

QUICK FLICKS

Volume One

Delores Swallows

Quick Flicks Volume One

A Collection of Short Stories

by Delores Swallows

Delores Swallows Publications

Web | Twitter | Amazon

Sign up for FREE stories and MORE from Delores Swallows

Join Delores' Mailing List

This book is a work of fiction. Names, characters, places, and incidents either are products of the author's imagination or are used fictitiously. Any resemblance to actual events or locales or persons, living or dead, is entirely coincidental.

First Edition: Copyright © 2018 Delores Swallows

Second Edition: Copyright © 2020 Delores Swallows

Kindle Edition, License Notes

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced in any form or by any electronic or mechanical means—except in the case of brief quotations embodied in articles or reviews—without written permission from its publisher.

Content Advisory: This book is intended for mature audiences and contains explicit sexual activity.

Quick Flicks (Volume One)

A compilation of sexy shorts involving loving couples, ex-partners, flirtatious colleagues, ex-lovers, dream nurses, wife-sharers, and paid escorts.

A girl gets her own back on a boyfriend who obviously doesn't care about her feelings, while a guy is too ashamed to admit what goes on in his mind while he's making love with his wife one Sunday morning.

Another man enjoys a welcome interruption from doing the gardening until his wife reveals what inspired her actions, and you wouldn't believe how a frequent traveller with a dirty mind passes his time in airports.

Ex-lovers meet after 25 years and somehow manage to keep their hands off each other, and a husband frets about what to get his wife for her birthday after she'd arranged the ultimate gift for him. And the care somebody gets in hospital seems just too good to be true.

This collection contains couples in all types of relationships. Read about their actions—from naughty thoughts to dirty deeds. From closed eyes to open marriages.

Contents

Quick Flicks (Vol 1)

A Break from the Chores

An Amicable Conversation

Flights of Fancy

An Embarrassing Conversation

London City Drive

An Illicit Conversation

Watching Heather

Birthday Dilemma

An Open Conversation

Party Games

An Uncomfortable Conversation

Still Crazy

Here or There

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

ALSO BY DELORES SWALLOWS

Ψ

— E —

A Break from the Chores

It was a regular summer Saturday afternoon for us. I was in the back garden mowing the lawn and Ruth was tidying inside the house. There wasn't a cloud in the sky, and I was thinking of all the things I could get done in the next couple of hours. There was bind-weed in the bean plot that needed ripping out, and several containers with long-finished tulip bulbs that needed removing and drying out before re-planting ready for next Spring. I thought I may even get the chance to finally do something about the leak in the shed roof.

As I reached the far end of the garden and turned the mower to start another line, I saw Ruth making her way across the grass towards me.

She'd changed out of the baggy t-shirt and leggings she wears for messing about in the house. She was now wearing a skirt and top. I assumed she'd decided to go to the shops.

As she got closer, I noticed that Ruth was actually quite dressed up. She was wearing her red high-heeled shoes, a fitted skirt stopping a few inches above the knee, and a tight, white Lycra top. She'd also done her hair and applied makeup, choosing a very deep red lipstick and thick mascara.

I disengaged the clutch on the mower and let the engine idle as she reached me.

Her face was quite serious, and she leaned towards me to speak into my ear above the noise of the mower. "I want to get fucked."

I couldn't believe my ears. Ruth never phrased having sex this way. She'd usually call it 'sweet love', 'hot cuddles', or something else along those lines. I stood and stared at her, instantly turned-on. I didn't know how to reply, but evidently Ruth didn't expect me to. She turned away and started walking back up the garden.

She'd gone less than five steps when I cut the motor and trailed after her like a puppy. She didn't look round or wait for me and I wandered along behind her, watching as she walked. Her backside looked great in the tight skirt, and the heels of her shoes emphasised the calves of her muscular, athletic legs. I love Ruth's legs. I let my eyes wander to the rip in the felt on the shed roof. It could wait another week.

Our garden has quite a big lawn, and by the time she'd covered three quarters of it I had a full-blown hard-on. Before we reached the patio she veered right and into the greenhouse. It's not a conventional glasshouse with a frame and panes, but four semi-circular loops of metal with a polythene fabric pulled tight over them. I followed her inside. The temperature in there was noticeably hotter and I felt the sweat start to run down my back.

Ruth walked over to the bench, which was covered in plant trays, and turned to face me. She kept her face expressionless as she leaned back against it and hitched up her skirt. She wasn't wearing any underwear, and her silky black pubic hair stood out against her white skin. Without saying a word, she placed her feet a step apart and pushed her pelvis forwards.

The polythene of the tunnel walls is opaque, but anybody looking from the outside would easily be able to see what was happening. I tried to remember if any of our neighbours had been in their garden.

I noticed that Ruth's finger and toenails were painted the same shade of red as her shoes and lips. My dick strained against the material of my old tracksuit bottoms. I untied the cord and released my cock, which I held in my dirty-green hand and guided into her. Her eyes stayed fixed on mine as I entered her, the heat and wetness of her cunt making me shudder. She kept her eyes open. Her face seemed to be challenging, saying ‘come on, give it to me’, and that’s just what I did.

I slammed into her as hard as I could, the flimsy bench rocking with each thrust. After a few minutes I felt the familiar tingling in my muscles which told me I was getting close to coming. Ruth seemed to sense it, too. She placed her hands against my chest and gently pushed me away and out of her. She turned her back and took a step away from the bench, bent at the waist and rested her hands on the surface. She was now presenting herself for me to mount her from behind, and again she stood with her feet apart. I didn’t need any more encouraging, and I slid my cock back inside her.

Ruth hadn’t made a single sound since she’d told me what she wanted out on the lawn. I wasn’t about to break the spell by asking if she wanted me to do anything to help her come. Ruth doesn’t usually come when I take her from behind, but she didn’t seem too concerned about that. I just gripped her hips with my grubby hands and rammed into her until I shot my load deep inside her. I felt her inner muscles squeezing and releasing my dick, prolonging my pleasure.

I pulled out and leaned against the bench next to her while I got my breath back. I was sweating profusely from the heat and the exertion.

She finally turned towards me and smiled.

“What brought that on?” I was still breathing heavily.

She shrugged. “I got bored with my housework, and my mind started to wander.”

I just nodded, too breathless to express my appreciation in words.

“Besides, there are two really fit guys working on next door’s drive,” she added nonchalantly.

“Oh, are there?”

Ruth nodded. “After they’d been there a while they both took their shirts off, and I started thinking about sex.”

“Well, I suppose I should go round and take them a beer as a thank you.”

Ruth laughed. “While I was getting dressed up, I did wonder if I should go out the front and deliver my ‘I want to get fucked’ line to them instead.”

“What?”

She shrugged. "I could have brought them into the house, and we could have all watched you cutting the grass through the window while they took turns at me on the couch."

I was completely speechless, though I felt a twitching of excitement inside my trousers.

"But I decided to treat you instead," she added with a smile.

Ruth stood up and straightened her skirt down to cover herself. She ran a finger down my chest as she walked past me on her way to the door. "Don't worry," she said over her shoulder. "By the time you've finished the lawn, I'll have thought of a way for you to make me come."

I left the greenhouse a few seconds later and checked in each neighbour's garden to see if anyone was there. Then I watched Ruth's arse and legs as she made her way to the house. I went back to the lawnmower wondering what she had in mind for later.

The bean plot and tulip bulbs could wait another week as well.

Ψ

An Amicable Conversation

“Jackie?”

“Hello, Rick.”

“What’s happened?”

“Nothing’s happened. I just want to talk.”

“What about?”

“Well, I could explain it here from your doorstep, or you could invite me in...”

“Sorry. Come on in.”

“Ooh, nice place.”

“Thanks.”

“It’s quite sparse, though.”

“Yeah, well—when the judge divided up our house, he gave you the inside.”

“Ah, I’ve missed that rapier-like wit. I didn’t make the law, but I admit—us women usually get a better deal out of the divorce courts.”

“You can say that again. Do you want a drink or anything?”

“A coffee would be nice, thanks.”

“Okay, d’you want to come into the kitchen and tell me what this’s about?”

“I wanted to tell you to your face, rather than having you hear it from our kids. I’m moving to France.”

“What, to live there?”

“Yes.”

“Wow.”

“It’s something I’ve thought about for ages. Now I’ve reached the grand old age of forty-five, I’ve decided to finally do something about it.”

“Can you speak French, Jacks?”

“Enough to order wine and bread, so I’ll get by.”

“Yeah, I’m sure that’ll be enough. What about work?”

“I work from home mostly, but we’ve got offices in Paris and Marseille which I can use when I need to.”

“Cool. What do the kids think?”

“They like the idea of free holidays.”

“Typical—we’ve raised a couple of mercenaries. What about Bob?”

“Bob will spend some time in France, but his kids are still at school and he refuses to leave the country because he sees them every other weekend.”

“I think that’s fair enough.”

“Yes, it is. That’s why I left it until our two had moved out. I know you’d never have agreed to me taking them to France when they were young.”

“No, I wouldn’t. Here you go. D’you want to go and sit in the lounge?”

“No, I’m happy on the kitchen table.”

“Okay, let’s sit in here.”

“What’s the matter, Rick? I was expecting another witticism about my kitchen table remark.”

“Oh?”

“Maybe you don’t remember the time you had me on—”

“Of course I remember. I just didn’t think it’d be appropriate to mention it.”

“I remember when ‘inappropriate’ was your middle name.”

“Maybe I’ve changed.”

“Hmm. Or just grown up.”

“Touché!”

“Do you ever think about those times, Rick?”

“Only in nightmares.”

“Bastard! It wasn’t all bad.”

“No, I suppose not.”

“The sex was always good.”

“Evidently it wasn’t good enough for you, was it Jackie?”

“Touché yourself. I wasn’t the only one who cheated.”

“No, but you were the first. By the time I did it, our marriage was already over.”

“I know, and I did apologise at the time.”

“Forget it. It was years ago.”

“My being unfaithful wasn’t a reflection on you—I always enjoyed our sex life. Even when we’d both started sleeping around, we still had fun together.”

“Yeah, you’re probably right. But by then we were just sharing a house so we could both be near the kids.”

“We shared a lot more than a house, Rick—we still shared a bed.”

“Yeah. I remember the angry sex, where we fucked each other out of spite.”

“It wasn’t only out of spite. Just because we’d stopped liking each other didn’t mean we stopped fancying each other.”

“Heh, yeah.”

“It was during that time that we first did anal.”

“Really? I didn’t know that.”

“Mm hmm. I assumed you’d learned it from one of your other women.”

“No, it wasn’t that—you were my first. You seemed to enjoy it, as I recall.”

“Yeah, you could say that.”

“I’d never known you so vocal. You came like a train.”

“Shut up! I came because I’d got my vibrator shoved in my front hole and you shoved in my back. It was sensation overload.”

“Yeah, I suppose it was. It’s funny—we go almost ten years without speaking a single word to each other, and then the first time we do we’re discussing our filthy sex history.”

“It wasn’t me who stopped speaking, Rick.”

“After I’d moved out, we still spoke in a civil manner when we were discussing things about the kids. It didn’t get nasty until the lawyers got involved. And, let’s face it, things did get nasty.”

“I suppose I was hurt when you actually left.”

“I don’t think I had much choice, really. All the arguments were getting too much for the kids.”

“I thought it was because of that blonde you’d started seeing at the time.”

“No, she wasn’t the reason. I probably used her to help me make the break. I really can’t remember, now. It seems like another lifetime.”

“Yeah, I know what you mean. The other day I started thinking about how I used to give you hand-jobs.”

“I daren’t ask what happened to make you start thinking about that.”

“I can’t remember what started it, but I just got all these memories filling my head.”

“Heh. I haven’t thought about those for a long time.”

“Doesn’t your young, pretty girlfriend give you hand-jobs?”

“Jackie, I’m not going to—”

“No, I’m sure she only has to open her long, shapely legs and you’re in mid-life heaven.”

“Yeah, maybe I am. What about you—do you give Bob hand-jobs?”

“No, I’m too old for all that exertion. Nowadays I just lie on my back and enjoy myself. But I got all nostalgic thinking about kneeling by your side and wanking you off. I did it a lot, didn’t I?”

“Yeah, quite a few times.”

“You used to love it. I remember you, lying naked on the bed with your legs locked straight and your toes curled up. Me, knelt beside you, beating your meat and talking dirty. Your spunk hit the headboard on more than one occasion.”

“Heh, yeah. It also hit you in the face a few times, as I recall.”

“Mmm. I did that when I felt like being particularly good to you.”

“You always made sure I paid you back, though.”

“Of course I did. I loved your tongue. If you promise not to get too big-headed, I’ll confess that nobody else ever made me feel the way you did, going down on me.”

“Wow, that’s a big compliment considering how many men you’ve let have a go.”

“Bastard! Are these digs going to continue the whole time I’m here?”

“Probably, but I’ll try and stop.”

“There weren’t that many, you know.”

“Jacks, there shouldn’t have been any. When the vicar said forsaking all others, he meant you weren’t supposed to fuck that bloke from your office.”

“I know, I know. So, how many times did you cheat on me?”

“Never until I knew the marriage was over.”

“How many times before you moved out?”

“Do you mean how many occasions, or how many women?”

“Women. I don’t expect you to remember every single time you had sex with someone.”

“Including Anita—the blonde, three.”

“Did I know the other two?”

“You’d met one of them. It was a girl I used to work with. The other you didn’t know.”

“Was the colleague Stephanie?”

“What? No! Steph was a good friend—and happily married. Neither of us ever considered having sex. The one I slept with was Marie.”

“The little dark-haired one with a face like a rodent?”

“That’s not fair, and it’s not true. And what about the Neanderthal you were spreading your legs for...?”

“What? Who?”

“Darren, the brickie.”

“Daryl. God, yeah, I’d forgotten about him. He was a bit dense, but what a body!”

“I’ll take your word for it. So, since we’re playing the honesty game, how many times did you cheat on me?”

“I honestly can’t remember, now. I know I started it when I allowed myself to be talked into sleeping with Stuart on that business trip. After him, I saw someone else from work. He was in a different department, so you never met him.”

“He was the guy with the flat in Orchard Lane?”

“What? Yes, how did you know that?”

“I saw your car parked there a few times. I used to go down that road on my way to the squash courts.”

“Wow, I didn’t know that. How come you never said anything?”

“I dunno. No point, I suppose—I knew what was happening. How many others?”

“God, Rick, I can’t remember. There were a few times when I went out with the girls. I’d let myself get picked up. I’d get pissed and start flirting. I loved the attention. Sometimes I couldn’t even remember how it happened. One instant I was dancing and getting my arse groped by a stranger, next instant I was on my back in his car with my legs over his shoulders.”

“Ah, you make it sound so romantic.”

“Stop it. I’m not proud of my behaviour, you know.”

“Forget it. I think you getting nailed while pissed on a one-night stand is less hurtful than sneaking off at lunchtimes and after work to fuck a colleague.”

“Is it? I’m not so sure. At least I liked the guys I met at work. Some of the one night stands were complete dickheads, but I’d still let them have me, just to feel wanted.”

“That’s kind of sad, don’t you think?”

“Probably. So, what about now? Is this thing with your younger woman going to work out?”

“Who knows? Her name’s Fiona, and she’s not that young—she’s thirty six.”

“That makes her twelve years younger than you.”

“Twelve years isn’t so much at our age. It’s not like I’m thirty and she’s eighteen.”

“I was eighteen when I first met you.”

“Yeah, but I was only twenty. With Fiona, we’re just taking it slow. We’ve been seeing each other for almost a year, but never discussed moving in together. She likes her own space, and I respect that. What about you and Bob? You’ve been together for a few years now.”

“Six. He’ll join me in France as soon as his youngest goes to university. His ex is already re-married.”

“Do you cheat on Bob?”

“Are you making a pass, Rick?”

“What? No! I’m sorry, I didn’t—”

“I’m winding you up. But to answer your first question, the answer’s no, I’ve never cheated on Bob. But maybe that’s because men have stopped making passes at me. I’m no longer the sex-kitten I was in my twenties.”

“Don’t sex-kittens become cougars when they hit forty?”

“I like to think so.”

“I’m sure you still scrub up well.”

“Thanks! How about you? I thought you’d maybe marry that Sandra—you two were together for a long time.”

“We were together for five years, but when things started to get strained, I left. I couldn’t stand the thought of another relationship dying a slow-death.”

“So what about Fiona?”

“Fiona’s nice, but I don’t know what’s going to happen. I honestly quite like living on my own. When I retire, I’ll get a dog.”

“Oh, don’t talk about retiring. I feel old enough as it is.”

“Heh, nobody wants to get old—but it sure beats the alternative.”

“Which is?”

“Dying young.”

“God, you’re so morbid!”

“Sorry. You want another coffee?”

“No thanks, I’d better be getting off in a few minutes.”

“Right. Well, this was relatively painless.”

“Most people would say it’s been nice, but you describe it as relatively painless.”

“Yeah, I’ve still got the charm.”

“You never had any. But I’ll tell you something…”

“What?”

“When I heard you were seeing Fiona, I was a little hurt. She’s young, and very attractive. But then I got to thinking… when I was in my prime, I was quite attractive.”

“Jackie, when you were in your twenties you were stunning.”

“Thank you. And you’re still a good-looking guy, the grey at your temples is kind of sexy. But you’re nearly fifty.”

“Is this where you tell me Fiona’s going to dump me for a toy-boy?”

“No, not at all. This is where I tell you that I know I had your best years. I had you from twenty to thirty-seven. I had you when your body was hard and you could fuck all night long. I remember all the parties we used to go to before we had kids. All the guys were trying to chat me up, and all the women were flirting with you. But neither of us cared, and when we got back to our little flat we’d fuck like rabbits until it was light.”

“Yeah, I still remember those days.”

“I know I ruined it all, but I have great memories and we have two fabulous children. No matter what happens now, nobody can take that away from me.”

“No, I suppose you’re right.”

“Right, I’d better get off.”

“Okay. It was good to see you. When do you leave?”

“Not for a month or so. I’ve rented a flat in Paris for six months, and after that I’ll have a better idea of where I want to live longer-term. Marseille may be a nice place to settle eventually, but it’s too far south for Bob to get to easily.”

“You could make it worth his while by giving him a few hand-jobs...”

“Yeah, maybe I could. Maybe you could come over for a free holiday yourself...”

“Yeah, I’d like that.”

“I might have to practice those hand-jobs after all.”

“Even I can’t think of a reply to that.”

“It was really nice to see you again, Rick.”

“You too. Take care, Jacks.”

Ψ

Flights of Fancy

I hate being in airports—they're depressing places. Everywhere I look I see pissed-off people. They're pissed-off because they have to wait for their plane, wait for their luggage, or wait for their ride home. If they haven't been sitting around for hours already, they know they're going to be.

Frankfurt airport seems even more depressing than most. I can't speak for the city itself—the airport is all I see. I'm just a transient visitor. I've got a two-hour wait for my connection. My work involves a considerable amount of travel. It sounded exciting when I applied for the job, but all I usually get to see are airports, hotels and meeting rooms. So, to alleviate departure lounge boredom, I've invented a game. I call it 'Dream Cream'.

The game is simple. Anyone with an imagination can play. Basically, I watch people. Study them. Then I make things up about them. Stories. Filthy stories. And when I've made up stories about several people (the number depending on the time available and other people within view), I choose one of them as my main subject. Once the main subject is chosen—usually a woman, but sometimes a couple—I make up another story that involves me having a sexual encounter with them. If I like the story enough, I'll use it to fill my head while I jerk myself off in some lonely hotel that night.

Sad, I know. But it certainly makes sitting in airports more tolerable.

