

Honeymoon

HAZARDS

BEN BOSWELL

Honeymoon Hazards

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Honeymoon Hazards © 2014 by Ben Boswell

Edited by Kenny Wright

Cover design by Kenny Wright

Cover image © Getty/iStockPhoto used under license

First digital edition electronically published by KW Publishing,
September 2014

First print edition published by KW Publishing, September 2014
Printed by CreateSpace, Charleston SC

With the exception of quotes used in reviews, this book may not be reproduced or used in whole or in part by any means existing without explicit written permission of the copyright holder.

This book is a work of fiction and any resemblance to persons, living or dead, or places, events, or locales is purely coincidental. The characters are productions of the author's imagination and used fictitiously.

CONTENTS

Cover

Copyright Information

Honeymoon Hazards

Preface

Prologue

Chapter 1

Chapter 2

Chapter 3

Chapter 4

Chapter 5

Chapter 6

Chapter 7

Chapter 8

Chapter 9

Chapter 10

Chapter 11

Chapter 12

Chapter 13

Chapter 14

Chapter 15

Chapter 16

Chapter 17

Chapter 18

Chapter 19

About the author

KW Publishing

www.kennywriter.com

PREFACE

This book was a lot of fun to write.

In fact, it sort of forced its way into the queue, so to speak. I was working on a different book I had hoped would be quite light, but which kept turning darker and more emotional. That happens reasonably often for me... not necessarily the turn to darkness, but the sense of losing control of a story or a book. Anyway, I was sort of stuck and a little frustrated.

Then I got sick. Food poisoning, something. I don't know. All I know is that for the first twenty hours of it, I alternated between thinking I was dying and, well, hoping I would. While I was in bed, the idea for this story came into my head. I sort of conceived of it as an erotic version of the old Hitchcock classic Rear Window, well, without the murder plot, and with a lot of sex. So basically a voyeur book.

Ultimately, that's not quite what I ended up with, though it does have elements of that. But I did get a light romp and it gave me some time off from the other book I was working on. It turns out, that's what I needed, because I have since completed a first draft of the other book as well. Anyway, I hope you like it. Honeymoon Hazards is much closer in tone to my first book, The Two Sides of Terri than to my second, Whatever it Takes, though as is often the case in my stories, there is a certain casual attitude toward the sanctity of marriage vows.

I owe a debt of gratitude to many people. I want to again thank Kenny Wright, who provided editorial guidance and who is also responsible for the design, both of the cover and interior. I always feel bad imposing on him for help since it inevitably takes time away from his own writing, and I already find myself often anxiously awaiting his next book. If, by any chance, you've read and enjoyed my work, but have not yet read his, I would urge you to immediately put down this book and read his stuff first. You can follow him at <http://www.kennywriter.com/>.

I also want to again thank Julie P for copyediting this work. You can find her at <https://www.freelancer.com/u/jp2004.html>.

Most importantly, I want to again thank all of you who have supported my books and written encouraging emails over the past few months. It really does mean a great deal to me, and I appreciate it tremendously.

PROLOGUE

I loosened my bow tie and stared across the dance floor. There was Claire, my wife, though it still felt weird to call her that, dancing with Danny, my best man. He was probably, as usual, reminding her she'd had a shot with him first.

Danny and I were unlikely best friends. He was a frat boy, LAX player, and I was, I guess, a geek, double major in CS and Philosophy. He had six inches on me... and that was just in the pants. Bada bing! But he was a seriously nice guy. Fate made us freshman year roommates, shared interests made us friends. We were still hanging out almost a decade later. He was a finance guy by then, I was in computers. We were both in Los Angeles on business and hitting some local clubs.

We both spotted Claire, almost simultaneously, at a loud, crowded, happy hour. We argued about who'd spotted her first, as if that, somehow translated to romantic priority.

"She's not your type. Party girl." He insisted.

"No way. Definitely bring her home to mom," I argued.

"We'll see," he replied, striding off to strike up a conversation.

He didn't last long. He'd played it wrong. She wasn't the tequila shot and bathroom hookup type of broad after all. I laughed as she dismissed him. Now it was my turn.

She chuckled darkly as I approached her; she'd apparently noticed Danny and me standing together earlier. "What is this, you and your buddy running some sort of pig party?"

"Huh?"

“You know, a puerile game you boys play where you compete to score with the ugliest chick?”

I laughed. “So, now I’m intrigued. What are you?”

She shrugged. “Not a bimbo who’s gonna fall for your shit?”

“Well, sure. But I already knew that. So, what’s your deal?”

She rolled her eyes. “I don’t know. Should I study crystals? Kabala?”

“You know cynicism can become pathological, right?”

“Or just realism.”

I looked at her. Pretty, pretty, young girl with a weirdly dark sensibility. I had no illusions I could score with her, no desire to engage in empty flirtation, and yet... she was strangely addictive.

I studied her more closely. Big, blue eyes, skinny with a great ass. She was too objectively hot to consider herself ugly.

“Okay, so you don’t really think you’re a pig.”

She wasn’t dressed slutty. She was wearing a simple pair of well-fitted jeans, and a ribbed tee that accented her flat belly, small, pert breasts, and well-toned arms. But no visible piercing, no effort to invent non-existent cleavage. No desperation about her.

“And you’re not insecure enough to be just fishing for complements. So I’m thinking you just said that to fuck with me.”

She laughed. “Amazing powers of deduction, Sherlock. Do girls really fall for this?”

Man, she was making me work hard. And Sherlock or not, I thought I’d done a pretty good job assessing her from afar.

I continued, “This isn’t your scene. You think everyone here is an asshole.”

“No, I don’t” she hissed. But she did.

“It’s okay. Almost everyone here is an asshole.”

“But you’re not?”

I shrugged. “Maybe I am. But here is my number. I’d love to talk about it over dinner.”

I don’t know what gave me the strength to walk away from her that night. Pretty, smart, cynical. I knew, or maybe hoped, I’d be with her forever. But she wasn’t the kind of woman you win; she was always the kind of woman who chooses you.

My approach worked. She called me. Away from the club scene, she let her shield down. She was everything I’d always liked in a woman. Beautiful, smart, but more; wickedly sarcastic at times, strangely competitive, predictably unpredictable. Just like that first night, there was always something about her that kept me on edge. I liked that.

CHAPTER ONE

A beautiful bride, a gorgeously appointed hotel room, a sweeping vista of tree studded mountains. It should have been the beginning of a perfect honeymoon, a week in paradise to kick off a lifetime of marital bliss. Or something like that.

Except that somewhere between Seattle and Maui I caught something. I spent most of my wedding night not in bed with my new wife, Claire, but rather in the bathroom, hugging the commode. She spent the night on the sofa, keeping her distance from me, and from the vile sounds periodically emanating from the toilet. It was about as unromantic as imaginable.

“God, honey, I’m so sorry,” I said, peeking my head out of the bathroom once I heard her stir.

“It’s really not a big deal, John.”

“It was our wedding night.”

She shrugged. “It’s not like I really had a right to wear white anyway.”

“Yeah, but --”

She stepped closer to me. God, she looked ravishing. She’s one of the few women I’ve ever met who looks as good first thing in the morning as any other time of the day. That perfect, alabaster skin, the big, blue eyes, the mop of wavy, brown hair. She was wearing just a loose nightie. I peered down the front to catch a hint of cleavage between her pert breasts, and below the lines of her long legs.

“Oh crap,” I growled and spun back into the bathroom.

As I completed my business, such as it was, I heard Claire from the other room.

“So I guess you’re not feeling better yet, huh?”

We were newly married, but had been together for years. Seven to be precise. Our friend Jean accused us of getting hitched just to avoid the embarrassment of having to explain, again, why we weren't married after being together for so long.

There was no real explanation for our delay, except for the fact that we were still not quite ready for kids. We'd met when Claire was twenty-three. I was a few years older, twenty-six at the time, thirty-three now. Frankly, Claire's thirtieth coming up in the late fall seemed to loom larger than our June wedding.

So it isn't like I was particularly embarrassed to be sick in front of my new bride. But I was so grossly ill that I would have been mortified to share it with my mom. Then there was the cost. We'd splurged on our resort, and spending $600 a night to puke in a toilet was not my idea of money well spent.

"Please, honey, go to the beach or the pool. Something."

"I'm just as happy here with you."

I was standing in the doorway to the balcony watching as Claire ate her breakfast. Steaming hot Kona Coffee, a basket of pastries, perfectly crisped bacon, fresh melon and pineapple. It made me feel ill. Everything did.

"I'll be fine in a day or so, but I really don't want you to waste them."

"Spending time with my husband is not a waste."

My stomach growled. I'd already exposed her to enough disgusting sounds to last a lifetime.

"That's not what I mean."

"Are you trying to get rid of me?" she asked. "Is that what this is all about? You got a girl coming up to visit you?"

I laughed. “Yes, Claire, I’ve been faking my illness for the past twelve hours. Her name is Yvette. I snuck her into the hotel disguised as a maid. She’ll be here sometime this morning.”

She grinned at me. “I knew it.”

“I never could fool you.”

She shrugged. “You’re not the first man to fail, helpless before my withering powers of deduction.”

“You’ve been reading too many mystery novels.”

“Speaking of which, I have a new one here with me to read while I keep my sick hubby company.”

But a couple of hours later, she changed her mind. The breaking point was a game of Scrabble.

Not Words With Friends. Claire refused to play that. She calls it a “cheap knock-off,” and insisted the bonus tiles are “misplaced,” whatever that means. Anyway, we were playing Scrabble on my iPad. We were tied with only a few tiles left. I played “QUEAN” on triple word tile, for 45 points. She objected.

“That’s not a real word.”

“The computer accepted it.”

“Use it in a sentence.”

“I, um, I don’t know. I just know it is a valid word.”

“If you can’t use it in a sentence –“

“Claire, we’ve never played that –“

She was tapping away on the iPad. “It’s archaic. No one has used it in hundreds of years. It’s bullshit.”

“Well, what does it mean?” I asked.

“A slut, basically. But that doesn’t matter, you can’t play it.”

I sighed. Normally seeing this side of Claire was always good for a chuckle. She's perhaps the most competitive person I've ever met, but it is an intermittent trait. She's not competitive about everything. Just some things. Even after seven years I can't predict it consistently. But when she gets in these moods she's like a pit bull. Unfortunately, I was feeling too sick to either fight or take amusement from her irrationality.

I'd made the mistake of nibbling on the edge of the piece of toast, and my stomach had immediately begun to rumble ominously. The tremors soon became an earthquake and I interrupted our Scrabble game to run into the bathroom.

When I came out, I caught her staring wistfully out at the perfect blue sky laced with high, thin, wispy clouds. She'd changed into her bikini, blue to match her eyes, and was wearing a thin white cover-up over it. Her sun hat lay beside her, her book in her lap.

"Come on, Claire, at least go for a walk or something. You know you don't want to stay in this hotel room even for one whole day."

She hesitated. It was a typical Hawaii morning. 82 degrees with a light ocean breeze. We love Seattle and our world champion Seahawks, but it rains there 150 days a year. It is cloudy 200 days a year, partly cloudy another 100.

I could see the temptation building. She was often like that. An idea needed time to germinate before she would act on it.

"Come with me."

I shook my head. "Honey, I would love to. But in addition to my stomach, I am now woozy from lack of food and dehydration. I wouldn't make it ten paces. Believe me, if the situation were reversed, I'd leave you in a heartbeat."

She laughed. “See, none of my friends ever get to see this romantic side of you.”

“Go. I’m going to be sleeping anyway.”

The anti-nausea pills Claire had procured from the resort doc had me permanently groggy.

“Fine, Mister. But only for a little while. Just to feel the sun on my face for a few minutes.”

I lifted my arms in thanks. “Take your time. I’ll be wearing out a path between the bed and the bathroom.”

She stood. At five-seven she’s a few inches shorter than me, though as she stepped into her cork soled sandals we were about the same height. She blew me a kiss.

“I’ll explore and report back.”

I was already climbing gingerly into bed. “Have fun.”

CHAPTER TWO

She was gone for about an hour when I woke from a sweaty nap. I had left the balcony door open and the breeze periodically kicked up, carrying with it the scent of the tropics, the tart saltiness of the sea, the moist lushness of the forest.

I timidly went out onto the balcony and sat in the surprisingly comfortable wicker -- or was it rattan? -- armchair. I'd eschewed ocean front in favor of the mountain view. It was less expensive, and in a way even more scenic. The only downside was that the rest of the resort lay between us and the forested hills. The resort itself was gorgeous. Three pools, several restaurants, some townhouse-style luxury suites. From our balcony I had a view of most of it.

Despite the scope, or maybe because of it, the resort didn't seem particularly crowded. There were no vast expanses of lounge chairs, no lines at the water slides. The design created a sense of separation. The pools undulated, each curve bordered by palms and perfectly manicured hedges that created endless small islands of privacy. The super-expensive poolside cabanas seemed almost superfluous, more about showing off than anything else.

I'd brought out my binoculars. For a while I trained them on the distant ridges. I'd gotten it into my head that I should get into admiring nature or even birding. I'm not sure why. I guess it seemed like a mature hobby befitting a married man. It was a beautiful view. After about five minutes, I was bored of it, and instead turned the lens onto my fellow guests at the resort.

At first, I pretended I was just looking for Claire. And I did look for her. But that didn't stop me from noticing other guests. Many of the guests seemed to be couples. Generally young. Probably most of them probably honeymooning like me and Claire.

I lingered on an athletic brunette, sunning herself in a lounge chair near the bar. The first thing I noticed was her long hair in a thick ponytail. She was lanky and muscular. Maybe a little too much so, I thought, as I zoomed in. Her lack of body fat manifested in a disappointing lack of boobs. She was joined a few moments later by an equally fit blonde with short, cropped hair. Honeymooning lesbians? I let my mind picture that scene for a few minutes, but ultimately the lack of curves had me moving on.

There was a short, overweight man making his way to one of the poolside cabanas. He was bald yet hairy, looking almost like he was wearing a sweater. He was wearing a huge, gaudy watch. Surely a Rolex or something similar, though I couldn't be sure. What made him particularly interesting was that he was followed by two hot numbers in bikinis, a tall brunette and short blonde.

The brunette was olive-skinned, overflowing her swimsuit. Not that it was too small or too skimpy. It was, in fact, a rather modest one-piece. But it was just that her curves were too much for any Lycra construction. She had long, wavy hair, full, sensuous lips, and oversized designer sunglasses. She was obviously used to being looked at and she sashayed with unabashed confidence.

The blonde looked almost mousy by comparison, and yet, she was anything but. She was wearing a tiny, green bikini, definitely too small and too skimpy, but she had the body to pull it off. A perfectly flat stomach, high, firm breasts, probably implants, and a tiny, heart shaped ass, a small reddish tattoo on her hip. But her face was the issue. Worst of all was her sour expression, which turned into an outright scowl when she turned toward the brunette. But even aside from that she had a visage that people sometimes nastily describe as “horsey,” the kind of thing that only gets worse with age and plastic surgery. Still, she was young enough and had a hot enough body that I doubted she lacked male attention.

I looked back at the man leading this pair. I didn’t recognize him, but he obviously had something going on. A fat bank account? Whatever it was, he’d landed not one, but two beauties far out of his league.

I panned across the opposite wing of the hotel. There were a few couples having a late breakfast, some open patio doors. As I scanned past one room, a tall, slender young man stepped out onto the balcony. He had sandy, blond hair and was dressed just in boxers. His physique was androgynous enough to have tricked my eye into thinking it was a topless woman. I was ready to move on disappointed when a hand appeared on his upper arm. I saw his shoulders sag incongruously as he allowed himself to be dragged back inside the room. As he cleared the doorway, I caught a flash of a delightfully sexy woman’s body, petite, busty and completely naked. I lingered on their windows for a few minutes hoping to see more of her, but they were back inside now, away from my prying eyes.

I scanned the balconies for a few more minutes before returning my attention to the pools. I yawned. I needed to nap, but I wanted to try to find Claire before turning in. I followed the meandering waterways, pausing to check in on the Millionaire and his harem and my athletic lesbians. I finally found my wife, spotting first her bright blue bikini, then zooming in to confirm it was her. She’d stopped off at one of the poolside bars and was sipping on a tall, yellowish drink, topped off with a bright pink umbrella. A Daiquiri of some sort? No, we were in the Pacific. A Mai Tai probably. My stomach grumbled menacingly at the thought of alcohol.

She suddenly threw her head back in a laugh, and I realized she wasn't alone. She was looking to her right. I zoomed out and spotted the comedian who'd made her guffaw. I hated him viscerally. Tall, slim, with a full head of thick dark hair. He was smiling broadly, his teeth perfect and gleaming. He was wearing swim tights. Not Speedos, rather the length of bike shorts, but equally snug. He was fit enough to pull off that look. He spoke again. She laughed again.

I thought about calling her, telling her I needed her back in the room. I'm not sure why, but I just wanted to get her away from him. I shook my head. I was being silly. And anyway, I was feeling too lazy to walk to the phone. I put down my binoculars and rubbed my eyes.

I woke to sounds coming from the room. Voices. More than one?

"Claire, is that you?"

No answer, but more sounds. Housekeeping?

I rose shakily and stepped inside. Going from bright to relative darkness blinded me for a moment. I swayed unsteadily just inside the glass doors. I heard a warbling giggle. My eyes adjusted slowly, but my vision was blurred.

Still, I could make them out. Two people, on the bed, going at it.

Had someone come into my room by mistake? Had Claire left the door unlocked?

"What the hell?" I said.

Another giggle. This one clearer. More familiar. Claire's.

I took another step and the room came into focus. Claire was on her back on the edge of the bed, her legs over the shoulders of a tall, strapping man, the comedian from the bar. He was thrusting against her, hard and fast. She looked over and gave me a big goofy smile, very proud of herself, showing off.

I looked up at him. He gave me a cocky grin.

“Someone’s gotta fuck her,” he said in a south Jersey slur.

Or did he? His lips didn’t move, but I heard him clearly.

I looked back down at Claire, jolting back and forth from his rough pounding, her firm breasts jiggling wildly inside her bikini. Her lips parted and she let out a sultry moan. A drop of sweat appeared on her temple and then flew off as she closed her eyes and rolled her head in passion.

“Stop it.” I said.

“Please,” I added absurdly.

She threw her head back in an exuberant laugh. I felt sick. Dazed. My vision blurred again.

I woke with a start. For a moment, I was disoriented. Had I passed out? I was back on the balcony? Had they put me back out there?

I rose quickly and immediately regretted it. My head spun, my stomach churned. I stumbled into the room. Again, my eyes blinding me in the adjustment to interior lighting.

“Claire, where are you?” I grumbled angrily.

I looked over at the bed. Looked at the spot where Claire had gotten fucked, looking for evidence of it. I stumbled over and felt the sheets, looking for an indentation, a wet spot, something. Where were they? Fucking in the bathroom? Downstairs getting some more Mai Tais and talking about what a chump I was.

The door mechanism whirred as the keycard was swiped from outside. I seethed. Claire and loverboy were back for another round. I’d give them a piece of my mind.

“You...” fucking cunt.

I caught myself in mid-sentence, doubting myself. The image of Claire on the bed getting plowed suddenly seemed gauzy. It had been so clear in my mind a second earlier. But now, instead of immediacy, it felt like something from the distant past.

“Are you okay?” she asked. “You don’t look well.”

“I...”

I shook my head.

She hurried over to me and took my forearm, sitting me down on the bed. I sat clumsily, avoiding the spot where she’d... She’d what? Nothing. It had been a vision. A dream. A nightmare, actually. So vivid, but not real.

“John, John...” she was shaking me.

“What? No. Claire, I’m okay. I just, I just got up too fast.”

She looked at me with concern.

“Really, I’m okay. Well, not okay. I still feel sick. But no worse than before.”

She was still watching me closely. It felt uncomfortable.

“Did you have fun?” I asked.

She hesitated as if unsure whether to move on from a further discussion of my health.

“Yeah. Oh my God, the resort is beautiful. You know what I noticed?”

A tall, dark and handsome stranger wearing swim shorts tight enough to count the veins on his package?

I shook my head.

“No bugs. I mean, none. Think they spray the place every night?”

“Probably,” I replied. “Beautiful on the surface, but really a Super Fund site.”

She shrugged. “Small price to pay to be able to have a fruity drink without flies or whatever buzzing around.”

“I thought you were an environmentalist.”

“Nope. Not on my honeymoon. I’m here to have fun. You ready to join me?”

She batted her eyelashes at me.

God, she was tempting, except that I was feeling woozy and bloated, and not in the least bit sexy.

She read my expression perfectly.

“At least come down by the pool with me.”

My stomach rumbled menacingly.

“Tomorrow, I promise. I just need another good night sleep to get over this. But please, you go back out. It’s still early. Enjoy the rest of the day. We can order room service and have dinner on the balcony this evening.”

She nodded. “Okay. So you won’t join me for lunch either?”

I grabbed at my stomach. “I think I’m still on a liquid diet. And the smell of food makes me queasy. But thanks for checking up on me.”

“I needed to reapply sunscreen anyway. In case you haven’t noticed, we O’Neills don’t come from the tropics.”

“You’re not an O’Neill anymore. Mrs. Rivers.”

She laughed. “I’m not so sure about that, Mr. Rivers. We haven’t consummated this thing yet, and until we do, I think legally I’m still a single woman.”

I forced a chuckle. It was just one of those silly things Claire liked to say. And yet, after my dream.... Or was it a dream? Had she just hinted at something more?

“Well, that makes me a single man, too.”

She grinned. “Yes, but you’re stuck in this stuffy room, and I’m out and about. Hopefully that will motivate your recovery.”

I wished it were just a matter of will. My belly disagreed.

“Um, Claire, I’ll be right back,” I muttered as I hurried to the bathroom.

CHAPTER THREE

Thankfully, by the time I came out, she'd left. The room was neither small nor stuffy, but it was a hotel room, and close quarters given my intestinal ailments. I was presently poor competition for a tall, handsome, funny stranger in tights.

I sat back down on the bed and thought about my dream. It wasn't a normal dream, full of non-sequiturs and absurdities. That's what had made it so hard to dismiss. It felt real. Most significantly it was way out of character for me. Well, mostly. And that's what bothered me.

I'm conscious of the fact that I married "out of my league," though I'm also conscious of the fact that it is a meaningless phrase. By definition, the fact that she went out with me, stayed with me, and married me meant that Claire was in my league. As a matter of objective reality, though, she's a ten. Okay, maybe a nine or even an eight in, say, a room full of models, but I'd say that at least 95% of the time she's the best-looking woman in the room, which puts her not in the top five percent but in the top one percent since just because one time in twenty there is an equally pretty woman, she's still prettier than 99% of the women in all twenty of the rooms. Or something. This might be one place where the math wasn't worth exploring.

Point is, she's super-hot and I'm, well, average physically. I'm 5'10", 165 lbs, my medium brown hair is both fine and thinning. I have a round face and hazel eyes. They're my best feature, I guess. I'm fit, reasonably put together, but most of the time I blend in. She's the hottest girl in the room, I'm just one of the guys.

I don't dwell on it a lot. I just consider myself lucky, if anything. Now, a lot of guys in my situation get wrapped around the psychological axle on this sort of thing. They have a hot wife. They are threatened by it, and as a result they become obsessed and pathological. Jealous, suspicious, accusatory, controlling. You see that a lot in abusive relationships.

At the other extreme, you get guys whose identities get so bound up in having a hot wife that they get a powerful validation from other men showing an interest in their spouse. Sometimes, that is such a rush that they even get off on sharing their wives with other men as a result.

The middle response is the most common, I guess, which is that having a beautiful wife makes some guys insecure, and their insecurity manifests as a dark fantasy of their wife cheating, the eroticized fear that is at the heart of many cuckold fantasies.

I'd thought of all of this. There is no way not to. Men look at Claire. All the time. She claims not to notice. But she must, right? From the first time I introduced her to my friends, I've gotten teased about her being out of my league. I've been living with it for years now, and yet until our honeymoon I'd never had a dream or a nightmare about her cheating. I'd never fantasized about it. I'd never felt particularly jealous. Grateful. Watchful, maybe. But never jealous or fearful.

Maybe it was just the medicine. Or maybe it was just the situation, being sick and feeling particularly unappealing at a time when we should have been making love like sea otters. But what really freaked me out was that this had happened to me once before.

I lost my virginity in high school to my long-term girlfriend. It was awkward and we broke up soon after. Then in college I had a couple of hook-ups. But my first real lover was Debbie. It was sophomore year. She was the first girl with whom I had sex enough times to get past the initial, "Oh my God, I'm inside her actual vagina" sensation that dominated my first several sexual encounters.

She was more experienced than I was, though I only realized that consciously later on. She gave me my first real blowjob, the first one to live up to the hype. She was the first girl I gave an orgasm to, first by eating her out, then during actual sex. We had sex with the lights on. We tried all sorts of positions. We'd lay in bed together naked, doing homework or watching TV, and then bang like rabbits.

She was nineteen, like me, but somehow more sophisticated. She knew how to dress. She was pretty, with thick, blond hair and heavy boobs, though a little soft in the body. She was probably out of my league, though more for reasons of maturity and experience than just physically. But I don't think I realized it at the time.

Nevertheless, I couldn't shake the suspicion that she was cheating on me. I was jealous of her male friends. And I started having these visions, fantasies, I guess, that she was with another man. Vivid things. I pictured her with other men. At first occasionally and then all the time.

It was filtered through my immature fantasies. She'd mention going to a professor's office hours, and I'd immediately begin imagining how he'd have her. Her on her knees sucking him off for a better grade? Bent over his desk getting hammered from behind? Any night we weren't together, I'd think of where she was without me. At a frat getting gang banged? At a townie bar perched up on a bathroom sink, her legs spread, a sneering construction worker plowing her college girl pussy?

Worse, instead of being repulsed, I was turned on. Those fantasies were masturbatory fodder. I'd get off on it, on the idea of Debbie being used by this procession of clichés.

But then one night, I was out with some buddies. I was already drunk. We'd "pre-gamed" in the dorm. We went to a house party and I spotted her, sitting on a couch, with a couple of her friends, and a couple of other guys

I'd never seen before. The one on her right was sitting close, too close. His hand casually resting on her thigh, near the knee. He was older. He had a goatee, a leather bracelet on his wrist, at least two tattoos that I could see.

I stormed over.

"Hey, get your hands off her," I grunted.

She stood. "John, no!"

"This is between me and him," I said, pushing her away.

He chuckled.

"You think this is funny?" I persisted.

"A little," he replied.

His buddy laughed loudly.

"Oh my God, I am so leaving," Debbie exclaimed as she backed away.

"Don't touch my girlfriend ever again!"

He gave me arrogant smirk. "If she's your girlfriend, then how come I know she sounds like an excited squirrel when she's getting it hard from behind?"

Maybe it was the smirk. Maybe it was the realization that Debbie had fled because she knew what was about to happen. Maybe it was the fact that, damn it, she did make a peculiar sound, perhaps like an excited squirrel, with things got hot and heavy.

I raised my fist to take a swing at him, but luckily one of my buddies pulled me away.

"She's not worth it," he said soothingly.

I struggled to get free. Well, not really. I made a show of it, but was sort of grateful to be hauled away.

I got really, really drunk. I called her a whore and a slut. I yelled it out. And then when I was really, really, really drunk I started crying and telling everyone in earshot how much I loved her. Thankfully, I passed out before I could go to her dorm room and beg her to take me back.

I woke up the next afternoon, viciously hung over, and resentful. I would teach that cheating bitch a lesson. I gave her the silent treatment. But I had to make her notice the silent treatment. So I'd deliberately go places where I knew she'd be and, well, ignore her. Shockingly, to my nineteen year old brain, this technique did not bring her running back to me. So I broke down and bought her flowers and begged her to come back to me. That, um, didn't work either.

I had spent much of the past fifteen years suppressing the debacle with Debbie, but it all came rushing back to me. I wasn't the kind of guy who obsessed or focused on his woman with another man. But the one time I had, it had come true. And now, I'd just had a dream vivid enough to have me doubting reality. Was it just the illness? The medicine? Or some weird trick of the subconscious? A harbinger of things to come?

I went back out onto the balcony to look for Claire. I checked the bar she'd visited earlier. It was crowded with the lunchtime rush. It took me a while to be sure, but she wasn't there. I scanned the various lounge chairs by the pools. No luck.

It was a big resort. She could easily be hidden behind a palm or a hut or even out front on the ocean side. There were many places she could be innocuously reading her book and enjoying the sun. But the vision, or a variant of it, came to me like a shot. Claire frolicking with her new man in the surf, jostling against him as the waves crashed upon them. Innocent and playful at first, the attraction would build as their bodies rubbed against each other, as she felt his muscles, as he enjoyed her curves.

He was taller than me, better built, objectively more handsome. Claire wouldn't plan to cheat on me. But things might just happen. A glance, a touch, a kiss. A moment of weakness, and a man like that, he had the look... a man like that would take advantage of it. They'd sneak into one of the beach cabanas... or maybe he had one of his own already? Was he rich, too?

It could happen so fast. She might protest, weakly, transparently, just for show even as she let him slide his hand into her bathing suit. She'd moan passionately as he'd find her wet slit. She'd reach out, almost instinctively, to stroke his fat cock through his tight shorts. He would push her back onto a lounge, her legs spreading of their own accord.

They'd grind against each other, his mouth sucking on her neck. She'd moan, "hurry, hurry," as they'd fumble to free themselves of their swimwear. He'd thrust inside her, hard, all at once. She'd gasp and shudder, her moans of "hurry, hurry," turning to groans of "harder, harder."

