the age of African-American men, and his shaved head made it that much more difficult to judge. He was well-off, at least judging by his expensive, maybe a little gaudy watch. Was it really gaudy? Heather wasn't sure. It was more ornate than anything Jeff would wear, but it was also stylish, gold and black, inlaid with small diamond chips. It matched his clothes. She wondered if that was deliberate.

"Can I help you?" came his deep, Southern-accented voice.

Heather looked up to see him peering at her intently over his gold-tinted aviator glasses. She felt her cheeks flush. He held her gaze as she felt her throat tighten.

"Yes, I, um..." her brain cast around for a reason why she'd been looking him over so intently. "I, um... forgot my phone. Yeah. Back at home. I was wondering if I could, um, maybe borrow yours to send a text to my husband?"

As she said it she lifted her left hand to show that, yes, indeed, she was married. For some reason that seemed like an important thing to convey. He didn't speak for a moment, and she awkwardly lowered her wrist.

"Okay," he replied finally with a sigh. And then after another moment, "Um, you want this?"

"Huh?" she asked. "Oh, yeah," she said as she finally noticed his phone nestled in his large, outstretched palm.

Her hand shaking slightly, she took the phone and quickly sent a text to Jeff.

>>Borrowing a phone. Landed safe. Love you. H

She returned the phone with a mumbled thanks and turned her face toward the window. Thankfully he didn't try to make any more conversation. She chided herself for having been so completely unnerved by a stranger. That's what happens when you spend the better part of six years alone with children. You lose the ability to interact with other adults.

CHAPTER TWO

It was already late afternoon by the time Heather got to her room and changed into her resort attire. Too late for the beach, and anyway, she needed a bite to eat and a refreshment. She put on her usual one-piece, the one she typically wore to the neighborhood pool, and covered it with a battered cover up and a pair of ratty, loose-fitting shorts. Her cork sandals with the seashell colored straps were the only thing that was less than five years old. Still, she felt comfortable and ready for a snack and a swim. She tucked her Kindle into her beach bag and headed down to the pool.

Jeff had really splurged. The last-minute airfare must have been appalling, and this resort was maybe the most luxurious place Heather had ever been other than on their honeymoon in Hawaii. She suddenly felt very underdressed... well, overdressed, but “out of style” to be more precise. She didn’t see another woman in a one-piece. At least no woman under about sixty. She actually stopped walking for a moment, considered whether she just felt too frumpy to be seen in public. Finally, she shook it off. She was on vacation, damn it. And she was going to have a burger and a margarita, and if people wanted to make fun of her mommy attire, well, then, fuck ‘em. She strode over to the bar and sat down at the first stool.

“Ah, my stalker returns,” a deep voice said from beside her.

She turned to see the same black man from the van, except now he was in board shorts and his shirt was open, revealing his smooth, muscular chest, and impressively flat stomach. Heather sprung up and was ready to run away before she caught herself.

“What makes you think I’m stalking you?” she demanded.

He grinned at her sudden combativeness. He responded to her with open palms. Isn’t it obvious?

“I... I didn’t even see you before I sat down.”

“Uh huh,” he replied skeptically.

“Whatever,” she said as she retook her seat. She wasn’t going to let his strange man and his unnerving manner get under her skin. Still, she couldn’t help herself. “I didn’t, you know.”

He didn’t answer right away and she found herself turning to look at him. Another small grin.

“Then why did you want my number earlier?”

“Huh?”

“On the bus? The text.”

“What?” And then she realized. He thought she’d sent a text to herself so that she could have his cell. “No! That was to my husband.”

“Uh huh.”

She turned away from him. Where the heck was that bartender? She could feel the man’s eyes on her. She turned back in his direction, but he wasn’t looking at her. Still, he sensed her movement and turned quickly before she could look away again.

“Can’t keep your eyes off me,” he gloated.

She rolled her eyes. “You’re very full of yourself.”

“You’re the one who’s following me around.”

She sighed. “Look, for the last time, I wasn’t trying to get your number, and I am not following you.”

“And yet you have my number now, and here you are.”

Oh God, he was infuriating. “Now listen –“

He held out his hand to cut her off. He smiled. Kindly now. “Listen, I’m flattered. And you’re a... pretty woman, but you’re not my type.” No, not kindly. Patronizingly.

That one stung. It’s one thing to get shot down if you’re hitting on someone. But she’d just gotten shot down when all she wanted was a drink and a fucking burger.

What’s wrong with me? she wondered. She was dressed a little frumpy at the moment and had never been a bombshell, but she knew she was cute in that brunette pixie/tomboy/Natalie Portman/Emma Watson mold. And if there was a mom with three kids out there with a cuter ass, then....

“You wish you could get me!” she sputtered. It was supposed to come out all spunky and confident, like some feisty dame from an old Hollywood movie, Bette Davis or Katherine Hepburn or something, but it ended up sounding a little needy, even to her ears.

“Oh, nevermind,” she hissed.

She saw the man grin out of the corner of her eye. The bartender finally arrived. She angrily ordered a frozen margarita and a bacon cheeseburger.

She saw his eyebrows rise at that.

“What?” she demanded.

“Nothing,” he laughed. “Nice to see an older woman who is still willing to eat real food.”

Older woman? “Thirty-two is not old!”

“You don’t need to convince me,” he replied. “I’m sure your husband,” he said that as if he still didn’t quite seem to believe such a creature really existed, “is quite delighted with the whole... um... package.”

A small growl emanated from Heather’s throat. It was a sound she hadn’t known she could make.

“Well, then what is your type?” she snapped.

He sighed as if being horribly put upon. But he wasn’t doing anything other than drinking a beer and sitting there all... all arrogant-like.

“What, am I even too hideous to talk to?”

He turned toward her. “I never said you were hideous. You’re actually quite, ah, cute, I guess.”

“You guess?”

He shrugged.

A bleached-blond happened by, tall, curvy to the point of jiggly, skin a bit leathery from too much time in the sun, though she couldn’t have been much older than Heather.

“How about her? More your type?” Heather asked as the woman passed.

He snorted. “See, I knew you were a racist.”

“What?!”

“Of course, I’d be into blondes with big booties. Where the white women at?” he added in a Stepin Fetchit-accent.

“I am not a racist,” she replied hotly.

“I know how you people are.”

“You people?!”

“See,” he smirked, “now you know how I feel.”

“I’ll let you know, mister, that I’ve dated a black man before.”

She felt herself wince as she said it. Not just because it was a weird thing to say, but also because, well, it wasn’t quite true either. It had been freshman year of high school. Had they even kissed? She wasn’t sure. Happily he didn’t seem too interesting in pursuing that line of discussion.

“Listen...” he held out his hand as if to prompt her.

“Heather?”

“You’re not sure?”

She groaned. “Yes, Heather.”

He stuck out his large hand. “I’m Damon.”

More like Demon, she thought to herself as she they shook.

Twisting everything. Needling her.

“Listen, Heather, it was a pleasure to meet you. You seem like a delightful young woman. But I really need to be running.”

And with that, he stood, took his beer in his hand and walked away. Heather stared at him, mouth agape. What the fuck was that?

Heather downed her margarita and ordered another. She slowly worked her way through her bacon cheeseburger, though it made her feel oddly guilty. That asshole.

She went back over their conversation in her head, wincing at her missteps, inventing snappier comebacks.

Hate to break it you, hotshot, but you’re not my type either. Ugh, instead, she’d told him she’d dated a black man before.

And nice to see that you’re confident enough to drink a light beer.

And by the way, Damon, my husband is twice the man you are, and yes, he is happy with this package.

It sounded sassy in her head. She imagined herself shaking her head and wagging her finger in emphasis as she said it.

She glanced around the pool deck. All the women were in bikinis. None of them were wearing dime store, plastic, neon sunglasses.

She looked down at herself. The package maybe was okay, but how about the wrapping? When was the last time she’d greeted Jeff in anything other than sweatpants? Or done her nails? Or even trimmed her muff?

She couldn’t really blame Damon for not being interested. Not that she wanted him to be interested, because he was an ass. No two ways about it. An ass. Well put-together, yeah. In great shape, sure. But still, an arrogant, pompous ass.

She pulled out her Kindle, but it timed out before she got through a single page. She had to give Damon credit for something else. He had a rare ability to get under her skin.

CHAPTER THREE

The whole time Jeff had been trying to convince her to take a break, her main thought had been about how hard it was going to be to leave the kids. And Jeff. And Jeff alone with the kids. But mainly the kids. They'd miss their mommy. Or at least she hoped they would. She chortled at the realization that she'd be a little disappointed if it wasn't at least a little bit of a fiasco back home. But what she hadn't really thought of was being alone for four days.

She'd pictured some of it. Relaxing on the beach. Sleeping in. But not some of the practicalities. There'd be no one to talk to, to hang out with, worse, no one with whom to eat meals. Heather was feeling self-conscious enough about her clothes and her hair, which she'd been putting into a loose bun so long she wasn't sure she remembered even how to properly blow it out, that she didn't even want to begin to think about what she'd look like eating alone. And room service wasn't an option. Is there anything sadder than seeing that room service cart sitting outside a hotel room door?

When the sun began to set, Heather packed up her Kindle and, a bit unsteady after three margaritas, walked back through the hotel toward her room. She passed a little boutique in the lobby and admired the cute dresses in the window. She hadn't even packed anything decent to wear out to the dinner, just beach clothes, cover-ups, and wraps.

The prices were higher than she'd like. Stores in expensive resorts have never been noted for their sales. Still compared to the price of the rooms, the slinky, little red dress she tried on wasn't outrageous, and it did fit her exquisitely, a fact confirmed by the surprised expression on the saleswoman's face when she exited the changing room. She definitely had a cute little tush, she thought to herself as she looked into the mirror.

If Jeff complained, she'd explain she was a little buzzed when she made the impulse purchase. She didn't need to mention Damon and his jibes at all. As she paid, it suddenly occurred to her that she'd need matching shoes. If she'd thought of it sooner, she might not have gotten the dress. But she'd already been rung up... so... there wasn't much selection. The only pair that would really work was the gold pumps. The heel was higher, and spikier, than she usually wore, but really there wasn't much choice.

Heather felt that weird mix of guilty and giddy that accompanies a big purchase. Especially with the shoes in the mix, she'd splurged on herself. She almost turned back to the store several times, but then she smiled. The whole purpose of this trip was to treat herself. She might even book herself a massage!

She showered and dressed. Her hair was a mess. It was so long since she'd gotten it properly styled – she'd gotten in the habit of Quick Cuts at the mall – that the best she could do was dry it and brush it out. In the process though, she noticed and yanked out a couple of grey hairs. When had those damn things shown up?

Okay, so there is no such thing as a free lunch. She was walking through the lobby trying to decide which restaurant to try. She felt less underdressed, but now she was conscious of being alone. What kind of woman walks around alone in a resort, in high spiky heels and a slinky red dress? A whore. She'd blown a small fortune and progressed from schlub to hooker. Great.

She decided to go for sushi. Jeff wasn't a fan, and after that bacon cheeseburger, she was in the mood for something lighter. She approached the hostess, dreading having to say those saddest of words, "table for one," when she heard a familiar voice.

"Nice dress, but...."

She turned to see Damon, standing behind her. Even in her heels he towered above her. She hadn't quite realized how tall he was. And again, he somehow managed to convey the image of cool, appropriate elegance, in a lovely, tailored dark grey suit, that he'd made casual by pairing it with a thin, black V-neck tee shirt.

"But what?"

He cringed. "Panty lines."

She couldn't help it. Her shoulders slumped of their own accord. She straightened her posture, but it was too late.

"God, you're an ass."

He looked genuinely contrite. "I'm sorry... Heather?"

Why did it seem like a small victory that he'd remembered her name. She nodded.

"That was a mean thing to say," he continued. "Look, let me buy you dinner."

She laughed. "Oh you think I want to spend more time talking to you?"

He shrugged. "We're both eating alone. We don't have to talk if you don't want to."

She hesitated. She didn't want to eat alone. But she also didn't want this jerk buying her dinner. Or maybe she did. It was the least he could do for being such a dick.

"Fine, but I'm ordering the lobster."

He glanced around. "Uh, okay, but not sure raw lobster is really a delicacy...."

She groaned, then laughed. She couldn't get one over on him.

"Can you really see my panty lines?"

He nodded. "I think that dress is meant to be worn with a thong. Or maybe nothing."

She blushed. She had been naked beneath when she tried it on in the store, except then it was sheer enough that her, um, grooming habits, or lack thereof, were visible. That was a detail she didn't plan to share.

When the hostess returned, Damon requested a table for two.

Sitting down across from him, she noticed he now had a large diamond stud in his left ear. It was showy and yet he pulled it off somehow. She tried to imagine Jeff trying to pull off that look, a small shudder passed through her.

"Are you cold?" he asked.

"No, why?"

She was suddenly self-conscious. Oh God, were her nipples poking through her dress? Those little fucking things were always causing trouble. She was the only small chested woman she knew who wore padded bras not for the illusion of boobs, but just to contain her little nubs that hardened to the consistency of pebbles at the drop of a hat. She looked down and he read her concern.

He laughed. A deep, joyous, rumble. "I just saw you shiver."

"I am a little chilly," she replied, crossing her arms.

"How about a little hot sake to warm you up?"

The waiter arrived and Damon ordered a bottle. Then he turned to Heather.

“Omakase?”

“Huh?”

“Chef’s choice. It’s the only way to have sushi.”

“Oh.”

Heather had seen that option on the menu, and dismissed it immediately. At nearly $100 per person, it wasn’t something she’d even considered, even if she knew what it meant. She was thinking more along the lines of a California Roll and maybe a couple of pieces of salmon sushi.

“So?”

“Well, it’s a little pricey –“

“I’m paying.”

Yeah, but did she want him buying her such an expensive meal?

“Well, that’s the thing. I mean –“

He smiled reassuringly. “Don’t worry. I’m not expecting anything in return. I told you, you’re not my type.”

She shook her head. “You are, maybe, the biggest asshole I’ve ever met.”

He placed the order with the waitress and then turned back toward Heather.

“Just ‘maybe’?”

She wondered what he meant by that. By now, she knew that everything Damon said was calculated. He didn’t let her finish her thought.

“So why are you here alone?” he asked.

She breathed a sigh of relief. Finally a question she could answer easily.

“It’s a momcation. You know, the idea that even stay-at-home moms need some annual leave.”

He laughed.

“What?” she asked defensively.

“No, no, it’s a great idea. But the term is weird. Momcation. Mancation. What am I on? A blackcation?”

She smiled as well. “I didn’t coin the term.”

“So what drove you over the edge?”

“Nothing. I mean... okay, well...”

She told him the story. The baby's diaper. The dog. The burning doll smell. All the food on the floor, Ally in the fridge. Jeff finding her sobbing. Except instead of reliving a horrible memory, they were both laughing hysterically at the scene. Heather's cheeks were flushed. She segued into other stories of life with three kids, a dog, two cats, and an overworked husband. Damon was almost crying with laughter. And she was giggling too. Why is it that at the time what now seemed like comedy had seemed like an endless tragedy?

Damon ordered a second bottle of sake. They ate an amazing selection of fish and other dishes, each flavor more intense and unique than the last.

"I am never getting married," he said, summarizing his take from her stories.

"I wouldn't trade it for the world," she replied, though with a twinge of doubt. Truth was, for the last few months she'd been having recurrent fantasies of just chucking it. Running and away, and.... She stopped herself and after a pause redirected the conversation to him, "So what brings you here?"

"Pussy."

"Say what?" she replied, taken aback at the sudden shift in tone.

"Women. Girls. Hos. You know, a good time."

Heather stiffened. "You know... I'm not... This isn't..."

He laughed. "I told you, you're not --"

"--Your type. So why are we having dinner?"

"You don't meet women at dinner. You meet them at the pool or the beach, or later at the club."

"So, you're just killing time with me?"

He shrugged. "Yeah. That's what you're doing too, right? I mean, we're on the same page. There is no attraction here, right?"

"No, of course not, I'm happily married."

"What?"

"I love oxymorons. Jumbo shrimp. Military intelligence. Happily married."

She pounced. "I'm pretty sure I read that in a joke book when I was a kid."

He put up his hands in surrender. "Okay, that was lame."

Still he'd piqued her curiosity. "So really, you go to resorts and, what, just hook up with random women?"

"That's the idea."

"How does that work? I mean, does it work?"

"I really need to explain casual sex to you?"

She blushed. "No, but just seems like it'd be hit or miss, you know."

He shrugged. "Depends how picky you are."

"Well, we know you're picky."

He smiled. "Why, because you're not my type?"

"Exactly."

He shrugged. "I am picky. But it usually works out."

"That's... that's amazing, I guess. I mean, good for you."

"Condescend much?"

"You should talk."

"I don't want to fight. It's been too fun of an evening."

She actually agreed, but she didn't want to let it go. She was actually curious. Damon was a pompous ass, but he was also, she had to admit, a funny, witty, handsome, stylish man, and she wanted an insight into his life.

"I don't want to fight either. I guess I just don't understand the scene. Are there really that many single women here?"

"Oh sure. Any nice resort is going to have its share of bachelorette parties, weddings, girls' weekends, whatever. Then you have the college girls vacationing with their rich parents. And, of course, it isn't just single women."

"Uh oh, you sure you're not hitting on me?"

He looked at her skeptically as if to say, you wish. "I'm talking about married couples. You know what I mean."

"I swear to God, I do not. You come to a resort to have threesomes? Or hook up with married women?"

"I don't. That's not really my scene, but you know the whole fantasy you people have?"

She laughed. "Please enlighten me about what my people fantasize about."

"You know, the whole cuckold, black man thing."

She looked at him wide-eyed. "Huh?"

“Some white men,” he began in a tone one usually reserves for a dim child, “fantasize about seeing their wives have sex with a big, black, man. And I guess I fit the type.”

“So wait,” she asked, confused, “you have sex with married women to please their husbands.”

“I don’t, but it’s a thing.”

“Why don’t you? Are the women hideous or something.”

“No, no. Some are quite hot. It’s just, who wants to be just a fetish fuck? Plus, most of the time, the guy wants to watch, so now you have a pudgy, white guy circling around you, snapping pictures and telling you how to bang his wife. Weird scene.”

“So you’ve done it?”

He shrugged. “Until you try it you can’t know it isn’t your bag.”

“I’m still not sure I believe you.”

He chuckled. “God, woman, go on the Internet and check it out.”

She laughed. “I will.” Then after a moment. “Okay, so ignoring what you don’t do, let’s go back to what you do do.”

“Huh?”

“Or who you do do,” she giggled.

“You’re drunk aren’t you? Look, I’m a good-looking bachelor. I’m just looking for an open-minded young lady to have a little fun in the sun with me. It’s not that weird.”

“So, after dinner, you’re going to, what, just walk up to random women and try to pick them up.”

“More or less. Look, if you’re that interested, come along.”

“Won’t I cramp your style?”

“Naw. Quite the opposite. You’d be perfect to sarge with me.”

“Sarge?”

“Be my wingman.”

“How would that help?”

“Because, instead of a big, scary, black dude walking up to them, it’s now a big, scary black dude and a soccer mom.”

“A soccer mom, eh?” She chuckled. “What would I do?”

“Anything you want except tell them I’m an asshole.”

“You don’t want me to pretend we’re, um, an item.”

He laughed. “An item? No. If you want to tell some woman that we used to be an item and that I was amazing, sure. But otherwise, we’re just friends. Or cousins. Whatever.”

“Cousins?”

“It happens.”

Heather laughed. It was a crazy idea accompanying Damon as he tried to pick up women, but if nothing else it should be fun. And anyway, she wasn’t much in the mood to go back to her room alone... at least not quite yet.

They left the restaurant together, and Heather’s self-consciousness returned. She could see people watching them, a tall, stylish black man and the petite, white woman in a red dress. She wondered if they thought they were a couple. She blushed at the thought that other people thought they were having sex. What if they noticed she was wearing a wedding ring, and him not? Would they assume she was one of those cuckolding wives whose husbands fantasize about it? She smirked. She wasn’t even sure she believed there was such a fantasy. Who really knew how much of the stuff Damon said wasn’t just made up?

She also felt a little self-conscious because of her appearance. Even in her red dress and spiky heels, he was right, she still looked like a soccer mom. Part of it was her hair, though loose and brushed out, it was still a mess, with split ends and no real shape or style. And she’d barely put on any makeup. She hadn’t even brought nail polish!

Relax. Relax. You’re acting like you’re on a date.

She took a deep breath. This wasn’t a date. She wasn’t out to impress anyone. She looked just fine to play the part of Damon’s wingman, whatever that meant.

“Too early to hit the club, so how about we check out the pool lounge for any prospects,” he said.

He gently guided her to the left, his hand lightly touching her lower back. At first, she startled at being touched, but then forced herself to relax. He wasn’t doing anything untoward, just giving her a little nudge.

“And how do you know a prospect when you see one?”

“How do I know a woman I’d like to have sex with if the feeling was mutual? Is that really what you’re asking?”

She laughed. “No. I meant, is there a science to this? Who to approach?”

“Not really. Large groups are difficult. Other than that, I guess you look for someone with whom you might have some chemistry.” He paused. “You act like you’ve never met a man in a bar or a party or something.”

“I haven’t!”

“Really? No hook-ups? No one night stands back in the day?”

“I...” she blushed. Was she really going to discuss her past sex life with this stranger?

“I don’t think that’s an appropriate topic of conversation,” she concluded.

He laughed. “Oh, I see. When it’s my sex life, you’re full of questions. When it’s yours, it’s inappropriate.”

Heather tried to think up a good response, but couldn’t. Happily, he let the matter drop as they approached the bar.

Closed during the day, the Azul Lounge took its name from the blue pool water that bordered the selection of white sofas and standee tables surrounding a raised, back-lit, circular bar.

They’d spent a surprisingly long time at dinner, Heather realized, so even if it was too early for the club, the outdoor lounge was pretty crowded. He led her over toward the bar.

“What’ll you have?” Damon asked.

Heather tried to think back to what she used to drink at bars. “Red Bull and vodka?”

“Not a Jaeger shot?” He laughed. “Let’s make that a cranberry and vodka, college girl. I don’t feel like having to carry you home.”

He ordered a Johnny Walker Black.

“Cheers,” he said, clinking glasses with her.

She took a sip from her straw. “So what now?”

He looked around. Heather did the same. There were a few couples around, but interestingly most of the people there were either with another person of the same sex or part of a mixed group. People who were already paired up apparently had better things to do than hang out at a bar in the later evening.

“Those two are interesting,” he said.

He nodded discretely in the direction of two slender women. One was a leggy, blonde in tight, white pants and a sheer, red top that barely seemed to contain her big boobs, the other a stylish Asian woman in a flowered sundress.

“What makes them interesting? Other than that they’re hot?”

“Isn’t that enough?” he smiled. “They’re standing, looking around, not locked in some intense conversation. Good chance they are waiting on their dates, but maybe not. Plus, girls in white pants are usually DTF.”

“DTF?”

“Down to fuck.”

Heather scrunched up her face in disgust.

“Seriously, you need to get out of the minivan once in a while, Soccer Mom. Anyway, what are we here for?”

“For you to pick up some bimbo dumb enough to give it up on the first night?”

He smiled.

“Don’t you worry about, like, diseases?” she asked.

“Sure. But I get myself tested regularly. Want to see my papers?” He patted his suit pocket. “If a girl’s got her own paper, we’re good to go. Otherwise, I have rubbers.”

“Sounds like you’ve thought of everything.”

He smiled. “Exactly. Now, don’t cockblock me.”

Heather rolled her eyes. “I wouldn’t dream of it.”

“You like the Asian girl’s dress?”

Heather nodded. “Yeah, I love the flowers. Orchids?”

“Good, go ask her about it.”

“Uh, okay.”

Heather had no idea why she suddenly felt so nervous, but she did. It was, she realized, a sensation she hadn’t felt since, what, high school? But she wasn’t even the one looking for a hook-up. She was just helping Damon out, and that, she realized, was the source of her tension. She didn’t want to let him down.

She ambled past the two women, executed what she hoped was a subtle double-take, and then turned.

“Oh, hey, I love that dress.”

“Thanks,” the young Asian woman replied.

“Where did you get it?”

“Believe it or not, in Hawaii.”

Heather wasn't quite sure why she wouldn't believe it, but it gave her an avenue to continue the conversation.

"Oh, you're so lucky, I'd love to go to Hawaii." She turned to the blonde. "I'm Heather, by the way."

"Shelby," the blonde answered coldly. She didn't seem to appreciate the interruption.

"Emily," the Asian woman added when Heather turned back in her direction.

"That's a cute dress too," Emily said.

Heather twirled. "I got it at the store in the lobby!" she gushed as if that were the most amazing revelation in the world. Then she turned back toward Emily. "Do you go to Hawaii often?"

"I have family there," she replied.

Heather felt the two women suddenly look away from her. She turned to see Damon approach.

"Oh hey Damon, this is Shelby, and this is Emily. She got the dress in Hawaii."

Damon nodded. "Pleased to meet you," he said as he shook hands with each of them in turn.

Shelby, in particular, seemed to like what she saw. Heather could feel the two young women regarding her with a newfound interest. Despite her cute red dress, she knew she didn't seem like the sort of woman who'd be dating a guy like Damon, with his distinctive look and flashy clothes and large diamond stud earring. The fact that she was wearing a wedding ring and him not probably also peaked their curiosity.

"What brings you guys down to Cancun?" Shelby asked, obviously looking for a polite way to probe their relationship.

"A wedding," Damon answered smoothly.

"But, we're not, um, together," Heather added awkwardly.

"We're cousins," Damon said.

"Cousins?" Emily asked surprised.

He shrugged. "Guess Grandma had a wild streak."

Shelby giggled. Heather felt a sudden surge of jealousy. The little whore was DTF, with her long legs, and her tight pants, and her blond hair. No matter what Damon said about not being into white women, she couldn't help but picture them together, both of them long and lean, writhing together, limbs intertwined, the powerful contrast between his dark and her pale skin.

Emily snorted. She wasn't buying it. "Where's your husband?" she asked pointedly, nodding at Heather's wedding band.

"He crashed early?" Heather replied.

"Uh huh. Come on, Shel. Remember, we told those cute guys we'd meet them over at the other bar."

Shelby hesitated. Whatever cute guys awaited, she was clearly more interested in Damon. Still, she looked down at Heather, and then over at her friend. She nodded. "See you guys around."

"Enjoy the wedding," Emily added.

They women walked away.

"That was totally not my fault," Heather insisted.

Damon chuckled. "Yeah, I guess we need to retire the cousins line."

Heather laughed. "You think?"

"Okay," Damon said, "what do you think about that one over there?"

They approached two other women. There was a pretty, young black woman from Detroit. Heather made the approach by complimenting her shoes, and things were going well until Jaynee and Damon got into an argument about football. She argued Barry Sanders was the greatest running back ever. He insisted that Adrian Peterson was.

"Even if he does beat his kids," he added.

The other woman walked away.

"Smooth," Heather laughed.

"At least I didn't say O.J."

Then he blew up a promising discussion with a cute, Danish woman, when she, in his opinion, confused Tex-Mex with Mexican cuisine.

"I don't like hooking up with idiots," he explained.

"Just saying, you'll catch more fly with honey than vinegar."

"See, I've never gotten that expression. Who wants to catch flies?"

Heather nodded, amused. "Good point."

He was, she thought, impressively inept with women, but it was fun. Between approaches they sat together nursing their drinks, dishing about the other patrons. He had a quirky, acerbic perspective, and Heather was delighted to not be the target of it, but rather his co-conspirator.

Finally as midnight approached, Damon suggested they go to the dance club.

“That’s where the real action is,” he noted. “This was just a warm up.”

The nightclub in the resort was small, almost cozy. Even though it was open to the public, it was an older crowd, drawn mostly from the resort itself. Still, it had the usual flashing lights, pounding bass line, and hyperactive DJ who overwhelmed the music with his patter, sound effects, and constant transitions from one partially played song to the next.

Damon dragged her out onto the floor. It was the first time she’d been out dancing since her wedding. Literally. Jeff, like most men, didn’t like to dance. Damon was smooth. For a big man, he was impressively graceful. As the small space filled up, they were forced to dance closer. Matching the other couples on the floor, Damon encouraged her into a playful bump and grind.

She felt so naughty dancing up close with this handsome man, her body rubbing up against his, his hands casually touching her hips, her upper arms. It was fun... too fun, Heather suddenly realized. She stiffened and backed away.

“Everything okay?” he asked.

She nodded and forced a smile. “Just really tired all of a sudden.”

“You’re not going to bail on me? You’re my wingman.”

“I’m not bringing you much luck anyway,” she replied. They walked together off the floor.

“That’s true. You’re not very good at this.”

She laughed. “Oh, you should talk!”

He glanced quickly over her shoulder.

“Look, I’m gonna hang out here for a while longer, okay?”

She felt this weird sense of disappointment. Of course he would remain. It’s not like they were on a date. He was still looking to hook up. Anyway, it would have been awkward if he’d left with her and offered to walk her back to her room. Uncomfortable and inappropriate. But he could have offered.

“You’ll make it back to your room okay?”

“Of course,” she replied.

He leaned down and kissed her on the cheek. "I had fun. Thanks for hanging out."

"Yeah, me too." She paused a moment. "I guess I better go."

