

A woman with long, wavy brown hair is sitting on a bed, looking back over her right shoulder towards the camera. She is wearing a black two-piece bikini. The bed has white linens and a dark grey headboard. In the background, there is a window with sheer white curtains. The overall lighting is warm and soft.

April Heads For Home

Matthew Lee

April Heads For Home

By Matthew Lee

BunnyLovesBigCarrots@gmail.com

April Willet returned the small blue weights to the rack and glanced around the advanced training center at the gym. She knew she did not belong here, not yet, but she used all the fit, hard bodies as inspiration. Today, two of her favorites used the center. Trevor worked inclined press and Derek performed squats on the Smith machine. Neither of these men noticed she was present.

I'm invisible to hot guys, she lamented.

She rubbed her small hand over her pot belly and directed her gaze to Carla, who was busy doing lunges.

Why would they look at me when they can look at Carla?

April scanned this area of the gym and realized every guy there watched Carla. The Hispanic woman had her long hair gathered in a ponytail down her back. Her tight sports bra and small shorts were dark with sweat but none of the men cared. They were riveted by the spectacle of her strong and lean body working out. She finished her lunges and moved next to April.

"Can I grab those?" she asked, popping out her Bose earphones and pointing at the weights on the rack.

April froze for a second before speaking. "Sure. Of course. Sorry." She stepped back to give Carla room, listening to the tiny squall of dubstep blaring from the buds.

"Thanks."

April watched the girl walk away. She admired the firm curve of ass and swell of breast as much as the men, but for different reasons.

I want to look like her.

She faced herself in the wall mirror and gave her body a hard look.

I have a lot of work to do.

She picked up the blue weights and started her next set, remembering the invite held by a magnet to her refrigerator at home.

The high school reunion is coming, but I have time. I need dedication and willpower. No way will I allow those people to see me like this.

Her forehead furrowed as she pushed herself to do another set.

The trip back to Florida would be a long one. They'd leave Las Vegas in a rented car and head east to Orlando, with stops at the Grand Canyon, Carlsbad Caverns, New Orleans, and any other place that caught their fancy. She and her husband accumulated many weeks of paid vacation and wanted a mix of planned stops combined with spontaneous exploration. After the reunion, they'd return by a different route, enjoying whatever the countryside had to offer.

Keith Willet stopped the lawnmower and lifted his dirty polo shirt to wipe the sweat from his face, realizing, too late, he'd exposed his fat and hair stomach to the neighborhood. Some kids riding by on bicycles laughed and Sandy, the older pretty blonde across the street, quickly turned away. He blushed and smoothed the shirt back into place.

Yardwork counts as exercise, he told himself.

He restarted the mower. April got home from the gym as he finished and they went inside to shower together.

He watched her undress and throw her gym clothes in the hamper. She smiled, enjoying his eyes on her. She already showed signs of improvement.

"You must be working hard," he said. "I already see a difference."

"Really? Oh, Baby, that's so sweet. I am working hard. All through school I was Chubby April to those people. No way are they going to call me that again. You should come to the gym with me. There was a girl there you would have liked."

"Yardwork counts as exercise," Keith blurted. "And I already have a girl I like."

She kissed his cheek and they got in the shower. That night April initiated sex and they both fell asleep happy.

The next day April stepped up her workout routine. She text Keith and told him to make his own dinner as she would visit the gym after work.

She invited him again but he declined. This time she worked legs and did sit-ups until she couldn't anymore.

Weeks passed and her improvements continued. As she left a Dunkin Donuts one morning on her way to work, a handsome frat boy held the door open for her. She thanked him and he told her no problem but at the last second she caught his eyes dropping to her butt as she went by. She smiled through the rest of her work day.

Keith made progress too, but not like her. She was driven.

As a little girl, the first time she was teased about her weight she cried to her mother. Her mom brought her ice cream to make her feel better and established the pattern which would stay with her until only a few months ago; every upset could be salved with food.

If grade school was hard, high school was brutal. April's big hazel eyes and well-defined cheek bones gave her a pretty face which drew lots of attention, but then the boys would taunt and the girls act jealous. She had one close friend, Ginny Maples, but after graduation they went to different colleges and drifted apart. On Facebook, April saw that Ginny dropped out of school and had a baby with a guy she barely knew.

April met Keith at University of Las Vegas her sophomore year. He was as shy and quiet as she. They spent the same period in the library and eventually he started saying hello. After a few weeks, she invited him to her table and soon they were dating.

Everything they know about sex they learned together.

Keith had a similar story, without the teasing, unless you count the ribbing his father gave him for being so unathletic.

April grabbed a handful of messy hair and pulled it off her face. She let it fall.

Working out isn't enough, she thought. I should style my long hair, too.

She held up a hand and stared at the back of it.

And nails.

She leaned close to the bathroom mirror and studied her face.

And a visit to Mac's make-up counter so they can teach me how to look stunning. I want to make those high school idiots regret ever laughing at me. I want them to stare in disbelief.

She gazed into her own green eyes. “Not that you’re pretty enough to make anyone stare,” she said to the face in the mirror. “But at least I can make them notice me.”

She finished getting ready for her day as administrative assistant to the executive assistant to the CEO of Pepperdine Incorporated, a plastics manufacturer, and checked herself one last time in the full-length hall mirror. Keith was right, she could see improvements, and a surge of adrenaline shot through her.

This might work.

Her stop at Dunkin Donuts brought looks from several guys and she found herself standing a little taller. She was unaware doing so also thrust her large breasts forward and upward, which drew even more attention. All she knew was for the first time in her life she felt visible, and she loved it. She floated through her work day.

After, she stopped by the mall to shop for clothes. She entered a store called “Chic Chick” and searched for the sexiest sales girl, an Asian with long black hair, and pulled her aside.

“I need your help,” she began, holding up her arms. “Look at me. I cannot dress myself. No matter how hard I try, I always end up frumpy. I’m heading to my high school reunion and I want to look sexy but not slutty. You’re dressed almost exactly how I want to look so will you pick out clothes for me? Please?”

“Of course,” the salesgirl replied. “My name is Tammy. Let’s start a dressing room for you.”

For two hours Tammy walked April around the store, trying different combinations, teaching her how to show some skin but not too much. April had just stepped out of a black pencil skirt and was standing in only sheer bra and panties when she caught Tammy checking her out. April blushed, hard. She reached for her shirt to cover up but at the last moment realized her heart raced. Excitement was mixed in with her shame and embarrassment. She dropped the shirt and forced herself to stand there and take Tammy’s gaze.

“I’m sorry,” the salesgirl said. “I don’t mean to stare and I hope I’m not making you uncomfortable, but you’re really pretty. I bet you don’t even know that.”

“I’m working out every day,” April awkwardly announced and then blushed again.

“You’re going to kill it, girl. Once we pulled your hair off your face and I got a look at you I was surprised how beautiful you are. Don’t hide that shit, Honey, show it.”

April was dying on the inside. She desperately wanted to cover up and run away but stood frozen while Tammy’s admiring eyes roamed her body. After a long silence Tammy spoke again.

“Stay here, I just thought of another outfit.”

Three times over the next hour April caught Tammy ogling and twice the salesgirl brushed against her body, once across the butt and once across both breasts. April’s discomfort faded until she shivered with electricity.

Keith better want sex when I get home.

Tammy walked her to the register and totaled her bill and then grabbed a business card.

“This is my cell,” she mentioned, casually writing the number on the back of the card. “Let me know when you’re ready for more. I’ll pull aside things I think will look good on you.”

April made sure no one was around and then impulsively wrote her number on a another card. She slid the card across the counter to Tammy.

“Let me know when something cute comes in,” she added. Tammy gave he a knowing grin. April collected her bags and left the store.

That was so stupid! She didn’t want my number; she was just doing her job. I’m such an idiot. Why did I do that?

She walked fast, headed directly to her car. Once she was driving, with the mall in her rearview, she calmed down. She ran her time at the store over and over in her mind, growing more confident with each pass. Tammy had flirted with her. April was certain.

And I liked it. A lot. I should just admit that to myself.

At a stop light, she pushed a hand into her pants and brought back a wet finger.

I better tell Keith everything...and then jump him.

Keith had no idea what hit him. He heard the garage door and saw April walking towards him carrying multiple bags, and then she was in his arms, kissing him deeply. After a minute, she dropped to her knees and freed his penis and sucked him deep. They spent the rest of the night in bed. In between the hot sex, April shared everything.

“Are you jealous?” she asked.

Keith chuckled. “Over a girl? No way. I think it’s hot. I think you should go back soon. I admit I’m surprised; I never would have guessed you had this in you. Do you think working out has given you more confidence? Or maybe it’s just made you horny? Either way, it’s exciting to see.”

April considered his words. “I don’t feel more confident but I do feel bolder. Does that make any sense?”

“Not really, but who cares? Our boring and utterly predictable life could use a little more risk.”

For the next four weeks, April was a gym rat, visiting every day and sometimes twice a day. Keith went more often too and noticed improvement, but for April the extra weight just melted away. Inspired by these successes, April pushed herself hard.

She wore some of the items Tammy picked out for her and got positive reactions everywhere she went. In time, her confidence grew.

When she got a text from Tammy, her heart jumped a little. She told Keith she’d be late after work and when he asked why, she text him one word; Tammy. He sent back a wink emoji.

Dinner time on a week night and the mall was quiet. April hurried passed shops until Chic Chick loomed. She wandered the store until she saw Tammy helping someone else and then hovered close until the salesgirl became available. Tammy gave a huge smile and April swooped in for a hug.

“I need more clothing!” she gushed.

“Perfect! Follow me. Let’s get you started.”

April fell in behind the pretty Asian girl. As they headed for the dressing rooms, April watched Tammy ass bounce. She was a petite girl but had a nice round butt and breasts surprisingly large for a girl so small.

Tammy opened the dressing room door and told April to get undressed and she'd return with the new items.

Why am I nervous? April wondered. She unbuttoned her top and slid off her pants. She was embarrassed to discover her bra looked old and dingy in the harsh florescent light. Thank God I wore new panties today.

Tammy knocked once and opened the door, quickly stepping inside and closing it behind her. Caught by surprise, April froze. Tammy lifted the new items to the wall hook and then faced her client.

"How have you been?" she asked, her voice professional.

"Good. Busy."

"I can tell you're still hitting the gym hard. You look great."

"Thank you, I am. I started jogging in the mornings too."

She noticed Tammy glancing at her cleavage and impulsively asked if Chic Chick sold bras too.

"Of course. Would you like me to grab you a new one?"

"Sure. Thank you. Whatever you recommend."

Tammy studied April's tits. "Are they real? Makes a difference on which bra."

Flustered, April admitted they were.

"Well you can't tell. They're really firm for so big. Mine are implants. Look."

Tammy lifted her top up over her boobs. April's eyes grew big. Each olive breast was a perfect teardrop. The girl wore a sheer bra and April gazed a little too long at the small dark nipples. Tammy waited and just before April looked away, Tammy spoke.

"Touch them. Do they feel real?"

This was too much. April looked at the floor and tried to form words but only stammered random sounds.

"Don't worry, they're just boobs. Tell me what you think."

April scolded herself. Stop acting like a teenager! She remembered Keith's words from weeks before about their predictable lives. When she looked up again, Tammy stood, smiling innocently, shirt lifted over tits.

She's so pretty, April thought.

Her hand floated up and she cupped Tammy's firm, full breast, feeling the warmth against her palm. Tammy's nipple hardened. A shiver of excitement ran up April's spine and for an instant, as if floating above, she looked down on herself locked in a dressing room, holding the breast of a hot girl.

“That feels totally real,” she said, gently squeezing. After a few heartbeats, Tammy offered the other tit and April lifted her other hand, caressing both breasts as they gazed into each other’s eyes.

“Let me grab you that new bra,” Tammy said, stepping back and adjusting her top. April swallowed hard and thanked her. “Start with the denim mini skirt. I’ll be right back.”

April paused a moment after the door closed and took a deep breath and then lifted the skirt from the hook and slid it up her legs. Moments later, Tammy entered without knocking, this time locking the door behind her. She carried three black bras, all lace. Both girls studied the skirt in the mirror as April turned side to side.

“I don’t think so,” Tammy said. April agreed.

“Hand me your bra,” Tammy stated, a slight tension in her voice. April’s hand shook as she reached behind and slipped the clasp. Her bra slid down her arms and she straightened, dropping the item into Tammy’s waiting hand, both big, firm, tits hanging free. Tammy stared.

“Goddamn, girl, you scored. Those are perfect. Are you sure they’re real?”

April looked down at her naked tits then up to meet Tammy’s obviously excited eyes. Her mouth was as dry as talc, her tongue felt huge.

“Touch them,” she mumbled, her strained voice low. “Tell me what you think.”

Tammy did not hesitate. Her delicate hands cupped and caressed the large globes, curling along and under, dragging palms across sensitive nipples. April gasped. One leg shook.

“They’re so firm,” Tammy whispered. April stared at the floor. Her eyelids fluttered as Tammy continued to touch the full mounds. She bit her bottom lip.

“Let’s see which bra fits best,” Tammy suggested, finally, and April welcomed the respite. She tried on the articles of clothing, enjoyed Tammy flirting with her, and did her best to flirt back. When she’d made her final choices, Tammy said to get dressed and she’d meet her at the register. The salesgirl gathered the items for purchase and reached for the doorknob but just before opening the door, turned and, before April could react, kissed April softly on the mouth. Tammy left the room and shut the door behind her.

April dropped onto a bench and placed both hands on top of her head.

Holy shit!

She saw herself in the mirror, new black lace bra wrapped around her tits.

That was fucking hot. I must text Keith. He won't believe it.

She tapped keys furiously, telling her husband every detail. She hit send and finished dressing and then joined Tammy at the check-out.

The few customers and other salespeople suspected nothing, or, if they did, successfully hid it. April felt wild and daring. She paid her bill and gave Tammy a knowing smile.

"See you soon," she said.

"Yes, please," Tammy returned. "Come see me again right away."

April raced home and Keith was ready. "She kissed you? You played with each other's tits?"

"Yes! My God, Honey? What's happening?"

Keith took her hand and led her to the bedroom.

With new-found confidence, April hit the gym the next day. She watched Carla turn every head and Trevor and Derek drool.

I might be ready, she thought. Her eyes danced gleefully. Tammy thinks so.

She cut a path across their vision, but neither man even noticed. She stopped between them and bent over for a ten-pound plate. Both men kept their gaze riveted to Carla. After feeling so high the day before, feeling invisible again was especially devastating. April dropped the plate and headed for the locker room.

Keith tried to console her but they just watched a movie together in near silence and then April went to bed early. Keith tucked her in and gave her lots of kisses. He tried reassuring her how much better she looked these days and announced those guys were blind idiots, but April wouldn't hear him. She said she was tired and wanted to put this day behind her. They kissed goodnight.

After he shut the bedroom door he made his way to the den. The big screen was still on and in the glow, he found his phone and reread for the hundredth time the dressing room text from April.

After her first encounter with Tammy, Keith had secretly gone by the mall and got a good look at the pretty Asian girl. Now he imagined the two women caressing breasts and his penis grew. He rubbed the front of his pants.

April was changing and he liked it. Her adventures with Tammy caught him by surprise; he had no idea she was capable of such things. She wore tighter clothing now and revealed more skin and her interest in sex was up too. They made love twice as much as they used to. He'd noticed behavioral changes in others, too. Women noticed April now but the interest from other men had skyrocketed. Keith was unsure how he felt about it. Partly he felt threatened, but also he felt flattered. He enjoyed having a wife others wanted.

He cocked an ear to be sure April was still in bed and then removed his pants. In the dim glow of the television, he stroked his penis and imagined his wife playing with Tammy breasts. He came quickly and joined April in bed.

April realized there was no way to hurry her weight loss. Her hurt fueled her drive and she was the epitome of dedication for weeks. As her body slowly transformed she ignored it, focused instead on her ultimate goal.

She stopped by Chic Chick a few more times but Tammy was the only sales associate and had no extra time to give her. April made her purchases as Tammy apologized profusely, promising to make it all up to her.

April was leaving the mall after her last visit when she passed a store called Pouty. The mannequin in the window wore a bright pink mini skirt that was the shortest April had ever seen and a sheer white top. April blushed at the visible mannequin nipples and looked away.

Who wears something like that in public? I could never.

Five steps later she stopped abruptly.

Carla. Carla would wear something like that. Carla CAN wear something like that.

She clenched her jaw and spun on her heel to head back to the store.

The store was empty and she wandered the rows for almost a minute before a handsome young man exited the back. He wore tight black pants and a tight white dress shirt over a muscular frame and April gave him an appreciative look before she could stop herself.

“Sorry,” he said. “just grabbing a quick bite of dinner. How can I help you?”

“Are you the sales person here?”

“Yep. One and only.”

April bit her bottom lip. She’d never worked with a male associate for clothing and especially not in a store like this. He sensed her hesitation.

“My name is Tony,” he said. “Have a look around. I’m happy to answer any questions. Is this for you or a gift?”

“Hi Tony. I’m a little embarrassed to shop for sexy clothing like this with a man.”

“Fair enough, but I don’t judge, believe me. If it helps just pretend I’m gay. That’s what most of the hot wives do.”

“I’m a hot wife?”

“Hell yes. I hope I’m not being rude.”

“No, I’m flattered. Do you help women dress sexy?”

“I do. I can tell you what looks good and what goes too far. All my regulars trust me and they keep coming back, so I must be doing something right.”

April saw sincerity in his eyes and relaxed a little. She set her bags on the floor.

“Alright, Tony. This is for me, not a gift. I’m headed back to Florida for a high school reunion so I want sexy but not slutty. This store looks mostly slutty.”

Tony chuckled. “It is. Girls these days give prostitutes a run for their money, so to speak. I’ll guide you away from anything too scandalous. May I show you a few items I think would look great on you?”

April felt her last defense crumble. She gave him a slight nod and he got to work.

An hour later she had to admit he was fantastic at his job. Tony knew every cut and size which worked for her before she even tried the item on. His sweet compliments flowed smoothly but when he was wrong, he admitted it easily. The store was pricey so April couldn't get everything she wanted but she found two tops and a skirt she had to have. Tony kept her busy in the dressing room but never crossed a line of discretion, rarely opening the door. Most times he handed things over the top.

Maybe it was his handsome face or maybe she just needed reassurance after the episode at the gym, but on one of his dressing room visits April opened the door and asked his opinion of a lacey pink top. She'd removed her black bra and was aware of the large amount of cleavage she showed and thoroughly enjoyed the intensity of his stare. Only after he'd gone and the door was closed did she see in the mirror how sheer the fabric became when pulled tightly around her large breasts. She'd given him a scandalous view of both nipples. Her face flushed and she took several minutes to regain her composure.

I won't be texting Keith about this shopping trip.

A knock at the door made her cover up before opening it. Tony held another top for her to try. She thanks him and took the offered item, noticing the bulge of his crotch. She quickly shut the door, fanning herself.

Good God, I must get out of this place.

She collected her two tops and skirt and headed for check-out. Once home, she told Keith nothing. As they made love, she twice had the image of Tony's swollen lump float through her mind. She shook her head to clear it but at the moment of her climax, the thought returned.

The last weeks were intense. April pushed herself hard and everyone at work noticed. She wore ever tighter clothing as her body transformed and one of the guys from shipping and receiving whistled at her in the parking lot before learning who she was. He apologized profusely, explaining he did not recognize her from the back. The more he talked the bigger fool he made of himself and April ate it up. She told him not to worry, she accepted his apology and the crude compliment too.

In the days that followed she experimented with her wardrobe and found she could influence the behavior of others depending on what she wore. Men especially were eager to assist her. She was invited by men to lunch three times the last week before she left on vacation. She told Keith everything and while he expressed jealousy at first, that quickly faded into happiness for her. April couldn't name them but she felt her husband experienced other emotions too, but those he kept to himself. She saw something in his eyes, like pride, each time she shared a flattering story about someone from work.

At last the day of departure arrived. Keith rented the car the night before, a jet-black Mercedes Benz E200K, and they packed the trunk with everything they thought they might need. Before dawn they already had two hundred miles behind them. They drove until Ash Fork, just outside Kaibab National Forest, where they had a light brunch.

The sun was up and the early morning chill gone so April threw her sweatshirt into the back seat, leaving her in shorts and a loose T-shirt. The conversation was easy and the hours and miles ticked off. Keith left the freeway for the highway and they drove through the towering pine and juniper, enjoying each other's company and the view. Keith pulled in for gas at Love's Travel Stop and April said she'd use the bathroom.

When the air conditioning hit her inside the store, April's nipples tightened into diamonds. The young man behind the counter said: "Whoa," and openly stared. April looked down and quickened her steps to the restroom.

She'd been very young when her breasts first began to grow and the extra weight she carried only made them bigger. Many of the other girls called her a slut from jealousy. The boys loved them and often said crude things to her. She learned to slouch and wear loose clothing. For breasts so big her areola were surprisingly small, about the size of a quarter, and when cold or excited would lift her nipples into stiff pink pencil erasers.

She used the restroom and waited for them to go down, irritated she had to hide. Keith is waiting for me, damn it. I am a grown woman. Why do I care what some kid thinks? She stood at the dirty sink and stared at herself in the mirror, twin bumps staring back. You know what? Fuck this. She reached under her shirt and unclasped her bra. I'm riding all day with my husband. Comfort matters more. She stuffed her bra in her purse and exited the bathroom.

