CHAPTER ONE

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19TH

IN THE CENTER of the campus, there's the Oren Glen. A wooded garden that surrounds Oren House. The house came before the glen—two hundred years ago—and was locally famous for having a beautiful and well-tended garden. Later Oren generations built on to the garden, expanding and making it grander, growing til it became the Glen. The Oren family established this private college and were philanthropists and lovers of the natural world. That love for nature was meant to be reflected through the ages in the wooded glen that surrounded Oren House.

No Orens lived in it these days. Now the two-story Federal-style home, clad in white wood siding, was the Office of the Dean of Admissions and held the Registrar. The wooded glen was still much the same as it had been for over a century, and Max Milton laid out a brisk walk over its gravel path on his way to see his precious Maggie, wringing every bit of the bequeathed joy out of the sunlight filtered through trees and leafy shrubs.

He was out of class unexpectedly and he had the rest of the afternoon off. He'd take Maggie to an early dinner. Dinner, perhaps, after they banged out a quick one under her dorm room duvet. Maggie's roommate had her Neo-Classicism seminar on Tuesdays and she wouldn't be back to the room until 5 P.M. He and Maggie could enjoy a quick horizontal dance, maybe some Xbox, run down to Altieri's in the Village and get a slice of pizza.

Professor Klinger, Public Policy 325, sacrificed half of today's lecture to make up for some missing office time he wasn't able to fulfill because he'd been under the weather. If you were one of the lucky students who were on track you could leave halfway after an abbreviated instruction.

Given Max had an A already, and Klinger's affection, this was free time as far as he was concerned.

Now he was crossing the quad, under the shadow of Keegan Hall West where Maggie lived. He'd been appointed to Samuelson House on the east side of campus and Maggie was here on an all-girls floor, in a four-story grand Georgian broad-stone built in 1860. He'd petitioned to get himself into Keegan, even tried with Maggie to see if they could get a room together on the fourth floor because it was co-ed. (First floor was male only, second and third were for girls. Fourth floor was a party). It was too late, though, and his petition was rejected because rooms had already been decided. Spots were tight and worked out months in advance. Administration didn't care that he had a fantasy of sleeping in the same bed with his fiancée every night. He'd just have to somehow survive the eight-minute cross-campus walk every time he wanted to see her. It wasn't the end of the world.

He weaved through four freshmen who were trying to get the hang of Hacky Sack, wondered why they'd go to this quad when the first year building was down the path, north of Keegan East. Remembered then that the one with the red Che Guevara shirt was his roommate Steve's little brother.

"Hey, Max," the kid called cautiously.

"Hey, man," he answered back, tossing a wave but not stopping because he didn't want to waste any time.

In the lobby, four guys were playing ping pong on a long table they'd pulled out of the TV room. He jogged up the stairs to the second floor, went down the hall and made his way to Room 210, where his Maggie lived with Jessie, a cute blonde-haired girl from Iowa who was in Art, like Maggie. The two of them had transformed their small space into a work area and most of the time they had drop cloths and easels and props for weird multimedia projects they wanted to tackle. He stopped at her door and pressed his ear to listen if she was home.

MAGGIE BECKER HAD a white American father, a stock and option trader, and her mother was a Hong Kong Chinese lawyer. She was killing them pursuing art but they loved her anyway because she sought excellence. He'd fallen in love with her in Freshman year. Such an unlikely pairing—her with her creativity and passion and talent, and him with pragmatic zeal for Policy and Law. For a while he thought she might be dating him to appease her parents. Some kind of message to them, See, guys, I'm not so bad.

Farmingham College took all sorts, from Politics whackos to crazy geologists to nutty art fags...as long as you pursued it with excellence you were welcome at Farmingham. And your parents could afford forty-eight grand a year.

He listened to her door, waiting for some sign of life. A smile curled the corner of his lip as he heard the tinny iPhone sound of a cello sonata in e-flat major. Boccherini, cello and bass. She told him that sonata was her first ever live performance and the sound constantly played in her head. She'd practiced til she thought she might go mad. Her first boyfriend had been the bass. She hadn't seen him since high school but Max was jealous that he had that piece of her still.

He knocked on the door and danced on the tips of his toes with a big smile on his face. There was movement in there, something being put down, someone getting up and rushing to the door.

The door was whisked open and his Maggie was there with a buoyant smile, eyes wide and happy, she said, "Heeyyy...oh, Max, oh shit..." She clutched her T-shirt and stepped back.

"Surprise," he said.

"What are you doing here?"

"I got out of class today. Got the whole afternoon," he told her.

"Whole aftern—"

Her mouth worked a moment, saying nothing, and her eyes darted over his. "...Oh," she said. "Come in."

He stepped into her dorm room, saw where she'd been sitting on her bed, her sketchbook was out, her charcoal and some pointed pastels in a flat metal tin. She closed the door behind her, her head stuck in the gap and peering down the hall before it shut.

"What are you wearing?" he asked her. She closed the door and turned, wearing only an over-sized yellow T-shirt. Bright yellow with bold blue collegiate print that said WRESTLING, and then under that D1. Her legs were bare, her feet too. She was his beautiful girl. Maggie smiled, looked down at her outfit, twinkled her toes and held the hem of the shirt.

“What?” she said, crinkled up the front of the shirt in her fists. “Don't look at me,” she laughed. Maggie had stunning almond eyes, they sparkled under her long lashes—bright amber with flecks of copper and chestnut. Her skin was pale, but clear and smooth, her hair a striking tawny russet that she highlighted underneath and along the back in platinum and blue.

He held his arms out to welcome her, standing by the side of her bed. A smile curled one corner of her mouth and she rolled her head around, came to him and put her arms around him. They kissed, warm and loving, but without a rolling passion that would spill them on the bed, tearing each other's clothes off like he'd hoped.

She smacked his lips, sucked them, pulled away, said, “Why aren't you in class?”

“Klinger did half a lecture. You could hang around and do a little one-on-one if you felt you needed it,” he said, threw his book bag onto her bed and heaved himself on it, making her sketchbook and pencils jump.

“Ma-ax,” she said, gathering her things up and putting them on the table at the side of her bed. Wedging it there in the clutter, sliding things aside, wobbling her flea market table lamp with gold tassels and making a can of Mountain Dew with a straw poking up fall off the back side. It made a hollow empty swish as it slid down the curtain and rattled on the floor. “Shit, Max,” she said, leaning then and reaching to retrieve it. The hem of her shirt came up as she bent. He saw her bare thighs revealed, the curve of her rump under the material, then the seam of her ass where it met her thigh, the swoop of her black panties.

“Did you just wake up?” he asked her. “It's almost three o'clock...”

“No, I'm up,” she said. “I was at class this morning.” She tossed the can in the trash across the room from where she stood.

“Don't get me wrong. I like what you're wearing. It looks like you just got up, or you're ready to go to bed...which suits me...”

She crawled up the mattress to him, a smirk on her face, clasped his cheeks between her thumb and fingers and pouted his lips. “That why you're here? I'm only good for one thing?”

“Three things,” he said, his voice muffled by her grip. “I was going to make sweet love to you, play some Xbox, then I was going to buy you something to eat.” Each action accentuated with a numerical representation on the extending fingers of his wagging hand.

“I’m good for three things?” she said, gripping his three fingers he’d counted out for her.

“Ow,” he said as she twisted them. “Tip of the iceberg,” he said, making her smile.

She patted his cheek, making a hollow sound out of his open mouth. “I can’t, Maxy. Dinner, yes, but I have to work right now. You have to get out of here.”

“Can’t blow it off?” he said, rolling to his side and propping his head in a hand.

“No, I have people coming over.”

“For what?”

“Drawing, Max,” she said, checking her watch. “I have to do twenty drawings over the next two weeks.”

“What class?”

“Figure.”

“How far behind are you?”

“One a day, at least, I’ll be okay, but I’ll still have to crank out extras...maybe on the weekend.”

“What kind of figures?”

“Any.”

“Want to draw me?”

“You’d pose for me?”

“Sure.”

“Naked?”

“Yeah.”

“I show the drawing to my teachers and all my classmates.”

His face stayed blank as he considered the consequences.

“Not so keen now, are we?” she laughed.

“No...well, no, yes, maybe...do I have to show my face?”

She cocked her head, her cute little mouth twisting up. She said, “No, you don’t. They’re going to know it’s my fiancé.”

“Why?”

“They know you. Some of them do.”

He laughed, picturing her friends looking at a nude drawing of him. “Maybe it’s okay. Maybe it’s kind of hot.”

“Hot, Max? This is my work here, not for you to get off.”

“Isn’t great art always about getting off?”

She widened her eyes, shook her head, “Now I know what kind of art you like.”

“Did I give myself away?”

“Like those big Reuben girls?”

“Who’s that?”

“Babe,” she said, patted his knee, “You gotta get out of here, they’ll be here soon.”

“We can’t hang out at all?”

“I have to work. Take me out to eat later?”

“Yeah. Can I hang out and draw?”

“Max, you don’t draw. It’s, like...you’ll make people mad if you’re here goofing around.”

“Fine,” he said. “Maybe I’ll pose for you all. Need a model?”

“We have one.”

“Who is it?”

“Not sure who’s coming today. They get arranged through the school.”

“Creepy old dudes? Wait, here...in your room?”

“Old yes, some, but not creepy. We meet here first then find...a studio. The models just, like...they want to support the arts.”

He smirked, nodding his head. It would be arousing to stand in front of a room full of young women, knowing they were drawing you, looking at every part of your body and examining it for proportion, and then trying to render what they saw.

“Babe, draw me,” he said.

“Yeah, I—”

“No, right now. Quick...”

“I don’t draw fast, Max. There’s no time... Please...”

“Can you start it, work on it later?”

“Kind of. But the light...”

“Please, Maggie. How long til they get here?”

“Twenty minutes,” she said, looking at her G-shock. “Max, I’ll draw you another time...tonight... You have to get out of here... Please...”

A hollow buzzing came from her night table. She lifted her sketchbook, the size of a pizza box, and she lay it on the pillows. Her iPhone rattled on the wooden surface. “Hold on,” she said, holding up a finger and reading the screen. She picked up her phone and stood, holding a hand over her other ear and walking to the center of the room between the two beds. Her voice was quiet and he couldn't make out what she was saying. She turned from him then, showed him her back and talked more quietly.

It was two-thirty now and he figured he might head over to Samuelson and see if any of the guys were around. Maybe have a beer or play some Xbox. There was a term paper he could edit for Gov 450, but this free time was a gift and he'd rather do something fun with it.

Maggie shuffled towards the door and her feet slipped into her fluffy slippers with the googly eyeballs that wandered around while she walked. She leaned a moment on the door jamb, and then she sauntered into the hall, still engrossed in her conversation.

His own phone was fished out of his khakis and he texted Cole to see if he was around to grab a beer. While he waited to hear back, he pulled Maggie's sketchbook over and opened it.

Her drawings were amazing things. She had a terrific eye for volume and detail. A classic looking line, starting with black structure in thin charcoal and then bringing up the depth with colors that made her figures look like they gleamed. He lay back page after page, gently flipping through and letting the heavy textured paper drape over its spiral binding. There were old men with paunches, big bellies and skinny legs with knobby knees. The light played across them in dramatic ways and her drawings seemed to have an energy—not dull lifeless things that were technically proficient but never said a thing to you. Hers were sinewy grace on the page.

A skinny hippy in his middle age on another page, his foot on a stool, his long hair hanging down his pale pigeon chest. His penis and balls hung between his legs and Max smiled, wondered what she thought about when she got to those bits. She could be shy. Sexually confident, but still reserved—a timidity that showed her decent upbringing. Another figure model was a young woman with shaggy black hair. A nice sort of body, no fat, her ribs pressed up against her skin, and with her head tossed over her shoulder, Maggie caught something desperate in her eyes. It was a striking piece of work.

The next page was different. He laid it back and flinched when he saw it. A young man, heavily muscled, his abdominal ridges sizzled with ecstatic light. He was hunched, flexing them, looking away. He had an afro but his skin was light, the color of creamed coffee. Just the way his Maggie took it. His hair was shaved at the sides, with blonde clumps of dreads along the top like a pale coral bed. His sweatpants were provocatively low, showing a deep ridge of muscle that slashed a V down his hips. There was a blatant sexuality to the drawing and it twisted him, held his breath at bay. She'd drawn this boy. He'd posed for the class like this, so provocatively. Or was his Maggie adding more to the drawing than she saw, imbuing it with something she'd like to see?

"Holy fuck," he whispered to the empty room. His hand shook as he flipped another page. It was worse. Much worse. The same young man, looking directly at him. Standing with his legs apart, hip cocked, leaning against a bed wearing only a T-shirt. His cock hung between his legs, a heavy dark thing. Obscenely large, a grotesque wrinkled weapon, draped over his testicles, one large red-brown one seen laying against his thigh. The boy was looking at his Maggie and he was lifting his shirt, showing her his thick patch of pubic hair and the muscles of his belly. The T-shirt was yellow, written on it in blue collegiate lettering it said WRESTLING, below that it said D1.

His stomach cramped and he realized everything in him had tightened. His legs, his jaw...his hands had formed claws. He wasn't breathing. He looked up at the room. Saw the bed. The bed from the drawing. The brass posts with ceramic fluting. Maggie had sat right where he was sitting now and had drawn this boy. He'd been in her room. Stood at the foot of her bed and shown her his beautiful body. Revealed to her his incredibly big cock. Pulled his shirt up for her, showed her the thing he put inside girls. Let her know there was a man out there who had a body like that, who had a threatening sexual organ. His Maggie had sat here and surmised it, brought it to life with charcoal and the pastels he bought her, pigments made in France and Italy—far away places he swore he'd take her. This confident boy had shown his Maggie all the things Max didn't have. Shown her all the things she could have. Tempted her with his blatant and overwhelming sexuality. She'd drawn him twice. Would she draw him a third time? Was he on his way here now? Was that him on the phone with her?

His heart was making up for lost beats now, and he doubled over in pain, his belly heaving, blood pulsing up his neck and swelling his eyes. Was she alone that day she drew this? The two of them in her room by themselves, him with his pants off. Was there even a group on its way here today?

He flipped another page, dreading what he might find, but compelled to know the truth however devastating it might be. The page was blank. He looked around the room, his eyes wide and wild, but his neck a shaking creaky thing. He closed her sketchbook, carefully returned it to her pillows and he stood.

That page was blank and that boy was on his way here to show his fiancée his cock and his muscle, and his Maggie was going to draw him. He knew it. He was sure of it. The T-shirt she wore, her greeting at the door...expecting someone, but pleased they were early. Had she fucked him? Had this boy and his fiancée rolled around in this very bed, and she got wet and begged him to fuck her? Had he fucked her with that big thing, spread her little sex wide and made her scream? Fuck, did she scream? Did she scream when she took it, her arms wrapped around his muscle, making her high sounds, getting louder and louder with each thrust? Fuck. Did he come inside her?

His hands were clenched again, minds of their own, desperate raging minds that made them shake and rail. “Fuck, fuck, fuck,” he hissed, hitting himself lightly in the chin with his fist. “No, no, no.”

He would catch her. Catch her in her lies.

Jessie had a closet opposite Maggie’s bed. A cluttered space held in check by two folding louvered doors. He’d watch her cheat. He’d catch her and burn her, show her the hurt she caused with her careless dirty lust. He heaved his book bag off her bed and slung it into Jessie’s closet with anger, letting it thump. He turned and looked at her room, looked at the space where she lived apart from him. They’d made love on that bed. Pictured her on it with another man, her face happy and twisted with pleasure. His breath trembled, shaky things that threatened to turn to sobs. He climbed into the clutter of Jessie’s closet and folded the door across, left a gap so he could watch from the darkness. Watch and see if she was faithful or if she was a fucking low little whore. Got his iPhone up, saw a response from Cole.

Cole: Hey man, meet me at Dave’s room for some beers

He texted.

Max: Catch up later, give me a bit

Then to Maggie:

Max: sorry babe, have to run. getting some beers with Cole and the guys. get dinner tonight?

He turned his phone off, made it silent and he clutched it to his chest and he waited.

MAGGIE CAME BACK into her room and paused. Her head worked on her neck, puzzled, looking around the dim space.

“Max?” she said.

Kicked her slippers off next to the door, and she padded to the window, slipped the curtain aside and watched down at the sunny green field below. Looking for who? Max? The wrestler? He fought the urge to jump out right now and end this. He had enough to go on. He had a solid case. Armed with a mountain of circumstantial evidence. His fists shook again. He bit his tongue. Settled himself in the junk at the bottom of her roommate's closet.

His Maggie had always been faithful. Well, at least she had never given him a reason to think otherwise. She wasn't boy-crazy. Didn't party. Wasn't interested in sororities or frats or being cool. She was a good person. In her junior year she left him to do a semester in Rome and while he missed her painfully, desperately, she Skyped every day. Never made him feel like she was hanging out with people he couldn't trust. She had been so...good.

Maggie threw herself on her bed and she was thinking. Turned rapidly at her waist; turned to her sketchbook and grabbed it and clutched it to her chest. Her eyebrows tented in the middle. Did Max look? Yes, he did, you bad girl. He saw what you've been up to.

She bit her thumbnail, staring down at the carpet, one leg folded, the other draped over the edge of the bed, swinging against it. Flipped her sketchbook open and looked at her own drawings. Her bottom lip sucked into her mouth and she bit it. Threw her sketchbook aside again. She looked at her phone and seemed to brighten. Saw his text. Her thumbs tapped away.

He tilted his phone's screen to him. It was set to silent, but he saw it light up and read her words.

Maggie: can't wait. pizza!!!! 7 P.M.?

His thumb pressed his screen ever so lightly, not making a sound. He sent her a big giant fucking enormous thumbs up. His jaw set firmly and his brow came down low, temples aching from the pressure. He'd see. She'd show him. He was about to find out a lot about the woman he'd got down on one knee at the gazebo in the Village and asked to marry.

Maggie returned to the window, leaning on her bedside table and watching out at the lawn and trees out front. There would be crisscrossing paths of concrete, people reading under trees, Steve's brother playing Hacky Sack, couples eating and stroking each other's hair. He knew she was waiting for someone. Knew she was watching for her wrestler with his beautiful body and his big hanging cock. It was a thrilling sunny day outside but his Maggie was up to very dark things. She kicked a foot lightly, her bare foot bent, her toes now twisting a little dance on the floor while she waited. Her hand came behind her and under the long T-shirt and she ran a finger along the trim of her panties. A sexy little move, one that would make him crazy for her ten minutes ago but one now that made him want to vomit. Absently touching herself, getting a little thrill across the sensitive curve of her ticklish rump. She liked being touched there. Did her lover touch her there? Did he know that spot? Know she liked a soft caress over the cheeks of her ass? Know it would make her giggle and squirm and conjure a delightful girlish laugh from her? He could picture the two of them laying in bed together. Satiated after an incredible fuck. Looking into each other's eyes and letting their hands explore each other's bodies. Learn each other's dirty biological secrets.

He was coming. Maggie must have seen him walking the path. She flinched, went into action. Threw her tin of pastels and charcoal onto the bed. The flats of her hands smoothed the bedding where Max had laid. She hopped to the dresser and looked at her reflection. Thin fingers finding her blue and platinum locks and pulling them straight, letting them curl and bounce. Splayed her hair over her shoulders, looked at herself very closely in the mirror, dabbed at her eyelashes. She stood straight, hopped a little. Checked the bounce of her beautiful little breasts under her lover's yellow shirt. Pulled it taut against herself and watched her breasts press the fabric, lifted it quick and checked her bare tummy and her panties. She turned and looked at her ass, bent to see what was revealed and how much. Tidied her hair one more time, gave herself a good stare into her own eyes in the mirror and smiled.

Went then to her door, and she cracked it open. Looped around the handle on the inside of the door was a black paisley handkerchief, tied like a headband. She took it and exchanged it, looping it around the outside handle. The handkerchief was Jessie and Maggie's signal to one another that they were with a boy. A wink-wink DO NOT DISTURB sign. His heart pounded. It was true. She returned to her bed and sat at her pillows with the windows behind her. Opened her sketchbook and fiddled with a charcoal pencil, sat straight, flexed her neck, put her shoulders back. Conscious of her pose, wanting to look good when her lover walked through the door.

THERE WAS A KNOCK. It made him bristle. A masculine hand rapping, a knuckle against her door, seen in the gap she'd left. Without waiting for a response the hand pressed the door to open wide. He was here. The handsome boy from the drawings. His fiancée's lover. Stepping into Maggie's space, so familiar with the place she lived. The door closed behind him and he twisted the lock. Max felt strangely trapped.

"Hey, look at you...right on time," she said with an easy charm that belied the nervous show she'd demonstrated in front of her dresser mirror in the anxious moment before he arrived.

This interloper stood now at the side of her bed. Her in her intimate things. He was as tall as Max but solidly built. Broad shoulders that were round and full, thick arms that stretched his heather grey T-shirt. It was tight against him, loose around his slim waist. He wore tight jeans and black and red Jordans.

"Late, really," he laughed, his voice deep, masculine without belligerence. "On time is fifteen minutes late."

"Sounds like a sports thing," she said, her eyes narrowed coolly, putting on some show for this boy who seemed to make her heart flutter.

"Coach's words," he agreed with a chuckle, and he slung his satchel off a shoulder and onto her bed by her feet. "How you been?"

“I’m okay,” she said, hugging her knees to herself and smiling at him. She was showing him the bare back of her creamy thighs, the slash of her panties where they curled over her mound. Max’s heart raced already.

She said, “How was your week?”

“Practice, practice, practice,” he said. He set himself on the bed at her feet, sideways, his feet on the floor, looking across his shoulder at her. He hunched, his heavy hands coming to rest on his denim thighs.

Maggie sat forward, her bare legs falling open to rest cross legged, showing this boy the crotch of her panties, exposing herself wide. Max could see it from the closet, the bottom of the shirt sitting across her hips.

She said, “Do you want to get right at it? Keep it professional tod—”

“You look good in my shirt.”

Her fingers pinched it, held it out while she looked down and read it upside down. “I washed it for you,” she whispered.

“You got it pretty messy.”

She seemed to blush, her body pulling back from him, embarrassed by what he said. How did she get his shirt messy?

Her hand came up and ran a lock of her long hair behind one of her cute ears, she said, “Let’s get right at it. We should, right?”

“Sure,” he agreed. “Where you want me today?”

“I have some ideas.”

“I’ll do whatever you want me to, Maggie.”

She blushed again, her cheeks getting a rosy colour, her lips sucking into her mouth. “Umm,” she said, a hum in her throat, lips still clenched. “At the foot of the bed, I think, and...I’ll show you...”

“Okay,” he said, shrugging, standing up. He pulled his shoes off and dropped them to the floor. Then peeled his shirt up and over his head. He arched his back as he did it, sucking in his stomach, flexing his muscles out against the skin so Maggie could see. She was watching. Watching him undress very carefully. The charcoal pencil tapped nervously against the pad of paper. The model turned to face her, big strong hands grabbing his belt buckle and working it undone. His jeans were button fly, and he undid them one by one while Maggie unashamedly watched from a few feet away. He opened them, pulled the flaps wide, a heavy appendage tumbling out and swinging in front of her. She showed no reaction though she took it all in. He shoved his pants down his legs, kicked them off, struggling in front of her, pulling his feet out of the tight bottoms. His cock swung and slapped between his thighs and his fiancée did not look away. The guy stooped and pulled his socks off, smiling at her as he did, showing her he was almost ready. Balled the socks and threw them over his shoes.

He stood naked in her room. The sun came in through her curtains, shamelessly left open for anyone in the facing dorm across the field to see. His muscle shone in the light. He was exemplary, there was no denying it. Built like a gymnast, a wrestler, a gifted athlete that used his body at its maximum every day. Blessed between his legs with an enormous swinging truncheon. Max reeled as he took it in. This beautiful perfect nude man, his future wife up to something with him, watching his naked form a few feet from her. His palms chilled with a sudden rising sweat.

The boy stepped back, to the corner of the bed, standing himself much like Max had seen in the drawing of him in Maggie's sketchbook.

"Yeah, stay there," she said, turning herself on the bed, legs down, pointed toes touching the floor. The top bedside drawer made its hollow scrape as it was drawn open, her unsteady hand reaching in and drawing out a pair of folded tights. Ones she wore in the spring sometimes. Opaque, hot, bright, bubble gum pink. She stood then, her body so close to his. The tights unrolled, fell and bounced between them as she held them by the toes.

She said, "Can you put your hands behind your back?"

It made him smile. A nice, white smile in his masculine but boyish face. His broad back was turned to her, he put his hands behind him, looking over his shoulder at her. Maggie looked at his bare ass, winding the tights through her grip, hesitating, admiring his body from behind.

"Like this?" he asked, waiting for instruction.

"Yeah," she said, a breathy gasp.

The tights flipped over his wrists, she let the crotch settle against him, wrapped the legs around him a few times and tied a loose knot at the end of a loop.

"Turn around," she said, her fingertips touching his bare midsection. Max's hair stood up, a bolt of emotion struck through him. Maggie got her model turned, facing her, his cock swinging right by her thighs; she was looking his body up and down. "Step back," she said, guiding him, "sit on the corner of the bed, but I want your hands tied behind you to the bedpost. Is that okay?"

"I'll do whatever you need, Maggie," he said, looking over his shoulder at the corner of the bed, lining himself up. Maggie helped him, taking the loose loop of pink tights and hooping it over the top of the bed post. He was now tied to the bed with his hands behind his back.

“Is that comfortable?” she asked him.

“I’m fine,” he told her.

“Let me know if it hurts or anything.”

“I will,” he said. “How you want me to pose?”

“Like you’re wounded. Like a captive...a prisoner of war...”

He leaned forward, putting his weight towards her, the tights holding him from falling. “How’s this?” he asked her.

“Perfect, perfect,” she said. “Now,” she looked him over, standing right next to him, her bare foot against his bare foot. “Put this leg up,” she said, touching the inside of his thigh, so close to his penis. “On the bed, lean towards it.”

“Okay.”

Her hands spread across his chest, pushing him, angling him, her eyes studying the way the light cast shadows across his beautiful body. “Okay,” she said, positioning him. “Don’t move. Now,” she said, stepping back, putting a hand out and touching his chin with her thumb and forefinger. She tilted it, pointed his face the way she wanted. “Okay, but look towards me. Show sadness. God,” she said, “that’s it. You have a perfect face.”

Her words stabbed him all the way in the closet. Hearing her acknowledge his looks, say it to him. She was sending him a signal. Wasn’t she?

She stepped back, looked him over again, eyes studying. She bent to him, “Excuse me,” she said, and she held his penis and she straightened it, let it fall against his thigh the way she liked, her other hand coming in to help and pulling his balls forward. “That’s it,” she nodded. “Perfect.” Then added, “...Sorry,” stepping back to the head of the bed.

“You know I don’t mind,” he said, a smile creeping.

“Don’t smile,” she said. “Professional today.”

She did it. She touched his cock. Held that big thing, felt what another man had between his legs. Felt a big impressive one. Wanted to. Wanted to touch it, he knew. He knew her, knew her behavior. She wanted to feel his cock. Acting like this was art...

It didn’t seem, however, that they were lovers. She seemed earnest to draw him. Not to fuck him. What he saw ached his core, made his brow twist with sadness but the truth was it didn’t look like they were fucking.

Her biggest crime was lying. Saying she was waiting for others to show up, she didn't know the model, she'd go to a studio. Her biggest crime was her desire to be alone with him naked. He rested his chin on his knee and watched her. He loved Maggie. She sat now in her skimpy outfit, wanting to be seen by this boy, wanting him to see she was sexy, but they weren't lovers. He didn't like what he saw, but she was being good. She touched his penis, but it wasn't the end of the world. It was almost arousing in a weird way.

The pencil scratched quickly, her motions coming from her elbow, dainty hand holding the charcoal in a loose grip and letting it swoop across her pad.

They were both quiet, neither saying a word. It was so quiet there was a distinct risk that they would hear him in the closet. A gurgling, an accidental sniff, a bump against some of the junk that Jessie had piled in there. He held his breath tight in his lungs and the sound of his pulse beating a rhythm on his eardrums became maddening. This was a mistake. Couldn't blame himself—he was riled. But hiding and spying on the girl he loved was a terrible thing. But, fuck, she made him suspicious. The last thing he wanted was to be the kind of guy he was right now.

As Maggie drew, he got a little sleepy in the heat of the closet. His eyes feeling heavy. The boy was angled away from him, his penis not visible now. Muscles bulged out against his skin from the effort. He was gorgeous. Maggie drew with intent. Her legs were bare and the boy was probably looking at the back of her legs, maybe her pretty toes, could possibly see her panties between her legs. They weren't going to fuck. Maggie wasn't going to cheat.

What she had done was, in a way, arousing him. In her chest beat the heart of a red-blooded woman. A woman who was aroused by male sexuality. That was normal. Circumstances had put her in a situation where she was able to ogle a boy with an incredible body and a big penis. She took it. Took it because she was normal. She hadn't broken rules. She'd lied to him because she was embarrassed. Embarrassed, and she didn't want Max to stop her. Sure she touched his penis, but he'd touched a stripper's breast at a bachelor party a month and a half ago. Didn't once think of running off with said stripper and leaving Maggie and filling the stripper full of babies. In fact, he quite distinctly remembered coming to this room that night—at three in the morning, amid shushing and Jessie tsking them and throwing herself around in her bed—and he'd climbed in with Maggie. Got her giggling and they had quite the session. That little innocent touch set a spark off in him.

