

Matthew Lee

A black and white photograph of a man with dark, curly hair. He is holding a thick stack of US dollar bills up to his face, partially obscuring it. The bills are fanned out, showing the number '100'. The man is wearing a dark shirt. The background is dark and out of focus.

Root of Evil

A Hot Wife Story

Contents

Chapter 1
Chapter 2
Chapter 3
Chapter 4
Chapter 5
Chapter 6
Chapter 7
Chapter 8
Chapter 9
Chapter 10
Chapter 11
Chapter 12
Chapter 13
Chapter 14
Chapter 15
Chapter 16
Chapter 17
Chapter 18
Chapter 19
Chapter 20

Root of Evil

A Hotwife Story

*Copyright © Root of Evil (2022) Matthew Lee
All rights reserved.*

No part of this book may be reproduced or used in any manner without the prior written permission of the copyright owner, except for the use of brief quotations in a book review.

This is a work of fiction and any similarity to persons living or dead is purely coincidental.

By Matthew Lee

Chapter 1

Roman Halliday is a travesty. The man has no soul. I've been with this investment firm for twelve years. He arrived less than a month ago, assuming the manager position that should have gone to one of us. His first act was to install a giant clock, ten feet high, at the front of the main room. Every sales desk faced it, which was his point. In the first week, he fired three salesmen and doubled our goals.

How to become hated in one easy lesson.

Yes, my sales increased and therefore my commissions did too, but I was miserable. We all were. I started looking for a position at competing firms.

Sydney, my loving wife, works long hours too. She's a nurse at an assisted living facility close to home, so my extra hours did not affect her. My sour mood did. We had a few rough weekends before I explained what was going on and how I was feeling. She hinted I should quit but she also mentioned how nice the extra money was, leaving me to figure my own path forward.

Why did upper management bring him in rather than promoting one of us?

Connections.

He may have proved himself an asshole from day-one, but the man knew everybody. He handed out leads with a shovel, and the leads were good. We called his contacts and sold a shit-ton of stocks. He turned us into killers, focused on one thing alone. He taught us to attack and attack and attack.

In only a few weeks our office was raking in cash. Roman pushed us to use unscrupulous sales techniques, including outright lying at times and slamming credit cards, and the leader-board took off. He threw a party celebrating our new successes. The party was typical until he opened the Champagne. Once alcohol began to flow, things quickly got out of hand. Barry pulled the big bottle of whiskey from his desk and Selena did the same. Once we were all buzzed, Roman dropped a baggie of coke on a desk and walked out. Soon Selena had her tits out. Carmen gave Oscar a blowjob in front of that goddamn clock. Roman reentered the room and we all froze, except Selena, Oscar, and Carmen. I waited for the big explosion, for Roman to lose his shit. This was highly unprofessional and subjected us all to various lawsuits.

But Roman did not care.

"This is what I'm talking about!" he bellowed, gesturing to Carmen with a dick in her mouth. "Live outside the box! Anything goes! Get crazy!" He took a menacing step towards us all. "Break the rules!" he shouted. "Go too far! I want a team of vicious, take-no-prisoners, cannibalistic animals working for me. Fines are merely the cost of doing business. Penalties are part of the equation." He climbed onto a desk and raised his arms like Moses. "Bail," he screamed. "Is always less than your bonuses!"

He climbed down and lifted his flute of Champagne in a toast. Holding the glass high, he unzipped, intending to offer Carmen his cock to suck along with Oscar's. Everyone froze. Out flopped a hefty tube of beef, topped with a large fireman's helmet. Everyone erupted in cheers. The man possessed a big cock to go with his toxic masculine personality. Carmen looked shocked for an instant, looked up and saw it was Roman, and then grabbed his dick and stuffed it in her mouth along with Oscar. She sucked both, or tried too, all of them laughing. Roman dribbled Champagne on his dick for Carmen to lick away. Buddy walked by and gave Roman and Oscar bumps of cocaine out of a little brown glass bottle.

I was amazed how quickly our office had transformed into a frat house. I had no idea my colleagues had this behavior in them. I wondered, for a moment, if they were acting. If they only behaved this way to please Roman. I easily discarded that thought. One look in their eyes told me the truth: they loved this recklessness. Our high-pressure job found release in these excesses.

Not me. I had a sip of bubbly and held back, gluing myself to a wall and watching. Carmen worked the guys fast, determined they spray her reward all over her face. They soon did, igniting another round of mad laughter. I eventually slipped out unnoticed.

I entered the building the next day, coming to work on a Saturday, unsure what to expect. Most of the team had decided to come in and work too. Everyone went about their business, some cranky with hangovers, some flirtatious, building on the shared encounters the night before. Oscar and Carmen left for lunch together and I got the distinct impression they were rushing out the door to go somewhere and fuck.

Roman's madness became infectious. Within weeks we were all slaving carnivores. Clients were no longer people. They were targets, Johns for our prostituted selves.

But the Goddamn money poured in.

Three weeks later, Roman called me into his office.

That's when things got weird.

Chapter 2

"What do you want, Paul?" Roman asked.

I looked around. He'd dumped all the old furniture and replaced everything with beautiful oak and burnished steel.

"Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, I suppose," I answered.

"Witty," he intoned, clearly meaning he did not find me witty. "I'm just wondering. You never join in the fun. You always stand back, observing. Makes the rest of us anxious and suspicious. Should we be suspicious of you, Paul? You planning on ratting us out?"

I scoffed.

"Not at all, sir," I said. "I'm just shy. Shy and married to a wonderful woman who I'd never, ever cheat on. I need to keep my wits about me, stay in control."

He nodded slowly.

"That makes sense," he said. "I'd like to meet her. Bring her by my penthouse tonight. We'll have drinks and plot a path forward."

"A path forward?"

"Yes. I need a right-hand man and I like your style. I'd like to get to know you better. You and?"

"Sydney."

"Great name for a woman. Sydney. I'd like to get to know you and Sydney better. I'll be counting on you for a lot of different things, if I pick you for the role. Pay's better too, on top of your commission. They say money is the root of all evil but I disagree. Lack of money is the root of all evil, and you're about to make a lot of it."

The suggestion thrilled me as much as it caused me distress. I wanted the money but worried I was grabbing a comet by the tail.

"Thank you, sir."

"Call me Roman. Your wife works?"

"She's a private nurse."

"I could never do that job. Too much empathy required. Does nine work?"

"That's a little late. How's eight?"

"Nine works. I'll see you then. Get my address from Brenda."

I was dismissed without him saying so. I returned to my desk and sent Sydney a text. She declined Roman's invite so I called.

"Honey," I began. "He's the new boss. I need to start off right with him."

"I work late, Paul. We'll be rushed getting ready. I'd rather meet your new boss at my best."

That was fair. Unfortunately, there was no room for it.

"Sorry, Love. Bite the bullet on this one. I'll owe you. There was no room for discussion. He is establishing dominance. There is no room for negotiation. You must come with me. He's paying me extra."

Silence. Sydney hates being told what to do.

"Fine," she begrudgingly agreed. "I want a piano."

We both got home late, ate a quick dinner, caught up, showered, changed, and headed back out. Roman lived on the top floor of the Emerald Building downtown. Everything in the lobby was Italian marble and polished brass. The place screamed wealth. When the elevator doors opened on the top floor, Bernard Dorn, a colleague of mine, was waiting to get on. I said hello and introduced my wife but Benny wasn't interested. He threw a curt greeting at us and shuffled into the elevator, punching the ground floor button. He never met our eyes.

"That was weird," Sydney said. "Is he always like that?"

"No. Benny is normally a charming guy."

Only two apartments occupied this floor, a set of double doors at each end. We took a right and headed for number two. A butler answered and ushered us inside a hemispherical living room. He was a thin-haired older British man with green eyes. The curved glass wall rose from the floor to a spot overhead and slightly behind us.

"Wow," Sydney exhaled. "Money."

"The root of all evil," the butler mumbled.

The whole city lay spread before us. Streetlights lined the avenues casting their glow, windows lit the high-rises all around. We stepped down into a sunken sofa area and dropped onto the S-shaped couch. We stared at the view.

A door opened behind us. Roman entered. He wore a loose-fitting black robe barely tied at the waist, exposing bare legs as each stride kicked the heavy terrycloth. A deep V of bare chest peeked out. His hand was extended two feet in front of him and I slapped my palm against his, shaking vigorously. He'd left the tall door behind him open and I saw a woman's naked legs stretched on a huge bed.

"Sorry for interrupting," I said.

He waved me off. He turned to Sydney and held her shoulders, gazing at her face. He grinned mischievously.

"Paul never mentioned how pretty you are," he said.

"Why would he?" Sydney asked.

Roman ignored her question. He kissed her cheeks, right, left, right, and gestured for us to sit. We did. He pulled a chair around to face us and plopped his ass down. He did the man-spread, knees wide open, exposing his large cock and fat scrotum. Sydney made a face and looked away, out the window. I'd told her everything about the changes Roman had made at work and I'd told her everything about Roman. I withheld nothing. She knew exactly the kind of man he was. She'd encouraged me to just bide my time and go along. She'd suggested I find a way to tolerate his excesses. Now that he was in her face with it, she seemed less laissez-faire. I scrambled to find the right words to tell him he was on display.

He began asking questions about Sydney's background and profession, how she liked her job and what her dreams were. Movement drew my eye. The legs on the bed had slipped off and vanished. Soon the door swung wider and Gail Dorn, Bernard's wife, exited an expansive bedroom, tying a silk robe around her naked waist. While Roman continued his conversation with Sydney, Gail crossed the room to stand beside my boss. He glanced up and they shared a smile. I was beginning to understand Benny's mood. Gail sat on the marble floor, hugging Roman's knee, then slid a hand up his inner thigh. She tugged his robe to cover him. Roman never missed a step. He continued to chat my wife up, asking meaningful, thoughtful questions one after the other. He'd tapped into her passion about playing piano, her true love, and she was eager to talk about it. Roman seemed equally eager to listen. Gail began to pump her arm slowly, obviously jacking Roman off beneath his robe. Everyone acted like nothing strange occurred.

Roman pinched the edge of his robe and lifted, peeling away the heavy cloth. Gail had her fingers wrapped around his spongy fat dick, leisurely stroking the hefty member. Roman opened his legs wider, slightly straightening one, and Gail shuffled between his knees, obediently slipping the plump head into her mouth.

I'd warned Sydney about the office parties. I'd told her about Oscar and Carmen and Roman. I'd prepared her for an eventuality like this. I thought I was protecting her but in truth I'd only drained away a lot of the shock. If this had occurred with no warning, Sydney might have gotten upset enough to storm out. Because everything was happening slowly, in slightly advancing steps, her outrage never sprouted. She continued her conversation with Roman, glancing only occasionally at Gail's bobbing mouth and stretched lips.

My reaction was different. I knew Roman tried to shock us so I refused to be shocked. I wouldn't give him the satisfaction. Also, if this was a test of my sensibilities, I wanted to show it took far more than a mere blowjob to upset me.

Gail got into it. She drew her legs under, sitting on her ankles, and wrapped both hands around the man's shaft. She sucked hard as she double-stroked his length, so hard we'd hear occasional vacuum slurps. Roman outwardly ignored Gail's efforts, giving Sydney his full attention. His cock grew long and stiff, one thick vein running along the side and another along the top. He opened his legs wider.

Now we knew why Benny was so upset. I wondered what the three of them discussed before our arrival. Roman had clearly planned for us to meet. He'd insisted on nine so Gail and Benny would be here too.

Roman looked at Gail in his crotch.

"Hold on, Darling," he said.

Gail released his penis and Roman stood, his hard cock poking from the gap in his robe. He crossed to the bar and returned with a bottle of brandy and four glasses. Gail waited patiently seated on her legs, while Roman poured four drinks. He handed me mine, hard cock aimed at my face like a missile. He gave Gail hers and then Sydney hers. His cock was a throbbing spear pointed at my wife's face. He took a sip and returned to his chair, tossing a leg over Gail so she could get busy again, which she did. Her continuous sucking and slurping mere background noise to his conversation with my wife. Sydney answered every question he had and then started on her own. They both knew me already so I wandered to the huge domed glass wall. A light snow had started.

Had Roman given Benny an ultimatum? Had he threatened the man with termination, the only way to save his job was handover his wife? Had he dangled a carrot Benny and Gail couldn't refuse? I realized I believed Roman capable of almost anything.

The clouds overhead were grey and bloated. It was already snowing harder, every light below surrounded in a globe of yellow or red or green or blue. Sounds were muffled. People hurried to get home.

A loud slurp brought me back. I turned to see Roman pushing Gail off his cock and rising to his feet. She tried to hold on, hungry for his dick, but he peeled her away, laughing.

"Later," he said. "We'll save that for later." He wrapped his robe and tied the sash, but his long erection poked out anyway, like a devil's horn. He met Sydney's gaze. "Once Gail gets started," he explained. "She's hard to stop."

My wife nodded as if she understood.

I returned to my spot on the couch and Gail snuggled up to Roman, no longer sucking but continuing to gently stroke his length. The man stayed hard. Hard. His cock stood tall from his lap, refusing to shrink, and Gail tenderly caressed and fondled every inch. Roman's conversation with Sydney never broke stride.

At last he turned his attention to me. The three of us discussed politics and world affairs, business tactics and strategies. Roman, no surprise, was pure scorched Earth. Grab all you can, fuck everyone else. Gail eventually lowered her face to his lap and suckled on the head. She simply could not leave his cock alone.

Finally, the evening wore down. Roman pulled his cock from her mouth and stood, shaking my hand again and hugging my wife, his cock grazing her thigh as he kissed her cheeks again, left, right, left. He walked us to the door. Gail hugged him from behind and opened his robe to play with his cock. Roman ignored her, finishing the last of the conversation with Sydney and me. The butler opened the door. We said goodnight. The last thing we saw was Gail sinking to her knees again, wrapping both hands around his erection and guiding him towards her open mouth.

The door closed.

"Explains Bernard's mood," Sydney said, snidely.

"What the fuck was all that?" I asked.

"That was wild shit. I'm sure he was testing us, testing you. We have no legal recourse because we were at his private residence. He's saddled you with a secret about Benny and can test your discretion. If rumors start around work, he'll know it's you. He'll learn you cannot be trusted. Roman is smart."

"You handled yourself like a star," I said. "Thank you for that."

She chuckled.

"He wanted to flabbergast us," she said. "I love that we both took everything in stride. Ha! Take that Roman Halliday, super villain."

We held hands back to the car. Once we were inside she went off again.

"What the fuck?" she said. "Your boss waving his dick in our faces? Benny's wife sucking his cock in front of us? Who is this guy? What's going on at your job?"

"I told you he's crazy," I said. "I couldn't believe it was happening. You're right. He was trying to shock us. But why? Just for the fun of it? He has turned the office upside-down. Sales are way up but professionalism is out the window. He's breaking rules and breaking laws. It will all catch up with him sooner or later. The man's a sociopath. I've never felt so awkward."

"Me either. I played it cool on the outside but on the inside my mind was screaming. That guy's a nut!"

We talked about Roman all the way home.

Chapter 3

"Let's grab some lunch," Roman said. "I'm horny. I mean hungry."

"I've got calls to make," I said.

"Make them when you get back. Let's go. I want to drink so I need you to drive."

"I thought you said you were hungry."

He pulled my sports coat off the back of my chair.

"Let's go," he insisted.

I set my out-of-office auto-response and we aimed for the elevator.

"Where are we going?" I asked.

"Just drive. I'll tell you left and right."

I did, and twenty minutes later we pulled into the parking lot of Dirty Dan's, a busy strip club catering to the downtown business crowd.

"Really?" I asked. "Do they have good food here?"

He laughed.

"Good liquid food," he said.

He paid our cover and led me to a booth. The place was busy with a lunch-time crowd. Five stages each had a girl dancing with more stages behind the curtains in back. We slid in and a sexy waitress took our order. Roman ordered a cheeseburger and Coke to go with his Jack Daniels. Girls came by soliciting for lap dances which I declined.