The attendant had kept a watch on the door and when April stepped out his head came up. Although large, her tits were firm and had that independent motion breasts get when freed. His gaze followed their sexy wobble. April almost laughed. He looked hypnotized. She grabbed some almonds and beef jerky and approached the register. The kid kept staring until April leaned against the counter.

“Will that be all?” he stammered.

“Yup.”

At last his eyes came up to hers and he saw she was pretty too. He scanned her items and April decided to have some fun.

“How far away is the Canyon?” she asked.

“Bout an hour,” he mumbled, his eyes back on her hard nipples. He pointed to a spot on a map under the glass countertop. “You’re here,” he slid a finger north. “You want to get here.”

April leaned over to inspect the map, knowing her loose collar would fall forward and her audience of one would get an eyeful. She stayed down long enough to be sure he saw plenty.

“Thank you.”

“You’re welcome, ma’am.”

Outside the hot sun felt good.

Keith’s smile froze when he realized April had removed her bra. He watched her cross the parking lot.

This is fun, she thought. I may have had the wrong attitude all my life. I like the attention now.

She blew her husband a kiss over the top of the Mercedes and climbed in. He finished and joined her.

“Comfortable?” he asked.

She smiled. “Very.”

Keith started the car and April offered some almonds. Back on the highway, she discovered the vibrations from the road stimulated her breasts inside her soft cotton shirt. I should go braless more often, she concluded.

Soon Keith said: “I think this is our exit.”

April looked at the sign flashing by. “It is.”

“How do you know?”

“I talked to the guy at the store. He showed me on a map.”

Keith was quiet for a moment. “You talked with him?”

“Yup.”

They drove in silence through most flat scrubland and high desert. Keith searched for a good radio station but found nothing so April inserted a Beethoven CD and they listened to that as the miles fell away.

Keith felt conflicted. April was obviously much more comfortable showing her body and he welcomed that; she was happier and more sexual and that directly benefitted him. But it also drew the attention of others. In the case of Tammy, that proved awesome. But he worried about other men. Some kid behind the counter was probably nothing but what about other men? What about their friends?

He imagined his best friend Gary on this trip and April walking across the parking lot like she had. Gary would drop dead. He's had a small crush on April as long as they've been friends. April never encouraged it and never flirted back but poor Gary would lose his mind.

Should I say something to her? I don't want to discourage her.

He listened to the music, occasionally glancing at April. She gazed out the passenger windows with a slight smile curling the corner of her mouth. He ran his eyes over her body. She'd come so far. Tone muscles in her arms and legs curled and coiled as she moved in her seat. Bumps in the road made her breasts jiggle. They were smaller than before her exercise program, but not much.

His gaze landed on her wedding ring. He'd saved so long for that big rock. Sliding it on her finger in front of family and friends had been his proudest moment.

The day I became a man, he thought.

He reached over and took her hand. Her grin blossomed into a smile and she leaned her head on his shoulder.

"I love you," she said.

"I love you, too."

"Thanks for doing this with me. It's our vacation but it's my reunion. You didn't have to agree."

"It sounded like fun, Honey. I've wanted to see every stop on our list so this was perfect. Besides, if your high school life was as painful as mine, you'll need some moral support."

She laughed. "I'm sure it was."

A sign announcing the Grand Canyon went by and April asked how much longer.

"About an hour."

“I hope the motel has a pool.”

“It does. Jacuzzi too.”

“Sweet. I bought a new bathing suit.”

They talked about work and family and just over an hour later, pulled into Grand Canyon Village. Keith found their motel and checked them in and then drove around to their room at the back. They unloaded only what they needed and agreed to head out to see all they could before the sunset.

They’d been walking the canyon rim for a while when April asked what he saw when he looked out over the canyon.

“Time. I see a window into the past, like that scene in the movie Time Machine, where he goes through the years really fast and everything crumbles. What do you see?”

“I imagine the tribes that lived here for so long before the modern world showed up. A hard life I’m sure but I’d say it was a good one. They had game and shelter and water. I bet they liked it here.”

They followed the trail until the sun dropped low and then turned back, arriving at their room as the light faded.

“That was wonderful, Keith. Tomorrow we hike to the bottom?”

“Yes, and spend the night before coming back up another way.”

“Perfect. I want to swim. You coming?”

“I’m tired from all the driving. I’d like a beer and a basketball game.”

“As you wish, my prince.”

April dug through her luggage to find her suit and then changed in the bathroom. She wrapped a towel and kissed Keith who was already watching the game.

At the pool, she dropped the towel and swam twenty laps before moving to the jacuzzi. The hot water and jolting bubbles eased her muscles. There were several families at the pool area with her and she caught multiple fathers checking her out. She was annoyed with their crass behavior but only for a moment. They tried to be sly about their gawking, hiding it from the wives and kids, but it seemed every male there wanted at least a peek.

I should be flattered, not upset. They didn’t make a vow to me.

Still, she felt some relief when two girls in their late teens or early twenties showed up wearing tiny suits. The men divided their attention and she felt less conspicuous. When she rose from the whirlpool to dry and head back, all attention landed on her. The new suit clung to every toned curve and, once wet, had become partially see-through. She wrapped the towel and headed back to Keith.

She found him asleep in the chair. The long drive and extended hike had worn him out. Half a beer sat on the end table. April smiled and woke him up enough to get him to bed and then started the shower to wash the chlorine out of her hair. She opened the bathroom window to vent the steam and noticed that a motel room two floors up and at a right angle to hers had a clear view into her bathroom. Two men moved in front of the large front window. Her window had no drapes so she started to crank the beveled glass closed.

She stopped.

What's the harm?

Her heart beat faster. She locked the bathroom door. She leaned over to start the shower and checked on the two men from the corner of her eye. They'd noticed her and dimmed the light in their room and now watched with interest.

This is crazy.

She reached between her shoulder blades and untied the bikini knot, then did the same to the knot behind her neck. She acted casual but her breath was fast and shallow when she let the bikini top fall to the bathroom floor. She turned her hips towards the open window. Whoever they were, they now had an unobstructed view of her big tits.

Why am I doing this?

One hand steadied her on the sink while the other untied the knot at her hip. The twin triangles of fabric fell, exposing her small, trimmed patch of pubic hair. Her mouth went dry. Her heart hammered. She knew they could see her tits and pussy and that knowledge sent electric tingling through her body. She was on display from the knees up. She turned her head to see herself in the mirror and realized they had the same view. Her eyes grew big.

Do they like what they see? God, I hope so.

A sensual wave rolled over her. She drew a palm up her flat belly until she cupped a full breast, and then ran her hand over the nipple, which stood up.

Too far away for them to see that, but I see it.

She did the same to the other breast.

A car door in the parking lot snapped her back to the moment. A glance showed she remained undiscovered, on display for her audience of two only, but second-thoughts crept in.

Keith sleeps in the other room. My husband. I should stop.

She reached for the crank but paused. She left the window open. Only her spectators could see her.

What's the harm? She wondered, again.

She pulled back the shower curtain and stepped inside, closing it behind her. Out of their sight now, she pinched a nipple and slid a finger between her labia, debating if she should wake Keith for sex.

The idea had less appeal after her orgasm so she instead joined him in sleep, but not before giving one last show as she dried herself.

The next day they rose refreshed. They showered and filled their backpacks, and then grabbed a light breakfast and started the hike down.

Four hot and dusty hours later they reached the canyon floor. The views were spectacular and both enjoyed that connected feeling only time spent in wilderness can give. They ate again and wandered away from any sign of trail, working ever closer to the Colorado River. When Keith found a secluded spot where the water pooled and they slipped out of their hiking clothes and jumped naked into the brisk water, washing away all the dirt and sweat from the day. They laughed and hugged and scrubbed. They kissed deeply and Keith squeezed her strong ass with both hands.

"Want to do it?" he asked.

April's mouth fell open but she said nothing. She scanned the surrounding cliffs and listen closely to the wind.

"Are we alone enough?"

"I don't know. Maybe. What difference does it make? We're mostly underwater. If someone comes we'll stop."

He took her hand under the water and placed it on his already erect penis. She gasped. With another glance around she wrapped her legs around his waist while facing him and reached under to guide him in. Both moaned at the penetration. Pumping was difficult in the current and Keith's feet slipped on mossy rocks. Every sound was an alarm bell they'd been discovered. Moans became giggles.

Just as they were about to give up a stone tumbled down the embankment and a feminine voice called from above.

"Hey love birds? Mind if we jump in too?"

Two young blonde women, mid-twenties, climbed over the rocks towards the river. With them was a man about forty, with dark brown hair and beard. They all wore hiking gear and clearly knew what they were doing.

"You found our spot," the other girl said. "Good choice."

April looked at Keith and mouthed, What do we do? He shrugged and pointed with his chin at their clothing hanging on the bushes.

"Um, sure," he called out. "But, well..."

"We can see your clothing. We know you're naked. No worries, friends. You're our kind of people."

When the threesome reached the water's edge they began to disrobe, shamelessly stripping down to nothing. All three were fit from a life outdoors and sported many tattoos. The women were lithe and small breasted but the man was muscular and hairy. Bras and panties joined the growing pile, revealing small pink nipples and shaved labia. Boxers dropped and a plump and heavy cock flopped. Keith and April looked quickly away.

"I'm Annabelle," said the taller, "and this is Peggy. That's Patrick but he likes to be called Bear."

"I never asked for that nickname," Patrick joked. "And I can't help that I'm hairy."

"We know," Annabelle laughed. "We love you anyway."

Keith and April looked at them again. Bear looked strong and powerful. Hair covered his body from his feet to his head, thinning across his stomach but growing dense again on his chest. His fat penis hung well beyond his large scrotum, the base lost in a dark thatch of pubic hair.

"Did you guys do Burning Man this year?" Peggy asked, slipping a foot into the cool water. "We did. It was awesome."

Keith pulled his penis out of April and drifted to the far bank, pulling his wife with him. "Um, no, not this year."

He ran his eyes quickly over Annabelle and Peggy. They were pretty girls, tall and bright-eyed. He lingered for half a heartbeat on their breasts and pussy and felt his erection throb. A glance at April showed her gaze stuck on Bear, staring at his penis. She caught herself and looked at the water.

Jealousy flared but Keith bit his tongue. April floated closer and into his arms until she nestled in his lap. Keith was surprised to discover he was still erect despite the jealousy, the unexpected company, and the cold water. April was surprised to discover it too and twisted to give him a curious look.

“You like those girls, hm?”

“About as much as you like Bear,” he countered. “I saw you staring.”

They searched the other’s face to see how serious the problem was. Keith chuckled and the tension broke. “You like all that hair, Baby?”

April scrunched her face. “Not so much.”

Keith let it go. The threesome was now neck-deep and Annabelle struck up a conversation about how much she loved hiking the Appalachian Trail. April shared what their trip was about and the girls admired her dedication to get fit. Patrick asked Keith what he did for a living and Keith replied, “Branch manager for Wells Fargo. You?”

“Investment banker, foreign capital, Impact Financial. Bella and Peg work for the same company but a different division.”

The conversation roamed and Keith and April relaxed. April was surprised how comfortable she became while floating naked in a pool with strangers.

Eventually they had to move on and said goodbye to their new friends. The threesome watched and when Keith and April left the water both girls whistled and cat-called at April as soon as they saw her naked.

Annabelle yelled, “Goddamn, April, you look hot! Way to go, Sweetness. I wish I had titties like those.”

Peggy laughed. “I want those titties and that ass. April, you look like a walking Carl commercial.”

Patrick just stared.

Everyone said their goodbyes and Keith and April headed on to the campsite. They located the pad reserved for them and pitched their tent. They’d chosen the more difficult trail down so only two other couples occupied the large campsite with them.

Once their site was set up they wandered upriver, snapping pictures and taking video. As the sun dropped they headed back to camp. They ate and shared a bottle of wine and enjoyed each other's fine company. As they sat staring into a small campfire, Keith decided to bring up something on his mind.

"So, did you think Patrick was hot?"

April thought about deflecting but chose to answer truthfully. "Yeah. The hair was a bit much but he had a nice body and handsome face."

"He was pretty big."

For an instant April thought he meant muscular. Then she knew. "Yes," she said, sheepishly. "Sorry if I hurt your feelings, Honey. Everything happened so fast and then his penis was just there, you know, right in our faces. I was shocked. Then shocked again by the size. Do you think he's had sex with both those girls?"

"Hell yes. They had that familiarity about them. I bet they all have sex with each other, and probably often."

"You want to have sex with me?" April teased.

"Yes, ma'am, I do. I expected to be tired at the end of this day but I didn't expect to be horny. What a weird encounter."

"I bet Bear is fucking both those girls right now."

"I'm sure you're right. He said he had weed and Molly too. I hope they don't get hurt getting high out in nature."

"That's wild. A threesome under the stars while high as a kite. Sounds fun."

Keith laughed. "Which part?" he heard himself say. "Getting high, a threesome under stars, or sex with Bear?"

April faced her husband. "I never said I wanted to have sex with him."

"Your mouth didn't, but your face did. I saw the way you looked at him."

April thought of a hundred come-backs but said nothing. She considered flat denial, deflection, nurturing. Finally, she just said: "Maybe it did. I promise I wasn't thinking that, but who knows what my face was doing at that moment."

"You stared longer because he was so big."

"Did I?"

"I think so. I guess I understand."

“I’ve seen so few, Honey. His had a presence about it, I’ll give him that. Maybe because we see women naked all the time in movies and magazines and on the Internet. Penises are startling and their arrival usually means sex, so yeah, maybe I looked at his too long.”

April wore her customary T-shirt and shorts and the orange firelight gave her skin a healthy glow. Keith had no follow-up to her admission so instead he stood and offered her a hand. The look in his eye told her what came next. She accepted his hand and they moved to the tent. He was rougher than usual and she liked it.

What she didn’t know because Keith successfully hid it from her, was the battle that raged inside him. He’d caught his wife lusting after another man and he’d caught that man lusting after his wife. He’d felt jealousy, of course, but their mutual desire had made him lustful too, and that he did not understand at all. Many times, while he had his sweating wife beneath him, the image of naked Patrick flashed in his mind. He saw April’s gaze riveted to the man’s formidable penis and he liked that she couldn’t look away, and that made no sense. That confused and alarmed him. He took his angst out on her, which she seemed to appreciate, and he wondered more than once during their hot sex if April was thinking of Patrick.

After breakfast, they broke down the camp and removed all trace of their visit. As April was adjusting her pack she looked at Keith and asked, “Bra or no bra? I saw the way you looked at me in the parking lot yesterday but I don’t want to shame my husband.”

“What about all the people around?”

April shrugged. “I’m caring less what other people think these days.”

Keith remembered her walking across the parking lot, big tits swaying. He imagined other hikers seeing her like that.

“No bra,” he said.

She grinned. Hours later, when they passed the empty swimming hole, April waved.

“Bye girls,” she said to no one. “Bye Bear. Bye Bear’s penis.”

“Shut up,” Keith joked. April laughed.

They ate again when they reached the village and then Keith asked, “Hit the road or stay another night and leave in the morning?”

“You tell me; how tired are you?”

“I can drive.”

“Then I say hit the road. This is exciting, Honey. What a great trip.”

“Completely agree. I’ll try to make it to Albuquerque but we may have to stop sooner. I can’t wait to see the Caverns.”

“I leave it up to you, my prince. Lead us.”

They’d been driving several hours when April, map in hand, announced, “Hey! Did you know we are on historic Route Sixty-Six?”

“Awesome! They called it the Mother Road back in the day. The east used it to migrate west after the dust bowls of the thirties. Sweet!”

They gazed out their windows with renewed interest.

“We are such dorks,” April said after a minute. Both laughed.

Albuquerque proved too far. They stopped at the Petrified Forest and spent a few hours wandering and then got back on the road. Hours after sunset, Keith started getting sleepy. They had just passed the tiny town of Chambers when they saw a small road sign that said: “Rooms-five miles.” Keith said they should stop.

April felt uneasy but said nothing. Beyond the strip of light from the freeway streetlights, a wall of pitch black surrounded them, pressing in on her. Keith took the turnoff and looped under the freeway to head north. The light faded in the rearview and soon all she saw was the circles of road under their headlamps. They came over a rise and a faint light beckoned them. Keith pulled up to a cluster of buildings, the largest being a dilapidated church, and a large house with a sign that said: “Rooms.” The paved road ended and they drove over gravel until Keith parked the car.

“This place is creepy,” April said.

“It is. Check the Internet for reviews. Maybe we should drive on?”

April grabbed her phone and after a brief search put it down again. “Nothing. This is the only place for hours in either direction and there are no reviews of it.”

They sat in silence a moment.

“Fuck it,” she said. “Let’s just sleep and bolt. We can eat some bars for breakfast once we’re on the road again in the morning.”

The old woman behind the desk moved slower than any person they’d ever seen. The place smelled of dust and abandoned hopes. The furniture was ancient and unused and the wallpaper peeled in many places. They got the key to their room and locked the door behind them.

The bed was a queen and sagged in the middle. The shower stall showed rust around the spout and drain and black in the grout.

“Charming,” April muttered. Keith grunted.

They rinsed the road from their bodies and dressed for bed. After a few hours of fitful sleep, April awoke to the sound of voices outside. She slipped from bed and peeked out the window and saw two men enter the church while one waited outside. A shiver ran down her legs. The two men left the church and all three headed towards the Mercedes, stopping to admire once they got there.

With the group closer she saw one of the men, the one that had waited outside the church, was missing an arm. The second man had nothing special about him that April could see in the dim light but the third man was a giant, broad shoulders and barrel chest, thick arms and legs. He stood six to eight inches taller than his companions.

“That’s a nice car,” One-Arm said. April considered waking Keith.

“Did you see the filly that got out of it?” the Giant asked. “Right out of the pages of a magazine. A damn Goddess.”

The men laughed. “Yeah, we saw her,” said One-Arm. “Selma put them in the queen room. I got video of that hot bitch showering before bed. Bet I get some more in the morning.”

Man-Two spoke for the first time. “Maybe the husband will fuck her. That would be a good one.”

April’s blood ran cold. This room has cameras? Fuck.

She turned and scanned the room but saw nothing odd other than the general poor condition. She considered confronting the owners but they were outnumbered. She thought about calling the police but what would that do to their trip? They may need to stay in town to testify. She considered confronting them directly but One-Arm and Giant made her nervous.

Better if I don’t even tell Keith. Just get up early, skip the shower, pay, and get the fuck out. Creeps.

The men moved on out of sight and she returned to bed, although sleep was a long time coming. She was just drifting off when the Giant's words came back to her; "Right out of the pages of a magazine. A damn Goddess." A warm feeling spread outward from her breasts. She was immediately irritated with herself.

Jesus, April, are you so desperate for attention you'll take praise from those assholes? The question hung in the air before her, staring her right in the face. Eventually she admitted the truth. Yup. After a lifetime of neglect, all the praise I'm getting feels amazing. I love it. I want more. She felt ridiculous. Just go to sleep, dork. Tomorrow we'll put this place far behind us.

She slept lightly and noises woke her a few times. In the morning Keith left bed first and came back with coffee, waking her by the rich smell. Again, she considered telling Keith what she'd discovered but didn't. I'm accumulating quite a list of secrets from my husband.

She watched him remove his pajamas and glanced around the room again for cameras. The morning light did not help. She detected nothing.

Keith pulled fresh clothing out of his travel bags and slid his boxers down. April saw his penis had the puffy remnants of morning wood and she found herself scrutinizing his genitalia. She liked the way he looked. She seen penises in movies and liked the way they looked too. She remembered Bear from earlier and what Keith had said about her and April realized her husband was correct; I was fascinated by the size.

April vaguely remembered the room had cameras.

Let's give those fuckers a thrill.

She moved to her knees and began kissing his balls. Keith asked no questions. He was growing accustomed to April's heightened sex drive.

She draped his penis up her face and licked the shaft from testicles to the head, which she sucked into her hot mouth. Keith adapted quickly. She whipped her T-shirt off and grabbed both tits, pinching and pulling the nipples. Keith buried his fingers in her hair and fucked her mouth until he was hard, then he made her stand.

"Get your panties off," he ordered. She ripped them down her legs as he turned her around and bent her over the chest of drawers.

April knew they were being watched. She felt it. Lust surged through her. More than watched, they were being recorded. Men would jerk off to her for years. She pictured One-Arm and shook her head. Next she pictured the Giant, overalls around his knees, huge cock in hand, yanking on it as he watched Keith fuck her until a massive load of jizz spewed.

“Jesus,” Keith muttered. “You’re soaked, Babe.”

April knew why but kept her mouth shut. When Keith pushed his penis into her she groaned, her orgasm already close. He fucked her against the dresser, hard and fast, and she played with her clit while twisting a nipple. Her orgasm smashed her. She saw stars as her mind exploded with color. She tossed her head and moaned loudly as her husband pounded away.

When he said he was getting close she told him no, wait, and changed positions so she was on the bed, legs spread wide to the hidden cameras, Keith between her legs hammering her until filling her with cum.

They caught their breath and then Keith said: “Let’s shower and get the fuck out of Dodge.”

April agreed. “When you check us out, pay cash. The less these freaks know about us, the better.”

Forty minutes later the buildings grew smaller in the rearview.

“What brought that on?” he asked.