So, the game begins. First contestant: a fairly attractive woman of around 40. French. She looks professional. Two-piece trouser suit, cream blouse, leather shoes with a low heel. Brown hair scraped back and up, conservative make-up, full lips which are emphasised because she's chewing mints. She carries a handbag and a laptop. She's employed in the financial sector, on her way home from a meeting in Zurich. The trip was successful for her. She's persuaded a potential customer from one of the big European banks to use her company as a go-between when trading with the Americans. The guy she dealt with made it obvious she should show her gratitude for his business. She'd been expecting this, and was prepared to go along with his demands. This deal would get her a good bonus, and respect from her colleagues. She was ambitious to succeed in a man's world.

I decide that unfortunately for her, the 'pay-off' didn't go quite as planned. She was hoping to just spread her legs, groan a lot while he fucked her, and let the guy go home thinking he'd given her a good time. What actually happened was the fat German banker couldn't get it up. He was fifty-six-years old but seriously out of shape. When he'd removed his pants she couldn't even see his dick because his belly was hanging so low. Too many corporate lunches for Hans. He sat in a chair and instructed her to give him oral. So she knelt in his hotel room, found his dick and sucked it. He'd leaned back in the chair so her head could get to his groin.

He definitely had a body odour problem.

His breathing was laboured, and she wondered disinterestedly if he'd have a heart attack. Maybe she would have been more concerned if the contract hadn't already been signed. She used one hand to pump him and the other to cup his balls, hoping he'd soon get hard enough to go inside her. She'd already decided to sit on his cock rather than let the lard-arse get on top and squash her. After three or four minutes his dick finally got some rigidity. She hoped it would soon be hard enough for penetration.

Just then, the fat bastard shot his load. He gripped the back of her head and rammed his dick as far into her mouth as he could get it. She gagged when his cock touched the back of her throat, worried she would throw up. His cum had a strong taste of garlic and, even after she'd swallowed, the taste lingered in her mouth.

He was happy to settle for that, not making any pretence of caring about her pleasure. She left for the airport minutes later. So now she's sitting just four seats down from me in the departure lounge, popping another mint, trying to get rid of the taste of garlic.

Next up: a couple, both reading paperbacks. She's mid-thirties, good looking. Short, thick black hair, long eye-lashes and painted mouth. Nice tits. He's older, dark hair greying at the sides. British. I notice she's reading much faster than he is. I time her. She turns the page every 45 seconds. Two sides at 300 words per page means she's reading at about 750 words per minute. Or maybe she's just skipping through the book, looking for the dirty bits.

The man produces a small telescope from his pocket and starts looking at the planes through the windows. Sad cunt.

I imagine that as he sweeps the lens over to the right, he sees his wife spread-eagled on top of a pile of suitcases beside a plane. Some young baggage-handler is giving her a damn-good shagging, and through his telescope, Sad Cunt can see she's loving it, screaming and scratching and pulling the stud further into her twat with each thrust of his hips. She's naked except for her shoes. A couple of men from the ground crew are there too, hoping she'll be up for taking them on as well if the guy between her legs doesn't hold on to his juice long enough to satisfy her needs. They both have their cocks in their hands, and I can see her looking at them, a hungry expression in her eyes.

The Brits are on their way to Greece. He'll get arrested for being a plane-spotting spy, she'll do a Shirley Valentine and get her minge licked by a bloke with a big droopy moustache. His thick Tom Conti will have the same texture as her jet-black bush, and he'll have her pubes stuck in his face for several days afterwards.

A couple of stewardesses walk by and into the game. Both are blonde, slim, pretty and Danish. They are in uniform and wearing a lot of makeup. Each trundles a small overnight bag on wheels behind her.

The one on the left is angry with the one on the right, because she's been left with nothing to do all afternoon. The girls often share intimate lesbian encounters when they have a few hours to kill in a strange city, and Lefty is frustrated. Righty, however, is not. She'd bumped into a couple of Dutch pilots she knew from her time at KLM, and had spent the afternoon getting pounded in their hotel room. She'd been fucked forwards and backwards, and sucked them one at a time and both together. She couldn't remember how many times she'd reached orgasm, but she knew the pilots had each come three times.

When they get airborne, Righty will have to give Lefty a quick finger-fuck to get her off and ease the tension between them. Obviously she won't be able to let Lefty reciprocate, because her twat is still sore from the hammering it's taken this afternoon.

Another couple walk past. Late thirties. Belgian. She was probably very tasty ten years ago, but her features are sagging prematurely. Skin blotchy, eyes washed out and blood-shot. A drink problem, I conclude.

Ten years ago they were very much in love—him the successful career guy, her the beautiful, adoring wife. Then they found out they couldn't have kids. To compensate for their misfortune, he worked harder and she started drinking. One night they had a party. A lot of people came to their house. A lot of alcohol was consumed. By two o'clock he had to go to bed—he was working at seven the next morning. She stayed up with the last few hangers-on.

He woke alone at five and went downstairs to find her passed out on the couch. Her skirt was up around her waist, and her panties were hanging from one ankle. A pool of spunk had dribbled out of her twat and soaked into the settee. Hubby didn't know if she'd fucked with one guy or more. He doubted she'd have any recollection of fucking at all, she'd been off her face when he'd gone to bed. For all he knew, she could have passed out first, and then been used like a rubber doll by all the guys present.

He didn't bother to wake her. He left her where she was and went back to bed. When he was in the shower an hour later he heard her come upstairs and get into bed. Neither of them ever mention the party, nor the stain on the settee—still there to this day.

The final contestant: a 25 year-old woman from the Far East. Short spiky hair, splashed with patches of deep red dye. Designer specs, nose-stud. Oriental women are supposedly the sexual fantasy of many western men, but this one's not interested in men from the west. Or from the east, for that matter.

She's technically a virgin, though her hymen was broken by a vibrator many years ago. She's had more than seventy lovers in the last four years. Each lover was a woman, and most of them used a sex-toy on her. This girl has an insatiable appetite for pleasure and orgasms, yet she's never wanted sex with a man. She almost tried it once. A bisexual woman she occasionally slept with had invited her around one evening, and there'd been a guy there, too. After a few lines of coke, Bi spread Spiky's legs and started licking, while the guy fucked Bi doggy-style. Spiky asked Bi to fuck her with a dildo, but Bi convinced her that if she wanted something hard, she should try the guy. Spiky was so spaced out she agreed, but as Bi was rolling a condom onto the guy, he came into the rubber. By the time he was hard again, Spiky had come back down and didn't want it anymore.

The final whistle blows. My flight's been called. So, who's the winner? Who do I dream-cream? Decisions, decisions.

But like all game-shows, you have to consider all the options. As Cilla says: 'Let's ask our Graham to remind us of all the contestants you have to choose from.'

And what a very special group of lovelies we have to choose from tonight. It'll be a very difficult decision.

Will it be Ms. Blow-job Bank-clerk? You could do her a great big favour and give her the big hard dick she didn't get earlier today. Maybe fuck her slowly for a nice long time. Accrue some interest before you make your withdrawal.

Then get her to suck you off and accept your deposit. This would give her a fresher flavour of joy-juice to wash away the garlic from that German sausage she had for lunch. Invest and ingest – that's her policy.

Or how about the lovely Mrs. Bookworm? You could find her in the library, bend her over a table and fuck her from behind while she reads. She has her literature while you have her cliterature.

See how many pages she can get through before you get through. Then pull out and fire it up her back. See if you can shoot it far enough to get it over her shoulder and onto the page. Give her a special bookmark to remember you by.

Or maybe you'd prefer a mile-high threesome with the Scandinavian Sweethearts? You could all make a daisy chain, each with a mouth going south.

But remember, with all the airmen semen spent today, one of them has a very full cock-pit, so choose carefully which one you go down on.

And then there's Easy-Chair Claire. She likes things stiff—her men and her drinks. She can knock 'em back and you can knock 'er up. There's nothing she likes more than a couple of strong ones followed by a couple of long ones. But if you do take her back to your place, don't forget to put down a beer towel. It seems there's one liquor she doesn't hold on to.

And finally there's Spiky Dykey. You could be the first man to get inside her toolbox, but you'll have a lot to live up to. This babe's had everything from Anne Summers to Black & Decker. You might have to be prepared to get a Duracell shoved up your arse if you can't keep it up for more than an hour at a time.

So, the choice is all yours!

Right. My flight's been called for the second time, and I've made my choice. I look across at her and take in all the details I'll need. Her hair. Her face. Her body. I imagine her expression when I first slide into her. How she moves with me as we fuck. The noise she makes when she comes. The look on her face as I shoot my load deep inside her.

I do a slight detour past her on my way towards the boarding gate. She looks up and catches my eye as I walk past. Oh yes. I think I'll enjoy having you tonight, my lovely. I feel the twitch inside my pants as she gives a half-smile. She licks her finger and turns another page.

Ψ

—E—

An Embarrassing Conversation

“Morning, Chloe.”

“Oh, hiya.”

“You’re looking bright-eyed and bushy-tailed. I bet you didn’t feel like that on Saturday morning.”

“There wasn’t a Saturday morning—I slept through it. And I spent the entire afternoon on the couch in my pyjamas feeling sorry for myself. How about you?”

“No better, and I got no sympathy from Emma. In the afternoon she insisted we went to look at carpets for our bedroom. I suppose I should be thankful she let me put off painting the walls until Sunday.”

“Damien was actually really nice. He went to the gym first thing and left me sleeping, and when he got home he made me a fried egg sandwich—my favourite hangover food.”

“Cool.”

“Is that a new printer?”

“What? Oh, yeah. Helen from IT brought it up about fifteen minutes ago. Apparently we’re all getting upgrades. Listen, Chloe. Er, about Friday night...”

“What about it?”

“I, er... I just wanted to apologise if I...”

“You have nothing to apologise for.”

“Well, you may not remember, but—”

“I know we'd been drinking for almost twelve hours, but I remember everything that happened.”

“You do?”

“Yes. You walked me to the taxi, and then you gave me a goodnight kiss.”

“Yeah, but...”

“Rob, it was only a kiss.”

“I know, yeah. But...”

“I suppose it was quite a passionate kiss, though, considering we are just work colleagues.”

“Oh yeah, I guess it—”

“And you also had a good grope at my breasts, as I recall.”

“Well... Listen Chloe, I didn't mean—”

“What, you don't like them?”

“What? No. Er, yes. Well, I mean, I sit at the desk opposite yours, so obviously I know you have them. And I suppose it's only polite that I should notice them every so often, and have the occasional look. But I shouldn't have—”

“Rob, you did a lot more than ‘look’ on Friday night. You used both hands to rub them through my coat.”

“Right, yeah, I know.”

“And you stroked my nipples with your thumbs. I was surprised you could find them through all my layers of clothes.”

“They were sticking so far out I could feel them, even through your jumper and coat.”

“And you had your tongue in my mouth.”

“Did I? Oh. I thought that it was...”

“Well, I suppose my tongue may have ventured into your mouth a few times as well.”

“Yes, it did. In fact, I'm pretty sure that your tongue went into my mouth before mine went—”

“And you had an erection.”

“Chloe! Keep your voice down. Claire and Sally are just through that door!”

“Are you denying it?”

“What? I'm not, er... I just didn't want anyone to hear us. I was just, er... Sorry, what was the question?”

“Do you deny having a hard-on while you pinned me to a wall, your tongue down my throat and your hands all over my tits?”

“You make it sound like it was all down to me.”

“I was worried that you were going to force yourself on me.”

“Jesus, Chloe, what do you think I am?”

“Relax, Rob, I'm just winding you up. It was really nice of you to leave the pub and walk me to the taxi rank. I had as much to do with the kiss as you did. And, as I recall, while we were snogging I pulled you against me.”

“You actually rubbed yourself against me.”

“What did you expect? I was pissed and I was turned on. I had some guy sucking my face and groping my tits. Then he starts pushing his hard-on against my bits. It's only natural that I would react in some way.”

“By ‘react in some way’, are you admitting to grinding your crotch against my dick?”

“I suppose I may have done that, yes.”

“What do you think would have happened if we hadn't been disturbed?”

“You mean if those people hadn't come into the alley?”

“Uh huh.”

“I can't tell you that.”

“Can't, or won't?”

“Won't.”

“Come on.”

“It was way too cold to be thinking about taking any clothes off. And I'm living with Damien and you're living with Emma. And we work together. So...”

“So nothing would have happened?”

“Do you want the truth?”

“Yeah.”

“Okay. If we'd carried on grinding against each other like that for a couple more minutes, I would have come.”

“What?”

“I could have brought myself off by rubbing against your dick.”

“Wow. Would I have known when you came?”

“I tend to let people know, yes.”

“How?”

“How do I let them know?”

“Uh huh.”

“I get quite vocal. I moan a lot, say dirty words. I scratch, bite, pull hair. You would've known it was happening, believe me.”

“Oh.”

“I suppose you could say that if those other people hadn't come down the alley, I would've done.”

“Now I'm really disappointed that they did.”

“Mmm. Probably best though, Rob. With us being mates and both involved with other people.”

“Yeah, I suppose.”

“What happened after I left?”

“How d'you mean?”

“I suppose I want to know if you went back and told the others you'd felt me up?”

“No, of course I didn't. What do you think I am?”

“I know what guys are like when they get together.”

“I'm not the only guy in the office that fancies you, but I'd certainly never do something like that. And anyway, I wouldn't risk saying anything because I wouldn't want Emma to find out. Or Damien, for that matter.”

“Right, sorry. I just wondered if they were all asking what happened.”

“I didn't go back to the pub at all. I made my way home.”

“You went home?”

“Well I called for chips then headed home. It's only a couple of miles, so I walked. I thought it'd sober me up, but it turned out to be quite an uncomfortable walk.”

“Because of the cold?”

“No. Well, not just that.”

“What then?”

“Forget it.”

“Come on, tell me.”

“Do I need to spell it out?”

“Yes. Oh wait. Sorry. Do you mean walking with a hard-on?”

“Chloe, I don't think I should go into this.”

“Come on, tell me.”

“Okay. It was uncomfortable, partly because I started out with an erection. Thankfully that disappeared before I got to the chip shop, but the main problem was the inside of my boxers were wet, and after a while it went cold and started to freeze. Not pleasant at all.”

“What? Did you actually come?”

“No, but I dribbled. A lot. I didn't realise just how much until I had to walk for over half an hour in sub-zero temperatures.”

“Ha. Well, if it's any consolation, you weren't the only one that had that problem.”

“You were wet, too?”

“Of course I was.”

“God, I wish I'd known that at the time.”

“No you don't. It would have made it harder to do the right thing.”

“Yeah, I suppose you're right. So was Damien up when you got home?”

“What do you mean by up?”

“Awake. Why, what d'you think—? Ah, sorry.”

“Well, the answer is yes. To both.”

“Was he taking advantage?”

“Was he fuck! I came home pissed and horny—I dragged him to bed.”

“I know I shouldn't be asking, but—”

“What? Do you want the sordid details?”

“No. Well, yes, but...”

“He was just finishing off what you'd started, I suppose. He must have noticed how wet I was, and I came almost as soon as he entered me. But he wasn't about to complain about that.”

“No, I bet he wasn't.”

“How about you and Emma?”

“I'm not going to tell you about—”

“Come on, I just admitted that you got me so turned on that I had to satiate myself with my boyfriend.”

“Well, if a woman goes out drinking with her mates and gets home drunk and horny, the bloke she comes home to is very grateful. But when a guy comes home drunk and horny after a drinking session, the woman waiting at home isn't usually quite so accommodating.”

“Ah, so you got rebuffed?”

“Not exactly, but maybe it'd be better if I had been.”

“Why?”

“I'm not telling you any more.”

“Come on, Rob, it's only fair. I told you.”

“Okay, well I got rebuffed. Several times. But I was fairly drunk and extremely horny, so I kept pestering. In the end I think Emma gave in just so she could get some sleep. But I... I can't tell you this."

"Yes you can! Couldn't you get it up?"

"No, that's not it. I had no problem getting it up. My problem was that it was over almost as soon as it had begun."

"You came too soon?"

"You could say that. Immediately may be a more accurate description."

"Well, I suppose it meant Emma could get some sleep at last."

"That was the problem. After all the drink, I was asleep within seconds. She said I was snoring so loudly she couldn't get to sleep, so she was tired, frustrated and grumpy."

"Unlucky for her. You should have sent her round to our house—Damien kept going all night. He had me three times. He likes it when I've been drinking because I tend to be up for anything."

"Is this supposed to make me feel better?"

"Sorry, but you did ask."

"Hmm. Well, I'm glad that we're okay. I was really worried that you'd be angry with me today."

"Not at all. We were both just a bit too drunk to think clearly, and we let ourselves go a little, that's all."

"I really don't know what I'd have done if you'd come while we were dry-humping each other."

"It was way too cold to do anything else. I had about five layers of clothes on, including jeans."

"What if it'd been the summer?"

"What do you mean?"

"What if it had been a warm night and you were in a summer dress?"

"Then we'd probably both be a lot more embarrassed while having this conversation."

"Why?"

"Because if I'd been in a summer dress, you wouldn't have just groped my tits, would you?"

“Why not?”

“I know guys, and I’d expect your fingers to be investigating elsewhere. And once it became obvious to both of us just how wet I was, there’s no way you’d have left that alley without fucking me.”

“God, I wish it’d been a summer night.”

“No you don’t. You’ve got Emma, I’ve got Damien and it wouldn’t have been fair to either of them.”

“I suppose you’re right. Still...”

“Rob?”

“Huh?”

“When you and Emma, you know...”

“Yeah?”

“What were you thinking about?”

“I was pretending I still had you pressed up against the wall.”

“Doing what?”

“Fucking you.”

“Good.”

“You like the fact I was thinking about you?”

“Of course I do.”

“What about you, when you were at it all night and up for anything? What were you thinking about?”

“Ah, I’m afraid you’ll never know the answer to that...”

Ψ

—E—

London City Drive

The black Mercedes pulled alongside the kerb on the busy London street, coming to a halt by an attractive blonde woman in a short grey coat, high-heeled shoes and dark sunglasses. As she opened the passenger door and slipped into his car, the driver watched her perfect legs.

She caught the direction of his gaze and raised her knees a little higher as she sat back in the seat. “Hi, I’m Candy.”

He nodded his approval. “Hmm. Good enough to eat?”

Her tongue appeared briefly between dark-red lips. “I like to think so.”

The driver waited while Candy put her handbag by her feet and slipped off her coat, placing it on the back seat. She was very attractive and in her late twenties, which made her about ten years younger than him. As she fastened her seatbelt, he noticed she wasn’t wearing a bra beneath the sheer black blouse. The belt pressed between her breasts, her pink nipples clearly visible through the thin gauze of the material. He eased the car away from the kerb and back into the slow-moving, rush-hour traffic.

“So, you’re John?” There was a hint of tease in her tone, as if she didn’t believe he’d actually used his real name on the phone.

He glanced at her and shrugged, offering no confirmation. The stream of traffic slowed, and he had to stop at a set of lights.

“Well, I suppose if I’m going to be your Candy, you can be my John.”

He allowed himself a smile. “I think that sounds like a very good arrangement.”

Even though all the car windows were tinted, Candy didn’t remove her sunglasses. As she sat back in the seat and stretched her legs, John didn’t bother to pretend he wasn’t looking at them. She had exceptional legs and wore nylons. He hoped they were stockings; they’re much sexier than tights.

“It’s a beautiful car.” She ran her delicate hand over the upholstery and dashboard.

“Thank you.”

“I love cars with a powerful engine. There’s something really sensual about being pressed back in your seat by the acceleration. It’s a bit like getting pushed down onto a bed by a big, strong man.”