I must admit, I was impressed. Most clubs like this house the desperate and the down-trodden. These girls were gorgeous, stunning bodies and beautiful faces. Roman asked which I liked best.

"Too many to say," I said.

"If you had to choose. If I put a gun to your head and forced you to choose. Which girl do you find the sexiest?"

"I can't decide," I said, looking around. "There are so many hot women here."

He shook his head sadly. His arm moved under the table and he set a small pistol on his placemat, concealed behind his forearm.

"Gun to your head," he said. He kept the pistol on the table, hidden behind his free arm, and aimed the weapon at my face. "Point her out."

My blood froze. The barrel opening looked huge. I told myself to remain calm but my heart hammered in my chest. My palms turned sweaty.

"Jesus, Roman," I hissed.

"Stop fucking around," he said. "I want answers when I ask you questions. I do not want more questions. Which girl?"

My eyes darted all around the club.

"She's not here now," I rasped. "She was here earlier. Petite Asian with long black hair and a bubble butt."

"Destiny?" he asked.

"I don't know her name."

"Why not?"

"Why would I?"

"You want her. You saw her and want her. You should go after the things you want. You're too cautious, too afraid."

"Too married," I snapped. "Aim that fucking gun elsewhere."

He sat the weapon on our table. I tossed a napkin to cover it. He signaled a waitress and spoke in her ear. After she walked away, he boldly tapped some cocaine on the table and snorted.

"Your turn," he said, handing me a rolled hundred-dollar bill.

"No, thanks."

He lifted the napkin and placed his hand on the gun.

"You're going to shoot me?" I taunted. "Your star employee? Your top sales guy? You're going to go to prison because I wouldn't do some coke?"

"Shut the fuck up," he laughed. "Jesus, just snort the shit, okay?"

I leaned over and sniffed hard. Anything to shut him up. I'd sampled cocaine in college, along with weed and a host of other drugs, and I liked none of them except ecstasy. But I never snorted any cocaine like this. Damn. This shit was pure.

My brain recoiled as the sensations hit. Pure euphoria raced to every limb, every extremity. I even felt that blast in my balls. I looked at Roman and he was laughing.

"I know what I'm doing," he said. "I have connections."

My favorite dancer approached our booth. Roman stood and allowed her to slide around between us, tight to my side. I was highly uncomfortable. She spotted the gun and did not bat an eye.

"What are you doing?" I asked him.

"Helping you decompress," he said.

He whispered in Destiny's ear and she nodded. He pulled a wad of cash from his pocket and slapped three hundreds on our table.

"No," I said. "No."

"Yes, he laughed.

He tapped another small pile of coke on the table.

"That's for you," he told Destiny. "My friend needs to fucking relax."

She closed one nostril and snorted the pile. She continued, sliding under our table. I felt her hands on the front of my pants.

"I cannot do this," I told him. "I cannot do this to Sydney."

He placed a hand on the gun.

"Would it make it easier to enjoy if I told you I sent a hot stripper to Sydney at work today? The report I got back said she was all over him after his performance."

"I don't believe you."

"Suit yourself." His fingers gripped the gun. "But I'd ask Syd about her workday when I got home tonight."

Destiny had freed my dick while I jabbered with Roman. Her mouth engulfed my penis like a steaming sock, enveloping my sensitive flesh down to my balls. Her tongue and cheeks massaged my swelling inches. I closed my eyes. Her lips reached the base and her tongue snaked out, teasing the balls still in my pants. The girl was a pro. She was sexy as hell and she had my cock in her mouth. I needed to push her away but she was so damn talented. Did Roman tell the truth about the stripper and Sydney? My wife has a weakness for athletic males. Destiny vacuumed up my length before sinking to the base again. The head of my dick tickled the back of her throat. The cocaine had my mind spinning, making every sensation a thousand times more powerful.

I couldn't stop her. I knew I should but my head swam. I kept my eyes closed and let it happen. Her cock-sucking skills were epic. To finish me off, she slipped a finger in her mouth alongside my dick and then sent that wet digit exploring inside my pants. She found my sweaty sphincter and pushed, polishing my prostate and forcing a blast of semen out the tip of my cock. I grunted, swooned, light-headed and awash in the most fantastic sensations I'd felt in years. She snapped a hard vacuum on me and I shot her mouth full, literally firing blast after blast into her sucking maw. I lost touch with reality.

"Holy fucking Christ," I finally muttered, returning to Earth.

My body tingled everywhere. I'd never felt anything like it. Every nerve ending sparked and zapped. I floated on a cloud of pure pleasure. I felt so amazing, in fact, I was unaware when Destiny slipped from under the table to collect her money and head for the dressing room.

When I finally opened my eyes, I discovered Roman had recorded everything.

"Delete that," I said. "Seriously. Wipe that out. I can't believe I let you do that to me. Fuck. What will I tell Sydney? I'm an idiot. She'll be so hurt."

"Just blame me," Roman laughed. "Tell her about the gun I used."

I hung my head. My body still reeled. I felt so good it was hard to get angry, hard to feel guilty.

"Delete that video," I said again.

"No," he chuckled. "That won't happen."

Chapter 4

I decided not to tell my wife. Roman had manipulated me. That's totally different than cheating. I spoiled Sydney for days, shopping, restaurants, foot rubs. She asked what I'd done but I laughed it off.

"Never do that again," I told Roman days later.

He barely heard me.

"I've got a new job for you," he said. "I have a guy waiting to catch a flight. I have his suitcase here. I need you to run it over to him right now."

He hefted a small tan suitcase onto his desk.

"I'm working," I said. "I'm making calls."

"Forget about that for now. He needs this immediately. I've got new contracts and other paperwork in here. Get it to him. Finish your calls later."

"Fine."

He gave me the suitcase and the address: a motel down by the docks. I stopped at my desk to grab my keys and phone and texted Sydney what I was doing. She texted back: I miss you.

I told Roman I was on my way to his friend.

"He's not a friend," he corrected. "Did you ever ask Sydney about the stripper I sent? Did I get my money's worth?"

"I never asked her. I don't believe you sent one. You're just trying to make me look like a fool."

He chuckled.

"Congratulations," he said. "You figured me out. Faster than most. Get going with that luggage. Don't make the man miss his flight."

Traffic was light and I made good time. I found the motel and the man's room and knocked on the door. The man that answered looked like death on a hotplate. Too much booze. Too much coke. Not enough food or water or sleep. I handed off the suitcase.

"What's this?" he asked.

"Everything you need," I answered. "From Roman Halliday."

"Roman?"

"Yeah," I said, already backing away and headed back to work.

"Good. Tell Roman I think he's a piece of shit."

"Will do," I said. "I see you know him well."

I left the man and returned to my car. Soon I was once again seated at my desk. I finished my call sheet, made a few good sales, and headed home after a long and exhausting day. Sydney had the evening shift today so I heated a burrito and jumped online, skimming through various sites and writing emails. I checked my Facebook page without knowing why. I hate that site. I saw a picture of Sydney and me at the hot air balloon festival last year and I smiled.

I noticed another picture, this of Sydney and her best friend, Ginger. Ginger also works at the assisted living facility and is high-school cheerleader cute, with a nice body, pretty face, and a happy, sexy attitude. I always like it when she's around. I followed the link to her page and browsed various pictures. She's gregarious to off-set Sydney's quiet demeanor, and usually the author of any trouble the girls encounter when they go out together. The only time Sydney skinny-dipped it was at Ginger's urging. The only time Sydney got drunk and rode the bull at Billy Bob's Tavern was because of a Ginger dare. The list goes on. Ginger had posted a few bikini shots I'd never seen and I clicked on those. What a body. Her most recent pictures were of some ancient old man having a birthday party. He had big candles shaped like a nine and a four sitting on his cake but he ignored those. He stared at Ginger's breasts stretching her uniform. You go, old man.

Everyone was laughing and having fun. Ginger smiled at the man with a gleam in her eye. The longer I looked, the more inappropriate her expression became. She was grinning but almost like a leer. Was she flirting? I flipped through other pictures of her with him and found the same thing: Ginger looked at that old man like a tease. Her look was knowing. Weird.

I finished my burrito and deleted my search history. I did not want Sydney knowing I'd gawked at her best friend. I signed off and headed for the living room to watch some basketball or maybe the Westminster dog show. I didn't much care. I grabbed a beer as I passed the kitchen and moments later dropped into my favorite chair, sipping and watching the news. The top story was about an explosion by the docks. Several motel rooms had been destroyed with numerous injuries and one body found. Police were still sifting through the wreckage seeking the remains of the bomb. A sergeant spoke to a reporter but all I heard was a roaring in my ears. I recognized that place. I'd delivered a suitcase to that place. The teletype scrolling along the bottom of the screen said suspected meth lab explosion but I knew that was bullshit. I'd seen inside that room. That guy had been alone, his room clean. There was no lab. There was only him.

I changed the channel. I found basketball and watched the game, but apprehension grew.

Sydney arrived hours later and I poured her wine. We talked about our day but I left out the suitcase delivery and possible explosion. I watched my pretty wife talk and remembered Destiny sucking my dick. I felt so guilty. I promised myself to never tell my wife. Yes, he'd used a gun to coerce me, but that hardly mattered. Sydney would probably forgive but she'd never forget. Better she never knew at all. I considered asking her if a stripper visited the facility but instead convinced myself he had and then I used that new belief to make myself feel better. She had her secrets. I had mine.

Chapter 5

Roman called me into his office the moment I arrived at my desk. The blinds were drawn which is always a bad sign for anyone called in. Most of my coworkers kept their eyes down as I marched to his office.

"Come in," he said, waving me inside. "Lock the door."

I stood waiting while he pulled on a pair of latex surgical gloves. Weird, but all right, whatever. Say what you need to say and let me get back to work. He reached under his desk and withdrew something from a large black plastic trash bag. He set it on his desk: a small tan suitcase, twisted almost beyond recognition, charred and torn. Dread seized me. Roman had a wicked look in his eye.

"What the fuck is that?" I asked.

"You know exactly what this is," he countered.

"Why show it to me?"

"You delivered it. Do you know who that man was?"

"No."

"That was Charles Dunmore. Recognize the name?"

"No."

"That's because I protect you. I protect the people I care about."

"I don't understand."

"You called Mister Dunmore weeks ago. You convinced him to buy a lot of stock in Celandine Paper. You made promises and assurances and guarantees. You were so good at what you did, Charley put all his money in. The stock tanked. Charley lost everything. His world crumbled almost overnight. Charles called here and I spoke with him. He informed me of his intentions to go to the police but I told Chuck I'd give him his money back."

A chill had begun growing in my bones. Roman pointed a gloved finger at the suitcase handle.

"Your fingerprints are all over this thing," he said.

"You had me deliver a bomb," I muttered.

Roman laughed, a mean spirited little giggle.

"Yeah," he admitted.

"Are you fucking insane?" I yelled.

He pretended dismay, showing me his palms.

"What'd I do wrong?" he asked. "The man was a treat. I eliminated the threat."

I dropped my voice low.

"You made me look guilty of murdering a man that had dirt on me," I rasped. "Fucking Hell, Roman. You implicated me in murder."

His eyes were dancing. He was pleased with himself. Understanding hit me.

"You meant to implicate me," I said.

"Everything goes smoother when people are compliant," he said.

I was stunned.

"Hey, I'm planning a retreat for the upcoming three-day weekend," he said, casually changing subjects. "Just the guys, no wives. I have a cabin on Mount Rainier. Spectacular views. You'll love it."

I saw my future. Roman had everything he needed. I would do whatever he said. I'd attend every function, carry out any favor, acquire any items he requested. Between the blowjob video and the suitcase, he had me trapped.

"Sure," I mumbled. "I'll be there."

I considered attacking him on the spot, beating him senseless and destroying the suitcase and deleting the video. One look in his eyes told me he'd anticipated that move and had backup plans. No way would I get out of this so easily.

"Terrific," he said. "I'm so glad you can make it."

Chapter 6

He'd said just the guys, but Selena and Carmen were there too. Every salesman was present except one: John Jones. I discovered why once we ventured inside Roman's palatial cabin. John's wife, Tina, greeted us at the door. She wore a wide black choker and nothing else. Defiance masked the embarrassment in her eyes.

"Make yourselves at home," Roman boomed. "Mi casa, su casa. Help yourself to anything you want, and that includes Tina. Isn't that right, Tina?"

Her voice was chipper but I saw something dark lurking.

"Anything," she agreed.

Derek and Sammy leered at Tina but she didn't blush or back away. I wondered what Roman had on John to force the man to give up his wife like this. I'm ashamed to admit I checked her out. Great body. Smallish breasts but firm, with nipples sitting high. She had long red hair and green eyes and a flat stomach and a round ass. I know she and John loved to play tennis. Her pussy was bald and smooth, smooth like she'd never had hair on it. Her inner-lips were tucked inside. She had just a small slit down there.

"Anything?" Derek asked.

"Name it," Tina said.

"Suck his dick," Sammy told her.

Without hesitation Tina sank to her knees and opened Derek's fly. Sammy and Derek are friends and neither of them like John. They've often exchanged cross words in our competitive environment. The opportunity to enjoy John's wife was too good to pass. Reactions varied around our group. Surprisingly, Selena and Carmen seemed most intrigued. Some turned away. Others watched closely. Tina freed Derek's black cock and slid him into her mouth. The man still carried luggage. I took his suitcases from him and he held Tina's head, fucking her mouth as he grew stiffer.

"This is going to be fun," Carmen muttered.

I wondered again what Roman had on this married couple. I shuddered.

The place was all redwood and glass, fed by a monster heater and huge fireplace. We were stocked with all the food and drink we'd ever need.

Roman dropped a bag of various drugs on the low center table and within hours everyone was buzzed on something.

We relaxed and killed time and, one by one, all had our way with Tina, including Selena and Carmen. Some needed the nudge that alcohol provided. Others were all over her right away. She refused no one. She moved from person to person, group to group, enticing someone to come be with her. She sucked cock leisurely, unhurried, enjoying penis in her mouth.

I wondered if Roman had drugged her, too. If the men left her alone for too long, she'd come get one of us, leading him away to the couch or the bay window, fucking him slowly and meaningfully as snow fell on the trees outside. She was insatiable, but in a calm and thoughtful way. She knew what she did and welcomed it.

I admit, after a snort and a drink, I wanted to fuck her too. I controlled myself for hours but eventually gave in. Like Destiny, Tina sucked my cock too, all the way down. Derek and Sammy especially liked fucking her. Every time they got hard again, they searched for her. Blasting a load into Tina was also giving John a big 'Fuck You.' No way would they miss out on that.

By nightfall most of us walked around naked. Roman kept the cabin warm, almost hot. I stopped at boxer briefs. I suspected, no, I was sure Roman had cameras hidden all around the place. We all just tangled ourselves deeper in his web.

Tina was sucking Tony's balls when Roman pulled her away. He pushed her to her knees and draped his long soft cock over her face. She tongued his hanging testicles instead.

"Make me hard, Babe," he said, on stage and showing off.

We all stopped to watch. Nobody spoke. She orally worshipped each inch until he throbbed, stiff and thick and shiny with spit. I had to admit the man's penis was impressive. Tina moved in front of him, facing away, and lifted her leg. Her perfect, wet, bald pink slit took my breath. She placed a foot on a low stool, then reached under to guide him in. His girth made for a tight fit and he needed to hold her hips to push deep.

You could have heard a pin drop in that big room. The scene was intense. We all knew John. We all knew Tina. We all knew there was no going back from all this. One cannot undo a cock in a pussy. We all witnessed Roman, John boss, fuck John's wife. We'd all witnessed each of us have John's wife, but your boss in your wife is far worse. John was already submissive to the man five days a week. Seven, lately. Now this? What would work be like for John on Tuesday? How would he look Roman in the eye?

Brutal.