Before she could change her mind, she turned on her heels and moved toward the exit. Passing the bar, she almost ran headlong into Shelby, the leggy blond they'd met earlier in the evening. The tall woman was glaring at her.

"Done with your cousin?" she hissed in a venomous drunken slur. Her eyes were glassy.

It occurred to Heather that Damon had known she was there. Shelby was hard to miss in her white pants. And she realized suddenly that Damon had been using her to make the other woman jealous. She felt a surge of anger herself.

"Just warming him up for you."

Heather stalked from the club, but she couldn't resist peeking back over her shoulder to see Shelby moving unsteadily over toward Damon, who was welcoming her with open arms. Hey baby, where you been?

She couldn't figure out why she was angry. This is what she'd signed up for. To be Damon's wingman. To help him get laid. Still, it rankled. She felt used. She wasn't sure why. He'd paid for everything, given her a fun evening, and obviously there wasn't going to be anything more.

Back in her room, Heather peeled off her dress. She frowned at the mismatched bra and panties she wore. Shelby, she realized, probably wasn't wearing underwear beneath those white pants. She'd have to ask Damon about that if she saw him tomorrow.

She climbed into bed. Her ears were buzzing from the pounding music of the club and her head was spinning a little from the drinks; she had definitely drunk more than she had in years. At least she wasn't as bombed as Shelby...

Shelby... that drunken whore. Well, Damon may not be looking to attract flies or idiots, but he'd certainly hooked a grade-A bitch. She thought back to her earlier diagnosis of him as an asshole.

"They deserve each other," she mumbled to herself.

She was probably spreading wide for him, that slut. Probably already back in his room, getting hammered by his big, black cock. Oh Damon, baby, fuck me.

They probably did look good together. Heather grudgingly thought as pornographic images of the two of them fucking flashed through her mind. Shelby riding him. Damon taking her from behind. Shelby sucking on his fat prick. Damon pulling her hair, calling her names.

Heather's climax hit like a ton of bricks. She hadn't even realized she was rubbing herself through her panties. Her mental fog lifted. Oh God, did I really just do that? What is wrong with me?

But after a day of travel, sun, drinking, dancing and now an orgasm, she fell fast asleep before she could even begin to think it through.

CHAPTER FOUR

Sleeping on it did nothing to resolve Heather's competing emotions. She couldn't shake the feeling that she'd been used. She knew it didn't make sense, but that didn't change the reality. She was annoyed. Annoyed at Damon. Annoyed at Shelby. Even annoyed at Jeff who'd sent her on this stupid, annoying vacation.

She sprawled out on the king sized bed and looked out the window at the bright, blue sky. Okay, okay, I'm overreacting.

She got up and went into the bathroom. She ran her fingers through a shapeless mass of hair. Is this even a color? Brown. Somehow having kids drained the tint from her hair. She could have sworn her hair had once been amber or cinnamon. Now it was, ugh, just brown. At least she still had nice eyes. Honey colored, though staying up late had left her with some dark bags beneath them.

She called down to the spa. Happily they had a morning appointment so she scheduled a mani-pedi and facial and an appointment with the hair stylist. If she was going to treat herself, she might as well treat herself.

It was weirdly relaxing to lie back, her face coated with a cucumber lotion and slices over her eyes as a pair of women worked on her hands and toes. Relaxing and decadent.

She asked the hair stylist to restore her former color and give her a fresh look. He hacked away at her hair with abandon, cutting it into a layered bob, before applying highlights that restored that reddish-brown shade she'd had in her twenties. She grinned at herself in the mirror. Much better. No one, not even a certain Mr. Smarty Pants, was going to call her a soccer mom today...

...unless she wore that stupid one-piece to the beach. That would have to go as well. Luckily, in addition to a dress shop, there was a beachwear store as well in the hotel.

As she sorted through the swimsuits, it occurred to her that she'd be much better off going into town to shop. How, exactly, can two tiny pieces of fabric cost $180? She finally found one that looked interesting at half that price. Still outrageous, but in comparison, reasonable. It was a deep rust color and, frankly, a little too skimpy, but she decided to try it on.

She looked at herself in the mirror. Yes, definitely too skimpy, and yet.... She didn't need much fabric to cover her small breasts, and she had to admit it did make her tush look pretty amazing. It was a string bikini bottom, basically a tee cut, but with strings giving it a little extra heft, almost a spider-web look to it. Impractical for sure, but very, very cute. She added a matching cover-up and a new pair of sandals.

She stopped by her room to drop off her clothes, grabbed her reader, and then she went out in the gorgeous early afternoon sunshine. She went first to the pool bar, but then she decided not to stop there. She'd eaten there yesterday, and anyway... she was sort of hoping to run into Damon. Even though it made her feel weird, annoyed, and yes, a little jealous, she admitted to herself, she wanted to know what had happened with Shelby.

She strolled toward the beach, a little conscious of the looks she was getting from strangers, but, well, that was the point of the new purchases and makeover, now wasn't it? And then she spotted him, lying in a lounge, looking very fit and peaceful. She beckoned over an attendant and asked him to drag a lounge over toward Damon.

"Mind if I join you?"

Damon looked up to see the attendant lugging the beach chair behind him.

"It doesn't look like I have much of a choice."

"Very funny, wise guy."

Heather took her time settling in. She adjusted the chair, then laid out her towel. She took out her sun block and set it down in the sand beside her. Then she finally removed her cover-up and sat down.

She looked over to see him smiling.

"What?"

"Nice suit."

"Oh this old thing?"

"You have a very nice ass."

She peered at him over her cheap sun glasses. "Don't get any ideas. I'm just your, um, sarge?"

"Oh don't worry. Remember, you're not –"

"Your type. I know," she replied with a sigh.

"Your hair looks good too. Cute nails."

“You need to stop checking me out or I’m going to leave,” she said with a sigh. But she was pleased he’d noticed.

She’d planned to work into it slowly, but her curiosity got the better of her.

“So, did you have fun with Shelby?”

“Jealous?”

She snorted. Yes! “Oh, please.”

He smirked at her over his glasses. Busted. He dragged it out, enjoying her obvious interest in the matter.

“Actually, nothing happened.”

Heather couldn’t contain her pleasure. She masked it with a gibe: “Couldn’t close the deal, huh?”

“I always close the deal... if I want to.”

“And you didn’t. She wasn’t your type either?” Heather asked skeptically.

“Oh, she was my type, alright. But missed the timing. Not drunk enough earlier in the evening, too drunk later.”

“I wouldn’t have thought that would stop you.”

“You ever have a girl throw up on your dick?”

Heather rolled her eyes. “Yeah, girls throw up on my dick all the time.”

“So you know it’s not any fun.”

Heather laughed. “You really didn’t screw her?”

“Nope. I’m still as backed up as when I first got off the plane.”

“You know, you can handle that yourself.”

“Some friend you are. You could at least offer me a handy.”

Heather had a fleeting thought of her slender, pale hand sliding up and down his thick, hard shaft. “I’m sure you have plenty of practice.”

She braced herself for a comeback that didn’t come. Instead, he just smiled and looked back out at the sea.

“So what do you do? You’ve never told me,” she asked, changing the subject.

“I’m an architect. I design custom homes for rich twits with more dollars than sense.” She laughed. “And you?”

“Oh, I’m a soccer mom. You pegged me right away.”

“That was before I saw you in that bikini.”

Heather flushed. “Yeah? And what would you peg me as now?”

He grinned. "A soccer mom with a nice ass."

She gave him a quick swat, but she couldn't help but also think about her purchase. Money well spent.

The day passed quickly, too quickly. Heather didn't get any of her book read. She was too busy bantering and laughing with Damon. They swam together. Her suit proved as impractical as she'd suspected, and she was pleased she'd thought to trim her patch in the shower that morning. In truth, it would have been better had she been completely shaved, but she knew she'd never be able to explain that to Jeff when she returned home.

Back on their loungers, he offered to help her reapply her sunscreen. She blushingly accepted. He was thoroughly decent about it, not a stray finger or lingering touch, and yet she had to admit that feeling his large, strong hands on her back had been thrilling. She felt a bit sorry for Shelby. That dumb little slut had surely missed out on a good time.

Heather tried to banish that inappropriate thought from her mind. Although, why was it inappropriate? She wasn't thinking about having sex with Damon herself... and anyway he wasn't interested in her... not that that mattered... just an idle thought about Shelby.

When the afternoon was coming to a close, Damon began packing up his stuff. "So, Soccer Mom, you gonna sarge for me again tonight? You owe me."

"How do I owe you?"

"I didn't get laid, did I?"

She knew she should decline. She was spending altogether too much time with this man. But then she thought about eating alone or the room service cart by her door.

"Okay, but if I'm going to invest the time, you better up your game. I'm tired of seeing you crash and burn."

He laughed. "Just do your part, wingman."

They made plans to meet at the lobby bar at 7:30. Heather looked at her watch. Shit. It was already 6:00, and she didn't have a thing to wear.

CHAPTER FIVE

Jeff was surely going to freak out at the Visa bill. If she'd had her phone, she'd have given him a heads up... or maybe not. It was hard to explain what was going on even to herself. But the simple fact was, she was going out to dinner, and she needed something appropriate to wear, and it just wasn't an option to wear that lovely red dress two nights in a row.

This time she chose a little black number. It was easier to justify this purchase, despite the exorbitant price tag. Every woman needs one. Less clingy than the red dress, it was still very sexy, gauzy, layered, breezy. She wasn't going to take a risk with panty lines tonight. No need for anything too special, so she picked out a simple black thong. She didn't really need a bra, not with her small boobies. Gold shoes wouldn't work, so she picked up a new pair: black, open toed, ankle strap heels that nicely showed off her pedicure.

Halfway back to her room, she remembered she'd forgotten to pick up some makeup. She had some nice color on her cheeks from the sun already, so a little mascara, eyeliner, and lipstick and she'd be good to go.

It was actually a tight fit getting back to the lounge on time. She liked the idea of being fashionably late, making him wait a little, but then she worried that if she was too delayed, he'd just leave without her. She had a strange, fluttery sensation in her stomach. It was a little like she was going on a date rather than meeting up with a friend. But that's all it was... wasn't it?

He smiled when she arrived, but then tapped at his expensive watch in mock annoyance. She batted her eyelashes.

"This sort of perfection takes time to achieve." She gave him a quick twirl.

"You do look good," he admitted.

"Wouldn't peg me as a soccer mom anymore?"

He nodded pensively. "I think you've graduated to librarian... or maybe an accountant."

She stuck out her tongue at him and sat down beside him at the bar. She ordered a glass of wine and took a sip when it arrived.

"So any prospects here?" she asked.

She watched him as he spun around on his stool and surveyed the room. He'd dressed down tonight, no suit. Instead he was wearing a pair of lightweight linen pants and a gorgeous black and tan silk print shirt. Even casual, he projected a kind of unforced, confident elegance. And, of course, it helped that he had a great body. Even wearing nothing, he'd....

She stopped herself. Dangerous territory. Suffice it to say, some girl in the resort had a chance to get very lucky tonight.

"Not really," he replied with a shrug.

Heather was a little surprised. Her own scan of the room suggested at least a couple of women worthy of an approach. She wondered if maybe he was hoping to run into Shelby later and pick up where they left off. The prospect of an evening with that leggy blond was surely enough to make a man extra picky in approaching other women. The idea of it, she recalled, had been enough to get her going too, alone in her room.

"You okay?" he asked.

"Yeah, why?"

"You're just grinning like an idiot. I figured maybe you'd let me in on the joke."

"Well, you see Damon, when people are happy, they smile." He nodded along, wide-eyed at her didactic tone. "There isn't always a joke."

"So it makes you happy to be with me?"

"Yes, Damon, the entire world revolves around you. Just like every single woman in this resort is here to serve as your potential sexual partners."

"Not just the single ones," he smirked.

"You wish."

He chuckled. "What makes you think I was talking about you?"

She shook her head. He really was impossible.

"So where are you taking me to dinner?"

"I owe you another dinner?" he asked with mock incredulity.

"My time is very valuable. A quality wingman like me doesn't come cheap."

He laughed. "Okay, but I better get laid tonight."

Heather laughed along, but she couldn't ignore the flutter in her stomach caused by his words. She remembered the dangerous rush she felt with him out on the dance floor. Her jealousy at the thought of him and Shelby. She knew she was getting too close. They were comfortable with each other now, too comfortable. Something could easily happen. She was tempted to break, run, but she didn't want to. She wanted to stay with him, even despite the risk... maybe even because of it?

"I'm not a miracle worker," she replied. A good comeback albeit delivered a millisecond too late to be really effective.

He smiled. "Okay, so last night you said something about lobster?"

Alta Mar was the most expensive restaurant in the resort. Damon didn't seem to mind. They sat across from each other on the sheltered terrace overlooking the ocean. A salty breeze blew in from the water, keeping the table candles dancing, a citrusy chardonnay played off against the beurre blanc of the lobster perfectly.

They talked about the resort and dinner. About past vacations and places they'd each wanted to visit. They ordered a second bottle just to sip instead of dessert.

"This is amazing," she gushed.

"The view or the company?" he asked flirtatious.

"I was talking about the food actually, but all three are pretty neat."

"I think you like me," he singsonged.

She laughed. "I do. In a completely appropriate, married woman dining with a single man on vacation kind of way."

"What's your husband like?"

Heather thought about it. Kind. Attentive. Smart. He'd been handsome as a younger man, was now becoming more teddy bear cute as he got older. Steady. Reliable. A little boring. A good man.

"I don't really want to talk about him... or my family, okay?"

Damon nodded. "So tell me about life before the husband and kids."

"Oh jeez, that was a long time ago. I married young. Right out of college."

"I bet you were a spitfire back in school."

She laughed. "Oh please, I was always a good girl."

"Yeah, you said that before. You've really never had a one-night stand?"

She shook her head. "Nope. You know what's more? I've only even been with three men in my life."

“Plus your husband or including?”

“Including.”

He let out a low whistle as if such a thing was inconceivable.

Another chuckle.

“You won’t believe this either,” she continued. “But I’ve only ever had sex a dozen times or so with anyone other than my husband.”

“Wow.”

“Yeah, I was still in college when we met. That’s probably a good week for you, eh?”

“A good weekend even,” he smirked.

There was a lull in the conversation. Damon was smiling at her confidently. Heather was feeling increasingly awkward. Talking about sex made it harder to deny her attraction, more painful to think of the dinner ending with them seeking out Shelby or some other slut for him to fuck. She knew it would only get harder though.

“So,” she began as she finished off her wine, “guess it’s time for us to get to work getting you laid, huh?”

“I like you. You always have my interests at heart.”

He paid the bill and they left the restaurant, his hand resting easily on her lower back as they walked out in the breezy evening. Heather gazed longingly out at the beach. Walking in the surf at night was one of her very favorite things, but like eating by oneself, doing it alone reeked of sadness. He seemed to read her mind.

“Want to walk on the sand?”

“I... Sure.”

They walked up the path toward the water. Heather’s heels awkward on the rough surface. She stumbled. He caught her, his strong hand on her hip to keep her from falling.

“Falling down drunk,” he joked.

“Well, at least I know that means you won’t put the moves on me.”

“No, no, falling down is okay, imminent puking not so much.”

He released her hip, but held her hand to steady her as they walked. Even after she kicked off her shoes before stepping onto the sand, they remained hand in hand. She felt that flutter in her stomach return. Heather didn’t have a lot of experience with men, but she knew this was more than just two new friends walking together on the beach. The sand, the surf, the moonlight, holding hands. Somehow this had turned into a date.

She was a married woman. Nothing would happen. Nothing could happen. Yet she was already crossing lines. Had been crossing them for two days now. Buying clothes to impress him. Letting him buy her expensive dinners. The talking, confiding in each other. Now holding hands. It was flirting, all flirting.

So what? There is nothing inevitably wrong about a married woman flirting with a handsome man. A little flirting never hurt anyone. She hadn't led him on, never hinted that anything more than friendship was on the table. And nothing was going to happen. Well, nothing more than a little hand holding, no matter how tempting it was.

And, God, it was tempting. He was tempting. Handsome, ripped, funny and sarcastic. So different from Jeff. Jeff was nice. Sweet. But then again, Damon wasn't the kind of man you marry. He was a fling, and not a safe fling, but a dangerous one. He exuded a raw sexuality. She knew, just knew, he'd be good in bed.

They'd been walking in silence for a while now, a silence that bespoke a connection, an understanding. A shooting star streaked across the sky, disappearing as it approached the horizon.

"Did you see that?" he asked.

"Yeah." A sign from the heavens? Permission to indulge her desire? No, it was just a rock falling from the sky.

"What did you wish for?" he asked.

"You first."

"Don't be angry, okay?"

I was wishing I had Shelby's long legs wrapped around my waist rather than holding hands with you, Soccer Mom.

She braced herself and nodded.

"I was sort of hoping you weren't married."

She sighed. She'd wished the same thing. Not permanently, but just for the duration of the trip.

"Don't say that," she replied.

He turned to face her, taking her other hand in his as well. She squirmed awkwardly, but didn't try to shake his grip.

"It's true."

"What about Shelby?"

He looked puzzled. "What about her?"

"You'd rather be with her."

“I would?”

“The blond hair, the long legs, the big tits....”

“The fake laugh, the drunken slurring, the mean girl attitude...”

“She might fuck you.” And I won't.

“Sex isn't everything.”

Heather chuckled. “I thought that was the whole purpose of the trip for you.”

“It was,” he acknowledged. “But I'm allowed to change my mind. And right now, I'd rather spend time with you, even if we don't have sex.”

“But you'd like to have sex with me?”

She knew it was a needy question. She thought she knew the answer, but she had trouble believing it. He was so desirable and she was so... plain.

He chuckled, but then noticed the expression on her face. “You're serious?”

She nodded.

“Yeah, Soccer Mom, I'd like to have sex with you.” She regarded him skeptically still. “You're hot, cool, fun to be with.”

She blushed. Hot? Cool? She'd never been the hot, cool chick. She'd always been the cute, nice girl.

He continued, “I know you can't do that. It's okay. I respect you for it because I think you're feeling the same thing I am.”

She nodded. It felt weird to make the admission, even non-verbally, yet it was also a relief. It was now out in the open. They both wanted to have sex, but it couldn't happen, and they both understood it.

“But, I would like to kiss you.”

Heather sighed. No, we can't do that. But the words didn't come out. Instead, she just stared into his eyes. She wanted this so much, so much. And then he was leaning forward. She should be shaking her head, pulling away, but instead, she felt her chin rise to meet him. She closed her eyes and then she felt his surprisingly soft lips kiss hers, gently, tenderly. Just for a moment or two. A small, tentative kiss, but enough that when he pulled away she missed him, wanted more.

“That was nice,” she breathed.

He smiled. “We don't have to have sex to enjoy each other's company.”

She shivered. It was getting cooler and she wasn't really dressed for the evening chill. He sensed that and pulled her close, wrapping his arm around her waist, resting his hand on her hip, as he turned them back toward the resort.

"Let's head back."

She nodded. Her mind was racing, but she found she couldn't speak. After a few minutes, he stopped her, and gave her another quick kiss. Her heart raced. They continued down the beach.

Kissing was okay, she decided. Well, not okay, but it wasn't sex. It wasn't cheating. It was, a grey area, still on the flirting side of the line. But God, where exactly was the line? And what was the line even? The line between flirting and cheating? Between understandable and outrageous? Between forgivable and unforgivable? Between right and wrong? So many lines, so many subtle shades of grey. Still, there were red lines, and she knew it.

"What are we doing?" she asked.

"Walking on the beach? Man, you really are drunk."

She elbowed him lightly in the ribs. "You know what I mean, idiot."

He chuckled. "A couple of little kisses and you get all feisty, huh?"

She blushed, but also realized how much she enjoyed the kidding.

"Seriously, Damon. I don't want to lead you on. There are things I can't do." She wasn't sure exactly what those things were, but....

"How about a cuddle date?"

"A cuddle date?"

"I'd have thought you'd have that in your playbook, a good girl like you."

She knew he meant it kindly, but it still got to her. She didn't want to be demoted back to good girl. She liked it when he called her hot and cool.

"It's a date," he explained, "where you agree not to have sex. Just to, you know, cuddle."

She chuckled. "Sounds like something invented by a woman."

"Yeah, and I admit, for the most part, guys agree to it because they're hoping it'll lead to more. But I'll tell you a secret. Guys enjoy a nice cuddle too."

Which is of course what a guy who was hoping for more would say. And yet, the idea was tempting.

“So, where... how?”

“We can sit on the beach, but that’s sandy. We can find a bench, but those are hard. We could lie in bed –“

“Bed, huh?”

“...fall asleep in each other’s arms.”

The thought made her feel warm and fuzzy. Her body pressed against his, kissing gently, talking, until they both fell asleep.

“We keep our clothes on?”

He shrugged. “Clothes on or off, under the cover or above. No rules. Just what feels comfortable.”

“Clothes on, above the covers?” she proposed.

Another few lines crossed, but no major ones. Not one she couldn’t live with, nor ones that Jeff would find unforgivable.

He smiled. “My place or yours?”

“Mine.”

They lay close, face-to-face, his hand on her hip, hers on his shoulder. He gently caressed her hip, the small of her back. She let her fingers play over his muscular arm, touching his cheek as they kissed. And the kisses. So gentle, so tentative. Soft lips coming together, just a tiny tease of tongue, but always controlled, restrained.

“Tell me about your husband,” he said as they broke another embrace.

“Damon, no. It’s not....”

“I want to understand you. Why are you here?”

Here. What did that mean? At the resort? Or in bed... or on bed with another man?

“How guilty should I feel about being here with you?” he explained.

She chuckled. “Very.”

She paused. How much did she want to tell?

“He’s my life, you know?”

Damon nodded, but she could see a lack of comprehension in his eyes. I don’t know, he was expressing wordlessly.

“We’ve been together since I was, jeez, twenty. I’ve never been serious about another man. He was always what I knew I wanted.” She hesitated. “What I guess I thought I wanted. A guy who’d love me, maybe put me up on a pedestal, nice, kind, reliable.”

“But?” he prompted.

She shook her head. “No buts. Look, yeah, there are times when the kids make me nuts. When I feel like nothing will ever change. When all I want to do is run away and hide under the covers of my bed. But, it is what I want. What I never want to lose. I don’t expect you to understand that, but Jeff is the man I want to grow old with.”

“I get it. I do. But...”

She smiled, inviting him to continue.

He leaned forward and gave her a quick kiss.

“But, what about the passion, the excitement...” he proposed.

“The drama, the tears...” she countered.

“The thrill of surprise, novelty...”

She kissed him, and then added: “Loneliness, desperation...”

He nodded his head. “You’ve been reading my journal.”

“You keep a diary?”

He laughed. “It’s a journal, Soccer Mom. And yes, black people keep journals sometimes too.”

She didn’t bite. She knew now he was just kidding.

“So why do it?”

“I guess I didn’t find my Jeff.”

Heather laughed. “He’s mine! Keep your hands off him.”

He leaned in and kissed her again. “Deal.”

“No, but seriously, Damon. How is it that no woman has snapped you up?”

He shrugged. “There have been some women –“

She snorted. “Some? Seriously, are you that hard to please? Or what, you have a third eye growing out of your back?”

“I don’t know. Shit didn’t work out. I don’t know. Maybe I was too immature in my twenties, and now it’s like women are too desperate. Give them a smile, and they want to know your views on marriage and kids. It’s... oppressive.”

“I bet you’d make a great dad.”

“I would,” he replied with surprising earnestness. “I’m not sure I’ll ever get the chance though.”

It was a conversation stopper. Even Damon seemed to be thinking about what he'd said.

"Are you regretting it yet?" she asked

He looked puzzled.

"Spending time with me talking about heavy shit instead of being in bed with Shelby mashing her big tits?"

"You have nicer breasts than she does."

Heather laughed. "Oh please. Damon? I wear an A-cup. It's not even a cup. It's a triangle of fabric designed to make women like me feel good, so we can wear a bra even though we don't need one."

"Size doesn't matter."

She giggled. "I'm supposed to say that!"

He chuckled.

"Anyway," she continued, "you don't need to spare my feelings. I had big boobs, when I was pregnant. Three times! Jeff loved them. I thought they were a hassle, but whatever. They aren't coming back unless someone knocks me up."

She blushed.

"Another reason not to knock you up, then, because I swear, I think you have beautiful breasts."

"How would you know?"

"Call it informed speculation."

"I call it bullshit."

"Fine, show me."

She rolled her eyes. "Ah, there it goes."

He leaned forward and kissed her. He smiled. His eyes twinkled.

"Show me."

Another line. A small one, though. They were in bed, kissing. Would it be that bad to give him a quick peek?

"You want to see my boobs?"

He nodded eagerly.

"You'll see. They're tiny."

She sat up and reached behind her to loosen the knot holding her dress in place, then slowly, she let the fabric slide through her fingers so that the cloth fell from her chest.

His eyes went wide. He licked his lips.

"Gorgeous."

She began to cover herself back up. He reached out and took her hand.

“Please?”

She hesitated and then nodded, settling back down on the bed, her breasts exposed to him. God, it was thrilling to be like that, half-naked, Damon obviously enchanted.

“You really like them?”

She looked down at her chest. Flat. Barely a hint of curves. And then she noticed her nipples, hard, dark red, crowning her pale, pink areolas. She’d always thought they were sexy, was always surprised at how men seemed instead to be interested in just the mounds themselves.

“Can I touch them?” he asked.

She couldn’t. She shouldn’t. And yet, after taking a deep breath, she replied dry mouthed.

“Yes.”

He reached out, and as gently as he’d kissed her, he touched her nipples with just his fingertips and the pad of his thumb. He didn’t squeeze and he didn’t pinch. He examined her like a blind man reading a book in Braille, wanting to experience her every bump and ridge. He nipples burned, screamed at his touch, so tender, so gentle, and yet so exciting.

He noted her shallow, irregular breathes.

“They’re exquisite,” he sighed. “Has any man ever made you come just from touching them?”

“No,” she groaned.

She’d been close many times, but Jeff had never seemed to notice. Her growing excitement had always prompted him to transition to what he wanted, to enter her. And it was, she admitted, a surer path to satisfaction for them both. Her breasts could go from sensitive to tender in an instant, his touch from delicious to painful in moments. Jeff had learned not to go too far, and yet she’d always known that somehow, if he’d been willing to ride on that rail a little longer, walk the tightrope, there was a pot of gold out there that they’d never tapped.

He leaned in and kissed her on the mouth. His fingers were still teasing her erect nubs, and now the kiss was longer, lingering, more forceful.

“You need to tell me when to stop,” he reminded her as he broke the embrace.

“Please, don't stop,” she sighed.

He licked his fingers and returned them to her nipples, his damp fingertips slipping over her engorged little raspberries. He alternated, treating one gently with soft caresses with the pad of this thumb while he pinched on the other, feeling it harden like a pencil eraser, then switching to soothe the nipple he'd just been tormenting while tweaking the other.

Heather gasped. Oh God that was good. She craned her neck, her lips seeking his. They met, but those soft, little butterfly kisses weren't enough, not now, not with her nipples on fire, not with the way each tweak sent a shiver down her spine and caused her pussy to quiver. She kissed him hard, her tongue snaking out, pressing into his mouth. He resisted a moment, letting her play the aggressor, and then he returned the embrace, deep, passionate, wet.

“Oww!” she hissed.

He pulled back startled. He'd fallen off the tightrope, the delicious ache in her breasts turning to pain. But he'd gotten close. Very close.

“I'm sorry.”

“It's okay,” she grinned. Then a wicked thought. “Kiss, make better?”

He looked like a kid in a candy store. “Yeah?”

She nodded. Heather arched her back, presenting her chest to him. He leaned forward and gently sucked one nipple and then the other into his mouth, encircling each with his tongue, bathing her areolas in the moist heat of his mouth. She sighed, she moaned, she caressed his shaved head with her fingertips, traced his ears, squeezed the powerful muscles of his back and shoulders.

After several minutes he straightened back up. They kissed again. Not with the passion of when he was playing with her tits, but more than just the tentative kisses of earlier. Longer wetter, little teases of tongue.

“All better?” he asked.

She grinned. “Mmmm. You really like them?”

“Man, you do like compliments. Yeah, I do. They're beautiful, and they're not too small. Anything more than a mouthful is wasted.”

He was talking about her breasts, but her mind flashed to his prick. Taking it in her mouth. No, definitely across the line. She couldn't suck his cock.

“I want to see your chest,” she said instead.

“Seems only fair,” he replied.

He sat up and removed his shirt. She’d seen him topless on the beach, so she knew how nice a body he had. Still, it was different to see it and to be inches away, able to feel and touch. She caressed him. He was like a Greek God. She palmed his powerful pecs, felt them twitch and contact at her touch. She traced the outline of his six-pack. His pants were riding low, and she could see the triangle of abs, tempting her to explore lower.

And she could see the outline of his prick, big and hard, angled across the front of his pants. She felt an urge to reach out, to touch it, to trace its bulk. Not just an urge, an impulse, almost irresistible. But she had to resist that.

Instead she kissed him again, harder this time, her hands cupping his head, holding him close. She sucked on his tongue, but in her imagination she was sucking on his prick. Too much, too much. But maybe, she could touch it. God, was she really thinking of giving him a handjob? The idea suddenly seemed so, so sexy. Stroking his thick, hard cock. Making him moan and sigh. Was jerking off another man a forgivable offense? Was letting another man suck on her tits?