He wouldn't need the encouragement. He'd already be reaching beneath her, cupping her ass, thrusting roughly inside her. Her legs in the air, squeals of passion filling the cabana. Another thrust, another gasp, and then for both a shuddering climax convulsing their bodies. Then he would slow, his erection subsiding, even as he continued to pump his cock inside her. Their lips would meet, their kiss salty with the sea and sweat.

"We shouldn't have done that," she'd exclaim with a saucy smile.

"No, definitely not," he'd reply.

She would feel his prick begin to stiffen again. And she'd think of me, just for a passing moment, before passion would again overtake her.

I shuddered and shook my head. Fuck, here I was, sitting on my balcony with, well, at least a partial woody, thinking, no visualizing my wife cheating on me. Again! What was wrong with me?

The thought, now that it had entered my mind, was like one of those Katy Perry songs, unendurable and yet impossible to shake.

I raised the binoculars and again searched for Claire. I couldn't find her, but as I surveyed the resort, I again alighted upon the Millionaire and his harem. They were by the pool, on lounge chairs, the brunette on his right, the blonde on his left, but he was definitely closer to the brunette. Was she the number one wife?

The blonde, a little farther away, was now wearing a pink Chi Omega ball cap, with her hair in a ponytail out the back. Lying down it was obvious she had implants. Her boobs were just too firm and too round on her chest. She was texting with one hand, drinking a fruity drink held in the other. The pile of drink umbrellas on the small table at her side attesting to the fact that she'd already had several. As skinny as she was, that suggested she sometimes drank, rather than ate, her meals.

The moment she finished her drink, a handsome waiter appeared. The resort uniform of white shorts and a blue Hawaiian shirt did little to hide his surfer's physique. He had powerful legs and moved gracefully to the blonde's side. She laughed at what I imagined was playful flirting. The Millionaire cast the two of them a disapproving sneer. And then I got it. The blonde wasn't a member of his harem, she was his daughter. The sneer had been identical to the expression I'd seen her aim at the brunette.

The picture became crystal clear moments later when two dark-haired, young boys ran over to the brunette and began clamoring around her. Blondie was the daughter from an earlier marriage. The curvy brunette her stepmom. Dad had invited her to join his new family on a trip to Hawaii.

I let out a low whistle. If my deductions were right, the blonde was a sorority girl, with tattoos and implants, a drinking problem and daddy issues. She was probably a party, or at least a hot mess. I resolved to keep an eye on her if I could.

Unfortunately there were no immediate fireworks. The flirtation with the waiter ended quickly and he returned with yet another drink. There were more sneers, but nothing interesting otherwise.

I scanned again for Claire. Still nothing. I groaned. Thinking of the sorts of hijinks the blonde was probably up to did nothing to calm my premonitions -- as I had begun to think of them -- about Claire. How many drinks had she had by now? How much had they lowered her inhibitions? And where the fuck was she anyway? I was tempted again to call her, but even in my agitated state that felt absurd... and desperate. Fuck it, there was nothing I could do if she was determined to get fucked by tall, dark, and... fuck that asshole and his fucking tights. What kind of man wears those around?

I returned to scanning the resort with my binoculars. Those minutes engrossed in the Millionaire and his women had been a welcome distraction. Surely there were others.

What about the Lesbians? I looked again for them. Nowhere. Even though they were a little too athletic for my tastes, they were still both good looking. I imagined them in their room, intertwined, scissoring... did real lesbians even do that or was that a het male invention?

I continued to scan the resort. Lots of good looking women out there, a nice cross section of looks and body types. But there was one girl, in particular, I couldn't get out of my mind, the newlywed from the hotel room in the opposite wing.

I lifted my binoculars and scanned over in that direction. I hadn't counted the rows or stories, so I only had a general idea of where I'd seen them before. Odds were they were not there or had closed their window. The sun had shifted, shining more directly onto that side of the hotel. The balconies were more crowded now with people enjoying the afternoon sun.

But as I looked at where I thought they'd been, I noticed, as before, an empty balcony and an open patio door, with just a sheer privacy curtain drawn across the opening.

I zoomed in, and as I did, a gust of wind blew open the gauzy fabric. With the sunlight cascading into the room, I saw briefly, a delightful vision. They were on the bed, she was riding him, eyes closed, head swaying gently from side to side giving me periodic glimpse of her visage. He was laying still, allowing an unobstructed view of her body.

She had shoulder-length blond hair, feathered in a way that hasn't really been in style since the early 1980s, but it somehow worked with her roundish face and tiny button nose. She had big breasts, not the high, too round, obviously fakes of the Millionaire's daughter, but heavy torpedoes, with a wide valley between, aimed to the sides. I couldn't see her areolas, but I imagined them huge, silver dollar sized. She probably hated her boobs; they were at odds with what society valued, and yet I found them incredibly erotic.

She was astride him, her hips thrusting languidly. Like her breasts, her ass and hips were wider set than you see in magazines, but she wasn't fat in the least bit, just built that way, maybe a little long-waisted. But there was something about her, about her natural body, her swaying breasts, about the way her ass ground against her man, something that was almost ineluctably erotic. She was like an ancient fertility goddess come to life.

And then then the wind died and the curtain draped again across the patio door. For several minutes, I continued to watch. Each small gust of wind giving me a frisson of excitement as the fabric rippled, lifting up slightly, but never quite enough to give me another view inside their room.

I put the binoculars down and for a moment imagined myself in that man's place. I certainly wouldn't have just been laying there like a lummoX.

How could he keep his hands off that ass, those tits? Why wasn't he caressing her pink cheeks, pulling her closer to suck her big nipples into his mouth? It was truly a case of pearls before swine.

I doubted Claire's new boyfriend would be quite so passive. No, he had the looks of a man who liked to be in control. Even as I scanned the resort of signs of her, I imagined her in bed with him, bent in half, ankles pinned by her ears, getting pounded into the mattress.

And then I saw her. She was sitting in a lounge chair, by the sloped lagoon pool, in a shady spot. Her book was on her lap, the bookmark unmoved from this morning. She hadn't read a page. She was laughing again. I zoomed out, and there he was, again. The handsome stranger, camped out beside my wife, chatting her up animatedly. On the table between them -- they had had the decency to not pull their loungers right up next to each other -- were a beer for him and another fruity drink for her.

What the fuck was she doing? Oh, we were talking. Tony has so many funny stories. But she had to see it? Feel it? The sun, the booze, the heat, the skimpy swimsuits, the carefully planned impression of privacy. The whole resort, by design, oozed sensuality. There was sex in the air. The Newlyweds felt it. The Millionaire's daughter, eyeing the waiter, felt it. The Lesbians back in their room scissoring felt it. So what was Claire doing, talking again with this stranger?

I recognized that my visions were just that. Crazy images spawned of sickness, medicine, and frustration at being stuck in the room. And yet, how had he found her again? Was he stalking her? Had they made plans to meet after lunch? Had they exchanged numbers? Or were my visions actually premonitions, some form of remote viewing? Jesus, I was turning into a loon. A full-blown crackpot.

Of course, it was just a coincidence. Sure, they had both noticed each other's bodies. That would be only natural. But it was just innocent. Two people, having a couple of drinks and telling some stories. It happens every day. A little flirtatious, maybe, but nothing particularly untoward. Except... the way she laughed... the way she glanced at his body and then averted her eyes... the way they leaned in towards each other. It looked... it felt oddly intimate. If I didn't know Claire, if I didn't know she was married to me, what would I think if I saw them?

The answer came as another vision. The two of them laying together in bed, naked and sweaty, faces glowing in contentment. They looked like lovers, and not just any lovers, but lovers in that first, heady phase of intoxicating attraction.

CHAPTER FOUR

She stayed out by the pool for a long while. At least her beau hadn't spent the whole afternoon with her. After about an hour, he'd risen and, with a wave, walked away. It's a testament to my state of mind that I was shocked she didn't leave with him, and immediately after coming to terms with that, I began to wonder whether she would soon follow him, whether his leaving early was just for show to avoid giving the impression they were together. That didn't make sense. She didn't know I was spying on her, and they had no reason to care if other people saw them together. Even so, I couldn't shake the feeling that they had an assignation planned, or maybe another one. Was it just that they were still satiated out from their earlier encounter?

I stared at her obsessively for over an hour until I felt confident that she wasn't about to decamp. She was finally reading her book, and had ordered yet another fruity drink. Claire's never been a big drinker, and for all I knew, she was drinking virgin cocktails, but somehow I doubted it. Was she just heedless, enjoying the sun and the breeze, not paying attention to how much she was consuming? Or was she trying to drink enough to work up the courage to meet her lover? Or was she boozing away the guilt? God, I was making myself nuts.

Staring at her through binoculars was addictive. But I had periodic moments of clarity where I also realized how creepy it was. I forced myself to look away from Claire. I looked first for the Newlyweds, but not only were they not visible, they'd also closed their patio door. Then I searched for the Lesbians. They were probably out front, playing beach volleyball or maybe out on the tennis court or maybe going for a ten mile run that they would call a "jog." They had that look about them. I finally went back to the Millionaire.

He was dozing on his lounge, covered head-to-toe with a towel. He looked a little like a corpse that way. His Latina trophy, her kids, and his daughter were also still out there. The brunette was sitting by the edge of the pool watching her children frolicking in the water. The blonde had just finished yet another drink, and the ever attentive waiter had returned with a refill. He stood beside her, shading her face, hand on his hip in a cocky pose. She wasn't laughing this time, but giving him instead a saucy smile. He bent down to pick up her empties, lingering for a moment to share a whispered conversation. She glanced over at daddy, then gave the waiter a quick nod.

The waiter stood up quickly and walked away, her eyes following him. A beat, then two, and then a little too soon for plausible deniability, she stood and walked in the direction the waiter had gone. I saw the brunette cast her a quick, contemptuous glance – the Millionaire's two women did not like each other apparently – and then a quick look at her sleeping hubby. With a shrug she let her stepdaughter walk away.

The blonde looked around nervously as she approached the bar. She seemed to startle and then turned and walked toward a small path hidden between hedges that ran from the bar to the hotel itself. It was funny. From where she was, she had ducked into a hidden passageway. From where I was, she'd just gone from one side of the hedge to the other, while remaining perfectly in view.

She took a cautious step or two and then the waiter stepped out from under a palm. She smiled, but took maybe a half-step back, betraying her nervousness. He moved toward her smoothly, holding out a hand. She hesitated, then smiled and took his hand. He pulled her close and leaned down to whisper in her ear. I thought I could see her blush, though it might have been the start of a sunburn.

I didn't have much of an opportunity to continue to look for nuance because their encounter quickly picked up steam. The whispering turned into a kiss. His hands slid down her back and cupped her ass, first through her thin swimsuit, then beneath it. As he squeezed her ass, she reached around and ran her hands up his back to his shoulders. He wrapped his arms around her waist and lifted her easily off the ground. He walked her over and deposited her on a waist-high cooler or storage box or something. He kissed her again then dropped to his knees between her legs.

She pushed at him half-heartedly, but her hungry expression made it clear it was just for show. He either realized that or maybe he didn't care. He grabbed the fabric of her swimsuit and slid it aside, burying his face in her crotch. Her hands seized the back of his head, her finger running through his long hair, and she threw her head back, eyes closed, in passion. He ate her snatch vigorously, judging by the movement of his head and her jerky, twitchy reaction.

At one point, she opened her eyes, and looked down at her lover, licking her pussy. She closed her fist on his hair and pumped her hand up and down, a proud and haughty look on her face. It wasn't hard to imagine her thoughts, her satisfaction at this sexy, young man, completely at her disposal, servicing her. She closed her eyes again, and threw her head back. Her mouth opened and closed rhythmically, as if moaning in pleasure. She shuddered and then looked down at him again with a smile.

Then suddenly he rose. As he pulled away, I got a perfect view of her shaved snatch, swollen, pink, and even from a few hundred yard away, visibly wet with excitement. Still, she didn't seem quite ready as he wrenched down his pants and roughly shoved what looked like a fat prick inside her.

There was nothing subtle about the way he fucked her. She might have seen him as an exotic and safe play toy, but he obviously saw her as nothing more than a convenient hole. He hammered her cunt hard, bouncing her up and down on the cooler. He reached out and roughly pulled down her top, exposing her big, fake tits. They bounced wildly. He grabbed a handful of blond hair, his other hand closing firmly over her breast. She reached out and placed her hands on his stomach, trying to slow him. But he was too strong, too aggressive to be managed.

Without warning, he stepped back, pulling her off the cooler and onto the floor. She was on her knees now, looking up at him. He stroked his cock roughly. She realized what he was doing too late to react, but soon enough for her eyes to widen in apprehension. He spurted across her face, and then again and again. She flinched, but he reached out and held her firm, and his eruptions repeatedly found their target. When she looked up at him, in shock, her face was covered and shiny with his jism.

It had happened so quickly, I almost felt sorry for her. Little, rich girl. She'd gone from getting serviced by one of the little people to being covered in cum so fast that she hadn't had time to react. He lifted her to her feet and gave her a bar towel to clean herself off. She did so, a little sheepishly. There was what I imagined was awkward small talk, and then he walked her to the gap in the hedges and led her back out from the backroom into the bright daylight.

As the blonde approached her stepmother, I thought I could see an exchange of glances between them. Was that a smirk on stepmom's face? Did she know what had happened? Did she have similar experiences as a hot-bodied young woman back in Rio or Cartagena or wherever she came from? But they didn't talk, didn't commiserate. There was an unbridgeable gap between them. The blonde jumped into the water before reaching her lounge, washing away whatever evidence remained of her encounter.

The show was over. I swung my binoculars back over to where Claire had been. She was gone. How long, I didn't know. Long enough for Blondie to get eaten, fucked, and coated with jism. Where had she gone? Was her boyfriend coming on her face right now?

CHAPTER FIVE

By the time she returned, a good hour later and who knows how long since quitting her lounge chair, I was in a pissy mood.

“Did you have fun?” With your boyfriend? I said through a barely suppressed sneer.

“Yeah,” she giggled. “It is gorgeous out there, and they have the cutest family of cats living out by the gazebo bar. She was apparently too giddy from fruity drinks to notice my attitude.

“You were gone a long time,” I asked probingly.

“Sorry.” She gave me an exaggerated pout. “I know you’re cooped up in here. Are you feeling better?”

I nodded. I was. At least a little. I’d try some regular food for dinner. I was actually looking forward to it.

“Good,” she said brightly. “I got us tickets to one of those Hawaiian pig roast and culture shows on the beach for tomorrow night. Took forever. The concierge had to deal with this old couple who needed special accommodations for everything.”

I nodded again. We were operating in completely different universes. She was talking to me about normal touristy things, but my own mind was wallowing in a morass of depraved sex. How could she talk about a pig roast when we were in the middle of a giant orgy? Or was this all an act? An effort to throw me off the track?

She was looking at me expectantly. I’d missed something.

“Sorry, what?”

“I was just asking if you thought that would be us. You know, the old couple, in fifty years, informing some poor concierge about all our ailments.”

“I... I dunno.”

She gave me a queer look. “Are you sure you’re okay? You seem a little loopy. And I’m the one who’s been out in the sun drinking Mai Tais. By the way, watch out for the gazebo bar, they mix ‘em strong. Out by the pool is much better.”

Or maybe out by the pool you didn’t notice because you were too busy flirting.

“I’ll keep that in mind.”

She opened her mouth to talk, but then stopped. After a moment, she continued, “Well, I’m going to take a shower and wash off the sun block. Wanna plan dinner in the room? We can just get something small and simple if you’re still not feeling well.”

She was acting so normal that it brought me out of my funk.

“I’m sorry. I just missed you.”

“Awww, that’s so sweet.”

“Go ahead and shower. I’ll check out the room service options.”

We had dinner out on the balcony. I was starving. I hadn’t had any real food in over a day. But I decided to take it easy and ordered a simple piece of steamed Mahi Mahi for myself. Claire had the same thing, except seared with a sesame-soy-lime sauce. The smell of her food made my mouth water. My fish seemed bland and tasteless by comparison.

We’d gotten a bottle of white wine. We probably shouldn’t have. She’d had plenty to drink already, and my stomach was far from a hundred percent. But it was our honeymoon, damn it!

Claire had changed into a cute little, flowered sundress, blue to match her eyes. She’d gotten a little sun on her cheeks and was looking, frankly, radiant.

She told me all about her day. She'd roamed across the resort, checking out the pools, the beach, and even the golf course. She described the salt water pool and the sunset cruise that left from the beach. She told me about everything, everything except for the man she'd talked to and flirted with on two separate occasions during the day.

I sipped my wine as I listened to her. The alcohol hit me and my empty stomach hard. I was buzzed by the time I finished my glass. The more she told me about the resort and touristy options for the week, the more the lacuna in her narrative gnawed at me. She could at least mention the mystery man. Her failure to do so seemed increasingly significant and suspicious.

She took a bite of her fish and turned to look at the sky, the bright red-orange of the sunset transitioning into the violet of twilight. A breeze kicked up, washing the balcony with the sweet, salty smell of the sea. The palms rustled. A bird cried out as it dipped into the canopy of trees. It was a slice of paradise. And I couldn't stand it.

"So, tell me about your boyfriend."

She looked at me quizzically. "Huh?"

I gestured vaguely in the direction of the pool.

She followed my gaze and then turned back toward me. "Were you spying on me?"

Even in my buzzed and jealous state, I sensed the danger in her question. Her eyes were locked in on mine. I tried to read her emotions, but it was hard. Was she angry? Amused? Defensive? Guilty? All of the above?

"No, not spying on you, per se. I was just looking around and happened to notice you... with a man."

She said nothing. She just continued to frown at me, almost inviting me to hang myself with my own words.

“You... um... seemed to be having fun,” I continued lamely. “I don’t know... do you know him from somewhere?”

She hesitated, as if considering her options. Her continued silence tempting me to continue rambling.

“I –“

She cut me off. “We were just chatting. His name is Trent. He’s here for the week.”

“So, is he married?”

She laughed at how transparent I was being.

“No, not quite. He was actually supposed to be on his honeymoon, but he got left at the altar, poor guy. The plane tickets were non-refundable, so he decided to come out anyway.”

I snorted.

“What?” she asked.

I shook my head. “You don’t really believe that?”

“What are you talking about?”

“Oh please,” I chuckled, self-satisfied with my powers of deduction. “That’s just a line. Poor guy. Some woman just broke his heart. Won’t someone please help him learn again to trust? Restore his belief in love?”

Claire regarded me open-mouthed. A look of understanding crossed her face. I smirked smugly thinking I’d convinced her.

She grinned and shook her head.

“You’re really invested in this.”

“What?”

“In this whole... what... fantasy? My boyfriend. Your poor, dumb, naïve wife getting hit on by the pool.”

“I don’t know what you’re talking about,” I muttered.

She gave me a piercing gaze. “Oh God, John, more? Is that why you accused me of being away too long? Did you think I’d gone off with him?”

It did sound crazy when she said it out loud.

“It’s not like that.”

She eyed me skeptically. “Oh? Then how is it?”

“What do you mean?”

“You see me sitting by the pool talking to a man, and your mind immediately jumps to me cheating on you?”

“I didn’t say that.”

“You didn’t need to. So, it’s okay. Come clean, is that one of your things?”

“What things?”

“The cuckold thing. Do you think of me with other men?”

“I am not a cuckold,” I denied hotly.

She laughed.

“You can thank me for that!”

“So he was hitting on you?”

She rolled her eyes. “He was nice. He never propositioned me.”

Would she admit it even if he had? I didn’t know. I wondered how he’d describe it.

“So what put this in your head then if it’s not a thing,” she persisted.

“Never mind.”

“Oh come on, John. I’m not angry. It’s just a little funny, you know. Here we are on our honeymoon, and you’re thinking of me with other men.”

Her tone struck me as patronizing. I dug in.

“You are being naïve, babe. He was definitely hitting on you. The sun, the ocean air, the booze, this place oozes sex. You wouldn’t believe the things I’ve seen.”

Her eyes lit up. “Oooh, tell me.”

“No, I...”

“You might not be a cuckold, but you’re definitely a voyeur. You just admitted it. Anyway, you’ve always gotten a kick out of playing Sherlock Holmes with people. You used that routine on me when we first met.”

“Did not.”

“Did too!”

She paused, then continued, “Come on. Tell me what you saw. What put the idea of me cheating on you into your head?”

She peered over the railing of the balcony. “We do have a great view up here.”

She looked over at the other wing of the hotel. “I bet we can even see into some of those rooms over there.”

It was like she could read my mind. With each statement, I felt myself blushing a little more deeply, until my guilt was written all over my face. There was no point in denying it.

“I was bored,” I offered by way of excuse.

“You’re a pervert,” she accused, but with an amused glimmer in her eyes.

“You knew that already,” I replied.

“Yes, but I didn’t know what flavor of pervert. So I married a voyeur.”

“Maybe... a little.”

“Okay, so tell me. What did my voyeur husband spy from his perch?”

I was uneasy, but she was encouraging. I felt like I was traipsing through a minefield. No matter how tolerant and even interested she seemed to be, I couldn't help but feel that I was courting disaster in talking about what I'd seen.

I began with the Lesbians.

"How do you know they're lesbians?"

"I don't. They just had that look about them."

"The lesbian look?"

"No, I mean, they had that newly married look about them. They just happened to be both women."

"They could just be friends."

I rolled my eyes. "I'll point them out tomorrow. We'll see what you think."

I mentioned the Millionaire's clan.

"Ohh, I saw them too," Claire gasped excitedly. "The wife is quite the number, isn't she? Sofia Vergara, only bustier."

I told her about what I had seen with the daughter.

Claire gasped, hand to mouth. "No! You did not really see that!"

I nodded.

"Oh my God, all over her face? That is so rude."

I shrugged. "Back alley quickies have their own rules I guess."

She laughed. "I can't say I'm that surprised. That girlie had slut written all over her."

"Slut shaming, are we?"

"Not shaming. Just sayin' I'm not surprised."

I kept the Newlyweds to myself. I didn't trust myself to speak about them, about her, without betraying myself. But that was okay. I'd given Claire enough.

She giggled as she finished her wine. "Okay, okay, I see where your mind was. I forgive you for thinking the unthinkable about me."

“Unthinkable?” I said.

“I would never cheat on you.” She paused. “Unless you wanted me too.”

I felt my cheeks flush. “Claire!” I sputtered.

She laughed -- maybe just a little too hard -- throwing her head back in mirth as I’d seen her do with Trent. “I’m just kidding. Seriously, John, you need to get out of this room.”

I nodded. Then grunted. A piece of the fish had made its way down to my intestines. It was like a volcano.

“Excuse me,” I groaned, racing to the bathroom.

“So, I guess you’re not quite well yet?” she called through the closed door.

CHAPTER SIX

When Claire began to stir the following morning at what seemed to be shortly after sunrise, I begged her to let me sleep in. I'd spent much of the previous evening in the toilet, and sleep-deprivation aside, it is amazing how exhausting dry heaves are. At around 3:00am I actually began fantasizing a new weight-loss and exercise routine based on inducing dry heaves. A moment of gallows humor as I tried to distract myself from my misery.

"Come on, the fresh air will do you good."

"Kill me," I groaned.

"I'm going to the pool."

"Go."

"You never know who I might run into."

That gave me pause, but I felt like death.

"I think I'm dying."

She leaned down and gave me a kiss on the forehead. "Okay. Rest up. But. You. Will. Get. Better."

"Yes. But just let me sleep for now."

She was right. When I woke again at the civilized hour of 10:12am, I felt better. Not one hundred percent, but even more than the day before, I felt I was on the road to recovery.

Claire had left the curtains closed, but the balcony door open. I wondered if she was out there waiting for me, but when I peeked outside, she wasn't there. I stepped out onto the terrace. Immediately, my phone rang. I ducked back into the room and answered it.

"Morning sleepyhead," Claire sing-songed into the phone. I stepped back out onto the balcony and saw her waving at me from the poolside.

She'd positioned herself almost directly in front of our window. I picked up the binoculars and zoomed in on her. She was wearing her white bikini, the one that became a little see-through when it got wet. She was clutching at a fruity drink.

I waved at her. "Hey babe. You're starting early."

She gave me a puzzled look and glanced down at her drink. "It's just a smoothie. So, you feeling better?"

"I'm getting there."

"Going to join me?"

"I think I should take it easy just a little longer."

She sighed. "Sitting by the pool is not exactly competing in a triathlon."

"I know," I replied. I wondered if Trent was a triathlete. He certainly had the physique. "Maybe I'll just stay here through lunch, then if that goes well..."

"Now, I know you're just trying to avoid me. Or maybe you do just like the idea of me out here fending off advances from other men..."

I knew she was kidding, but I still felt the need to reply.

"No, of course not. You know, I –"

"Oops, gotta go," she said suddenly, cutting me off.

She fumbled with her phone and dropped it into her beach bag.

"Well, good morning, Claire, my darling," came a muffled, but unmistakably debonair British voice.

I zoomed out to see Trent approach and sit on the lounge beside her.

"And a good morning to you, Trent," she answered.

I laughed to myself and spoke into the phone, "Um honey, you forgot to hang up."

"A little morning pick-me-up?" he said, gesturing to her drink.

She giggled. "I'm still on Seattle time. Afternoon there."

Why had she let him believe she was drinking a cocktail?

"Claire? Honey," I said more loudly into the phone, though neither one seemed to notice my disembodied voice coming from her bag.

"Oh, well, I've never believed that the whole no drinking before noon thing applied on holiday." He paused. "Or any day really."

She giggled again. She didn't usually giggle. She lowered her chin and looked at him over her sunglasses. "I do need to take it easy. Last time I started drinking before noon... well, let's just say it wasn't the kind of story you want your parents to hear about."

"Claire? Can you hear me?" I was about shouting into the phone. But still no reaction from either of them. Yet I could hear them clearly. The only way this could be happening is if she'd put me on speaker and then turned down the volume. But she would have had to do that on purpose...

Trent gave an amused chuckle. "Surely it wasn't as bad as all that."

She rolled her eyes at him. "Spring break brings out the worst in people."

"Well, surely you can't leave it at that. That's quite a tease."

"I dunno," she replied. "I barely know you."

"That's the beauty of it. Who else could you tell this story to but a virtual stranger?"

She nodded and gave him a mock toast with her smoothie. "It was years ago, you understand."

"Uh oh. How long ago? Do I need to consult with my solicitor before hearing it?"

She laughed. "No, I was nineteen, but you may need to confess to your priest afterwards."

“No, no. Good old Henry had no more respect for the confession than he did the sanctity of marriage. So you may proceed in good conscience.”

“This is silly, you don’t want to hear the silly drunken adventures of a nineteen-year-old girl.”

“Au contraire. There is nothing I would rather hear.”

She laughed. “If you didn’t have that accent, that would have come of wildly creepy.”

“Yes, but it is a double-edged sword. For every dicey utterance I get away with, I have an encounter with one of your compatriots who finds my voice so supercilious as to justify threats of violence.”

“I don’t believe it. Everyone loves James Bond.”

“They love the Scottish one,” he replied in a Sean Connery burr. “Americans think anyone with a posh accent is a pansy. But I can tell you about my adventures in American pubs later. You were telling a story.”

“Well, I was actually skinny back then --”

“You’re delightfully proportioned even now,” he offered.

“Thanks. But back then I had abs. I was a yoga fanatic.”

“Stretchy,” he commented.

“Yes. That’s part of the story.”

“I await with bated breath.”

“So we’re out, on the beach, it is like 10:00am, and these guys drive up with a pickup hauling two dozen cases of beer. And they’ve got funnels and they’re teaching us how to shotgun the cans, and we’re all getting plastered. Then one of them says he has passes for a noon time booze cruise. So we stagger over there.

And we’re on this converted ferry, and there are kegs and jello shots. There’s a DJ and the music is loud and it’s crowded. We’re all dancing, or actually just drunkenly bumping into each other. I start dancing with this one guy from the beach. He's totally hot, and I don't even know his name, and before I know it he's ramming his tongue down my throat, and I'm sucking his nipple. Even though we're in the middle of a dance floor, he puts his hand down the front of my bikini bottoms, and, well, I groped at his package."

Trent laughed. "Is there anything so lovely as young love? I take it you consummated your attraction right there in public."

Claire nodded. "He backed me up against one of the bulkheads, lifted up one of my knees and, well, let nature take its course. He was so excited that he lifted my leg higher and higher, until I was doing a standing split, ankle perched over his shoulder, which sort of gave away the show, though we didn't realize it until we noticed that the music had stopped and that we had two hundred sets of eyes watching us."

"So what did you do?"

She laughed. "We, um, finished. I mean, we were already so far along."

He laughed long and hard. "Good show! That sort of commitment is rare in today's young people."

"We were just too drunk to care. And well, it was still early. When nighttime came, things got really crazy."

"And this whole time you never learned his name?"

"Well, no. I, um, didn't see him after the cruise. The evening craziness was with a whole other crew. Which is why I don't usually drink in the morning."

Trent laughed. "Well, nothing like that can happen here."

"Because I'm married?"

"No, because you already know my name."

I cleared my throat. They both looked up at me. Claire with a wicked grin, Trent with a neutral smile.

“Hey honey, it’s great that you are feeling better!”

“Yeah. I guess I just needed the right motivation.”

I turned to Trent. “Hi, I’m John, Claire’s husband.”