John liked her analogy and shifted slightly in his seat. “I hadn’t thought of it like that.”

“Yeah. It’s a big turn-on.” She placed her hand on her thigh and slowly inched her fingers upward.

The traffic was moving again, and John had to keep his eyes on the road, though he glanced down at her hand as often as he dared. Her fingernails were the same dark shade of red as her lips. As her hand moved along her thigh, it pushed up the hemline of her short skirt to reveal stocking tops and suspenders. He smiled to himself, his heart racing just a little faster.

Candy turned her head to face him. “Would you mind if I touched myself?”

He swallowed the lump in his throat. “No, not at all.”

She slid down a little in the seat, which pushed her skirt even higher. Her legs fell open.

The traffic slowed as they approached another set of lights. When John glanced down, her skirt had ridden so high he could see she wasn't wearing any panties. Her neatly trimmed triangle of pale, soft hair was in full view. He let out a sigh that harmonised with hers as she stroked her naked sex.

She leant his way just a fraction. "Can I tell you a secret?"

"Please do."

Candy bit her lip as her fingers raked slowly between her swollen labia. "I love masturbating. It's as good as any form of sex I've ever tried, and believe me, I've tried a lot of things."

John had to inch the car forward slowly because the vehicle in front wanted to turn right and was waiting for a gap in the oncoming traffic.

"When I was a teenager, my cousin Julie came to stay with us for a few days during the summer holidays. She was a year older than me and taught me how to masturbate."

"Did she touch you, or just let you watch her touch herself?"

Candy smiled and leaned closer. "Oh, you're naughty."

He laughed. "I know. I've been told that many times before."

"At first she just told me where to touch myself. We'd lay in separate single beds in the dark, and she'd describe what she was doing to herself while I tried to mimic her actions. But she'd always make herself come first, and I never managed it. I didn't know what I was doing wrong. So we started laying on top of the covers on our beds with the light on and I'd watch her. I saw how she was touching herself, and pretty soon I found I could make myself come even quicker than she could."

"What did she say to that?"

"It turned her on. She asked me to do it to her, and we found I could make her come quicker than she could do it. She said I also made her orgasms much stronger, reckoned I'd got magic fingers."

Candy was still stroking herself slowly, and John could smell her sex. His cock swelled inside his pants.

“After Julie had gone back home, I practiced a lot. During one rainy Sunday, I made myself come nineteen times.”

“Wow.”

She giggled. “I know. That’s still a record for me. I once shared a caravan in Rhyl with three lads I went to school with, and even they couldn’t make me come nineteen times in a day.”

He tried not to show her words were having an effect of him, keeping his voice calm and casual. “So, how many did they manage?”

“Fourteen, but then they were all too tired.”

He saw her fingers sliding in and out of her sex, heard the squelching over the hum of the engine. There was a slight pink colouration to her cheeks, and she was getting a little breathless.

“I love people watching me masturbate, I think it’s really sexy.”

He nodded. “I agree.”

“Sometimes, I fantasise about masturbating in public. I pretend I’m on the tube—in a carriage full of businessmen—and I just hitch up my skirt and play with myself. They all watch, each with a dry mouth and a bulge in his pinstriped trousers. I finger myself to the edge of release, then very gently trace circles round my clit and shudder to climax. It’s a struggle to keep my eyes open, but I do it so I can watch their faces while I come.”

“Don’t you want them to touch you? Maybe a few of them would be overcome with desire...”

She smiled and nodded. “Hmm, sometimes my fantasies go that way, and the men take turns. Other times they gather round and make themselves come all over me. Or they just use my mouth, one after the other.” She let out another long sigh. “I have lots of different scenarios for that fantasy.”

“Are you going to make yourself come now?”

She bit her lip and frowned, nodded her head slightly. “I think I’m going to have to, because I’m so horny. Would that be okay with you?”

“That would definitely be okay with me.”

“I don’t want to leave a stain on your seat.”

“The seat can be cleaned.”

“Well, if you’re sure...”

“I’m sure.” The traffic stopped again and he looked into her face, seeing his own reflection in her sunglasses lenses.

She arched her back in the seat and ran her painted fingers around her clit. “Oh, I’m going to—”

He watched as she writhed and bucked in the seat, her long legs flinching and twitching as the climax racked her body. When she finally stilled and looked at him, he smiled. Then the traffic was moving and he had to turn his eyes back to the road.

Candy sat up a little in her seat. “I lost my virginity in a car.”

“Oh?” He wondered if that was true, or just another story to make sure he stayed hard until she was ready for him.

Candy nodded. “It was quite a while after Julie’s lessons, but I was ready to find out what fun I could get from boys.”

“And how was it?”

“Well, the car wasn’t a Mercedes, but the sex was nice. I’ve always enjoyed sex in a car. I knew some girls who’d say it’s too cramped and uncomfortable—but for me, that’s part of the fun.”

John looked down at Candy’s sex. She’d made no attempt to cover herself after her climax.

She gazed out through the side window at the buildings they passed. “I remember one time four of us went to a concert in Milton Keynes. My mate’s boyfriend had borrowed his brother’s car, a big old Toyota. On the way back home, me and my boyfriend started making out on the backseat, and we ended up having sex while my mate and her boyfriend were sitting in the front. She told me the next day that they’d both been so turned on from watching and listening to us that as soon as they’d dropped us off, they parked up and fucked like rabbits. Her boyfriend’s brother complained that there were cum-stains on the back seat and the front passenger seat of his car.”

John laughed. “I can sympathise with the driver. It’s hard to concentrate on the road when there are things going on in the car which you’d rather be watching.”

Candy shrugged. "If you'd like to see exactly how it was for him, why not stop and pick up a guy from the street? I'll get in the back with him and let him fuck me while you watch us in the rear-view mirror."

This idea appealed more than John cared to admit. His cock strained against his trousers. "Would you enjoy that?"

Her hopeful smile showed perfect teeth. "Like I said, I enjoy sex in cars."

John filed the idea away in his head for a future rendezvous. Maybe he'd hire a bigger car, something like an SUV.

"So, you're not going stop to pick up a man for me?"

He shook his head. "Not today. Another time, perhaps. And how about we make it two men?"

"That sounds interesting. I can be very flexible. But..." Candy leaned down and opened her handbag. She took out a silver vibrator about five inches long and held it up for John to see. "If you're not going to get me a man, maybe I'll have to use this as a substitute."

John glanced at the vibrator, then at her face. He wished he could see her eyes.

Candy sat back in her seat, sliding down slightly. She slipped off her shoes and placed her feet carefully on the dashboard. Through her stockings, he could see that her toenails were painted the same colour as her fingernails.

John took another turn and they drove down a wide street running alongside the Thames.

Holding the vibrator in her hand, she pressed the button on the end-cap and the small toy purred. The traffic backed up as a line of vehicles waited to turn left onto the bridge. Candy bit her lower lip and moaned as she eased the toy in. Her wrist moved with a slow, lazy rhythm as she gently slid the vibrator in and out of her sex.

Easing the car forward, John made a distance of only a few yards before he had to stop again. On the pavement next to the car, three men in suits stood at a bus stop. John pressed a button on the panel in his door, sliding down the tinted window on Candy's side. The men at the bus stop were presented with the sight of the beautiful blonde laying low on the passenger seat, her bent legs wide open, slowly pleasuring herself with a vibrator. Their expressions showed complete shock.

Candy made no attempt to hide herself, but dropped her head onto her left shoulder and pursed her lips, letting out little oohs of pleasure for effect.

Although he'd have liked for her to climax while the men watched, the traffic ahead started to move and John had no option but to follow. He buzzed up the window and accelerated, watching the men staring after the car in his rear-view mirror.

"Hmm, that was fun." Candy's voice was little more than a croak.

"I'm sure they thought so. You've probably made their day."

She nodded, and he saw she was clenching her teeth and frowning. She was close to coming again. As they caught another red light, John saw an opportunity. He clicked the shift into neutral and twisted in his seat, reaching between her legs with his right hand. He covered her hand with his palm and pushed down, forcing the vibrator as far inside as he could. Then he slipped his middle finger into her anus, enjoying her squeal of surprise. He watched her lips draw back over her teeth, heard the grunt in her throat and felt the spasm clench his fingertip as she came.

"Ahh, fuck!"

He smiled, pushed his finger further into her and rocked the palm of his hand against the back of hers, knowing the action would be passed on to the vibrator buried deep inside.

Candy pressed her feet against the dash, raising off the seat, her whole body now twitching. "Ooh, you're filthy..."

"Do you want me to stop?"

"God no. Finger me harder, push it in deeper."

John added a second finger and was rewarded with a scream as another spasm engulfed her body.

She eventually stilled and lowered herself back into her seat. The car behind sounded its horn; the traffic ahead had moved on. John removed his hand, straightened up behind the wheel, selected drive and moved the car forward.

Candy lowered her feet back onto the floor and sat up. She unfastened her seatbelt and straightened her skirt, finally covering her bare sex from view. The car was silent other than the quiet beeping noise from the dash.

She pushed her sunglasses up into her hair like a headband and John saw her cobalt blue eyes. They were striking, a beautiful, rich colour.

Candy knelt sideways on her seat. “Well, I seem to have been the only one having any fun so far.”

“I wouldn’t say that.” He glanced at her and smiled. He’d enjoyed the show she’d put on, though was confident he’d enjoy what happened next even more.

She placed her hand on the bulge of his crotch. “Maybe I should do something to ease this swelling...”

He watched her face as she pulled down his zip and slipped her hand inside his trousers. Her cool fingers gripped his cock and pulled it out through the flies. The swollen dome was coated in clear precum.

Candy gripped him in her hand and ran her thumb back and forth over his cockhead. She squeezed her fingers tighter, forcing a droplet of clear liquid from the slit in the end. She smiled at him, licked her lips and lowered her head into his lap.

John gasped at the hot wetness of her mouth, his cock completely enveloped as she slid her lips all the way down to the base. He could feel the tightness of her throat round the tip of his cock, the warm breath from her nose in his pubic hair. Clenching his buttocks, he pushed further into her and she groaned, the vibrations enhancing the sensations he was experiencing. It was difficult to concentrate on driving—all he wanted to do was close his eyes and feel what she was doing to him.

Gripping the base of his cock with her hand, Candy started to move her head up and down on him in a slow, sensual dance. She was fucking him with her mouth, and a beautiful coldness ran up his spine. He wouldn’t be able to last long, and he got the impression that Candy was just as aware of his predicament. She twisted her head to glance up at him. Miraculously, the traffic backed up; he could stop the car and concentrate on enjoying her ministrations.

They were in the inside lane of the dual-carriageway, so there was a line of traffic queued for the lights next to the driver's side. Candy increased the speed of her head-bobs, her tongue never still. She was obviously trying to get him off before the lights changed.

By now John was breathing through his mouth, short ragged breaths that coincided with each down-stroke of her mouth. He groaned, a rumble deep in his chest.

She looked up at him again, then glanced through the side window. To his surprise, Candy reached her free hand forward and pressed the button on his door panel, opening the window on his side. In the queue next to them was a large van with a decorator's logo. In the front seats, sitting high enough to see straight down into their car, were two men in white overalls. They stared open-mouthed as Candy brought John to the very brink of his release. Then she raised her head and looked up at the men. She released the head of his cock from her mouth, pushed her tongue against the side of the shaft and resumed the head bobs, licking just one side of his cock.

John felt his balls contract. He dropped his head back against the headrest and let out a long sigh as he erupted, the thick rope of cum landing on Candy's face, leaving a line running from her hairline down to her nose.

She groaned, squeezed his cock a little tighter, and another spurt hit her right cheek. Candy leaned forward and took his cock back into her mouth. Another spasm sent the next spurt to the back of her throat, making her moan again. She opened her lips enough to let the evidence drip from her mouth and down John's cock. As John glanced over at the men in the van, their eyes were the size of saucers, their chins almost touching their chests. Candy raised her head and smiled at them, her face spattered with semen. Then she pressed the button and the window slid silently back up, blocking their view.

John barely had a chance to get his breath back before the traffic was moving again.

Candy licked his cock clean then placed it back inside his shorts. Sitting back in her own seat, she took a tissue from her handbag and used the mirror on the sun-visor to clean his mess from her face. Then she touched up her lipstick and lowered her sunglasses back over her eyes.

John glanced at her, wondering who she'd be servicing next.
"Where shall I drop you?"

She checked her watch. "I need to get to Knightsbridge by eleven, so if you can drop me at the underground station in Covent Garden, that'd be great."

John took the next left. "Knightsbridge sounds nice."

She grinned. "I hope so."

"Are you being taken for another drive?"

"Maybe." She flashed a teasing smile. "Or maybe I'll just be taken."

He pulled into the kerb by the station and watched her perfect legs as she grabbed her coat and got out of the car.

She bent and looked back at him, lowering her sunglasses on her nose. "I had a good time today."

"Me too."

"Will we do it again?"

He nodded. "Count on it."

"Good." She licked her lips. "Do you ever wonder what would have happened if we'd taken more drives together while we were still married?"

He shrugged. "We never seemed to find the time, did we...?"

She shook her head. "Well, goodbye John."

"Bye, Candy." He watched her backside and legs as she made her way towards the steps down to the tube station. Selecting drive, he manoeuvred the car back into the morning traffic.

Ψ

$\square$

An Illicit Conversation

“Excuse me, are you Roger?”

“Aye, that’s right. I assume you’re Suzy?”

“Yes, hi.”

“Hello. Can I order you a drink?”

“Ooh, thanks. I’ll have gin and tonic, please.”

“Our table won’t be ready for a few minutes—shall we sit over there until they call us?”

“Yes, good idea.”

“Can I order a large G&T please, love? We’ll be at the table by the window. Thanks. After you, Suzy.”

“It’s nice in here. Is this one of your regular restaurants?”

“I wouldn’t say I’m a regular, but I’ve been here a couple of times before.”

“So I’m not the first woman from the dating site you’ve brought here?”

“Actually, you are. Oh, here’s your drink.”

“Thank you.”

“Cheers.”

“Yes, cheers. So, you were saying you haven’t brought any other women from the website here...”

“That’s right. I’ve entertained clients here, but never been here for pleasure.”

“Oh, I see.”

“Your profile says you live in London, but from your accent I can tell you’re not from here originally.”

“No. I grew up in Cardiff, but I think my accent’s faded a bit. I moved here seven years ago.”

“I’ve been to Cardiff many times—lovely city. I used to be Regional Manager for South Wales and Avonmouth.”

“You’re not from here, either.”

“No, I’m from Bradford.”

“Excuse me, but your table is ready for you.”

“Right. Thanks, love. After you, Suzy.”

“Wow, this room’s even nicer than the bar. Very cosy.”

“Well, it’s not much fun with four blokes crammed round a table, but I thought it’d be a nice place for an intimate dinner for two.”

“Menu, Sir...? Madame...?”

“Thank you.”

“Aye, thanks. D’you want another drink, Suzy?”

“No, I’m fine, thanks. So, what do you recommend?”

“I had the sea bass last time. Very nice it was, too. Are you a fish person?”

“Mm, sometimes. But I quite like the sound of the duck, so I’m going to try that.”

“What about a starter?”

“Not for me, thanks. But you go ahead.”

“No, I’ll stick with just a main. Excuse me, I think we’re ready to order. I’m going to try the fillet, medium-rare, and the lady would like the duck, please.”

“Certainly. Will you be having wine with your meal?”

“Suzy?”

“I’ll defer to you for the wine selection.”

“Very well. Can I have a bottle of the Chilean Pinot Noir, please?”

“Certainly, thank you, Sir.”

“So, Roger, would I be right in guessing that you used to be married?”

“Aye, you’re right, there. Why, do I have the look of a harangued man?”

“No, not at all. I just assumed an attractive, successful man wouldn’t reach his late forties without getting caught somewhere down the line.”

“Oh, thanks. That’s very flattering, especially coming from such a beautiful young lady. I got married in my mid-twenties, and divorced in my mid-thirties.”

“Oh dear. Children?”

“No, thank God. She got enough out of me through the courts as it was. Christ knows how much she’d have got if we’d had kids. D’you know what she did? She tried to claim half of my pension. We divorced thirty years before I’m due to retire, and her lawyer demanded she got half when the time comes.”

“That’s awful. Did she get it?”

“Did she buggery—but it cost me a small fortune in legal fees to keep it out of her grasp.”

“That’s terrible, I’m so sorry.”

“Well, I have to admit I was more than a little shocked at the way she behaved during the divorce settlement. You think you know someone, then they show a side you’d never dreamed existed. How about you? Surely a girl like you has had many admirers.”

“No, I’ve never been married. I’m sure Mr Right is still out there somewhere, though.”

“I’m sure he is. I’m surprised a girl like you needs a dating site at all. I’d expect men would be queuing at your door.”

“That’s very sweet of you, but it’s hard to meet people when you’re in a strange city. And I certainly don’t like the idea of going clubbing.”

“Well, you’re not alone with that one.”

“So, your profile says you’re in heating management?”

“Aye, that’s right. We produce a system that makes central heating boilers run more efficiently. They can save people thousands in heating bills over the years. And that’s all good for the environment. Big push for greener energy, nowadays. ”

“So, you design them?”

“No, not me. I leave all that to the engineers. I’m on the marketing side of things.”

“Ah, you’re a salesman.”

“National Marketing Director’s my actual title.”

“Oh, sorry. I didn’t mean to—”

“It’s all right—I’m thick-skinned. I started off as a salesman, over twenty-five years ago.”

“In heating management?”

“I sold a range of products—they like people with wide experience in sales.”

“Oh, I see.”

“So I started off in sales, then moved into marketing a few years later.”

“If I’m honest, I don’t really know the difference between the two.”

“Aye, you’re not alone in that one. A job in sales is to sell people what you’ve got in stock. A job in marketing is to work out what people need.”

“Ah, I think I see.”

“Basically, a salesman uses persuasion, whereas a marketing man applies understanding.”

“Hmm. So, do you prefer marketing to sales?”

“I’m not sure—both were good to me. I started off as salesman, became Area Sales Manager, then Regional Sales Manager. Moved over into marketing as a Regional Marketing Associate before becoming one of three National Marketing Directors. I can’t complain.”

“Yes, it sounds very—”

“Eh up, here’s the food.”

“Madame, the duck...”

“Thank you.”

“Sir, fillet, medium-rare. Who would like to taste the wine?”

“Oh, just pour it out. I’m sure it’ll be fine.”

“As you wish... Sir, Madame, enjoy your meal.”

“Thanks. So, Suzy, what about you? Didn’t your profile say you were in agency work or some such...?”

“Yes, sometimes. But I also do a little freelance, too.”

“So, what’s your career history?”

“I suppose, like yourself, I’ve done a little sales and marketing. I started off as a model, but the opportunities for models are very limited.”

“Aye, I can believe it’s a cut-throat business. But a girl with your looks, I’d have thought there’d be plenty of work.”

“Thank you, that’s very kind. But unfortunately, there are more beautiful girls than there are beautiful jobs. So I moved into dancing. I did some stage work, then pole-dancing. Eventually I realised I could earn more by stripping. That’s also a very competitive market, but I found I could double my earnings by lap-dancing.”

“Lap-dancing?”

“Yes. Would you like me to show—?”

“No! No, I... er, don’t think this is the place for that.”

“I was only teasing you.”

“What, about the lap-dancing?”

“No, about doing it here.”

“So, are you still employed as a lap—?”

“No, I stopped that early last year.”

“Oh, good. I mean, right. Well, so what are you doing—?”

“I started working as an escort. I’ve been doing it now for about sixteen months.”