"It's doing it again," she said.

"Sorry," he said.

Maggie smiled at her sketchbook, the sunlight over her shoulder and reflecting off her paper—shining the gloss on her lips and sparkling her eyes. "Seriously," she said, "make it stop." Her smile was wider.

"I can't. Don't mention it. Makes it worse."

The charcoal resumed its scratching. "Jay, stop. I...don't want to do that again. I want this to be...professional."

"I'll try," he said.

What the fuck were they talking about? What was happening and what didn't she want to do again?

There, on the boy named Jay's thigh, Max could see his penis again. It was curled on his muscular leg, swelling, twisting against the dry skin and nosediving. Jay was getting an erection.

CHAPTER THREE

HIS COCK HEAVED off his leg. Getting its own independence and standing away from his body.

“Ja-ay,” Maggie giggled. She set her pencil flat on her pad and she rested her hands on the paper, looking now straight between his legs. He continued to grow. Bobbing with his heart, growing longer, out from his body but arching down. “God, Jay,” she sighed.

“Sorry, Maggie,” he laughed, looking down now too. He grew to full hardness, and they both watched. His erect cock was a ramrod straight thing, circumcised, a big swollen glans looking right at his fiancée.

Watching Maggie witness its astounding transmogrification—with dewy eyes, and breathless voice—did something to Max. Not something he wanted. But as Jay’s cock rose, so did Max’s. A pale imitation, but steel-hard just the same, trapped in his twisted briefs, pressing painfully against its khaki restraint.

Maggie pulled her bottom lip under her teeth. She whispered, “It’s so big, Jay.”

“I am sorry, Maggie,” he said, his cock bobbing while he talked.

“What am I supposed to do now?” she said. Smirking, but there was a tone Max knew, imparting her discommode.

“Draw around—”

“I can’t draw around it, it doesn’t work like that, Jay...” She smiled and covered her face with her hands, breathed into her palms then smoothed her hair back. She was blushing, a smile on her lips she couldn’t help.

“Do it for me, Maggie. You do it this time...”

“No, Jay...”

This time?

“Go on, Maggie...you want to...”

“No, Jay, I have a fiancé. I love him...”

He was asking his Maggie to jerk him off?

She bit her lip, her eyes tilted low, admiring what her model had between his legs. Her eyes massaging his cock all over like she wished her hands could. “I know...I can’t. I just can’t...”

“I’m sorry,” he laughed lightly, his stomach flexing and that big dusky thing bobbing. “I can’t help it.”

Maggie said, “I can’t draw it like that. I can’t draw an erection.”

“We’re not allowed too. It’s...”

“What? Oppressive...”

“Something like that.”

“I’ll try and think of something else, but once I’m hard, I have to come.”

“You are so hard,” Maggie smiled now, eyes back on this boy’s erection.

“Touch it.”

Maggie laughed like a little girl, rocking back against her pillow. “No,” she said in an unconvincing note.

“Just a little. Poke it with your finger.”

“I can’t,” she laughed, “you’re being silly...”

“I want it to go down just like you do, Maggie. You tied my hands up. Tied them because you want to do it. You want to make me come this time —”

“Jay...”

“—Go on. One finger. Touch it. See how hard it is.”

Maggie’s smile faded, and she watched the thing between Jay’s legs. Contemplated touching another man. She wanted to. She knew she wasn’t supposed to. Max was mad at her. Should be mad at her. But some awful part of him was urging her. Wanting her to touch it.

She tilted her head, still looking at Jay’s erection, scratching at her neck. Decided then, and in a rush, reached out and she touched his cock with the tip of her index finger. Brought it back right away, hand curled to a fist, and she looked out the window, her mouth twisted up.

Max's cock twitched, and he filled with rage and sadness all at once. Couldn't get up. Transfixed by this awful play. Afraid to walk out now, afraid to miss how bad it would get. "Aw, Maggie," he sighed.

Jay said, "Well?"

"It's nice. It's really hard."

"Do you like it?"

Her head turned back. Up to his eyes now. "I already told you."

"Tell me again."

"It's big."

"Don't you want to hold it?"

Her eyes lowered between his legs again. "I do."

"Make it go down, Maggie. My hands are tied. You tied them..."

She was thinking again. Chewing the inside of her mouth and frowning while she stared at this other man's sex organ. She was contemplating this. She wanted to do it, but dumb old Max would be mad. He would leave her for good if she touched him. But some dark sliver in him wondered what her hand would look like wrapped around his big black cock. Something in him wanted her to do it. Wanted her to hold another man. He even pictured her putting her mouth on it like she would with his, and his eyes fluttered and his chest pounded. "Don't" he whispered in the dark, finding his courage again.

Her hand went out, hovering in that electric space between her and Jay. Hesitant, worried. Her hand formed a wide cup shape, ready to grip another man's cock. Her hand flexed. Turned to a fist, then to a C, then back to a fist.

"I just can't, Jay. You do it. You do it, and I'll watch again. I'm sorry. I just can't. I love my fiancé," she said, her brows tented in glum resolve.

Jay groaned, said, "Can you untie me?"

"Yeah," she sighed. "Jay, I want to..."

She stood then, in just Jay's T-shirt and her panties and bra. She'd been prepared for more today. It was in her. Desire and badness and lust was in his Maggie. She stepped quietly next to Jay. Her eyes were down again, looking at his cock that was practically touching the outside of her thigh. Her hand moved like she would hold it, then whisked back.

Jay's cock flexed with excitement, anticipating her touch, his tendons flexing it, pulling that thing up to meet her grasp. Maggie stood next to him, thigh touching his thigh, her hands working now behind his back to loosen him or untie him. Jay's neck craned, and he was getting a good look at the shape of her ass under the long T-shirt, his eyes traveling lower and working up and down her creamy legs. She undid a knot, pulling one loop of bright pink legging out and tossing it so it hung over the bed frame. She had freed only one of Jay's arms.

"Can you try to hold the pose?"

"While I? ..." He nodded with his chin down to his erection, his eyes still on hers.

"Don't lose the pose...or try not to, I already got a good start."

"Sure, Maggie," he said, opening and closing his hand, working some blood back through it after being bound. The muscles in his arm bulged and flexed while he did. He was trying to catch her eye but she wouldn't look at him. She wasn't watching his cock either, which was a relief, she was staring at the floor behind the bed.

"Maggie?"

"Yeah," she said, looking towards him now.

"You okay?"

"Yeah," she said again.

"You going to watch me?"

She pulled her lip under her front teeth, looking at the floor. "Yes," she whispered.

"You want to watch me come?"

"I do," she said, grabbing her hair and pushing it back off her face.

"I want you to watch," he said, trying to get her eyes again.

She smiled weakly, their eyes meeting. "Okay," she said, "I want to watch you come again."

"Maggie," he said as she turned to sit back at the head of the bed. He held his hand out to her, palm up like he was looking for a tip, he said, "Would you spit in my hand?"

"No," she giggled quietly.

"Please, Maggie. Spit in my hand."

He posed his hand, unwavering, and she didn't walk away. She swiveled at the hips, considering what he wanted. He wanted to jerk himself off with her saliva.

Her eyes were on his cock again, looking at it absently. It was aching hard, the flared glans plump and shining.

"Seriously?" she said.

“Maggie. Spit in my hand.”

She moaned, looked up at the ceiling, eyes blinking. When her head came back down she'd decided. She ran a lock of hair back, tucking it behind her ear while she leaned forward and pursed her lips. A long white stream of her spit eased from her, a glob falling, trailing a long shimmering strand.

“Is that okay?” she said. “Is that enough?”

“I think so,” he said. “Sit down.”

JAY LOOKED RIGHT in Maggie's eyes as he held the end of his cock, polished his bursting glans with her warm spit. He sighed, deep lusty sounds as he stroked himself for her. He was aggressive. Not with his motion, not yet. With his lust. Staring at her, making sure she was watching. Making sure she knew he was doing it for her. He held her pose for her. Hanging by one arm now. His muscles gleamed in the sun. His abs rippled. His cock was big even in his own hand. What would it look like in little Maggie's? His hand gripped it, showed her the techniques that made him feel good. Maggie watched. Witnessed the things that would please that big cock. She was smart. She was studying. Learning. She knew now what were this man's favorite parts of his manhood. The parts that made him moan, the parts that made his eyes close and his lips part.

Maggie watched every stroke. Eyes going up and down his perfect body, lingering on his hand and how he pleased himself. It was so intense. Jay's movement on his own cock conjured up precum in Max's. He felt a warmth spread in his underwear as he started to leak.

“You like it?” Jay growled.

“Yeah...”

“Tell me...”

Maggie focused on his hand now, watched his cock head poking in and out of his strong grip. She said, “It's beautiful...”

“Yeah, Maggie,” he grunted. “Tell me you want it...”

“No, Jay...”

“Please, just say it...”

“I want that cock,” she said, her face looking a little ill. Eyes glued to it, her throat bulging as she swallowed.

“Oh fuck, Maggie, ah, that’s good...yeah...spread your legs for me.”

“No, Jay, no,” she whispered, her brows going up like she might cry.

“You’re so beautiful, Maggie. I’ll be done in a second if you open your legs.”

Maggie slumped, her hands came together at her front and she wrung the fabric of the yellow shirt with her fists. She looked up, looked out to the blue sky beyond the window. Slowly her legs parted, but she couldn't look at Jay. Looking across the room, almost at the closet, her legs spread a little wider, then her right leg raised, folded, and she brought it up to the bed, leaning on her hip. Her crotch was exposed. Her black panties visible. Her soft hairy mound just a double layer of cotton away from Jay. She lifted the hem of her shirt higher so he could see her between her legs. Her eyes met his, and Max could see the rosy cast across her cheeks and along her neck.

“What...” she cleared her throat, swallowed again. “What are you thinking about?”

“Thinking of that little pussy, how good it would feel wrapped around this cock. How wet you would be, how tight, fuck, Maggie...”

His words made her eyes close and her head tilt back. Her mouth parted and Max watched her hand come up her thigh, her nails lightly dragging on her own skin. They touched her black fabric, fingertips running the fringe of her panties, threatening to touch herself. Her toes curled and flexed as she came very close to her warm center.

The room was filled with both of their heavy breathing and the now rapid wet sticky sounds of Jay’s hand on his cock. Maggie was flush and shiny, and she stood up again, her hands crossing over her body and taking a hold of the bottom of the shirt. She peeled it up and off her body, shaking her hair out. Tossed the shirt to the bed, just in a black bra and black panties now. Barefoot in front of a man who was masturbating to her and for her.

“No, no,” Max whispered, picturing the bra coming off and the panties, and her climbing in this guy’s lap and taking his big cock.

Jay’s lips pursed, and he exhaled with admiration. “Ooh, shit, Maggie, that body...”

She stood shyly, afraid to show him, feet pointed inward, her hands clasping in front of her. Bold in the moment she bared herself, now suddenly shrinking.

“Take your bra off,” Jay said, his pace fast and urgent now.

“I can’t, Jay. I’m sorry, this is it. Come for me.”

“You want to watch me come?” he gasped, getting so close.

Maggie kept her distance, nodded, said, “Show me again.”

“Did you like...ah, watching me...last time?”

She nodded again, sucking her lips.

“Did you think about it when I was gone?”

She smirked, her lips pulling out of her mouth. She ran her hand through her hair and then she fanned herself. She looked so cute, so beautiful, her body tight and firm, her little breasts pushing her bra out, her nipples poking the fabric.

Jay said, “You did...didn’t you?”

“Maybe.”

“Tell me.”

“No. Hurry up and come,” she whimpered, her knees dipping and her eyebrows tenting again.

“Touch my balls...I’m, mm, so close...”

“No,” she said, her fists clenching, her thighs pressing together and her bare toes pressing on the floor. She leaned at the waist, her hand covered her mouth, and she got closer, her eyes narrowed on Jay’s hand stroking his cock. She looked like she might do it.

“Just do it, Maggie...hold them while I come...”

She moved her hand away from her mouth and she said, “I can’t...”

“Hold them Maggie, it’s just my balls...”

She sighed, her head fell forward, her hair shaking around her face. Her head snapped up again, with a sharp inhale and her hands smoothing her hair back. Her breasts were thrust out in her bra, and she tied her hair in a loose knot behind her, showing off that elegant neck she had.

Would she do it? Would she touch this guy’s balls? Hold them and measure their weight? She wouldn’t...

She moved towards him, her actions all tentative. She stepped close, so their bare legs were touching.

“That’s it, Maggie,” Jay sighed, his hand rolling and stroking his huge hard cock. Maggie watched. Her hand went out then, slow, moving like she might hold his cock. He slowed his stroke, ready to let her have it if she wanted. Her fingers touched down on his hard belly. His stroking resumed. Maggie watched her own hand feel those bulging muscles of his midsection. Her skin so pale against his caramel skin.

“Hold my balls while I come, Maggie,” he whispered.

She sucked her lip, her hand slipping lower, moving from his stomach, past his hip, down the flexing muscles of his thigh. He stroked faster, his breaths coming quick. The first two fingers of her hand straightened, reached til the nails grazed the dark skin of his scrotum.

“Mm, that’s it, Maggie, please...”

She stroked her fingers against the skin of his scrotum, then with a clawing motion, her other fingers climbed under his balls til she cradled them in a loose grip.

“Fuck, Maggie, that’s it, you feel so good. Squeeze them for me, please, Maggie,” he groaned.

She stood next to him, Jay bent and tied to the bed, one hand free and slipping up and down his shining shaft. Maggie watched intently, watched the glans of his cock bend and ripple with his jerking, watched her own hand cupping his big balls. She lifted them, hefted them. Large impressive testicles. Jay’s head went back, and he winced, getting very close to coming.

Maggie squished them, gripped them tight, her hand forming a loose fist on his balls. “Ah,” he grunted, “mm, tighter, Maggie.” She complied, her fist growing tighter.

“Oh, Maggie, oh, that’s it, fuck,” he grunted.

Maggie flinched as the first shot of come squirted up in the air between them in a long wiggling rope. It arced back and flopped on his glistening body. He grunted and roared and stroked, and semen spewed from him, launching in the air, splashing up his body and onto her bed. Maggie gripped his balls still, and Jay slowed his stroke. Maggie leaned towards Jay, their thighs pressing harder against each other, her toes flexing as her weight came forward. Her lips parted like she would kiss him. Jay saw, his eyes roamed her face, and his lips parted as well.

CHAPTER FOUR

CONFESSIONS

MAGGIE BIT her lips and inhaled deeply. Semen ran down Jay's shaft and his knuckles, and he let himself go. Maggie moved her hand away before his semen touched her. She looked at her wrist, front and back, rolling her hand around, making sure she got none on her. Looked down her body too and checked her legs.

She turned away from Jay and she stared with wide eyes across the room, practically right at Max in the closet. Her lips trembled. Her eyes trembled. She chewed her lower lip. Her hands formed fists again, and she folded her arms over her bra, flexed til they shook. She looked like she would panic.

Max didn't know what to think. His heart pounded at what he'd witnessed. The girl he loved engaging in something so awful, something that was such a violation he should call it off with her. Call the wedding off at least. Postpone it. He needed time to think. That would be sensible. But he didn't feel like that. His penis dribbled with his own semen and the touch of his glans against his underwear was like touching a live wire. He was afraid he would come in his pants tight now. He was so aroused by seeing her like that. Not just touching Jay sexually—it was the desire in her to touch another man like that. He didn't know what her passion was like and seeing it excited him even though sense would dictate that he couldn't trust her. She struggled, did everything she could not to hurt Max. She'd gone too far, but she'd considered him. It quelled his jealousy. Rubbed his anger's sharp edges and allowed him a little enjoyment of the dirtiest thing he had ever seen.

Maggie's mouth trembled, turned down, and she shook her head vigorously, thumped her own fist softly to her delicate forehead. She turned then, faced Jay, and Max worried what she might do next. But she leaned over her mattress and snagged the yellow shirt she'd pulled off and balled it up. Stood, feet touching Jay's. His cock, still engorged but dwindling, hung low between his legs. A short strand of semen hung jiggling from his tip. Maggie pressed the balled shirt to his belly, and he flexed it. Made it hard for her and she cleaned him, running the cotton all over the ridges of his mid-section. She worked lower on him, down to his pubic hair. She bundled the shirt up, then gave it one quick wipe down his cock. She'd felt him. Felt his erection. Through bundled fabric, but she had touched another man's erection. Fuck.

She thrust it to his belly then, held it, then took her hand away and Jay took it up before it tumbled down him and to the floor. Maggie's head was shaking again, like she was mad at herself, mad at what had happened. She threw herself to sit down at the head of the bed and she covered her face.

Jay wiped at his cock, squeezed himself into it, watched her. He said, "You okay? ...Maggie? ..."

She breathed into her palms. said, "I'm fine. I just...I'm..."

"You didn't do anything, it's okay..."

"I want to."

"You can..."

She still spoke into her hands, her voice muffled. Said, "No, don't. Don't say that. I can't cheat on him...I won't. I want to. I want to so bad..."

Jay watched her. Threw the shirt aside on to her bed, stood in the pose she'd put him in, hand on hip. She sat and did nothing. Just breathed into her hands. Her shoulders slumped with sadness. Jay turned at his waist and used his free hand to untie himself. He went to her. Sat naked at her side. He said, "It's okay. Is it all right if I hold you?"

She said, "I don't care." Then, "Yes...please. Hold me."

Jay put his thick arm over her shoulders, his hand coming to grip her upper arm. His other hand went over her thin knee. He said, "Tell me. Tell me what you're feeling."

She exhaled into her palms, then took her hands away. Her eyes glistened wetly. She clasped her hands in front of her, rested them over his hand on her. She chewed the inside of her lip, then quietly said, "I'm...I've only had sex with my fiancé and one other boy. And that was just one time...in high school. I love Max but I feel like we'll be married forever in under a year, and I...I never got to..."

"Have fun?"

"I guess. Yeah. I don't think about it, but when I see you...I...I can't stop thinking about it."

"That's normal. What you feel is normal, Maggie," he said, shaking her lightly with his arm.

"I know it's normal, I wish I didn't feel like this. That's all. I'm not going to cheat on him. I wish...I wish I'd had more experience when I was younger. Max is all I want forever, but there's so much I didn't do."

"If you ever want to—"

"No, Jay," she blurted, looking right in his eyes, the two of their faces so close together. And it was like she suddenly realized it. She stopped then, just a creak coming from her throat. Her eyes went up and down Jay, from his eyes, to that heap of flesh piled in his lap.

"Oh, uh," she said, shifting from him, getting out from under his arm. "I can't...Jay...I'm sorry. I can't do anymore today...I...I'll pay you, but can you leave?" She stood.

He said, "Are you mad at me?" His face turned to hers, lit by the sunlight coming over her shoulder. Maggie was nervous, her hands wringing together, her one foot creeping over her other, turning at an awkward and shy angle.

"No, I'm not..." she said, looking away, then said, "You shouldn't be here like this."

He stood up now, standing naked before her, her side turned to him, looking away. He looked for a moment like he would hold her. Then he sighed, and he went to the foot of the bed and collected his clothing off the floor. While he got himself dressed Maggie opened the top drawer of her night stand and she brought out some bills. She counted it out with her back to him and he slipped his shoes on. He got his book bag, and she turned, came to him in her underwear and she held the money out to him.

"Here," she said. "Thank you. I'm sorry, Jay. Are you mad at me?"

"I don't want your money," he said, putting up a hand.

"You posed for me."

"I'm here for you..."

"If you don't take it, it's...not professional."

"If I take it, it's like you're paying to watch me...you know..."

“Oh,” she gasped. Understanding, suddenly, that it was akin to prostitution. “Oh, no. It’s not like that...don’t think that...take it,” she said, and she tucked the bills in the front pocket of his jeans, her hands moving on him, so close to where he stored his weapon.

“Maggie...”

“Please, I made you come all the way here...”

“I’m here anyway—”

“No, Jay. No. I pay you to pose. That’s the only reason you’re here...”

Jay softened. His finger touched her bare chest, and it sent another bolt through Max. He hissed in the closet, covered his mouth.

“I like you, Maggie. Whatever makes you feel good here,” he said, stroking his finger between her breasts, over where her heart beat. Maggie’s eyes fluttered, her mouth hung open.

She whispered, “Can you come again tomorrow?”

“No. What about Thursday?”

“Thursday. Same time?”

“Is that okay?”

She nodded, her face seemed a little happier that they were working things out. “I have to draw next time. Can you...make yourself...” She whispered, “...Come... Before you get here?”

“Can you keep yourself covered?” he laughed.

“Was it my fault?” she smiled.

“Your fiancé is the luckiest guy in the world.”

“I’ll see you Thursday,” she said.

“Thursday,” he nodded with a handsome smile and he turned and went to the door.

“Hey,” she stopped him, her voice breathy and high.

“What?” he said, and he turned, his hand still on the knob.

She padded across her room, bashful, and when she got to Jay, she put her arms around him and she hugged him. “Thanks for being so understanding.”

“Okay, Maggie,” he said, and he put one arm around her, his hand feeling the bare skin of her back. He rested his chin on the top of her head. “See you Thursday.”

“Bye,” she said, and she let him go.

Jay left, and she held the door a moment watching him walk down the hallway. She closed the door softly, then pressed her forehead to it. She stood like that for a while, breathing, making a high groaning sound. She flicked the lock on the door and she shuffled slackly to her bed and sat on it.

Her toes pointed in, her thighs pressed together, her hands clasped between her knees. Her head drooped low, her shoulders sloped down like she had no strength in her. She started to cry. It killed him to see her in so much turmoil. She made the soft sad whispering sounds of a little girl who didn't want to be caught crying. Alone in her bedroom. It was such a violation to watch her. He couldn't take his eyes away.

Her shoulders shook with her sobs, and he saw a tear twinkle in the sunlight before it splashed on her bare thigh. She sniffed loudly, wiped her face with both hands. Her eyes were red and watery. She looked around her room and she turned her face up to the sun streaming in the window. "God, why?" she whispered. "Fuck."

She stood up again, chewing her lip, then looked at her bed. She squat down, now alarmed. Plucked the fabric of her duvet in her fingers and held it up. Let it down then and felt it with her hands, watching carefully, her eyes at the level of the bed. Her hand swooped across the fabric in circles and then she flinched, made an audible gasp. She jumped up, her hand twisted away from herself awkwardly, her face scrunched, looking at her hand. A blob of Jay's semen sagged from the heel of her palm.

"Aw, no," she said, turning her nose up. Watched the strand jiggle and stretch thin, threatening to drip to the floor. She slapped her hand on the bed and dried it on the cotton. Then bundled up the shirt and the duvet in a heap and thrust it to the door where it hit, then slipped down to the floor.

SHE WHISKED HER CURTAIN CLOSED, drawing it halfway so her side of the room was in shade. Looked down at the quad again, then her hands came behind her, fingers working the clasp of her bra. Her breasts poked up over the cup as it released, then she let it slip off her shoulders and down her arms. Maggie had pretty breasts. Small but beautifully shaped, upright and soft with the palest flower-petal-pink nipples that grew cherry at the tips. Her nipples swelled when they were released, the shapes of them stretching away from her breast. Turned her back then to the window and he could see her face, see her rosy cheeks and her glistening eyes. Thumbs hooked in the sides of her panties and she slid them down her legs and stepped out of them. Now his girl was naked. He knew what she would do. His heart was breaking for her but at the same time it was his own heart breaking. She was killing him, destroying him, knocking away everything he knew about her—but he cared for her, wanted to hold her. If he knew she wouldn't be livid with him, he'd step out of here right now and tell her it was all okay. He'd make love to her.

Would she even want him now? That Jay would have fucked her. And he made her face blush, her nipples swell. When he left the room, she wanted to masturbate. Did she ever think about her fiancé when she masturbated?

She sat one cheek down on her bare bed and pulled her sketchbook over. Flipped back a page, looking at one of her completed drawings of Jay. Her hand went up and down her thigh, pressing her flesh, the sound of her skin-on-skin heard in his dark closet. Her up-strokes got higher and then her fingers worked their way between her legs. Maggie was proudly unshaven down there. A dense and fruity patch between her legs. Dark hair in wisps, growing in a curve towards her center. She wanted her pubic hair and he, frankly, liked it. That was his Maggie. Underarms too—some hair there as well she wore as independence. Max liked it. That's who she was. She shaved her legs; she said she liked the feel. He was glad for that though he wouldn't have fought it.

She stared at her own drawing and her index finger curled, stroking at herself. She sighed, knocked her sketchpad higher up the bed and scooted over to lie down. This was bad. He couldn't interrupt her, couldn't stop her. If he came out, it would be a tremendous violation revealed. She would murder him.

This was so, so wrong. But now he would stay, and the stakes were much worse. She was about to reveal something so embarrassingly intimate to him. No matter how much he loved her and they were to wed, she would be hurt and furious about this. But he was frozen—stuck in this place he chose, and he would sit here and he would watch her jerk off thinking about another boy. This was his punishment.

He squeezed the bulge in his chinos, felt how hard this made him. The whole thing. Even seeing her with that boy. He should hate it. Those feelings were there, he did hate it—it put a painful lump in his belly, and swelled up to his esophagus, he could feel it when he swallowed—and yet he was wrought and twisted with excitement. He wanted to watch her touch herself. He wished he'd recorded her with that Jay. He'd watch it again. He'd watch it and he'd jerk himself off, too. Just like his Maggie. He'd watch her, relive that moment when she spit in his hand, watched him stroke himself, watched her hand cradle his big balls while the come shot out of him. Fuck. He flexed his ass and felt precum flow from him like a tap.

She pushed her head into her pillow, her body low, her chin tucked into her collar. Her legs went open, the outside of her thighs coming to rest on her bed. Her feet drew up, her heels almost touching, spread like a frog. She closed her eyes and sucked her lips under her teeth. One hand pulled up on her mound, fingers tugging the soft flesh there, angling it, while her other hand lay across her thatch of hair. Her index finger and her pinky arcing away from her delicate hand while her two middle fingers stroked the center of her sex.

Her fingers worked up and down, making wet sounds now. Her legs moved on the sheets, her other hand swept up and smoothed over her tummy, drawing in tight now, forming a concave shallow. Her breaths grew quicker, soft sounds scraping the back of her throat and huffing out her nose. She hooked her middle finger and penetrated herself, her hand worked in circles, her finger plunging and stroking, swiping up and buzzing over her own clit. She was going to make him come in his pants.

She squeezed and played with her own breasts. Her pretty hand rolling and tweaking her nipple, playing with its shape. As she got wetter, the smacking sounds of her pink flesh being worked got louder. Her lips parted and her breaths gasped from her. Her legs opened and closed slowly as her gasps turned to light moans and her finger worked stronger, going like mad, buried in her flesh and mushing on her button. Her moans grew louder still, the slick sounds faster, and she thrust her hips to push her sex against her own manipulations. "Oh, oh," she sighed as she got close.

His scalp tingled, his own heart raced. She tightened suddenly, drew a long breath of air that hissed through her nostrils, her legs coming together but not closing. "Aw, oh, aw, mm, mm..." She made high breathy sounds of satisfaction as she brought herself to orgasm thinking about Jay. He squeezed his own stomach in, felt his precum slippery throughout his pubic hair and up his belly. He trembled, if he touched himself right now he would come in his pants. He squeezed his ass muscles over and over trying to control it. Control it, and enjoy it at the same time.

That was the single most erotic thing he had ever seen. His Maggie like that, turned on and sexual, it was so exciting. Thinking of her being aroused by that other guy was making him crazy. Crazy but he liked it. What if she touched Jay's cock? What if she couldn't stop herself and she gripped him and stroked that fat thing until the come shot all over her, ran down her knuckles?

"Oh," he gasped and had to tense every muscle he had below his ribs before he spewed it all into his underwear. She didn't hear him, her flat hand now smoothing up and down her patch, her folds slipping in the creases of her fingers. She sighed then and laughed, her eyes still closed. Drew her legs up, turned them to the side and lay on her hip, her bare ass facing him. She was looking at her drawing again.

CHAPTER FIVE

MAGGIE GOT herself off the bed. Her heart-rate subsided and remorse washed in. What had she done?

That was so wrong.

That wasn't her. What was happening to her? She'd been fighting it. Fighting her thoughts of Jay. But she couldn't help herself.

"Fuck," she whispered, squinting and hunching forward. If Max found out? ... Fuck. If poor Max had walked in...

She shook her head savagely, her hair scratching at her shoulders. She roared, snarled and pushed those thoughts away. Max's face, the moment his heart was broken, standing in the door witnessing the girl he loved betraying him...

"No, no, no," she cried. She thrust herself into motion. She had to get out of her room. It smelled in here. Smelled like sex. Not sex with Max...it smelled like...

She whipped her drawer open and pulled out fresh panties, a shirt, some shorts. Got dressed. Her hands shook as she pulled her shorts up. The dirtied duvet was whipped from the floor and stuffed into her plastic hamper. Grabbed the balled up yellow shirt and shoved it down the side as well. She'd have it clean for Jay on Thursday...