He suppressed a chuckle. “Indeed. And here I was beginning to think you were just a fiction she’d invented to get rid of me.”

I don’t think I’ve ever quite hated anyone as much as I hated him at that moment.

“You have good teeth for an Englishman,” I snarked.

“Ah yes, that delightfully understated American wit.”

Claire was looking at him apologetically.

He stood and flashed her a bright smile. “Well, I need to run along.”

“Well, you don’t need to leave on my account,” I said, hoping he’d realize I meant precisely the opposite.

He was gracious. The bastard. “I am meeting some friends at the lagoon. But it was pleasure to meet you John, and Claire, always a pleasure to see you.”

He walked away, with his erect posture, and broad shoulders, and firm ass.

“The guy’s an asshole,” I muttered.

Claire giggled.

“What?”

“You didn’t even pause to change out of your PJs.”

“I wasn’t sure I had time.”

“You thought I’d run off with him while you pulled on your bathing suit?” she said, mirthfully.

“I couldn’t be sure. Hey, was that story you told him true?”

She looked at me over her glasses, her beautiful, blue eyes twinkling mischievously. “Well, you know I can do a standing split.”

“Yes, but...”

“But nothing. I’m getting hot out here. Time for a swim.”

She rose quickly and without another word, dived headfirst into the water. I walked to the edge and gingerly dipped my toes into the pool as Claire shimmied through the water like a mermaid, though I was beginning to think of her more as a siren, luring me toward a rocky shoal.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Claire and I went back to the room, and I changed into a swimsuit and tee shirt. Then we went down to one of the pool bars for lunch. I ordered a grilled chicken sandwich, dry, hoping it wouldn't trigger another outburst of intestinal distress. I ate gingerly, and then waited anxiously. But after a half hour, I was still okay.

I still felt shaky, but couldn't tell whether that was the residue of my illness or my anxiety over Claire. I knew she'd spun that story just to lure me out of the room. But even still, what a story. Not that I would begrudge her some youthful indiscretions. I mean, good for her. But sharing it with a stranger... a tall, dark, and handsome stranger. A funny and clever, tall, dark, and handsome stranger with a killer accent. And what of my visions, my premonitions?

"Are you attracted to Trent?" I asked.

She laughed. "God, you are obsessed."

"You didn't answer."

"Well, Trent is attractive. Why, are you attracted to the women you've been spying on?"

"I've mostly been spying on you."

"Yeah, what's that about? A resort full of women in bikinis, and you're focusing in on the one woman in the whole place that you get to see naked whenever you want."

Except, I hadn't been focused just on her. Given the chance, I'd definitely take another look at the female half of the Newlyweds, that little sex goddess with the feathered hair.

"Well, you're the hottest woman here," I said.

She laughed skeptically.

“No way. And I’ve seen at least a dozen gals who are plenty pretty and who aren’t members of the itty-bitty-titty-committee.”

I rolled my eyes. “I love your boobs. And anyway, fakes don’t count.”

“Miss Brazil isn’t fake.”

“No. She’s what people used to mean by ‘curvy’ before the fat chicks stole the adjective. But she’s also with a guy whose watch costs more than our car.”

“So you can’t be attracted to her because she’s attached? Or you can’t be attracted to her because her hubby wears expensive jewelry?”

I wasn’t sure where this was going. In a weird way, our conversation felt more like a competition than an exchange of views.

“Are we arguing?” I asked.

She paused. Then laughed. “Oh my, I think we are. Our first fight as a married couple.”

“What are we fighting about?”

“I don’t know.”

We both laughed. It was absurd. What were we fighting about?

We walked around the resort, hand in hand. Claire was eager to show me everything she’d discovered the previous day on her own. We played with the family of cats. We checked out the sailboat on which they did the sunset cruises. We dipped our toes in the various pools.

Along the way, we scoped out the other guests. Funny how that goes. If you observe people from your balcony through binoculars, you’re a voyeur, a pervert. If you walk around with your wife and make up funny stories about people you see, you’re just a cute, romantic couple, people-watching.

We tracked down the Millionaire and marveled at the quality of the material engineers who'd managed to design a swim suit to keep his wife's endowments in place. She really was something else, and even prettier up close, with perfect skin, full red lips, and a delightfully trilling Latin American accent.

"You think he pays her by the hour?" Claire asked, sotto voce, uncharacteristically catty.

"I think they're in love," I replied.

She rolled her eyes. It gave me an insight into the blonde's mindset. Having this woman as her stepmother was probably driving her crazy.

We actually ran across the daughter moments later, sitting by the bar. She was all in pink. Tiny bikini bottoms, a sheer cut off USC tee shirt, suspended over her belly by her inflated boobs, the same Chi Omega ball cap, and oversized designer sunglasses. She had a drink in her hand, was talking loudly on her phone, and casting disdainful glances in all directions. It was almost inspiring how aggressively she seemed to want to embrace all the clichéd attributes of a spoiled rich girl.

"This place is sooo fucking lame," she whined into the phone. "Nothing but old people."

She glanced over at us and seemed surprisingly unembarrassed that we may have heard her.

"Well, at least the drinks are good," she added grudgingly as she turned away from us. The slur in her voice attesting that she spoke from experience.

I wondered if she had described her encounter behind the bar to her friend. I thought not. Considering how drunk she was already, I imagined she had more such adventures ahead of her.

Another fling with a waiter? No, that hadn't turned out as she'd hoped. My mind roamed. She was embracing all the stereotypes so fully that I wondered if she ever fooled around with women. I glanced back at her. She was definitely the type to make out with another girl at a party for attention. But maybe she was curious for more? I imagined what those athletic lesbians might do to her. I pictured the tall one, the brunette holding her by the hair, forcing her go to down on her lover.

That's it, you little slut, lick that twat!

"Um, you're drooling," Claire said, noticing my distraction.

I jolted my head back in her direction.

"Am not."

She rolled her eyes. "I didn't think she'd be your type. Since getting married, I'm learning all about your kinks. You're a voyeur and you have a thing for blonde coeds."

"Those aren't kinks. They are synonymous with being a man."

"All men are voyeurs?" she asked incredulously.

"Really Claire? Why do you think porn is a multibillion dollar business?"

She shrugged. "I thought that was mostly for overweight guys living in their mom's basement. You know, guys who aren't getting any."

"I'm not getting any," I laughed.

It was true. It had been almost two weeks. First it was Claire's time of the month, then we got wrapped up in the final preparations for the wedding, and then I got sick.

"We'll fix that tonight," she replied.

"I thought we had that luau tonight?"

"We do. We'll go to the luau, eat some pig, watch some hot Polynesians dance with fire. We'll take a romantic walk on the beach, and then, Mr. Rivers..." she lowered her sunglasses and flashed her bright, blue eyes at me, "I'm going to fuck your brains out."

"Claire!" I gasped in surprise.

She laughed. "I had to do something to get your mind off blondie back there."

I probably should have taken her back to the room and consummated our marriage right then and there. But we were clear on the other side of the resort, and Claire wanted to show me the tropical flower garden. By the time we got back to the room we only had time to shower and change before getting to the cultural show and dinner.

The luau was set up on a small grove just off the beach. There was a lovely view of the sea, just a few wispy clouds marring the otherwise perfectly blue sky. They handed us Mai Tais and leis as we were walking in. I was wearing my silk, brown and orange Hawaiian shirt. Claire had on a white dress, very form-fitting except for a little flare at the hem.

We skirted around a pit from which emanated pig-scented steam. It smelled delicious. And I was pleased my stomach didn't let out a warning rumble. They seated us at one of a series of long tables running perpendicular to a stage. The tables were covered in flowers and various Hawaiian delicacies, including bowls of purple poi, which I am convinced is not actually a food but rather some sort of elaborate practical joke the natives perpetrate on haoles.

Even though I was feeling better I was determined to take it easy. I barely sipped at my drink and planned to just nibble on the safest foods. Nothing was going to ruin what I was already thinking of as the first real night of my honeymoon. I pulled Claire close and gave her a kiss.

“Erm, mind if we join you?”

I looked up to see Trent’s smiling visage, and standing next to him was the Millionaire’s daughter. Claire seemed shocked to see him, or perhaps it was seeing him with her. He caught her glance.

“Claire, meet Annabelle. Annabelle, this is Claire and Jack.”

“John,” I corrected, though I was pretty sure he’d botched my name on purpose. I gestured toward the chairs across from us and they sat down.

Annabelle gave me a wan smile, then looked over my shoulder to see if there was anyone more interesting in sight. She sighed when she realized she was now stuck with us.

“How do you know each other?” Claire asked, her voice tight.

Annabelle pointed at her beverage. Trent added the details. “We’re old drinking buddies. We met at the bar this afternoon. I had an extra ticket to his dinner, and Annabelle graciously agreed to join me.”

Or more accurately, she took the first excuse to allow her to duck out on dinner with dad and stepmommy.

I could tell Claire wasn’t happy about it. I’m pretty sure she would have been pleased as punch had it just been Trent. Her quirky sense of humor wouldn’t have been able to resist teasing me further, but she was regarding Annabelle with the expression of someone watching a worm crawl out from under a rock.

Annabelle had cleaned up nicely. She was wearing tight little white shorts and a fitted tee that showed off her enhanced chest to perfection. She had on light makeup and had her hair brushed out, marking the first time I’d seen her without a ponytail. I could definitely see his attraction to her. He was about old enough to be her father, which may have helped explain her attraction to him. Maybe this wasn’t just a date of convenience.

I let out a small sigh of relief. I was happy that Trent had another woman, one other than my wife, on whom to focus his considerable charm and good looks.

The buffet opened first. We settled back down with plates of food.

Annabelle was picking over her plate, a disdainful look on her face, rolling her eyes. Already apparently on edge, her attitude seemed to set Claire off.

“I guess you don’t get out much?” Claire snipped.

“You talking to me? I’m a regular at Nobu’s. Where do you go?” Annabelle responded.

“They make you a special peanut butter and jelly sushi?

“Yeah, and then they shove it up your –“

“Ladies, ladies, it’s a beautiful evening,” Trent interjected, looking curiously at Claire.

“She started it,” snapped Annabelle, petulantly.

Claire started to reply, but I reached out and squeezed her thigh. “Let it go,” I mouthed silently.

She shoved my hand away and stared at the blonde, arms crossed, clearly not letting it go despite her silence.

Thankfully the show began before any real fireworks could erupt. The emcee came off like a failed standup comedian, cracking jokes that probably wouldn’t have worked even in the 1960s. That was followed by a ukulele number. Then some girls dancing in grass skirts. The high point was definitely the fire dancing. There were spinning, flaming torches, buff dudes jumping through flaming hoops and a fire eater. Cool stuff.

At one point, a guy took a swig of whatever it is they drink to breathe fire. He leapt through a flaming hoop, did a forward flip, landed on his feet and blew out a fifteen foot stream of flame. I looked over at Claire to see her reaction, but she wasn't paying attention. Instead, she was shooting daggers at Trent and Annabelle who were giggling and whispering in each other's ears.

She turned toward me in a snit, "What do you think he sees in her?"

Young, blonde, and loose seemed like a perfectly fine set of quality in a vacation fling. I decided not to give that response. I was pleased that she'd forgotten my own lingering glances in Annabelle's direction. In fairness, I hadn't been fantasizing about being with her, but rather her being worked over by a couple of lesbians. I decided not to pursue this line of argumentation either.

"Who knows? Anyway, shouldn't you be more focused on me than on them?"

"I know," she sighed. "It's just, I hate that you were right. He was only hanging out with me because he thought he had a chance to score."

"Claire, I'm sure that's not true. He was genuinely enjoying himself with you. But he's just being a good guy and giving us space for our honeymoon."

I had no idea why I was defending the guy. My own view was that he was an asshole, whose only real interest in my wife was getting into her pants if he got the chance. But I knew that was a hurtful thought for Claire, so I was trying to convince her otherwise.

The show ended just in time. Trent and Annabelle had graduated from whispering to kissing. I took Claire's hand. As she stood, I realized how unsteady she was. She'd been drinking pretty steadily throughout the show ever as she glowered at Trent and Annabelle. Maybe a little fresh sea air would perk her up. We'd planned a walk on the beach anyway.

We strolled a few hundred yards up the beach. We were carrying our shoes, feet in the surf. Getting away from her flirtation seemed to boost her mood.

“God, it is beautiful here,” Claire sighed. “It feels like we’re a million miles away from home. A whole other world.”

“Yeah, but it would get boring living here. Just one perfect day after another.”

“I’d be willing to give it a try. But yeah, I think the best part is just being away from it all. Being someplace where no one knows you. Where your only concern is planning your next adventure.”

“The only adventure I want is to sit by the pool and read a book.”

“Stare at the hot girls?”

“Sure, why not? Doesn’t hurt anyone.”

She laughed as if at some private joke. A breeze blew in off the ocean. Claire shivered.

“Let’s go warm up by the bonfire and then we can go back to our room,” she suggested.

There was a large fire pit, surrounded by wooden benches with cushions. The brightness of the fire made it difficult to see especially coming off the darkened beach. We found an empty spot and I was surprised to see, once my eyes adjusted to the light, Trent and Annabelle sitting beside us, with Trent and Claire side-by-side and Annabelle and I serving as bookends.

“Are you following us?” Trent joked.

He reached across Claire to give me handshake, which put his face close to my wife’s.

“Just a coincidence,” I replied.

“There are no coincidences,” he said. He turned to toward Claire, “Did you enjoy the show?”

“You mean the guys on stage? Or you with a girl young enough to be your daughter?”

He paused, then laughed. “Age is all in the mind,” he replied as he returned his attention to his date.

Some hotel staff brought another round of drinks. I sipped at mine. Claire took a heavy draw from her straw. God, at this pace I was going to have to carry her home. On the other side of the fire, someone began strumming a guitar and a round of campfire songs broke out, though the words were muted and indistinct as they reached us over the sound of the crackling fire and pounding surf.

Trent and Claire were leaning toward each other. From the snippets I could pick up, they were busting each other’s chops. She kept referring to his “daughter.” He reminded her of her own youthful indiscretions on the booze cruise. Was it just my paranoia or did it sound more like flirting than bickering?

I felt a hand on my leg. I turned to see Annabelle who had moved over to be beside me.

“So what’s with your wife?” she asked.

I took a quick glance over at Claire who was herself peeking at Annabelle, a look of self-satisfaction on her face. She was pleased with having chased the younger woman away from Trent. I turned back toward the blonde.

“Huh? Oh, she can’t back away from a fight.”

Annabelle nodded skeptically. An awkward silence fell between us. I wanted to ask about her dad, about her stepmom, but I knew I couldn’t. And she didn’t seem to have much to say either. She looked down at my nearly full drink.

“You don’t like it?”

I shrugged. “Not really in the mood for it.”

She reached into her bra and pulled out a joint. “You party?”

“Um sure,” I replied, though I was responding as much to the flash of cleavage as to the pot.

She grabbed an ember from the fire and lit the joint. She took a big pull and after a moment exhaled an impressive cloud of smoke. She passed me the cigarette. I hadn’t actually smoked pot in years. Not since... high school? College maybe? At the very least, not since Annabelle had gotten out of elementary school.

I inhaled deeply, held it a moment, and released. It hit me like a shot, a sudden, dizzying high the likes of which I’d never felt.

“Good shit, huh?”

I nodded, unable to form actual words. I tried to pass the joint over to Claire, but she just shook her head and pointed to her drink. She cast a hostile glare at Annabelle and gave me a small scowl. Was she pissed I was smoking pot? Or sitting next to her antagonist? I watched her giggling with Trent. Who was she to give me a hard time?

I shrugged, took another hit, and passed it back to Annabelle.

“Yeah,” I said as the words finally broke free.

She laughed. “Maui Wowie.”

She took another hit and passed it back to me. I didn’t really want more. Or need more. The world was already blurred and moving in slow motion. I took another toke and again passed it back. Everything took on a weird stop-motion aspect, like I was processing only snapshots at a time. But it was beautiful. Laughing, happy faces, individual strums of the guitars, a sky full of shooting stars.

“Let’s kill it,” Annabelle said.

I watched as she moved the joint to her full lips. Saw the tip of the cigarette flare excitedly, shrinking to a tiny, insignificant nub that she tossed into the fire. Then suddenly she reached out, took me by the back of the head and pulled me close. She kissed me hard, open mouthed. I could feel her soft lips, her wet tongue, the weird sensation of smoke being blown into my mouth as she exhaled. I felt another rush of warmth. What the hell was she doing? I tried to pull away, but my body was slow to respond. All the while, our tongues continued wrestling, intertwined. My lungs finally saved me, seizing suddenly, forcing me to expel the smoke and break the embrace. I coughed violently.

I heard Annabelle giggle. Better to not look at her, I thought. I shot a quick glance at Claire. Had she noticed? She was still half-turned toward Trent, locked in conversation. I breathed a sigh of relief. I would have thought the coughing would have caught her attention, but for the first time I was actually pleased that she was distracted.

Annabelle was saying something. I wanted to tell her off. But I didn't really want to confront her. If I just ignored her, she'd leave me alone. And anyway, the fire was mesmerizing. All the colors of the rainbow dancing in the flames. I watched it attentively. Had they added something to make it so bright? And now the flames were coiling and curling like snakes. Was anyone else seeing this?

I looked back over at Claire. She was still talking with Trent. I looked toward Annabelle and jolted in surprise. A young, shirtless man, very buff, had joined her. I hadn't even noticed him sit down. Was he one of the fire dancers? The music had stopped. People began to drift away. It was probably time to go, I thought, but my body seemed perfectly content to remain still.

I heard giggling, Claire's high titter to my left, Annabelle's low, throatier chortle to my right. I laughed as well. It really was time to go. Still, I sat with what must have been a goofy grin on my face.

Annabelle's leg rubbed against mine. I looked down to see our thighs touching, marveling at the smooth, white flesh of her leg. Was she hitting on me? I needed to tell her to stop. I looked up at her. She was leaning away from me, pressed up against the young man, her head turned toward his. There were kissing, passionately. His dark, muscular hand was caressing her inner thigh, moving up, up, up. Her legs were spread wide. I could see the outline of her sex through her tight, white shorts. His fingers trailed along her pussy lips. Even through the fabric, it was enough to make her jolt and shudder.

Wordlessly, he stood. His shorts were tented by his erection. He took her hand and they stepped away from the fire, not far though, just a few yards distant. He leaned her up against a gently sloping palm tree and slid his hands under her tight tee shirt. I could see him mauling her big tits under the fabric. They were kissing passionately. She ran the fingers of one hand through his thick, black hair. Her other hand was groping at his crotch, pumping up and down on his hard prick.

He lifted up her shirt. Her breasts sprung free, high, round, artificial orbs crowned with small, pink nipples. He sucked her tits, going back and forth from one to the other. He reached down and unzipped her shorts, slowly edging them down, until they cleared her hips and slid down to her thighs. He dropped down and eased them off, leaving him face to face with her crotch. She was wearing tiny, white panties, so thin and sheer that it was like she was already naked. He didn't waste time. He slid them aside and pressed two fingers into her shaved snatch.

She bucked against his hand as he stood back up. They kissed wetly, sloppily. He removed his fingers from her pussy and fed them into her mouth. She locked eyes with him and sucked his fingers, her pretty, little tongue periodically slipping out to flick his digits. He removed his fingers from her mouth and returned them to her pussy, now finger-banging her hard.

I saw him fumble with his shorts, and a moment later, they fell to his ankles, exposing his muscular butt. Annabelle reached around and squeezed his cheeks. He edged forward, his body pressing between her legs. There was a moment of awkward fumbling, and then he thrust hard, burying his prick inside her. She squealed excitedly. They kissed again for a few moments, and then he began to fuck her, hard.

It was mesmerizing watching his hard, muscular ass clenching over and over as he banged that hot slut against the tree. No pauses, no hesitation, he just pounded into her over and over and over. I could hear her gasps and groans over the crackling of the fire, her blond hair periodically arcing as she swung her head in passion.

“I told you he was a voyeur,” I heard Claire crack from behind me.

“We should give him a show,” Trent suggested.

They both laughed.

Ha Ha. I wanted to turn and confront them, but I was too embarrassed. I just pretended not to hear them as I turned back and stared at the fire. The flames were still magical, but I was sort of wishing my high would end, or at least diminish. I felt trapped inside my body, my reactions slow, my vision altered, impossible to get words out.

Annabelle was still moaning and sighing, but closer now... and to my left? I stayed resolutely focused on the fire. I was tired of being called a voyeur. Sick of Trent. Annoyed at Claire. I just wanted to go back to our room and sleep.

Another moan, louder now, and definitely coming from my... left?

I chanced a look toward Claire and Trent. It took me a few moments to realize what I was seeing.

“No, stop,” I snapped. Or did I? Those were the words I wanted to say, but no sounds emanated from my mouth.

I slowly processed the scene. Claire’s dress was bunched up around her waist, her white panties pulled down to mid-thigh and stretched taut as she spread her legs. It was somehow even more obscene than if she’d just taken them off altogether. Trent was fingering her, gently, adroitly. He pressed his middle finger deep into her pussy, then pulled out, slowly, slowly, his digit tracing her channel, lingering against her clit as his palm rested on her closely trimmed muff.

A sultry moan as he contacted her clit, a sensuous gasp as he entered her again. It was almost hypnotic. I managed to tear away my gaze, looking up at them. Claire had her head back, eyes closed, her lips slightly parted as she made her sounds of pleasure. I looked at him. He gave me a cocky wink.

“Stop it!” I exclaimed... or tried to. The words seemed to die someplace between my brain and my mouth. I reached out to push him away from her... but when I looked down my hands were firmly planted on my thighs. It felt like I was locked-in, trapped in my own body.

“He’s watching,” I heard Trent say softly into my wife’s ear.

She looked at me and smiled, so happy that I couldn’t help but mirror her expression, though I was still struggling to protest. She nodded and rose to her feet. As she stood, her panties fell to the ground, and she kicked them off into the sand. She turned and faced him, straddling his thighs. I looked down into his lap. He'd pulled down his shorts, his prick stood to attention, long and thick with a huge mushroom head.

"No!" I tried to say again, but again the only sound was that of the crackling fire, the pounding surf.

She bent her knees, lowering herself against him. He seized his shaft and rubbed the head of his cock against her slit. She moaned softly, then gasped as the tip of his prick entered her. She impaled herself on him, settling into his lap with a satisfied sigh. He grabbed her ass cheeks, his fingers digging into her flesh as she ground against him.

Then she began to rise, little by little, his thick shaft now glistening from her juices. And then back down, swallowing his cock into her pussy. Over and over again, faster and faster. Their moans built rapidly, reminding me of the cadence of the drums during the fire dance earlier in the evening.

I couldn't believe what was happening. How could she do this to me? What was going on? I looked at the fire and followed a spark rising into the air. I looked up and saw the stars. They began to circle, faster and faster. I felt myself falling, falling, then felt the cool sand through my shirt, against my back.

CHAPTER EIGHT

I woke up, shivering in the sand. Judging by the sun it was shortly after sunrise. The sky was bright and clear. My mind was fuzzy, my mouth painfully dry. I shook the sand out of my hair.

I sat up, which made me feel a little better.

Fuck, another one of those crazy dreams or visions or whatever. What the hell was wrong with me? God, Claire must be so pissed at me, passing out on the beach from too much weed. I wondered if I could find some flowers this early to give as an apology.

I looked around. The fire pit had none of the magic of the previous night. The pile of burnt out logs looked forlorn, the cushions worn and stained. I glanced over at the palm where I'd seen Annabelle and the fire dancer. Had that happened? I wasn't sure where my memories ended and my dreams began.

And then I saw it. A small flash of white, barely visible, poking out of the bleached sand. I hooked my finger into the fabric and pulled it out. Claire's panties. My knees felt weak. I sat back down. It had happened. All of it.

I stared out at the sea. She'd been drunk. I remembered that. He'd taken advantage of her, the bastard. Is that why she'd left me there? Had she run away embarrassed once she realized what she'd done? Anxiety coursed through me. I hoped she hadn't done anything crazy, hurt herself somehow.

But then I remembered more details. She hadn't been a passive, groggy victim. She'd been doing all the work. Riding him, slowly, expertly. She might have been drunk, but she wasn't barely conscious. Far from it.

It didn't make sense. Obviously her judgment had been impaired. Nothing else really mattered. I sensed I was trying to convince myself as much as anything else. The residual haze of my high was making it hard to concentrate. One thing I did know was that I wasn't going to buy her flowers.

Finally, after maybe an hour of unproductive reflection I rose and returned to our room. I hesitated before entering. I braced myself for the coming confrontation. I had decided that I could forgive her, if she was really contrite, really apologetic, but I didn't know if that would hold once we were face-to-face.

I needn't have worried. When I got inside, it was obvious she wasn't there. The bed hadn't even been slept in. Another surge of panic rose in me. Had she done something crazy? Had he done something to her? He didn't seem the type. But then again, she'd never seemed the type to cheat on me. It was later than I had originally thought, around 9:30am. Where could she be?

It is a testament to how slowly my mind was working that I only now thought to call her. I pulled my phone out of my pocket, dropping a handful of sand onto the carpet as I did. I dialed her number. It rang. Once, twice, three, four times before going to voicemail. That ramped up my anxiety. If she'd just had it off, it would have gone to voicemail much quicker.

As I stared at the phone trying to puzzle out scenarios, a text came through from her.

--Meet me at the lobby bar in an hour.

She was out there somewhere. I dialed again, with the same result as before. Then after another few minutes, another text.

--Just be there and I will explain everything.

I was tempted to call again, but it seemed pointless. Her games had definitely sapped my sympathy.

I walked into the lobby bar a little before 11:00am. I'd showered and guzzled a gallon of water. I felt almost normal, except for a profound nervousness.

I sat down and ordered a coffee. I was on my second sip when Trent walked in and sat down next to me.

After my incredulity faded, I rounded on him.

"What the hell are you doing here? Where's Claire?"

He smiled. He ordered a gin and tonic before answering me.

"Claire is fine. She just wanted me to speak to you first. She was afraid of how you'd react."

"Um, Trent, don't take this the wrong way, but fuck off. I want to see my wife."

"And she wants to see you. She's feeling very sorry, but she wanted to make sure you were not in too thuggish a mood."

I was feeling thuggish, but most of my violent impulses were focused on Trent.

"You're a bastard, you know that? She was drunk. You took advantage of her. She was in no state to give consent."

He took a sip of his drink.

"She wasn't drunk this morning."

All of the piss and vinegar drained out of me. "What?"

He didn't answer. He knew I'd heard him.

"What did you do to her?" I asked.

"John, I know you don't want to hear this, but Claire and I had a very pleasurable evening together. We both had a bit too much to drink, but I assure you, it was all completely consensual and mutually enjoyable."

I didn't respond. I was trying to process all of it.

“Your wife is a very sensual woman and quite an accomplished lover. You’re a lucky man.”

I didn’t feel like a lucky man. I felt like a chump. I looked over at him. He was watching me frankly, almost kindly. He didn’t seem to be gloating.

“What happened? How? How did this happen?”

He shrugged. “The tropics do that to people. The sun, the sand, the sea. It makes people randy and silly. And you didn’t help with Annabelle.”

“What did I do?”

He laughed. “You mean besides leering at her? And then kissing her?”

“She kissed me. And then left me for a fire dancer.”

“Yes. She’s quite a little handful, isn’t she? You can see why I invited her along last night, though I do quite feel like I got the better end of the bargain.”

“That still doesn’t…”

He nodded. “No, that was just an excuse, wasn’t it? Claire and I, we have a real chemistry. And, in fairness, John, it wasn’t clear that you didn’t approve. You did watch the entire thing take place passively with a silly grin on your face.”

“I was stoned out of my gourd.”

“You seemed to be quite encouraging it.”

“You knew better.”

He shrugged.

“I am quite sorry that this has interrupted your honeymoon, but I hope you can see if for what it was, a silly, island fling. If you’d been ill for just a little longer, this could have been just a quiet affair, with you none the wiser, and Claire and I each coming away with an enjoyable, private memory.”

“So, it just happened? And then what? You went back to your room...”
I prompted.

He nodded. “Yes. By the time we finished out on the beach, you were passed out. So I invited her back to my suite.”

I stared at him expectantly.

He continued. “We took a shower together to wash away the sand. And well, that turned into more.”

I imagined them soaping each other up. His slippery fingers trailing across her nipples. She squatting before him, swallowing his prick into her mouth as the hot water rained down upon them. Had he come in her mouth then? Had he pressed her up against the marble tiles, taken her from behind?

“And then we went to bed. I recently turned 40, you know, and had had quite a bit to drink. I would have been almost as happy to fall asleep in the arms of a beautiful woman. But Claire was impressively insistent. She brought me around and then... well, as I say, your wife is a wonderful lover.”

I pictured her riding him, slowing, working his cock for her pleasure. I could see her running her hands over his muscular chest, relishing the feel of his strong hands on her body. And then when she'd climaxed into exhaustion, I could see her rolling off him, lying face down on the bed, inviting him to take his pleasure.

“And this morning?” I prodded.

“Yes,” he said, smiling at the memory. “She woke in me in the nicest way a woman can wake a man.”

It was amazing how evocative he could be with such a few words. I imagined a ray of sunlight piercing the curtains, illuminating her face as she sucked gently on his prick.

“We were making love when you called,” he added.

I visualized him, between her widely spread legs, fucking her hard, both of them knowing this was the end of their encounter. Would they have kissed? No, I imagined them just locking eyes, their fiery gazes complementing the sensations coming from the loins.

