

HAPPY ENDINGS

An Erotic Hotwife Series

KT MORRISON

HAPPY ENDINGS

---

PART 3

KT MORRISON

CONTENTS

About the Author

Also by KT Morrison

1. Squash
2. Inspection
3. Blowup
4. Lunch Date
5. Club
6. Ferrari
7. Pantry
8. Flight
9. Villa
10. Trunk
11. Loveseat
12. Confession

Afterword

Other Books by KT Morrison

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

KT Morrison writes stories about women who fall in love with sexy men who aren't their husband, and loving relationships that go too far—couples who open a mysterious door, then struggle to get it closed as trouble pushes through the threshold.

Visit My Blog!

sparrow3dx.blogspot.com

ALSO BY KT MORRISON

SERIES

Landlord

Maggie

Obsessed

The Cayman Proxy

Happy Endings

EPIC NOVELS

Cherry Blossoms

Learning Lessons

NOVELS

Going A Little Too Far

Pool Party

Après Ski

NOVELLAS

Watching Natalie Cheat

Taken While He Watches: On Their Honeymoon

Taken While He Watches: At The Combine

Taken By His Best Friends: At The Hockey Rink

Measured Next To Her Ex

Size Curious Brat

This is a work of fiction. Similarities to real people, places, or events are entirely coincidental.

Models on cover are meant for illustrative purposes only.

HAPPY ENDINGS

Part 3

48,000 words

First Edition. June 7, 2018.

Copyright © 2018 KT Morrison

Written by KT Morrison

Cover by KT Morrison

SQUASH

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4

TOMMY HADN'T PLAYED racquetball in about nine years, give or take. Used to play with Pero Stancik, owner of Seventh Ward Haulage, back when he sold custom-made quad-axle super dumps for him. Weird, he thought back then, that this big old ape of a man from the Eastern Bloc who ran a haulage company would play such a pampered sport. But Pero could play despite his bulk. Couldn't beat Tommy though. Of course, back then, Tommy was around Dio's age now.

"Don't give up on that ball, Tommy," Dio yelled.

"I never ... give up," Tommy grunted, slamming into the plexiglass wall face first, but not before whipping a forearm across himself to smash the ball behind.

The ball rocketed back, low to the ground, and Dio was all over it, slicing his racket from low to high like his wicked golf swing. Tommy was bouncing off the glass, pivoting, shoes squeaking madly, dashing across the court. He hit a backhand, the racket coming very close to hitting Dio's shoulder.

The ball went off the wall, coming back with a spin, and Dio was running crossways over the court, putting an elbow into Tommy. Tommy shoved him back.

Dio smacked it with a backhand, tumbling into the side wall. It got Tommy running, and he went cross-court and had to dive.

Dio shouted "Get that plum," and was already back at center court. Tommy nailed it, hit the wall, but he landed in a twisted heap in the alley and felt a twinge in his shoulder. Dio scored the point.

He lay on the floor, heart pounding faster than he'd ever heard it, blurry eyes looking up at all these rubber dash marks on the white walls. Dio's squeaky footsteps echoed as he came to him.

"What's the matter old man? Somebody kick out your walker?"

Tommy rolled to his back and sat up. Dio held out a hand to help Tommy stand, and while Dio was smiling, Tommy thought about getting him with a heel strike right under his kneecap, bring him down to size, get this rich kid on the floor and see who needs a fucking walker ...

Tommy held his hand out and as Dio reached for it, Tommy yanked his hand back, rolled forward and stood up. His knees popped.

They were having a friendly lunchtime racquetball game at the Druid Hill Athletic Club in a comfortable part of Atlanta. Dio's private membership club. The place had an Olympic pool, two basketball courts, tennis courts (indoor and outdoor), racquetball, a full-size gym ... He didn't know what Dio paid to be a member but it had to be high enough to keep the riffraff out. Checking into the place was like checking in at a five-star hotel, complete with concierge and towel service.

Dio clapped Tommy on the back, said, "Hey Tommy, you got an app for your pacemaker? You know, maybe check on it make sure you're not overdoing it."

Tommy stood up straight, face streaming sweat—but so was Dio's. Dio was a good player but a better shit-talker. The kid was huffing as well, his face shining, chin and nose dripping sweat; his grey T-shirt stained darkly all down the back, around his neck and his armpits, even down his stomach, too.

"Pacemaker? My heart pumps rocket fuel," he said, tapping Dio's chest on each syllable with the end of his racket. He added: "Party boy."

That got him. Didn't wipe the smile off his face, but his eyes narrowed. Dio hated not to be taken seriously. Now the game was on.

HALF AN HOUR LATER, they were both sitting on the polished maple floor, Dio with his back at the sidewall, Tommy with his back to the cool glass. Both of them breathing heavy, forearms over knees, holding their water bottles, too exhausted to take a drink; their shirts were completely soaked.

Huffing breath, Dio said, "Want to ... grab a ... bite to eat, old man?"

This old man shit was new, and he needed to knock it off soon.

Tommy slowly checked his watch, said, “I gotta ... get out ... to Cedartown, do some ... some handholding. Those guys at ... Copernicus got some questions. I’ll give them answers ... when I’m done I can ... guarantee you they’re gonna buy ... another cone crusher.” With great effort, he raised the bottle of water and chugged almost three quarters of it, resisting the urge to dump the rest over his head and let it run down his back.

Dio took the opportunity to do the same, almost emptying his bottle, then letting his head fall forward like he was blacking out. “You’re my man ... Tommy boy,” he panted. “A quick bite, buddy? Beer ... and a clubhouse? The chef does it ... with pea meal and maple ... maple mustard. What do you say?” Now his head came back and thumped the wall, looking at Tommy.

He was torn. He was hungry as shit. But his ego was bruised and right now the idea of being on the road with the top-down seemed pretty good. Put some distance between him and Dio. He’d won the first game 15-14. Was feeling pretty good, then Dio came back hard. He won the second game 12-15. They went to three, Dio taking the match at 11-9. Tommy hated losing. Absolutely fucking grade A-1 hated losing. But Dio was his boss.

“Yeah, all right, Dio. Let’s ... get some lunch ...”

IT TOOK a while for them to get their shit together, the two of them gradually kneeling, then standing, leaning on the wall, trying to make comprehensible chit-chat while their cardio systems returned down to regular function. Fast recovery was a sign of a good system, and Tommy was first to recover, get to the door and hold it for Dio. Whether he was ready to or not.

Now they were walking the carpeted hall and into the high, open lobby. On their left side they passed a half stone wall, glass above that soared to the cathedral top. On the other side of the glass was the club’s restaurant, maintained by a starred chef. Lots of well-mannered people gathered at nicely appointed tables eating lunch and drinking beer.

As they walked past—headed to the change room, rackets under their arms, still dripping sweat—Tommy asked, “When did you join here?” The last time Tommy went to the gym with Dio it was at a Wayfair Club. Nice, but not elite.

Dio said, "I don't know. I guess about a month ago. Maybe three weeks. I let my old club expire and I wanted to get back in shape. I wanted something better than what they offer at my condo. And you're making me so much money," he said, smiling and rolling his eyes around to take in the athletic club's extravagance.

"You were in shape, buddy," Tommy said.

Dio said, "Yeah, but I've been in better."

"Haven't we all?"

Dio said, "But you're married."

"That's right, I guess you're back on the market."

"Gotta look my best," Dio said cocking his head and winking.

Like look your best when you strip down naked in front of my wife? Want to look good for Sukie? They bumped through the double swing doors into the men's locker room.

Dio was coming out of a fairly long term relationship with a model. Lasted almost a year with that one. And before that, Tommy was pretty sure he'd been with the other girl for a while, too. At least half a year. Dio had been around Megalos almost as long as Tommy. The kid had come in fresh out of University, Georgia State, just like Tommy. First, he bounced around the company for three years, fitting into all the departments, learning the ropes, sometimes working at his father's side and other times working on independent projects. Then two years ago, around the time that Dio's dad had a heart complication, Dio was appointed VP of Sales. It wasn't like Tommy didn't see it coming. You couldn't complain. His dad owned the company, and it wasn't like Dio didn't hustle. The kid wanted to be successful.

In that time Tommy had worked more closely with him, Dio didn't seem like the kind of guy to sleep around, though it would be expected, given his looks and his privilege. And he didn't seem like the kind of guy who would sleep with another man's wife, let alone a guy he called his friend. Dio was full of surprises.

They passed through the wide hall leading into the lockers, making way for about eight guys with headbands, middle-aged white dudes on their way to play basketball. They got to their lockers and opened them, Tommy's guest locker on the opposite side of a walnut bench between them.

Tommy said, "Too bad about Maria. Thought she was a keeper. She wasn't the one, huh?"

Dio stripped off his sopping shirt, threw it into his laundry bag. He said, "Nah. I was with her a long time. You know, after a while though, things get ... things get stale." He slipped his athletic shorts down, turned to throw them in the bag with his shirt. He was naked except for his jock, but Tommy saw him from behind. When they changed into their sweats Dio had also been polite enough to keep that weapon hidden.

Tommy took off his clothes as well, said, "You got bored?"

Dio grabbed his towel, said, "Bored? No. I like to keep a girl hopping. Try to keep the boredom out of the way. Turns out Maria ... Maria was a bit of a prude."

Dio turned now, closed up his locker. Tommy grabbed his towel, turned to see Dio standing naked before him, a towel held at his hip. Tommy had seen it all before, but from afar. Here Dio was, presented to him as his wife would see it. Up close and personal. He was a specimen, and Tommy's stomach flipped knowing his wife had run her hands over every square inch of this man. From between his toes, under his balls, under his fucking foreskin, all the way up to his scalp.

Tommy cleared his throat, said, "A prude?"

Dio cocked his head, squinted. "You know what I mean."

Maybe he did, maybe he didn't. But this was a new entanglement, and it got his heart pumping. Was Dio some kind of freak? I mean this was a little puzzle piece that fit in nicely with the ones he already had. Dio was a grown man, and he masturbated on the pool deck while Sukie was in the house. He was a freak, wasn't he? Tommy wondered what kind of things he tried on that smoke show Maria that he was dating. She was a ten out of ten. Tall and long-legged. A fashion model. The things he must've done to her. Tommy's heart was racing thinking about what that thing was that Dio tried and Maria threw her hands up and just couldn't be with him anymore. And then that same idea of the tables turned, Dio trying that thing out on Sukie and Sukie liking it, begging for him to do it again. Had to push the thought away, the two of them walking naked now to the men's showers.

IN THE SHOWER TOGETHER, they didn't talk. Just sudsed themselves up, lost in their own shit. They weren't alone, there were other men in there as well, and Dio stood under a shower head on the opposite wall and over two. While Tommy scrubbed his hair, he took a look at Dio. This hotshot playboy. His good looks, that body, that equipment. Tommy's little Sukie deserved that. She was sweet as pie; she had a little tiger in her cage and he knew it was there. He'd love to see that come out. Love to see her scratch her nails all over this kid for real. It would be a real treat for her. One for him as well, he wasn't gonna act like this had nothing to do with him—he wanted to watch it real bad.

Dio had both hands up, lathering shampoo through that thick head of hair. Tommy could see the guy had been hitting the gym harder these last four weeks, and that he'd been watching his diet. With his arms up over his head, there was a ripple of ridged muscle at his midsection, visible under his body hair. All his muscles popped, the line where his shoulder muscle met his bicep was starker and more pronounced now. White suds gathered in his pubic hair and slid down his dangling member. That thing swung between his legs, almost halfway to his knee. This stud was built for fucking. On top of it all, he'd been gifted a successful corporation and a whopper of a trust fund. How could one young man be blessed with so much?

When they were done, they walked back to the lockers, drying off as they went. Tommy stood in front of his open locker getting dressed and now he watched Dio standing completely naked by the mirrors over the sink, using a blow dryer to brush his oily hair back from his face, that big thing swinging between his legs. A real hot shot. He squirted product in his hand and combed his hair back.

Tommy sat down with his pants and shirt on, looking to pull the socks up his feet, Dio rejoined him. He opened the locker, brought out his deodorant, said to Tommy, "How's that shoulder? You tweak it?"

Tommy said, "When I dove for that plum?"

"It was a plum, alright."

"Yeah, it's fine," Tommy said.

Dio stood boldly naked in front of him, one arm up, the opposite hand whisking a Speed Stick up and down his hairy armpit, and his dick swung from left to right, tapping his thighs, right by Tommy's face. He said, "You oughtta get that little wife of yours to take a look at it. She's got some hands."

"Yeah, she does. She'll take care of me."

Dio switched hands, swiping his spicy scent on the other armpit. He said “Yeah, she definitely takes care of me.”

Old Tommy came up from the depths and pictured putting the spike side of his tomahawk in Dio’s sternum right now. But for some reason that little phrase just clicked his ignition switch instead. He wanted to blow off this afternoon’s meeting and get home, put Sukie’s knees up in her ears and make her pant those sounds he loved. It was the kind of thing that should make him mad, but it was having the opposite effect—putting a burner underneath the passion he had for his beloved wife. This guy right here, this slick son of a bitch, had no idea that Tommy knew exactly what Tommy’s wife was doing with him. Didn’t know that Tommy was aware that his wife was using her hands on him during the massage sessions.

Tommy smirked, said, “That’s what you want, isn’t it? A woman to take care of you?”

Dio put the deodorant back in the locker, said, “Isn’t that what every man wants? A woman who knows what she’s doing when she’s got her hands on your body.” Into his palm, he dashed an amber fluid from a small glass bottle. He turned back to the bench and put a foot up right next to Tommy, his big hanging dick swaying in Tommy’s face. He rubbed his hands together, making them shine, said, “I can’t wait to see her tomorrow. She takes everything out of me. You know what I mean? Every ache and pain ... Everything.”

“Sukie’s good with her hands,” Tommy said, doing up his tie and giving that monster a side glance, his chest tightening at the thought that Sook was getting that thing big and hard and stroking it when he wasn’t home. Making Dio come. And saying she liked it.

“Is she ever,” Dio said. He took his oily hands and began to stroke his own penis. Milking it downward with alternating swipes of his hands making his penis shine dully with the body oil. It had a woodsy scent. Dio retracted his foreskin and ran the head of his cock in a circle over his palm, making it shine as well, then closed the foreskin again. He said, “You know, Tommy, I’m real glad you got Sukie to give me that massage that day. She’s really changed my life. I fuckin’ love seeing her twice a week.” He rested both his forearms over his knee, his penis hanging, said, “I told you she could fit me in. Didn’t I tell you she could fit me in?”

BY THE TIME they'd come out to the lobby, Tommy knew there was no way he could have lunch with Dio today. He was about to tear his skin off and scream; he had to get the fuck out of here, get in his Vette and peg it on the highway. If he could hit a hundred, he might burst this tense bubble of rage that swelled against his insides.

He told Dio straight: "Dio, I gotta get the fuck outta here."

They were in front of the concierge desk, on their way to the club's restaurant and they both stopped there. Dio said, "You don't wanna get a bite?"

"I do, but I don't have the time. I need to be on the road." Need.

It was hard to look Dio in the eye and not show him the rage inside, not give away his desire to strike him. The blood pulsed strong through his veins right now. The physical challenge on the court, that awful feeling he got when he lost at something, and the sight of his boss's big body part his wife was falling in love with all jamming up his system, crisscrossing his wires so he could barely think straight. This was fucking flight though, not fight.

"Hey Tommy, you sure? I'm the boss. You're redlining it. You gotta find some balance, my man. You make money. You got that nice house. You got nice toys. You know, sure, your wife has to work—"

"She doesn't have to work."

He shrugged, said, "I just mean, you're thirty-seven, how long you want to run acetone through your breather? Take some time to make yourself better, some Tommy time." Now his hand came to Tommy's waist, and he held him warmly, like he was trying to calm a friend. It occurred to him: he'd been giving away his anxiety, showing his urgent need to get out. That was weakness.

Dio said, "Tommy, give me your keys."

"What keys?"

"To your Vette. Trust me," he said, holding his palm out. With his eyes on Tommy's, showing him a supportive smile, he waved with the other hand and one of the concierges came quickly to their end of the counter. With his keys retrieved from his pants pockets he handed them over to Dio.

Dio turned and put his elbows on the counter, leaning in. His eyes dipped to the concierge's name tag, said, "Rico, can you arrange a wash for my guest's car. Wash, wax, do the inside, too."

"Sure thing, Mr. Megalos," he said, taking the keys from Dio.

Dio said, “We’re going for lunch, it’ll be ready in an hour?”

“Yes, sir,” the kid said. He was a good-looking young guy in a white shirt and a black vest, looking a lot like a less pampered, Latino version of Dio. Tommy got the impression he’d done other favors for Dio and liked the tip money he got in trade.

As Rico scampered off to accomplish his mission, Dio turned to Tommy smiling smugly, one elbow still on the counter. “Where the fuck you going to go now?” he said. “Come on, business lunch with your boss, we’re going to drink two beers even.”

The smugness on Dio’s face was from satisfaction. Tommy could feel it. He was getting off on this. Thinking his hotshot salesman didn’t know his wife was jerking his boss off, and promising to let him fuck her soon. Getting off on being better than Tommy. This was Dio’s way to beat Tommy. To win. His secret victory over the man who meant more to Megalos’s current success than the owner’s son, no matter how that son might bust his ass. Dio couldn’t win at sales, not over Tommy, so he would fuck Sukie to assert his masculine dominance over his star seller.

It would be so fucking simple to just tell Dio that he knew. Tell Dio that he was cool for whatever went down. He liked Dio. Maybe that was the problem. He liked it better if Sukie wasn’t offered to Dio. He liked it better if she was the prize. Liked it better if another man tried to take her, tried to be better than Tommy. That’s what it was, wasn’t it? That’s that itchy feeling that pumped his testosterone through his system. The way he fuckin’ felt right now, his balls must have drained to raisins ‘cause every drop of test was absolutely pounding through his bloodstream.

He smiled. Showed Dio a satisfied face of his own. Calm confidence. The more he smiled, the more that smile wanted to take over his whole face. He said, “Copernicus can wait for me to have two beers and a clubhouse.”

Dio huffed, smiled, his eyes narrowed on Tommy’s. There was uncertainty in Dio now; thinking a moment ago he had the upper hand, now not so sure, given Tommy’s renewed cool.

---

INSPECTION

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5

SUKIE'S two fists worked up and down, bringing Dio closer to another happy ending. This was the fifth time she was going to make this man who wasn't her husband ejaculate. And look at her now, how things had advanced. Today she had Dio sitting at the edge of the table, then laying back. His knees were bent over the bottom and she stood between them. She stroked his massive erection right before her face.

It was so close, so comfortable now. Didn't even feel weird anymore, really. She gave him a good massage two times a week, then when they were done, not for his benefit but for her own, she enjoyed using her hand and watch him release. She loved to see his bronze flesh gleam with the oil she'd rub over him, love to see his stomach heave and bellow as he got close. He was nice and trim, tight bellybutton, broad and muscular chest. And she had a front-row seat. Kind of the conductor, even.

Dio was even so comfortable as to still be relating to her the story he began before she put her hands on his cock. "So that's when ... oh, mm, that's when I saw the guy ... the same guy, Sook ... same guy... same guy as-s before."

"Yeah?" she said, her hands still going up and down. Dio's legs were splayed wide, and she stood between them. He lay back, but propped up on his elbows. His eyelashes fluttered, and he groaned now, his head fell back showing off the big thick muscles of his neck. His Adam's apple bobbed up and down. She loved watching his face when she pleased him.

She laughed, said, "You were saying?"

His head still arched back, he gasped, "Oh, fuck, what the fuck was I saying?"

She laughed again, slowed her stroke but squeezed it tighter, listening to the oil crackle in her grip. She said, "It was the guy. You saw him at the bar, and he said that thing. Then you saw him at the club or something?"

"Sukie, who gives a fuck? Know what I mean? Oh man ..."

She felt a blush cross her face; this was definite acknowledgment that she was providing exquisite pleasure. Usually it only came when it erupted from his hole in thick white ropes. This was the first day he was really letting her know, and it made her feel good.

Now her hands worked a little more magic. Her current goal was to stop him from finishing his story about a guy that he almost got in a fight with. When he started to speak again, she gripped him mid-shaft, thumb and index finger making a partial ring around the soft plump ridge of his cock head and she flipped it up and down. Now she had his leg shaking, and she giggled. "I take it you like that?" she whispered.

He groaned, his sleepy face tilted forward, and he regarded her through narrow eyes. He smirked confidently. "Yeah, you know me. You know what works."

"Yeah," she said, "You don't need to tell me. I know your spots."

That devilish grin crept higher on one side and his eyes got narrower. "Show me," he said. "Show me you know."

She laughed and inhaled, her eyes lowered to his manhood held in her two hands. She said, "Right here," palming the top side of his cock and then running an index finger along the cable underneath, pressing it against the underside of his cock head where it split in two. "You love this right here. This is your favorite spot on your whole dick."

He moaned, his head fell back, and he laughed. "You got me."

"But also right here," she said, and the hand that cradled the top slipped downward. A big vein ran the topside—his dorsal vein—and she slipped her finger along its raised shape and curled it to the side. He shivered. "You've got a sensitive spot right here."

He didn't say anything, but he chuckled.

Then she said, "And your balls. You like them being touched. Some guys don't, but you do." Her other hand slipped down and lifted them, cradled them in a cup, and then she scratched underneath with her fingernails.

Now her other hand stroked him up under his glans. He had to lay back down. Her own smile went wider now, and she watched this beautiful man lay back and let her pleasure him.

She returned to a steady stroke, up and down, gripping, and then just using the pads of her fingers. He sat upright again and watched her. He said, "You're really good at this."

She said, "Not sure that's a compliment."

He laughed, "You mean you handled a lot of dicks?—no, I mean the whole thing. The massage, everything. You got magic hands."

"Oh yeah?" she said. "Guess what."

"What?"

"That was the name of my company."

"Magic hands?" he laughed.

"Yeah, before Tommy told me not to put that on a sign. But it's on my official paperwork: Sukie's Magic Hands, LLC. You'll see it on your statement."

He laughed, threw his head back. She heard the rumble of his laugh in his balls. She smoothed both her palms up and down his cock and pressed it to his belly.

She said, "You think that's funny?"

"I see Tommy's point."

She agreed. "He did have a point."

Dio said, "That Tommy is a smart one."

She bit her lower lip, but looked right in his eyes. She said, "He is smart."

Dio said, "Smart enough to lock you up before another man got to you."

"Tommy doesn't fuck around," she said.

"I don't blame him. I met a girl like you, I'd lock her down. Put a ring on that finger." Then he reached to her, and she didn't flinch. Here she was holding his cock in two hands, the aim to make him ejaculate. They were having a free and friendly and strange conversation, now he was reaching out and cradling her face and looking in her eyes. When did this all get so blurry? Truth was she liked the feel of his hand on her. He had big, strong, well-groomed hands, and he stroked her soft cheek with the cushion of his thumb. She even leaned her face into it.

She said, "Maria was beautiful. What happened with her?"

"Complicated. I don't know," now he averted his eyes, looked around the backyard. "She was a little stiff."

“Uh-huh,” Sukie hummed, swooping circles over the underside of his cock with the pointed pads of her fingers.

“Hoo, that’s good, Sook, I like that. See, Maria would think what we’re doing is disgusting.”

“I don’t think it’s disgusting.”

“Exactly.”

“I like what we’re doing,” she laughed, then gave his balls a tug.

He groaned and his head nodded. “Mm, I was just telling Tommy, Maria was a prude.”

“What was my husband doing asking about Maria?” she said, picking his cock up again and stroking it.

“Hey, he wanted to know if she was on the market.”

She slowed her hand on him, smiled and gave him a sly look. “That’s not my Tommy.”

Dio laughed. “Look at you. You own him, don’t you?”

“You think I do?”

“You’re the boss and you don’t even know it. That’s so fuckin’ sexy.”

“Tommy’s the boss,” she said.

“Tommy thinks he’s the boss. Look what you’re doing.”

She averted her eyes from him, watched her hands slip up and down his huge, oily cock. When her gaze came up again to meet his, his expression had changed, and he looked serious and sultry.

He said, “Why don’t you let me fuck you?”

“I said I would. It’s next week, Dio. I’m ... I can’t wait.”

“Tommy’s up north today, Sook. He’s three hours away. You know what I would do to you in three hours.”

“I can guess.”

“Let me take you upstairs, Sukie. We’ll stretch out on your bed, and what you’re doing with your hand we can do with our bodies. I want to put my hands all over you again.”

“Soon, Dio, soon,” she whispered, squeezing his cock harder, her heart racing with his words. It would be so easy to just get it over with. She was developing another ache for him, a low throb between her legs.

“You know, Tommy’s coming to Africa with us.”

“I know.”

“You keep promising me, but it would be easier right here, today.”

“We’ll figure it out, we will. I want to fuck you so bad, trust me, we’ll find a way.”

“Come up here with me, Sook, come lay on the table.”

“I can’t, Dio, just let me finish you.”

“No, come lay with me, Sook, I’ll keep my hands to myself.”

He eased her hands away, scooted himself farther up the bed so he lay on it completely, and patted an empty spot next to him.

“Dio,” she scolded him half-heartedly, but she was already slipping her flip-flops off.

“That’s it, come and lay with me,” he said, smiling with satisfaction and holding out a hand to help her. She took it and got up on the table with him. She adjusted her shorts and her top, then he guided her to lay down with him, pulling over balled up towels for a pillow. “Put your head down and lay with me,” he said.

She did, laying her head down nervously, too nervous to smile, their faces were so close together. Dio looked deep in her eyes.

It was a scorching bright day, and the sun came almost directly down. She said, “Hey, there’s blue in your eyes. Flecks of blue.”

His black lashes narrowed as he smiled, his eyes never leaving hers. A strand of her hair tickled her cheek, Dio saw it and ran his fingers to push it behind her ear. The tips of his fingers barely touched her and it got her heart fluttering. She couldn’t lay with him like this, at least not for long, but she would enjoy it for a few moments more.

“Tell me about Africa,” she whispered.

As he looked up, thinking of where to begin, her hand found him again, cupping his scrotum, then sliding higher to grip his shaft.

He said, “It’s beautiful. You’ve never seen anything like it.”

“I’ve never even been to Europe,” she said, starting to stoke him again, looking in his eyes.

“No? Tommy never took you?”

“He likes America.”

“He gets around on business,” Dio said. “He doesn’t want to take you?”

“We go all over. We go where it’s hot. Where there’re beaches.”

“France has beautiful beaches. Italy, Greece ...” he said, his eyes lowered from her to look between their two bodies. Now his hand went to her chest. She wore a cotton top with clamshell sleeves and a low scoop neck. On purpose. She wanted him to see what she had. His oily finger stroked between her breasts, dipping a finger into her shirt and pulling it down exposing some of her ample bosom. “I’d love to take you there, show you off.”

“I’d like that,” she said, picturing herself strolling the beach with him, being seen with him. Europe had nude beaches, and they would be a spectacle, they would turn a lot of heads. The two of them with their tans, her big breasts, his huge penis; everyone would think Wow, those two are built for sex—what must they look like together when they’re fucking?

“Say the word, Sook.”

“Maybe,” she whispered, knowing there was no way she could go with him, but it was fun to fantasize.