“An escort?”

“That’s right.”

“But, as an escort, wouldn’t you...? I mean, in that you’d be expected to...”

“That’s right, Roger. I fuck men for money.”

“You said it was sales and marketing.”

“And it is. I’m very persuasive, and I can apply a lot of understanding. I also have a lot of experience in different areas.”

“But, you’re not supposed to do that.”

“Women have been doing it a lot longer than men have been selling heating management systems.”

“No, I mean on the website. You can’t pretend to come out on a date and then hit me with a bill.”

“Roger, what do you think I am? Why would you think such a thing? I’m certainly not going to buy one of your heating systems, so why should you think I’d be trying to offload my goods onto you?”

“Oh, er... I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to suggest... I apologise. I just got a bit caught up with—”

“Don’t worry about it. This is just a nice meal out, and I am more than happy to pay half of the bill.”

“No, I wouldn’t hear of that. I asked you out, and I’ll be paying the bill. It’s not true what they say about Yorkshiremen, you know. To be honest, I’ll probably put it through the company accounts, but I shouldn’t really be telling you that.”

“Your secret’s safe with me.”

“So, er... I’m not sure how to ask this. I mean, what I want to ask is, have you been on other dates from the website, and found new clients?”

“Let me turn that question round. Have you met ladies on the website that you’ve become intimate with?”

“By intimate, you’re asking if—”

“If you’ve slept with any of the women you’ve hooked up with using a dating service, yes.”

“As a matter of fact, I have. Yes.”

“Good. And how was it?”

“Sorry?”

“How was the experience?”

“It was very nice, thanks for asking.”

“Were the women attractive?”

“Well, they weren’t models, but they were attractive.”

“Did you sleep with any of them more than once?”

“I’m not sure how that could matter.”

“How many dinner dates did you take them on before you got them into bed?”

“Now that’s not something I’m prepared to discuss.”

“Fair enough. How many of them went down on you?”

“I beg your pardon?”

“How many of the ladies you met sucked your cock?”

“I... I...”

“I’m guessing none of them did. Look, Roger, I’m not being nasty here, but before you left home this evening, did you stop to wonder why a woman like me would be meeting a guy like you via a dating site?”

“You mean...?”

“I mean you’re forty-nine years old, and from the look of you there’ve been too many company lunches. I’m twenty-eight and have what most men describe as ‘a really hot body’. Surely you must have wondered why I wasn’t looking for men of my own generation.”

“I... I just thought that...”

“I’m sorry, Roger. I don’t mean to be rude or cruel. I just find it hard to believe that a man of your years wouldn’t ask himself why a woman in her twenties would agree to a date with a man old enough to be her father.”

“So, you don’t want to be here?”

“Of course I do. I’m having a nice time with very pleasant company. The restaurant is lovely, the duck is divine, and your choice of wine is excellent. I have to admit, men in their twenties would probably prefer to meet in a pub, offer me a bag of crisps and hope for a knee-trembler on the carpark.”

“I’m sure they wouldn’t.”

“No, but you know what I mean. As I say, I do a bit of sales, and a bit of marketing. So, if you were to decide you wanted to take things further after our date, I think we could come to an arrangement that’s beneficial to both of us.”

“I... I’m sorry. What do you mean?”

“What I mean is, we’re having a very pleasant evening, each enjoying a lovely meal and sharing an excellent bottle of wine. I’d still be happy to split the bill—”

“No, I’ve said I’ll pay.”

“Yes, thank you. But I would happily pay my half, and we can say goodnight, and both sleep soundly in our beds. However, if you prefer, for say, the price of another couple of meals, we could go back to your flat and continue the evening.”

“I’m actually staying at The Imperial tonight.”

“In that case, we could both go back to your hotel and really enjoy ourselves.”

“For the price of a couple of meals...?”

“Yes. I expect dinner for two here will be about a hundred and fifty pounds. For twice that amount, I could spend the entire night with you. I run five miles every day. I go to the gym four times a week. My legs are long, my arse is firm and my tits are pert. My pelvic floor muscles can grip like a vice, and I can suppress my gag reflex.”

“You... You can...”

“I could swallow your cock, Roger. Within the hour, you could be bollock-deep in my mouth, with your pubes tickling my nose. After that, you could slide your length deep inside me. I like it in all positions, and I’m very flexible. I do Pilates twice a week, too. I could ride your cock reverse cowgirl or I can swing from a chandelier. I could blow your cock and blow your mind. All you have to say is roger, Roger.”

“I... I don’t know what to—”

“That’s okay, there’s no rush. We’ve still not had dessert.”

“Er, right. You never answered my question from earlier, about other men from the website.”

“First, tell me how many of the women you met through the site that you’ve shagged.”

“One.”

“How many times?”

“Two. I saw her twice, then she ended it.”

“You’d come more times than that tonight, Roger. I guarantee it.”

“I... I...”

“I’ve met over twenty men from the website. All except two took me up on my offer. The two that didn’t have both tried to arrange another date, but I've refused. It's their loss. Out of all the men I've met, over half of them still call me when they're in town. I provide a very good service, and I'm sure you have customers who use your heating management systems more than once."

"I guess I... I mean I think we—"

"Roger, I'm really turned-on, now. I'm not wearing any underwear. You're going to have to put your hand up my skirt in the taxi and rub my clit all the way back to your hotel."

"I... I..."

"Okay, we can skip dessert. But let's finish the wine before we leave."

Ψ

Watching Heather

I can't remember when it all started, but lately it seems to happen almost every time we have sex. I don't understand why I do it, and I could never admit it to Heather. She wouldn't like it. She wouldn't like it at all.

For some strange reason, I can't help myself. But every time I make love to my wife, something inside me makes me pretend it's not me that's with her. Instead, I imagine I'm sitting in a chair by the bed, watching her with somebody else. I don't know who he is. I never seem to notice him much. Just Heather.

I watch every expression on her face. Every way her body responds to what's happening to it. Everything she does while she's having sex with me, I pretend she's doing it to somebody else. I'm sitting there, watching. Is that weird? I know it's not what Heather would want me to be doing, but I can't help it.

We can be having a lazy Sunday morning, lying in bed. Her hand runs over my stomach, and that's it. This thing takes control of my mind. I'm watching her running her hand over somebody else's stomach, and suddenly my dick's standing up like a tent-pole. Then her hand wraps round it, and I'm watching her feeling my dick. Vicious circle time, because in my mind it's somebody else's dick she's feeling, and the thought of that gets me really hard. If her fingernails are painted as well, that's even better.

She's getting turned on because she sees the effect she's having on me, so she gets more into it. Then she's kissing my chest, working her way down my stomach. I keep looking at her, watching her every move. By the time her mouth has reached below the waist, my imagination is in overdrive. I see her lick her lips, drag her hair over the length of my shaft, and kiss my balls. But by now they're not my balls or shaft. They're his. I don't feel any jealousy. I'm so proud of the way she looks. Proud of the way she makes him feel.

Then she's got it in her mouth. The feeling I'm getting from my body is wonderful, but my brain's seeing it as his pleasure. I can see her with her mouth full of his dick, her big eyes looking up at his face, watching the grateful expression he's wearing. She knows he's enjoying it. I know he's enjoying it. She also knows he's aching to come. Her head's quickly moving up and down. Suddenly he pushes her back, spreads her legs and drops his face between her thighs. She wants him back in her mouth and she turns herself around on the bed. I watch her smooth skin gliding across the sheets. Then she raises her head to get him back into her warm, soft mouth. When his mouth finds her sex she lets out a moan, and I watch her feet. She spreads her toes as his tongue slips inside her. She's wet. The juices are all over the insides her thighs. I can smell her sex from where I'm watching.

They're going at each other with more fervour now; him gripping the cheeks of her backside, pulling her onto his face, and her wanking the base of his dick while the top half is still in her mouth. Suddenly she's turning round again, spreading her legs, her hand guiding his dick into her. She's telling him she wants to come on his dick, not his tongue. She needs to be filled, to be fucked.

We don't mind.

He slams it in as hard as he can, and we hear her moan. That just eggs him on. I egg him on as well. His second stroke is even harder, grinding his pelvic bone against hers. She cries out again. I want to hear her cry out in ecstasy and pain. I urge him to stick it in her harder. I can see her hands all over his back, her painted nails clawing at his flesh. I feel the pain on my own back as I shout at him to fuck her hard. I can see her arching her back, pushing her hips upwards to meet each of his thrusts.

Then she's telling him she's going to come. I love this bit. I watch her whole body as the orgasm sweeps over her. Her eyes are tightly closed and her face looks like she's concentrating, as if trying to remember something she'd learned a long time ago. Then she hits the peak and cries out. Her feet are pushed down as far as they'll go, toes curled under like she's doing a ballet step on tiptoe. Her thighs grip him to her, her hips grinding in little circles. She's quieter now, just letting out little moans as she rides her own wave of pleasure until it fades.

It's now time for his release. I'm off the chair, banging the bed with my arm, shouting at him to fuck her. Fuck her.

It's obvious to us all when he's about to come, and I watch her looking into his face as he fires his stuff inside her. Heather's staring into his eyes as she feels the pulse with each shot his dick unloads. They hold each other close. No one speaks. We're enjoying the closeness we've all shared.

Finally, he climbs off her, and I sit on the bed and look over at her. Her face is calm, relaxed. He's gone now, happy for what he's had. I'm happy for what he's had.

I'm so proud of her. Proud of what she can do.

Ψ

Birthday Dilemma

On the morning of my thirty-fifth birthday, Linda woke me up by walking into our bedroom carrying a tray which had on it a glass of orange juice, a card and a gift-wrapped box. She let me drink the juice but ordered me to clean my teeth and take a shower before I opened my card or present.

I was intrigued, and all through the shower my dirty mind was thinking about what could be in the box. I wondered if she'd bought some exotic massage oils or chocolate body paint for us to use on each other. Or maybe a little French maid's outfit for her to wear around the house. Or edible panties... I had to admit, I really didn't have a clue what she could have got me. I just hoped it wasn't a butt plug.

Once dry, I climbed back into bed and opened the card.

This year you will be getting the best birthday present of your life.

L xx

I raised my eyebrows at Linda. She tried to keep her face expressionless, but there was a definite hint of mischief in her eyes. I removed the wrapping paper from the box and opened the lid. Inside I found a black silk scarf, the iPod I'd owned for a couple of years, and three pairs of handcuffs. It's probably a bit of an understatement to admit I was a little confused. Linda's card had promised the best gift of my life, but we both knew I wasn't really into bondage, and something I owned couldn't be counted as a present.

She must have seen my less-than-thrilled expression, and took back the box.

"This," she said, taking out the iPod and holding the buds next to my ears, "is a unique gift. You will never again have a present like this."

With that she pushed the earphones in place and turned on the iPod. The sound of Kissy Kissy by The Kills filled my head. Then she took out the silk scarf and wrapped it around my eyes as a blind-fold, tying it behind my head. The scarf also kept the ear-buds firmly in place.

Linda pushed me back on the bed and lifted my arms. My wrist was locked into one bracelet, the cuffs threaded through the bed-head and then locked to my other wrist, securing my arms above my head. My legs were pushed wide apart and I felt cuffs secured around each ankle. She straightened my legs, presumably so the remaining bracelets could reach the poles at the foot of the bed. I felt the duvet being thrown over me and I was left alone with the music.

I lay completely still, my heart beating a little faster in my chest. The handcuffs weren't actually painful, but there was a little discomfort. Being stretched out like this seemed to activate some nerve-endings I didn't know I possessed. Another three or four songs played before I felt, rather than heard, her presence by the bed. The floor had vibrated slightly as she'd come into the room. I could smell perfume—she must have applied some after tying me to the bed. The duvet was very slowly pulled down and off me, and my vulnerability made me feel a little uncomfortable. But then I felt Linda's hair drag over my chest and my feelings of anxiety receded. Her kisses started on my chest and worked slowly upwards. Her soft lips brushed my neck, jaw and cheek, before finally settling on my mouth. Her tongue moved fleetingly against mine.

When she broke off the kiss I was a little disappointed—until I felt her breath on my dick. I was still semi-soft, and she took all of it into her warm, wet mouth. She didn't keep it there for long, and soon returned to kiss me on the mouth again.

This time was a little different somehow, more passionate; her tongue pushed further into my mouth. I could taste lipstick I hadn't noticed before. Then her mouth was back on my dick. By now I was well on my way to a full erection, and she didn't get as much of it in her mouth. But she spent longer licking and kissing it, and by the time she came back to kiss my mouth I was fully hard. This time I could taste my cock on her mouth, and that turned me on even more. Her tongue probed into my mouth again, and she gently bit my lips before going down on me again. While arching my back in response to her tonguing the underside of my dick, I got another French kiss and for a split second I seemed to be drowning in the sensations.

It took a moment to realise what was going on.

I fleetingly thought she was fucking me, somehow managing to get me inside her without me feeling her weight on top of me. My mind raced and tumbled as I tried to work out how she was doing it, but in the next split-second I knew there was somebody else there. Someone else was either kissing me or sucking my dick. Linda couldn't be doing both at once.

For an instant I wondered if I was imagining it. The song on my iPod at that moment was Eels' My Descent into Madness, which seemed appropriate. While being kissed, I didn't get a chance to say anything. Then, maybe twenty seconds or so later, the person kissing my mouth moved away, and I still didn't say anything. What could I say?

My imagination kicked into overdrive, and I was hovering at the border of paranoia. Had Linda got a drag-queen in here as a joke? Were the perfume and lipstick there to confuse me or hide his gender? No, I felt sure Linda's 'helper' was a woman. Both sets of lips were soft, the skin on their faces too smooth. But I couldn't begin to guess which of her friends Linda would trust enough for this.

As I fretted over this third person's identity, I felt soft hair brushing against my chest again. Then both of my nipples were being sucked and goose-bumps sprouted all down the backs of my legs. I felt their mouths move downwards and across my stomach, the kisses slowly followed by the sensation of soft hair dragging over me. By the time they reached my pubic region, I was breathing heavily.

My birthday soundtrack was now playing the slow, bluesy No Expectations from the Stones' Beggar's Banquet album. Linda had obviously made a new playlist on my iPod for this purpose. I felt two mouths kissing and licking the base of my dick, and then both tongues slowly made their way up the shaft, one on each side.

Over the next few minutes I enjoyed what can only be described as the best experience of my life. I was licked, kissed and sucked until my mind struggled to keep up with what was happening. I knew it felt wonderful but, without being able to see, my brain couldn't get my other senses together enough to work out what was going on. The inability to anticipate left me breathless. Although I could tell when one of the women had my cock in her mouth and the other was sucking my balls, other times things were less clear. Was that soft, warm feeling on my base of my shaft one tongue, two tongues, or a pair of lips? Whatever they were doing, it sent wave after wave of pleasure through my body.

While Talking Heads' Take Me to the River blared in my ears, the rhythm of the bass seemed to pulse through my whole body. I was gasping and pumping my hips. It must have been apparent to them I was getting close, because their mouths moved a little faster, their tongues pressed a little harder, their throats swallowed a little deeper. Before the song ended I exploded, my whole body shaking with each spasm. I felt like I was surfing euphoric breakers as the endorphins flowed through me.

They kissed and licked me until I finally came back to Earth, then I was left untouched. I lay there panting for about ten minutes, not believing what had just happened.

When Linda removed my blindfold she was dressed in jeans and a t-shirt. She took the ear-buds out and undid the handcuffs. I was looking around the room and through the bedroom door to see who the third party had been.

"She's gone," she said, smiling. "Happy Birthday."

Over the next couple of days I kept asking who the woman was, but all I got in reply was a knowing smile. I still have absolutely no idea—I can't even make a shortlist of possibilities because I can't imagine any of her friends doing that.

It's Linda's birthday in a couple of weeks' time so the big question is, what do I get her as a gift?

Do I have to arrange something like she'd done for me, where I get a mystery guy to join me in giving her pleasure? Or do I assume she's already repaid that debt herself by giving a friend's husband a similar treat? I'm not sure how I feel about that possibility, but I know I couldn't complain.

Or am I missing the point here? Was her gift to me a way of telling me our monogamous relationship is no longer enough for her? Maybe she wants to open things up, move our marriage in a new direction...

I think the only thing I can do is ask Linda what she wants for her birthday. But whatever it is, I'll get it.

No matter what.

Ψ

An Open Conversation

“Hi. You still awake?”

“Of course I am.”

“Sorry it’s so late.”

“Since it’s almost three, I assume it was a successful evening.”

“Yeah, you could say that. Ooh, you’re nice and warm.”

“Mm. So, how was it?”

“Hmm... a very pleasant evening, thank you.”

“Are you going to tell me about it?”

“Yeah—but you know I’m not very good at telling stories. It works better when you ask me questions.”

“Okay, where’d you go?”

“One of those trendy bars down the far end of Oxford Road.”

“What did you wear? You’d left before I got home, and I like to picture you.”

“Blue sparkly top, grey crushed-velvet skirt and black pointed-toe ankle boots with stiletto heels. No nylons.”

“Mm, nice. And did you sit at the bar looking forlorn while showing a lot of leg?”

“No, I sat at a table near the back and read the news on my phone.”

“It must be nice to be so confident.”

“That confidence comes from the fact that all men are sluts.”

“Fair point. So, did you let yourself be picked up at the first attempt?”

“Not quite. The first attempt came from a tall, gangly guy with glasses and a moustache. He was with two other men, and the guy I chose was one of them.”

“I hope you didn’t cause a fall-out amongst friends?”

“No. But when they started chatting to me I made it obvious which of them I was interested in.”

“So the other two men took a step back?”

“Yeah, sort of. They started chatting to some girls standing close by, which left the two of us alone.”

“Describe him.”

“Short dark hair, blue eyes. A little less than six feet tall, slim build. Maybe ‘wiry’ would be a better description. About our age – maybe a little older.”

“Blue collar?”

“No, I don’t think so. We didn’t talk about jobs, but he was pretty articulate.”

“Did you stay in the bar for long?”

“We had a couple of drinks together before he invited me back to his place for a nightcap.”

“Ah, the ‘nightcap’ line.”

“Mm hmm.”

“How did you get there?”

“We took a taxi. It was only a couple of miles.”

“And was there groping inside the taxi?”

“No, he was a perfect gentleman.”

“What was his place like?”

“It was a nice studio apartment in a renovated Victorian mill. Very tastefully done, but sparsely furnished. Typical bloke’s home—big plasma flat screen, nice hi-fi, no pictures on the walls.”

“And did you get a nightcap?”

“No. We found something else higher on our list of priorities.”

“I’m sure you did. Did you go to the bedroom straight away?”

“No, we started off in the lounge. He had a hole-in-the-wall fire and a big leather settee.”

“Who started it off?”

“I don’t think it was either one of us—we just sort of started touching each other.”

“Touching each other how?”

“A bit of kissing, a bit of stroking. Arms, legs, chests.”

“Like this?”

“Mmm, yeah. But it was all through our clothes.”

“Ah, clothes. Were any of these discarded in the lounge?”

“Er, I’m not sure. I think they were just moved aside at first. I remember taking my top off afterwards.”

“How many times did you come during the evening?”

“You are so impatient! You were doing so well, going through it all chronologically.”

“The answer?”

“Three. I came three times.”

“And your friend?”

“He came twice.”

“Thank you. Right, back to the story. The two of you were sitting on his sofa in front of the fire. You were kissing and touching each other through your clothes. How long before things escalated?”

“Not long. Within a few minutes I’d probably describe it as heavy petting.”

“Define heavy petting.”

“Foreplay, I suppose. We’d become breathless, eager, more turned on. We were getting more intimate.”

“I’d like more details.”