I looked at him. Freshly showered, he showed visible evidence of his night with my wife.

“She didn’t mean to hurt you.”

I nodded.

Our conversation was at an end. He rose and began to leave.

“Trent?” I called after him. “Did you really get stood up at the altar?”

He smiled enigmatically.

“Keep away from her, okay?”

He nodded. “Of course. But John, if you do decide you want to explore your voyeuristic fancies, please do keep me in mind. I can assure you we’d put on a good show for you.”

I stared at him in disbelief. He grinned, turned and walked out of the bar.

I went upstairs. Claire was in the bathroom, the hotel room humid from a recent shower. It occurred to me that insisting on meeting me in the bar might have been a way for her to sneak into our room and get cleaned up. I didn’t like that they were apparently colluding against me.

She heard me walk in. I looked up to see Claire rushing to greet me. She came to a screeching halt just feet away, realizing, I think, that attempting a hug was not the best way to begin the encounter.

“John, I’m so sorry,” she began.

It's funny. As I'd walked back to the room after meeting Trent, I'd imagined the conversation in my head. Should I get angry, call her a whore, tell her things were over between us? Should I be compassionate, open to an apology, willing to work through whatever issues this episode had uncovered? I'd come around to the idea of just being cool and aloof, an attitude designed to show that not only had she not hurt me, but I was above it all. I'd pity her. But then, suddenly face-to-face with my cheating spouse, I was speechless. I just stared at her mutely. My silence seemed to set her on edge and she started rambling at me.

"I don't know how it happened. It was just, I dunno. I was drunk. He was really charming. You didn't really seem to mind. Even when he started kissing me, you couldn't take your eyes off that whore. I was trying to make you jealous, or maybe make her jealous, or just piss her off, but by the time either of you paid any attention to us, we were pretty far gone, and I didn't want him to stop. And I was thinking that maybe you liked it, you know the whole voyeur thing. And I dunno, I just got carried away. He was very good. Oops, I shouldn't have said that. I didn't mean to hurt you. I did really sort of think I was doing it for you."

She ended there, I think deciding finally that was her best argument. For a moment I didn't speak, and she opened her mouth to continue. I raised my hand to ward off another onslaught of words.

"So, you were doing me a favor? Fulfilling a fantasy of mine."

She nodded, her face brightening.

"Yes, yes, John. I was thinking that."

"And you were thinking that when you left me passed out on the beach and went off to his room?"

"Well, I got carried away. He was —"

“Yes, very good. You mentioned that. Well, at least you didn’t need to do anything you didn’t enjoy to fulfill my fantasy.”

I kept my tone surprisingly flat given the circumstances. I could see Claire trying to puzzle it out. Was I really being understanding? Was I building to an explosion? I forced a smile. I liked seeing her confused. I counted it as a small victory.

The uncomfortable silence between us brought forth another torrent of explanations.

“I should have run it by you, but I sort of did when we talked about you being a voyeur. And yeah, going to his room was a bad idea. It just spun out of control. Maybe it would be better if we kept these fantasies under wraps.”

We. That one elicited a genuine smile from me. A sardonic smile, but a genuine one.

She stepped a little closer, looking for a hug, an absolution. Instead, I lowered the boom.

“God, Claire, you are full of shit, you know that?”

“No. John.”

“Don’t ‘no John’ me. You can’t possibly think I’m dumb enough to buy all... all... this,” I waved my arm around to encompass, well, everything she’d just said.

She looked up, down, over my shoulder, anywhere but at me. “I wanted to believe it’s what you wanted.”

At least we were getting closer to the truth.

She continued softly, “I thought if it would turn you on, it would be okay. Weird, but okay.”

I continued to stare at her mutely.

She finally returned her gaze to me. “I don’t know what to say, or what to do. I’m sorry.”

I shook my head. I didn’t know what to say or what to do either. I know people always talk tough about this sort of thing, enunciating a zero tolerance approach. But, of course, that’s mostly for deterrence. Though we were newlyweds, we’d been together for years, had already begun to make a life together. Did I really want to throw all that away because of a drunken night on the beach?

“I need to think some more about this,” I finally muttered as I walked back out of the room.

I didn’t quite know what to do next. I went back down to the lobby bar. I was the only one there. It was another beautiful day in paradise, and even the morning drinkers were out by the pool rather than in the darker lobby bar. This was no time for a fruity drink. I ordered a Bourbon, neat. I don’t actually drink whiskey normally, but it felt like the right thing to order given the occasion. I downed it, feeling the burn in my throat, the rush in my head. I ordered another, a double. I drank half of it, swirled the rest in my glass, losing myself for a few moments in watching the alcohol coat the glass and then gradually flow down the sides.

A tall, thin, blond-haired man walked in. He looked familiar, but I couldn’t quite place him. Though the bar was empty, he sat down just two stools down from me. He had a vaguely feminine look to him. I sighed. I’m not homophobic, but the last thing I needed after what had just happened was to be hit on by a man. I already felt that my masculinity was under siege.

He ordered a daiquiri. "Alcohol free," he added in an almost embarrassed tone. When his fruity drink arrived, I could feel his eyes on me. I looked over at him. He smiled at me. Oh no, here it comes.

"Morning," he said, his voice high and tight. He spoke in a slow, Midwestern drawl. Kansas? Missouri maybe?

"Hey," I replied curtly.

"Mister, are you married?" he asked.

I was about to tell him I wasn't interested, but there was something about his needy tone that gave me pause.

I nodded. "Yup. You?"

He sighed in relief.

"Just now," he replied, waving his wedding ring at me. "That's the problem."

I looked over at him, finally placing him. He was the newlywed, the one with the fertility goddess wife. The luckiest bastard in the resort, especially now that Claire's evening with Trent had knocked me out of the running for that title. He was even younger than I had realized. Nineteen, maybe twenty, though I got the sense that his aversion for booze was grounded in more than just his age.

I gave him a smile. Even though I was a newlywed as well, being 33, I guess he saw me as some sort of father figure.

"What can be the problem? You're with your beautiful wife in a beautiful place."

He gave me a queer look. "You know my wife?"

Shit. Only by spying on you two fucking. "I was just guessing. All new brides are beautiful, aren't they?"

He regarded me thoughtfully, then nodded. "I'm sorry, mister. It's just..."

I looked at him expectantly.

He hesitated then continued, "It's just that I have this problem."

He was too young for ED. PE maybe? This was a problem for his dad, or rather his doctor, not me.

I gave him a thin smile, trying to strike a balance between shutting him down and actually encouraging him.

"See, Janelle and I... I'm Dale, by the way... we've been dating for... well, since high school."

So, two years, I thought to myself. "That's great. Marrying a high school sweetheart is so... sweet."

"It's just, you know, she and I.... Our town... it's pretty traditional. I mean, you know, Janelle and I never...."

He blushed such a deep red that thought he might actually burst into flame. I suppressed a laugh.

"Dale? It's okay. You're both young. It'll get better. You have plenty of time to make it..."

I was trying to reassure him, but suddenly he was shaking his head. His eyes were red, tearing up.

"I think Janelle.... I think she may have been.... I think she...."

And then I realized where he was going. The girl I'd spied through the window was not a shy, little, virgin, blushing bride. She was a sexual woman, with luxuriant needs. And her husband, was terrified of it.

"You think she's been with other men?"

He looked scandalized, horrified, but then he gave me a small, scared nod. He stared down into his alcohol-free beverage.

"She's so... so aggressive.... She wants it all the time. And it's like she's waiting for something to happen, and then she wants to try it again."

I couldn't feel sorry for him. He's hit some sort of fucking jackpot. He'd married his innocent, little high school sweetheart. Virgins from some fucking small town in Missouri, the asshole deserved to spend his whole life dreaming of getting a hummer. Instead, he'd lucked into a gorgeous, sexual dynamo. Yeah, so maybe she'd been getting railed by the football team since she was fourteen. But more likely, she was just what she seemed, a quiet, innocent girl, a virgin on her wedding night, but one who may have played with herself, watched a little porn, who'd tried sex and liked it.

I suppressed a laugh and composed my face into a look of serious consideration.

"Dale, being married is about communication."

I couldn't believe the words were coming out of my mouth. Why was I giving him advice? Half an hour earlier, my own wife had been in the shower washing another man's jism out of her cunt.

"And it is about growing together," I added.

Looking him over, it was hard to imagine him growing. His poor bride. She was probably going to spend her entire married life wishing for a good fuck. I should introduce her to Trent. He'd probably make short work of their wedding vows, give the girl a proper, what would he call it? A proper rogering, maybe?

Dale was still looking at me expectantly, hanging on my pearls of wisdom.

"And trying new things."

Like getting into voyeurism and wife swapping.

I stood and gave him a manly clap on the shoulder.

"I'm sure you two will have a wonderful and...." He looked the religious type. "...blessed union."

I grabbed my drink and walked out of the bar before I either began screaming profanities or laughing hysterically.

CHAPTER NINE

Although I decided to make my way back to our room, I took the scenic route, visiting about half the resort's bars on the way. I should have been livid, shaking with rage, but somehow the situation was too absurd for that. Had Claire really had sex, right in front of me, with a virtual stranger and then spent the night with him? It still felt more like a nightmare than a reality. The moment I parted from Claire, the sensation of reality had begun to fade. I reached into my pocket and felt the smooth silk of her panties, my only tangible evidence of what had occurred. But was even that part of some elaborate ruse? All I knew for sure was that I needed a drink.

It was at about my third stop, as exhaustion and drunkenness were melding into a sort of lunatic detachment that I began to stop thinking about what had happened, and began thinking about what happened next. Of course I was going to take her back. Sooner or later, I would. So the issue was how.

I was sort of talking to myself at this point, not really loud enough to make a scene, but enough to earn me a little more room at the bar. People were giving me funny looks. Had I been sober, I might have been embarrassed.

I knew one thing I didn't want to do. I didn't want to go through the whole cycle of marriage counseling and therapy. I had a buddy who went through that, endless sessions about learning to communicate and empathy. In the end, it often seemed to come down to how the poor slob should have better catered to his wife's needs.

"Her need to get a big cock inside her," I mumbled to myself, maybe a little too loud. A man two seats down edged a little further away.

She'd humiliated me. That was the thing. The whole sex thing... who the fuck cares? I wasn't Dale. I knew Claire had had cocks before me, probably would after me too if she outlived me. But I needed to get even.

I thought about those father-of-the-year candidates who make their teenage daughters stand in a parking lot with a sign saying, "I violated my curfew." I wondered if Annabelle's dad had done something like that to her, given how fucked up she'd turned out. Still, I imagined insisting Claire stand in the lobby of the hotel with a sign saying, "I cheated on my husband on our honeymoon."

I cackled maniacally. I caught myself. I had to stop. Getting kicked out of the bar by resort management for public drunkenness was not going to improve my situation or my mood. I took a deep breath, and asked for Coke from the bartender. And a burger. I was starving.

It then occurred to me that the easiest way to get even would be to cheat on Claire. Tit-for-tat. She could hardly say no. And I'd make her watch. It had been a pretty close call on that as it was. A little more aggressiveness from Annabelle last night, and, well, both Claire and I might have broken our marriage vows at the same time.

God, that girl was a minx. Get her into a comfy bed instead of propped up against a cooler or a palm tree, and she would probably be extraordinary. Who knew what sorts of tricks she'd already picked up? I would love the opportunity to see what she was like in the sack.

But, of course, Annabelle hadn't been more aggressive. In fact, she'd taken the first opportunity to hook up instead with a younger, hotter dude. In truth, I'd never really been that good with women. Claire was, I think, the first and last girl I'd ever actually picked up in a club, and even then it had taken me dinners, long hikes, and rock climbing lessons to close the deal. It would really fuck with my self-esteem if I told Claire I was going to cheat on her to get even, and then, well, I couldn't pull it off. And being more than seven years out of practice, I didn't imagine my game had much improved.

And then it struck me. My best revenge wouldn't be screwing Annabelle myself, it would be watching Claire and Annabelle go at it. That was, in fact, one of my long-standing fantasies, well not with Annabelle specifically, but the idea of watching Claire with another woman. And sure, if they decided, in the middle of it, that they needed to add a cock to the mix, I could help them out.

I chuckled to myself. Even if it didn't come to pass, it would be fun to torment Claire with the idea. She'd always made clear she wasn't into women. But she'd just made such a fuss about how she just wanted to fulfill my fantasies... well, she could hardly deny me one so utterly conventional, could she?

By the time I got back to the room, it was mid-afternoon.

"Oh God, John," she said, rushing at me. "I was so worried."

"Not worried enough to come looking for me," I snapped.

She sighed. "I thought you'd be back --"

I cut her off. I needed to get it out before I chickened out.

"You know, if you wanted to fulfill a voyeur fantasy for me, you could have at least picked one that actually turned me on."

She nodded, thoughtfully. "Yeah, I know, I should have talked with you more about this."

"I know your heart was in the right place," I offered magnanimously.

"It was, it was," she replied, earnestly.

“But this upset me. It hurt me. Do you realize how difficult it was to watch you do that?”

“You could have stopped us.”

And you could have noticed I was too stoned to do anything. I waved my hand again to dismiss that thought. I didn’t want to go down that path.

“It does turn me on that you are willing to sacrifice yourself for my fantasies.”

She nodded. “I am.”

“Well, I am a bit of a voyeur.”

She gave me a saucy smile. “I know.” She liked how the conversation had turned.

“I don’t really fantasize about you with another man.”

I paused, but just as she opened her mouth to speak, I cut her off.

“On the other hand, I would love to see you with a woman.”

She forced a smile. “Okay... okay, we can work on that. Maybe when we get back...”

I shook my head. “No, I have a woman in mind.... I’d like to see you with Annabelle.”

She shook her head. “No, John, I really don’t think that’s a good idea.”

I took her in my arms.

“The idea makes me so hot,” I sighed in her ear. “And now that I know how important it is for you to fulfill my fantasies...”

“It is important —“

I cut her off with a kiss. I slid my hand down her back and cupped her ass, pulling her close.

“God, baby, it would mean so much to me, so much.”

She sighed. “I’m not sure. I mean, why would she want to?”

“You’re very persuasive, and oh so sexy, and she seems like she likes to party. Please baby?”

We broke our embrace and she looked me in the eye. I saw that she understood the deal. If she fucked her nemesis and let me watch, I’d forgive her transgression.

“Okay,” she said finally. “How do we do this?”

I went out onto the balcony and scanned for Annabelle. Sure enough, she was out by the pool, slurping down fruity drinks. As she moved around, her over-inflated hooters threatened to pop out of her skimpy top. A small clutch of male hotel staffers eyed her from the other side of the pool, while her father periodically shot her a disapproving look. I imagined that in Annabelle-land, this represented mission accomplished.

“There she is,” I said.

I pointed her out and handed the binoculars to Claire.

She spotted her quarry. Claire’s face twisted into the same censorious expression as the father. It made me chuckle.

“John, I...”

“Yes, I know, sweetie. You’re eager to satisfy my fantasy.”

She put down the binoculars and gave me a defeated look. She would have loved to tell me off. She was itching to do it, and she couldn’t. My satisfaction may sound childish, and it was, but all things considered, it was a pretty mild response to what she’d done.

“So, what do I do? I just walk over to her ask her to lick my clam?”

“Well, I know that was about all Trent had to do with you, but she may not be as big of a quean as you are. You might have to seduce her at least a little.”

“It’s pronounced kwen, not cue-AN. One syllable.”

“Thank you,” I replied.

She glared back out at Annabelle.

“We have nothing in common.”

“Sure you do, you both had sex with strangers last night.”

Claire gave me a frustrated frown. I was pushing too hard. I dialed it back a little.

“It’ll turn me on just seeing the two of you together. Whatever happens, happens. But it is the least you can do.”

She nodded.

“Now, go on, babe, go make my fantasy come true.”

She had me on speaker so I could hear what they said. I had muted myself on my end this time, so they wouldn’t hear me. Claire was wearing that blue bikini again, the one that so well matched her eyes. The one, I thought ruefully, that had apparently caught Trent’s attention.

I watched her step out onto the pool deck and walk hesitatingly toward Annabelle. Claire glanced back over her shoulder at me.

“This is going to be a disaster,” she said.

I unmuted myself for a moment. “Just have fun.”

She snorted in response.

As she approached, Annabelle looked up and scowled.

“What do you want?”

Claire’s body language was frosty, but she replied in a sweet voice, pointing to the lounge at her feet. “I just wanted to talk. Can I sit here?”

Annabelle didn’t respond. Claire took that as assent anyway and draped her towel over the lounge chair.

“How long are you planning to stay?” Annabelle asked as she saw Claire making herself comfortable.

“I want to apologize for last night.”

“You should.”

I laughed. There wasn't a gracious bone in Annabelle's body. She was petulant and spoilt, and I was thoroughly enjoying Claire's discomfort. I could see her forcing herself to remain calm.

“Let me buy you a drink,” Claire persisted.

“Whatever,” she replied, now again engrossed with her phone. But when Claire motioned the waiter over, Annabelle went ahead and ordered a Mai Tai.

“Make it two,” my wife added.

There were a few minutes of awkward quiet. I could almost see Claire's mind working overtime to try to find an avenue of conversation with the young blonde. She was having trouble with it, though, and Annabelle ignored her thoroughly, making it even harder.

The waiter returned with the Mai Tais. Just as he was walking away, but still in earshot, Annabelle broke the silence.

“So, did he have a big cock?”

The waiter stumbled, then slowed, trying to listen in. Claire eyed him anxiously, embarrassed, letting him get some more distance. When he was finally out of range, she replied softly.

“What?”

“The Brit,” replied Annabelle, speaking slowly as if to a child, “did he have a big cock?”

“I... I dunno.”

I couldn't tell if Claire was reticent to speak because she knew I was listening, or because she didn't want to get into it with Annabelle. The blonde noticed her discomfort and pressed on.

“You fucked him, didn’t you?”

“Yeah, I... I guess,” Claire stammered.

“You do know what fucking is, right? His cock, your cunt.”

Claire just glared at the younger woman.

“I thought so,” Annabelle insisted. “So, was he big? He had his fucking prick inside you. You had to be able to tell.”

“Yeah, it was big,” Claire admitted. She shot a glance back at our balcony. You sure you want me to go on with this?

“How big?”

“I dunno. I don’t carry a fucking ruler with me to measure, do you?”

The blonde laughed. “Sometimes. Depends. Am I dating a black guy?”

Claire chuckled.

“Biggest you ever had?”

Claire nodded. “I guess. One of them anyway.”

“Bigger than your husband?”

Claire just shook her head, but she wasn’t saying no to the question, just refusing to answer it. “Leave him out of it.”

Annabelle looked over her sunglasses at my wife. I could tell she was debating whether to focus on me to provoke a fight. She decided to file that away for later.

“How many times did you fuck him?”

Claire sighed. “I dunno. Three, four, times.”

“Fuck,” Annabelle groaned, slapping her thigh.

“What?”

“I knew I should have been more aggressive. The only reason I let you have him was because I figured he was an old guy and he wouldn’t be able to get it up more than once.”

“Let me have him?”

The blonde laughed. “I could see how desperate you were.”

“I guess I should thank you for throwing me a bone, an old bag like me.”

“You’re welcome,” Annabelle clucked with a wry grin.

Then after a pause, “Did you guys do it doggy style?”

My wife nodded.

Annabelle let out a sultry moan. “Fuck, that’s my favorite. Getting a big dick from behind is the best.”

“It was pretty damn good,” Claire admitted.

“Did he pull your hair? Spank your ass?”

“Hair pulling, yes. Ass spanking, no.”

Claire’s answers were becoming less grudging, Annabelle’s questions less combative. Both women were sipping their drinks consistently, and shortly Claire waved to the waiter for another round.

“Did he put it in your butt?”

“God no,” Claire giggled. “He was too big for that.”

“You know he was thinking about it. With that view back there, that’s all guys can think about.... Anyway, you’d be surprised by what fits,” Annabelle added suggestively.

Claire laughed. “Not me. I did it once and...”

She stopped and cast a nervous glance back at me. It must have been before me. Or cheating on me? But it wasn’t with me. She changed the subject.

“Well, I’m sorry about last night, but you could still hook up with him. I bet he’s having second thoughts. I probably wasn’t half as wild as you’d have been.”

“I’ll say. He probably realized he couldn’t handle me. But no, fuck him. He had his chance.... Though, if he could get it up four times with an old broad like you....”

“I’m not even thirty, you little twit.”

“You think you could keep up with me?”

My wife laughed. “I could probably teach you a few things.”

“Hmmm, maybe we should track him down and double-team him, so you can show me your tricks.”

Claire hesitated a moment and glanced in my direction. I knew what she was thinking. She was wondering if that would count, if that would fulfill our deal. She was probably also imagining it herself, thinking how much she’d enjoy having him inside her again.

God, what those two would do to him. I imagined them both riding him, Annabelle impaled on his cock, Claire straddling his face, both girls kissing passionately and playing with each other’s tits as they all writhed together. Or maybe he’d put them on their hands and knees, side by side and then go back and forth between fucking their wet pussies. The image was hot enough that I almost thought it would be worth it to have Claire spend another night with him if I could watch it.

What the fuck? Was I really considering that? That would mean that Claire was right, that I was a voyeur, and, I gasped, a closet cuckold? Was I upset that my wife had fucked another man on our honeymoon? Or was I upset that I had been too stoned to really pay attention and because I’d missed most of it? It made some sense. Right now, she and I should be in the hotel room, having some sort of painful heart-to-heart. Instead, I’d sent her out to try to seduce another woman.

I shook my head. I was not in full control of my faculties. I knew that. I was still recovering from jetlag and illness, and I was operating with a lack of sleep, a pot hangover, and six Bourbons on an almost empty stomach. But still, as I plumbed my emotional response to my wife's infidelity, there was a lot of incredulity and even more bewilderment. Some anger yes, but no rage. Also some amusement and, weirdly enough, even a touch of arousal.

There was no doubt I was enjoying watching Claire and Annabelle, and even more hearing their wickedly lewd conversation. If there had been nothing more to it, I could probably have derived unadulterated pleasure from it, just allowed their conversation to flow directly into my sexual fantasies. But adultery was precisely the problem. The dirty, little details were not just titillating words, they were descriptions of my wife's encounter with another man and planning for a potential repeat performance, albeit with the additional spice of another woman in the mix.

Claire looked back at me again, speaking to me as much as answering Annabelle. "I couldn't do that."

I felt a surge of relief, though one tempered by the fact that her slow response showed that she'd considered it carefully and only after great deliberation had she talked herself out of it. I also, weirdly, felt a sense of disappointment.

"You even had a threesome? They're fun," Annabelle trilled.

Claire nodded sheepishly. "Long time ago."

"Two guys or two girls?"

"Guys, but like I said, long time ago."

I wondered if that was the sequel to her booze cruise adventure. A girl horny enough to get screwed in front of a crowd of drunken partiers was probably willing to get banged from both ends. Or was that also her anal experience? Had my wife let herself be fucked in the ass and pussy at the same time?

“How about you?” Claire asked, turning the tables.

“Oh sure, both ways. I think it is better with two guys though. Most guys have enough trouble keeping even one girl satisfied, ya know?”

“How was last night?”

Annabelle shrugged. “About as good as a standing quickie can be.”

“No second round.”

“Ah, he wanted to tip jar me.”

“Huh?”

That was a new one for me as well.

“You know, how waiters and shit usually pool tips at the end of the night?”

Claire nodded.

“Well, I think it’s like a similar deal with hotel staff and guest ass. The minute Manny was done, he was all like, ‘you should come back to my place, meet my friends.’ I was like, ‘thanks, but I’m not in the mood for a gangbang tonight.’”

My wife laughed. “Are you ever in the mood for a gangbang?”

Annabelle peered over her sunglasses again. “Don’t knock it until you try it.” She waved her empty glass at my wife. “I thought you were buying drinks?”

My phone beeped suddenly. I looked down and saw the low battery warning. Neither of us had recharged our phones last night. I’d slept on the beach, Claire had slept... well, spent the night in Trent’s room. I quickly plugged mine in, but it occurred me to that hers would be in the same shape. I quickly hung up and sent her a text.

--Need to conserve your battery. Send a text if you go somewhere.

Through the binoculars I saw her glance at her phone and give a quick nod in my direction. Another round of drinks arrived and they kept talking, but without the audio, it was much less exciting. After a half hour, I was starting to get bored. I scanned the resort through my binoculars and lingered hopefully on the Newlyweds' window, but they were not there. And there wasn't anything really exciting going on elsewhere. It was that slow, late afternoon time when people in resorts are back in their rooms, showering off the sand and chlorine, and getting ready for their nights out.

I hadn't eaten anything all day except half a burger, and I was starving. I decided to get a quick bite to eat. I could have gone to the pool bar to keep an eye on Claire, but I didn't want Annabelle to see me, so I stopped off at the café in the lobby instead. I ordered a grilled steak and a beer to refresh my buzz. As I bit into my meat, I was thankful that my stomach had finally settled down. At least that one thing was back to normal.

CHAPTER TEN

My phone buzzed with an incoming text from Claire.

--We're gonna move inside to her folks' cabana. Number 5. I can't believe I'm doing this.

Holy shit. This was actually going to happen. I was suddenly jealous. Did I really want Claire making love to yet another person? But I was also rock hard. A girl as wild as Annabelle would surely have experience with women, and she'd likely get a real thrill out of lezzing out my wife.

I've never done this before, Claire would say shyly. A smirk from Annabelle as she edged off my wife's bikini bottoms, burying her face in her snatch. Claire would arch her back, moaning loudly as the younger woman expertly licked her slit and teased her clit. The novelty of the experience would be overwhelming, and Claire would quickly be on the edge of a crashing climax, so close she would feel ready to burst... and then Annabelle would pull away. Not yet, you dirty little slut. First you need to make me cum, she'd declare as she pulled my wife's face toward her own, moist pussy.

I snarfed down my meal quickly and chased after them. As I approached cabana five, I noticed that the fabric panels were down and a "do not disturb" sign hung from the sash holding the opening shut. As excited as I was to imagine what was going on inside, I realized that seeing anything was going to be difficult. Even listening-in would be hard. I could only saunter by a couple of times before attracting the attention of the resort staff.

I considered the situation and then thought back to my earlier spying. The cabanas backed up against a row of hedges that looked solid from the outside, but which I knew concealed a service pathway connecting the various bars and restaurants scattered around the pools. It was in one of those corridors that I'd spied Annabelle's encounter with the waiter that had ended with her getting a load of jism on her face. If I could sneak back there, I could squeeze through the hedge from the back and peek in under the fabric curtain without being observed.

If I got caught I would just say I was curious or lost, or curious and lost. At most I'd be told the area was off-limits to guests. That definitely seemed a risk worth taking, especially as I continued to fantasize about Claire and Annabelle, naked, intertwined, sucking, kissing, licking.

I walked past the cabana. Though the thick fabric muffled most sounds, I thought I could hear movement, low moans. I approached the entrance to the service path, listened for a second for voices or footsteps and, hearing none, I ducked inside. I knew I had to move quickly; waiters, busboys, and barkeeps were constantly using these paths. I scurried to a spot behind the cabana, and dropped down and crawled into the hedge.

It was a tight fit. I was in shorts and a t-shirt and the branches clawed at my bare skin. Leaves slapped me across the face and popped into my mouth. I heard footsteps and froze, a busboy hauling a load of dishes rushed by, not noticing me, but I knew I had to try to move as carefully as possible lest someone notice me skulking around.

As I pressed through the bushes, I could hear sounds coming from the cabana. More moans, wet slurps. There was no doubt what was going on. Despite the scratches on my arms and legs and the fear of getting caught, I knew I had to get a peek at what was going on. And then I heard it.

"Oh God, that's just brilliant!" exclaimed Trent's unmistakable voice.

A woman giggled.

I sighed. They had decided to double team him, the lucky, fucking bastard. Was he sitting back like a pasha as the two women took turns sucking his cock? Was he railing my wife doggy style while Annabelle kissed his neck and urged him to stick it in Claire's ass? I almost backed away. I wasn't sure I could actually take watching him fuck my wife. But instead of retreating, I was moving forward. I might not be able to take it, but I knew I had to see it.

I reached the fabric wall of the cabana and cautiously lifted up the hem. The sounds of licking and sucking got immediately louder. He was getting his dick sucked, enthusiastically from the sound of it. I moved slowly, knowing that they would notice the movement of a fabric before they noticed a pair of eyes peering from beneath. With my face on the ground, I peeked inside.

It took me a moment to realize what I was seeing. Trent was, indeed, sitting on the big day bed getting his dick sucked, but Annabelle wasn't there, and neither was Claire. Instead, the woman so enthusiastically slobbering his knob was the Millionaire's wife, the luscious, South American woman whose curves I couldn't help but admire.

She was obviously an expert cocksucker, easily handling his long, thick tool, suckling on his fat mushroom head eagerly. She swallowed him deep and massaged his balls, then switched it up by licking his scrotum while pumping his shaft wetly with both hands.

Even more than her handling of his cock, however, what stood out was her showmanship. She was between his legs, ass high in the air, back arched, long, silky hair carefully thrown to the side. She wasn't just good at giving head, she looked good doing it. Even as she bobbed up and down on his prick, she kept her eyes fixed on his, giving him a great view of her pretty face and her mouth engulfing his cock.

She crawled further up between his legs, her tongue licking its way over his abdomen, stopping to kiss his flat belly. Her large, natural breasts swayed beneath her, her nipples brushing his erection. As she sucked on his nipples, she reached down and resumed stroking his cock firmly. His prick, well lubed by saliva and pre-cum, squished wetly in her firm grip.

