

Matthew Lee
Prisoners of Halfmoon
Key

Prisoners of Halfmoon Key

By Matthew Lee

BunnyLovesBigCarrots@gmail.com

Heat.

Not open the oven door in your face or step into the sauna heat, more like I will never get used to living on Venus heat.

I wasn't on Venus. I was lying on the beach at Halfmoon Key, which is about one-hundred and fifty-five miles south-west of Miami, and one small isle of Key West. The island sits midway between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean, well above the equator, so you'd think I'd get a break from that kind of heat, but no. Any moment I expected my skin to start sizzling like bacon. I pity the fools farther south.

The air did not budge. How can outside air be so stagnant? Isn't the Earth spinning? Don't birds stir it when they flap their wings? At this point I'd take anything.

Next to my chaise was Emma, my lovely wife of eight years, and she looked as miserable as me. Sweat covered her body and her long brown hair stuck to it. Ultra-fine sand from Paul and Debbie walking by earlier made her skin twinkle.

I glanced over at them now; Paul was my biggest rival at work and Debbie his Playboy model girlfriend. Last night after dinner everyone crowded around to talk to them except my wife and I who went back to our cabana and watched Bones. Paul is an alright guy and I have no personal quarrel with him, but the company we work for, StoneWork Enterprises, has a sales-competition system that pits people against each other. The pairings change every quarter but this quarter I was against him and he was killing me. I was cold-calling and using my Book and calling in favors; nothing helped. Like Babe Ruth in a slump, I simply could not hit a homerun. The timing of my slump was terrible as last quarter my numbers were average.

Emma was worried. She'd been laid-off six months ago. Money was tight.

Andrew, the CEO, gives everyone the benefit of the doubt but how would he explain carrying someone for half a year or more? I didn't fault him. I knew things would turn around. I just hoped it was soon.

Debbie and Paul adjusted their lounges to catch the sun and then Debbie untied her bikini top and set her big tits free. Jesus. She was truly glorious. I checked that Emma still had her eyes closed and let myself stare. Debbie was tall and lithe, red haired, green eyed, pale skinned and fucking hot. Her breasts had small nipples perched way up high and so hard at the moment her bikini top snagged on one. Every man at the resort wanted to fuck her senseless, including me. I think even Emma wanted sex with her. Not that my wife liked women. Debbie was just that hot.

"I can't stand it," my wife said and I quickly ripped my eyes away.

"What, Baby?"

"This heat." Emma sat up. "What about you? Ready for a cocktail? It is after noon so we are morally allowed."

"Sounds good. We can drink before the pre-dinner drinks."

Once a year Andrew invites everyone to his timeshare on Halfmoon Key. Getting there is up to you but once you arrive everything is free. He has house staff tend to us and everyone chooses between a room at the mansion or their own bungalow. The main house is huge and styled like it had been transported from a South Carolina plantation.

Everyone flies into Miami and then hops a seaplane or helicopter to the key. This year there were many new faces from other departments, as well as a lot of the people I knew.

As you walk in the front doors there are small bags to place your cell phone or other electronic device, write your name on the bag, and hand it over. Andrew has them all locked inside a secure drawer. Not that he needs the drawer. The island is so remote there is almost zero reception anyway. Mostly he does it to convey a message to his employees that work is over for a time so relax, have fun, worry less and play more, which is exactly what Emma and I were trying to do.

"Let's move our chairs under the shade of that palm tree," she said.

"I'll do it. You catch the attention of the waiter."

Five minutes later we were back on our chairs and sipping Margaritas. I caught the waiter running his eyes over Emma but I didn't blame him; she's a pretty girl. Not quite the body she had before two kids but the extra weight she carried landed mostly in her tits and ass. She's embarrassed by it and that's why she wore a one-piece today but I have no problems with her curves. I've put on some poundage too without the excuse of giving birth twice.

Emma took a long pull on her drink and laid down again, closing her eyes. I sent my gaze back over to Debbie but now she lay on her stomach and we'd moved too far away to see detail. Oh well, I'd see her again at dinner that night and with any luck she'd wear something slinky.

"To an excellent year," Andrew said, raising his glass.

Around the massive oak table everyone echoed his sentiment and lifted their drinks. The huge room swallowed the multitude of clinking glass. I sipped my whiskey and glanced at Debbie. She wore a silky top with no bra and gaps under her arms showed side-boob. Lovely.