The night closed in. We broke off to watch movies, play cards, sleep. All night long one of us would rise to find Tina and fuck her in the dark. The draw was irresistible. She was waiting for it. She wanted it. She was hot and sexy and eager.

I caved just before dawn.

She was sleeping in a big pile of cushions in the middle of the main room. She heard me shuffle close and opened her eyes, smiling. I grew stiff as I got closer and she took my erection and led me to her mouth. God! The heat! I lasted only a little while before I said I wanted inside her.

"Good," she softly moaned, rolling onto her back and finding my dick.

She lifted her legs and pulled my mouth down for a kiss. Her steaming cunt enveloped me as her tongue found mine. My hips began working on their own. Her pussy was a hot wet fist around me.

"Shoot it in me," she breathed. "I want it. You're the last one."

I didn't understand how she could do this, how she could so fully embrace the task Roman had given her. I know she and John were happy and in love. I couldn't imagine what was going on in their marriage behind the scenes but at that moment, I didn't want to. Her pussy gripped me, teased me, coaxed my load from me. I thrust faster, building towards orgasm, pounding her into the cushions and blankets.

I exploded, stars dazzling my eyes, head spinning and body trembling. Bizarrely, I thought of Charles for a split-second. He was dead and I had killed him and that grotesque thought made my climax shoot through the roof. My orgasm crippled me. I shuddered, disgusted with myself for such unworthy views but thrilled at the same time. I felt evil and powerful. Is this what Roman felt all the time? Tina clawed at my back and squeezed with her legs, trying desperately to milk every drop from me.

I took a long time to collect myself. I'd brushed against something dark and powerful in my psyche. I waited for my strength to return and kissed her on the lips. She hated to see me go. I moved aside and collapsed on the couch, dimly aware we'd awakened someone and that man now took his place between Tina's legs. She groaned as he penetrated and sank deep.

Chapter 7

For three days after I got home, guilt ate me alive. I could barely look at Sydney. I was sure she'd see the truth in my eyes. I slowly came to realize she could not. I felt less guilt the more distant my infidelity became, and I hated myself for that too. Was I truly no better than Roman?

A recent storm had revealed a leak in our roof so I'd hired a crew to come reroof the entire house. They were like ants up there, crawling over a cube of sugar. I was trimming shrubs along the back fence when I saw something had captured the attention of two guys working at the back. Our house has a courtyard and they were gazing across the open space into another window. The master bedroom window. I circled around to enter the house on the side, quickly and quietly climbing the stairs. I approached the master bedroom and peeked inside. Sydney walked from the bathroom to the closet, naked. She debated outfits and shoes, parading her sexy slender body without knowing.

I remained hidden and said nothing.

Then I saw a slight tilt to her head. I saw a tiny grin curl the corner of her mouth. She knew she was watched and enjoyed playing the innocent. Before the strip club, and before Tina, I would have gotten angry and fired the whole crew. I would have confronted her. Not now. I had no right. I owed her this and much, much more. If she wanted the thrill of exhibiting herself, I had nothing to say about it.

She held up dresses and tops, seeming to ponder, bending over to lay clothing on the bed, showing off her fit and sexy body for their pleasure. She moved to the bathroom and I knew with all the mirrors in there, the guys on the roof had an even better view.

I backed away. I let her have her fun.

I returned to the shrubs and watched the men watch my wife. They were enthralled. She's cute and in great shape and how lucky they felt to see her naked. They'd most likely masturbate to thoughts of her later. One man raised his phone to record a short video and the other gave him a thumbs-up. I felt a strange pride over their reaction to my woman.

John had felt no such pride.

Tuesday morning had dawned cold. John entered the office and walked directly to his desk, grabbing his call sheet for the day and putting his head down. Derek walked over and dropped an unopened condom on John's desk and muttered something like, "Sorry, dude, never had time to put it on." John froze for a heartbeat and then exploded, throwing punches. Derek was bigger and stronger and, laughing, knocked John down with one punch. The poor man got back to work, humiliated and forlorn. Nobody talked to him, not even me. How could I? I'd fucked his wife.

I pretended to cut shrubs until the roofers finished gawking. I presumed Sydney was dressed and the show was over. I circled around and met her in the kitchen. She looked great. They'd gotten quite a show. Her cheeks were flushed. My usually conservative wife had played a sexy little game and liked it.

She was headed out shopping with Ginger and would be home after dinner. We kissed, said I love you, and parted. I watched her reverse out of the garage. I returned to the yard and cleared the cuttings and then showered and threw on shorts and a T-shirt. The guys on the roof had no interest in watching me. I got online and poked around and then thought that bikini picture of Ginger needed a second look. I jumped to her Facebook page.

"Spending a week with my parents," her post from yesterday read.

Ginger was in Wyoming. I was looking at a picture of her on horseback.

Then who was Sydney out shopping with? Was Sydney even shopping at all?

My heart thudded in my chest. My wife had tricked me. My wife had lied and deceived. I felt immense relief but I also felt insane jealousy. My mind jumped to the conclusion that she was out with Roman but I was only responding to my greatest fear. No way could she, or he, keep that secret this long. He'd want that in my face. No, she was out with someone I did not know.

I went to her home office and took a picture from the doorway so I could put everything back exactly how it was. I signed onto her computer and began searching. I searched by date, knowing anything unsavory she'd hide behind a bullshit title. I wanted to see the most recent documents and files. I found a folder titled "Old Receipts" and opened it. Pictures. Lots of pictures. Almost all of them showed Ginger fucking that ninety-four-year-old man. She fed him her tits. She straddled his face. She sucked his cock. These photos were obviously after hours, when the facility was closed and Sydney and Ginger ran the place. The old guy looked so happy. I clicked a short video, one of the oldest items in the folder at three months, and Sydney's face appeared.

"The doctors say Chester has only a few months left," my wife began. "Ginger has decided to mercy fuck our old friend. He's thrilled! Ginger is happy too. We discovered Chet has a whopper!"

Her face left the screen and the angle went crazy until she adjusted the camera again. Chester was in bed, on his back, and Ginger, giddy and giggling, stood over him, facing away, holding his large stiff cock in a classic reverse-cowgirl. Ginger lowered her hips and my wife moved closer. The man's thick cock spread Ginger's labia wide before sliding in. His hands came up to grab her tits and everyone laughed.

I clicked out of that video, unsure how I felt about their antics. I started bouncing around. Everything was of Ginger behaving poorly. Sydney recorded but never touched the man. Finally, my search brought me something new. The folder was named "Cleaning Supplies." I opened and discovered Ginger now held the camera and recorded Sydney receiving a lap dance from a muscular stripper. A cop uniform lay on the floor. He danced in a tiny G-string. His oversized cock and balls stretched the thin material in every direction. Sydney sat on her hands, embarrassed almost to the point of dying. The folder held pictures too and I swept through those.

I found a folder nested in this folder and opened it. These pictures were different. This was after hours, much later than the other pictures and video. The facility was dark, everyone in bed. Sydney spoke into the camera, barely containing her laughter, then cautiously crept forward. She recorded down a narrow hallway, approaching a supply alcove. She stopped at the corner and lifted the phone, recording without revealing herself. The view swung wildly while she tried to find a good grip and then stopped. I saw Ginger seated low on a stack of heavy cardboard boxes in the corner. The stripper was dressed in the cop uniform again but had his dick sticking out of his pants. Ginger slowly sucked the man. Sydney's face appeared again, incredulous.

"I cannot believe that girl," she hoarsely whispered. "That's my stripper!"

She moved the phone around the corner again and Ginger bobbed faster. The stripper braced himself against the wall and pumped his hips sensually.

"Here it comes," he rasped.

Ginger answered with demanding grunts. She sucked harder, the microphone picking up slurping sounds. The man covered his face with his hands and then his hips jerked once. Ginger moaned. He jerked again and then again and then he began a smooth but fast pumping, arms overhead in triumph like he'd scored a touchdown. He filled her mouth and she swallowed him down. Ginger moaned sweet little whimpers with each spurt. She grabbed his butt to keep his cock in her mouth, and then she pushed her lips farther down the shaft. She held him, withdrawing slowly, leaving the man's inches sparkling clean.

The camera swung wildly and Sydney appeared again.

"Paul sent that stripper to me!" she protested. "Ginger stole him! Bitch!"

She winked. The camera swung back and we saw Ginger and the man talking while he stuffed his soft cock into his tight pants. He punched her number into his phone. They kissed. Sydney appeared again.

"He did have a really nice cock," she whispered. "I can't blame her. He was hot, handsome, with a great body. We played a joke on him though. We said Ginger was me and I was Ginger. Ha ha. Wait until he reports back to Paul. My husband will believe I gave the blowjob! Surprise! Jokes on you trickster."

The video ended.

Roman had indeed sent a stripper. Roman now believed Sydney sucked the man off. I was sure he'd try to use that against me somehow.

I continued the search of my wife's computer. Soon I opened a file and discovered a ton of nudes Sydney had taken of herself right here in her home office. She used the big mirror in the corner. She changed lighting and filters and angles, like she was driven by a curiosity about how she looked. They weren't sexual. They weren't posed. She wasn't trying to be sexy. She just wanted to see how she looked naked. To me she looked amazing but women are hard on themselves. My heart went out to her. All these poses smacked of insecurity.

I leaned away from the monitor. I'd discovered a treasure trove but none of this brought me closer to understanding what she did at this moment, who she was out with right now. She'd lied about meeting Ginger, but why? Whom did she meet?

I signed into her email and checked her calendar. She'd written: NC 12 on today's date. I glanced at the time. If twelve meant noon the timing was right, but who the fuck was NC?

I went back to look at the Ginger sex pictures again. The woman was sexy and I was delighted to see her naked and doing sexual things. I took a few screenshots on my phone to use later and closed all the files I had open, putting everything back the way it was.

Chapter 8

Roman cut through the office and stopped at John's desk. They spoke too low to hear. When he'd first taken over the place I'd thought him a frat-boy douche. Now I was afraid of him. He was absolutely unpredictable and emotionally volatile. He was without ethics or scruples or morals. He'd use anything and anyone to win. Upper management had no doubt received complaints by now but tripling an office's sales was a strong argument to butt-out, or drag their feet at the least. Besides, a lot of what we did was after hours and not on company property. Roman knew how to protect himself while at the same time tying you in knots.

The front doors opened again and Tina strode through. She looked stunning: tight black dress and deep cleavage. She was unashamed, looking each of us in the eyes until we looked away. I pictured her from that night and my dick twitched.

She approached Roman and leaned on his shoulder. John looked sick. Roman gave the man a few more instructions and then Tina and Roman left together. John was mortified. Roman was merciless. Whatever John had done to make himself a target of such brutal chastisement was worth avoiding. I couldn't imagine Sydney walking in here like that and leaving with Roman.

We all knew they were on their way to fuck. You could feel the tension in the air. I asked myself why John stayed with the company but immediately knew the answer: Roman had dirt on everyone like he had dirt on me. He could fuck my whole life with a phone call and a well-place suitcase. I had to ride this out and so did everyone else. In a way, I admired Roman's ruthlessness.

We powered through our calls, heads down, focus strong. That giant clock mocked us. I had a good day, adding a decent pad to my week. I said goodnight and drove home. The guys still crawled over our roof, although half as many as before. Through the front window I saw Sydney in the kitchen, preparing dinner. I parked and shut the garage door.

We kissed and hugged. I helped chop veggies.

"I have something to tell you," she said, voice strained.

My stomach dropped. Roman had me so on edge, so worried and fearful, that any announcement filled me with dread. I stopped chopping and faced her.

"I met a man for lunch."

"Why?" I asked.

She raised an eyebrow.

"It's interesting you ask why and not who," she said. She waved her comment away. "Curiosity, I guess," she continued. "His name is Nick. Nickolas Calloway. He's a student but he's also a stripper."

"College or high school?" I interrupted.

"What?"

"Student. College or high school?"

She gave me a hard look.

"I'm not sure," she said. "I never asked. College, I think. I hope. But he is kind of young. Shut up and let me finish."

"Sorry."

"I expected more of a reaction, Paul. You are my husband. Nick is the stripper you sent to my facility."

Moment of truth. Do I cop to the charge and build upon the lie, or do I pin it on Roman and reveal what a monster he's been and the infidelities I've enjoyed? I decided to split the difference.

"Roman sent that stripper, not me."

She froze.

"Why would your boss send me a stripper?"

"I do not know. To fuck with us both? He's a nut job, as the fiasco at his penthouse and Benny's wife proved. Maybe he was trying to test you. Maybe he wants you like he wanted Gail."

"Why didn't you warn me?"

"I only just learned what he'd done. Why did you meet Nick for lunch?"

This was not going the way she planned. She thought meeting Nick would turn the tables on me and my infantile joke. Since it wasn't me that sent Nick, she was now guilty of a serious infraction.

"I—" she stammered. "He—"

I waited. She was on the hook and I left her there. Total asshole move, given what I'd done with Destiny and Tina. Maybe I had more Roman in me than I knew. She looked at her hands folded on the counter.

"I was going to say to get back at you," she admitted. "But that's not the truth. If I'm honest, and we're always honest with each other, I just wanted to be at lunch with him. He's incredibly handsome. His body is amazing."

"Stripper."

"Yes, exactly. I wanted to be seen in public with a man like that. It felt good. We turned so many heads. Women size each other up all the time. They'd do that to me, then see him with me, then reevaluate me, always higher. I loved it. The night he stripped he seemed genuinely interested in me and I was so flattered. Lunch proved that was true."

"He gave a good show at the facility?"

"Fantastic. Ginger sucked him off after but it was me he wanted. We'd lied and changed names on him. He left thinking I was Ginger. That was another one of the things I wanted to clear up with him today."

"One of the things? What else did you need to tell him?"

My heart beat fast. Her words worried and frightened me. I had no right. None. But I selfishly wanted my cake and to eat it too. I took deep slow breaths and calmed myself. I could alleviate a lot of guilt by allowing Sydney a little fun too. I would come away looking like the hero, the amazingly confident husband that wasn't afraid of the young stud. Sydney opened her mouth to speak and her lips stuck. Her mouth was dry from nerves. She started and stopped, cleared her throat and started again.

"I wanted him to know the attraction was mutual," she said. "I felt compelled to tell him that. I needed to understand better what he wanted with me, an older married woman, but I know part of that was me fishing for more compliments. I feel so good when he voices his attraction for me. I love that I turn him on."

I studied her face. She was dying inside. This confession was so hard for her. She was just laying everything out there and trusting our love, trusting my love for her.

My wife had more balls than me.

"Would you like a date with him?" I asked.

Shock and awe. Her face was a mask of profound shock and awe. She recovered slowly.

"Don't tease me about him, Paul."

"I'm not joking. I can see how it made you feel and I love making you happy."

"You'd give me that?" she asked, voice trembling.

"I don't know. Maybe? The thought scares the shit out of me. I can't imagine I have anything to fear from a young man like that. You're too sophisticated a woman for him to steal you away. I know this is a crush, an infatuation, and it will fade. But slamming the door on you seems cruel and likely to backfire on me. You snuck out to meet him, lying about meeting Ginger. If I forbade you, there's a chance you'd go behind my back again. Better to face my fear and allow you a little indulgence. Do I have something to worry about?"

I'm such a piece of shit. I sounded so great on paper, so loving and giving. In reality, I searched for a way to alleviate my own towering guilt but without paying too steep a price. Sydney looked at me like I was the most amazing man ever born of a woman. Wonderment filled her eyes.

"No," she exhaled, scarcely believing where this conversation had gone. "You have nothing to worry about."

"All right then," I said, serious doubt churning my guts. "Enjoy your date."

I thought she might start crying. She managed a huge grin on the approach, then kissed me passionately.

I considered how much Roman influenced our lives. Before him, I would never have allowed Sydney to go on a date. Before him I would never have committed such a grave error with Destiny. Before him I would never have committed such a grave error with Tina. The man was a puppet master, making all those in his life dance to his tune.