April chewed a lip. “Not sure, Baby. I’m horny all the time now. I think it’s my new body. I feel confident and sexy.” Not exactly a lie, she thought.

“Well, I love it. Keep going.”

April looked at the passenger mirror. I left them with a sex tape. Guilt threatened for a minute but she beat it back. What’s the harm? If we keep moving, nothing can happen.

They continued to gain elevation as they made their way over the Continental Divide. The freeway was almost empty so they sailed through Albuquerque without stopping. They listened to music, talked, or rode in comfortable silence hour after hour. With each mile they put behind them, April’s guilt lessened.

At Clines Corners they left Freeway Forty and aimed south on Highway Two-Eighty-Five. Nothing but bare rock and small scrub brush met them. They refueled in Encino and April briefly flirted with the clerk again.

Hours later they passed a sign that said: “Come See the Mini-Caverns! You Won’t Be Sorry!” They gave each other a knowing look but after a minute April said: “I know it sounds cheesy, but why not?”

Keith raised his shoulders and dropped them. “Alright.”

He took the turnoff and followed the paved road which soon became gravel before turning to dirt. A ranch house rose from the dust and Keith parked in front of it. Inside they met Earl, a mid-fifties cowboy, tall and lean and supremely confident. He gave April his full attention, which she loved, and Keith played along. Earl did not threaten him. April would never be attracted to a man that much older.

They paid the small fee and Earl put them in his truck and drove them out to the cave entrance. Keith didn’t like it when Earl made him wait while he escorted April down into the labyrinth without him. The last thing he saw was the old man’s arm come up around her shoulders to steady her over the treacherous terrain and she snaked her arm around his waist. After that they disappeared into the darkness. Keith waited twenty minutes before Earl came to get him and offered no help climbing down at all, not that Keith would have accepted it.

Inside the cave was cool and wet, which surprised them both given how arid the surface was. The deeper they went the heavier the mist and after an hour, everyone’s clothing clung to them. April’s shirt looked painted on, exposing every curve, and revealing the small bumps of her nipples. After another thirty minutes the cotton was virtually transparent. Keith pretended not to notice, distracted by the stalactites and stalagmites, the colored pools, and the incredible rock formations. Earl pretend not to notice too but Keith knew he’d seen. Even April was aware but played cool.

Earl talked constantly, pointing out different geologic formations and their cause. Earl still gave her all his attention so Keith hung back, allowing the two to scout ahead, excited by the flirtatious game they played. He would never have guessed April would find a man Earl’s age attractive. Maybe she was just having some fun. He’d always felt a surge of pride when someone noticed April but it happened so often now he barely had time to catch up.

Previously she’d been utterly unaware when another man or woman noticed her. Lately she’d been looking for it and when she saw it she craved more. Keith was sometimes uncertain how he felt about his wife’s newly emerging lusty side. He resolved to keep an eye on things and come to terms with the conflict he felt.

The tour was well worth the money and by the end Keith and April were glad they'd come. Back at the ranch house Earl opened a beer for everyone and they sat around a picnic table and talked. Keith caught the old-timer ogling his wife too many times to count. At last their clothing dried and they said their goodbyes. April surprised Keith when she kissed Earl on the cheek, close enough the corners of their mouths touched. Keith got them back to the highway and pointed south and after half an hour of driving in silence April asked: "Are you upset with me?"

"What do I have to be upset about?"

"I don't know. Maybe you thought I was too friendly with Earl. Maybe you're actually bugged I stared at Bear. Are you?"

Keith was about to answer no, just like he always did, but this time he hesitated.

"Uh oh," April said.

"No, Honey, it's not like that. You did treat Earl special and you did gawk at naked Patrick. More than that, I see you around other men and you act differently now."

"You mean before when I was ugly."

"You've never been ugly, Baby, except in your own eyes. I mean before you started exercising and learned to believe in yourself and your own attractiveness. Tell the truth; do you love all the attention?"

She nodded. "I do. I'll stop. I'm sorry if I've disrespected you."

"Well, here's the thing; I like it too. A lot. I'm surprised by it. I do get jealous but I'd hate for you to stop and honestly, the jealousy feels good in a weird way. I don't feel disrespected and I don't want to see you caged again. I feel pride when other men want you, like they want you but I have you. I know we're having sex more now because all this turns you on. It turns me on too."

April laughed. "Okay, maybe I should do more instead of less?"

"How do you mean?"

"I don't know. I've never flirted in my life, not in any deliberate way. I don't really know how. I think it would be fun to try. I sometimes wonder where I score with guys now. What girl doesn't? I love the reactions I'm getting. Maybe I can test the waters a little and turn us both on at the same time?"

Keith pursed his lips. The idea intrigued him. "Like dressing sexy?"

"Dressing sexy, making eye-contact, I don't know. I'll just try whatever occurs to me, stuff I've seen other girls do. Just play it by ear. You could give me a sign if I go too far and cross a line."

"A sign?"

"Yeah, like from that movie, The Sting. Rub the side of your nose or something. It's just a game. We're not doing anything serious. I'm exploring and you're watching your hot wife get pursued, although I doubt that many guys will chase me. I just think if we both are in on it, we can relax. That sounds fun to me,"

It was Keith's turn to nod. "It does, actually."

April leaned across the seat and kissed his cheek. She thought about sharing the flirtatious and sexy things she'd already done behind his back but decided against it. This new plan would allow her to do those things without withholding or lying about them. She was eager to get started but hid her excitement.

"I was surprised you flirted with Earl. He's so old. I didn't think he was your type at all."

"Usually you'd be right but he was so intense and was so into me. Did you see the ways he looked at me? I really liked it. He wanted me badly. Plus, he was handsome in a rugged way and had really pretty eyes."

They drove a long time lost in their own thoughts, both unsure where their new game would lead. They flashed through Roswell and April asked if it was the same Roswell where aliens crashed.

"Yup."

"Seriously?"

"Nope. Sorry, Honey, no aliens. Space is too big."

"Oh."

Farmland covered the desert floor for a while and then a highway sign announced Carlsbad was close.

"We should sleep in Carlsbad and hit the Caverns in the morning," Keith said.

April nodded agreement. They left the Two-Eighty-Five for the Five-Twenty-Four and slowed. Once in town, they found a nice hotel in the heart of the city and showered and changed clothes. Keith stuck with jeans and a T-shirt but April put on a brown pleated skirt and chocolate baby-doll shoes. Her top was sleeveless and tan, loose, and Keith suspected she was once again braless underneath.

At the restaurant, they grabbed a full dinner. Keith was tired from all the driving but April wanted a little nightlife so they agreed to just a few drinks. They drove around until Keith spied Hackberry Draw, a country bar with billiards and dancing. The gravel parking lot was packed with cars and the music from the Lynyrd Skynyrd cover band carried out to the lot. April smiled.

“Sounds like a good time!”

Inside the bar was divide in half; restaurant on one side, bar on the other. Wood floors and red jacquard wall paper, open-beam ceilings and fake Tiffany lamps. A bouncer checked identification at the only door to the bar and gave April a scrutinizing.

Once inside, Keith grabbed an open booth and ordered four tequila shots while April darted for the bathroom. He was happy to discover all the waitresses wore red dress shirts way too small, unbuttoned all the way down and tied under the breasts, and super-short denim miniskirts. The crowd was an assortment of plainly dressed and hard-working people, mostly male, mid-twenties to mid-thirties.

“I’ve never seen so many cowboy boots,” April said when she got to the table. She looked at the shots of tequila and laughed. “Oh, it’s like that, is it?”

“It’s like that. Our room is right around the corner so why not?”

They toasted to romance and friendship, then toasted again to trust. Keith ordered another double round and they toasted to hot sex and then grand adventure. They danced a few songs and drank some more and when April wanted to dance again Keith declined. April left him in the booth and went out alone, which she’s done a million times. The crowd swallowed her.

She was gone a long time and when she returned she had two early to mid-twenties cowboys with her, tall and lanky, and they hung on every word she said. She’d pulled her hair up and stabbed a pen through it and a thin sheen of sweat covered her skin. Keith thought she looked about as sexy as he’d ever seen her.

She introduced the cowboys as Danny and Toby and the four ordered another round and made small talk. As time passed, Keith was surprised to find himself aroused watching her with them. They were clearly smitten by his lovely wife and April devoured all the attention. She saw him looking at her and rubbed a finger along her nose. It took Keith a second to realize what she was doing and then subtly waved her off.

Nothing to be jealous about here.

She accepted his green light with a grin, pulling Toby out of his seat and onto the dance floor when the next song started. Keith watched Toby's arm slip around her waist as the crowd closed behind her.

"You guys are awesome," Danny shouted over the music. "You don't like dancing?"

"Not too much. Besides, I drove from the Grand Canyon today and I'm tired. The tequila has me drifting. I just want to listen to music and relax."

"Cool. She's gorgeous. You're lucky."

"That I am."

Toby and April did not return when the song ended so Danny went looking to join them. Time passed and Keith felt himself getting drowsy so he circled the dance floor to get up and moved around and use the restroom. From his new position, he saw April down in the mix of things, Toby behind grinding his crotch into her ass and Danny in front, close enough her tits rubbed his chest, their face separated by about an inch.

Is she going to kiss him?

Toby put his hands on her hips and pulled her back. Her mouth dropped open because of something she felt and she twisted her head, laughing and pointing over a shoulder. Toby laughed too and lifted his hands in a 'What can I do about it?' gesture.

She feels his erection, Keith realized.

Danny circled her at the shoulders with his long arms and Toby did the same around her waist. The men stepped closer and April was sandwiched, a hot male gyrating behind and another in front. She tilted her head back on Toby's chest and soaked it in. Her arms circled Danny and pulled him closer and Keith knew at that moment she felt two hard dicks pressed against her. Her body writhed to the music as their sweaty bodies mashed together.

Keith felt his penis rise.

What. The. Fuck? Why am I getting turned-on?

April slipped one arm behind Toby's head and pulled his face into her nape. He must have kissed her because her eyelids fluttered. Danny buried his face in her neck on the other side and Keith thought he'd been too rash earlier; this was the sexiest she'd ever looked. Toby slid a hand up slowly until he cupped the side of her tit. April did nothing to stop him so he moved it around towards the front. In moments Keith knew the man had his wife's nipple on his palm, yet she still welcomed them.

The music changed as one song ended and the band transitioned to the next and the spell broke. April stiffened and the guys stepped back and April straightened her clothing and looked around. No one cared. She pointed towards the booth and yelled something over the music and Keith knew she was headed back to the booth so he continued to the restroom.

When he got back to the booth April sat between her new friends. Danny started to get up and April made plans to slide around but Keith stopped them.

"No worries," he said. "I'm sure you'll want to dance more so I'll sit on this end."

April studied her husband for signs he was upset but saw none. What she did see in his eyes she couldn't identify.

Danny said: "Cool," and sat back down, closer to April than before.

The group started talking again, voices raised over the music, and a few minutes later April's eyes went big. The table blocked his view but Keith was sure one of the guys and placed a hand on his wife's bare thigh. How high up, he couldn't guess.

The guys took turns dancing with her a few more times but then April abruptly announced it was time to leave. Keith paid the bill and shook hands and April gave them long hugs and thanked them for making her night so much fun.

In the car, neither Keith nor April spoke. The hotel was only three blocks away. Keith parked the car and April took his arm as they walked to their room around back. Keith slid the key and opened the door. April stepped through. Keith closed the door and threw the deadbolt.

Seams tore in their haste to remove clothing. They moved towards the bed as they kissed passionately, busy hands stripping. Keith crushed a breast and April filled her hands with his ass, pulling his crotch hard against hers. They fell onto the bed naked and spent the night fucking like furious animals. They'd fall apart, exhausted, but couple again as soon as they recovered. They spoke few words. As she approached her first orgasm Keith grunted, "I saw you. I watched you with them," and April had the strongest climax of her life. Later, as they fucked missionary, his mouth close to her ear, he asked who had touched what under the table.

“Toby,” she moaned. “My wet panties.”

It was Keith’s turn to cum hard.

Only when their bodies failed them, near dawn, did they finally stop, curled sleeping in a tangled ball of arms and legs.

Breakfast was awkward. In the glaring light of a new day, Keith felt vulnerable and exposed, April felt shamed and regretful. They spoke little of the night before and not until after noon, as they rode the shuttle to the Caverns, did Keith finally say something to break the prison.

“We should lighten up, on ourselves and each other.”

The shuttle stopped and a large group of tourists stepped off. April waited for a family of five to move away and then tugged his sleeve and pulled him aside.

“You don’t hate me?” Her face was twisted with fear.

“What? No. Why? Not in the least, Honey.”

“I was so bad last night. I woke up this morning sure you hated me.”

“The opposite of that, April. I’m the one who should feel shitty. What kind of man just sits and watches that? You only did it because I said you could, and, of course, the tequila. We should blame it on the goddamn tequila.”

“The goddamn tequila,” she echoed.

After a moment, Keith laughed. All their tension and fear began to drain away.

“The goddamn tequila,” she repeated. “Put that on my tombstone.”

She took his hands in hers. “It was exciting, though, wasn’t it?”

“God, yes. I don’t understand myself at all. I thought I did, but I don’t. You know I’ve always liked it when a man looks at you but this was that feeling times a million.”

“I saw something in your eyes, something I didn’t fully recognize. Like you were excited but confused by it.”

“I was.”

“Last night you said you saw me with them?”

“Yes. I headed for the restroom and saw you dancing between them. They made a sandwich of you.”

Fear crept back into her face.

“No, don’t worry. It was hot. Crazy hot. I got hard, Baby.”

“Really?”

“Yeah. Could you feel, you know, their erections?”

“Easily. I bet cocaine wouldn’t make my heart race like that did.

Keith, I hope I didn’t go too far.”

“Not at all. You looked sexier than I’d ever seen you.”

They waited for the rest of the tour group to get ahead of them and then fell in behind, keeping about fifty feet between.

“Keith, I have to tell you I don’t want to give it up. I’ve never been the girl that guys notice and I kind of am now, at least I get a lot more attention than before. I really like it. I love it. I’m not ready to stop.”

Keith chewed on that while he searched his feelings. “No, if I’m brutally honest with myself, I’m not either. Maybe we should just cut ourselves some slack for feeling this way the morning after?”

“That sounds wise,” she said. “We jumped in with both feet. That was wild.”

They wandered down the ramp towards the cave mouth. Keith lowered his voice.

“You said Toby touched your panties?”

“Yes. He grazed my pussy lips and then slipped a finger down to my hole and rubbed it through the lace. It felt so good. He came back up and flicked my clit and I jumped. Something tells me that skinny cowboy knows his way around a woman’s body. He sure knew how to dance. Danny, not so much.”

Keith chuckled. “You know, your attraction to Earl surprised me and I realize I have no idea what kind of men you like. Whenever you see an attractive or sexy or hot guys, subtly point him out to me, okay?”

“Sure, but you know this does not cut both ways, right? I have no desire whatsoever to know about any girls and you better not even flirt with anyone, and touching them is out of the question.”

Keith laughed out loud. “Not even Annabelle or Peggy?”

“No.”

“No need to worry, Love. I like looking at pretty women but I’ve never been a ladies’ man. I wouldn’t know how to act. I like watching you flirt and I love when the guy desires you. That’s my rush. I’m not looking for other women.”

The Caverns proved a magical experience. Without reading up on the caves before they went, they were caught completely by surprise. The caves Earl had shown them were so vastly different as to be incomparable. The unimaginable beautiful of a whimsical nature at play overwhelmed them both and they lingered hours after the tour, revisiting the caves they loved most, snapping a million pictures. By the time they exited, the sun was low and they were famished.

They stayed another night at the hotel, eating dinner at the Hackberry Draw restaurant where April told Keith to stop ogling the waitresses then corrected herself and said he could look all he wanted but not touch.

“Fair enough,” he said.

Towards the end of the meal Toby came in for a meal and Keith invited him to join them, which excited April greatly although she hid it well. Danny was out of town working on an oil derrick and would not be back until morning.

“Sucks to be him,” Toby quipped.

They sat and talked about growing up in New Mexico and Orlando and San Diego. When the waitress brought the bill, Keith suggested they all head back to their room to continue the conversation. April covertly gave him a wide-eyed panicked look.

“Just for a bit,” he added. “We’re pretty tired.”

Toby accepted, offering to follow them in his truck.

As soon as April shut her car door she asked Keith what he was up to.

“I have no idea. I think it will be a turn-on just to have him in our room, given the way you guys danced last night and how he touched you. I admit I’m enjoying fucking with you a little. Is it too much? We can end it quickly and send him home because we’re too tired.”

April fidgeted with the skin between her fingers. “I have to shower. And change clothes. And brush my teeth.”

Keith held her hand as they drove the few blocks to the hotel.

April headed for the room and Keith met Toby at his car and walked him up. When they entered the room the bathroom door was shut and the shower running. Keith opened the mini bar and the men took seats to talk and wait.

After a while April exited the bathroom, long brown hair piled high, wearing loose shorts and a wife beater with nothing on under it. Keith almost choked but maintained his cool. April took the seat opposite Toby, although there was an open spot on the love seat next to Keith, and asked her husband to pour her a beer, which he did, returning to his spot on the love seat but now at an angle to keep both in front of him. April sat her beer on the coffee table and each time she took a drink, she leaned over and flashed Toby a generous shot of tits.

Keith stood abruptly and announced a shower sounded like a good idea and before April could recover from her shock, crossed the room and shut the bathroom door behind him. On the other side, he put his ear to the door and listened to Toby ask April if she was ever a cheerleader. He knew April would give him shit for leaving her with Toby but so what. He started the water running and pressed his ear to the door again. April was describing her workout routine and Toby was complimenting her often, praising her stunning good looks and hot body. Then he dropped a bomb.

“If you ever wanted to make a ton of money, you should get a job stripping. Guys would sign their paycheck over to you.”

Oh shit! Keith held his breath, waiting for April to get angry. Toby was a simple country boy and had no idea such a suggestion was actually an insult.

“You think so?” she asked.

“Hell yes. Danny thinks so too. We talked about you all night after you left. Your husband’s a lucky man. I ain’t seen the world but you’re easily the most beautiful woman in this town and probably all New Mexico, and that’s just your face I’m talking about. Add your body in and you’re one of the most beautiful women in the world.”

Dumb fucking luck, Keith thought. This bumpkin stumbled into the one thread which might save him.

Keith heard April get off the couch. “You don’t think my butt’s too round?”

“No, not at all.”

“Are my boobs too big?”

Toby answered after a pause. “No, ma’am.”

Is she showing him her body? She must be. Keith pictured April turning this way and that, displaying her fit figure for Toby. He stepped away from the door and stripped, stroking his penis as he listened again. He heard April speak.

“Would you mind if I got your opinion on something? My husband says my bikini is too small but I say it fits right. Would you mind breaking the tie?”

Keith’s jaw dropped. I’ve never said that!

“No, go right ahead. I’ll sit here and sip my beer.”

Light footsteps left the room. Keith knew he needed to get in the shower and the longer he waited meant the later he’d get back to them. This scenario had gone off the rails and he had no idea what to do next. He kept his ear to the door and less than two minutes later heard April return.

“Good God Almighty,” Toby gushed. Keith was dying to see what April wore but opening the door exposed his little game, and how would he explain it?

“See? Everything’s covered; boobs, butt. I’ll have to be careful in the water but I’ll just tie it really tight, like this. Oops! Sorry.”

“Wow! April, you’re so sexy.”

“Sorry about that, Toby. I didn’t mean for you to see that.”

“That’s okay, I won’t tell. Why don’t you show me again? I still hear the shower running. He won’t come out for a while yet. Let me see both, angel.”

Keith looked down at his rock-hard penis, holding his breath, waiting for his wife’s response to Toby’s request.

“Alright, Toby, if you promise to keep it secret.”

“I do.”

Keith strained at the silence. Then, “Fuck, April, you’re amazing.”

“Do you like them?”

“They’re perfect. Look what you’ve done to me.”

More silence. Keith wanted to yank the door open and see what transpired. He stroked his penis again, feeling the distant tingle of orgasm.

“Let me see it,” she said. “Fair is fair.”

Keith’s penis jumped. He heard Toby’s belt buckle jangle and then clothing move. He guessed Toby was now standing.

“That’s a nice cock,” April said. “Did looking at me make it hard like that?”

“Fuck yeah.”

“Just looking?”

“Oh, yes ma’am.”

“Can I see you pull on it a few times?”

Toby grunted a little and April exhaled. Keith felt his cum rising and let go of his dick. He planned on fucking April as soon as they got rid of Toby and wanted to be able to perform.

“Move your hand away. Yeah, that’s a pretty dick, Toby. Thank you.”

“You want to touch it?”

“I do, but I can’t. Married, remember? Probably shouldn’t even be doing what we’ve done. After feeling it in my ass crack last night I wanted to see it and it’s every bit as nice as I imagined. I better change back into my clothes.”

“Damn. Alright. Before you do can I see your pussy too?”

Keith pressed his ear to the door harder. Her voice was faint.

“Okay.”

Keith imagined she pulled her bikini bottoms to the side.

“Goddamn, you are gorgeous all over, April. Danny will not believe me when I tell him about this. I know you’re leaving in the morning but if you ever come through New Mexico again, look me up. Can I give you my number?”