"No," she said to her empty room. "No," she repeated. Swiped her wallet now from the dresser, stormed around, found her flip-flops, shoved her stupid feet in them and got her hamper and got the heck out of that awful and humid room, slamming the door behind her.

Hamper on hip, she marched stiffly down three flights of stairs to the dorm's basement. Laundry room was well-lit, students laughing, hanging out while their clothing tumbled in machines. Happy people who weren't out to ruin their lives and crush the souls of the people that loved them. She flung the disgusting bedding and shirt into a washing machine, took her FarmCard and swiped it through the electronic box. It beeped. Rejected.

INSUFFICIENT FUNDS

Her student card was empty. She'd let it run dry. That meant she'd have to call Father tonight for another top up.

"Shoot," she hissed softly, bumped her forehead with a loose fist. She laughed. Feeling a bit better out of that bordello she lived in.

The bedding and shirt were pulled from the washing machine, slung back into the hamper and she threw it back on her hip and trotted up to the ground floor and outside.

Four years at Farmingham and her eyes never came off the ball. She would graduate magna cum laude. Three weeks drawing the hottest guy she had ever seen in her whole life and all her stitching was pulling, everything coming apart. FarmCard empty, figure drawings not done, behind roughly 100,000 words on her reading list, an essay due in a week and all she had prepared was an outline. She thought about Jay all day long. Like she was in high school. Even once, incredibly, caught herself writing JAY on her scratch pad during a lecture. This was so dangerous. If she had an ounce of sense, she would sever this bizarre relationship with Jay.

She was crossing the quad on a beautiful fall day with her bedding balled up in a hamper, another man's semen all over it. She wasn't cheating. She knew she wasn't. But it was so close. This had to be stopped. Watching another man masturbate and ejaculate wasn't cheating, but it was not good. Not good at all. It filled her with enormous guilt. Twice now she'd watched him. After the first time she'd been sick over it. Jay leaving her dorm, door closed behind him, she rushed to the bathroom and bent over the toilet and almost barfed. It was so disgusting. Max was her man. She watched Jay empty his balls onto his stomach muscles for her. His disgusting seed shooting out of him. She watched it like a pervert. It made her wet. She hugged that toilet and swore that was the last time. By the next morning she couldn't wait to see Jay again. Pushed the thought away but there was awareness in her, something unacknowledged but its presence was there, hiding—she would watch him masturbate again.

While this wasn't cheating...Max would leave her if he found out. And he should. If Max had a girl in his room and he thought it was okay if they didn't have sex but she could get naked and show him the thing between her legs while she masturbated for him—came for him—she would be done with him. Probably wouldn't talk to him again. It was different when it was her. She knew she meant no harm. Now she had a different perspective.

She looked both ways as she crossed the street, heading off-campus now, just over into the edge of the Village. There was a small square building there, facing the school. FarmFresh in raised wooden letters above the door of the laundromat that looked like it might have been a gas station in the 1950s. There was a lineup, students in a ragged vine, twisting right out the front door.

Max was still her love. She wasn't wavering at all. Jay was just setting her hormones on fire was all. What she told him on the bed was honest. She had no sexual experience. There was no way around it though. Come this August she would marry Max, and that was absolute. Determined. She loved her Max. If she'd never been presented with Jay, she would never think about all she missed. It was only when Jay's obvious sexual power was shown to her that her mind started to work in nasty ways. What would it be like to have sex with him? He was beautiful. His body was incredible. His shape, his form, was perfection. And his penis was so incredibly large. What would that feel like?

"Shit," she hissed as someone poked the back of her knee with their sneaker and made her slump and stumble, trying not to fall—also scaring the fucking daylight out of her.

"Maggie!" Cole standing behind her, no hamper but his laundry hanging over an arm.

"Scared the crap out of me," she laughed.

"You were off in fantasy-land...I called your name, didn't even hear me."

She laughed it off, pulled her hair back from her face, shrugged and smiled. "What are you doing here?"

Comical bewilderment, frowning, he said, "What do you think?" hoisting his arm with the laundry.

"No, I mean, where's Max?"

"I don't know."

"He told me he was going to see you."

"Yeah, I texted him to come have a beer, but he didn't get back to me."

“Oh, really? I wonder what happened to him?” she said as she thrust her hamper up onto the stainless counter. Farm Fresh was a student-run business that handled laundry. Independent from the school and run for profit, they offered a premier service—drop off, pick up, fluffed and folded, and reeking of soap and softener. Expensive, but most of the kids at Farmingham could afford it.

“Fluff-fold, the works,” she told the kid at the counter with a purple Farmingham sweatshirt.

“Run it twice,” Cole said, and she turned to see him fanning his nose and talking to the kid, “her boyfriend has bromhidrosis.”

The kid looked to her like she might need it run twice.

“You could just say B.O.,” she said to Cole, then to the kid, smiling at him, “but he doesn’t have that either...”

Cole dumped off his laundry and then said, “Hey, you come have a beer with me. We’ll track down that errant turd of yours.”

“Yeah, all right. He’s going to take me out for dinner later. Wanna come? We’ll grab a pizza? ...”

He nodded, going through his phone, texting Max.

They walked the sunny quad and chatted and she was so grateful to have his company. Took her mind away, at least for a little while, from the gruesome fact she held another boys balls today and watched him jerk off.

WHEN MAGGIE LEFT THE ROOM, her dirty duvet bundled in her hamper, Max masturbated. Not in the closet, he clawed his way out of that crap Jessie had accumulated in there. Found he was crying. Tears wet his cheeks, a painful erection dug itself into the front of his khakis. He put his back to her door, locked it anyway, and he sobbed and fantasized and he stroked himself into the handkerchief Maggie and Jessie used to let each other know things inside were hot and heavy. Took less than a minute.

He hated what he’d watched, but it had set something off inside him he never knew existed. Never in his entire life had he been so carnally consumed. The serpentine lust that slithered through him right now was an awful thing. He hated himself for being aroused by it. His Maggie had put an emotion through him he couldn’t even comprehend. How could that have aroused him? And so powerfully. He pictured it over and over again. When he blasted his watery seed into the handkerchief, his mind's eye focused on his Maggie's hand holding another guys balls. The way they wrinkled and sagged in her pale thin fingers.

Then he got the heck out of her room before he got caught with a rag full of his sperm. Went out to the quad, out into the sun, having it touch his skin made him squirm; his face was hot already. He touched his cheeks. Felt them hot, knew they must be red from crying and from enduring the horror he'd just witnessed.

Steve's brother was still there, he said, "Hey, Max, you okay?"

He nodded, couldn't think of anything to say. Took off then, speed-walking through the paths under the trees. Back towards Heany-Hansen where his lecture had been, wound up going no farther than a wood and iron bench in the Oren Glen. Sat for a good long while and looked at his shoes while people passed him, oblivious to what this poor guy on the bench had suffered. His lust waned as his heart beat returned to normal. The inner scale being tipped, drops of rage upending it. Now he was mad. Now he hated her face. He hated her voice. He hated that another guy turned her on. What a whore. What a dirty rotten slut.

And that piece of shit guy. Flexing and posing, showing an engaged woman his cock. Fucking asking her to jerk it for him. The fucking disrespect. He slammed his fist on the lip of the bench. He'd been slighted. Forgotten. Oh, I love my fiancé, Jay. Yet that fucking whore watched him once, then again today, holding his balls while he came. She wanted it. She wanted that big cock. She was strong today but less than last week. Two weeks from now she'd be fucking him, sucking him, taking that monster up her ass. Laughing at Max behind his back. Quick, you have to get out of here, Jay, my dumb fiancé, will be here soon. Kiss me. I'll see you tomorrow.

"Fuck!" he yelled.

His phone buzzed.

Cole: hey buddy, beer? I got your girl with me. Sam House rec

His girl? Maggie? Maggie was with Cole? Doing what now?

He didn't answer, slipped his phone back into his pants. Rolled his sleeves up because while it was sixty out, the sun was warm and his lust and rage inside him was like a coal furnace. He sat a good while longer wondering how he would go on.

MAX FOUND them in the rec room of Samuelson half an hour later. They'd been drinking. They were on the couch together wrestling for an Xbox controller. Cole was big. He was a vicious midfielder on the Rangers, Farmingham's lacrosse team. A little over six feet and very strong; Maggie looked so little draped over him. He had an arm out, holding the controller, and she was climbing him to get it and he was keeping it from her. Maggie was giggling. His heart was clutched again. The woman he'd proposed to was not who he thought she was.

Her face was rosy again, from effort, maybe from drink. She looked like she was having fun climbing on Cole's body. He pictured her hand slipping between Cole's legs, curious about his size. His brow lowered with anger and his cock swelled. This was fucking something.

He stood and watched. Even though her face was turned towards his she hadn't noticed him, busy with Cole. Laughing and giggling. Trying to tickle him now. He tickled her too, and they both disappeared to the cushions below the back of the couch. He couldn't see them anymore. On the coffee table there were cups there, the plastic ones with lids they used when they wanted to drink beer when they were in the rec. How many had they had?

They weren't alone. Behind Max was a ping pong table, the tapping staccato of ball on table and paddle as two guys played a vigorous game. A boy sat and read with a girl resting her head in his lap, her back on the couch, reading her own book. What would happen if they were alone? Would she want to draw Cole? Want to watch him come?

As he walked to the back of the couch, Cole's arm raised to the ceiling, controller in his big mitt, holding it up and away from small Maggie, taunting her.

"Hey," she laughed, "Give it!"

Max loomed over the back of the couch, his face grim as he took this spectacle in. Maggie on her back, auburn, blue, and platinum hair spread out on the cushion of the couch. Her face was cheery, drunken and happy, a shine on her nose and on her cheeks. She was beautiful. She grappled with Cole's arm, her own wrapped around him while he held her at bay, controller thrust high where she couldn't reach it. Maggie was in shorts and a flannel shirt, sleeves rolled up, top buttons undone, her pale perfect skin visible there just above the top of her low scoop neck T-shirt. Her legs were bare, her feet bare. Her flip-flops kicked under the coffee table.

“Max!” she laughed when she saw him.

His face was stone. He said, “What’s happening here?”

“He won't...agh...he’s being a jerk...” She struggled again to get it.

Cole laughed, his hand going higher. “Reach for it, Maggie...show me you want it...”

“I’m tired,” she said now, giving up, wiping at her face and pulling her shirt down to cover her bared belly.

“How much have you had to drink?” he said.

She blinked at him, finally noticing his sullen expression. “What?”

“Drink? You drunk?”

“Max, no...” She struggled to sit, seemingly aware now how it looked to come in and see them like that. She looked to Cole briefly, got on her knees and bent over the back of the couch to him. “Max...” she said, her hand holding his arm above his elbow. He pulled away.

Cole said, “Hey, whoa, Max, come on, bro...” He stood up, throwing the controller aside.

Max turned his back to them and walked away. This was too much for one day. Everything was upside down. Yesterday his life had been perfect and now it was shit. He got past the ping pong table, Cole calling after him. When he got to the hall, to the bottom of the wide stairs that went up a half flight to the main lobby of the House, Maggie caught up to him, running in her bare feet.

“Max, Max, Maxy,” she called. She grabbed him. “Maxy, hey, what’s going on?”

He turned to her. His little fiancée. The most important person in his life. He hated her. Her evil almond eyes, those glimmering amber orbs, her pouted mouth, her porcelain skin. Fucking hated the knife she stuck in him. He looked at her with no expression.

Her mouth fell open as she struggled to comprehend the boy she loved, that she had shared so much with. There was fear in her eyes. Worry. He knew what it was. She was guilty. She felt judged, knew what she knew about herself and was so worried someone knew her truth. In those eyes he could see her fear that her fiancé somehow knew what she had done today.

Does he know something? Can he smell it on me?

Yes, I can. I fucking watched you, whore. I fucking watched it all.

"Max, I'm so sorry," she whispered. Her head tilted, her eyes wavering, tears welling there, threatening to spill. "Max," she sighed, and she gripped him, hugged her face to his chest, and her touch, the feel of her warmth against him, eased him. She felt so good. He didn't hate her. He loved her. He hated what she did. But even that had made him hard as he'd ever been. He jerked off in her dorm room, just like she did. He couldn't be without her. This was just a crazy blip. Just a weird day. His arms went around her and he could feel the relief that put in her.

"What's going on, Max?" she said, but she couldn't look at him.

I watched what you did. The words formed on his tongue but stayed in his mouth. He could say it but then he could never come back from it. It would be out there and that was what they would have to deal with. It would consume them. The thing she'd done. He wasn't ready. He didn't even know what he thought. He needed time.

"Nothing."

"It's Cole?" she said. "Is that it? Is that why you're mad?"

"What do you think?"

"Was that weird? ...It's Cole, Max. It's Cole."

He looked in her eyes. He saw her fear, and he didn't want that for her. Her words on the bed with Jay were honest. This was the woman he would marry. She wasn't perfect, she was going to have problems but they would work things out together.

"Is it Cole, Max? Was that it?"

"Yes, Maggie," he said. He kissed her forehead, said, "I'm all right. Don't worry. I'm over it." If she had problems, they would work it out together. If she could be honest, they could work this out as a couple.

"I'm sorry," she said again, pressed her face into his collar; he could feel damp heat from her. She was going to cry, her breath hot, wet, preparing for tears.

"I...hold on," she grunted, her voice tight and squeezed. She covered her face and turned and disappeared into the bathroom behind her and closed the door. He heard her sob before the door closed shut.

He watched the closed door for a while, thought of all the things he'd like to say but was afraid. He went back to the rec. Cole was still standing, looking concerned.

“Max,” he said. “Where’s Maggie?”

He tossed a thumb over his shoulder. “She's in the washroom...it's fine, I'm...”

“Max, man, I’m sorry...it’s me...” he said, looking earnest with lowered brow and eyes heavy with concern. He came around the couch. “Dude...you all right?”

“Yeah,” he said, “I’m fine.”

“It’s me...Maggie? ...c’mon. I’m your Best Man. She’s like my sister. I look out for her...it’s—”

“It’s not you, Cole. It’s her. It’s me.” He turned to look back over the ping pong table eager for her to return to him. “We’ll be fine,” he said. “We’ll work it out. We will.”

PART TWO

OUTSIDE THE BORDER of the campus, on the quaint main street running through the heart of the Village of Farmingham, there was a seventy-year-old Italian restaurant called Altieri's. Max's favorite. When he proposed she was surprised it wasn't at this restaurant. Both of them had spent so much time here in the last four years.

She'd met Max at an off-campus Greek. Lambda Theta Theta had a two-story Georgian at the end of the Village. Farmingham didn't want Greeks on campus but they still had presence. She was eighteen and so was he, though he was almost nineteen. He had a dorky T-shirt on. A girls shirt, with a unicorn on a cloud, prancing under a rainbow. It was ironic. He had a stubbly beard back then and he looked so cute. An adorable boy with a great sense of humor, a big smile that showed his white teeth. It was love at first sight. He was with Cole and Sam and Tyler and they were playing King's Cup. She was with her friend Sara and she pushed her—literally pushed her—into Max. He was at that happy drunk stage where everything is fun and funny and has promise. He roped her into the game and she pretended she didn't want to play, didn't understand Max's rules, but she definitely wanted to. He taught her how to play. Putting his kind and warm hands over hers and she looked in his eyes, smiling at him, and she could see a life together with him. He was a good person.

The Max next to her tonight, sitting in his place of gastric nirvana, was a different Max. She'd never seen him like this. He was not prone to moods. He was positive. Always fun. She was the one who would get depressed sometimes and he would be there for her. Only he wasn't depressed. There was something stark in him. Something had been taken out of him, made him hollow. The light behind his eyes was gone. No sparkle in his chestnut browns tonight.

He'd rallied after that weird exchange in the basement of Samuelson—smiling now but it was as empty as his eyes. He was putting it on. Whatever it was inside him doing this it wasn't gone, he was merely fighting it.

When she'd looked up, laying on the couch and having fun with Cole, saw his face looming above her, she'd been hit with an icy dread. He knew. She thought somehow he knew. His eyes were a thousand miles distant, but there was an intensity in them. He was different. She'd scrambled, shot up, looking to do anything for him not to hurt—to tell him she was sorry for touching Jay. Wondering who told on her, who knew besides her and Jay?

Their pizzas arrived, two thin and crispy whites with pepperoni and another pitcher of beer. He'd had a few now since they got here, though she stopped after hanging out with Cole. Cole could sense trouble in his friend too and he worked with him, trying to bring out his laugh.

There was a crowd growing in the old brick building. Students and some locals as well, the sky outside getting darker now and people looking for dinner. They ate. Cole was charming and funny and Maggie watched him draw Max out of his shell, get him laughing again. She rubbed his back. He even smiled at her. Felt her hand on him and looked over his shoulder at her and showed those white teeth of his.

But what got into him then? What had changed since mid-day when he showed up at her door and wanted to make love and hang out? Was it because she rebuffed him? Had plans? That wasn't abnormal. He was gone when she got off the phone and came back in the room. It was possible he'd seen her sketchbook. It was very possible. She'd wondered before but now it was coming into focus. He knew what her figure model looked like. Shoot, he probably knew he'd come to her room. Saw the foot of her bed in her drawing. He would be mad. If the roles were reversed she would be livid. Jay was no figure model. He was a fucking God.

She suddenly felt the weight of what she'd done. She'd hurt Max with her drawings. That simple act had hurt her poor boy's feelings. He didn't even know how much worse it was. God, if he knew what she'd done last week and now today he would hate her.

"Hi-ii, table," a besotted redhead from the table next to theirs leaned way back, her pretty hair tumbling over the curved crest rail of her chair. Her friends laughed—a mix of young boys and girls, Freshmen. She was addressing the table but she was eyeballing Cole. Cole knew, he smiled, gave her a confident look and it made the girl smirk. She tilted her head then, rolling it around and looking into Cole's eyes sideways, drawing muffled laughter from her friends.

She was very cute and Cole was interested. She had blonde highlights, freckles and brilliant green eyes. She knew she was pretty but she had a béguin for handsome Cole that made her pink lips suck into her mouth and her eyelashes flutter.

"Are you Cole Cantarella?"

"I am," he said.

"I thought so," she sang.

A pimply-faced boy with a bowl cut helped her finally, taking her arm and pulling her back to face their table. Her friends were embarrassed but they'd had drinks as well and they cackled and fell against each other.

She watched them. Wondered what their experience at Farmingham was going to be like. What experiences did they have in High School? What did they think it would be like for them at College? Would they get all the experiences they were after? It didn't seem that long ago that she was one of them. Sitting here in Altieri's drunk on wine hoisted back at the dorm and eating too much pizza and barfing in the hedges outside Keegan. She was here only a few months before she had her loving Max to hold her hair for her, to put ice packs on her forehead the morning after she might have drank too much. She loved every minute with her Max but she never got a chance to lean back in a chair and flirt with a handsome Lacrosse player.

"You okay?" Cole asked. She looked up suddenly and both of them were looking at her.

"Me? Am I okay?"

Max said something but the restaurant was so noisy now she couldn't hear him. She shook her head, her eyes staring.

He said, "Are you all right, Maggie?"

"Yeah," she said.

A loud cheer broke from the table next to them as a sixth for their party barged through the front doors. She stared down at the red gingham check of the tablecloth. Saw her empty plate with crumbs and crusts. Felt the wet weight of the beer she drank swirling in her tummy. Felt the enormity of her actions in her room today. She was going to barf. Right here. All over the table in front of them. Barf and then cry. She got a sudden image of semen leaping up at her out of the deep hole set in the plump head of Jay's huge cock. It had smelled. In that moment she had smelled Jay's semen.

"I gotta go...excuse me," she said and she bumped her way out from the table, stumbled through the crowd, got swallowed by it. Made her way down the glossy green-painted hall and into the ladies'.

She held herself over the sink, looked in the mirror. It had subsided now—the terror gone...the panic. But it wasn't over.

What had she done today?

She'd have to tell Max. She couldn't keep a secret like this.

She washed her face, rubbed cold water onto her hot skin, stared at her reflection again. She couldn't tell him. He would leave her.

When she opened the door, her sleeve pulled over her clean hand, got out of the bathroom, Max was standing in the hall waiting for her. He had a strange worried but desperate look in his eyes. Something wild was in him.

Her lips trembled, she held his gaze. He looked at her with firmly set jaw. Then he stepped to her and he hugged her. His arms around her felt so good. He kissed her neck and she ran her hands through his hair, her nails scratching at his scalp. She tilted her chin to the pressed tin ceiling tiles, looked at the metal lampshade with its bright shining globe. It blotted her vision, turned it all to painful white.

"Max," she sighed into his ear. His hips pressed her and she felt his hardness. "Oh, Max," she sighed, genuinely glad to feel his arousal. She slipped a hand down and grabbed him through his pants, his dick sticking straight up and out, pushing against his cotton.

"Get a room, Max," somebody laughed loudly at them as they passed, but neither of them even looked to see who it was. He held her head in his hands now, kissing her lips and sucking on her tongue.

"Jessie's home," she said. "Your room?"

He nodded, grunted as he pulled on her lips with his.

They held hands, and he pulled his shirt out of his pants so it would hang down over his erection. They made it back to the table and Cole had his side turned and he was talking to the smiling redhead, one confident muscular arm over the back of his chair.

"Cole," she said, making him turn. "We gotta go..." She winked, Max squeezing her hand.

Cole's smile narrowed his eyes, and he said, "Catch you later," or something, and Max was already pulling her to the front doors of the restaurant.

It was cold outside and there was a group of townies waiting to get a table and they walked through their cigarette smoke. She went to the right and got yanked back, her leg kicking up and her flip flop almost coming off. Max pulled her to the left.

“Where are you going?” she said, stumbling along behind him.

It was colder out now with the sun gone, the purple sky of the fall night bringing a chill with it that made the skin of her arms and legs turn to gooseflesh.

“Down here,” he said.

Altieri’s was in a vintage red brick building and their neighbor was another brick building, a gift shop, painted puce with hunter trim. Between the two buildings was an alley wide enough for a car. It was dark down there but when Max pulled her into it she was excited.

AN ASH TREE in a planter at the edge of the street acted as a canopy, stretching across the mouth of the alley. Pale yellow leaves rustled on its branches in the breeze, some giving up for the season early and fluttering down to the ground. He led his Maggie down the alley.

During dinner, while they ate and drank, the dirtiest of thoughts slithered through his head. The things he had witnessed today; other things, too. Things he should never want to see. Maggie pulling down Cole’s zipper, her little hands working the pull, his cock tumbling out and then putting his best friend’s penis inside her mouth...the way her eyes tracked the spurts of Jay’s semen...Maggie’s legs spread like a frog’s only she wasn’t masturbating she was watching Jay plunge that weapon into her hairy sex...spitting in Jay’s hand so he could stroke himself, making it seem like she was reluctant; even from the closet he knew she would.

How well did Jay know her? Did he see through her, too? Was it fun for him? This cute girl engaged to be wed, knowing what she saw in him, knowing his appeal...did he enjoy trying her resolve, knowing he could turn her No into Yes? It must be a game to him. That excited him too. Another man dominating his Maggie. Bending her will, prying her open with his size, making her heart pound with his beauty and his muscle.

He had a steel bolt between his legs right now and his Maggie had a hot wet hole and she would be ready. He'd even like it if she thought of Jay.

"Maggie," he gasped, and he pushed her up against the brick wall in the dim dark. Light from the street played along her jaw and her nose, a wet white spot glimmered in her eye. He kissed her again, his hands clutched both her breasts through her shirt and she moaned excitement into his mouth. Her nipples pushed the fabric out and he could feel their hardness against his palm even through her flannel pockets. She lay her arms against the wall and thrust her chest to him, wanting to feel his rough hold.

They were between two aluminum kitchen exhausts. Pale metal drums stuck out from the brick wall on either side of them, thin metal rattling loudly as fans pushed warm air around their shoulders, smelling like garlic and cheese.

"Fuck me outside, Max...fuck me in this alley," she whispered into his ear.

He groaned and gripped her breasts tightly. She was turned on. Turned on by Max, but turned on by what she'd done today. That aroused him. What did she think about? What were his sweet Maggie's dirtiest thoughts? She could be thinking of Jay right now. Max's hands on her, her eyes rolled up, watching some movie play on a big screen in her brain...Jay's hands on her, Jay's mouth on her...Jay's erection splitting his pants and digging into her tummy right now.

That's what he wanted her to be thinking about.

His mouth still on hers he dipped at the knees, his hands going up and down her cold bare thighs, then cupping her bottom and hoisting her to his waist. She clung to him, arms around his neck and he shuffled to his right, found a set of four concrete steps that led to a wooden enclosure built onto the side of the brick restaurant. He lay his Maggie back on the concrete, setting her butt down on a step.

She wasted no time, kissing him still, her hands worked his pants open, tugged them, her hand wrapped around his exposed cock and stroked him, balls still tucked in his boxers. Her hand slipped all over him, his eager cock pumping out clear lubrication.

What did she think of it now, that thing in her hand? She'd seen one today that was a monster. Was there disappointment at his feel in her greasy grip? Did she think less of him now...now that she'd seen a real one?

His hands dove between her legs and he fumbled with her shorts, tugging and wrenching. Excitement blasting through him and ruining his dexterity. Button undone and zip half pulled he pushed her to her side, making her grunt.

“Yes, Max,” she gasped.

She was on her knees now, her elbows on the concrete step two above. He ripped her shorts down. Panties went with them. Her bare ass and her hairy sex were completely exposed to him. He smelled her. She smelled aroused. His Maggie musk, strong and wet, rolling up from between her legs. His little slut got herself worked up today. This little pussy had sweated for another man. She’d got wet watching Jay. Fucked her own pussy with her fingers while she thought of a handsome black kid with a huge cock.

“Oh, fuck,” he gasped, grabbing a handful of her wet flesh. Her pussy was soaking, his fingers played through her folds, made her groan like a cat as his bunched fingers smacked through her hot flower. Her pussy was begging for it. Wide and soft and receptive. Maggie wanted to get fucked. He grabbed a handful of her hair, held his cock in his other hand and he stroked himself inside her like a knife in butter. No resistance, tip to balls in one easy stroke that made her gasp, “Yes!”

He clenched his eyes, thought how Jay would make her cry out more than that. Jay would make her scream. His cock would stretch that tight little thing she had. She would love every inch of Jay.

He fucked her wildly. Pulled her hair, each thrust was as deep as he could go. He gave her every inch he had. Full bore strokes that pounded her like a machine. He had her grunting and crying, urging him, telling him she wanted more. He had no more. She’d need Jay. Jay had what she wanted. If she wanted more, she wanted Jay.

“More, oh, Max,” she grunted. “Oh, you feel so...good.”

“You want more?” he growled in her ear.

“Ah...yes...fuck me...”

“I know what you’ve been up to,” he said, his hand gripping her hair tight and pulling her ear close to his mouth. His words coming out unbeckoned, his scalp tingling hearing himself say it.

“What?” she squeaked. Her pussy tightened on him.

“I saw...”

“No...Max, what? ...”

She tried to turn from him but he pinned her. He thrust his cock deep and dropped his body weight onto her. Flattened her to the steps.

“Max,” she cried.

He fucked her still. Had her stuck on the concrete and still his hips pressed his cock into her wetness.

“I saw your sketchbook,” he said.

“Max, don’t...” she said, an anxious pitch to her plea.

“I love you, Maggie...”

“What?”

“Don’t struggle,” he said, “Stop.” He held her, an arm went around her neck, his forearm pressed to her throat.

“What are you doing?” she said fearfully, her hands gripping his arm.

“I want you to think about him.”

“I want it, Maggie...”

“No, she said.”

His other hand slipped down her flat belly and tucked through her thick pubic hair. He kept his thrusts sliding through her, in and out, slow and steady now. His fingers found her button, swollen large and full, blossoming out of her hood and her folds.

“I feel your clit, Maggie...”

“Oh!”

“Yeah, he turns you on...”

“No, Max...”

“Of course he does, I saw him,” he whispered, his cock stroking through her, his fingers pressing her clit against his grinding shaft.

“Max, please...”

“Maggie, you’re so fucking wet now, your pussy is running all over my balls, down my legs...”

She squeaked in protest but her nails dug into his arm where she gripped him.

His cock slid deep, he said, “Do you want to feel him inside you?”

“No, Max, no.”

“I know you do. Tell me...”

“No...”

“You don’t think about how he would feel, how his muscles move when he fucks you?”

“Ah,” she gasped.

“Tell me...Tell me Yes...”

“Yes...”

“You think about it?”

“I do.”

“Ah, fuck, Maggie, you’re so bad. You little slut...”

She stiffened. “Get out of me.”

He said, “What?”

Her voice firm now, she said, “Get your cock out of me...”

“Maggie...”

“I mean it, stop...”

He gripped her tighter, his arm around her neck shaking her. he growled, “Picture him, Maggie...”

“No...”

“This is his cock inside you, you want it...”

“I...don’t...”

“Picture him fucking you like I’m fucking you...hard, bent over concrete steps, fucking you with that horse cock...”

“Mm...no, Max.” Her protest had softened to a quiet breathy sound.