“Yeah, I thought you might. But it’s hard to concentrate when you’re kissing my ear.”

“Mmm. Try anyway. The details, and maybe the sequence of what happened. If you can remember.

“Ahh, okay. Well, first he pushed my top up and released my boobs from my bra. I rubbed his erection through his jeans. He sucked my nipples. I opened his zip and took his cock out. I stroked him. He slid his hand up my skirt and stroked my clit through my knickers. I wanked his cock while he finger-fucked me.”

“Was there any oral sex?”

“Yes, but not much. I took him into my mouth for a few seconds just before I fitted him with a condom.”

“Did he like it?”

“The sucking or the condom?”

“Both, I suppose.”

“All blokes love getting their cocks sucked. But he also seemed to like me rolling the condom down onto him. I took my time, and it was all slick on the inside with his pre-cum.”

“Mmm, I’m not surprised. I can feel myself getting pretty slick, too. So, you kissed and petted for a while, had a good feel at each other, and now you’ve just fitted him with a condom. Whose condom was it, by the way?”

“It came out of my handbag.”

“I’m sure he was impressed you were fully prepared. So, I’m picturing you both sitting on the sofa, your top and bra pushed up to reveal your breasts, and your skirt pushed up round your waist. His cock’s standing to attention in its rubber suit, ready for action. Is that a fair description?”

“Yeah, that’s pretty much how it was.”

“What about you? Were you ready for action?”

“You know how wet I get when I’m horny.”

“Mm. What happened next?”

“I lay back on the seat and put one foot on the floor and the other on the back of the sofa.”

“Nice. Did you still have your ankle boots on?”

“Oh yes.”

“And then?”

“Then he fucked me.”

“I’m not surprised. How was it?”

“Very nice. It was hot and intense, but brief.”

“He came too soon?”

“Not too soon, but he came fairly quickly.”

“What about you?”

“I came quickly, too.”

“Was there a lot of noise?”

“I think it’s safe to say we were both pretty vocal.”

“Dirty talk?”

“No. Just a lot of grunting on his part and a lot of moaning on mine.”

“And afterwards?”

“We lay quietly while we got our breath back. That’s when I took my top and bra off, and he took his shirt off. He got rid of the condom and we lay in front of the fire for about fifteen minutes.”

“Touching each other?”

“Not at first. I lay with my back against his chest, and he stroked my arms.”

“Was there any talking?”

“A little. Nothing interesting that I can remember.”

“What happened next?”

“After a while I sensed he was ready for more.”

“How could you tell?”

“He’d started stroking my nipples, and I could feel his cock getting harder against my bum.”

“What did you do in response to this?”

“I suggested we go to his bedroom.”

“He must have thought he’d won the lottery.”

“I’m not sure about that, but I think he was more than happy with the way his evening turned out.”

“Who led the way to the bedroom?”

“He led me by the hand.”

“And you still had some clothes on?”

“Yes. Skirt, boots and knickers.”

“He’d fucked you with your knickers on?”

“Yeah. It was just a thong, and it’d been easier for me to pull it aside rather than take it off.”

“You mean you couldn’t wait to get his cock inside you.”

“Yeah, that could’ve been it.”

“Mm. Which thong was it?”

“The black silk one.”

“I like that one. So what happened to your clothes once you got in the bedroom?”

“In the bedroom I took everything off.”

“He didn’t undress you?”

“No. By the time he’d struggled out of his jeans, I’d stripped naked and got into his bed.”

“Ah, I bet that was a sight that he was happy about.”

“Well, a certain part of him was standing out to show me how happy he was.”

“He was hard again?”

“Yeah. About as hard as you are now.”

“Hmm. And was he big down there?”

“I’m not one to measure, but it looked and felt big enough to me. Thick and straight. Uncut.”

“And what did he do with it when he got in bed?”

“I made him lie on his back and fitted him with another condom. Then I straddled him and rode him for a while.”

“The position that makes you come the quickest.”

“Yeah, and that’s exactly what I did.”

“You rode him until you came?”

“Mm hmm.”

“Did he come too?”

“Not then, no.”

“So you just used and abused him for your own pleasure?”

“No, it was for both our pleasure. I was just having a ‘mezzanine’ orgasm.”

“A what?”

“You know, sneaking an extra one between the ones I had when he came as well.”

“I’ve never heard it called that before.”

“Me neither, but I quite like the phrase. You don’t mind when I sneak an extra orgasm in...”

“True. So... I presume he wasn’t so brief the second time?”

“No, this one lasted a long time.”

“But you reached your mezzanine one quickly?”

“Not that quickly. I fucked him slowly, letting it build up. You know how I enjoy the slow ascent.”

“Mm. Was there talking during this?”

“A bit, but mostly we were just watching each other’s face. When he tried to move I told him to just lie still and keep his cock pushed as far into me as it would go.”

“And did he do as he was told?”

“Oh yeah. He lay still and pushed it up for me to ride on.”

“What about his hands?”

“They weren’t still. They were all over me, stroking my legs, hips, boobs.”

“And was he talking to you during this?”

“A little, telling me how good it felt, how sexy I was, that sort of thing.”

“How was the orgasm?”

“That one was the strongest of the three. It was really intense and lasted a long time. When I came he pinched my nipples hard. I was surprised how good that felt.”

“So I presume that once you’d come, he was eager to do the same?”

“I suppose so. As soon as I’d finished coming he rolled on top and fucked me hard.”

“Did you encourage him?”

“I believe I may have egged him on while he was doing it.”

“And did you both come again?”

“Yeah, but not like that. After a while I made him fuck me doggy-style, and we were in that position when we both came.”

“Mmm, I like the image of that. Were you both kneeling on the bed?”

“No, I was on my hands and knees with my feet hanging off the side of the bed. He stood on the floor with his hands on my waist, pulling me back onto him as he slammed into me.”

“Who came first?”

“I did, but only just. He came before my orgasm had finished.”

“It was probably your pussy gripping his cock when you came. Tipped him over the edge.”

“Mmm, maybe. Or it could have been the fact he knew I was coming again. Men get turned on when we come.”

“You mean when you come?”

“Well, I’ve only ever seen men’s reactions to my orgasms, but I assume they feel the same about all women.”

“I’m sure you’re right. So, was that the end of your evening?”

“Pretty much. We lay in bed for a while and cuddled. He asked if I’d stay the night, but I explained I had to get home.”

“Did he ask why?”

“No. I was wearing my wedding ring all evening, so he probably just assumed I was a cheating wife who needed to get home before she was caught out. He called a taxi and I got dressed.”

“Did he ask for your number?”

“No, but then they rarely do. Most men are more than happy with their one night stand.”

“Hmm, and why wouldn’t they be? Well, I suppose you’re going to be exhausted after your hectic night...”

“I’m not too tired. I could find enough energy, if you wanted me to.”

“Do you think you’ll manage to come again?”

“Probably, but I won’t mind if I don’t. As long as you come, I’ll be content.”

“And will you suck my cock before you fit the condom?”

“I’ll suck your cock if you like, but we both know you won’t be wearing a condom.”

“Does it bother you I insist you use condoms for your encounters?”

“No. It’s a necessary precaution.”

“But I know the idea of a man coming inside you turns you on.”

“Yes it does, and that’s why you won’t be wearing a condom.”

“I don’t think you’d better suck me tonight—I may not last very long.”

“I don’t care. Just fuck me and flood me.”

“How can a man refuse an offer like that...?”

Party Games

I remember feeling like a complete idiot when Kirsty first opened the door.

There I was, all dressed up in a knee-length silk dress and really uncomfortable high-heeled shoes, while our hostess wore an old pair of ripped jeans, black t-shirt and nothing on her feet. Darren had made me dress up. He'd told me everyone there would be dressed up, and said he wanted me to look nice when I met his work colleagues.

He'd also said we were going round for a dinner party, but it turned out to be just supper, which we had to balance on our knees in the lounge. There were about a dozen people there altogether, everyone else dressed casually. Most of them worked in the IT department with Darren and I felt like a pork pie at a Jewish wedding. When Darren introduced me to everyone, I couldn't help but feel I was being scrutinised. I realised Darren had done it to make his mates think his girlfriend got herself dressed up for him like that all the time. He didn't give a toss how stupid I might feel.

Things didn't improve much as the evening progressed.

Almost all of the conversation was centred round their work, full of 'in' jokes about people I'd never heard of. While they all laughed and had a good time, I noticed Kirsty and Darren sharing quite a few knowing looks. I suspected there was more to their relationship than just work-mates. I felt like a fool—like I was just there as Darren's accessory. He made no attempt to include me in any of the conversations, and as a consequence—as soon as the gin had all gone—I started on the wine.

After about 25 minutes of being ignored, I went to find more drink in the kitchen. A couple of people were already opening a bottle—a guy and a girl.

"Hi," I smiled. "I'm Gillian, and I'm not into IT."

The guy laughed and held out his hand. "Thank God for that. Me neither. I'm Chris." He was mid-twenties with short brown hair, blue eyes, and cute dimples in his cheeks when he smiled.

“Julie,” said the girl, looking slightly embarrassed. “Sorry, but I fall into the geek pool. I just joined the department last month.”

Chris put his arm around her and gave me a serious look. “I’m afraid she may soon be a lost cause. But for the moment, I’m being the perfect brother and trying to support her through the worst.”

Julie pushed his arm away and poured us all a drink. “He’s being a typical brother. Eating all my food, drinking all my wine and peeing on the toilet seat in my flat.”

Chris looked suitably embarrassed.

This was the first part of the evening I’d enjoyed. Julie and Chris were fun. The three of us chatted for a few minutes, and then Kirsty came in to claim the wine bottle. I made a point of refilling my glass before I passed it to her.

We all moved back into the lounge, where I was treated to a further half hour of being invisible. I revisited the kitchen to open another bottle. Chris followed me in, and together we chose what looked to be the best wine available to us—an Australian Cabernet-Sauvignon.

Chris smiled wickedly. “This looks a lot better than the cheap plonk I brought with me. Let’s fill our glasses then hide the bottle ’til we need a refill—it’s much too good for the geeks.”

“That works for me.” I held up my glass.

Chris filled my glass almost to the brim. “So, how did you get involved with a geek?”

I shrugged. “We met at university, so I actually got involved with a student.”

“Hmm, not sure if that’s a good enough excuse. When did you graduate?”

“That suggests you’re trying to discover my age.” I couldn’t help smiling at him.

“Never crossed my mind.”

“I graduated last year.”

“Okay, so you’re twenty-two or twenty-three.... Right, I know you’re not in IT, so what do you do?”

I was about to answer, but hesitated. I stood a little closer to him. “Why don’t we see if you can guess?”

“Ah, party games—I like those. Okay, let me think...” His eyes roamed down my body. “Are you a lingerie model?”

I laughed out loud. “No, but you get a Brownie point for saying it.”

“Am I close?”

I put my mouth closer to his ear. “I don’t know. Are you?”

He looked a little uneasy, which made me laugh again.

He tried once more. “You’re glamorous, but not a glamour model. Are you an air stewardess?”

I shook my head and frowned. “There goes your Brownie point.”

He feigned disappointment. “Damn.”

I wasn’t sure if he was chatting to me because he felt sorry for me or because he fancied me. Either way, it was a pleasant change from the attitude Darren and the rest of his cronies showed me.

Chris looked towards the lounge door. “Do you think you’re being missed?”

I laughed sarcastically. “I doubt anyone noticed when I left the room.”

Chris shook his head. “Geeks, eh?”

“What do you do, then?”

Chris smiled. “I’ll show you mine if you show me yours.”

I laughed. “Fair enough. I work in PR.”

He nodded, then looked thoughtful. “What does that entail, exactly?”

“I try and influence how companies are viewed by their customers, or the media.”

“Ooh, that sounds interesting. Maybe you can influence my potential customers.”

“Maybe. What services do you have to offer?”

He raised his eyebrows. “I’m a gynaecologist.”

I burst out laughing.

“It’s true. I can paint my own hallway through the letter-box. That’s part of the training.”

I took another large gulp of my wine and watched his face.

His eyes twinkled as he leaned closer. “I’m thinking of branching out, doing house-calls and check-ups.”

“Do you work for the NHS, or have you got a private practice?”

“Private practice. By that I mean that so far I’ve only practised, and it was always in private.”

I laughed yet again. “Yes, I can imagine.”

“Ooh, good. I like a girl with an imagination.”

I wasn’t sure how to answer that, but I was getting a warm feeling between my legs.

Chris looked back towards the door. “Well, we’ve not been missed so far. How much longer do you think we could stay hidden for?” He grinned, then slapped his own wrist in a ‘you naughty boy’ reprimand, but there was still a hint of a smile. “I need the loo,” he announced, and disappeared towards the stairs.

It wasn’t until he’d left the kitchen that my drunken brain realised he may have been making a pass at me. Was he suggesting we both disappear upstairs because no one would miss us, or was I imagining things? Either way, the thought of it excited me tremendously.

I was angry at Darren, and Chris had been the only person to say more than ten words to me all night. Okay, so these two things were hardly reasonable justifications for risking a long-term relationship, but I was making my way up the stairs before I’d had time to think clearly.

The house was an old terraced cottage, and the bathroom was situated off the second bedroom—obviously an extension that had been added years after the house was built. The door was closed, but I could see the light on through the gap near the floor. I heard the chain flush, then the tap running briefly.

When Chris opened the door, I was standing in the doorway with a smile on my face.

He looked surprised to see me and hesitated, so I stepped down into the room with him. The bathroom was at a slightly lower level than the bedroom, with a single stair just inside the door. I closed the door behind me, locked it, and then stood on the step so we were pretty well eye-to-eye. He bit his lower lip and looked unsure of what to do, so I made the first move.

I leaned forward and kissed him on the mouth, gently at first, but then harder. He responded straight away, getting into it until we were necking passionately, holding each other tightly. Our hands started to explore each other, and I felt his dick growing hard as he pressed himself against me. I started to pull his shirt out of his trousers as his hands slid down my hips to pull my dress up, his hands on my legs, rubbing and squeezing my thighs. When he reached the tops of my hold-ups and the contact changed from nylon to bare skin, we both seemed to get added impetus.

We kissed harder and breathed heavier. One of his hands slid around the back to grip my bum, while the other hand went to the front. He pulled my thong aside and I felt his finger slide along my opening and then slip inside my lips. I was wet, and I started to grab at the buttons of his jeans. As soon as I'd got my hand inside, I released his dick from his underpants. He was rock hard, and I wanted him inside me immediately. I pushed my groin forwards and he bent his legs slightly. He slid easily into me in one smooth movement.

I gripped his hair, scratched at his shoulders and pulled at his hips as he slammed into me again and again. I came after less than a minute, and he came after less than two. While in the final run up to shooting his load, he shagged me so hard my backside was banging loudly against the door while I made grunting noises. I didn't care how noisy we were. I grabbed his head and kissed him hard on the lips, tonguing and sucking his mouth. We both had our eyes open at the moment of his ejaculation and shared what felt like a really intimate moment, considering we didn't really know each other.

I know that when someone's coming inside you it's obviously intimate, but this was more than physical closeness. It felt like we were really close. Mentally. Spiritually.

But speaking of spirits, I was pissed, so maybe that says it all.

When we'd finished we quickly re-adjusted our clothing then shared a brief smile as he left, and I stayed in the bathroom. I wiped away his stuff with tissues then looked at myself in the mirror. My lipstick was all smudged and my hair was sticking to my face. I had a ladder in one of my stockings. I decided to delay going downstairs and went into the main bedroom to search Kirsty's drawers. I found a pair of cut-offs and a black vest top, which I took back to the bathroom. I washed the make-up from my face, removed my bra and changed into the cut-offs and vest. I put my shoes back on and rolled my dress, stockings and bra up into a bundle and carried them downstairs to the kitchen.

When I walked into the lounge all the conversation stopped. Everyone was looking at me. The cut-offs were short, and with my heels I knew my legs looked really good. It was also obvious that I wasn't wearing a bra, my nipples pushing against the cotton of the vest top. I saw Darren and Kirsty sitting next to each other near the fire, while Chris and Julie chatted to another person next to the dining table. I gave Chris a secret smile, and then walked over to Darren and Kirsty.

"I hope you don't mind," I said, pointing towards my attire, "but I've borrowed these because I felt over-dressed."

Kirsty shrugged and smiled, but didn't actually say anything.

I looked from her to Darren. "Great, now I can relax. I think I'll have another drink. Either of you two need one?"

They both shook their head, so I turned and strutted back to the kitchen, retrieved the hidden bottle and refilled my wine glass. I returned to the living room and saw four of the men standing in a huddle, taking sly looks at my legs. I went over to join them.

"Hi. I'm Gillian, and I know fuck-all about computers. At school they'd made it all sound so boring, and I certainly wasn't interested in anything with a three-inch floppy."

I didn't get a single witty reply. The geeks' four embarrassed faces cheered me up almost as much as the feeling of Chris's spunk seeping out of my knickers and into Kirsty's cut-offs. I had no intention of washing them before I let Darren return them to her at work.

I downed my drink, topped up my glass from the bottle one of the geeks was holding, then went to talk to Chris and Julie. No mention was made of what had gone on earlier, but Chris gave me a lot of secret smiles. I was also pleased to see he couldn't keep his eyes off my body.

After another twenty minutes I made my way over to Darren and Kirsty, who were still having their tete-a-tete. "I'm tired. I want to go home."

Darren was really pissed off at having to leave the party early, but nothing like as pissed off as he would have been if he knew what I'd done in the bathroom with Chris. As soon as we got home I went to bed and was asleep before he'd even come upstairs.

Our relationship went downhill pretty quickly after that night, and I left him a couple of weeks after the party.

I bumped into him a few months later, and he admitted he'd had a brief fling with Kirsty, but it didn't last very long. He also told me he never even got to sleep with her, but then perhaps that was just what he wanted me to believe. I never saw Chris again, which is a shame.

But I still think about that night. It's ironic, but what was probably the shortest shag I've ever had was also one of the most intense and passionate.

An Uncomfortable Conversation

“Colin? Over here. I've got you a beer in already.”

“Cheers Tim. Sorry I'm late. So, how've you been keeping?”

“Good, thanks. You?”

“Yeah, fine. Listen mate, I'm sorry it's taken us so long to arrange this, but you know how busy things are at this time of year.”

“Don't try and blame your workload—I know you're just ashamed to be seen out drinking with a completely single man.”

“So your decree is final?”

“Yip. As of last Friday, I am officially divorced.”

“Wow. That was fast.”

“It's a lot quicker when you can cite adultery. There's no waiting for the usual length of separation before you can start proceedings.”

“So, how do you feel about it? Are we celebrating or commiserating?”

“Celebrating, I suppose.”

“Okay, good. Are you sure you're over the hurt?”

“I think so. Catching your wife shagging someone else has a way of changing your perspective on a marriage!”

“Yeah, I guess it would. For what it's worth, none of us saw that one coming. You two seemed so right together. Carly still goes on about how she can't believe what Lynne did.”

“Well, water under the bridge now. Come on, Col, drink up. It's your round.”

“All right, hold your horses. You had a head start.”

“And whose fault's that?”

“Stop whining. Jeez, I'm not surprised Lynne got fed up with you and found somebody else.”

“Great. Thanks for being so understanding and sensitive to my situation!”

“Shut your noise-hole and pass me your glass.”

“Charming!”

*

“Here you go—get this down your neck.”

“What the fuck is that?”

“Jaeger Bomb. That'll put the lead back into your withering, unused pencil.”

“Yet again, your amazing sensitivity shines through—despite the slightly brash exterior.”

“Are we having a Brokeback Mountain moment, Timmy?”