She shivered and broke the embrace. She felt her eyes burning. A tear ran down her cheek.

“Are you okay?” He leaned in and gently kissed away the tear.

She smiled. Another tear dripping from her eye.

He laughed. “Oh, good, we’re now in crazy broad, crying and smiling at the same time, territory.”

She laughed, sniffled, wiped her eyes.

“Could you forgive your wife what I’m doing?”

“I don’t know,” he replied honestly. “It depends on what’s in your heart.”

“What does that mean?”

“You don’t want to cheat on your husband. You don’t want to betray him.”

She nodded.

“And so, it speaks to why you’re here. Is it because you’re angry with him? Spiteful? Vengeful? Dissatisfied?”

She shook her head at each word. No. No. No. No!

“Is he even in the room with us?” he concluded.

She got it. He didn't mean literally, of course. But he was right. This wasn't about Jeff. Not about his qualities or his limitation. Not about his strengths or his weaknesses. She wasn't doing anything to him. Not denying him anything. Not punishing him. Not teaching him a lesson. Not even filling a gap he couldn't fill. It had nothing to with Jeff. She was just here, alone with Damon, experiencing a particular moment in time.

"No, he's not," she replied.

"So it's just us. And the question is, what do you want?"

"I know what I want," she replied. Her throaty tone left no doubt what that was. "But you didn't answer my question."

He looked at her thoughtfully. "I don't know. I've never had what you two have.... But, I'd like to think that if there was a woman whom I loved and trusted and wanted to grow old with, I could forgive her almost anything."

"Very convenient," she replied.

"It is," he admitted. "Do you want me to leave?"

She paused. Yes, of course. Go away, you infuriating, delicious, dangerous, tempting man. She shook her head. "No. But would you like to cuddle naked?"

"Yeah. But first... I need to pee."

CHAPTER SIX

They each took a turn to freshen up, Damon first, so he was beneath the sheets when Heather returned from the bathroom. The lights were low. Heather had stripped in the bathroom and wrapped herself in a towel. She couldn't bring herself to walk through the room to him naked. She dropped the towel and hastily ducked beneath the covers.

They pressed together, only maintaining a slight, respectful distance at the crotch. They kissed. She caressed his powerful arms, he cautiously resumed fondling her breasts.

Heather found the excitement of being so close to Damon's naked body intoxicating. None of the three men she'd been with had anywhere near his physique. Even younger Jeff hadn't been a hard body. Terry had been just a kid, nineteen and skinny. Even Jako, a football player and offensive lineman, had been big rather than ripped.

She draped her leg over his, and he began to massage the outside of her thigh. Higher, higher he went, caressing her hip, and then finally reaching around to knead her firm ass. His fingers lightly trailing across the top of her crack, he explored up her spine. She shivered in delight, kissing him harder now.

She could feel it now between them. He was respectful, trying to keep his distance down there, but chest to chest with her leg over him, kissing passionately there was no way to avoid at least some contact. Truth is, she didn't want to avoid contact. In fact, what Heather wanted most of all right now was to reach down and take a hold of his manhood, to feel his girth and hardness in her palm.

Her hand slid down between them, tracing the line between his pecs, then his belly button, his abs, down lower until her fingers found his trimmed, curly hair. She reached out and closed her fist around him.

"Are you kidding me?" she asked.

"What?"

"Is that why you're such a cocky bastard?"

His cock was, well, magnificent. Long, thick, hard, warm, smooth.

"It doesn't hurt."

"How big is it?"

“I’ve never —“

She laughed. “Come on.”

“Ten inches. More or less. Depending on how turned on I am.”

“I thought we weren’t having sex?”

“Sure you could. You had three kids, didn’t you?”

“Yeah, with an epidural and a surgical scissor to open me up.”

“Eww.”

She giggled. “You started it. Anyway, good lesson. If you’re trying to convince a woman to take something into her vagina, don’t bring up things that have come out of it.”

“I’m not trying to talk you into anything. I just want my cuddle date. You’re the one who suggested we get naked.”

He smirked. His hand was again on her ass, squeezing it firmly. She stroked him up and down. She thought he might be uncircumcised. She’d never been with a man who still had his foreskin, so she wasn’t completely sure, but he felt different from Jeff, and it wasn’t just the size. The head of his cock was large and spongy. She didn’t know if she could take all of him, but she thought the tip of his cock would feel delicious against her clit.

“I can’t believe I’m really doing this,” she said.

There was no longer any point in denying it.

“We don’t have to,” he said seriously.

She kissed him again. “I want to.”

Heather edged closer to him and angled his prick between her legs. She touched the head of his cock to her pussy, letting the head and shaft slide back and forth against her labia.

“You’re so wet, Soccer Mom.”

She blushed, but it was true, and she was getting still more excited feeling his hardness at the entrance to her pussy, slipping back and forth between her lips, teasing her swollen clit. She knew that wasn’t going to be enough. She wanted more. She wanted to feel him inside her, to make love to this gorgeous hunk of a man. Still, it was frightening. She’d never had a man like him, never experienced a cock as large as his.

“Will you be gentle with me? Take your time?”

He nodded.

Eyes locked, she ran the head of his cock up and down her slit. Again. And again. And then with a sigh, she took him inside her. It was just the tip. Just the crown of his prick and maybe a third of his shaft, but she was already stunned at the sensation of being stretched, filled.

“Oh God, you’re big.”

“You’ll get used to it.”

She swallowed deeply and nodded. They kissed again. Wetly, deeply. He began moving inside her, just a little. She kept a firm grip on his shaft with her hand to prevent him from going too deep. A small thrust. She gasped. He caressed her cheek and then moved his hand between them, returning his attention to her painfully hard and tender nipples. This time he perfectly navigated the knife’s edge, handling her breasts skillfully, sending jolts of pleasure through her body that combined with the unbelievable sensation of his huge cock now slowly churning deeper into her pussy.

Her breath caught and she shuddered suddenly. She squeezed him tightly as her climax washed over her. So unbelievably delicious. A perfect, frozen moment.

A tear ran down her cheek, but she was smiling at both the intensity of it and the tenderness.

“You’re beautiful when you come,” he beamed.

She blushed at the compliment.

Normally such a powerful orgasm would have left her sleepy and satisfied, but this time it just whetted her appetite for more, so she was disappointed when he pulled out.

“Did you?”

He shook his head. “Roll over.”

She turned so she was facing away from him. She felt him press up close, spooning her. His large powerful hand spread over her belly, he entered her again from behind, instantly penetrating much deeper than he had before.

“Oh God,” she gasped.

He began fucking her with long, deep, slow strokes, pulling almost all the way out before penetrating her again with firm, measured thrusts.

“Do you like it?” he asked.

“Oh God, you have no idea,” she responded passionately.

“Tell me.”

She struggled to put it into words.

“I’ve never been so full. It just feels like, you’re everywhere inside of me. Like I’m going to burst. And God, you’re so hard. Like a metal rod. But also smooth and malleable. I can feel every inch of you when you pull out and when you thrust back in.”

He began to caress her, one hand moving up to cup her breasts, the other massaging her upper back, her nape.

“And your hands. So strong and so tender. I love the way your fingers brush against my nipples.”

He began thrusting in harder. Still slow, deliberate withdrawals, but now he plunged back into her forcefully.

“And now?”

“It takes my breath away,” she gasped.

And it did. Each of his hard thrust stopping her breath in progress, forcing her to exhale, as if there were not enough room in her for both breath and his cock. She knew what he was doing, gradually acclimating her to his size and power, to being fucked harder than she was used to.

With a hand on her back, he reached up and wound his fingers into her hair. He closed them suddenly into a fist, yanking back on her head, pulling her chin away from her chest, baring her throat. She stiffened and whined, but two more quick thrusts brought her around. She relaxed and accepted his grip. His other hand slipped further upward, now closing lightly on her throat.

He could crush my windpipe if he wanted to. But that dark thought didn’t bring her fear. Instead it brought clarity. She was completely in his power... and she liked it.

He fucked her harder, harder. Heather gasped at each potent thrust. No Jeff, no kids, no dog. No diapers, no cooking, no laundry. Her entire consciousness was focused on just one thing: Damon’s huge prick plunging into her again and again and again.

He released her throat and moved his hands over her belly. He pressed two fingers lower, between her labia, finding her clit. She bucked against him, groaning. He thrust into her still harder, his finger making tight, hard circles against her sensitive, swollen nub.

Oh God, it was too much, too much. She tried to pull away, but he just tightened the grip on her hair, pressed down on her belly to keep her in place. She wanted to scream, but her throat was too tight. All that came out was a raspy squeak.

Harder, deeper, her clit so inflamed that it was almost painful. And then, white light, euphoria, an explosion of heat, relief.

She was shaking violently, and when she stopped, she realized he'd released her hair, was fucking her slowly, tenderly again, kissing the bare skin of her shoulder. Skin that felt hot and prickly. Tears flowed freely down her cheek. She twisted her neck and they kissed, an awkward, but passionate, over-the-shoulder kiss, seasoned by her salty tears.

"Oh Damon," she gushed.

He smiled and slowly withdrew his cock. She groaned at the empty feeling that followed, but felt giddy as he spun her back around and pulled her into a tight embrace. They kissed again, alternating between deep, soul kisses, and gentle butterfly pecks. The heat inside seemed to burst to the surface, and Heather realized, embarrassed, that she was soaked with sweat, but he didn't seem to mind, indeed he seemed to relish the sensation of her damp, overheated body against his.

"That was amazing."

He smiled. "We're not done yet."

"You didn't?"

"Not yet."

She reached down between them and found his hard cock, damp and sticky from being inside her.

"Should I?" she asked, glancing down.

In fact, the idea filled her with anxiety. It wasn't just that she'd never taken a man into her mouth after he'd been inside her, but she also wasn't sure she could handle him.

"I'd rather continue playing with this," he replied. His hand sliding between her legs from behind, his finger finding her wet gash.

A different anxiety now. Her pussy was still throbbing from the pounding he'd given her already.

"I'm a little sore."

"We can take care of that."

He rolled her firmly onto her back, again taking charge. Then kneeling between her legs, he pressed her thighs back against her chest. She was completely open and exposed. No man had ever seen her this way. Oh God, he could see everything. In that position, even her ass was on display. She flushed and looked away.

He chuckled. "You have a pretty pussy."

She blushed an even deeper red. She felt his thumbs on either side of her slit, pulling her open. He could see inside her now, she thought as another surge of shame washed over her.

He lowered his face to her exposed mound. She should have shaved. Another source of self-consciousness. But he didn't seem to mind. He began licking around her sensitive lips, eliciting a moan. He took his time, gently bathing her swollen snatch with his tongue. Around and around, and then a quick flick at her clit. She shuddered and realized with still more embarrassment that her hands were on the back of his shaved head, urging him on.

As nice as it felt, what was even hotter was the fact that he was doing it at all. Not only had she never blown a man after he'd been inside her, no man had ever gone down on her after fucking her. True he hadn't come inside her yet, but he was leaking precum, and her pussy was soaked and swollen.

His oral attention didn't really reduce her soreness, but it did reignite her excitement. Although his strong hands on her hamstrings kept her largely in place, her body squirmed beneath him.

"Oh God, Damon, oh God."

He looked up at her, his face glistening with her juices. He smiled.

"You ready for more?"

She gave him a small, quick nod.

He lowered his head and gave her pussy a long, slow lick, pressing the flat of his tongue against her engorged clit, then deep between her lips, and then....

"Ahhh," she shrieked.

He lapped at her asshole. She bucked and growled. Her breaths came in rapid, shallow gasps. Indescribable, inconceivable. It felt good, but even more it was so dirty, so lewd. Explosively sexual. It made her nipples ache, her clit throb. Dizzying, exhilarating.

His tongue began its return journey, pressing deep into her pussy, then flicking at her clit. She writhed and squealed in delight. It was too soon for her to come again, but her soreness was forgotten. Instead, she longed for his cock.

As if reading her thoughts he reared up. She gasped.

"Oh my God, was that in me?"

It was her first clear look at his cock, and it looked even bigger than it had felt inside her. Looking the size of her forearm, it twitched menacingly as it dangled above her pink pussy.

He laughed. "Size doesn't matter," he said with a wink.

A lie, she knew now.

He rubbed the spongy head of his cock up and down her wet slit. She moaned and turned away from the obscene sight. He slapped her pussy with his cock.

"Watch."

He entered her deliberately, inch after inch of his huge prick disappearing into her stretched twat. She braced herself for the jolt of pain that she was sure was coming. She could never take it all. But the pain never came. Instead, he plunged deeper and deeper, until there was nothing left. That final inch was the most delicious, the base of his shaft flaring, increasing the pressure against her clit. She mewled in pleasure.

He withdrew almost completely, and then entered her again, faster, harder this time. And again. Her eyes rolled back into her head on each stroke, her vision becoming a haze of grey.

"Damn, that's sexy," he sighed.

She wanted to respond. To let him know she liked her view as well. That no man had ever made her feel this way. That she never wanted it to end. But those deep strokes were short-circuiting her brain. Speech was impossible. Movement was impossible. All that she could do was lie there and take it. Take that delicious, mind-scrambling pounding.

Harder, harder, her labia clinging to his fat, glistening cock. Her pussy squishing obscenely with each thrust. She could feel it building. The blood rushing from her extremities to her loins, making her lightheaded, her fingers and toes tingling. The pins and needles spreading up her arms and leg. Her heart was pounding, breaths coming in ragged gasps.

She opened her mouth to scream, but no sound came out. Instead, her body shuddered, synapses firing, every muscle contracting, she swung her head from side to side, but still no sounds came out. And then the wave crashed, and she was tumbling, head over heels, unable to breathe, her vision blurred, and then nothing.

"Hey, Soccer Mom, you okay?" He was beside her, chuckling.

Though she'd regained consciousness, she was still dizzy, her skin damp and clammy. It took her a moment to realize who she was, where she was, who he was....

“Oh God, Damon, that was....”

But there was no word to capture her emotion. Or at least her brain wasn't working well enough yet to find it. She looked over at him, at his hard cock.

“Did you come?” she asked.

“It's okay....”

“I want you to. How do you want me?”

He hesitated. “You sure?”

She nodded.

“On your stomach.”

She rolled over with some difficulty. Her body felt sluggish, weighted down. She felt him straddle her.

“You're not going to....”

“Put it in your ass?”

She nodded.

“Not unless you want me to.”

She hesitated. She'd never done that, never wanted to, and yet....

“No,” she replied.

He grinned as he read her uncertainty. “Maybe later then.”

Instead, he slowly fed his fat prick into her from behind. In this position he couldn't go quite as deep, but with her legs pressed together, it was a tighter fit.

“Oh God, you feel so big,” she moaned.

He thrust into her hard. “Damn, you're tight.”

He increased his pace rapidly, pistoning into her swollen, throbbing cunt.

“Don't stop until you come,” she gasped. “Don't stop.”

Harder, harder. She could feel his sweat dripping on her back. She looked from side to side, at his muscular arms bracketed her head, feeling his forcefulness. He was so powerful, so strong. Faster now, still harder.

Heather gasped and wheezed and finally cried out with each thrust. Her squeals getting louder and louder, competing with the groaning of the bedsprings, the creaking of the headboard. Anyone walking by, everyone in the neighboring rooms could hear her, would know that the innocent little soccer mom in 2114 was getting her brains fucked out. And she didn't care.

“Fuck me!” she screamed.

It seemed to inflame him further. He banged her still harder, harder than she'd thought possible.

"Fuck me!" she begged.

He grabbed her hair, yanked back on her head. She yelped in pain, but it only added to her excitement.

"Fuck me, you bastard! Fuck meeeee!"

Her plea trailed off as she came yet again, but still, through gritted teeth, she pleaded.

"Fuck me. Fuck me. Fuck me!"

And then she felt it. Felt his muscles clench, felt his cock swell, and then felt his shaft pulse, over and over and over, as he filled her with his seed.

He collapsed onto her, laughing.

"Damn, you are one hell of a lay."

She smiled and tried to think of a reply. But she just needed to close her eyes for just a second.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Heather woke. The room was dark except for a thin stream of pre-dawn light coming through a crack in the curtains. She was warm and cozy, her blankets tucked in tight against her. She was sore all over, especially her pussy, which throbbed in time with her heartbeat.

She smiled.

She shouldn't be happy. She was a bad person. She'd cheated on her husband. Given herself to a virtual stranger. A bad, bad person.

She smiled.

There would be consequences. If Jeff found out.... When her guilt flared....

She smiled.

All of that was for later. For now, all she could think about was the delicious aches she felt, reminders of a night she'd never forget and would always cherish.

She smiled.

Her only regret was that Damon was no longer there. She wanted to pull him close, feel his powerful body against hers. She heard the sound of waves crashing. She peered back at the curtains. The sliding door was cracked open, which meant....

She rose gingerly and wrapped herself in the bed cover against the chilly morning air. She walked to the door and squeezed out onto the balcony. He was there, sitting in a chair, wearing a soft, white bathrobe, staring out toward the eastern sky, just beginning to brighten with the coming sunrise.

"You're still here," she said.

"I can leave."

She shook her head. "No, I'm glad you stayed."

"Yeah?"

She dropped the covers, confident, after last night, in her nakedness.

"You have room in there for me?"

He grinned and pulled open his bathrobe. She climbed into his lap, straddling him, as he wrapped the thick cotton around them both. She flung her arms around his powerful neck and kissed him hard.

“No regrets about last night?” he asked.

“Not a one.”

She could feel his big prick beneath her. She ground slowly against him, feeling it swell and stiffen.

“So you had fun?”

She rolled her eyes. “You have to ask?”

He chuckled. “Not really. But I’m like you. I just like compliments.”

She looked him right in the eye. “You’re the best fuck I’ve ever had.”

He looked scandalized. “Soccer Mom! Language.”

She kissed him again.

“You’re not so bad yourself,” he added.

She blushed.

He was hard now. She could feel his prick pressing against her pussy. Despite her soreness, she knew she wanted him again. She reach down and held his cock firm as she slowly impaled herself on him.

“That’ll never grow old,” she sighed.

They kissed again, a deep, passionate soul kiss. She ground against him. Her sensitive nipples dug into her hard chest. His strong hands kneaded her firm ass. They made love, gently, tenderly as the sun rose slowly over the horizon.

“Let’s go inside,” she suggested after the sun cleared the horizon.

“Don’t want to be seen with me?”

She laughed. “I just don’t want the sun in my eyes.”

“Uh huh, you just don’t want people to know you have jungle fever.”

She laughed.

He rose easily and walked inside, Heather impaled on his prick the whole time. She knew she wasn’t a big girl, but even still, the effortlessness of it was exciting. They approached the bed.

“I want to be on top,” she said softly.

“Good. About time you pulled your weight.”

“Oh, don’t worry baby, you’re going to like this,” she cooed with more bravado than she really felt.

He settled onto the bed on his back. She pulled her knees beneath her and rose up above him. It was a great view. His handsome face, that confident grin, his powerful chest, and well-defined abs. And God that prick. As she dropped down onto him, he seemed to go even deeper than ever before. She felt again a weird pride that she could handle him. Too bad she'd never be able to brag about the accomplishment to anyone else. It would have to be her own little secret forever.

He slapped her ass playfully. "I thought you were going to show me a thing or two, not just sit there grinning at some private joke."

"You're a private joke."

He chuckled. "It's lucky you fuck better than you banter."

"I do?"

"Well, not right at the moment." He spanked her again.

She laughed. "Fine."

She rose up and slowly lowered herself back onto his prick. It was a learning experience. Heather liked to be on top with Jeff, like the way it let him play with her nipples and squeeze her ass. But with Jeff, she was mostly grinding on him. It was nice. She always came. But she'd never really had the sensation of working his cock. With Damon, though, she could get creative.

She could rise up, higher, higher, until just the tip of his fat cock was still inside her, and then slowly settle back down on him, feeling inch after inch disappear inside her. Short, quick bounces on the top of his cock. Grinding against him with the whole thing inside her. She wondered what it looked like, wished for the first time in her life that someone was filming it so she could see. It must look so sexy seeing his huge prick stretching out her pussy.

She placed her palms on his powerful chest. They stared into each other's eyes. She fucked him enthusiastically. His hands explored her body. He pinched her rock hard nipples. His huge hands cupped her ass cheeks and spread them apart so that she could feel the air conditioning on her anus.

He licked a finger, and then without warning slipped just the tip into her ass.

"Oh God, what are you doing?" she growled.

He pressed in deeper.

"You like it."

"Yes," she sighed.

It felt so dirty, so wrong. Like when he'd licked her there. And yet, it was delicious. A little painful, but a new feeling. So sensitive. It made her want to fuck him harder, deeper. She ditched the experimentation and settled into a new rhythm, slowly, slowly rising up and then impaling herself hard on his prick. He seemed to like it.

“That’s it Soccer Mom, fuck my prick.”

He thrust his finger deeper into her ass and began pumping it in and out.

She groaned, feeling herself losing control. Her movements became ragged, desperate. Her breaths came in short, harsh gasps. His other hand worked her nipples, squeezing, twisting, pinching them almost painfully. Heather came hard, suddenly. Dizzy, suddenly exhausted, she collapsed onto his chest.

He thrust upward now. Hard. His big cock plunging into her pussy from beneath. His finger probed deeper into her ass. He grabbed a handful of her hair, lifted her face to his and kissed her passionately. His prick thrust into her pussy, his finger into her ass, his tongue into her mouth. It felt like three men were using her at the same time, but it was just one. Just one powerful man with the ability to possess her completely.

“I love you,” she gasped.

“I love you too,” he replied.

Another hard thrust and then he shivered and she felt him pulsing inside her, filling her again with his hot come.

They slowly came down, his cock still churning inside her, slower, slower, until they both ground against each other, relishing the sensation of each other’s sweaty bodies.

The words they’d said, though, hung in the air.

“Did you mean that?” she asked.

“Did you?”

Did she?

“No, Damon. But I lose it with you. Like I never have with anyone else. At that moment, I did. But no. This is just a fling.”

“So you just love fucking me?”

She nodded. It was hard to explain. She loved the way he made her feel. The way nothing existed but them when they were together. The way all her responsibilities disappeared. But that was close enough. It would have to be. “Something like that.”

“I feel the same,” he replied with a smile.

She rolled off him.

“All you have are your evening clothes, right?” she asked.

“You’re kicking me out?”

She laughed.

“Yeah, lover. Time for you to do your walk of shame.”

“I’m not ashamed of anything.”

She kissed him. “Me neither.”

He rose. She watched his naked body. He really was a god. That body, that cock. No one could begrudge her for giving in to temptation. Except for Jeff... although even he...?

Damon dressed slowly, knowing he was being watched, giving Heather a show.

“Meet for lunch?” he suggested.

She brightened. “Yeah, I’d like that.”

He grinned. “Cool. Maybe you can help me pick up some chicks today.”

She smiled back. “Yeah, I’m your wingman.”

“Try not to fuck it up this time. You’ve been a total failure so far.”

He leaned down and gave her a soft kiss.

“See you at lunch, Soccer Mom.”

CHAPTER EIGHT

Heather dozed for an hour or so, but there was so much to do. She needed a new swim suit, and maybe another dress.... She thought about the stack of receipts she'd already racked up. How was she going to explain that to Jeff? The resort was so nice, I had to get dressed up just to go the pool! Would he buy that? Of course. Because Jeff trusted her....

A bad line of thought to pursue. And yet, she knew at some point she'd have to think about it. Think about what, if anything, she'd say to her husband when she got home. But not now. Now was just now.

She climbed into the shower, delighting in the powerful, waterfall showerhead. She slowly soaped herself up, her hands triggering memories of her time with Damon. The way he'd played with her nipples, nearly bringing her to orgasm. His hand on her belly, rubbing her clit as he took her from behind. The way he'd kneaded her ass, and massaged her back. His palm on her throat. His fist gripping her hair. He was so rough.... No, not rough. Strong, confident, dominant.

Most of all, she felt that sweet soreness between her legs, a constant, delicious reminder of how good he felt inside her. She could easily see how addictive a man like Damon could be. Could see why women would make fools out of themselves for him.

She lathered up her legs and ran her razor along them, and then under her arms. She always loved the sensation of her newly shaved skin, so soft, especially when wet and soapy. She ran her fingers through her trimmed muff. She knew she shouldn't. Knew she'd have trouble explaining it to Jeff. But she also knew she wanted to do it. For Damon. A treat for him and for herself.

She lathered herself up and began shaving away her pubic hair. It was slow going, and she felt her way along carefully with her fingertips. It was oddly sensual. Touching herself. The scrape of the razor. The sensation of water flowing over her newly bared skin. And constantly, in the back of her mind, Damon. How he'd react. What he'd say and do to her when he found out she'd shaved for him. An arrogant smirk, the twinkle in his eyes, his hands cupping, exploring her, finally pulling her to him, his tongue licking and tasting, thrusting inside her....

She grabbed the wall to keep from falling as an orgasm rippled through her. Not a climax. No, more of an appetizer. Nothing compared to what he did to her, but still a reminder of how close to the edge she was always when she was with him. Her sexuality, buried, dormant caring for three children, now right there, near the surface.

“Dayum, Soccer Mom, now that is a suit.”

No false modesty this time. She spun around and shook her ass at him. A Brazilian bikini, a skimpy, fringed triangle in the back that crept partway up her ass, and an even skimpier triangle in the front that would have almost required her to shave had she not done so already. Another two small wedges of fabric held in place by a string constituted the top and barely covered her areolas and did nothing to conceal the size and shape of her prominent nipples.

“You know, I have a name,” she noted as she sat down beside him.

He laughed. “Oh no, you’re not going to make me call you Heather.”

“What’s wrong with Heather?”

He peered at her over his aviators. “It’s so white.”

“No more than Shelby.”

He nodded. “True, but I’m not fucking Shelby.”

“God, you’re so crude sometimes,” she replied with a smile.

“I’m so sorry, Heather,” he replied in a nasally, white guy voice.

Then back to his normal tone, “What do you want for lunch? You certainly burned off enough calories last night –“

“And this morning.”

“And this morning,” he continued, “to justify a bacon cheeseburger.”

She grinned. “It’s not about how many I burned, it’s about how many I expect to burn.”

“Then order two,” he suggested.

It made her all tingly to talk about sex with him, to think about what they might do later.

“I think I’ll take one, and a Bloody Mary. But lunch is on me.”

He laughed. "Oh sure, I pay for the expensive dinners, and you buy me lunch by the pool."

"It's hard being a man."

"Sometimes," he replied, nodding with a mock seriousness.

He ordered their food, joining her with the bacon cheeseburger, but substituting a beer instead of a Bloody Mary.

"So," she said, "can I ask you a question? And don't say, 'you just did'."

"I'd like to think I'm more witty than that anyway. Are you going to ask me how I became so handsome and irresistible?"

She took a sip of her Bloody Mary. "No, it was about what you said before. About Heather sounding too white."

"It was just a joke."

"I know. But you've made a few jokes like that. And I know they're jokes, but, I dunno, I wonder why race is so important to you."

"You don't have a lot of black friends, do you?"

She started to protest, then checked herself. "No, I guess I don't. Not on purpose, but...."

"Just not a lot of black folks move in the same circles?" he suggested.

She nodded.

"Even among professionals," he said, "I work with mostly white guys. We get along. Have each other's backs. But yeah, I socialize mostly with other black folks. Anyway, to answer your question, I'm not all hung up on race. I don't have a huge chip on my shoulder. My dad was a doctor, my brother's a lawyer. I'm not underprivileged. But look, the fact is, black people are still marginalized, despite the president. So yeah, it's something that we're just more conscious of. I make jokes to reassure myself and others. It's a coping thing."

"I guess.... I don't know. It just doesn't seem that important to me."

He chuckled. "Well, of course not. You're white. It doesn't affect you. That's the point."

"But you just said it didn't affect you either."

"No, I didn't quite say that. My point was that it hasn't been a crippling limitation, for me. But I respect the fact that it is for others. And anyway, it's more real that you realize. We're in a nice resort. Everyone is well-behaved, but if you and I went into town together, we'd get our share of hostile looks. If it got late enough, some drunk asshole would probably try to start something over it. But look, assholes are assholes. It's not like I hate white people."

"I should hope not. You're actually quite loving toward this particular white person."

He laughed. "Oh don't get me started on that."

"What?"

"The sex thing."

"The sex thing?"

"Maybe it's just a southern thing."

"A southern thing?"

"Seriously, you're going to need to stop doing that."

She grinned.

"You know what I mean. Seems like people down south see a black man and a white woman and they think he's with her because he's a black man and she's a white woman."

"I don't get it."

"Well, that she's just with him out of some liberal guilt, and he's just with her because all he thinks about is despoiling her white pussy."

"But that is what you think about!"

He laughed. "Yes, but I'm focused on the pussy part, not the white part."

"So it doesn't matter to you."

He groaned. "Okay, I give up. You got me. The only reason I had sex with you was to make up for the fact that your great, great, grandpappy probably owned my great, great, grandmammy. Probably raped her too. You're just payback."

"Okay, you're right, that sounds crazy."

"See?"

They each took a bite of their burgers. Heather could see the grin on his face.

"What?" she asked.

He chuckled. "Though some girls do get off on that, you know."

"On what?"