Conversation ranged up and down the table. Kimberly Hughes sat to my left and we talked about the slow market. Emma was on my right and next to her was Jared Kurtz, head of our IT department. Jared wore a Star Wars T-shirt under his sports jacket. He and Emma talked about the next wave of Android apps coming up and I was happy Kim sat on my left and not Jared. His face was lit up with excitement and this, combined with his constantly messy hair, gave him a young crazy-Einstein look. His girlfriend, Erin, sat next to him.

Erin was as dumb as a box of rocks. She was cute; short dark hair and nice body, but she loved television and especially anything Kardashian. We'd been on the island two days and I'd tried talking to her four times and every time she related what we were discussing back to the show; Oh, my God, this reminds me of that one time Kim had to lie to a cop for Kourtney. Oh, my God, I'm so totally like Kim when it comes to hot guys. On and on until I wanted to scream. I ended the conversation and since then I've avoided her. She kept trying to comment on whatever Emma and Jared discussed but they ignored her too.

Apart from stealing glances at Debbie's tits, I also kept an eye on Andrew. He was under tremendous stress lately and his usually razor-sharp mind was distracted. He spoke with Debbie more than Paul but Paul seemed fine with it. Great. Yet another way I had to compete with the guy. I wondered briefly if I could talk Emma into a bikini.

About ten minutes later a blast of sand hit the French doors leading outside. Everyone turned to look and one of the food servers moved to the door and, since it was dark, placed his hand on the glass to peer outside. Dissatisfied, he opened the door to check and a swirl of hot, dry wind whipped in carrying grit. He stepped through and quickly shut the door behind him. We all turned to Andrew.

"I heard over the shortwave," he began. "That a storm was headed our way. That must be the leading edge of it. Dig in everyone. We weren't going anywhere anyway but the storm now makes it official."

I shrugged and forked the potatoes on my plate.

Conversation returned to the room as the winds outside began to shove patio furniture around. After another hour, a concerned Andrew excused himself. I was fine. Dessert had arrived; Oreo ice cream cake.

Eventually, the evening wound down. Erin fell asleep on the divan and started snoring and Jared said it was time to get her to bed. Andrew entered the room and announced tropical storm Harry had changed course and was now headed directly for us. If we were going to sleep in our bungalows we needed to leave right now, or, if we prefer, we were welcome to stay in the big house with him. I looked at Emma.

"Bungalow," she said.

I gave Andrew a handshake and a thank you and said we'd see him tomorrow, if we were still alive.

The run back to our cabin was fun. Sand stung every inch of exposed skin and Emma and I were laughing like fools by the time we reached our door. We had to shower again before bed and the amount of grit in the stall was impressive. I threw on a pair of boxers and she tossed on an old T-shirt. We cuddled to watch a movie and listen to the wind howl. Halfway through, the power cut out. Every source of light disappeared, and you'd be surprised how many there are. My cell was in a bag in the big house so I moved cautiously across the room and opened the curtains. The clouds hid the moon and stars. I started bumping my shins looking for candles and matches and Emma called me over to the bed.

“Forget about them, Honey. Let’s just sit in the dark. I heard something at dinner tonight.”

I fumbled my way across the room until I felt the edge of the bed and crawled up. “What? What did you hear, Baby?”

“Andrew was talking to one of the food servers. They were really casual, like they’d known each other a long time. The server asked how business was and Andrew hesitated before answering that it was poor and he’d probably have to let someone go and the man said, That’s not good, Boss. Andrew replied he’d probably have to do it soon, maybe when we got back to the mainland.”

“Holy shit.”

“Exactly. You said your numbers were low this quarter. Could he mean you?”

I tried to weigh everything in my mind. Paul had to stay because he was hot right now. Kim was suffering too but she’s a single mom and Andrew was raised by a single mom. That would be a tough choice for him. I was paid a lot but I also knew every aspect of the business. I would probably run it when Andrew retired. Cutting my salary would save him a lot right now, though.

“It could be me.”

“What? My God, that would be terrible.”

“Yes, it would. He pays me well but I help a lot of other departments. If he was thinking clearly he’d realize that but I know he’s a little scatter-brained these days. Too much stress. I need to remind him how valuable I am.”

“Should I talk to him?”