She rose up suddenly, on one knee and positioned herself over him. She was shaved bare, which was at once sexy and at the same time incongruous, given her voluptuousness. Her pussy lips were plump and visibly wet. I wondered if he'd eaten her out earlier or if it was just her own excitement. She rubbed his fat cock head against her slit, and her labia seemed to reach out to swallow him in.

“Ah, yes!” she hissed with a delightfully subdued Latin accent.

She fixed him with a fiery gaze. She was suddenly no longer the submissive, little slut servicing a man, but rather a hungry, experienced woman about to reap her own pleasure. She lowered herself onto him firmly, confidently, taking his entire length and girth without hesitation.

“Mmmmm,” she cried, as she ground into him.

He seized her firmly, grabbing her ass cheeks and pumping them back and forth, urging her on. She pressed her hands against his powerful chest and thrust her hips faster, setting her big tits in motion, swinging back and forth almost hypnotically. Her boobs caught Trent's attention as well. He let go of her ass and instead grabbed big handfuls of tit in each hand and mauled them roughly before pulling each in turn to his mouth. He sucked on her nipples hard, hard enough for her to cry out in pain, but that only made her fuck him harder and faster.

Then suddenly she let out a throaty growl. Sensing the moment, Trent grabbed her by the scruff of the neck and pulled her face to his. He kissed her forcefully, even as she gasped and shivered. Her orgasm left her drained and she collapsed onto him, breathing hard.

He didn't give her even a moment to recover. Without hesitation he rolled them over and rose up above her on his muscular arms. He pulled his cock almost all the way out of her pussy, until just the tip remained lodged between her swollen labia. She looked up at him. Gone was the blowjob queen of earlier and also the confident woman riding her man. She was sated and tired, and at his mercy. He seemed to relish this change in her. He gave her a cocky smile.

Then he thrust into her, so hard and fast that it made her gasp. His smile widened. He pulled out again, slowly, slowly, relishing the feel of her pussy on his cock as it withdrew. Now there was another pause, just a moment briefer than before, and another brutal thrust.

"Ai!" she cried out.

She put her hands on his belly as if to slow him, but he was having none of it. He gave her two, quick, hard strokes. She cried out, shaking her head, but she didn't try to push him off. Instead, she rolled her hips upward, lifting her legs in the air, opening herself completely for him, surrendering to his desires.

A satisfied grin crossed his face. He leaned forward and gave her a small, tender kiss on the cheek. Then he again raised himself up on his arms and began fucking her hard. He plunged into her over and over, pulling almost all the out before burying himself inside her roughly.

Her big tits jiggled wildly, the daybed creaked ominously. The sounds of their bodies slapping together provided a rhythmic accompaniment to their rough coupling. And above it all, her high-pitched cries of passion. "Ai, los Dios! Ai, los Dios! Ai, los Dios."

Then abruptly she threw her head back, and her toes curled high in the air. She let out a guttural gasp as her body shuddered violently. He fell forward onto her, attacking her neck as he raced towards his own climax.

Unexpectedly I thought about Claire. Had he also possessed her so completely? I knew he had. Just like Annabelle's stepmom, Claire would have been equally powerless to resist his size, his forcefulness. She too would have lain there, unable to think of anything other than his thrusting cock, crying out in passion, until a roaring orgasm carried her away.

He groaned. I looked up in time to see him pull out and splatter an impressive load of cum all over her stomach and tits... just as he'd done less than twelve hours ago to my wife.

Claire! I remembered I was actually trailing her. How long had I been at the cabana? I ducked my head back under the fabric curtain and curled up inside the hedge. I checked my phone. Shit. I'd wasted forty minutes watching them fuck.

I had a series of texts from Claire.

--got kicked out of the cabana! OMG, I feel like a kid again

--going to pool bar. Looking for trouble. Think we'll find some? ;-)

--John? You still into this? She's getting wacky. Better get over here.

--uh oh, fire eater and friends just came by. Inviting us back to their place. Should we go?

That last text was over fifteen minutes ago.

I imagined the two of them, surrounded by a group of admirers. Tan, buff, young men, fawning over them. They would view Claire through the lens of Annabelle's conduct. She wouldn't be a respected guest; she'd be a drunken slut, an easy mark, like her blonde friend. They'd crowd around her, their hands too familiar, brushing her hair, touching her shoulder, grazing her thigh.

I imagined Annabelle whispering in her ear, a sloppy over-loud whisper that everyone could hear. Come on, you little slut, let's show them a good time. Claire would glance over her shoulder, looking for me. Buzzed and giddy, she'd interpret my absence as permission, even encouragement. She'd give Annabelle a quick nod. The men would cheer and, sandwiching the girls between their hard bodies, they'd lead the girls back to the staff dorm.

One of the men would casually rest his hand on Claire's ass as they walked, another would drape his arm over her shoulder and cup her breast. They'd be rushing the women along, wanting to get started before they could change their minds. Claire would feel their hunger. There were so many of them. Five or six surrounding them already, more, probably waiting at the barracks. She'd be tempted to turn and run, but she'd be emboldened by Annabelle's example. The blonde would not only enjoy the fondling, she'd be running her hands over the firm muscles of her escorts herself.

The walk to the dorm would be shorter than Claire had anticipated. Before she'd really had time to think about what was going to happen, they'd have her inside, shuttled into a large common room. There would be sports on the TV, a radio blaring hip-hop, and a foosball table surrounded by rattan sofas and armchairs. The men would be mostly dark skinned, a melting pot of Latinos, Hawaiians, beefy Polynesians, and a couple of blond surfer dudes from California.

Claire would be paralyzed with doubt. She'd push away the men's hands. But Annabelle would set the mood. Letting out a drunken whoop and lifting her arms in the air, she'd begin dancing lewdly to the music, shaking her tits and grinding her ass. The men would swarm around her, hands pawing at her clothes. When Claire was able to see her again through a gap between the writhing bodies, Annabelle would be on her knees, eagerly sucking cock. The men around Claire would groan in jealousy. Turning toward her, they would quickly strip my wife. When she didn't drop to her knees of her own volition, they'd lead her over to the foosball table.

It would be an out-of-body experience for a moment, as she watched them, rather than felt them, bend her over the table. She'd notice the little details of the foosball men, the imperfections, the damage from years of play, even as they spread her legs. She'd feel a fat hand on her ass, and look back over her shoulder to see an enormous Polynesian man standing behind her. His other hand would reach between her legs. Feeling her wetness, he'd smile broadly, and Claire would go red with embarrassment. She'd again study those little plastic men as he thrust his big prick inside her.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

--need your help. Still at bar. You okay?

I came to my senses. Quickly wriggling out of the hedge, I brushed the dirt and leaves off my clothes. My legs and arms were covered with scrapes. I had no idea how I'd explain it.

I approached the bar and sure enough, Claire and Annabelle were at the center of a group of young men. But the blonde was far from the life of the party. She could barely hold up her head and was looking around dazed.

For a moment I thought evilly about just getting Claire out of there, leaving Annabelle to get her comeuppance. It would be an appropriate repayment for the trouble she'd caused last night. If she hadn't shown up with Trent, if she hadn't gotten into a pissing match with Claire, if she hadn't gotten me high and kissed me, none of this would have happened. I'd have consummated my marriage with my wife rather than dazedly watching her impale herself on that English bastard's fat prick. And if she was going to do all that anyway, the least she could have done is fucked me silly rather than running off with the first tanned, hard body to make a pass at her.

I sighed. I couldn't do that to her. She was just too drunk. It wasn't fair. Whatever she'd done, she didn't deserve to have her semi-conscious body passed around like a sex doll.

I edged my way into the mix, and the mood immediately changed. The guys glared at me angrily, but this was no longer just a couple of drunk sluts out for a good time. With me there, they had to behave with a minimum of deference to our status as guests. When I made clear I wasn't leaving, they slowly, regretfully broke away in ones and twos until just the girls and I remained.

“I thought you were going to leave us to our fate,” Claire said.

“Oh, you can handle yourself.”

She smirked. “Yeah, but last night should have taught you that I don’t always want to when I’m drunk.”

“I still can’t believe you fucked him.”

She rolled her eyes. “Believe me, neither can I.”

Just then Annabelle chimed in drunkenly. “Where are the guys? I need to get fucked.” She belied that assertion by immediately closing her eyes and dozing off.

“How come you’re not as drunk as her?”

“I switched to virgins a couple of hours ago. I didn’t want to be too hammered for my first girl-on-girl make out session.”

“Would you really have gone through with it?”

“I dunno. Maybe at least part way. I do owe you big time.”

“Yeah, you do.”

She eyed me curiously. “Why aren’t you more upset? I was seeing red when you and Annabelle started getting cozy, and that...”

“... is nothing compared to what you did,” I said, finishing her sentence. “Honestly, I don’t know. Truth is, from the moment I first saw you with Trent, I’ve been fantasizing wildly about you.”

“With him?”

I nodded. “And others. Her,” I said pointing to Annabelle, “them,” I added gesturing toward the retreating staffers.

“Yeah?”

“Yeah. Believe me, I have it all mapped out. Do you like foosball?”

As I said it, I had another vision. Claire was still bent over the foosball table. The big Samoan had just finished. As he backed away, I could see her battered cunt, swollen, very red, gaping open, a thin stream of jism leaking out and running down her thigh. And then another man stepped forward and penetrated her forcefully.

“Huh?”

I laughed. “Never mind. What are we going to do with her?”

“We need to get her home.”

I nodded. We each took her under one arm and lifted her up and carried her out of the bar.

We managed to get Annabelle to mumble where she was staying. It was one of those beachfront villas. I was jealous of the Millionaire for a second, until I remembered that his wife was, at that very moment, getting railed by Trent in a poolside cabana. Then again, that just gave us something in common. I had the feeling that the membership of the “cuckolded by Trent” club was vast.

We knocked on the door. One of the young boys opened the door.

“Dad, Annabelle’s back.”

The Millionaire glared at us from the living room.

“She had a little too much to drink,” I said, for some reason apologizing for her.

He rolled his eyes. “Her room’s upstairs.”

He didn’t bother to get up and help us as we manhandled her up the stairs. We got her into her room, and draped her across the bed.

“Should we get her out of her clothes?” I asked.

Claire raised an eyebrow at me.

“I didn’t mean it that way.”

She laughed. “She’ll be okay. She’s barely wearing anything anyway.”

As we came back down the stairs, I was again struck by her father's almost complete disinterest in her condition.

"Um, so your daughter..."

He actually sighed at me.

Just then the front door opened and his wife flounced in. My wife was still in her pool attire, a bikini and wrap. I was covered in scrapes and dirt. We obviously didn't belong. Seeing us, she approached her husband. She leaned over and kissed him on the cheek, waving her cleavage in his face. I wondered if he could smell Trent's come on her or whether the flash of boob was enough to distract him from everything else.

"Jerry, is everything okay?" she asked, rolling the Rs delightfully.

"Everything fine's Elsa. Just my daughter, getting into her usual trouble."

She sighed and rubbed his shoulders comfortingly. "Just like her mother." Then she added, under her breath, but loud enough for us to hear, "La puta."

This display of world class chutzpah was enough to make me feel sympathy for Annabelle. Maybe she was a drunken whore, but having this woman as a stepmother would drive anyone to distraction.

I felt Claire's hand on my shoulder. "We should go," she said to me. And to the parents, she added, "Have a good evening Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer."

She led me to the front door. We stepped outside into a warm, tropical evening. We walked for a little while in silence. Without Annabelle there to distract us from our own issues, things were awkward between us. But there was something about the smells, the sounds of the ocean waves, the beauty of the resort and lighted pools that just ate away the tension.

I reached down and took my wife's hand in mine. She looked over at me and smiled.

"For a second there I thought you were going to smack her."

"Can you believe that woman?"

Claire laughed. "She is something else, but you gotta admit, Abs is a hot mess."

"Abs?"

"Anna Belle. She goes by Abs."

"Seems like you two bonded."

She laughed again. "Yeah, over tales of debauchery."

"I doubt you hold a candle to her."

"Well, last night went a long way toward evening our slut scores."

I nodded. That was certainly true. Sex with a stranger. Check. Sex in public. Check. Fucking another man in front of your husband. Check. Going back to his room to continue screwing. Check. Waking him up the next morning with a hummer to get some more dick. Check. Walk of shame back to your own room without your panties. Check.

"You never told me you'd had a threesome."

"You never asked."

I rolled my eyes. "I've also never asked if you'd had sex with a donkey. But I figure if you had a thing for animals, it might have come out."

She scrunched up her nose. "Yuck."

"So, story?"

"It isn't really that interesting."

"Stop stalling."

"Okay, well, you remember the booze cruise story?"

I nodded.

“Well, this was that night.” She paused and laughed. “You know what? That might have been ten years ago to the day of yesterday. That would be a weird coincidence. It’s like I’m a once-in-a-decade slut. A decaslut.”

“I think a decaslut would be a slut times ten, actually, if I remember my metric right.”

She shrugged. Whatever. “It’s not like we really stopped drinking, though we did take a break to nap on the beach at one point. We ended up going to this dance club, and of course they were holding a wet tee shirt contest.”

“You didn’t!”

“God no. They were even smaller back then. All the contestants were built like Elsa or Abs. I wouldn’t have had a chance.”

“Well, I don’t think winning is really the idea. The idea is showing off and maybe widening the universe of guys who want to fuck you.”

“Believe me, that wasn’t a problem. I couldn’t turn around that trip without some guy showing me his prick. Fucking Cancun and the Internet are the two places where guys think exposing their cocks is an effective pick up technique.”

“It probably works if you’re hung like Trent.”

She chuckled ruefully. “He is definitely something.”

“We can talk about Mr. Wonder Dick later. Finish your story.”

“You mentioned it.” She paused. “Anyway, I ended up with my friend Tammy and this group of guys from Michigan and another couple of girls from, like Alabama and Texas or something. I think we ended up sharing a bus taxi back to the hotel or something. We sat out by this filthy pool. No one wanted to go in. You can imagine how nasty it was. Couldn’t even get a drunk college boy to jump in on a dare. Anyway, everyone sort of paired off. Alabama girl went off first with one boy. So we’re all making fun of her, calling her a slut and shit. And then a few minutes later one of the guys takes Tammy's hand and leads her away! And I'm like, 'you whore, don't leave me out here.' She just giggled and kept walking."

"How many guys were left?"

"Three. So, of course, Miss Texas grabs the guy on her right and disappears and I'm left with these two guys."

"You didn't have to fuck them, you know."

She shrugged. "It seemed rude not to."

I looked at her incredulously.

"I don't know how to explain it. It just didn't occur to me not to. Believe me, I didn't really want to. It's not like I was burning with passion for those guys. But whatever. You've never had sex with a woman just because it was sort of expected?"

"Not that I remember."

"Anyway, we went back up to their room. Thankfully their other roommates were still out."

"What, you'd have felt obligated to fuck them too?"

"No, probably not, but they might have watched."

"So, wait a minute. When you went back to their room, you were not only planning to have sex with two guys you'd just met that night, but you were also prepared to let their roommates watch?"

"Maybe I am a decaslut after all, huh?"

"I'll say."

She laughed. "Well, now I'm feeling pressure to give this story a good ending. Should I work a donkey into it? Anyway, it was sort of anticlimactic. Somehow letting them take turns on me seemed even worse, so I decided to just do them both at the same time. We got naked. They took turns fingering me. I jerked their cocks."

“At the same time?”

“Yup. One in each hand. One guy had a bad case of whiskey dick, so I ended up just sucking on his limp dick while the other guy hammered me for a few minutes from behind. He finished up. I faked it. The guy with the soggy noodle finally tapped out in embarrassment. Maybe ten minutes from start to end.”

“Romantic.”

She laughed. “Believe me, it would not make my list of top ten sexual experiences.”

Somehow I knew that she couldn’t say that about her night with Trent.

“Okay, now the butt sex.”

“What? Oh right, you heard that.”

I nodded. She sighed.

“Remember Terry?”

“Yeah.”

I knew him from when Claire and I first started dating. He was part of a group of friends she hung out with, and I knew there had been something between them. He disappeared from her life at some point. I have a vague recollection he moved out East or something.

“So you know we dated, right?”

I nodded.

“Well, he was always, I dunno, obsessed about that part of my body.”

“You do have a great ass.”

“Why, thank you,” she replied with a giggle. “He thought so, too. He always wanted to have sex so he could see it.”

I thought about Claire’s admission to Annabelle that she’d done it with Trent doggy style. He seemed to share Terry’s judgment.

“He was always poking around back there, you know, during sex.”

“Do you like that?”

She nodded. “Who doesn’t like an occasional finger in the butt?”

“I’ve never... you’ve never mentioned it.”

She stopped and turned toward me. “It’s not really an easy thing to say. Even to someone you love. ‘I want you to put a finger in my ass.’ Sharing fantasies, even something as minor as that, is hard sometimes.”

I nodded. She continued looking at me. Was she expecting me to make an admission as well? Something about voyeurism? And wanting to see her with another man?

She turned and continued walking. “So, one day, I think it was his birthday, I told him he could, you know. I figured, what the heck. We shared a bottle of wine, then got in the shower together. It was quite nice actually. He was kissing me, down there, and fingering me in the butt with his soapy finger.”

“You told Abs you didn’t like it.”

“There is a big difference between a finger, or even a thumb, and a penis. Don’t let anybody tell you otherwise. Anyway. We dried off and got into bed. He used a lot of lube. All textbook. Then he put it in, all slow and gentle, and it was like, ‘Oh fuck, this is not what I was expecting.’”

“Did you make him stop?”

She shook her head. “No, you know, I kept thinking it would get better, and it was his birthday and his fantasy and all that shit. But I’ll tell you what, I have never been more happy to have a man come on my ass than I was when he finally finished.”

We walked on in silence. I was weirdly disappointed. In a weird way, I’d wanted the stories to be hot. I’d wanted to hear my wife describing some enthusiastic, wild, athletic threesome. I’d wanted to hear her gushing about how much she’d loved getting fucked in the ass. I knew that I would have looked down on her for those stories, thought her a slut. And yet, it would undoubtedly turn me on.

“You’re very accommodating.”

“Huh?”

“Well, you fucked those two guys rather than disappoint them. And you let Terry finish even though you weren’t enjoying it. And it seems like you might have been willing to go through with messing around with Annabelle to placate me.”

I wondered what that meant about Trent and last night. Had she really thought she was fulfilling my fantasy? I chuckled softly. Having seen Trent at work, I doubted she saw that as a sacrifice.

“What?”

“I was just thinking that you probably enjoyed yourself last night.”

“Oh John, you know I was just exaggerating for Annabelle’s sake. I mean it was fine, but you know, nothing earth shattering.”

“Oh please, the guy is a machine.”

She shook her head. “I thought you said you were completely out of it.”

“I was last night... Oh fuck, I totally forgot to mention it.”

“What?”

I laughed. “You know why I was so late coming to the bar earlier?”

She shook her head. “I thought you were making me sweat.”

“No. It’s...” I hesitated. It was sort of embarrassing to explain. We were already at the elevator and there were other people waiting as well. “I’ll tell you when we get to the room.”

It gave me a few moments to compose myself. My revelation, my voyeurism, was certainly no bigger an admission than her stories, and of course, it paled in comparison to what she’d done. Being in Hawaii seemed to have loosened both our tongues. I wasn't sure how we'd deal with the fallout once we got back to sunny Seattle, but for now it seemed that there was no point holding back.

CHAPTER TWELVE

She was staring at me expectantly as I closed the door to our room. I was exhausted and plopped down on bed.

“You won’t believe this,” I began.

She took a seat in the armchair across from me. She gave me a curious look. “Go on.”

“So, I got your message about cabana five.”

“Right, but I told you we got kicked out by Abs’ stepmom.”

“Well, I didn’t get that message right away. You probably didn’t send it until you got to the bar?”

She nodded.

“I got the cabana and I heard, well, moaning inside.”

“What, Elsa was pleasuring herself?”

I pictured that. Her mocha skin, her legs splayed wide, her breasts pushed together as she played with herself with both hands. Her snatch spread open for her massaging finger, her other hand furiously rubbing her clit.

“Better.”

I explained about the passway and the hedge. I described how I wedged my head beneath the fabric wall to peer inside.

Claire laughed. “Good God, John. You crawled through dirt and wedged yourself into shrubbery just to get a glimpse of her?”

“I thought it was you and Annabelle.”

“Even still. What if someone had caught you? How would you have explained it?”

I shrugged. “You wanna hear the story or what?”

She nodded eagerly even as she said, “you’re crazy.”

“Maybe. But anyway, it was Elsa, but she wasn’t alone.”

Claire put her hand to her mouth. “Oh God, she’s got the same obsession as her stepdaughter? Was it the same waiter?”

“What? No. It wasn’t a waiter. It wasn’t a staff member. It was...” I paused to let her anticipation build. “... your boyfriend.”

“He’s not my... SHUT UP! She was with Trent?”

She put her hand to her mouth and looked at me wide eyed.

“I can’t tell if you’re amused, surprised, jealous, or mad,” I said. I was personally quite entertained by her reaction.

“I dunno,” she said. “That fuck. He’d just spent the night with me.”

I laughed. “You didn’t think you really meant anything to him, did you?”

Her face fell and I immediately regretted saying it.

“I’m sorry, that was mean.”

“Yeah, but I earned it.”

“No, you didn’t. He’s very charming –“

“How’d he get her in there?”

I shrugged. “Oh, I don’t know. By the time I got a look, they were both naked and she was on her hands and knees sucking on his big cock.”

“He’s not that big,” she replied, looking for any way to diminish him.

I raised my eyebrow at her.

“Okay, he is. But he’s still an asshole. But wait, that was only like, what, five minutes after she kicked us out?”

“Yeah, it doesn’t seem like there was any doubt about what they were there for.”

She shook her head. “Jesus. The fucker must have started working on her the second he got me out of his suite.”

“He certainly does seem to have a one-track mind.”

“Okay, so...” she prompted

“So?” I asked puzzled.

“So, tell me everything.”

“I dunno, she sucked him for a while, and then...”

“No, no. Tell me everything. How does she look naked? Was she any good?”

I laughed. “You’re hoping I’ll tell you she’s chubby out of her swimsuit and that she’s a lousy lay?”

“It would be good if it also turned out he was flatulent and had erectile dysfunction.” She laughed as well. “But I’m guessing that wasn’t the case.”

I shook my head.

“No, actually, they were quite impressive.”

I could see her contemplating that. Was she having the same weirdly vivid visions I was? Was she even now, imagining the two of them together?

“Tell me more. You said she was completely naked?”

I nodded, suddenly dry-mouthed.

She rose and deftly removed her wrap and slipped off her bikini.

“Like this?” she asked.

She stepped closer and I reached out and ran my fingertips over her soft skin, encircling her small breasts, tickling her flat stomach, trailing my fingers through her closely trimmed muff. I could feel her wetness already.

“You’re excited.”

“I’ve been thinking about and talking about sex all day long.”

“After a night of illicit passion.”

“Is it any wonder I’m all hot and bothered? Now stop teasing and get on with the story.”

I continued to run my hands through her pubic hair and between her legs. “Elsa is completely shaved.”

“Does that turn you on?” she asked, cupping her hands over mine.

“Yeah.”

“Why haven’t you ever asked me to shave?”

“Would you?”

“Of course. I have for other men when they’ve asked for it.”

Of course. Always so accommodating. Was she fully shaved when she fucked that guy on the booze cruise? Did everyone get to see his cock sliding into her bare snatch? Was she shaved for Terry when he fucked her up the ass?

I fingered her pussy lips. “Elsa’s labia were very wet, very swollen.”

“Like a bitch in heat,” Claire growled lustily.

“Is that how you think of yourself?”

She snickered enigmatically. “Tell me about her tits.”

“They’re big. But really nice. Obviously natural. A little saggy, but just a little. Gorgeous, long, erect nipples.”

“Do you wish I had bigger tits like Elsa?”

Like Elsa? No. But like the Newlywed, with those bouncing torpedoes... I reached up and tweaked her nipples between my thumb and forefingers, feeling them stiffen at my touch.

“No. I love your breasts.”

I leaned forward and took her left boob into my mouth, feeling the hard nipple against my tongue. I sucked harder until I heard her gasp.

“Anything more than a mouthful is wasted,” I added.

“I thought you said he was naked too?”

I nodded and quickly shed my clothes. I slid back on the bed and opened my legs. I described her pose, back arched, ass high in the air.

Claire adopted the same position and crawled up between my legs.

“Like this?”

“Uh huh,” I muttered as she ran her fingertips over my erection.

“Where were you?”

“What?”

“I mean, what angle did you have?”

“I, um, was sort of below the bed, to the side.”

“That’s too bad. You probably have a better view now,” she said, glancing back over her shoulder at the mirror on the wall.

I followed her gaze. God, she was right. With her legs slightly apart, and her butt high in the air, I had a perfect view of her gorgeous ass. I could see her snatch, glistening with excitement, and her asshole, that tight little rosebud. She swayed her ass back and forth sexily.

“Then what?” she asked.

“She swallowed him deep.”

“Impressive,” Claire commented.

“What? You sucked him, didn’t you?”

“Mmmm, I did. But I mostly just licked him like an ice cream cone,” she said, proceeding to demonstrate by lashing my prick with the flat of her tongue. “I could barely get the head in my mouth,” she added, now swallowing my glans and sucking on it like a lollipop.

“Do you wish I had a bigger cock?”

“No. I love your prick. Anyway,” she paused and swallowed me to the root.

I gasped with pleasure and threw my head back as she bobbed up and down, taking me completely in her mouth over and over, the tip of her tongue tickling my shaft, her hands fondling my balls. She let me slip from her mouth while continuing to stroke my wet prick.

“Anyway,” she continued, “anything more than a mouthful is wasted.”

She grinned at me, and I smiled back at her repackaging of my little white lie. She resumed making love to my prick. I alternated between watching her swallowing me deep and peeking in the mirror to admire her perfect ass.

“Did he come in her mouth?” she asked between tongue lashes.

Had he come in Claire’s mouth? In her pussy? Or her ass? Or had he finished on her tits and stomach like he did to Elsa? Did it matter to me?

“No,” I replied. “She climbed on top of him.”

Claire cooed happily. “Oh god, I was hoping you’d say that.”

I maneuvered her into the same position Elsa had been in, and I watched entranced as she slowly lowered herself on me. With her pelvis tilted forward, I had a perfect view of my cock disappearing inside her hot, tight box. She rose up, until my prick was ready to pop out. I could feel her slick labia clinging to the head of my cock, and then she firmly impaled herself on me again.

As she settled down in lap, I grabbed her ass firmly. She took the hint and began thrusting against me hard.

“Did she fuck him like this?” she asked, her gaze fiery.

“Yeah,” I sighed.

She closed her eyes, and I knew she was imagining herself riding Trent’s fat cock. I played his role. I mauled her tits roughly and then leaned forward and sucked her breasts into my mouth hard enough for her to squeal. I could feel her pussy get even wetter. Each thrust now accompanied by a damp squishing sound.

I could feel her body building to a climax. She was slick with perspiration. Her movements became ragged. I bit her nipple, lightly, not enough to draw blood. She shuddered, and with a high squeak began to convulse on my cock.

“Oh God, oh God,” she sighed. “Fuck.”

I continued to mimic him. I rolled her onto her back and pulled almost all the way out. When her eyes again focused on me, I rammed into her.

“Ugh!” she growled.

I knew she was still sensitive from her orgasm, and that my thrust was rougher than she expected.

“Slow, John, slow.”

She put her hands on my belly to slow me. But she had become Elsa and I was Trent. I plunged into her hard, once, twice. She didn’t surrender immediately, and I had to reach under her knees and raise her legs. I press down on her hamstrings, forcing her thighs down to her chest. I looked down to see her cunt, completely open for me. I hammered into her again.

“He didn’t slow down,” I replied. Now I was speaking for both his encounter with Elsa and his time with Claire.

I plunged into her again and again, though I couldn’t really duplicate his performance. His size made a difference here, as did his stamina. Claire was gasping beneath me, but I wasn’t able to completely dominate her, force her to submit the way he’d done to Elsa. Still, the sensation of her wide open and vulnerable was intoxicating. I plunged into her again and again. And then with a shudder, I came hard, emptying three days’ worth of fantasies and anxieties inside her.

She relaxed when she felt me come. She wrapped her arms around me. We kissed tenderly. For a moment, it was just the two of us, huddled inside a protective cocoon.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

That warm, peaceful sensation only lasted a few moments. Truth was, we'd unleashed too many passions for them to go dormant again so quickly.

We were too tired to go out to dinner, so we ordered in and ate on the balcony. We weren't hungry for a full meal, so we just had some appetizers and a bottle of white. After all our boozing, sharing a single bottle of wine felt like moderation.

We passed the binoculars back and forth. I suspected Claire was secretly trying to spy on Trent, while I was hoping to get a glimpse of the Newlyweds, but we had to make do with other targets.

I caught a glimpse of the Lesbians walking through the resort, hand in hand. I had thought them a little too ripped, too butch on first inspection. But dressed up in their evening attire, I had to admit they were sexy women. The taller brunette had her hair down, flowing in waves over her shoulder, while the younger, shorter blonde, in her spaghetti-strap top would have looked at home in a high end, Los Angeles eatery. For some reason, I didn't think these two suffered from Lesbian Bed Death. They were too fit, too self-assured for that.