He leaned in close. "On all that kind of nasty talk. Suck on my big, nigger cock you dirty, white whore."

Heather blushed, feeling also a weird surge of heat in her belly. He read her expression immediately.

“See Soccer Mom? Even you’re not immune to it.”

They moved over to some lounge chairs by the pool. She thought she’d get some reading done, but just being next to him left her all tingly. She felt like a schoolgirl, the mere proximity to her crush getting her all hot and bothered.

He was just so sexy. He had a gorgeous body. She couldn’t keep her eyes off him. At first, she tried to stop herself, but ultimately she gave in, letting herself ogle him openly. She wanted to imprint the image in her memory, have it there always to call upon.

“I think you’re drooling,” he teased.

“You really are beautiful,” she sighed.

He laughed. “You’re not so bad yourself.”

“No, I mean it. You could be, like, a model or something.”

“Is that all I am to you? A piece of meat?”

She giggled. “Pretty much.”

“I’ll give you a piece of meat, alright.”

“Not just a piece, I hope.”

He laughed. “Soccer Mom, you are turning into a horny little slut.”

“I am,” she admitted. “I have a little treat for you later.”

“Yeah?” He glanced down at her crotch, guessing correctly.

She nodded. “Nice and smooth.”

“Show me.”

“I told you, later.”

“Now.”

She laughed. “What, out here?”

“Uh huh. Just a quick flash. No one will know.”

“You’re crazy,” she replied.

But she did look around. The pool deck wasn’t crowded, but it wasn’t deserted either.

“Do it,” he insisted.

It was crazy. She knew it was crazy. But she wanted to do it. Wanted to give him a peek at her smooth, newly shaved pussy. Her bikini was so skimpy, it was already almost as if she were on display. Heather reached down. She took another quick glance around to make sure no one was looking. Then with a quick flick of her wrist, she lifted up the sheer fabric and immediately let it fall back into the place.

“Do it again. Longer this time.”

She shook her head. “I can’t.”

“Yes you can. Come on. Give me a good look. You know you want to.”

It was awful, but he was right. She did. The thought of it was so exciting. Her nipples were rock hard and suddenly so sensitive that even her thin bikini top seemed oppressive. She wanted to tear off every last stitch, stand before him naked, invite him to take her, to use her body for his own pleasure, and hers.

“Let’s go back to my room,” she veritably panted.

“Later, Soccer Mom. For now, I want you to let me see that pretty, little shaved snatch.”

“Oh God,” she groaned.

She peered around again. Okay, okay, no one was watching. No one but Damon.

Heather slipped a thumb under the fabric and lifted it, an inch, then two. He was looking. Smiling. It felt like an eternity, being on display like that, but it was just a few seconds. She replaced the bikini.

He was grinning. “Looks good enough to eat.”

“I was hoping you’d say that,” she replied, blushing.

“Of course, I’m going to do a lot more than just eat it,” he added.

“I was hoping you’d say that too.”

He chuckled. “Come on Soccer Mom, let’s take a dip in the pool. You’re looking a little flushed.”

The back wall of the pool was faux stone with flowering plants, and a series of small waterfalls. They swam in that direction and Heather ducked under the flowing water like it was a shower. Damon splashed after her, and playfully chased her along the back wall. He backed her into a small gap in the rocks, the waterfall behind them shielding them from the pool.

“Looks like you’re trapped,” he noted.

“What are you going to do to me?” she asked expectantly.

He leaned in and kissed her hard. She melted into his arms, her hands caressing the muscles of his powerful back. He snaked his hand into the front of her bikini.

“I love a shaved snatch.”

“I thought you might.”

“It turned you on to flash me, didn’t it? You’re wet for me.”

His finger slid up and down her slit.

“That’s the pool, silly.”

“This isn’t.” He pressed his long, thick finger inside her.

She knew he could feel her hot, slick wetness within. She gasped and looked over his shoulder. The curtain of water gave some privacy, but not every much. Anyone looking in their direction would see them embracing, his hand below the waterline hinting at what he was doing.

“Damn, you’re hot, Soccer Mom. You’re a nasty, little whore, aren’t you?”

“Yes,” she sighed.

It was what he wanted to hear, but it was true as well. What other kind of married woman would have sex with a near stranger? Make out with him and allow him to molest her in public?

“I took it easy on you last night,” he purred in her ear.

“Oh God,” she groaned.

If that was taking it easy, she didn’t know if she could handle it hard. His finger curled up inside her, seeking out her g-spot. Her hand sought out his, though she wasn’t sure whether she meant to push him away or hold him close.

“You’re so sexy when you’re screaming for it.”

With his thumb resting above her clit, and his finger inside her, he pinch them together as if to rub his digits against each other, but with her most sensitive organ in between. She gasped again, all thoughts of pushing him away now long gone.

“You’re going to make me come.”

“That’s the idea,” he replied. “You owe me, you know.”

She did. She knew it. He’d made her come so many times, and she hadn’t even....

“I want to suck your cock,” she moaned.

“Now you’re talking. Tell me.”

His fingers squeezed harder, inflaming her nerve endings. She wanted to cry out. She couldn't. Not out here in public. He slowed. She could breathe again.

"I want your big, hard cock in my mouth. I want to taste it."

"Taste what, baby?"

She looked hard into his eyes. He rubbed harder again.

"Your come," she gasped.

The combination of her own words, her thoughts, and his probing fingers pushed her over the edge. She shuddered, clenching at his forearm, even as her mind was filled with the fantasy of jerking his huge prick until he shot load after load of hot come into her mouth.

He chuckled as he slowly withdrew his hand from her bikini bottom. "Man, you're a quick trigger."

She blushed. Only with you. No man had ever made her come like he did, so often and so hard. She resisted telling him, though. He was already full enough of himself.

"Come on, let me buy you a drink," he offered.

"It's more like I need a cigarette."

"You smoke?"

She shook her head.

"Then a drink it is."

They returned to their chairs and ordered some frozen margaritas.

Heather felt tingly and lightheaded. The sun, the alcohol, a recent orgasm, and the rush of being with Damon, thinking about what they'd already done, imagining what he might do to her later. She passed the afternoon in a giddy, boozy, haze.

It was, of course, just temporary. In a little more than forty-eight hours she'd be back home. Soccer Mom, not just as a teasing nickname, but in reality. Shopping, cooking, cleaning, picking up kids from school, supervising homework. And then, if they weren't too tired, a little, married, beneath the cover sex. Satisfying. Comfortable. Boring. Now. Next month. Next year. On and on for the next decade and half and then some. Life on hold until then. And then what? Pushing fifty and nearly thirty years into her relationship with Jeff, would passion bloom then? Not likely. She was thirty-two and her life was... already... over. Written in stone.

She wondered what it might be like with Damon. Right now, it was exciting. Mindblowing even. Explosive. Surprising. Joyous. Isn't that what life should be like always?

But that isn't marriage. It can't be. Sooner or later, that ardor fades. Routine takes hold. Of course, with Jeff, there had never been that passion. Oh sure, it was fun to date, and that first time in bed, awkward and yet exciting always brought a smile to Heather's face. But there had never been a moment where they just couldn't keep their hands off each other. Heather always assumed that just wasn't how she was wired. Too grounded, too practical.

Because yeah, this, was practical. She chuckled to herself.

"Seriously, Soccer Mom, you have to stop that. It's creepy."

She looked over at him and giggled. "Oh, you love it."

"I do?"

She nodded. "You think it's cute."

He rolled his eyes.

"Does it bother you that I'm married?" she asked.

He laughed. "Bother me? No, I think it's sort of hot."

"How so?"

"Oh, you know, the whole having another man's woman thing. Very primal."

"Really?"

"Really."

"I'm not a possession that you're poaching."

He shrugged. "I didn't say it was rational. Just said it was hot."

"Men are crazy."

"Maybe. But the real question is, does it bother you that you're married?"

"It should, right?"

"I dunno. I'm not married."

"What if this is a good thing? You know, I come back recharged, relaxed, with some good memories. That was the idea, wasn't it?"

"Was it?"

"Well, the result was, not the process, I guess."

He laughed. "I'm not sure I like being thought of as a process."

"Better than being thought of as a possession you're only interested in because I belong to another."

"That's not the only reason I was interested in you. I always thought you had a nice ass. Even on the bus, I was thinking how much I'd like to wear it as a hat.”

She giggled. “I’m not even sure what that means.”

He raised an eyebrow.

“So you were interested in me right from the beginning!”

He laughed. “Going to try that one on for size?”

“Huh?”

He leaned over and removed his aviators. “The rationalizations, Heather.”

She jolted. It was the first time he’d used her name other than in jest.

“What...?”

“This is good for Jeff. I was seduced into it.” He paused. “Why are you so desperate to make this about anyone but you?”

Jesus. It was bad enough he was a demon lover. Toe-curling. But even worse was his ability to see right through her. That’s what made him so... fucking... dangerous. Dangerous and irresistible.

“Because if I make it about me....”

She paused. What would it mean?

She giggled. A tear ran down her cheek. She saw his expression. It made her laugh harder.

“Fuck you, Damon. I’m a girl. Sometimes we laugh and cry at the same time.”

He chuckled. “Bitches be crazy,” he noted, his voice suddenly shifting into dialect.

He leaned in and kissed her. “It’s what makes you so hot,” he added.

She kissed him back and nodded.

“I don’t have any regrets,” she said. She paused, thinking. “And I don’t know what that means. I love my husband and my kids. They... are... my... life. But I have no regrets. And all I can think about right now is your naked body. The things you’ll do to me, and I’ll do to you.”

She laughed. More tears.

Damon laughed as well.

“Seriously, this is the sort of shit that makes me wish I were gay.”

“I’m glad you’re not,” she replied.

The afternoon passed slowly. More drinks, reading, casual flirting. Being with Damon was, oddly, comfortable as well. Yet, there was that fire beneath the surface as well.

“So where are you taking me for dinner?” she asked playfully.

“Sorry, babe. You only get lobster when I’m first trying to get into your pants. I’m thinking the beach shack tonight.”

Heather laughed. It was actually what she was hoping for. Casual, out by the sand, a guy with his acoustic guitar singing Jimmy Buffet songs.

“I don’t know, D. I don’t want you to think I’m a cheap date.”

He laughed. “Did you just call me ‘D’?”

“Better than ‘Soccer Mom’.”

“Soccer Mom wants the D. I think I saw the vid.”

“I think I lived it.”

She clucked disapprovingly. “And here I was, all ready to suck your dick. Now you’re going to have to woo me again.”

He laughed. “Do I look worried?”

He didn’t. He looked handsome and confident.

She giggled. “Okay, I need to shower and change.”

He took her hand. “Six o’clock on the beach path?”

She loved the sensation of his large, strong hand on hers. She smiled.

“Unless I get a better offer.”

But Heather knew there was nothing in heaven or on earth that would keep her from that appointment.

Heather was still in a silly, giddy mood as she left the pool deck. Thinking about Damon, she didn’t even notice Shelby watching her, so she was startled when the blonde stepped out in front of her.

“Kissin’ cousins, I guess.”

Heather startled.

“What do you want?”

“I’m just wondering how your husband feels about you spreading your legs for that big spade? Does he know? Is that some sick game you two play? Or are you just a cheap whore?”

“Are you jealous?”

“Fuck no,” Shelby hissed.

Heather grinned. “You should be, sweetie. Because he’s a great fuck.”

Shelby’s face dropped.

“Later,” Heather said, palm up, as she walked away.

She could feel Shelby’s eyes boring into her back. It felt good. It was probably the first time that slutty blonde had ever been faced down by a five-foot-two, flat-chested, soccer mom.

CHAPTER NINE

Heather took a long, hot shower. She was tingly all over. Her sexual excitement making it hard to bathe. Shampooing made her think of how he'd pulled her hair as he pounded her into the mattress. Soaping her breasts reminded her to how he'd sucked on her hard, little nubs. She ran her fingers over her smooth, shaved snatch. She shuddered at both the memories it elicited and anticipation at what would happen later. She couldn't remember ever being this sexed up, this ready for anything.

She stepped out of the shower and dried herself, though even that was a challenge. The terry cloth against her skin a reminder of their morning tryst, riding his big cock, swaddled by his bathrobe, watching the sunrise.

Now dry, she remained in front of the mirror. She let the towel fall to the floor and tried to see herself as he seemed to see her. Even with the reddish highlight in her hair and a healthy glow imparted by the sun and the sex, she still felt plain. Her legs were too short, her breasts nonexistent. Her face was cute rather than pretty, girl next door rather than fashion model. She'd always been jealous of girls like Shelby. Big tits, long legs, blond hair. The sort of girl that even Jeff couldn't seem to avoid turning his head for. Not that she minded, not much. He was just looking. The Shelbys of this world were out of his league too.

She wondered if that's what this was all about. Landing the Alpha for the first time in her life. Scoring with a guy out of her league.... Except, he didn't seem to feel that way. She thought he would. She'd had that moment of anxiety when she first awoke, and found herself alone in bed. That sense of being used. Though, if she was honest with herself, it was almost what she had wished for. Having her cake and eating it too. A night of unimaginable passion and the comfort the next morning of being able to dismiss it all as a momentary act of weakness, falling prey to a cad. Forgivable. Maybe even a bit sad. Forgivable and forgettable. An act containing its own penance in the realization of being used and tossed away. Nothing she'd have to mention to Jeff. A private lesson to be remembered with nothing more than a rueful chuckle.

Except, it hadn't worked out that way. He hadn't been gone. And now, she was naked, fully shaved, applying makeup and blowing out her new hairdo, to prepare to meet him again. Ready herself for her other man. Knowing already that she intended to give herself to him.

She reached for her skimpy panties. She felt the thin, smooth fabric. So sexy. But not as sexy as.... She dropped them back down on the sink. She lifted her new sundress over her head and let the sheer material drape itself over her naked body. She gave her hair a quick brush, stepped into her high-heeled, cork sandals, and walked out into the warm evening to meet her lover.

As Heather passed the pool bar, she noted the time. 6:10pm. Perfect. Just a few minutes fashionably late. She couldn't let Damon think she was desperate or anything. But her breezy, and unfamiliar, self-assurance faded quickly when she arrived at the path and found that he wasn't there waiting for her. The problem was... she was sort of desperate to see him, to feel that rush as he took her into his arms, or even greeted her with a gentle put-down.

After another few minutes, she began to feel anxious. He couldn't have left so quickly. She wasn't that late after all. But before she could kick herself too much, another, worse, thought lodged itself in her mind. Shelby. The scenario seemed to unspool before her eyes. Shelby angry at Heather's taunt. The tall blonde seeking out Damon before he left the beach. No flirting. Just a direct offer to go back to his room, to do anything he wanted.

And, of course, he'd accept. After all he'd already had Heather... several times. And anyway, given a choice, he'd make the same decision as almost any man. Shelby.

She paced up and down the path, alternating between anger and sadness, frustration and resignation. 6:30 now. She wasn't going to torture herself anymore... well, not much longer.

"Hey Soccer Mom, nice dress."

She turned around, tears in her eyes.

He held up his hands. "Whoa, what now?"

She forced a rictus smile. "Hi Damon."

"You okay?"

A surge of anger. "You're late."

"That is your fault."

"Shelby?"

He smiled. "What did you say to her?"

"Nothing."

"Uh huh. Well, she had plenty to say about you."

"Yeah?"

He laughed. "She actually asked me why I'd want to settle for hamburger rather than steak."

"She's the steak?"

He nodded.

"So, you've been with her?"

Heather wasn't sure what she'd do if he said yes. Would she be willing to follow Shelby, not sloppy seconds, but the male equivalent? And what if Shelby was still back in his room, and he'd just come down to fetch Heather for a threesome. Could she go along with that?

"Yeah."

Heather nodded. Another forced smile. "So, what now? I mean, is she... I mean, are we...?"

He looked confused. "What?"

Her eyes grew moist again.

"Oh, for fuck's sake, Heather, I didn't mean it like that. I haven't been with her with her, though she did offer. I was just explaining to her that I was spoken for."

"You turned her down? For me?"

He gave her a queer look. "You know, I can't figure you out. Are you, like, serious? Why do you keep acting like, you're what...."

"Hamburger?"

He laughed. "Yeah, that."

"I don't know. You know, I've never been the girl that the guys go after."

"How would you know?"

"I think I would."

"Ha. You didn't even realize I wanted to get in your pants from the first time I saw you."

"You really did?"

“Sure. You looked like a little wildcat. And I could tell you were into me.”

“Was not.”

“Was too. I just wasn’t sure if you were just a flirt or what.”

“So, you mean, when you invited me to be your sarge you were hitting on me?”

“Of course. You don’t think my game is that weak, do you?”

Heather giggled. “I feel flattered... and a little used.”

He leaned in close and gave her a kiss on the cheek. He whispered in her ear. “You’re going to feel very used by the time I’m done with you.”

She grinned. She had a feeling that was something she’d quite enjoy.

They sat together at the pool bar, eating chili con queso with chips and a couple of beers.

“Seriously Damon, why aren’t you married?”

“What? So it can drive me so crazy that I go off on a Mexican vacation and bang the first stranger to make a pass at me.”

She swatted him playfully. “It’s not all nervous breakdowns and torrid affairs.”

“Go on.”

“It’s also, I don’t know, warm and comforting. Satisfying and fulfilling. I mean, I get the attraction, now more than ever, of being free and spontaneous and....”

“And the thrill of getting to know new and interesting people. Experience their quirks and their surprises.”

She nodded. “But it has got to be lonely sometimes too, right?”

“Yeah, of course. But, I don’t know, every relationship I’ve been in has gotten stale, or worse.”

“Poor baby, did some mean woman break your heart?”

“You scoff, Soccer Mom, but beneath this devilishly handsome and confident exterior is an actual human being.”

“Are you bullshitting me?”

He laughed. “A little. But yeah, you know, things just haven’t worked out. And I know you don’t like it when I bring race into it, but it complicated things.”

“Yeah?”

“Yeah. If you date outside your race, you always get accused of basically just being a fetishist. Hell, you asked me that yourself. Did I have a thing for white girls? So there’s always that weirdness. And don’t get me started on how black women respond to it. Seriously, it’s grim. But then if you date a black woman, it’s a whole other kind of pressure, like suddenly you have to be fucking Barack and Michelle, like a role-model for the rest of the world.”

Heather nodded, then laughed. “You sure this isn’t just a rationalization for womanizing?”

He shook his head. “See, this is what I get for pouring my heart out.”

They stared at each other for a long moment. Then he added. “There is nothing like the rush you get from new pussy.”

“I’m not new to you anymore,” she replied playfully.

He leaned in closer, his gaze fiery. “I haven’t even begun to scratch the surface with you.”

She felt herself flush again, felt a tingle in her belly. “What are you going to do to me?”

“I warned you I wasn’t going to take it easy on you anymore.”

She didn’t know what he meant, and she didn’t care. The wetness between her legs a testament to the fact that she would refuse him nothing.

Holding hands, they walked along the beach path. It was still light, but the sun was now low in the sky giving everything a warm, orangey glow. They passed behind the shack that rented out beach toys – kayaks, rafts, and other water equipment. It was closed up for the day, and stepping behind it, they found a private little alcove.

Damon pulled Heather into a tight embrace and kissed her passionately.

“Take off your panties,” he breathed into her ear.

She grinned. Finally. “I’m not wearing any.”

“Soccer Mom!” he exclaimed in mock outrage.

She shrugged.

He stepped back away from her. “Show me.”

She looked around. It seemed private, but they were just meters off a rather frequently traveled path.

“Here?”

“Yeah,” he replied.

His lascivious expression was a wild turn on. Exactly the reaction she’d hoped she’d get out of him. He sat down on a large, heavy storage locker.

“Give me a show,” he added.

She was aware of the madness of it, and the recklessness. The danger was intoxicating. She reached down and grabbed the hem of her dress, slowly, slowly lifting it up. As it rose above her upper thigh, she gave a quick shrug and flipped the fabric upward. It almost immediately fell back into place.

He frowned. “Oh come on. I want more.”

She smiled again. “Ask nicely.”

“You want me to beg for it?” he asked, incredulous.

“Why not?”

He laughed. “I don’t beg for it. And anyway, you want to show me. You know you do.”

She did. She slowly raised her dress again. Higher, higher. She felt her cheeks flush as she realized she wasn’t going to just flash him this time, but instead expose herself to him, give him a good, long look.

“Very pretty,” he announced. “And very fuckable.”

She blushed a deeper red.

“What? That’s why you’re showing it to me, right? Because you want me to fuck you.”

A rhetorical question, perhaps, but she felt compelled to answer. She wanted to answer. “Yes,” she gasped.

“Are you wet thinking about what we’re going to do later?”

“I don’t even know what we’re going to do.”

“But you’re still wet.”

A statement. Not a question. Still she answered. “Yes.”

He nodded. “Now, show me your ass.”

Heather hesitated until Damon mimed a pirouette with his finger. She slowly spun around, bunching her dress around her waist to give him a good view.

“Really show me,” he ordered.

She was puzzled for a moment. Her cheeks felt on fire as she realized what he wanted now. She gasped and then took a deep breath. Keeping her dress pressed up against her body, she now reached back and with a hand on each cheek spread herself open for him.

“Very pretty. And very fuckable,” he repeated.

He was right behind her. She startled as she felt his fingertip tickle her anus.

“Have you ever had a man here?”

“No,” she gasped.

“But it turns you on.”

The idea never had before this trip. Before this morning she’d never even had a finger in her butt. It still seemed weird, but no longer unthinkable. Except... he was so big. Even if she wanted to, he’d never fit.

He reached around with his other hand and confidently palmed her abdomen. His finger found her slit and pressed into her pussy easily.

“Fuck you’re wet.”

“Oh God,” she moaned as he played with her pussy and ass at the same time.

Then he was no longer touching her pussy, and a moment later she heard his zipper opening. He stepped in closer still and Heather gasped as she felt his long, hard prick begin to slide between her pussy lips. She bent forward, pressing back against him, trying to will him to enter her, to take her standing, from behind. But maddeningly, he just teased her, sliding his cock against her wetness, but nothing more.

“Go ahead,” she hissed.

“That’s not what I want,” he replied.

His pressed his now wet cock against her puckered anus. The head of his cock felt spongy and cool. Still, she stiffened. He reached around and again pressed a finger into her pussy, but his hand on her abdomen was now holding her firmly in place. It was exciting and terrifying. A quick thrust and he’d be inside her, inside her ass.

“Just relax. I’ll go slow,” he promised.

Heather couldn’t reply. She took a deep breath and tried to relax, to release the clenching of her cheeks. The moment she did, he pressed forward, and suddenly, unbelievably, the head of his cock was inside her butt. The panic rose again. All her muscles tensed.

“Shhh, baby, shhh. Just relax. Breath,” he cooed in her ear.

His finger made slow circles around her clit. Her mind fought to process the conflicting sensations. The warmth and excitement of her clit being gently fondled and the throbbing pain in her ass, already painfully stretched around the tip of his cock. He didn't move, didn't thrust further. He just rubbed her clit and breathed gentle encouragement into her ear. Finally, the pleasure won out. She slowly managed to relax again.

"See, it's not so bad."

"It's not," she admitted.

As long as she could keep from tensing up, it felt, well, not good necessarily, but different, exciting. Something she could try, if mostly because she knew it was something Damon wanted.

Still, he didn't thrust in further. Instead, he continued to play with her pussy, slipping a finger inside her and then slowly, slowly withdrawing it, running it along the length of her slit and then circling her clit. She moaned softly.

"Nice, huh?"

Heather groaned. "That's just the tip, though."

"Just more of the same. You ready for it?"

"Yes."

He leaned forward and and down, letting some saliva drip into her butt crack. She felt it, warm and damp, pool against his shaft where it entered her. He thrust in, a little deeper this time.

She tensed again. A pulse of pain, but quickly receding. And again, he slowly, gently calmed her. He was patient and tender. And before Heather knew it, his fat prick was several inches deep into her ass.

"That's it, beautiful. Now I'm going to fuck your ass."

Oh God. Those words. So crude. So obscene. So hot.

He began sliding his prick in and out of her butt. Slowly at first. Pausing when she tensed. Adding more spit to keep her lubed. Then harder, faster. Heather gasped louder and louder.

Then suddenly, laughter on the path, just on the other side of the shack. Damon stopped thrusting as Heather tensed. Reality came crashing back in on her. She was in public. Having sex in public. Anal sex in public. Anal sex, in public, with a virtual stranger!

And yet, she didn't want to stop.

"Fuck me, Damon. Fuck my ass," she growled.

Her words seemed to inflame him. He thrust in harder now, deeper.

“Cover... ugh... my... ugh... mouth,” she begged.

“Yeah?”

“I... ugh... need... ugh... to... scream,” she hissed.

He clamped his powerful hand firmly over her jaw. Heather imagined what she looked like then, spreading her own ass cheeks, a huge prick sawing into her butt, gagged by a strong, black hand. Obscene.

He fucked her harder, harder. She lost the ability to form words, and couldn't have gotten them out even if she tried. Instead, she just screamed into his hand, feeling it become wet with her spit. Deeper, deeper.

Oh God, he's going to tear me apart.

Then suddenly he thrust in deep and groaned, and Heather shivered from the sensation of his come in her ass. And then a weird satisfaction as she felt his cock almost immediately soften a little. She'd done it. She taken it in the butt.

He removed his hand from her mouth and slowly eased out of her.

“That was amazing, Heather. You're amazing.”

She swelled up at the compliment.

“I bet you say that to all the girls you assfuck,” she joked.

“I do. But it's still true.”

“I didn't come,” she noted.

He laughed. “You still owe me a couple.”

“Oh, I think this squares us.”

He kissed her neck. “Okay, fair enough. We're back to even.”

CHAPTER TEN

After cleaning up, Heather joined Damon at the Beach Shack, though the name and décor were just a conceit. All the “authentic” beach accoutrements, the old fishing nets, the sea shells, the buoys, were obviously planned, corporate, sanitized. But the ocean was still the ocean. The waves crashing, the salty breeze, Venus appearing in the early evening sky.

“I ordered you a margarita,” Damon said.

“My favorite.”

“I know.”

“It’s about the only thing you do know about me.”

“Not true,” he replied. “I know you’re married. A dog. Three kids. I could probably pull out their names if you gave me a hint or two.”

She smiled.

“Yeah, and I know you’re an architect from Atlanta, and your dad’s a doctor and you have at least one brother who’s a lawyer.”

“See, not too bad.”

“I don’t know,” she replied. “I mean, doesn’t it strike you as odd that we’re, you know, so intimate and yet strangers.”

“See, but that’s the point of a fling, isn’t it?”

“Ah, yeah, the Zipless Fuck.”

“Huh?”

“It was like, supposedly the ideal. No names, no past, no future. Just two strangers and their genitals.”

Damon laughed. “Okay, a man definitely thought that one up.”

“A woman. Erica Jong. Fear of Flying. Read it in some feminist theory class in college.”

“Uh oh, you were one to those?”

“Oh please, Damon, don’t tell me you’re opposed to civil rights for women.”

“No, but, the word always conjures up angry women,” he paused. “Hairy legs.”

Heather laughed despite herself.

“But you’re right. I have this awful paranoid thought that feminism was mostly invented by men so that they could like, fool around a little more. You know, women, free your minds, free your bodies, sleep with me.”

“Was that French accent?”

She nodded. “Julie Delpy. Before Sunrise.”

“Movie?”

“Yeah, you wouldn’t like it.”

“Oh, and why is that?”

“See, it’s always there,” he replied with a grin. “No, but seriously.”

“Because you’re a man, and most men aren’t interested in seeing a young Ethan Hawke and Julie Delpy roaming around Vienna and exchanging witty, romantic banter.”

“Actually it sounds pretty neat. There are car chases, right?”

She nodded. “Yes. Of course. And a big gunfight. Right before they blow up the Schlossburg Palace.”

He paused. “I don’t really need a gun fight in every movie.”

“Okay, so what’s your favorite movie from the past year?”

He began to answer, then stopped. She laughed.

“Fuck you, Soccer Mom.”

“Ha! Tell me.”

“You won’t believe me, but Fast and Furious 7 was actually really good. I teared up at the tribute to Paul Walker at the end.”

She laughed. “I believe you did.”

Conch fritters, more margaritas. They continued to banter easily. It was the thing that disturbed Heather the most. It wasn’t just animal attraction.

What is it you’re supposed to say when confessing an affair? It was meaningless. Just a stupid moment of weakness. Purely physical.

She couldn’t say that.

Or alternatively, I was just so lonely. Desperate for any connection.

And she couldn’t say that either. Jeff wasn’t distant. He wasn’t emotionally abusive. Yeah, he sometimes worked long hours, but when he was home, he was home. It was more than she could say recently, her mind roaming to far away places even as the kids melted down in front of her... because the kids were melting down. Jeff, instead, was attentive, helpful, good with the kids, kind with her. How many working husbands offer to send their stay-at-home wives on a vacation? Insist on it even?

The problem was, she wasn't just attracted to Damon. She liked him.

"You ready to go?" he asked as he signed the check.

She nodded.

"Walk on the beach?" he suggested.

She nodded again. He helped her up and took her hand as they walked toward the sea.

"You're very quiet all of a sudden."

Heather sighed. "This is hard for me."

He stopped and turned toward her. He took his other hand in his.

"We can stop whenever you want."

She laughed. And cried another tear.