“No, he’s already got plenty to think about. If we add to his stress he’ll just look at numbers and justify his cuts that way. We don’t want that.”

Emma took my hand in the dark. “The timing is awful. My lay-off has drained our reserves. We shouldn’t have come on this trip.”

“We had to come. Much harder to fire someone after you’ve had them right in front of you for a solid week.”

“True. Are you sure I shouldn’t talk to him? Is there anything I can do to help?”

I laughed, trying to lighten the mood. “Yeah, give him a famous Emma blowjob and help him relax. If he’s thinking clearly he won’t can me.”

The refrigerator began to hum and the television clicked back on. In the glow, I saw Emma staring at me. I thought she was mad at my crass joke but as the light grew I saw she only gave me a blank stare.

“Jesus Christ, Emma. I wasn’t serious.”

“You must admit; makes it almost impossible to fire you.”

“Yeah, but then my wife will have sucked my boss’ dick. Awkward much? Are you that worried about me losing my job? I can’t believe you’re suggesting this. Don’t make me jealous and piss me off.”

“We can’t afford either and I didn’t suggest it, you did. You want to lose the house like the Wrights? You want to stop helping your mom financially? You saw what happened to all our friends a few years ago in the recession. Desperate times call for desperate measures.”

“I was joking.”

“Right. A joke about your wife sucking another man’s dick? No joke like that is one-hundred percent joke. Some part of your brain thinks it’s a good idea.”

I remembered my earlier thought about Emma wearing a two-piece for Andrew and realized she might have a point. Apparently, I was at least a little comfortable selling my wife. For a split-second I imagined her face down in Andrew’s lap. My mind recoiled. She saw it on my face.

“Alright,” she said. “I’m sorry. I went too far.”

“I’m sorry too. What I said was classless and careless.”

I leaned over and kissed her.

“But seriously, how would you feel about wearing a bikini in front of him?”

She punched my chest.

Halfmoon Key is little more than a sandbar a foot or two above the water. Every inch of the island is covered in dense foliage; Jamaican Dogwood and Gumbo Limbo trees surrounded by Railroad Vine and Sea Oats. The place was a screaming riot of red and blue and yellow flowers. All over the island small pools of salt water rose to the surface surrounded by brilliantly flowered plants that loved the brackish mix. I read there were over thirty major islands and dozens more minor, but from the sea plane I'd seen hundreds of specks of land and wondered how many poor souls throughout history had washed up on a tiny beach circled by ocean with no idea where they were.

Our first day Emma and I hiked the shore before we realized the key was too big. We cut through the trees and stumbled upon a strange inlet that to my eye appeared man-made and centuries old. I narrated a fanciful tale of a pirate captain ordering a quay dug to hide from British ships. I was sure they'd buried treasure nearby. Emma listened patiently to my fantasy and even asked questions because she's an awesome wife. I understand now it was mostly the idea of finding gold that held her attention.

The inlet was much deeper than surrounding water and trees and shrubs covered the dunes which enclosed it all the way to the water's edge. We'd found it by dumb-luck and I climbed the hill to learn the terrain. Finding it again would be difficult if I didn't know landmarks. We headed back.

The ferocity of the storm shocked us as we huddled in our cabin and I was sure in the morning we'd find the island wiped clean and bare, but of course we did not. The winds died a bit at dawn so Emma and I crept out to look around. Virtually all the flora looked unscathed. Lawn chairs and awnings took a mighty beating, and in fact anything man-made suffered horribly, but the island seems unperturbed. Evolution at work. After an hour, the winds started picking up again so we headed for the big house.

Everyone had the same idea. We ate breakfast around the big table and shared stories of the night. Paul and Debbie had a chaise come through their window and so would spend the rest of the vacation in the mansion. Kim left her bikini outside to dry and Andrew joked it was in Texas by now. Debbie offered one of hers and Kim laughed.

"Thank, Deb, but one of your boobs equal about four of mine."

Everyone chuckled.

Andrew announced the weather service said the storm would last about two days. He added the sea plane and helicopter were grounded until then and most likely would be needed for rescue and clean-up after. Paul kidded about being unable to return to work on time and hoped his boss would understand.

"I'll have a talk with him," Andrew joked.

One of the staff entered the room to speak to Andrew privately and afterward Andy excused himself. Kim asked what caused tropical storms and since I knew, I told her. When I looked up later, Emma was gone.