Keith heard the beeps of April entering the number in her phone. He sensed the moment was over and jumped in the shower, washing and rinsing with lightning speed. He exited the bathroom with a towel around his waist and yelled to the living room he’d be right back. He threw on shorts and a polo shirt and rejoined them. April was back in shorts and wife beater, Toby sat calmly sipping his drink.

“Feel better?” April purred.

“Much. What’d I miss?”

“Nothing. Just Toby and I talking about high school.”

“Okay, good.”

Keith asked Toby about the oil fields he’d seen on the drive into town and learned New Mexico was the fifth ranked state for production. After that the conversation was off and running again.

Two hours later Toby excused himself, telling them to get a good night’s sleep before their drive and to stop in and say hello if they ever come through town again. He shook Keith’s hand and gave April a lingering hug. She kissed him on the cheek opposite Keith and whispered something in his ear Keith did not catch. They waved goodbye from the doorstep.

“Nice guy,” Keith offered.

April shut the door and locked it. A broad grin stretched her mouth. “Cut the crap, mister. I saw your toes under the door from my seat. You heard everything, didn’t you?”

Keith did a wildly exaggerated eye-roll. “Everything! Fucking Hell, April, I can’t believe you. How can you be so good at this? That was amazing!”

“Let’s talk about it later. Take me to bed.”

Their sex these days was nothing like the past; passionate and energetic, sometimes rough, sometimes gentle.

“You saw his cock? He showed you?”

“Yup.”

Keith turned her onto all fours and got behind her. He spread her cheeks and pushed into her soaked pussy.

“Tell me about it.”

“Unngh, you want to hear about his dick?”

“Yes. How big was he?”

“About the same as you. Maybe shorter and not as big around. It was pretty though, nice shape, and incredibly hard. He stuck his hips out and his dick just throbbed. His balls were big but hairy and drawn tight at the base. God, he wanted to fuck me so much!”

“If you weren’t married to me, would you have fucked him?”

“Three times already, Baby. Danny, too, but only once.”

“Ahhh, Christ, you almost made me cum. I love when you’re slutty. I love it when my sweet and innocent wife is a slut for me. What else can you tell me?”

He gripped her hips and started long-stroking her.

“He looked at my tits like fresh meat but you should have seen the way he looked at my pussy. Mmmungh, fuck, you feel bigger back there, Keith, go slow. He stroked his cock while he stared at me. I loved the way his eyes bore into me. Did you catch the part where I got his number? Maybe I should send him a text or something?”

Keith knew he wouldn’t last long. Too much excitement from listening at the door had his balls hot and ready to pop. He flipped April onto her back and started licking her pussy while she went on.

“What would you send him?” he asked between licks.

She closed her eyes and cupped each tit. She teased a nipple.

“Maybe a text telling him again how gorgeous his cock is. Or maybe a picture to remember me by? Oh, I like that idea. Can I, Baby? Can I send Toby a picture of my body?”

He heard her voice climbing higher. The thought and his tongue was quickly pushing her towards climax.

“Yeah, Baby. Do it. Do it when I’m not around to cramp your style. Right out of the shower with your long wet hair plastered to your body. Spread your pussy open for him. You know he’ll jack that cock looking at you. You’re gonna make his balls empty their load. What did he whisper to you at the door as he left? I couldn’t hear him.”

“He said I’m the most beautiful woman he’s ever seen.”

“Next time you can do a striptease for him.”

That did it. April clenched her thighs and Keith licked fast and soft. She grabbed his head and forced his mouth against her pussy and arched her back and came like thunder. He waited until she’d come down to crawl between her legs and push his penis back inside. He lasted only minutes.

Breakfast was not awkward.

Texas was a bitch. Two lanes, dirt, blue sky, and a road that would not end. For the first few hours they were chatterboxes, talking fast and laughing about their crazy night, but the unchanging scenery wore on them and eventually they fell into a thoughtful silence. They were just coming up on Freeway Ten when April spoke.

“What if I would have touched it?”

Keith knew what she referred to. He was about to ask if she wanted to but realized that did not answer her question. He imagined himself back at that door, listening, only this time she says okay. In his mind, he sees her delicate hand wrapped around his erection. His mind perversely envisioned her left hand so her wedding ring was pressed against his dick. So many emotions boiled up he couldn’t separate them all and he told her as much.

“Name a few you do recognize,” she said.

“Well, jealousy, obviously. Excitement. Humiliation. Curiosity. Lust.”

“Excitement. You mean like arousal or like riding a roller coaster?”

“Arousal. You turned-on turns me on.”

“I understand humiliation, you are my husband after all, but what about curiosity? That one surprises me. Curious about what?”

“How far you’d go. What you’re feeling. What you want. What’s about to happen. All kinds of things. We’re both so inexperienced. We don’t know each other in this way very well. We don’t know ourselves.”

They drove a quiet mile, then Keith asked: “Did you want to touch it?”

“Very much. I still do. I think about sex all the time now, Keith. I think I kept the real me bottled up for decades. I ignored who I am and rationalized away my wants. I hid behind my ugly-duckling appearance.”

“So you must feel pretty good these days?”

“I do, but I’m also afraid.”

“Afraid of what?”

“Afraid of how much I like it.”

Keith nodded. “Yeah, that makes sense. If it makes you feel any safer, I’m right here with you, Babe, every step we take.”

“You say that now.”

“No, I mean it. For richer, for poorer, sickness, and health. I mean it.”

She met his eyes and saw the certainty there. “I scored when I married you.”

The desert ran on and on and April got drowsy. Keith turned off the air conditioning and rolled down all the windows so the hot breeze could whip through the car. Too loud for conversation, April tilted her seat back and closed her eyes.

“Okay if I nap?”

“Sure, Honey.”

She was asleep in minutes. He glanced over as he drove, admiring her incredible body. She’d worn the same short-shorts and wife beater from the night before. The bumps of the road made her tits bounce and sway. Soon Keith passed a trucker and saw the man look down into their car. He gave Keith a thumbs-up and a big grin. He had intended to pass the semi but instead slowed to match speeds, enjoying the man drooling over his sleeping wife. Keith wished the cotton tank top was more sheer.

He stopped for gas at Sheffield and April used the gas station bathroom. While she was gone, he opened the trunk and withdrew her smallest bikini top from her luggage. When she returned, he asked her to wear it.

“Why?”

“To improve my view while you nap.”

She shrugged and got in the car. As soon as they were on the road again she tied the top under her wife beater and slipped the tank off over her head.

“Better?”

Keith grinned. The two green triangles barely covered her areola. Tit spilled out on every side and underneath too.

“Perfect.”

April cranked her chair back again, a slight grin twisting her lips, and got comfortable. Keith kept them spaced away from other vehicles until he was sure she dozed, then he slowly pulled up to another semi. This old-timer knew what to do and matched speeds immediately, drinking in every jiggle and sway. Keith took a chance and pulled gently on the strings around her neck and increased the slack and her green triangles slowly shifted to the sides, exposing areola and, eventually, nipple. The trucker grinned like it was his birthday. They drove like that for miles together, the trucker glancing over at April as often as he could but eventually he reached his exit and reluctantly signaled right. He waved to Keith and mouthed thank you as he veered off the freeway and down the off-ramp.

Made that guy's day, Keith chuckled.

For an hour, he dangled April in front of other drivers. He avoided families and single women and concentrated on single guys in raised vehicles. A quick fraternity formed with Keith as the all-star.

An hour later he saw flashing light ahead. He slowed as he entered a construction zone and orange cones directed traffic from two lanes to one. He slowed further until traffic crawled. On the shoulder was a man wearing a bright orange vest and holding a sign which read, Slow. Keith pointed down into the passenger seat and then put a finger to his lips too shush the man. The man looked at him curiously until the car roll by and then his jaw dropped. He looked down on April and then Keith a wicked grin. He walked backwards alongside the car as long as he could but then had to return to his position directing traffic. Keith thought he saw a bulge in the man's pants by the time he left them.

Beyond the construction traffic opened again and soon Keith had them back up to speed. He played his sharing game for a while but grew concerned April would wake from her nap and get upset by what he'd done, so he grabbed a sweatshirt from the back seat and covered her with it. She woke not long after and looked down and then looked at him with a question.

"Your top came loose and I wasn't sure how you'd feel about the truckers getting a look at you."

She lifted the sweatshirt to see how exposed she was. If she suspected Keith of anything, he couldn't see it in her eyes. With feigned nonchalance, she pushed the shirt to the floor and stretched her arms wide, both tits slipping free from the bikini top. She smirked when Keith's eyes got big.

"I feel okay about it. How about you?"

He pretended embarrassment. "Gosh, Baby, I don't know. We're right out in broad daylight. Anyone can see you."

April untied the knot in back and slipped the top off over her head. "The warm air and hot sun feel so good," she purred. "Too bad you can't fuck me while you drive."

Keith considered how it could be done but concluded it was not worth the risk. April enjoyed the wind and sun for a while but as they approached a van, she put her top back on. She tied it loosely.

Texas refused to die. Keith felt like he'd been driving a week but at least the countryside turned a little greener. They hit a few more construction zones and stopped for food and gas in Comfort, and then jumped back on the road. Keith wanted to push on to Houston and get this leg behind them. They pulled up to the hotel after midnight and went straight to bed.

In the morning Keith ordered room service and a huge breakfast and added dual massages as an afterthought, surprising April.

"We're about halfway and all that driving has me feeling anxious and edgy. We'll make New Orleans by dinner and then tomorrow sail through Mississippi and Alabama and land in your home state of glorious Florida."

"Fine with me, Baby. I'm not the kind of girl to refuse a massage."

They ate bacon and eggs and hash brown potatoes and fresh fruit until they could eat no more. Twenty minutes later a knock on the door brought April out of the bathroom. She already wore her bikini in anticipation.

When she opened the door, a pretty blonde girl, dressed in all white tennis shorts and polo shirt, said hello and, standing behind her, an enormous and hugely muscular black man dressed the same, gave her a nod.

“His and Hers?” the blonde said.

“Excuse me?”

The blonde was suddenly confused. “Did this room order the His and Hers dual massage?”

“Oh. Yes. Sorry, I didn’t know you called it that. Come on in.”

She stepped aside and waved them in. As he passed, April realized the top of her head barely reached the man’s chest. Over his shoulder were the straps for both massage tables on his back.

He’s like an NFL linebacker, she thought.

Keith came in from the bedroom and said hello, shaking hands and asking what they needed and who would be massaging whom.

“We just need space. We can do one of you here in the living room and the other in the bedroom. Hotel policy dictates we must remain gender specific so Darius will take care of you and I’ll massage your wife.”

Keith was about to say okay when April interrupted. “Is there any flexibility in that rule? We’ll give you a better tip. My back is nothing but knots and I’m sure I need hands as big and strong as his. We promise not to tell a soul.”

The two employees looked at each other like they’d heard this a million times. They faked some hesitation but then relented and said okay.

“Wonderful,” April smiled. “No offense. I’m sure you’re great. What’s your name?”

“Kathy Lynn. Call me Kate. And no need to apologize, we get this request all the time.” She turned to Keith. “I guess you’re coming with me.”

Darius followed Kate and Keith into the bedroom to set up the table and then came back to April. He set the table so he could see down the hall to the bedroom and Kate.

“So what do you need me to do?” April asked. “What do I wear?”

Darius smiled. "The bikini works fine but if you're concerned with oil stains you can remove it. Go with whatever makes you comfortable. I've seen it all."

His voice was a deep rumble and April felt a tingle. The physical presence of the man was daunting. He seemed to fill her field of vision. April glanced down the hall and saw Keith already face down getting his back rubbed. She hesitated only a moment.

"Okay."

April boldly pulled the strings at neck and hip and her bikini fell away. Her heart raced. Darius grinned as the little white wife dropped her swimsuit on the floor by the table, his eyes roaming across her smooth skin. He opened a towel and held it up and April climbed onto the table, facedown. He lowered the towel to cover her from shoulders to butt and then tucked the end under, exposing the curve of her ass. April couldn't be sure but she suspected the towel was short enough he could see her slit.

Warm tingling filled her tummy. She had a lion by the tail. The man frightened her as much and he titillated her and she knew only the flimsy wall of social decorum kept her safe and she toyed with it.

Slick lotion hit her calf and strong fingers dug in and she moaned. The man knew his stuff. His pattern was to work on an area and then adjust the towel and move to a new area, slowly working his way around her body. When he arrived at her shoulders he straightened her arm and lowered it off the edge of the table and then leaned into her back. After thirty seconds, April felt the hot fat tube of his spongy penis behind his shorts press against her elbow and she stifled a gasp. She left her arm where it was. He worked her back, occasionally tilting his hips, and April felt the snake rub back and forth over her arm. She estimated his size and determined he was big. She tried to imagine what his black penis would look like but all she pictured was Keith's penis, black.

Are they the same or different than white ones? I have no idea.

She lifted her head to look down the hall and saw Keith still face down, oblivious.

Darius finished and told her to turn over and she rolled without concern. The towel fell, exposing her breasts, and she settled comfortably on her back, arms resting on the table. He covered her from nipples to vulva and moved to her feet and repeated his technique from earlier. As he worked up her thighs, his bulging shorts made contact again, this time with her knuckles. She turned her hand over. He rested his swelling lump in the palm of her hand. She curled her fingers and gently squeezed, his girth thicker than her grip. Her heart beat wildly now.

Sweet Jesus. Would he even fit? Adrenaline surged and she grew light-headed. Why do I care so much that it's big? Her mind flashed back to Bear. I just do.

Darius continued to work but left his fabric-covered cock in her hand and she grew more adventurous with each moment. He wasn't erect, yet, but had a firmness which took her breath. His underwear had him twisted around and under and she knew he had to be uncomfortable. He acted like nothing happened at all, which only made her bolder. She lifted her hand and slid her palm down his abdomen, wriggling her fingers passed the tight elastic waistband until her fingertips found coarse pubic hair. She spread her fingers searching for the shaft and found it, closing her fist around the red-hot shaft. She straightened him, pulling the shaft up his lower abs but still hidden beneath his clothing. Darius moved his feet to make it easier and she felt his shaft slide through her hand. Her mouth went dry.

He's so big! Holy shit!

Unperturbed, Darius continued her massage. He added to it slight hip thrusts and April savored the weight and heft of this man's phallus. She wanted to see it but was worried about such deliberate behavior. For now, if they glanced into this room, Kate and Keith would have no idea anything other than a massage took place. If she sat up enough to look, she risked getting caught. She moved her hand up until she felt the crown and closed her fingers around the head. He had lots of loose skin and the head felt bigger than a golf ball.

Darius moved again, placing his huge body over hers, blocking the view from the other room. His hand covered her mouth, shocking her, but before she could even draw a breath his other hand dropped beyond the edge of the towel and found her pussy. She gasped against his palm. He rubbed all around her clit and then split her labia to sample her wetness. She gasped again, louder. His finger felt as big as a penis and a second later he pushed two knuckles deep and left it there. April's head fell back and she would have groaned if his hand didn't already cover her mouth. She opened her legs as wide as the table. His thumb pressed her flesh directly above her clitoris while his fat finger began to slide in and out. She felt the blood surge in his dick, thickening and hardening that cannon, and her dry mouth watered now with the powerful urge to suck it. Her pussy gushed around his digit and he moved his other hand to cut off the airflow through her nostrils. His finger pumped her pussy. She was running out of air quickly. Just as alarm rose, her orgasm slammed her like a bomb.

Unable to breathe and held down by his incredible strength, her asphyxiation and helplessness fueled a climax like nothing she'd ever experienced. It wouldn't end. He finger-fucked her and suffocated her and she came and came and came. The room spun and her vision tunneled. With no air in her lungs she made only tiny whimpering sounds and Darius cruelly continued her orgasm until she bordered on panic. He moved his thumb at the last instant and she drew an enormous breath. Body-wide euphoria swamped her and blackness closed her eyes and the last thing she sensed was the anchor of his hard cock in her hand.

She awoke to soft voices and lifted her head. Kate and Darius stood at the door, ready to leave, and Keith paid them.

"Hey sleepy-head," her husband joked. "Say goodbye to our new friends. Don't you just love them? I feel fantastic. Thanks, guys."

April gave a weak wave and lay back down.

Keith closed the door and moved close. "Stay there as long as you like, Baby. They said leave the table in the hall with the dishes and they'll pick it up later. Oh. You were naked under the towel? I wish I knew that. How was it? Pretty exciting? Did you flash him? Have you ever seen a man that big? Jesus, he's like a grizzly bear."

April took her husband's hand.

"It was fantastic," she admitted. She debated keeping the truth secret but decided that behavior needed to stop. Every step of this trip had improved their relationship. She needed to trust in that. She sat up and took his hand again.

"Sit," she said.

He sat.

She told him everything, alarmed, at first, by the surprised discomfort in his eyes, then relaxing as she saw him come around to arousal. She caught him unprepared but he recovered quickly.

"Goddamn, Honey," he muttered. "Goddamn."

"I hope you tipped him well."

“I did, really well, but if I’d known I’d have given the man a hundred.”

“Baby, I came so hard I doubt I could again for a week, but I need a hard penis in my mouth. I’d love to give you a blowjob.”

“And imagine my dick is black?”

She froze, worried he was angry, then proceeded cautiously because it was the truth. “If that’s alright, yes.”

He stood and pushed his trunks down and then sat back on the couch. He opened his legs wide.

“Get to work my sweet little slut.”

His name for her rang in her ears and tingled her pussy. April climbed down from the massage table and knelt between his open legs. They’d joked about it but when she closed her eyes, in her mind, the cock in her mouth was big and black. She felt scandalous and guilty, at first, but the longer she sucked, the more comfortable she became. Keith knew exactly what she was doing but his penis was rock hard.

Why feel guilty? Obviously, my husband doesn’t care. Even if we end up regretting this, it’s a regret I’ll be happy to have.

She pushed every inch of Keith’s penis into her mouth and held it there, savoring the throb. Darius was so big! Why didn’t I take it out and look at it? Damn.

She swirled her tongue around Keith’s ridge. I bet I wouldn’t have room in my mouth to do that to my black linebacker. I doubt I could get even half his penis in my mouth. She sucked hard and Keith moaned. A thought returned to her. Why does size matter? I got more turned-on because Darius was big. Bigger is so much more manly.

Despite her earlier comment about not climaxing for a week, she found herself growing increasingly turned-on. She reached between her legs and played with her clit while sucking her husband. She added a hand to Keith’s shaft and pumped him in time with her mouth.

He knows I’m imagining someone else and he’s harder than I’ve ever felt him. She felt him swell and his hands land on top of her head. Seconds later, he was giving her something to drink. She pretended it was a hot load from a big black dick and her excitement spiked and a small but strong orgasm rippled through her.

They rested a while before getting on the road late. Keith decided against asking any questions about her time with Darius, waiting to see what she offered.

After all that desert, driving through so much green was a relief. They stopped several times to take pictures or use the restrooms but nothing flirtatious happened. Keith noticed April almost seemed to avoid any hint or suggestion, even when Keith lobbed some innuendo. Her mind chewed on something and Keith let sleeping dogs lie.

They ran into more construction just before Beaumont and did not clear it until Orange. Shortly after, they crossed the state line into Louisiana.

“So many trees!” April said, after a few miles. The moisture in the air had continued to climb since Houston but now the heat did too.

After a while Keith saw a sign for another Love’s Travel Stop and suggested a bathroom break. He topped off the tank and April grabbed some snacks. Comfortably braless now, she noticed the guys gawking at her. Heavy traffic slowed them through Baton Rouge but they made the time up once they left the city. Soon the lights of New Orleans rose on the horizon. April checked ratings on hotels and they found a five-star that looked down on Lafayette Square.

As it was early evening, April suggested they walk the neighborhood. They made their way to the Mississippi River and aimed north, eventually entering the French Quarter. They chose streets at random and just wandered, soaking up everything New Orleans. Several turns and hours later, they stared up at the face of the Voodoo Museum. They entered.

An ancient and withered black man behind the counter asked if he could help them and when they responded they were just looking around, he waved them away and told them to take all the time they needed.

Inside they prowled around until April's skin crawled. Hundreds of dusty shelves zigged and zagged in no discernable pattern.

"It says museum," April whispered as they walked away. "But this is a business. Look. Everything's for sale."

Each shelf in the dimly lit store was covered with displays of important or historical sculptures, books, paraphernalia, scrolls, and people. Human skeletons and faces of the dead stared back at every turn. Death masks and dolls with exaggerated male and female characteristics stared back at them. Large jars lined the walls filled with mostly unrecognizable but vaguely unsettling odds and ends. April thought she saw a jar of dried chicken heads and desiccated baby hands.

"Such an obsession with sex and death," she whispered.

"Yes, well, kind of opposing yet fundamental forces, right?"

"True."

Along every wall, paintings of gorgeous and sweaty bodies, male and female, all bound or twisted in some way, began to affect her. They meandered with no plan and soon found themselves at the rear of the shop, facing a black wooden staircase down.

She took Keith's arm as they descended and continued exploring the basement. Water dripped in half a dozen unseen places and the temperature rose twenty degrees. The humidity turned the air thick and she had to pull to fill her lungs with air.

They started to sweat as they made their way past rows of books and curios. Down here the walls were covered with oil paintings of various macabre rituals involving nude humans and blood. April squeezed Keith's arm tighter.