Both their gazes dropped now between them, watching her grip on him, watching his hand move lower, taking the hem of her top and pulling it outward. Then his hips were pulling back, and she looked up to his eyes again, felt him slip his cock under her shirt, felt the heat of it against her stomach. Her hand stayed on him, and she didn’t stop him, didn’t ask him what he thought he was doing though she should. Her hand pressed his cock against her skin, and swiped it from side to side, the thing gliding across her with the oil she used. Dio made a low chuckle, liking to see her getting into it, thinking this was one step closer to getting her up in the bedroom.

She said, “I have stuff to do this afternoon.”

“You can cancel it,” he said, but she shook her head no, still pressing herself against his cock. Now he took the hem of her shirt higher and she still didn’t stop him. A finger curved under the trim of her bra, one of her nicest, knowing he was coming, and he tugged it higher. Most bras had some trouble holding up her ladies, and laying like this had the bottom curve of her breasts slipping under the trim. He hadn’t exposed her, her nipples were still covered, but the bra had loosened and now barely supported her bosom.

She looked in his eyes again, saw that serious and confident look there. Her eyes told him We can’t do this, Dio, but she said nothing, just let him continue like she was curious to see what he would do though she already suspected. The end of his erection poked against the softness of her breasts, and eyes still on his, she guided his cock with her hand till the tip slipped into the seam of her pressed-together tits. His cock was hot against the cooler flesh of her breasts and she liked the feel of his hardness against them. She scooted lower on the table, tilting her chin up to keep her eyes on his. With a plunge of his hips his cock was under her bra and pushing through her cleavage. She arched her back, presented them, slipped the arm she lay on forward, hand tugging on the top curve of her breasts, pressing oil against herself, and giving that huge cock head space to come through. It did, and she felt his hardness stroke through her, felt his girth tighten her bra against her breasts. The tips of her fingers searched for his glans, found it, his foreskin full retracted, felt the soft smooth skin of it.

“This is so bad,” she whispered to him. Swooping the pads of her fingers in circles over the head of his cock, the thing so large she couldn’t cover it with three fingers.

“That’s why we’re doing it,” he said.

“I know,” she said, holding back a giggle—or more accurately his vampiric sex gaze squashing all the humor and leaving only lust in her. Her other hand found his scrotum, and she handled it while he began fucking that big thing through her cleavage. The hot feel against her skin, the awful thing they were doing, all made her heart hammer. Her lips parted, and she closed them quick; if he took that as an invitation to kiss, there would be no way she wouldn’t open her legs for him today. She let his balls go and smoothed her cupped hand behind them, felt the swell between his legs, began running her hand back and forth there, and gently spanking his balls, too.

He liked that, she could see it in his eyes, feel it in a sudden surge of hardness, like he was flexing that cock. It narrowed her eyes, and she showed him her own version of sexual confidence. He wasn’t the only one. Now her hand slipped even lower and Dio widened his legs, let her do it. He smiled and bit his lower lip. With one hand using bunched fingers to stroke at his cock head as it popped in and out of her cleavage, the other now slipped behind Dio, the tip of her middle finger stroking between his ass cheeks and pushing against his anus.

He groaned and squinted as she slipped her finger inside him and curled it forward. She pressed her body tighter against him, squashed his testicles against her stomach while he fucked her tits urgently. “Holy fuck, Sukie,” he sighed in a soft, straining whisper.

She said, “I’m no prude.”

“I know you’re not. You’re my kind of woman. You’re fucking driving me crazy.”

“You going to come for me?” she asked him, giving him a cute little porn face that got him. If she couldn’t keep on top of this, maintain control over this, she would make a big mistake.

Dio’s hand went to her leg, touched the inside of her thigh above her knees. She pressed her legs together.

“Open your legs for me, Sook.”

“No way, please, please just come ...”

Dio persisted, pushing his hands between her legs and she let them come apart.

“You can’t touch me there. You understand?” she warned him as his hand went higher.

She closed her eyes and pleaded, “Just come for me, Dio, please, I want you to come on my tits so bad ...”

---

IT WAS ANOTHER HOT DAY, and Tommy had the top down on the Stingray. He wound up the Shearwater Ridge, turned onto Spearhead, saw his home on the hill, glad the day was over. He’d gone up to Chattanooga looking to follow up on a cold call. A bunch of retired executive types in a startup company who thought they knew everything about mineral exploration. They thought they could get the better of old Tommy, tried to tell him a thing or two about how they got things done. Truth was those guys would be out of business in a year. Bunch of dreamers. Usually when they were that arrogant and looking to show off he’d come out of there with a bigger check.

He came in the driveway hot, stereo blaring, trying to blast away some of the irritation that seemed to be tightening him up. The garage door wound up and he zipped underneath before it was even fully open, yanked the parking brake and shut her down. The garage was eerily quiet in the absence of Metallica. It was expected when he came home at this time he’d hear Sukie and the boys in the pool, but it was quiet.

He grabbed his briefcase, went to the back door that led to the yard. Sukie’s massage table was there, some towels laid out on it, her stand with bowls on top. She hadn’t cleaned up. The boys weren’t around. He tried to remember where they were going today. Maybe it was a camp field trip. He walked to the kitchen window and looked in the house. It was empty. Lights turned off. He walked to Sukie's table, saw her balled up things, thought about cleaning it up for her. Tried again to remember where the boys were. School started next week, he remembered that. Maybe he should fire up the grill. He probably should. He'd go in the house, change his things, put on the apron and cook up some burgers for everybody whenever they got home. The yard was a mess, and he'd clean that up, too. Check the chlorine level in the pool. Maybe do some vacuuming. When he turned, he noticed a bundled blue cotton something at the foot of the table.

All of Sukie's massage things were white terrycloth. This looked to be a shirt or something. He picked it up using just the point of his index finger and a thumb. Like it would be dirty. It was a strange thought, but it was working in his subconscious: Sukie used her hands on Dio today. His wife liked to do that now. This piece of cloth could be filled with a big load of sticky white Dio batter. Why on earth would that arouse him?—but it was true, it really did. The fact that his wife did this disgusting thing with his hot playboy boss was exciting. He opened it, and it wasn't some towel or rag or something, it was a scoop neck T-shirt of Sukie's. It had been stained down the front.

He spread it flat on the end of her massage table and inspected it. It wasn't semen, and he chuckled at the thought that was neither good news nor bad news. Under normal circumstances that would absolutely be bad news. But for whatever reason he was still feeling his pulse race.

It seemed to be oil, like an oily stain in a fuzzy bar that went straight up the front of the shirt. And round marks over where her breasts would be that looked like fingerprints—like where Dio had pressed his fingers when he grasped Sukie's tits.

Then just like that the switch was flipped. Now he didn't like it. Didn't like it at all. How did Sukie's shirt get dirty like this? It was a Thursday, Dio was here, how did Sukie's shirt get stained like this? Did they embrace? Did Dio put Sukie's little feet up over her head and pound her with that monster, his greasy chest flattened against hers?

Then the flip was switched again. That was an entertaining thought. But not without him. The only way that was allowed to happen was if he were there to see her face when she enjoyed it.

He felt his back get a little heavy, his stomach tightening with a small increment of dread. It cinched him up, made him hunch forward, and he furrowed his brow trying to determine where it came from.

Then without a conscious thought he was moving, and while his legs were taking him somewhere without his explicit consent he still knew the destination. He walked through the hall, dropped his briefcase by the door to his office, didn't even look down, kept walking, turned, mounted the steps to the second floor. He marched to the bedroom and went straight to the bed. He threw aside his suit jacket and got down on his knees. The bed was unmade. Had they been up here? Had Sukie been using her hands on Dio, and when the passion got too hot the two of them ended up embracing, Dio taking her shirt off, Sukie's short legs hooping around his waist and him carrying Tommy's beloved wife up the stairs with that big thing bouncing and wagging under his wife's rump, only to end up tumbling into the marital bed?

Sukie usually made the bed. But not always. He tried to remember if it had been made before he left. Didn't think so. Maybe she just didn't make it today. He climbed onto the bed, got low, and began sniffing the sheets. He smoothed them out, flipped the top sheet. Looking for what? Probably black curly hairs. That would be a sign. A definite sign. Black curly hairs in his bed would mean one thing: he couldn't trust Sukie. But shit, he could, couldn't he? If he couldn't trust Sukie in his life, he could never trust anyone ever. Still, this escapade they were engaged in was getting a little hot. The dial was turned up a little too high. He didn't know if they could wait until Africa. This just needed to be done, accomplished, filed away and then walked away from. A hot tryst that he and his wife would enjoy and then close the book on.

He unbuttoned his shirt, looking out the window at the hazy, sunny landscape of the ravine behind the house. He took his shirt off, walked into the bathroom, and dropped it in the hamper.

Then lifted it back out of the hamper. He saw Sukie's things in there.

Cotton panties, her short shorts, a bra. Underneath those were the things he wore to bed last night. These things of Sukie's were placed there since then. She'd changed after seeing Dio. He tried to remember if she had an appointment today after Dio. He lifted her panties out of the hamper and held them out. Tiny cotton thing. How did this little piece of cloth hold in that big beautiful ass of hers? He inspected the crotch. Let them fall inside out, ran his fingers underneath the fabric. Looking for what? Looking for evidence. Like what, Tommy? Semen stains? Think Dio put a big load up inside your wife today? That is what he thought, wasn't it? Maybe not thought ... but worried. He brought them closer and smelled them.

"Tell me you're not sniffing my panties."

He threw them down to his side clenched in his fist, his heart pounding. "Jesus fucking, for Christ's sake, Sukie. You're quiet like a like a fucking Cherokee."

She said, "Yeah, and I'm hunting the biggest, dumbest buffalo in the house." She crossed her arms and leaned against the door jamb. The sun was behind her, and it rimmed her silhouette in bright pink light. She said, "Tommy, were you sniffing my panties?"

They were still balled in his fist at his side. "Yeah," he said.

She asked him: "What did you find?"

"Nothing."

She said, "Smell them again."

What did she mean by that?—and suddenly Tommy was thinking of the racquetball club yesterday, and that oil Dio had dabbed into his hand and then rubbed into the skin of his gnarly weapon, running it up and down, smoothing it over his scrotum. He brought the panties up, his eyes on Sukie as he put his nose in them and smelled again. He tried to remember that woody scent. He said, "I don't smell anything."

Sukie said, "You sure?"

He dropped the panties into the hamper, put his hands on his hips and said, "What's going on, Sukie?"

She said, "You don't trust me?"

He said, "Shouldn't I?"

The bedroom window was open and now he heard his boys yelling voices, their running feet, a splash in the pool. Someone stood and bounced a thudding sound on the diving board and Tommy J's voice yelled Cannonball! There was a louder splash.

"Where were the boys?" he said. "I don't remember."

Sukie said, "With Heidi and Francine, two of the other mothers. I had to pick them up down at Granville Park." She unbuttoned her khaki shorts and did down her fly.

He said, "Where'd they go?"

She let her shorts fall to the floor and said, "The zoo."

Tommy said, "Shit, that's right. The zoo."

"I couldn't go. Appointments to keep. You know."

“I do.”

“I helped them unpack when they got back to the park. I brought Heidi and her boys home for dinner. Joe’s in Texas for two days.” She wore a button-up plaid short-sleeved shirt. She undid the top button and then pulled it up over her head and threw it on the floor.

“What are you doing?” he asked her.

She said nothing, arms folding up behind her, chin pointed up and eyes watching him confidently. The straps were undone, fell, and her breasts sagged in the cups. She removed the bra and tossed it to the floor as well.

“Sukie, what are you doing?”

She shimmied her panties down and kicked them toward the toilet. She said, “Inspect me.”

“Inspect you how?” It was a serious question. He wanted to inspect her.

She said, “You’re sniffing my panties. You’re looking for evidence. You think you’re gonna smell something? I hope you don’t think you can smell Dio’s semen or something. You might smell me. He got me pretty hot today. I didn’t shower after, I just changed my clothes.”

“Come on, Sukie,” he said, grabbing himself through his pants now. The boys were outside playing, it wasn’t the time to do this, but he was going to, anyway. “Heidi’s here?”

She said, “Inspect me, Tommy. Just because you don’t smell him inside my panties doesn’t mean I’m innocent.”

“Are you guilty?”

“Come and see,” she said as she held his gaze and walked backward to the bed.

Tommy followed, and Sukie climbed on the bed and lay sideways across it waiting for him.

He said, “You’re so fucking sexy, Sook.” At the foot of the bed he stood shirtless, handling his erection through his suit pants looking down on his beautiful and dirty wife. The last few weeks with her had been supercharged. Just looking at her now had his heart pounding like it did when he first saw her when they were young, and he’d been waiting for her to show up at the bar.

Her knees were up and together, and then he watched as they slowly came apart. He looked at the little thing between her legs, that little twist of pink neatly folded in her cleft mound. Her squashed butt cheeks as they lay on the bed, her little toes curled up as her heels dug into the mattress. She said, "Did your boss come inside me today?"

Her voice was high and soft and sweet, and its sibilance danced across his ear and made him groan and flex his cock in his hand. He climbed up on the bed on all fours now, and from the bed he could see out to the far end of the pool, Heidi out there now, bringing a canvas bag to the table by the barbecue. Her boys were with her, his boys in the pool. He got over top of Sukie, and she accepted him, her nails scratching over his shoulders. She said, "Did he? Did he come inside me?"

He kissed her lips lovingly then worked himself lower, feeling the warm of her body, the softness of her belly, his chin scraping over her mound and then he ran his tongue over her slit. She moaned. He leaned back so he could look at it. Her wrinkled membranes tightly packed, and he brought two fingers up and parted them with a peace sign. Her bright pink interior was perfect. He touched her with his tongue and she hissed. He widened his tongue and ran it up and then the point flicked at her button as it came to life. He smelled her.

She said, "What do you think?"

He smiled and said no.

She smiled wider than him and said, "Maybe he fucked my ass."

"Shit, Sukie," he exhaled, feeling his brain do a somersault at how dirty she was. It started to feel very unsafe that this dirty wife of his was spending time alone with his horny, well-hung boss.

Outside Bobby yelled, "Marco!" and another boy's voice, higher and younger laughed out: "Polo!"

They ignored the voices, and Sukie said, "Maybe he came inside my ass. You better check, Detective Bosch."

He laughed and growled, grabbed her ankles and pushed her knees up to her ears, rolling her onto her shoulders so he was looking straight down at her sex and anus. She laughed instead of blushing. It was sunny and bright in the bedroom, the boys were out back, and they had company. If he tried this two months ago Sook would have kicked him then covered up, asked him what the hell was wrong with him. He ran his hands down the back of her thighs and spread her cheeks even wider making her little wrinkled sphincter wink at him. He dug his thumbs in and opened it a little. Then he bent and kissed her there. Ran his tongue around in circles and felt her jumping and shaking under his touch. She moaned his name.

Now she whispered, "Come up here."

He let her down, unbuttoned his pants and did down his fly. She brought her knees up, and he embraced her, one hand gripping his cock, stroking it to find her wet hole and sliding himself all the way inside his wife. She moaned and arched her back and he felt her nails scratch him. He took her mouth and kissed her. She broke the kiss away and said, "Smell my breath."

"Your breath, Sook?"

She said, "You smell him on my lips?"

He said, "Why? Did you suck him?"

"You tell me. I don't remember."

He kissed her again and pried her mouth apart with his tongue, ran his nose over her lips and pretended to smell her breath. She gasped for him as he thrust himself into her.

He said, "No. No, you sexy bitch. You're driving me so crazy."

She was humping him, writhing underneath his driving hips, and her nails scratched at his scalp. She sighed, "Tommy ... smell my chest, Tommy."

He pounded into her, trying not to make too much noise with the headboard. The boys played loudly outside, Heidi laughed and called out to Bobby, and Tommy pinpointed their locations in his mind's eyes so he knew they had time.

He bucked and bucked and looked in her eyes. He said, "Your chest? Oh no, don't tell me. He titty fuck my wife?"

"I don't know, Tommy."

He said, "These are Tommy's titties," then clamped his mouth over one of her nipples. She giggled and laughed and then thrust her head back in the sheets as he went deep. He was so in love with her. He arched his back so he could put his hands on her beautiful breasts now. He squished them in his grip, ran his thumbs over her hardened nipples. He squashed them together and kissed between them. He sucked on her nipples.

She gasped, "Kiss them, Tommy, suck them ..."

He brought his knees closer, pushing her into the bed as he went deeper. He took her breasts and pressed them together so that her nipples almost touched and he ran his tongue back and forth over them. They were hardened and rubbery and blinked under the pressure of his tongue.

She said, "You taste him, Tommy?"

"No," he gasped.

She said, “He came all over those tits today, Tommy, all over my chest and neck, even my chin, baby ...”.

He laughed wetly across her breasts, let them go, kissed at her neck.

She said, “He did, Tommy, he came on my tits today.”

His kissing stopped, and he raised his eyes to meet hers. “Did he?” Tommy asked, and he felt his expression constricting, pulling down.

Sook saw his face change, and he saw a glimmer of something in her eye, not fear, but close. She shook her head lightly, side-to-side. No.

“You better be kidding,” he said.

Outside, Heidi called from the yard, yelling Sukie’s name toward the kitchen.

“I’m kidding, Tommy, don’t stop, please, I’m close.”

He was close, too, and when Sukie closed her eyes feeling him thrusting deep again, he watched her face. Shutting her eyes, shutting him out, closing herself off from her husband’s lie-detector vision. It hardened him further and Sukie felt it, gasping and squeaking as he pummeled her. He covered her mouth with his hand and she blurted air around his fingers. He flexed his cock inside her, stabbed deep and hard, got the headboard shaking. The idea that Sukie’s dirty talk could be true had his heart on a runaway freight train. He watched her as he fucked her, watched her squeezed-off and pinched face, wet in her lashes, his hand clapped over her mouth while her big breasts bounced against his forearm with his fucking. If Dio had titty-fucked her today and came on her chest, Sukie liked it, and she told him, but when confronted she pivoted, kept that dirty thrill to herself. His perverted wife was such a turn on, and the fact she would hide her badness was intensely thrilling.

His eyes narrowed on her pretty face twisted with ecstasy—her husband pounding into her and doing it good while her mind played back the awful thing she did today with another man. The oncoming orgasm surprised him and his hand fell from her mouth as his eyes fluttered and he lost control of his hips, his back lurching, his legs bucking wildly. Sukie came, too, crying out loud, Tommy roaring in her ear. She dragged her nails down his back and it felt like she tore him. He exploded inside her and it felt like the eruption burst his tubes it was so abrupt and forceful.

“Oh God,” he yelled, grabbing fistfuls of sheets, Sukie gasping and moaning into his neck, biting his collar.

They moaned and grunted, both of them squeezing each other, bucking on their bed, as she came long and sizzling and he kept pulsing more and more sexual product up inside her. When it was done, he collapsed and rolled to his side.

Sukie was up and away, squirming from him, re-directing the events that preceded their orgasm. He let her, didn't chase her. She stood at the side of the bed, leaning forward and spying out the window, her heavy breasts swaying side-to-side. "Oh shit, Tommy, God we gotta get down there."

"I know," he said, his eyes poring over her. His seed spilled from her slit and ran a wet line down the inside of one of her thighs.

She noticed its tickle, bent to look, said, "I can't go down there, oh wow, Tommy, I have to clean myself, you go down, stall for me ..."

Now she was trotting away on her toes like she tried to be silent, disappearing into the bathroom and closing the door.

Tommy heaved off the bed, looked outside to see Heidi out there doing her best to entertain four boys all by herself, needing help. From his dresser he pulled some clean clothes; khaki shorts and a Polo shirt.

"Oh my God, Tommy," Sukie said from the bathroom, "look how red my cheeks are, she's going to know we were fucking."

He didn't answer, zipped up his shorts and squeezed his bulge. Good, he wanted her to know. And if he got down there on time and he still had this dwindling erection, he'd like Heidi to see its shape through his shorts, let her know he really did have a big dick.

---

BLOWUP

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7

THE MORNING WAS SPENT at the Megalos factory yard just north of the Fulton County Airport at an industrial park that butted up against the Chattahoochee River. It was where they kept the demo cat and had a gravel pit they used to demonstrate. A group of Korean executives from Seoul came in to see what the L3750 could do; not Tommy's customers, but he was there with Dio to watch what happened.

Tommy and Dio stood with them, to the side watching their expressions as Chili put the cat through its paces. He ran it up and down the lot like they'd seen him do a dozen times in the last few months. The guy knew how to work this thing and he knew how to make it look good. When it was done—though nothing was said, nothing was signed—he was pretty sure within thirty days they'd place an order. He'd have to book himself a trip to Korea in the new year.

So now Dio, Tommy, and Chili were standing around the side step that walked up to the cat's cab, in between the huge tracks of the big machine. Dio had a silver flask with an expensive single malt and they were taking sips and passing it back and forth. Chili smoked a cigarette. It was a lot of back patting and male camaraderie, something Tommy was very good at. Karly had bagged these Koreans, and she was off with them now, taking a look inside the factory.

Tommy stretched, then Dio did as well, checking his watch. Dio said, "It's getting near that time."

Chili handed back the flask, said, "What time?"

Dio arched his back, groaned as he twisted from side to side, said, "Massage appointment. Tommy's wife."

Chili said, “Yeah?—Tommy’s wife? You see her for a massage?”

“Yeah, see her twice a week,” Dio said, smiling.

Chili bounced his eyebrows, said, “Can I get an appointment?”

Tommy said, “What does that mean?” He locked eyes on Chili and the guy didn’t like it. He was short but heavy, all big bones and muscle and a good layer of six pack padding.

“Tommy,” the guy said, laughing and looking to Dio, “who doesn’t want a massage?”

Tommy said, “No, what was that?” He nodded his chin to Chili’s face.

Chili said, “What was what?”

“Bouncing your eyebrows.” His arms were folded across his chest and his face had pulled tight.

Dio said soothingly, “Okay, Tommy, take it easy.”

What did that mean—bouncing his fucking eyebrows? Did he think Dio was sticking it to Sukie? It was one thing for it to be a secret, another thing for other people to think it. Before he could consider the repercussions, he had Chili’s lapels in his fists and had him shoved up against the track, bits of gravel falling in a fine powder over his shoulder.

Chili said, “Tommy, what the fuck?”

Dio was there, getting in between them, putting a forearm against Chili and pushing on Tommy’s chest, trying to get him to let go. Dio was saying, “Tommy, Tommy, Tommy, cool it, cool it.” He got one of Tommy’s hands off Chili’s lapel.

Chili said, “Tommy, I didn’t mean anything ...”

Tommy said, “Didn’t mean anything about your fuckin’ eyebrows?” and he made a fist.

Chili put both hands up in surrender. “Tommy, you’re fucking crazy.”

Tommy kept his gaze but shook his head now. He let Chili go and Dio walked him away, Tommy still leering back over his shoulder.

It was Dio whose face he wanted to put a fist in right now, but instead he was standing off to the side with the guy, getting a talking to. Dio saying, “Tommy, what the fuck? He didn’t mean anything. We’re just having fun.”

Tommy said, “He said something he shouldn’t have said.”

“Yeah, maybe, but you’re freaking out.”

Tommy said, “He shouldn’t have said it. Or bounced his eyebrows talking about my wife.”

Dio said, "Look, I'll talk to him. You go cool off, go back to the office. Or wait, go to my club, tell them I sent you. I'll call them. Go sit in the hot tub, just cool it ... seriously, I want you to take some Tommy time."

Tommy shrugged away from him, still mad. Dio returned to Chili and Tommy heard him saying, "Come on now, can't say that about a guy's wife."

He heard Chili saying, "I didn't even mean nothing."

"Hey," Dio said, "you got to be careful."

Over Dio's shoulder, Chili hollered, "Tommy, I'm sorry, bro."

---

DIO LAY ON HIS BACK, naked, but wearing his sunglasses today. Bronze skin gleaming, half-engorged, brown, wrinkled cock laying sideways over a hip, he had his hands laced behind his head.

She said, "What do you mean?"

"Same as last time."

"You liked that, huh?" she said.

"Do it again."

She smiled and said, "Let me see your eyes."

He smiled so she could see his teeth now. He took a balled up towel and put it under his head so that his chin tucked his chest. With one finger he pushed the sunglasses so they rested on his forehead above his eyes. White dots sparkled under his long, black lashes. While he looked in her eyes, he slowly drew his knees up.

Sukie worked her hands together, getting them nice and slippery again. She stepped to his side. She lifted and held his heavy scrotum, ran her thumb over his testicles. Then slowly her middle finger stroked underneath, working below, heading between his cheeks. That made his smile go wider.

"This what you want?" she smirked.

Dio said, "Sukie, you are one bad ass bitch. You know that? Tommy know what he's got?"

"Tell me," she said.

"Fuck," he said, "the things I want to do to you," and he reached out and touched her thigh just below the hem of her very short shorts. It sent an electric tingle through her that made her hair stand on end. She didn't shy away. The pads of his big, masculine fingers stroked up and down her tanned flesh. She inserted her middle finger inside him.

Now his fingers moved underneath the fabric of her shorts. The thing between his legs lengthened. The head of his cock pushed back his foreskin and emerged. He was so hot.

She made herself get a little closer, and his hand touched the seam that ran from her thigh to between her legs. He put a flutter in her that made her rock where she stood. She ran her other hand up and down his thigh and scratched her nails over his knee while she worked her finger in and out of him. He was looking in her eyes and she hated it but she was getting mesmerized. There was a flash to her left, light reflecting inside the house and then winking out. She turned to look through the kitchen window and saw the fridge door was open, a hand holding the handle, someone bent over and looking into it. It closed, and Tommy stood up.

She withdrew her finger from Dio's anus quickly. She whispered, "Tommy's home."

"Shit," Dio sighed, and he removed his hand from her leg.

In the house, Tommy had pulled a beer from the fridge and he twisted off the top and she saw him toss it across the counter and take a swig. Dio rolled to his belly. She watched as his rump raised up and with his hand he pushed his erection straight down and lay on it. She could see it between his legs half way down his thighs. She shook out a towel and lay it over his bottom.

Sukie began to work her thumbs into Dio's lower back. She whispered, "What's he doing here?"

Dio's sunglasses were over his eyes again, and his head was turned to the side toward the house. He said, "He had a blowup at work. Lost it. I told him to go let off some steam this afternoon."

"What happened?"

"I'll tell you later. It was nothing. Guy stuff. Tommy's a cool cat, don't worry about him."

"What did he blow up about?"

"Don't worry about it, Sook," he said, "he was just having a bad day."

Her thumbs worked in tough circles, digging into the muscles she'd already loosened for him. The whole massage was over, all that was left was her playtime. All that was left was for her was to use her hand on him and watch him go off. But she didn't know what Tommy wanted—he was here, and he knew what she was doing. Was he going to come out here and want to watch? Was the jig up? Was he just going to come out here with his beer, put his feet up on the lounge and say, Dio, fuck my wife while I watch. If he did, she would do it; putting this off to Africa made sense four weeks ago, but she was more than ready right now to do the deed. Today could be the fucking day and her stomach started to tremble with anticipation. Dio would probably let him watch, too. She was starting to think that handsome Dio was a bit of a sexual freak, and if they just came out and said Tommy wants you to fuck me while he watches he would be all in.

Tommy's bad day worried her. What could that mean? She didn't like to think of him being mad. And if he was in a bad mood, or worse, had some blow up, then the likelihood of him wanting to watch Dio and her together was less likely.