“Yes, Maggie... Feel his muscle against you...you want it...tell me you want it.”

“No, Max,” she whimpered weakly.

“Tell me you want him.”

“I don’t, Max...don’t make me say it.”

“Say it...say it for me...I want to hear it...”

“No...”

“Tell me you think about him.”

“...I think...about him...ah...”

“That’s it...tell me you imagine how he would feel.”

“Oh...I think about how he would feel, Max.”

“That’s it...Fuck, Maggie, you’re so hot.”

“You’re so hard, Maxy,” her breathy voice sliced from her.

His thumb and forefinger gripped her clit, shook it and teased it, so slippery it wanted to squirt away from him. She cried out an animal sound, something high and all-girl and he worried someone would get the wrong idea watching them from the mouth of the alley. She sounded like she was out of control, gasping and gulping for breath and crying and squawking, thrusting her rump into him, eager for penetration. The arm across her throat pulled her, raised her up so they were both on their knees.

He wanted to stop talking. He wanted to drop it and just pretend this was dirty talk. But she was eager now. Trusting him to admit it. This wasn't dirty talk. They were being honest.

He growled close to her ear, the curled ridge of her auricle tickling his nose, "How big do you think he is when he's hard?"

She moaned, "I don't know."

"You've never seen him hard?"

"...No..."

"Do you want to?"

"Yes-ss..."

It soared his heart, the idea that this sweet little girl would want to do something so devious. It seized him, made him hurt and love all at once. "Tell me..."

"I want to see him hard."

"Dirtier, Maggie, dirtier..."

"I want to see his big hard cock, Max..."

"Oh, fuck, that's it, Maggie...do you want to suck it?"

She cried, "He's too big..."

"Would it hurt your little pussy?"

"He'd destroy my pussy, Max."

"You want it anyway..."

"I want him to destroy my pussy, Maxy..."

"I want it, too..."

"No, Max."

"I want you to fuck him..."

Her neck struggled and turned against his arm, she said, "What?"

"I want you to fuck him...I want to watch you fuck him..."

"No...Max, wait—"

"Don't stop, Maggie...we're close...I feel you're so wet..."

She let out a low sound, a mournful erotic note. Her nails scrabbled at his arm. "Tell me again."

"I want you to fuck him."

"Yeah, tell me."

“I want to see you with him...I want to see you fuck him, ride him...”

“Oh fuck, Max, oh shit, oh...don't stop...”

He fucked her fast and she met his thrusts, banging her jiggling ass against the drive of his hips. The wet slaps of their bodies carried over the rattle of the exhaust fans. He tumbled on top of her as she collapsed in ecstasy against the steps again, banging her elbows. He squeezed her hard and fucked her like a dog. “I want to see your perfect...little, mm, pussy swallow what he's got between his legs.”

“Oh, ah...more...” she panted wildly, her insides gripping him with the strength of her hand.

“I want to see your face...ah, when he puts it into you...I want to see your nails scratch his back...when he fucks you, I want...uh, to see how you come with another man.”

“Ah, ah,” she cried out, her head whipping around, her hair thrashing the concrete. She came on him, she had a wild orgasm under him. Her body tightened and twisted, her pussy clamped his cock as tight as a vice and he stuck it deep. She milked him, her desperate insides gulping and flexing on him as she came and came and she made high and soft Maggie sounds into the concrete.

CHAPTER SEVEN

AS HER ORGASM subsided it was replaced with a fast rising tide of shame. She was humiliated. Those things she admitted were the things that ended relationships. She cried now, her back sobbing, her Max pressed to her. Wanted to turn and face him but she couldn't look him in the eye. That was not dirty talk. That was true. Did he know it was true? Did he want it to be true?

His hands calmed her back but his cock was angry inside her, pulsing and urgent. His slightest movement tickled. She had never been more wet. Max's cock moved with no resistance at all. What would Jay feel like? Would his hurt her?

She pushed that thought away. Mad at herself. Squeezed tears from her eyes and slipped forward so her Max came out of her. She never went down on him after he'd been inside her. Tonight she was out of her mind. Tonight she needed something wild to chase her thoughts away.

She turned and gripped his shirt, pulled him to her and he fell her way clumsily, and they sat on their sides on the concrete steps, their mouths locked together. Twisting herself over him, she got him to sit. His pants were pulled mid-thigh, she couldn't get between his legs, so she got next to him, her own shorts slipping down to her ankles before she bent over his lap. One foot out to get purchase on concrete, one forearm across his hip, she got her face between his legs. Her nose filled with the smell of her insides. Her dirty perfume, her slick smell. She'd produced a lot of this sweat today. Got wet waiting for Jay. Got really wet watching him pose, then even more when she watched him jerk off. She'd masturbated on her bed. Hadn't had a shower since then. And wet now like never before when her future husband said the dirtiest things she could ever imagi—No!

She pushed it away. Rejected it.

Her mouth went over Max's hardness and he moaned and flinched. His cock couldn't be harder. She bobbed on him. The size of his cock was fine. She'd never thought anything of it. He seemed small now. Her other sexual experience had been a little bigger. Longer at least. Was Max small? No, he wasn't, because she never had a problem with his size. His cock felt good inside her. In her mouth, in her hand. There was not a thing wrong with his cock. It was only small because she'd seen one that was huge. That was all. Jay had a huge cock. It didn't make her future-husband small. She sucked Max, sucked him, tasted her own taste, tasted his semen flowing from him, so close to ejaculating right now. He humped her mouth. Pushed his hips up and slid that little thing in and out of her mouth.

She closed her nose off, didn't want her smell in there. She breathed through her mouth around his cock. He was going to come; she couldn't wait to taste him. Jay's semen today was gross. She didn't love Jay. She loved Max. His semen wasn't gross. It was the seed that would produce their children. There was nothing gross about it. She wanted his semen. Wanted it now. Her free hand slipped up his thigh, making him tremble, then between his legs and held his balls. His balls were so small compared to Jay's. They tucked up tight to his shaft. Hugged him as they readied to propel his come into her mouth. Jay produced a lot of come. That was so much that came out of him. She squeezed Max's balls, squished them tightly in her grip and as he came in her mouth she was ashamed to think what she was; horrified that she would be thinking how she liked Jay's big balls and she liked how much sperm he'd produced.

Her hair was gripped roughly; her eyes clenched as Max thrust himself into her. His come squirted into her mouth, hit her throat, splashing through her teeth and against her cheeks and she swallowed, determined to consume him because she loved him. She loved Max so much.

He subsided. Breathing heavily above her, she could feel the rising and falling of his belly against her ear. She kept his softening cock in her mouth. Kept it there because she didn't want to talk about the things they had just said and done.

"Ah, Maggie," he sighed. "Ah, Maggie."

She squeezed his cock with her mouth, felt its last wetness slide from him and onto her tongue. She swallowed that too. Her hand tugged at his scrotum.

“Maggie, please...Maggie? ...”

She let it fall from her mouth, sucked her own lips, pursed them and stared into his lap. Didn't rise to him.

“Maggie,” he said again, this time guiding her with his hands to sit next to him. She faced him but couldn't look at him.

“Hey,” he said and took her chin and pointed her face to him. Her eyes lowered from his.

“Maggie. I love you.” He hugged her and she leaned into it, her own hands going over his back too.

“Max. What was that?” she said, her eyes upturned to the brown-painted door at the top of the five steps they were sprawled across.

“I don't know,” he said.

“I don't want to talk about it...”

“Okay, Maggie. Can I talk? You don't have to listen...don't have to say anything. Don't have to look at me. I have to talk...I have to say something or I'm going to go crazy.”

She didn't answer him but she was listening. Her eyes traveling now to the beaten old padlock hooped through a hasp, holding the door closed.

“I saw your drawings, Maggie. They hurt me. Hurt me so bad. There's something in those drawings...maybe you don't see it...I know you...I see it. Okay? I know what I see. It hurt, but I'm all right. By the end of the day, I couldn't stop thinking about it.”

How would he feel? How would it feel to see art produced by someone you love, showing the feelings under the work, her hand betraying the lust she felt for this other man. She soothed his back.

“That's it, Maggie. It's okay. He's beautiful. You'd be crazy not to have dirty thoughts about him.”

She wanted to answer but her thought caught in her throat. She made a croak as her weak defense fizzled somewhere between her heart and her mouth.

He heard her protest and he hugged her tight. “Don't be ashamed, Maggie. I know...I know I'm your guy...and there haven't been many others...don't...”

She hugged him tighter, too. Disbelief at his understanding, amazed at his compassion and his strength. She wouldn't feel the same if the roles were reversed.

"Maggie...we're getting married in, what? ...ten months? If you..."

"Max," she whispered.

"I mean it..."

"No, Max. I'd never do that. Don't want it."

"Yes, you would. You do."

"Max. No, I wouldn't."

"You would eventually."

"What does that mean?" she said, eyes rolling up to the fire escape above their head.

"How many times do you think you'd draw him...before something happened...one weak moment..."

"I don't have weak moments, Max."

"Yes, you do."

"Max, I'm not going to fuck some other guy. What the fuck is wrong with you?"

"Hey, Maggie...easy, easy. Whatever you want to do. Don't feel bad about it. That's all I'm saying."

She shook her head and closed her eyes, frowning. Incredulous at what she was hearing. "What? What are you saying, Max?" She pushed back so she could look at him now. She stared into his eyes, almost angry. "You want to fuck some girl?"

"No, Maggie," he blurted. "That's not it at all."

His eyes were honest. She thought he was telling the truth. There was something there. A hurting, a desperation, lust. Why would he want this?

"I don't want to have sex with another guy, Max."

"I hear you," he said. "I do. I want you to."

She snorted. Disgust. Disbelief. "Don't be...you're so—"

"Maggie, for us. It's good for us. You're young. We're getting married young. We're going to be together a long time. Forever and ever. I've...I've had..."

"Don't you dare..." she said, anger swelling up in her again. Don't put a picture in my head of you with some cheerleader, some fucking sorority girl.

"Don't. I mean it."

"I don't have to say it. You know..."

“You...do you think I need more experience? Am I...do you like...are there things I’m doing wrong?” she said, feeling her eyebrows go up in the middle, a rising in her inflection. Was she not good in bed?

“No, Maggie.” He gripped her so hard she shook. “No, Maggie. You're amazing. I worry...”

“About what?”

“That I...you don’t...you'll always wonder...”

“No, I won’t.”

“Think about it, Maggie. You will. You’ll wonder. Not everyday, but sometimes...maybe I’m away on business...you’re home alone...with the tennis instructor...”

She laughed. “...Tennis instructor? How are you picturing us?”

He laughed too. It changed the mood instantly. His smile was back, that handsome dashing white smile of his. She sighed and caressed him, held herself to him again.

“I mean it, Maggie. I don’t want you...thinking things when we’re married.”

“Things?”

“I don’t want you to miss out. On having fun, you know?”

“Maggie...how many guys have you been with?”

“Max. Don’t.”

“Me, plus? One...two...three? ...”

“Don’t Max.”

“Four?”

She shook her head against him. “I don't want to.”

“I don't think it's many, Maggie. It’s not the number anyway. It’s more than that.”

“You were so mad today. When you saw me horsing around with Cole.”

“I know. Today was tough. I told you. When I saw those drawings. Wow.”

She hugged him. “I’m sorry.”

“Don’t be. They're honest. That's what your art is about. I got the message, okay? It was hard and then when I caught up with you and I see that...I know better but I couldn't help it.”

“How would you feel if I actually...did it?”

“I’d be okay.”

“I don’t think you would.”

“What if...what if I was...there. With you? ...”

She felt her fingers go cold. A tension wormed through her, right from her heart and spreading through her extremities like a wildfire of pins and needles. “No, Max...what?” she said, leaning back to look in his eyes.

“I could—”

“No way, Max. No way.” She sat up, wanted to say more but her brain wasn’t working. A million words describing what she was feeling all trying to rush out the door at the same time. All of them stuck now in the doorway, legs kicking, arms thrashing. “I...I—” She pulled her panties up her thighs. Pulled her shorts up too. “Max,” she said again, a breathy gasp heavy with disbelief. “No,” she said and she walked down the alley towards the mouth, out to the streetlights and the trembling leaves in the ash.

“Maggie, wait,” he called behind her. She heard him doing his pants up. She stopped at the mouth. Stood there watching the shadows of the tied umbrellas in the tables on the patio reach to her feet, pointing their blades at her.

Watch her?

She hugged herself. Her legs, cold now, pressed to each other. Her hair danced around her as another light gust picked up.

“Maggie,” Max said as he caught up and threw his arms around her. “Maggie, I’m sorry, I...is that? ...I’m sorry, don’t be mad.”

“I’m not mad, Max,” she said, her hands smoothing his forearms wrapped around her middle. “I’m not mad. It’s so dirty. So wrong.”

“It’s not. It is, but I think...it would be good.”

“Say it again. Say what you want.”

“I want...to watch you have sex with that guy.”

Her legs trembled. Literally could feel her knees knocking together. She twisted her mouth around, exhaled, the smell of her pussy and Max’s semen at the back of her throat now. Have sex with Jay? For real? What would that be like?

The doors of Altieri’s burst open on their right, a ribald group of Farmingham students spilling out onto the sidewalk. They laughed and yelled, one jumped up and swatted at a branch, bringing a cascade of leaves down behind them as they strutted down Main.

“I’m not ready to do that, Max.”

“You don’t think it’s so crazy, though?”

“What do you want to do?”

“Nothing, Max. Not really. I’ve thought about it ... You mean all the way?”

“All the way.”

“But, we’re—”

“Did you want something else? You want to...go down on him?”

“Max...don't be gross. Ew, I cant even picture that...it’s so wrong.”

“What then?”

“Touch him.” She said it so quiet she was worried she'd have to repeat it.

“You want to touch him?”

“Maybe. Can he touch me?”

She could feel him slump against her, like he’d pictured it and the reality hit him.

“See?” she said, “Picture that, Max. It's crazy.”

“Do you want him to touch you?” His voice a tense whisper in her ear.

“Maybe.”

“You think about that?”

“I don’t know, Max.”

“Tell me. This could be amazing for us.”

She turned quickly in his arms, her hands stroked his cheeks and she looked in his eyes. “Max, it could hurt us.”

“Why?” he said, seeming cross now. “Is he that hot? He’ll steal you away? Don’t you-”

“That’s exactly it, Max—listen to you, to your voice. Hear the jealousy? I didn't even do anything and there’s already problems.”

“No, Maggie, no...”

“Do you...this arouses you?”

He stared at her for a beat, his lips moving around as he built up the nerve. She knew the answer.

“Yeah,” he said.

“Wow,” she said. Shocked. Literally shocked.

“It’s not about me, is it? It’s about you...”

“No, Maggie. It can be both,” he said, his eyes looking down, ashamed now of his own feelings.

She watched him, his sweet face, his plump lips, pouting when he wasn't smiling.

THE WORDS that came from him while he fucked her emerged unbidden from a strange place within him. Words with leathery wings, released from an ancient box of magick deep within. It was like he'd seen them erupt from him, flapping wildly. Dirty, filthy words. Then he was glad they were out. As dark as they were, they were the truth. When he was rid of their badness within him he felt an overwhelming—at least for a moment—abounding joy. He was delirious with the revelation. Saying those dirty thing to her, hearing her dirty words back.

He's too big. He'd destroy my pussy...

He'd about erupted inside her when those dirty words of hers tickled his ear.

When she ran from him, when she hiked her clothing up her sweet thighs and stomped down the alley in her flip-flops he was hit with how bizarre his words were. And with his erection fading, his lust subsiding, he grew closer and closer to a functioning human being. The thing he asked was awful. They were going to be married. They were good students. Came from good families. Decent people. Decent friends. Didn't do drugs. They were not two people who should ever engage in something so lewd.

"Maggie, it could be for both of us."

"It could," she said, her voice rising, almost a question.

"It could," he confirmed. He was losing his own grip on the idea. Seeing it for how ugly it was.

"How?" she asked, and his heart jumped.

"How? How would we do it?"

"How would you watch me?"

"I don't know," he lied. "We could...uh, get a hotel room and I could hide in there."

"I want to...I mean, if I did it, it would be easiest in my room."

"I could pretend to be your roommate. I could pretend to be Jessie. Hide under her covers."

"That would be weird. Would he want to... You could hide in the closet."

“Jessie’s closet?”

“Across from my bed.”

“Yeah...I guess,” he said, rubbing his chin like he was contemplating how that would work.

“Max, it’s crazy. I don’t even really want to...”

“You think about it...”

“Yeah...” she said, trailing off, looking away, somewhere down the dark alley behind him.

“Whatever you want, Maggie. What do you say?”

“I don’t know, Max.”

“I could hide and you could just do whatever you want. Show me what you want.”

“Show you?”

“Go as far as you want or as little. Or don’t. What’s his name?”

“Jay.”

“Is he nice?”

“Yeah, he is.” Stab in his heart.

“Is he clean?”

“I think so.”

“How’d you find him? He goes to State...”

“How’d you know? Do you know who—”

“His T-shirt.”

“Oh, right. He’s...he goes to State. He wrestles...I guess you know. He’s on scholarship...but his father...his father is Professor Carmichael.”

“Yeah...”

“Holy shit, Maggie.” Professor Carmichael was the school’s most prestigious member of faculty. An awarded professor of Philosophy; a black man, an intense and driven intellectual coming from Barbados. He was the jewel in Farmingham’s crown. “Professor Carmichael? Why does his son go to State?”

“Jay’s serious about wrestling. He worked really hard. He’s Division 1.”

Calling him Jay now like they were all friends. “What can he do with that? He could go here...go to Farmingham.”

“His passion is elsewhere, Max. I don’t know.”

“Okay. Wow, that is weird.” He let his arms come away from her, let her go, took her hand instead and they walked back along Main Street headed to the campus.

“Is that okay? Or is that weird?”

“I had Carmichael. You did, too.”

“I know. I’ve talked to him one-on-one a lot of times. He knows my name. There’s more to it than just having sex with him.”

“Yeah. It’s fine, I guess. Yeah, it doesn’t mean anything.”

“It doesn’t?”

“No, just a little weird.”

“That’s why Jay’s on campus. He comes to visit his dad. He grew up here in Farmingham. He stays at State but his home is here.”

“Yeah? How does he model for you?”

“How did I find him? His dad loves the Arts, you know...”

“Yeah...”

“Jay does too. He feels like he’s contributing. He has a passion for art despite being—”

“A jock?”

“Yeah. And I think he likes to show his body.”

“He probably does...”

“He’s in good shape,” she said and it stabbed him again.

“Your drawings are really beautiful, Maggie,” he said and he squeezed her hand then swung them together between them.

“Thank you.”

“I really do see something in them. Something that’s not in the others. I meant that.”

“I guess...I guess it’s there.”

“Does he excite you?”

She looked away, but he could see the corner of her smile before her face was hidden by her hair.

“Well, I mean...yeah. Look at him.”

“Do you...”

“What?”

“Nothing.”

“Do I what?”

“Like his...penis?”

“Max...I don’t want to talk about that.”

She didn't answer him, kept her eyes ahead on the sidewalk as they passed by the empty storefronts lit with solitary light that shone on their front window merchandise.

"Do you like how it's big?"

"Max..." she rolled her eyes, huffed, her hand feeling a little sweaty in his grip. "Yeah. I like it."

"What do you think when you draw it?"

"Max..."

"It's not like when you draw other parts...what do you think?"

"I don't know," she giggled, looking down, her smile coming back. "It has an interesting shape. It's really big, it has weight to it—makes it behave differently than other mens'."

"Differently than mine?"

"I don't draw yours."

"No, but you're familiar with it."

"Yeah..." she laughed, "I'm pretty familiar. What? ... His is different than yours."

"Better."

"Bigger. I don't know if it's better..."

They were stuck on that, both of them went quiet and walked along the quiet street. She didn't know if it was better, but he'd told her she could find out. She didn't want to talk about Jay's penis anymore and he didn't want to hear her talk about it anymore either.

It had, however, put some steel back between his legs. Listening to her talk about its shape, how it hung. For whatever awful reason, listening to his Maggie talk about it made him hard. It was crazy. He wanted her to sleep with another guy. Sleep with a guy with a big cock and muscles. He wanted to watch that. It made no sense. What would make sense was to stop her drawing relationship with Jay. Give her a warning. Tell her this was awful. Tell her to never do this again. Maybe even break off the engagement.

Instead they went back to his dorm room, hung his Don't Disturb sign on the knob for the benefit of roommate Steve and he unzipped his pants and brought out his aching cock. Showed his Maggie what all this talk had done to him. They made out and he rubbed it on her bare belly and she moaned and she touched him. They made love three more times and didn't mention Jay once. But when she left at midnight, she had a strange sort of smile and he wondered what would happen. He wanted to watch her. He wanted it so bad. He was sure she was intrigued. They had two days to decide before Jay came back to her room again and got undressed and showed Maggie all his wonderful gifts.

CHAPTER EIGHT

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER, 20TH

HE'D INVITED his Maggie to have intercourse with a guy he knew nothing about. Launching her into this life-changing event without properly thinking it through. Jay was unknown to him. He could be anything. He could be good; could be bad. What if he was bad? What if he invited badness into their life?

He needed to do some digging.

After she'd gone back to her dorm room he lay awake. Sleep was impossible. Part of him was ripped to shreds that he'd admitted those things to her. Then more spiritual annihilation as he stared at the ceiling and tried to fathom how he'd brought himself to tell her he wanted it. Bad enough to think it. He had presented it to her. Sweet innocent Maggie—now though discovered to be not so sweet. Or at least not so innocent.

He at once regretted it and then not regretted it. Abhorred it and yet grew excited about it. She didn't say no. She also didn't say yes either. That meant that she might get naked with Jay and hold his cock. He wanted that. That was so exciting.

Then, though he'd fucked his sweet girl four times to completion, his cock rose up the bed sheet. Hard again. Steve came home, stumbling in, breathing heavy and stinking of beer. Bumbled to his bed and toppled face first onto it.

Max got up. He had a mission. He wanted to know more about the young gentleman his precious girl might jerk off, maybe suck, maybe even fuck. Like a curious father he wanted to know as much as he could about the boy who was dating his daughter.

Steve snored loudly and Max took up his laptop, covered it over his erection and padded out to the empty hall of Samuelson, down to the rec.

It was empty except for a sleeping blonde-haired kid sprawled across one of the couches, his elbows and knees jumbled in pointed angles. Max took a spot in the centre of the couch facing the TV. The spot he'd seen his Maggie horsing around with Cole. Another arousing blade plunged through his confused heart today.

Phosphorus blobs blurred his vision as he growled into his hands, fiercely rubbing his face and his eyes. Clamshell lid flipped, he fired up the laptop and blew up a browser. Tap-tap. Right there on the NCAA wrestling page. Front and center. A thickly built Jay Carmichael in a State unitard. Victorious. Referee holding his muscular forearm, creamy milk chocolate skin, Afro was black when this picture was taken. He wore a head guard with a chinstrap. His rugged cheekbones and handsome brow rendered him gorgeous despite it. Skin shimmering with sweat, his veins bulged like thick cables up his arms. Holy shit. Max explored his student profile.

Jay Carmichael was not a dumb jock. He'd garnered the NCAA scholarship, plus two academic scholarships. He was a National Merit Scholar and a member of the Cum Laude Society.

It lowered Max's brow with a puzzled frown. Not what he expected to find. A little daunting, really. Smart as Max. Built and hung. Handsome, capable. He growled. Still wanted it. In fact the twist in his heart right now made his breath come sluggish and desperate. Maggie deserved an afternoon with this guy.

He checked the Instagram and Twitter of übermensch Jay Carmichael. No excessive drinking and partying, no worrisome photos. No drunken peace signs with hazy-eyed coeds.

One questionable picture was posted. A meet in Massachusetts—seemed like an important rivalry—posted a picture of him in a singlet. The angle of the stadium lights lit up his bulge, threw a shadow on his leg. It showed he was really packing. But he hadn't posted it, only retweeted it. That photo had 440 likes. Comments like Yum, Yes please, and various approving emojis.

Other than that there was nothing to cast aspersions on Jay. He seemed all right. Lots of positivity quotes and interesting articles on philosophy in his feed. Some references to his dad. His profile stated: This life is short, go on and get it. Maybe Jay was a good guy.

Ah, unless of course you considered the glaring incongruous behaviour—showing his cock to a young woman he knew was engaged to another man. Considered those perverted things he did with her. Asking her to jerk him off. Innocent Maggie. Encouraging her to watch him. Asking her to hold his balls while he came. Maybe Jay could pretend to be nice online but there had to be more. There was something dark in him.

IN THE MORNING he had Public Economics 440, then Monetary Policy. After lunch, a peanut butter sandwich he ate from a plastic baggie in the hall at Millbrook, he had European Economic Integration, and then Gov 335. Concentrating during those classes had proven difficult. He took notes, typed away on his laptop. Wasn't even sure what had been written. Not sure he'd even comprehended what the lecture was about. He was vaguely aware, sure, some surface understanding. But the bulk of his cranial horsepower was wrenching torque on the libidinous discoveries over the last twenty-four hours.

Wished he could take it back. Wished he hadn't revealed to Maggie how those things had turned him on. Wished though, that he hadn't seen Maggie touch that Jay. Wished she hadn't ever met Jay. Somehow he'd been so consumed by his lustful thinking the actual act of Maggie practically cheating on him disappeared in the shadows. Her act had shone a light on something else. Something that should have stayed hidden. But here it was now out in the open and his big mouth had whispered it right into the ear of the girl he loved while he fucked her from behind in an alley. Those feelings conjured up by what he witnessed hadn't even had time to get sorted and he was acting on them. Wanting what they'd produced to be explored further. Wanted that anxious wild knot in his heart, in his belly, in his cock and balls—wanted it back. Wanted to experience it again. Wanted to know if that odd pleasure he got from the feeling could be made brighter, or slipperier, or whatever way he might describe it. Like something slick and wriggling, exciting, but deadly poisonous. Something his brain said to leave alone but something dark in him said, Tickle it a bit more—see what happens...

Maggie seemed to waver. She wasn't as keen as he presumed she would be. Didn't seem to be feigning, either. He didn't think she was lying.

Hidden in her room, he'd watched her face go red, from bashfulness and lust. Saw her eyes burn traces all over Jay's muscles and manhood. She'd been convinced to hold his balls while he jerked off. His Maggie. His smart Maggie falling for something so dumb. My cock won't go down, guess I'll have to jerk off while you watch. This is cool, right? And she agreed. Smart Maggie. She wasn't being tricked. She wanted it. She was curious. And yet when he gave her a green light—permitting something that should be forbidden—she did not jump on it. She was considerate. She wasn't sure that's what she wanted. Crazy. Yesterday he was mad at her for drawing him, looking at him, touching him. Now today he might be mad at her for not agreeing to fuck him. This was all about Max. All about Max's feelings and desires. He tried to picture if Maggie asked to watch him fuck another girl. He guessed he would indeed feel weird. Deep down though he would be interested, but it would be weird to hear from someone he loved that they wanted that. Fuck. Did she think there was something wrong with him?

There wasn't though. He loved her. It made sense that he wanted her happy. It also made sense that he would be aroused by seeing her with another man sexually because he would get to see her sexy and happy. There was jealousy, but that was part of the thrill. Fuck, maybe that was weird. He knew Cole had threesomes. Maybe four times now at Farmingham. Cole and two girls. That was not the same thing. Those girls were just looking for fun. Cole didn't love them. Wasn't in relationships with them. Just three people looking to get off. But maybe that's what this was. Maybe they were just getting off. He was just getting off with the person he loved and some other guy. That was it. He just wanted Maggie to get off. He'd been inspired by what he'd seen of her response to Jay. That had inspired this feeling. He just wanted this to be fun. He'd get off. Get off in the closet by himself. But he would get off.

He headed across the Oren Glen, booking it to his dorm room. He was going to have a shower, try not to masturbate, then he'd run to his Maggie and they'd make love. Wherever. In an alley again if he had to. He'd convince her this was okay. Not weird. It was safe and it was fun. She was almost there, she just needed a gentle and caring nudge.

His phone rang and he fished it out of his pocket while he hustled the gravel path. The screen was lit up with his Maggie's face. She was supposed to be in class until five o'clock.

"Hello?"

Maggie, tinny on the other end, said, "Max. Can you come here? ...it's important."

"Where are you?"

"In my room."

"In your room, Maggie? I thought..." he looked at his watch, tried to remember what day it was. "Don't you have class?"

"I skipped it. Can you come here? Please...it's important."

"Is everything okay?"

"I think so. Yeah, it is. I want to talk to you."

"You sure you're okay?" he said, coming to the center of the circle, a concrete hoop with a fountain sprouting up from a bounteous garden. He turned off the left intersection headed for Keegan instead of home. His shower would have to wait.

"I'm fine, Max. I've been thinking..."

MAGGIE ANSWERED her dorm room door conspiratorially. Not saying a word, letting him pass while she peered around him, then looking down the hall, closing it behind her and locking it.

"What is it, Maggie? What's going on?"

"Sit," she said, guiding him to the bed. He sat on the edge, in the middle, and she crossed to sit up at the pillows where she sat when she would draw. "Nothing's going on."

"What's so urgent? Please, you're killing me."

"I want an honest opinion."