No one seemed to notice so I kept talking with the others and it was several minutes before I noticed a tightening of my gut. I smoothly disengaged from the conversations and on a hunch exited the room using the same door Andrew had. If Emma left this way, I'd not seen her, so I don't know exactly why I followed him, but some part of my mind was busy processing and it told me this was the right way to go.

On the other side of the door I found a wood-paneled hallway and moved quietly down it, listening. I passed several doors before I heard muffled voices. I approached slowly. The door was open a crack and I could hear but not see Emma talking to Andrew.

I breathed a sigh, relieved at the innocence of the topic. Emma asked how the house was built and Andrew proudly answered every question. I kicked myself for my sinister suspicions. I wanted to laugh at myself but needed to remain silent. I backed away from the door.

I'd passed a bathroom on the way down so I entered and shut the door. I still wondered why Emma had followed Andrew but my worry was silly. Maybe she just needed a break from the other guests. I took care of business and as I washed my hands I heard them talking on their way back to the dining hall. I finished and joined them.

After breakfast, we cleared the dishes and played some board games. The winds picked up again and we all moved to the terrace upstairs to watch the storm. Emma snuggled under my arm and after a few minutes I asked if she and Andrew had a nice talk. She was quiet a long time, which surprised me.

"How much did you hear?"

I tilted my head. "Where you asked about the construction of the mansion. Was there more?"

"Yeah."

"What?"

She looked down the balcony to make sure we were far enough away from everyone. She chewed her bottom lip, wrestling with her words.

"I could do it, Sam. I could save your job."

I furrowed my brow in confusion.

“I flirted with him, testing the waters. He responded instantly. He wants me. Badly. I suspected as much but now I know. If we want to guarantee your job security, we can.”

I was shocked! “What the fuck, Emma?”

“Calm down. I didn’t do anything, I just tested the water. I grew up poor, Samuel, and I won’t go back. The sex wouldn’t mean anything, just an insurance policy against possible events.”

A gust of wind sprayed us all with stinging sand. She was so pragmatic, so calculating. I’d seen this side of her when it came to our kids but never like this.

“This is crazy.”

“I can’t argue with that,” she admitted. “Crazy might be what we need now.” She worked her way deeper under my arm and pulled it tightly around her.

I had no idea how to respond. My mind raced. Of course, I’d never tell her go ahead, but the fear in her voice stopped me from repudiating her completely, as did the people around us. I stayed silent out of worry my voice would be too loud or emotional if I spoke. She’d actually do it. My sweet wife would suck another man’s dick. I felt a little sick.

I looked down at her face staring into the storm and saw the hard resolve etched there and it occurred to me in a way, this was Emma protecting her kids. No way would she allow our children to grow up poor as she had. The loss of her job had hit her much harder than I realized. I squeezed my arm tighter around her and she hugged it.

The winds jumped up a level and now they carried ocean spray too. That was enough to drive us all back inside. Jared and Erin said they were going to risk it and head back to their cabana and Emma said we’d do the same. I didn’t protest. We made it back, water-logged and sand blasted.

We took a hot shower and crawled onto the bed. She started the movie we hadn’t finished the night before and we cuddled, but something was different, something was off. I felt tension in the air and that’s not like us at all. Since the only things I could think to say were defensive, I said nothing.

We finished the movie and started another and fell asleep with the television on. I awoke hours later, alone. The winds had died down to occasional gusts. I waited in the dark assuming Emma was in the bathroom but after some time left the bed to look for her. She was not in the bungalow.

I checked outside and then wrapped a light robe around my naked body. Perhaps she'd gone down to the water's edge to see the storm.

I'd covered twenty feet when I saw a light on at the big house and corrected my course for it, approaching a bedroom window. Sheers covered the glass so visibility was poor but I glimpsed Debbie and Paul through a small gap. They were fucking with the light on and if I dated Debbie I'd fuck her that way too. Paul was medium build with average penis but Debbie was smoking hot. She rode him in a reverse cowgirl and holy fucking Christ, did she look amazing. I'd always imagined her big tits would look wonderful but I'd underestimated. Her tits looked fantastic. They heaved on her tight body and bounced every time she pushed her hips down. Her stomach was flat and her pussy smooth and bald. Emma keeps some hair and it bothers me when I go down on her.