Elsa and Jerry were sitting at a prime table in the ocean front lounge. For some reason, I didn't think she shared with him her extracurricular adventures. Not that I felt bad for him. My guess was that he had a mistress on the side as well. They probably both thought they were putting one over on the other. They deserved each other.

We both looked for Annabelle, but couldn't spot her. She was surely up to some tawdry adventure.

"She's weirdly fun in a lunatic way," Claire noted.

"You think of her as a friend?"

My wife nodded. “Yeah, enough that it would have felt weird fooling around with her.”

I laughed.

“What?”

“Well, it’s just funny. I mean, you hated her at first, so much that seeing her with Trent sent you over the edge.”

“I know. God, I was so jealous. I’ve never... I don’t know what came over me. I wanted to show her she wasn’t such hot shit.”

“Yeah, and you also just wanted to fuck him.”

“Okay. But I also wasn’t sure what you wanted.”

“Really Claire?” I asked skeptically.

“No, really John. I still don’t know. You have to admit you keep sending mixed messages.”

“Oh come on...”

“You come on!”

I opened my mouth to respond, and then shut it when I realized I didn’t know what to say. What the hell did I want? Truth is for the last couple of days I’d been more horned up than I’d been since I was a teenager. Sex was all I could think about. I was fantasizing about every woman, and fantasizing about my wife with every man. I didn’t want her to have sex with Trent, but it turned me on, thinking about it, agonizing over it.

“You’re right,” I finally admitted. “Do you think this is our way of expressing that we’re having cold feet about getting married?”

“I’m not sure about cold feet. I don’t have any doubts. But, it is a change, you know. It says something about us that it took us seven years to take this step.”

“Well, we didn’t need to.”

“Right, but that’s the thing, isn’t it? We didn’t just get married. We sort of committed to the next step.”

I knew what she meant. “We don’t have to have kids right away.”

“No, we don’t. But we’re going to, right? I’m turning thirty in a few months. We’re stable financially. And well, it makes sense.”

I nodded. She was right. Getting married was less about cementing our relationship and more about preparing for the big transition. Kids, moving out of the city to a house with a yard and better schools. Going from being carefree young adults to, gasp, parents. It was making us both a little wacky.

“So, what?” I asked. “This is like a last fling rather than a real honeymoon?”

She laughed. “A real honeymoon? You mean candlelit dinners, long walks on the beach, making love under the covers?”

“It would be more traditional than, I dunno, fucking strangers.”

“Or spying on them,” she added with a grin.

“Touché.”

There was a lull in the conversation. Then Claire spoke, “Look, I’ve had more adventures this trip than I could have imagined. But...”

She trailed off. But? What did that mean? Did that mean that she wasn’t done yet? That she wanted the second half of our honeymoon to be like the first? And then I realized.

“Claire. I don’t really, fully, understand all of this. But, as far as I’m concerned, the old saying holds, what happens in Hawaii stays in Hawaii.”

“John?”

“I just mean, I don’t want this to be something we throw out at each other when the going gets tough. I don’t call you a slut, you don’t call me a creepy perv.”

“Except as a compliment, of course.”

“Of course.”

I'd like to say we went to bed and made love like sea otters, but we didn't. When we finally got under the covers, we just kissed, cuddled a moment, and then both dropped off into a deep sleep.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

We'd gone to bed early, but we nevertheless slept late. By the time we called room service, they asked us if we wanted to order off the lunch or breakfast menu. We both chose the latter.

It was a beautiful day. The smell of the Kona coffee was invigorating, the fresh pineapple slices divine. We lazed about, then slowly changed into our swim suits and headed out for the beach.

As we walked toward the shore, I glanced over at the grove where the bonfire had been. Out of the corner of my eye I saw Claire do the same. I knew that she, like me, couldn't help but think of what had transpired there. I chuckled to myself. I must have been quite a sight, at one point surrounded on both sides by couples going at it.

We strolled on the beach, dipping our feet in the water. I noticed Fire Eater working his day job hauling lounge chairs onto the sand. I wondered how often he managed to score with a guest. Was it something he'd remember? Or was Annabelle just Blonde Bimbo Number 361?

We looped back to the sloped, salt-water pool, the lagoon. We found a couple of chairs and draped our towels over them. Claire pulled her mystery novel from her bag.

"I'm definitely going to finish this today," she chirped. "No distractions."

"I'm gonna take a dip."

I strode into the water. The front half of the lagoon was designed as a gently sloping beach, giving folks the opportunity to sun themselves and lie in the water simultaneously. The back half disappeared into a series of artificial, but realistic, grottos and caves. There was a hot tub back there, and as I approached, I noticed a couple in the roiling water. I hadn't seen them before; I surely would have noticed them otherwise, or at least her. She was a tall and busty redhead, her wet hair draped down her back like a scarlet cape. I could see her profile, her full red lips, the slightly almond shape of her eyes. A real beauty. Her man was not in the same league. Average build, a little pasty, kind face.

There was a real chemistry between them, though. Their fingers were intertwined on both hands, and they were kissing lightly and giggling together. Even though I'd spied on four separate couples having sex over the past few days, this felt more intimate and my presence an even bigger violation.

I backed away quietly. But, I couldn't help but wonder how he kept her. A woman like that must be constantly propositioned by men, at least a few, like Trent, who would actually know how to flirt properly. Did she cheat on him? Was he willing to accept it? I imagined her coming home from a date with another man, describing every detail to him: the other man's clothes, his after-shave, the make of his car, the thread count of his sheets, the feel of his cock as it entered her. Was that their game? Was that how they dealt with her intoxicating looks? By converting it from an omnipresent threat to a source of excitement, however twisted.

I didn't know if I could live like that, but it was a testament to how weird the last few days had been that I was considering it. It was probably all crazy. We'd get out of this place, this lulling, tempting paradise and go back to our normal lives. Or would we?

I swam back out into the open part of the lagoon. There was Claire, engrossed in her book. She had a Mai Tai at her side, and one for me as well. I made my way in her direction. Then, as I got out of the water, I saw something that made me freeze.

Standing by the lagoon bar was Trent... and he was talking to the distaff half of the Newlyweds, Janelle. She was wearing jeans shorts, not tight-cut designer shorts, not sexy and trashy Daisy Dukes. No, they were the Mom Jean equivalent, with a high waist and a baggy bottom. She was also wearing checkered red and white shirt; not ironically draped over a bikini, and not sexily tied just below her breasts to show off her belly, but rather buttoned down and tucked into her shorts. And yet she still exuded this weird, primal sexuality, and Trent, that bastard had honed in on it.

I searched around for her husband, Dale. He wouldn't be stupid enough to leave her alone, would he? I sighed. He was precisely stupid enough. He probably didn't even have the excuse of being sick. I wasn't being fair. He was a naïf. It wouldn't occur to him there was a danger.

I sat down beside Claire, draining half my Mai Tai in one long pull, glaring at Trent and Janelle, seething. For some reason, just seeing him with her made me furious. I wasn't feeling warm and fuzzy toward Trent anyway, but that didn't account for the level of my annoyance. Seeing him with Elsa had been almost satisfying. It showed that Claire hadn't just been out to cheat on me. She'd been seduced by a seasoned pro. And I imagined seeing him with Annabelle would be hot, the two of them trying to outfuck the other.

But Janelle... She was a guileless kid. An avatar of sensuality, but still, like her husband, an innocent in the big city. She didn't deserve to become just another notch on Trent's belt. And I knew he'd intuit her naïveté and her hunger. It wouldn't be enough for him to make love to her. No, he'd want to despoil her and corrupt her. By the time he returned her to Dale, she'd be changed, a chasm between them.

I finished my drink and elbowed Claire in the shoulder.

"Check out your boyfr... I mean Trent."

She put down her book and scanned around. She laughed. “Oh boy, he is relentless. Where’d he find that one? Touring road show of Oklahoma!?”

“Be nice. Anyway, that was set in like the 1800s. She looks like she stepped out of the 1970s.”

“You’re right. My mom totally had that hair when I was a kid. Well, a brunette version.”

“She doesn’t seem like his type.”

“What’s his type?” Claire asked, curious.

“You know. He seems to go for more sophisticated women.”

“You mean older?” she said with a laugh. “Gee thanks, John. Nice to know I’ve graduated to being a MILF without even having kids yet. Anyway, Annabelle doesn’t fit that mold. I think his type is... female. Though as horny as he is, I wouldn’t put it past him to do it with a man in a pinch.”

She picked her book back up. I couldn’t take my eyes from Trent and Janelle. God, she was hanging on his every word. Handsome, older, exotic foreigner, he was probably different than anyone she’d ever met. It almost wasn’t fair, like shooting fish in a barrel.

“We should do something,” I exclaimed.

“Huh?” Claire replied, still buried in her book.

“About Trent. I’m pretty sure she’s married. I saw her with a young man earlier.”

Claire snorted. “I’m married. So is Elsa.”

“We still should do something.”

She slapped her book against her thigh. “What do you want to do?”

“I dunno. Get him away from her.”

“I don’t think...” she paused. “John, what is this about?”

“It’s just, you know, she seems like a nice young girl and –“

“You don’t even know her.”

“No, but –“

“Is this... is this something you want?”

“What do you mean?”

“Well, you do seem to get a kick out of watching. I mean, you got totally wound up describing him with Elsa. And well, you were a little out of it the other night. Is this about wanting to watch me with him?”

I stared at her in shock. She wouldn’t have suggested it unless that was something she wanted to do as well.

“Is that what you want?”

She tilted her head slightly. “I’m not pining for him, or anything. But, on the other hand, if you wanted to watch, I’d be, um, willing to put on show.” She hesitated. “If that’s what you wanted,” she added hastily.

It wasn’t what I wanted. Or at least I didn’t think it was. The thought of my wife melting under his experienced touch was both painful and weirdly erotic. They would surely put on a good show, especially if they knew I was watching. But that wasn’t the point. I looked back over at Trent and Janelle. He seemed to be explaining something, placing his hand on her forearm for emphasis. She didn’t pull away. I had to do something. I couldn’t let him have his way with her.

I nodded, my mouth too dry to speak.

“Okay, well I’ll text him, and maybe we can arrange something for –“

A wave of panic went through me. No, it had to be now. Janelle was already wilting under his attention. Another hour or two and she’d be in his bed, naked, looking up at him between her spread legs as he prepared to take her.

“No, now,” I choked out.

Claire gave me a surprised and amused look. “We can’t really interrupt
—“

“Sure, we can. No time like the present. And anyway, who knows how long our nerve will hold.”

She gave me a small smirk that signaled that as far as Trent was concerned, her nerve would never flag.

Just then, Janelle rose and walked a little unsteadily to the bathroom. Since I doubted she was drinking, I realized she was wobbly with anxiety and maybe anticipation. I could imagine her state of mind. Good girl, pastor’s daughter or something, virgin on her wedding night, she’d been struggling with her feelings for three days as her new husband was unable to bring her to that place that she could sense, organically, was so close.

She’d probably fantasized for years about her wedding night, shamefully, in the dark, trying to suppress the desires coursing through her nubile body. She’d been ready to lose herself in passion at her husband’s touch. But she’d married a boy. And while he might one day learn to handle her the way she longed to be handled, for now it was just a source of frustration. But this man, this handsome, foreign stranger.... She could see it in his eyes, in his demeanor, that he could meet all her needs and then some.

The trip to the bathroom was less to relieve herself and more to steel herself for the next step. I imaged her locking herself in the stall, touching herself, shocked and embarrassed by her excitement. It was all just in good fun, she’d tell herself. Nothing was really going to happen. There was nothing wrong with having a conversation with an oh-so-handsome man. And if he asked her to walk with him, there was nothing wrong with that either. He’d mentioned his suite. It would be interesting to see the view from there. All very innocent.

Janelle walked around the bar and out of sight. I poked at Claire.

“Now!”

She looked at me wide-eyed, surprised at my apparent impatience.

“You sure you want this?”

I forced myself to respond deliberately. “Yeah. It’ll be fun.”

“I know it will be for me. You sure it will for you?”

I nodded. “Come on, go before she gets back.”

Claire shook her head. “You’re crazy, you know that?”

She stood and strode in his direction. Man, she had a great ass. Was that an extra little swivel in her step? How could I even think of sharing her... again?

Trent gave her a wan smile when he saw her approach and cast an anxious glance to where Janelle had disappeared. The last thing he wanted was a scene with a previous conquest when he was getting close on a new one. As Claire spoke, an intrigued look crossed his face. He glanced over at me and grinned while shaking his head in amusement. I saw him look again toward the bathroom.

I could almost see the gears turning as he considered the situation. I knew he’d be weighing the “bird in the hand” of my wife’s offer against the “two in the bush” of the possibility of pillaging Janelle’s innocence. I was pretty sure the kink of fucking my wife in front of me would win out. And anyway, rejecting Claire entailed the risk of making a scene, while accepting her offer left open the option of a graceful exit and the possibility of meeting up with Janelle later.

Sure enough, his smile widened as he spoke to Claire. He stood and glanced at me, then pulled my wife into a quick but passionate embrace, his hand casually sliding into her bikini bottom to give her ass a quick squeeze.

Claire shot a quick gaze in my direction to assess my response. She grinned at my expression before returning her attention to him.

He broke from my wife, and walked toward Janelle as she reappeared from the bathroom. They spoke for a moment. She nodded and seemed to force a smile. I could see a gamut of emotions play out across her face: surprise, disappointment, relief, and then embarrassment as she realized, finally, that he was dismissing her. She gave him a small wave, as if apologizing for having wasted his time, and then turned and scurried away.

When Janelle was out of sight, Trent turned and smiled broadly. He approached my wife confidently and grabbed her around the waist. They walked toward me with his hand resting possessively on her hip.

“John, old chap, you and your much better half are having far too much success in piquing my interest.”

“We don’t have to monopolize your time if you have better things to do,” I replied.

He seemed to ponder the range of possible responses.

“No need for cold feet,” he answered as he resumed walking Claire toward the hotel. “I assure you, you will enjoy this. And Claire and I, of course, will absolutely savor it.”

I felt like a third wheel as I walked beside them.

“There’s a line between confidence and arrogance,” I snapped.

“And on which side of the line am I treading?” he asked.

Claire interrupted us by sliding an arm around each of our waists, pulling us close, sandwiching herself between our bodies. “Boys, boys, you two should spend less time bickering and more time thinking of how to praise me. I don’t intend to make it easy on either of you.”

“Oh, how I do love a challenge,” Trent replied smoothly.

“Yeah, me too,” I sighed.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

As we walked into the hotel lobby, Claire released us both, and we walked to the room separately maintaining a small modicum of dignity. I wasn't quite sure what the plan would be once we got there. My mind was reeling as I considered the situation. It's weird, but the moment Janelle walked away, the urgency of the situation receded, and the absurdity of it became manifest. And yet, the butterflies in my stomach were not just apprehension. There was also some weird, embarrassing excitement mixed in.

Once in the room, Claire, surprisingly took control. She directed Trent to call room service. He followed her instructions and ordered two bottles of champagne and a fruit platter. Then she sat me down in the armchair by the balcony. She leaned over me, her breath surprisingly hot in my ear.

"Okay, this is your show, Mr. Director," she whispered. Then loud enough for Trent to hear, "Tell us what to do, and we'll do anything you say."

I could see that this took him a little by surprise. He was expecting to be calling the shots. But he took it with aplomb. He composed his handsome features into a serene smile and sat down on the bed. He looked from me to Claire and back again in anticipation.

I was at a loss for how to proceed.

"Maybe I should take this off to break the ice?" Claire suggested, gesturing at her bikini.

I nodded mutely.

She reached behind her and quickly untied her bikini top. She pulled it over her head and tossed it in my lap, exposing her high, pert breasts. Her nipples were already hard with excitement, her areola darker and more prominent than usual. Trent smiled approvingly.

She made a show of removing her bottoms. She moved closer to me and gestured at the knot on her left hip. I reached out and seized the end. She edged away and the knot slipped open. She held her bikini up with her hand. She walked over to Trent and repeated the process with him. He pulled at the thread more decisively than I had. She released her grip and her bottoms came off in his hand.

For some reason, I couldn't take my eyes off her bikini bottoms dangling from his fingertips. In part, I guess it was a way to avoid looking at my wife's naked body, now on display for another man.

"Delightful, did you do that just for me?" he asked.

It took both Claire and me a moment to realize what he was talking about. Then I noticed it. Where yesterday she'd sported a neatly trimmed triangle of public hair, she was now completely bare. I stared in shock at her smooth white skin, her tight little slit betraying just a hint of her excitement.

"Oh God, I totally forgot. It was supposed to be a surprise," she said to me, apologetically.

"A wonderful surprise," Trent said, enthusiastically.

He soaked in her naked body and especially her naked pussy. He was sitting on the edge of the bed, eager with anticipation. His cock was tenting his pants. I could tell he was thinking of nothing more than throwing her onto the bed and plunging his fat cock into her newly shaved snatch.

"Shall I get this kit off?" he said as he began pulling at his shirt.

"No. Not yet," I croaked out.

His face fell momentarily. He recovered his composure quickly, but I'd registered the change.

He nodded and began pulling Claire toward the bed.

"No. She stays there," I said, pointing to the spot where she stood in her high-heeled cork sandals. "You come to her."

“As you wish, director,” he sneered. But he did as I’d ordered, dropping to his knees before her. She looked down at him and then quickly looked away as if embarrassed. She didn’t push him away, but her self-consciousness was suddenly palpable.

He ran his hands up her inner thighs and trailed his thumb along her juicy slit. Her pussy opened up like a flower, pink and shiny inside. He grabbed her ass firmly and began licking her pussy vigorously. Whatever anxiety she’d had melted away.

“Oh God,” she moaned as she grabbed his head, holding him close.

I looked my wife. She was beautiful. Her eyes were closed and her long, lean, naked body seemed to ripple in time with his tongue strokes. The tendons in her neck tensed; her lips were pursed; she was breathing in shallow gasps.

He slipped a finger inside her and sucked her clit into his mouth. Her breath caught and her body shuddered. She was getting close when he altered his approach, now spreading her pussy wide with his hands and licking deep inside. She groaned in pleasure. She began bucking against him, humping his face. He again pressed a finger inside her and attacked her clit.

“Oh yes, oh yes,” she moaned, convulsing in passion.

Her knees seemed to give out and he helped her over to the bed. He laughed, his face glazed with her juices.

“That was a good one, wasn’t it?” he said.

“Mmmm, yeah.”

“Is it my turn now?”

“And how,” she replied, eagerly.

“Not yet,” I interjected. “All in good time. But I think a shaved pussy that pretty deserves a little more attention.”

He stood. The tent in his pants was now crowned with a small wet spot.

“Yes sir,” he said. His tone managed to convey both a willingness to follow my guidance and the cocky self-assurance that whatever the nature of my game, in the end, he’d still be fucking my wife.

I motioned Claire to slide back further onto the bed. She did and spread her legs wide. God, she looked so inviting like that, her snatch wet and pulsating. He crawled up after her and laid between her thighs. He seemed to know she’d be too sensitive for too much immediate attention, so he took it slow, just gently tracing the outline of her lips. Even that was almost too much direct stimulation. I could see that she, too, would have been just as happy to get right to the fucking. But like him, she was willing to follow my instruction.

His fingertips wet with her natural lubrication, he traced circles on her thighs and her belly. He reached up and gently pinched her taut nipples. As she recovered from her orgasm, he probed her slit more directly, sliding two fingers between her lips. She shuddered as his fingertips grazed her clit and again when his digits tickled her anus.

He pressed his face back between her thighs. She jolted, but didn’t push him away, as he resumed eating her out. He was gentler than the first time, mostly teasing her with the tip of his tongue, his fingers rubbing gently rather than thrusting inside her. She began moaning again. I didn’t know if she would come again so soon, but her body was undeniably responding to his expert ministrations.

There was a knock on the door. “Room service!”

Trent looked back over his shoulder. “Would you mind getting that old chap? We’re a bit in the middle of something here.” His tone was sickly sweet and passive aggressive. I chuckled to myself. Hoo boy, when I turn him loose on Claire, he's going to really take it out on her.

I opened the door partway and just as I did, he did something to her to make her moan loudly. Did he suck on her clit? Press two fingers into her? I didn't know. But it had its desired effect. The room service waiter craned his neck around me to peek inside. He couldn't see much, but he could certainly see that there was a naked woman on the bed getting eaten out. I got the champagne and fruit inside and shooed him away, but not before Trent elicited another series of attention-provoking moans and sighs. I blushed as it occurred to me that the waiter would shortly be reporting to his friends that the hot brunette in 2341 was getting eaten out while her husband watched.

I retrieved a towel from the bathroom and poured two glasses of champagne. I handed one to a beaming Claire who propped herself up on some pillows to savor the chilled bubbly. I took a sip from the other glass myself. When Trent looked back for his, I handed him the bottle and the towel.

"How about a vagina mimosa for you?"

"I wouldn't have pegged you for a devotee of food play, but okay," he replied, gamely.

He wedged the towel beneath her ass and took a swig from the bottle. Then he poured some champagne onto her belly before lapping it up.

"That tickles," she giggled.

"Blame your hubby," he replied.

Next he spread her pussy with his fingers and spilled some champagne onto her lower abdomen, letting the chilled liquid flow down between her lips.

“Mmmm” she sighed, followed by a lusty “Oh God” as his tongue lapped up the sparkly. She put down her glass and lay back again.

He poured a little more, this time keeping his mouth on her snatch, drinking the stream after it passed over her clit. He pressed down on her hamstrings, forcing her ass off the bed. He poured a small pool of champagne into her upturned vagina and then sucked it clean, chasing a few stray drops as they rolled down the crack of her ass. When the tip of his tongue contacted her anus, she bucked and growled. Encouraged, he poured a little more champagne into her crack and then licked her ass more forcefully.

She grabbed at the sheets with her hands as she grunted in passion. A bit more champagne and this time as he tongued her ass, he rubbed his thumb against her clit. Claire exploded suddenly, her body twisting back and forth, and her breath coming in ragged gasps as she climaxed violently. As she calmed, he again began to lick her snatch.

“No, enough,” she hissed, pushing him away. “I want some cock.”

I ignored Trent’s smirk and focused on Claire.

“Oh course, darling. But first, have a seat and a piece of fruit. I think you’re going to need your strength.”

She looked from me to Trent, her eyes pausing to take in the bulge in his pants. If I hadn’t been there, he’d have been balls deep inside her by now, with her encouragement. But they were both just doing this for me. This was my fantasy, in theory, and they had to act as if that conceit were real. For some reason, I liked controlling the pace of the encounter, even if, in the end, they would both get what they wanted. Maybe I was hoping he’d balk and I could kick him out. Or maybe I did like the idea of playing director. The thought of him leaving now sent a tremor of disappointment through me.

She sat further down the bed, naked and a little shaky. I handed her the glass of champagne and a piece of pineapple. I poured and gave Trent a glass as well. The three of us sipped our champagne for a few moments, the only sounds coming from the wind and surf through the open balcony door.

“Ok honey, I think it is time for you to return the favor.”

Trent smiled broadly and began reaching for his shirt.

I stopped him, “No, let her do it.”

He forced a smile as Claire went to work. There is something both unnerving and weirdly erotic about watching your naked wife undressing another man. The awkwardness of it, especially when his arm got tangled in his sleeve, also added a touch of humor. But in the end, when Claire had finished removing his shorts, there she was, nude, on her knees, face-to-face with Trent’s very impressive cock.

It wasn’t huge, not like in pornos, but just above average in all aspects. A little longer than normal perhaps, a bit thicker, a slightly more prominent head, but somehow the whole was greater than the sum of the parts. It was the kind of cock that, as I knew from Annabelle and Claire’s conversation, girls talked about in hushed giggles when other men were not around to get their feelings hurt.

He was already rock hard in anticipation, which surely added to the impression he made. I knew Claire wanted nothing more than to climb aboard and feel that fat tool inside her. But I wanted to see her try to take it in her mouth.

“Go ahead Claire, lick it.”

She leaned forward and slowly ran her tongue up the length of his shaft. He shivered slightly, but his broad smile showed he was enjoying it. I could see her looking up at him as she licked his cock. I could see how much she enjoyed being submissive for him, how much more comfortable she seemed to be on her knees before him rather than looking down at him eating her out.

He was leaking pre-cum and mixed with her spit, his cock gleamed as she continued to lap at his fat shaft.

“Use your hands,” I directed.

Claire nodded and began stroking his cock with both hands, her tongue now mostly circling his bulbous head. I handed her the bottle of champagne. She poured a little on his cock, but without the same valleys and contours as she had, it just spilled off. Still, she licked his shaft with extra enthusiasm as she cleaned him up.

“Put some champagne in your mouth,” he suggested, looking quickly at me to see if he’d overstepped his bounds.

I smiled. “Good idea.”

She took a gulp and tried to lower her mouth on the head of his cock. The champagne spilled out all over his shaft and balls, which she lovingly cleaned up with her tongue. She tried it again, and this time her timing was better; only a little leaked out and for a few moments she suckled on his prick pickled in champagne before pulling off and again licking him clean.

So far she’d just sucked the tip of his cock into her mouth. She swallowed his head again.

“You can do better than that,” I encouraged.

Trent nodded approvingly and placing his hand on the back of her head, urged her on. She bobbed up and down, taking a little more of him inside her, but still nothing compared to what Elsa had managed to accommodate.

“Let me help you,” he offered.

He grabbed her head more firmly and began thrusting his cock into her mouth. She placed her hands on his thighs, but didn’t push away, didn’t break eye contact. She was demonstrating that accommodating side of herself that I had never noticed because I had never pushed the envelope.

He was getting maybe half his prick into her mouth now on each thrust, but it was a challenge for her. I could see her lips stretched around his fat shaft, her nostrils flaring as she tried to breathe despite his invading cock, her eyes watering. I had the feeling that if Trent kept at it, he might ultimately be able to get it all in, and that Claire would keep at it through it all. I pictured her, red-faced, gagging, tears running down her cheeks. I didn't want to see that.

"That's enough," I said, curtly.

Trent released my wife immediately and she rocked back on her heels, wiping her mouth with her hands. She looked at me expectantly, but even as she did so, I could see her casting glances in the direction of his glistening, rigid tool. I could tell she wanted it, and I knew I'd messed around with them enough.

"Let me see you," I said as I reached out to lift her to her feet.

I was turned on, certainly, but not fully aroused. I realized that I had emotionally distanced myself from what was happening. That was surely the reason for embracing the role of director. I was afraid of what might happen if I let myself get too excited or too jealous for that matter.

I turned her around so that she was facing me, her ass in Trent's face. I reached down and ran my hand over her lower abdomen, across the smooth, silky, newly-bare skin, and down into her sticky, swollen snatch. Fucking Trent. He'd been the first man to fuck her since our wedding and was now going to get dibs on her shaved twat. Life was definitely not fair.

I pushed her toward him. He reached out and grabbed her hips to guide her into his lap. Her eyes were glued to mine as she slowly lowered herself onto him. Her eyelids fluttered as he entered her, and once she'd settled down on his cock, a look of pure bliss came across her face. We'd found a use for that "more than a mouthful" after all.

"Make him come," I ordered.

She nodded and began riding him. Feet on the ground, she rose and fell on his fat prick, slowly at first, but faster and faster. I sat back down in my armchair and watched. I had a perfect view. With her legs spread and her pussy shaved, there was nothing in the way. It was weirdly hypnotic seeing his cock spearing over and over into my wife's snatch. Even though she was very wet, I could see it was a tight fit, her labia clinging to his shaft each time she rose up.

I had sort of hoped that she'd be able to make him come on her own, without him taking control. But it was not to be. After just a couple of minutes, she was gasping and groaning, her face red, eyes glassy. He'd been cooperating, just resting his hands on her hips, helping guide her, but he knew she was his. He moved his hand up, across her belly and cupped her breast, letting her hard nipple slide between his fingertips. He moved his other hand across her abdomen and down toward her slit. When he touched her clit, she let out a feral growl. She gasped and shook, and he thrust upward into her just to make sure there was no turning back. Her eyes rolled into her head as she came hard, then collapsed, supine, in his lap, leaning back against his strong body as he tenderly kissed her neck.

He churned his cock slowly into her, his hands continuing to roam over her body. He was handling her more firmly now, gradually taking control. He looked at me and inclined his head. May I?

I nodded in response. "I still want to see her face."

He pulled her back onto the bed and positioned her on her hands and knees, facing me. He moved behind her and grabbed her hips, holding her in place. Then he entered her again with one long, hard stroke. Claire's eyes went wide and she gasped. Then as he pulled out slowly, slowly, she let out a long, low sigh. She gave me a small, reassuring smile as if to say that whatever was happening, she would still always be mine.

But I knew better. I'd seen him do this to Elsa, so I knew what was coming next. Another hard, powerful thrust. She gasped again, louder this time. Again and again. He paused for a moment, and she gasped for breath.

"Oh God," she sighed as he resumed his pounding. She dropped her head as if it was too much effort to look at me while also accommodating him. Trent grabbed a handful of her hair and yanked back.

"Look at him, darling," he ordered.

She lifted her eyes to me and tried to focus, but he was now hammering her roughly, so roughly that her eyes seemed to glaze and I knew she was concentrating on nothing other than his big prick invading her over and over. She was grunting louder now, her staccato exclamations alternating with the sound of slapping flesh.

He paused again. I looked up at him. He gave me what I imagined he thought was a friendly smile, but he couldn't disguise his real sentiment. Watch how a real man fucks your woman. Or maybe that was just my insecurities talking.