"On what?"

"Max. If I do this thing tomorrow..."

His heart somersaulted and he sat straighter. "Yeah?"

"I'm not going to. But if I did..." she bit her lip painfully, making herself wince, the corners of her mouth coming up into a smile.

"What?" he laughed.

"Honest?"

"What the fuck is it, Maggie?" he laughed again.

"My...pubic hair."

He laughed hard enough to shake the bed, fell on his side.

"Max, don't laugh," she said, slapping his arm. She was also laughing.

He said, "What about it?"

"You know? ..."

"What?"

"...Is it sexy?"

"Oh Maggie. It doesn't matter. You're sexy. You're natural. I like it—you know I like it."

Her head rolled around on her neck a little, looking up around her room. "Will...will Jay like it?"

The thought of Jay having an opinion on her grooming hurt him. Reminded him Jay would see her...see between her legs. Touch it maybe. He got mad and hurt and aroused all at the same time. Just like that. Now he was horny.

"You want Jay to like what's between your legs?"

"Of course, Max," she said, holding his forearm. "That's okay. Of course I don't want to gross him out."

"It's hot."

"Is it?"

"No, I mean asking me what you're asking is hot."

She laughed, "Does that turn you on?"

He nodded. Aroused but embarrassed again. "Do you think it's weird? ...I'm weird?"

"No, I kind of think this is hot now, too."

He breathed heavily a few breaths, watching her, their eyes staring into one another, smiles starting to creep up their cheeks. His cock was filling out in his briefs.

"You're so fucking sexy, Maggie."

"Should I shave?"

"Shave between your legs?"

"I think I should," she screwed her face up, bit her lower lip.

His eyes worked around while he thought. No idea what Jay would like or not like. Preponderant choice would be that she should shave. He might like her when she was hairy. He wouldn't not like that she was shaved. Everybody shaved. It was the most assured choice.

"He won't not like that you're shaved."

"Right?"

"Aw, you're going to shave?"

"You'll miss it?"

“You grow it back for me?”

“I will, Maxy,” she said, and she leaned over her crossed legs and she kissed his cheek. He turned and took her lips.

“You’ll think about it, then?”

“No promises, Max. This is crazy. ”

“It is.”

“It’s kind of stupid,” she said, kissing his neck.

“I know. It’s so hot to me.”

“To me, too.”

“Did you think about Jay last night?”

Her eyes went wide, looking away, inhaling. She nodded.

“Did you touch yourself?”

Now she was mad. “Max. No,” she said, frowning.

She shook her head, saying no, and changing the subject at the same time. “Max?”

“Yeah?”

“Would you do it for me?”

“Do what? Masturbate?” he said.

She whispered, “Shave me.”

His smile dropped. This was real now. His Maggie was being kinky. Getting into this. Aroused by the prospect, yet engaging him. His heart swelled in his chest.

“Really? That’s kinky.”

“I want to be kinky,” she laughed.

“You do?”

“I want you to be involved. I want you to prepare me.”

His eyes widened. “Fuck, Maggie. Oh, my God, that’s so hot.”

“Prepare me for my lover,” she said, and put an arm around his neck, forehead coming to touch his.

It made him shake. It aroused him so much. Maggie was great in bed. She was a creative person. Imaginative. Yet her strict Chinese and Dutch parents seemed to close her sexuality in a box. Kept her from having boyfriends, kept her from having sexual experiences. The thought that she had kinks and fantasies was suddenly overwhelming. More important than anything he was doing at school, more important than their impending wedding. If Maggie wanted to be freaky that was all he wanted to deal with right now.

"Tell me that again," he said, making his tone lustful and serious.

"I'm going to have sex with Jay and I need you to groom me. Make me pleasing to him."

"You're going to fuck him?" he said, his voice trembling. She didn't answer him, watched him, point-blank, faces almost touching, eyes blinking, lips smiling.

"Should I shave my armpits too?"

"Probably," he said.

"No, tell me..."

"Jay will want your armpits to be shaved. I'll shave them."

"Shave them for him."

His stomach tightened at what she wanted to hear.

"I'll shave your pussy, Maggie. Shave it for Jay. I want him to be happy with your pussy."

"You think he'll like it?"

"You have a beautiful pussy, Maggie. I mean it. It's perfect."

"Am I...tight?"

"You are tight, Maggie. He's going to love your pussy."

"Feel me, Max."

"What?"

"Feel me," she said, and she took his hand and led it to her waistband. She was wearing cotton drawstring pants and his hand slipped over her warm tummy, fingers turned down. His hand went into her pants, found her without panties. His fingers wove through her wild pubic mane, feeling her warmth.

"Feel me..."

Her pussy was soaking wet with her sticky dew.

"Oh Maggie," he said. His fingers slipped through her folds and she whined, her fingers scratching at his neck.

"You are so wet, Maggie."

"Groom me, Max," she sighed.

"I want to fuck you."

"No. You have to groom me for my lover."

"Your lover?"

"Jay is my lover, isn't he? That's what you want?"

“Shit, Maggie, you are bad.”

“I think I want to be bad.”

“You'll do it?”

Again she didn't answer him. She lay back against her pillows and pulled him to her, his lips going over hers, his hand stroking her wet pussy, two fingers stroking and gently plunging but not penetrating.

She whispered, “Max, I bought a shaver...”

“You did?”

“Shave me for him...”

“Mm,” he groaned, a painful surge in his belly, his cock ached in his pants. He wanted to fuck her right now. Forget about shaving, he had a monstrous urge to wrench her pants down and shove himself inside her.

“Where?” he asked, enjoying the tickle of this dark game.

“In my drawer.”

“Take your pants off for me.”

He felt dizzy as he rose, blood pumping like a piston from his heart, going everywhere but his brain. He sat on the edge of the bed and opened her drawer. Her pink stockings were balled up in there, the ones she had bound Jay with. “Ungh,” he groaned again at the sight of them. Maggie struggled behind him, kicking out of her pants.

He found the shaver in her drawer, brand new, stinking of plastic and oil. She'd bought it, opened it, put batteries in it, and left it here at the ready. A kinky game for her Max. He huffed with laughter.

“What?” she laughed behind him.

“Nothing. I love you.”

“I love you too,” she said.

“Your top, Maggie. Take your top off. I want you naked.”

“There's a sheet, a plastic sheet, rolled up in my closet. Get it.”

He left the shaver next to her and went to the closet, opened it. Saw it was like a mirror of Jessie's where he hid. This one, his Maggie's, also filled with props and things he would call junk. But Maggie's was ordered. Chaotic items arranged in a tidy system. Maggie sat on the bed, her hair tumbling around her naked body as she peeled the shirt off herself. Her little breasts jumped and jiggled as she threw it aside. She sat there watching him with a dirty smile. Her hand absently stroked her thick thatch of hair between her legs.

The plastic stood in the corner, three feet tall, loosely rolled. He brought it to the bed.

“We’ll save that for the razor,” she said, took it from him and leaned it in the space between the bed and the night table.

“Take your shirt off too,” she said.

He did, pulled it over his head and she loosened his belt but kept his pants done up. He jumped when she ran her palm up his pants and over his cock.

“Shave me first, then you can fuck me,” she said, looking up at him with sexy lustful eyes he hadn't seen from her before.

“Lift your arms up, Maggie,” he said, kneeling over her and taking up the shaver. He fiddled with the buttons, finding how it worked. It was dark gray, a cylinder, the gyrating teeth sliding in silver blade at the one end. He found a speed that worked, the faster the better, he figured.

Maggie was below him, smiling and watching. Her amber eyes blinking, warm expression, and underneath it that new thing. That libertine thing.

Her arms were up over her head, bent at the elbow, her thin forearms tucked under her thick head of natural auburn hair. Her face was exquisite. Her Asian features, her narrow eyes and thin brows, but pupils wide and expressive. Her pouted mouth and her perfectly formed round nose. He ached for her. Absolutely in love with her.

“You're so beautiful, Maggie.”

“Shave me, Max, hurry...”

She had a thin and sexy thatch of hair in her underarm. Her arms, her ribs, her breasts were perfectly youthful and feminine, the juxtaposition of her hair there an exciting shock. Sexy though, the surprise of it part of the thrill. He got the shaver humming, lowered it to her slowly, built up her anticipation, her eyes turned to watch, her mouth twisted up in a funny way, chin tucked into her shoulder. She got herself giggling.

“Don’t move around, Maggie,” he said.

“I’m no—”

The shaver zipped quickly up her pit, making her laugh and jump.

“Oh Max, it tickles.”

He did it again, did it firmly so it wouldn't tickle her and she watched again, her lips smiling wide. Then she gave him the other pit, this time, no smile, her eyes watching his. She’d pulled her bottom lip into her mouth, and the look was lusty again. Her pink nipples had condensed to hard buds, clenching the skin tight around them, her skin getting goose bumps. He breathed her in. A musk coming from her. The smell of her desire. Between her legs, under her arms, her wet lust exhaled. He took her nipple in his mouth, his tongue slipping all over its hard shape. He had her sighing. Kissed his way to her underarm then. Kissed the ticklish hair there that played at his nose. Said goodbye to it. Zipped up that underarm again, her eyes watching his hand and now she was stubbly. He kissed those spiky spots.

“Thank you,” she whispered.

“We wouldn't want Jay to be disappointed would we?”

She sighed, her eyes closed at the thought, her chest rising as she inhaled. “Oh, Max, shave me. Shave my pussy now.”

“Get on your hands and knees, Maggie.”

“Why?”

“Do it.”

She smiled again, curious and aroused. Rolled to her tummy, and he watched her bare cheeks jiggle as she brought her knees up then and onto her elbows, her ass up in the air.

“What are you doing?” she said into her pillow.

“Making you into a beautiful gift for Jay.”

“You're giving me to him?”

“He can do whatever he wants.”

“I hope he likes what he sees.”

“I'm going to make you so clean for him, Maggie.”

“Do you think h— Oh!”

He touched her anus with his middle finger.

Her hips dove away from him.

“Come back, Maggie.”

“What are you doing?”

“You need to be shaved.”

“Back there?”

“You never look back there?”

“No...”

“Jay wants your asshole to be shaved.”

Her hand swept up and she covered herself. “Is it hairy?”

“It's sexy, Maggie.”

He moved her hand gently, pulled it away. He stroked her again, his middle finger running up that spot between her pussy and her anus. He found her slickness there, brought it up and slipped the tip of his finger into her anus.

“Oh,” she moaned, “oh, Max...”

He tucked it in and out gently, til he got her muscles relaxed, feeling loose and prepared to be touched back there.

“Max, have you had anal sex before?”

“Maggie...”

“We haven’t...”

They hadn’t. He’d like to, but it never seemed the right time. She wasn’t that bashful about herself back there...he did use his mouth a few times when he went down on her, swiping his tongue low enough to get that copper off her. She squirmed but she didn’t fight it.

“Did you want to? ...with Jay?”

“No...Max, no...”

“With me?”

“Yes, with you. Maybe Jay sometime, you first though.” Sometime? Did she think this was more than one time?

“Sometime?”

“Not tomorrow. Do you think he’ll hurt me?”

“How?”

“With his...you know...”

“Maybe. I don’t know.” He was feeling a little sullen now.

“What’s wrong?”

“You’re stalling,” he said and he set the shaver to buzzing again.

“Okay,” she gasped.

He ran the teeth up one side careful of her sensitive skin, coming back down the other side. He could see the twitching it put in her. Her sphincter worked in and out. He smiled imagining how much it must tickle. Her hands came up and cuddled her own ass, her little fingers digging into her flesh and pulling herself apart for him. He shaved her clean, even accidentally letting his knuckle graze her sopping folds a few times. He got himself back in the mood.

“Over, Maggie,” he said.

She fell to her hip, her eyes on his again, rolled to her back and let her legs fall open. He looked at her familiar little sex. Her flesh was shining with her excitement, her wrinkled folds pink and lively and looking for action. They were ruffled and parted, eager for something to plunge past them. He wanted to throw the shavers aside and hike his pants down and get this over with, the tension was going to make him explode.

“Shave me, Max. Shave me for Jay.”

His brows went high and his lips vibrated with an ecstatic exhale. She got him again. Put a sexy slim dagger through him, through his heart.

“I’m going to miss my Shaggy Maggie,” he said.

“Shave me, Max. Jay wants me clean...”

Her eyes were narrow and lusty again. Her words were sultry, shaped by her pouted lips to provoke him.

He fingered her lightly, making her legs move in and out and her eyes close. Remorse went through him, a feeling like he didn’t want her shaved. Shaved Maggie was someone else’s Maggie, and despite the thrill it was giving him he didn’t want her to be someone else’s Maggie.

“Do it, Max,” she sighed.

He touched those warm wet lips again, up and down, her hand coming down and rubbing her thighs while he did.

Got the courage then, clicked the shears back to their vibrating and he set the teeth on her bare belly just above her patch and he worked his way down. Revealed her bare sex, took away all of it, and exposed the part that most made her a woman. Swipe after swipe, taking away those Maggie curls and revealing her pale skin, her cheery red mound, her brown, and her pink sex. He left patchy stubble but he had her bare. He had her exposed.

She let her legs fall wide for him, her eyes on his, watching him watch her bare sex in her sunny bedroom in the middle of a school day. Her hand slipped between her thighs now, her fingers tucking through her lips and making sticky wet sounds.

He undid his button on his pants and she said, “No, not until I’m bald, Max. You have to use a razor first...”

“Maggie, I’m going to explode.”

“Good.”

“Seriously, I—”

There was a thump at the door, someone turning the handle and pushing their weight against it and finding it locked.

“Shit!” Maggie laughed, her knees coming together, hiding herself. Max dove next to her, the shaver switched on and falling somewhere between them.

Keys jangled, metal key slid into metal lock on the other side.

Maggie called out “Jessie!” but she was laughing. Max grabbed the duvet and whisked it over them as he heard the door open.

Jessie’s voice then, rising as a question, said, “Maggie?”

Maggie shook with silent laughter next to him. The shaver still hummed, definitely sounding like a vibrator. Their bare feet stuck out below the duvet.

Jessie was laughing now too. He heard her close the door behind her. “What the fuck, guys?” she laughed.

Maggie was laughing so hard she couldn't breathe. Max struggled to find the shaver and silence it.

“Hi, Jessie,” Max said from under the cover. He found the shaver and shut it off. He heard Jessie still laughing, throwing her book bag onto her bed.

“Put the handkerchief on the door, Maggie,” she said. “I thought you were out.”

“It’s missing,” Maggie said.

That was on him. He’d ejaculated into their handkerchief. Thrown it out somewhere in a trashcan in the quad over by Samuelson.

Jessie said, “You guys hold that position, I’ll just be a second and I’ll get out of here...I just need my Neo-Classicism book...”

She came under the covers to get face to face with him. Her cheeks were flushed and she whispered, “Take me to the showers...”

“Where?” he whispered.

“Fourth floor. Co-eds.”

“Okay,” he whispered, getting suddenly even harder now.

Maggie said through the duvet, “Jessie? ...can you give us two minutes? You can stay...we’re going to get out of here.”

“You don’t have to.”

They heard her moving around, her feet on the floor, a drawer opening, papers being flipped. His hand came up her thigh and she giggled.

“Don’t,” she whispered. He touched the underside of his fingers along her wet pussy and he got her to gasp. “Ha, oh,” she sighed.

“I’m leaving, I’m leaving,” Jessie said.

He kissed Maggie's shoulder and they listened, waiting to hear her go.

Maggie said, "You can come back, just let us get dressed, we're getting out of here..."

"Okay," they heard her laugh and then she was out the door, the metal on metal sound of it closing behind her.

"Oh my God," Maggie said, covering her face with both her hands. "That's too funny...I thought she had class...what time is it?"

"It's gotta be after five now..."

"Oh," she laughed. "Take me to the shower and shave me?"

"Fucking yes," he said.

CHAPTER NINE

THEY GOT THEMSELVES COMPLETELY NAKED—she already was—but she had Max strip down to nothing. His cock stuck straight up between his legs looking like it might burst. She laughed when she saw it. They got robes on, big fluffy things, both hers, grabbed toiletries, put slippers on, an extra pair of hers squeezed onto Max's feet. Hand in hand, they calmly strolled the hall, her toothbrush stuck in her cheek and her hair pulled back in a ponytail.

Walked down to the end of the hall, past the metal doors, and up four half-flights of stairs. The windows in the stairwell, looked south over the parking lot and Woolworth Hall and the Athletic Field, the fiery fall wooded hills of Vermont beyond. It was a nice day out there. The weather like a sign of promise. Matching this new direction in her relationship with Max. Something of promise. She wasn't going to have sex with Jay. But it sure was fun to pretend. It got her so wet to imagine. And to know Max would be okay? ...A little weird that he was aroused by it. Kinky though, and she was starting to think she might like kinky.

They opened the blue metal doors of the fourth floor and went through that hall. Busy at this time of day. More than a few people headed to the showers as well to get ready to go out tonight and have some fun. There were two bathrooms on the fourth, both co-ed. It could depend on the year whether it was or not. The floor could be co-ed but the votes cast could make the two bathrooms segregated. Somebody said that hadn't been the case for about ten years now.

She'd never been in a co-ed bathroom before, but Jessie said she was in one last year over in West Jacob. Said it was no big deal. They had private stalls and guys mostly covered up, but that you were bound to see a dick or two. No big deal, she shrugged.

They still held hands as they passed through the door into the washroom. There was a line of five people in robes, waiting, and she started to sweat that this wasn't going to work out. She made faces at him, like, Oh boy, and, We're going to get caught, and he made them back. She squeezed his hand, mouthed, I'm so itchy! and made her knees knock together.

She was itchy. The stubble needed to be removed or she was going to go crazy. Her crotch felt like sandpaper right now and her underarms, too. Her ass as well which was kind of embarrassing. She liked not shaving, but somehow, getting her hair noticed back there was discomposing.

The walls, floor to ceiling, were white square tile, white porcelain sinks with stainless fixtures, and reflective metal as mirrors. Just like her floor, only this one had boys in it. They were covered up, like Jessie said, but it felt uncomfortable to be in here. If she didn't have Max here, if she were alone—she would back out for sure.

She saw a dick. As the line dispersed, got them closer to the shower stalls, they could see down the porcelain alley—two sides with private stalls facing each other. A stocky guy with black hair took his robe off in the stall closest to them before he slung his curtain across. He was hairy, and she saw his penis swing between his legs for a second before the curtain closed.

It was exciting to be here. Thrilling. They were going to do something crazy together. Sex in the alley was hot and wild. They'd done things like that before. But what was on today's docket was titillating to say the least. She turned to Max, went to her toes to whisper him a secret and he tilted his head to hear it. She bit his earlobe and slipped her hand under the flap of the robe she'd loaned him. Grabbed his cock. Excited out of her mind to find it hard as a rock still. She stroked it a little, pulled it out and let it poke between the terry flaps where anyone could see it. She resumed waiting at his side. He laughed and she saw him in her periphery pull the robe closed over it.

Fuck, that thing Jay had couldn't be hidden. Not when it was hard. He was so big.

Now they were at the front of the line. She looked back. Got a smile and a nod from a familiar face. They were all familiar faces. From the building, from class, but she didn't know any names up here, she didn't think. Four people behind them. Eight shower stalls. If no one else came in line there shouldn't be anyone standing here too long to notice that she and Max were in the same stall and they were in there for a gosh-awful long time. She smiled and squeezed his hand again, sizzling with excitement.

A tight little blonde came out of a stall on the left, long tanned legs and a pretty face and her gut clenched. Didn't like the idea of Max in a coed bathroom, that was for sure. The girl tied her robe up and nodded a smile to Maggie as she passed.

It was her turn. "See you," she said to Max and she went ahead, walked the wet alley and stepped into the empty stall. She ran the hot water, got naked, hung her robe up on the hook and looked again at the hatchet job that had been done on her privates.

Max had shaved her well but the shaver was bought at the Student Store and they weren't the best. There was patchy stubble, some longer, some short, some spots shaved bare. She needed a razor. Her fingers touched herself in the center. She was wet. So turned on right now. She needed him so bad. Got under the spray, her eyes down low watching the space below the curtain and the tiled lip of the stall. Saw a set of feet in flip flops walk past, headed towards the exit and got a tingle. Max would come now.

Put her head back under the spray and felt the hot water rush over her, mat her hair down and over her shoulders. She ran her hands up her body to scoop it behind her and felt how erect her nipples were.

The curtain was whisked and Max was there. She bubbled over. "Max!" she hissed, laughing.

He kicked the slippers off, struggled because they were hers and they were tight. Opened his robe and his iron cock wagged as he did. She grabbed it and pumped it and he almost fell. Like his legs lost their function.

"Oh fuck, Maggie," he whispered. "Oh my God, I'm so ready."

He pushed her back against the tiled wall under the nozzle and spray hit him in the top of his head, pushed his hair down around his ears and she kissed his chest, got lower, put his cock in her mouth and sucked him. He fell to the wall, his hands holding him up. She ran her hands over his thighs and she felt the tremble in him.

She popped back up and said, "You have to shave me first," and gave him two firm taps on his cheek.

He moaned painfully, "Mm, Maggie..."

"That's what we're here for, Max, I'm so-o itchy...I mean it."

He had the shave can already, spraying foam into his hand. She raised her arms and his eyes narrowed and he fell against her, his mouth locking on her nipple and sucking her. He spread the foam onto both armpits and took the razor and went up and up again, scoring her flesh. His hands were shaky.

“You better not cut me...”

“I won’t,” he said.

Feet went by out past the curtain and she held him to stop him for a second. They waited, saw girl-feet in sandals cross and go to the stall past them. He rinsed her pits and now she was bald under there. He kissed her skin and it felt so odd and so cold.

“My pussy, Max, hurry,” she whispered. Now she was running out of time. Now she wanted him. Every movement he made had his wet hard tip grazing her thigh and her belly and she just wanted it inside her right now.

She thrust her back to the wall again, opened her legs in a rather garish manner, but he needed access, and she pulled the skin of her mound so it was exposed to his hand spreading lather. “That’s it,” she sighed, “shave me for my lover.”

He doubled over, wincing.

“You like that? You like that, Max? You’re shaving me for another man...”

“Maggie, you’re so...so bad...”

“Does that turn you on, Max?” she said as he prepared the razor again.

“Yeah.” He nodded eagerly, looked in her eyes. “Yeah, it does, Maggie.”

“Okay,” she said, wondering what to make of that.

When the warm blade touched her, her head fell back to the tile. It felt so incredible. He scratched that blade up and down her, making her smooth like she was when she was a kid, before sex was even a thing. Back in the time when she did math two hours a night, practiced the cello seven night a week, read two Classics a month. All under the narrowed and watchful eye of Mrs. Carol Becker, Tiger Mom. There was lots of fun that bald little pussy missed out on. Lots of nights spent working instead of partying. Lots of boys that came calling but were turned away. It was for the best. Her education was worth it. Her Max was worth it. But if Max wanted to introduce her to some of the things she’d missed—maybe she wanted to try. If the man who loved her wanted to hold her hand and show her some of the things she missed, well that might be the most incredible thing she could ever imagine. It was selfless and selfish and that made it kind of perfect. It was a gift to her but it was also an excitement for him too. She didn't think she would have sex with Jay, but, wow, what if she did?

She could play around a little. She could have fun. But sex? His penis in her vagina? That was crazy. She was going to get married. And even if the man she loved wanted it and was watching that just seemed like it might be a little too wild—even for this kinky new Maggie Becker.

“You're trembling.”

She looked down, saw her Max with the razor, stubble studded foam dripping from it. Her hands were clenching open and closed, her legs were trembling.

“Finish me. Hurry.”

“Show me your ass,” he said.

She turned and faced the wall and thrust her ass to him, bent at her waist and couldn't believe this pose she was in. Her boyfriend swathing a razor between her open cheeks. Her hands formed wet slippery claws on the tile and she watched her fingertips go white as she clutched the wall. Max poked her, stroked her, and she felt like she might go out of her mind.

“Max, please, hurry,” she said.

“I'm done, I'm done,” he said and his mouth was at her ear, his chest pressed to her, his cock poking the small of her back.

He was stroking himself behind her, she could feel his hand pumping. “What are you doing?” she whispered but he didn't answer her and kept her pressed to the wall.

“Shh-sh,” he said. “Open your legs wider.”

She did, felt then his hardness, so slippery, sliding between her cheeks.

“Max...”

“It's okay, Maggie...”

“What are you? ...”

His tip poked at her anus.

“Ah,” she gasped, wanting to say no and wanting to feel it right now.

He slipped into her. It was painful. A familiar sort of feel, one she was used to but not like this. Not so sexual. “Oh Max,” she sighed, “oh, it's good,” she encouraged him. He sunk deeper, she felt him spread her in a way she'd never been spread before. She shut her eyes, her fingers digging into the tile again.

He whispered in her ear. "I want to be your first before you sneak around and give this to another man..."

"You are my first Max..."

"Do I feel good?"

"You feel so good, Max," she sighed, looking down now, watching her own belly roll with her heaving breath.

He touched her pussy and she almost fell. His hand swept down and his fingers parted her folds. She was completely smooth down there. Wet from her insides, wet from water and soap, and his hand glided across her, driving a frantic tickle through her brain that squeezed her heart and short-circuited her cerebral cortex. It felt out of this world. Her shaved pussy was so vulnerable, so exposed—so prepared for a man. She'd always kept it hers. The way she wanted. Now it had been made over to please a man. Not just any man but the most beautiful boy she'd ever seen in real life.

"Make me come, Max, make me come..."

"Tell me what you're going to do tomorrow."

"I don't know yet..."

"Tell me you'll take him."

"Ah, I-I might..."

"Tell me you're going to take his big cock."

"I'm going to, Max. I'm going to take his big cock deep..."

"Ah, fuck, oh, that's it, Maggie..."

His hand buzzed over her. Back and forth across her button. His cock inside her in that bad place was so wrong. Doing it in this stall was so wrong. Other students passing so close, just on the other side of the curtain. A breeze could reveal them. A boy could come in here, see her Max's bare ass, her pinned to the wall. A girl...

"Oh, Max, oh," she whispered and gasped, squinting her eyes so hard she saw twinkling sparks in the darkness. She was going to come. She bit her lips. Sucked them in. Snorted out her nose. Lost it for a second as she imagined her own sexual voice unleashed in here, echoing off all the tile, revealing them to the others. They could get suspended, kicked off campus...

She pushed it away, pushed it away like she was getting very good at, and focused on the now; the real. She was going to come but she would do it into her mouth, bite those sounds in two before they leaped out of her, let them fall in pieces onto the tile in all the splashing water. Her hands joined in, one over Max's, the other slipping a finger inside herself. Max pinned her with his hips, drove his steel deep into her ass and she came like that, head thrusting and banging on wet tile, snorting out her nose, spitting her own lips out and drooling.

"Apf!t, shit...ah..." she choked. Max tensed against her, knowing she was coming and letting her ride this thrill.

She held her breath, her sensitive sphincter jacked on his slippery cock, squeezing it to death. It was wild, her orgasm ripped through her like something lost, now found, buoyant and excited, jumping and licking at her, overwhelming her while she tried to keep herself from showing the same joy.

"In the corner," she gasped.

"What do you want? ..."

"Take me," she gasped again.

She spun around and put her arms around his neck and kissed him. Her legs climbed his hips, hooked over the top of his skinny butt. She said, "In the corner, against the corner, fuck me, Max..."

He slid her across the ceramic, her back thumping over the rounded edges of the tile until they both slammed into the corner of the stall. "Ah," she grunted. "Your cock," she said.

His forearm supported her rump on one side, and he bent his knees, his hand coming down and fumbling around for his cock.

"Hurry, Max!"

He poked it into her and she cried, caught it, gulped it back. He stabbed himself into her, awkward and shallow at this position but feeling so good just the same. He kissed her neck and her collar while he fucked her and she wriggled her hips against him. They did their best and it was good but not like it was in the movies. It was difficult, slippery, his penis squeaked and stuttered through her folds. She wondered how Jay might fuck her in the shower. Jay would hold her high, he would be strong, his muscle would be solid under her. His cock... it would go deep. Even like this she would feel him. Not poking, but deep inside her. She got wet and it made her gasp. She opened her eyes and saw Max, squinting as he fucked her, looking down, kissing at her chest.

"Oh Max," she sighed, and she ran her fingers into his thick wet hair.

Thinking about Jay had made her wetter. Max slipped again, in and out, and she grunted for him, let him know her love and excitement. Her forearms clambered on him, over his neck, hugging herself even tighter. She whispered, "Max, I've seen him..."

"Yeah?"

"...Seen him hard."

"You did?"

"I did. Ah, so-orry I lied."

"Did you make him hard, Maggie?"

"Mm...he got hard while I drew him."

"So you already saw it hard?"

"Yeah."

"Did you touch it?"

"What? ...No. I wouldn't do that."

He struggled with her, tried to shove himself deep. "Was it...mm, big?"

"It was, yeah. Max?"

"What? ...ah, mm..."

"Max, are you small?"

"Maggie..." he said, he pressed himself inside her.

She whispered, "Is Jay big or are you small?"

He groaned, "Maggie..."

"I saw another one..in the shower across...and it was big too..."

He gasped, "You think I'm small?"