On the back wall was a painting eight feet high by twelve feet wide, depicting a red-headed girl, nude, inside an intricate heart symbol drawn on the ground with silver dust. Skinny demons, mostly human and also nude, stood on each of her ankles and wrists to pin her down. Each demon was extremely well-endowed. A voodoo doll with a human skull performed cunnilingus on the bound girl and her face perfectly captured her passion, pleasure, revulsion, and fear. April shivered but moved closer to the painting.

Keith saw a large sculpture of a corpulent slave-lord and moved away to examine it. April scarcely noticed, so intent was her focus on the life-like painting.

She leaned closer. The detail astonished her. She found her gaze drawn to the over-sized members hanging from each fiend. Each was unique. The artist did not paint the same penis four times. The same was true of the creatures; subtle differences showed separate individuals. April turned her attention to the poor victim.

A skull would have no tongue, she reasoned, but you'd never know that by the look on this girl's face. God, her emotions are so intense. I can almost feel that skull between my legs too. April shivered again despite the heat. She studied the painting for long minutes before moving on.

The sales floor narrowed and a hallway led further back into darkness. April followed the shelves and came to an archway blocked by long strings of black beads. A dim red neon sign glowed, Adults Only above. Curious, April parted the beads and cautiously stepped through into near darkness. She waited for her eyes to adjust to the new and deeper gloom.

At first she thought she'd discovered a hidden Catholic church. A high ceiling arched over rows of pews which led to a raised dais holding a jet-black cuboid of marble. A black bird-bath rested at the foot of the cube. Both were surrounded by black candles three feet tall and as thick as her leg. Statues of saints lined the walls, gazing down at the cube.

Within seconds she realized the statues were carved representations of the demons from the painting plus many more and the candles followed the same pattern as the silver heart. She started to back out, feeling for the beads behind her, and then stopped.

I scare too easily.

She took a breath and moved into the room. She reached the dais and climbed the four steps onto the stage. Closer now, she saw another demonic statue, life-sized, at the back of the stage and tucked into an alcove. This one had arms raised in triumph and a fully erect and monstrously large penis. She moved to the huge statue and gripped the cool stone shaft, sliding her hands up and down several times, felling every ride and bump in the near darkness.

Weird. I thought it would be smooth but someone took the trouble to carve veins and lumps into it.

She slipped her hand down and under and found a large hairless scrotum which contained four distinct testicles.

You're a virile fucker, aren't you? Get the girl pregnant every time, I bet.

She considered taking a picture with her phone but loathed the idea of breaking the melancholy mood with a bright flash of white light.

Better to leave this memory intact.

She aimed for the arch and passed through the beads and soon found Keith under a tiny pale yellow bulb, reading a pamphlet on the origins of the religion.

"Ready?" she asked.

He folded the leaflet and returned it to the rack. They headed for the stairs. As they entered an area of greater illumination, Keith stopped her.

"Did you walk under a leaky pipe? You got something on you."

He turned her to see better. A cascade of white milky droplets splattered down the front of her T-shirt. She touched a few and swirled her fingers and then smelled the fluid. She touched a dot to the tip of her tongue.

"Salty."

"Maybe water from the Gulf of Mexico makes it this far inland."

Keith used his shirt to wipe the droplets away and they continued up the stairs. She bought an expensive small black candle souvenir on the way out.

As soon as they hit the sidewalk, both announced they were hungry. They laughed and headed for restaurant Café Lafitte in Exile, which they saw on the corner. Late enough to have missed the dinner crowd, they were seated right away. The interior was brass and heavy dark wood and glass. Off the main entrance steps led down to a bar and a small placard announced Café Lafitte in Exile was the longest operating gay bar in the United States. A friendly man in tiny short and tank top greeted them and led them to their table.

"I like this place," Keith said.

“Me too.”

A young man brought them water and announced their waiter, David, would be with them shortly. Keith and April made small talk until he arrived.

As David approached the table he locked eyes with April and slowed to a stop. He smiled and she smiled back bigger.

Their mutual attraction left Keith feeling awkward and uncomfortable. They couldn't take their eyes off each other. When no one spoke, Keith asked about the salmon. David jumped as if waking and rattled off all the details regarding the entre, rarely taking his gaze from April. He got their drink orders and headed for the bar.

“What was that?” Keith asked.

“Sorry, Honey, but that might be the most beautiful man I've ever seen. Did you see his eyes? I've never seen blue so piercing. His face is handsomer than Brad Pitt. His shirt is baggy but I can still see he has muscles. God, what a hunk. Let's come back here for breakfast, and brunch, and lunch.”

Keith smiled at her joke. “Alright, I get it. Can you not be so obvious right in front of me?”

“You're right, I'm sorry.”

Logic told him there were other attractive men in the world and he was bound to meet some while out with his wife. He reminded himself how he'd stared at Annabelle and Peggy. He regained his composure slowly.

“Good,” he announced, trying to sound unruffled. “Just don't fuck him on the table during dessert. Cool?”

April shook her head, running with her joke. “No promises, compadre. Did you get a good look at him? We should just get up and leave now. I can't be trusted. I have no idea what's going to happen next. This might be a gay bar but that man is straight, I promise you.”

Keith wanted to avoid looking insecure so he chuckled again. David returned with drinks and sat Keith's on the table but handed April hers. Their fingers touched around the glass. They giggled awkwardly and he set the wine glass on the table, took their dinner order, and left.

April got serious. “Baby, we can leave if you want.”

“Thanks, Honey, but I'm fine. Remember the sexy waitresses at the Hackberry Draw? I guess this is your turn. Fair is fair.”

David came back to check on them several times before the food was ready, lingering to chat each time. The restaurant was almost empty and knots of waiters stood around waiting for business or to be sent home.

Keith made sure he was part of their conversation, at first, but as time passed he let himself drop out and watch the interactions between them.

She'd fuck him, he realized. My wife wants to fuck him. If I wasn't here, if she wasn't married to me, my shy wife would go home with this man she just met and have sex. This guy is different from the others. She loved how they wanted her but she wouldn't have done anything with them. David, she would.

Keith leaned back and sipped his drink. With his new insight came a flood of conflicting emotions. Jealousy flared, and intimidation. David was one up on him with his wife and that's no fun for any man. His new knowledge gave him no place to hide. He couldn't laugh this off. This was real. At that moment, his wife wanted another man more.

Why aren't I outraged?

He told his brain to get to work unraveling that mystery and took another sip of whiskey and continued to study his wife. Her face was lit up. She hung on David's every word. Her eyes beamed and her mouth was frozen in a seductive smile. She toyed with her hair and had unconsciously pulled her shoulders back to accentuate her full breasts.

Each new observation was a lick in the gut for Keith. He'd never seen her flirt like this. Before with other men she always just tried to have fun. She loved the attention but had no designs beyond the moment. She wanted them to want her but she did not return the desire. This time she seemed desperate for David's devotion. Keith wondered what would happen if April was alone with David.

Nothing good, he concluded. The thought buzzed in his ear. The more he thought about it the stronger his curiosity became. He considered inviting David back to their hotel room like he had Toby. April would freak.

His wife and the waiter continued their inappropriate courtship right in front of him. Finally, David left and returned with heaping plates of delicious food. This time he dropped them off and quickly departed.

The married couple ate and laughed and talked about the trip so far, each sharing memories of the caverns or the drive. Keith teased April about her new crush.

David stayed away, visiting the table only once to make sure they were happy with their selection.

Once they finished the young man returned and cleared the dishes and David brought them new drinks which he'd paid for himself. Keith invited him to join them and he declined.

"You're not busy, David. Take a seat. Tell us about New Orleans."

April shot Keith a withering look. "I'm sure he's too busy, Honey. He's at work."

Keith looked around the restaurant. "We're one of the last tables. Are you about to close?"

"We are, and that's a very kind offer, but company policy forbids it. I think you guys are great, though."

"I understand," Keith offered. "Well, we're at the Blake, eighteenth floor, room eighteen seventeen. Stop by for a drink after work."

David's eyes narrowed. Keith avoided April.

"Alright."

"Great. We're walking back after dinner so give us half an hour or so."

"See you then."

David walked away. Keith faced April.

"What the hell, Keith?"

Keith wiped his mouth with his napkin. "I like watching you with him," he said. "He makes you nervous. You want him, badly, and I like watching you struggle with that."

"Aren't you going to be jealous? I won't lie, he's incredibly attractive, but won't you get angry? Why put us together in our hotel room? And don't go take another fake shower. Why are you doing this? What are you hoping will happen?"

"I haven't thought that far ahead, Baby. All I know is the restaurant is closing so we must leave and you aren't ready to say goodbye to him forever. Inviting him back made sense. Add to that I'm intrigued and mildly aroused to see you so affected. Believe it or not, I'm enjoying this."

April shook her head. Keith watched her collect her purse and phone.

"If I said you could kiss him, would you?"

Her eyes grew huge. "Oh, my God, Honey! What are you saying? Have you lost your mind?"

“Why is that so crazy? We’ve had some bold adventures already. We’ve seen naked strangers and you even touched a black penis.”

“A big black penis.”

“Exactly. What’s so wild about a simple kiss?”

“It would not be simple. Kissing is intimate. Agreeing beforehand is planned and calculated. There’s a big difference between getting caught up and swept away by a spontaneous moment and my husband arranging for me to kiss another man well in advance of the event.”

“No argument from me but nothing you’ve said sounds like a reason to not do it.”

She stared at him.

“Do you want to kiss him?” Keith asked.

“Fuck yes,” she blurted, too loud. She lowered her voice. “Of course.”

“Alright. If he comes to our hotel room and if the moment presents itself and if you still want to when it does, you can. I grant you this gift.”

April leaned back in her chair. “I’m married to you.”

“Which is the greatest joy of my life. Hasn’t this been an amazing trip?”

April gave up trying to argue. Keith could be stubborn but the truth was he knew she did want David and that destroyed any point she tried to make. Keith was her only valid roadblock and he was telling to go ahead. She looked across the restaurant to David stacking glasses. He laughed at something a coworker said and April smiled.

God he’s hot.

“Why are you doing this?” she asked.

“I told you. I like that he gets to you. I don’t understand why, fully, but seeing you excited makes me excited. I’m as surprised as you are, but it’s just a kiss and I’ll be right there. What can go wrong?”

“Wait. What? You’ll be right there? I’m kissing another man right in front of you?”

“Well, I’m not leaving you alone with him.”

“Ha!” April leaned forward. “What do you think would happen?”

“I have no idea but given your history with Toby and Darius, something might.”

She considered continuing the argument but Keith’s offer had taken hold. She glanced across the room at David again. She was done fighting with Keith about it. If her husband wanted her to kiss another man, she would.

“Okay. I give. You can be there. Let’s head back to the hotel. I want to shower and change my clothes.”

The walk back was tense with anticipation. April decided to call it off several times but said nothing. She was surprised that Keith was as eager as she to get back to the hotel room. As soon as they were inside the room he started undressing her but she stopped him.

“Don’t get me all worked up. We don’t have time. We walked back. If he has a car he could be here soon and I want to shower.”

Keith persisted and they made out intensely for several minutes as his hands roamed his sexy wife. Finally, he controlled himself and she got in the shower.

Keith paced the room. Doubt ate at him. A confusing desire had taken root and would not leave him alone.

Ignoring or resisting would make it much worse. Better to investigate. Take small steps. See where it goes.

In the hot shower, April rubbed her swollen clit. Warm suds ran down her fit body and her free hand slathered the foam over her sensitive nipples and ass.

Oh. My. God. I can’t, I can’t, I can’t. I must not do this, but I want to so badly.

Her mind reeled. A distant knock at the front door made her heart jump.

In the front room, Keith opened the door and invited David in. He offered David a drink, which he eagerly accepted, requesting a vodka and lime juice shot. Keith fixed it and David downed it. Keith made another.

David jerked a thumb at the bedroom door. “Still getting ready?”

“Yeah. Our walk back took longer than we thought. How was work? Good tips?”

“Not really. A slow night. You guys swing?”

Keith tilted his head, confused. “I don’t know what that means.”

“Some couples pick up other guys or girls to join them for sex. Swingers. I’ve been invited back to a hotel room before. I was just curious. I don’t want to offend you. I really like you guys.”

“You really like April. No, not swingers. You can relax, they’ll be no sex tonight. I can see where you might think that but honestly, I saw how well you and April hit it off so I figured why not keep the conversation going. Also, I'd like to pick your brain about New Orleans. Touristy stuff."

"Cool." David downed his second drink. Keith made him another and gestured to the couch and love seat. They sat. They talked about life in the city and David gave several recommendations for sights to see. A sound from the bedroom made them both look over as April came through the doorway. Keith expected typical baggy T-shirt and baggy shorts but she wore a pink lace camisole and a long white peasant skirt. Both men gawked. The lace was not so sheer her tits were obvious but the hint of nipples got both their attention. April casually came around the couch while spreading her arms. David stood to hug her.

"You look beautiful," he stammered.

"Thank you." She cast a quick glance at Keith and when they sat, she took a spot next to David on the couch, facing her husband, her back against the arm. Keith was impressed with her calm.

They all talked for fifteen minutes and Keith considered trying the shower trick again but decided against it. He moved to dim the lights and searched the music stations, settling on light background jazz. He didn't care for jazz but felt it was appropriate to the situation. At the bar, he refreshed his whiskey, watching his wife with David from the corner of his eye. She'd crossed her legs under her and once again hung on David's every word. He called over to ask if she wanted a drink too and she asked for a glass of cabernet. He moved behind the bar to search and found a bottle, but then an idea struck him.

"The bar's out," he lied. "I'll run down to the liquor store in the lobby."

He expected April to raise a protest or change her mind but she said: "Hurry back, my love, and thank you."

He grabbed the room key and his wallet, kissed her briefly, and exited the room. Outside in the hallway, he immediately doubted his decision. He turned to go back but then stopped. His mouth had gone dry and his hands trembled. His penis and scrotum generated more heat than he'd felt in a long time.

What's happening to me? What am I doing? Why am I doing it?

He tried to think of a way to see inside the room but the floorplan did not allow it, unless he risked death and scaled the outside of the building to climb onto the balcony. He took three cautious steps to the front door and pressed his ear, but heard nothing. He waited, listening, but accepted the door was too thick and heavy. He crept away and then double-timed it to the elevator. He pressed the button impatiently and then stopped again. A calm settled on him.

I made this happen. Man up and ride this out.

He checked the elevators progress to his floor and took a deep breath.

I wonder how far she'll go?

Excitement still ravaged his insides but the panic had drained away. He pictured the scene inside the room; April leaning back against the couch, David over her, holding her face, kissing her deeply and with passion. He realized after the man left tonight April would be soaked and their sex would be intense. His penis twitched.

The elevator door opened and he sauntered inside. He casually punched the button marked L. The doors closed and in the stainless-steel reflection he smiled at himself. He knew no matter how worked-up he was right now, April was worse. He chuckled.

What a trip this has been.

He picked out a cabernet and some Grey Goose vodka for David and dallied at the magazine rack to give them more time. He knew April must be tied in knots. He paid for his selection and aimed for the elevators again and rode to the top floor. The walk down the hallway to their room seemed longer and he forced himself not to hurry. The key slid smoothly. He opened the door slowly.

The room was dark. Someone had turned off all but the small spotlight over the bar. Sitting in the tiny circle of illumination was the bottle of cabernet he'd hidden earlier, opened, almost empty.

Busted.

He entered carefully and quickly, closing the door behind him. His eyes slowly adjusted to the dark and he scanned the room. The couch and love seat were empty and his heart flipped on its head. Adrenaline surged through his body. The bedroom door was still open and he took a rapid step towards it but a soft sigh from the couch caught his ear. He moved closer and peered over the back.

April was on her back, eyes closed, legs tangled around David's. She still had her skirt on but the pink lace camisole lay crumpled on the coffee table next to her wine glass. David had one hand filled with firm bare tit, thumb teasing nipple, and the other hand behind her head as he kissed April deeply and with meaning. Their mouths parted and tongues wriggled like wrestling sea slugs.

Keith stepped back just enough so if April opened her eyes she'd not see him.

FUCK!

This was far more intense than he'd imagined. April ground her pelvis in small circles against David's crotch. He heard the wet smacking of their lips. For long minutes, he stood frozen, absorbing every move they made, every moan, every rustle of fabric. At this moment, he saw her as a woman of flesh and blood. His image and understanding of her was irrevocably shattered. April was no longer merely his wife, and he liked it.

No, I love it, he admitted. He remained, captivated, while his loving wife satisfied her lust on another. He had no measure of time but felt an hour had surely passed when he heard her soft voice speak.

"Sit up," she told David.

Keith saw the back of the man's head and shoulders. The coffee table slid across carpet as April shoved it away with her hips. Her wine glass rocked briefly. A belt buckle jangled quietly and April moaned, followed by David. A quiet vacuuming slurp filled the living room. David's arms lifted until resting along the back of the couch and his gaze fell forward, down to his lap.

Keith took a delicate step forward.

Even in the dim light, he saw David's penis stuffed into the pale oval of April's face. Her eyes were closed as her mouth bobbed up and down on this stranger's penis. She held him at the base, her fingers woven into his pubic hair, and aimed him straight up to make her job easier.

Fucking Hell.

Keith saw the man was not quite as big as himself and wondered why, at a time like this, that mattered to him at all, but it did. She sucked hard and then soft, licked the head and then slid the whole organ into her mouth only to suck hard again.

Keith staggered back. David was still unaware of his presence but April heard the scuff on the rug and opened her lusty eyes. Over David's shoulder she met Keith's intense gaze and smiled dreamily, and then sucked hard and pushed the man as deep as she could.

Keith could not look away. He stared at the man's hard dick, watched his woman slide the loose skin up and down, saw his beautiful wife lick each testicle. Every move she made was a stab through his heart but he grew harder by the second. Instead of demanding his wife stop, he rubbed the front of his pants. She saw what he did and slathered the penis with her tongue, exaggerating her oral performance to drive home the fact that she was doing it and Keith was allowing her to.

David was oblivious to everything except the gorgeous woman sucking his cock. His hands came up to her head and he warned her she had him close and April sucked harder and bobbed faster. Keith leaned in for a better view. With one hand stroking his shaft in time with her mouth, April used the other to fondle David's balls.

David cried out, his hips rose off the couch, and April vacuumed every drop he had to give her, her eyes locked to her husband's. David rocked side to side, ejaculating his load, moaning a constant stream of pleasurable sounds. Keith watched until David began to come down from his high and then he backed away from them towards the bedroom. Inside, he pushed the door to. His heart beat so hard Keith worried he'd break a rib. He fought to catch his breath.

Soon he heard them talking and shortly after David said good night. They kissed for another minute and the front door opened and closed. The deadbolt shot.

The bedroom door opened. April, naked from the waist up, faced her husband, her hands on her hips, her tongue sliding across her pouty lips.

Keith ripped his clothing off and April helped. The instant his penis was free April sucked her second dick that night. Keith desperately wanted to fuck the mouth David had just fucked and he held her head steady while he pumped in and out. April instinctively knew her man's need and helped him get his dick into the back of her throat. She cupped his balls and swirled her tongue.

He'd thought to shoot his cum where David shot his but the need to fuck her grew too strong. When he'd had enough and pulled her to her feet, turned her away, bent her at the waist, and flipped her skirt over her ass. He lined his penis up to her slit. As expected, April was drenched. Saturated pussy juice dripped down both thighs. Keith sank balls deep and fucked her standing up and with animal passion. April surprised them both with a fast and powerful orgasm and Keith lasted only moments longer. He emptied himself inside his cheating wife until his legs gave out and they collapsed to the bedroom carpet.

As soon as he caught his breath they were kissing like impassioned teens. Keith squeezed the same tits David had just enjoyed and felt himself grow mostly hard again. He rolled her onto her back and moved between her legs. He pushed deep and April's eyes flew wide open. She held his face and gazed at him with disbelief.

"How are you still hard?"

"That was so hot!"

"Fuck me, Keith. I was so bad, Baby. Fuck me hard."

Keith pounded her into the carpet. He was rock hard now but knew no orgasm would come. April had no such restrictions and minutes later had another orgasm more powerful than the first.

"Baby!" she cried. "You love it too. This is perfect! Can you believe it? Fuck me, Honey. Yeah, hammer my slutty pussy! I sucked his dick, Baby. I sucked his dick!"

Keith pounded his wife until his muscles began to fail. Sweat dripped from his face. His arms ached. At last he rolled off her, penis hard and standing straight up, gleaming with her copious juice. She moved under an arm, head on his heaving chest. They lay like that a long time, both reluctant to speak and that's where they awoke several hours later. April had deeply asleep so Keith got her undressed and into bed and then circled their hotel room, checking locks and lightly cleaning. He left the camisole on the coffee table.

When he got to bed, April stirred, groggy, barely awake.

"I found the cabernet," she murmured. "Not my fault. You left me with him."

Sleep took her. Keith looked down on his pretty wife and remembered her on her knees, pleasuring David while looking at him. They would have much to discuss on the road tomorrow.

New Orleans was two hours behind them when April finally spoke. She'd been pensive and withdrawn all morning. She had two slices of wheat toast and black coffee for breakfast.

"Are you angry with me?"

“No,” he answered. “Not at all.”

“Disappointed?”

“Nope.”

She turned her gaze out the passenger window. “Why not?”

He took her hand. “Because that was hot and I kind of maneuvered you into it.”

“You did. Why?”