Tommy wasn't visible in the house anywhere now. She'd lost track of him when she watched Dio turn over. She didn't see him in the kitchen, didn't see him in the living room. If she wasn't worried he would walk out any second, she would ask Dio to get up and hop into the cabana before he was out. But if Tommy walked out at the wrong time, Dio's huge hard dick would be wagging all over. Not that she got caught doing anything, once again, Tommy was in on this, just she wasn't sure she wanted Dio to think Tommy was getting cucked. Even though he was, technically, to Dio at least. Why the fuck couldn't they have done this better? Why didn't she just jump on board right away?—maybe just start up a threesome with Dio and Tommy. Fucking Tommy's ego, that's why, and her uncertainty. That's what made what could have been quite a beautiful flower grow all crooked.

Her eyes darted back and forth over the windows waiting to see what Tommy would do, from where he would emerge.

Dio said, "Is he coming out?"

"I don't see him," she said.

Then there he was, coming down the stairs from the second floor, crossing the living room and opening the French door, stepping out into the sunlight. He had a Pelican case under his arm, and the beer bottle in his other hand.

"Hey, Tommy," she said. "What are you doing home?"

Dio said, "Hey, chief, good to see you. You didn't go to the club?"

Tommy came and took a chair next to a small circular table across from them. He set the case down and her heart started to race. She knew what was in that case. Tommy took another swig of beer and said, "I was on my way there, Dio, and then it hit me ..."

"What hit you?" Dio said.

"Blowing off steam. You're right, that's what I need to do. I lost my shit back there, let things get too tense."

"So how you gonna blow off steam?"

Tommy clunked the bottle down on the table and flipped the two latches on the case and opened the clamshell lid. He said, "I'm gonna go shooting."

Sukie's upper lip began to sweat and her hands trembled on Dio's back. Sweat went in her eyes and she started blinking. She said, "You going to the range?"

Tommy said, "Yeah. Nothing like blowing off a hundred rounds to put your mind back in focus." From the foam inserts around the pistol he brought out the gun oil and brushes.

Dio said, "What kind of gun is that?"

She looked to Dio, and he looked like he couldn't care less that Tommy had a gun out. Like he was gonna lay here naked with this man's wife while this man cleaned his gun, and his heart rate wasn't even going above seventy. Some stud.

Tommy disassembled his pistol, drew back the slide, said, "It's a Colt .45. I got others, but this is my favorite when I'm just blasting off rounds."

Sukie looked between Dio's legs and under the edge of the towel saw his penis was rock hard. His glans fully exposed and engorged, harder than when she had her finger in his anus.

It thrilled her. Didn't know what it was about it, but something about his arousal under such duress raced her little motor like NASCAR. She moved from his waist down to his thigh, her hands going over the towel and then smoothing the muscles in the back of his leg. Over Dio's body, she glared at Tommy. He was scoring the barrel of the pistol with a wire brush, his eyes on hers. She shook her head at him. Her dumb husband. He shrugged his shoulders. She blew him a kiss. Tommy smiled.

Now her hand slipped inside Dio's thigh. She worked up and down with both hands, getting closer and closer to what she wanted to touch.

Tommy scored the barrel quicker and quicker, watching her. His brow began to lower.

She smirked and blew him another kiss. Then she ran the pads of her fingers up and down the underside of Dio's cock. She felt the tremble in him, but he didn't give anything away.

Tommy said, "I used to do a lot of shooting. I want to get back into it."

Dio said, "You were in the Army?" Acting like he wasn't getting a stroke job right now. Sukie stifled a giggle.

It felt like high school. When she had boyfriends who went to great lengths to prove how cool they were to you. God, and she used to love that. It gave her a thrill when she was a teenager and it gave her a thrill now.

Her fingers danced all over him, tracing the shapes of the bulging underside, slipping over the sensitive tip of him. She knew him well. Not him so much—but she knew his cock. While Dio talked to Tommy about the Army, Tommy telling him tales of adventure, Sukie pleased Dio with her fingertips. When Tommy realized that he wasn't getting anybody with his gun antics he began packing the pistol up. Now Sukie took the opportunity while his head was down to grip Dio fully, forming a fist around the end of his cock down between his legs. Her left hand reached across and blocked the view from Tommy by rubbing the opposite thigh, but in her right hand she held Dio's cock firmly and stroked in quick jerks.

Tommy said, "Yeah, so thanks for the offer. It'd be nice to sit in the hot tub but I think what I need right now is to get down to the range and put some lead in targets."

"Yeah," Dio grunted, and she felt him shaking. "Mm, maybe you take me shooting ... sometime."

She went faster and faster, her eyes boring into Tommy until he finally looked up.

He said, "Sure. Sometime."

She smiled, moved the blocking hand so he could see what she was doing. Tommy's face grew tight.

And then unexpectedly, and as a complete shock to her, Dio grunted and ejaculated long white ropes straight down her table between his knees. His balls rose and fell with his spurts. Her eyebrows raised high in disbelief. Any man would have felt danger right now. Any man receiving this kind of manual pleasure from another man's wife while that man cleaned his gun would dwindle and fade. The thing between his legs shriveling up inside his body. Dio was the opposite. He got off on the danger. She was starting to understand him.

She gripped it tight and with the pad of her thumb she pressed firm slippery circles in the split in the underside of the head of his cock. She watched weaker jets pulse from him and seep into the towel, bead up on the polished wooden table. She felt a little weak in the knees herself.

Tommy stared in disbelief. She was sure he didn't know his boss had just ejaculated, but he knew what she was up to. He had his case closed up and he sat at the table licking his lips. He said, "Well, I guess that's it. I'm heading out."

"I'll see you at dinner," she said calmly.

---

AFTER WORK, Tommy took Sukie, and Tommy Jr., and Bobby for dinner at the Outback Steakhouse next to the Shearwater Mall because Sukie hadn't made dinner. She was mad at him.

Dinner with his family—with his wife—had been quiet, but Sukie wouldn't let the boys see she was mad at their pop. He could tell though; in the coldness, the stiffness, the quiet.

So what? Maybe he went too far today. Maybe running some brushes through his gun could come across a little threatening. He really was going shooting.

Now they were heading home from the steakhouse, the boys in the back talking about baseball, replaying Sanchez's in-field homer from last night's game against Detroit in excited tones. Sukie was up front, sitting there not saying a thing, not even looking through her phone. They were in the Mercedes, stuck in traffic.

Sukie asked him, "Can you pull in up ahead?"

"Pull up in where?" he said, puzzled.

"Just pull in up there. Where the park is."

"What for?" he said, and he looked to her, saw her mouth was pressed down firm in a straight line. One of her feet was bouncing. Sukie was mad and she wouldn't wait to get home to talk to him.

"Whatever," he said. He turned on his indicator, throwing a look over his shoulder waiting for someone to let them in. He winked at Tommy Junior.

"Where we going to, Dad?" he said.

“This park up ahead, I think.”

“No, dad, I have to get home, I want to watch the game.”

“We won’t be long, buddy,” he said.

He got over into the middle lane then the right lane in time to make the turn that would take them into a residential park. It was bustling, but they got a parking spot right up front. Now Sukie was turning around, saying, “Tommy J, you take your little brother out there, go play for a bit. We’ll be out in a second. I just want to talk to your dad.”

“Okay, Mom,” he sighed. He got out, went around to his brother’s side and helped him out of the car seat, closing the door behind him. Tommy and Sukie were silent as they watched their two boys run into the sunshine and join a bunch of other kids whose parents were sitting on benches watching them swing from brightly colored monkey bars, run up ramps from fort to fort, sit on swings and ride the carousels. Beyond the park was a sandy beach and a man-made lake that sparkled in the early evening sunlight.

Tommy said, “What?—this where you gotta yell at me?”

“I’m so mad at you right now, Tommy.”

“Mad at me for what? What the heck did I do?”

“That was crazy, Tommy, absolutely crazy. What were you thinking?”

“I was going to go shooting.”

“You’re gonna go shooting?—you keep that gun clean, you had to come down like a madman, show Dio what a bad ass you are.”

“I just wanted to sit for a minute and talk to you.”

“Bullshit, Tommy. That was a message. What was he going to think? I’m there, I got my hands on him. He doesn’t know what’s on between you and me. He sees you with a gun. I like guns and all, but that was crazy. That’s the way I don’t like guns. You put me off them.”

“Aw, for crying out loud, Sukie, I was playing around.”

“Playing around? It was ugly, Tommy, really ugly. It made you look like a joke. That’s never how I see you, but you looked weak.”

“Weak? Me, fucking weak?”

“Yeah, Tommy. Is he getting to you? Is Dio getting to you?”

“Dio can’t get to me, Sukie. I’m the fucking man.”

“You work for him. He’s your boss.”

“I’m independent. He needs me more than I need him. One day I snap, I’m out of there, I’m selling custom mining rigs for fuckin’ Edgeco making the same money. And Dio goes crying to his father 'bout how he fucked it all up."

"See, Tommy ...?—this is the Tommy I like. This is the Tommy I married. Tommy I saw today sitting at that patio was a little boy. A little boy who didn't know anything else to do. Seeing you today like that made me not want to do this anymore. I think it's over."

"It ain't over, Sukie," he said snidely. "You like it too much."

"I like it. But I don't like the way it's going."

"So, what ...? ... You think I'm weak now?"

"He beat you today, you know, Tommy?"

"Beat me? What does that mean?"

"He wasn't afraid of you and your macho show. I was jerking him off when you got home. I finished—sorry, he finished—while you were sitting there trying to look like a hotshot with your stupid gun."

He scoffed, thinking she was joking. She stared at him and now he thought she wasn't. "You're kidding," he said.

"I'm not," she said. "Is he getting to you? Is Dio getting under your skin? The things I do with him? The size of his big dick? Is that starting to bug you?"

"Don't fuckin' say that, Sook."

"It is, isn't it? Tommy the big man can't take it anymore. Tell me to stop. Tell me to stop right now. Say it. Forbid it. I'll stop. I'll tell Dio I can't see him any more. I mean it, Tommy. I don't need this. I'm loving the shit out of it ... but I certainly don't need it, Tommy. Tell me to stop."

"Sook ..."

"You can't, can you?"

"I don't want to stop."

"Then you need to grow up. I saw a little boy today playing with guns. A little boy who didn't know what to do anymore, throwing a mean little tantrum 'cause he wasn't getting his own way."

"Sukie, I really was going to the range. I went there in the afternoon."

"It was childish, Tommy." She folded up her arms and settled back into her passenger seat with her eyes on his.

"Yeah, all right, Sook. I hear you."

Both of them sat with their backs in the seats, looking out the windshield seeing Tommy J chasing Bobby up wooden planks, weaving between other kids. Their two boisterous and competitive boys up to some kind of game of chase.

Tommy said, "I don't want this to stop. I don't."

She said quietly, "I know you don't."

"I want to keep going. I still like it. I trust you. I can't wait till we go to Africa."

"I'm looking forward to it, too, Tommy," she said.

"So, that's what you wanted to hear me say?"

"Is it the truth?"

"Yeah," he said, eyes across at Tommy who had got a hold of Bobby and was pulling him backward now, not letting him get away. Bobby was struggling. "But don't talk to me like that, Sook. I'm not a little boy."

Without looking at him, her gaze also across the park, watching now as Bobby ducked his head and slipped out of his shirt, running around free and bare-chested while Tommy J laughed, she said, "Then don't act like one."

---

LUNCH DATE

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12

SUKIE HOPED that Tommy hadn't scared Dio off. It was time for his appointment and she stood in the dining room bay window, hidden by the curtain, watching for him to arrive. Arms folded guardedly, a knee up on a chair her cheek against the sheer fabric.

Didn't think he was the kind of guy to get scared off. Not after what she'd seen. Tommy there like a jackass playing with his stupid gun, and Dio hard as rock, shooting his goop onto the massage table while she touched him.

That was about the hottest thing she could remember. Then after ...? Afterward, Tommy got in his car and went off to the shooting range, Dio sat up, squeezed that thing he had, drained out what was left in it and said, "Well, that was fucking wild." Then he chuckled, walked naked and calm into the cabana, cleaned himself, came out dressed and smiling. He kissed the air near her cheek with a hand on her waist, and said, "I'll see you."

Now she couldn't wait. Her and Tommy went through their weekend routine and avoided each other for the most part on Saturday. Not mad, just giving each other space. By Sunday night they were curled up again on the couch with the boys and watching TV like nothing had happened. She thought about Dio all weekend.

What if he didn't show? What if all that on the massage table was just bravado? What if he didn't want to seem frightened in the moment, but Tommy had gone and scared him off for good with his dumb antics? She was pinching the inside of her arms and biting her lip when she saw the bright red sports car, sun glinting off its windshield as it turned onto Spearhead and came up their cul-de-sac.

It was him. Top down on that Ferrari, she could hear it through her windows, twelve cylinders in first gear. She hid herself better, backed away from the window but still watched.

Dio rolled up her driveway, turned down his stereo and shut the car off. He checked his hair in the rearview—he was looking good—then got out. She went to the door, opened it and stood on the stoop. When he saw her he flashed a white smile.

“Afternoon, Sook.”

“Good afternoon, Dio,” she said.

He came up into the shade of the portico and she looked up into his eyes. He said, “Tommy around again today?”

She said, “He’s not here.”

He gave her no answer or reaction, he turned and looked around up and down her street, eyeing the neighbors houses. He wore a white dress shirt open at the neck and steely colored suit pants. He smelled awesome. When he turned back to her he said, “Let me take you out.”

She startled, her head darting back. She said, “Out?”

“I want to take you out and buy you lunch.”

“What about your massage?”

“Sukie, I love your hands on me and all, but I tell you what, I just like being with you. My day’s been all messed up today but I’m not going to miss the chance to see you. I gotta get something to eat. Let me take you out.”

She said, “Dio, I shouldn’t leave the house.” She looked down at what she wore. Ready to rub him down, she wore a revealing tank top and short shorts, her legs and feet bare. She’d been expecting to get dirty with him again.

He said, “You eat?”

She said, “I don’t always eat lunch.”

He said, “You hungry?”

“A little.”

“You got appointments this afternoon?”

She actually didn’t. Dio would’ve been the last of the day. The boys were back at school starting yesterday and would be home at around three-thirty. She told him. “No, I don’t.”

“Then what are we waiting for?”

It was just lunch. She could eat. And if it meant he would otherwise leave her here to go eat without her, she didn't like that. Then the idea of being with him, maybe even of being seen with him (not by anybody she knew!), got her a little tingly.

"You know what?" she said. "Maybe I will."

"There's my Sukie," Dio said. "You coming out like that?"

She laughed, looking down, said, "No. I don't think so."

He said, "You can if you want, but we're probably going somewhere nice."

"Nice? Really? Yeah, okay, let me put something on."

She left him on the stoop, danced her way up the stairs on shockingly light feet. This was exciting. She shouldn't be excited by another man who wasn't her husband, but this is what it was all about, wasn't it?

She ran into the bedroom and removed her things. Then had this horrible feeling that he would come up behind her and she would be wearing nothing and he would be alone with her in the bedroom. It was kind of a nice idea, but a definite no-no. Tommy would shit a brick and she wouldn't blame him. So she grabbed the nicest, nearest thing she could find. The white dress she had worn to the book club meeting had just been laundered, folded and hung on the back of the walk-in closet door. She snagged it off, darted into the closet and closed the door. She locked it, too, to make sure he didn't surprise her. It was the kind of thing he would do. Not entirely unwelcome to be honest.

The dress, fresh from the laundry, was a little tight, and she had to wiggle herself into it. It hugged all her curves. But, guess what?—ever since this little game began she cut her calories back maybe fifteen percent, had been doing yoga again, and even half an hour of some cardio first thing after Tommy went to work in the morning. She hated to say it, but she looked really good in it.

There was a tall mirror on a stand at the back corner of their walk-in and she admired herself in it. Then liking what she saw, and feeling a creeping badness up her back, she hiked the short skirt up her thighs, twisted her thumbs into her panties and seesawed her hips until they came right off.

All right now, that was sexy. She felt a rising heat between her legs just from that simple action. She'd been looking forward to getting her hands on him again today and now here this guy was upping the ante on her. She liked it. She could see what it would be like to date a man like this. Keeping you on your toes, keeping you guessing, keeping that heat up, making you ... wet.

Shit, it was no joke. She flexed her girl muscles and felt telltale slipperiness there.

Heels didn't seem right for a lunch, so she slipped a pair of Prada loafers on, grabbed her clutch, nothing too fancy, made sure she had her wallet and then tap danced down the stairs to find Dio waiting for her on the stoop still.

She loved his expression when he saw her. He said, "Hot damn, Sukie. Shit, I can't wait to show you off."

She giggled and locked up the house. "Let's go," she said, and he took her hand.

SHE HAD her elbow on the door ledge, her hair snapping around her sunglasses; Dio had the Ferrari doing eighty. As they passed the other cars on the freeway, she would watch them behind her sunglasses hoping to catch their reaction.

What was it they would see? A beautiful girl, a hot, older mama who was really holding it together with tanned and smooth skin, silky blonde hair that whipped around, expensive sunglasses and underneath that a firm and unimpressed pouting mouth. And her beau? The driver of this expensive exotic automobile? A drop dead gorgeous young man with thick black shining hair and a tan and a white smile. Sure it was only a second before she was past them but they would take it all in, wouldn't they? They would wonder who the heck that was. Maybe someone famous.

Dio geared down suddenly and the car surged forward with a great growl and Sukie sunk into the seat. The Ferrari raced ahead of ten cars, then twenty; once past, it slipped right across three lanes until they were on the shoulder. Sukie looked to see they were doing a hundred miles an hour. She gathered her hair in one hand to stop it from slicing at her cheeks. Dio veered off the interstate, the motor revving high as they slowed to pace the off-ramp traffic.

They were in North Druid Hills now, stopping at a traffic light with a Waffle House on the left and a gas station on the right. Sukie said to Dino: "Hey, where are you taking me, anyway?"

"I'm taking you to my club."

“Like a nightclub?” she said.

“No,” he laughed. “The Athletic Club. It’s nice. It’s where I play racquetball.”

“Sports club?”

“It’s a little nicer than that, Sukie,” he said. Then he looked at her and smiled. The light went green, and they were moving again.

Sukie said, “Wait a second ... racquetball? Where you played racquetball with Tommy?”

“Yeah—”

Sukie said, “Wait, wait—do they know Tommy there?”

“I don’t know. I don’t know if anybody knows Tommy. He’s not a member there. Why? We having an affair?”

She laughed, said, “No. We are not having an affair. But I wouldn’t want somebody to think that we are.”

“What are we doing?”

“Hey,” she said, laughing, “you’re the one taking me out for lunch.”

He said, “You’re the one accepted my offer.”

“But I am hungry.”

“So it’s just two people and they’re going out for lunch,” he said as he made a left onto a tree-lined street in a quiet and older part of the neighborhood.

“Yeah, that’s right. Two people going out for lunch,” she said.

“Yeah, of course, I have been inside you.”

“Kind of,” she agreed, feeling a little heat on her back and her cheeks now. “And I just use my hands on you twice a week. As friends.”

“Yeah, you know. We’re just two friends. Well, me and Tommy are friends ... you and me are something else.”

“We are?”

“Yeah. I am going to fuck you.”

She laughed brightly, said, “Oh you are, are you?”

“You know we are. Not only did you say it, I know you want it.”

She agreed. Said, “Yeah, I do.”

“I can wait. I can wait till you’re ready. Something tells me you’re worth it.”

DIO WASN'T LYING. The athletic club he belonged to was an upscale place. It was hidden by trees, with a long drive, and a parking lot that was filled with high-end automobiles. They parked near the back, Dio saying he didn't want anybody to scratch his baby. He chirped the alarm but left the top down.

As they walked to the front door, he held out an arm for her to take it. There was no one around so she did. She hooked her forearm around his and walked with her hips touching his to the brick-paved courtyard that led into the club. She looked up at him, and he looked down to her with a confident smile. She felt the urge to shiver but instead giggled. It was nice to walk on his arm. It would be nice for someone to see them.

Just as she had that thought, the front doors opened, the reflection of her and Dio and the trees behind them skewing, turning black, and then a woman and man were walking out. She fought the urge to yank her arm back and felt frozen waiting—wanting to be seen like this. Only it was the worst fear confirmed: she knew the woman. Knew her well. Stepping down the two long stone steps was a man in his fifties and he was walking with Sophie Vagara. Yanking her arm away now would be suspicious and she hid her face instead. She turned her face down, watched her shoes and Dio's darting on the left, trying to hide herself behind his body as she and Dio and Sophie and the other gentleman passed each other by. She darted a glance up at the last moment and caught Sophie's eyes. She'd been seen.

She held her breath and as they got to the door she moaned, "Oh why, Dio? Why did you do that?"

"Do what?" he asked her.

"Hold my arm like that."

"It's what I do," he laughed, holding the door open for her then stating, "I'm a gentleman," and he gestured for her to enter ahead of him.

She pointed with her five fingers to the two people walking to a black BMW parked up at the front at the handicapped spot. "I know that woman," she said. "She's one of my clients. She saw us together."

"So?"

"I got caught."

"Caught doing what?"

"Going out for lunch with a man who isn't my husband."

"Who was that man with her?" he asked her.

"I don't know."

“They’re probably fucking,” he whispered. “That man not her husband? You ever meet her husband? What if she’s more concerned you just spotted her?”

She watched Sophie and the man walking with their heads down and getting into their BMW. She hadn’t acknowledged Sukie when they passed and their eyes met. That man wasn’t her husband. Was Sophie having an affair?

It was possible, wasn’t it? Sukie remembered overhearing a phone call between Sophie and her husband and it sounded pretty grim. Not like two people that were into each other. More like tolerating. Or maybe that guy was nobody to her. Maybe it was her husband’s boss.

Now she laughed to herself, looking to her right to share the joke but seeing Dio walking toward the concierge at the front desk. The lobby of his athletic club was like a grand modern hotel, with its sweeping concrete desk that was lit underneath at the floor and above by halogen spots. On the left there was a juice bar, and as you came in, there was a lounge with an Asian rug and leather furniture. She trotted to catch up with him, coming up behind him as he stopped at the counter to talk to the concierge.

He was friends with them, greeting them, two young guys with white dress shirts and vests, saying, “How’s it hanging, guys?”

“How are you today, Mr. Megalos?” both of them said in perfunctory manner, but their mannerisms and head nodding betraying a certain friendliness there. Like, if these guys didn’t work here they’d be doing those complicated handshakes then bumping each other on the backs.

Dio said, “Just here for lunch today, guys. But I brought a guest. Unless she wants to use the hot tub or something?” He leaned an elbow on the counter and raised an eyebrow to her, saying, “You want to have a hot tub, Sook?”

“The hot tub?” she said. “No, thanks, not today. I just came for lunch.” Her cheeks felt hot again.

Still facing her, Dio turned his head to say, “Just one guest today. Sukie Travis.”

She wriggled her toes in her shoes, feeling a little nervous hearing her name associated with his now. Surely she shouldn’t be doing this. This wasn’t breaking any rules though, was it? Just going out for lunch with a guy. It was Tommy’s boss. I mean Tommy wanted her to have sex with him, how bad was it to go and have a meal? Maybe pretty bad because she couldn't shake the feeling that Tommy would be mad about this.

The young guy with the name tag Rico was writing on a card, saying, "How do you spell that first name, Ms. Travis."

"Mrs. Travis," she corrected him automatically, then felt stupid for identifying herself as a married woman. Then she spelled her name for him. "S-U-K-I-E," she said, thinking she should've misspelled it or something, throw him off the trail.

The guy finished writing on the card, slid it toward her across the counter with his middle finger and a big smile on his face.

"There you are, Mrs. Travis. You don't have to wear it or anything. Maybe just put it in your purse. It's got a key code on it that'll open all the doors. Enjoy your day with us."

Dio said, "Oh she will, guys."

---

CLUB

QUIET AND CONSPIRATORIAL, Sukie said, “Well, Sophie has a bad back—sciatica—so I imagine they’d have to be pretty careful.”

Dio snickered and said, “And he didn’t look that spry either.”

Sukie said, “I bet it’s very sweet and very careful.”

“I bet you she gets on top.”

Sukie laughed and agreed. “I bet she does.”

Lunch had been wonderful after all. Going out in the middle of the day was a thing she didn’t often do anymore. There was a time in her life when she and Tommy were first married, and before Tommy J was born where she might go out with some of her girlfriends, sit around at a coffee shop or maybe go out and have lunch somewhere. Then the kids came. She loved them. She was happy to abandon that in favor of caring for her two beautiful boys.

For a while, her lunch time was spent with the boys and if she went out she brought them, and so did the other mothers she met. Then there was pre-school and kindergarten, before she went back to massage.

That came with getting involved in committees and groups. The more you did for these committees, the more they asked you to do. She liked being busy, but she’d been working since she was thirteen. Summer jobs, and even during the school year she would work a few nights at the Oriental Gourmet at the mall. After high school, she went straight to work at the salon she apprenticed at in her last year. Then in college, the same thing. School and work. Sure Tommy made money, and she didn’t need to work. But now it was Tommy always at work.

To sit and have lunch in the middle of the day and feel so careless was pretty damn good—and then to do it with a handsome playboy? And as much as her stomach twisted with the dread of others perceiving she was having an affair, there was a certain safety in the knowledge that Tommy was into this. Maybe not into the lunch part, which was weird, but where something like this could go ...? Tommy was cool with that as long as he was there. So she could just enjoy this. Lunch was nothing.

Dio asked her: “You think that old guy’s got a big hog?”

She giggled and got closer to him so he wouldn’t have to speak so loudly, worried someone might hear. “I don’t think so. Maybe it’s long, but I bet you it’s real skinny.”

Dio swirled red wine in his glass and said to her, “Sukie, you are bad.” He smiled, took a sip of his wine. “But that’s what I’m here for.”

“You really like badness, huh?”

“I do,” he said, and his eyes met hers. He had deep black soulful eyes, and when he looked at you with them it was like letting a stranger in your home. It was unnerving at times. But he was such a handsome stranger you wanted to leave the door open and see what he was going to do.

She’d had the Tuna Tartar. Dio said the chef here was Sous at Eugene in the city. He could definitely serve a tartar. With the tartar she had a nice salad of greens and cream dressing with balsamic and lemon and fresh dill. Two glasses of white wine. Right now she was feeling pretty great.

Dio said, “Or maybe it’s just one of those relationships where they’re there for each other ... What do they call those ones? An emotional affair?”

She laughed and said, “Who wants an emotional affair?”

Dio leaned forward, still swirling his wine, holding it at the stem while the base was on the table. He said, “I know, right? All the worst parts. Who wants to risk their marriage over feelings?”

“So you think people only cheat for the physical?”

“I do,” he said. “Maybe some of the emotional comes with the physical. But I can’t picture risking your marriage over just the one. And not the good one. People who say they do that are probably lying to themselves.”

Her head tossed back girlishly as she laughed. She’d been doing that a lot during lunch. Girlish things. flirty things. She was one-hundred percent not doing them on purpose. They just bubbled up from her past—things she used to do. Dio brought it out of her. She was very conscious right now of her earrings dangling and touching her neck while she talked. That was how she could tell she was doing it right. She was playing with her hair, too. Winding it around an index finger. She had nice hair.

Dio surprised her with: "How do you feel about fidelity?"

"What does that mean? What do I think about cheating?"

"Yeah, that's what I mean," he said, eyes narrowing.

"That's a bold move asking me that, Dio. A guy trying to get me into bed making me question the things I do."

"I like bold moves," he said. "Are you risking your marriage?"

"Aren't I?"

He said, "I'm risking a lot. I need Tommy."