"I don't know. I draw them sometimes, and I wonder..."

"You do?"

Her nails scratched at his back, feeling his urgent fucking, feeling how hard she was making him. "I bet Jay would fuck me so good in here like this...he's got that big cock..."

"Oh, ah, Maggie..."

Her Max trembled against her, his arms shaking. She held him tight and got close to his ear. "Jay has an exciting cock. I saw it hard, Max, it was so long..."

He cursed, "Fuck, Maggie, I'm going to come..."

Her fingers raked his hair and she whispered, "You like that, Max? Like hearing me talk about my lover. He's going to ruin my pussy for you. Take it now, this is your last chance to feel the sides..."

"Oh God, oh God," he grunted.

"I feel your little penis now, Max, but maybe not tomorrow..."

“Oh, Maggie, God, that’s so bad, it ...oh, wow...tell me...” he humped himself against her, his breaths coming so fast now.

“I think I’m going to like it. My body tells me I will. I get wet when I think about his cock, Max... oh, fuck me...Max come inside me, please...”

He grunted then and stabbed, making furious anxious thrusts into her and she felt him going off. Felt his wet shooting into her, felt it running out of her and along her crack.

“Oh, yes, Max,” she cooed, “oh that’s it, I love you,” she said and she smoothed his hair back from his face and she kissed him.

HE HELD her pinned to the tile, felt himself still surging and leaking inside her. His heart pounded drums in his ears, out of control and dangerous. He huffed and wheezed into her neck. She had given him a powerful orgasm. Astoundingly powerful. Unexpected. Talking about his size just as he was ready to come. It tickled him where he didn’t like it. Made him jump and wriggle but he didn’t run away. He flinched but he let her keep tickling, bad as it was.

He stood with his light Maggie hanging over his hips, most of her weight pushed against the tile and she gently stroked his head, her face buried in his neck.

They’d just fucked in public. Like the alley, but this one far more dangerous. Today there were people all around. People waiting to use this very stall. Now filled with pubic hair and pussy and semen. He started to laugh, shaking her against him.

“What’s so funny?” she laughed, pushing at his face with her fingers so he’d look at her.

“That was crazy.”

“I loved it.”

“I did too,” he smiled, then leaned close, whispered right against her ear, “Did you like it in your ass?”

She flinched back, his breath tickling her, she nodded with enthusiasm.

She did it to him now, whispered, “Did you like me saying you were small?”

He gave her a pained face. “I don’t know. I think I did,” he said, wincing.

"I don't think you're small, Max," she whispered.

"Jay's just big?"

She nodded again.

He whispered, "How do you like your bald pussy?"

She giggled. "It's cold. How do you like my bald pussy?"

"I love it, Maggie. Jay's going to love it too."

She moaned and squeezed her girl muscles and she squirted his dwindling penis right out of her.

"Ope!" she exclaimed, feeling him shoot out, and she giggled again.

"We better get out of here," he whispered.

"We got away with it, Max. We're just two people in the same shower now..."

"We're crazy..."

"We're in love," she laughed.

He let her down, let her slip along his thighs so her feet would touch and she stepped away from him and under the spray. He watched her, leaned in the wall of the shower and watched his Maggie Becker. Her pretty figure, her tight body, perky bosom. She was so pretty, so striking and unique. Somewhere between Asian and Caucasian. Pale skin, bright amber eyes, auburn hair. She was a beautiful anomaly and he was the luckiest man on earth to be with her. She was creative and talented, a genius with a rocket-ship IQ, but down to earth and funny and unpretentious. He would share her. He was getting used to the idea now. Not when they were married. But right now. Over the next ten months maybe Maggie Becker would like a little wild ride. He'd like to hold her hand through it. Be the one who sat with her while she experienced it. She was kinky. There was some dirty anfractuious thing under all that porcelain skin goodness. If he could reveal it, he could benefit from it. They had great sex before. But today...yesterday? ...their passion was taking big steps here and he liked it. He laughed now, watching her wash her pussy. Thrusting her hips forward, her legs spread, trying to get the spray to sprinkle her on her shaved mound.

"Don't laugh," she giggled.

"You're so cute."

"Thank you. I'm thinking this shaving thing is going to be a lot of work."

"Probably," he said.

"I think you should shave yours too. Even out the discomfort."

“I wouldn’t look good shaved.”

“You’re lucky I’m anxious to get out of here, or I’d hold you down and shave that little pecker.”

He grabbed her, and squeezed her, said, “You and what army?”

She wriggled in his grip and she whispered, “Maybe my boyfriend will hold you down and I’ll shave your little dick.”

“Don’t,” he said, “God, Maggie...”

She turned her worried face to him, cooed, “Sorry, Max, sorry...”

“No...well, no, I’m getting hard again.”

She laughed and squirmed free now. She got under the spray again, let it hit her neck and she said, “That’s okay? I’m joking...”

“It’s okay, Maggie,” he said.

“Wow, you are getting hard. Soap up, Max. Let’s go back...ah, shoot... Jessie. Can we go to your room?”

He stepped next to her and soaped himself. “Yeah. Hey, did you really see him hard?” Wondering how much she wanted to reveal.

“Oh,” she said, lowering her eyes. “Yeah, he was hard.”

“It’s okay,” he said.

“Sorry, I was...I didn’t know how to tell you.”

“You didn’t touch him?”

“No, Max. No.”

Liar.

“Okay. It’s silly to worry about it now. Considering tomorrow...”

Her eyebrows went glum, she said, “Max, I’m not going to...I can’t do it...”

“We’ll see,” he said, turning his chin to the spray. “We’ll see.”

PART THREE

CHAPTER TEN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21ST

PASSING through the Oren Glen he found Cole on his own, sitting on the raised concrete edge of the circular garden. Another warm day, three in a row now, and campus was crawling with students dressed like it was summer. Cole had cargo shorts and flip-flops, a Rangers sweatshirt that some of the players wore and a baseball hat pulled low; his face was hidden under the peak, his fingers texting away.

Max threw his bag over his shoulder and crossed behind the circular planter as big as a swimming pool, hopped up onto it and sneaked across, winding around its edge clockwise, not making a sound until he came up behind Cole. He slipped his finger into his mouth then ran it over the top edge of Cole's ear poking out next to his cap.

"Shit," Cole yelled, and Max jumped down on his other side and pulled up his fly, like he was putting his cock away.

Cole laughed said, "You're a fucking idiot."

They sat down again together and Max said, "Sorry about the other night, man. We bailed on you..."

"It's all right," he said. "Went on Pussy Patrol..."

"That redhead?"

He leaned to Max, shielded his phone from the sun and scrolled his thumb through text messages. "Here," he said, and stopped and showed him a blurry selfie of the red-headed girl from Altieri's. She was topless, taking a picture of herself, smiling, pretty and fresh, laying flat in her dorm room bed with the tops of her rosy nipples visible. "And," he said, and scrolled again, showed him another. The sweet nip slip of the first picture miles distant of this one. Her own hand, close up, her fingers pulling between her legs, showing Cole her salmon pink sex.

“Oh fuck,” Max laughed, and Cole whisked the phone away, looking at it for himself now.

“She was a screamer, Max.”

“Yeah?”

“Holy shit. She was wild.”

“Freshman?”

“Yeah. Went to her dorm. I can’t even say...”

“She’s hot.”

“Fuck, yeah,” he said and slid his phone into a pocket in his shorts.

“She a little young?”

He sighed, looking out through the wooded glen. “Feels like we were Freshmen yesterday.”

“I know. It does. Hey,” he said then, punched his knee, “You’re going to make it next weekend?”

Cole turned and looked at him seriously, “Of course, Max. Yeah, I can’t wait.” Max and Maggie had to drive down to Jamestown and meet Maggie’s parents. Wedding stuff. They had to go and look at the church, the venue for the reception...and Maggie’s mother, who scared the shit out of him, asked to meet the Best Man.

“That’s a relief.”

Cole said, “So hey man, what was with that thing the other day?”

“With Maggie?”

“Yeah. You guys okay?”

“We’re fine. Just a momentary...thing.”

“Made me feel really weird.”

Max turned, saw he wasn’t joking. “Sorry, bro. I told you it wasn’t you...”

“Like, Maggie? ...seriously, like, me and Maggie?”

“I know, I know...”

“She’s, like, ...I love her like a sister. She’s going to be your wife. I’m your Best Man.”

“I know. I know.”

“That’s gross. We were just horsing around.”

“I know,” he yelled, laughing.

“She’s hot as fuck, but really?”

Max hung his head, said, "I'm not normally jealous...you know...something made me jealous. Not you."

"What happened?"

"Nothing. Just...nah, it's nothing. It's over now. I'm so overworked, getting stressed. Final year, wedding...it's a lot. Then one little weird thing and I blew it up..."

"You sure you guys are okay?"

Max breathed out. This afternoon would tell, wouldn't it?

"Yeah, Cole. We're going to be fine."

SHE PAINTED TO DISTRACT HERSELF. Not in-class time, just took advantage of a free studio block and came down to the Fine Arts Hall and set up an easel and went to work. She had an hour to kill. An hour spent in her room would have killed her. She would have run out of there like it was haunted. All the ghosts of Christmas Future coming to her, telling her harrowing tales of how it would be if she went through with what Max wanted ...And she wanted.

Sleep with another guy? Max was definite. He didn't seem to waver, though he did seem challenged by jealousy and hurt. This couldn't be a good idea, could it? Sleeping with Jay Carmichael would be wild. Now that Max had seemingly talked her into it she was excited, but scared. Her brain, the voice in her head, said she wouldn't do it, that when Jay came nothing would happen. Don't worry. You'll be too scared. Something primal inside her said, We'll have to see, won't we? That thing inside her, if given a grip, would take over and let it happen. Wanted IT to happen. There was a girl inside her who was dying to spread her legs for a man like Jay.

"Oh boy," she sighed, throwing down a splash of cadmium. No pattern today. This was about exploration. She wouldn't mind seeing the work she might produce when she was in a state like this. In all her twenty-one years she'd never felt like this before. Love, yes, love was there. Love for her Max. Surprise, that was another ingredient. Shock. Shocked that he would ask this of her, that he would want it. A pervasive dread too. The act of having sex with Jay would be an emotional thing. Pleasurable, she imagined, but when it was done, she would have to look in his eyes, have to look in Max's eyes.

What if Jay didn't think she was good in bed? What if she was a disappointment? All this talk of Jay and his beautiful body and his big penis, no mention of what she brought to the table. She knew he wanted to have sex with her, but she didn't have the female equivalent of a big dick and she didn't have a jaw-dropping body like Jay did. She was thin. Kind of too thin maybe. Her breasts were a bit small. She didn't have one of those big asses. She was getting more out of this than Jay was.

Her neck went hot at that thought. She clasped her neck in her hands and looked up at the twenty-foot ceiling, up into the girders of the Murrayson Fine Arts Hall. Daylight streaming in through those high windows, carefully planned and angled so that natural light would flood this working space.

Her painting was wild, frenetic. Like her thoughts, the canvas was a mess. A bunch of scattered ideas there. And something carnal too. She could see it. See it lurking in her work. Just like Max could see it in her drawings of Jay. Something salacious living underneath it all, breathing dirty life or maybe sizzling electric nastiness. Whatever it was, something told her she was going to do more this afternoon than just watch Jay jerk himself off again.

MAGGIE WALKED WITH A WORRIED GAIT. Wearing a light top with a low neck, a silky thing made up of lots of small cheerful flowers, she made her way closer, a smile spreading when she saw him. An obviously nervous smile, even from this distance. He watched her thin legs, in oyster cotton pants today, work their way with trepidation.

What lay between those legs, that sacred space hidden behind two layers of thin cotton, soft skin shaved bare now, would be shared. Maybe. She said she wouldn't. This was just fun she said. We're pretending.

He was sure Maggie thought she might just touch his cock. Maybe she thought Jay would touch her. Maybe her breasts, maybe more. Maggie didn't know he'd watched her. She wouldn't want to know that. She would be mad. She should be mad. But if he told her, despite her anger, she would have to face her shame. Doing what she did without permission. It doesn't matter that permission came now. She didn't have it then.

No, he had a broader scope of her and Jay. She was one side of the duo, concerned with her own feelings. He'd seen it from the outside. Seen her. Seen Jay. Maggie didn't want to face it, but she was more curious than she knew. Or admitted to knowing. She knew...deep down she had to know. Part of her was still resisting. Part of her was still holding on for dear life to the notion that she was a good girl. If he had never intervened he was quite sure that she would have submitted to Jay eventually. Fucked him. Fucked him and ended their relationship. Now Max had control. More control than Jay. Two days ago, Jay was going to win—now Jay was not going to win.

He supposed, between Jay and him, this would be a meeting in the middle. Jay was an unknown. Max could guess though. If Jay saw a crack in his Maggie's armor he would pummel it. If Maggie thought she was going to just play around with Jay, maybe just play a little game of cop-a-feel, she didn't know guys. And she didn't. His Maggie didn't know. One other guy in her life besides Max? Probably some nerd from Music Class in High School, the one she played symphony with. Probably a nice guy. Then, after that, only Max. Her experience was with guys like Max. Nice guys. She didn't know that a guy like Jay was in this to win. And winning would be planting that manhood up inside his Maggie. He might try a few different ploys to get there, but he would get there.

She waved now, mouthed a nervous, Hi Max!, slung her bag onto his bench and slipped in between it and him, leaned against him heartily.

They didn't say anything, just leaned on each other and felt their bodies press. Finally, after some tense quiet, he eased back and put his arm around her.

"How are you?" he said.

"I'm okay."

"Nervous?"

"Yup," she said.

"You ready?"

"I guess. I showered twice this morning. Do I smell like paint?" She leaned to him and he smelled the top of her head.

"Yes," he said. "Papaya and turpentine."

"Shoot," she whispered.

"Want another shower?"

"With you?"

"We don't have time," he laughed.

“No, I don’t care. Should I care?”

“Jay won’t care, Maggie. I swear he won’t.”

“We’re not dating right?”

He shook her with his arm, comforted her. Thought how they should stop. It would be easy to say it was over before it had begun. But he found in his heart he still didn’t want it to be over. He still wanted this. His heart pounded strong beats against his ribs. Even at rest like this on a park bench under the shade of a grand maple he could feel it pound within him. This could be a good plan. This could be an exciting thing. You’d never know til you tried.

THEY HELD hands while they walked up the stairs of Keegan and went to her bedroom. Another drawing session scheduled with Jay. Jessie was out. In class. Their new handkerchief ready to hang on the door, should she decide to skip. This was going to happen.

Jay texted, said he was almost on campus. It would just be a matter of minutes. She was shaking. Her insides tight, constricted, heavy. Yet her feet felt light, her body felt weightless.

“I’m not going to have sex with him, you know?” she said to Max as they paused at their dorm room door, her hand poised on the lever.

He smiled and he kissed her, acting a little condescending. Like he knew she would. She wasn’t going to have sex with him. She might touch him a little. And she didn’t like to think of the reality of it, but if he touched her she would like that as well. She wouldn’t ask though. She would touch him. She would do that. She’d like to get a feel of his hardness. His body, that is. Maybe she might be convinced to hold his penis today. If he got hard. She imagined he would get hard. Especially if she was touching him. Hoo. But she wasn’t going to have sex with him.

“Let’s go,” Max said, and he put his hand over hers on the lever and got her to open the door.

They went in, closed it behind them and she kissed him again.

“Are you excited?” he asked her.

She nodded for him. Unsure of what to say. It was exciting. She liked that Max was going to watch. It all felt safe. Jay was nice. Max would watch. Today was shaping up to be Maggie’s big day.

“Come here,” she said, and she led him to Jessie’s side of the room. She’d cleared a good sized space for him in her closet. The room wasn’t very big, and she’d cluttered it with a lot of junk Jessie swore she had ideas for; future purposes though, she imagined, knowing Jessie, would entail having to get some guy to come by and take them to the dump at the end of the school year.

Jessie had a sawhorse in there, amongst other things, including a creepy mannequin she stole from an abandoned Woolworth’s they were closing down in the Village. It stood in the corner, and Maggie made her make it face the wall because she said if she ever saw that thing’s eyes facing out she’d never set foot in the dorm again. This morning, before she’d gone to paint, she’d arranged random items to lean against the sawhorse, and then a drop cloth draped over which could be pulled closed; an excellent spot to spy on her from.

They held hands, both hands, facing each other, staring into one another. She said, “I made a spot for you to hide.”

“Thanks,” he said.

“You’re sure?”

“Stop asking, already. You know I’m sure.”

“Yeah,” she sighed. Still couldn’t believe it. He gave her hands a few pumps, a few good squeezes, said, “Okay?” again and he let her go, moved into the closet doorframe and looked around. He said, “I didn’t think I’d fit in here. It’s bigger than I thought.”

“Max?”

“What?” he said, turning.

“Can you...take your clothes off?”

“What? Why?”

“I want you vulnerable.”

“I don’t want to be vulnerable, Maggie.”

“That’s not fair. I’m—”

“Maggie, it’s Jessie’s closet, she’d flip—”

“She’s not here, we’ll be done, Max, I’ll be naked...”

His face shook with eagerness. he said, “Will you?”

“I might be,” she smiled. “I don’t know, Max. Would you just do it, please? It’s...I like it...I want it...” she slipped her hands up his polo shirt and smoothed them up his body. “Please?”

“I feel so weird,” he said.

“I do too. It’s only fair. Don’t you think it’s hot?”

“I guess,” he said, wavering, his hands poised like he would lift the hem of his shirt.

She got him started, using her hands already under there to pry it up his body. He let her, didn't struggle, just let himself be exposed. When she got it up to his chest he took it off by himself and she worked the button on his pants.

“Easy, Maggie,” he laughed, “...you’re so eager.”

“He’ll be here soon...”

“Okay, okay,” he said, and he helped her undo his pants, putting his hands over hers and taking his fly down.

“You’re hard already, Max,” she said, seeing his erection poking up to the right side of his zipper as it was drawn down.

“I know, this is so exciting.”

She pulled his fly open and pushed his pants down, watched his erection point to the floor and waited to see it slap up again.

“Wow, you’re so hard,” she laughed, seeing it bounce right up and smack his belly.

She had him naked except for his watch, and he stood with his hand between his legs, hiding himself from her, his eyes watching her.

“This what you wanted?” he smirked.

“Yeah,” she said, and she let her hands go up his bare arms and touch his stomach making him flinch.

“Don’t,” he said.

“Ticklish?”

“Today I am,” he said.

“Hide please,” she said. She watched him get into Jessie’s closet, completely naked, watched him bend to get under the sawhorse, turn and peer out, she moved the dropcloth over and hid him.

“Can you see me?” he said.

“No,” she said. “Can you see the bed?”

“Move,” he said.

She stepped to the side, looked over to the bed herself, figured his way was clear.

He said, “Yeah.”

“You’re all set?”

“Oh boy, yeah, I am. I’m all set.”

“Max—don’t touch yourself while you’re in there, okay?”

“Not at all?”

“Just don’t make yourself...come. Okay?”

“Yeah.”

“I mean it. I want to make love as soon as he’s gone.”

CHAPTER ELEVEN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21ST

HE SAT under the sawhorse and it was comfortable. She'd made a nice spot for him. Even put a cushion on the floor for him to sit on. She was very considerate. It was a lot more comfortable than when he'd stuffed himself in here a few days ago. His body twisted up, his heart wrenched, his cock poking sideways, strangled in his underwear. Today he would watch and hopefully he would get those feelings again, but hopefully, now that he was relatively honest with Maggie, it would be...enjoyable. Less painful, less worried. She could do whatever she wanted. He'd told her. Today he might really enjoy this. He hoped Maggie would too.

She came back and kneeled at the mouth of the closet. She peered in at him, her face drawn with worry.

"Max," she said, "what are we doing?"

"It's okay, Maggie," he said from behind the drop cloth. "I want this. I do. I want it for me...and I want to for you too."

"You're hiding in a closet."

"I know."

"What's wrong with us?"

"Do you want me to leave? Do you want to do it alone..."

"No... Oh, no. Definitely not, Max... That's not it. This is so stupid. You're hiding in a closet."

He laughed, "Yeah, and you wanted me to be naked."

She smiled, then covered it up with both hands over her face. "I did. I know. I...I don't know, maybe I do like this."

The sight of her on her knees before him, bashful girl-face peeking out at him between her hands, electrified him. She was excited. Her energy was intoxicating.

“You’re good you know.”

“Good at what?” she said.

“Sucking cock.”

“Max! Oh my God. You are so gross,” she laughed.

“I made you laugh.”

She peered through the gap in the drop cloth, her head tilted with affection. “You’re good, Max. You are a good man. I always knew you were.”

“Promise me you’ll have fun.”

“Boy,” she sighed, rolling her eyes and looking up to the ceiling.

“Relax. Everything is okay.”

“Okay, Max.”

She walked back to her bed, looked to see if she could see him, didn’t. He said, “I’m watching,” and she smiled and waved. She got her sketchbook from the drawer, threw it on the bed, crossed to a chest at the foot of her bed and took out her pastels and charcoals and put the tin next to her sketchbook. She unzipped her pants and she peeled them down. His cock twitched watching her. She was sexier than ever. His Maggie transforming in front of him. The last two days she was like someone else. He’d watched her touch another boy...watched her masturbate...what was she doing now?

She stood by her bed, sun streaming in through her curtains, touching her shapely legs with light. Arched her back now, and pulled that floral top off. She was just in a bra and her panties, standing in bare feet. She walked to her dresser, opened it and took out a folded yellow T-shirt. Jay’s shirt. She tossed it to the bed, then, her back facing him, her hands came up and undid her bra, let it fall off her shoulders and onto the bed. She bent, her ass sticking toward him, and peeled her panties down, showing him all her newly shaved parts, open and exposed.

“What are you up to?” he laughed from his blind.

She shushed him. Stood naked, took Jay’s shirt and unfolded it, shook it out, turned now so he could see her bare sexy front, nipples hard already. Turned the shirt around to find the front, slipped it on over her head and let it fall to the tops of her thighs. If she lifted her arms, Jay would see the thing Max had shaved for him.

“Shit,” he whispered in the closet, aching for his sexy woman. His cock twitched again and he streamed precum already, could feel it sliding down and tangling in his pubic hair and tickling his balls. He didn’t touch himself, though he didn’t know how long he could stay strong.

Maggie looked out the window, standing on her toe tips and looking down over the quad. “Oh God,” she said. “Oh Max, he’s coming.” All her confident charm of the last few minutes washed away and he was sort of glad to hear his shy Maggie back.

“I love you,” he said.

“I love you too, Max,” she said.

She went then to the foot of the bed, looked at herself in the dresser mirror, fixed her hair, preened, turning side to side to see how she looked.

“You’re beautiful,” he said.

She smiled towards the crack in the open closet door, smiled for him. Then she was picking up the new handkerchief, tied in a bow, and she rolled it around her hands in nervous circles. Pacing and waiting.

There was a knock on the door and she jumped. A pop from her ankle as she danced around nervous and excited that he was here. She put her hand on the door and then she opened it.

“Hi Jay,” she said, her voice a breathy whisper. “Come on in.”

Here he was. The man who made her wet. Jay Carmichael. The well-hung wrestling stud and son of Farmingham’s intellectual jewel. He walked past her, his head turned, smiling probably because Maggie was sure beaming up at him. He tossed his book bag onto her bed, said, “How’ve you been?”

“I’m good, Jay. How about you?” She was different. Breathly and bubbly. Her eyes shone and there was color on her cheeks. An unfading smile on her plump lips. Jay really did it for her.

“You’re okay? After last time I—”

“Ahp,” she blurted, and she darted close and said, “I don’t want to talk about it. I don’t want to talk about last time at all.” Her eyes were fixed to Jay’s but with his back to Max he couldn’t tell what he was thinking.

“Okay, Maggie,” he said. “You’re wearing my shirt again. I guess that’s a good sign...”

“I like this shirt,” she said and she took the hem and pulled it wide. Just a few inches higher and Jay would get a good look at her sweet cleft, her freshly shaved sex. Max twitched again, he wanted her to show it to him. He wanted Jay to see her. See her that way.

“You make it sexy,” he laughed. “Might as well keep it, huh? I love to see you in it.”

“I don’t fill it out like you do,” she flirted girlishly.

“Believe me,” he laughed, “You look better in it than I do.”

“I don’t know about that,” she smiled and she touched his arm. Jay’s head turned and watched her fingers on him and Max saw his expression change. He and Maggie both knew now that today was going to be different. But Maggie turned away, showed Jay her back and went to the head of her bed and gathered her drawing tools. She bent and moved them around her pillow where she could reach them. Jay ogled her from behind and Max ached for that shirt hem to come up high enough that the bare curve of her bottom would be revealed. Jay would see, and know that Maggie hadn’t worn any panties for their session today. Then he’d know—he’d know what she wanted. He would get hard, that big cock would rise up off his lap even if he had jerked off before he got here like Maggie had asked him on Tuesday.

The hem rose so high, almost to the crease of her cheek. It was high enough to captivate Jay’s attention. His eyes went up her bare legs, took in her bare feet, her slender back moving underneath his T-shirt. Maggie took her time. Doing her machinations slow, letting her boy-toy get a good long look at her. She was driving Max wilder than Jay.

“And what are we doing today?” he asked her with quiet confidence.

One knee went up on the bed and she turned to face him. Her eyes were wide, face happy but scared. “I don’t know yet,” she whispered. “I don’t know at all.”

The muscles of Jay’s back swelled and jumped as he gave a quiet chuckle. He took his shirt off. One easy move, waiting to make sure Maggie’s eyes were on him, his hands crossed over one another. The shirt peeled off in a practiced move, the same as he’d done last time. Sucked in stomach thrust out, muscles of his abdomen bulging, thick arms tugging the shirt away and then tossing the balled up fabric onto her bed. Maggie watched. Maggie admired. Her eyes didn’t waver this time. Not bashful like on Tuesday. Today she watched. Max swelled with excitement. The look on her face, her lugubrious appreciation of this male specimen excited him. She was turned on.

Maggie still stood, one foot on her floor, one knee bent and planted in her mattress. Jay got closer. His bare chest slowly heaved with his breaths. Maggie's eyes darted over him.

In a low voice, he said, "You going to tie me up today?"

Maggie's eyes wandered nervously towards his, she said, "No, not today."

"I liked it when you tied me up."

Then she said, "I want your hands free today."

Max jumped in the closet. Like a shock had passed through him.

"What do you want me to do with my hands?" Jay said slyly.

Shy Maggie returned and she smiled and looked away, bashful and demure again. Intimidated by Jay.

She looked back then, and she said, "Use them to take those pants off, Jay."

The toe of his shoe peeled a sneaker off, then he kicked off the other. The whole time his eyes held Maggie's gaze and she didn't shy away. Barefoot, his hands worked his button, drew down the zipper of his cotton pants. Maggie faltered. She broke eye contact first. Looking down, wanting to see what he was revealing. Pants and underwear were hiked low by his grip. Hips thrust out, tugging his pants down a bit at a time, slowly letting his manhood be exposed. She watched.

It was out then, heavy and swinging, so large even flaccid. Then he bent and lifted knees to get himself naked. He stood again, now completely bare, in front of his innocent Maggie. Her eyes roamed again, made their way back to his as he said, "What do you want me to do now?"

Her legs parted and Max's eyebrows raised up high in the closet. Knowing she was bare there, knowing the air would be touching her where she's most private and that there was literally nothing in the room separating Jay's big cock from his sweet girl's bare sex. But Maggie pressed her sketchbook to her belly, covered herself up with it and she sat down, careful not to reveal anything to Jay, blocking his view of her naked pussy with her pad of paper. Once in place, a smile beamed on her face and she opened her legs, let them go wide as she got herself to sit cross legged on her bed.

"What are you smiling at?" Jay laughed.

"Oh, nothing," she cooed. Her eyes darted to where Max sat in the closet. Yes, you are a bad girl. She'd spread herself for Jay. Technically, he couldn't see because the sketchbook was in the way, but his kinky fiancée seemed to get quite the thrill just the same. Her cheeks grew some color and her smile didn't fade.

Jay said, "You seem a little different today, Maggie."

"I do?"

"Yeah, I like it," he said. "You seem happy."

SHE GUESSED SHE WAS HAPPY. There was a relief there. And with the weight she'd been carrying—guilt, worry, shame, regret, and errant lust—gone now, she realized she was...happy. Her Max was watching. He said she could do whatever she wanted. She didn't know what it was she wanted to do but there was a lightness through her now, a freedom.

"Show me how you want to pose," she said.

"You want me to show you?" he said, with a smile.

"Not bashful, are you?" she said with strange boldness, even putting a pastel pencil between her teeth while she smiled around it.

He looked at her wryly, a confidence there reminding her that she was the bashful one and she shouldn't be challenging him unless she wanted to get in trouble. Maybe she wanted to get in trouble.

Jay put one of his knees on her bed. His legs were parted now and she watched his penis swing with lazy contemptuous weight between his thighs. He'd already swollen in size. An arm draped over the curved brass rail of her bed's footboard. Muscles rippled and twisted, sinew and tendons pushing against his caramel skin and making sharp shadows in the stark light from the window.

"That's how you want to pose?" she said with a dry voice.