“I wish I had an answer. I truly do, Honey. I’m not sure what’s happening for me but something new and wild has taken up residence inside my head.”

She chewed inside her bottom lip. “I knew I’d seen a bottle of wine back there so I checked after you left. I found where you’d hidden it. I opened it and chugged about half, intending you’d come back and catch us making out, but the wine had other ideas.”

“The wine?”

She looked at her feet. “No. Me. The wine just made it easier. Tell me you love me. Tell me I didn’t fuck things up.”

“I love you and you didn’t fuck things up. This is just like that night with Danny and Toby except things went farther. Relax, Baby. How you expect me to feel is not how I feel. Last night was intense. Have we ever had sex that hot before?”

“No! God! That was concentrated passion. I don’t understand how you are okay with what happened. I did a lot more last night than that night with the cowboys. Why aren’t you hurt or furious?”

“I am hurt, but the pain feels good. I know that sounds absurd but something happens to it. It gets twisted and aimed back at me and makes me rock hard. Maybe it stimulates a competitive gene or something? Maybe I’m fighting with other men for the alpha-male position? I don’t know. All I do know is you look sexier than ever. I can still see his penis in your mouth and it turns me on. You loved sucking his dick. Don’t even try to deny it.”

“I did love it. He’s soooo sexy. God! I never would have gotten a man like that before. It’s perfect that you like it too.”

“It’s not just your improved looks, Honey. You were cute before but you had no confidence, no belief in yourself. Now you’re bold because you think you deserve to be.”

“Said the man that loves me and sees none of my flaws.”

“Whatever.”

She moved across the seat and snuggled up to him as he drove. Miles sailed by.

“He’s a really good kisser,” she offered. Keith kissed the top of her head.

“Any regrets?” He asked.

April was silent for a moment. “I wish his dick was bigger. A man that hot and sexy should have a big dick, too.”

Keith was surprised by her answer but said nothing. One hour became two.

“Will we make Orlando today?” She asked.

“Yes, but late. Most likely ten or eleven at night.”

“That’s alright. I’m excited for the reunion. No one will recognize me.”

“If I remember correctly, the reunion is Saturday night at nine and then everyone gets together at a park the next day?”

“Yeah. Adults the night before, at the park everyone brings their kids.”

“Are there one or two people you especially want to see? Any old boyfriends you want to annoy? I can act like the fawning husband and make the other wives jealous.”

“Yeah, do that. No ex-boyfriends, sadly. I went through high school without one. I was way too shy and self-conscious. I kissed a boy named Caesar in the eleventh grade but he grabbed my boob and I stormed off. That was the end of Caesar.”

They drove in silence as the sun moved across the sky. Near twilight, Keith spoke: “Did you think about fucking David?”

“No. No way. We’ve played some wild games on this trip but that would be too far. Way too far.”

“I’m asking if you thought about it, not what you think of actually doing it.”

April stretched her legs over to the passenger side and rolled onto her back, placing her head in Keith’s lap and gazing up at his face.

“And what would you have done if he’d been inside me when you opened the front door? If instead of us making out, I was riding him like a whore?”

He let her dodge the question, for now. “I can’t say what I’d do with certainty, but I can say what I wouldn’t do. I know I wouldn’t freak out. I know I wouldn't have started a fight or screamed at you. Nobody knows until they are in a situation but my gut tells me I probably would have watched like I did your blowjob. Is that crazy? How's that make you feel?"

"Dangerously empowered. You know David is inside me right now."

Keith was confused for a second and then realized she meant because she'd swallowed him. His penis swelled slightly beneath her head and he knew she felt it.

"Yes, I guess that's true."

"I think you want me to fuck another man. I think you want to see it."

That felt slightly off and Keith had to think for a minute. "No, I don't. That's why I asked my original question. If you think about these things, it's hot to me. If I thought you were just doing what you thought I wanted, all the excitement disappears. It must be your idea. Never do anything because you think it's what I want. So, did you think about fucking him?"

"Yes."

Beneath her head, his penis surged. She smiled. "Holy shit, Keith. Really?"

"I don't understand it myself."

"Are you giving me permission?"

"No. Nope."

"But if I just take it and do what I want, you won't freak out and divorce me."

"I'm thinking we're way past that."

"Wow. Oh my God. Oh, my God. This is nuts."

A mile passed and no one spoke. Then April rolled onto her stomach and unzipped his shorts. She fished out his semi erect penis and slipped it into her hot mouth. Keith said nothing. April leisurely sucked her husband's dick as he drove, in no hurry to make him cum, just pleasuring the man she loved. Once she had him hard she kept him on the edge mile after mile after mile. Keith loved it and if she wanted to suck, he'd let her.

Much later he told her they'd stop for gas and she zipped his short and sat up. She adjusted her shirt. They pulled off the freeway and Keith aimed for a small truck stop, Mel's, about a mile away. Three big rigs sat in an open lot nearby.

Keith parked at the pump and slid his debit card and April sat in the car and waited, but after a few minutes jumped up.

“I’m going to look for snacks,” she said. “Healthy ones.”

Keith waved and watched her cross the huge parking lot. She never wore a bra anymore and her tits swayed with each step. She’d worn tight black booty shorts and the size and shape of her ass was perfectly framed.

Clerk’s going to love this, he thought.

April stepped inside. The glass door closed behind her slowly. Keith filled the tank and sat. After a few minutes, he thought he should give up his spot to the next car and pulled up in front of the door. Too many cigarette promotions covered the glass for him to see inside so he waited with the air conditioner running. April did not appear. He killed the engine and locked the car to go get her.

Inside was a mix of convenience store with an auto repair attached at the back. Rows of old snacks and groceries lined the floor and a door in the side wall led to a repair bay. Keith looked over the tops of the rows for April but did not see her. He faced the clerk, an old man in overalls and four day whisker growth on his chin.

“My wife came in and I don’t see her. You have a bathroom?”

“Not in the bathroom,” he croaked, pointing towards a door at the back of the store. “She’s in back.”

Keith went on instant alert. Each time April played their new game she took things farther and his mouth went dry wondering what she had done this time. He approached the door and opened it slowly.

Beyond was a dim and dusty bedroom that smelled like dog. April knelt at the foot of a sagging bed, leaning over a large cardboard box. Three older men, truckers, stood around the box and over her, looking down her top. Two more steps showed Keith inside the box was a mama pit-bull and her six babies. April slowly stroked mom’s head and scratched between her eyes. April looked up.

“Aren’t they so cute?”

“No,” he announced.

“No? What are you talking about? They’re adorable.”

“They are, but no, we can’t take one. No way.”

April pouted but didn’t argue. She pet the mother another minute and then the little pups and then stood. Her long hair had fallen all around her face so she twisted it into a tail and tied it atop her head. Lifting her arms made her shirt glide across her tits and show their shape and made her shirt rise in back and expose her tight round ass trapped in black booty shorts. Every male eye in the room was glued to her. She pretended to be unaware of the tension she caused.

For the first-time, Keith noticed an ancient man seated in a rocker in the corner. He wore dirty and frayed pajamas and Keith knew this bedroom was his and that he probably hadn't left it in years. Keith's skin crawled.

"Ready to go?" he asked April.

"Alright." She faced the man in the corner. "Thanks for letting me pet your puppies." He flashed a toothless grin at her. Keith took her elbow and hustled them both out, avoiding eye contact with everyone.

Back on the freeway Keith sped to make up lost time. "I thought you were flirting with some guy again."

April chuckled. "Surprise! Just cute doggies."

"That place was creepy."

"I didn't notice."

"I thought that mummy in the corner would die on us and we'd get stuck talking to the police. He looked about ready to fall over."

She chuckled again. "Then I guess you missed the tent I made of his pajamas. That old-timer still has some juice left. I was in the room two minutes and the flannel of his lap started to rise. By the size of his bulge I bet his dick was big."

Keith checked to see if she was fucking with him.

"Seriously," she continued. "I don't know how you missed it."

It was Keith's turn to laugh. Half an hour later they hit construction and traffic ground to a halt. Keith watched the clock and after three hours of stop and go, suggested they grab a motel room and hit Orlando fresh in the morning.

"We have several days to kill before the reunion on Saturday, so no rush."

April agreed and they both watched for freeway signs. As always, April checked the ratings of each hotel until they found one they liked. Keith left the freeway and followed surface roads until he pulled up to Four Points hotel, just outside Tallahassee. They registered and Keith drove around to their room and they brought in the luggage they'd need. In the park across the street was a street party with live music and a thousand college students. April pointed with her elbow.

“Want to check it out after we shower? Music sounds good.”

Keith gave a nod. Forty minutes later they stood in an open dirt field and listened to a cover of Bon Jovi's, Living On A Prayer. The Florida evening was hot and humid and Keith was sure April would catch him looking at one of the many sexy Florida State co-eds walking around almost naked. Keith wore a comfortable pair of cargo shorts and sandals plus his ever-present T-shirt. April wore a mid-thigh frilly white skirt and black tank top and he knew without checking she skipped a bra again.

Four songs later April announced she would buy them both beer and told him to stay put so she knew where to find him. Once she left, he allowed himself to gawk at all the pretty college girls. He lost track of time. Eventually he became aware April should have returned by now so he scanned the crowd and started walking in the direction she'd left, staying on high alert so they did not pass each other.

He'd gone only a hundred feet when he found her. She stood with three shirtless football types, A black guy and two white, one blonde and one redhead. All three were piles of muscle and perfect teeth, and their conversation clearly seemed to center on working out. The young men pointed to various parts of her body and smiled, laughing as they fed her compliments. Keith hid behind a tree to watch.

April held a beer in each hand and bashfully accepted each comment the boys made. She was in no hurry to leave.

The young black man pointed at her stomach. Keith could not hear them over the music but April held the beers high and gave them a 'my hands are full, dummies' look. The black guy reached over and lifted the front of her tank, exposing abs she obviously held tight. The man lifted the shirt higher until he exposed the undercurve of each breast. April laughed loudly and the two white boys clapped. She backed away and shimmied her shirt back in place and gave a little bow. They all exchanged a few words and April headed for the spot she'd left Keith. He followed her. When she saw he was no longer there she stopped and stomped a foot but Keith slid up behind her and kissed her neck. She turned and handed him his beer.

They each took a sip. “I saw you with your new friends,” Keith volunteered.

“Oh?”

“Yes. They were quite impressed with you. No empty-headed college girl for these fine lads. They want a woman. A fit woman.”

April took another sip and pointed across the field. "They wanted me to go to the Old City Cemetery over there and smoke some weed with them. They assumed I went to school here and I think they're hoping I am an empty-headed college girl."

"What did you tell them when you left?"

"I had to get back to my date."

"Oh. So, you're on a date? What about the ring?"

"I told them I was engaged but my fiancé was back in California while I went to school out here. My date was just a friend."

"Wow. You're good."

"Weed sounds fun."

Keith's mind raced. "What do you want, April?"

She did not answer him. She took his beer and poured some of hers until his was full again. She stepped close and kissed him slowly and passionately, and then turned to walk back to her new friends.

"April? What are you doing? April?"

She ignored him. Keith's head spun with a "here we go again," feeling. He hung back to get some distance between them and then followed as if he did not know her. As she approached the three men again she raised her beers.

"Who wants an extra beer?" she yelled, laughing. "My date ditched me!"

"Idiot!" shouted the redhead.

"Nah," she said. "He knew he wasn't getting any."

The guys laughed like they were on her side and the blonde removed a marijuana cigarette from behind his ear. "So, you're down?"

"I'm down."

The black guy took Keith's beer and dumped it on the ground, dropping the red plastic cup on the foam. April did the same with her beer but tossed the cup in a nearby trashcan. The black guy put his arm around April's shoulders. The blonde put an arm around her waist. She looked so small next to them Keith felt a catch in his throat. Redhead led them across the field, away from the crowd and the music, deeper into darkness under the massive drooping canopy of Southern Live Oak trees.

Keith waited, creating distance, and then followed, moving carefully but casually from trunk to tombstone to shrub. He lost them for a time in the darkness and had to explore cautiously, but found them again when he heard April laugh. He crept around until he spied them seated at the foot of a large tomb with the name, Elizabeth Budd Graham etched above the door. April sat with her back to the entrance and the young men formed a half-circle facing her.

A bright orange glow illuminated her face and Keith knew she'd taken a drag from the joint. They'd smoked weed once, back in college, and Keith remembered how horny it made his wife. Nervous fingers tickled his stomach. His dry mouth wished he had that beer back.

What will she do?

Their voices were hushed, given their surroundings, and Keith saw no way to get close enough to hear. He'd have to hang back and watch in ignorance.

An hour later, he was bored. They smoked and talked and did nothing else. He knew April had to be incredibly high given how much they smoked but they remained seated, deep in earnest conversation. Keith settled in with his back against the trunk of a towering pine. Fifteen minutes later he roused himself as all four stood. The black guy and the blonde hugged April and headed off through the tombstones. Redhead and April watched until they were out of sight and then the young man took April's hand and led her away from the tomb, off the trail, and deeper under the trees.

For a moment Keith was caught flat-footed. He saw no way to tail them without cutting through the forest and under the dense trees he was sure to lose them. Indecision kept him rooted for several heartbeats and by the time he made a choice, the forest had swallowed his wife. He jogged to the wall of trees. With no other ideas, he stepped from the path and entered at the same point.

Within ten steps he was lost. Closely packed trunks and low-hanging branches blocked his vision and in the deep darkness he saw nothing. He had to fight for every foot. Redhead knew this short-cut and had obviously avoided the brambles which now snared Keith. Frustrated, Keith backed out, trying to retrace his steps. After a few errors, he found himself leaving the forest about twenty feet from the tomb.

"Goddamn it."

He aimed for the music and as soon as he encountered a road he turned, looping in a huge arc. After some time, the road crossed a sidewalk and he followed this new path in the general direction towards where he'd lost April. The trees thinned and he found himself walking between campus buildings. Of April, there was no trace. He walked farther onto campus and encountered more individuals all hurrying about their business.

By now, April could be anywhere. Many of the buildings looked like dormitories. Finding her was impossible. Only dumb luck would make their paths cross.

Two hours of random wandering later, Keith accepted luck would not smile on him that night. He remembered his earlier conversation with April about permission. April was with a hot athlete stud, stoned, and with his implied consent.

I told her no.

They both knew his declaration carried no weight. She'd toyed with the idea of defying him and he'd grown hard. How seriously would she take him?

"Fuck!" he yelled. Nobody on campus even turned to look.

He headed back to their hotel room to wait. He text that he was concerned but of course got no reply. He called but after the beep words failed him and he left a blank message. He text after another hour, again expressing his frustration, but his phone sat silent. He tried watching a movie and then sports. He tried reading. He paced and stared out the hotel room window down onto the park. The band broke up around midnight and the crowd thinned to nothing. He sat on the bed and tried to think of another text. A question so searing and dangerous he dared not entertain it bounced around inside his head; was April fucking another man at this very moment?

Just forming the words into a sentence made his heart hammer under his ribs. His stomach was a twisted knot of anxiety. A whisper of the thought had first surfaced when April stared at Bear but Keith had avoided a direct examination. For days now the idea had circled his mind like a burglar testing all the doors and windows of a house, trying to find a way in. Even when they'd briefly discussed the subject in the car, Keith had held the concept at arm's length, only considering the notion in the abstract. Alone in this hotel room, all barriers had been removed. The reality eased into his guts like a razor-sharp dagger.

He fought to avoid that conclusion. He back-pedaled, rationalizing they'd gotten too high and fallen asleep or moved on to another party and right now April sat in some living room and talked politics with a group of students.

But his traitorous mind would not allow that refuge. Instead, over and over, he saw April's pretty face, twisted in the throes of powerful orgasms. Redhead loomed over her with his smooth and powerful body, muscles writhing as he worked his hard cock deep into this hot slut he'd only just met. Keith tried to shake the images from his head but they felt too true to banish easily. April, of course, had her legs spread wide. She cried out at the repeated penetration, fervently kissing her new handsome lover.

All she's ever known is me. That sweet pussy's only been wrapped around my penis. How must a brand-new cock feel to her? I bet she'd drenched, dripping into his dormitory sheets.

Sudden dread stabbed his heart and he gasped out loud in their hotel room.

Condom! Good God! What about protection?

"Fucking hell!" he yelled.

He began pacing again. The small ball of acid sizzling in his stomach grew larger by the minute. His angst threatened to reach a breaking point so he decided to distract himself. He started a shower and set the water as hot as he could stand. Tension melted from his back and neck. He ran the steaming water directly onto his head, gasping for air as the water seared his skin. He soaped and scrubbed and discovered his penis was astonishingly sensitive. Despite his anguish, he began to masturbate.

Images of April rose unbidden. On her hands and knees now, Redhead held her hips and pounded her delicate pussy with his fleshy cannon. She came and came and came and Keith groaned loudly and spurt hot jizz against the shower wall. The floor tilted and his body locked into a thousand pleasurable cramps as one jet after another shot from his penis. He moaned, jerking fast, until the last drop dribbled from him. He held himself steady until the vertigo passed and then weakly finished his shower. He wrapped himself in a thick white hotel robe.

The orgasm helped some. He tried ESPN again and paid attention for a while. Slowly the previous tension returned and this time his penis rose with it.

She's out there somewhere, with him, for hours.

Fifteen minutes later he fired off a second climax, something he'd not done in such rapid succession since high school.

A playoff basketball game had started and that succeed in distracting him for almost thirty minutes until a fat, unprotected cock balls deep and stretching his wife's pussy floated in front of him. He covered his eyes with both hands.

"Dear God, help."

His tired penis slowly rose a third time. This one took longer but was every bit as intense. He fell back onto the bed and covered his face with an arm.

"Where are you?" he muttered.

He floated in blackness when incredible pleasure stirred him. Like kicking for the surface from the bottom of the pool, he rushed to awaken. His eyes opened slowly and he looked down his body and there was his gorgeous wife, on her knees beside the bed. She had his soft penis in her mouth and suckled gently. Her long hair was messed, her mascara streaked, eyeshadow smudged. Her cheeks looked rosy and vibrant, her eyes bloodshot and exhausted.

Keith rubbed his eyes and glanced at the clock on the nightstand; four-thirty-seven. The television was still on as were the lights. He'd passed out after his last orgasm and April had awakened him to let him know she was home. The flood of relief was followed by anger and irritation. He gently pushed her mouth off his penis and sat up, wrapping the robe around him.

"Where have you been? What happened?"

"With Ryan, at his place. Let me finish." She tried to open the robe.

"No. Talk to me. I'm upset."

"Why?"

"Why? You left me all alone. I had no idea where you were, what was happening or if you were safe. I worried like crazy."

She crawled into his lap some and kissed his mouth as he talked.

"What else did you do? I see dried cum all over you. You couldn't have been too angry or concerned if you're fantasizing about me out with him."

"What happened?"

April sat back on her heels. Still a little high, she found it difficult to take her husband too seriously. "Nothing," she teased, her red eyes smirking.

“Tell me. Did something happen?”

“Maybe,” she said, leaning in and again attempting to open his bathrobe. He let her after a moment of resistance. She lowered her head and her hot mouth found his deflated penis.

God, that feels amazing. Did she suck Ryan’s cock?

“Did you suck Ryan’s cock?”

“Maybe.”

As good as her mouth felt he knew after three orgasms he was not going to get hard. A growing need to fuck her churned his guts and he cursed himself for jacking off so many times. He took her elbows and lifted her to her feet. He stood to examine her. She acted bashful. He lifted the front of her skirt and was greeted by her well-trimmed but panty-less pussy.

“What happened to your underwear?” he asked.

“Not sure.”

Her labia were pinkish and puffy and her pubic hair looked damp and matted. He dropped the skirt and lifted her tank until both breasts were exposed. Her nipples were red and swollen.

“Did you fuck him?”

“Maybe.”

“Goddamn it, April. Tell me.”

She smiled infuriatingly but remained standing, allowing him to continue his examination. He pulled the shirt over her head and unzipped the side of her skirt. He pushed it down to her feet. He ran a palm down her flat belly until his middle finger reached her clit. She stiffened. He kept going, splitting her pussy lips and dipping the top of his finger half an inch inside her. She was soaked, slippery and slimy. Keith’s heart thudded in his chest. Her pussy was still steaming hot. He pushed his finger deeper and April gripped his wrist. Not to stop him but to steady herself. Her mouth opened slightly. Her eyes gazed into his intensely.

“Did you fuck him? Is that his cum I feel or your own wetness?”

She reached up to kiss him. Keith moved his finger in and out and April moaned. He shifted his stance and moved her to the bed, forcing her to sit. He knelt between her legs, spreading them. She bit her bottom lips. He used his fingers and spread her labia, examining her inner folds, rubbing the clear viscous fluid around. April looked down her body at him and opened her legs wider. She leaned back on her elbows, studying her husband. She cupped one big breast and strummed her fingers over the nipple.

Keith dabbed more fluid and brought it to his nose to smell. When that gained him nothing he touched the liquid to his tongue. April moaned and her head fell back momentarily but she quickly watched him again. Keith spread her legs wider and she helped him do it. He pushed each of her thighs and used his thumbs to open her labia wide. She moaned again as he looked inside her. Her folds gleamed with wetness and he desperately wished he could fuck her. Their eyes locked and Keith slowly leaned forward. April gave him an encouraging nod so tiny he almost missed it and then his mouth fastened to her pussy and his tongue snaked out and into her body.