Another, darker thought occurred: what if Nick's interest in Sydney was feigned? Roman had sent the young man to her. What if Roman had given the stripper instructions to make Sydney fall for him. Did Roman want dirt on my wife too? A chill swept through me. Sydney was smitten. If Roman was playing one of his fucked-up games on her, if my wife ended up crushed and hurt, I'd make Roman pay, damn the consequences.

Sydney's hot kisses had continued to rain and I returned them. She moved to my neck briefly before dropping to her knees. Apparently, giving your wife a green light to date a handsome hunk merited a blowjob, and that's exactly what she did. She sucked my cock like she was trying to win a gold medal. I wanted to ask a million questions about Nick and what she planned but figured maybe it was best if I just left that whole mess alone.

I'd gain nothing and risk saying something I shouldn't. I should hold my questions for her return, discovering what she felt and what they did then.

Besides, right then I was utterly unable to concentrate. I sprayed a huge hot load down her throat.

Chapter 9

Nope, I should have asked. By evening of the next day, tension filled the air around us, filled our entire house. She'd obviously contacted him and made arrangements, but now wondered what she should do with the details. I'd not asked to know so should she force them on me? Was I in denial about the whole thing and talking about it would hurt me? She sat with a million unspoken things and so did I. We moved through our day like always did but stress filled the space between us.

Days passed. The tension grew. We spoke less. Sex, on the other hand, went off the charts. At least for her. She was a lioness, always ready to pounce. We fucked at every opportunity. I don't know if that was because the idea of a date with Nick left her so horny or if this was her way of saying thank you or if my selfless and courageous act of pure trust turned her on. Like I said, we didn't talk about it.

I went into the office on Saturday to pad my goals. I came home to a note on the table, informing me tonight was the night. She was unsure what time she'd be home. She thanked me profusely.

I hurried through the house looking for clues, trying to guess which outfit she'd worn by what was missing, which perfume by the lingering scent in our bedroom. The curling iron, fabric steamer, and scattered makeup told me the effort she'd made on her looks. I felt both protective and jealous. Nick better appreciate her. This had better not be another Roman game, but if it wasn't, that meant my wife was out with a hot young stud who truly desired her. What a fucking dilemma.

In less than twenty minutes I deeply regretted our lack of conversation. A date is a date but some dates are more than dates. Would she kiss him? Would she use her tongue? Would they touch on top of clothing? Would their hands slide deeper? I'd sent her to him with no rules, no boundaries, not even a guideline. I'd trusted her completely, which turned her on to no end, but now I paced our home wondering where she'd draw the line.

I tried a million different distractions to kill time, but that fucker refused to die. Nothing worked. Within hours I was a complete mess. I kept reminding myself that I deserved this, that this was payback for my infidelities. Those thoughts helped only a little. I was dusting my office when my phone chimed. I crossed the room in two giant steps, diving, plucking, punching, reading.

Remember OUR first date? ;-) she asked.

Why the fuck did she add a wink? I thought back. I remembered the restaurant: seafood, which I hate but she loves. It was her idea so I said nothing, eager to finally score a date with her. The date had gone spectacularly well, including a serendipitous firework show overhead. The night was magic and she'd ended our enchanted evening with a blowjob.

Is that what she meant? My stomach hit the floor. Was she sucking his cock right now? Had she already? Was she planning on ending their evening the same way she'd ended ours?

"Goddamn it!" I yelled.

The way Destiny ended yours? the annoying voice in my head reminded me.

I hopped onto the cold tile kitchen counter. I played with my wedding ring. I needed to take this like a man. I needed to get kicked in the teeth and be fine with it. I needed to stop acting like a bitch.

You've done worse, the voice said.

I sighed. I wondered if I could force things back to even. What if I told her to fuck him? That would make us square, technically, although she'd still be in the dark about what I did, but I'd be able to sleep better at night. I would know we were equal again.

Was it worth it?

Fuck that Goddamn Roman. Fuck him to death. He put me here.

I picked up my phone.

Are you telling me the date is going well? I typed. Or that you sucked his cock?

She shot back a reply instantly.

Fireworks, Paul, she said. We saw fireworks on our date.

Sweet, I sent.

Wait, came her follow-up reply. You were wondering if I'd sucked his cock? CAN I suck his cock? Is this like a real date? Like I'm not married? Like I have no husband?

My hands were slick with a nervous sweat. I caught a whiff of my own body odor. Here was my opportunity to tip the scales toward even.

A real date, I sent.

Why? she quickly asked.

How did I answer without giving myself away? What guilt-free husband would grant his wife such a thing? I needed a lie to cover my lie. I dug one hole to fill another.

I saw it in your eyes, Baby, I typed, which was technically true. I want you to have what you want.

I dropped my phone on the counter. I covered my face with my hands. I couldn't even begin to think of what I'd done. There would be no sleep for me tonight. None, until she was safely home. I jammed my phone in my back pocket and headed for the living room. Mindless television would have to do.

As I passed her office, I stopped. She had video on her computer of Ginger sucking Nick's cock. At that moment, and for reasons I did not fully understand, I very much wanted to see his dick. I think it might have been a coping mechanism. I was filled with anxiety and unease. Seeing the thing might calm me. My imagination was wreaking havoc. Maybe. Honestly, I was unsure why.

I entered and took a photo, then spun her chair and sat. In minutes, I had the folder open. New pictures had been added. Tonight. While I was at work. She'd taken photos of different outfits to send to Ginger for approval. They were all cute but Ginger had sent my wife out in a daring short denim skirt and tight top. Her tits looked spectacular. If he slid his hand up that short skirt, he'd easily touch her pussy.

Other new photos greeted me. She'd spent time before the mirror again, evaluating her body. She'd purchased new clothing which I'd never seen and tried them on for Ginger. I skimmed these pictures and arrived at the folder with Nick. Open. Click-click. Play. I brightened the image for more detail, making a mental note to set it back before I left. I saw his cock clearly now, mushroom head and fat shaft headed for Ginger's mouth. She closed her lips on the tip and sucked incredibly hard, then slipped her tongue out to massage the underside of his cock. I clicked on magnification which removed Ginger from the screen. He filled the monitor. Nick's large penis reached from corner to corner on my wife's computer screen and I knew at that moment that same cock was fucking her mouth.

I'm a freak. I paid no attention to Ginger. I was obsessed with his dick. What was he doing to my Sydney with it? Once she got it out of his pants, she'd be all over it. His dick was as pretty as the rest of him. He was obviously bigger than me. Would that matter to my wife? Did she decide she wanted him after she watched him with Ginger?

I looped that video. After I'd watched it a dozen times I expanded my search of her computer. I found even older pictures of her posing before the mirror, trying on new outfits, seeing how she looked. She'd never expressed anything like this to me. I always assumed she never cared. I noticed she looked a little heavier in the older pictures, indicating weight loss over time. I'd never praised her for this or even noticed. I would the next time I saw her, but for now I felt like a selfish prick.

She had one last nested folder, which I opened. These were photos from the night I took her to Roman's penthouse and introduced her to him. There had been a time when I separated from the group to look down on the city through the huge glass wall. She'd slipped her phone free and recorded Gail sucking Roman's cock. He'd looked my wife directly in the eyes. Gail hadn't noticed and neither had I. As I'd stood gazing through the glass, my wife had recorded Gail worshipping the man's cock. Roman had stared unblinking into the camera and into my wife's eyes. I filed this discovery away for another time. She was out with Nick, not Roman. I returned to the video starring Ginger and watched it again.

All these saved pictures and the video had given me insight into my wife. There were aspects to her I never understood, never talked to her about. I saw her insecurities revealed in the pictures of herself, wondering if she was pretty enough, sexy enough, good enough. We've all felt something similar. I saw in the pictures a longing to be braver and more adventurous, to be more like her friend, wild and free Ginger. These were important issues and my wife had not shared them with me and I had to ask myself why. I could blame it on lack of availability. I could blame it on work. I spent far too much of my life involved in that place even before Roman showed up. But that wasn't the real reason. That was a symptom of the real reason. The real reason was my fear of intimacy. I was afraid to allow anyone that close. I loved Sydney but always held something back, always kept myself too busy to allow us a deeper connection. In a way, I'd created an opening for Nick. Sydney's infatuation might be no more than a desire for greater intimacy. I may not have it exactly right, but I knew I was on to something, something deep and important.

My eyes drifted to the monitor. Ginger sucked Nick's big cock like a whore. I'd wronged Sydney and felt terrible about it. I'd wronged her with Destiny and I'd wronged her with Tina but mostly, and far worse, I'd wronged her by not being one-hundred percent all-in on our marriage. I'd created a need for a Nick in her life and now she was out with one.

I stared at his big cock.

I resolved to do better going forward but in this moment, I felt the need to punish myself for what I'd done. I lifted my phone.

Do you want to fuck him? I typed, hesitating only an instant before hitting send.

She took several minutes to respond. I wondered what caused the delay. My imagination provided footage of my wife passionately making out with the hot stripper guy. I was about to send another text when I got her answer.

Very much. Who wouldn't? Why do you ask me that question?

Here was my moment of truth. My finger hovered over the buttons. I could not make it move.

I remembered Tina beneath me, wrapped around me. I remembered ejaculating inside her.

Fuck him, I wrote. Fuck his brains out. Fuck yourself silly on his big cock.

Send.

I cannot describe the avalanche of emotions that hammered me. I gasped out loud, forgetting to breathe. Would Sydney fight me on it? Would she need more certainty than a text? Or did she want him so much she'd question nothing and jump the man? Her response time would tell me a lot.

On her home computer, Nick's big cock filled the screen. I paused the video. Fear slammed me. Panic twisted my guts. Every time I changed my mind and thought to send another text withdrawing my offer, I pictured Tina.

"Take it like a man," I said out loud. "You little bitch."

I hit play. Ginger stroked from balls to head. She was smiling and joyful, delighted with her new toy. I stared at that masculine piece of meat.

There was a third option I hadn't considered. Sydney might not answer at all. My wife might take my suggestion and run, like a bullet out the barrel, off in hot pursuit. Any additional questions and I might change my mind. If she wanted him badly enough, she might take me at my word and question nothing, mute her phone and drop it in her purse, finished with me for the evening.

Time passed.
I did not hear back from Sydney.
So. Like a bullet then.

Chapter 10

Warm sticky lips on my lips. I opened my eyes.

I'd fallen asleep in my big chair. The television, sound off, played a movie I did not recognize. Sydney stood beside me. She wore the same daring short denim skirt and tight top I'd seen in the photos, but now her hair was messy, her eyes dreamy.

I opened my mouth to speak, to ask a million questions. She silenced me with a finger across my lips. She took my hand in hers, turning, guiding, directing my hand under her skirt and up.

My fingers sank into warm wet soup. Her eyes got big. Wild anarchy danced behind them, like she could scarcely believe the things she'd done. She studied my face, scrutinizing my reaction. She was slippery and messy, soaked and slick. I pushed a finger deeper, marveling at the discovery of sperm in my wife's pussy. She'd fucked him. She'd taken his bare cock. Words were unnecessary. There could be no greater proof, no superior evidence. Another man oozed from her.

She grabbed my face and kissed me, mouth open, salty, tangy, hot. Her tongue found mine. Our kisses were raw and agonizing, reunited after a torturous night apart. I grabbed her face too, pulling our mouths together, searing French kisses igniting a wildfire. I needed no questions. I knew what she'd done. She offered no explanations. We both knew what she'd done.

An erection tented my soft flannel pajama bottoms. She grabbed the peak and squeezed, hard. I moaned and the emotional dam burst, spurring us into motion. She threw a leg over me and we moaned in concert. She ripped my button fly open, freeing my hard dick. and guided me into her hot unfaithful, adulterous, two-timing cunt.

"Oh my God!" I cried, unprepared for the boiling sensations that rocked me.

Her pussy was a furnace, a coal-burning engine. His semen greased my pole like oil and she slid down my length without pause, landing firmly at the base, grinding her pubic bone against mine. She was wrapped tightly around my inches but so was he and my heart nearly hammered through my ribs. She was whimpering, flooded with more desire than she could handle, squirming and writhing on her husband's penis while filled with seed from another man. She grabbed my face and we kissed wildly.

"It was all so hot!" she gasped. "Baby! It was all so hot!"

We kissed madly. I stood and lifted her with me. I turned to the ottoman, pinning her on her back, pounding her pussy with jealous rage and lust, her skirt like a belt around her waist. I shoved her top up, freeing her tits, and fastened my mouth to a breast. She whimpered and moaned continuously. I would not last long.

"Add yours," she blubbered.

Add yours!

Fuck! Her words were pure insanity! Nothing in life prepares a man to hear his wife say such a thing.

An explosion ripped through me. I was seized from head to feet, gripped in a body-wide convulsion. Sperm burst out of me, spraying wildly in her. She worked her hips against mine. She muttered, urging me drain my balls, demanding I give her everything I had. She'd said the same encouraging things to him less than an hour ago, I was sure of it. That understanding triggered another peak in my orgasm, a second cumming which left me quivering and weak. I collapsed on top of her, breathing hard, heart pounding. She hugged me. She hooked her heels under my butt. She held me tightly. A million questions swirled in my head but nothing came out of my mouth. I couldn't think straight enough to form words. After a few minutes, I adjusted my position and she winced, adjusting with me.

"Sorry," she murmured, lightly touching my shoulder. "He left me tender."

I tensed. Those were hard words to hear. Sydney felt my tension. She turned my chin and kissed my lips softly. There was so much love in her eyes I melted, my fears held at bay.

"He was really big," she further explained, unnecessarily.

"Stripper," I muttered.

Just like that, our reconnection was established. I lifted my body and hips, slowly withdrawing my wilted penis. Sydney lifted her head to watch me leave, eyes riveted to the place our bodies merged. Her pussy clung like glue. I emerged shiny and wet, a combination of all three of us. A glob of mixed sperm oozed and dripped from her tight slit. I don't know exactly what it meant to her to see semen from two men flow, but her eyes were big, her gaze intense.

"That might be the hottest thing I've ever seen," she murmured.

"Ditto," I said, without thinking.

She touched my cheek.

"I don't know where all this wild lust is coming from," she said.

"But I love it. I can't believe I did it with him. I saw the inevitable approaching and I embraced it. I have no idea what allowed you to grant me that time I got with Nick tonight, but holy shit, I'm thrilled you did."

I stood over her.

"I've done some soul-searching recently," I said. "I've not allowed you to get as close to my heart as I want you to be. I'm going to work on that."

I might have offered her a million dollars. Her expression was pure amazement.

"Baby," she exhaled. "That's wonderful to hear."

I sent my eyes roaming her body. Her top was a thin band running under her armpits, her skirt was a thin band circling her waist. Her nipples were pink, looking a little raw, her labia were swollen two-times their usual size. Her well-fucked pussy looked incredible. She was so exposed and vulnerable. She watched me examine her but did not shrink or hide, which turned me on.

I sank to my knees and she gasped. I licked her slippery slit from asshole to clitoris and she groaned like I'd stabbed her.

"Oh, Baby," she whimpered. "Are you sure?"

I licked again, spending more time with her clit. She lifted her legs and pulled them back, opening herself to me. I sent my tongue in, parting her labia, tasting her infidelity.

"Fuuuuuck," she groaned, with meaning.

I placed my hands behind her knees and softly licked and kissed all around her opening. Pussies are truly the center of the universe. She shivered and gasped and moaned with intense pleasure, louder when I sent my probing tongue inside. In moments, I was eating her with hot lust. Her sexy sounds grew louder so I licked and nibbled faster. I knew his thick cock had left her raw so I was gentle, even when I slid a finger in.

That was the last straw. I pumped my digit and Sydney groaned in deep orgasm. My penis had responded to her desire and partially swelled again. I carefully moved into a sixty-nine position and ate her to another climax while she suckled on my spongy shaft and head.