She gave him a puzzled look, her hands together and pressed to a cheek. It was funny hearing him admit how he needed her husband.

Dio said, "I can't fucking help myself with you. Those eyes, man, you don't even know how dangerous you are."

Now her eyes narrowed, and she smiled, said, "Boy, you really are bad."

"I know I am. I want to know that your marriage is important to you."

"Wow, you're freaking me out," she said, averting her eyes. But he didn't say anything she was compelled to answer. After a quiet moment she said, "My marriage is everything. My family is everything."

"It's more exciting like that, isn't it?"

She nodded, feeling those earrings dance in a way she didn't like now. "It is exciting," she agreed quietly.

Dio asked: "What would Tommy think if he found out?"

She felt her eyes get a little wet. Tommy was going to find out. Tommy was gonna watch somehow. But thinking of him hurt bothered her and brought a sadness to her. She said, "He'd be mad."

Dio said, "You think your marriage would be in danger?"

"Of course it would. Who wouldn't be hurt by a cheating spouse?"

"Isn't danger exciting?"

She didn't want to be penned by his questions anymore. She sat straighter and shook her head so her hair scratched at her bare back. She said, "You like that?"

"Danger makes you alive." He nodded, biting at his lower lip as his eyes wantonly travelled her bare chest as her breasts had thrust forward by sitting upright.

They sat side to side at a banquette at the deepest wall of the restaurant. She inched herself closer on the bench. She whispered, "I know you like danger. I saw you ejaculate when Tommy was right there. And he had a gun.”

Dio inched closer as well, putting his elbow on the table, and leaning to her, he said, “Tommy? Tommy’s a pussycat. I’m not afraid of him.”

“What was the danger then?” she asked him.

He said, “It was you. Fuck, Sukie, there’s a badness in there.” He reached across and he touched her bare chest and her nipples hardened. Her eyes danced around the room to see if she was being watched. She was a married woman and this man who wasn’t her husband was touching her in public. Still, she didn’t shy away from his touch.

“There’s a crazy tiger in you and I need to see it. You gonna show it to me?”

She said, “Yeah.”

He got a little closer and said, “Tell me.”

Now the two of them were in the booth meant for four and they were at the apex sitting together. Very suspicious for an unmarried couple. But it was exciting. And the fact that he loved danger so much was making her start to appreciate it as well.

He asked her again, “Tell me.”

Her eyes travelled the room again, her elbows on the table, her hands clasped together against her left cheek. She leaned to the right to be close to Dio so she could hear him say, “I’m a bad bitch and I’m going to show you everything when we go to Africa.”

He made a low grumbling sound, and he said, “Why Africa? Why not now?”

Her eyes danced around the room again, nobody watching, she said, “Because ...”

He said, “You and I can go back to your house and I’ll fuck you right where Tommy lays his head at night. We could do this right now.”

She said, “I want to do it in Africa because it’s not here. It’s not my home.”

He ran his hand down her back to touch her waist. She stopped him, saying, “Well, why’d you even invite me to Africa then?”

“I invited you to Africa to fuck you.” His hand continued.

She laughed, said, “I thought so. I’ll have sex with you in Africa but then we come back home ... one time only ... in Africa, and we keep it separate from our Atlanta lives.”

Dio said, "When we get back I'll be here. And I'll be seeing you twice a week. I don't know if I'm going to be able to keep my hands off you once I've had you."

She said, "You already had me, in a way. And you've been a good boy since then."

The hand on her waist moved, touched the back of her elbow then slipped up her forearm to hold her wrist. He led her hand under the table and she let him. He was looking in her eyes and she looked back. He closed her hand around his cock inside his suit pants. She squeezed it. He said, "That's because you've been such a good girl."

She didn't shy away from his gaze. They were so close, and she liked what she felt in her hand. Not just his size, though that was how this might have started. Just that he was young and sexy, sitting with a restaurant with her in the middle of the day, and merely talking about the prospect of the two of them getting under the bedsheets had plumped his manhood with blood. He was virile. He was handsome and wealthy and hung and sexy.

She smiled and leaned closer, keeping her eyes on his. She whispered, "I'm not wearing any panties."

His eyes narrowed, and now she instantly regretted saying that. That was an invitation for him to check. And Dio was the kind of man who would check. She clamped her thighs together though he made no move yet.

He said, "I didn't think you did."

"Why not?" she asked.

"I checked your ass out when we were walking. I didn't see a panty line."

"You checked out my ass?"

"Fuckin' right, I did."

Without even looking around to see if they were being watched, he ran his hand up her thigh and she trembled. Clenched her legs tighter now, too. His hand went under her very short skirt, and she whispered, "Hey, what are you doing?"

"Open your thighs, Sukie," he said in a low and husky whisper.

"Not here," she said.

"Where?"

"Africa, Dio. Africa."

"Open your thighs, Sukie," he repeated.

“Dio, no,” she said, and she let his cock go and lay her hand over his. He moved it higher up her skirt and she felt his finger tips touch her soft belly above her trapped sex. She sat straighter and sucked it in. His hand smoothed across the other thigh and caressed her haunch. He had big strong hands.

She looked in his eyes, and she said, “I can’t.” Then she sought his cock again, her hand in his lap until her grip went around the shape of him.

He leaned close, and his low voice and hot breath against her ear clenched her nipples tighter. He whispered, “Take it out, Sook.”

“In here, Dio? Are you crazy? There isn’t even a tablecloth.”

“Let them see.”

“Dio, no ... we could get in trouble.”

“Isn’t that exciting?” he said, close enough that she swore he was going to kiss her and she surprised herself by not pulling away. She felt his hand bump against hers and then heard his zipper and looked down to see him drawing down his fly. She didn’t think he wore underwear.

“Dio, do not take it out. I’m serious.”

But he did. She looked under the table and saw his hand fumbling around in his fly and then pulling out his huge brown penis. It wasn’t fully hard. Just enough to be large and rubbery. It didn’t stick straight up, and he let it fall against his dark wool suit leg.

“Jesus Christ, Dio,” she whispered. Her heart was racing, her lips numb, her scalp tingling. She looked around the dining room at the other tables. Every table was filled. They sat in a booth with a one foot step up and it was like they were on a stage performing for a crowd. No one watched, no one was looking right now, but if they were to look over it would be obvious. “Dio, put your dick away.”

“Put it away for me, Sook,” he said with comical mischief.

“Don’t do this,” she said, feeling like a mom now, and Tommy J and Bobby were getting loud at the McDonald’s after their Happy Meals and she had nothing left to bribe them with.

“It’s just gonna lay on my leg, Sook, till you do something with it.”

“Dio, please,” she pleaded, her upper lip getting distinctly sweaty. She chanced a look down, saw his very noticeable manhood laying on his leg. If the waitress were to show up right now, seeing it would be unavoidable. And she seemed like such a nice young girl ...

“Put it away, Sook, you don’t wanna see it.”

“I like it and all, Dio, but please ...”

Now she turned in the bench, eyes on the inattentive crowd while her hands came together in Tommy’s boss’s lap. She felt the heat of his cock in her grip, felt his turgidity. He wasn’t stone hard but his dick was definitely lively. She struggled to push it back in his fly. It had gone from rubbery and floppy to inflexible.

“Don’t catch it in my zipper, please,” he said calmly as he enjoyed watching her handle his penis in public.

She got it back inside his pants where it bulged one pant leg out. The zipper was drawn closed with her shaky hands.

“You’re no fun, Sook,” he said. As she had leaned into him to take control of that big dick and stuff it back into his pants, one ass cheek had lifted off the bench seat and Dio’s hand swept her haunch and quickly found its way up under her skirt again, his fingers hiking it higher.

She returned to sitting upright, her cheeks blazing, his hand underneath her. Her head stayed tucked down, frightened to look up and find herself caught by one of the diners. Or more than one: the whole room turned to face her and him, and their mouths dropped in a shocked O shape.

“Don’t, Dio,” she whispered.

His hand stroked the backs of her thighs, squashed under her rump. “Come on, let them all see your pussy. You have a beautiful pink one.”

“Stop it, Dio.”

“Look how hot your cheeks are,” he laughed, his knuckles bumping very close to her sex. “You’re so tan, I didn’t know you could blush. Sook, imagine it, imagine if I took you right now while everyone watched. Put you in my lap and got myself deep inside you ...”

“Dio, stop,” she hissed.

“You’re sweating, aren’t you? This little pussy sweating?”

A ball of hot lust burned just below and under her navel, and even though her heart raced with fear, her legs opened. If anyone looked carefully, they would see right between her legs, see her pussy, see Dio’s hand—

He touched her, his finger splitting her labia and stroking at her entrance and she let out a groan.

“You’re so wet, Sook, God, you just want to get fucked so bad, you dirty, sexy tiger.”

“Oh my God,” she whispered, lurching forward as his finger slipped inside her and she clutched the hem of her skirt and thrust it between her legs to hide what he did. “Dio ...”

“Come in the men’s locker room with me, let a bunch of millionaires watch as I fuck you bent over the sink ...”

“Mm, Dio, no,” she sighed, squirming her hips against his finger’s intrusion.

“Maybe you’ll let them all take a turn, Sook, share your wealth ...”

“Oh wow,” she gasped, rolled forward and tilted. Dio’s finger slipped out from her and the feel of leaving her made a soft cry in her throat; she scooted farther from him on the bench and grabbed her clutch. “I gotta go,” she whispered.

“Meet me in the mens’?”

“Dio, I’m going home,” she said, unable to look at him right now, wanting to slap his face and fuck him at the same time.

“Home? Finally,” he said with satisfaction.

“Take me home, Dio. Not to fuck, I just want to go home, okay?”

“I can’t,” he said, putting his arms over the back of the banquette and nodding his chin toward his crotch. He sat with his legs parted and she saw his prominent bulge still pressing out his pants.

The keys to his Ferrari were on the table and she snatched them and scooted out to the opposite side of their bench and stepped down. “I’ll be in the car,” she said sternly, showing him her serious face while he just smiled back at her.

FERRARI

SUKIE NERVOUSLY WAITED for Dio while seated in the passenger seat of his Ferrari. It would be like Dio to make her sit out here by herself and suffer. She could picture him having a laugh, going into the men's shower, washing himself, taking his time ... maybe finishing off what they had started in the booth. Making her wait out here by herself looking like a fool. Though no one really could see her.

The car was parked in the vacant last row. Backed in, she faced the athletic club over an expanse of parked luxury sedans and SUVs, and behind her were dense cedar shrubs, and then blossoming above that a thick green canopy of beech and elm, shielding them from the main road. There was nobody else parked in the row, and only a few cars in the row across. She fiddled with her phone. Considered texting him. Saying something like: where are you? I have to get going. But he already knew she had nowhere to be.

When she left him at the table, he was in a state that she imagined may take him a while before he could stand upright. What he had between his legs would be quite evident. And as cocky as he was, she didn't imagine he would walk between all those tables by himself with his pants pressed out. He must be waiting it out. Thinking about baseball or whatever a guy like Dio might think about to make it go down.

Truth was, as uncomfortable and frightening as that escapade got, it was wild. She couldn't deny the arousal it welled within her. She'd dampened between her thighs enough that she worried her white dress may have had a gray stripe on her bottom. She couldn't stop to check it, so she just hustled herself out to the car. Now she waited.

IT WAS ALMOST ten more minutes before Dio finally showed. Walking confidently from the front doors of the club, weaving through the parking lot to make it to her. She could see the smug smile on his face from a distance. He was quite pleased with himself. Dio liked to control, and he definitely had his thumb down on her today. Stuck here in North Druid Hills wearing only a white dress and nothing underneath. Course, she had her phone to call a taxi, her wallet for the bus, the Uber app ...

But she had used none of it, content here to sit and stew and wait for this cocky bastard she was going to fuck someday soon to come out and get in the car with her. Now he was closer, she could see he was chewing gum and smirking. He had his sunglasses on and his smile jerked to one side underneath them. When he came to the driver's door, but before he got in, he was watching her, and she mouthed Asshole to him and smiled.

He opened the door, sat down laughing, and said, "You love it."

"I definitely don't love it, Dio," she said.

He slammed the door behind him and said, "I put my hand up your dress right now I bet you that tells me something different."

"God, is there only one thing you think about?"

"Yes," he said and laughed again, held out his hand for her to give him the key. She placed it in his palm and held his gaze, tried to look as arrogant as she could. Only he was far more arrogant. For a long moment she pressed the keys into his palm and he didn't close his hand on them, and the two of them stared into each other's eyes. Finally, he said, "Tell me that wasn't fucking hot."

It brought a smirk from her. She'd prefer to be the responsible mother right now—with two boys who'd be getting home from school soon and a husband that wouldn't approve of how far today's event had gone. Would like to say: You need to take me home, I have to get dinner ready. Instead, she agreed. "It was pretty hot," she whispered.

"You are something else, Sukie."

"You are, too," she said. "So what do we do now?"

He said, "We get a hotel room since you don't want to go back to your place. We get under the sheets and I make you come four or five times."

"Jesus Christ," she stopped him. "One track mind."

"Tell me you're not thinking about it."

“I’m not thinking about it, Dio,” she said. “Trying not to.”

“It’s your fault,” he said, shrugging.

“Why is it my fault?”

“You got me conditioned.”

“Conditioned how?”

“Tuesdays and Thursdays, this time a day, you got me shooting off in your hand ...”

She chuckled lightly and averted her eyes from him, turned her gaze right away and looked out the open roof of the car at the sky and the birds and the tops of the trees. This fucking guy.

He said, “So what you say?”

She turned back said, “What do you mean what do I say?”

He said, “You don’t want to break your streak,” and his eyes darted down between his legs.

“You want one of those?” she said. “Really?”

“You want to give it.”

She tried to be sexy, leaned her cheek in the cup of her palm, her elbow planted on the door ledge, now regarding him coolly through narrowed eyes. “I like doing it.”

“I can tell,” he said. His hands came together again and drew down his fly.

She said, “You didn’t finish yourself off in there?”

“I don’t do that. Plus I got you,” he said. Now he pulled it out and let it hang out of the fly. Dark brown, glistening in the sun, mildly aroused, but heavy and languid, laying in his lap; it slid off his leg and touched the leather seat.

She said, “Here? Out in the open?”

He laughed and said, “What do you think? I wanted you to do it in the restaurant.”

“You did,” she purred.

“Nobody out here to see you, Sook,” he said.

“What if I say I don’t want to?” she said slyly.

He mimicked her, leaning his head in his hand, elbow on the ledge. He said, “Ass, gas, or grass. Nobody rides for free.”

She laughed, knowing the phrase from truckers’ bumper stickers and mud flaps. She said, “You mean you’d make me walk home?”

“Up to you,” he said. “You don’t look like you smoke grass ...”

“I think I have a gas card,” she said.

“I can pay for my own gas,” he said.

She looked around sheepishly, saw nobody in the parking lot. It was a bright and airy sunny day. Not the kind of day you would expect for this sort of thing to happen. She got closer, eased herself along her seat and leaned over the console. She reached between his legs and picked up his penis. “You can make yourself come, too,” she said.

Then the unexpected happened: She was close, and she held his manhood and she was trying to be funny—expecting some quip from him, some comeback. She instead cornered him with her wiles. His response was to lean forward and kiss her right on the mouth. She didn’t even start back. Before their lips touched, she gasped and held her breath. She did not however pull away. She kissed him on his lips while she held his growing arousal in her married hand. When he pulled back his eyes were on hers and she stammered, “Don’t ... d-don’t do that.”

“I know,” he said. “Save it for Africa.”

“Save it for Africa,” she murmured. Her hand had been stroking him and he was growing in her grip. She looked down from his eyes and watched what she held. Looked at his big rubbery thing swinging around as she stroked it, watching it gain some stiffness.

“That’s it,” he groaned. The leather squeaked as he settled back in his seat. She could do this. This was kind of hot. Actually it was really hot. And it was no different from what she did twice a week now, anyway. Nothing different from what Tommy knew she already did. More of the same. Different location. So he bought her lunch, that didn’t mean anything. She could do this. God, it was a lot like high school, wasn’t it? And that was kind of hot in its nostalgic way. Dio grew to a good and stiff hardness, she gripped his foreskin, pinching it in the V of her thumb and forefinger, rolling it up and down over his glans. It worked, but it was a little dry. Even the sound of her hand on him was like rubbing paper.

She whispered, “Does that feel okay?”

He said, “Come over here and sit in my lap.”

“Dio, I can’t. Come on, we’ll be in Africa this weekend.”

“Come on up, Sook,” he persisted.

Something in his eyes made her think twice about saying no again. She looked over her shoulder, still saw no one around. She said, “And do what?”

“Just come and sit in my lap, nobody can see what we’re doing.”

She laughed and said, “Nobody can see what I’m doing with my hand. If I’m in you’re lap, they’ll think I’m fucking you.”

“Who’ll even see us?” he said, then: “Hey, put your hand between your legs.”

“No,” she giggled. “Why?”

He said, “Get your hand wet.”

“Oh,” she whispered. She looked around nervously again, then she reached between her legs and under her skirt, rubbed two fingers between her thighs and found herself warm wet and excited.

He whispered, “See?”

She nodded, bit her lip while he watched her touch herself.

“Just climb over here ...”

“Dio, I shouldn’t.”

He took her hand, the one she just had between her legs, and pulled her toward him. She sighed with exasperation but soon found her leg lifting over the console and then she was climbing in to the driver seat on top of him. She straddled him, looking down into his eyes.

She put her hands on his chest and said, “I’m serious. I can’t do it now.”

“You don’t have to,” he said. “Just let me feel it.”

“Dio ...” she whined. His hand was between the two of them and moving under her skirt. Her legs were wide over his hips, the skirt scrolling up her soft thighs and bunching at her rump. She could feel the cool air in her hot seams.

“Fuck, Sukie,” he whispered. “It would be so easy.”

“I told you, you have to wait.”

“That’s okay,” he said, “I can wait,” and she felt that huge penis of his rubbing along her slit.

“Dio,” she whined again.

“I’m not,” he said, looking into her eyes. He stroked it up and down, the belly of it pointed up between them, running the underside of his shaft along her glistening folds. It felt incredible.

“Shit,” she gasped and felt her head get heavy and fall forward.

“That feels good, doesn’t it?” he whispered

“It feels so good,” she agreed in a breathless voice.

He began to stroke it, pumping his hips, the thick underside of his cock running back and forth along her, making wet smacking noises.

“Shit,” she laughed, her hands turning to claws on his chest, her nails digging into his shirt.

“That’s it, Sukie,” he said. Then she felt him breach her, gripping his cock in one hand and pushing it straight up, that huge round head mashing her opening, trying to force itself inside.

“Take it out, no, please, take it out. Just stroke it on my pussy,” she whispered.

He pulled it out, and it was slick and wet now and he moved it back and forth again. He watched her face, and she closed her eyes.

“That’s it, mm. Press it on my clit.”

He did, and she moaned, feeling that plump slick cloven head press into her eager button hard. It slipped up and down a little and it sent white shocks behind her eyes.

“Oh God,” she sighed, dug her nails a little deeper into him. “Shit, oh God. Tease me with it.”

Now he ran it in circles and poked her opening, slipped it away and did it again. She hovered above him, her thighs quivering now.

“Put it ... put it inside again ... just a little, Dio.”

“You like that?” he sighed as he nestled it into her opening and pushed his hips up. She sank to meet him and his head was fixed inside her.

He whispered, “I’m going to fuck you so much better than Tommy. Say it.”

“Oh, ah, you’re ... going to fuck me so much better than Tommy.”

“You know it’s true.”

She swiveled her hips, let him stretch her a little, said, “I do. I don’t doubt it at all.”

He pushed himself deeper inside her.

“Oh, shit, Dio, don’t,” she whispered, head whipping around left and right, still seeing no one. She tilted to accept him. It hurt, at first, then she felt that big round shape push its way inside her, felt the coronal ridge slip over her sensitive ring. “Don’t, I don’t, please ... oh,” she moaned, “it feels so good ... please, Dio, we can’t do this,” putting it all on him though she herself did nothing to get off his cock.

He groaned, “You’re so fucking tight ...”

And that was it. It was do or die. That phrase coming from such a beautiful and sexy guy had her heart in the red zone. Her sex box racing. She would either plunge him deep and fully in the next second or get off.

She made no decision. Gravity did it for her, she leaned to one side and fell off him, collapsing into the passenger seat again. She hissed and groaned and drew her knees up with her thighs together. She had a hand wedged into that tight space and her two middle fingers jabbed and rubbed circles over her clit. That was so close. It would've been so easy and she would've loved it. The aftermath would've been devastating.

She still writhed in his passenger seat while he watched, and she said, "Dio, you have to wait till Africa ... that was crazy. You're killing me."

She heard him laughing, looked to see him stroking himself and watching her. He said, "You're so sexy. Look at you."

As he watched, she let her legs part then drop till her loafers were on the floor. Her hips pushed forward so he could see what she did to herself with her hand. His eyes lowered, and she took her two middle fingers and buzzed them on her button, making sticky sounds and driving a spike of pleasure through her core that brought her feet to her tippy toes, flexing her legs for him while she gave him a dirty show.

"Look at that little pussy," he sighed. "Fuck you got a pretty one."

"Yeah?" she gasped, her hand jacking faster.

"Fuck, I can't wait to pound that little slit, stretch it right out."

"Oh," she sighed, her eyes lowering to watch him stroke his cock while he watched. "I can't wait ..."

"That little pussy owns me."

"It ... ah ... does?"

"You own men with that thing, don't you?"

"I do," she gasped.

"You go with a lot of men before Tommy? That thing get its fill, chewing up boys?"

"I got around ... ah ... just fine."

"I bet you did with that body."

The back of her arm cramped and now she swapped hands. "I always, ah, had a man on a string."

"Yeah, you like that?" he said, stroking himself slowly.

"No way. I want a man who takes care of me."

"You want the alpha."

She laughed, and then rocked, her knees clapping together once then opening wide again. "I want a man h-how a man should be a man. You can call it an, ah, alpha I just know it when I see it."

“Know it when you feel it.”

“Yeah. When I, oh, feel it.”

“If you got a man on a string, you don’t want him.”

“No,” she gasped, trying to grab her orgasm out of the ether, but loving the thrill of the chase.

“Catch and release, till you’re the one gets caught.”

Then his big hand was pushing hers away, touching her, fingers pushing back her petals.

She put her feet down flat in the foot well while he fingered her, a lump in her tummy, looked left and right again, the parking lot still empty, sunlight winking off windshields and mirrors.

“Stop, Dio, stop,” she moaned, put her hand over his and closed her legs.

He smiled arrogantly, his kiss so close to her, just asking to be taken. His cock poked up proudly from his parted fly. She bent herself over the console and pushed his hands away, gripped his big cock and then ran her tongue up the underside, dancing a ring around his urethra. He hissed sharply and his fingers wove through her hair. She let it sink into her mouth, her jaw opening wide to accept it, feeling its shape squash up against her pallet, trying to keep her teeth away but his girth was tremendous. Her jaw went wide, her chin down to her neck, and she took almost half his cock inside her. Up and down she went, her hand then picking up a stroke, going up and down slipping into his fly and holding his balls.

“That’s it, Sukie. That’s that tiger,” he groaned, sitting back in his seat and she climbed closer, her mouth still locked on him.

She hummed around him, made affirmative and appreciative sounds in her throat. Saliva drooled from her mouth, down his shaft, over her thumb and in between her fingers still holding his scrotum. She worked him feverishly, not trying to draw it out, not trying to be fancy. Just straight up and down, putting pressure on the end of his cock with her tongue. She wanted him to come. She didn’t care about anything right now. It was this or fucking him.

His hips began to work, she tasted his discharge as he got closer. She bobbed her head faster and faster, stroked one hand up and down quickly, dipping down every fifth time to play with his balls. And then he was coming in her mouth.

She knew she'd gone too far. Hot jets squirting into her, splashing the back of her throat. She closed it all off, held her breath, throat narrowing to make sure none of his seed entered her body. He huffed and roared and groaned above her. His fingers went around and around through her hair, polishing her skull as he pumped his cock into her mouth.

Instant shame came across her, but she hoped this was survivable. This was too far, but this was still all right.

She began to protest now, grunting in her throat and trying to ease her head off him. He was groaning her name, chuckling softly and when she lifted off his cock fell onto his stomach. Her eyes were wet, her vision warbling; her lips pursed in a fishlike pout, her mouth was filled almost to overflowing with his semen.

Dio laughed when he saw her face, recognizing and enjoying her shame. For some reason, seeing the mirth he took from her humiliation made her want to laugh, too. She pulled her two hands up in cups under her chin not wanting to spit out, but aware that if she began laughing, it would all come bursting from her in a sticky cascade. She shook her head no, indicating for him not to make her laugh. Now she squinted her eyes, reached around behind her, found the handle for the door and yanked it, stepped out backwards from his Ferrari and stumbled alongside the car, one hand held out to steady herself.

She walked behind and up the curb into the grassy embankment, three steps to the cedar hedges, parting branches with her hands, she spat what she held in her mouth. It came out in a wet gush; she bent forward at the hips so it wouldn't get on her clothes or her legs. It hung in sagging strings from the cedar boughs. She coughed and spit again, breathing heavy, trying to get air into her lungs now.

She was laughing when she turned around and saw Rico the concierge right behind her.

"Hi, Mrs. Travis," he said as she wiped her chin, her laughter extinguished.

She blocked her wet mouth with two hands and sheepishly said, "Hi."

He didn't linger, continued to the Ferrari. She took a few steps and stood beside him as he addressed Dio.

The concierge said, "Hi, Mr. Megalos. Just wanted you to know that there're cameras all around here. So, you know ..." now he looked to regard Sukie, then back to Dio, continued: "You shouldn't do what you're doing out here. But you know—for your own safety, your own privacy and all. It's probably best if you don't do that here. You want I should maybe book you a room at a hotel?"

Dio laughed and said, "Security cameras? Where?"

The concierge pointed up, jabbing an index finger toward all the lampposts and said, "There're cameras on all those posts—all the cars here, we don't want any break-ins or anything."

Dio put both hands up, still smiling; Sukie saw that he'd zipped himself away. He said, "Cool. Thanks. I didn't know there were cameras."

She bit her lip as the concierge walked away, holding up a hand in a salutary wave, looking back and nodding at her. Her face burned beet red. Dio abso-fucking-lutely knew there were cameras up there.

PANTRY

WHEN DIO DROPPED her off at home, winding his way around their brick circular loop and stopping in front of the walkway to the house, she got out without saying a word. Slammed the door behind her, shoes making sharp hollow claps on the stonework as she stomped into the house. She slammed the front door behind her—but turned and watched out the window to see what he would do.

That asshole was unfazed. His arm still draped around the passenger seat where she had sat, twisting and watching the house. She distinctly saw that smug smile on his handsome face. Then he cranked up the stereo, put his sports car in gear, and zipped out onto the Shearwater Ridge, the aggressive drone of his motor growing distant.

Fucking asshole.

She checked her reflection in the hall mirror, saw that despite her tan, her cheeks were indeed flushed red. And that was after a fifteen minute drive home. How had she appeared to that young concierge who caught her spitting out another man's semen? Holy shit. He must've thought she was disgusting. She lightly patted her cheeks, her glistening eyes staring back at herself while she did. But Tommy wanted that. He fuckin' A wanted that. This was what he'd pushed her into. Wasn't her fault they got a little out of hand today. In fact, given the events, maybe one might consider that she was actually very strong-willed. A lot of women—pretty much all of the friends she had—wouldn't have been able to hold tight today. Would've opened their legs wide for that playboy. All in all, maybe she did pretty good out there today.