"That's what makes it hard. I don't want to stop. I want to walk on the beach. I want to stop and kiss. I want to feel your hard body against mine. Feel you inside of me."

"Then, let go," he suggested.

She chuckled darkly. "That's easy for you to say. You're not breaking anyone's heart."

"He doesn't need to know." Damon paused. "I'm not just saying that because I still want you."

Heather shivered. Cold? Excitement? Anxiety? All of the above?

He continued, "Even if we say goodbye right now. He doesn't need to know. You only break his heart if you tell him."

"So lie. Lie by omission, but still lie. How is that not betrayal?"

"Heather, look, don't do this to me. Don't make me the bad guy. Don't tempt me to talk you into it. Because, baby, I want to. Right now, I want to pull out all the stops, because I want to spend the night with you."

She looked up at him. Damn, he was handsome. And amazing in bed.

"I want to spend the night with you too," Heather replied.

He grinned. "You scared me there for a minute."

They resumed their walk toward the beach.

"Yeah, poor baby, if I turned you down, you'd have had no choice but to track down Shelby and fuck the shit out of her."

He nodded thoughtfully. "You're right. You are a cheating whore. Go back to your room and call your husband."

She laughed. "You're an idiot."

He yanked her against his hard body, and wrapped his hand around her waist.

"I like you Soccer Mom."

The beach stretched on for miles, a pale crescent shimmering in the moonlight. Palms swayed, the waves crashed against the shore. At intervals along the beach, small fires burned. Music and laughter carrying for miles, intermingling with the surf to create the unmistakable feel of the beach, of summer romances, and drunken flings among the dunes.

"You want to go for a swim?" Damon asked.

"I don't have a suit."

He grinned. "Exactly."

Heather looked around. They were in a secluded spot, between two resorts, and yet they'd come across other couples as they walked.

"People will see."

"No they won't. And so what if they do?"

"You just contradicted yourself."

He laughed. "Oh no, Soccer Mom, did I just fail my formal logic final exam?"

"We shouldn't."

"Okay, you sit here, by yourself. I'm swimming..."

He peeled off his shirt and quickly stripped off his pants and briefs.

"...naked!"

Heather couldn't help but giggle as she watched him run, buck-naked, and dive into the waves. Damn, he had a great ass too.

"Come on, Soccer Mom, it feels great," he screamed from the surf.

"Shhhh!"

He laughed loudly. "COME ON!"

She shook her head and laughed. It was crazy. And yet, she couldn't remember the last time she'd felt so alive. She stood and cast a quick glance up and down the beach. It was still quiet. She pulled her dress over her head and flounced into the water after him.

“Fuck, it’s cold!” she hissed.

He laughed and pulled her close. “Let me warm you up.”

He leaned down and kissed her hard. She looked down to see his dark arms wrapped around her, melding into the inky sea, even as the moonlight made her skin glow. He was invisible in the night. She felt she was on display.

“This isn’t fair. I reflect the moonlight.”

“You glow.”

“People can see me.”

“Let them.”

He kissed her again. “I want you.”

Did he want to leave? Then she understood. “What? Here?”

He reached down and lifted her out of the water. She wrapped her arms around his neck, her legs around his waist.

“Yes. Here.”

He kissed her again, hungrily. Her nipples, erect, sensitive from the cold water, pressed into his chest. His hands were cupping her ass, bearing her weight, but also kneading her cheeks. She could feel the warm sea breeze on her ass, her pussy, and then his prick, stiffening, curving upward, tapping against her butt as the waves jostled them. He reached down and began to rub his prick against her wet snatch.

“Tell me you want it.”

“Oh God, Damon, I want it,” she hissed.

He thrust upward. She gasped as he penetrated her yet again.

“Fuck, I love that,” she moaned.

He didn’t answer. He just kissed her passionately as he slowly worked his prick deeper into her eager, tight pussy.

It was like when he’d carried her in from the balcony, impaled on his cock. The sensation of being filled almost less exciting than the ease with which he handled her. His controlled strength, his focused power was exhilarating. He could take whatever he wanted from her, and yet he never had to, because his dominance was not about what he could demand but what it made her want to offer.

He handled her like a ragdoll. Effortlessly, he began to bounce her up and down on his fat prick. He lifted her until he was barely inside her, and then allowed gravity to impale her again on his cock. The sensation of falling, skewered, caught by his manhood was almost unbearable. Out of her control. No choice but to submit, and yet she was ecstatic to do so.

Damon was using her like a sex toy, she realized. Masturbating with her pussy. It was something Jeff would never do. He probably could if he wanted to. Not as easily as Damon, but he was strong enough to lift her easily. Yet he never would, and she wouldn't let him either. But with Damon it felt so natural to just surrender, to become nothing more than a sexual plaything, at least for a time.

He stopped bouncing her on his cock, pausing for a moment, his huge prick completely inside her. Instinct took over, and she began grinding against him, her hips circling clockwise, then counter-clockwise. She kissed him, almost violently mashing her lips against his.

"Damn, Soccer Mom, you're on fire," he exclaimed as she broke the kiss and resumed her grinding.

"Mmmm, you make me crazy."

"Lean back."

She arched her back. He bent forward and sucked her on her nipples. Heather growled, redoubling the gyrations.

"All the way," he encouraged.

Heather released her grip on his powerful neck and let herself fall backwards. He caught her and held her like that, perpendicular to him, her head inches from the dark water. In that position, she couldn't grind against him, but he took over again, thrusting hard into her.

She was, for a moment, as if alone in space. Her back and hair dipping into the waves, looking up at the limitless sky, stars twinkling. Alone... except for the relentless, delicious sensation of his cock entering her again and again, bringing her closer and closer.

"Oh God, Damon, that's so good... sooo good."

Her encouragement fed his excitement. He fucked her still harder now. Heather gasped and then cried out in passion. She didn't care who heard, who saw, who knew. And then she was coming, her body shuddering and writhing in his strong hands. Gasping for breath. Dizzy.

He pulled her upright and she collapsed against his chest, her arms wrapped tightly around his neck.

"Thank you. Thank you. Thank you," she muttered into his cheek.

"Ack, Soccer Mom, you're killing me."

It took a moment to penetrate the fog. Then she released her death grip. She grinned sheepishly.

“Sorry.”

He laughed. “For a little thing, you’re awfully strong. Damn, you come hard.”

“Only with you, Damon. I’ve never.... You bring it out.”

He began walking back toward the shore.

“I’m going to finish you on the beach.”

She shivered at his words, at the casual eroticism of it. But she also shivered at the sensation of bouncing on his cock as they walked. And at the thought of what being finished might entail.

As they left the surf, Heather noticed the footsteps in the sand, a reminder that they were not alone on the beach. She giggled.

“What’s the matter?”

“Just thinking about what we look like.”

“What? The whole interracial thing still freaks you out?”

“Yup, it’s that. Not the whole naked, having sex standing up thing.”

“Technically we’re not standing. We’re walking. Or I am. You’re being carried.”

“Yeah, impaled on your prick. Nothing to see here, move along,” Heather waved away imaginary gawkers.

He was walking toward the relatively privacy of the line of palms bordering the beach. Then he stopped.

“I think you secretly fantasize about people seeing us.”

She shivered.

“Told you,” he added gleefully.

“It was just the cold.”

“Nah uh, Soccer Mom. You’re a closet exhibitionist. Well, then let’s make it easy for potential voyeurs.”

He slowly lifted her off his prick. They were in the middle of the beach. Out in the open. Heather could hear voices, laughter coming from the distance. Were the sounds coming closer?

“Oh no, Damon, not out here. You’re crazy.”

“I want you on your hands and knees,” he said simply.

“Damon...”

“Do it,” he insisted.

“Oh God,” she sighed.

Still, Heather knew she wouldn't deny him. She spun around and dropped to the sand.

"Be quick, okay?"

He chuckled and dropped down behind her and rubbed his cock against her swollen, wet slit. He thrust in firmly.

"Not a chance," he replied gleefully.

She wanted to protest, to insist, but he just... felt... so... good. Slowly churning his huge prick inside her again and again.

More laughter. She looked up. Was that someone approaching?

"Are you close?"

"Not even a little. I want you to come first."

"Oh please, Damon, I don't want to...."

He thrust harder, deeper.

"Ohhh," she moaned.

"Don't want to ohh?" he laughed.

Harder. Harder.

"Oh God."

"Cat got your tongue Soccer Mom?"

"Fuck you," she hissed.

He chuckled.

"I hope people see us. I hope people see what a hot, dirty, little slut you really are."

"I'm not," she gasped.

"Your asshole is winking at me."

She giggled. "What?"

"Every time I go in, it winks at me. I think it wants a little more attention."

"Damon... ugh."

"You sure you're not a slut?"

He pressed his thumb deep into her still sore butt. He seized a handful of her hair with his other hand and pulled back hard. Heather groaned. Naked, on a public beach, back arched, her small chest thrust forward, nipples hard as pebbles, a thumb in her ass, and a huge black cock pounding her from behind.

She was a slut. He'd made her into one. Damon with his charm and his smile and his wit and his fucking sexy body. He'd made her into his personal slut.

“Oh God, you’re right,” she sighed.

“Come for me slut. Cream all over my dick before I come inside you. Let me know you really want it.”

“Oh God, Damon, I want it. I really, really want it,” Heather cried out.

She wanted to come for him. Because she knew he liked it. To prove her devotion. To reward him for the way he made her feel. She wanted to come for him to please him.

Harder, harder. His crotch now pounding her cheeks. His balls slapping her clit. His thumb, so deep, so deep in her ass.

“Ugh, ugh, ugh,” she cried out.

Then suddenly her body seized up. A full body convulsion. He felt her shudder, and he began to groan as well. She could feel him swell inside her and then his huge prick pulsed as he came, filling her yet again with his heavy load.

She’d have collapsed had he not grabbed her around the waist, holding her up on her knees, hugged into a desperate embrace.

“Oh Jesus, Soccer Mom, you are something else.”

She looked over her shoulder. They kissed awkwardly, passionately.

“You too baby. You too.”

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Heather was smiling giddily. She was sure anyone seeing her could read her mind and immediately know why. She was grinning like a woman who had recently been well and thoroughly fucked. Even if they couldn't read her mind, they could surely read her body language. The way she and Damon walked together, holding hands, their bodies swaying against each other, the attraction obvious, yet unhurried, both urgent and recently consummated.

She was wildly and desperately infatuated with him. She took comfort in that diagnosis. Her ability to recognize it for what it was meant that she wasn't completely out of control. But at the same time, she knew she was in some sort of denial about the consequences of what she was doing. This had to end badly. There was no other way. And yet the closest she came to that thought was her realization that it had to end.

She'd had a brief moment of clarity there, on the beach, before they'd waded out into the water to make love... well, okay, fuck in the waves. A brief moment when it had occurred to her that in thirty-six hours, she'd be on her way to the airport and this would be over.

She'd been spending much of the past six months hoping for time to accelerate. To get Billy out of diapers and into kindergarten. To get to the point where she again had control and freedom over her life. But now, she just wanted time to stop. And, of course, now it seemed to be hurrying along.

Closing in on midnight, she realized it was closer to thirty-four hours. She still couldn't bring herself to think about what would happen after. It was hard enough to contemplate that ever-diminishing number.

They had to sleep. Say six hours a night. Twelve total. So, really, she was down to twenty-two hours with Damon. Both her ass and her pussy were aching pleasantly from his cock, but despite that she knew how she wanted to fill those hours.

"Can we go back to your place?" she asked suddenly.

He chuckled softly. "You're becoming insatiable."

She blushed, but she loved the sensation of it. That mix of lust and embarrassment, of anticipation and guilt.

“Worried you can’t keep up,” she taunted.

He laughed, louder now. “Yeah, a little. I don’t think I could ever live it down if a soccer mom from....”

He paused awkwardly mid-sentence.

“You know,” he continued, “I’m sorry, but I don’t know where you’re from.”

“Dayton, Ohio. And don’t be sorry. I never mentioned it.”

“You sure you’re okay?”

“You’re worried that admitting it reminds me that I’m having an affair with a virtual stranger?”

He nodded.

She smiled. Despite his gruff exterior, he could be surprisingly sweet.

“Don’t worry. I’m a big girl. Take me back to your room.”

He gave her hand a firm squeeze. “I’d love to.”

Inside the room, Heather whipped off her dress. It was so thrilling being naked with him, with her lover. Even though he’d had her every which way already, he still looked at her excitedly. He still looked at her like a child looks at a shiny new toy... well, not exactly, but he hadn’t grown tired of her yet. As he stripped off his own shirt, she realized she felt the same. She wanted nothing more than to devour him. She had a wicked thought.

“I’m covered in sand. Let’s take a shower,” she suggested, taking him by the hand.

His bathroom, like hers was large, bright, covered in marble, and featured both a two-person Jacuzzi tub and a large separate shower. Heather contemplated the choice for a moment, and then chose the shower... for now. He kicked off his pants, leaving him naked. She adjusted the temperature and then taking a towel with her, she pulled him into the enclosure.

“What’s that for?” he asked, pointing at the now soaking towel.

“Padding.”

“You know, you don’t have to.”

She folded over the towel and laid it at his feet. She smiled.

“I know. But I want to. Is that okay?”

He grinned back but didn't answer.

She reached out and palmed his heavy prick. “Is it okay if I suck your cock?”

He laughed. “Yeah, suck my cock, Soccer Mom.”

“Yes sir,” she replied.

She dropped to her knees before him. Face to face with his oversized prick, she couldn't help but gasp. Even flaccid he was much bigger than Jeff. She knew she couldn't swallow him whole, but now she wondered if she could fit him into her mouth at all. But she wasn't there yet anyway.

She reached out for a bottle of shower gel and squeezed a generous amount into her hands, rubbing them together to create a thick lather. She took her time washing him, lathering up his shaft, his balls. She could feel his cock twitching at the touch of her slippery fingers sliding across his skin.

She turned him toward the water to rinse him off, and then she began to explore his cock with her tongue. He was uncircumcised, and she wasn't used to that. She licked at the exposed tip of his cock, and then sucked and licked at the sheath of skin that protected the rest of the head of his prick. She ran her tongue up the length of his shaft, pausing to kiss and suck the bumps, ridges, veins that up close now appeared so prominent. She licked around the base of his prick, dipping low to kiss and suck his heavy balls. She took one at a time into her mouth, gently rolling it around. His hand came to rest on her cheek, a gentle encouragement that let her know she was doing a good job.

Heather licked up the underside of his shaft. He was noticeably harder now, his veins even more prominent. When she returned to the head, she noticed his foreskin seemed to have receded, exposing even more of his cockhead. Pumping his shaft up and down with her fist, she gradually revealed the rest of his glans. She swirled her tongue around the base of his cockhead, sensing its sensitivity, and relishing how his prick responded, twitching and continuing to swell and stiffen.

She rocked back on her heels and stroked his hard shaft. She couldn't close her hands around it anymore. She marveled at the size of it, and even more at the fact that she'd taken it inside her, and not just in her pussy, but her ass as well. A few days ago, a prick like this would have terrified her. Now she understood the pleasure it could bring, and she couldn't wait to have it inside her again... but not yet. Not until she'd sucked him dry.

She rose back up and took the head of his cock into her mouth. Even that nearly made her gag and she didn't dare try to swallow more. Instead, she bobbed up and down on the head, licking and swirling her tongue around his spongy glans. She stroked him fast, hand over hand, like a sailor working a line. And then she looked up at him, her eyes meeting his. She could only imagine the image she presented. On her knees, mouth stretched wide around a huge, black, prick, pumping him frantically in a way that left no doubt what she wanted.

And she did want it. Shockingly. It was something she'd never done. Never allowed a man to finish in her mouth. It had always seemed disgusting, demeaning, and definitely unnecessary. But at that moment, it was all Heather desired. She wanted to satisfy him that way. Please him. And if she'd never done it before, so much the better, because Damon made her feel the way no man had before. Not just physically, but psychologically. He made her feel desirable. Sexy. And more. Wanton. Lewd. He'd touched a side of her that she hadn't even known existed, given her an experience more erotic than anything she'd ever even fantasized about.

"Oh God, Soccer Mom, you're so fucking hot," he moaned.

He was close. She could feel it in the increasing pressure he placed on the back of her head, the way his cock twitched. She wanted to taste him. She let his cock slip from her mouth, but kept it wide open, resting his heavy cock on her tongue. She stroked him harder, hard enough that she worried about hurting him, but his moans of pleasure let her know she wasn't, that instead, it was just right.

He grunted. She felt his jism, hot, thick, and slimy shoot into her mouth, coating her tongue. It was disgusting, but she loved it. She continued to stroke him, wanting it all. Another spurt, still copious. And then another and another, until she was sure he'd come a gallon. Never breaking eye contact, she closed her mouth and swallowed his load, and when she had, she went right back to sucking his cock, licking every last drop of come as it dripped from his slowly softening prick.

The look on his face was priceless. Surprise, excitement, appreciation, admiration. He helped her to her feet and hugged her close.

“That was amazing, Heather.”

She molded her body to his, relishing the sensation of the hot water flowing over her even as she relished the hardness of his physique. The slimy, salty taste in her mouth, combined with lingering soreness in her pussy and ass, serving as an unmistakable reminder that she’d given him all she had to offer, that she would deny him nothing.

She cooed happily as she felt him drip shampoo on her head and begin lathering up her hair. She let him wash her from head to toe, a surprisingly tender affair, conveying gratitude and affection.

“We better get out of here, I’m starting to prune up,” he said as he finished up.

“I didn’t think that happened to your people.”

“Ha ha, Soccer Mom. Now get your ass into bed. I didn’t clean you up just to be nice, you know.”

Heather giggled. She realized that in addition to making her all gooey inside, he also had her constantly laughing and giggling. It felt nice.

They hurriedly dried themselves and Damon conspicuously stripped the covers off the bed, leaving just a wide expanse of white sheet on which to perform. He yanked away her towel and playfully shoved her onto the mattress. She turned around to look at him. Naked, splayed out, she made no move to cover her nudity.

“What are you going to do to me?”

He didn’t answer. Instead, he dropped his own towel. Heather’s eyes were immediately drawn to his thick, dangling cock.

“You can’t get enough, can you?” he teased.

“I can’t,” she admitted, seriously.

“Don’t worry, you’ll get it, but first, I need to make you scream.”

Her stomach fluttered, and she flinched as he descended upon her. Her squeak of surprise turned into a throaty growl as his mouth found her shaved pussy, licking her deeply.

He made her scream, over and over. First just with his tongue probing deep into her juicy snatch. Then fingerbanging her hard, two fingers in her pussy, two more in her ass he sucked her hard, sensitive clit into her mouth. And again, on her hands and knees, as he ate her ass from behind.

She cried out in passion. She begged him to stop. She tried to push him away. But he was remorseless, relentless, reducing her to blurry-eyed, quivering, sweaty mass on the bed. And when he finally rolled her onto her back and sank his huge prick into her drenched twat, she sighed in delicious relief.

He engulfed her. Thrusting hard inside her, their bodies pressed together. He wrapped one arm beneath her shoulder, pulling her to him, as they kissed desperately. His other arm snaked beneath her, his hand palming her ass, middle finger wedged into her crack, teasing her anus.

Heather reddened as she realized how loud she was being, gasping into his mouth, her pussy squishing wetly as he fucked her. But she couldn't help herself.

"Oh God, Damon. Oh God!"

Pinpricks on her skin. Sweat dripping into her eyes. Lightheaded.

"Tell me you want it."

"Oh God, Damon. I want it! I want it all."

"What?"

"Anything, Damon. Oh God! Everything. I'm yours."

"My what?"

Heather couldn't think straight. Couldn't imagine what he wanted her to say. And then it just came out.

"I'm your whore."

He grunted in excitement. "Fuck yeah, Soccer Mom. You're my slutty..."

A vicious thrust. She cried out.

"Dirty..."

Again.

"Whore."

Another rough thrust. Heather squealed in delight.

He fucked her like that, brutally, punctuating each stroke with the mantra.

"Slutty... Dirty... Whore."

"Yeah, Damon, yeah, fuck your slutty, dirty whore."

"Slutty... Dirty... Whore."

"Come in my slutty, dirty, whore cunt."

"Slutty! Dirty! Whore!" he bellowed.

His cock swelled and pulsed inside her. She could feel him coming. She could imagine his hot seed flooding her pussy. It was too much. With a strangled gasp, she too came yet again.

He rolled off her and lay beside her panting. She felt his hand reach out for hers. He gave her a squeeze. She looked over at him, sweaty, panting.

“You okay?” He asked.

She laughed. “Of course. Jesus. You have to ask?”

“I mean, about the....”

“Slutty, dirty, whore stuff?”

“Yeah.”

She nodded. “I could never have imagined those words coming out of my mouth before. But yeah, it was just in the moment, right?”

He grinned. “Well, you are my slutty, dirty, whore.”

She reached over and slapped his chest.

“Oh sure, now you show your violent side,” he protested.

She stared at the ceiling, smiling.

“Do you do this to all the girls?”

He didn’t answer. She looked over at him.

“What do you mean?”

She smiled to reassure him. “No, I’m not looking for you to tell me I’m special–“

“You are special,” he interrupted.

She rolled her eyes.

“I mean, do the other women you’re with.... Do you make them lose their minds too?”

“I like to think women enjoy their time with me.”

“That’s not what I mean. I mean, you make me crazy. I can’t see straight. Can’t think straight. You just finished inside me, and even though I’m sore all over... even my abs ache from how hard they contract when you make me come... even still, all I can think about is having you again.”

He laughed. “We do have a weird chemistry, don’t we?”

“So it’s not just me?”

“No... I mean yes.” He chuckled. “No, in the sense that I feel it too. Yes, in the sense that most women don’t react like you do.”

“Why do you think that is?” she asked.

“Why do you think it is?”

She resisted the temptation to call him on answering a question with a question.

“Well, for me, I think it’s that you’re the first man who’s made me feel really and truly sexual. It’s... it’s hard to explain, you know. And also, you’re like the first man who isn’t, like, grateful –“

“Believe me Soccer Mom, I am.”

She grinned. “Maybe, but you don’t make me feel like I’m doing you a favor.”

He nodded.

“Now your turn,” she prompted.

He paused. “You’re hot.”

Heather rolled her eyes.

“I know,” he continued. “There are, I guess, hotter women out there. But you’re such a tight, little thing. And you’re so responsive. God, you’re like a rocket the way you go off. And....”

He hesitated.

“Go ahead,” she encouraged.

“Well, I know this is going to make me look like a shit, but I like I said before I like that you’re married.”

A laugh. “Oh, right, the whole other man’s woman thing. God, you guys are so fucking competitive.”

He shrugged. “Makes me feel like I’m getting away with something. And, I guess, I also like that you seem so innocent.”

“Not anymore!”

“Exactly. Turns me on to know that I’m the first to get into that tight little ass. I am the first, right?”

“Uh huh. But why is that hot?”

“Think of it, Soccer Mom. Every man you’ve met since you were about fifteen has fantasized about getting his dick in there –“

“They have not!”

“They have too. Believe me. Young men, old men, construction workers, teachers, whatever, they’ve checked out your cute little ass and dreamed about bending you over and buttfucking you.”

Heather shivered. “I don’t want to think about it.”

He laughed. “You asked.”

“That’ll teach me.”

He leaned over and kissed her. Still poised over her, he stroked her cheek.

“I didn’t mean to upset you.”

“You didn’t.”

A pause.

“Well, maybe a little,” Heather admitted. “I guess that’s the flip side of all of this, right? Getting more in touch with my sexuality means better understanding other people’s.”

It occurred to her that she’d been living a sheltered life. How had that happened? How did she become Soccer Mom. God, she’d always been so conservative about sex. Responsible. Or maybe, scared. But why? So much drilled into her. Pregnancy, STIs, date rape, slut shaming. All girls got that rap, but not all girls internalized it to the point of ignoring or denying the beauty of... well... a good fuck. Why had she? Was it maybe a different fear? The worry that she’d enjoy it too much? No, that wasn’t it. She’d never imagined it could be like this. But now, how could she go back?

Damon brushed the back of his hand over her throat, down the front of her chest, over her nipples.

“I like you when you’re pensive,” he said with a smile.

“You like me when I’m naked.”

“That too.”

He leaned down and kissed her again. His hand continued its downward journey, over her belly, past her abdomen, his thumb finding her wet, sensitive slit.

She put her hand over his to stop him.

“No more, Damon, not tonight.”

He kissed her again. “One more. I want to make you come one more time.”

He churning his thumb into her slippery folds, and then began circling her clit. She kept her hand on his, feeling his movements. It felt like she was playing with herself, but she wasn’t. Still, it seemed oddly intimate.

He kissed her again. Lightly, his soft lips trailing against hers. He nibbled at her chin, and kissed her neck. She’d thought she was done, but Damon seemed to know her body better than she did herself. She could feel the heat building in her belly, her nipples throbbing, he pressed down harder, the pad of his thumb edging beneath the tight hood of her clit.

Her body shuddered. She pressed down hard on his hand.

“Oh God,” she gasped. “Oh Damon.”

He gently edged his hand away. He reached down and pulled the cover over them. Then over his shoulder he snapped off the lights. He pulled Heather into a tight embrace in their now darkened cocoon of fresh sheets and heavy comforter.

“Good night, Soccer Mom.”

CHAPTER TWELVE

Heather woke. It was still dark, the middle of the night. She looked at the alarm. 4:13am. Less than thirty hours left now.

It reminded her of middle school. She'd had a crush on Bryce. Bryce Banner. He had long hair, a cocky grin. He was the only boy who could actually look a girl in the eye. And Heather was in love. Desperate, tears-in-the-shower love. He never noticed her. No, he was too interested in Lorelei, that little whore who at thirteen had bigger tits than Heather had even now. Well, not just Lorelei, but Dani who always wore rock band tee shirts, and Trina, whose dad owned the BMW dealership, and basically all the bitchy, confident mean girls. But every day, Heather recalculated. 120 days left in the school year. 93. Now 62. Then 29. The days left before they all scattered for the summer and then to different high schools, the days for the flowering of the grand Heather-Bryce love affair she fantasized about.

She was still counting down. Except this time, it had really happened. But it was still that same feeling. That sense of time running out. A growing desperation to make every minute count.

Damon was dozing peacefully. Not for long. She eased off the covers and admired his gorgeous, naked body, relaxed in sleep and yet still oozing strength and power. She ran her finger over his chest, lightly, lightly to avoid waking him, trying to commit to memory the feel of his muscles, the lines of his long limbs.

She realized for the first time that his chest wasn't naturally hairless. He shaved it. She felt a few stray bits of stubble. Her hand went down to her shaved pussy. She was good for another day. It was funny to think of him shaving for her as she'd shaved for him. It humanized him. He wasn't a sex god, but just a man, and somehow that made him even more appealing.

She trailed her fingers lightly over his abs. Less prominent in repose, but still impressive. A freak of nature? No. He probably had to work at it. She imagined him in the gym, sweating through a spinning class before work, counting his calories. The actions of a guy who had to work for sex, who couldn't just count on it like a married man.

She shuddered, realizing suddenly what she was doing. Unconsciously comparing him to Jeff, finding her husband wanting.

Justifying the affair to herself. If only Jeff worked as hard as being sexy as Damon.

She chided herself. Not fair, Heather. Damon doesn't have to get up early every morning to support a family. He doesn't have an hour-long commute, made worse by delaying his departure to make sure he can have breakfast with the kids. He doesn't rush home after work to give his wife a few minutes break from the kids before dinner. He doesn't do dishes, read to three children before bed, and then climb exhausted into bed with his equally exhausted wife before beginning the cycle again, and again, and again.

Still, even before marriage, before kids, Jeff had never been this fit. Never had this....

Heather traced the outline of Damon's huge prick. That's what it came down to. She felt suddenly pathetic. Really, Heather? A size queen? No, that wasn't honest either. She was ready to give herself to him even before she knew how big he was. Still... she always knew even if she didn't know. Suspected at least. But no. That wasn't it, at least not all of it. She thought of the way he touched her, his words, his adventurousness. Damon's cock was a bonus. An amazing, heart-stopping bonus, but she'd have given herself to him regardless, fallen for him even if he'd been just average in the pants.

But... he wasn't. God, he wasn't. She bent lower until she was inches away from his prick. She admired his smooth cock, peaceful, curved, soft. An alter ego to the hard, powerful tool it became. Clark Kent to Superman.

She giggled at her own idiotic thoughts. God, I am really losing it. And yet, she couldn't deny her desires. She wanted to see Superman. Again. Right now.

Heather ran her tongue along his shaft. She felt his cock twitch at her touch. She wondered if the sensation was now shaping his dreams, and if his dreams were of her. No, probably not. In his dreams, my tongue is Scarlett Johansson's. Or at least Shelby's. Fucking blondes with big tits. Except they weren't here, and Heather was. For the first time in history the nice girl was winning.

Yeah, real nice girl. You dumb, married, cheating slut.

She hesitated. This was wrong. She had to flee. No. It was right, so right, undeniable. And anyway... what difference did it make at this point?

She licked his cock again. She loved the way it seemed to slowly twitch to life. It hardened, slowly, taking shape, becoming rigid. She sucked on his foreskin, marveling up close at the way her attention caused him grow, exposing more and more of his large, spongy glans. Heather's tongue swirled around the tip of his cock, finally taking the head into her mouth, sucking it, bathing it with her tongue.