"It's comfortable," he said and he let his weight settle on his bent arm.

"You look good," she assured him with a sheepish little-girl smile. Her hands wrung the spiral binding of her sketchbook, curling the pad ever so slightly, hoping he might get the tiniest peek into the shade between her legs and see that she wasn't wearing panties. See that she was a very bad girl. She curled the edge higher and watched his eyes, said, "You look amazing."

There was something there. A sparkle. Maybe a recognition. Maybe a curiosity piqued. Her flexing hands had caught his attention, his eyes had lowered. He might have seen her sex. Maybe the only other boy besides her Max to look between her legs. She tingled all over suddenly. Her thighs flexed and cramped and her toes wriggled without her consent.

“Okay,” she whispered, and she leaned to the side, rolled on one cheek and grabbed a charcoal pencil, wondering if she was revealing something to him right now. He’d be looking.

When she sat back up he was still in his pose, eyes narrow, lowered to her, a smirk tugging softly at the corner of his plump mouth. She averted her eyes, feeling a little overwhelmed by the fluttering in her tummy. Even her breaths were shaky. The charcoal scratched across the rough paper, finding something that looked like the forms she was seeing. Her hand swiveled loosely on her wrist, all her motion coming from her shoulder blade and somewhere in her elbow. She sucked and chewed her lips nervously, eyes darting up and down from gorgeous model to paper. Noticing as she went there were changes needing to be made. His expression was telling. The other days when his erection had begun he’d been genuine about his remorse over his arousal. He didn’t want to ruin her drawing. Today his eyes met hers as his penis took on glorious size. Bobbing between his legs, getting heavier, filling with blood, veins starting to stand out on it. Today he was proud of what was happening below his waist.

She watched it grow. Right in front of her, his penis flopped towards his thigh. Not a heavy movement. A twisting. Like it was suddenly wrenched with torque. Something driving it, something mechanical in him, putting gears into motion, enlivening that thing between his legs, putting it into action, giving it the blood it needed to perform the function it was designed for. Some design too. Jay’s glans was big and aggressively shaped. She’d drawn her fair share of penises. Usually giving a cursory sort of effort, delivering an idea of shape and scale, but generally ignoring detailed structure. But Jay’s penis was impressive. Even now, somewhere between hard and soft, it was magnificent. She’d seen it hard. Seen the final shape it would take. It was mesmerizing watching it get there. The plump rim of his cock, the corona, swelling and flaring as he grew aroused, like the hood of a cobra. Threatening. It slid against his leg, getting longer and heavier, a throb in it now, pumps of his heart.

Then, of all embarrassment, there was a tiny, sticky, flatulent sound. Her vagina. She was wet. So excited by the prospect of touching Jay—of being touched by Jay—that she'd sweated a spate of her sticky dew. A tiny high sound of bubbles popping in her tight folds as she sat cross legged. She cleared her throat, tried to chase the sound away. Her face went red hot.

"Do I make you hard?" she said, her voice a crackling, breaking whisper, undulating and timid.

"What?" he said with a growing smile.

"Do I make you hard?" she said, looking at his cock again. It had lifted off his leg, hanging down again, but gaining its own volition, rising to greet her.

"You make me so hard, Maggie. You showing me your pussy?"

"Am I?" she said, her voice still timid.

"You want me to see it?"

"Maybe," she said.

"Show me."

Her heart began to hammer. "You want to see it?"

"Show me your pussy, Maggie. I want to see it. Open your legs."

She hesitated. Stiff as a board, joints dry and unresponsive. Stared at her Jay. Stared at this beautiful boy. His muscles, his sexuality. His arousal. She moved her sketchpad, lifted it, her crotch still in the shade, but his line of visibility was open now. He could see her.

"Move your pad, Maggie," he said.

She put her charcoal and her sketchbook aside, laying it on the bed next to her hip and she regarded him. She was sitting cross legged wearing only his shirt, no panties. Her pussy dripping. Her lips sucked into her mouth, and her pulse pounded. She leaned back, cleared her throat and tossed her hair around, her eyes darting for a moment to the dark sliver of the open closet door. Put her hands behind her, her shoulders creeping up to her ears and she let her legs unfold. Slowly come apart, her calves sliding over one another, cooler air touching her warm wet creases. Jay looked at her pussy and it was like she'd been touched. She stifled a gasp.

"You've got a beautiful pussy, Maggie."

Now she did gasp, her head rocked weakly on her shoulders, she blinked profusely.

"You shaved it? You shave it for me?"

"How'd you know?"

"I used to see your hair. In your panties, around..."

“Oh,” she said, embarrassed, her legs closing, her brow furrowing, biting her lip.

“No, no, Maggie,” he said, coming closer to her and she reeled, seeing him on her bed like this, moving to her. “That made me hard. Remember?”

“Yeah...”

“Yeah,” he confirmed, sitting so close to her, turned to his side, feet on the floor, chest opened to her. His hands were flat on the bed on either side of her feet. He was so close to touching her. She couldn’t breathe. She was trying, but she couldn’t breathe.

CHAPTER TWELVE

JAY SAT ON HER BED. Sat where Max would sit when they would kiss before they made love. Sitting there with his muscular body, that big cock sticking up, slackly, stiff and straight, but leaning across a thigh. It was fully hard, long and thick and looking to sink inside the woman he loved. His own cock ached, ached just like Jay's, just as hard, maybe half the size. He stifled a groan, exhaled roughly, wincing, watching this horrible event.

His Maggie was enraptured. He could see it. She was breathy, eyes wet and glassy, mouth pouting, agape, she looked like she would come with a touch right now. He could see her chest heaving, her little titties thrust against the yellow cotton, two hard buds poking up from them. Her legs were open. Open to another man. Jay sat confidently, looking at what she had there. Seeing her pale pink flower in her smooth mound. She would be wet, maybe glistening like she would sometimes get.

Jay said, "I'm going to touch you, Maggie. You want that?"

She nodded, quickly, like she couldn't wait another second.

He repeated, "You want that?" Saying it slow, controlling his desperate fiancée.

"Please," she whimpered.

Jay's muscles rippled in his arm as his hand lifted off the mattress, headed over her loosely folded legs, disappeared under the T-shirt slung across her thighs.

"Oh, aw," she cried. Trembling, her face turned into passionate sorrow, pointing to the ceiling. Jay was stroking his Maggie's pussy. Max jumped where he sat, the scene so erotic he almost came. He flexed his ass and chewed his lip, pushed away the urge to propel his seed into Jessie's closet. He streamed wet down his shaft.

"It's warm, Maggie," Jay said, his voice low and cool. "So smooth, so wet...it's perfect—"

Jay's fingers made wet smacking noises, ruffling her folds, touching her in her most intimate part. Max held his breath. Grew dizzy, felt like he was falling sideways.

"Are you tight?" Jay said then, his forearm muscles flexing in striated blades and he stuck a finger inside her.

"No, oh," she gasped, her eyes shooting wide. She grabbed him, her hands jumping quickly and both of them clutching and holding his wrist. "No, not...inside."

They looked into each other's eyes and Jay smiled. "You're tight," he chuckled. "Yeah, you're tight."

"No, please..." she gasped, still gripping him, though his wet sounds were still filling the room, still stroking her pussy.

"You want to help me come this time? You wa—"

"Shh-sh, no, no, no," Maggie whispered, letting his wrist go and rising up onto her knees, she put a hand on his mouth to stop him talking. Poor Maggie. Worried about what Jay might say about what they'd done. He knew already, knew but couldn't admit it, couldn't admit that he'd hidden and spied on her. He and Maggie both held their little lies, both had deceptions they were holding on to.

Jay and Maggie were looking in each other's eyes again. Both of them glistening in the light from the window, Maggie's eyes trembling, darting back and forth over his. A lot going on there. He knew it was coming. Was ready for it. But when it happened he crumpled and sobbed silently, his back shaking while he watched. Their faces came together slow, tentative but inexorable. Jay's head tilted to Maggie, his sharp jaw line pressing against his skin. Maggie's eyes lowered as the distance narrowed. Jay had plump lips, curled, soft things, almost feminine but set in masculine squareness. Maggie's lips parted, not open, but growing slack, tension easing from them, giving in to the passion he knew she felt for Jay. Their lips came together. They touched. Maggie kissed another boy. It was a gentle thing, a curious connection. Uncommitted, testing. She came back from it, eyes on his, and she sucked her own lips. Jay did too.

JAY HAD BEAUTIFUL EYES. His skin was a warm caramel, his features were Black, chiseled with a rocky masculinity, and in all that sculptured ruggedness were two soulful eyes, light in color, lighter than they should be. Bright, gray and honest looking, sometimes taking an icy blue in the right light. She sucked her lips. She'd tasted his. Touched their softness. So different than Max. Larger lips, firm yet so pliable. A strength in them too, something underneath.

Those eyes watched as her hand came to his face, rested on his cheek, feeling those muscles, those angles. His eyes narrowed and he smiled. Her hand stroked down his strong, hard neck. She smiled too now. Breaking an awkward moment. She moved closer on her knees, took his face in both hands, put his ears in the V between thumb and forefinger and she lowered her lips to his again. They kissed. This time they explored a little—he sucked on hers, showing some of that strength in his lips, pulling and pinching. Her hands went up the shaved sides of his head, felt his coarse stubble, then up into his hair. It was so odd to handle another man with intimacy. To hold his head, to look in his eyes...gosh, to touch his lips with her own. And to have another man touch between her legs? ...She sucked her lips again, a cat-like moan coming unbidden to her, hips flexing, girl muscles tightening—she wanted his touch again.

Close to his ear, she whispered, “Touch me...Jay, touch me, but don't go inside me...”

The inside of her thigh was touched and she trembled. Jay had large masculine hands and they covered a lot of ground fast—the edge of his thumb pressing into her wetness quickly. It made a soft wet sound and she moaned and leaned to him, opened her legs wider.

“Stroke it, Jay,” she whispered. Wanted to say it louder so Max could hear but she was strangely shy. She hated that she wanted to be touched. Loved it, loved the feeling, loved her desires being met, but so ashamed too. She humped her hips against his hand, stroked her own pussy against him, felt the slickness she'd produced.

“You're so wet,” he said.

“Mm, I am,” she sighed, humping his hand harder now.

She struggled to stay in focus, to not be consumed. She imagined herself from the closet, how she might look... Heaped against Jay, his hand between her legs, hidden up under the bottom of her big T-shirt. Jay's big T-shirt.

“Ah,” she sighed, feeling an incredibly pleasurable surge between her legs from Jay's touch. She thrust her pussy towards him, arched her back and peeled herself out of the T-shirt, threw it on the floor. Naked now for Jay. Naked now for Max. She shivered, enough it shook her shoulders and made her shake her head. Her nipples sprang out, surging with a tingling excitement. She grabbed her own breasts, squeezed them.

“Let's see them, Maggie,” Jay said.

“Oh,” she sighed, looking in his eyes again, watching them lower, wanting to see her little breasts.

“They're little,” she whispered, like an idiot, holding them, covering them with her hands. Jay leaned and sucked a big mouthful of the skin right between her breasts and her head fell right back. His touch was warm and wet and with his hand on the most intimate part she had, she was reeling, her brain and her tummy doing wild cartwheels.

He made kisses on her chest, moving and pushing her hand away and sucking on her nipple. Clamping those lips on her, pulling, plumping, his tongue spreading over and then clamping again. His mouth made slick sounds against her. She reeled again, this time putting her hands back on his head, holding her to him like he was feeding from her and she gazed into the closet.

IT KILLED him to see his Maggie so overwhelmed by such passion. He was shaking with rage and fear and jealousy and his own rock hard arousal. Off the charts arousal. He could roar in here. He'd love it, just lean back and scream out every emotion he was brawling. Blast himself free of them all.

Maggie caressed Jay's head, Jay sucked on her breasts, his hand slipping in between her thighs, muscles moving in his arm, his hand doing something to his sweet Maggie's pussy. Something incredible given her expression.

She stared at the closet. Couldn't see him, but she was showing Max she knew he was there. It calmed the roaring lion. They were together. She was being driven crazy by her stud but she had not forgotten who'd allowed her this stud. He was a pretty great guy. Letting her have this. Yes, he got a lot too, as bad as it was. But this wasn't easy, it took gargantuan balls. Took something most guys wouldn't have.

Maggie's eyes lowered again, being overwhelmed by her lover. Her Jay taking her away from him now. Claiming her attention again. His kisses traveled now to make sucking noises on her other breast. Maggie looked down over his cannonball shoulder, straight down to his lap and watched that cock of his. It was a ramrod straight thing. Dark, chocolate to the caramel of his skin, with a dusky cherry glans. She was going to touch it. That's what she was thinking right now. She'd thought about this guy's cock a lot he bet, and now she was giving herself permission to touch it. Just building some nerve first.

The two of them looked good together. Both of them naked, both of them beautiful. Maggie's porcelain skin next to his coffee. Both of them with flawless shapes, Maggie thin and small but oh-so-feminine, him so big and muscular and oh-so-masculine. Her sex was wet and pink and his cock was hard and huge. This was pure and meant to be. He was strangely happy for her. Hoped she was enjoying it, seeing she was, but hoping she could let go a little.

She pried his head from her nipple now, holding him in her hands and pushing him away to look in his eyes again. Her nipple was plumped by his mouth, glistening wet. She kissed him again. That was hard to watch. Hot to see her have passion, but when their lips would touch it made him jump.

HER HANDS WENT over his smooth skin, running over the hard ridges of his body. Her eyes locked on her pale fragile hands as they traveled his muscle. Over his shoulders, up his traps, around his neck, swooping down his massive chest. "I've dreamed about touching you," she said absently, then went blush, embarrassed she'd said it out loud.

"I thought about you too..."

"Did you?" she sighed.

“I did. I think about you all the time. You're the hottest thing...so smart...so talented...”

He got her tummy quivering, her thighs clasped on his hand between her legs. It was slippery and it just kept moving, making her tickle.

“Lean back,” she said.

“You posing me?” he smirked.

“Back on your elbows,” she said.

He eased himself back, eyes on hers. Proud of what he had. Proud of his body and proud of what was between his legs. She liked his confidence. His strength was overwhelming. He was powerful, made her feel small, drew that feminine out of her, magnetizing her hormones to his.

His body rippled in the sunlight. His abs deep and carved. He'd grown shiny from their excitement and the white light on his high parts looked like velvet. She kissed his ribs, kissed up to his chest. He cradled her head, his thumb brushing her scalp. She kissed his body, her eyes on the closet, a smile easing up one corner of her mouth. Between her and the closet, off to her left, was Jay's hard cock. Fully erect now. A perfectly sculpted totem. Smooth skin, lustrous, dark and straight like an arrow. Pointing up and towards the window. Impossibly big. She wanted to touch it—had dreamed of touching it—now she would.

Her hand swept the rugged plain of his hard midsection, low, low, over his belly button and below, into his tight curly pubic hair. She hesitated. His cock throbbed with his heartbeat. He ached to feel her touch. She ached to give it. And there was a boy she loved hiding in the closet right now who was probably screaming in his head Touch it! Her hand slid, bumped his base, her palm slipping up then, running over his shaft, pressing that long cock down against his thigh. Long enough the head extended past his hip. So beautiful. It was hot and steely hard. Under that thick and oily skin it was like a steel cylinder. She cupped her fingertips on his shaft, thumb along the top, four fingers on its belly, slipped her fingers right up to his glans. Ran her fingertips over that now, playing with all its flares, ridges and into his urethra.

“Your cock is so big,” she said.

“It's big,” he agreed.

“It's beautiful, too. It's amazing. I liked drawing it. I wanted to draw it hard.”

“That's why you tease me with your bare legs?”

“Maybe,” she said, eyes still on her fingers as they danced over him.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21ST

MAX WATCHED Maggie grip Jay's cock with both hands and marvel at it. She held it in two fists, another handful poking beyond the top hand, his flared head like a bursting knot. She stroked him. He was so big. Fuck. Max touched himself. He said he wouldn't but he was going to scream in here.

As soon as he held his own cock, he twitched and spasmed, spewed hot clear fluid over his knuckles. He didn't stroke himself. Just held it and watched his Maggie.

She used both hands, eyes narrow and sultry, looking at this totem in her grip. "God," she sighed, "it's huge..."

She kissed it.

He shook his head in bewilderment. It was unprovoked. Sudden. She stroked and watched, then leaned and pressed her lips right to the top side of his glans. Pouting lips pressing on that disgusting and so private part of another man. Oh Maggie. You're a dirty girl.

She stroked and watched, kissed again, lower. Held it, squeezed it, her fingers flexing and feeling. His girth almost too much for her grip. Then her tongue darted out, licked him. Pressed its glistening pink shape to his top side, swiped up, rippling over the flange of his head, then she put the tip in her mouth. Sucked on him. Just the head, her mouth working, her cheeks going in as she gave him some pressure, plunged a little, then she chickened out and she was the Maggie he knew, shy again, looking at his cock like she just woke up and was surprised by what was in her hands.

Jay sat up, lifted her to face him, her on her knees next to him, sitting on her heels. He kissed her again. More aggressively now. Mouth open, sucking and pulling on her lip, pulling her bottom lip right out, pinched with his teeth. She'd gone ecstatic again, glazed eyes watching. His hand took hers and put it on his cock, held it on his shaft and used her little hand inside his to jerk himself. She let him, her pale hand going up and down, smothered under his masculine grip. His hand stroked her thighs, touched her between her legs and she sighed into his mouth. He grabbed her sigh with a kiss, rose, loomed, pressed her backwards, and she fell on to her bed, her head thumping into the center of her pillow.

"Oh Jay," she sighed, suddenly surprised by her predicament. She thought they'd play, but Max knew Jay would fuck her. She would let him too. He knew it. The sounds of her wetness between her legs told him that.

"Wait," she said.

He took her objection with his mouth, on top of her on his hands and knees, nudging her thighs to part. Maggie parted her thighs. She blurted objection around his kisses, frail little sissy sounds that wouldn't stop Jay. Her hands stroked his cock. Both of them, his monster pointed up between them; she was trembling with excitement. She shook her mouth from him now, looked fearfully into his eyes.

"Jay, no...I'm engaged..."

Her hands still stroked him, her chest heaved, her nipples stretched from her.

His hand gripped her neck, making her squawk, he kissed her again, drew his hips back, the tip of his cock in the middle of her thighs now. She still held him, gripped him tight, stopping him from putting it where he wanted.

"No," she cried, "no..."

"Maggie," he smiled, thrusting his hips, fucking her hands. They stared into each other's eyes again. "Maggie, you know you want it."

"I can't," she whispered.

He chuckled, a confident, mean sort of sound, kissed her again, then down her neck. She gave his cock up, her arms lifted up over her head, up to the headboard, stretching and exposing herself to him. She moaned and writhed as he sucked on her breasts again.

"Oh God," Max sighed in his closet. He was sweating now. A pulsing ache coming up between his legs, from his prostate up to the tip of his cock. "Oh Maggie..."

Jay sucked her flesh, sucked her belly, his tongue dipping into her little belly button making her squirm in ecstasy under him, her eyes closed, her lips parted. Lower he went, lower down to where she once had hair, and he had Maggie jerking with anticipation.

“Oh Jay, oh, no...please...no,” her objections waning, her hungry pussy dominating her desires now, consuming her resolve, burning it to the ground. Wanting desperately to feel this man’s mouth taste her juices, part her with his tongue.

“Oh no, Jay,” she sighed, “no, that’s too...oh,” she gasped as he touched her with his tongue. Max could see Jay’s wide tongue swipe along his Maggie's pink stripe, so wet, so eager. “Oh!”

She was rocked, her tummy fluttering, her breasts shaking. Her breath stuttered and her hand came down at an easy pace, ran over Jay's head, she said, “No, Jay, please, don’t...oh, that’s for my boyfriend...”

Jay persisted, one hand gripped her thigh, his fingertips pressing deep into her sensitive inner flesh, his other hand came between her legs, taking two fingers and stroking her while he explored her with his tongue. His tip, tickling, undulating, laying flat and smoothing up over her hood, coming back down again to tickle at her button. He slipped a finger in her. Just a little, barely inside her. His Maggie clenched, writhing still, her little hips dancing on her bed, her bare legs squirming with her lover's touch.

“Oh Jay, oh stop, oh...this is so wrong...oh please...”

That finger sunk a little deeper and she cried her objection higher, more breathy, but just as weak. Jay was smiling, watching his finger work deeper inside her. His hips gently rocked into her bed, humping his cock against her mattress, his big thing sideways up his belly, slipping along her sheets. Max wanted his Maggie to be fucked by him. Wanted to see his Maggie's face when she took that thing. Felt a real man fuck her.

Jay worked her, he penetrated Maggie. One finger first. Max’s once protesting fiancée now eager to feel his thick finger deep inside her, he toyed with her clit, his tongue tip flicking and dancing on her. One finger became two; two thick fingers on his big wrestling hands shoved deep inside her tight hole. Her pink folds squirmed against him. Max could see the light from the window slip and squiggle across her wetness. She was so eager. She didn't want this but her body did. Her body was so hungry. Her fists formed white knuckles as she clenched his blonde clumps of hair, her hands shook as she went out of her mind at what he was doing to her. So wrong, so taboo, cheating on her fiancé, being finger-fucked by the hottest guy she'd ever seen, the man she loved watching it all, hiding and cheering for her.

She bucked. Her hips shooting off the bed and bumping Jay's lips, which he just clamped then tighter on her. Her eyes fluttered and she croaked. Another man made his fiancée come. Another man had played with her pussy, had riled her heart til it exploded in ecstasy.

Her hands lifted off his head, thrust onto her bedsheets and grabbed handfuls of bedding, gripping it until she shook, twisting and wrenching, her face screwing up like she was in pain, her mouth working to say something, no sound...then she burst an exhale, a string of silvery spit flailing from her lips, and on to her chin. "Oh, oh, oh," she gasped, her body relaxing, her breaths coming now urgent and out of control. Her sweaty chest heaved in and out, her ribs pressed her skin, her tummy sucked flat.

"Oh Jay, oh, that's...oh...incredible," she stumbled. She covered her face with her hands.

Jay gave her no time, crawling up her body and peeling them away. He kissed her lips again. Smiling and confident, his cock laying on her belly. They made out. Kissing, arms around one another, hands feeling, smoothing, grabbing. They twisted and rolled in the sheets. A building passion. Maggie wasn't going to say no. She couldn't. He was too hot, and she was too wet. They wrestled for control. Playing. Kissing and biting at their mouths, their flesh, each other's nipples. His cock dragged all over his Maggie's body and she loved it. Loved it being pressed to her body. She grabbed it and stroked it, pressed it against him with her belly.

SHE WANTED Jay to fuck her so bad. Her brain was screaming frantically. Rolling with him in her bed was incredible. His body was so hard and so masculine. He was so aroused. His cock touched her all over and she loved its heat and hardness on her skin. She kissed at his chin. It was broad. Solid. She held his cock in her left hand, stroked it. So thick and wide, even at the tip. Max's came to a point.

She pressed it downward, had to shoot her hips back to get it between her thighs. She raised a leg and let his cock slip through the gap between her legs, its length running along her creases. She thought she was going to die. Her heart beating a Royal Tattoo in her chest, her vision shook itself blurry with the excitement. She could feel his cock against her sex. Felt the hard back of it press up against her hot wet flesh. She moaned into Jay's kiss. He thrust it through the wet space where her thighs met her sex, and she felt his kiss turn to a smile. She smiled too, point blank, their eyes just inches apart. Like boyfriend and girlfriend. So intimate, so personal. She humped him roughly while she held his gaze. Flicked her sex across him, shoved her belly against his hard stomach, making herself grunt. His cock slipped and slid on her, she could feel the end of it parting her ass cheeks he was so long. What would this feel like inside her?

“Maggie, you feel so fucking good.”

His hand swept her waist, went behind and grabbed her ass. Squeezed her hard. His finger probed from behind and they looked in each other's eyes as he slid a finger into her anus. Her eyes narrowed but she kept them open. Her mouth fell wide. She was lost in it. Didn't notice that he'd angled his hips and the point of his glans pressed her folds now, mushed and spread her pussy.

“Oh Jay, oh no, Jay, no...”

“Yes, Maggie, you want it, don't fight it.”

“Am I bad? Am I a bad person?” she cried.

“Do you feel bad?”

“Yeah,” she gasped.

“You are bad...you're so bad, Maggie...that's what I like. I like my bad Maggie.”

“I'm bad?” she gasped, her hips wriggling, making the huge head of his cock swirl in the pouch of hot nestled folds, threatening to part her, threatening to sink inside her. She could do it. Max wanted it.

“You're my bad girl,” he laughed and slipped his finger in and out of her little anus.

“Oh Jay, ah, that's incredible...God, your cock feels so amazing.”

She opened her legs wide like a butterfly's wings, her ass showing to the closet, her lover's cock clearly visible, stroking its immense size over her pussy, her lover's finger clearly sunk up her ass. She wanted Max to see her, see how bad she was. See that she was Jay's bad girl.

“Put the head of your cock inside me,” she said.

He smiled wide, eyes sly and narrow. He groaned and he pressed it in.

“Oh no,” she said, changing her mind, “no, don't, I can't.”

“Mm,” he chuckled, “Maggie, Maggie, don't fight it. You're going to make this last forever. We're going to fuck. Maggie, I'm going to fuck you. You want me to fuck you.” He sunk himself deeper. He felt so good. So wrong, but so amazing. He was not Max. He didn't have Max's cock. He had Jay's cock and she liked Jay's cock. It felt so different. Not like her Max at all. Big, thick, just the glans was spreading her, pushing her lips wide. Not painful, he didn't hurt, he just felt so good.

“You feel so good, Jay,” she said. “You feel so big.”

“You like it?” he said, holding himself inside her. Not plunging just letting her muscles squeeze at the little he gave her.

“You feel so different than my boyfriend. So much bigger.”

“Are you okay?” he asked her.

“Yeah,” she said. “A little more.”

He gave her a little more. Let her feel some more of his shaft. The shape of his flared glans pushed through her like a swollen knot. She could feel the edges of it spread her wet insides.

“Okay, that's it, Jay, no more, please, I can't...”

“It's already in you, Maggie. What does it matter?”

“It matters, Jay. This is okay. I'm not cheating yet.”

He dragged it out and she gasped, “No,” and he plunged it back in, the same depth he'd withdrawn. “Ah, oh,” she cried. “Oh, again...again.”

He did it again. Pulled back an inch and plunged an inch. She was begging for more.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21ST

HE LOVED WATCHING his bad girl. Loved watching her discover herself. He hated watching Jay. Hated the sight of his cock pushing inside her.

Maggie wrestled with her actions and his heart swelled with love. But Jay was sharing something with her and he didn't like it. Didn't like how they looked in each other's eyes. Definitely didn't like all the kissing. He'd wanted more of a wham-bam sort of thing. Wanted Jay to just hold her down and fuck her and Max could watch her face, watch her pussy get spread. This had been a bit more intimate than he expected. It hurt. But Maggie was inexperienced and to her sex was love and intimacy, and kissing Jay and looking in his eyes was how she did this sort of thing. She'd never just fucked to fuck. She tied sex with emotion and Max did not like her sharing emotion with Jay.

"I want you to take me, Maggie," Jay said.

"Take you? ...I can't..."

"Once. The whole way. This is killing me, Maggie."

"The whole way?" she gasped, then moaned as if this was a real hydra.

"Yes, Maggie, take me, take me deep..."

"Oh Jay...I..."

He took his finger from inside her ass and he held her arm. In one easy move he was on top of her, gripping her arms and pressing them into the mattress, their faces almost touching, their eyes looking into one another.

"Ah Jay," she sighed, a breathy protest, and her calves stroked his thighs, coming up to his hips and crossing over his buttocks. "Jay...you want to? ..."

“Take me, Maggie...”

“Put on a condom.”

“No, Maggie,” he said. “I’m not going to wear condoms with you.”

“Jay, I bought condoms for you...in case...I bought big ones, Jay...please...”

“No, Maggie. I trust you. You’re my bad girl, but outside this room you’re good. I wear condoms, but with you I want to feel your pussy... I want to feel your insides on my cock...”

“Oh fuck, Jay,” she said, her voice trembling.

“You trust me?”

“Jay, oh, yes-ss,” she cried in tremulous warble.

“Tell me...”

“Fuck me, Jay...fuck me with your bare cock.”

Max’s hands clenched to fists. Shaking balled things, objects of rage and hate and suffering. “Oh Maggie,” he whimpered quietly. It was terrible. It was more than sex. They had trust, they had passion. Jay was so much more than Max. Maggie could see it and now she would feel it. It was so wrong, such a mistake. The look on her face as she felt every thick inch Jay had sink inside her...broke him. It was too much—it was terror to him, his mouth dropped wide like he was watching her being killed. In some ways she was—the Maggie he knew being wiped away, replaced by a Maggie with experience, a woman who knew more now than she did this morning. An experienced adulteress sampling the flavor of another man, one who provided much more. He lost himself in the moment, forgot all the things that had brought him to this closet to watch. Forgot why he ever wanted this, forgot what was in it for him.

Maggie squinted, her lashes fluttered, she gasped feeling Jay breach her. Her mouth fell open like his but it was in ecstasy, in pleasure, she was enjoying how Jay felt. She liked another man, liked his body, liked his masculinity, liked his cock, liked the dirty things he said.