“Ooohhh myyyy Godddd,” she groaned. She placed a hand on the back of his head to hold him there and the other teased her tit. Her hips began a slow gyration, lifting from the bed in a sexy circle against his face.

“Do it, Baby. That feels amazing. Make me cum. Do you like it, Baby? Do you like my wet pussy? Do I taste goooood?”

Keith didn’t answer, instead pushing his tongue deeper into his wife and licking her from the inside. He swabbed her clit and sucked her labia until a combination of her juices, his saliva, and whatever else she may have in her ran down her ass to soak the mattress. Opposing forces threatened to tear him apart; revulsion that perhaps he now licked where Ryan’s bare cock had so recently been and possibly ejaculated, and a desire so intense he wanted to scream, born of that same chance his wife may have recently been with another man. In the moment, both forces were held at bay by the sounds of pleasure he caused in his wife. More than anything else, he needed to hear her climax. His tongue was a fiend.

“Aaaagghh! Christ, Baby, what are you doing to me? I can’t take it!”

Keith elevated his assault on her clit. Fluids poured from her like a river.

“God! Unnggh! Here it is, Love. Fuck! Argh! OH, FUCK YES!”

April threw her head back into the sheets. Her hands gathered wads of comforter and pulled. Her legs circled Keith’s head.

“Aaaaaaaa! Fuuuuuuccckkk!”

Keith drove her to madness, licking, sucking, nibbling, and slurping as her body convulsed and she filled their hotel room with screams. He slowed and stopped only after she shuddered one last time and lay still. He wiped his face on the sheets and straightened her body on the bed and then snuggled behind her. Both fell asleep.

“Did you fuck him?”

“Maybe.”

“Did you fuck him?”

“Maybe.”

He’d asked her a dozen times that morning while they sipped coffee and during the hours after. Another half dozen times on the road. Her answer was always the same. He explained how important his involvement was for him to enjoy the little games they played so often now, and she countered with how intoxicating it was for her to feel so empowered and have a secret over him.

“I can push your buttons in an instant,” she explained. “We just took this game to a higher level, several levels higher, in fact. Loosen up on the male-ownership thing and have some fun. If I answer all the mystery is gone.”

“Not knowing is killing me. Did you fuck him?”

She leaned across the car seat and pulled his hand to her pussy. She wore another skirt and tank combination. The temperature and humidity were both in the high nineties and the air swirling between her legs felt amazing. Keith felt lace and moist warmth against his knuckles.

“Does it kill you Ryan might know what I feel like wrapped around his cock?”

Keith groaned.

“Or maybe you prefer thinking I know how another cock feels?”

His mostly recovered penis started to rise. April gently squeezed his forming bulge. “Say whatever you want. Deep down, you like not knowing. I think you like being tortured. Besides, it makes me feel naughty. I love it, and I never agreed to confess every detail every time I do something.”

Keith did not like it. He set his jaw and stared out the windshield and focused on driving. She’s having fun holding on to this secret so I should probably stop asking. I’m only feeding the flames. I lost any argument when she found dried cum on me.

As if reading his mind April said: “How many times did you jack off last night?”

“Maybe.”

April laughed. “Doesn’t work as well for you. How many?”

“Three.”

“Wow! What are you, sixteen?”

Keith did not respond. April pushed in a dubstep CD and set the volume low.

Her womb might still hold his sperm today, right now. My wife might carry another man’s semen inside her as we sail down this freeway. Fuck me, that’s intense.

He glanced at April who had her head back and eyes closed, absorbing the music. Her short skirt showed most of her legs, her tight top showed her fit body and the teardrop shape of her big tits. Although upset he still thought she was the prettiest girl he’d ever seen.

This trip has changed her, he noticed.

She sat taller in her seat. Her posture had improved; shoulders back, chin up. She moved with greater confidence, interacted with people with more self-assurance, trusted her own mind more.

All positive changes but a lot to take in over such a short time. I feel like we’ve moved onto thin ice. I can no longer predict her reactions and that makes me uneasy.

He chewed on that for a minute.

Which sounds like insecurity on my part.

They finished that CD and started another. Mile after mile zipped by. The tension in the car slowly disappeared and when April asked what he wanted for lunch, Keith answered normally before remembering he was supposed to be upset.

Fuck it. Just let it go.

“I think breakfast sounds good for lunch. How about bacon and eggs and pancakes and syrup and hash browns?”

“Hm. Not exactly what I’d call a healthy diet but what the hell, we’re on vacation and I’m starving,” she said.

“Burn a lot of calories last night?”

April gave Keith a sly grin. “Tons. Hours and hours of cardio. Easily the hardest workout I’ve ever had. You would have been proud.”

“I’m sure I would.”

Keith left Freeway Ten and took the Seventy-Five and not long after they saw a Waffle House in Alachua. He slowed and took the exit and circled around to the restaurant. April dug in the backseat and found her bra which she put on under her tank.

“Really?”

“Really,” she answered. “This is bible country. You will meet some highly opinionated and judgmental assholes around my home town. You can’t throw a rock without hitting a church.”

“Delightful.”

“Not really.”

April spoke the truth regarding her appetite. Keith laughed halfway through lunch as his petite and pretty wife shoveled food into her ravenous mouth. He saw it as evidence of her infidelity and that stung, but without a confession or irrefutable proof, feeling hurt was a choice. He didn’t know with certainty.

Keith checked the map on his phone and showed it to April.

“Less than two hours, Honey. Are you getting excited?”

She maneuvered a wad of hash browns out of the way. “Yup!”

Back on the road and with a full belly, Keith felt a rising sexual tension. April slid a new CD in and rolled her window down. The roar of the wind killed any conversation. Every chance he got Keith glanced over at his sexy wife. The hurt was beginning to subside and replacing it was hot sexual desire.

I am not the last man to fuck my woman. It ain’t right.

A sign announcing a rest stop ahead flashed by.

If she fucked Ryan, he still owns her pussy.

When the exit appeared, Keith took it.

For a moment April looked confused and her lips tightened as if she were about to speak, but then they curled into a slight smile. She said nothing. Keith aimed the Mercedes to the farthest corner of the huge parking lot and away from the other automobiles. He had to share the spot with a big rig but figured the trucker had probably pulled off the freeway to sleep. Keith picked a spot and parked the car.

“Tilt your seat back,” he told April. She hesitated a second and then slipped a hand next to the door and pulled the lever. Her upper seat fell backwards and the base slid towards the back seat.

“Remove your panties.”

April didn't even check outside. Her hands disappeared under her skirt and her white lace panties hit the floor.

Keith scanned the surrounding lot to make sure they had privacy and then moved across to lay on top of his wife, between her legs. He unzipped his short and pulled his rock-hard erection through the hole. April looked down at it.

"I was so hoping you'd do something like this," she murmured.

"You were?"

"Yes. God, yes." She lifted her tank and pulled down her bra in front, freeing her tits. Keith walked his knees forward and then pulled her hips to the edge of the seat. Her pussy sparkled and gleamed, already wet.

Or maybe that's Ryan leaking out of her.

Keith's penis surged purple. He shoved it inside April's smoldering pussy and both moaned. Keith fasten his mouth to her nipple and bit hard enough to make her squirm. He shoved balls deep, maddened by her well lubricated tunnel. She was wetter than ever before. He imagined his penis sliding through a pool of Ryan's sperm and he growled and sucked her nipple fiercely. She whimpered. He lifted his hips and slammed them down and April cried out, mostly pleasure but partly pain. Keith ignored her and pounded her again.

"Yes!" she cried.

He held her hips down and hammered her little hole. There was no love-making in him. He pinned his wife and crushed her cunt with his dick. He hit a few bad angled and she winced but he didn't care and neither did she. Her pussy quickly began to make wet sloshing sounds and passion engulfed him. He felt his cum boil in his nuts. He pounded faster and his balls clenched. She felt him swell inside and pulled his head close, her mouth next to his ear.

"Fuck me, Keith. Fuck me hard. Fuck your slutty little wife!"

Her dripping juices splashed around her opening and Keith was sure he was merely adding his sperm to Ryan's and that sent him over the edge. He drove his penis as deep as possible, unconcerned about her orgasm, and shot the first of many hot spurts deep inside. He groaned and growled and she racked his back and ass with her nails, urging him on, begging him for every drop. His body seemed electrocuted until he shot one last time and collapsed on her, sweating profusely and breathing hard. She held him tight.

Once his breathing returned to normal and his heartbeat slowed, Keith extricated himself and moved behind the wheel. April retrieved her panties and pulled them up and fixed her clothing while Keith adjusted his. Keith thought of a dozen things to say but none felt quite right so he said nothing. April remained silent too. He glanced around and noticed the trucker in his cab, staring down into the Mercedes, obviously witness to everything. Keith did not mention him. He started the car and backed out and soon they flew down the freeway again. April leaned over and kissed her husband and rested her head on his shoulder, hugging his arm.

Much later April pointed at a red brick building. "I went to grade school there."

Keith slowed as they entered Orlando. April pointed out friends' homes and business she was familiar with. They had reservations at the Solaire at the Plaza as April's parents were in Europe and she felt strange staying at their townhome without them. The party Saturday night was at Kasa restaurant and bar across the plaza so they were free to party as hard as they wanted with no worry for driving. Keith engaged GPS and followed the robotic voice commands and soon the hotel filled their view.

"Let's unpack and shower," April suggested.

Hours later they lay on the king-sized bed wrapped in fluffy white hotel robes, staring at the ceiling. April outlined a plan for the next few days, hitting every tourist spot she knew and Keith mentioned he wanted to see the Atlantic.

"We'll hit the beach. You'll love it. The water is much warmer than the Pacific."

She stopped to think for a moment, looked like she wanted to say something but thought better of it, and then started to fidget with a cuticle.

"Just say it, April. After this trip, I think we're way beyond acting bashful."

She giggled. "You're right. Okay. Playalinda is a clothing optional beach. I've never been but we always snickered about it in high school. I'd feel a little triumphant if we went but I have no idea how you'd feel about it. We've never discuss nude beaches."

Keith thought for a moment and reached for his phone. "Local weather says Friday would be best. Let's see the city and act like tourists and then hit the beach in two days. Cool?"

"Very. Thanks, Honey."

Acting like tourists for two days was exactly what they needed. The cross-country trip had wound them up and not just sexually, so forty-eight hours of goofing off, too much booze, massages, and naps were perfect to relax and reconnect. By Friday Ryan no longer barged in on Keith's thoughts. In fact, all their wild escapades were dim and fuzzy.

The morning broke clean and clear and soon they tromped along the strand. In the distance behind them the launch towers of Cape Canaveral loomed. The lot was full so they had to park and walk, but they traveled light. When they passed the first sign warning about clothing optional, April turned a huge grin on Keith.

"I can't believe I'm doing this, after all these years."

A wooden ramp appeared and April swung wide to take it. Keith followed behind, watching her tight ass in the tiny bikini bottoms she wore.

"What if we meet someone you know?" he asked.

She pursed her lips and tilted her head. "Depends on who it is. Some friends I wouldn't mind. Honestly, I'd be surprised if anyone recognized me."

They hit the sand and headed north about a hundred feet, walking in the firmer sand by the water. When the first nude man walked by, older and chubby, Keith watched April closely. She seemed not to notice. Soon the crowd increased and April's neck turned to rubber. Mostly she stared at penises but occasionally a beautiful girl turned her head too. Keith was surprised when April dropped their blanket in the middle of a large gathering.

This is not the same girl at all.

She straightened the blanket and weighted the corners and then, after a sly glance around, untied her top and dropped it. Keith saw her take a calming breath and then down came her bottoms too. Before he had to think about it he pushed his shorts down and off and quickly lay on his back.

April remained standing, twisting her long hair into a ponytail. Her tits wobbled and her ass bounced. Keith noticed heads turning all around. She applied spray sunscreen and then did the same to him and then joined him on her back. The bright sun felt incredible. Seagulls cried and distant waves crashed and a murmur of voices floated by. The heat melted any last vestiges of stress from his body. It also caused his penis to swell slightly, a delightful by-product.

After half an hour of vacation bliss, April spoke, her voice low: “Baby, it’s been a few days and I’m sure you’ve thought about little else. What’s your conclusion? What’s your rock-solid final answer? Do you think I fucked Ryan or not?”

At last she’s ready to talk about it.

Keith held his breath and weighed his words. He let his mind sift all the data and form a final opinion.

“Yes, I do.”

She reached across the blanket and took his hand. “So, if I understand correctly, starting that night and all these past days since that night are how you behave after your wife fucks another man?”

His throat constricted. “Yes, I suppose it is.”

“Hold that thought for now, I want to come back to it. Let me ask you this; why did you draw that conclusion?”

“Little signs; how hungry you were at breakfast the morning after. How crazy wet you were that night and even the next day. I wondered if that was all you or you and him mixed.”

She squeezed his hand as he spoke those words.

“Not only did I fuck him for hours, but we skipped using condoms? You suspected he came in me?”

“Yes. I wondered.”

“But you went down on me.”

“I’m as mystified as you, April. I know I would have stopped if I’d been disgusted, if I’d encountered him in an obvious way, but I didn’t. You were drenched and slippery and tasted different but not like I imagine cum tastes. Did you fuck him?”

April ignored his question. “Okay, back to my original question; do you realize what this means if I didn’t fuck him? Do you understand the message you’ve sent me? I now know I could have and you would have pestered me for a few days but then adjusted.”

“True.”

“That’s fucking hot. That’s insanely hot, Keith. I had no idea you suspected he inseminated your wife. That takes us off the map. Here there be dragons. That’s the ultimate, right? In guy-world he took me from you.”

The warm Florida breeze blew over them both. The sun heated their bodies, birds drifted overhead, waves crashed and Keith and April lay in the middle of it all, eyes closed, facing the sky, holding hands. April's heart raced.

"I've seen behind the curtain," she continued. "Genie's out of the bottle. You determined I fucked another man and you didn't scream or cry or threaten me with violence or divorce. You liked it. You loved it. You fucked my brains out on the side of the road because of it. Was that you taking me back from him?"

"Yes. Did you fuck him?"

April sat up and shielded her eyes from the glare. She looked down at her husband. He opened his eyes and tried to meet her gaze but her beautiful tits hanging over his face distracted him. He made himself focus.

"Maybe."

"Goddamn it, April."

"Don't get angry. I'll tell you, I promise, and I swear I'm not just doing this to fuck with you. Trust me, please?"

He closed his eyes and sighed.

She looked down at her naked pussy and then out to sea. "You'll eat me even if you worry I have cum in my pussy," she murmured.

"Yeah, does that make me gay?"

"Not at all. You didn't do it because you wanted to eat cum, you did it because of me. It's the connection you feel to me, not him. I haven't figured everything out yet but I must tell you, that gets me really hot. I've never felt so loved and desired. You're fucking devoted to me. Every woman wants that. I'm sure others wouldn't understand but I get it. I see it as evidence I'm truly the center of your universe, and if I'm understanding you correctly, the more turned-on I get, the more turned-on you get."

"Yes, that's all true."

"Wow. What a bombshell." She thought for a moment. "So, after this little talk we just had, do you still think I fucked him?"

"If I had to choose one way or the other? Yes. I'd still say yes."

She met his gaze. He saw concern for his well-being but mostly he saw excitement; a dog at the park about to be freed from the leash.

"And this other man got me so hot I fucked him bare and let cum inside me?"

"Yes. You desired him that much."

"And yet here you are, enjoying a lovely day at the beach with me."

"Yup."

She flopped onto her back, drawing up her arms and legs, giggling as she tried to speak. “Fuuuuuuck meeeeeee, I have the most amazing life. My last life must have sucked because I absolutely scored on this one.”

Unsure what to do, Keith chuckled. “I’m happy you’re happy. Want to go for a swim?”

“I do. Yes.” They walked to the water and Keith loved all the eyes on her. She was right; the Atlantic was far warmer than the Pacific. They waded to their knees and splashed to cool off. April noticed a collection of men had formed a circle around her, all acting as if they were just enjoying the water. They kept their distance and nobody was rude, but she felt their eyes boring into her. She moved into Keith’s arms.

“I’m sure you noticed,” she said.

“Oh yes. Around our blanket, too.”

“There are penises everywhere, Baby. All shapes and sizes. I’m surrounded by them. I’m a bug light drawing mosquitos in.”

“You want to leave?”

“Fuck no, I love it. I lived in a small box all my life and it’s a big world. I love the attention. Childish, I know, but there you have it.”

“I need to explain something to you. The reason I keep asking about Ryan is because I’m threatened. Every other game we played we shared and I felt connected. The Ryan thing you did all on your own and if you can do that without me, what else can you do? And if you’re successful without me, why do you need me? I’m afraid I’ll lose you. I’m afraid all this new attention you’re getting will open your eyes to other possibilities and fucking Prince Charming will ride in and sweep you off your feet. You can have any of the guys around us. I know you love that but it intimidates me a lot. Even telling you about this insecurity worries me.”

Her face softened and she gently kissed his lips. “Keith, listen to me. Never. Never not ever. You’ve loved me from the moment you saw me. These others are only attracted to me now. One day soon this new look I have will begin to fade and all these men will be on to the next girl. I’m not stupid. I know how it is for women. I’m basking and enjoying the moment and yes, Ryan was one of those moments. From our first dates, I felt myself falling in love with you. I want to age and die with you. No one will ever pry me away from you. I mean it.”

A man, mid-forties and fit, light brown hair across his chest and flat abs, chose that moment to walk towards them. His cock was girthy and pulled long by its own weight. As he strode through the water his organ slapped first off one thigh and then the other. April stared right at it for several heartbeats and then met the man's eyes. He smiled and she smiled back. They waited for him to pass and then April checked out his firm ass. She gave her attention back to Keith and found him smirking.

"What?" April said. "See? Hot guy yet I'm still here with you."

Keith rolled his eyes.

"I'm joking, Honey. I meant what I said; no man will ever steal me from you. All these adventures of ours are not to find me a new partner, they're to help me find me."

The rest of the day passed without incident. April loved being the center of attention and Keith gave her plenty of opportunities to enjoy it. By sunset they felt incredibly close and in love. The ride to the hotel was quiet and after they showered they made love in the dark. The sun left them tired and both slept soundly.

"Short or tight?" April asked, holding up two dresses.

"I have to see them on. You know how I work."

"Fine."

Short was black and ended well above mid-thighs, with a loose cowl neck and a long plunge in back to her lumbar. Tight was white and came to the knees, with a crew neck and long sleeves, and Keith realized if she wore it she'd need to skip bra and panties or leave unsightly lines.

"Tight."

"I knew you'd say that."

"You look amazing. Seriously, April, drop-dead gorgeous."

She turned in the mirror to better see her butt. "The lumps from the bra are awful. Even the thin panties I bought leave lines. I better go with the black one."

"The black one is so loose it hides your body, Baby, and after all that work you should get credit. The club will be dark. Wear a black dress on top of that and no one will see what great shape you're in."

She bit her lip and studied the mirror and then removed her underwear. "No bra or panties. I hope nobody thinks I'm a slut."

“From the stories you’ve told me about your high school, there will be plenty of sluts there to distract them. I wouldn’t worry too much. Dark club, alcohol, flashing lights and loud music; they’ll see you’re hot but not through your dress. You’ll be fine.”

She stood tall and slowly turned side to side. “I can see my pubic hair poking the material. Shit. Alright, white it is, but I need to do some things first.”

Keith watched his wife head for the bathroom and knew he’d not see her again for hours. He turned on ESPN and settled into the couch to get caught up on scores. Occasionally he’d hear a blow-dryer or the shower run and once April exclaimed “Take that, bitches!” but he had no idea why she said it. His dark suit and white dress shirt hung on the back of the door, steamed and ready to go.

Hours ticked off and the start time approached. Keith called out letting April know and she responded they’d be arriving late intentionally. Keith went back to the television.

At long last, April exited the bathroom. Keith gasped and sat bolt upright on the couch. Her long brown hair carried a sexy wave and slight curl. Her big green eyes popped. Her red lips looked full. The white dress was painted on her flesh and April had done something to bring the hem up to mid-thigh. Every curve of her body, breasts, and ass, were on gorgeous display.

“What do you think?” she asked.

Keith struggled for words. His lips moved, his mouth opened. His brain tripped over itself and tried to rise but tripped again.

“You...” he muttered.

April giggled.

“Jesus.”

April broke into a smile that lit the room. Keith’s gaze traveled every inch of her from head to feet. The dress hugged her body without bump or line. She saw him stare and lifted the front of her dress, exposing her shaved and perfectly smooth pussy. His jaw dropped open.

“What?”

“Yeah, I know. Keep an eye on me tonight and let me know if I accidentally flash anyone. The dress is so tight my pubes made bumps so I got rid of them. Will you pour me some wine?”

Thirty minutes later they were in the elevator headed down. The Kasa restaurant was across the plaza so they walked. The night was hot and humid. They elevatored again up to the top floor and stepped out. The check in desk had a photographer ready and everyone's senior picture adorned the back-wall. The photographer took a picture and placed it next to the older one. Keith scanned the wall. Almost everyone had already arrived.

"Everyone swelled," he joked.

"Almost everyone," April replied.

The doorman held the double doors open. Keith and April floated through.