He was hard now, and Heather knew she had to have him inside her. She eased him onto his back and straddled him. His eyes remained closed, his breathing steady.

She seized his prick and slowly lowered herself onto him, feeling his bulk stretching her out, filling her completely. She settled down on him and just sat there, relishing the sensation.

"You know, Soccer Mom, technically this is rape."

She looked down to see him looking at her. He'd been awake the whole time... or long enough at least.

"So call the cops," she replied.

She began to rise and fall on him slowly.

"No, seriously, you can't go around --"

She slapped his chest.

"Shut up and fuck me."

He grinned. "Crazy bitch."

"Cocky shit."

The words meant nothing. She felt his hands on her hips, felt him begin to thrust upward into her. Hard. Harder. She gasped and moaned. He grunted. Faster and faster. And then as if they'd planned it, they both shuddered, growled, and came together.

She fell forward on his chest and kissed his neck.

"Can I get some fucking sleep now?" he asked.

"Yeah," she replied.

She looked over at the clock. Less than 29 hours now.

Still, he returned the favor a few hours later. With the sun now peaking through the drawn curtains, he woke her by spooning her, his hand reaching around to gently fondle her pussy. She could feel his hardness pressing against her ass. She moaned softly as his fingers explored her silky folds, easily finding the wetness within.

He entered her from behind, fucking her slowly at first, his fingers encircling her clit, rolling her sensitive nipples between his thumb and forefinger, until she came beautifully. Then harder and harder. Heather bit down on the pillow to keep from screaming, or at least to muffle her screams. She tried to push his hand away. It was too much stimulation. Too much. But she couldn't. He was too strong. And anyway, she didn't really want to push him away. She surrendered to him. Trusting in his knowledge of her body.

He rolled onto his back and pulled her onto top of him. Lying on him, facing the ceiling, his huge cock pounding into her from beneath, his fingers tormenting her swollen, aching clit, Heather screamed in passion.

No words. Just high primal screams. Shuttering guttural grunts. Her breath coming in wheezing gasps. Animalistic rather than human.

And he fucked her harder still. She could feel it building. If he slowed for just a second she'd come, hard, but he didn't. It was too much to let her release and instead it just built and built. Twitching now. Blurry eyed. His other hand on her breasts, tormenting her nipples, pinching, stretching them out.

Her long, low howl suddenly choked off. Bucking. Arms flailing. She felt him coming inside her, and she was exploding as well. Heat, wetness, so much wetness. Dizzy, half-blind.

She blushed painfully as she realized what had happened. She rolled off him scooted away from the soaked sheets, burying her head in her pillow.

"Oh God, I'm so sorry," she cried out, stricken.

He laughed. "Why?"

"I peed on you."

He gently rubbed her back. "Female ejaculation. You squirted. It's okay."

She peeked out at him. He really wasn't appalled?

"Never happened before?" he asked.

"No, God, no."

"Men come, women can too."

She rolled her eyes. "It's pee, you know."

He shook his head. "I'm telling you, it's –"
"Pee."

He laughed. "Whatever. We'll let housekeeping sort it out. Shower and breakfast?"

Heather leapt out of bed and into the shower. But as she turned on the hot water, she couldn't help but giggle.

Heather stopped by her room to change, and then met Damon back by the pool. He had a Bloody Mary waiting for her, just as she'd hoped. It was sort of frightening. He already seemed to know her so well, yet, of course, they didn't know each other at all. At this point, Heather wasn't sure she wanted to know more. They were already so comfortable, intimate, and not just sexually. The playfulness, the banter. She couldn't imagine what Jeff would think about it, but she thought that while she might be able to forgive Jeff a torrid sexual escapade, she wasn't sure she could forgive herself.

She glanced at the clock: 10:13am. Less than twenty-four hours left. Officially their last day together.

"So, what happens next?" she asked.

He groaned. "Don't worry, housekeeping sees worse –"

She blushed and swatted him.

"No, not that, idiot."

He lowered his aviators and gave her a scowl. "Did you just call me idiot?"

A week ago she'd have been intimidating. Now she just laughed.

"Yeah. And actually, what am I supposed to call you? Do you have a nickname? Or does everyone just call you Damon?"

"What's wrong with Damon?"

"I don't know. Just seems formal to always call you by your full name. I mean, you can't even bring yourself to say my name."

"That's because your name is lame. Heather. White bread, white girl."

"Well, that's what I am, right?"

"Fuck no. You're not. You're a nasty, hungry vixen."

She laughed. "See, that's the thing, I'm not."

“You are.”

She rolled her eyes.

“Well, I guess that’s my question, right? I mean, what happens next?”

He shrugged. “I’m not sure what you mean.”

“Oh God, Damon, help me out here. I’m seriously flailing. I’ve never done this before. What happens next?”

“What do you want to happen?”

I want to pack you in my suitcase. Take you home and bring you out three times a day to fuck me silly before hiding you away again.

“I don’t know.... I love my husband. Kids.”

He nodded. “So that’s the answer. Nothing. Nothing happens. We say goodbye. We keep our memories. And that’s it.”

“Really?”

He sighed. “I don’t know what you want from me Soccer Mom. I don’t think I can live with the guilt of being a home-wrecker. And anyway, you don’t want that. Right?”

Was there something wistful about his tone? Had he thought of chucking the bachelor life and, what, being with her?

“Right,” she replied slowly. “But. I don’t know how this becomes nothing. You’ve done this before –“

“No, actually Heather, I haven’t. I’ve had flings. Encounters. Affairs. But not this. But I don’t know the answer. You want to be Facebook friends? Or what, we keep in touch in secret, find an excuse to meet once a year?”

“Same Time, Next Year.”

“Huh?”

“Another old movie. Alan Alda. Ellen Burstyn. They meet, have an affair like ours.... Well, minus the butt sex and peeing the bed.”

He laughed.

She continued, “And they agree to meet every year at the same time and place. Just one weekend a year. No communication in between.”

“Is that what you want?” Damon replied.

“Jesus, I don’t know what the fuck I want. I mean, yes, no, maybe?”

“You know that won’t work, right?”

She nodded, but her heart protested. Why not?

“It is just a fantasy,” he added.

“I just don’t know what happens next.”

He leaned over. “But you do.”

“I don’t.”

“Of course you do. What the fuck am I? Just a fling. Maybe it means something, but I don’t.”

“You do.”

He shook his head.

“This isn’t about me. It’s about you and what you want.”

She laughed darkly, a tear trailing down her cheek. “Very convenient, mister.”

“What can I say? It is convenient. True though. No one is going to be waiting for me at the airport.”

“So, do I tell him?”

“Do you have a choice?” Damon asked.

Of course she had a choice. In theory. In reality...?

“I don’t know. Is it more selfish to admit it or to hide it?”

“I wouldn’t want to know.”

She sighed. Jeff wouldn’t want to know either. As long as it meant nothing. But she wasn’t sure it was actually meaningless. It felt more consequential than that. And if she was changed, how could it be fair to hide that from her husband?

Heather finished off her Bloody Mary. She looked around, committing the scene to memory. The warm ocean breeze. The pale blue of the pool. The brilliant white façade of the hotel. The dark green of the lawns and swaying palms. The carefree giggles and chatter of the swimsuit clad guests.

And, of course, Damon. So handsome. So confident. Temptation incarnate. Giving her meaning and yet destroying everything she held dear....

“Oh, fuck!” she hissed.

Flat on her back, ankles around her ears, his fat prick pounding into her tiny, little asshole. It was what she wanted. What she’d asked for. The pain a fitting punishment, the thrill an unwarranted reward. Her curse. Even her penance becoming another guilty pleasure.

It was something she'd never done, never been tempted, and yet somehow she was a natural. An anal queen. She found she could relax at will and let that huge prick of his slide right in, filling her like she'd never thought possible. And even more was the exhilaration of it. So dirty. So fucking slutty. She wanted more.

"Is that all you got?" she grunted, taunting him.

He grinned, immediately copping to her game.

"So you want it rough, Soccer Mom?"

She bared her teeth at him. "Bring it."

He reached out and palmed her throat. She felt again his strength, knew he could crush her windpipe with ease. His grip tightened. She swallowed painfully. And then her cheek exploded as he slapped her hard. She yelped. Her face burned. But it was a jolt of adrenaline.

"More!" she growled.

He slapped again, this time her nipple. A surge of searing pain, that receded quickly to a throbbing ache. Her other nipple now. She squirmed, felt herself impaled on his big cock. She reached down between them and thumped her slick, swollen clit in time with his hard thrusts.

"That's it. Make yourself come while I fuck your ass, like a good little whore."

"Oh God," Heather sighed going over the edge.

While she was still in the throes of passion, he pulled out and easily flipped her over. Grabbing handfuls of her firm butt cheeks, he rammed back into her ass from behind. She cried out. Fuck. Natural or not, it still hurt. Not enough to make her want to stop. That's part of what made it so hot, that combination of pain, pleasure as his thrusts propagated to the rest of her loins, making her pussy quiver, her clit tingling, that feeling of being completely stuffed. Even more it sent her mind reeling. The sense of breaking taboos, so many fucking taboos. Cheating on her husband. Anal sex. Making it with a black man. And more than anything else, the realization that it all felt so right. That she wasn't who she'd been, but instead was a dirty, fucking, whore who could come from a dick in her ass.

He spanked her ass. She yelped. A new sensation. The sharp pain, quickly receding to a dull throb. Spank! Now to be renewed on the other cheek. Back and forth he went, pounding her ass, hammering her cheeks. She was clawing at the bed, tearing off the sheets, screaming until she felt hoarse, and still he went on and on, until with one last savage thrust she felt him pulse his hot jism in her ass and then collapse onto her, both of them gasps, sweaty, and spent.

So tender. In the shower. He bathed her, massaged her sore butt cheeks. He bent low and gently kissed her battered asshole. Everything hurt and yet, she wanted him again. Heather stood him up and guided him to her wet pussy, and they slowly made love beneath the hot water.

Then in bed. So different from before, but just as good. Slow thrusts. Kissing. Tender caresses.

She came again and again. More than she'd thought possible. Each orgasm felt like her last, but then he'd work her slowly, slowly, gently circling her nipples, tenderly teasing her clit, rubbing her shoulders.... And the kisses. Oh God, the kisses. Varied. Soft, butterfly pecks, and those long, deep kisses that really and truly felt like they touched her soul.

I don't know if I can live without this.

And then immediately the images that banished that thought. Ally. Becky. Bobby. Rexi, the stupidest fucking lab in the world. And most of all Jeff. Kind, gentle, caring Jeff. He didn't deserve this, his wife giving herself to another man, wholly completely, counting down the hours until they parted. Jeff was considerate and....

This isn't about Jeff. It's about me.

What did that really mean? Heather wasn't sure. But she was sure it wasn't about Jeff, though she knew he would find that hard to believe. How could he not see this as a rebuke?

"You okay, Soccer Mom?" Damon asked from beside her.

"Yeah, why?"

She was wrapped in a sheet, staring at the ceiling.

"Because you're not bending my ear."

She giggled. "Are you saying I am overly talkative?"

He leaned over and kissed her cheek. "Aren't all women?"

"Yeah, it would be better if we just shut up, right? Just be available for sex. Oh wait... they make those. Maybe you should get yourself a blowup doll."

He nodded pensively. "Maybe I should."

She rolled over toward him. “So that’s what I am to you? Just some convenient holes?”

“I’m just a walking dildo to you,” he countered with a grin.

“No. Damon, you’re not,” she replied simply.

He became serious. “Yeah?”

She reached down and gripped his prick. “Dildos don’t get soft.”

He laughed. “Jesus, you’re insatiable.”

She giggled again. “Actually, no, I need a little break.”

After a moment, he renewed his question. “So, are you okay?”

She nodded. And then shook her head. She smiled, but she felt her eyes tear up.

“I don’t know,” she admitted. Then after a pause, “What would you do if I showed up on your doorstep one night?”

“Change my locks?”

Her crestfallen expression chastened him.

“I’m kidding,” he insisted. “What are you saying? You want to leave your husband?”

“Want?” She seemed to nod.

“Will?” She shook her head.

Or was it the reverse.

“I don’t know how I can go back to things...” She said sadly.

“I’m not... I’m not the key variable, am I? Will I be there?”

Heather paused. Was he? What if Damon said he was madly in love with her? Would that make a difference?

“No... maybe... I don’t know.”

He raised up on his elbow, baring his chest. Was it weird that Heather couldn’t help admiring his muscular arm, his lean stomach?

“Heather, you don’t really want this. You have a real life, and me, I’m just a distraction.”

“Are you saying you wouldn’t be there?”

“I don’t know,” he replied honestly. “I want it. I want what you have...”

“But just not with me.”

“Of course with you... if you were me.”

“Huh? Narcissism? Or bi-curious?”

He laughed. “You know what I mean. If you were some single woman and we met like this and had this chemistry, yeah, fuck, I would move heaven and earth to make sure we had a shot. But you're not, and I can't... I don't want to be the man who fucks up the lives of five people."

"Six."

"You, hubby, three kids?"

"You forgot the dog."

He grinned. "Six, then."

"So I need to kill them first."

"You're a crazy bitch."

"I'm not, you know."

He stroked her hair.

"I know, Heather. And that's why I'm starting to feel real guilty about this. I... It was just supposed to be a fling, you know. And now...."

"It's still just a fling," she reassured him. "I don't expect anything of you."

He grimaced. "Ouch."

"That's not what I meant. Well, I did. But not in a bad way. The hypothetical isn't fair. I get that. I'm just looking for a way out."

"Of your marriage?"

"No, of this weird situation. These weird feelings."

"And what is that? Me telling you I'd kick you to the curb?"

She grinned. "Well, it would help. That's my problem. Neither of the men in my life are assholes enough to make it easy for me."

Damon looked her right in the eye. "Soccer Mom, you are nothing to me but a set of wonderfully enjoyable holes. Okay?"

She laughed. "Nice try."

"I'm serious," he continued. "You're a whore. A slut. A cum dumpster. You're just a place for me to drop some vacation loads, get it?"

She laughed. He was so transparent. Trying to make her choice easy. And in doing that, he just made it harder.

"Fuck, that's the nicest thing anyone has ever said to me."

"You really are a crazy bitch."

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Heather woke up. She glanced at the alarm. 7:15am. Three hours... less... left. But the franticness was gone. It was over, or almost, and there was nothing to do about it. Soon, she'd been on an airplane, still sore all over, with nothing to do except sort out how she planned to deal with Jeff. Damon would be just a memory.

But he wasn't yet. Breaking into a grin she dropped beneath the covers and slurped his heavy and still flaccid dong deep into her mouth. And when he was hard, she rolled onto her back and pulled him on top of her between her spread legs.

They made love, slowly tenderly, kissing continually. Heather let her hands roam over his body, trying to imprint upon her memory the feel of him, his shaved head, his broad shoulders, his powerful ass clenching as he filled her again and again with his unbelievable cock. They came together like old lovers. She kissed him again.

"You need to go now," she said simply.

He nodded. "You okay?"

"Yeah. I am. I... I'll never forget this, but well, the clock is up."

"Yup, my flight is this morning too."

Oh. She hadn't focused on that before. It made her grin.

Heather checked out and rolled her suitcase out front. There was the hotel van to the airport, already half-full with other departing guests.

She heard him laugh. "I guess we'll end this like it began." He nodded at the van.

She turned toward him. "Unless...."

Heather raised an eyebrow and inclined her head toward a black limo also parked in the driveway.

"Yeah?" he asked.

She giggled. "I'll get in. You find the driver."

She ducked quickly into the back of the limo. Tinted windows. Soft leather. And best of all a partition between the passengers and the chauffeur.

She moved quickly, stripping off her dress and her panties, sitting naked now in the back.

When the door opened, Heather chuckled at the wide-eyed expression she got from Damon and from the driver holding the door open for him. Damon slid in beside her and chuckled himself as the driver took his time shutting the door.

“Damn, Soccer Mom, you’re full of surprises.”

She grinned as she leapt off the cushions and onto her knees between his thighs.

“You ever gotten sucked off in the back of a limo?”

“Once or twice,” he replied.

“Really?”

He shook his head. “Nope.”

“Good. I’d like to think I’d give you at least one new experience this trip.”

She unzipped him. He was already beginning to stiffen again. She began to lick him up and down as the car pulled out of the drive. She sucked on his foreskin, swirled her tongue around the head of his prick.

When he was hard, he coaxed her into his lap, and she impaled herself on his cock with a loud sigh. He began thrust up inside her. Heather gasped.

And then she heard it. A whirring sound. It made her shiver. The sound of the partition coming down.

She felt him pull her cheeks apart and then his long finger slide deep into her asshole. She squealed in delight. At the sensation of his thick cock stretching her out, at his finger churning into her butt, and now at the realization that their driver could see it all.

Heather came suddenly, dizzily. And when she recovered she slid back down to her knees. She wrapped her lips around the head of his cock and jerked his shaft up and down with two hands until he flooded her mouth with his hot seed.

There were no more words. She dressed and they just sat holding hands. And when they reached the airport, a quick hug, a knowing grin from the driver, and they went their own way to their separate boarding gates.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Heather was greeted by squeals when she stepped through the security doors into the terminal.

“Mommy, mommy, mommy!” Ally and Becky pealed in unison, apparently competing for who could scream the loudest. Bobby was there too, toddling unsteadily, mouth opened in something closer to a screech than actual words.

Heather dropped down to one knee and wrapped up her children into a group hug.

Snippets of phrases. Words shouted into her ear. Greetings quickly turning into complaints, tattletales, confused stories that merged into a general cacophony of sounds. Heather sighed. She was home.

She looked up at Jeff, smiling above her. She shed the children and let him take her into an embrace.

“Welcome home, honey,” he said happily. “You look great, by the way.”

She blushed. “I broke the bank,” she said, admitting the least of her sins.

“Worth it,” he replied.

She doubted he’d feel that way when she told him the rest, because she realized now she’d have to.

It had struck her the moment she boarded the plane. The connection to Damon severed, finally, and no choice but to think about the future. Illusions quickly fading away. The recklessness of what she’d done washing over her in waves of guilt.

She was on the pill, but that wasn’t foolproof. So there was that risk. Worse, much worse, was the issue of STIs. He’d told her he had “papers.” But she’d never looked at them, and anyway, she wasn’t sure she’d be able to make heads or tails of whatever he showed her.

But more than all of that, she knew that she couldn’t, wouldn’t be able to live a lie with Jeff. It would hurt. She’d have to make it up. Rebuild trust. But ever minute she delayed in coming clean, every lie she told to cover up, would be another wound when it came out.

Also, she had to admit... what had happened with Damon was more than just a meaningless fling. Not so much Damon, per se, but what it said about her. She always told herself that her life was fulfilling, that she couldn't imagine doing anything other than caring for her children, for her husband, for her home. And yet, somehow that had always been a rationalization. Necessity turning into virtue. But that had been a lie or at least incomplete. Happy, fulfilled, satisfied women don't turn into raging whores on vacation. Damon was a symptom, not the problem, and unless she, and Jeff, dealt with it, things would only get worse.

Still, surrounded by her family clamoring after her, she realized again how hard it would be. It would break Jeff's heart, and she knew the kids, even though they were self-centered little monsters, would sense the tension between Mommy and Daddy.

They picked up Chinese on the way home. Dinner dominated by the kids and their stories, their fights, their need to be the center of attention. She was extra attentive, knowing that they were starved for their mother's attention, and that they'd be super needy for the next few days. But she also kept glancing over at Jeff, realizing her was observing her closely.

He'd noticed her hair, and her new dress. Did he see the see the makeup she wore? Recognize her glow as something more than just the sun? Her anxiety as more than just guilt at having left the kids for a few days?

Jeff cleaned up and Heather took over the bedtime routines. She changed, cuddled, and settled Bobby down with his favorite stuffies, the brown dog on his left, the yellow one on his right, the mother cat and her family of kittens above his head. She read to Becky, all of her favorites, books she still clamored for – Goodnight Moon, Nora's Room, and her very favorite, The Gruffalo, which Heather could recite from memory. Then Ally. Her big girl. She liked to put herself to bed, reading books to her dolls, but she still let Heather tuck her in and "do the poem."

Good night, sleep tight...

Heather virtually stumbled into the bedroom, suddenly exhausted. Travel always knocked her out... and it didn't help that she hadn't gotten a real night's sleep in three days, just naps between sex. She shivered. What in the fucking world had come over her?

Jeff was in the bedroom, pulling clean clothes out of a basket, folding them one at a time.

She took a deep breath. Oh God. Here goes.

“Jeff –

“Hey, honey, wanna help?”

She looked down at the basket. “Um yeah, but we need to talk first.”

“You can’t talk while you fold?” he asked with a grin.

“Please...” She insisted.

He looked up at her and got serious.

“What’s the matter? Is everything okay? Didn’t you have fun?”

Shut up! Shut the fuck up, Jeff, and let me talk! Why was he making this so hard? Couldn’t he just listen.

“I... Jeff... I’m so sorry, but I... I met another man.”

He frowned. Just for a moment. Then he grinned. “You had an affair?”

She nodded.

He laughed. “I warned you about those Mexican Don Juans.”

“He wasn’t Mexican –“

“Oh,” Jeff chuckled. “You actually have a man in mind. Okay....”

“His name is.... Wait, you don’t believe me?”

He closed in on her. “Of course I do. Go ahead, tell me all about this handsome stranger who swept you off your feet. And maybe we can, erm, relive it, eh?”

Oh God. Oh God. Oh God. He thought she was just playing.

“No, Jesus. Jeff. No,” she said as she pushed him away. “This isn’t a game. It....”

She could see uncertainty creeping across his face. And shock. And sadness. An instant, but it felt like an hour, and it was as if, suddenly, in that moment she could see the road diverging ahead of her.

“Heather?”

And then it hit her. She couldn’t do it. She couldn’t admit what she’d done.

She tilted her head to the side and looked up at him with what she hoped was a saucy smile.

“I just couldn’t help myself,” she said.

It worked. He grinned. “Oh, is that so?”

“He was just so charming and handsome. I just wanted to please him.”

Jeff had forgotten about the laundry. He was staring up at his wife open-mouthed. His throat suddenly dry, his voice hoarse, he asked, "What did you do for him?"

"You won't be upset, will you?" she asked.

When he shook his head, she continued, "I have something to show you."

It was so wrong, but somehow it felt so right. She was being honest, in a way, and yet, not. But the hungry look on Jeff's face was all the reinforcement she needed. He hadn't looked at her that way in... ever.

She reached under her dress and pulled down her panties. She slid them down slowly, relishing the look of shock on her husband's face. She tossed them into the clothes basket.

Jeff looked at his wife's panties.

"Oh, sorry, honey," Heather cooed. "I guess I shouldn't put my dirty panties in your clean clothes."

Jeff shivered with excitement. He looked up at Heather, but his gaze moved quickly back to her hands, now grabbing the hem of her dress. She knew he'd be shocked, but she couldn't be sure whether it would be good shock or bad. Her trepidation added to the tease. Hands trembling and hesitant, she had his complete attention. Slowly, slowly she raised the fabric, exposing her knees, then thighs, and then....

"Oh God, Heather."

He was staring at her shaved snatch, seeing it like that for the first time in his life. His gaze was so intense that it was unsettling. What was he thinking? Was it just that he was seeing her in a new light? Was he still thinking of her "admission"?

And then suddenly he was lunging forward. His hands squeezed her ass painfully, and Heather screeched as he threw her onto the bed. But that quickly turned to gasps as he attacked her pussy with his mouth.

Oh God, oh God! She hadn't even showered since she'd fucked Damon. At least he hadn't come inside her, but still. This was wrong. So wrong. So fucking wrong.

"Oh God," she moaned as he sucked her clit into his mouth.

It was almost painful. Almost, but not quite. Or maybe it was, but the pain was overwhelmed by the pleasure of it. Not unlike her time with Damon, and as Jeff ate her enthusiastically, she thought of Damon, of him pressing his huge prick into her virgin ass, of how he'd shown her that pain and pleasure were not always opposites, but sometimes co-joined, co-conspirators in an intensity of experience.

“Oh God, baby, you’re so wet,” Jeff moaned.

She looked down at him, his face glazed with her juices. Without even thinking she reached down and grabbed his head with both hands, forcing him back down against her sex. He didn’t resist. Instead he resumed his vigorous tonguing, his hands squeezing her firm ass roughly. She began thrusting her hips, slinging her pussy against his face.

She felt beyond sexy. Wicked. Heather had never felt wicked before. But there was no other way to describe it. She’d spent the last three days getting fucked raw by her stud of a lover, and now, without even a shower in between, she was holding her husband’s head, forcing him to eat her dirty, cheating cunt.

“Oh God,” she cried again, shuddering.

Jeff’s tongue, his hands on her ass... and the memory of riding Damon’s fat prick while the limo driver watched from the front.... It was all too much. She gasped and shook as waves of pleasure washed over her. But it wasn’t enough. Not even close.

She grabbed Jeff’s hair and lifted him off. Then she spread her legs wide. The lights were on in their bedroom, and she knew he could see everything. Her swollen, wet, twat, her pulsing pink asshole. He seemed shocked and overwhelmed. Understandably because she’d never exposed herself this way to him.

“Heather...” he mumbled.

“Shut up and fuck me,” she grunted.

His eyes went wide with disbelief, but instinct took over. He fumbled with his jeans, yanking them down to expose his erection, angry red and leaking pre-come. He threw himself at her and stabbed at her pussy, once, twice, before finding his mark and driving it home.

Heather gasped.

“I’m sorry,” he sighed, pausing.

“Don’t stop,” she replied.

Her hands found his ass and urged him on. She could tell he was torn between a desire to fuck her hard and his concern about hurting her. But her hunger quickly won him over. He started thrusting harder, harder than he’d ever fucked her. And for a moment, she was back with Damon, beneath him, being driven mad by his deep, hard thrusts. And now again with Jeff, kissing with an unprecedented urgency.

She felt him seize up and shudder. He collapsed onto her, both of them sweating.

“Oh God, Heather. Oh God,” he gasped.

“I know. I know,” she moaned softly.

“You can go on vacation whenever you want,” he added.

“I’m just happy to be back,” she replied.

But her mind was again on Damon, racing through the still fresh memories of her time with him. It made her feel guilty, and yet, there was no doubt that Jeff was happy and grateful.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

There is that moment, some time after the middle of the night, before the coming of dawn, between waking and sleep, between dreams and fantasy. A moment of plausible deniability. Heather wasn't fantasizing about Damon, not consciously at least, but also not completely unintentionally. He was just there, in her mind. And she could almost feel him, the sensation intimate and physical.

It wasn't clear where they were. Not exactly, at least. A shifting sequence of the familiar and the new. Talking, silly, and laughing. A nightclub, no, not quite. A party. Fancy. But no loud music, and despite that the words were indistinct. Heather and Damon, together, but not quite acknowledging it. Huddled together, half hidden, as if worried about being discovered.

Jeff was in the room. She knew it. But she couldn't see him. He was circulating at the periphery of her awareness. And Damon was encouraging her to go off with him. Pulling at her, or not quite. Teasing and tempting. Jeff still indistinct, but still out there. And then a door opening, but not a door, and not a passage, but the room widening and closing, and then suddenly she and Damon were in a hallway of alcoves. Private, yet public. Public, yet private.

And then, in that way that dreams time-shift, they were half-dressed. She was stroking his girth. His hands seemed to be everywhere. Cupping her cheek, his thumb circling her nipple, palming her thigh, a thick finger pressing deliciously inside her. People walking by, but not noticing, or maybe noticing, but not deterring them, and Jeff nearby, close enough to hear her moans, but not close enough to object.

Recognizing the surreality of the dream, but waking only segueing into a new situation. Still with Damon, their bodies even more intertwined. But Jeff. And Jeff. A weird wish. That he too could be there. Or maybe with someone else. No. Now a weird darkness intruding. Guilt and shame. But still clinging closer to Damon.

Heather shuddered awake. Or was she? The dream had been so real, and then so quickly began to fade. Where had they been? Only the sensation of Damon seemed real. Everything else was... fuzzy.

She glanced over at the alarm clock. 5:40am. She chuckled to herself. Heather had never been a morning person. At least until she had children. Then, suddenly, those pre-dawn hours became golden. Young kids, like roosters, wake up at dawn. The main difference is that roosters are less noisy.

She could hear Jeff sleeping deeply on the other side of their luxurious king-size bed. He slept until the alarm rang, and so missed out on this quiet time.

Sometimes she got up and enjoyed the house, still and peaceful. A cup of coffee and a moment of silence. Even Rexi, the lab, playing her part by curling up in the kitchen and embracing the calm.

Other times, she remained in bed. Especially in winter, when the flannel sheets, so soft, so warm, formed a veritable cocoon.

But today, she felt unsettled. The dream had been so real. Damon so close she could still feel him. Desire him. Was he thinking of her as well? No. Of course not. Probably not. Maybe? What had they really had? And what did it matter?

Still, thinking of him left her.... God, what? Lusty. That, yes. She tentatively allowed the back of her hand to trail against her pussy. Even through PJs and panties, she shuddered at the sensation. It made her want to do horrible, obscene things to herself.

Jeff took a deep breath. Stirring? No. Still sleeping peacefully.

Heather felt a moment of frustration and then... a wicked thought.