He held up his other hand. "Can I put my thumb in your wife's bum?"

Who doesn't like an occasional finger in the butt? I nodded affirmatively.

He slid his fat cock from her pussy, eliciting a heartbreaking sigh. Then he ran his thumb up and down her wet slit until it was well coated. With firm pressure, he pushed his thumb into her ass. Her sensuous moan turning to a high-pitched squeal as he hammered his cock back into her.

And now I knew she was completely lost to me, at least for now. She closed her eyes and I let her, content to see her face contorting with pleasure as he used her. Her squeals got louder and higher. She was loud enough that I knew people could hear from through the open balcony door, but I didn't care. Seeing her so lost in passion was weirdly beautiful.

When she came it was with a low, vaguely anticlimactic moan. She seemed to collapse, not all at once, but slowly, as if her bones were progressively turning to putty. She ended up face down, flat on the bed. He followed her down, sliding his thumb from her ass and seizing her upper arms. He continued to fuck her forcefully, almost as if he were trying to drive her straight through the mattress.

And then, when he'd possessed her completely, when all that was left was a docile repository for his invading member, only then did he come, filling her with his seed. When he finished, he rolled off her and lay face up on the bed, gasping as well.

"Blimey, that was fucking brilliant," he sighed, as much to himself as anyone else.

Claire slowly roused herself and looked up at me. She was sweaty and red-faced, but smiling and obviously happy. She crawled off the bed and crouched down beside me while Trent excused himself to go to the bathroom.

"You okay? Did you have fun?" she asked.

I chuckled. "I know you did."

"You didn't answer me," she insisted.

"I did. And I'm glad you did too."

She smiled.

"I think I've had enough, though," I added.

Her face fell. "Oh, okay."

I laughed. "God Claire, he does turn you into a nympho, doesn't he?"

She looked away.

“It’s okay,” I continued. “It sort of turns me on. Anyway, just because I’ve had enough doesn’t mean you can’t –“

“Oh no, John, I couldn’t.”

“You’re not really going to make me talk you into it, are you?” I gave her a kiss on the cheek. “Have fun.”

I stood and started toward the door. I ran into Trent exiting the bathroom.

“I’m gonna head out. You two have fun.”

“Ah, smashing. Then you don’t mind if we continue?”

“Go for it.”

“No rules then?”

I shook my head.

“I’d really like to sodomize her if you don’t mind.”

I suppressed a shudder. I didn’t want that, but I also didn’t want to let him see that he’d gotten to me by asking. “Anything you two agree on is fine with me.”

He clapped me on the shoulder, “you’re aces, mate.”

I shook my head and laughed. Another step in my journey to the surreal. I edged past him and left the room.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

I made my way back down to the lobby bar. I just wanted a quiet place to relax. Happily it was empty except for the bored-looking barkeep. I ordered a double Bourbon and sipped it slowly.

I had protected Janelle's honor by sacrificing my wife's, not that Claire's honor was worth much, tarnished as it already was by her previous time with Trent. That was a dark way to look at it. No, I had protected Janelle and given both my wife and her lover a good time. The only person making sacrifices was me. Yes, I was just being noble all around.

No, that wasn't quite it either. I hadn't done it for anyone but myself, to spare myself the discomfort of seeing Trent corrupt my vision of innocent beauty and femininity. And anyway, as queasy as it was to watch it, and even more so to think about what they might get up to without me there, I had gotten a kick out of it. It had been a rush to order them around, to see Claire climax, to see him wear her out.

I wondered what they were up to now that I had left. Actually, I didn't have to wonder. I knew what Trent wanted. His thumb had just been an experiment. Having gotten away with that, he was going to try to get his fat dick in her ass. Would her accommodating nature overcome her dislike of anal sex? I figured it was about fifty-fifty.

"So what's the deal with you and your wife?"

I looked over to see Annabelle sitting next to me.

"Oh hi. Didn't see you come in."

She gave me a curious look. "So?"

"Nothing. What? She's napping, and I'm having a drink."

She laughed. "Fuck, you're a terrible liar. Anyway, I saw the three of you leave the pool arm in arm. I'm guess she's still upstairs fucking the Brit, right? So what's the deal?"

"Look, Anna –"

"Just call me Abs, 'k? And buy me a drink."

"Only if you get a real drink and not one of those fucking fruity cocktails." I waved for the barkeep.

She laughed, then turned to him. "Vodka tonic."

"Make it a double," I added.

"You trying to get me drunk?" she asked.

I rolled my eyes. "You could drink me under the table."

Her drink arrived and she clinked her glass against mine. "Damn straight."

She was in flip-flops and khaki shorts, her thin, white shirt was open to her navel, exposing her neon orange bikini top and generous cleavage. She was smiling, which made her much more attractive than she'd been when I first noticed her, sneering at her stepmom.

"So what's the deal? You guys like swingers or something?"

I nodded. "I dunno. Maybe we are now. We didn't used to be. I'm not even sure how any of this happened."

"So she is upstairs fucking Trent?"

I nodded.

"Why aren't you up there double-teaming her?"

I shrugged. Why wasn't I? Because in a weird way that felt wrong and disrespectful to Claire. But I couldn't think of the words to express that sentiment.

"Damn, Claire is a nasty little whore, isn't she?" She obviously meant it as a compliment of sorts.

"Did you watch them at least?"

I nodded.

“Shit, I bet that was hot,” she sighed.

“I guess.”

“So how’d you guys go from not being swingers to you walking your wife and her fuck buddy back to your room and watching them go at it?”

I thought back to all the explanations and interpretations that had been going through my head for the past few days. They were all long, involved, and really probably didn’t make a lot of sense.

“There’s something in the water?”

“Ah, minimization with humor.”

“You a psyche major?”

She laughed. “Not quite. But I’ve seen enough six-hundred-dollar-an-hour therapists to earn an honorary degree.”

“What for?”

She rolled her eyes. “Because I’m a drunken slut, haven’t you noticed?”

“I don’t think –“

“Look, John, don’t bullshit me. I know what I am. Thing is, what everyone thinks is a problem, I just think is fun. That’s why therapy doesn’t work on me. They keep trying to explain why I’m ‘acting out’ or ‘out of control,’ but I’m not. I like to drink and I like to fuck. And yeah, sometimes I drink too much and sometimes I fuck the wrong guys. It comes with the territory.”

“People are just probably worried about you –“

She laughed. “Damn, you’re a strange guy. Your wife is upstairs getting her brains fucked out by the biggest cock she’s ever seen – she told me that, you know. And here I am telling you I like to get drunk and have sex, and you’re getting all protective on me? You’re never going to get in my pants with that approach.”

“I didn’t know I was trying... “ I trailed off as I noticed Dale walk into the bar. “Hold that thought,” I said as I stalked over to him.

The big doofus was the color of a cooked lobster.

“Forgot your sunscreen?” I asked.

He nodded sheepishly. “Oh hi, sir. Yes, yes I did. Went deep sea fishing today, you know and didn’t realize...”

I tuned him out for a moment as I contemplated that. The big dummy had gone off on a daylong fishing trip and left his wife alone, and my now my wife was upstairs, probably getting her ass fucked, as a result.

“Do you even like fishing?”

I think he blushed, though with his sunburn it was hard to tell. “To tell you the truth mister, it was mostly just a chance to get away from Janelle and get a little rest. I was talking to this nice man and he suggested –“

“English guy?”

Dale nodded. “Yeah, is he like the fishing promoter or something? Guys on the boat didn’t know who I was talking about.”

I clapped my hand on his shoulder. “Dale, you’re not going to make this work by running away, even for a day trip. Remember what I said about communicating? You stay close to your wife, okay?”

He nodded. “I know, it’s just...”

“Dale, I understand. I remember what you told me. But just be open-minded and responsive, you know? It’ll all work out.”

I took him by the arm and shoved him out the door of the bar. If I had anything to do with it, he was going to learn to please Janelle. But he’d already spent too much time apart from her today.

I returned to Annabelle. She was looking at me like I had three heads. She’d also ordered us another round.

“What was that?”

“He needs some marriage counseling.”

“From you?” Annabelle snorted.

“Just because my wife is upstairs having sex with another man... again, does not mean I don’t have good advice to give.”

“Poor kid.”

I wanted to change the subject. “So what’s with you and the hotel staff?”

She shrugged. “Young, hot, and available?” Then she broke into a wicked smile. “Plus, it does give me a weird rush to fuck a guy on my dad’s payroll, even indirectly.”

I rolled my eyes. “Oh yeah, no way you need therapy. You’re healthy as can be.”

“You know what they say about crazy girls in bed?” she asked, seductively.

“Oh, I don’t doubt you’re a little wildcat.”

She smirked proudly.

“But I think I’m gonna have to pass.”

She put on an exaggerated pout. “You sure? This offer won’t come around again... or maybe it will. Depends who I run into tonight.”

I laughed. “Thanks Abs. I appreciate it.” I didn’t necessarily mean the offer itself, though I knew that it would be grist for many fantasies over the coming years. I meant more the sentiment behind it. Her callow façade was just that, a mask to hide her emotional turmoil and insecurities. Or maybe not. Maybe she did just like to fuck.

I looked at my phone. No message from Claire. It was now almost eight. I’d left the room almost four hours ago. They’d surely be done, wouldn't they? I didn't want to check. It would be too weird to poke my head in, see them still going at it, and then duck away. Better to just wait for a message. I decided to grab some dinner.

I went to a Polynesian-themed restaurant at the resort. It really didn't work. They didn't have the guts to commit to a full-blown 1950s-style Tiki, so the décor was mostly modern with just a few kitschy touches thrown in. I sat in a booth, by myself, staring at a fearsome mask on the wall, sipping a Mai Tai and working my way through an updated version of a Pu Pu platter, sadly lacking in fried tidbits.

The hostess seated a couple at the booth behind me. The dividers were pretty high, but the couple had apparently retreated to the recesses of the booth to chat, putting them just inches from me. I wasn't particularly looking to listen in, but I was bored and by myself.

It took me a few moments to realize it was two women. The first had a husky, androgynous voice, the second the clear, flat tones of a California girl. They were giggling and speaking in hushed tones, clearly lovers sharing a meal, dishing about the other patrons, enjoying themselves.

I wasn't playing close attention until the husky voiced woman, said, "Okay. So Kitten, you've had enough time to think about it. What about Trent?"

"Oh come on Betty, it was all in good fun. It wasn't a serious idea."

"Why not? You've always said that your biggest worry about getting married was not getting that."

Kitten sighed. "I know. But I sort of meant that in the past. It's blown up some past relationships. But I can be good. I wouldn't have said yes to getting married if I didn't think I could."

"I saw the way you looked at him. Like a kitten looking at a mouse."

“I think I was the mouse and he was a full-grown barn cat with lots of experience hunting mice.”

Betty laughed. “So much the better. He doesn’t look like the sort who’s going to get all clingy.”

“Oh, that I can tell. Half-way through being with me, he’d be already thinking of his next conquest.”

“Perfect vacation fling.”

“Yeah, if I was single. And if this wasn’t our fucking honeymoon.”

“I sort of think it would be hot.”

Kitten laughed. “Since when do you get the hots for dudes, Miss Gold Star?”

“I don’t. But I just think it would be sexy to see my little Kitten getting her oh-so-tasty pussy stuffed.”

I couldn’t help myself. I peered cautiously over the divider to confirm that these were my Lesbians. I sat back down.

Kitten moaned softly. “No, don’t, baby. Not in public.”

“Don’t worry, no one can see. I just want to remember how tight you are before that nasty man rams his big thing into you.”

Kitten giggled. “Thing? God, you are such a dyke. At least call it a prick or a cock.”

“I’m going to text him.”

“No, don’t,” Kitten moaned, unconvincingly.

“Dear Trent, Kelly would love to get together. Tonight? I’m pressing send.”

“You’re crazy.”

“And now we wait.”

“If you don’t stop now, I’m going to shove you under the table to finish the job,” Kelly groaned.

Betty laughed. "It's not my fault you're such a juicy, little slut. I can't keep my hands off you."

"You're a pervert."

Their food arrived and I heard them straighten up with a giggle. They must have been putting on quite a show. When the waiter left they resumed their conversation.

"No response," Betty said, disappointed.

"He's probably with another girl."

I stifled a laugh. Well, they certainly had his number. It also brought home the fact that he was still with my wife and probably fucking her as we sat there. I looked at my watch. Almost seven hours since we'd first gotten into our hotel room. It was hard to believe either of them was still going, much less both of them. But Trent didn't seem like the kind of man to ignore an assignation, and anyway Claire hadn't texted me either so the implication seemed pretty unavoidable.

They went on to other topics and I gradually lost interest in their conversation. I looked around the restaurant, hoping for some other interesting watching opportunities. I'd have loved to see the redhead from the grotto, ideally in a low-cut evening number, but she was nowhere to be seen.

I finished picking at my dinner and drained my drink. I got the check and was getting ready to leave, when I heard another round of giggles from behind me. I pressed myself back into the booth and tried to tune in their conversation.

"...tied up tonight, but would like to buy us both dinner tomorrow," Betty said. "Looks like we have a date."

"We can still cancel."

"Sure, but why would we?"

“I can’t believe you’re into this.”

“Anything for my Kitten.”

“Somehow I think I’m doing this more for you.”

I shook my head, amused. Hadn’t Claire said exactly the same thing to me? Had I come off as insistent as Betty was?

Kelly continued, “You sure you’re not getting a little curious yourself?”

Betty fake-retched. “Nah uh, Kitten, I’m just an observer in all this, though if he needs help getting your little pussy ready, I might be willing to lend a hand.”

Kitten laughed. “And of course, when it is all done, you’ll expect me to show you my gratitude.”

“Of course.”

They giggled and kissed, their voices now even quieter and throatier. I would have loved to see what they were up to, but somehow listening in seemed a greater violation of their privacy. I checked my bill, signed it to my room, and got up to leave, but not before casting a quick glance at the Lesbians, locked in a passionate embrace.

I roamed the resort, enjoying the beautiful Hawaiian evening and my own buzz. I should be walking hand-in-hand with my wife. Instead, she was getting fucked by the resort stud. I shook my head. This one was on me. I had to own it and stop feeling sorry for myself.

I wondered about Trent. The guy was relentless. Like a shark has to keep moving to breathe, Trent seemed to need to fuck to live. He’d already had Claire and Elsa, he had a rendezvous planned with Kitten tomorrow, and he’d have probably nailed Janelle if we hadn’t intervened. Abs had been ready to screw him. And those were just the women I knew about. Who knew how many other women, married and unmarried, had spread their legs for him already? Annabelle notwithstanding, he seemed to have a real knack for making married women forsake their wedding vows. He was a special breed, a Cuckoo Shark.

Was this just a hobby for him? Something he did on vacation? Or was there some sort of financial angle? Was he looking to be a kept man? No. That didn't make sense. He wasn't going after older, more established women. All of his conquests were instead most notable for their physical beauty. I had to conclude he was just a horndog who liked to bed attractive women, though undeniably he considered a wedding ring an additional appeal. Still, he was also some sort of conman. His moves were too smooth, too calculated.

It was hard to condemn the guy. A lot of men would act the same if they could pull it off. And he did seem to leave his women satisfied. As long as he focused on sensible women, he was right that they would just walk away with a pleasant memory, though maybe mixed in with a touch of guilt. Elsa and Claire knew enough to see him for what he was, a fun romp. For Kitten he was just a cock. But Janelle.... Young, naïve, sensuous Janelle. I wondered if Dale had ever given her an orgasm. Even if he had, Trent would turn her inside out and upside down.

It was a crazy thought to have while he was still, probably, screwing my own wife, but I made a vow that no matter what, I would protect Janelle from him. She and Dale might never know of my intervention, but I was determined.

My phone buzzed with an incoming text.

-- he's gone

I looked at my watch. It was almost midnight. He'd been in our room for almost ten hours, eight of them without me around. I shuddered to think what he had managed to talk her into doing in all that time.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

I went back to the room. It was like a scene out a movie, so much so that it almost seemed like they spent the whole time arranging it for effect rather than banging. The centerpiece was the bed. Claire lay face down across it, loosely covered in a sheet wrapped around her like a toga. The fitted sheets had been torn off in three of the four corners exposing much of the bare mattress beneath.

A lamp sat on the floor, its shade askew. The comforter and pillows had been piled on the floor. There was a bathrobe draped across the TV. The entire desk had been swept clean at one point, the phone, resort directory, and room service menu jammed together haphazardly against the wall. Speaking of room service, there was a silver tray in the corner of the room with remnants of a Pu Pu platter as well as the two bottles of champagne crisscrossed at the neck.

I approached Claire. Her hair was soaked almost as if she'd just come out of the shower, but I quickly realized it was just sweat. I shook her awake.

"Huh?"

"Are you okay?"

"Umm, yeah. Sleepy."

"Did he..." Did he fuck you in the ass? I trailed off before completing my thought.

She lifted herself up slightly. "I'll tell you everything tomorrow. Okay?"

I nodded. She collapsed back onto the bed. That seemed to have taken all her remaining strength because she immediately fell into a deep sleep.

I straightened up the room and remade the bed as best as I could without waking her. I couldn't resist looking under her sheet. I gently unrolled her, exposing her nakedness. I didn't really know what I was looking for. She'd been roughly handled, but not so much so that the evidence was obvious. Her butt cheeks were a little red and splotchy, and she did seem to have a hickey over her collarbone. But otherwise, there were few visible signs of her defilement, though I had no doubt he'd been quite thorough with my wife.

I curled up in the armchair and quickly nodded off. It had been another long day for me.

I awoke to the sight of Claire coming out of the shower, naked except for a towel wrapped around her head. Seeing me stirring, she walked over and crouched down beside me, putting her hand on my forearm.

"Are you okay, John?"

"Are you?"

"Me? Yes. But I'm not the one dealing with the emotions of my spouse spending the day with another man?"

"How can you be so sure? I was gone a long time."

She raised an eyebrow. "I didn't realize that was another one of your fantasies."

It took me a second to process her meaning. "No, not another man, another... never mind. Annabelle did offer to fuck me."

"She'd fuck anything that moves, that one."

"Gee thanks. As opposed to Trent who'll fuck anything with a wedding ring on?"

Claire nodded as if understanding something suddenly. “So you are mad.”

“I don’t think I really have a right to be. Not this time at least.”

“Well, we didn’t need to keep going after you left.”

“Well, there is that.”

She nodded. “This is a dangerous game. I’m not able to just shut it off.”

“No, I know. And frankly, that’s sort of what makes it hot. I like the idea of you being out of control.”

“So?”

“Well, but I don’t want to feel like I’m a second class citizen.”

She shook her head. “I don’t quite understand.”

“What did you do with him?”

“Nothing I haven’t or wouldn’t do with you.”

“Just tell me.”

She shrugged. “Lots of sucking and fucking. He likes to be dominant, so I spent a lot of time being held down, arms over my head, that kind of thing, bent over the desk. We had sex out on the balcony. We had bathrobes on, but anyone looking closely would know what was going on. Were you looking?”

I shook my head.

“I wish you had,” she said. Then after a pause she continued, “Shower sex. Lots of oral.” She blushed. “He tied me up with the bathrobe belt at one point.” She mimicked her hands bound behind her back. “I think I might be able to give Elsa a run for her money now.”

Oh God. I imagined Claire on her knees, hands behind her, off-balance, swallowing his fat tool, deeper, deeper until he was all the way inside her mouth, her lips stretched around his shaft, spit dripping off her chin. Did he pat her on the head for a job well-done? Reward her with a nice, sticky throatful of cum?

“What else?” I asked.

“I don’t know. What are you searching for?”

I sighed. I needed to come clean. “He told me he wanted to sodomize you.”

She laughed. “Oh God, did he ever. Kept asking, begging for it.”

“And, did you?”

“God no.”

I wasn’t sure I believed her. I didn’t believe that the sweaty, exhausted creature I’d seen last night would have had the willpower to resist his persistent demands.

“Okay,” I said, despite my doubts.

She looked up at me, rubbing her hands on my thighs. “So why didn’t you fuck Annabelle?”

I shrugged. “I don’t really know.”

“She’s pretty wild. I bet she’d have been up for just about anything.”

Why hadn’t I fucked her? I sort of knew why.

“Because you’d never forgive me if I did.”

She opened her mouth to reply, closed it, then opened it again. “I’d have no right to object.”

“No, but that’s not how it works, is it?”

“Don’t! Don’t John. Don’t call me a selfish bitch.”

“You’re not. You’re normal. I’m the fucked-up one.”

“No, Jesus, no John. You’re the most... the most fucking open-minded man I know. And, God, I love you for it.”

“Have you cheated on me before?”

“No,” she replied quickly.

I believed her, but there was more. “But you’ve thought about it?”

“What, John? You don’t fantasize about other women?”

I laughed. “Of course, I do. Poor Scarlet Johansson. If only she knew what I did to her in my dreams.”

“So? Why are you condemning me?”

I laughed. “I’m not. I just want you to admit it to me.”

She sneered at me. “And then, that’s it? I admit I’m a disgusting, horny slut who sometimes dreams about being fucked hard by big-cocked studs? And then what?”

She was still between my knees. “And then, I get hard, and you suck my cock, and then ride me until we both come?”

“And you hate me forever.”

“And I love you forever,” I replied, as she took me in her mouth.

We had a normal day. A full-blown normal, honeymoon day. After our morning sex, we went to the beach. We played in the waves. We snarked about the other guests. We had fish tacos at the beach restaurant.

I told Claire about overhearing the Lesbians. She laughed.

“He actually arranged another hook up while in bed with me? Well, actually we were on the floor when he got the text.”

That image flashed through my mind. The pile of pillows. He’d been doing her doggy style at the time. I wondered if he was actually still inside of her when he read the message, answered it. Why was it a turn on to think of another man using my wife so casually?

She was grinning at me, as if she could read my mind. She shook her head, obviously as puzzled by my behavior as I was.

“You’re not surprised, are you?”

She laughed. “No. Though, I have to admit, my pride is a little wounded. I’d like to think that when I’m with a man, I’m all he can think about.”

“You’re all I can think about, even when I’m not with you.”

“All?”

I nodded and then, after a pause, shook my head.

“I have a confession.”

“Oooh, goodie. Make it something juicy so I can assuage my guilt.”

I sighed. “Okay... so yesterday, when I threw you at Trent? I didn’t really want to watch.”

She shook her head. “No way, John. You were way into it.”

“Oh, yeah, definitely. Never would have thought I would. But yeah, I did totally get into ordering you two around. But that was a surprise to me, to tell the truth.”

“So?”

“Okay, so, remember the girl he was talking to?”

“Farm girl, right?”

“Well, I noticed her earlier.”

She gave me a queer look. “Notice? Or spied on?”

I shrugged in surrender.

“I saw her and her husband through their window. And then, weirdly, I ran into him in one of the bars and we got to talking.”

She laughed. “And what, you two bonded over wife-watching fantasies?”

“No, no, nothing like that. He’s an innocent. She is, too. I guess. I don’t really know, but anyway, I couldn’t bear the thought of Trent seducing her.”

She looked at me wide-eyed. “You had me fuck him because you didn’t want him fucking her?”

“Something like that.”

“Wow, fuck John, that’s... that’s weird. I mean, I can sort of respect a voyeur fantasy, but that sounds a little, I dunno, stalkerish. What’s her name?”

“Janelle.”

Her eyes got even wider. “Whoa, how do you know that?”

“I told you, I spoke to her hubby. He was, like, looking for advice, I guess.”

She laughed. “You didn’t mention to him that your own wife was cheating on you, I guess.”

“Annabelle said the same thing.”

“Abs? When did you...? Oh never mind. See, and here I was thinking I’d had an eventful trip, but you have a whole other life going on.”

“Look, he and Janelle are like, I dunno, high school sweethearts. They’re just trying to figure out how to be together, and I didn’t think it was fair for Trent to get between them. We could, I guess, I knew we’d survive it. They wouldn’t have.”

“That’s... that’s weird, John. It’s weird.” She paused. “And sweet I guess. And weird. So now what, fairy godmother?”

“Don’t call me that.”

“Guardian angel?”

“Yes, much better. What do you mean, now what?”

“Well, so, John, first of all, you still haven’t told me the whole story. And second, Guardian Angel, you haven’t told me why you told me?”

Why had I told her? Was I just coming clean? Or....

“I don’t really know.”

“You don’t, or you don’t want to say?”

“It’s not that easy. If I’d asked you if you wanted to fuck Trent at the luau what would you have said?”

“I would have said no.”

“But you’d have –“

“Thought yes. Okay, so is that it? You don’t want Trent to be with her because you want to be with her instead?”

Oh God, I did want to be with her, so much. Ever since I’d first seen her amazing, libidinous body, seen Dale’s inability to appreciate or even understand what he had, I’d wanted her.

“I’d like to think that what I really want is to, I dunno, teach her about sex.”

“Trent could have done that,” she answered. Better than you is what I also heard.

“Yes, but not in a good way. He breaks women. Humiliates men. That’s his thing. Fucking for him is about power. They couldn’t handle it. Neither one of them.”

“He’s not that bad.”

I shook my head. “Oh, I don’t doubt he’s a fun fling. But don’t you think he’d be bad for a nineteen-year-old farm girl experiencing sex for the first time?”

She started to protest, then paused. “If he’d been my first, I’d still be pining over him, I guess. Okay, so he’d be bad for her. But you’d be good?”

She saw the look in my eyes. “That came out wrong,” she added, quickly. “I am sure you’d be good. I meant, would you be good for her?”

Did I even care? I wasn’t sure. Would I be worried about her and Dale and their future if I was balls deep in her tight, little cunt, sucking on those fat, meaty tits? No, not at the time, but yes definitely later. I began speaking before my thoughts were even fully formed.

“Maybe, if... if we... I mean, you and I... It could be sort of fun... I mean, you know, like teaching them.”

She laughed. “Oh God, John, that is a wicked thought. You think what they really need is an introduction to wife-swapping?”

Her eyes were bright, her mouth twisted into a jaunty smile. Was she challenging me to disavow my suggestion? Or was she signaling her interest in it?

“Did you push me into having sex with Trent so you could drop this on me?”

I laughed. “Pushed you? I’m not sure I could have held you back if I’d tried.”

“But you didn’t.”

“No.”

“And you did put the idea in my head. I would never...”

“Yeah, yeah, it had never occurred to you how much fun it might be to fuck his brains out until I teased you about.”

She put her hands up. “I would have thought about it... but I would never have done it.”

“Fine, but I was pushing on an open door.”

“Granted.”

“You didn’t answer me. Do you think you let it happen because you wanted to engineer this conversation?”

“I would never have been able to plan this far ahead.”

“And yet, here we are, aren’t we Mr. Rivers? After what I’ve done with Trent, I’m in no position to deny you any fantasy you might have.”

Any fantasy. That surely removed any ambiguity. She owed me. What did I want to cash it in on?

I pictured her on her hands and knees, my cock sliding into her tiny, tight asshole. I pictured her with Annabelle, licking and sucking each other, as I debated which hole I wanted to explore first. Did I really want to cash my check on Dale and Janelle?

“It’s what I want.”

She gave me a saucy look. “Who knew that trading that engagement ring for a wedding ring would bring out your kinky side?”

“Do you like it?”

She regarded me thoughtfully. “I don’t know yet. Let’s assume that what happens in Hawaii stays in Hawaii. So what do we do next?”

I knew that Trent was tied up tonight. Or more accurately, Kitten was the one likely to be tied up. I wondered what Betty would really think about it when she actually saw the way he manhandled her wife. Would she deal with the reality as well as she did with the idea of it? But Trent’s commitment was my opportunity.

“No lies,” I said to Claire. “We play it straight with them. If they’re interested, we’re interested.”

She shrugged. “Just like that? We walk up to them and ask them to fuck?”

“No. Honesty doesn’t need to imply crudeness.”

Claire laughed. “But we are asking them to fuck, right?”

“Yes, but we can be a little indirect about it.”

She laughed. “Okay, tell me what to do.”

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

We walked around the resort until we spotted them. It took a while, but unless they'd ordered in, I knew we'd spot them sooner or later. They were at the same Polynesian restaurant I'd gone to the night before.

The plan was simple. I would take Dale away for some man-to-man talk, and Claire would approach his wife. As troubled as he was about their sex life, I had a feeling that Janelle would be feeling equally anxious and frustrated, and eager for a woman in whom to confide.

I just needed to keep Dale busy long enough for them to form a connection. We didn't need to close the deal tonight.

I approached their table.

"Hey, buddy," I said to Dale. I turned toward Janelle. "Your husband is a great guy. Can I borrow him for a few minutes to trade some fishin' stories? I'll bring him right back."

I didn't really give her a chance to protest. I took him by the arm and led him over to the bar. Claire smoothly filled his spot.

"Those boys and their fishing," Claire said with a world-weary aside. "Mind if I sit with you until they get back?"

Janelle forced a smile and invited Claire to sit.

I dragged Dale to the bar. "What are you drinking?"

He hesitated and I ordered two Bourbons.

"I don't really drink," he said. "And what about fishing?"

"You'll like this," I insisted.

He regarded the golden liquid skeptically, but then lifted it to his lips. I laughed to myself. If I could talk him into some booze, it boded well for talking him into anything else.

"So how's it going with Janelle?"

He sighed. "I dunno, mister. It's like, well, you know, I feel like I am disappointing her somehow. I asked her about it, but she says it's all fine. But I dunno. Woman are moody, so maybe it's just that."