Keith sat at the bar and sipped his whiskey. If it were possible for April to have made a better entrance, Keith couldn't imagine it. A song had just ended when they stepped in and everyone was leaving the dance floor. When the doors opened, they looked up and Keith, hanging back just a step, saw the faces of April's old classmates. He had to smother a laugh. Shocked and stunned pale ovals everywhere. Even those that did not remember April gawked at the gorgeous woman. April controlled her face but wanted to scream with joy. They made the rounds saying hello and shaking hands and one person after the next gushed about how good April looked. Keith gave her the spotlight. He kept her wine glass full and played the supportive and loving husband and April drank in every juicy moment.

Keith danced with her at first but then backed away and found a seat at the bar so April could mingle to her heart's content. The restaurant was low-ceilinged and a space had been cleared at one end for the dance floor. A DJ played music and a smoke machine and spinning lights completed the festive decorations. Keith saw that while April had complained she was invisible to guys back in school, they sure noticed her now. Girls too, including some of her best female friends. April came to check on Keith every now and then but she knew he was fine.

April never sat. As soon as one song ended someone grabbed her and started dancing again. They passed her around and Keith was gratified to see the joy and triumph on April's face. One guy especially enjoyed dancing with April and the next time she came to check on Keith he asked.

“Oh, That’s James Thomas. Jimmy. He played football and basketball and every girl in school wanted him. He barely remembers me but keeps asking me to dance. Pretty cool, huh? I can’t tell you how smug I’m feeling right now. Did you see the girls in the corner glaring at me? I spoiled their big moment. I remember those bitches were mean to everybody and now no one will even talk to them. Justice!” She kissed her husband and gulped more wine and headed back out to dance again.

Keith kept an eye on Jimmy. The guy was tall and muscular but looked like some had gone to fat. Blonde haired and blue eyed, all the girls still tried to get his attention. He gave out some but mostly he watched April dance. Keith smiled inwardly.

That’s right, she’s hot and she’s mine.

Eventually the DJ took a break and set the machine to some light background music. Everyone broke off into pairs and small cliques and Keith was pleased to see April had a small fan club around her.

She must be loving this. I hope she’s getting all she wanted from it. A glance at her face told him she must be.

April brought a few people over for Keith to meet and he made small talk, playing the dotting husband, and then April steered them back to the larger group and Keith returned to his whiskey. The bartender came over during a lull and asked if the woman in white was his wife. Keith admitted she was. The bartender stuck out a hand and Keith shook it.

“Dude,” the bartender said, shaking his head. “Just, dude. Wow.”

Keith chuckled. “Thanks?”

The night wore on and a few other husbands joined Keith at the bar. They made small talk. The music started again. A slow song played and James took April by the hand and led her to the middle of the dance floor and drew her in. Keith shot a look at the bitter girls in the corner and almost laughed. They scowled daggers into April.

A dish best served cold, bitches, Keith mused. April must be loving this.

He watched April and James move in rhythmic harmony. When the thought appeared in his mind, Keith snorted out loud, shocked it took him so long to imagine it; I wonder if April wants me to leave her alone with James like I left her alone with Toby and David and Ryan?

He had subconsciously considered her high school friends off-limits, sure she would not be interested in any of the guys that way. They’d been mean to her, or at least dismissive. They all knew each other and many might have stayed in touch. Any dalliance would spread like wildfire.

One does not shit where one eats.

She's never mentioned anything but had she thought of it? Was she waiting for him to play the same trick he'd done before on this trip? He considered asking her directly the next time she came to gulp wine but that felt awkward and abrupt.

Especially after that conversation we had on the beach about Ryan.

He wondered what to do. When he returned his attention to James and April dancing, he saw them in a very different light.

Even if she didn't fuck Ryan, James might be too grand a prize to let go.

His stomach clenched. Sweat formed on his upper lip.

I'd be handing her over to him.

He swallowed a mouthful of whiskey and signaled for another to the bartender. Without understand exactly how he knew, he understood James was different. April was sure to have a weak spot for the man.

I am playing with fire on this one.

The drink came and he downed it in two gulps and signaled another.

The bartender sat the half-full bottle next to his tumbler. "The rest is on me," he said. "Your wife is breathtaking. Made my night."

Keith reached for the bottle and noticed his hands trembled.

Eventually the DJ took another break and April came to check on Keith. She thanked him for his patience and understanding and raved about how much fun she was having and how perfect the night was.

"I hate for it to end!"

"I bet James does too."

April stopped and gave her husband a warm smile. "That was an awfully nice thing nice to say. He could have any girl he wanted."

Keith's tongue felt as big as a football.

"Maybe you should get a drink with him after the party. At a different bar."

April's face froze. Keith held his breath. Neither moved for several moments until April drew a quick breath and whimpered in a voice almost too low to hear: "Okay."

They remained frozen. Finally, April leaned in and gave her husband an open mouth kiss. Her hand came up and cupped his jaw and her full, hot lips lingered on his. Their lips separated and she gripped her purse and started to walk away.

Keith caught her wrist, forced the words out. "I'm headed back now. Take your time. Have fun. Tell everyone I enjoyed meeting them." He discretely handed her the second room key.

April's eyes glowed.

Back in the hotel room Keith undressed and showered. He turned down the covers and turned on the television but muted the sound. He turned off all the lights so the room was illuminated by the television only. He put the thick white robe on but left it untied and dropped into a heavy leather chair. He looked down his body at his penis.

This is all too familiar.

He remembered masturbating three times that night and being unable to fuck April when she got home. He resolved not to repeat that mistake. He jumped when his phone chimed. He checked the message.

"I told him you left to get a late dinner and watch a west coast game. Can I bring him back to the hotel room?"

He stood. His mind raced. He quickly typed: "Why?"

"Too many eyes on us," she answered. "I want to avoid gossip at the park tomorrow. Everyone is watching us."

He tugged his bottom lip and scanned the room. A decision had to be made. Fast as lightning he scooped up his discarded clothing and hid them under the bed. He tossed his robe over a chair. He turned off the television and turned on one light. He flew around the room until he was satisfied he'd removed all trace of himself and then texted back; "Okay. Headed out to a bar. The room's all yours."

He hit send and held his breath, dialing down the volume on his phone.

Seconds later his phone lit up. "Thank you so very much! You're an angel. I'll text when we're finished chatting. You're the sweetest husband ever! XOXO."

Keith surveyed the hotel room again. He quickly moved from closet to bedroom to living room to closet to bathroom to closet, scanning every mirror and angle along the way. From the wardrobe closet in the hallway, peering through the slats allowed him to see into the bedroom and the living room. He had to give up most of the bathroom but he caught enough of the mirror in there to feel satisfied.

This is crazy.

He hung some of his clothing from the bedroom closet in the hall closet and maneuvered behind it, leaving a gap to see through. Unless someone opened the door and shoved the clothing out of the way, he'd survive a cursory glance. He pulled the door shut and took deep calming breaths, looking down at his nude body.

Time stopped. He waited so long he was sure April had changed her mind when a beep sounded and the door opened.

"He's not here?" a deep voice asked.

"No. He skipped lunch today so he was starving and there's some game on the west coast he has money on so he wanted to watch it."

"That's right, you live in Vegas now."

"Yeah. Keith bets on sports all the time."

No, I don't.

The door closed with a thud and he heard the deadbolt click. They stepped away from the door and entered his field of view. April dropped her purse on the couch and started removing earrings. James followed behind. "May I grab a bottle of water?"

"Of course. The mini bar is over there. Help yourself. I've got to get out of this dress. You made me sweat tonight!"

James laughed as he walked directly in front of the slats. Keith was surprised by the size of the guy up close. April headed for the bedroom and swung the door shut behind her but did not turn the knob to close it. A tiny gap showed her pulling her arms out of the sleeves and then peeling the dress off over her head. She glanced at the gap to see if James spied on her, hesitated a moment pretending to smooth her dress, and then pushed her high heels off. She lifted her heavy white robe off the bed. She stopped. Another glance at the gap and she tossed the robe on a chair nearby and moved to the chest of drawers, slipping a thin, pink, but fairly modest camisole over her head. The hem ended just above the knees.

Keith grinned. Tease.

She glanced at the gap one last time, loosely pulled her hair into an elastic tie, and swung the door wide to join James in the living room. Keith saw him do a double take when he saw her.

“I grabbed you a water too,” he said, handing her a bottle.

“Thank you.”

James had taken a seat on the end of the couch and April took the other end, facing him with her back against the arm.

Just like she did with David.

She folded her legs and discretely tucked the camisole under, but that pulled it down in front enough to reveal a fantastic view of cleavage.

“So what happened after you left high school?” April asked. “You were quite an athlete. Any college?”

“Yeah, I was offered full scholarships to Texas and Oklahoma. Football. Baseball for Stanford and Basketball for Duke. I took Texas. We kicked ass.”

“That sounds fun.”

“It was.”

“Do you even remember me from high school?”

“Of course. Chubby April. Mrs. Stanley’s English.”

“Oh my God. I can’t believe you remember that.”

“I thought you were pretty cute, actually. Terribly shy, but pretty.”

“Shy spelled F-A-T.”

“You were a little overweight but not that bad. You wore your hair over your face and hid from everyone. You and that girl were always hanging out. What’s her name?”

“Ginny.”

“Right. What happened to her?”

“Last I heard she had a kid. We don’t talk.”

Keith rolled his shoulders and began to doubt his plan. The closet was hot and stuffy and all they did was talk.

I misjudged April. I bet she didn’t even sleep with Ryan.

The conversation rambled on a few more minutes and April finished her bottle of water. She screwed the cap on and leaned forward to set the empty bottle on the coffee table. Keith thought she looked uncoordinated and wondered for a moment if she’d had too much to drink but then understood. Her camisole fell forward, exposing her firm breasts to James almost to the nipple. She smiled at him innocently but Keith saw his eyes narrow. At the next pause in the conversation he mentioned he considered going pro but injuries prevented it.

“Knees?” April asked.

“Back. I broke mine. Right down here.” He leaned off the couch to rub the small of his back at the belt line. “Four surgeries. I have scars you wouldn’t believe. Like Frankenstein.”

“Frankenstein’s monster.”

“What?”

“Frankenstein was the scientist. I have no idea if he had scars or not. His monster had all the scars.”

James laughed. “Yeah? And what was his name?”

They stared at each other a moment and then laughed.

“That’s an excellent question,” April said. She pretended to ponder and then faced James. “May I see your scars? I think scars are sexy.”

Since when?

James hesitated, wondering if she was serious, and then stood.

“Sure! If you want. Most girls think scars are gross.”

“Not sure I agree with you, James. Girls think scars are gross on girls and especially themselves. We like them on men.”

James set his water bottle on the coffee table and pulled his polo shirt off over his head. He dropped it next to the bottle. He turned his back to April.

Keith and April appraised the man at the same time. James was thick and strong with a rounded back and broad shoulders. His arms were powerful, his stomach flat. April slid to the end of the couch for a better look at the crisscross of red welts. Two disappeared under the pants belt and headed down.

“How far down do those go?”

James kept his back to her. “About five or six more inches.”

April paused long enough to try to swallow in a dry mouth. “May I see?”

James reached for his belt buckle and zipper.

I know what you’re doing, Keith thought.

James pants slid over his hard, round ass to halfway and stopped. April traced a finger down the pink ridge. When she got to his belt, she pushed. James let the pants fall to his feet. April placed both hands on his ass and gently turned him.

From his angle, Keith saw the man’s cock before April did and almost gasped. He looked at his own forearm for comparison, eyeing the distance from wrist to elbow.

Jesus. Fucking. Christ.

The man's cock arched out from his pelvis in a gently downward arc, swaying as James shuffled his feet. Keith quickly turned his attention to his wife's face, watching as James completed his turn and April came face to face with that massive tube of meat. Her brow twisted and longing filled her eyes.

James said nothing. His penis bounced slightly, rising a little each second. As he stared down at April's beautiful face, his cock filled with blood and stiffened. The shaft was smooth and only slightly darker than the rest of him. He kept his pubic hair trimmed so close the skin beneath was visible. His balls rose faster than his erection until two large hairless orbs nestled behind a beefy trunk. Circumcised, the head was a pink plum sitting at the end of a thick column. The small slit at the tip was aimed directly at April's mouth and only two or three inches away. She stared at it just like she had Bear's.

Keith held his breath. He saw her struggle. She battled what she wanted with what she thought was right.

James reached full pulsing erection and April whimpered. The embodiment of desire, the cock strained to reach her on its own. She glanced at James face but only for an instant. This naked and powerful phallus was the true focal point of her world.

A small, clear drop of seminal fluid oozed from the slit and clung to the tip.

Fuck! Keith's mind screamed. What's she going to do?

April crossed her arms and grabbed both sides of her camisole, which she pulled over her head. James' eyes widened as he drank in her unbelievable body. She leaned back on the couch and spread her legs and his gaze went to her bald pussy.

Barging out of the closet and interrupting them never occurred to Keith. He was under the same spell as they. His wife never looked sexier and James' cock was exactly what was needed to fuck a Goddess like her. He knew in some part of his mind he was watching his wife cheat on him but he'd care about that later. For now, her overwhelming desire filled him with excitement and lust.

"I hate myself for asking this," James said. "But what about your husband? I don't want to ruin your marriage."

April lifted her eyes from his dick when he spoke and focused on his words. She reached for her phone on the end table and tapped a quick message, glancing every few letters at that gorgeous erection waving in front of her.

In the closet, Keith phone glowed and he was thankful he'd remembered to turn the volume all the way off. He read her message; "Grab me a bottle of cabernet on your way back? How long before you're home?"

The text stabbed him through the heart but made his penis surge to diamond hardness. He text back; "Third quarter. Close game. Add a stop for wine...about two hours." He hit send and heard a chime. She read the message out loud and sat her phone on the end table. She stared at the carpet for three full seconds.

She looked up and then closed her fingers around James' throbbing cock. She leaned back again, pulling him forward as she did, guiding his penis down to her pussy.

Keith felt an ocean of adrenaline dump into his blood.

James climbed over her like a spider; one hand on the arm of the couch, one on the back, one foot on the floor, one on a seat cushion. He lowered his body and tilted his hips as he moved forward.

Her back arched at contact and she gasped and then both hands went to his shoulders and Keith knew another man was penetrating his wife. Keith had never felt emotions like this. His penis ached for action. His testicles burned and he instinctively knew sperm production had skyrocketed. He felt his balls churning the stuff out.

April writhed and undulated beneath James and Keith watched her as if hypnotized. She was the most erotic thing he'd ever seen. His mind was staggered. Roaring filled his ears with white noise.

She reached her mouth up to kiss James and Keith heard the air leave her lungs as the man began to push that pillar of flesh deeper.

"Oooooohhhh, Fuuuuck," she groaned. "That's so intense. Go slow. Fuck yeah, I love it."

"You're so tight," James murmured. "And hot. And wet."

"Mmmmmungh. God! Unnngh, yeah."

Unable to see the penetration Keith stood on his toes and that allowed him to look down April's body and see the shaft pumping slowly back and forth between her legs, slightly deeper each thrust. James lifted his head and closed his eyes, savoring the molten envelope of her pussy. He opened his eyes and gazed at the stunning woman beneath him, and then softly sucked an erect nipple.

“You’re the most beautiful woman I’ve ever seen April. God. You’re spectacular.”

April moved her hands to his hips and began lifting her pelvis to meet his thrusts. After a few minutes of intense fucking, she told him to stand up. She stood too and took his hand, leading him into the bedroom.

“I want to give you everything,” she said.

She lay on her back again and spread her strong legs in invitation. Keith saw her pink and swollen pussy open slightly and his head spun. April was driving him crazy. He wanted to smash the door open and throw himself on her and fuck her to death but he also wanted to see that long fat cock slide smoothly into her hot folds and disappear. He wanted to watch his wife face as she took another, bigger, cock.

James crawled onto the bed and walked his knees forward, aiming his big gleaming cock with one hand while holding himself over her with the other.

This time Keith saw everything. They were mere feet from his hiding spot and April’s pussy lips spread like pink butter before the behemoth. The head disappeared and she slapped both hands on his ass, pulling him deeper.

“Oh, James, get inside me, Baby.”

The shaft forced her wide, an airtight seal around his cock, and he hooked his arms behind her knees, spreading her wider. Keith saw the man’s ass clench each time he worked his cock in and out until he heard a familiar moan, a sound April only makes when she first feels her orgasm approaching.

“Fuck, Baby! You’re going to make me cum already. Fuck me, James. Do it.”

James pushed in until his balls rested on her asshole and then withdrew a few inches, quickly sliding them back in. The sloppy sounds of her wetness filled the room. James began to saw in and out, his tight ball sack bouncing.

“Arrrgh! Fuck! I love your cock, Baby. I do! Fuck me! Yeah! Here I cum, James. I love your big cock! Yeaaaaahhhuuungggh!”

In the dim closet, Keith looked down at his throbbing hard on. Semen drooled from the slit like gossamer spider webs, connecting him with silver threads to the clothing, his arm, the door, his thigh. He was so erect it hurt. His entire body shook from arousal. He had no idea what to do other than watch.

James pounded April through her orgasm and her screams haunted Keith. These were sounds she'd never made before. Her toes were clenched like little pink knots, her heels dug into James's butt. A sinking feeling raced through him as he realized he'd never given his wife an orgasm like this, and probably never would. James ripped something new from her. Something James alone could give.

Humiliation boiled up but some deep part of him loved it. He watched James hammer April into the bed and knew if he touched his penis he'd shoot his load all over the closet door. His head was a hurricane of conflict; aroused beyond anything he'd ever felt and hurt deep in his heart.

As her climax drained away she snaked her arms and legs around this massive man, kissing him deeply, urging him on. She reached down and cupped his enormous balls, feeling the contained savagery of his strength. She was soaked and he sank balls deep on every strong, sure thrust.

Before long she moved her heels to his ass again.

"Jesus, Baby, you're going to get me there again."

She hugged him tightly and James sped up. Minutes later an explosion rocked her. She clawed his back and screamed. She tossed her head wildly.

"Oooooohhhhhh fuuuuuuccccck meeeee aaaaahhhhhmmmm cummmmming!"

Twice! Keith had to reach for his own penis. April fucked was the most erotic sight he'd ever witnessed. This orgasm surpassed the first and April could only hold on as her body blew up. Mixed in with her cries of mind-numbing pleasure came deeper groans.

"Yes!" she shouted. "Oh! God! Give it to me, Baby. Give it all to me."

Keith could hold out no longer. Careful to remain silent he began jacking his penis as James pumped his wife full of hot sperm. Almost instantly he spurt searing jets of cum on the closet door.

James snapped his head back and bellowed, a lion's conquering roar, as his massive testicles released their huge load deep inside April. He pumped the beautiful woman until he started to soften.

Keith kept shooting, muscles contracting even after the sperm was spent.

James rolled off her, after a long time, and April kissed him before kissing a trail down his stomach.

Their legs were aimed at Keith's hiding place and he saw the fat tube of flesh hanging between the man's legs and resting on the bed. April continued until she took the thick and spongy cock head into her mouth, sucking and licking every inch of him. She grabbed him with both hands and swabbed his huge balls and then worked back up the shaft to the head, licking away the final drops oozing out.

She moved up under an arm and rested her head for a time on the man's chest but before too long told him it was time to go.

"Your husband?" James asked wearily.

"Yes,"

They left the bed for the living room and their clothes.

"See you at the park tomorrow?" he asked, sliding his leg into his pants.

"Hell yes. What should I wear for you?"

"White shorts and a bikini top under your shirt. No panties."

"Done." Still nude, she moved him towards the door. Keith saw a nervous edge in her movements. She opened the door halfway, unconcerned which neighbors might see her naked. They kissed and she shut the door behind him. She walked to her phone and sent Keith a text; "Forget the wine. Just come home as soon as you can."

She collected the water bottles and straightened the cushions moved out of place from their earlier sex. She stopped and reached a finger up inside her pussy and then slipped the finger into her mouth, savoring the seed of James Thomas taken from her own womb.

She scanned the room making small adjustments and then did the same to the bedroom until all sign of her infidelity was erased. She returned to the living room and peeked through the drapes outside. She walked to the mini bar and Keith saw her retrieve another water, twist the cap, and take a sip.

Water.

A bomb of white light detonated in Keith's skull and he knew; April fucked Ryan. He knew without doubt. He knew with absolute certainty. He watched her hands and eyes take control of the hotel room, calculating, reasoning, observing, and knew she could not have possessed such precision and clear thinking if this had been her first time breaking her vows. Keith's heart swelled inside his ribcage until it left his lungs no room to breathe.

April cheated on me.

As soon as the angry and hurt part of his mind formed that sentence, the rest of his mind jeered.

Not so simple as that, is it?

His insides were a whirling cyclone of war.

She glanced out the front window again.

She plans on greeting me naked. We'd fuck and I'd destroy all evidence of her transgression. After, she'd probably suggest a hot shower before bed.

Keith lifted his phone and began to tap.

Her phone chimed. She read the message; "Hello."

"What's that mean?" she said.

Some sense alerted her. Her head jerked up.

Keith stood naked in the hallway just outside the closet, his penis deflated from his orgasm minutes ago, his eyes filled with raging emotions and conflict. Milky drops ran down the inside of the closet door.

April absorbed all this in a split-second and understood he'd been in there the whole time. Her eyes grew huge with horror as she covered her mouth with both hands.

End Part One

Visit my blog; MyEroticBunny.tumblr.com