After we caught our breath, I led us to the bedroom. She said she'd shower but I told her no.

"I've never seen you so sexy as you are right now," I said. "I can't explain it. I don't understand but I don't want to understand. I want to live in this moment."

I helped her out of her clothing and we crawled into bed. The sun was rising but we didn't care. I was careful to avoid hurting her but even so she sucked air a few times. I got hard again. She was so full of sperm I slid right in. In truth, she was so full of sperm I surmised he'd filled her many times, blasting his semen into my wife like a conquering stud, which he was.

I did my best to match him. I remembered his big balls from the video. I'd thought nothing of them at the time but now their size seemed of paramount importance, now the fact they were huge and carried buckets of semen seemed of critical consequence. I fucked Sydney with desperation.

We only stopped when I couldn't go on.

Chapter 11

"Another suitcase?" I asked. "Seriously? Who will you blow up this time?"

Roman chuckled: a harsh, cruel sound.

"Yeah, no death this time," he said. He sat the case on his desk and opened the zipper. He lifted the lid. Eight packages, each tightly wrapped in thin plastic and about the size of a quart of milk, greeted my eyes.

"Drugs?" I asked.

He looked annoyed.

"Yeah," he snapped. "Drugs. Drugs make money. A lot of money. Just drop them off and go. Here's the address. Give the case to a man named Teddy. Nobody else. Teddy has sketchy friends."

I snatched the scrap of paper from his hand.

"Hurry back," he said as I zipped the case. "You still need to hit your goals."

"Fuck this," I complained.

"Hey!" he snapped, instantly furious. "Let me make this clear, you fuck. I own you, Paul. Understand? You're my slave. Don't think you have free will. I can crush you. I can ruin you. You will lose everything, including Sydney. Do you understand?"

I gave a reluctant nod.

"Do you understand?"

"Yes, I understand."

"Get out."

I didn't exactly slam his office door but I did shut it hard. He did own me, and would until something changed. I hurried to my car. I was on the freeway when thoughts of Sydney and her night with Nick intruded. I'd tried to fuck her again the next day but she'd denied me.

"He was so thick and hard, Honey," she admitted. "I'm sore. Even my jaw. Give me a few days to recover, okay? I'm happy to jerk you off."

Every word out of her mouth had made me hornier. Even my jaw. What the fuck was that? He'd fucked her mouth with his ponderous dong so long it hurt her to chew. I let her jerk me but for some reason I couldn't get enough of her pussy in my mouth. I was desperate to make her orgasm again and again. I went down on her before bed, in the morning, watching movies. I devoured her soaking cunt every chance I could.

Two days later she said she wanted to see him again and asked if that was allowed. I was still in the red with her so I said yes. She was exhilarated, ranting about how amazing this crazy new life was and thanking me profusely for my open mind and incredible self-confidence. She explained how she'd always envied Ginger and the freedoms that girl gave herself and felt like this was a step in the right direction. She was so thrilled we could take that step together.

Nick and Sydney were meeting tonight. I'd planned to be home as she got ready but this new task Roman assigned me was sure to torpedo that idea. I'd get home to an empty house, traces of Sydney lingering everywhere.

I stepped on the gas.

The address was for a condo overlooking Lake Ballinger, which surprised me as I always thought the drug trade moved through seedy parts of town. I left the case in the car and parked out of sight. I knocked on the door. A huge black man answered.

"I'm looking for Teddy," I said.

"Many are," he rumbled.

He was six inches taller than me and at least a hundred pounds heavier, but I was annoyed, and anxious, and back at home Sydney was getting ready for her date, I was sure of it, and that pissed me off.

"Get Teddy," I said.

He laughed.

"Anything you have for Teddy you can give to me."

"No," I said. "Orders."

"Orders from whom?"

"From my boss, Roman."

I worried about mentioning his name but I was over this bullshit already.

"Roman? Why didn't you say so? Come on in."

He stepped aside. I entered the condo. Big living room. Hallway leading to other rooms. Kitchen to my left. Balcony to my right. A cadaverous white guy sat in a corner chair, staring a hole through me. I confronted Big Black.

"Can you get Teddy please?" I asked. "Time is money."

"Teddy's out. Teddy will return momentarily."

Something felt off.

"I'll wait in my car."

I stepped towards the door but Big Black shut it.

"Sit on the couch," Cadaver croaked. "Show us what you have for Teddy."

I was liking this less and less. I took a step towards the couch, pretending to obey, and then darted down the hall to the bedroom at the end. I slammed the door behind me and locked it, shoving a dresser in front. I caught them both by surprise, but I did not wait to see if my plan worked. I moved immediately to the window, intending on dropping to the ground below.

I passed the bed and saw a man, loosely covered, dead, bullet hole in his temple. I presumed this was Teddy. I heard a body hit the door and I threw the window wide. It was about a twelve foot drop, nothing too dangerous, but I punched the screen out and grabbed a drape anyway. I made an awful clatter ripping the curtain hardware from the walls once my weight hit, but it slowed me enough I landed on my feet without injury, or at least an injury serious enough to punch through the flood of adrenaline coursing through my veins. I might feel it later but for now I was Captain America. I hit the ground running.

My first thought was to aim straight for my car but quickly changed my mind. I wanted to hide my car from them. I ran around the building, headed for a row of dumpsters, and lost them in the garbage. They emerged from the stairwell, Cadaver carried a gun, and argued before running around the side of the building. The moment they vanished I crept a crooked path to my car. I stayed low as I climbed in and hid. After a while I risked a look and saw no one so I started the engine and exited the parking lot.

If I'd brought that suitcase with me to the condo, I'd be dead.

Chapter 12

Just to be safe, I did not drive straight home. I did not drive directly to work, either. I called Roman and told him everything that happened and then drove around, trying to calm down. He assured me he'd handle the situation, asking for a detailed description of the two men. That part was easy. He asked if I was skipping the rest of the day and told him no, I'd come finish my calls.

"No point in going home, right?" he asked. "Sydney's out with Nick."

I was instantly furious. My earlier scare might have contributed.

"Roman, I swear to God, if Nick is all bullshit and you're using him in some game with Sydney, I'll fucking kill you."

He laughed.

"That's the Paul I love!" he joked. "No bullshit, no prisoners, no mercy. I admit I went fishing with Nick but he came back smitten by her. I can bend people into pretzels but I've learned to leave love alone. People become unpredictable and that wastes time and money. No, Paul, Nick chases Sydney of his own accord."

What should I say? Thank you for dangling a stud in front of my wife? Thank you for clarifying his true amorous intentions? The situation was fucked and I hated that Roman knew all about it, but that was my life now. The man had his fingers in every pie.

"You know he came inside her, right?" Roman taunted. "I wonder how much she told you. He told me everything. I bet I know more about Nick fucking Sydney than you do. Did she play the video for you? Nick said he wanted something to watch later and she went for it. Nick has porn staring your wife. Do you?"

"You're an asshole, Roman."

I was burning up. Roman did know more about my wife than me, and Sydney never mentioned any video.

"He told me he captured one of the times he shot inside her. Says you can see everything. You can see his cock swell and his balls jump. I'll get a copy and forward it to you."

"Goodnight, Roman," I barked, ending the call.

I wanted to drive home and search for the clip but duty called. I headed for the office. Work would force me to focus, clear my head. I finished hours later and, finally, went home.

I walked through the house noting the little things: a pair of pantyhose, with a run, discarded in haste. Toothbrush left on the counter. Curling iron in the sink. I smelled her sweet perfume. I noticed something blue in the bathroom trash and fished it out. A pregnancy test. A giant fist slammed my guts. How had I never considered that danger before? I checked the stick: negative, thank God. I placed it in the trash the way I'd found it. All at once Sydney fucking Nick felt a million times more real. I was short of breath. I glanced at the clock.

She was fucking him right now.

I visited her home office and performed my usual routine. I found the new folder easily. She'd created a file, hiding nothing, now that she had no need. She placed the thing on her desktop. The name Nick Calloway stared back at me from a tiny yellow icon. I opened for a look.

She and Nick had not made a video. She and Nick had made many videos. Many videos and taken many photos. I was flabbergasted. Their sex was a joyous, playful, delightful event. Sydney loved fucking this guy, she loved his cock. She had pictures of him hard from every angle. There were photos of her sucking cock and balls. There was video, excruciating to watch, of his wide erection slowly fed into her tight pussy.

One clip hit me especially hard: My wife laid on her side looking back at the camera. She and Nick joked, laughed, enjoyed each other. She was talking fast about Ginger when he eased his cock into her body. I saw exactly what he did to her. I saw the effect he had. I saw her happy, laughing face turn serious, passing through the stages rapidly. She forgot what she was saying. Her face softened and melted, eyes pleading. She lost more of herself with each inch until only the thick hard cock invading her body remained. She was lost to the world, turned completely inward, focused utterly on the sensation of him inside her. Her expression was pure pleasure.

With him she could act out every fantasy she'd ever repressed. How many times had she wanted to do something wild but fear had held her back. With him she freed her inner Ginger, boldly claiming what she wanted, unashamedly fucking and sucking to her heart's content. They had fun. They played with each other and each other's bodies. Sydney measured his length against her forearm, elbow to wrist, and looked at the camera shocked and amazed and delighted. She had her loving and faithful husband back at home. This was her boy-toy, and he was magnificent. He was sex on legs, hot and hard with desire for her, ready to fuck again and again and again.

Which they did. I had grossly underestimated the man. I saw plainly why Roman had selected Nick for the task. The young stud was a true Cocksman, with stamina to match his remarkable size and athletic body. I had also grossly underestimated Sydney's desire. She swam in lust, bathed in it, wallowed in delicious carnal delight. My wife looked thrilled and sexy and lusty.

Like a punch on the jaw I realized I did not know this woman. We'd been married for years. Years. Yet I'd never seen this side of her. Nick found it and brought it into the light in mere days.

I ended the video and closed the folder. I reset everything the way it had been. Sydney would be unaware of what I'd seen. I wandered into our bedroom and laid on the bed. I turned my head to gaze out the window. I absentmindedly noted my view was obscured by a section of the roof and the laundry room window.

My phone chimed from the distant kitchen counter. I sighed. I left the bed to see what new devilry awaited.

You have something that belongs to me, Roman texted.

Did he mean Sydney?

Like what? I asked.

Like a fucking suitcase.

Holy shit! I'd left a drug-filled suitcase sitting in my car!

Shit. Sorry. I'll bring it in Monday morning.

You'll bring it now, he demanded. I was unable to contact your two friends.

I took a moment to understand. Big Black and Cadaverous were on the loose. I'd mentioned Roman was my boss. In time, they'd bribe or threaten the right people and figure out where I lived. They'd come for me. They'd take the suitcase too but I was a witness. I could place both at the scene with dead Teddy. They wanted me more than the drugs. They might already be on their way here. My phone chimed.

Penthouse. Now.

My hands started to shake. I was not made for a life of danger, a life of enemies around every corner. I collected my things and got in my car. The drive to the penthouse took forever.

Chapter 13

"I need a gun," I said, resting the suitcase on his couch.

Roman opened a drawer in the credenza.

"Take one of mine," he said, waving a hand.

I moved closer. A dozen pistols or more lay strewn.

"I recommend the Taurus or the Kimber," Roman said, fishing two guns from the drawer. "But hold your shot until they're within fifteen feet. Shoot the white guy first and then empty the clip in the black guy. You said he's really big. He'll be harder to stop. You can leave the gun there. These are all untraceable. Wear gloves."

I looked at him. How did he know all these tips? What a fucking maniac.

"How many people have you shot?" I asked.

He shrugged.

"Who the fuck knows?" He shut that drawer and opened the one beneath it. Ammunition. He grabbed a box from the many stored there and loaded my gun. "Safety," he said, pointing to a button. "Reload. Extra ammo. Good?"

"No, Roman, not good. You've fucked my life."

He patted me on the back.

"Thank me later," he said.

"Fuck off."

I got out of there and headed for home. Sydney was still with Nick. I hid the gun and ammunition in the end table, a central spot Sydney and I could get to easily, and clicked the television on. My mind was a jumble of conflict. There was too much to sort, too much to process. I needed to calm the fuck down.

I opened my pants and freed my dick. I avoided thinking about Sydney. She was with Nick, so that would only add to the chaos in my head. I remembered Destiny and that sweet blowjob but felt guilty. I pictured Tina and felt worse. I turned to an adult channel but Jesus, the current state of porn is awful. I switched to music and closed my eyes again, searching, sending my mind out looking for something titillating.

Ginger? Ginger sucking cock? No, that was Nick's cock in her mouth. She loved the thing too, just like Sydney.

A pulse of excitement surged through the piece of meat in my hand.

Sydney did love Nick's cock. I saw that in every video. I remembered her laughing and then the sudden seriousness as he began to penetrate. I remembered her eyes, how they softened and almost fluttered. Ignoring Nick, the man, I pictured his cock easing into Sydney. I pictured her pleasure.

My penis began to grow.

I expanded my view, including now his muscular body but keeping his face out of the scene. His abs flexed and rolled as he pumped his fat and hard meat into my wife's soaked cunt. Her expressions destroyed me. He felt so good in there. She transformed in bed with him, turning sensual, indulgent. She changed naturally, responding to his touch, responding to the deep gratification he gave.

My penis was hard.

He did things to her, made her feel things, gave her sensations I'd never given. I kept my eyes closed and in my mind watched my blissful wife take his cock. He pushed until he'd buried the entire beast. Sydney writhed on the spit, skewered, impaled. He held himself in her and watched her like I did, enjoying the blinding pleasure washing over the woman.

I began to stroke.

He was fucking her right now, just like I imagined, and that was agonizing for me and utterly delightful for her. I could hear her moans, feel the heat coming off her body, smell her arousal in the air. I stopped thinking and just watched. Anything I imagined was almost certainly real. I'd seen all the videos of them together. I let my imagination roam, knowing it was all probably true. He was doing to her everything I pictured. It was torture. I was stunned at how vicious my masochistic mind could be. I created images of Sydney in absolute ecstasy, images of her lost in bliss from his penetration, and the more my sick mind created, the harder I got and the higher my approaching orgasm built. I felt ashamed fantasizing about Nick fucking Sydney like this but I'd never been so hard. What a mess I was. I stroked faster, seeing his huge balls swing.

"Cum in her," I hissed, between clenched teeth.

I remembered the pregnancy test, pulled from the trash, and groaned in anguish, blood surging to my dick. I looked at the flared head and oozing precum and tumbled over a cliff: there was no denying how hot these terrible thoughts got me. I wanted Sydney thoroughly fucked. My penance merged with my empathy, twisting me into an irrational Gordian knot. To see his fat, swinging balls was like the prisoner glimpsing the guillotine. My penis was unyielding. I stopped stroking to squeeze the shaft. I was iron. My balls were tight and hot. I marveled at my own insane arousal.

"He's fucking her," I mumbled, stroking again. "Right now. He's inside her right now. God!"

My balls seized and my muscles clenched. The thought was more than I could take. Sydney had herself wrapped around a hot stud and milked him for every drop. He might be cumming in her at that moment.

My dick erupted, spewing lava, spraying white semen all over me and the chair. I pumped out more and more, hips thrusting out of control. I heard myself shout a sound, a garbled meaningless noise, an expression of agony spearheaded by blinding elation. I forced out a thick blast, followed by another thick blast of hot sperm. I'd never orgasmed so long and so hard. My climax left me wilted in my chair, immobile and useless. I didn't fall asleep. I passed out.

Chapter 14

I smelled her before I tasted her.

It was easy to picture every step she took. Sydney had returned from her date and discovered me sleeping, reclined in my chair. That I had masturbated before falling asleep was obvious. She must have slipped out of the scant clothing she still had on and carefully climbed over me, planting a foot by each butt cheek and her knees by my ears. She then lowered her pussy to under my nose and just above my mouth, hovering so I might inhale the bread-dough scent of her semen-filled cunt. I'm sure she stifled laughter standing over me like that.