She rested her hands on the table in front of the mirror and her shoulders hunched. Or maybe not. Maybe she should know better. That was a little more accurate. What happened today was too far. Of course, she hadn't broken the rule that Tommy laid out. One rule: Sukie, don't fuck him. And she hadn't. But, boy, had she been dirty.

She turned from her reflection, headed deeper into the house, leaving her clutch on the table and making her way to the second floor up the winding staircase. She had her phone in the pocket of her dress and she wiggled it out of the tight fabric. When she got it free, she opened her messenger and fired off an aggressive text to one young and handsome Dio Megalos:

Sukie: I'm canceling Thursday's appointment

She slipped the phone back in her pocket, felt pretty good right now. Made her way to the bedroom, into the walk-in closet, when her phone dinged. Knew it would be him, knew he'd be smug. Sure enough he texted:

Dio: aw, you mad at me?

Sukie: what do you think?

Dio: I think you're mad at me

Sukie: yes

There was a long pause, and she stood in the dim closet, watching herself in the mirror at the back now, saw herself leaning and waiting for a text from some boy who it seemed like she was dating. She was disgusting. She pried off her loafers and stood in bare feet. Answer me, asshole.

Finally her phone dinged, and he'd sent a text:

Dio: still coming to Africa?

Asshole. It was confirmed—he was a championship-level asshole.

She marched two steps into the bedroom and tossed her phone into the bedsheets. Fucking going to Africa. And she probably was. Best just to get it over with. Stop having it hanging over her head.

She was done with Dio and his massages. That last appointment would be literally his last. Today they had lunch, Thursday was canceled—then Friday they would be in Africa. When they returned, she would be done with him. The deed would have been performed, she would be satisfied, Dio would be, too, and her loving husband as well. Good. Everybody fuckin' happy.

She slapped her hand on a dresser in the closet and it gave a resounding click from her wedding ring. This was so crazy. But she knew right deep down as far as you could drill that she would do it. She would have sex with Dio when they went to Africa. She would fuck him and her husband would watch. God, it was exciting. But she wouldn't be taken advantage of. Not like he'd done to her today.

Though, the control he had was thrilling. Hated that it was. Didn't like that she could be so easily controlled. But he was a man of power, a man above her husband even. In his looks and his money and his sexuality—he was enormous.

She pulled the hem of her skirt up, looked away out of embarrassment before she caught a glimpse of her naked pussy in the mirror, pulled the dress up over her head, light blonde hair floating with static. She turned it inside out and hurled it into the hamper. That would have to be washed. She hadn't done anything real with Dio, but it had sex smell all over it. Her sex. She could still feel the arousal. She groaned, squeezed her thighs together. She wandered back into the bedroom completely naked and fell on the bed. She crawled up the sheets and grabbed up her phone. She lay on her back and looked at the screen again.

Dio: still coming to Africa?

She responded in her mind. Yes. I'm coming to Africa. I'm coming with my husband. This is for him. Stop being so smug. Shut up and get hard. I'm going to ride you and slap your face. I'm going to come on your big cock and then I'm zipping up my suitcase and me and my husband are coming back home and I never want to see you again.

She lay the phone face down on her stomach and stared at the ceiling. It wasn't long before she felt a slippery sexual thrill between her legs. Little hand had wandered there and was exploring. She still stared at the ceiling, listening to the sticky wet sounds between her legs. Then, before you knew it, she was really going. Her knees drawn up, the phone she had texted Dio with clutched in one hand between her big breasts that lay across her chest and under her arms. One hand wriggling hard and fast down there, twirling in a circle, pushing that hard button, mashing it through her own membranes. She finally closed her eyes, mouth falling agape, pictured what she'd done to him these last days. Pictured that thing in her hands, his sexuality free and open ...

In Africa they would have no restraint. What they did in Africa would stay in Africa, and she would show him this tiger that everybody thought they saw in her. She would let it out and shred him to fucking pieces. Thought of it, picturing herself riding him, her nails like cat's claws dragging down that big strong hairy chest as she ...

She gasped and bucked as she came, her knees slapping open and closed, her thighs clapping like butterfly wings.

---

FIRST THING TOMMY thought when he got home and noticed Sukie couldn't look him in the eye was she had fucked his boss today. That little bitch couldn't wait. Tommy gave her license. Told her he wanted it. Told her it would be good for them. They shared this thing together, and here she went and couldn't even obey one rule. Wait for her husband.

No, today she probably laid Dio out on that table, got him good and greasy, stripped off all her clothes then writhed on him, that arrogant Dio encouraging her. Then she couldn't resist—opened those short and sexy legs, and took another man inside her body. One rule, Sukie.

Then he had to wait all through dinner with the boys going on about fuckin' baseball while Sukie stayed quiet at her end of the table, couldn't even look at him, fork absently stabbing through her pasta. It got so that he didn't want to look at her either.

The boys had a Nerf football now, and they were running around the kitchen. Their dinner sitting unfinished, neither of their parents, who wouldn't usually tolerate things like this, saying anything. The football spiraled across the table between Sukie and Tommy—but he only could stare at her. Looking at those breasts under her clothes, imagining her coming today on Dio's cock while his Greek hands squeezed those things that were Tommy's.

Tommy J's pass went wide, and the boys tumbled into the hall, their impromptu Nerf football game going into another room.

"How could you?" he said.

Now she looked up, and Tommy saw the shame there.

"I don't know," she said. Then, eyes darting up and trembling, she said, "Do what?"

He leaned close, the boys were far, but he was so ashamed to say it out loud. "You fucked him today."

She shook her head no.

He persisted: "You fucked him today, didn't you?"

She brought a napkin up to her cheeks and rubbed under her eyes. She said, "No, I didn't, Tommy." She held up a hand as if to excuse herself from the table and backed out and went to the island and rested her hands there. One hand rubbed her own neck, and she hung her head.

Tommy stood and went to her. He got behind her, wanted to embrace her, but held her shoulders instead. "Did you or didn't you?" he whispered.

"Tommy," she sniffed. "I didn't."

"Then what's going on?"

"I don't know, Tommy. This is all too much."

"You chickening out?"

"Tell me you really want this."

"I do, Sukie."

"How come you're so mad now?"

"Turn around," he said.

She did, turning, resting the small of her back against the marble edge of the countertop and looking up into his eyes. They glistened wet, too.

He said, "I'm mad because you didn't wait for me."

"I told you I didn't ..."

"I thought you did. I was mad because you couldn't wait for me. This has to be about us. Not about you."

"Not about me?" she whined and rolled her eyes.

"You know what I mean, Sukie. Us together."

“I know,” she said now, and leaned forward and rested her cheek on his chest. There was a splash from the backyard and they both turned to look out the bay window to see Tommy Junior had stripped down to just his shorts and cannonballed into the pool. Bobby was side-stepping along the deck, arm cocked back in order to viciously hurl the Nerf at his brother’s head when he emerged.

She said, “Are you going to hate me?”

“Hate you for what?”

“When I do it. After I do it.”

“Sukie, come on. You know I won’t. You practically did already. You’re jerking him off twice a week. I’m letting that happen.”

“You’re the boss of me.”

“You’re the boss of you. I love you, and I’ll let you do whatever you want. If I’m not okay, I’ll let you know. I’m telling you what you’ve done so far is okay.”

“God,” she murmured and lay her cheek on his chest again.

“What?” he said.

“Nothing,” she mumbled.

“Something happened today?”

She said, “Something happened today.”

“Did he come on you?”

“No,” she said.

“Then what is it, Sook?”

“Don’t ask me, Tommy.”

“Don’t ask you? Of course I’m going to ask you.”

“Please don’t make me say it, Tommy.”

“You didn’t fuck him?”

“I’ll tell you a thousand times. I did not do that. I did not do that nor would I.”

“Then, it’s okay.”

“You’re not mad?”

“I don’t think so. What did you do?”

“I can’t tell you. I don’t want to.”

And suddenly his loving and beautiful wife having a little dirty secret put a lightning bolt right through his brain. He smiled.

“What’s there to smile about?” she said morosely.

He took both her hands and walked backward to the pantry. They could see the boys racing around the swimming pool.

“Where are you taking me?”

“You like fucking with me?” he groaned.

“Oh no, Tommy,” she said knowing what was up.

When he closed the pantry door, he was already down on his knees. She wore a polo shirt and khaki shorts and little house slippers. He was doing down her fly and her button, tugging at the waistband, looking at the fabric as it scored across her soft plump flesh. He got her exposed and buried his face between her legs.

“Holy fucking shit, Tommy,” she gasped, and he felt her nails going through his hair. “Oh Jesus,” she moaned.

He inhaled her. He smelled her Sukie smell. Nothing but showered, beautiful, Sukie body, Sukie’s intimate parts. Smell of talcum, the smell of her sexy sweat. He licked her, and she purred. She tried to part her legs farther, but her shorts were wrapped around her thighs. She struggled to lift a leg but couldn’t. Instead, she humped her sex into his jabbing tongue.

He kissed up her belly, grabbing the hem of her shirt and hoisting it up to expose her bra. He got close to her breasts, body tight against her, growled in her ear while he shoved his erection into her stomach: “I didn’t smell him down there.”

It made her gasp with ecstasy. Eyes closed, chin tilted to the ceiling, her mouth fell open. He took her with a kiss. Smelled down her neck, his hands going behind her back and unhooking her bra, her heavy breasts tumbling forward and stretching and falling underneath the spandex. He scooped his hands up to the front and underneath, found her nipples hard and erect. He needed her, pressed his erection harder into her.

He whispered, “I don’t smell him anywhere. Let me smell your breath.”

She whipped her head away, turned it from him, wrestling out of his grasp then and falling forward onto the shelving, knocking two cans of soup to the floor. She thrust her rump out and said, “Fuck me. Do it, hurry, Tommy.”

He didn’t need to be asked twice. When she squirmed from him, his hand was already pulling his cock out of the zipper. He shoved it inside her and watched her nails scrabble along the shelving. He dug himself deep inside her while she wailed and then swallowed her sounds. She snorted through her nose and then gasped, “Hurry, Tommy, hurry. The boys ... the boys are out there, make me come fast ...”

He did. As quickies went this one was quick. Both of them got the satisfaction they needed. Within two minutes he was shooting up inside her and she was biting her arm to silence her cries.

FLIGHT

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15

TOMMY'S BROTHER TEDDY, who sold chemical adhesives for the American arm of a German manufacturer with an office in Atlanta, was away on business in Asia again, this time in Taiwan, but his wife Brenda met them at the apartment door. Brenda and Teddy lived in Centennial Hill in a modern skyscraper apartment that looked south over the city toward the World of Coca-Cola. They didn't have kids—but they would for the next five days. Bobby and Tommy J were staying with Brenda while Tommy and Sukie were in Africa.

Brenda greeted them warmly at the door but couldn't hide a certain trepidation on her face. Brenda had no kids, liked the boys, but also feared them. Sukie had warned the two of them to be on their best behavior, but worried about Brenda. Teddy would be home tomorrow though, and he had Tommy's charms with the boys. They'd behave for their uncle.

"Howdy, boys," Brenda said, and she squatted with her hands on her knees to smile in their faces.

"Hey," they both said in unison.

She tussled taller Tommy's hair with manicured nails. "Well, go on in, guys," she said. "I bought an Xbox for you. Your uncle set it up before he left."

Sukie said, "I know, I told them."

Tommy said, "They're really excited to stay, Brenda. They brought their games."

"Good, come on then, let's go," she said to them now and ushered them in, patting their backs and pushing them into the apartment. The two boys were out of their element, but it wouldn't be long before they were wrecking things in her apartment. For now they pried their shoes off and slipped in sock feet into the family room.

Brenda held the door open for them, said, “You, too, don’t be shy,” laughing at them, then giving each a hug. “The boys will get settled. Come in, sit for a minute.”

Tommy looked at his watch and said, “Yeah, we got a minute. We gotta get to the airport though.”

“I know,” Brenda said, “cup of coffee?”

Sukie said, “Not for me. I don’t want any, I want to sleep on the plane.”

“Good point,” Brenda said. Then, joking: “Shot of whisky?”

Sukie glanced at her watch as they entered the foyer, and Brenda closed the door behind them. It was one o’clock. She whispered, “Actually ... Yeah, okay.”

Brenda laughed.

Tommy said, “No, seriously, Brenda, I think it might be a good idea.”

Brenda uncrossed her arms, the smile falling. She said, “Oh,” the smile bouncing back. “Yeah, okay.” Looking over her shoulder as Tommy J and Bobby were beginning to escalate, getting a little loud trying to get the Xbox fired up, she said, “I might join you.”

---

EACH OF THEM with a Jack and Coke, Brenda’s about ninety-nine percent Coke, they sat in the sunroom with the view of Atlanta out a floor to ceiling window. The boys shot off lasers and cannons on the Xbox in the other room.

Brenda said, “What’s so important in Africa, Tommy boy, you’re bringing your wife?”

He said, “Three deals, three separate customers. It’s big, all three of them are whales, and I got them lined up to ping em one after the other.”

Brenda laughed, “Mr. All Business, I know you, Tommy, bringing Sook ... I thought you were going to renew your vows or something romantic.”

“What if you’re wrecking my surprise, Bren?”

Brenda’s face fell, realizing she may have.

Sukie laughed, “I’m on business, too. Megalos is paying me to go, Tommy’s boss is with us and he’s a client. And Tommy’s a regular of mine, too.” She winked at Tommy, and he could see it was all an act, his wife making small talk and being cute while her eyes betrayed an enormous anxiety underneath. She took a long drink.

Brenda said, “I’d love to go to Africa.”

Sook murmured, “Beautiful sunsets.”

Tommy said, “You can’t get that cheapskate Teddy to take you?”

“He’s afraid of needles and you have to get a bunch of shots.”

“Oh God, tell me about it,” Sook said, finishing her drink and setting the glass down. If Brenda offered another, he knew she’d take it. “The malaria one is giving me crazy dreams.”

He said, “I already carry a lot, I’ve been to Africa already this year. I didn’t need them all renewed. Sook though, like a pin cushion, eh, Sook ...?”

She watched him nervously, her empty hands locked together now, fingers intertwined and anxious.

“You all right?” he asked her.

“It’s getting late,” she whispered.

He checked his watch. “Okay, yeah, Bren. We should go. Sook’s anxious. We gotta meet my boss, Dio, at the airport ...” he stood up now, and Sook put both hands around his glass and he let her take it.

She smiled sheepishly, then finished his drink.

Brenda looked to him, said, “I didn’t know Sook was so afraid of flying.”

---

THE STEWARDESS ESCORTED them into first-class, Sukie walking in front, and the stewardess, a short but very attractive Latina, waved a hand to a window seat and said, “Mrs. Travis—there you are.” Sukie thanked her and took her seat.

Dio was next, and he handed her the ticket and she gestured to the seat next to Sukie. There were only two seats. Tommy moved to sit with her and the stewardess said, “Oh, sorry, you’re on the island, in the middle,” gesturing to her right at a solo first-class chair that was angled away from Sukie. It was a small suite with a television and its own bar. Tommy said, “Not next to my wife—Mrs. Travis?”

“I’m sorry, this is your ticket—you’re booked in the island.”

Tommy said, “There must be a mistake,” and when he turned to look to Dio who had arranged through the business to book the seating, Dio sat down next to Sukie.

He looked up at Tommy and said, “Looks like if there was a mistake it was in my favor,” and he gripped Sukie’s wrist where her hand bent over the leather armrest. “Look who I get to sit with.” Then he turned to Sukie with a smile and said, “Imagine if I had to sit with this caveman the whole way?”

Sukie laughed. Tommy shifted his bag to his other hand, feeling a little hot. The stewardess, still smiling, gestured toward the solo seat. Tommy said to Dio, “You’re not going to let me sit with my wife?”

Dio looked to the stewardess and put both his hands up in mock surrender like this was out of his control. He said, “Federal airline regulation—am I right?” He winked at the stewardess.

Tommy turned to her, and she looked nervously to Dio and said, “Well ...”

Dio said, “Come on, Tommy. Let me sit with Sukie.”

Tommy said, “Shouldn’t we sit together ... you and I? Go over our strategy?”

“We have to? I mean, we went over it. We’re on point. We know what the fuck we’re doing. You really think we need to talk things over?”

Tommy said, “No.”

“Besides, you and me sit together ... and what?—make Sukie sit by herself over there, left out? Let me live a little. I like your Sukie. I want to make everybody think she’s my wife.”

Tommy said, “I like her, too. And she is my wife.”

Dio said, “You get her all the time. Give this young guy a thrill. I was supposed to see her yesterday, I miss her. You get her all the time, Tommy, you selfish prick.”

Sukie had been listening, her sweet face moving from Dio’s to Tommy’s, and he could tell that his wife was enjoying this.

Now they were on the plane—the plane they would take them away from home—they were literally embarking on the voyage where she would do what she intended to do, and he intended to watch. Tommy saw her running her tongue over the inside of her cheek.

While looking in his eyes, a bright twinkle in there, she said, “Aw, come on please, Tommy.”

Dio’s head snapped to the right, taking great enjoyment in Sukie playing along. He still held her wrist and now he squeezed it and said, “See, Tommy? She wants it, too.”

THE HARDEST PART of not sitting with Sukie on the flight was the sound of her sweet, high laugh. Another man conjuring it from her. He knew she was doing it on purpose. Dio wasn’t that funny. No, she was teasing her husband who sat nearby, right next to them, but in a chair that was set on an angle about twenty degrees away from them. If he wanted to see her he would have to twist and look over his shoulder.

Sukie was having a wonderful time taunting him. They’d had a few drinks now, and it was getting worse. The first three hours had been fine, mostly because he watched a movie and put his headset on. There was nothing those two could do on the plane that would really bother him, so he closed himself off.

A few times he chanced a glance, took a look, saw them sitting very close, Dio leaning right into her, pointing out the window, their shoulders touching, explaining some story to her, demonstrating with his big tanned hands while he spoke. But now they were somewhere over the mid-Atlantic, a few cocktails in them, and Sukie’s laughter was getting a little obnoxious. In fact, she now punctuated one long drawn out laugh with a whoop—it made Tommy think she had been goosed.

Fucking Christ, he thought, now being forced to take a look. He twisted in his seat and saw Dio all over his wife. Practically in her seat with her. The two of them sitting close as they were before, now Dio with his hand on her knee. Sukie looked very happy. She was having a good time. Her face was flush, and she was giggling about something. When she caught Tommy’s eye she winked at him. He smirked and sat back again. She was getting him and she liked that she was getting him.

DINNER WAS a Mandarin Oriental roast chicken. It was delicious, and Tommy devoured it with two Old-Fashioneds. Washed those down with two cans of Sprite and now he had to go to the can.

He stood up, not turning to face those two. Sukie had free license to do what she was doing, and he better get used to it, but still, something about Dio's boldness was bothering him. He'd really prefer if it took more convincing. Still, Dio was what set this off, and Dio would be the one his wife would sleep with.

Now he turned with a manufactured smile on his face. He was met with the two giggling compatriot traveling partners. Still having a good time, the two of them clowning around in their luxury leather seats together. Sukie had her tanned legs crossed one over the other, her skirt riding high, showing off a flash of haunch. She looked good with Dio who had his sleeves rolled up, showing off his watch and his muscular forearms furred with hair. Dio saw him and leaned to whisper something to Sukie and it made her laugh. Tommy took a step down the aisle toward the bathroom, stopped and said, "What was that?"

"I was asking Sukie if you have prostate trouble."

Sukie laughed, throwing her head back and silently clapping her hands once together.

Tommy put his hand on the seat in front of them and on Dio's headrest and leaned forward and said, "I don't have any prostate trouble. I got no trouble in that department."

Dio said, "Hey, old man, just saying ..."

Tommy relaxed a little, not wanting to be the jerk here, he looked around smiling, said, "I just had a couple drinks. Going right through me."

Dio said to Sukie: "He got a tiny bladder?"

Sukie leaned into him and said, "No, he's got a big one."

Dio said, "Oh, you bad girl," and he held her wrist.

Sukie covered her mouth like a high school girl, her face blushing, then she said, "Not like that ... his bladder."

Dio said, "Yeah, I've seen Tommy's. He does all right."

Tommy rolled his eyes. It was good to see her having a good time. He left them, went to the can, found it unoccupied and went right in. He drained the main vein, swaying as he did so, feeling the effects of being high up in the air with a lot of whiskey in your stomach and a heart rate that was through the roof because your wife was going to sleep with another man. Seeing Sook flirty and tipsy was making him happy. He thought he'd be mad, but part of him was cheering her on.

When he was done, and he flushed, he stared at his reflection in the mirror. He wanted this. He still wanted this to happen. He ran some cold water and rubbed his cheeks, winked at his reflection, nodded a little. He wanted it, Sukie wanted it, and Dio wanted it. It was going to happen.

When he opened the door again to step into the aisle, he came face-to-face with Sukie. She was waiting for him, looking around now and then pushing him back in and closing herself inside the tiny bathroom with him. They were chest to chest, and she put her hands on his ribs and rubbed him.

She whispered, "God, Tommy, he is driving me crazy."

He held her shoulders and said, "I know. I hear you laughing."

She grinned wide and showed him her teeth, her eyes narrow, she said, "Jealous?"

"Very," he told her.

She closed her eyes and parted her lips for a kiss and he planted one on her. Took her lips, and held her neck, and he breathed her in. When they broke apart she whispered, "Tommy, he wants me to take my panties off."

"He does? Why?"

She said, "He wants to finger me."

"Jesus, Sook," he gasped, feeling his knees going weak. This was really happening.

She stepped back and leaned against the door, gave him a sexy and sultry look and said now, "Take them off for me, please, Tommy. Would you?" She ran her hands along her hips.

"Yeah," he said, watching her hands where they touched herself. Her fingers began to walk her skirt higher. He stepped to her again, let his hands touch along the front of her thighs, traveling up under her skirt as she pulled it higher. He ran his fingers along the trim of her panties, up over the tops of her thighs to her hip then coming together in the center, tucking them under the waistband and feeling her soft flesh against his knuckles. He peeled them down her thighs. She lifted one knee then the next, stepped right out of them and Tommy held them in his fist.

She said, "This way I know you're a hundred percent about this. Show me you want me to do this."

He smiled, his eyes crinkling with the warm love he felt for her right now.

She said, "When I go back out there, Tommy, another man is going to touch my pussy."

“I know,” he groaned. “I want him to. You have permission, Sook. Go for it.”

She sucked her lips in, drew a deep breath. Then she got close to his ear, and she whispered, “I want him to so bad.” He could smell vodka on her breath. His bad girl.

He said, “I do, too.”

“Touch me,” she said.

He ran a hand up the inside of her thigh until it hit the apex, the heel of his thumb feeling her damp and hot labia. He said, “You’re so wet, Sukie.”

“I told you, Tommy. Your boss is driving me crazy.”

“He certainly is,” he said and ran a fingertip along her ruffled folds which were swollen and slippery.

She said, “Wish me luck,” then, “Can I have my panties?” She held out a hand for him to place them in.

He said, “No, they’re mine.”

She held her hand out for a few heartbeats, her smile slowly growing wider and wider. Finally she said, “That’s my Tommy. That’s the Tommy I love.”

Tommy balled up the panties and put them in his pocket. “Good luck, Sukie,” he said and kissed her forehead.

She ran her hands up his chest again, said, “You’re incredible, Tommy. I love you.”

“I love you, too, Sook.”

---

RETURNING TO HER SEAT, Sukie threw a glance across the aisle and saw her sweet Tommy settling into his suite with his back to her, setting up to watch a movie on the small screen with his earphones on. He was going to shut himself out, was he? Leaving her alone to do what she wanted. To do the things she told him she would.

The idea that this was about to happen hit her hard—all this buildup had crested the peak, all that was left over the next five days now was the high-speed descent. She could do whatever she wanted right now on this plane. She didn’t want to do it all at once though. Wanted to take her time and enjoy this. She resisted the urge to reach out and grab Tommy’s shoulder before she slipped in past Dio. Dio moved his knees, and she wedged in front of him, felt his hand touch her rump. She didn't move away, and when she sat down in the seat next to him she was still feeling a slippery electric charge through her like static shooting up off the top of her scalp from his touch.

"What were you doing?" she asked him.

"Checking."

"Checking for what?"

"Panties."

"And what did you feel?"

He smiled and held out his hand. She looked at his open palm, his well-manicured fingers, wriggled her eyebrows, said, "What?"

"Your panties. I want them."

"Oh," she said. Shoot, Tommy had them. She said, "I threw them out."

He slowly closed his hand and smirked. He narrowed his eyes and said, "Good. You won't be needing them."

Then she smiled and licked her lips, agreed, saying, "No. I won't." Past Dio she could see her husband. He might have those earphones on and head turned watching a movie, but she wouldn't put it past him to have the sound turned off. She could tell by the tilt of his head that he was paying attention. Not to the movie, but to his wife.

This was it. This was it for real. No more holding back. She had Tommy's permission.

She leaned toward Dio and whispered, "Aren't you going to check?"

He moved his chin toward her ear and whispered back, "Are you a liar?"

"I might be."

He smiled, leaned back to look in her eyes. "You are a bad little girl, aren't you?" He returned to sit in the center of his chair, his head turned toward her. She wanted him close again.

She stared in his eyes and he didn't look away. Dio was anxious about Tommy, maybe. He loved danger, but he didn't want to get caught. They didn't tell Dio what was going to happen, how Tommy knew it would and encouraged it. This was about the two of them as husband and wife, not about Dio. Tommy didn't want Dio to know. "Please," she whispered.

He smirked again, his eyes narrowed further.

She squeezed her pelvic muscles, pressed her thighs together, felt herself slippery. "Please, check me."

Dio bit the corner of his lower lip and leaned toward her.

"How are we here? Can I get you anything else?"

It was the stewardess, attentive but unwanted. Just as Dio's hand almost reached her knee he was stopping, putting it on the armrest, looking over his shoulder at the stewardess and saying, "We could use more drinks."

"Sure, what can I get you?"

"More of the same," he said in a low and husky voice.

When she was gone, Dio's head still poised over his shoulder making sure she wouldn't return, forgetting some other question she needed to ask them. Ice? Peanuts? Sukie pulled a small lap blanket at her side to cover her lap.

"Check me," she whispered again.

Dio's gaze was still over his shoulder, Sukie sure that he was watching her husband right now. Had his eyes on Tommy to make sure that Tommy was watching that movie on his screen. That was probably why crafty Tommy had put those headphones on.

She whispered in a pleading whine, "Please, check me, Dio ..."

Now he was facing her and putting his hand on her knee. She could see her husband across the aisle turned three quarters away from them. "Do it," she whispered.

She looked at his large masculine hand on her thin knee, lifted one leg higher like scissors, her thighs still together. His hand slipped higher. Her eyes began to flutter, the anticipation growing so large that she couldn't bear its weight. Her head leaned back into the leather, she tilted her hips up, her pelvis slipping closer to Dio's hand. With her fingers, she dragged that navy blue fleece blanket lower down her thighs. Dio's hand went underneath it. One more look over his shoulder, she saw his devious smile, and then his hand was under her skirt now, too. She looked in his eyes and parted her legs for him, felt his hand graze up the inside of her thigh. Then he was touching her. The manicured ends of his fingers touching her bare shaved womanhood. She drew in a long hissing breath at his touch.