“Are we bollocks! I was being sarcastic, you thoughtless arse-wipe.”

“Ah, right. So, fill me in. Now that you're footloose and fancy free, is there anything to report on the nookie front?”

“What?”

“You know. Have you made any progress on finding somewhere else to empty your sack?”

“Jesus! If only I had your smooth tongue.”

“You can say that again. Not only is it smooth, but it's incredibly long and flexible.”

“Well, maybe that's what makes up for the fact your penis is stuck to the middle of your forehead.”

“Ha ha. So, come on. Spill the beans.”

“No, nothing to report there. Not in action, anyway.”

“Not in action? What does that mean?”

“Nothing.”

“Come on, it means something. Maybe nothing's actually happened yet, but there's something you're not telling me.”

“Not really, no.”

“Bollocks, Tim. Something's happened.”

“Well, it could be just me imagining it, but—”

“Come on, tell your uncle Col all about it.”

“Okay, but it's probably nothing. I just got a couple of weird e-mails from a friend—”

“Male or female?”

“Female. A female friend.”

“And what did she say?”

“You know, usual stuff. ‘Sorry to hear about you and Lynne. What a shock. You didn't deserve that. If there's anything I can do’, that sort of thing.”

“Yeah, you're right—it's probably nothing. In fact, it's fucking obviously nothing, yer dick!”

“No, wait for the rest. They were the first couple of messages, but then they started to get a bit more weird.”

“Weird how?”

“You know, flirty.”

“Flirty how?”

“Well, after the one saying let me know if there's anything I can do, she sent another one immediately after it that just said, ‘and I do mean anything’.”

“Ooh—kinky bitch. What did you do?”

“I made light of it, passed it off as a joke. I replied saying something like you shouldn't say things like that to a vulnerable man, thinking she'd realise how her offer could be misinterpreted.”

“And what did she say to that?”

“She replied, I don't think you're vulnerable, but I expect that you're horny.”

“Dirty cow.”

“And then there were several other e-mails where the flirting and innuendo got a lot stronger.”

“What? It got stronger than ‘I expect you're horny’? You're going to have to spill the beans, what did she say?”

“I don't remember now. But you know the sort of thing.”

“So, have you fucked her?”

“No.”

“Why not?”

“I think it would be inappropriate.”

“Why, is she ugly?”

“No! What’s up with you?”

“What’s up with me? I think you should ask what’s up with you.”

“How do you work that out?”

“Well, you came home to find your wife bouncing up and down on another man’s cock—”

“Nicely put, Colin. Cheers, mate.”

“I’m just telling it like it is. I seem to remember you saying you came home to find him lying on your couch with Lynne riding him cowboy style.”

“And your point is?”

“Well, it seems to me that since then you’ve been living like a monk.”

“That’s not actually—”

“Yes it is. And now you’re telling me you’re playing hard to get with a woman offering you a better alternative to filling your belly button with your own jiz.”

“Jesus, Col!”

“Come on, you know what I mean. This woman is obviously after your cock, so let her have it.”

“Is that your answer to everything?”

“It’s my answer on how to improve your sex life.”

“You are unbelievable.”

“Do you fancy her?”

“What does that have to do with it?”

“Everything. I wouldn’t expect you to fuck her if you don’t fancy her.”

“Gee, thanks.”

“So, do you fancy her?”

“Yes.”

“Right then. You fancy her, and she wants you to fuck her. Where is the problem?”

“Well for one, she’s married.”

“Married? Is that why you think it’s inappropriate?”

“Of course that’s why it’s inappropriate! That would make her exactly the same as Lynne.”

“But that’s not your problem.”

“How can you say that? Is that what you would have said to the guy who is now living with Lynne?”

“No. Of course not. That’s not the same thing.”

“It’s exactly the same. I’d be fucking somebody else’s wife, just like that guy was fucking mine.”

“I suppose that’s one way of looking at it.”

“Thank you. I’m glad you see it my way after all.”

“I didn’t say that. So, if she’s not ugly, would you describe her as fit?”

“Oh, for fuck’s sake.”

“Come on, humour me.”

“Okay. Yes, I would describe her as extremely fit. She has a great figure and a very pretty face.”

“Hair?”

“Yes, loads of it—all over her head.”

“No, yer twat. I mean what colour is her hair?”

“I’m not getting into this...”

“Do you think she’d be dirty in bed?”

“Col—”

“Come on. What sort of things do you think she’d do if you two got together?”

“I honestly don’t think that’s the sort of—”

“Don’t tell me you don’t wonder about what she’d be like. These are the sorts of things I always wonder about when I meet somebody.”

“What?”

“You know, does she get on top? Does she swallow? Does she like it up the back door?”

“Colin, you are a sick bastard. D’you want another one of these cocktails, or shall we go back to men’s drinks?”

“Get me a pint of lager and a tequila slammer.”

“You’re obviously not driving.”

“No, Carly’s out with her mate and she’s going to pick me up on her way home.”

*

“Here you go.”

“Cheers, Tim. Right, back to this married woman. I’ve been giving it some thought.”

“Oh, joy. And what have you decided is the best way forward?”

“If she’s being all flirty and dirty in the e-mails, it’s obvious that she’s after a bit on the side. So if it’s not you, it’ll end up being someone else who nails her. My advice is to fuck her, otherwise somebody else gets the goodies.”

“What about her husband?”

“Do you fancy him, too?”

“No! Fuck off. I mean what about the fact she has a husband?”

“If she’s not bothered about him, why should you be?”

“Because I know exactly what it would feel like for him if he found out.”

“Ah, right. Yeah, good point.”

“Thank you.”

“So, there’s the answer.”

“Where? What’s the answer?”

“Fuck her, and make sure her husband doesn’t find out. That way, everybody’s happy.”

“How?”

“You two get to fuck each other’s brains out, and her husband doesn’t know anything about it. Happy days.”

“Is that the world of ‘Happy Ever After’ according to Colin?”

“Certainly is, mate. Eh up—here’s Carly.”

“Hello, you two.”

“Hiya.”

“Alright, love? I was just giving Tim some advice on getting his sex-life back on track.”

“Oh, I’m sure he is so grateful for that.”

“Oh yeah—I’m brimming with gratitude for all his sensitive, sage advice.”

“Do either of you two need another drink? I’m going to get myself a Coke.”

“It’s okay love, I’ll go. D’you want another one, Tim?”

“No, I’m good, thanks.”

“Carly—while I’m at the bar, ask Tim to tell you about some married woman that’s after his body...”

“Oh, this sounds interesting...”

“Carly, I—”

“I wondered why my ears were burning. What did you tell him?”

“Nothing. He just started asking me questions and then wouldn’t stop.”

“But what did you tell him?”

“I told him I was exchanging flirty e-mails with a female friend.”

“And what did Colin say?”

“He wanted to know if she was good looking.”

“Typical. And is she?”

“I told him I think she’s very good looking.”

“Good. And then what did he say?”

“He said I should fuck her.”

“Of course he did. That’s his answer to everything.”

“So then I told him that she was married.”

“Ah. And what was his answer to that?”

“He said I should fuck her and make sure her husband doesn’t find out.”

“That sounds like a good plan. What do you think?”

“I don’t know. D’you think I’d get away with it?”

“Yes, I think if you’re both careful, there’s a very good chance that you will.”

“Oh. Right. Erm...”

“And did he mention the other considerations he usually thinks about when he’s assessing a woman?”

“Er, you mean do I think she’d do certain things?”

“Exactly. Well, if it helps you in any way with your decision, the answer is yes, I do all of them!”

$$\Psi$$

Still Crazy

Richard walked down the wet, cold street with his jacket collar turned up and his hands pushed deep into his trouser pockets. He wasn't really dressed for a walk outside in the middle of February, but this had been his only chance to see the town.

He was attending a three-day course in Oxford, one of the most famous university towns in the country. Having never been here before, he didn't want to spend all his time on-campus. This afternoon's lecture had looked by far the duller and least relevant on the timetable, so he'd left after lunch and headed into town.

It was relatively busy, with over half of the people there obviously students—the pavements crowded with smiling young faces, the streets heaving with bicycles. Shouldn't they be in class? Being surrounded by so many young undergraduates made Richard feel old.

He'd decided to begin his sightseeing excursion on Broad Street. He wanted to see the Museum of the History of Science, and also the Sheldonian Theatre, a building he knew had been designed by Sir Christopher Wren, the famous architect whose many achievements included St Paul's Cathedral.

Richard ambled along the street, gazing into the shop-windows without really looking at anything. He knew he was heading towards the Bodleian Library, or The Bod as it was apparently referred to. He'd read that it held nine million books, and had over a hundred miles of bookshelves. When he glanced up the road, he saw a figure walking towards him and felt a strange sense of déjà vu. He dismissed it, went back to looking at the displays in the shops.

Then he looked up again. The figure was maybe thirty yards away. It was a woman in a long dark coat, a scarf wrapped around her neck and a woolly hat on her head. She was dressed a lot more appropriately than he was for a day as cold as this, but something about her posture and the way she walked was reminiscent of a woman Richard had once enjoyed a love affair with. He smiled at the memory as he continued window-shopping.

“Richard?”

He look up, startled. Just hearing her voice had put butterflies in his stomach. “Natasha?”

“My God, what a lovely surprise.” She smiled broadly and stepped closer.

He looked into her face, and for a split-second he was sure he could smell the perfume she used to wear twenty-odd years ago. Her nose was red from the cold, and there were lines around her eyes. But she hadn’t changed very much. She’d aged better than he had, he was sure.

“What are you doing here?”

He looked back at the shop behind him, shrugged. “I ran out of sugar...”

She laughed and placed her gloved hands on his arms. “It’s so nice to see you, such a surprise...”

There was an awkward moment when he wasn’t sure how to react, but then instinct took over and he wrapped his arms around her and hugged her to him. He enjoyed the warmth. She was almost a foot shorter than he was, and her head rested on his chest. Memories from their past tumbled over each other in his head, and his heart raced.

When he eased his grip she stayed close and looked up at him. Her beautiful big brown eyes sparkled, and she smiled. He released her, suddenly aware that he was in danger of forgetting himself and kissing her.

“What are you doing in Oxford?” He was shivering slightly, and didn’t think it was solely due to the outside temperature.

“I’ve lived here for twenty years. What about you?”

“Attending a course. I should be there now, but I wanted to see a bit of the town. I knew you’d moved to Yorkshire...”

“We only stayed there three years, then we moved down here.”

“Oh, right.”

Their affair had been illicit—both had been involved with other partners at the time. Acknowledging they were both in unhappy relationships didn’t make their affair any more acceptable in the eyes of others, but they’d been unable to resist each other.

“Rich, you look frozen. Do you have time for a coffee? There’s a nice place just around the corner.”

“Yeah, that’d be great.” He shivered again. “I didn’t think to wear something warmer—the lecture rooms are really hot. And sneaking out for the afternoon was a spur-of-the-moment decision, as soon as I realised how boring this afternoon’s lecture was going to be.”

“Come on.”

She slipped her hand inside his elbow and guided him along the street. It felt nice, and when he turned to look at her she smiled at him.

The coffee shop was fairly busy, but wonderfully warm. They found a table at the back and Richard sat facing the window, leaving his jacket on. Natasha removed her coat and hat. Richard watched her hang them on the back of her chair and sit opposite him. Her hair was the same length as when he’d known her, and still the same colour. Her figure was a little more substantial than it had been when he knew it intimately, but she still looked good. A knitted woollen dress clung to her waist and swelled out with her hips. She wore black nylons and shoes with a low heel. When she was settled on her chair she began to unwind the scarf from her neck.

She smiled when he gazed down at the swell of her boobs. “Well?”

He laughed guiltily. “You haven’t changed. You still look amazing.”

“Thank you, but I think maybe the hyperthermia you’re suffering from has affected your eyes.”

“No, you look great. I’ve often wondered if I’d have recognised you, but you’ve hardly changed at all.”

She gave him a warm smile. “You look exactly how I imagined you would.”

“What, old, fat and grey?”

“No, you’re not fat. And you don’t look old, you look—”

A young girl in a black t-shirt, black apron and black leggings appeared to take their order.

Natasha smiled up at her. “Black coffee, please.”

“Hot chocolate, with cream and marshmallows.”

When the waitress retreated Natasha nodded. “That explains the belly.” She was smiling.

“I’m hoping it’ll thaw me out. And you said I wasn’t fat.”

“I lied.” She laughed. “There’s so much I want to ask, and I suppose so much I’ve got to tell you. I thought we’d never see each other again.”

He sighed. “Yeah, we didn’t make things easy for ourselves, did we?”

“We were young.”

“You were young. I was older and should have known better.”

“We were in love.”

“We were selfish.”

She frowned. “Weren’t we in love, then?”

Richard smiled, nodded. “Yes, we were. Or maybe it was just lust.”

“No, lust doesn’t do it justice. It was passion, but it was definitely love.”

Just then the waitress returned with their drinks, and they sat back and smiled at each other while she placed the cups on the table and left.

Richard’s mind was back in 1990. He’d been a married man of thirty-two, with two small children and a wife who’d changed so much from the woman he'd married he hardly knew her. Natasha had joined the company in late '89, young, sexy and always smiling.

She picked up her cup and blew on the surface of her coffee. "So, tell me about your life."

He watched her lips—he had so many great memories of that mouth. "Erm, how much do you know already?"

"I kept in touch with a couple of people who we worked with, so I know you eventually separated from Judy."

Richard suspected Natasha may have wanted him to leave his wife for her, but she'd never actually suggested it. Natasha had been living with a guy at the time, but had no children. He'd always said he couldn't live without his children.

He shrugged. "Yeah. I thought I couldn't leave the kids, but in the end I actually left because of them. My relationship with Judy deteriorated badly. It went from us not loving each other to not even liking each other. Then it reached us hating each other, where we were literally arguing and shouting at each other all the time. The kids were in tears most nights; I wasn't sleeping, and she was on anti-depressants. So I moved out."

"How did Judy take it?"

He aimed for a wry smile. "Well, she kept the kids, the house and the car. That seemed to help her get over not keeping me."

Natasha's smile was a little sad. "And the children?"

"They were amazing. At the time they were ten and six, but they coped with the change so well. If I'd known how quickly they'd adjust, I'd have left years before..."

He looked away, too embarrassed to meet her eyes. He hadn't had the courage to leave them for Natasha, and he disliked himself for it.

"Were they happy with the new arrangement?"

He shrugged, then nodded. "I know they missed not seeing me every day. I missed them so much, I can't begin to tell you. But I had them at weekends, and we'd just spend all day having fun and being together. As things got better, they realised having happy parents in separate houses was better than having unhappy parents in the same house.”

Both were silent for a few moments, and Richard cleared his throat. “So, tell me about you.”

“Well as you know, I married Alan.”

He nodded. Natasha had married her boyfriend and had been pregnant when she’d left the company, moving away from the area due to her husband’s new job.

She shrugged. “I felt like I didn’t really have a choice; I couldn’t have the man I loved, so I married the man I lived with. It was a stupid decision, but I wanted children and thought I’d never have them if I stayed as just someone’s bit on the side.”

He lowered his eyes again, ashamed of his behaviour. Natasha had been twenty-three when they were together.

“Alan got a job down here and I had another child the year after we moved. But I eventually got to the point where I decided to stand up for myself, and I left him in 2010.”

“Well done. I never liked him, but then I’m sure he had an even lower opinion of me.”

She shrugged. “He admitted that when he’d found out about us, he’d phoned Judy to make sure that she knew, too.”

“Yeah, but she didn’t bother mentioning to him that she was also seeing somebody else, and that me and her were only together because of the kids.”

Natasha watched his face for a few seconds, then raised her left hand and showed off a wedding ring. “I remarried three years ago.”

“Congratulations. I hope you’ve finally found someone who deserves you.” He was sincere. Natasha had wasted too much of her life on the abusive and selfish man she’d married. A voice in his head told him she’d also wasted part of her life during their affair.

“Yes, he’s lovely. He’s also been married before and has a couple of kids similar in age to mine.”

“I’m really happy for you.”

“Thank you. I heard you’d remarried ages ago.”

He nodded. “It’s been fifteen years, now.”

“And also that you have more children.”

Another embarrassed moment. She’d said earlier that she thought she’d never be able to have children if she’d stayed with him, and yet he’d had two more children with his new wife. “Yeah, a boy and a girl—they’re fabulous.”

“And are you happy?” Her face was serious, and he wondered if she hoped he wasn’t.

“Yes, I am. Natasha, I—”

“It’s okay. I know how much you loved your children when we were together. I understood why you stayed, even though we both knew your wife was behaving just as badly as we were.”

He nodded. “I can’t justify what we did by blaming her, though. When I look back, I’m still a bit ashamed of my behaviour. I was older and should have been more responsible.”

“I was old enough, too.”

“Yeah, you certainly were.”

She giggled. “You know what I mean. Don’t blame yourself, it was both of us.”

He sat back. “This reminds me of a song. Do you know the Paul Simon song, Still Crazy After all these Years?”

She frowned. “I’m not sure. Why?”

“It starts with something like: ‘I met my old lover on the street last night, she seemed so glad to see me, I just smiled. And we talked about some old times, and we drank ourselves some beers. Still crazy after all these years.’”

Natasha smiled, her brown eyes sparkling again. “It’s not beer we’re drinking, but I am so glad to see you.”

“Yeah, I’m happy to see you, too.”

“So, the old times... We were a bit crazy, weren’t we?” There was a broad smile on her face.

“Yeah. Sometimes when I think about what we got away with, I find it hard to believe. Everyone must have known what was going on, and we thought we were being so discreet.”

The affair had lasted for over a year, and they’d taken risks that were bordering on insane. Every lunchtime they would drive off in Richard’s car and park in a nearby wood and have sex. They’d come back to work with their clothes dishevelled and wearing stupid grins. Quite often they’d repeat their escapades immediately after work, before going home to their respective partners. Sometimes they also met in the evenings, each concocting blatant lies so that they could spend even more time together.

Natasha placed her elbows on the table and rested her chin on her hands. “Do you remember at a works party in a restaurant, you followed me into the toilets and started undressing me?”

“You’d invited me in. You wanted me to see your new underwear.”

“Did I?” The expression on her face took him back over twenty-five years, and he felt a tingling in his boxers. He’d fancied her so much back then he hadn’t been able to keep his hands off her.

He snorted. “I also remember the time in the wood when it was really sunny and hot, and you decided you wanted me to fuck you on the bonnet of my car.”

She held her hands over her face and giggled. She obviously remembered the incident, too.

Natasha had been laid flat on the bonnet, her skirt round her waist and her feet resting on the front bumper. Richard was standing in front of the car, fucking her. Suddenly he’d seen a group of people walking towards them. They’d both dropped to the ground by the front of the car and giggled uncontrollably while the people walked past. They hadn't managed to finish their sex session because they'd been laughing too much.

Her eyes opened wide as she remembered another embarrassing incident. "What about when you'd been on that free lunch with Linda and you got her drunk?"

"I didn't get her drunk."

"She said you kept filling her wine glass."

"Only because she kept emptying it."

Natasha shook her head at his excuse. "When you both got back to work I had to take her to the toilets to be sick, and you came in to see how she was. Linda was in one cubicle throwing up, and we were snogging in the next cubicle like a couple of teenagers."

Richard was smiling, a warm feeling radiating throughout his body. He may have come to feel ashamed about his behaviour later in life, but at the time he'd loved everything they'd done together. Looking back now, it seemed almost magical.

"What was your favourite time?" He raised his eyebrows, daring her to tell him what filthy thing they'd done together still turned her on.