She felt like a kid as she ducked beneath the covers. Her own private fort. Dark and warm and safe.

She edged closer to her dozing husband. He had to work. He deserved to sleep. She didn't want to wake him. But she couldn't resist. He was turned toward her, and she reached out and gently brushed her hand against the front of his PJs. He shifted, just a little, and she drew back. But she'd felt it, the back of her hand tickling his prick, not fully erect, but not flaccid either.

Was he dreaming about her? Someone else? She felt a tickle of jealousy at the thought and then a surge of guilt. She reached again for him, more firmly this time. His cock twitched at her touch.

She giggled. It was so silly. Here she was, beneath the covers, teasing her sleeping husband's prick. But it was also sexy somehow. She and Damon had slept in the nude, and now she wished Jeff hadn't pulled on his PJs after they'd had sex. If he hadn't, she might....

And why not? She found the button on his PJ bottom, and popped it open. Then carefully so as to avoid waking him, she easing his cock from his pants. She liked the way it felt, velvety and warm. He was smaller than Damon, but in a good way. Less threatening, manageable, comfortable. She never quite felt she could handle Damon, though she enjoyed trying.

She leaned forward and gently sucked his prick into her mouth. He moaned in his sleep. She just held him in her mouth, feeling his cock beginning to swell and stiffen. She loved the sensation of it. Feeling him respond to her attention. She reached into her own bottoms and ran her finger across her smooth, shaved skin, and down into her wet, sticky slit.

As he hardened, she slowly swirled her tongue around his now engorged prick. He sighed and squirmed. She knew the sensation was working its way into his dreams, and she wondered how it was being incorporated. He reached under the covers and his hand cupped the back of her head, something he never did when awake. Did he fantasize about doing that to her? Holding her head while he sawed his prick into her mouth? Or was he imagining doing it to a cute intern at his office? What did he fantasize about? Why did they never talk about that sort of thing?

"Oh God, Heather."

She giggled around his cock and then sucked him harder into her mouth.

"Oh God, what are you doing?"

With one hand now rapidly frigging her clit, she reached into his PJs with the other and massaged his balls even as she began to bob up and down on his hard cock, the salty taste of his pre-come now on her tongue. Faster and faster.

"Heather? Oh God, baby, what's gotten into you? I don't know if I can hold out."

Good. Give it to me.

"Heather, oh God."

She gave his scrotum a gentle squeeze.

"Heather, no...."

But it was too late. She felt his balls tighten in her palm, his cock swell, and then with a jolt, she felt his warm, slimy, salty come flood her mouth. And at the same moment, she felt a warmth spread across her belly as she came as well.

“I’m sorry. I’m sorry,” he exclaimed.

Heather waited until he was done and then slowly let him slide from her mouth. She peek up at him from under the covers. He looked vaguely distraught.

“But why?”

“I guess I just want to thank you for the vacation.”

“You didn’t need to do that.... Didn’t need to do anything,” he replied.

“I wanted to.”

He seemed puzzled, gears turning, and she wondered if he was replaying the beginning of their conversation from last night.

What’s gotten into you?

But the discussion was cut short by his alarm. 6:00am as usual. Set low out of consideration, but even it served to pre-empt the conversation.

“Have a good day at work, honey,” Heather said with a smile. “I’m going to catch a few more Zs before the kids wake up.”

Getting Ally to kindergarten with Becky and Bobby clamoring for attention was the usual chore. It felt surprisingly surreal. The very routine of it unexpected. The sensation redoubled at the playground, with Bobby in the sandbox and Becky spinning circles with her little friends.

Twenty-four hours earlier, she’d been naked in the back of a limo, riding Damon’s huge prick as he fingered her ass.

“Hey, Duckie, lost in thought?”

Heather startled out of her reverie. She blushed desperately, almost as if Trina could read her mind. Which she couldn’t... could she? She shook her head in response to the question in her own mind, but then caught herself and stopped.

“Uh... hi?”

Trina laughed.

“I hope he learned his lesson.”

Heather went wide-eyed.

“What?”

Trina regarded her friend quizzically.

“Jeff? Being with the kids all weekend himself must have, you know, made him appreciate you more. Even an evening alone with ours makes Brad extra attentive.”

“Oh... yeah... right,” Heather replied with a forced chuckle.

“So... um, you okay?” Trina asked.

“Yeah, sure, why not?”

Trina shrugged. “Good color on your cheeks. I like the new color in the hair. But you seem a little... weird.”

Heather forced another laugh. “Just hard to adjust back to the real world. Nice to have nothing more to worry about than which bikini to wear to the pool.”

Trina looked at her skeptically. “No, there is something else going on. Something in your eyes.”

“Nope.”

Heather suppressed a shiver. Did she have a scarlet letter tattooed on her forehead?

“Look, Het, if you ever need to talk, you know.”

Heather shook her head.

Trina continued, “We’ve known each other a long time.”

Heather looked at Trina. She was, as usual, annoyingly well put-together. She made it seem effortless. And maybe it was. Yoga pants, a clingy top, Trina’s long, shiny nearly-black hair in a long ponytail. Heather, by contrast, was feeling frumpy again in her sweats and 5k race t-shirt.

Heather had known her since middle school, since they’d competed for Bryce Banner’s affections. They were not best friends, but had lived in close proximity for a long time, and now with kids the same age, saw more of each other than ever in the past.

“Is it that obvious?” Heather asked.

Trina shrugged. “I’m very empathetic.”

It took Heather a moment to realize she was kidding.

Trina smiled. “But I wouldn’t need to be to see something is wrong. You just seem... sad. And you shouldn’t be coming back from vacay. So either Jeff laid down a guilt trip or....”

“Or what?”

Trina shrugged. “You tell me.”

Heather shook her head. “I can’t.”

Trina nodded. “Sex or money.”

“Huh?”

“That’s the root of 99% of our problems, right? Sex or money.”

Heather groaned. Both, of course. Cheating on Jeff was bad enough. Spending over a thousand dollars on clothes, shoes, makeup, for Damon made it that much worse. She wanted to confess, but it was so hard.

“No. Nothing happened.... But...”

“But?”

Heather took a deep breath. “Well, it’s not about me. It’s, um, a friend of mine.”

Trina nodded and suppressed a grin.

“Okay, so what happened to your friend?”

God, could she really admit all of this? No.... Yes. She needed to talk to someone.

“My friend is happily married.”

Trina snorted. “Aren’t we all?”

“Are we?”

“Sure. But that doesn’t mean we’re dead, does it?”

Heather hesitated.

“So what happened to your friend?” Trina prompted.

Heather sighed. “It’s hard to explain.”

“Big picture?”

“She met a man.”

“Is she in love?” Trina asked pointedly.

Heather shook her head. “No. Nothing like that. Just a fling.”
Though even as she said it, it didn’t feel right.

Trina laughed. “So, no harm, no foul. She didn’t mention it to her husband, did she?”

“Not yet.”

“Not ever,” Trina replied sternly. “At least not if your friend wants to stay married.”

Heather sighed. “I.... My friend isn’t good at keeping secrets.”

“This’ll be good practice for her.”

“Don’t you think her husband has a right to know?”

“Maybe?” Trina shrugged. “But right or not, he doesn’t want to know. I can promise you that.”

“How can you be sure?”

“Because no man wants to hear that his wife banged another dude.”

Heather knew that was wrong. She thought back to Damon’s story of men wanting to see him screwing their wives. She blushed at the thought. But God, that would be convenient, wouldn’t it? What if it did turn Jeff on? What if hearing about what she’d done with Damon got him wild? And what if he encouraged her to do it again.

Trina laughed. “Earth to Duckie, you still there?”

“Why do you call me Duckie?”

Trina laughed. “I don’t know. Does it bother you?”

“I... I’m not sure. I don’t think of myself as a ‘Duckie.’ But then again, I might not be the best judge of what I really am.”

“Heather, that’s a good thing. Isn’t it nice to think that you can sometimes surprise yourself?”

“I don’t know.”

A sudden scream from the playground. “Mommmyyyyyyy!”

They both looked up.

Trina’s boy, Braden, was on the ground, wailing after a fall.

“Mine,” she said with the quiet confidence of a mom who know this was a passing crisis. “Look, I’m running around all day, but drop by tomorrow, during nap time? We can have a drink and finish the convo. Kay-kay?”

Trina held her gaze until Heather nodded her agreement.

She watched the slender brunette gracefully sweep her son into her arms. Trina was sexy. She’d always been. Even as a fucking middle schooler she’d had it. And that wasn’t Heather... or was it? Damon had made her feel like she was. Heather didn’t want to lose that feeling. But what about Jeff?

Heather continued to feel off, a little tingly, but even more, she couldn’t seem to keep her mind from roaming.

The grocery store was familiar. The routine of shopping for the family prosaic. Even with her kids close at hand, riding in the cab of the plastic fire engine wrapped around the shopping cart, she couldn't stop herself from having the wickedest thoughts.

Everything seemed to trigger thoughts of Damon. She spied a pile of long, thick cucumbers, which even in normal times seem designed to provoke lewd thoughts, but which now brought forth a shockingly powerful memory of that first night they'd made love.

He'd already made her come twice, or was it three times, and now, she was on her back, her knees pinned to her chest, and he was above her. His huge prick, hard and glistening. He'd told her to watch as he filled her, again and again.

Heather was glad to have the cart to hold on to. The memory was so intense, it left her lightheaded.

Then, wheeling down the cereal aisle, surrounded by colorful, cartoon-festooned boxes designed to lure children's attention, she caught one of the stackers eying her behind. It wasn't something she would have noticed before. But now she did. And she remembered Damon's claim that every man she passed wanted to sodomize her. Did the stacker? He didn't catch her eye. Instead, he was now intensely studying the back of a cereal box to avoid her gaze. What was he thinking of? Of dragging her into the back of the store? Bending her over a stack of boxes, wrenching of her jeans and taking her from behind? It was a frightening thought... and maybe a little sexy, at least the idea of it.

She knew nothing had really changed, but suddenly she felt as if she were surrounded by a field of sexual energy. It was a little scary, and also oddly thrilling.

She caught Jeff staring at her as she pranced around the bedroom in her bra and panties. He'd sat down on the edge of the bed and had begun to take off his shirt, but he'd stopped half-way and was now just watching her. The kids were finally down, and they were getting ready for bed, but Heather was taking her time, enjoying the effect she was having on her husband.

"What are you looking at?" she fished.

He chuckled. "Damn, you're sexy."

She giggled and wiggled her ass at him.

“Yeah?”

He nodded. “Yeah.”

She climbed into his lap, straddling him. She could feel his prick immediately stiffen in his pants. And she knew that she was, as she’d been almost all day, wet.

“Did you miss me?”

“Uh huh.”

He seemed to be at a loss for words.

“I missed you too.”

“What about him?”

Her heart skipped until she remembered her aborted confession of last night.

“What did you expect me to do? I was all alone, so far from home.”

“Of course. So you had no choice but to seduce a hot island guy.”

Heather knew it was wrong to play this game. Disrespectful, and would make the truth that much more devastating when it came out. Unless....

“Does the thought of me with another man turn you on?”

He blushed but quickly recovered. “No. Not really.”

Not really. That was, interesting.

“Not at all,” he clarified.

Heather was disappointed, although she hadn’t really expected anything different, and even though she didn’t completely believe him. Or maybe she didn’t want to believe him. In any case, she could feel his body tense a little, and she decided to switch direction.

“Do you ever have fantasies about me?”

He hesitated for a second. Then, “No. Not really.”

She waited for another clarification, but none came.

“Heather –“

“I won’t get mad... whatever it is.”

He still hesitated. She rolled her hips slowly, grinding into him.

“Maybe I can make it come true,” she tempted.

Another pause. Then, softly, slowly, “I... I sometimes think of you with another woman.”

Heather giggled. “Oh really? I would never have guessed.”

“What? The reason it’s a cliché is that it’s a common fantasy.”

“Okay, okay, easy tiger. So tell me about this fantasy.”

“I... I don’t know. I mean, I just think it would be hot to see you with another girl.”

“Well, what do you imagine us doing?”

“You know. I mean... the usual.”

She leaned in and kissed Jeff’s lips. He shivered slightly.

“Would you want me to kiss her?”

“Yes.”

“What else?”

He couldn’t seem to force the words out.

“Would we be naked?” Heather asked.

He nodded.

She reached back and unsnapped her bra, sliding it off.

“Like this?”

“Yeah.” He stared at her chest and then palmed her small breasts.

“Oh, Heather, your nipples are so hard.” He looked up into her eyes. “This turns you on?”

“It does if it turns you on.” She ground against his erection. “And it seems to. So, do you have another girl in mind?”

A half beat of hesitation. “No.”

Unbidden, Heather thought of Trina. Her long, shiny hair. Her mischievous, feline eyes. Her long legs and tight ass encased in yoga pants. If Damon was right that men look at her and fantasized about having her, then surely Jeff had the same thoughts, same fantasies about Trina.

“Trina?”

She felt his cock twitch. His cheeks flushed. He broke eye contact.

“No.... Don’t be silly.”

“Why not? Don’t you think she’s pretty?”

“No. Yes. I don’t know. Heather?” He concluded plaintively.

She leaned in and kissed his neck, then breathed in his ear. “I think she’s pretty.”

Jeff looked a little like a deer in the headlights.

“She invited me over for a drink tomorrow afternoon at nap time. The kids are sound sleepers. No one to bother the two of us. Even if we got a little crazy.”

He was still too shocked to take the initiative, so Heather leaned back and pulled his face to her chest. He eagerly sucked her hard, sensitive nubs into his mouth. One at a time, switching back and forth.

“Oh God, Trina, that feels so good,” Heather cooed.

Jeff let out a sound that was somewhere between a mewl and a moan. He reached around and cupped his wife’s ass even as he continued to lick and suck on her dark red, engorged nipples. Heather had a sudden, desperate urge to tear off his pants and impale herself on her husband’s hard prick. But that would end the game, and she wasn’t ready for that yet.

Instead, she pushed him away and stood up. He looked disappointed, confused, but his frown disappeared as she edged her panties off her hips and let them fall to the floor. He couldn’t take his eyes off her. She reached down and massaged her shaved snatch, gasping at how wet and sensitive she was.

“Do you think it would be hot to see Trina lick my pussy?”

Jeff nodded dumbly for a moment before taking the hint. Then he suddenly reached out and pulled her close as he dropped to his knees burying his face in her exposed sex. She cried out in passion. It was almost too much. His tongue probing her sensitive folds, his hands squeezing her ass.

“You’re so wet,” he mumbled between licks. “Are you really thinking about Trina?”

“Yes,” she growled.

She was thinking about Trina, but mostly about how funny Trina would find the situation. Her excitement was mostly a consequence of her daylong, running fantasy about Damon. But Jeff didn’t need to know that. Still, it left her wanting more than just his tongue.

“Would you want to join in?”

From his knees, he looked at her quizzically.

“If you walked in on me and Trina, would you want to join in?”

He seemed to sense a trap. “I’d just watch.”

“Really? Trina is a nasty, little slut. I bet she’d be up for just about anything.”

“Oh God, Heather...”

“Trina.”

He went wide-eyed.

“How do you want me?” Heather asked, dropping her voice into something approximating Trina’s raspy drawl. “Well?”

“On.... On your hands and knees.”

Heather smiled. "Take off your clothes," she suggested. She jumped up onto the bed and circled the mattress before presenting her ass to her husband. She looked back over her shoulder. "Do you do it like this with Heather?"

"No..... I... I didn't think she'd like it."

Heather reached between her legs and ran a finger along her slit, feeling her pussy cleave open.

"Come on, don't keep me waiting."

His shirt was already off, and now he hurriedly removed his pants. His erection got tangled in his boxers, and he nearly stumbled stepping out of his pants, but Heather kept a straight face. She looked away, the better to maintain the illusion, and wiggled her butt at him.

She felt the bed sag as he climbed onto the mattress and then his hands, gripping her ass firmly. There was a sudden urgency to his movements, and with her eyes closed, fantasy and reality blurred. Jeff and Heather. Heather and Trina. Trina and Jeff. Heather and Damon.

He thrust in hard and Heather gasped. He hesitated, but she rolled her ass backward against him. He responded to the encouragement and thrust again. A week ago, Heather might not have like it. Being fuck hard, from behind, would have been anxiety-provoking, the aggressiveness of it threatening and disrespectful. But being with Damon had changed her perspective, or maybe just opened her eyes to the fun of just living in the moment.

Another hard thrust. Heather gasped at it. It felt good. Just a matter of letting go a little to enjoy it. A change of outlook. It was not something Jeff was doing to her. It was what she'd done to him, excited him to the point where he couldn't quite control himself.

"That's it baby," Heather added, still in Trina's voice, "fuck me like you don't fuck that little priss Heather.

"Oh fuck," he groaned as he thrust in again.

Jeff squeezed her ass painfully. Heather squealed and immediately felt him tense up behind her. And then she was with Damon, and he was taking her hard, filling her with his come. A searing thought. Blinding. She threw her head back, relishing her climax, conscious of her the way her spasming pussy milked the cock still inside her.

"Oh Jesus, Heather. Oh Jesus. What... what...?"

Jeff had collapsed on the bed beside her, and Heather was now draped over him. Their naked limbs entangled. His come dripping from her pussy. Both of them surprisingly sweaty. Heather pulled the comforter over them.

“I can’t believe you want to fuck my best friend,” she teased.

“I don’t!”

Heather laughed. “Yeah, you do. And that’s okay.”

“Heather, you’re, like, freaking me out.”

A splash of cold water. There was still that gap. Fantasy and reality. He was terrified of saying the wrong thing, She wanted to liberate him. But she couldn’t because the only way to do so would to admit her crimes. She could free him, but only at the cost of devastating him. And she couldn’t do that. Or... could she?

“I’m just kidding,” she replied. “That was fun.”

He didn’t answer. She could sense, though, that he was working something out in his mind. Processing a new situation. Trying to understand it.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

“So Duckie, what are you going to do?”

Heather took a deep swig of her wine. She looked at her friend. Trina had an unforced sexuality. Fucking bitch. No wonder Bryce had been more into her. Even at thirteen years old, Trina has that crazy, sexy, confidence about her.

“Do you remember Bryce?”

Trina looked at Heather quizzically.

“Bryce Banner. Middle School.”

Trina put her hand over her mouth and giggled. “Oh my God! I haven’t thought of him in years! He was my first kiss.”

“Just kiss?”

“God, Heather, yeah. Jesus, I was what, thirteen, fourteen?”

“Yeah?”

“What kind of a girl do you think I was?”

Heather shrugged.

“No, no, I was a perfectly good little miss. Or, maybe, fuck, I was just scared. I don’t know.” She paused. “What makes you think I wasn’t?”

“I don’t know. You, Lorelei, Dani... you were all such... hot shit.”

Trina laughed. “Oh please.”

“No, seriously. Everyone wanted to be you guys, and you guys were so, like, fucking... cool.”

“Believe me, I wasn’t cool.”

“Okay, mean, then?”

“Jeez, Heather, what the fuck? Where is this coming from?”

“Nothing.... I mean –“

Trina laughed. “Oh, for fuck’s sake, what? You fucked some guy because, what? Bryce Banner wouldn’t kiss you?”

Heather shrugged. “Something like that.”

“First of all, Duckie. He’d have kissed you if you’d shown any interest. He might have been thirteen, but he was a total manwhore... well, boywhore. Whatever. But you were all, like, I don’t know, judgmental.”

“Was not,” she replied.

Heather's mind swirled. Judgmental. Yeah, that was about right. And not just about others, but about herself. Living under the weight of unspoken expectations.

Trina refilled their wine glass. "Yeah huh."

Heather thought about it. She had once called Lorelei a whore. She shuddered.

"I was a sort of an entitled little bitch, wasn't I?"

"Oh, fuck, Heather, you were thirteen. We were all cycling through entitled, pathetic, terrified, and cocky. That's what being thirteen is all about, isn't it?" In response to a giddy shriek from the other room, she added, "We'll get there soon enough with our kids, won't we?"

Heather groaned. "Don't say that! I am not the mother of a teenager."

"And, what, when you are, that'll mean you need to have another affair?"

"Fuck you, Trina."

Trina laughed. "I'm sorry. That wasn't fair."

Heather shook her head. "Oh, fuck it, it was. Wasn't it?"

"No."

"But it was. I can't explain it. And... maybe it's all bullshit. You know, I never thought about this shit before. It's just, since it happened, I've been trying to –"

"Explain it. Put it in a box."

"I need to."

"Why?" Trina asked. "Why are you so determined to make this thing meaningful? What if it wasn't? What if it was just a dumb, stupid, crazily hot, mistake?"

"I can't."

"Why?"

"Because if I box it, I can control it. If I can't, then how can I be sure I won't do it again?"

"You can't. You can't be sure. That's not how it works."

"How what works?"

"Life, Duckie, life."

Heather paused. Trina's assessment felt weirdly persuasive. She need to control it, and yet she knew she couldn't. She couldn't stop thinking about Damon, and she wasn't sure she could stop herself from bringing it up, even if obliquely. The truth was, the last couple of days had been the hottest sex she'd had with Jeff.

Heather walked into the bedroom, brushing her hair. Jeff was waiting for her beneath the covers. She was wearing satin PJs. Even though they weren't particularly skimpy, they were shiny and clingy, and she could see her husband's eyes roaming over her body.

"So, what's your fantasy?" he asked.

Oooh, his words were a thrill. And a threat. Until two day ago, would Jeff have ever asked the question? What was making him ask it now? She backed away from that line of thought.

"I saw Trina today—"

"That's my fantasy," he interrupted. "What's yours?"

It was so tempting to be the Cool Girl. Oh baby, I just want to suck on Trina's juicy pussy, and then suck your cock. But she sensed that Jeff was already skeptical, already ready to doubt her. He wanted to play, but he was also testing her. Or maybe... maybe it was just her guilty conscience.

Damon, baby. He's my fantasy. I can't get him out of my head. I can still feel his hands on my ass, my throat, pulling my hair, playing with my nipples. I dream of his huge cock inside me, thrusting deeper, deeper.

Jeff persisted: "When you were alone, in Cancun, what did you think about? And don't say me."

An invitation to a confession. And yet... so full of risk. A crazy thought entered her mind. Did he know? No, he couldn't. If he did, he wouldn't raise it like this. Still, a dangerous moment. But she couldn't resist.

She sat on the bed, and then after a moment, turned toward Jeff.

"A man."

"Yeah?" Jeff was scared, but eager. "So you said that already."

Heather forced herself to be nonchalant. "I had a lot of time to think. All by myself."

"Who did you think about?"

A shrug. "A stranger."

"What did he look like?"

"I don't know."

He rolled his eyes. "Your fantasies don't include physical details?"

She pictured Damon, but she wasn't sure how much to admit. How much would Jeff take?

"Tall?" He prompted.

"Yes."

"Dark?"

"Yes," she replied enthusiastically.

His eyes widened.

"Black?"

Heather's breath caught. "Yes. I mean... maybe."

He raised an eyebrow.

"Big cock?"

She laughed.

"Nice cliché," he teased.

"The reason it's a cliché is that it's a common fantasy," she echoed his words.

"Okay, okay, easy baby," he was obviously trying to calm himself down as much as her.

He took a deep breath.

"So tell me about this fantasy," he echoed her question to him.

Heather's mind swirled. Plausible deniability, and yet, and yet, it almost felt like he knew it was more. A trap? His fantasy? Just a game? Her instinct screamed at her to be cautious, but she couldn't resist. Just as she couldn't resist Damon, she couldn't resist the temptation to talk about it.

"I don't know. It is hard to explain. I wasn't looking for a fling."

"But he was too handsome to resist?"

Fuck. It was like he was inside her head. But no. It wasn't that. He was hot. No doubt. But that wasn't it. Not all of it. Or Jesus, was it? No. It wasn't just physical.

"He was handsome, but also... fun?"

"I bet."

"Not like that..."

Heather was walking a tightrope. Teasing her husband. Confessing her sins. She knew she was playing with fire. And she knew why. In the back of her mind, that crazy hope that Damon had planted there, that maybe, just maybe her fling would excite him.

"No?"

Heather blushed. He reached out from under the covers and ran his hand over her thigh. He was topless... maybe even completely nude. He wanted this... or at least wanted to hear something.

“Okay, maybe just like that,” Heather admitted.

His hand now caressed across her belly, his fingertips finding and circling a hard nipple. Heather shivered in delight at the sensation of the cool, silky material against her sensitive nubs.

“Did he play with your boobies?”

He eased her down onto the bed beside him. He reached out with his other hand as well, now slowly teasing both nipples simultaneously.

“Yes,” she growled.

It felt so good. She could feel the blood rush from her head to her breasts, to her pussy. Having her nipples played with always had that result, though it was somehow more intense now that it conjured up memories of that first night in bed with Damon. Then as now, side-by-side and face-to-face with a man.

Eyes open, staring at her husband gazing back at her loving and excited; then eyes closed and he became Damon, hungry and powerful, seductive and dangerous.

“What’s his name?”

“Damon,” she breathed without thinking.

She opened her eyes and could see him trying to process it. They didn’t know a Damon.

“Would it be better if I fantasized about one of your friends?”

He chuckled and seemed to consider it. “Probably not.... Alright, so what did this Damon do? This big, black, Damon?”

He fucked me again and again and again. He came in my mouth, my pussy, and my ass. I couldn’t get enough.

“He kissed me.”

Jeff raised an eyebrow.

“Slowly and tenderly,” she added as she closed her eyes.

She could feel the electricity between them. Her lips trembled even before his touched hers. A spark, but she didn’t pull away, couldn’t pull away. It was neither Jeff nor Damon. It felt like something different, someone different. The kiss was tentative, yet passionate. Novel, yet familiar. Safe, yet exciting.

They continued to kiss. Flicking tongues and gentle nibbles on her lower lip. A hot, moist breath, mingled soft moans. He unbuttoned her top and slid his hand inside, his hands cool against her hot flesh. His fingertips found her bare nipples. She shuddered. Her hand snaked under the covers and found him naked, and hard. So hard. God, had Jeff ever been that hard for her before? Or was that just her own excitement blurring her perception.

She rubbed her thighs together, aware of her own excitement, a gush of wetness between her legs.

“Like this?” he asked, unnecessarily.

“Oh God, yes,” she cooed.

“Yes...?” he asked, prompting.

She knew what he wanted, and wondered for a second if he’d be able to handle it. But she couldn’t resist. She replied before weighing all the pros and cons. “Yes, Damon. Yes, just like that.”

“Thinking of my big, black dick?”

“Yes.” Oh yes, oh God yes.

She stroked him harder. And with eyes closed, she reeled. It was Jeff’s voice, but she was with Damon.

Her excitement fed his. His hands worked her nipples harder, so good, just on the edge. Almost too much, but not quite.

“What did he call you?”

“Soccer Mom.”

A small chuckle. “I’m going to fuck you good, Soccer Mom.”

“Yes, Damon, yes.”

Wet kisses. Desperate hands. Two bodies squirming with excitement. She loved Jeff. Loved him so much. And Damon. She thought of them both. Her two men blending, merging, and then separating. A wicked thought. The two of them, with her, sandwiched between. Four hands, two cocks, two gasping, moaning voices.

“Oh God, oh God, oh God,” Heather cried out as her body shook in passion. Dizzying. Unbelievable.

As her orgasm faded, a small surge of panic. She opened her eyes. He was grinning.

“Damn, you’re sexy.”

Relief. Followed by desire. Without a word, she dove beneath the covers, and swallowed his prick into her mouth.

“Oh God, Heather, slow down.”

She didn't. She wanted him now. Wanted to taste him. Her hands twisting around his shaft, her tongue swirling the head of his cock, licking his shaft, sucking his balls. Wet. Sloppy. A whore's knob job.

He warned her again. She felt him tense. Imagined him trying to distract himself. But she wasn't going to let him off the hook. His cock soaked with her spit, she bobbed up and down. With a gasp, he relaxed and flooded her mouth with his seed.

He groaned and mumbled apologetically.

She ignored him as she eagerly swallowed his come. But she didn't stop when he was done. Instead she continued to make love to his prick. Slowly, gently, feeling him first soften in her mouth, and then stiffen again. She slurped him wetly into her mouth, bathing his cock in a mix of spit and come.

When she popped back up from under the covers, she couldn't help but grin at the shock on his face. He was still wide eyed as she shimmied over his body and aggressively impaled herself on her husband's cock.

"I thought you were going to fuck me?" she teased.

He groaned excitedly, and then grabbing her ass cheeks almost painfully he thrust upward, hard.

"Yes," she hissed. "More."

"God, you're on fire."

"You think my husband would like me like this?"

He hesitated for a second, then remembering his role, "Yeah, but he doesn't get to fuck you like this, does he?"

He ran one hand along her spine. Heather tingled with delight. He found her nape, then slid his fingers into her hair. He paused there, awaiting her answer.

"No, only for you lover, only for you."

He clenched his fist and yanked back on her hair. She yelped, but her eyes flashed.

"You only let out your inner slut on vacation, do you?"

He thrust inside her, lifting her petite frame into the air.

"You bring it out in me Damon."

She ground against him. He groaned again.

The passion was intoxicating. The game dangerous. But they were both too far gone to care. No more words now. Just hard fucking, animal rutting.

“Oh Jesus,” he hissed.