I watched as long as I dared but getting caught outside their window would be a disaster so I peeled away and continued around the house on the back side, away from the wind. Another light caught my eye, this time through large double windows. I had to deal with those goddamn sheers again. I think every window in the house had them. I searched for a gap but there were none so I tried to focus beyond the gauze. The room was huge and two people moved around in it. The bed was giant. Voice were muffled vibrations but I heard low speech and an occasional laugh. Eventually I saw the man take a seat and the woman kneel between his legs. My blood boiled wondering if this was Emma and Andrew. I couldn't see enough to merit remaining at the window so I cursed a few times and continued around the house. Eventually I came back to our bungalow and went inside. I'd been gone about thirty minutes and Emma was still missing so I stripped and got back in bed, fuming.

I laid there for an hour and then heard the front door open and close. Light feet hurried to the bed, the soft thump of clothing hit the ground, the covers lifted, and Emma slipped carefully back into bed. When I didn't move, she sighed.

I had no idea what to do. I was worked up by our previous conversations but I had zero evidence and honestly, the very idea that Emma would cheat on me was preposterous and insane. I rolled over, faking sleep, and reached up to kiss her. I tasted the minty freshness of toothpaste and mouthwash.

“Where were you?” I heard my mouth say.

“Hungry. I went to the mansion and had the cook make me something and then used the guest bathroom to brush my teeth. Go to sleep, Honey.”

Well, fuck. That made sense. I pulled her close and to my surprise, fell asleep.

In the morning, the storm had backed off but Andrew said don’t be fooled; we were in the center. More winds would hit tonight. Emma and I used the break to get away from everyone and explore the island again. I led us back towards the strange little inlet we’d found and after two hours we found it again. The water was much deeper here and I kicked off my sandals and pulled off my shirt.

“What are you doing?” Emma asked.

“I want to see how deep it is.”

“Sam, that’s crazy. You have no idea what’s down there and the wind has churned the sand. You won’t see a thing. Let’s come back with fins and masks. You’re not eighteen.”

She was right but I was already down to my shorts and feeling stupid.

“Just a quick look to test visibility,” I said, jumping in feet-first. The water was warm so I floated for a second to fill my lungs and then plunged under. I kicked a few times and opened my eyes. I could see about ten feet, losing light fast, but the grit in the water was too much. I shot down about twenty feet and the pressure popped my ears. I looked towards the bottom and held myself still. I thought I saw the vague outline of a ship, like a small galleon, darker on dark, far below. I turned for the surface. When I broke water, Emma yelled at me.

“Goddamn it, Sam!”

I swam for the shore.

“I saw something,” I said. “Let’s come back with gear. I’m too out of shape to hold my breath that deep.”

She helped me out of the water and we sat under a short tree. I put my sandals back on and started on my shirt. We hiked some more until the bank of clouds headed for us got too close.

Back at the mansion lunch was ready and we ate like starving lions. Andrew and the staff had prepared Monte Carlo night and blackjack and poker tables were waiting. We all played for hours with the fake chips we were given. I excused myself to use the restroom and on the way passed Paul and Debbie's room. On impulse, I darted in and moved the curtain slightly, just enough to give me a bigger gap than I had last night. I did the same in Andrew's room. When I got back to the blackjack table nobody said a word about how long I was gone.

We played until sleep overtook us and our eyes began to shut. The money just circled the table as each of us got hot for a time but then we'd cool off and give all the chips back. None of us could put the others away. We laughed and had a really good time.

The last hour saw a tempest grow outside and Emma asked if we could sleep in the mansion tonight and not walk back in it. The butler arranged a room for us upstairs. I slept like a baby though the night.

By the time I got moving the next morning I learned almost everyone had gone out on a quick fishing trip during a lull. Only Emma, Kim, the staff, and myself remained. I thought Emma would be angry we missed it but she laughed.

"No way. Even in these lower winds the boat will rise and fall like crazy. No thanks. I don't even like fish."

We puttered around, went for a short walk, and returned to an amazing lunch. We were shooting a game of pool downstairs when the crew got back from the fishing trip. Most of them looked sick and Emma laughed at Paul. His face was sour. After that the winds picked up again.

At dinner Paul stayed in his room. The girls gathered in the den, including several women I'd seen around the office but didn't know, so I joined the men at the other end of the house playing poker and smoking cigars. Again, we all stayed up way too late.