I breathed deep her scandalous aroma and dreamed of her.

When her warm labia brushed my lips, I instinctively licked. I heard her soft moan through a fog. I was intuitively aware enough to push my tongue deep, like a writhing, wiggling cock. She balanced over me, holding that position, enjoying her prank.

"Good boy," she exhaled, from a thousand miles away.

I was waking, leaving the dream world behind, learning that my newly emboldened wife fed me her used and tender pussy. How bold. How impetuous. Sydney of only a few weeks ago would never have contemplated such an act. She audaciously returns from her night of infidelity and daringly serves it to me. She showed me so much with this move. She was uninhibited. She hid nothing from me because she had no reason to. This move made me suspect she would not let me fuck her. To feed me her pussy leap-frogged foreplay. He'd wrecked her cunt, leaving her tender and sore. She would not take my dick, but she'd determined I could enjoy her in other ways, ways that would please her.

I didn't mind. Not too much. After my recent thunderous orgasm, my penis was finished. I'd cum so hard that even with a hot wet pussy in my mouth, my dick hadn't budged, hadn't twitched. I fucked her with my tongue and she steadied herself by holding my head. She forced her crotch into my face, grinding, using me like she never had before. Her adventures with Nick boosted her self-confidence into the stratosphere.

I did not care that her pussy was messy. I did not care that he was in there. My efforts to please her produced an avalanche of sexual sounds and that's what mattered. The noises she made drove me crazy. I looked up her body at smooth tummy and full breasts and stiff nipples and her expressions of pure pleasure, and I did all I could to drive her crazy. She orgasmed hard, wobbling, almost tumbling, but I held her in place and kept eating. She was screaming by the time I made her orgasm again. I was so pleased with myself. She slithered down the chair to lay on me, kissing my slippery lips.

"You couldn't wait for me to get home?" she murmured. "You had to jack off? You had to because I was with Nick?"

I wiped my mouth with the back of my hand.

"I thought about you every second you were gone," I said.

"That's sexy, Baby. Did you picture what I was doing?"

"Yes."

"You imagined Nick fucking me?"

"Yes. I pictured you sucking his cock. I pictured you kissing and touching and going wild, enjoying the freedoms I gave you."

"That's exactly what I did. It's exhilarating, Baby. Intoxicating. I admit I love it."

She snuggled on my chest again.

"I thought you'd try to fuck me when I got home," she murmured.

"I wanted to but I sensed you'd say no."

"You're right, I would have. But now I feel dirty, dirty in a good way. I fucked another man because I wanted to but did not fuck my husband even though he wanted to. I got what I wanted but you got nothing. I'm such a naughty girl."

We cuddled. Dawn was hours away so I carried her to bed. We slept in, then I rose to start the coffee. Soon I heard hammering on the roof. I wondered how much work remained and tried to find a window with a view. I ended up in the laundry room. That didn't work and I was about to leave when I saw movement across the courtyard in our bedroom. Sydney was awake, awake and moving around, nude, pretending to straighten our room. The hammering was directly above me and I knew those men saw into our bedroom. I sipped coffee and watched Sydney display herself for their rapt male attention. She moved near the bed and stretched, presenting everything to them. This was her scandalous just-fucked body, shamelessly flaunted. She aroused herself through exhibition. She reached for the ceiling with both hands, gracefully, like a ballerina, and turned slightly at the waist.

She saw me watching.

Her eyes flared, caught, then narrowed when I casually took a sip of coffee. She turned cool. I did too. Our eyes locked for a long moment and then she opened the bedroom window. She pointed to the men on the roof above me, men who had no idea I occupied the room below them, and waved one over. He must have misunderstood because she pointed at him and then slowly swung her finger to point at herself, gradually lowering her finger to point at her pussy while giving him a wicked and playful look. He understood that. I heard footsteps stomp across the roof.

My eyebrows rose. She smiled broadly. She moved that finger to cross her lips, shushing me. I stayed where I was, closing and locking the laundry room door.

What new game did she play?

The roofer appeared in our bedroom. He was a squat little man. His dirty white T-shirt hung from a slight beer belly. He wore baggy jeans. He had a mop of black hair, a flat butt, and dusky skin. Sydney took his hand and placed it on her bare breast. He squeezed her tit and tried for a kiss but she turned her head, saying something. He nodded, lifting her breast and sucking hard. Sydney looked over the top of his head to lock eyes with me. I saw exhilaration mixed with disbelief at her own actions. Time with Nick might have given her greater self-confidence but this was her testing her limits, plain and simple. Could she be so spontaneous? Would I allow her to be?

She let him feast a moment, giving me time to react, and then shoved him onto our bed. They talked, he nodded, and she reached for his belt buckle. He helped. He kicked off his shoes and she yanked his pants and he whipped his T-shirt. His brown cock was already cast iron. A glint of stainless steel told me his dick was pierced.

She left him there for a minute to lock our bedroom door, then joined him on the bed, wrapping her fingers and curiously examining the ring through his penis. The shiny circle ran through his piss hole and curled under to puncture below the head.

She asked questions and he answered. She played with his dick, running both hands up and down and turning a corkscrew motion on the head. The diamond on her wedding ring, the ring I bought and placed on her finger, slipped through ring piercing his dick, tangling finger and penis for a moment. Both burst into laughter. She worked her hand free and flicked the piercing with her tongue, then sucked his spongy head into her hot mouth.

He fell back onto my pillow. He ran his hands all over her smooth skin, spending extra time playing with her tits. She played with his balls.

Once she'd played enough she rolled backward, pulling him up and over her. She spread her legs to welcome him, guiding his cock into her steaming cunt. She lifted her head to gaze at me over his round shoulder. Her eyes were playful, laughing. She raised a hand behind his back and secretly flipped me off.

I had to laugh. She did too. She was frolicking, frisky, impishly enjoying herself, all before my eyes. Nothing hidden. Nothing sinister. I groaned softly. Nick's studly seed still swam in her, his fresh semen deposited only hours earlier. The roofer, unaware, drove his cock through the mix of their fluids.

He began to fuck my wife rough, aggressive, shocked at his good fortune and eager to hammer the pretty lady. He drove that smooth steel ring into her, brushing against her cervix. Sydney forgot about me. She winced occasionally but pulled him deeper. She coiled her legs around his and lifted her tits to his mouth. He devoured her nipples, sucking hard, bouncing from one to the other.

He tried to kiss her again but she stopped his lips with a finger and they both laughed. He hooked his palms under her ass and drove his cock home again and again. She slapped her hands on his flabby butt cheeks and helped him dig deep, pulling him forward with each thrust. He was an awkward fuck, pounding her, making up with enthusiasm what he lacked in skill. Sydney did not care. She had her sophisticated lover last night. This was pure grunt fucking, fucking because she now knew she could, fucking so I had something to see, fucking to provide me memories to masturbate to the next time she went out.

I was witnessing the death of the old Sydney and the birth of the new.

Chapter 15

John cleaned out his desk. Whatever grace period Tina had purchased with the use of her body had ended.

"New goals, everyone!" Roman announced from the front of the room. "John failed in his efforts so his portion gets rolled over to each of you. Pick up the fucking phones and call."

John was miserable. We'd all fucked his wife, using her like a cheap whore, and all for nothing. He was fired anyway. Roman was a heartless bastard.

"Money, people!" Roman yelled. "Money! Go get me some!"

He still had the suitcase of drugs in his office. I reasoned he'd counted on the money Teddy would provide but with that deal dead, he was coming up short. I could guess the kind of people he associated with outside of work. Roman knew prolonged debt to people like that would mean days spent in agony. He was frightened.

We put our heads down and dialed.

"Paul!" he bellowed. "My office! Now!"

I left my desk, closing his office door behind me. He was pacing, arms folded on his chest. Something had him worried and he was clearly upset with me.

"I have another job for you. Tonight. You and Sydney."

Uh oh.

"Delivery?"

"No. Why the fuck would I need Sydney for a delivery? No, I need you to serve drinks at a small gathering of my associates and I need Sydney to keep the men happy. Richard and his wife, Samantha, will be there too."

"What does, 'Keep the men happy' mean?"

He stopped pacing to stare at me.

"Exactly what you fucking think it means. Are we children? You remember Tina? It's Sydney's turn. These guys are dangerous. I need them relaxed. Explain to your wife why she must do this."

"How do I do that?"

"I don't fucking know, Paul. She's your wife. You know her. Does she care about you going to prison? Start there. Tell her I have bomb evidence with your fingerprints all over it. That should convince her."

My heart sank. I saw clearly what was in store for my wife.

"Get started on your calls," he said. "We need a great day of sales."

He was nervous and worried and I did not give a shit.

At home that night I poured Sydney a big glass of chardonnay. She laughed when I handed it to her.

"What did you do?" she joked. "Rob a bank?"

"Sort of," I said.

She turned serious. I sat on the couch next to her.

"I need to tell you some things," I said. "You know a lot but I need to fill in some details, important details. Details you will not like."

She gulped her wine.

"Go ahead," she said.

I did not mention Destiny or Tina. Those two were canceled out by Nick and the roofer. Sydney and I were square in that department and I considered it a lesson learned. I did tell her about the drug use. I did tell her about the gun. I did tell her about delivering a bomb and Roman leveraging that against me, forcing me to do other things, like attempting to deliver a suitcase of coke and almost getting murdered.

"Call the cops," she said. "Confess how he tricked you. Get out in front of his bullshit. We'll hire a lawyer."

"I'd lose," I said. "My word against his. My single lawyer against his army of lawyers? No chance. Worse, I had motive to kill that guy."

She sat back and stared at the ceiling. She considered all the information I'd just dumped, weighing, calculating.

"Why now?" she asked. "This has been going on for months. Why tell me now? What changed? What new thing happened?"

I tried to look her in the eyes but couldn't. I stared at my hands.

"Roman has men gathering at his penthouse tonight," I explained. "He demands I serve drinks." I took a deep breath. "He demands you handle his associates."

She chuckled but cut it short once she saw my serious expression.

"Handle?" she asked.

"Yes."

"What does Roman mean by that word?"

I met her eyes.

"Service," I said. "Sexually. Keep the men happy. Give them what they want, without question. Roman fears these guys. He wants them content."

She recoiled. She gawked at me in disbelief.

"Give them what they want?"

"Yes," I said.

"Like, blowjobs? Does he want me to fuck them, Paul?"

"If that's what they want," I said.

She threw her hands in the air.

"Unbelievable!" she shouted. "Seriously?"

I said nothing. What could I say? I was telling my wife she had to fuck a group of strangers to save me. This had nothing to do with her but she would pay the price, which was the punishment Roman wanted to inflict on me. She studied my face.

"Your reaction would be much stronger if I'd never been with Nick," she said.

"That's true."

Her shoulders sagged. Her lip trembled. She pursed her lips, thinking, searching for a way out but quickly realizing we were trapped.

"How many men?" she asked.

"I don't know. Rich and Sam will be there too. His sales are way down. Roman will teach him a lesson too. At least we won't be alone."

She sat her glass on the table and walked away, hands balled in fists. That told me she was fishing for a way to fight back, to refuse.

"If you don't," I began.

"He sends you to prison," she finished, staring out our front window.

I kept my mouth shut.

"I'll need to be drunk," she said. "At least enough to take the edge off."

I exhaled. She'd turned the corner.

She spoke maybe two words the rest of the night. We went to bed in silence. The next day was no better. In fact, we barely spoke until we were in the car driving to Roman's penthouse. She didn't blame me directly but she did not like her fate and I played a big part in it. She'd worn a boring knee-length skirt and dark, loose fitting top, eliminating all hint of anything sexy. I'd gone with jeans and a polo. I had no idea what Roman expected. Was I supposed to wear a tuxedo?

A bouncer stood outside the front door. He checked our faces to something on his phone and waved us in. Roman greeted us with a bottle of Jack Daniels in his hand and reeked of alcohol. He led us to his bedroom, closing the door.

"You can hang your clothes in there," he said, using the bottle to point at his immense walk-in clothes closet.

"Hang our clothes?" I asked.

He looked at me like I was stupid.

"You'll both be nude," he said. "These men are gangsters. They will not allow their faces or voices to be recorded. Cameras and microphones are deadly to them so I must prove you wear no wire. They'll see for themselves you have nothing on your person."

Sydney scoffed.

"Naked?" she sneered. "You'll make me walk around naked?"

"Yes. Now strip!"

They locked eyes. I knew her resistance would lead nowhere. After a moment, she began undressing, resigned to her doom. I joined her. Roman watched but withheld comment. Once we were nude he pointed a finger at a side door.

"Kitchen," he told me. He swung his finger around towards the double doors. "Living room," he told her. "They'll be here soon."

He looked her up and down.

"Where are Richard and Samantha?" I asked.

He shrugged.

"Who knows? Headed for Mexico, maybe? They're not coming. I've already sent a man after them. This will end poorly."

"I'm doing this alone?" Sydney whined. "I can't do this alone."

Roman, suddenly impatient and angry, stepped close and cupped her pussy. My wife gasped. He brought his face close to hers.

"Do not disappoint me," he seethed. "I am half an inch from snapping. You think I'm dangerous? These men are treacherous. I need you to charm them. I need them happy. I need you to smile and be polite and flatter them until they relax. Will you? Because they'll have all our skins removed for entertainment."

Sydney was frozen. She nodded only barely. He released her pussy and turned to me, digging into a pants pocket. He fished out a handful of pills, all colors and shapes. He pinched a green capsule from his palm and returned the others to his pocket. He gave me the pill and handed me the whiskey bottle.

"Swallow this," he ordered, waiting.

I did, washing it down with Jack. I wondered what I'd ingested but his expression told me now was a bad time to ask. Sydney reached for the bottle but he stopped her.

"You cannot stink of drink," he barked. "They won't like it."

"I don't care what they like," she snarled. "I need something for my nerves. This night already sucks and it hasn't even started."

He snatched the bottle from me.

"My night is worse than yours," he mumbled. "I may not make it out alive."

He stormed out of the bedroom. Sydney looked at me with despair.

"I'm trapped," she said, lip quivering. "I hate that man. None of this is my fault but I pay the price. It's not fair."

"You're right, it's not. I'm so sorry, Baby."

"It's not your fault either, Paul," she said, voice breaking. "Roman is a heartless bastard. He's a criminal, and time will catch up to him. Make sure you're not standing close when it does."

She was frightened, frightened of what this night had in store for her. We stood there naked, wondering what to do next.

"You better head for the kitchen," Sydney said. "I'll check on the living room."

I hugged her. We parted with a tender kiss.

Chapter 16

I found the butler mixing drinks in the kitchen. I entered naked and he glanced at me but did not react. What has this man seen over the years? I learned his name was Stephen, he was British, and he'd worked for Roman for years. He gave me a circular serving tray and told me how things would work. He'd run these parties before and knew which drink each man preferred. I would shuffle them out like a human conveyor belt.

"There will be at least one woman," he warned. "Leave them alone. The men will become enraged if the help speaks to the women."

"Woman," I corrected. "Sydney, my wife, and she'll be working alone tonight."

He shook his head sadly.

"Your wife."

"Yes. Is that bad? What happens at these parties?"

"Exactly what you'd think happens when powerful men are handed a nude woman. Nobody tells these men no."

"Will they hurt her?" I asked, ready to fight. "Is she in danger?"

"No. Unless she fights them."

"I'll keep an eye on her."

"Very well, then," he muttered. He glanced at the wall clock. "The first guests will arrive soon. We wait here until Roman sounds the chime. Would you like something to drink? This will be difficult for you."

"More whiskey," I said.

We chatted while we waited. Stephen was an interesting man who'd led an interesting life, almost all of it involved with nefarious persons. I forgot, almost, I was standing there naked. The pill Roman gave made me feel a little dreamy and tingly. I cared less about parading nude in front of strangers. Unexpectedly, my penis began to rise. I shifted around, crossing my legs, trying to hide it, and Steph noticed.