Dio whispered, "Good girl. Who needed panties anyway?"

She said, "I don't."

"No, you don't," he said. His middle finger began to stroke up and down, using her own slickness to pleasure her.

“Put it inside me,” she whispered.

Dio darted another look, Tommy still watching his movie. Slowly she began to feel his finger breach her. She drew another long draggy breath as he deeply inserted his middle finger inside her. She pressed down with her hands, trapping his wrist under the blanket and tilted her hips to make it easier for him.

“Yes,” she whispered, dragging out the S sound as long and sexy as she could.

“You like that?” he whispered.

“Two fingers,” she said.

He withdrew one, then she felt two stroking and massaging, playing with her lips. They were bound together then, parting her and entering her body. The pleasure was fantastic. Every bit of her sensitivity focused between her legs. He began to slowly stroke his fingers in and out of her, making wet sucking sounds under the blanket.

“You’re so ready for me.”

“I am so ready for you,” she agreed.

“I’m going to fuck your brains out, Sukie Travis.”

“I want it so badly,” she whispered.

“I can tell.” He plunged his fingers deep and then ran them in a circle. He had her writhing in her chair.

“Here we are,” the stewardess said, two drinks on a tray, appearing at the side, blocking off her view of Tommy. She was smiling, eyes turned down to the tray, presently unaware of what these two passengers were up to.

Dio’s fingers withdrew, and he gripped the inside of her thigh. She whisked the blanket as low as she could. The pleasure still zipped through her and she squirmed in her chair. Not ready for this to be over, wanting more of Dio’s touch. Then the young stewardess’s eyes darted up, taking in the two of them sitting so close, the blanket, this man who was not her husband with his hand underneath it. Her face startled, her mouth poised half open.

“Uh,” she moaned, making a weird sound in her throat.

Dio turned his head over his shoulder to say to her: “You can just put those on the tray.”

“Okay,” she said weakly. But before she put the drinks on their polished burl wood trays, she darted a look behind her to regard Tommy. The man who she knew to be this woman's husband. "Okay," she said again, before turning and placing the drinks on the tray.

Dio said, "That's everything," indicating for her to leave. He withdrew his hand and Sukie and the stewardess could see his fingers shining.

The stewardess's eyes went wide, her eyebrows raised high, and then her mouth opened. She said nothing, her lips pulled to a smile, then she sucked it under her teeth. "I'll leave you to it," she said and backed away.

---

VILLA

MEGALOS MINING CHARTERED a private plane from Harare Airport that flew them north to Chinhoyi. But they didn't stay in Chinyohi, the three of them climbing up into a snappy red and yellow helicopter supplied by the Dutch mining company.

The thud of the rotors pounded Tommy's heart, got his adrenaline going, surging up exciting ghosts from his past. Sukie had never been on a chopper before, and she sat between them looking as adorable as could be with her enormous earmuffs on.

Her tinny voice rattled in his year: "You look exhilarated."

He laughed, saying, "Been a while since I've been in a chopper, but boy do I miss it."

Dio said, "Where'd you serve, Tommy?"

He just said, "Afghanistan."

The flight took them up over the scrubby mopane woodlands, and his wife couldn't have been more impressed. Sitting between her two men, safely tucked between them, Tommy and also Dio pointing out things of interest on the forty-five minute flight north.

By the time they arrived at the grassy helipad just south of the SAPI Safari Area, Sukie was buzzing. He helped her down, didn't wait for Dio, him and his wife crouching low and walking through the cut grass to a waiting Land Rover painted a deep forest green.

As they climbed into the Rover, Sukie said, "I didn't know your job is so exciting."

"It isn't always," Dio said. "Most of the time it's all done on the phone."

Yeah, right, Tommy thought, maybe for you. I'm the one that's out shaking hands.

There were two men up front in the truck, the one on the right in jungle camo and a burgundy beret. Not a uniform, just the personal fashion choice of the guy who was probably a private soldier. The driver turned to regard them, an African guy with about the most infectious smile you would imagine. He told them to call him Benny, and he was there from the villa.

Sukie said, "Villa?"

Dio said, "Yeah, no hotels up here, you want to stay five-star you book a villa."

She said, "I was picturing a resort."

Dio put his hand on her knee and Sukie flinched, her eyes darting toward Tommy. Tommy smiled for her, reminding her that this was going to be okay.

Dio said, "Wait till you see this place, Sook. Right on the Shangawi River ... very private ..."

---

DIO WAS RIGHT about the place where they were staying being private. By the time they arrived at the villa, the sun was going down. The Land Rover curled down a slope toward the dusky hulk of a large peaked roof building next to a wide river. The lights were on and smoke curled from a small chimney in its roof. The sky was indigo, the grass a dusky eggplant shade, the flowing river a charcoal grey, but the light that spilled from the windows in the beautiful villa fell out yellow and warm. There were no other dwellings in sight.

"Look at this place," she sighed. It was beautiful. Two story—but a big building—tall, with a huge thatched roof made of a complicated anarchic design with jutting sticks and spikes. The walls were like rocky caves, stucco over exposed logs in a warm creamy cement. The whole interior was open to the elements. No glass separated the inside of the house from the patio, nor from the view across the beautiful river and the forest hills beyond. The patio was striped in wide, polished planks; there was a pool and a hot tub, and a dining set that sat outside.

The Land Rover came to a stop underneath a massive gnarled tree, a kind she'd never seen before with winding jagged branches that spread out above them blossoming with green small leaves in a low canopy. It was lit below with a floodlight in amber. Dio tipped the driver who told them to enjoy their evening, and they got out of the truck with their bags.

Walking up the stone steps that were plastered and smoothed by hand, they passed between rock gardens dotted with sprouts of tall grass. A stone swimming pool was on the right, also shaped by hand, dropping off toward the river bed. Tommy took her hand.

"I can't believe how beautiful this place is."

He said, "I know. It's pretty unique."

"You think it's safe? It's open like this," she said gesturing across the patio as they walked toward the interior.

Dio said, "You know I like danger."

She laughed, said, "But seriously, can't something just come in here, like a lion or something?"

Tommy said, "No lions here, Sook. But a cheetah might get you while you're sleeping."

"Really?" she gasped.

"I doubt it," he said.

"What a view," she said, now standing and looking from the patio set and its wicker chairs, over the river, seeing the black shape of an animal at the edge of the water. "What's that out there?"

Dio said, "I don't know. But I wouldn't go down to the river at nighttime."

Tommy said, "I thought you liked danger?"

Dio laughed, making his way across the patio into the house, said, "I like danger, I don't like it biting my face off. I like danger until it teaches me a lesson, shows me who's boss. That's the thrill. Finding the limit before it's too late. Not after."

THEY WERE SITTING on the patio up near the house because she was afraid to sit on the lower level near the river at dusk, visions of big cats climbing up that low wall from the grass. So now she sat with her knees drawn up on a comfortable loveseat underneath the spreading canopy of what Tommy called an ironwood tree with her arms around her husband and her cheek on his chest. Tommy laid with his arms draped over the back of the couch and his two feet crossed over one another on a massive polished table that was just one split half of an enormous tree trunk lacquered to a mirror-like shine. She ran her nails over Tommy's chest while he talked to Dio. Wishing they would wrap it up. She knew they had a big date and all tomorrow, meeting with this Dutch mining company, but wished the business part was over so the fun could begin. The two of them had been talking about copper for about fifteen minutes now. Tommy had been talking a lot about mining in Zimbabwe in the last month. The whole country ripe with platinum and diamonds and these two guys were talking about copper.

Dio sat with a bottle of beer across from them. Not face-to-face, all of them angled toward the view over the river.

Dio finally looked at that gold Rolex, and she could've jumped out of the chair with joy. He said, "It's getting late."

"Yeah, it really is," she said, lifting up to look at Tommy's eyes.

Tommy looked at her puzzled. She shook her head no, in case he thought she was asking if she could climb into bed with Dio tonight. It wasn't the right time. She knew that. She whispered, "Let's go to bed."

He nodded, sat up holding her in one arm and reaching to the table to grab his beer. He finished it in one swig.

Dio said, "All right, buddy, early start in the morning. You two maybe knock boots tomorrow. You know what I'm saying? Or if you do get it on tonight, just keep it down so Dio can sleep." He winked at Sukie.

She said, "I'm too tired to do anything. I just want to go to bed and close my eyes."

Dio smiled at her devilishly and she couldn't help smiling back.

THEIR BEDROOM WAS INCREDIBLE, too. One king-size bed with a woven linen comforter and pure white cotton sheets. There were two bedside tables with flickering candle lamps that cast shimmering light on the bed's canopy. At the foot of the bed, past a half wall made up of crooked branches, was a balcony and beyond that a view of the river. This might be the most romantic place she'd ever seen. When they were alone, undressing for bed, she said, "You think he's brought girls here before?"

"I'm sure he's brought girls here before."

“Isn’t it beautiful?”

“How you feeling?” he asked her, unbuttoning his shirt.

“How you mean?” she said, climbing up onto the bed. She pulled off her pants, was wearing only a long T-shirt she had worn during their quick dinner when they arrived.

“I want an update.”

She made a sexy narrow-eyed smile. “I want to give you an update.”

With a held back smirk, he said, “You’re still into this?”

“Tommy, I am so into it now.”

He pulled up the covers, and she did the same and they met in the middle pressing their bodies against each other. Tommy whispered, “What happened on the plane?”

She ran her hands over her husband, down his sides and over his hip, finding his generous protrusion in his briefs and squeezing it, feeling his rising arousal.

She asked him, “Did you see anything?”

“I glanced over once or twice, I saw him with his hands in your lap.”

She wanted to tell him but was suddenly frozen with fear. This was so wrong. She did something today on the plane that was so terrible and yet her husband wanted it, and she enjoyed it. She wanted to tell him but the words hitched in her throat.

He said, “Tell me, Sukie. I want to hear.”

She giggled, kissed his chin, said, “I want to tell you, I just feel so funny.”

“Let it out, Sook.”

She got really close to his ear because what she was going to say would barely even count as a whisper. It was practically a telepathic secret. “He put two fingers inside me, Tommy.”

He groaned, and she felt his body stiffen, felt him flex that thing he had between his legs. Now his face went mean, but he chuckled and smiled.

She giggled again, threw her head back and kissed his forehead. “God, this is so crazy, Tommy. I can’t believe we’re doing this.”

“Tell me more,” he said.

“The stewardess caught us.”

“Oh my God, Sukie. Are you serious?”

“Yeah, she stopped us. Came by with drinks and saw Dio’s hand under my skirt.”

Now he was kissing her, his lips suckling her neck and up to her ear. "Sukie, that's so bad. She knows I was your husband."

"I know, she made me feel so dirty," she told him.

"What was it like?"

"I liked it so much, Tommy." His hands were on her legs and she knew where they were headed. She parted for him, let him find out that she was not wearing panties. The whole time sitting down there with Dio she wore a short skirt and a long T-shirt and that was it. She didn't flash Dio, the thrill was just for her, knowing that she could. "He touched me down there, Tommy."

"Here?" he said as his fingers stroked up her middle. She purred and trembled at his touch, hugged him with one arm while stroking his cock through his briefs underhanded. He'd grown completely rigid, his thing pointing like a white cotton arrow between his legs. She pried the waistband down and let it free.

"You like it, Tommy? You like another man touching your wife?"

"I hate it. But I love it, too, baby. I love that it's got you all revved up."

"Tommy, he put his fingers right inside me. Another man, Tommy."

"I know, Sook. I watched him do it before."

"Not like this, Tommy. This was for real."

"It wasn't for real last time?"

"Oh, he did it. I just wasn't a hundred percent like I am right now. Tommy, I begged him to put his fingers inside me."

That got him in the red zone, and he pushed her by the shoulders, climbing on top of her and hiking his underwear down. When he tried to get between her legs, she fought him. "Don't, Tommy."

He laughed, said, "What do you mean don't?"

"I don't want to."

"You don't want to have sex with me?"

"Not tonight. Is that okay?"

"Sukie, you got me fired up ... I fuckin' need you after that plane trip."

"I know. That's what I want," she said as she let his cock go and turned her hips from him.

He stayed kneeling above her, watching her, and she was aware of his frustration, could hear it in his breathing. "Are you serious? Really serious?" he asked her quietly, his hand on his cock.

Over her shoulder, she said, "I am. You get it? I want us both to be ready. Not ... depleted."

"Fu-uck," Tommy sighed and pulled up his underwear. He tossed himself down heavily on the bed behind her, making her bounce.

But now he snuggled up behind her, his cock hard against her rump, but at least in his pants. His breath was heavy with sexual need and petulance, but he was being good and she appreciated it.

To rile him further, she asked, "How are we going to do this, Tommy? How is this going to happen? Would it be all right if we did it and you weren't around?"

"What? No way."

"How then? You didn't want Dio to know. Didn't want him to think he was getting the better of you."

"He's not. Not anymore."

"What does that mean?"

"It means don't worry about that now. I'll figure it out, Sook. Let me work it out. But don't you dare fuck him behind my back."

"I won't. Tommy, I'm sorry. I don't want to do that."

"You just want to fuck him so bad you hope I'd give in and let you."

"Not like that."

"Kind of."

"Kind of. I know I want it, Tommy. I never did before. Not like this. This was your thing. Your thing, not mine. You rolled me down a hill, so don't get mad I've got momentum."

"I'm not mad, Sook. If I snap, I'm sorry. You know I love you. I snap sometimes because I hate that I want this. But I love it, too."

"I get it. Don't snap at me, okay?"

"I won't. But cut me some slack if I do."

---

TRUNK

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 16

TOMMY AND DIO went after breakfast to visit a Chinese mining company and left her alone at the villa. Benny and the soldier arrived in the Land Rover, picked them up and drove them to the helipad, and Tommy told her they'd be south of Lusaka, in Zambia, for the morning then they had a meeting with some Dutch in Chingala, but that one was just a tour of one of their operations. Told her they'd be back before dinner.

The day was hers to do whatever she wished. No boys running around and fighting and breaking things, no clients, no fucking obligations. All she had to do was think of possibilities and prepare for them. Possibilities, Sook? Well, it was going to finally happen tonight, and she was one-hundred percent sure she wanted it. No turning back. What did she want to do? Fuck Dio, for sure. How? First, she wanted Dio to take her in whatever way he wanted. Surprise her. She trusted Dio's capabilities. Let him lead the way. Later, she would like to play.

That left preparations.

Off the bedroom suite where she and Tommy stayed was a romantic bathroom that looked out onto the river. Open air, a half wall, and instead of windows a wide-square rope net that looked like a ship's rigging. At the half wall, a long square-edged enamel tub sat at a height that would give its occupant an unobstructed view of the river.

Distant voices carried, and from the front of the house she saw the Land Rover had returned, parked on the rutted path at the crest of a hill a quarter mile from the house. Benny and the soldier congregated near the front of the vehicle smoking, talking, and laughing. It made her feel safe, which was weird, being so remote, so isolated, and having two armed men who were strangers watching over you. It should frighten her a little, but she trusted Tommy to leave her safe, and hell, she'd feel worse if she were unprotected out here in an open air villa in the grassy plain, possible predators stalking.

The tub filled high, a scented oil poured from a glass bottle labeled Gloriosa, she slipped slowly into the water so hot it steamed. She soaked for half an hour, drained the tub and refilled it with new hot water. As the level rose, she took a razor to her fairy cake and shaved herself smooth and glistening. Then a careful soaping of her folds and a good and thorough cleansing of her anus as well. You never knew.

This time she fell asleep when she soaked. A sound of splashing woke her again after lunchtime and as her eyes fluttered, she saw a heron lift up into the sky and fly over a grassy rock formation Tommy called a castle koppie on the far side of the river. She smiled, sat up.

Down in the river, only a couple hundred feet away, an elephant waded in the water up to its belly. Its face looked mirthful as it curled its trunk, lowered it into the river, raised up then and uncoiled it over its head. Water splashed over its back, and it made a snorting bugle.

"Oh my God," she laughed, still bewildered at this exotic location and the outrageous things she had planned. She folded her arms on the lip of the tub and rested her chin, watched the elephant bathe itself. This wasn't Atlanta that was for sure. She was far from home, far from her normal life, and she wanted Dio badly.

---

IT WAS JUST after four-thirty in the afternoon when Dio and Tommy's helicopter touched down again in the SAPI Safari Area. Then it was a bumpy half-hour trip in the Land Rover all the way back to their villa. Dio couldn't stop talking. Phase One and Two of their 'African Plan' had been closed. The Chinese were signed, and the Dutch promised as well, paperwork a formality. Two five-year contracts that would please Dio's father to no end. The man could retire now, knowing his son had a good grasp of the reins. Megalos's future looked solid for the next half-decade at least. It was Tommy who had done the work. Tommy who had put them in the position to offer the Chinese what they didn't even know they needed. It was Tommy who made it happen. Just the same, the two of them glad-handed each other in the back of the Land Rover, slapped their backs and generally jubilated on a job very well done. Dio was a fool if he didn't know it was Tommy that had done it.

Dio drummed on the back of the passenger seat and Tommy saw the soldier in the front laughing, rolling his eyes at these crazy white businessmen in the back.

Benny said over his shoulder, "It's time for celebration?"

"Oh you know it, Benny. Big celebration," Dio said, running his hands through the air like he was picturing Big Celebration lit up on a marquee.

The soldier turned to face Tommy, his fingers curling the hand guard of his rifle, barrel pointed up at the ceiling. "Congratulations on your success," he said in a rich, deep voice.

"Just Phase One," Tommy said.

Dio said, "And Phase Two," punched Tommy's thigh, then said to Benny, "Hey, come in for a drink. One drink with us."

Benny said, "I don't know—"

"No, you gotta—one drink. A drink to Tommy." Dio looked to him, nodded with appreciation. "This guy fucking did it today."

Tommy said to Benny, "How was my wife today?"

"Quiet, Mr. Travis. Stayed inside." He turned over his shoulder, said, "She did see an elephant in the river."

"She did?"

"She was very excited."

---

TOMMY AND DIO came in the front door with Benny and the soldier, Morris, and all Sukie wore was a silk robe with nothing underneath. It was short, too, just above mid-thigh. All that prevented her from being revealed naked to four men right now, two of them strangers, was the slippery knot tied in the belt around her waist. Her arms folded protectively across her middle and with thumb and forefinger she pinched her lapel closed around her neck. She'd been about to say How did it go? And let them see her in her skimpy thing, get the ball rolling. Now she felt sheepish and quiet, and she closed herself off, standing in the dimmer part of the living room while the men came into the kitchen area.

Dio spotted her.

He said, "Sukie, God, we missed you. You should have seen us today ..."

Tommy looked up and saw her, too, smiled. Morris and Benny did as well, coming in to stand next to Tommy. She felt absolutely naked with all four of them staring at her and all she wore was a flimsy piece of silk. She pampered herself today, soaked in scented oil and water, cleaned herself and her hair, shaved between her legs and soaped her backside. Her body was prepared for one thing. Four sets of male eyes on her now made her feel profoundly objectified. Her legs shook.

Dio crossed the room, smiling warmly with his hands held out. He said, "Look at you. Were you going to head up to the bedroom?"

"The bedroom ...?" she said, her eyes darting from Dio to the men watching behind him. Her mouth hung open, and she struggled for something to say.

But then Dio was on her, this man who wasn't her husband putting his arms around her while the others looked on. He hugged her as if he had really missed her all day long, and they were an intimate couple. He moaned and pressed her to his chest before she could protest, her hands coming up his sides to push herself away, but he arched his back and hoisted her a little so her feet came off the floor. "Sook, you should've seen us today, I tell you. That fucking Tommy." He spun around once with her and she felt the hem of her short robe rise. Her backside faced the men in the kitchen and she thrust a hand down to hold the material against her bottom. There was a chance she might have flashed Benny and Morris with something they shouldn't have seen. She felt her cheeks burning brightly. Dio set her down so her feet were on the floor and both her hands came to the hem of her robe and sealed it against the back of her thighs. She was afraid to turn around and see the expression of the men in the kitchen. They may have got a glimpse of her bare ass.

She whispered in a stern voice, "Dio ... don't ..."

He cocked his head and cupped her cheek affectionately. "Sukie. Look how beautiful you are." It was far too intimate for a man and woman who weren't married. And what would the two Africans think seeing her behave like this in front of her husband?

When she had the strength to turn, she saw Morris and Benny regarding her while Tommy pulled down three crystal glasses from a shelf above the copper sink. He set them down on the counter then squeaked off the lid of a nearby decanter. He took a sniff from the neck of the bottle, and said, "Bourbon." Tommy's face showed red as well and she didn't believe she had ever seen her husband blush before in his entire life. Her heart began pounding in her chest.

Dio left her now, rejoined the men in the kitchen, clapping his hands together. "Tommy, Tommy, not that one. The one that's on the counter. Next to the fridge."

Tommy showed a braver face as if his cheeks hadn't flushed red. Smiled a little even though he wouldn't look at her. He nodded to Dio while he picked up the bottle that had been indicated. "This one?"

Dio put his hand on Morris's collar, said, "Thirty-year-old Scotch. That's what we drink when we celebrate." Benny smiled.

Sukie said, "I'm just going to run upstairs and put something on."

Dio turned and said, "Hold up, Sook. Come and have a drink with us. Just one drink, a quick one. Your husband made Megalos a lot of money today. Did all right for himself, too."

"I think I should just go run up and put some pants on," she said, then wished she hadn't pointed out to the guests that she wasn't wearing any pants.

"Come and join us, Sook," Tommy said. Now his eyes raised to meet hers and she saw a desperate sort of twinkling there. Not fear, but something close. Something was happening inside her husband and he seemed like he wanted to explore it. There was something comforting in that. Tommy wouldn't do that unless he trusted her. And while it was crazy that made her feel very good inside.

"One drink?" she said, her voice a little softer than she intended.

Benny smiled wide and showed off his white teeth, saying, "One drink. Mr. Megalos made us come in, said we had no choice. One drink then we must get back to work." Still smiling, he nodded his head respectfully.

"Okay," she said, gathering her robe again over her cleavage. She crossed over the living area, coming to stand next to Tommy. One hand covered over the knot on the belt. One tug, and Dio could show off to Benny and Morris her bare breasts and that space between her legs that she shaved this morning.

---

THERE WAS something thrilling in seeing his Sukie frightened and aroused all at the same time. He could've done without that odd display of affection between Dio and Sook in front of the two men—and yet, there was something thrilling in that, too. What would they think of her? What do they think goes on in this villa when they're outside looking over the place? There was an erotic surge at the notion these two men might presume that both he and Dio were fucking her, and they might think later, when they were at home, of her petite, soft and tanned body getting spit-roasted on the master suite's bed, under the lace netting. It was a terrible thing to think of your wife like that, but fuck if it didn't get his heart racing.

"Five drinks to toast," Tommy said, pouring a finger of the thirty-year Scotch into each of the crystal glasses then poking the pewter top back on the decanter.

Tommy handed a glass to Sukie, and she took it in both her hands then held it clutched over her breasts. The others took theirs and waited for Dio to say something.

"Benny, Morris, you're probably going to be seeing a lot of our handsome faces. Sukie's, too, if you're very lucky." He winked at Sukie and she squirmed next to Tommy, putting one foot over the other.

"We'll be very happy to see you," Benny said graciously, glass of Scotch poised to toast.

"My boy Tommy here sold a lot of machines today. Not just machines today, but, I mean years worth. I think I'm going to be seeing a lot of Africa. And a lot more of Sukie. If I'm lucky." Eyes darted, then when it was uncomfortable, Dio continued, looking right at Tommy now. "And my dude Tommy, of course. I wanna drink to my old Papa and the company that gives Tommy something to hustle. If this fuckin' shark ain't moving forward, I know he'd drown. We all make a good team. To Megalos," he said at last, raised his glass and they all followed suit.

Benny and Morris tilted their glasses back and finished. Dio and Tommy and Sukie took mouthfuls. "How about another?" Dio asked them.

"No, we couldn't," they both said, all smiles, nodding and stepping back.

"You're welcome to," Dio said. Then when they continued backward, Dio said, "Let me walk you out."

Tommy set his glass down on the counter and kissed the top of Sukie's head. She bit her lip and looked up at him. "You did good today?"

“Course, Sook,” he said and smiled. She looked at him sweetly, her lips damp with Scotch, her eyes wide and nervous and anxious. And horny. He could see it in her. His wife was in the mood. It was obvious from her appearance. It was the first thing you would notice about her, coming in that front door and seeing her standing in the living area with bare legs and feet, just a flimsy silk robe. She was nude under there, and her breasts were squashed by the fabric, straining against the constraint of her tightly tied belt. One snap of a tasseled belt end and her chest would burst out.

Benny said, “I’ll send up Chef if you’re ready. Tonight is Nile Perch peri peri, and prawns in butter masala.”

Sukie shook her head no. Dio caught it, said, “You don’t want Chef tonight?”

“I’m not hungry,” she said. He knew the feeling. Could see the tension in her, knew her stomach was tight with anxiety over what she wanted to do.

“We ate late. Ate at the mining camp,” Tommy said, and nodded to Dio.

Dio raised his eyebrows, considered it. “I guess not, Benny. Tomorrow night?”

Benny smiled, wagged a long finger. “A picnic, yes?”

“Afternoon. It’s a surprise, Benny,” Dio said. “And only if we have another day like today to celebrate.”

Morris wished them a good evening and stepped outside, and Benny assured them they would all have much success before he joined Morris and they strolled up the driveway and climbed into the Land Rover. With the men gone, Tommy could see Sukie relax a little, her posture loosening up. She finished her Scotch while Dio stood at the front door, in the glowing orange light of the lowering sun. He waved, and the Rover honked and they heard the sound of the truck’s gears in reverse, then it was gone.

“Good guys, huh?” Dio said, returning to the kitchen.

“Yeah,” Sukie said weakly.

Dio put his elbows on the counter and looked at her through his raised brows. A lock of his thick black hair had tumbled loose from its combed hold and lay in a curl over his handsome face.

Tommy picked up his own drink and took another sip. Making something happen tonight was something he wasn’t sure how he would do.

There had to be a way to get the ball rolling without having to find a way to approach Dio. And there had to be a way where it wasn’t Sukie making the first move; he didn't like that either. After what happened on the plane he knew this would happen but he didn't want to have to deal with Dio trying to sneak Sukie away somewhere to fuck her or trying to send Tommy out to do something so he could try it behind his back.

Dio rubbed his hands together, gold Rolex flashing in the lights that hung above the island's countertop. He watched Sukie with concern. He said, "You not hungry? Way you're dressed, looks like you wanted to hit the sack early. You leaving me and your hubby to celebrate alone?"

Sukie's eyes darted to Tommy, and she said, "You just got me coming out of the bath. I wasn't going to bed."

"That's good," Dio said, stroking his thumb over his lower lip and watching her. "I wanted to celebrate. There's a bottle of Krug in the fridge. I was saving it for tomorrow, but maybe we'll just get another bottle. Anyone want champagne?"

Tommy said, "Yeah, I like champagne. I'm not ready for bed."

"I'm not either," Sukie said. Her face seemed to brighten. She ran a hand up and down the silky lapel of her robe and said, "I'm not ready for bed, you guys just came in and surprised me. I didn't know you'd be bringing anyone with you."

"Those guys?" Dio said. "Tommy and me were celebrating in the back of the Land Rover, I felt guilty for not letting them in on the fun."

"I wasn't exactly dressed ... You know, to receive visitors," Sukie said.