“Oh fuck, no, no, no,” he whispered, a sad quiet mantra as he sat and did nothing and watched another man fuck his fiancée without a condom.

THE THIRD PENIS she’d ever had was now inside her body. No condom. Bare hot skin muscling apart her membranes, making flatulent mucus sounds as she was spread like she had never been spread. He didn't hurt. She thought he might because he was so big. She couldn't be wetter though. She'd never, ever, ever been more aroused. She could feel his size but he made her full, not sore.

Her hands went over his body, touching his shoulders, his neck, feeling his muscle and his strength, exploring his fantasy body. The kind of body a girl dreamed of. It was hers. For the afternoon this body was hers to do with as she would. So she felt him while he slipped deep inside her. Her hands admiring every hard edge, every rock hard slab.

“Kiss me, Jay,” she said. “Kiss me while you fuck me.”

His lips came to her, took her and she held his head again between her hands. They kissed while he eased himself in and out of her. He was careful and considerate, moving with ease and his muscles danced under her hands. His cock stayed shallow, he didn't keep pounding deep, just gave her a wonderful fraction of what he had. In and out of her smooth shaved sex, each thrust bringing her heartbeat faster.

“Oh,” she said, gasping around his mouth now, suddenly overwhelmed with a rising pleasure. “Oh, whoa, oh Jay, you feel so fucking good...”

“Take it, Maggie, take me in that tight pussy...”

“You like it?”

“You're amazing, Maggie...amazing...you're so tight, so hot...”

“Fuck, oh Jay, oh, a little more,” she cried.

He gave it to her, gave it deeper and she liked it. He felt miles away from her Max. His body was steel, his cock was steel. He was full blood-pumping strong, muscular and hung—she couldn't believe she was having sex with him...she felt lucky.

Her eyes opened and took him in. His handsome face so close. Not her Max. His big traps and shoulders, her frail hands on them. The size of his cock in her—it felt foreign, felt wrong. He wasn't Max. No matter how amazing this was, this was wrong.

“You feel so good, Maggie,” he grumbled, “fuck, no condom, my cock touching your insides, you feel like heaven...”

“Oh, Jay,” she cried, feeling herself sway, feeling Jay take her away again. Just like Max wanted. This was what her Max wanted. This was allowed.

“Fuck me, Jay,” she whispered, loud so Max could hear. “Jay, I can take it, fuck me, please...”

MAX'S HANDS covered his face and he watched the horror from between the V of his open fingers. “Oh no, Maggie,” he mumbled.

As ugly as it was, and despite the spike that was struck through his heart—like Jay's straight and hard cock was struck through his Maggie—the more he watched the more he was accustomed. Every thrust made his heart squeeze, her sexy sounds pushed his brow lower and he watched now through squinted eyes. Her pussy made wet protests, struggling to accommodate something of a size she wasn't used to. Her belly rolled with Jay's thrusts, heaving and roiling as the cock made magic inside her body. Got her sweating and gasping and squeaking.

“Oh Jay, oh Jay,” she squeaked now. Jay built his passion, his hips banging into her, slapping sounds filling her quiet room. The bed started to bounce. Maggie's legs climbed him, her ankles crossing over at his waist. “Oh, oh,” she moaned with his vigorous thrusts.

“Oh God,” she yelled and she balled her fists and she bumped his chest lightly. Her face squinted like she was hurting or struggling, she shook her head, her hair dancing around her face.

“Wait!” she hissed. “Wait,” again, a serious tone that slowed Jay.

“Are you okay?” he asked her. She scrunched her face up and she put her hands over to cover. “Maggie,” he said, “did I hurt you?” His hand peeled her fingers, but she resisted, wanting her face hidden. “What is it?” he said.

His hips pulled back and she took her hands away, her face was open and scared, but she stopped him. “No, don't take it out, no. Just wait,” she said. She reached between them, gripped his cock by the base and stopped him from pulling out.

“Whats going on?” he asked.

“Am I a bad girl?” she asked

He smiled and sucked her lower lip, said, “You're my bad Maggie.”

“I have to confess something.”

“What?” he said, arms thrust into the mattress on either side of her, a smirk visible on his handsome face.

Her hands covered her flushing neck and she pushed her head back in the pillow, her eyes rolled up to the ceiling, pupils moving from side to side, thinking about something.

"I'm bad, aren't I?" she said again.

"Maggie..."

She spoke loudly then, said, "Jay, you and I have never had sex, right?"

"What? Maggie..."

"We haven't, right?"

"No..."

"But we...messed around..."

"Yeah..."

Her head rolled towards Max, not looking into the closet but facing his side of the room.

"Did I watch you masturbate?"

"Yeah," he laughed.

"I did. Twice," she said. "And I touched...held your balls too."

"Yeah, you did, so?"

"That's all we ever did?"

"Did we do something else?"

"I'm confessing my sins, Jay," she said.

He laughed, "To who? God?"

"I'm...in a way I'm looking for a sign...I want to know if that's not okay..." She faced the closet, eyes wet and blinking, her face sombre like she was listening or waiting. His pounding heart went to her. She was his good Maggie. She was just a sweet kid who was lost. At once he was consumed by love and joy for her. Then crashed, knowing he wouldn't confess his sin. He wouldn't tell her that he hid, watched her. He wouldn't tell her that he sat in the closet and watched her masturbate. Wouldn't tell her that the whole time he developed a plan to have her sleep with Jay it was like he was manipulating her. He had more information than she did. He preyed on her. Bent her own dirty curiosity to his perverted will, made his good Maggie spread her legs for another man. He was disgusted with himself. He was shit for doing this to her. He was lying if he thought it was for Maggie. This right now was for Max. Maggie was on her back with her legs up because of him. She might never have cheated.

He blew her a kiss because it was the only quiet thing he could think to do that had any meaning right now. He loved her so much.

“I forgive you,” Jay laughed. “You’re absolved,” he kissed her cheek.

“Jay, I want...I want to fuck you every Thursday til I’m married.”

“What?” he laughed again.

“Yeah, but I don’t want to lie...”

“To who?”

“I guess to me...”

“What if I make you love me?” he said.

Her head spun on the pillow, looking him in his eyes, shock passed her face. “Jay!” she said.

Max was punched again. Every Thursday? Love? He was washed away by a typhoon of emotions. His cock surging, dripping all over Jessie's closet floor, his heart wrenched in a Jay-sized masculine fist. His Maggie so small, so vulnerable to this man. This man could take her, couldn't he? If he wanted Maggie, what would Max offer her that would keep her? Four years together? Was that enough? She was young, she had so much to learn. He'd given her a taste, what if she wanted more? What if she wanted to take more than a taste, what if she wanted the whole thing? Jay could take her...

Jay pulled his cock out and he helped Maggie to her knees in front of him, his big hands taking up most of her upper arm. “You’re smart. You’re beautiful. You’re sexy. Talented. I’ve seen your work, Maggie. You think I’m here to fuck you? You think I go to other rooms and pose naked because I love the arts? I pose for the class and that’s it. I don’t sleep around. I’m here to see you. Just being in the same room with you drives me wild...your smell...your skin. You make me so hard, Maggie. You make me crazy.” He kissed her then. Pulled her bewildered face to his and kissed her and she gave herself to him, closed her eyes and let him do it.

They kissed a while, Maggie coming to her senses slowly, pushing him back. “No, Jay, no,” she said softly. “No, Jay, just sex, okay? Just sex...”

He smiled, but Maggie didn't smile back. She lowered from his grip and he let her go. She sat back on her heels and she held his cock, stroked it, looking up in his eyes. “Just sex,” she repeated, then put her mouth on him. Two hands on his shaft, moving up and down, her mouth working over his glans.

“Ah, Maggie,” he groaned and he held her head in his hands, eased himself back now too, sitting his ass on her bed, putting one foot down on the floor and giving Max a perfect view of how big he was. His balls sat on Maggie's bed, his cock thrust up from between his legs, Maggie's hands struggling with it, her head bobbing up and down on him. She came off and licked her lips, her fist coming up and polishing the head of his cock while she looked in his eyes. “Just sex,” she said again. Convincing herself now, he worried.

“Oh no, Maggie,” Max whispered. “Just sex, Maggie. I love you.”

Jay smiled, condescending and confident, she still licked at her lips, her eyes scared, watching him. He sat straight, grabbed her legs just above her knee and rolled her on to her back. Her legs came up in the air and he spread them, got himself in place, walking his knees up close to her, his cock swinging and wagging. Maggie lay back and he took her feet and put them on his chest, licked his thumb and he slipped it inside her pussy and Maggie smiled, put her head back on the pillow. “That’s it,” she said.

His back muscles rippled as he worked his thumb into her, making her pussy make wet popping sounds. He pulled his thumb out and leaned over her, her knees bending up to her breasts, feet still planted on his slab of a chest. He fed his thumb to her. She sucked it. Pouted her lips on it and tasted her own juices on him. His other hand gripped his cock and he pushed it back into her and she gasped loudly around his thumb. Her toes dug into his flesh. He fucked her again, easily, watching her as she still suckled her own dew off him.

“So fucking sexy, Maggie,” he said.

“Am I?” she squeaked.

He plunged himself deep into her making her cry out a wild sound that made Max’s eyes go wide.

“Oh, angh, oh,” she sighed. He held both her hands, put his fingers through hers, then, in one purposeful movement, he rolled onto his back, pulling Maggie with him, holding her hands, feet on his chest and his cock still buried inside her.

“Oh, ah, Jay, ah,” she cried as she rode his moving body and ended up sitting on him. His cock couldn’t be deeper. She sat with her whole weight on him. Her feet on his chest, not on the bed, her hands in his, not supporting her. Every pound of her bodyweight skewered her pussy onto his weapon. He couldn’t believe she took it. Couldn’t believe that thing would fit inside his little skinny Maggie. He touched his own cock and it leaped again, made more mess for Jessie.

Maggie rolled her hips now, her head turned up, every tendon in her neck flexed and showing. Her toes clenched as she twisted on the huge cock she had inside her. She moaned and whimpered as she fucked him.

“That’s it, Maggie,” he encouraged her. “You feel so good, feel so damn good...”

“Ah,” she said, her face squinting. She rode him like that for a while, smacking sounds coming from between them, her rolling, Jay holding her hands. When she couldn’t take it anymore her feet came off him and planted onto the bed on either side of his waist, her hands left his and walked backwards down his hard body til she grabbed his thighs. Max shook his head at her, seeing her figure out what she wanted and how to get it.

She fucked Jay now. Her feet and her hands planted, she used her hips to ride up and down his long shaft. From this angle Max could see her hole wrapped tight around his girth, saw her pink flesh ripple and roll, saw her insides turn outside around Jay’s massive cock. She rode him high up his shaft then dove til he was deep.

“Oh fuck, Maggie,” Jay growled, his own face squinting, baring his teeth. Jay had a point blank view of sexy Maggie. Got to see her pussy swallow his cock. Up and down, over and over. Energetic thrusting completely under her control. Every time she thrust her hips up to the ceiling and Jay’s shining wet cock was revealed Max couldn’t believe that it had been inside her, but it was, and then she plunged it back in. She fucked him til her skin was shining like Jay’s cock. Sweat formed on her, made her porcelain skin shine in the sunlight.

“Oh, ah, ah, augh,” she chanted with each thrust now. Fucking Jay to make herself come.

“Oh Jay, you’re so good, you’re so big...I can’t take it...”

“Yeah, that’s my dick,” she whispered, plunging him all the way again, shooting forward now, her knees on the bed, getting face to face with him, her hair whipping around Jay’s neck.

Her little butt shook and squeezed while she rode him, looking in his eyes now. She had the cutest little round butt and she let it bounce up and down and she squirmed and wriggled on Jay. Her head went up and down, her hair swinging, her little tits hung down and jiggled, Jay covered them with his strong hands and he said, “Come Maggie, I want to feel you come...come for me...show me how you come on my cock...”

“Ah!” she yelled, thrust her face up so Jay could see her expression when she came. She looked in pain and pleasure, teeth bared, eyes squinted, face snarling but eyebrows high and peaceful. She was off somewhere else in her mind while her body was wracked with pleasure going through her in waves. It was intense. Max grabbed his chest. Watching his Maggie come had made him out of breath. His heart hammered and his ears rang. She was so incredible. He was back to feeling good again. Rooting for her. “That’s it, Maggie,” he whispered, “oh baby, you’re so beautiful when you come...”

“Oh Jay,” she sighed and gasped, “Jay, Jay.” Her head whipped forward, slashed his skin with her hair. She thrust it back again with her hand sweeping it up and away, over her back. She looked in Jay’s eyes again and she kissed him.

It stabbed him. Too intimate. But she was just overwhelmed. She was kissing the man who just made her come. That was biology.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21ST

BIGGEST ORGASM OF HER LIFE. Not that you could measure them. Most memorable she would have to say. The most incredible sexual experience of her life. Everything about it turned her on to the point she was electrified. Jay's body, his face, his accomplishments, his physical ability, his upbringing, his intelligence, his dirty talk, the passion he had, yes, the size of his cock too—all of it together led her down a path that was ended at a cliff ledge. She'd stepped off happily and plummeted, not knowing what was at the bottom, but while it gave her tummy the flips it brought a smile across her face that couldn't be wider. Jay was incredible. He lay under her now, his eyes twinkling in the light, his long lashes winking at her. A smile coming along those sultry lips of his. He was so handsome. She put her hands on his hard chest.

“Wow,” she gasped.

“I could watch you come all day long.”

“Wow,” she said again. “Not like that, no...I feel dizzy...”

He sat up. She sunk into his lap, his cock sliding deep again, like it was right up in her tummy, putting an imaginary lump in her throat. “Oh,” she said.

His hands smoothed her rump and he kissed her. They made out, sitting like that and it felt wonderful. Their mouths rocking on each other, his cock moving gently in and out of her, his hands shaping her movement on him, pushing and rolling her hips onto his cock. When he got close they grew more slippery. His cock leaking inside her like Max's would when he was close. He got to his knees with her clinging to him and he lay her on her back, their mouths still locked and sucking.

“Come inside me, Jay,” she whispered in his ear.

“You’re on the pill?”

“I am,” she said.

“You sure?”

“Jay...” she softly chastised him, her fingers scratching his neck playfully. “Come for me...I want to feel you come inside me.”

He sucked on her lips, and she clamped him with her thighs, her hands scratching at his scalp. He fucked her. Hard, then slow, faster...she thought she might come again, her heart was racing, then, when she encouraged him again, whispered, “Come Jay, come,” he stiffened. The muscles of his back turned to rock and she reached up under his arms and scratched them as he thrust deeply again and again. His steely cock flexed inside her, cables bulged at her entrance and she felt him pulsing his seed deep inside her. “Oh, that’s it, that’s it, Jay,” she whispered to him, then louder for Max, “I feel it so deep, I feel you coming, Jay, I feel it, uh...it’s so much...”

It was too. He kept spurting his hot tickles up inside her, over and over, and she felt herself overflowing. She clamped his waist tight between her legs and moaned.

Jay thrust deep and he shook, his sweaty body trembling as he pushed his last drops into her. He was rigid, frozen and she polished his hard shining back. His stomach was sucked in, rippled with bunched flesh, he wasn’t breathing. His cock flexed and pumped. Finally he exhaled in a storm, a growl and a roar escaping him and he collapsed on her.

“Oh fuck, Jay,” she laughed. “You are incredible.”

He laughed too, and groaned into her neck. His hand came between them, slipped over her belly and he held the base of his cock and eased it out of her.

“Ew, oh,” she protested feeling him slide out. She was slick from his copious seed and her own excitement, but it still felt uncomfortable to have him pulling out of her.

“Ahh,” she sighed as his tip fell free. She felt a belch from her sex and warm semen seeping into the seam of her ass. She clamped her thighs shut as he lay next to her.

Her hands came to cover her face, she breathed into her palms.

“Fuck me every Thursday?” he laughed.

She moaned into her hands, listened to her breaths score through her palms. She took them away, said, “Yeah. Okay?”

He rolled to his side and he caressed her cheek and ran some wet hair off behind her ear. He said, "I'll be here."

"Jay? I...can I be alone?"

"No, Maggie, lay with me..."

"No, Jay," she said. "I can't. Please? I did something so wrong. I want to be alone."

"Maggie, let me hold you..."

His muscular arms came to her, one going over her chest and holding her. She put her hands up and stopped it.

"Jay. Please go. I'm okay. Look at me..." She turned her head in her pillow and her eyes met his. "I need to be alone or I'm going to lose it."

Their eyes held and she didn't look away. She bored her gaze into his, her eyes serious but peaceful. She wanted him to go. She wasn't mad.

He read her. His posture softened and he caressed her cheek again. He kissed her lips and she let him but she was stiffer now.

"You okay?" he said again.

"Yeah. See you Thursday?"

He nodded. Looking a little dejected, a little sullen but he would leave. He sat up and scooted himself to the edge of the bed, his feet touching down on her floor. She watched him breathe, that big wide back heave slowly as his own excitement waned. She touched him, reached out and put her hand on his shoulder and said, "Thank you, Jay."

MAX WAS GOING to fucking explode if this guy didn't get the fuck out of here. What was he doing? She said he should go. Max streamed slippery discharge down his shaft into the puddle he'd made on poor Jessie's closet floor. Still Jay sat there. Looking out the window, handsome face lit by the afternoon sun coming in. Maggie lay on her back still with her hands over her face. It's fine, she's fine, just go, already!

Jay stood up then, his cock wet from Max's fiancée. Still full and engorged but hanging heavy now, deflating. Maggie peered at him between her fingers. Max felt hurt knowing what she was seeing. Looking up at her handsome and hung lover. His seed swelling in her crevasse right now, her pussy satiated by his big hard cock. They looked like lovers after a lunchtime tryst. But he knew Maggie wanted Jay gone and he wanted it too.

Jay kissed her forehead and then he got dressed. Maggie watched him between her fingers, whispered, "Sorry, Jay."

Jay was smiling now for her. A pretend sort of thing. Apparently not happy he was asked to leave but at least he was going.

Jay got his clothes and shoes on, collected his book bag and he paused at the door. He said, "You're incredible too. You know that, Maggie?"

She nodded, hands still over her face.

"Incredible," he repeated and he opened the door and left, closing it quietly behind him.

Max charged out of the closet on all fours. Totally naked, cock shining with his own lubrication. He was on his feet by the time he got to the door. He locked it.

Turned then and saw his Maggie. The woman he loved. She was changed. But he loved her. Loved her just the same. She was on the bed, thighs clamped tight, hands over her face, watching him now through the triangular spaces between her fingers. He clambered to the bed.

She was crying. Her narrow eyes wet and glistening.

"Show me," he said.

Her knees raised slow, stayed pressed together, his hand stroking the top of her foot. Then she opened her legs, let them fall wide enough so he could see. Her sex was abused and reddened, her labia puffed and stretched, sitting out from that sweet cleft he'd carefully shaved for Jay. She flexed her tummy and Jay's seed bubbled from her and streamed out of that pink slit that was entirely Max's.

"The woman I'm going to marry is the campus slut," he said in a low and serious voice.

Her hands came away. Their eyes met and Max witnessed her nipples bunch. Harden from his abusive words.

"Maggie is the campus slut," he repeated. She brushed her tears and a smile tugged at her.

"Max," she whispered. He climbed up on top of her with anxious energy. Felt his skin press to hers, felt his cock slide all over her dirtied belly and between her legs. He kissed her and she gave it back. Kissed him like she was in love, kissed him like they'd been apart a whole semester while she was in Rome. Kissed like they missed each other and needed each other more than air. He gulped and swallowed her tongue, she kissed him and her teeth bit at his flesh. They both grunted and groaned and their hands went over one another.

“You little slut,” he whispered next to her ear.

She whispered, “Fuck your little slut.”

His hand went down and touched her slippery hole, felt how wet Jay had left her, felt how slippery she was. He said, “You are a little whore.”

She said, “I’m full of his come, Max. I’m so bad.”

He kissed his way down her chest and over her belly, and she cried in anticipation. Her nails clawed at his head and through his hair, at once wanting to stop him and at the same time doing absolutely nothing to stop him. His mouth went over her hood, his tongue darted under her clit, scooped it up into his mouth and he pulled it from her body, took it and the surrounding flesh into his mouth and like that he made his Maggie come. She came so hard she pounded her fists into the mattress again. “Oh Max, oh Max,” she gasped over and over, and her thighs clapped his ears so hard they rang. He laughed, blowing bubbles in the mess Jay had left and he got on all fours over top of her. She smiled at him in the sunlight, his face shining from her union with her lover. They stared at each other for a second that seemed an eternity then his lust won over and he took his cock and he slipped it up inside her. His tight Maggie stretched and filled by Jay, and he slipped into her with no resistance. She gasped just the same.

“You’re so fucking wet,” he laughed.

“He fucked me so well, Max. God, can he fuck.”

“You were amazing, Maggie,” he said and thrust himself through her wetness.

“Fuck me, Max, fuck me...”

He wanted to be Jay for her. Wanted to fill her up and stretch her to the limits, make her come and scream, but he wasn’t built like Jay, and he’d been in a closet witnessing the most erotically exciting thing he’d ever witnessed in his entire life. The woman he loved being made love to by another man. He had no idea why it turned him on but resisting it was futile. He loved it, loved to see her like that. And in about ten strokes into her loose belching wetness he was filling up his honor student with the second big batch of semen she took today. His campus whore was full of men’s come.

He roared like he’d never come before in his life and it was new and it was huge. He scared himself. He bellowed and growled as he launched everything in him up inside the woman he would marry. She clawed his back and she dug her heels into his thighs. She hissed “Yes-ss, yes-ss, yes-ss,” over and over as she felt his cock shooting inside her.

EPILOGUE

“YOU HUNGRY?” he asked her.

She sighed and ran her hand through her hair. He turned nervously and watched her profile.

They were both naked, shoulder to shoulder on her double dorm room bed. Sunlight streamed from the window and lit her up, glowing, from her breasts down. He was in shade except for his feet.

“Maggie?”

“Yeah?”

“Is something wrong?”

His stomach flipped as he watched her eyeballs look around. All the lust was drained from him. He’d been emptied. Now he was a guy who had spied on his fiancée, lied to her, convinced her to fuck another man. She’d taken Jay. Really done it. She’d had life-changing sex. She’d seen her Max at his most lascivious. His most base. He felt small and disgusting.

Finally, she said, “I’m not a slut, am I? You don’t think that, do you?” She spoke the question fearfully to the room, eyes turned up to the sunlight. Now her head eased slowly on her pillow, turning her face to meet his. The sun cast a daub of afternoon light along her high smooth cheekbone. She blinked at him with exigency. His hand held her, along her neck, his thumb on her jaw.

“Maggie, you are the greatest woman on earth. I mean that from my heart. You’re not a slut. You’re my fiancée, you’re my Maggie.”

Her lips worked around while she thought about what they’d done. He worried too, worried what his lover might think of him after what she’d seen.

He asked, "What do you think of me?"

"I love you," she said, one corner of her plump mouth coming up in a smile.

"And what I did...down there?" he said, chin pointing down to their waists.

Her hand covered his cheek now. She wasn't upset, not happy, somewhere in between, somewhere troubled. She whispered, "It made me come."

"Was it good? With Jay?"

"It was amazing," she said without smiling.

"He didn't wear a condom."

"I know," she said and her thumb ran over his lip.

"He came inside you."

"That was so hot," she said.

"We didn't agree on that."

"Are you mad at me?"

"No. You said you weren't really going to do it."

She shrugged and sighed. "I didn't think I would."

"I knew you would." He held her wrist while she caressed his cheek. They stared into each other's eyes, laying on their sides. Communicating something but he wasn't sure what. They didn't smile. After a while he realized he was afraid.

"Sundae," she said.

He said, "Sunday? ...what?"

"I'm hungry," she smiled now and seeing her lips spread wide and the sunlight shine on their wet made everything better all at once. "Buy me a sundae."

His hand stroked her sun-hot arm and he breathed her in, then hugged her to him tight. Felt her warm Maggie flesh press against his. "I would love to," he said.

Her lips next to his ear, she whispered, "We should get in the shower..."

He said, "No. Maggie, is it okay...I want to take you out...like this..."

"Ew, Max...I'm all...dirty," she said and chuckled.

"You're so hot."

"Like this?"

He screwed his mouth up, afraid to admit it, but he did. "Wear a skirt. Don't wear panties."

“Go out like that?” she laughed.

“For me,” he said.

She looked into his eyes again, watching and blinking, but she smiled the whole time and there was a twinkle there. “Okay,” she said.

Maggie got out of bed and he lay and watched her. Moving around her room, naked and beautiful, she opened drawers and threw items on the bed. She smiled the whole time, putting on a show for him, biting her own lip. She let him watch herself get dressed, pulling on a top with no bra and then a short skirt over her bare sex.

She scrunched her face up when she squat and picked his clothes off the floor.

“What?” he said.

She whispered, “I think I’m still leaking.”

He groaned and closed his eyes and she threw his balled up clothes onto his face.

“You have your FarmCard?” she asked him as he sat up and got his clothing sorted.

“Yeah,” he said.

“Wash my bedding for me. My lover came all over my sheets,” she laughed.

She stood next to him and hugged his head while he slipped his pants on. His hand went up the inside of her thigh and under her skirt. He felt her wet there, but she closed her thighs against him and she whispered, “Mnnh-mnh.”

“I love you,” he said.

“I love you too, Max,” she said to him, still holding his head to her chest. His hand was still clasped between the soft wet insides of her thighs.

“Are you sore?” he asked her as he stood and balled up her duvet and her sheets.

“No,” she said. “I feel it. I know I had sex.”

He threw her things in her hamper and hoisted it to his hip. She held the door open for him, grabbing the handkerchief and tossing it onto her dresser. “Altieri’s?” he asked her as he passed into the hall.

She nodded and took his free hand in hers as they walked down the hall. “What did you think of Jay’s...” she looked over her shoulder, then whispered so no one would hear, “...Jay’s cock?”

He raised his eyebrows, said, “It was huge.”

“I know,” she agreed. “Are you okay with that?”

“Why? ...cause it’s better?”

“I don’t know...are you okay with that?”

“I’m okay,” he said. “You want to fuck him every Thursday?”

She laughed out loud and she squeezed his hand.

They went to the laundry room and he swiped his card for her, loaded her dirtied sheets into a washing machine. The laundry was crowded but Maggie got herself close to him and she whispered, “I just said that in the moment. I was worked up.”

He said, “You don’t want to do that?”

“I do want to do that. If it’s okay.”

He looked in her eyes. She was different. She was still turned on right now. That look excited him but it scared the shit out of him too. He wanted that for himself but it took another man to bring it out of her for him. He stared and thought, and her eyes darted back and forth on his. His wrist was held and he looked down. Maggie watched around her shoulders again, a group of students laughing on the couches behind them and over two banks of washers and dryers. Her hands guided his hand up under her skirt and he touched her between her legs. She was warm still, and wet. Labia were drying and stiffening but she was still seeping.

“Please, Max. You can watch.”

He nodded.

They left the laundry to run and she took his hand again and they walked out into the daylight. The sun was shining and warm and the leaves on the trees winked in brilliant color. They headed through the Village and down to Altieri’s, getting a table by the front window. Maggie made a funny face before she sat, scooping her skirt under her bare butt and sitting gently.

“Feeling it now?” he asked.

“Starting to,” she laughed.

They ordered a pitcher of beer, a pepperoni pizza, and two chocolate sundaes. Friends came and went and they waved and said hello. Maggie the whole time sitting there with no underwear, two boys’ semen leaking onto the inside of her skirt. He got hard. Ate his pizza hard. Drank his beer hard.

When the sundaes came he said, “I want you to do it again.”

She smiled and scooped ice cream into her mouth, long stainless spoon clicking against her perfect teeth. She held the ice cream in her mouth, frowned and winced at a headache, swallowed, then said, “We’ve got ten months...”

“You want to have sex with Jay for ten months?”

She took another scoop up on the spoon and said, “I don’t know,” frowning and shrugging. “Ten months until our wedding...”

“You still want to marry me?” he joked, but fishing for confirmation.

She looked at him, bewildered, said, “Max, of course.” She put her hand over his forearm. He placed his over hers.

He said, “Ten months?”

“Ten months until I’m a married woman. Ten months to explore the things I never did.” She looked in his eyes now, her face anxious and expectant.

His hand trembled over top of hers. “Things?”

“What do you think?” she asked nervously.

It was his turn to look over his shoulders. He brought her hand down between his legs and she scanned the room as well. Her hand settled on the rock hard erection he’d been nursing since they got here. She stroked the tip of him where it pressed his pants out.

“A lot of experiences in ten months,” he said.

“I know,” she said, her eyes leveled on his, her thumb running a circle over his tip.

He said, “Then you’ll marry me?”

“I can’t wait,” she said.

His stomach fluttered as her thumb brought him very close to a public orgasm. “Yeah,” he gasped.

She pulled herself close to him and whispered, “I’m going to be so bad, Max. So bad, in ten months you might not want to marry me...”

Once he starts neither of them could stop him. He could take whatever he wants. It might be better—if Moric would let him—to just join him...