"Did you swallow a little green pill?" he asked.

"Yes. How did you know?"

"Roman enjoys his torments. You must have done something to displease him. You're about to sprout an unrelenting erection to go along with your servitude."

"What?"

He nodded sadly.

"Your erection will last all night, certainly the duration of this party. Nothing will bring you down before then, not even climax."

"Why is he unhappy with me?" I asked. "I did nothing wrong."

He showed me a palm.

"Your slight can be real or imagined," he said. "Roman is a particular man. He punishes the people who disappoint him, even for frivolous things. Best to just ride this out and look forward to tomorrow. Just get through tonight. You'll be fine."

My penis filled and expanded, rising to full erection. I was mortified. I experimented with the serving tray, trying to find a way to hide my hard on, but nothing worked. A chime sounded and my new British friend gave me a weak smile.

"As you Americans like to say," he said. "It's show time, folks."

He stacked drinks on my tray. I took a deep breath. I backed through the swinging kitchen doors into the vast living room.

The space was filled with people. Six unfamiliar men stood around, talking: two pairs of two, plus two singles. One wore Arab robes. One wore a Nehru jacket. Four wore standard business suits, two black, one gray, and one blue. These were hard, hateful, merciless men and they were incredibly unhappy. The room was filled with tension. Roman had made them angry. He stood by a wall, speaking with my nude wife. She looked scared and about to cry. She looked relieved to see my face but remained where she was. She noticed my erection and confusion crossed her face. I blushed.

Roman pointed to the man wearing the thobe. Sydney stamped a foot, made fists and then wiggled her fingers and made fists again. She shook her hands to loosen them and left Roman's side. She reached the man and held his gaze for a silent second. She squatted, lifting the front of his robes to find his penis buried in a mass of black pubic hair. She held his hips as she slipped his small, flaccid cock into her mouth. The man met Roman's eyes and nodded once.

My heart hammered as I circled the room with my tray. Stephen had photos attached to the refrigerator so I knew which drink went to which man. When I reached the Arab, Roman spoke from across the room.

"Meet her husband," he said.

The Arab looked at me with scorn. I handed him his drink and turned to leave.

"Wait," he said.

I did. He took a sip and held my eyes while Sydney bobbed on his cock. We all heard her slurps. Blue Suit wandered over and drew his zipper down. He fished out his penis and, laughing at me, offered it to Sydney. She did not hesitate. Dicks are for sucking, I guess, and she split her time between the men.

"You may leave," the Arab told me.

I delivered the remaining drinks and returned to the kitchen. Stephen awaited.

"This will be a long night," he said, after one look at my face.

My next round was worse. Sydney now sucked three cocks while the men engaged in conversation above her. She had tears on her cheeks.

"I have a new buyer," Roman told them. "Sunday night at eleven. Denny's parking lot downtown. You'll have your money by midnight and this misunderstanding will be behind us."

"It needs to be," Nehru jacket warned. "This is not your first error. This is one in a string of errors. You often produce results and that gains you some understanding, but we're finished being patient. This is your last chance. Do you understand what I'm saying to you?"

"I understand."

The Arab stopped me as I walked by and inverted his empty tumbler, sliding the glass onto my erection like a hat. Everyone laughed.

"Leave it there," he joked. "Bring me another. In a fresh glass, of course."

Everyone had a big chuckle at his joke. I finished my round and visited the kitchen. Stephen removed the glass from my hard penis.

The next trip saw all the men gathered in the sunken sofa area, seated in a half circle. My wife knelt between the knees of a black suit, sucking him hard, one hand cupped his balls, the other pumped his shaft. The men discussed their business with Roman and their displeasure with his recent results and I guessed they discussed the suitcase of coke and Roman's failure to convert that to cash. They wondered how he would make things right.

Blue Suit lifted her from the floor and laid her across his lap, extending her legs across the lap of Nehru jacket too. Blue began playing with my wife's pussy from the backside, soon casually sliding a finger in and sucking her flavor off. Their conversation continued, Black guiding her mouth up and down his erection while he scolded Roman. They felt me looking and waved me closer, chuckling that my wife serviced their dicks.

"You must like it," Black Suit said, gesturing at my erection.

"No," I answered.

"Hard dicks do not lie," Nehru jacket countered.

I said nothing.

Stephen prepared a large tray of hors d'oeuvres so I was delayed on my next round. When I finally backed through the swinging doors, I discovered all conversation had ceased. Sydney was on the low table, on her back, head hanging off the end. She had a cock in each hand, a cock fucking her upside-down mouth, and Arab cock in her pussy. They were not gentle lovers. They used her body to empty their nuts. Sydney often gagged and coughed. The men used her at each end, taking their time and taking their pleasure. The Arab lasted a short time, pushing every inch in and holding himself there, snorting and grunting and looking me in the eyes while his balls contracted. He withdrew and Nehru jacket took his place, his dick crooked and uncircumcised and dark like chocolate. He shoved it into my wife and held her at the thighs, thrusting fast like a high school kid.

I tried to look away but couldn't. Their mocking stares were not enough to stop me. Sydney's hips had begun tiny rocking motions, enhancing her own pleasure. She'd added a hand to the cock in her mouth, stroking in time with her bobbing, coaxing and pleasing the man using her. For now, the men forgot their annoyance with Roman, which had been his hope. They were focused on the squirming woman.

One by one the men stepped away to disrobe, revealing a variety of body types. The Arab invited Roman to join and my boss stripped, casually revealing his heavy, swinging cock. I held my breath. Six strangers, men Sydney would never see again, was one thing. My boss inside my wife was something else altogether. The Arab and Gray Suit commented on Roman's size but he laughed it off, acting shy and embarrassed. Calculating motherfucker. Sydney sensed something had changed and lifted her head to see. She spied Roman standing close, his impressive cock hanging down like a threat. She whimpered, turning her head away.

"I hate you," Sydney said.

The men laughed. Even Roman.

"You say that now," he taunted.

"I do," she continued, voice shaky and on the verge of tears. "You have a black heart. You use good people to do terrible things."

Roman raised his glass.

"To terrible things," he said.

The men laughed again.

I'd emptied my tray and so was forced to go for another. I aimed for the kitchen, quickly out of earshot. Roman took a spot near her head and held his cock over her mouth. He spoke too low for me to hear but Sydney, after a slight hesitation, opened wide. The men laughed again. Roman lowered the plump head until he rested on her tongue. He left it there, instructing her to keep her mouth open. He wanted everyone to see her obedience.

"Use the tricks Nick taught you," Roman said.

"Fuck you," she mumbled.

"I'll wait. Nick told me everything. He's falling in love with you. You know that, right? Never tell him you had my cock in your mouth. You'll break his heart."

Roman rested another inch on her tongue. His dick was a fat tube of vein-covered meat. Sydney breathed through her nose. The men played with her body, teasing her breasts and nipples, gliding in and out of her pussy. Despite her rage, the stimulation slowly got to her. Roman sank lower, filling her mouth with cock.

She tried. She truly did. But the instinctual urge to suck grew too strong. At last she closed her sensuous lips around the head and shaft, hating herself. The men chuckled, humored by her inability to resist.

I entered the kitchen and leaned against a wall. My dick throbbed. Stephen threw an arm around my shoulder and hugged me, then told me to toughen up.

"We have a long night ahead," he added. "Help me chop vegetables."

Twenty minutes passed before I returned to the living room. The couches and low table had been shoved aside. Roman was on his back and Sydney straddled him. His thick cock filled her wet pussy. Another man leaned over her back, searching for her asshole with the tip of his dick. A man stood close to her face, stroking her hair as she sucked his dick. She held another in her hand.

They were no longer doing things to her. My once frightened wife now led them, using her hips and mouth and hands, coaxing, teasing, daring these dangerous men to give up their loads. She'd declawed and defanged them, transformed them into lovers.

Her sharp gasp made me look. The cock at her asshole had penetrated and pushed several inches deep. Sydney's face was contorted from mind-blowing pleasure.

"I feel you in there, Roman," the amazed man said.

Both men began to fuck her, separated by a thin wall. Sydney opened her eyes. She gazed at Roman but then swung my way. Guilt flashed. Then their invading cocks chased all thought from her head, leaving only the staggering sensations of a double-stuffing. She tried to meet my stare and give me the respect a husband was due, but the man in her ass pushed balls-deep and Roman did too. She groaned and whimpered and melted and was lost to me. An orgasm muffled by the dick in her mouth electrified the room.

"Did she just climax?" Nehru jacket wondered.

"Yes," Roman laughed.

"In front of her husband," Nehru jacket chuckled. "I love it."

I cleared away empty glasses and tumblers, collected used napkins. Sydney was a moaning machine, forcing her pussy and ass down on those impaling meat spikes. The man in her mouth forced his dick so far in she gagged and shoved him away, but then grabbed his cock and pulled him into her mouth again. The remaining men played with her body: pinching nipples after running coarse hands over smooth skin. They slapped her bare butt cheeks and grabbed handfuls of long hair. Sydney relished their rough handling.

The man in her mouth orgasmed first followed quickly by the man up her ass. Those men backed away. Roman allowed her to ride a while and then flipped her over, driving deep before hammering her little pussy. My wife orgasmed again, groaning in one long, drawn out cry. Roman bellowed and pushed all the way in, holding himself cloaked within her tight, wet walls. He spewed boiling sperm, his ass clenching over and over with each blast.

I returned to the kitchen.

I took my time. I wouldn't be missed. I hoped some of the men that had climaxed would leave but that didn't happen. When I returned with fresh drinks everyone had retired to the couches and chairs. Sydney worked her way around the room, sucking soft dicks, kissing lips, snuggling. The Arab got hard again and fucked from behind before emptying his balls inside her. She spun and sucked his dick clean.

The night wore on. Nobody left. Sydney was available to all and all had her again in some form. Roman filled her pussy again and thirty minutes later she had her head in his lap, suckling his soft tube. These men had filled my wife with semen.

My erection lasted through it all.

Chapter 17

I stayed and served until the last gangster departed.

"Sydney stays," Roman said.

She was a mess of sweat and jizz. She had an arm around Roman's waist. Her free hand fondled his hanging nuts.

"It's all right, Honey," she told me. "I don't mind staying a little longer."

I was seething. Every man had drained his balls in her more than once.

"We performed as ordered, Roman," I said. "This needs to end."

He turned to her.

"Do you wish to leave?" he asked.

She wouldn't look at me.

"No."

Gut wrenching. I felt sick.

"What? Why?" I asked.

She slid her hand up his scrotum to lift the heavy shaft. She said nothing. She didn't need to. I understood and hated the truth.

I stomped off. I told Stephen goodnight and thanked him for all his help. I entered Roman's bedroom to change and they were already crawling into bed. I grabbed my clothes and dressed in the bathroom, aiming my erection up and cinching my belt. I discovered Roman had left the bottle of green pills on the counter. I stuffed the bottle in my pocket. A night would come when I would revenge-fuck Sydney for remaining with Roman right now. She'd surrendered so easily. I'd take one of his pills and fuck her all night to make things right.

My anger faded quickly. I was less than two miles away when my heart ached so badly I gasped for air. I'd drawn her into this mess. I should allow her to find her own way out.

I got home and heated pizza from two days ago. I stripped out of my clothes. My ridiculous penis still throbbed so I sat on our bed while the microwave cooked and wrapped my fingers around my dick. I closed my eyes, instantly assaulted by a barrage of images from tonight. I saw tight pussy sealed around thick cock. I saw Sydney's pretty face, her lips stretched to suck two cocks at once. I saw her gradually turn from apprehensive to lusty.

I saw her orgasm on Roman's meat.

I thought climaxing would be a challenge but my nuts boiled quickly. I hated Roman and I especially hated the fact that he had fucked my wife, but all that rage turned into sexual tension. I had to slow my stroke or cum too fast. Work would be unbearable. Roman would rub my face in his conquest daily. What absurd request would he make? Would Sydney visit his penthouse weekly from now on?

I considered texting but would not give either of them the satisfaction. They were fucking at this moment. He was in her. My mind chewed on that like gristle and my dick grew harder than ever. Why did this type of agony so electrify me?

The microwave dinged but I stared down at my hand on my dick. I was jerking off while another man fucked my wife. I was jerking off because another man fucked my wife. The torment was unendurable yet I bore it, I used it, I fed gasoline to my fire and set my balls aflame. My load was rising, boiling like a volcano. I pictured Roman's cock stretching her pussy and spewing his seed and I shot, exploding like a firework. I groaned and fell back onto our bed, spurting all over my knuckles, my hand, my thighs. This was so often my fate: home jerking off while Sydney fucked another. How did I get here? How did this become my reality? I stroked fast and pumped out every drop.

I cleaned up and ate my pizza. I waited for Sydney but eventually went to bed, expecting she'd wake me for sex like she had before. She did not. Morning dawned and I woke alone. I showered and checked my phone again, discovering a text. She told me not to worry, she was enjoying herself and she'd be home this evening about the time I got home. She wanted to spend her day off with Roman.

I drove to work. I tried to produce but mostly stared at Roman's empty office. The little green pill from last night had residual effects and I spent the day with a partially swollen and spongy dick. What was that stuff?

I grew angry, angry because I was frightened. I was frightened that Roman might permanently steal Sydney from me. A foolish fear because I know my wife and I know what she needs in a partner, and Roman ain't it. But he does have that cock. I could recognize my fear as childish and primitive but I felt it nonetheless. I'd witnessed my wife's expressions of pleasure and delight. Roman offered her things I could not, and I had to admit the idea to stay with him was hers. I couldn't rationalize that fact away.

Work dragged on. Roman's empty office mocked me.

At last I headed for home. The house was cold and dark. I gazed out the front windows, waiting and wondering, when a limousine pulled into our driveway.

Thanks for drawing the attention of every neighbor we have.

The driver ran around to open her door and Sydney emerged wearing a beautiful new Versace dress. Her full breasts swayed and bounced in the plunging neckline, almost freeing themselves. She was laughing, playfully teasing the driver who was now apparently her new best friend. She carried shopping bags so he shut the door and she kissed his cheek, then turned to walk the pathway to our front door. The limo drove away. Sydney entered, struggling to get her bags in the door, and then strode to plant a confident kiss on my lips. She looked happy, relaxed, and satisfied. No Walk of Shame for this woman.

"Best. Sex. Ever." she proclaimed, laughing.

"Followed by a shopping spree, it appears," I said, eager to change the subject away from her announcement.

"Yes," she admitted. "Roman was grateful. What a night. For both of us."

Was she trying to goad me?

"I'm glad things turned out well for you. My night sucked."

"Sucked?" she teased, eyes full of mischief. "Sucked like Destiny? Or sucked like Tina? Or sucked as in terrible? Help me understand."

Shit. My heart sank. Roman had revealed my secrets. Why? Now he had less to hold over my head. The dress barely contained Sydney. She looked fantastic. There was my answer. He wanted her more than he needed me compliant.

"He told you."

"Yes," she said. "I was hurt, I admit, despite my fun with Nick and the roofer. You lied, Paul, right to my face."

"I have no excuse."

"Now I know how you were able to indulge me with Nick. You were trying to even the scales, make things right."

"I was."

She stepped close, gazing up into my eyes.

"Roman wanted to fuck my ass but I said no. He's too big. He bribed me with secrets about you."

She lifted on her toes and softly kissed my lips.

"Once he told me what you'd done, I gave it to him. He played the videos to prove what he said was true. I hated seeing you with them."

"I'm so sorry, Syd."

She raised a hand to quiet me.

"The scales are balanced now," she said. "Roman and I took our time. He eased his cock into my ass, giving me time to stretch around him. It was such a sweet, erotic moment, Baby. I gave myself to him. I have almost no experience with anal sex. I admit partially I wanted revenge on you but also Roman is an attractive man. His cock is amazing. His size added to the thrill. I was giving my ass to a big cock. I was scared but excited. Every inch felt better than the last. He filled me slowly."