Dio huffed. "You kidding? You probably just made those guys' year, getting a look at you in your robe."

"That's my point," Sukie said drolly, loosening up and looking a little happier now. She leaned an elbow on the counter and it squashed the shiny fabric against her breast. Dio saw, smiled, turned and went to the fridge.

Sukie said to Tommy, "When he lifted me up, I think my robe might have ... flashed them."

Tommy told her the truth: "It did."

Her features fell; shock and embarrassment. "Are you serious?"

"I'm serious," he told her and grinned.

She said, "What did they see?"

Dio took the bottle of Krug from the fridge and put it on the counter, began unwinding the tin wires of the top. He said, "Her robe came up?"

Tommy said, "I saw it. They probably did, too."

Dio laughed loud.

“No, you didn’t. Seriously, what did they see?”

Tommy told her, “They saw Sukie’s smiling cheeks.”

“My smiling cheeks?”

He drew a sort of curvy W shape in the air, indicating the lower scooped lines where her ass cheeks met the top of her thighs.

She looked horrified, eyes wide and staring down at the floor. “They did not,” she said in disbelief.

“I’m just telling you I did,” Tommy said, showing her his palms.

Dio popped the cork. “I told you you made their year. Glasses, Tommy?”

“Sure thing,” he said, moving to the sink again and taking down three champagne flutes. He put them on the counter while Sukie still stared at the floor. Her cheeks had blushed. Tommy said, “Serves you right, walking around with nothing under your robe.”

“I didn’t know anyone was coming,” she said.

Dio said, “Hey man, get off her back, she’s totally got the right idea.” He winked at Sukie.

“Right idea?” Tommy said.

“Doesn’t she look comfortable? What’s the point in privacy if you don’t take advantage? Do the things you’re afraid to do when you think there might be people around. Know what I’m saying, Tommy?”

He frowned, detecting some lower meaning in his tone. “I think I know what you mean,” he said.

“I hope you do, Tommy.” Dio poured champagne into the three flutes. He said, “Look at it out there. Beautiful African sunset, I’m gonna watch it and drink expensive champagne, come out and tell me what you’re going to do with all the money we just made. Sukie, what are you going to do?”

“With the money? I don’t know. Vacation, I think.”

“Oh yeah?” Dio said. “Vacation’s good. Get away somewhere private, exotic,” He slid champagne to each of them with his fingers on the base of the flutes. Now he said, “We got this place to ourselves. Private, exotic. We’re out in the middle of nowhere, and I like the way Sukie thinks.”

“What do you mean the way I think?”

“Your attire. Nice warm night, we can go out sit by the fire, watch the sun go down on the river. Anyone care what I wear?”

Tommy’s stomach tightened. Tommy said to Sukie, “You mind?”

“Mind what?” she said.

Dio said “I just want to be as comfortable as you. You were walking around here with nothing on.”

“No, I wasn’t,” she said but now she was blushing again. Her eyes were reflective and glossy and she couldn’t help but smile. Tommy was sure that she had been walking around here naked.

Dio said, “I’m not offended if you want to.”

“Walk around naked?” Sukie asked, raising her eyebrows.

Dio said, “I like walking around naked, too. Anyone object?”

Now it was on and Tommy imagined Sukie’s heart was beating as hard as his own. She blinked and licked her lips, her mouth held in a perplexing but restrained smile. “I don’t mind,” she said.

Dio clapped his hands and said, “Course you don’t. You see me naked twice a week. Let’s take our champagne out onto the deck.”

The three of them walked together through the living area into the sitting room beyond. They were still under the roof of the second floor, but the open air of the patio opened out beyond them. A small fire had been lit in a wrought iron basket that sat in a curved plaster basin filled with round river stones. Beyond the river, the silhouette of the rocky castle koppie was black against a practically throbbing orange sky. They had maybe half an hour before it was dark.

Dio set his champagne down next to a chessboard on a heavily polished tree that lay on its side and served as a low table at the edge where the interior met the patio. He pulled his black polo shirt up over his head and threw it onto an ottoman. With his toes, he peeled off his expensive loafers while he undid his belt.

Tommy turned to watch Sukie, whose eyes went up and down Dio as he disrobed. Absently, she chewed on her lower lip. Tommy began unbuttoning his own shirt.

With his pants unzipped, Dio faced them. He pulled the pants down and let them drop to the floor, standing now in dove grey underwear. Sukie’s eyes stared. Why not? She’d seen it many times, had jerked it off many times; probably had grown an affection for it. Now her husband was beside her and she knew what would happen next.

The pouch of Dio’s underwear sagged forward with the enormous thing contained within. Dio ran his hands around his waistband, watched Sukie as he pulled them down. His huge penis fell free and swung between his thighs. Sukie looked, smiled, then looked away again. She undid her belt and let the robe open. Tommy could see that she wore nothing underneath like he suspected.

Dio looked as well. He said, "Out here in nature don't you think it's best to be natural. C'mon, you too, Tommy. Don't be shy."

Tommy nodded and Sukie gave a nervous chuckle. She gathered the robe around her breasts but let the shoulders slip down her arms. Her eyes had returned to roam Dio's body. Tommy could see now that Dio had been preparing for Africa. He lost quite a bit of that softness he had. Trimmed some of his body hair, too, it looked like. Still hairy, spreading across his chest and shoulders, but now lined trails accentuated the edges of his stomach muscles. He'd been dieting to look good. It was a thrilling thought knowing that he had done it for Sukie.

Tommy threw his shirt over top of Dio's, undid his khaki pants. Dio stood before them completely naked with his hands on his hips, eyes roaming Sukie. She looked bashful now and hid her face.

Dio said, "Let's go, Sook. Let's see what you've got."

"Oh my God," she said bashfully, her face going even redder. She said, "I didn't know you'd both be looking at me."

"Sure you didn't," Dio said. "Beautiful woman taking her clothes off in front of two men think they're going to look the other way. Eh, Tommy?"

Tommy's mouth was too dry to answer. He unzipped his pants and let them fall. The boxer shorts went with them and he was glad that there was a certain pounding of his heart that had livened what he had between his legs. Nothing to be embarrassed about it all, in fact there had been many a girl who told him he was too big. But next to Dio, he couldn't help feeling small. Sukie didn't even look over and that was exciting in its own right—his wife was too enthralled by what this other man had been endowed with.

Now Sook let her robe fall to the floor, but she put her held together fingers crossed on her chest to cover her nipples. Dio didn't dwell, he just smiled and picked up the champagne, turned and walked out to the patio, expecting them to follow.

---

AHEAD OF THEM, Dio walked completely bare-ass across the patio to the fire pit and set his champagne glass down. He moved on instead of sitting, walked to the edge of the pool and stood looking out over the river.

In her periphery, Tommy held out his hand, and it startled her. She looked up to his eyes and gave him a smile. She took his hand, and he ran his thumb over the back of her fingers. They each picked up their champagne glass and walked out to the fire pit, setting down their drinks and angling the chairs so they faced the river. They sat down and Tommy took her hand again.

“What I tell you about African sunsets?” Dio said, and he turned back to them, walking to take a seat. Between his legs that huge penis swung left and right jumping and bouncing off his thighs, looking quite like that huge thing she’d seen thrown over an elephant’s shoulder to spray water across its back. Tonight she would experience it again. For real. Now the sight of it took her breath away, and she was strangely ashamed of that. She covered her mouth with her hand to stifle a strange girlish chuckle that erupted.

Dio stopped and said, “What’s so funny, Sook?”

It was so embarrassing, but somehow now that they were faced with the moment, could feel the momentum building and knowing where it would take her, she was embarrassingly giddy. She leaned toward Tommy her hands covering her mouth,

Tommy said, “What?”

It was the only thing she could think to say, something funny to change the subject: “That’s the second trunk I’ve seen today.”

Dio laughed lightly, came and sat across from them.

Tommy said, “Trunk?”

She said, “You know, elephant trunk. I saw an elephant today.”

Tommy’s face pulled into a protective grimace—her words affecting him, but not deterring him. He gritted his teeth, said, “Oh yeah. Elephant. I heard.”

“Come on, Sook,” Dio said. He was sitting at the edge of the wicker loveseat with his legs open. His enormous cock and his hanging balls dangled over the edge garishly. They looked larger than ever. “You’ve seen me naked before.”

Sukie’s mouth worked around and Tommy’s eyes drifted toward her. “I have,” she said, wondering how Tommy would take this. Of course he knew she’d seen him naked, knew it and been turned on by it; but this was Dio fucking with Tommy—at least, that’s how she sensed it—and she wasn’t sure how Tommy would take getting fucked with. To play along, she turned to Tommy said, “You know, from massages.”

Tommy’s jaw muscles flexed and his eyes were on Dio now, sitting there with his legs open showing off to his wife how hung he was. Tommy said, “I figured,” playing along in his own way, too.

Dio smiled now, big and friendly, eyes warm and happy. He said to her, “Sook, come sit with me,” and patted the spot next to him on the loveseat.

---

LOVESEAT

DIO'S REQUEST seemed to solve the problem of how what Tommy and Sukie wanted would begin. He hated having Dio take the lead, but it did make broaching what they wanted a lot easier, and shit, he didn't want to take it, and he didn't want Sook to take it ...

Before she stood up, Sukie gave him a knowing sort of smile. He gave her one back. Both of them acting like Dio called the shots here, but he didn't know that husband-and-wife had been ahead of the game all along. Unless Sukie had told him. It was a worrying thought but impossible. She would have told him Dio knew. So she stood now, his usually demure wife letting herself be seen completely naked. She didn't cover herself, no hands over her breasts anymore, not one tucked between her legs. She stood comfortably and allowed both men to look at her naked body. That was the way it should be; she was an incredibly beautiful woman. Sukie seemed to pause, hesitating, as if looking for his permission which was a polite thing to do. He nodded, allowing her to approach this other man. It was just protocol. This was what Sukie was in Africa for but at least Dio knew Tommy was still the boss.

As Sukie came around the coffee table, Dio eyed her completely and unabashedly. His gaze traveling from her face, lingering on her swaying breasts, then down to her shaved sex and her swinging hips. He liked what he saw, licking his lips then and smiling. As she sat down, his eyes returned to her face. He said, "Tommy, I've said it before, but do you really, I mean honestly, understand what a lucky fucking man you are?"

"I know it."

Sukie rolled her eyes as if they were both crazy. She sucked on her lower lip and ran a lock of hair behind her ear.

Dio still watched her intently. He shifted in the seat so he faced her. "That might be the most beautiful face I've seen."

"Oh, come on," she said, and she gave Tommy a funny sort of look.

Tommy scratched his chin, watching it all unfold. His heart pounded steadily in his chest. Watching this handsome and much younger man sitting there naked and complimenting his wife had his full attention. And more, it was a breathy sort of responses from Sukie that amplified it. She liked it. She liked being objectified by such a handsome stud. He could see it in her rosy cheeks, see it in her glimmering eye. Sukie was aroused.

She sat at Dio's side, having brought both her knees up, sitting on her heels. They were so close together, and yet Sukie let her bare chest be revealed. Her rosy nipples had hardened, the buds scrolled in clenched buttons reaching out from her perfect large teardrops. She knew they were a beautiful set, and she liked the men looking at them.

Dio said, "Coming to see your wife, Tommy, twice a week for almost two months now's been about the best time I can remember. Having her hands all over my body is like a dream. You know how good it feels to have her hands on you."

Tommy shifted in his seat, his hands clenching at the wicker armrests and making the chair squeak. Caught somewhere between excitement and anger. "I do. I know it very well."

Dio looked away from Tommy and back at Sukie, both her hands rested on her thighs, and Dio took one up now by the wrist, brought it to his mouth and kissed the back of her hand. "It's been a long day, Sukie."

Sook knew what he meant, her eyes watching his. She nodded a little, then put her hands on him. She leaned close, putting the left hand on his shoulder, her other one coming around to rub his neck. Dio leaned forward and clasped his hands together in his lap "That's it, Sukie. Those hands are magic."

Now his eyes came up to meet Tommy's, and Tommy held his gaze for a long while. Sukie worked her hands on Dio's back while they stared. She was naked and her breasts gently swaying, Tommy noting one nipple grazing back and forth on Dio's shoulder.

"Tommy," Dio said, "I know you're a good judge of character. I know you get in people's heads. You're not the only one."

“Is that so?” Tommy said.

“You don’t seem like the kind of guy let his wife put her hands on a man like me, doing it twice a week at lunch while you’re at the office.”

“Sukie’s business. She can do what she wants.”

“Yeah. She can do what she wants. You ever worry what she wants?”

“Never.”

“I didn’t think so.” They held each other’s gaze for a long while and Sukie never stopped. Her thumbs dug into the bunched muscles between his shoulder and neck. She licked her lips while she did. Tommy swore her nipples had clenched tighter. Dio said, “I have to tell you, Tommy, I love having your wife’s hands on me.”

“I’m sure you do.”

“She ever tell you what we do when you’re at work?”

Tommy shrugged, held back a smirk. It was easy because a big part of him wanted to end this. But unfortunately, a bigger part was taking control of his body. His pulse raced, his mind tumbled. And most evident was a rapidly increasing turgidity between his legs. His own penis had begun to rise. It lifted from the seat and hugged the inside of his thigh.

Dio sat back now, his hands coming up to take Sukie’s wrists. He guided them to rub his chest while he watched Tommy. Sukie’s eyes stayed on Dio, watching her hands as they smoothed over his broad and muscular chest. Her fingers went through his chest hair.

“I think she does tell you.”

“Tell me what?” Tommy said.

Dio locked gaze with him again, his eyes narrowed and Tommy mimicked him. Dio took Sook’s wrists and held them still, stopped them from stroking at his chest, then with his right hand he guided Sukie lower. Sukie obliged, her fingernails tracing down over his chest and running through his furred and muscular midsection. The closer her hand got between his legs the more Dio began to smile.

“Tough guy like you, Tommy, wouldn’t let this happen unless you liked it. And your dick getting hard really gives you away.”

Tommy gave him no answer, raised his chin and looked down his cheeks at him.

To Sukie, Dio said, “Your husband’s doing all right between his legs.”

Sukie nodded, but her eyes stayed on her own hand. Dio still held her wrist and her open hand lay just below his bellybutton, his long pubic hair sprouting between her fingers. He let her wrist go.

Dio cocked his head and kept his gaze on Tommy. Without saying anything, without instructing her, Sukie's hand inched lower and lower. Tommy's dick raised up off his lap and in a few heartbeats it stuck straight up in the air.

Dio looked at it and said, "You're not the only one who knows what goes on in other people's heads."

"And what's going on in my head?" He asked him.

Dio smiled—with a surprising lack of arrogance—and eased himself back into the loveseat, settling against the cushions. Sukie stayed raised on her knees, practically squirming, one hand resting on Dio's shoulder, the other still laying on the hairy flat of his stomach just above his genitals. His cock had lengthened, laying now on the seat.

"You want something," Dio said at last.

Sukie looked to Tommy now, and he could read a certain nervousness there. Two alpha males looking to lock horns over her and she was concerned it might interfere with her desire. Her plump lips were held slightly parted, her hips flexing, making her thighs stroke together. Between her legs, he knew she would be soaked.

Tommy gave a confident chuckle instead of answering. His cock throbbed, sticking up straight in the air. There was no denying to Dio his feelings on what was obvious between him and Sook—his allusion to the things they might have done together.

"Settle against me, Sook," Dio said, his eyes still steady on Tommy's.

Sukie's lips sucked between her teeth and she clamped them, her gaze drifting away from Tommy. Slowly she slumped to one haunch, heels pulled up to her butt, knees together. The hand lying low on Dio's stomach stayed where it was.

Gaze holding on Tommy, Dio's head gently turned, his face close to Sook's. Now their eyes met and Tommy could see a passion for Dio in his wife's expression. Dio jutted his chin toward her, his lips parting. Sukie did the same, her eyes lowering, then their faces getting even closer.

Their lips came together, and they kissed. Tommy's insides clenched like seized gears, his breath held and he was sure his heart stopped. Sukie and Dio's mouth sucked on one another tentatively, making sticky wet sounds. Then Tommy's body was thrown back in drive, his heart thundering to make up for lost beats, his breaths coming back in heavy pants. He'd never before in his life wanted so badly to kill a man and yet have it washed away with the love for a woman. He craved this intense emotion. It raced through him like tiny crystals, shredding and coursing his systems, cleaning him out and somehow—fucking somehow—flooding him with love for his wife. A slow exhale was released in chugging breaths, a pressure valve before he exploded and did something crazy.

They continued to kiss, their mouths making soft sounds, Sukie's head gently rocking, Dio biting at her lower lip. Deep breaths steadied Tommy now, narrowed his focus; he got a grip on that runaway stampede that had charged through his emotions. His hands gripped the seat's armrests, making the wicker squeak.

Dio's arm had snaked behind Sook and now his hand appeared, resting over her thigh. Sukie's hand turned to a claw and began to rake her nails up and down through Dio's pubic hair, exciting him, arousing him; Dio's cock had swelled, still laying on the seat, but plump now, the huge glans working at peeling back its foreskin cover. Half the glossy cock head peeked out from the scrolling membranes.

While they still kissed, Tommy watched Dio's hand slip over the curve of her thigh, seeking the seam between her two legs—Sukie's knees parted slightly and she moaned into Dio's mouth. Now Tommy's thighs flexed in anticipation—Dio was going to touch his wife's pussy right in front of him. There was submission involved; a man like Tommy would never allow this. But he was going to allow it, as much as his body produced 'fight' chemicals and every muscle in his body condensed to bulging cords.

The undersides of Dio's bunched fingers stroked side to side, working between Sukie's creases. Her legs inched apart, one knee lifting—slowly it was revealed to Tommy where Dio touched her. Two middle fingers worked up and down her folds, and Tommy could see the shine there; Sukie had soaked herself, her sex glistened, the insides of her thighs showed a shine, and Dio's fingers made slick popping sounds as they smoothed her flesh.

Their kiss broke with a hissing gasp, Sukie's head falling back as Dio eased two big fingers inside her. Dio watched her expression as he began to fuck her with the bunched fingers. Sukie's legs parted wide, her knee pointed up to the darkening orange sky. Her hips humped back and forth against his digital intrusion and Tommy flexed his own cock hard, could see it bobbing in his periphery, eyes locked on where another man pleased his wife's most intimate part.

Sukie's tummy heaved in and out and she gasped with each thrust—then her hand scratched down Dio's stomach, unable to restrain her lust anymore. She gripped his cock overhand, her palm curled over Dio's cock's dorsal side. She stroked him clumsily, the big thing not fully hard cambering and flopping in her grip.

Now they watched each other's eyes closely as they used their hands to pleasure one another. Dio fucked her with two fingers, Sukie gushing all over his hand, Sukie stroked his cock until he grew to full hardness, then she cupped his balls and squeezed them roughly, making Dio groan and chuckle. Sukie had become familiar with another man's sexual equipment and the fact she knew Dio's dirty secrets and how to please him with her hand had a hard but pleasurable lump swelling in Tommy's psyche.

Dio's fingers withdrew from her, separated and mushed at her labia, pushing her wings wide and showing off to Tommy her slick and glossy interior, shining in vibrant pink; eager for penetration. Sukie gripped his cock with two hands, stroking and swirling in unison, his balls going up and down with her jerking. Dio said, "Show him how you suck me."

Sukie nodded, her lower lip plump and hanging, shining with wet. On her knees now, she bent over his chest, eyeing the thing she held in her hands.

"That's it, Sook—give it a kiss for Tommy."

Tommy groaned with discomfort as Sukie pillowed her lips then pressed them to Dio's large and plump cock head. She gave it gentle kisses, her tongue darting out to tickle at the glans' flared rim and his urethral slit. Dio's hand caressed her bent over bottom, and Tommy was sure, slipping his fingers in and out of her again.

"Don't tease me, Sook," Dio said, "get it wet, spit on it."

Sukie's mouth parted at his profane urging, the dirtiness of what he asked her turning on Tommy's sweet wife. She sucked on her lower lip, watching his foreskin ripple over his coronal ridge as she continued stroking him. Then she spat on his cock head. Tommy had never seen his wife do something like that and he shifted uncomfortably. Her saliva drooled down his cock, pooling where her hand gripped his shaft. She spit on it again and she had Tommy practically twisting in the patio chair. Now her fingertips danced around the sculpted edges of Dio's glans, spreading her saliva—then her mouth plunged suddenly over it and she took him deep, the skin on his shaft bunching between the stretched ring of her lips and where her hand gripped him.

Dio's free hand gathered up Sukie's hanging hair and gripped it behind her neck, fully revealing to Tommy what his wife's face looked like sucking Dio's monster cock. Sukie's head bobbed and rocked, her hands stroked and twisted. Strings of spit spilled over her knuckles and dripped down onto Dio's big bouncing scrotum.

"Ah yeah, Sook," Dio moaned. "Make it wet, make it sloppy." He pulled on her gripped hair until her mouth popped free. Jiggling strands of saliva kept them connected.

"Sloppier, Sukie," Dio said.

Sukie spit over him again, stroked, then spit again, making a slippery mess of Dio's throbbing column. He'd grown so stiff the skin was tight and gleaming on it and it developed a sideways curve that he didn't always show.

"You're so hard," Sukie sighed before shoving his swollen end past her lips again, and attacking him with frenzied sucking and bobbing.

When his eyes lifted up, Tommy saw Dio regarding him, his eyes narrowed by the pleasure Sukie delivered with her mouth. Tommy felt an anger—but not a hate—there wasn't any malice in Dio, not a meanness necessarily, just dominance. He was younger than Tommy, more handsome, better built, richer, and his penis was bigger—it was natural another man's wife would have her mouth wrapped around his cock.

"That's it, Sook," Dio groaned, "you can suck a cock, that's good." His hand darted back-and-forth behind her rump, making slick sounds and Tommy wondered how many fingers Dio had inside her.

Ass muscles flexing, Dio's hips pumped up and down, Sukie working in syncopation, mouth and hands stroking his length. Dio spread his legs wider, curling his pelvis up with each thrust into Sukie's mouth, making his balls jump and sling off Sukie's saliva against the inside of his thighs.

"Fuck, faster, Sook, faster," he urged her with a deep and constricted growl.

Sukie complied, grunting and snorting through her nose.

"Yeah, I'm going to come, I'm going to come, Sook," he said and Sukie bobbed faster. "Oh fuck, Sukie, that's it, I'm going to come in your mouth, you want it?"

Sukie squeaked an affirmative sound.

“You want my come?”

She nodded and bobbed.

“It’s coming, Sook, here it comes, swallow it, swallow it this time, Sook.”

Sook’s face went red, a vein rose on her temple. Dio growled and roared and Sook kept her head still, one hand brought against her lips to form a tight seal while Dio ejaculated in her mouth. Dio growled louder, one hand grabbing a fistful of the seat cushion. His balls rose high, hugged his shaft, one disappeared inside his body. He grabbed Sukie’s hair again, cleared Tommy’s view fully. Sukie held still, her mouth stretched around his cock; a stream of semen escaped, rolling over her thumbnail. Her neck gulped and flexed as she swallowed what Dio put in her mouth.

Dio caressed the back of her head and groaned. “Fuck, Sook, that’s it. Swallow it this time, swallow it all. Don’t spit it out. Mm, show me what a good girl you are.”

Sukie sucked and swallowed, her body still writhed like she was hungry for Dio’s touch; hungry for more than that, too.

Tommy’s own cock flexed uncontrollably now, his stomach and ass tightening and flexing in response to what he watched. Warm pre-come streamed from his tip and dribbled down over his balls. His heartbeat thundered in his ears.

Sook let her lips plop free, leaving Dio’s glans polished and gleaming. She wiped her mouth with the back of her hand and sat her butt back on the seat cushion, both feet up, her knees up to her breasts. Her hand swept her belly and ran two middle fingers up and down her pussy. She locked eyes with Dio and rolled back with her legs open, looking to get fucked.

Dio darted to his knees, got over her and hooked a hand around the back of her neck. Sukie gasped, opened her mouth, still rubbing her sex, eyes hazy, breasts heaving. But Dio didn’t get between her knees, instead he pulled her up to sit. Sukie kept her feet flat on the seat but let her knees spread wide. Dio’s hand slipped up the inside of her thigh and when he found her pussy, she moved her hand away and whimpered. Both her hands clutched at his muscular arms now and she begged him: “Fuck me, fuck me, please.” He loomed over her and his stiff cock rested over her breasts, leaving her chest shining with remnants of semen and saliva.

“You wanna fuck?” he growled, the muscles in his arm bulging and flexing as he began buzzing his hand between her legs, bringing frantic wet sounds of suction.

“God, oh, mm, please, fuck me.”

“You have to wait,” Dio said, gripping her by the back of the neck with his other hand and lowering his face to kiss her.

“Mm, ah, no, please, fuck me,” she said, grabbing his cock and jerking it desperately.

“Beg harder, Sook,” he said.

“Aw, mm, come on, Dio, don’t. Fuck me, please, can’t you hear how wet I am?”

“I can fuckin’ feel how wet you are. Now beg for it.”

Sook grimaced and made a frustrated whining sound, frowning, digging the nails of one hand into his bicep, her other hand stroking his cock still. She lay back, spreading her legs and trying to pull him by his penis. “Dio, I’m begging you,” she said, looking in his eyes. “I’m begging you, please, fuck me, I can’t wait anymore.”

Dio got over her, nudging closer on his knees, and Sukie made an excited gasp, glad he was getting in position. But Dio only put his fingers inside her, making her moan with pleasure and simultaneous frustration she wasn’t getting what she wanted.

“Come on, please, Dio,” Sukie said, her eyebrows tenting in the middle, pleading with him.

“Come for me, Sook, I wanna see your face when you come,” Dio said and his fingers plunged deeper and harder, the blades of his shoulder muscles flexing in fans as he pounded Sook’s pussy with his hand.

One of her hands clutched his hard cock still, semen seeping idly from the slit, her other hand clutched her breast while she writhed on the loveseat, her face contorting with ecstasy. Her knees drew higher, exposing herself to Dio further.

“Please, oh Dio, please, mm, fuck me ...”

“Come for me, Sook, come for me now or I’ll never fuck you ...”

“Don’t say it, Dio, mm, don’t ...”

“Show Tommy how you come for me, Sook, show him the face you make ...”

Sukie began to buck against his hand, her body jumping on the loveseat’s cushion. Her knees bowed in and out and her feet pointed and flexed. Her mouth worked open and closed and she made sounds of pending eruption. She bartered: “Fuck my ass, Dio, just ... you can fuck my ass, okay?”

The sloppy sounds of her pussy around his fingers grew louder and wetter and Dio persisted: “Show us how you come, Sook, we wanna see you come ...”

“Oh fuck, oh fuck,” she whispered and her orgasm began. She twisted left and right, squeezed Dio’s cock till her forearm shook and trembled. Her mouth hung open in a silent scream and she whipped her head left and right.

“That’s it, Sook, that’s it,” Dio soothed her, his fingers curling up to stroke the front wall of her insides. It brought an agonizing wail from her that had Tommy’s cock sending out streams of his excitement that pooled on the cushion of his chair.

“You’re so fucking hot, Sukie,” Dio said, his fingers slipping out from inside her and running up and down her plumped labia. The sun had gone down while this horrible show transpired and Tommy didn’t remember noticing the lanterns coming on. The sky was a deep navy, the horizon a faded orange slash. The perimeter of the patio and all around the pool were interspersed with large iron lanterns with warm glowing bulbs inside that lit them up in a pale amber.