"Oh God, there were so many. Not long after it ended, I'd lie in bed and remember all the things we used to do. I loved when we parked close to the airport and sat in your car watching the planes take off and land, and we'd pretend some day we could fly off together."

He watched her face. He loved her accent.

She leaned closer. "More often than not, I'd be lying across the front seats with my head in your lap."

Richard smiled at the memory. He'd probably received more oral sex during that year than he'd had in the rest of his life. "One of my favourite times was after you'd been on holiday."

"Oh?"

He nodded. "You'd been away with Alan to somewhere hot. North Africa I think, maybe Tunisia or Morocco."

“Oh yes, Tunisia.”

“It seemed you’d been gone for a long time, it was over two weeks and I’d missed you like mad. When you came back you were really tanned, and you wore a short skirt and sleeveless top. When you came into my office you lifted your skirt to show me a bit of white skin on your hip, where your bikini bottoms had been. Your body was so brown, and I got a hard-on just from looking at you.”

Natasha smiled.

“We went out at lunchtime to the student house I used to own. It was empty during the summer holidays, and we had the house to ourselves. I took you upstairs and stripped you naked, and kissed you all over. You had three small white triangles and the rest of your body was a golden brown. We fucked really slowly—”

“We made love really slowly. Sometimes we fucked, but on that day we made love. I’d missed you too, don’t forget.”

“You remember the time?” He was pleasantly surprised.

“Of course I do. You were amazingly hard, and I could feel the skin of your cock moving up and down your shaft as you slid in and out of me.”

He smiled. “I was worried I’d pass out when I came, and that you’d have to phone an ambulance.”

She laughed. Their cups were now empty, and the waitress came back to clear them away.

Richard didn’t want to go yet, so he said he’d like a cup of coffee and Natasha ordered tea.

Natasha licked her lips and narrowed her eyes. “Nobody else has ever had the same effect on my body as you did at that time.”

He was puzzled. “In what way?”

“How wet you used to make me, just by talking to me. Just by looking at me sometimes. If we met in the corridor and chatted for a couple of minutes, my panties would be soaked.”

“Yeah, well I could say exactly the same. I went to my doctor and told him I thought I’d developed Drippy-Dick Syndrome.”

Natasha dropped her head back and laughed. “Well, I was always flattered when I found your boxers were wet. It’s nice to have that effect on someone.”

He nodded and was just about to admit she was having the same effect on him now, but hesitated. He took a breath and smiled.

She’d seen his reaction. “Is it happening now, Rich?”

He bit his lip and nodded, smiling. “Yeah. What about you?”

“I’m completely sopping.”

They stared into each other’s eyes for several seconds.

He cleared his throat, trying to hide what he shouldn’t really be thinking about. “So, tell me about your new husband. What’s his name?”

“He’s called Dan, and he’s lovely. We used to work together, but he’s since been promoted and transferred to a different site, but it’s a short commute so we didn’t have to move house. He’s kind and generous, and he gets on really well with my kids.”

“I’m glad. Do you get on with his kids?”

“Yes, most of the time. Sometimes they act like their mother, and that winds me up.”

Richard laughed. “Yeah, Judy caused all sorts of hassle for me and Jo when we first got together. She also made sure she got as much child support from me as she could. Not satisfied with having the house, the furniture and the car, she also got sixty percent of my pay-check every month.”

“How do your older kids get on with Jo?”

“Great, they love her to bits.”

Natasha smiled, as if this made her happy. “My kids have now left home and gone to university. Most of the time it’s just me and Dan. And the dogs—we have two dogs.”

Their new drinks arrived, with Natasha’s in a small metal teapot.

She added milk to her cup and poured her tea. “So, are you still crazy after all these years?”

Richard sipped his coffee and looked into her eyes. She looked serious.

“Do you mean am I still a cheating bastard?”

She shook her head, but then nodded. “I wouldn’t phrase it like that. In my mind, back then you were cheating on me with your wife. I knew it was me you loved and not her. But yes, I suppose I was asking if you have affairs now.”

He smiled and shook his head. “No, I’ve never cheated on Jo.”

“I’m glad.”

“What about you?”

“No, me neither. I’m a faithful wife.”

“It sounds like we’ve both grown into responsible adults.”

She laughed. “Yes, maybe we have.”

He watched her face as he sipped his coffee.

She narrowed her eyes. “What do you think would have happened if we’d bumped into each other somewhere else? What if we’d both been on a course and met in the lobby of a hotel where we had rooms we could use?”

His cock twitched in his trousers. “I don’t know.” He had a pretty good idea what he would have wanted to happen.

She nodded solemnly. “I’ve never been tempted to cheat on Dan...”

“Good.”

“But I think if we’d met in a hotel, it would have been a struggle. I couldn’t trust myself if I was alone with you...”

He swallowed, his breathing now shallow. “Yeah, I know what you mean.”

She looked around the café; nobody was sitting at the neighbouring tables. “I’d love to be able to hold you close, feel you inside me.”

His throat constricted and he couldn't speak for the moment. So he nodded, then shrugged.

"Would you like to be inside me again?"

"Of course I would. I'm sure it would feel like a natural thing to do, like coming home after a long voyage."

She smiled. "I think it's probably better that we met here, but my heart wishes it'd been in a hotel." There were tears in her eyes.

He swallowed the lump in his throat. "Your heart?"

"Yes. And maybe another place, too."

They sipped their drinks and shared silent looks.

A gang of students sitting at one of the other tables all laughed at something, and Richard and Natasha turned to look at them.

She smiled and nodded towards the students. "I wonder what they see when they look at us."

"A middle-aged couple having a coffee. They probably think we're talking about last night's bingo."

She closed her eyes for a couple of seconds then looked directly at him. "It may be over twenty-five years since we were lovers, but I'm so incredibly turned on right now."

"Really?"

She nodded.

"I remember you admitting that you can make yourself come without touching yourself."

She stared at him with a shocked expression. "Did I really tell you that?"

"Yes. You're the first woman I knew who could do it."

"You mean I was the first woman you knew to admit it. I'm sure a lot of women can do it."

"Okay, fair point. Well, why don't you make yourself come now?"

Her eyes went wide. "You can't be serious."

“Of course I’m serious.”

“But I’m nearly fifty.”

“Yeah, and I don’t want to even think about how old I’ll be in a couple of years.”

She cleared her throat, looked a little embarrassed. “Why would you want me to do that?”

“Because it’ll turn me on, and because I’d love to watch you come.”

She looked around the café. There were more than twenty people in the room, at least half of them students. “You wouldn’t see me come. I’m hardly likely to do a When Harry Met Sally show for you.”

“Tasha, I’ve watched you come many, many times. I know if you were to come now, I’d see your eyes flutter, your nostrils flare, and the pink flush creep slowly up your neck to your cheeks. I’d see you tremble slightly, and I’d hear your breathing get shallow. Then I’d hear you let out a long sigh, and watch your eyes blink open a couple of times. Finally, I’d see your embarrassed smile.”

Her eyes sparkled again, and he worried that he’d upset her.

She blinked and licked her lips, glanced around the café again. “Is it really what you want?”

He shook his head slowly. “No, but it’s a safer compromise. What I really want is to be in a room with you and a bed.”

Natasha held his gaze, then reached across the table and took his hands in hers. Their fingers entwined. “I’ll do it if you want me to.”

His throat was dry. “I really want you to.”

She nodded and squeezed his hands. A slight frown crossed her face, like she was concentrating on something.

He knew she was contracting and relaxing muscles he couldn’t see. He stretched his leg out and held it against hers under the table, felt her pushing back against him. There seemed to be electricity flowing from her leg to his; it warmed him yet made him shiver at the same time.

She licked her lips and inhaled. Her jaw was set, and her eyes were fixed on his.

He smiled at her and his cock swelled inside his pants. He could tell she was getting close already, and his mind drifted back to all the wonderful times he'd held her close and watched her come. How many times had she sat on his cock and ridden him while he stroked her back and kissed her mouth?

Her eyes half-closed and she was breathing through her mouth. He squeezed her fingers and felt the wetness inside his shorts; his cock was leaking precum. He saw the waitress tidying other tables and prayed she wouldn't try and take their cups away in the next couple of minutes.

Natasha's neck was now red and blotchy. With a final frown she squeezed her eyes shut and sighed.

He held his breath and waited.

Finally she opened her eyes and smiled—the beautiful half-embarrassed smile he was so familiar with.

“How was it for you?”

She giggled and looked around to make sure nobody had realised what she'd been doing. “I can't believe you made me do that.”

He raised his eyebrows. “You know me—I'm a pervert.”

“Yes, I know. I'm glad you're still the same.”

“Too old to change my habits now.”

She wriggled on her chair. “This is going to be very uncomfortable walking home. My knickers are drenched.”

“Take them off.”

She laughed, and he wondered if she remembered the day she'd done exactly that when they'd taken a walk along a canal. It had been a warm summer's day, and she'd been wearing a long cotton skirt. They'd stopped on some stone steps underneath a bridge on the towpath, and he'd stood on a lower step, raised her skirt and entered her. They'd clung to each other, the risk of being caught by dog-walkers or people on a barge not dampening their passion.

She leaned over the table to whisper to him. "Did it turn you on?"

He nodded enthusiastically.

"Are you hard?"

He snorted, nodded again. "Yes, I'm uncomfortably hard."

"Good." She leaned back.

Her leg moved away from his, and then he felt her foot on his thigh. She'd slipped off her shoe, and he opened his legs. Looking down between his body and the table-top, he could see her nyloned foot resting on the bulge in his trousers. She stroked her toes along his shaft, and he closed his eyes for a second, relishing the sensation.

She raised her eyebrows. "Will you be able to come if I keep doing that?"

"I doubt it. I need more friction."

"Shame." She smiled and continued to tease him, her foot pressing a little harder.

He lowered his hand and traced his fingertips along her instep, the sexiness of the fine denier turning him on even more. He'd give anything to be inside her at this minute.

She pushed her foot a little harder. "I know what you should do."

"Oh?" His voice was little more than a croak.

She smiled. "I want you to go into the loo and make yourself come."

He looked towards the door that led to the toilets, then back at Natasha. "Come in with me."

She smiled and shook her head. "No, we both know I can't do that."

"You've done it before."

"I think it was you who came into the Ladies with me, but we're not that young anymore."

He nodded. "I know, but what I want to do is to push you against a wall, roll your dress up to your waist, rip a hole in the crotch of your tights and fuck you standing up."

She swallowed, narrowed her eyes slightly. Her foot pressed against his hard-on. "You can imagine you're doing exactly that to me while you jerk off. You know I'd come again as soon as you entered me, so think about that as well. I'd be scratching at the back of your shirt, pulling your hair, putting my tongue in your ear."

Richard's breathing was getting laboured. Maybe he would be able to come with her foot if she kept talking like this to him.

"And then when you start to fuck me, I'd bite your shoulder."

He remembered asking her to bite him in his car, revelling in the beautiful pain as he emptied himself into her warm wetness. He'd loved their sex-life. He'd loved her.

"Rich?"

He re-focussed on her face, suddenly back in the café.

She held up a small purple paper serviette that the waitress had left with Natasha's tea. "Take this with you and come into it."

"Why?"

"Because I want you to show it to me when you return."

He frowned.

"Don't be shy, it'll turn me on."

He glanced at the door beneath the sign for the toilets. "I can't just go—"

"I made myself come for you."

He held her gaze for a second, saw the teasing challenge in her dark brown eyes. He pushed his chair back and stood. He still had his jacket on, so he slipped it off and hung it on the back of his chair. Taking the paper napkin from Natasha, he walked slowly towards the toilets, holding his hand in front of him to try and hide the obvious bulge of his erection.

Once inside the toilet cubicle, he bolted the door and dropped his trousers. He sat on the toilet and looked down at his cock, red and bulbous and covered in precum. Gripping it in his hand forced a large pearl of clear liquid out of the slit. He ran his thumb through it, then brought his hand to his mouth. He licked the liquid off the pad of his thumb, then took the whole digit between his lips. He imagined Natasha sucking his cock and a shiver ran through him.

He took his cock in his hand and started to masturbate, his left hand resting on his knee and his right hand pumping faster and faster. The coldness in his stomach appeared after just a few seconds, the tingling in his balls after less than thirty. This was probably going to be his shortest-ever wank. He took the napkin in his left hand and pumped his cock with his right. He closed his eyes and pictured Natasha watching him, her brown eyes fixed on the blur of his right hand.

He felt the spasm and erupted into the napkin, a creamy off-white dollop landing on the purple tissue paper. He closed his eyes and pulsed again. A second thick cord shot out, then another spurt.

He was breathing heavily through his mouth, his heart banging in his chest. He dropped his head back, closed his eyes and took a deep breath. He counted to ten, waiting for his heart to settle and his breathing to return to normal.

Richard opened his eyes and looked at the soaked napkin. He couldn't help smiling. He was fifty-eight years old and had just pulled himself off in the toilets of a café. How depraved was that?

He folded the sodden napkin and placed it on the floor while he wiped the head of his cock with a clean piece of toilet paper. Then he stood up and fastened his trousers, picked up the napkin and took it out of the cubicle. The only place to put the tissue while he washed his hands was on the sill of the small window. He scrunched it tight so nothing leaked out. After he'd washed his hands he picked it up, balled-up and starting to stiffen as his cum dried. He'd feel stupid carrying it back to the table, but then he was being stupid; he was acting like a teenager again.

Leaving the toilets, he opened the door back to the main part of the café and stopped in his tracks. Natasha was no longer alone at their table; there was another woman sitting in his chair. Richard considered walking straight out of the café, but his jacket was on the chair.

Natasha looked up and waved, and he walked slowly over towards her, quickly shoving the napkin into the front pocket of his trousers.

“Richard, this is my friend Tracy.”

He forced himself to smile at the other woman, who was attractive and starting to stand up. “Hi.”

“Richard and I used to work together years ago. He’s in Oxford for just a few days, and we bumped into each other by accident.”

Tracy shook her head. “No, I think it must have been fate. Nothing happens by accident.”

He shrugged, standing aside so Tracy could walk round him.

“What’s that in your pocket?” Natasha had a wicked smile on her face.

“What?” His eyes were wide open, willing her to stop teasing him.

Natasha nodded at the bulge from the wad of tissue paper in his pocket. “You can’t walk out of a toilets with something like that in your pocket, people will wonder what you’ve been up to.”

Tracy laughed and play-slapped Natasha on the shoulder. “Oh, she’s such a little tormenter. I could tell you some stories about her...”

Richard nodded. “Yeah, she’s a little something.”

Natasha smiled broadly, her eyes dancing with mischief.

Tracy leaned down and kissed her cheek. “Right, I’m going to go back and sit with my mother-in-law. Phone me and we’ll have a meet-up, okay?”

Natasha nodded.

“It was nice to meet you Richard.”

“Yeah, you too.”

As Tracy headed off towards an older woman at another table, Richard dropped into his chair. "I can't believe you just did that."

Natasha was giggling uncontrollably, tears of laughter in her eyes. "It was so funny."

"You twat-bitch."

"I'm sorry, I..." More giggles prevented her apology from seeming anything like sincere.

He couldn't help smiling as he waited for her to compose herself.

"I'm sorry. Oh, I love your face so much. You have such an expressive face, it's really funny."

"Hmm."

She wiped her eyes with the back of her hand, then smiled. "Tell me about what you did."

"No."

Her foot pressed against his crotch again, stroked it. "Well, I see the hardness has disappeared, so I assume you've discharged your weapon."

He laughed at the way she'd phrased it. "Yeah, I've fired my gun. Or at least I've shot something out."

"Show me."

He looked over at Tracy and her mother-in-law. "You're kidding."

"No. Give me the serviette."

He took it from his pocket, placed it on the table.

She watched his face as she slowly picked it up and raised it to her nose. She inhaled deeply, and smiled at his look of disgust. "I like the smell."

He shook his head, speechless.

"I remember being in your student house, and we'd make love on the floor, or on the sofa, or one of the single beds. After I'd come you'd withdraw and use my boobs to make yourself come. A lot of the times you'd shoot it onto my face, because you liked to go in my mouth afterwards."

He was silent for a few seconds, remembering it all.

"We had a lovely year, didn't we Rich?"

"Yeah, we did."

"I'm really glad that you're happy now. You deserve happiness."

"Thank you. I'm glad you found somebody, too."

She looked at her watch. "I'm sorry, but I really need to be going."

"Yeah, of course. Sorry, I didn't realise the—"

"No, it's fine. It's just that I need to get ready. Dan's taking me out tonight for Valentine's Day."

"Oh, right. Sorry, yeah I forgot about that."

"I hope you've already taken Jo out, since you're away for the day itself."

"Er, we've been married fifteen years now. Valentine's Day's not quite so important when you're old."

"Don't say that. Romance never gets old."

He smiled. "No, you're probably right. I sent my five-year-old daughter a card, does that count?"

"Yes, I suppose so. I'm really sorry I have to go."

"I know, but I should be getting back, too. There's an organised visit to one of the university libraries this evening, so I need to be back there soon."

They made their way towards the counter, where Richard paid for their drinks. Natasha gave a final wave to Tracy, and they stepped out onto the pavement. It was now dark, and even colder.

She gripped his arms and pulled him close. He bent and they kissed, very tenderly.

The kiss lasted for several seconds, and during that time Richard was carried back over twenty-five years.

They parted lips but kept their heads close together, eyes locked.

He narrowed his eyes. "Have we just cheated?"

She shook her head. "No. I got turned on and made myself come. You did the same. That's not cheating."

"Okay. But I think I may have cheated in my head."

She laughed. "I've cheated in my head hundreds of times thinking about you."

He didn't know what to say.

She narrowed her eyes. "Would we be able to keep in touch? Maybe by email?"

"I don't see why not."

She took out her phone and pressed some buttons, handed it to him. "Type your email address into here, and I promise to keep all our emails innocent and friendly. I'd just like to hear your news every once in a while. I've hated not hearing from you for all these years. Will that be okay?"

He nodded. "Of course, we're friends."

"Old friends."

"I think that's the title of another Paul Simon song."

"Is it?" She seemed to think about it, then shook her head. "I prefer to think of us as still crazy after all these years."

He laughed. "Yeah. I think I do, too."

She squeezed his hands before putting her gloves on. She looked down the road. "Right. It was really lovely to see you."

He nodded. "Yeah, for me, too. Look after yourself, and have a nice Valentine's Day dinner."

She held his eye. "Do you wish we'd met in a hotel instead?"

He hesitated before nodding. "Yeah, but it's probably better for everyone concerned that we met here on the pavement."

She smiled and nodded. There were tears in her eyes again.

"Bye, Natasha."

“Bye, Richard.” She turned.

He stood on the pavement and watched her walk away from him for a second time. There was a coldness in his stomach which wasn’t due to the February weather.

Here or There

Ben opened his eyes and saw a white ceiling. He lay still, trying to work out where he was. He remembered blinding headlights, the squeal of brakes, and the force of the impact.

“Ah, you’re awake.”

Turning his head in the direction of her voice, he saw a woman in a white uniform. She was dark-haired and very pretty. He tried to speak, but couldn’t manage it.

She moved closer and rested her cool hand on his arm. “It’s okay, get some rest.”

He tried to smile and closed his eyes.

The next time he opened them, the room was dark—lit only by the lights on the machines by his bed. He felt no pain, but realised he had an erection. He tried to remember what he’d been dreaming about, but couldn’t.

“Oh, I see you’re fully awake now.” The same pretty nurse was smiling from the open doorway.

Ben looked down and saw the tenting of the sheet. She could obviously see it too, and he was terribly embarrassed.

She entered the room and closed the door behind her but didn’t turn on the lights. She nodded towards the bulge in the sheet. “That’s a good sign. It shows you’re getting your strength back.”