"You're killing me," I muttered.

"That's my intent," she stated.

She stepped closer still. I felt the heat of her body.

"I can't take all of him in my pussy," she continued. "He hit bottom. He stuffs me and I love it but I crave those last few inches, you know? It's a girl thing. My ass is a different story. I felt his body drawing closer as each inch sank deep. I felt his hot balls smother my pussy. I felt his cock head way up in me. He kept pushing and then, finally, I knew I had all of him. God! I almost came right then. He felt fantastic. He fucked my ass slow and smooth while I teased my clit and my orgasm almost killed me, but that was just the first of many. The man is a master. I confess I fell in love with him a little, but that might just be an emotional response to the incredible sex. You know how women are."

"I do."

"I can't describe the thrill of sliding my hand into his pants and finding that whopper waiting for me every time. I get what Ginger has been trying to tell me for years. I understand now."

My body was filled with broken glass. Every word she spoke hurt. She was hitting back, hurting me because I'd hurt her. Emotionally immature, yes, but justified. I stood and took it.

"Anyway," she added, handing me her phone. "I got what I went for, my real reason for staying the night with him. I could have done without learning of your infidelities but I accomplished my initial mission. You're welcome."

I took her phone. She had a video queued and ready. I hit play and watched the remains of a suitcase twisted by a bomb blast, sink beneath unknown waters.

"What is this?" I asked.

"My reason for staying. I'd seen the suitcase while we were shedding our clothes in his bedroom. I fucked him into a stupor and then smuggled out the incriminating evidence. You're in the clear. The suitcase with your fingerprints now sits at the bottom of Lake Cushman in a spot only I know, thanks to a spectacular blowjob and an understanding limo driver."

My jaw hung loose.

"You're amazing," I said.

"I am."

"I'm so, so sorry about Tina and Destiny."

She lifted her shoulders an inch.

"I care, I won't lie, and like I said, it hurt. But our relationship is not what it once was. So much has happened. We'll never go back. Promise me you'll never go behind my back again and I'll let it go."

"I promise. I swear."

"That's good enough for me." She poked my chest with a stiff finger. "But I'm not giving up Nick. My tryst was honest and fair. Yours was a lie. I should be allowed to keep mine."

"Ouch."

She shook her head.

"Not really," she said. "Maybe it stings you a little but it sure invigorates our sex life. Since your response is to always grow a hard dick, I say we keep him around. I always want sex more after I've fucked another man."

What could I say? I was in the clear with Roman and off the hook regarding Tina and Destiny.

"That was some night," I offered.

She stepped into my arms.

"Life changing," she said. "There was hard dick everywhere I looked. There was zero intimacy until later, with Roman. Being buried in all those men forced me to have pure sex. I resisted at first because I thought I should but I quickly realized I was soaked. I let go and embraced my arousal. I feel like a fog has lifted in my mind. My views have changed."

"What's your view on sex right now?"

She grinned.

"You horny, Baby?"

"I am. Roman had you last. I can't stand that."

She squeezed my butt.

"You'll need to stand it a while longer. I'm sore. Even my jaw is sore. You can titty-fuck me or I can jerk you off."

"I'll take it. I'm dying."

"Did you masturbate when you got home last night?"

"Yes."

"Did you think about me with all those men?"

"Yes."

"Did you picture me with Roman?"

"Shit. Yes."

She smiled broadly. She slipped a hand down the front of my pants to find my spongy dick.

"You feel bigger," she said.

"It's Roman's damn pill. How do you think I stayed hard all night?"

She curled her fingers around my shaft while opening my fly with her free hand. I helped. I eased her dress open, freeing her tits.

"I liked it," she said. "At first I was confused, wondering how you could be erect in that horrible situation, but then I started to like it. I started to believe if you could embrace our predicament, then so could I. Soon I saw it as hot and sexy. You were just so hard all the time, standing up, ready for action. You made me feel sexy."

I shoved my pants down. She started to jerk my dick. Those men had fucked her in every hole but I got only a handjob.

Chapter 18

Weeks later I sat in her office flipping through the folders on her computer. She worked late. I found something new and opened it. Videos. Ginger held Chester's big old cock around the base and Sydney slowly sat on it. My wife placed her palm against the swollen undershaft to help guide him in. The old man could not believe his good fortune. Sydney held the phone for the next picture while Ginger sucked the man's wrinkled balls. I realized I was happy for the old-timer. I felt the barest echo of jealousy.

"I love you girls," Chester wheezed.

"We love you too, Chet," Sydney gasped.

A creak from the hardwood kitchen floor brought my head up. Sydney worked the evening shift tonight. I was home alone. What could have made that floorboard creak?

Last week I'd moved the pistol into my office and went for it now. I hid behind my office door. Big Black and Cadaverous crept down the hallway to Sydney's office, homing in on the video audio. I cocked the gun and stepped into the hall behind them.

"I can shoot you both in the back and call the cops," I said.

They turned, saw my pistol. They froze.

"Home invasion is a felony. I'm within my rights to drop you both. The cops would understand. So would the jury. You'd be dead and unable to testify."

Their hands slowly lifted. Cadaverous had a gun in his waistband. I aimed at his head and walked closer, pulling the gun free and aiming that one at them too. I stepped back, an idea forming.

"You came to kill me because I saw you with Teddy's body?"

"That's right," Big Black said.

"Stupid," I said. "I don't even know you. I don't know Teddy. The cops would never think to call me as a witness. You get nothing out of coming to my house but you risk much. How would you like something with a far better payoff? I'm talking about a suitcase full of coke."

"You have it?" Cadaverous asked.

"No. But I know where it will be and when, along with a bag of money from the other side to buy it. You guys grab both. I don't care. I want Roman eliminated and I don't want you on my trail. You do this, we have dirt on each other. Everybody keeps their mouth shut and goes their own way. Does that work for you?"

They eyed me suspiciously.

"I could kill you both, right now," I said. "Why would I make this up? Why would I complicate things? Go grab the coke and the cash and disappear from my life. Deal?"

Big Black lowered his hands.

"All right," he said. "But why? What's in it for you?"

"I want Roman to fail," I said. "That's all you need to know. Sunday night at eleven. Denny's parking lot, downtown. Roman is making the switch. Be on it. I'm keeping your gun. Get out."

They backed away and left my house. My plan was riddled with holes and generally weak, but I counted on their greed. A suitcase of coke was worth a lot to men like them.

Chapter 19

Roman yanked his office door wide.

"Paul!" he screamed across the bullpen. "Get your ass in here!"

I left my desk to enter his office, closing his door behind me.

"New task," he said. "Try not to screw this one up."

"I didn't screw the last one up. You've got a rat in your ranks. How did those two men know I was making a delivery to Teddy?"

"I have no rat. Teddy had a big mouth. Teddy got himself in trouble. I have new buyers. I need you to drop the suitcase again. Sunday night at eleven. Denny's parking lot downtown. Red Camaro. Collect a briefcase and return it to me at the penthouse."

I made an annoyed face because that's what he expected. I doubted he was even aware the suitcase with my fingerprints was gone. He had nothing over me anymore but didn't know it.

"Sunday," I grumbled. "Denny's. Eleven."

"Get out."

My plan was simple: make sure the exchange failed. Roman's superiors had given him a final warning. If I foiled the exchange and Roman lost them money, I expected his gangster associates would treat him harshly. With a little luck, Cadaverous and Big Black would steal the money and the drugs, leaving Roman with nothing. His associates would make him pay.

Do I sound calculating and confident? I wasn't. The plan could fail so easily. There were too many moving parts.

Sunday took forever to arrive. Once it did, I told Sydney I was meeting a friend for a beer and got to the drop site early. The lot had an open field on one side but was otherwise surrounded by tall buildings. Three driveways led in and out. Planters, filled with dirty ivy and pine trees ran around the edges and dotted the interior. A dumpster enclosure sat against the restaurant. Next to it was an enclosure for organic waste and a grease dump.

I'd driven by on Saturday to get the lay of the place and I now parked my car far down the street, returning to take a position overlooking the lot but well hidden under a tree. Less than a minute later a red Camaro pulled into the lot to drop a man off. He picked a spot behind the dumpster and settled in.

That complicated things. I hadn't expected that much caution from the men showing up with the cash. I expected they'd be in and out, trusting to speed to avoid capture. I was lucky I'd beat him to a hiding place. I would have walked into trouble. I heard voices approaching.

Big Black and Cadaverous sauntered as if they were out walking off dinner. They turned to enter the lot. They walked to the middle, out in the open, discussing exit routes and lines of entry. They spoke freely, and loudly, of their plans. Idiots. They never considered someone might be watching and listening.

Soon they reached a decision. Big aimed for a spot under a tree near the driveway entrance and Cadaverous aimed for the dumpster. The same dumpster the man from the red Camaro choose. I held my breath.

The dumpster sat in a concrete enclosure with large steel doors, which hung open. The streetlight overhead was burned out so it would have been a great place except Camaro guy was already there. Cadaverous swung a door to step inside and I heard a silenced Thwap! The brief muzzle flash told me precisely what had happened to him. My plan was already fucked. Big Black heard the shot or maybe he heard Cadaverous hitting the ground. He stepped out, searching the darkness surrounding the dumpster.

"Jeremy?" he called.

Cadaverous had a name. Sorry, Big Black, no more Jeremy.

"Jeremy!" he hissed.

He left his spot to jog across the lot.

"Where are you man?" he asked, drawing his gun. "What was that sound?"

Thwap! Thwap! Thwap!

Big Black gurgled and staggered, stumbled, and toppled.

Well, fuck. My plan was as dead as the bodies on the ground. I was stuck in this spot until Camaro guy left, and that would be a long time since he was waiting for me. No way could I step out of my hiding spot now. I'd witnessed him kill, twice.

The shooter emerged and hurried across the asphalt, staying low, looking around. He talked fast and low on a cell phone. He grabbed Big Black by the ankle and tried pulling but the man weighed too much.

"Get your ass back here!" he barked into the phone before ending the call.

He pocketed his phone away and pulled on Big with both hands, dragging that heavy carcass slowly towards the dumpster and shadow. A car drove by and the shooter hid for a moment then returned to the task. The Camaro entered the lot fast. The driver slammed the brakes and threw his door wide, running out, hurrying to help.

"These guys were set to jump us," Shooter said, his voice harsh and stressed, on the edge of panic. "The ugly dude came right at me. I dropped him but then the other guy heard and came at me too."

"Who are they?" Camaro Driver asked.

"How the fuck would I know?"

They pulled Big together.

"How did they know about the drop?" Driver asked.

Shooter stopped pulling.

"You ask the dumbest questions," he said.

"Sorry."

"If I don't know who they are, how would I know how they found out?"

"I said I was sorry."

Shooter looked around the lot.

"We gotta hide them before the coke guy shows," he said. "Or else he'll get spooked and run, maybe not show at all. If we don't come back with that coke, we're fucked. People are counting on us."

The sound of car driving by drew closer. The guys abandoned Big to step into the shadows. The car came into view. A cop car, driving slowly, their outside spotlight scanning the alleys and buildings across the street. Someone behind all these windows looking down on us must have seen the activity and called it in. An empty parking lot was of no concern to these cops. Businesses were.

They were searching in the wrong direction.

I saw an opportunity for chaos. My plan had fallen apart, yes, but maybe I could still make something happen. I pulled my gun and tried to fire a shot into the dirt at my feet. Nothing happened. I remembered the safety and tried again and a bright flash of light and deafening roar shook me.

The cops slammed on their brakes, cranked the steering wheel, and stomped on the gas, entering the parking lot with speed before slamming on the brakes again. The headlights landed on Big Black's body.

All hell broke loose.

Shooter fired on the cops, shattering their windshield, and they scrambled out of their car to return fire, spinning him. The Driver ran for the Camaro, slamming into gear and burning rubber. One of the cops shot out a tire and the Camaro lurched, clipping a concrete parking stop and crashing into the side of a building, close to me. The driver emerged holding two pistols, firing rapidly as he ran for better cover behind the steel dumpster doors. The cops followed his flight. The booms of gunfire echoed all around, bouncing off asphalt and surrounding buildings.

The Camaro door was still open. A briefcase sat between the seats. My heart raced and fear had red-hot talons deep in my chest, but I saw my opportunity and I took it. I stayed low as I ran, grabbing the cash and returning to my cover. The gun battle continued.

Another cop car approached with lights and siren blazing. They entered the lot and took defensive positions, joining their colleagues in firing on the Camaro driver. He couldn't hide from both groups and a bullet found his shin. He screamed in agony, staggering, stumbling, losing his cover. Bullets ripped into him. He fell.

With all officers focused on the man, I slipped away, creeping down an alley until I felt safe enough to run. I was so happy I'd parked many blocks away.

The streets reverberated with wailing sirens. Cop cars sped by, but I was headed the other way. I was headed for home. I called Roman and told him there were bodies on the ground and police crawling all over the place when I arrived. I told him I wasn't seen but that I would lay low for a while. He flipped out, screaming about another deal gone wrong.

"You're always involved!" he yelled. "A million deals without a problem then you fuck up the two times I use you! This is all your fault."

"That's fucking bullshit!" I screamed right back. "Look at the time! It's not even eleven yet. Everything was shit before I ever got there. This is from your end!"

I hoped that planted seed would bear fruit. Any time Roman spent investigating false leads was time that worked to my advantage. His vicious gangster associates would come for him. He'd cost them money. He'd exposed them. They'd believe he lied and drop a hammer on him. I sensed days of pain in store for Roman.

I opened the briefcase in the car and learned I was the frightened new owner of rows and rows of cash. I searched to make sure there were no tracking devices in the money or the case. I saw No Country for Old Men. I spotted a grocery store across the street and purchased some reusable shopping bags. I transferred the money to the bags and tossed the case into a river on the drive home.

I was trembling all over.

I already knew my first purchase with the money. For her birthday, Sydney would get a Crown Jewel Steinway Grand Piano Model B in Mahogany.

Chapter 20

Roman did not come to work the next day. We all enjoyed the calm. He was absent the next day too, and the next. I was just starting to relax a little when two FBI agents visited our office. They made the rounds, interviewing everyone, asking questions about Roman and how well we knew him. Of course, we all turned on the man. We complained about his unorthodox and often illegal sales tactics and the toxic environment he'd created.

Upper management sent a replacement. We returned to our old way of business. A week later a company spokesperson informed us Roman's badly beaten body had been recovered from Puget Sound. Chilling.

I was the only person at work that day that breathed a sigh of relief.

Sydney got home later and I admitted everything. I confessed I'd taken steps that probably got a man killed. She listened attentively, a wry smile on her lips. She waited patiently for me to finish.

"I was there," she said.

"Where?"

"Roman's penthouse. How do you think his associates knew where to find him?"

"You visited Roman's penthouse?"

"Yes. Dawood, the man in the Nehru jacket that night, asked me to spy on Roman. I agreed, since I planned on fucking him anyway. I was with Roman, fucking him, when his associates arrived. I was the one that called them and explained where to find him. They came and took him away. Dawood paid me."

She chuckled at my shocked face.

"You are not the only one capable of sneaky secrets," she said.

"You were in so much danger, Baby."

"I don't think so. A woman gets a feel for a man. Dawood likes me. He'd grind me and my whole family into fertilizer if I ever crossed him, but he knows I won't."

I checked her out, looking her body up and down.

"You went to his penthouse to fuck him?"

"Yes."

"Without telling me?"

"Yes."

"I'm not sure how I feel about that," I said.

She came close, palmed the front of my pants, gently squeezed.

"I know how you feel about that," she said.

She was right.

End.

Join My Mailing List
Get a FREE Hotwife Story!

Visit My Website:
AuthorMatthewLee.com

Follow My Twitter

Find me on GoodReads

Email Me

BunnyLovesBigCarrots@gmail.com

Did You Enjoy My Work?
It would mean a lot if you left a quick review.
A sentence or two is fine.
Thank you for supporting an Independent Author!