"Dale? Can I ask you a question?"

He eyed me anxiously. "Well, I dunno, mister. This isn't like one of those..." he trailed off.

I laughed. "No. I am not hitting on you, though you're right to be careful. I'm just looking to help out. It's a shame women don't come with an owner's manual. Hard to figure out how they work, isn't it?"

He nodded. "I'll say. I mean, my big brother gave me some advice, but..."

"I can imagine." Stick it in her pooper! "Nothing that really seems to make sense to you when you two are together, right?"

He nodded.

"Dale? Do you think you've ever given Janelle an orgasm?"

He shook his head, "Mister, that is awfully personal."

I gave him a validating head nod. "I know it is. But it's important, you know?"

"I think so. I mean, she says she likes it."

So, no then.

"You know, it's not your fault if you didn't. You're young, she's young. You're both still trying to figure out how all the parts work. Thing is, though, you want to get it right early on. Sort of sets the tone for the whole relationship, at least the bedroom part of it."

He looked at me glumly.

"Don't worry. I'm just telling you to take it easy. Trust your instincts, and if you want we can talk about it tomorrow."

He looked at me gratefully. “Thank you mister. Everyone here has been so nice. You. That British man.”

“Just between you and me? I think that guy might be a queer. Not that there is anything wrong with that,” I added in a tone I hoped he’d interpret as precisely the opposite. I didn’t want him reflecting too much on that though, so I added, “You know, it might help if Janelle talked to my wife a little, too. You know, girl talk.”

He nodded. “That might help. She’s got three brothers, so it’s not like she really has anyone to talk to.”

“Tell you what, you guys have a great evening, and then, how about the four of us meet down at the lagoon pool tomorrow for like a late breakfast?”

“Sounds great, mister...”

“Call me John, please.”

“Thank you... John. I appreciate your help.”

I recovered Claire and we bade them farewell after reconfirming our brunch plans.

“So what did you think of her?” I asked.

“Pretty face. Definitely a corn-fed Midwestern girl. I didn’t realize that was your type.”

“I didn’t realize limey cocksmen were your type.”

“Oh, those are every girl’s type,” she assured me.

“Well, same with innocent farmer’s daughters.... She is innocent?” I asked, hopefully.

Claire nodded. “Pure as the driven snow and probably about as bright.”

“Well, she and Dale are well matched then. Wonder how they can afford it here.”

“Oh, her daddy owns like a billion acres. Produces high fructose corn syrup for Coke. Dale works for dad too.”

“Lottery winner.”

“I’m still not sure what you see in her.”

“Just trust me.”

She shrugged. “I didn’t get much out of her, but you’re right, all is not well in paradise. She was definitely a little wistful. We’re so far from home. It’s so weird being married. When she heard we’d waited seven years, she managed to be both judgmental about it and jealous. I can definitely see what Trent – and I guess you – saw in her.”

“A young couple in need of some coaching.”

Claire laughed. “An innocent to be corrupted. You know we’re going to hell if we go through with this.”

“No, we’re not. We’re doing them a favor. Just like you were fulfilling my fantasy when you fucked Trent on the beach.”

“Okay, you win. But you have to agree to campfire rules. We leave them in better shape than we found them.”

“I wouldn’t have it any other way.”

We grabbed a quick dinner and a couple of drinks and then strolled around the resort again.

“Still early, what should we do now?” I asked.

“Well, we are on our honeymoon. We probably should be going back to our room and fool around.” She paused. “But I’m guessing you have something else in mind.”

I shrugged. “Not really.”

She grinned. “We could check out what Abs is up to? She’s always good for a laugh.”

I stared at her in surprise. Was she really offering to hook up with Annabelle? I could have sworn I’d have had to twist her arm to get her to even consider it. Or was she just testing me to see whether I was regretting having passed on sex with Abs?

“What are you thinking?” she asked.

I wasn’t sure what to make of her suggestion about Annabelle, so I punted.

“Well, it’d be pretty hot to see Trent and those lesbos.”

Claire rolled her eyes. “You’re gay for him, aren’t you? You can admit it.”

I laughed. “What? Just because I like watching him fuck?”

“You’re crazy.”

“I know. But just, I dunno, humor me. Where’s his suite?”

“Ocean front, but you don’t know that’s where they went.”

“Even if they’re there, you probably couldn’t see in.”

I remembered that Trent had taken Claire out onto the balcony. In a weird way, I knew he’d find a way to show off if possible.

“Come on, it’ll be an adventure.”

We went back to our hotel room and recovered my binoculars. Trent’s suite was on the third floor, which meant there was no way to see in from the main part of the hotel. From the beach, though, we could see the light on in the room, the balcony door open. I imagined I could hear his posh accent and Kitten with her California girl giggle.

I spun around and spotted a palm tree, tall, but leaning lazily away from the shore, the same palm tree against which Abs had gotten screwed the night of the luau. I pointed it out to Claire. She gave me a you can't be serious look. I playfully shoved her in that direction.

There is a very small window of opportunity for this sort of caper. Climbing up a tree to spy on a gigolo screwing a lesbian requires you to be at least a little drunk. Climbing a palm tree without breaking your neck requires a modicum of sobriety. Somehow, we'd calibrated it just right.

Palm trees are not as easy to climb as they look, but this one was leaning pretty good, and that rock-climbing class we'd taken when we first started dating came in handy.

Our perch was precarious and prone to shift when the ocean breeze kicked up. But it was also surprisingly effective for looking into his room. He had all the lights on, or maybe Betty was behind it, and the windows were open. Claire and I passed the binoculars back and forth.

For a while the three of them sat on the beds, talking awkwardly, draining a bottle of champagne and then opening another. Betty was in white slacks and a pink Hawaiian shirt, Kelly in a clingy, blue-and-white flowered sundress, and Trent in khakis and a black, silk shirt. I saw Betty rise and plug her iPhone into the stereo, and despite the distance and the wind, we could hear a thumping beat coming from the room.

Betty took Kelly by the hand and pulled her to her feet. The younger woman was a little shaky, either with nerves or booze, but she easily melted into her taller lover's arms. The two danced slowly, like practiced lovers, used to each other's body and moves. Betty turned them perpendicular to Trent and kissed Kelly. Slow, tender, passionate kisses.

Claire sighed softly.

"Pretty hot, huh?" I asked.

"You should have tried to set me up with them instead of Annabelle," she joked back, though I sensed an undercurrent of truth there as well.

Then Betty signaled over to Trent. He rose and moved behind Kelly, sandwiching the smaller blonde between her two, older, more powerful dark-haired lovers. Trent ran his hands up and down Kelly's body, his fingers massaging her thighs, tentatively tugging at the hem of her dress. Betty continued to stoke Kitten's excitement, her hands between them, gently circling her erect nipples. Trent leaned forward and nibbled on the blonde's neck.

Kelly was focused fully on Betty, and yet her body couldn't help but respond to the strong man behind her. I could see her hips beginning to sway, pressing back against Trent and then jolting away as if scalded by the contact. Betty was speaking to her lover now, caressing her cheek. Kelly nodded quickly, uncertainly.

Betty dropped to her knees and reached under her wife's dress. She was smiling wickedly as she pulled down Kelly's little, white panties and handed them to a grinning Trent. Then Betty disappeared beneath her wife's dress. Kelly threw back her head in passion, and Trent attacked her throat with his tongue, then twisted her head toward him until he was kissing her passionately. Kelly's body was twitching and bucking as Betty expertly worked her pussy. Trent's hands cupped the blonde's breasts, squeezing them firmly.

Claire squirmed excitedly and I wrapped an arm around her to keep her from falling.

"Easy there," I warned.

"Hold me," she replied softly.

I grabbed her around the waist, gently caressing her belly. She swayed gently almost in time with Kelly. Was she imagining being eaten out by Betty? Or fantasizing about what Trent was getting ready to do?

After a few minutes, Betty reappeared, grinning broadly, her face visibly glistening even from where we were. The women kissed wetly, sloppily. Then Betty sat on the bed, pulling Kelly closer until the younger woman stood right in of her. Betty said something, and Kitten glanced behind her apprehensively, watching as Trent reached down and slowly lifted up her dress. He pressed down on her lower back, bending her at the waist.

Betty reached out and took her wife's face in her hands and pulled her closer, kissing her again. The blonde wrapped her arms around the statuesque brunette's neck. They kissed fervidly as Trent undid his pants and stepped in close. He entered Kelly in one slow, gentle thrust.

Claire had had the binoculars when he entered her and now she turned to me, her face aglow.

"Get me out of this tree right now, mister, or I'm going to march over and join them."

It speaks to how weird things had gotten that my gaze shifted several times between my wife's heaving bosom and the binoculars before I decided to climb down and return to our bedroom.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

I looked around the bedroom. We hadn't managed to wreck it as thoroughly as had Claire and Trent, but we'd done a respectable job. The armchair was out of place where I had bent her over and fucked her as we stared out at the resort lit and spread out before us. And there were wet towels all over the bathroom soaking up the water we'd splashed all over while screwing in the tub. And of course, there was Claire, in bed naked, her shoulders and ankles visible.

Now this was a honeymoon. It's what we should have been doing ever since we'd arrived, and would have, had illness, and then fantasies, not intervened. But the reality was, as good as last night had been, it had been made that much better by the events of the day, the teasing and taunting over Trent, the game with Dale and Janelle, and of course, the memory of Trent and the two lesbians. In between our own sessions we'd imagined the rest of their evening, and then speculated about Abs, and dished about Elsa, and even giggled about seducing Dale and Janelle.

I sat down beside my wife. She rolled over to face me, sexily wrapped in the sheet.

"Hey baby, how are you doing this morning?"

She smiled. "Happy."

"I can't believe we climbed a tree to spy on..."

She laughed. "I can't believe what we're going to do today."

Having been well laid finally, I'd have probably backed down if Claire had been reluctant. But given time to think about, she'd become actually more enthusiastic. I had discovered a dangerous dynamic. My fantasies were like a seed that once planted seemed to grow within her, until she was more enthusiastic about them than even I was.

I had mentioned her and Trent, and she took it and ran with it. I said that seeing her and Abs together would turn me on, and three days later she was still thinking about it. And now with Dale and Janelle, her interest seemed equal to my own.

“So I’ve been thinking about this,” she began. “Janelle is the key. If she’s not into it, she’ll freak.”

“What about Dale?”

“He’s a man. If I get him alone, he’ll go along.”

“You’re very confident in your powers of seduction.”

She laughed. “I told you, he’s a man.”

“I turned down Annabelle,” I replied, suddenly feeling the need to defend my gender.

She peeled off her sheet and lay there perfectly naked. My eyes had a mind of their own as I took her in, her pert, beautiful breasts, her long legs, the incredible sexiness of her shaved pussy.

“That’s because she wasn’t naked at the time. Your telling me that if she got naked, with those big tits and the rest, and begged to suck your cock, you’d have turned her down?”

“I might have,” I said dry-mouthed.

She rolled her eyes.

“Is that your plan with young Dale?”

I imagined her stripping for him, running her tongue over his pasty, sunburned body, sucking his cock into her mouth. I recoiled until I thought of Janelle and her big, natural boobs, those half-lidded, sleepy, blue eyes, that bubble butt...

“Something like that, but the key is Janelle.”

“So tell me the plan,” I asked.

“I need time alone with her.”

“Why?”

“Well, honey, first I need to let her know how amazing sex can be. Then I need to convince her she deserves better than whatever Dale’s been giving her. Then I need to talk her into letting me give Dale a few lessons while you two watch.”

“Watch?”

She sighed. “I can’t do everything. You’ll need to close the deal on that end.”

I nodded. She was right. Janelle and I clustered together, watching Claire and Dale making love. If I couldn’t pull it off, I didn’t deserve it.

“You have a better idea?” she asked.

“I don’t know. I guess, I’d been thinking more of a straight swing kind of thing.”

She scrunched up her nose. “Sketchy.”

I laughed. “Oh, and this isn’t?”

“Yeah, it sure is, but it is camouflaged. Think about it. If we just drop it on them, even after drinks, ‘hey guys, wanna swing?’ we’ll come off as creeps. You can’t expect them, where they’re from, to buy into that. But they’re both inexperienced and scared, and this is just a little helpful intervention. I’ll make sure she knows I am making a sacrifice in seducing her husband.”

“Well, you are... aren’t you?”

She nodded. “He’s not really my type.”

“I’m not actually sure I know what is your type anymore.”

“Do you want to do this or not?” she asked.

I do, but it scares me. “Of course.”

She smiled and glanced at her watch.

“Okay, show time.”

We met up with them and had brunch. They seemed apprehensive, but we carefully steered away from sex and they seemed to relax, especially after the second round of Mimosas.

Claire and I had discussed ways to get her time with Janelle. Finally, we settled on golf, as in, I would invite him to play a round on one of the resort's courses. He'd never golfed before and neither had I. Luckily they had a beginner's course that was virtually empty. It still took up three hours to play nine.

I knew I had to soften him up at least a little. I started off with some misdirection.

"You and Janelle are so lucky you met so young."

He smiled his goofy smile. "Yeah, it was just dumb luck. I was a year ahead in school, so I knew her. I got a job with her dad and he introduced us."

"That's great. Did you have any girlfriends before her?"

He shook his head. "Yeah, sorta," he replied in a way that spoke volumes about the fleeting nature of his past experience.

"And Janelle?"

He blushed. "I think I'm her first real boyfriend."

Considering that they came from some small town, it seemed unlikely she could be hiding a past.

I laughed. "The opposite of me and Claire."

"Oh, did she date a lot before..."

He trailed off realizing he was stepping into a potential minefield.

I shrugged. "Pretty girl like her? Yeah, I'm sure."

"Does that bother you?"

I tried to avoid smiling like a creepy uncle, though I know I failed. “Naw. A little experience is a good thing.” I let it sink in just a second. “But like I say, you two are so lucky to have fallen in love so young. Just the two of you, forever.”

I saw his face fall, like a dog realizing suddenly there won’t be any more treats before bedtime.

By the time we got back to the girls, it was late afternoon. They were both into the fruity drinks, now, Janelle’s face reddening with sun and alcohol. She was in a bikini, a conservatively cut one, but still, her full breasts and generous cleavage were on display.

Claire didn’t mention it, but I noticed her lead my eyes in that direction and the wicked smile that followed after. I think in a weird way she was actually relieved to see that my interests were purely prurient rather than motivated by any real, weird sense of wanting to tutor these two in the art of marriage.

We all dived into the pool for a while and swam, and then retreated to a shaded table at the restaurant. The wet fabric of Janelle’s top sagged under her impressive endowments. I readjusted myself to hide my growing erection.

Claire had primed the pump well. Janelle was regarding her admiringly. Every sarcastic jibe got an enthusiastic response. Claire had become the big sister Janelle had never had.

We had another round of drinks and then some appetizers. The sky began to darken.

And then suddenly it happened. Claire looked at me with sparkling eyes.

“Janelle told me they have an ocean view,” Claire said.

Big deal. You spent the night getting plugged in Trent’s room with an ocean view. But then I noticed Janelle’s expression. She’d been expecting this. I wasn’t sure what my role was.

“Yeah, um hmm,” I muttered.

“Could I see it?” Claire asked, enthusiastically.

Janelle looked over at her husband. “Would you mind showing Claire our room? You can pick up my wrap while you’re there.” She mimed being chilled.

He nodded. “Sure.”

As they walked away, Janelle suddenly reached out and took my hand.

“Come onnn.”

She dragged me out of the restaurant. I noticed that Claire and Dale were looping out toward the beach, which meant if Janelle and I cut through the hotel lobby we could beat them to the room.

“You sure you’re okay with this?” Janelle asked me as we got into the elevator.

I was still flying blind. “Of course. I trust Claire completely.”

Janelle smiled. “Now that is true love,” she replied.

We scurried into their room and Janelle hustled me out onto the balcony. The door was cracked open. Night had fallen and with the lights bright in the room, we were pretty invisible out there. She had us huddle together on the edge of the balcony, just in case.

I watched as a moment later, Claire and Dale entered the room. I realized the fatal flaw in our plan. If he was there to show her the view, they would need to go out on the balcony, and if they went out there, they would see us. But I hadn’t given my wife enough credit.

The moment they entered, she stopped short. He turned to look at her. She didn't hesitate. With quick, precise movements, she stripped naked. He seemed torn between a desire to attack her and to flee. It left him standing still, twitching jerkily.

"What are you doing?" he asked, incredulous.

Janelle giggled at her husband's nervousness and edged closer to the patio door.

Claire just smiled at him and approached.

I moved closer to Janelle, the two of us now peering through the glass, our bodies not quite touching, but close enough for me to feel the heat rising off her.

"Your wife has such beautiful breasts," she sighed.

"So do you," I replied. Fuck. Too much?

She didn't bridle. "I hate mine," she groaned. "Big cow udders."

Claire was now toe-to-toe with Dale, her arms over his shoulder. He seemed rooted to the spot.

I couldn't help myself. I reached around and placed my hands on her hips, then followed the curves up toward her breasts. She didn't push me away. Instead, her body seemed to soften against me. I cupped her tits through her bikini top.

"They're perfect," I sighed in her ears.

At the same time, Claire dropped to her knees before Dale. Dale stiffened, but the protest never came.

"Is she going to?" Janelle asked, her voice catching.

"Yes. Haven't you done that?"

Janelle sighed. "It's wrong. We were told..."

"It's not wrong," I insisted as I slid my hands under the cups, feeling her firm breast flesh in my hands.

Dale's shorts dropped to the floor and I saw my wife swallow his long, skinny cock into her mouth.

I gently mauled Janelle's tits, relishing their heft. Her areola were as big as I expected, raised silver dollars, with big, puffy nipples that swelled but never quite stiffened.

My wife bobbed up and down on Dale's cock.

"Does he... do you expect me to do that?" she asked, her tone almost seeming to crave precisely that.

"It feels good," I replied.

As if to punctuate the point, Dale shuddered suddenly. Claire held him tight, her hands on his ass, swallowing his cum.

"Did she just?" Janelle asked with a moan.

I laughed. "Looks that way."

Janelle sighed. "And that's it, then."

"Watch," I replied, delighting in the feel of her nipples sliding between my fingertips.

Claire went from submissive to dominant in a flash. Wiping his cum from her lips, she stood and pushed him back onto the bed. He fell backwards, awkwardly, and Claire kept coming, first straddling his waist, and then crawling up until her little, shaved twat was right in his face.

I could see him shake his head in protest, but my wife just grabbed a big handful of his hair and pulled his face toward her pussy. Janelle gasped in shock as my wife mounted her husband's face and then groaned as she realized what Claire was forcing him to do.

I slid my own hand into her shorts.

"No," she sighed. But she didn't try to stay my hand.

I trailed my fingers over her abdomen and down through her downy muff. My finger found her wet slit and she cried out in passion. She was drenched and her clit was swollen. She could barely tolerate even the slightest touch.

Back in the room, Dale had surrendered to my wife's assault. He was lying back, apparently servicing her effectively given the way she was seductively writhing atop his face,

"Does he do that to you?" I asked.

"No," she moaned. "But he will."

I worked my finger up and down her wet snatch, gently, teasing her labia, avoiding her clit. She ground back into me, her ass round and hard.

"God this is amazing," she groaned.

Just wait. I slowly circled her clit, cautiously narrowing in on the swollen nub. Claire rose and fell on Dale's face, her nipples erect and dark red. I found Janelle's clit and trailed my finger over it lightly. Janelle shuddered. Again. She moaned, thrusting back against me.

"Please, more," she begged.

This was the moment where Trent would have broken her. She was completely in my power. I could have had her renounce her husband, pledge her allegiance to me, make her agree to let me use her however I pleased.

I circled my fingers over her clit, over and over, harder and harder. And then she shuddered, a deep, body-shaking explosion.

"Oh my God, I love you," she sighed.

I withdrew my fingers. "No, you don't. You love that man there," I replied.

Claire was writhing on Dale's face, his cock again rigid.

"What we just did," I moaned in her ear, "has nothing to do with love. But it is fun, isn't it?"

She looked back at me in surprise. Or maybe she was just surprised by the look on my own face. She nodded as if I'd said something profound.

"I need you," I grunted.

She nodded, a little anxiously. "I don't know how..."

To please me? "Don't worry."

I freed my cock from my shorts and slide aside her bikini bottom. I didn't even need to aim, it was like we were aligned. My cock slid into her tight, little pussy easily.

"Oh God," she and I both moaned simultaneously.

In the bedroom, Claire had swung off Dale's face and settled down on his cock. She rode him slowly, even as I fucked his wife. I grabbed her tits and squeezed them more aggressively as I progressively increased the speed and power of my thrusts.

Janelle was moaning loudly, so loudly that only Claire's equally loud moans drowned it out. Then suddenly Dale shuddered, coming again inside my wife.

Janelle sighed in frustration for Claire, for herself. I chuckled. "Don't worry, that'll get better."

She looked back at me as I continued to churn inside her.

"Until it does," I added, "make sure you get yours first."

She laughed, a delightful, deep, throaty laugh. I had the feeling that I could spend a month with her and not even explore a tenth of her sexuality.

Claire had rolled off Dale and then, suddenly, I realized they were looking at us. Dale's eyes went wide. I saw panic, then anger, then... Claire was stroking his slimy cock... then acceptance.

"Let's go inside," I said.

I withdrew my cock from Janelle's slippery channel and we stepped into the room hand-in-hand. I could see Dale thinking he needed to protest, but he'd already come twice. He didn't have a lot of fight left. And anyway, it was obvious he was very much enjoying my wife's hand on his wet prick.

Once inside, I stripped Janelle naked. God, she was amazing. I reflected ruefully on the fact that she'd have trouble keeping her body in shape. A couple of kids, a few years, and well, she'd be envying my own wife's svelte figure, but for now she was just a luscious, sensuous goddess.

I pressed her back onto the bed so that she was lying right beside her husband. She spread her legs for me and I accepted the invitation and buried myself inside her. I fucked her hard and then harder.

Claire was teasing Dale, all the while stroking his cock. "Your wife likes a good fucking. Maybe you'll eat that sweet pussy a little more often."

Dale was lost in submissive mode. "Yes, ma'am," he sighed.

His cock was stiffening, though, as was his backbone. After a few minutes, he stopped agreeing with Claire. Instead, he rolled her over onto her back and climbed between her widely spread legs.

We were side-by-side on the bed, Dale fucking my wife, me fucking his. I rammed Janelle harder. He followed suit with Claire. Claire looked up at me, her eyes wicked and playful. She reached over and yanked Janelle's head closer and then the girls kissed, deep, wet, sloppy kisses in time with the fucking they were both taking.

I couldn't believe what I was seeing. As amazing as it was being inside Janelle, seeing her and my wife kissing was mind-blowing. Even more stunning was that Claire had initiated it, and that she clearly liked it.

I had no intention of letting Dale win, but Claire loaded the dice. As I looked over, she slid a finger between his clenching butt cheeks. As she pressed her finger into his ass, he looked up helplessly and growled as he dropped a third load into my wife.

I thrust harder. Janelle's legs rose into the air as she opened herself wider for me. I plunged into her over and over, my balls slapping at her asshole. She gasped and grabbed my ass, pulling me deeper into her. Claire looked up at me, a lewd look in her eyes as she licked a drop of sweat from Janelle's cheek.

I gasped and came hard, coming what felt like a gallon of jism into her cunt. I felt weak, completely spent. I rolled over onto my back. We lay there for a moment, the four of us, all on our backs, the women in the middle, the men flanking them.

Claire and I peeked at each other. She seemed to be contemplating something. I wondered, hoped... She seemed to read my mind. She gave me a saucy smile. Then Claire turned toward Janelle.

"Hey doll," my wife began, "seems like you have something of mine."

Janelle took a second to respond. "You have something of mine."

"Why don't you come and get it," Claire taunted.

Janelle smiled lewdly and I watched surprised as she rose, spun around and mounted my wife. I looked over at Dale. He was in shock as his sweet, little, innocent wife lowered her come filled pussy onto my wife's mouth even as she buried her own face in Claire's gooey twat. I couldn't see what was going on at that end, but Claire's moans and the loud, lapping sounds made it clear that Janelle was aggressively sucking my wife's pussy. At the other end, gravity was working its inexorable effects as my come dripped from Janelle's cunt into my wife's eager mouth.

Dale might have had a decade on me, but I still responded faster. I didn't even realize how hard I was until I looked down to see my fist pumping up and down my rigid shaft. I rose up and positioned myself above my wife's face, behind Janelle's ass. I hammered into her, deep and hard. She threw her head back and I used the opportunity to grab a thick handful of her hair. I felt Claire's tongue tickling my balls, her hands on my ass urging me on.

I was no longer John, faithful husband, or John, disgruntled cuckold, or John, frustrated voyeur, or even John, mentor to Dale and Janelle. No, I was a fucking God, banging the shit out of one gorgeous slut while another one licked my scrotum. I looked over at Dale, who was gazing at me in respect, admiring my divinity as I pounded his wife. I looked down at my cock spearing that sweet, little cunt, delighted in the sight of Janelle's rosebud puckering with each thrust.

Then suddenly I came, so hard it left me lightheaded and giggling. I fell forward, flattening Janelle onto Claire, until my wife, laughing, cried out, "get off me, you idiots."

We disentangled slowly. Claire and I ended up on one side of the bed, Janelle and Dale on the other. They looked back at us, shell-shocked. I looked over at my wife, who was barely able to suppress her giggles.

"Maybe we should get out of here," she suggested.

I nodded. We dressed a bit awkwardly, then turned to face our hosts. Claire gave Janelle a big hug and whispered something in her ear. Janelle nodded in agreement. I followed and gave her a passionate kiss, cupping her breast as I did, my eyes on Dale the whole time. Then I approached him, seizing his hand in mine.

"Treat her right, or some asshole is going to take her right from under you," I warned.

There was anger in his eyes. He glared at his wife. I squeezed his hand until he returned his gaze to me.

"Someone is going to make her come. It doesn't have to be you alone, but it does have to be you to make it work. And you can do it. You made my wife very happy."

He looked over at Claire who gave him a saucy smile. So it wasn't exactly the truth, but it was close enough. He just needed to try a little harder.

When we got back to the room, we were too tired to fool around. Instead, we just snuggled together.

"You realize this is our last night?" Claire asked.

I hadn't actually. I'd lost track of the days.

"That sucks. Back to the grind."

"Back to not having sex with other people."

"I can live with that," I replied. "Can you?"

She hesitated a half-beat too long, and then said, "Of course, what happens in Hawaii stays in Hawaii."

Except when it doesn't.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

I have been writing erotica for many years. I began publishing my work online at Literotica.com under the username Misterstan back in 2011. Those stories are a mixed-bag. Some were written more than twenty years ago and are, frankly, immature in both conception and execution. Still some of those stories are pretty entertaining.

Reader feedback is what keeps me going. Please feel free to contact me at ben.boswell.author@gmail.com or visit my blog at benboswell.blogspot.com. You can follow me on Twitter @BenBoswellAut.

I have written two other pieces longer-form fictions.

Two Sides of Terri

Bill has just about the perfect life. Good paying job. Lovely home. Perfect children. And most of all, he has his wife Terri--smart, funny, great with the kids. Thing is, she's a good girl trapped in a bad girl's body. Blonde, busty, and devastatingly beautiful, she makes him want to do dirty things--things you don't admit to wanting from the girl-next-door.

Or so he thought.

It starts with a revelation about Chucky, a past boyfriend, and everything he thought he knew about his sweet wife unravels. He becomes obsessed with learning more about this other side of Terri--and everything he learns points back to Chucky, a man she couldn't say no to. Does he dare invite her past back into their present? And if he did, would she now be able to say no?

Available at Amazon: <http://www.amazon.com/Two-Sides-Terri-Ben-Boswell-ebook/dp/B00HSCMZTW>

Whatever it Takes

Daniel and Kris are as white bread as they come. Together since junior high, they have two kids, a house in the suburbs, and no excitements in their lives. Things change when Kris' little sister Jessi moves in. Jessi is everything Kris isn't, reckless, promiscuous, and mixed up with very bad people. As their two orbits intersect, Daniel and Kris get dragged into Jessi's world of drug dealers, strip clubs, and prostitution. Can they survive the dangers? And even if they do, will their marriage?

Fueled by their love for each other, and drawing on a strength and resourcefulness they never realized they had, Daniel and Kris are desperate to recover their old lives. To do so, they will do whatever it takes!

Available at Amazon: <http://www.amazon.com/Whatever-It-Takes-Ben-Boswell-ebook/dp/B00KABTO42>

The Surrogate Master (COMING SOON!)

Would you trust a stranger you met online to repair your marriage? Would you be comfortable with him knowing your wife's most intimate secrets? Would you be willing to let him come into your home, your bedroom?

When his wife Rachel returns to work after being a stay-at-home mom for five years, Max knows they will have to make some adjustments. What he hasn't counted on is Jack, Rachel's new boss. Handsome, aggressive, and domineering, Jack awakens some long dormant desires within Rachel.

As Max watches, helpless, the transformation in his wife, he has to deal with his own insecurities and fears. As their marriage faces its ultimate challenge, both Rachel and Max have to confront their pasts, their fears, and their fantasies... but they aren't alone.

They meet a stranger online, a man who has an uncanny ability to see both Max and Rachel for who they really are. Tommy offers to help. But what is his game? Is he just an unconventional marriage therapist? Or does he represent an even greater danger than Jack?

For more information on The Surrogate Master and other projects, visit <http://benboswell.blogspot.com/>