Sukie’s hazy eyes watched Dio and licked her lips. She looked exhausted, satiated, but there was still a hungry glimmer in her eye. Her chest rose and fell with her rapid breaths and her nipples were still extended in clenched buds. She let his cock go and ran strands of hair off her face and unstuck them from her damp lips.

“You’re not going to fuck me?”

“Not tonight.”

She said, “I want you to.”

Dio rested his hand on her knee and it gleamed with her wet. He turned to Tommy and asked, “Should I fuck her?”

Tommy held his cool while his insides twisted tight and shook. “Fuck her if she wants.”

Dio smiled at Sukie now. “That’s enough for tonight, princess. I want to leave you with anticipation.”

Sukie nodded, accepted it, her begging done, but Tommy could read aggravation in her eyes now.

Dio kissed her knee, smiling at her. He stood up, his huge cock still hard but hanging down and bowed. It still shone wetly, the foreskin bunched around its neck. He eyed her up and down and Sook covered up a little, an arm over her breasts, and her knees coming together to seal off the sight of her sex. "Shit, Tommy. You really are one lucky son of a bitch." He shook his head with admiration and sucked on his lips. "We got a big day tomorrow and I want to celebrate. I know my man Tommy's gonna bring those Aryans in for a soft landing. When I fuck you, Sook, it's going to be special. I got a surprise planned. You still want me to fuck you tomorrow?"

Sukie's mouth moved around, she blinked, happy to hear he had plans for her and this wasn't just teasing. She nodded. "You know I do."

Dio turned to Tommy, said, "How about you?"

Tommy kept his face stone, but at last he nodded, too.

"Tomorrow's gonna be a great day for us all," Dio said. "A great day. I'm hitting the sack now, sleep like a baby tonight after that blowjob, Sook."

Sukie nodded but couldn't meet his eyes.

"You're gonna sleep, too. You got your rocks off. Less you're up all night thinking about tomorrow. Tommy's the one I worry about. I need him tomorrow." Now he turned and said to Tommy, "I'll leave you in your wife's capable hands. I think she owes you." He winked, said, "See you in the morning."

Then he walked off, left them both sitting in the open air. Cicadas began a buzzing sound when the sunlight seeped away and they couldn't even hear Dio's footfalls as he crossed the patio and walked through the villa's living area, headed for the upstairs. Sook didn't watch, just hugged her bare breasts, laying on her back with her knees together and looking up at the night sky.

---

CONFESSION

THE DARK SKY above her was endless, and faintly glowing in its depthless blue she saw the faint beginnings of constellations. Despite the night's warmth she felt a chill now. There was a lot of wet on her and it bristled with the slightest breeze. Between her legs, her chest, all around her mouth and chin, was damp. She knew Tommy watched her, and she prepared herself to face him.

In Dio's absence the night seemed intimidatingly quiet despite the sound of motion on the water and the burring of insects. It was quiet now because it had been so loud before. Those things she said. Couldn't believe she said them. They played over in her mind. Her own words sounded like shouts in her ears. Begging another man to fuck her right in front of her husband. The man she loved. Now she was profoundly embarrassed. And worse—and she didn't know if it had been noted—Dio had said something Tommy didn't know. Swallow it. This time. This. Time.

On her left, Tommy was silent, and in her periphery she could see he sat on the chair still, completely naked like her, hands scrolled over the chair's armrests. She was afraid to look at him. Not just because of how she had been humiliated so willingly, but that in a way he had been, too. And Tommy was not the kind of man who wanted to be humiliated. But, there was no turning back now, what was done was done, and he'd brought it on. And the truth was, she wasn't done. No matter what, she knew she would fuck Dio this weekend. Whether Dio wanted to or not.

So she hugged her breasts to her chest with one arm, kept her knees together and up, and rolled to her side. Tommy met her eyes, and they stared at each other for a long time without saying anything. Between his legs, her husband was still hard. Hard as could be. His big cock pointed straight up to the stars over their heads. So some things were still right in their world.

“You okay?” she asked him, her voice constricted and squeaky, and she cleared her throat after.

He nodded, running his tongue around the corner of his mouth. His face was solemn and she couldn’t read him.

“You sure?”

Tommy cleared his throat before he spoke. “Yeah,” he whispered.

Then nothing. They both still stared at one another, both of them naked, both of them far, far from home. The sky was different, the nighttime sounds were different, and they were different, too. But that was why she agreed to do this in Africa.

“I hope you’re okay,” she said quietly.

Tommy shifted in his seat now, drawing his heels underneath him and leaning forward to rise. He said, “I think we should go to bed.”

“It’s a nice night,” she said in meek protest.

“I think we should go to bed, Sook. I’m going to bed.”

“You don’t want stay up with me? Come sit with me and we’ll watch the stars.”

“I’m going to bed,” he said and stood, not hiding his prominent arousal. Tommy was pretty big, and he didn’t always achieve one-hundred percent hardness, but she saw it now—her husband couldn’t be any harder. Even standing, his thing pointed straight up, and she could see it bobbing with his heartbeat. There was a hope, of course, now, that he wanted her in the bedroom to make love. His words didn’t sound like it though, and it filled her with an icy dread.

Tommy said, “Tomorrow is such an important day, Sook. You don’t even know what’s going on. Trust me,” he sighed, put his hands on his hips and looked around. “I just ... I’m going to bed.”

“Can I come with you?” she asked hopefully.

“Yeah,” he said, but didn’t hold a hand out to help her.

She got her feet down on the ground, her heavy bosom still bundled under one forearm. She waited, and he still didn’t put out a hand. She rose, and when she walked toward him, he turned and headed into the house.

SUKIE FOLLOWED behind him on the stairs and for some crazy reason all he could think about was she was looking at his ass, and his ass looked nowhere near as nice as her lover's. His boss's. His boss's round and perfect twenty-six-year-old ass. While these thoughts were horrible, they did nothing to quell the aching hardness that nodded between his legs as he mounted the top step to the second floor. He headed to the bedroom, waited at the door as Sukie walked underneath him, her arms and hands covering up her girl parts. She walked to the foot of the bed and stood there expectantly as he closed the door behind them. She gripped some of the lacy netting that hung from the ceiling to cover the bed and ran her hand up and down it (much like how she had run her hand up and down Dio's cock). It was like she caught herself—she let it go, crossed both arms over her chest.

She said to him, "Tell me you're all right. Please, tell me you're all right."

He stood there watching her for a few moments, then said, "I'm all right. I am. I knew what was happening."

"Then why are you so quiet? What did I do wrong?"

He exhaled, scratched his head, moved to the bed and turned his back to her to sit down. She whisked away the netting and climbed on her knees across the mattress to kneel behind him. Her hands rested on his collar and she began stroking him with her strong thumbs. "Tell me," she whispered.

"That was a lot."

"It was. But, Tommy, you've seen it all before."

"On our pool deck you didn't beg him."

"I don't know what to tell you, Tommy. I was never into this like you are. But now I am. You want me to apologize? Aren't I supposed to like this?"

He laughed without humor, shook his head, one hand over his shoulder to rest over hers. She stopped rubbing him.

He said, "Swallow it this time, Sook? This time?"

She didn't answer for a while, and he felt her bodyweight leaning forward against him. She said, "I'm sorry, Tommy."

"So it's true?"

"Is what true?"

"Just tell me. Stop fucking around."

"I'm sorry, Tommy. I didn't want to tell you. I was embarrassed."

“It was that day? Just before we left, you didn’t want to tell me what happened?”

“Yes.”

“That’s a big secret, Sukie.”

“I told you I had a secret. I was afraid to tell you what it was.”

“Great. It’s a secret. You have a secret.”

“Tommy, I knew it was going to be moot. I knew when we came to Africa I would do what I did in his car, and we would do a whole lot more than that, too. And you would be watching.”

“In his car?”

“Yeah.”

“Seriously?” He turned to look over his shoulder at her, and couldn’t keep scorn from his expression. “In his fucking Ferrari? You sucked his cock in his Ferrari? How are you even in his fucking car, Sukie?”

Her expression hung blankly on her face, her lips quivered, her eyes trembled. She struggled to answer. He hated to see her face like that, so he let his brow relax, eased the tension out of it. He squeezed her hand.

“I told you I was sorry,” she whispered. “Can’t you see why I’m embarrassed? He got me in his car, and I knew I wouldn’t do anything, but then the next thing I know ...”

Tommy finished: “You’re sucking his cock.”

“It’s more complicated than that.” She struggled to say more, rolled her head on her neck and her body slumped as she sat on her heels behind him. “It’s worse than that.”

“Shit, really? It’s worse than that?”

“Tommy, I don’t want to tell you. I really don’t. I just want to do this thing here and get it done, and then never have to think about it again. Or do it again.”

“We’re not doing anything until you tell me the truth.”

“I know,” she whined petulantly like a little kid, and turned away from him. He pivoted at the hip and put his palms down flat on the mattress on either side of her bent knees. “Just tell me, Sukie. I bet you it really isn’t as bad as you think.”

After a moment, she sighed, said, “He took me to lunch. Took me to lunch at his athletic club.”

“I know it. I know the place.”

“That’s the problem. That’s why I feel so stupid.”

“Why? What happened?”

“We were just messing around. He was being dirty. We were out of the club in his car, it was after lunch.”

“And?”

She winced, continued, “And, I’m used to doing that thing for him ...”

“A happy ending?” he said gravely.

“A happy ending.”

“So you used your hand on him in his car. Then what?—he didn’t want to get his come on the nice leather seats?”

“Basically.”

He fucking hated that this brought his cock to even profounder throbbing. But this was the way it fucking was, and he had to deal with it.

“It’s okay,” he said, absolving her. Just like that. It made him feel powerful.

“It is?” she said expectantly, though her face belied she knew she would be forgiven. Then she hit him with this: “The guy at the counter saw us. He knows I’m not with Dio. He knows I’m a married woman. He knows my last name is Travis.”

“Fucking great,” he mumbled.

“I’m so sorry, Tommy. I’m so sorry, I’m so stupid.”

He sighed, stretched his back for a moment, looked around the room. “Tell you the truth, Sukie. I get it. Maybe I like that he did that. Can you believe that? Can you believe I like that he did that?”

“Why?”

“He’s got you so hot he turned you into a teenager. You’re just a dumb high school girl whose hormones have got her peeling her pants down looking to get fucked.”

She tsk-ed him, frowned. “Tommy,” she said loudly and defiantly.

He turned back, put his hands on her thighs. “Tell me different. Tell me you’re my smart sensible Sukie, business owner, happy wife, smart woman. Tell me that woman fucking fell for it.”

She looked at him meanly, but slowly her features sagged. She bit at her lower lip with her canine. “You think I’m a dumb high school kid?” she asked him.

“That guy can get you wet by looking at you.”

She rolled her eyes. “No he can’t.”

“You don’t think so? You think you’re above that?”

“Is that okay?”

“You my wife?”

“You know I am. You know how much I love you,” she said and cupped his cheeks. Her lips parted looking to be kissed and he couldn’t resist her. He leaned forward and their soft lips came together in loving osculation. She darted her tongue in his mouth and he rejected the notion of where it had been tonight and accepted it. Now he climbed over top of her, Sukie falling to her back and he got over top like a big African cat. He nudged the inside of her thighs with a knee. She rejected him, kept her legs closed. Her hand scratched at his neck and she sucked on his lips. He nudged harder, driving his knee between her thighs and twisting to get her to open up.

Their lips parted, and she whispered, “Not tonight, Tommy.”

He shook his head like he’d been slapped. “Not tonight?”

“I’m sorry. It’s the same as last night.”

He got up on his knees over top of her. “You got to be fucking kidding me, Sook. I watch you begging another man to fuck you, he doesn’t, and you reject me? You fuckin’ serious? Are you my wife or not?” He hated the sound of anger in his own voice, hated the way he loomed over her, could feel himself threatening her.

Her eyes trembled still, and her face went red again. She scooted underneath him, slipping between his thighs, grabbed his cock, and took both his balls into her mouth savagely. “Holy fuck,” he exclaimed, pain and pleasure ripping through his center like a thunderclap. He fell over top of her on all fours, his balls still in her mouth one of her strong hands stroking his shaft.

“Oh my God, Sukie, I’m going to come.” And it was true, three strokes on his erection and he could feel a tightening in his core.

When she heard his words, she let his balls pop from her mouth, pointed his cock downward and took it in her mouth deep. He could see, in comparison, having just watched her ten minutes ago, the size discrepancy between him and his boss. Him and his wife’s lover. Him and the man who was driving his wife wild. Her hand could close on it, she could take more than half of him in her mouth. One hand and her mouth, not two hands and her mouth.

He scrunched his face closed, squinted his eyes shut and pushed away that thought. He closed his eyes tightly until he saw bobbing fluorescent blobs. Sukie’s mouth stroked up and down. It was hot and wet and she made affirmative sounds. He was leaking in her mouth and she knew he was close. One hand closed around his hanging testicles and that pulled his trigger. He bucked forward, his hardest erection ever flexing and cabling in her mouth, and he blasted everything he had into her.

Sukie grunted and snorted, humming encouraging sounds to him in her throat. His arms and legs trembled as he crouched over her on all fours and pulsed and flexed into her mouth still as Sukie squeezed his balls.

“Ah, mm, fuck, oh God, Sook,” he moaned as she swallowed everything he produced.

He stayed where he was, heart pounding for a long while after he’d ejaculated, and Sukie gently teased his cock with her tongue then let it slip out of her mouth and gave the head gentle kisses.

Tommy walked himself backward down her body till his knees straddled her thighs, sat back and watched her. She covered up again, squeezing her big breasts to her chest with her folded arms. Her eyes were still wet and showed a sadness or a fear, but she held his gaze. Her lips shone wetly with what she’d just done. The second blowjob of the night for her, the second load she’d swallowed.

She whispered, “Whatever happened that day, whatever happened, Tommy, I swear to God I didn’t fuck him.”

“Did he touch you?” he asked her.

She didn’t answer, those plump lips of hers pouted to a tight, plump bunch.

“Here, Sukie,” he said, reaching behind him and stroking up the inside of her thighs. “Did he touch you here?”

Now she nodded, and he felt her squirming, not wanting to be touched there right now, his wife trying to apologize for her bad behavior and sexually rejecting him at the same time. Why did this make his fucking heart beat so hard?

He let it go, Sukie drawing her knees up to protect her sex from his touch and his hands came to rest at his front. Sukie’s eyes trembled again, and she looked away. “With his penis,” she said timidly.

“Oh God,” he sighed now and looked up at the silky canopy that enveloped the bed. His cock pulsed again, thinking of his pretty wife in the middle of the day fooling around with his boss in the handsome man’s Ferrari. “He touched your pussy with his cock?”

She nodded again.

“He was trying to put it in you?”

She nodded again. "Teasing me with it," she whispered.

Now he turned her face so their eyes met. "Did he put it in you?"

She held his gaze, but it took her forever to answer. At last she said, "A little."

His stomach tightened but instead of being mad at her for that all he wanted was to open her legs and fuck her till she screamed his name while she orgasmed. But she was denying him, saving herself so she could finally be taken by her lover. "In his car?"

Another nod. "I swore I wouldn't fuck him, Tommy, and I didn't. We got a little close, but I swear I was good."

"Except he came in your mouth."

"Can you forgive me?"

"Yes," he said without making her wait for it. "I love you."

It made her close her eyes, and she exhaled a sound of deep relief. She covered her face with her hands and smoothed away a little wet from her eyes. "I love you, too, Tommy. So much. Would you cuddle with me?"

He chuckled, said, "You're really not going to make love with me?"

She averted her eyes from his.

"It's okay," he said, accepting her wishes. He got off her and sat down, scooted his butt up the bed so they could lay together.

His cock had returned to steely hardness, and it poked him in the stomach as he made his way to the pillows. Sukie saw it and said, "Want me to use my mouth again?" She came up the bed toward him on all fours, her huge breasts swaying.

"No," he said. "Come lay with me. I'll try to think about baseball or something." He lifted the sheets and shoved his legs under, patted the spot next to him.

She got under the sheets with him but gave him her back, said over her shoulder, "I can use my hand. You want that?"

"No, Sook," he said and curled his front against her back. His cock slipped between her warm thighs. "Did you tell Dio anything?"

She squeezed her thighs together, said, "Don't try to put it in me, okay, Tommy?"

"I won't, Sook. How did Dio know what we wanted? Did you talk to him about it?"

"No way, Tommy," she said and snuggled back against him, took his hand and held it over her chest. "I didn't tell him a thing, I swear."

“Do you think he knows I watched the day you two fooled around on the deck?”

“I really don’t know, Tommy.”

“He’s a crafty fucker.”

“He’s young still. You can teach him a thing or two.”

“Young,” he scoffed, and she squeezed his hand defensively. “You were really begging for it, Sook. Begging for that big, young cock.”

“Don’t, Tommy,” she warned him.

He sighed with irritation again but shut up. He hugged her with the arm over her chest and kissed her neck.

She said, “I’m never going to get to sleep. It’s like seven o’clock.”

Tommy bit his tongue, wanting to add how out-of-her-mind horny Dio had made her, and if she’d just let her husband fuck her a handful of times, she might nod off.

He didn’t know how we was going to get to sleep either.

---

THE HOUSE WAS OMINOUSLY quiet when Tommy woke up in the middle of the night. The room still, no breeze coming in over the half wall that separated the sleeping area from the balcony that looked down over the river. The bugs had silenced, there was only the sound of the lapping water. He lay there thinking how this kind of quiet usually meant the presence of a predator.

Eyes blinking, facing the stucco wall, his vision adjusted to the dark, revealing the glossy shape of a bench carved out of a gnarly tree trunk that was imbedded in the low stucco wall. Outside the narrow gap between half-wall and the eaves’ overhang he could see the dark starry blue of the night sky.

He sensed Sukie’s absence even before he turned, so it wasn’t a shock to find her side of the bed empty. The spot was cool when he ran his hand over where she should be laying. Now he rolled back and retrieved his watch from the bedside table, checked the time. Almost twenty after one. The first thing he thought was that she was in Dio’s room, getting that big dick pounding she’d begged for and been denied. His wife had lain here with her husband, waited for him to drift off, and now she was getting the action she Goddamn craved. Most obvious place she was, of course, was the can. But her spot in the bed did feel cool. Like she'd been gone for a while. Maybe Dio had fucked her three or four times by now.

"Ah fuck," he growled, knowing he'd absolutely never get to sleep now—and tomorrow was a fucking important day. He whipped the bedsheets back and put his feet on the floor, rubbed his face. Somewhere from the patio below a frog or something, who knows what out here in Africa, began a long chirping croak then stopped. He padded his way over to the wall where there was a swinging gate made with tree branches that stood just about thigh high. He opened it and quietly stepped out onto the balcony.

From the balcony wall he peered down to the patio below. There was no movement. The frog had ceased its noisemaking. It was quiet again. The lanterns had shut themselves off at some point, and though there were no lights, he could clearly see in the dim moonlight movement on the river water, he could make out the pool, and the patio set that lay next to it. The loveseat and the chairs—the place where earlier this evening he watched his wife go down on another man. Watched that man make his wife beg for him, make her come with his fingers. From where he stood on the balcony, to his right he could see the room that jutted out toward the river, the room where Dio slept. It also had a half wall that faced him, shielded by the overhanging thatch roof. No light shone from within. If Sukie was in there with him, they had the lights out.

He returned inside, stood for a moment at the side of the bed with his hands on his hips then pulled on a T-shirt and some shorts. Out in the hallway he stopped and listened. Still no sound; quiet inside, quiet outside. No light shone from underneath the bathroom door. As he crept further down the hall, he saw the bathroom door was left ajar. Sukie was not in there.

Almost directly across from the bathroom was the door that led to the master suite where Dio slept. Tommy stood near it, let his mouth hang open so he could hear better. There was no sound from behind the door. He moved a little closer.

Now he could picture Dio laying in there and Sukie curled up against his body with his muscular arm around her shoulders. They'd fucked twice already, and now they'd fallen asleep. Sukie completely satisfied. Throbbing a little between her legs, maybe a little remorseful that she just couldn't wait for her husband. But she knew Tommy would get over it. Or maybe she wasn't even in there at all.

He thought of opening the door and entering. But if she wasn't in there, it would give Dio a strange upper hand. It would tip him off that Tommy wasn't in control of his wife. Even though all three of them knew his wife would be shared, there was a fine line between dominance and submission. He wasn't submitting his wife to Dio, but if he came in with a worried face in the middle of the night to Dio's bedroom looking for his wife, Dio would smirk and know that Tommy had no control.

Now he made his way to the top of the stairs, angled his head to catch any echoing noises coming from below. He wasn't sure, but it did sound like people were talking. He could hear hushed voices.

So they were too hot fucking in Dio's bedroom and they went down to do it in the open air. His stomach clenched and his palms grew sweaty. He dried them on his shorts.

It took a while to get silently down the steps but he made it so that his feet were on the hard stone floor of the ground level. Someone was clearly speaking right now. He could tell it was Sukie. She was down here, down here with Dio. It sounded like they were arguing. Arguing but trying to keep quiet. Sukie made some energetic point in a hissed whisper. Then there was a little sort of grumbling and Tommy couldn't make out any words at all.

As his eyes further adjusted to the dark, he scanned the lower level. The kitchen was to his right and behind him, then ahead was the living area, past that he could see out to the patio beyond. Off to the right in a cave-like space was the dining room. He could see moonlight reflected off the huge dining room table. It was a carved slab of a gnarly trunk, the top perfectly level, the whole thing gleaming with layers and layers of polish. He was sure the voices were coming from the dining room.

He got closer, could hear Sukie again complaining about something. She sounded aggressive too, going after Dio, making her point and trying to make sure that he understood it one-hundred percent. She was mad.

As Tommy got closer, the voice stopped abruptly. He stayed where he stood.

Nothing was said after that. He stood there completely silent for a long moment. Waited for their argument to resume. Wanted to hear what Dio had to say about the whole thing. But it seemed like they were done. And in the silence, he grew to think that there was no talking because they were kissing. Kissing, or perhaps Sukie had her mouth elsewhere again. As much as he hated it, he handled the growing arousal inside his shorts. Put his palm down there and squeezed what he had, squeezed hard, but he didn't even want it right now. It was an awful idea. Somehow his wife had woken in the middle of the night, roused her handsome lover, the two of them had made their way down here to have a private conversation without Tommy overhearing. And now who knows what they were doing?

He crept closer to the opening that led into the dining room, laid his hand on the smooth sculpted shape of the stucco wall. He could hear breathing on the other side.

"Tommy?"

Shit. Sukie from the other side.

He stepped around the wall, afraid of what he would find.

Sukie sat on the floor, with her back to the stucco. She had her knees up with her arms draped over them. Between her hands she held an empty champagne flute. She was alone.

He shook his head, bewildered. "What are you doing?" he asked her.

"I'm arguing with you."

"You're arguing with me? You're here by yourself?"

"Yeah. Did you hear me?"

"Yeah, I heard you arguing."

"Did you hear what I was saying?" She didn't look up at him, her eyes still looking out the dining room, past the row of chairs, to the nighttime river beyond.

"No. It sounded like you were mad. Were you winning the argument?"

"Yes. I was making excellent points, and you were seeing my side of this."

He stifled a chuckle, walked past her to turn and sit down on her right-hand side, the open bottle of expensive champagne between them. He lifted it and topped up her glass.

"You're mad at me?" he asked her.

"Not mad," she said, then sipped the glass of champagne and offered it to him. He took it and drank.

"That's good," he said.

"Exasperated."

"Tell me," he said.

She shook her head, leaned it back so the crown pressed against the stucco. He saw her eyes open wide and looking up to the ceiling; her mouth opened, but she said nothing.

He set the flute down and held her forearm. "I'm sorry I went after you about begging for it."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. I know I asked for this."

"You did, Tommy. I didn't want to do this. Not at first. Maybe you had it in your head that something was going to happen and that should make me mad, too." She muttered, "Think I can't control myself," and rolled her eyes up. "Like your boss was so hot that I would cheat on you while you are at work. I don't want to even get into what that says about how you think of me. But then you get me going on this, and dammit, Tommy, now that I'm in it I do want it. So don't punish me."

"I agree. It's hard to see you beg, Sukie, and I let it get to me. This is hard for me."

"I'm going to give you one chance, Tommy. One more chance right now. If you don't want this tell me right here while we sit on the dining room floor. I won't do it. We'll go home and go back to normal. But I'm going to be honest, I will be mad at you. Because this wasn't easy for me, none of it was. Sure, I know I got off on some of it, but Tommy this isn't me. Once I put my hands on Dio and let him know I was interested, he started pushing back. Once we broke that seal, I can't help it, I'm a woman and things inside me start happening. I'm not in control of them."

He watched her profile for a while, wishing that she would turn and look in his eyes but she didn't. Her tone was even, her delivery of this opportunity monotone and unemotional. He said, "I still want it."

"I'm glad," she said without looking at him. "I want it, too. I really want it. But I don't want to be sorry that I want it."

"You don't have to be sorry."

"Tomorrow," she looked up and to the right, "I guess today. Later today. I'm going to have sex with your boss. You're going to watch. I'm telling you now I might say some dirty things or do some dirty things, he might even get me to beg for it again."

"I got your back, Sook. I fucked up tonight, but I swear I got your back."

“That’s what I want to hear. We don’t do this if we’re not a team.” Now she finally turned and looked in his eyes. They were a team. She was right, the only way they could do this is if they were both on the same page.

When he’d come down here, the whole time she’d been talking to him, he had an urge within that had possessed his thoughts. All he could think was that he wanted to somehow surreptitiously run his hand on the back of her thighs and slip it inside her shorts and check her vagina. Make sure she wasn’t leaking another man’s semen. Wasn’t stretched. Make sure that he hadn’t just caught here after slipping outside of Dio’s bedroom. Like she had been in there, took it, took the pounding she needed and came down here for a glass of champagne. And felt regretful now. Sukie wouldn’t do that. He didn’t even need to check.

There was a certain insanity involved with this escapade, and he needed to choke it to death before it slipped in between him and Sook and festered and swelled, and pushed them apart.

“I can’t wait to watch you,” he said, keeping it simple, and most importantly wanting to kiss her. They came together, and he found her mouth with his.

AFTERWORD

One more episode with Tommy and Dio and Sukie to go!—watch for it soon...

Sign up for my newsletter on my blog to get the latest info, sneak peeks at upcoming stories, and even a free story or two down the road!

Visit my blog!

OTHER BOOKS BY KT MORRISON

LANDLORD Series

Landlord: Box One

MAGGIE Series

Tempting Maggie

Sharing Maggie

Secret Maggie

Exploring Maggie

Discovering Maggie

Uncovering Maggie

Recovering Maggie

Learning Lessons

A Losing His Wife Novel

This long series is now one novel! A 160,000 word cuckold tragedy ...

Cherry Blossoms

A Losing His Wife Novel

This long series is now one novel! A 300,000 word cuckold tragedy ...

Après Ski

Pool Party

A cuckold thriller.

Watching Natalie Cheat

Obsessed Series

Obsessed: Book One

Obsessed: Book Two

The Cayman Proxy Series:

The Cayman Proxy \(Box One\)

Going A Little Too Far

Taken While He Watches: On Their Honeymoon

Taken While He Watches: At The Combine

Taken By His Best Friends: At The Hockey Rink

Measured Next To Her Ex: A Medical Size Comparison Cuckold Fantasy

Size Curious Brat