She realized he was close, and she was too. Their sweat now adding a new source of wetness to his slimy prick squishing into her soaked pussy. It dripped from her forehead down her cheek into her mouth. She instinctively licked at the saltiness on her lips. Her flashing tongue set him off further. His grip tightened on her hair, and he squeezed her ass harder still, his fingers wedged between her cheeks, his fingertip brushing her anus.

Yes Damon, fuck me in the ass.

It was just a thought, but it was enough. She shuddered suddenly and came with a series of choking gasps. Her spasming pussy set him off. He pulled her down onto his chest and wrapped her in a bear hug as his cock pulsed inside of her.

Drenched in sweat and gasped, they lay intertwined.

“That was amazing,” she cooed.

He chuckled.

“I need to send you away on vacation more often.”

“Yeah,” she replied.

She wanted to say more, but she couldn’t. It was a game, but it wasn’t. What would Jeff say if he knew the truth? Or... and this really made her shiver... did he?

“You’re cold,” he said.

He slid her off him and pulled up the covers. Their eyes met.

“I love you,” she said suddenly.

A glimmer of something crossed his face. Something. Recognition? Surprise? Confusion?

Or maybe it was nothing. Just Heather’s own guilt churning inside her.

“I know,” he replied kindly, but maybe a little distantly. He smiled. A small smile. Thin. Not forced. Genuine. But not happy. Or at least not wholly so. Knowing perhaps? Rueful? Enigmatic certainly.

She wanted to talk, but knew she couldn’t. She’d opened the door; it was up to him if he wanted to know more. Was that a cop out? Surely. But for now, it would have to do.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

In the cold light of day, the events of the previous night seemed particularly reckless. What the hell was the matter with her? Was she so desperate for absolution that she was willing to risk her marriage by pulling on the thread.

On the other hand... oh God, if Jeff had routinely fucked her like that, Damon wouldn't have stood a chance.

She found herself grinning. Bullshit. She's the one who'd never stood a chance. The more she thought about it, the more she realized there had been nothing random about her ending up in bed with Damon. He'd played her like a pro. Set out the bait and she'd bitten. A complete sucker.

That said, she didn't feel used. Or maybe a little. It was all so confusing. Guilt and pride. Anger and amusement. Fear and anticipation. Damon, Jeff, they swirled in her mind. It was exhausting and exhilarating. How did a little soccer mom from Dayton fucking Ohio get into this situation?

Heather was actually grateful for the crisis that afternoon. After picking up Ally from school, she found that the dog, Rexi, part-lab, part-Andy Dufresne, had staged a jailbreak from the back yard tunneling under the fence.

"She's not usually a digger," Jeff noted when Heather called with the news.

It was true. She'd been a jumper when he was younger, and they'd had to install higher fences to keep her in. It was actually kind of impressive to see an seventy pound lab launch herself in the air and scale a nearly six foot fence.

"Well, I guess you can teach an old dog new tricks."

"I think we'd already learned that recently," Jeff joked.

Heather blanched. Was he really referring to her? And would that be a good thing or bad if was making jokes about it.

He seemed to sense her discomfort and changed the subject. "Do you want me to come home to help find her?"

"No, no, this is right up my alley."

And it was. The kids were all over the map, Ally declaiming that this had only happened because she was at school and not able to manage things, Becky immediately asked if they could get a cat now that Rexi was gone, and Bobby, at sixteen months not really sure what was going on but sensing something was wrong, toddled over to the dog's empty bed and eyed it sadly.

Heather set them to work, drawing pictures of the dog for a poster, while simultaneously beginning to work the phones. She wasn't too worried. Rexi would probably run around in circles for a few hours celebrating freedom and then grind to a halt as she contemplated what to do next. Her dog brain wasn't big on long-term planning.

Not that I'm much better.

Anyway, Ally in particular needed a plan. So, they photocopied the posters, including an actual picture of the dog, because despite Becky's best efforts, what she'd drawn looked more like a bison than an athletic lab, and then climbed into the minivan and began driving around the neighborhood searching and putting up missing dog notices.

Long rows of tidy colonials and well-maintained yards. Basketball hoops, swing sets, college stickers on the backs of mini-vans and Volvos. Tiny signs of individuality. The house with the vivid red shutters. Another with a shrub cut into a topiary of a T-Rex. No need for a heavy-handed neighborhood association, conformity wasn't so much enforced as sought. Shared notions of "good taste," that only went out the window, once a year, at Christmas, when the neighborhood splintered between families channeling their inner WASP – single candles in the windows, wreathes on the doors – and those tapping their inner Redneck – with ostentatious, delightfully tacky displays of flashing multicolored lights and mechanical Santas "ho, ho, hoing" throughout the evening.

As they drove, Heather suddenly thought about Damon. She'd been to Atlanta once, visiting colleges as a high school student, and she remembered a little of the city. Where did he live? A stylish condo in Buckhead, maybe? A multicultural neighborhood. Restaurants and bars. Stores. Energy. Did he put up a Christmas tree? And how did he decorate it? Was he from a big family? She imagined he was, imagined him at Thanksgiving dinner surrounded by siblings, aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews. He was probably the cool uncle to the kids, and getting him married was probably the mission of the female members of his clan. You'd be so good with children. You can't play the field forever. Do you want to grow old and die alone? Damon smiling, putting them off, challenging his nephews on the Xbox to get away from the badgering. Heather looked around at her neighborhood. Did he dream of this? Of a home in the suburbs? Kids, a dog? Would he be one of those with the single candle or the over-the-top Christmas display? Over-the-top, she thought, He was something an attention whore. On the other hand, how much fun would it be to be the only black person in the neighborhood. Okay, not the only one. There was a black family over on Boxwood and... well, that was about it. A few South Asians, some Koreans, a handful of Latino families, but virtually no African-Americans.

"Rexi, Rexi, Rexi, Rexi!" Ally had begun the chant, but was quickly joined by Becky, with Bobby trying his best to grunt along with his sisters.

Heather looked over onto the Hobart's perfectly manicured lawn, and sure enough, there she was, resting in the shade, muddy, panting, and looked incredibly happy about her adventures.

I'm Rexi. I dug under the fence and had an adventure. Of course, Rexi had it easier. She was a dog. No guilt. She'd be cleaned up and welcomed back into the fold as if nothing had happened. Heck, the kids were so excited to have found her that she'd probably get extra attention for it. Not that it would really matter. Rexi didn't break out of Shawshank to escape forever to a Pacific beach, she did it just to taste a moment of freedom.

"You fucking idiot, you told him?" Trina gaped.

"Sorta."

"Details?"

Heather related the details of her first aborted admission, and their night of passion. She left out bringing Trina into the fantasy.

"So he doesn't know for sure?"

"I don't know," Heather replied. "No, not for sure. But...."

"Denial isn't just a river in Egypt."

Heather shrugged. Then after a pause. "Have you... ever?"

"What?"

Heather looked sideways at her friend.

“You want to know if I had an affair?” Trina asked incredulously.

“None of my business?” Heather replied with a chuckle.

“It isn’t, you know.”

“So?”

Trina sighed. “Well. Yeah. Sorta. It’s really a long story, and I’m not sure it’s all that relevant to your situation.”

“Okay.”

Trina sighed. “Look, Brad and I... we were going through a hard time. Lots of shit going on, and we were snapping at each other a lot. And...” she paused, clearly trying to work out how much to say. “...and, well, we just weren’t happy. So, like, my thing was more a symptom than the disease.”

Heather nodded, but she still desperately wanted to hear more. Maybe it was about solving her own problem.

“But you got over it.”

Trina shrugged again. “You know, I guess. I got pregnant, and we sort of had to make it work. The guy I’d been with was, well, a jerk when you get right down to it, and I was with him for all the wrong reasons.”

Heather gave her a puzzled expression.

“Oh, Jeez, Heather, he was a friend of Brad’s.”

“Some friend.”

Trina laughed. “Yeah, exactly. But he was around. He saw that Brad and I were fighting, and I guess he decided to make his move. And I... I was like so, I don’t know what. Angry? Annoyed? I mean, at the time, it seemed like this great outlet. This guy, he knew me, knew I was unhappy, and it was just like an escape. But in the end, it was me fucking one of my husband’s friends just to piss him off.”

“I’m sorry.”

Trina shrugged again. “Plus he was a lousy lay.”

Now Heather laughed.

“We did the whole counseling thing, and you know, slowly worked through shit. The toughest part was that for a while we didn’t know who the father was. I got pregnant in the middle of all of that.”

“Oh.” Heather waited with bated breath, but Trina didn’t actually answer who the father of their first child was.

“See, so, different, right?”

Heather nodded. “Yeah, but you got over it.”

Trina shrugged again cryptically.

“What?” Heather demanded.

“Look, I don’t know that you ever really get over it. It’s more like you learn to live with it. People don’t forgive. They don’t forget. Not really. They just learn to deal with it.”

“You think Brad still resents you?”

Trina nodded. “Wouldn’t you? And I... I still resent him for pushing me into it. I know that sounds like blaming the victim, but you need to trust me, he was being a real ass at the time.”

“I believe you.”

“See,” Trina added, “pretty different right?”

She nodded. But wondered about it. Had Jeff pushed her into it?

Thing is, before had been a blur. Three kids in six years. Of course it made sense. It would cause a crunch around college time, but in the short-run it meant getting out of diapers sooner, and it meant kids close enough in age to play together, enjoy the same sorts of family entertainment. No sulky teen lurking off in a corner while the rest of the family enjoyed the merry-go-round.

“You know,” Heather said, trying to put her feelings into words, “I just feel like, I don’t know, here I was, this college student, you know, my whole life in front of me. And then, I mean, fuck, I woke up the next day as... a soccer mom.”

She felt a little shiver. Would she ever be able to hear the words Soccer Mom without thinking of him?

“And, you know, that’s it. Bam. And I have at least a dozen more years of it ahead of me before, you know, they start moving out, start being independent. And then what? You don’t pick up where you left off. And....”

Trina smirked. “So you had an affair because you’re worried about how to stay busy when you’re an empty nester?”

“No. You know what I mean, though. Don’t you feel that way? I mean, I know we’re not supposed to say it... or even think it, I guess... but isn’t there a part of you that feels like, I don’t know, trapped?”

Trina nodded. “I’m not sure about trapped. But yeah, of course. It is fulfilling to be a stay-at-home mom. But it isn’t completing.... Is that even a word?”

“It sounds like a word. But I’m not sure I see the difference between fulfilling and completing.”

“I don’t know either. I guess I mean someplace between... better than satisfying and less than... what... I guess, perfect self-actualization?”

Heather laughed. “There’s got to be a word out there for this.”

“Probably. And look, we do have it better than our moms or our mom’s moms. I do think trapped is too strong. It’s not like I feel I need to load up on Valium and aff....”

“...Valium and affairs to get through the day,” Heather complete the thought.

“I’m sorry. I didn’t realize what I was going to say until I almost said it.”

Trina shrugged. “Or maybe you were just in the mood to get laid by a handsome stranger. Why does it have to be more than that?”

Heather chuckled softly. “You think Jeff feels the same way?”

“Probably,” Trina admitted.

“And do you think, maybe, this is just what he wanted?”

“You think he wanted you to go on vacation and fuck another dude?”

“I don’t know. Maybe he wanted... something.”

Trina laughed. “Well, you certainly gave him that.”

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Jeff was surprisingly quiet on the drive out to Claremont Ridge. He usually kept up a patter of chit-chat on these drives, commenting on whatever movie the kids were watching in the back, noting odd or funny license plates, recalling past trips, basically whatever seemed to pop into his mind. It sometimes drove Heather crazy, but it was one of his normal habits. Behind the wheel of the minivan, Jeff channeled his inner drive-time radio host.

They hadn't made love last night. Well, fucked, was probably a better description of what they'd been doing since she'd returned from vacation. Either way, they hadn't done that either.

She wondered if that ever happened with Damon. Did he ever spend the night with a woman and not fuck her six ways from Sunday? Part of it was that she doubted she could keep her hands off him. How long would she be able to cuddle that man without wanting him inside her. She caught herself grinning and turned to face the window to avoid a question from Jeff.

He sighed.

"What?" she asked.

"You sighed."

"I did?" He paused. "It's nothing."

"Um..." She began, but then her thoughts drifted off.

They continued the ride in silence, except for the sounds of kids' shows coming from the back of the van.

Claremont Ridge was a series of low, wooded hills overlooking the river. Jeff and Heather had hiked it even before having kids, holding hands and talking and laughing. It was now a different vibe. Jeff, with Bobby strapped to his back, hiking ahead with Ally. Becky holding hands with her mom and keeping up an endless patter. Rexi darting explosively to and fro, her lab instincts to chase and retrieve seemingly overcome by a need to try to herd her humans back together.

They stopped for lunch at a small rise, a boulder-strewn outcropping, with a grassy depression in the middle. After munching on sandwiches, Heather ambled over to one of the largest boulders. She gazed around, alternating between watching the kids and admiring the view.

He thoughts drifted again to Damon. Did he hike?

Yes, Soccer Mom, black people hike.

She laughed to herself. But as she imagined being with him, she didn't long think of hiking and holding hands. Instead, she pictured herself bent over a convenient boulder. Her jeans tight across her thighs as he fucked her hard from behind. His hand on her throat. His huge prick sliding into her wet, so wet pussy. Him leaning down, whispering in her ear.

Did you hear that, Soccer Mom. Footsteps.

No.

A chuckle. You're giving them quite a show.

Oh god.

"Penny for your thoughts."

She looked down to see Jeff staring up at her. She blushed furiously. Her eyes instinctively drifted down between her legs, checking for a sign of her excitement. She was relieved that her excitement hadn't done more than soak her panties.

She wanted to grab Jeff. Strip him. Ride him. A surrogate for Damon, but even still he hadn't seemed to mind it the last few days. Of course, she couldn't do that. Not with the kids around. Not for another decade, or so. The Ally would be old enough to babysit, and....

"Heather?"

She forced an awkward laugh. "Sorry. Distracted."

He nodded. "A lot of that recently."

She tried to read his face. "I guess I'm still in Cancun."

A small scowl crossed his face before he again composed his features. "No. Even before that. That's why.... That's why I thought you needed a vacation."

She shrugged. "Maybe a little. The kids... they...."

"Can drive a person crazy. I know. But you know, they... they're only young once, and...."

And what? But Heather didn't reply. Instead, her mind spun in circles, racing. What was he saying? And what was he hinting at? She knew part of it was just her guilt. But part of it was something more.

"Are you saying I've been absent?"

She didn't ask in an accusatory tone, but even still she saw him take an almost imperceptible half-step back, shying away from confrontation. It would be so easy to shut the conversation down.

You spend all day, every day, with the kids and we'll see how you feel.

She didn't want to do that though. Not again. It occurred to her that she'd done that often, especially since the birth of Bobby. Justifying her distance. I am so tired. They are so difficult. Things will get back to normal, later.

"It's okay," she added kindly. "I guess I have been."

"It's hard. I know. I'll get better, easier. Once Bobby is out of diapers...."

She heard her words, her thoughts, in his voice. Once Bobby is out of diapers. Once he's in school. Once Ally is old enough to babysit. Later, later, later.

"Mommmmy!" It was Becky, face pale, getting ready to scream, having tripped and fallen.

Jeff turned toward the kids, but Heather got there first.

"It's okay baby," she said as she pulled her younger daughter into her arms. "It's okay. It's okay."

Their conversation hung over the rest of the day. She'd look over at him and see him watching her. She could tell he was worried that he'd offended her. He gave her small, reassuring smiles. They made her feel worse.

You don't need to apologize for anything Jeff. I'm the bad one. The selfish one. You have no idea. I have been absent. And then, with Damon.... And ever since, I haven't stopped thinking about him.

A quiet drive home, a kid-focused dinner, bedtime routines. And suddenly the weekend was over. Sunday night in bed. Jeff setting his alarm for 6:00am as usual.

They turned out the lights.

"Cuddle me?" she offered.

He slid over and she felt his warm, strong body pressed against her, his arm pulling her close.

And she thought again of Damon. Of his taking her from behind out on that trail. Instinctively, she ground her ass against her husband, and was gratified to feel his prick stiffen a bit in response.

“What are you thinking about?” He asked.

“Why didn’t we ever fool around outside?”

“Wouldn’t the kids ask questions?”

She chuckled. “Before we had them.”

She continued pressing her ass against his crotch. He snaked his hand under her PJ top and circled her nipple with his thumb.

“I didn’t think you were that kind of girl.”

“Maybe I wasn’t,” she admitted.

“But you are now?”

“Maybe.”

Her exquisitely sensitive nipple was rock hard. He began to roll it between his thumb and forefinger. She gasped.

“What happened?” he asked.

An amazing man fucked me silly and brought out my sexuality.

“I don’t know.”

“I like it,” he reassured her.

He released her throbbing nipple and slid his hand down the front of her PJ bottoms. His fingertips trailing across the sensitive skin where her patch once was. His fingertips found her snatch. Swollen and wet.

“I like it a lot... whatever happened,” he added pointedly.

Her body stiffened.

His finger slid inside her. “I mean it. Just as long as when you’re here, you’re here.”

His digit churned inside her. His thumb found her clit.

“I am. I am always,” she sighed.

And yet, her thoughts drifted to Damon.

“No, you’re not, not always.”

He yanked down her bottoms, and she felt his prick, stiff and leaking pre-come poking between her thighs. She arched her back and thrust backward, giving him easier access. His cock slid inside her.

“I’ll try,” she moaned.

“I know.”

He fucked her slowly from behind, pressing on her clit.

“Oh God, Jeff, that’s so nice.”

He chuckled.

“As good as Damon?”

She shuddered for half a second until she realized her was talking about their game. She chuckled.

“Am I as good as Trina?”

“Better. So much better,” he sighed.

She knew he was being honest. An implicit rebuke. Fuck him. He'd really rather fuck me than any other woman. She wished she could say the same.

“You too,” she replied in a throaty whisper.

He chuckled. Not quite in disbelief, but, what? Knowingly.

“It's okay,” he said again.

But it wasn't. Not really. And she knew it. She had to stop living in her own mind, and go back to living in the moment with the people around her.

Jeff thrust in deep, and her thoughts again drifted to Damon. No. She forced her mind back into their bedroom. Onto the softness of their bed. The hardness of Jeff inside her. The feel of his body. The touch of his hands. Her achingly hard nipples brushing against the fabric of her PJs. The heat of Jeff's breath on her neck. His fingers circling her clit.

“Oh God,” she sighed, as her body shook orgasmically.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Twelve Months Later...

It had been a year of hard work. Being mindful, living in the moment is harder than it sounds. And Heather wasn't perfect at it. There were times when she looked at the kids as little more than a ticking clock counting down the minutes until her "freedom," whatever that meant, might arrive. And sometimes still, with Jeff, she wasn't really with him, but instead with Damon. But she was trying.

And so, when Jeff suggested another weekend of annual leave, she didn't object.

She giggled to herself when he gave her the tickets. A trip to Miami, changing planes in Atlanta.

Sitting in an empty bar with a white wine, by the boarding gate in Atlanta, she couldn't help but fantasize about walking out of Hartsfield, taking a cab downtown and calling Damon.

It wouldn't be hard. She'd tracked him down. Found his work phone. Shamefully, she'd even fantasized about him, alone, late at night, after a particularly difficult day. He was still an escape. Not often, but sometimes.

"This seat taken?"

She sighed. She didn't feel like dealing with a cut-rate lothario, but there was something.... She looked up.

"What's the matter, Soccer Mom, you look like you've seen a ghost."

"Damon?"

"I know we all look alike to you people, but I thought we had something."

She blushed.

"God, it's good to see you," she gushed awkwardly.

He laughed. "What am I, your aunt Sally?"

"It's just...."

"You weren't expecting to see me."

He sat down beside her and ordered a beer.

"I've thought about you." She shook her head. "Weird coincidence. I haven't been on a plane since...."

"Cancun."

She blushed as memories of it filled her head. Oh God, she'd missed him. Wanted to get in touch. Just to hear his voice.... Except she knew she'd want to do more if she did. And now, that tenuous balance.... She almost didn't hear what he'd said.

"What?"

"It's not a coincidence."

He placed his boarding card down on the bar between them. He was on the same flight to Miami. And seated right next to her.

"How did you know...?" Suddenly aghast, she whispered. "Oh God. Jeff. Oh God." She stared at Damon. "What did you do?"

She read it in his eyes, and answered for him.

"Nothing. He set it up."

Damon nodded.

Heather felt sick.

He must have been spying on her. Logging her keystrokes. He'd seen that she'd looked up Damon online and put two and two together. And this was, what? An excuse to get her out of town? Was he packing up the house even now. Planning to disappear with the kids?

"Soccer Mom, relax. You're hyperventilating."

She stared at him, wide-eyed. "You don't understand."

"No. I think you don't. Call him." He nodded toward her phone.

She glared at her iPhone, and for a moment, she couldn't make herself pick it up. It felt like her entire world, her future was on the line. But then, mechanically she took it in her hand.

"Excuse me," she said to Damon.

She rose and walked to a darkened corner of the lounge. She picked Jeff's number out of her list of favorites. It rang just once before he picked up. He'd been expecting a call.

"Hey babe," he answered cheerfully. "I guess you ran into someone special?"

"Jeff. I don't... I don't understand."

"I did get the right guy, didn't I?"

"Yes, but... How did you know?"

"You admitted it, didn't you?"

“Yeah, but....”

“I thought you were kidding. And then I realized you weren’t.”

“When?”

“A couple of days after you got back.”

“But... Jeff.... It... I’m so sorry. Why didn’t you just tell me? I could have explained. It.... Oh fuck....” She sobbed.

“Are you leaving me?”

He laughed. “What? And raise the kids on my own? No way.”

“Jeff, I’ll make it up....”

“Heather, don’t you get it? I’m okay with it.”

“You... are?”

“Look. This isn’t what I expected from a marriage or from you. I admit that. But I also have to admit that whatever you had with him affected you. I could see it right away. You came back home glowing. And amazing. And if that’s what it takes.”

“It doesn’t Jeff. I swear. It was just a dumb mistake. I would never –

“Mistake or not, it might have been a good thing in the big picture.”

“I don’t understand,” Heather repeated.

“Just have a good time.”

“What does that mean?”

“What did it mean last time?”

“For fuck’s sake, Jeff, what are you saying? This isn’t a game.”

Heather had gone from terror to mortification and now to anger. What was this, some sort of weird test?

Jeff chuckled infuriatingly on the other end.

“You’re on vacation, Heather. You’re a free woman. Come back happy and recharged. That’s all I ask.”

“I’m not going to fuck him.”

“Okay.”

“I’m serious.”

“Okay.”

“Because if that’s your thing, you should just go ahead and tell me.”

“It’s not my thing. Like I said before, this isn’t what I expected or wanted. But life has a weird way of making choices for us. And sometimes, you just need to roll with the punches.”

“Jeff, I’m coming home. I’m switching my flights and --”

“You’re going to waste the airfare and the hotel to, what? Prove a point? I love you. And I know you love me. Three days in Miami won’t change that any more than did three days in Cancun. I’m going to hang up now. I just heard Rexi throw up in the living room, and I have no idea where Bobby is. Have fun.”

“Jeff....”

The line was dead. She was tempted to call back. Tempted also to go ahead and change her tickets. Tempted too to go back to the bar, with Damon, and finish her drink.

She chose the latter option, though as she approached Damon she felt her anger transfer onto him.

“What’s your part in this?”

He shrugged. “I nailed a hot piece of married ass on vacation and three days later her hubby calls out of the blue.”

“How’d....”

He nodded. “Yeah. That phone call you made from the bus.”

“Oh Jesus. I suck at this, don’t I?”

“Well, you didn’t know you were going to fuck me then.”

“No,” she admitted. “But you did.”

“I was just hoping.”

“No. It was more than that. You played me. I figured it out, you know. Later. All that game bullshit. Negging me. You ran a routine on me.”

“That shit doesn’t work. Not really at least. You know that, right? You know I didn’t trick you.”

“It still made me feel used.”

“Fair enough. But we both used each other. I used you for sex. You used me for an escape. And, so what? We both had fun, didn’t we?”

“That’s not the point.”

“No? Because it feels like the point to me. Life’s, you know, too short.”

“Is this another routine?”

“It’s just the truth, Heather. And that’s what your husband thinks too. He was pissed, but mostly just confused. It was unexpected, and he wasn’t sure what it meant. But that’s the thing. It didn’t mean anything.”

“Nothing?”

Damon shrugged again. "It can't, can it? Even if we wanted it to? So maybe that's what it has to be. Just a thing that makes two people happy."

She snorted. "God, you are amazing. You are one smooth mother-fucker."

He laughed. "Do you always talk like Samuel Jackson? Or do you save that kind of language for your black friends?"

"I'm not fucking you, you know."

"You'll still be my wingman, though, won't you?"

She shook her head. "You're both idiots, you know that. You and Jeff both."

He laughed. "Drink up, Soccer Mom. Plane boards in ten minutes."

He drove all other thoughts from her mind. It was him and nothing else. His powerful body pressing against hers. Their tongue wrestling wetly. Her nipples, achingly erect, brushing against the short, curly hairs of his chest. Her legs were wrapped around his waist. His large palms cupping her ass cheeks. And most of all, his huge prick churning over and over into her hot, wet pussy.

Damon had that power over her. That ability to make her forget everything. The past, the future. All was the present. Just two bodies, passionately coming together again and again and again.

She'd always known she'd fuck him, she realized. Sitting side by side on the short hop from Atlanta to Miami and then in the cab to the hotel, it was as if they'd never parted. A deep, weird chemistry. Fun and sexy. Intoxicating.

They had barely made it to the room before tearing each other's clothes off. Even then, their first fuck was standing up, half-dressed, tongues and limbs intertwined. A sudden desperate climax. And then he swept her off the ground and carried her over to the bed. She had watched as he undressed for her, her eyes roaming over his gorgeous, naked body. And then he'd finished stripping her.

"You kept it shaved."

She giggled. "Jeff likes it too."

He kissed a stiff nipple. "I missed these."

"I missed this," she replied as she stroked his slimy prick.

“Well, I guess I’m going to have to give you enough of it to keep you for the next year.”

He rolled between her legs and fed his fat prick into her eager pussy. Deeper and deeper, until she gasped with pleasure at the sensation of being completely filled.

“Oh God, Damon, fuck me.”

EPILOGUE

“Twenty years. Who’d have thunk it?” Heather said when she noticed Jeff was awake. It was their anniversary and they had slept in, which was something they could do now that the kids were all in their teens.

“I always knew you were my girl.”

“Except for one weekend a year,” she noted.

He laughed. “You guys know where you’re going this time?”

“Vegas, baby.”

“Well, at least I know you’ll be too busy screwing to lose any money at the tables.”

Heather regarded her husband pensively. He was more handsome than ever at fifty. His boyishness was gone, and in place of that was a secure, mature man. Her best friend and lover, the father of their children, and the man she wanted grow old with. So why was she still going on these annual vacations with another man?

She’d thought about it many times. And of course, they’d talked about it many times as well. There was no good answer. Not really. But in the end, it was something she needed. Something that helped her remain stable and present. Something that allowed her to deal with for better and for worse with equanimity.

“You know I love you, Jeff.”

“I know.”

She knew that too, even if... even if she still didn’t completely understand her husband. Why did he allow her to do it? It didn’t turn him on, not directly at least, even if he liked the effect it had on her. What made him strong enough to tolerate it? That had always been, and would always be a mystery.

“You’re a strange man, you know.”

“I know that too.”

Short Stories

There are a number of short stories that I've written over the years that I am particularly fond of. I am in the process of editing and preparing them for publication. The first four are out.

Cuckolding Shorts

Volume 1: The Cottage

Rich has always had fond memories of his parents' old lake cottage. When they decide to sell it, he invites some old friends to join him and his wife Becky for a weekend of beer and nostalgia. But Rich's plans are upset by the presence of Robby, who is boorish, aggressive, and makes no secret of his lust for Becky.

When Robby badgers Rich into a foolish bet, he learns that his wife is willing to go to any lengths to make sure he pays his debts.

Volume 2: Déjà Vu

Bill and Jessie are celebrating their tenth anniversary when they run into Bill's college roommate. Chad is so handsome and charming that Jessie knows she needs to have him. Saying no should be easy for Bill, but he and Chad have a long and twisted past and this is not the first time Bill has had to deal with Chad's intoxicating effect on even the most sober-minded of women.

Volume 3: Last Fling

Married couple Dave and Leslie have decided it's time to have kids. They know it is a life changing decision. No more sleeping in late, no more spontaneous hiking trips, no cozy vacations alone. And worst of all, no more day long sessions in bed, naked, making love and eating take out. So to bid farewell to their old life they decide on a "last fling" in Las Vegas.

Although they agree that "what happens in Vegas, stays in Vegas," they find it isn't easy to remain detached and easy going when things begin to get hot and heavy. Dave, in particular, begins to have second thoughts when he realizes that Leslie's idea of a last fling may be more lusty and intense than he ever imagined.

Bruce can't believe it when his hard-drinking, barrel-chested, tough-guy co-worker Carl admits to being a happy cuckold. He's even more surprised to hear that Carl's tall, sinewy, blond wife has the hots for him.

As Bruce's obsession with his friend's wife grows, he finds himself slowly transformed into a different sort of man than he once was. But in thrall to obsession, it is easy to lose track of that which one holds most dear.