Ben cleared his throat, but couldn’t think of anything to say in his defence.

The nurse gripped the sheet in her hand and slowly pulled it down, her eyes on his.

When the sheet cleared Ben’s groin, his cock snapped back against his body. He looked down at his erection, then up at the nurse’s face. It was too dark to see her properly, but her eyes sparkled in the glow from the monitors.

She looked into his eyes, a smile on her face. "I suppose we'd better take things easy, make sure we don't try and do too much too soon."

He wasn't sure what he'd wanted to hear, but he was pretty sure that wasn't it. He nodded anyway, pretending he understood her reasoning.

She wrapped her fingers around the shaft and squeezed gently, making him sigh. She watched his face as she slowly pumped her hand, with a slight twisting motion.

Ben let out another sigh and dropped his head back against his pillows. The speed of her hand increased, as did the pressure of her grip. When she started stroking his balls with the fingers of her other hand, he knew he wasn't going to last very long.

Her eyes were watching her hands on his cock, and she evidently knew how close he was. She took her lower lip between her teeth and increased her hand speed even more, pushing him over the edge.

Ben groaned when he came, the creamy-white proof of his pleasure spurting out and landing on his stomach.

Although the nurse stopped pumping her hand, she didn't release him but kept squeezing as the last few drops seeped from him. Finally she looked up into his eyes and smiled at him. "Better now?"

Ben nodded, and they both laughed.

She wiped his stomach and cock with a tissue, then with a warm flannel. After washing her hands in the sink in the corner, she walked to the door.

Ben sat forward in his bed. "Wait."

She popped her head back into his room and looked at him, raising her eyebrows in question.

"I don't even know your name."

She nodded. "Yeah, you should be ashamed of yourself, you slut. I'd never let anyone I hadn't been introduced to do that to me."

Ben stared, lost for words.

She laughed—a warm, friendly giggle. “My name’s Eve. Goodnight, Ben. See you tomorrow.”

Then she was gone, and he lay back on the pillows and closed his eyes.

* * * *

The following day, Eve greeted him with a warm smile. “Good morning, and how’s our patient today?”

“Great, thanks.” He noticed she was wearing heeled sandals and no nylons. Ben had a thing for feet, and hers were perfect. Her long legs had a nice tan, and her toenails were painted a pale pink.

She closed the blind on the door, then approached his bed. “Are you feeling stronger?”

Ben nodded, his anticipation forming a lump in his throat.

Eve laughed at his eagerness. “Good.” She slipped her hand under the sheet and her fingers wrapped around his cock.

Ben held his breath and gazed into her big brown eyes. He was fully hard in just a few seconds.

She pushed the sheet down to his thighs and stared at his cock. Bending over him, she took his entire cock deep into her throat, triggering a sharp intake of breath from Ben. She kept him there for a few seconds, her nose snuggled into his pubic hair. Slowly, she raised her head until her lips kissed the tip of his cock.

She stayed bent over him, but released his cock and held it in her hand while she turned to look into his eyes, an expression of concern on her face. “Do you think you’d be able to come again?”

Ben nodded enthusiastically. “Oh yeah.”

She giggled the same way as she had the previous night, then took him back into her mouth. Her tongue danced around his crown and against the sensitive underside, and then she deep-throated him again.

Ben whimpered and closed his eyes. He clenched and released his buttocks in a steady rhythm as Eve rocked her head on him, her tongue never still against his shaft. Just a few short minutes of this and his entire body was shaking.

“Eve...”

Without releasing him from her mouth, she took a step towards the foot of the bed so that she could watch his face while she sucked him. Her eyes seemed to smile at him.

“Eve...”

She released him from her mouth. “Don’t hold back.”

Ben watched his cock, glistening with her saliva, disappear back into her mouth, and he let out another involuntary moan.

Her big brown eyes gazed into his as she brought him to the brink, then suddenly his stomach tightened, and he felt himself gushing.

He saw her eyes narrow and her throat swallow, but other than that she kept licking and sucking until he was completely spent. Never had he known such a beautiful release.

Slowly, she raised her head. His cock had softened, and she laid it gently against his skin. She stood upright, licked her lips, and squeezed his arm gently. “I think you’re nearly there.”

Eve re-opened the blind, then opened the door and smiled at Ben before leaving.

He relaxed onto the pillows and closed his eyes. The next time he opened them it was night time again, which was a surprise because it didn’t seem like he’d napped for long. He lay in the dark and pictured Eve. Her pretty face, big brown eyes, prominent cheekbones, even white teeth, tiny waist, the swell of her hips, long legs and perfect feet. The more Ben thought about her, the more perfect he realised she was. The fact he knew absolutely nothing about her made him feel guilty for not trying to have a conversation, instead just accepting the pleasure she’d given him.

He must have dropped off again, because it was light outside when he was woken by the door opening. Ben sat up, then frowned. It was a different nurse.

“Good morning, Ben.” She was blonde, pretty and friendly. But she wasn’t Eve.

“Morning.” He struggled to keep his smile in place. “Where’s Eve today?”

The nurse was busy making notes of the readings on the monitors. “She’s got a few days off, so I’ll be looking after you from now on. I’m Gina, by the way.” With a smile, she walked out of the room and left Ben to his own thoughts.

Gina called in later with his lunch, which was as fabulous as all the other meals he’d been given. She made a note of the monitor readings, then left. When she came in later in the afternoon, she had a big smile on her face. “Good news—you’re being discharged tomorrow.”

“Great.” Ben tried to force a smile onto his face, but the news worried him. His mind raced. How would he get the chance to see Eve again? He felt a sadness that he couldn’t explain. He hardly knew Eve, but something about her just felt so right.

That night, he couldn’t get to sleep. He lay awake for hours, staring at the ceiling. He must have finally dropped off, because he woke with a start when he heard the door click shut. Ben sat up and smiled.

Eve walked to the side of the bed. She was wearing a brown suede coat and matching heels. “I hear you’re getting out tomorrow.”

Ben nodded, and watched her fingers as they undid the buttons of her coat. She was naked underneath, and his erection grew.

Eve dropped her coat on the chair and pulled the sheet from his body. Then she slipped off her shoes and climbed onto the bed.

Ben put his hands on her waist, caressed her hips. She was smooth and soft and wonderful. He watched as she held his cock in position and lowered herself onto it.

Eve let out a long sigh, and Ben marvelled at the feeling of being sheathed in her warm wetness. As she started to rotate her hips and milk him, Ben ran his hands all over her body. The strong, smooth thighs, the gentle swell of her hips, the flat, toned stomach, her smallish, pert breasts with the hard, cherry-like nipples pointing slightly upwards.

Eve let out a cry, and he could feel her tightening around him, gripping him like he’d never been gripped before. Ben exploded inside her, and Eve cried out again as he pushed up and into her with all his strength.

There were echoes and aftershocks that set his entire body tingling, and then finally Eve stopped her movements and opened her eyes.

Ben was too breathless to speak.

She laughed gently, leaned down and kissed him on the lips. “I’ve been looking forward to that, and it was certainly worth the wait.”

Ben wrapped his arms around her and held her tight. He didn’t want to let her go. He felt foolish—he didn’t know anything about her except how perfect she looked and how wonderful she made him feel—but he knew he loved her. He’d never felt like this about anyone.

“I don’t want to leave tomorrow.” As soon as he’d spoken, he knew how childish he sounded.

Eve smiled, kissed his forehead. “Yes, you do.”

“But I need to see you.”

Eve nodded. She leaned closer, so her mouth was next to his ear. “I know where your house is,” she whispered.

Ben looked at her, his eyes wide in wonder. “I can see you again?”

“Of course.”

Then Eve got off the bed and pulled her coat on. She held onto the bed with one hand as she slipped her shoes back on, then kissed him on the lips a final time before she left the room.

Ben lay in the darkness and thought about how wonderful it’d felt to finally make love with Eve. He fell asleep with a smile on his face.

* * * *

When Ben awoke the next morning, he found a set of his clothes on the chair by the bed. He took the clothes with him to the bathroom and, after he’d showered and dressed, found Gina waiting for him in his room.

“All set?”

Ben nodded. “I think so.”

Gina led the way through the white corridor until they reached a bright lobby. She squeezed his arm, then headed back to the ward.

Ben left through the glass doors. It was a warm, sunny day. He made his way down the drive to the busy street. There were a lot of people walking about, all smiling and chatting. Ben headed towards town and stopped at a café. He sat at a table on the pavement and watched the crowds drifting past.

A bus stopped on the opposite side of the road, and he saw one of the passengers looking at him. Ben recognised him. It was Derek Webb, a guy who'd worked in the same building as Ben a couple of years back. Derek looked surprised to see him, but then gave a sympathetic smile and waved as the bus re-joined the traffic and drove away.

Suddenly, Ben's stomach went cold, and everything fell into place. No injuries, no visitors, the great food, Eve being the epitome of everything he liked in a woman.

Ben closed his eyes. He hadn't known Derek well—they'd only spoken a few times—but Ben knew enough about him. Derek had retired two years ago and died shortly afterwards. This meant Ben was dead, too. He'd been killed in the car accident, and everything that had happened since was just in his mind. Or his soul. Or wherever.

He tipped his head back, closed his eyes and enjoyed the warmth of the sun. Then he stood up and started walking towards home, a smile on his face. He knew with certainty that Eve would be there, waiting for him.

Maybe death wasn't such a bad thing, after all.

THE END

Delores Swallows

United Kingdom (2020)

About the Author

Delores Swallows has many dirty thoughts, and during his free time he writes them down in the form of stories. Born and bred in the northwest of England, he has a commoner's accent and a bit of a crush on his future queen (Kate, not Camilla!).

His stories often feature petite brunettes, high-heeled shoes and voyeurism. He claims he didn't realise these were obsessions until someone pointed out how often they appear in his work.

Find out more about Delores on his web site, chat on Twitter, or follow his new stories on Amazon. And don't forget to sign up to his mailing list for a free story.

Don't forget your dirty story exclusively available to members of Delores' mailing list.

Also by Delores Swallows

Closest Strangers

Mark and Emily watched the younger Philippa perform her dance in the film. She was now dressed all in black: shoes, stockings, skirt and bra. The next item to be removed was her skirt, and several wolf whistles could be heard at the sight of her in the black g-string. She turned her back on Spider, bent over and wiggled her backside in his face. He leaned forwards and almost fell off his chair as he tried to bite her. Facing him again, Philippa reached behind her back and unclipped the bra. She held the cups in place over her boobs as she edged a little closer to him.

The camera moved to the right to get a better angle. The picture became unsteady, briefly showing just the floor and the man's feet. When it settled on the performance again, the view was from much closer. It looked like the cameraman had positioned himself right at the edge of the stage.

Philippa was now topless, her nice firm breasts sticking out for everyone to see. She leaned forward and retrieved her tie from around Spider's neck, wrapping it around her boobs as if lashing together two footballs. Then she pulled it tight, crushing her tits together. With them sticking out like that, she walked up to Spider and straddled his legs. He pushed his face greedily into her chest, taking each nipple in turn into his mouth. Philippa just looked at the crowd and smiled, her body still moving in time to the drums and bass. Her hand was stroking the back of his greasy head.

Mark felt sick. Lauren often teased him for being almost ten years older than Philippa, but Spider was old enough to be her father. Philippa was probably about eighteen in this film, and Spider well into his forties. Mark wondered if Philippa had met Spider before this film was taken, but realised it was unlikely. She couldn't have been at university for long, and he'd been away in prison. Mark wondered why he was trying to justify what he was seeing. Was it hope that she was doing it as a treat for Spider because they were friends?

Philippa was dancing again. She made her way over to the side of the stage where someone passed her something. The camera focused on it, and Mark could see it was a flick-knife. She danced her way back to just in front of Spider's chair and Mark saw her speaking as she passed him the knife. Spider slid a finger inside the thin strap of her g-string and used the knife to cut through the cord. He repeated it on the other side and pulled the small piece of silk from between her legs. Philippa was now naked except for the shoes and stockings. The music came to an end, and the crowd cheered and clapped.

Mark breathed a sigh of relief when it was over, but he still felt sick. He was just about to say something to Emily when another song started to play, and he realised the show wasn't over after all.

When Mark receives a letter from his girlfriend asking for help, he assumes she's having trouble from an ex-boyfriend.

He hurries to Bristol to help her out, only to find that she's been a voluntary participant in the seedy goings-on of a criminal underworld. But now she's apparently upset a psychotic gangster who becomes convinced Mark's part of a plan to disrupt his business.

Mark getting dragged into the fray is bad enough, but he soon discovers it's not only himself that's been drawn into the mess...

Closest Strangers is available from Amazon

Unlikely

Helena smiled. “Okay, the champagne’s gone to my head, so I’m going to come clean. I used to fancy Tony when we were at school, and I was dead jealous when you went out with him.”

This brought a giggle from Joanna. “All the girls fancied Tony. We were young, and only went out for a few weeks. It was nothing serious to be jealous over.”

“What do you mean, nothing serious?”

Joanna shrugged. “Exactly that—we were just kids. He taught me how to French kiss, and I let him become the first boy to play with my boobs.”

Helena laughed, but Joanna could tell from her expression there was something on her mind.

“What is it?”

Helena took a breath, looked to the sky. “We had a fling when we were at university.”

Joanna was shocked—not so much at the revelation, but because it had been kept secret for so long. “But you two didn’t go to the same university.” As if that mattered.

Helena nodded. “I know, but we were both in London. We bumped into each other at a Student’s Union bar where a couple of bands were playing. We were both pissed and ended up snogging.”

Joanna laughed, but part of her felt a little cheated—Tony had been her childhood squeeze. “Did he still French kiss?”

Helena snorted. “He put more than his tongue in my mouth, and I let him do a lot more than play with my tits.”

“Helena, you are such a slut!”

“I know, I know. But we were drunk and horny nineteen-year-olds. And I’d fancied him for years.”

“Does Nigel know about it?”

Helena looked surprised by the question. “Yeah, of course he does. It was before we’d started dating, but he knows about everything I did before we got together.”

Joanna looked back through the windows. “His new wife’s very pretty.”

“Yeah, and she’s only twenty-six. I reckon Tony’s going to be getting more sex tonight than either of us two, the state our husbands are going to be in.”

Joanna sighed. She was so angry at Gareth. This was her first chance to relax, unwind and enjoy herself, and he’d decided to get drunk instead.

“Come on.” Helena took Joanna by the hand. “Let’s go back inside. I haven’t danced in ages—I might get Tony up on the dancefloor and see if his backside’s still as firm as it used to be.”

Joanna laughed. “He’s got a beautiful young wife now, so he won’t be interested in some tired old slapper he’s already used and abused.”

Helena looked at her friend and smiled sweetly. “Bitch.”

[Taken from Wedding Belles]

Four erotic encounters involving people who wouldn't be expected to interact.

Maggie's always had a thing for bad-boys. While working as a defence lawyer, she finds herself in a position to give serial-offender Sean more than just legal counsel...

Inexperienced student Max knows that his friend's larger-than-life neighbour Sheila has four children with four different fathers. But while waiting for his friend to get home, Sheila shows him there are better ways to spend his time than playing computer games...

Joanna's been looking forward to their friends' wedding for a long time. She's worked hard to get her figure back, found the perfect outfit and arranged a babysitter. Her husband decides to drink so much he passes out, but she realises her own evening doesn't have to be ruined, thanks to the Maître d'...

Leanne should be enjoying the perfect life—successful husband, beautiful daughter, nice house and car, regular exotic holidays. When she meets Doug, an obnoxious labourer at her daughter's riding school, he wonders what's missing from her life to make her so bitter. Then he puts his finger on it. In fact, he puts more than his finger on it. Leanne realises he's probably not a labourer, and finds he's actually not that obnoxious...

A collection of hot short stories that show just how strongly opposites attract.

Unlikely is available from Amazon

“And now...” She kicked off her shoes and crawled up the bed, straddling Josh's thighs without taking her gaze from her husband's face. “I'm going to help myself to what I've been desperate for since my last bull.” She trailed her hand over her sex, then held up the wet fingers, rubbing the tips together to show both men how ready she was. “I'm going to have a big bull cock.”

She manoeuvred herself above Josh's groin and reached down to swipe his cock through her outer lips, coating the head in her juices. She flashed him a smile before glancing at her husband. “Shall I?”

Samson's entire body trembled as he gave a nod. Della smiled, then slowly impaled herself. Her eyes fluttered and Josh felt her tight heat envelop him. She groaned theatrically as she pushed down onto the entire length, her head dropping back and her mouth hanging open.

“Oh, Samsy,” she whispered, her voice breathless. “This is bliss.” She slowly rocked her hips, letting out moans and whimpers. “I know you want me describe how good it feels, but I’m just going to show you.”

She spread her hands on Josh’s stomach and began to thrust her hips quickly, riding his cock. “I’m going to show you how quickly something this long and thick will bring me off. I’m going to show you just how...”

Josh felt the grip of her climax.

Della grunted and thrust faster, her nails digging painfully into his stomach until she let out a gasp. “Oh, that’s better.” She sighed, shook her head and spoke to her husband, ignoring Josh completely. “I knew it wouldn’t take long to get off with Ben. What shall I do to him now?”

“Fuck him.” Samson’s face was solemn. “Twist and squirm and bounce on his cock.”

She smiled. “But you know what’ll happen if I do that.”

He nodded.

Josh felt like he was watching a well-rehearsed performance. They’d probably played this scene out with many bulls.

“What’ll happen, Samsy?”

“He’ll come.”

She raised her eyebrows, encouraging him to elaborate.

“He’ll come in your pussy. He’ll fill you with his cum.”

She nodded slowly. “That’s right, Samsy. He’ll fill me with his cum.”

Finally, she looked at Josh, rotating her hips on the engorged cock buried inside her. “Is that what you want to do, Ben?”

Josh took a breath and pushed up with his hips.

Della squeezed and relaxed around him, smiling. “Are you going to fill me with cum?”

Josh kept silent, thrusting himself slowly up and down.

“Are you going to shoot your dirty bull spunk into my cheating, married cunt?”

Though her roleplay wasn’t doing much for him, the effect of her words on Samson was profound. He was visibly shaking in the chair, eyes wide and jaw clenched, a constant trickle of precum leaking from the plastic case down onto the seat of the chair. Josh imagined that there must be a little puddle on the polished floor by now.

Della was grinding herself on Josh's cock. "You heard him, Ben. Samsy wants you to fire your filthy bull jism into his slutty wife's snatch. He loves to see my twat with a big cock in it. He wants you to drench it. Flood it. Saturate it."

When Josh's ex-girlfriend asks to meet for coffee, his hopes that they might get back together are crushed by news of her whirlwind romance and marriage. He offers his congratulations through gritted teeth, still besotted enough to agree to meet her again just days later.

This time, Olivia's more provocative, more flirtatious, and she tells him exactly what part of him she misses the most. Caught up in a rush of emotions which steamroll over his morals, he goes back to her upmarket townhouse and indulges in what he's been missing. Her behaviour—coarser, sluttier—puzzles him, but that doesn't stop him going back for more.

And then she tells him that her husband wants to meet him.

Josh is stunned to find that her husband is a cuckold who actively encourages their liaisons. Hotwife Olivia, with her husband's help, convinces Josh that he has the physical attributes and stamina to service not just her, but several of her friends.

Rising to the challenge, he becomes Ben the Bull, and loves every minute of it. As he explains to a friend, his life is full of dates with gorgeous women interested in having hot, dirty sex and nothing more.

Surely, no red-blooded man could want for anything more than that...?

Unleashing the Bull is available from Amazon