Emma and I spent another night in the room upstairs and around four in the morning I woke up to use the restroom. Emma was gone. Again. I padded downstairs and checked the kitchen, which was dark, and prowled up the long hallway of bedrooms. Only Andrew's had light under the door.

What to do? There was a door leading outside at the end of the hall but then a long loop around to Andrew's window. My risk of getting caught was higher because of the time to get outside and then all the way back.

Curiosity got the better of me. Telling myself I'd just run around for a quick look and then dart back, I tugged my sandals on and zipped down the hallway.

I looked through Andrew's window, happy the little gap I'd created remained. Emma sat on her calves at the foot of his bed. Andrew sat at the end, knees spread wide, leaning back on one hand while the other rested on my wife's head, guiding her mouth up and down his nearly erect penis.

In stressful times the mind does strange things and at this particular juncture I noted with admiration Andrew had incredible abs. I shook my head. He also had a remarkably large dick, and all at once I understood his supreme confidence in all situations. I'd always marveled how composed the man was and who wouldn't be, sporting a cock like that?

Emma clearly loved it. He wasn't fully erect and with a sick feeling I realized that was possibly because he'd either already cum, which meant most likely my wife carried him in her belly, or she was getting him hard, which meant I'd only arrived for an emotionally fraught situation which was sure to last a while longer. He was nude but Emma still wore what she'd worn to bed with me, baggy T-shirt and baggy shorts.

She held him at the base with one hand and hefted his scrotum with the other. Her full lips slathered the plump circumcised head, sucking quickly as she licked all around the crown. Her cheeks pushed out as she nudged several vein-covered inches towards her tonsils. She moaned.

The sound snapped me out of my trance. What the fuck? Why was I still standing here? Why hadn't I raced down the hall and kicked the bedroom door open? Why wasn't I losing my mind right now?

Because the entire surreal scene looked unimaginably lewd, obscene, and sensual, and every time I thought about barging in on them, I decided I wanted to stay and watch a little more.

My wife lifted one of his fat testicles with her spread tongue and delicately sucked the nut into her mouth and then I saw her eyes rise to meet his and my sexy wife smiled.

Ice-knives stabbed my heart from every direction. My guts twisted like a snake that's been run over. My stomach filled with acidic foam. My world tilted and my head grew dizzy. But I stayed at that goddamn window and watched.

She looked astonishing.

Her eyes sparkled. Her lips were full and her hard nipples poked through the cotton of her T-shirt. Her tongue was a little serpent, slithering all up and down his veiny shaft, from balls to the tiny slit at the tip. Andrew soaked up her attention and let the woman work. He looked like a fucking conquering hero.

I know my sense of time was screwy but it seemed she sucked his cock like that for an hour. Soon she wrapped both fists around his fully erect shaft and covered the head with her mouth and began to double-jack him into her vacuuming maw. I held my breath. Andrew began to lift his hips in time as she took an extra inch each trip down and then his head fell back. Was I about to watch another man ejaculate into my wife's mouth? I was.

She moved faster and faster and I saw his big nuts lift. She sucked harder and he leaned back onto the bed, both hands tweaking his own nipples, and my sweet Emma took half his big cock on every thrust. Her stretched lips circled his tube and I knew the head had to be touching her tonsils and then he grabbed the duvet with both hands and lifted his hips, arching his back and curling his toes. I heard nothing, but I saw Andrew feed my wife his sperm one hot and copious blast after another. Emma gulped and swallowed and sucked like every drop was precious. This was no job to her. This was no strategic maneuvering.

Tension wracked my body. I felt weighed down, crushed by an invisible object. She held him as he deflated until she let him slip from her mouth. He looked dead to the world. She leaned over the bed to kiss his forehead and I suddenly realized she was leaving his room. I double-timed it around the other way, running quietly up the north staircase to beat her back to the bedroom. She must have given him more than one kiss because my breathing was back to normal and the sweat almost dry when I heard our bedroom door slowly open and close and Emma slip into bed again.

She leaned over to kiss my cheek and I smelled mouthwash.

She faced the ceiling and closed her eyes and I soon heard her sleeping deep and peaceful.

I, was not.

I lay on my side staring at the wall. Of course I was jealous and of course I was hurt and of course I was angry, but I had no time for all that right now. Right now, all my attention was on the fact that I'd just watched my wife orally please another man, and I'd liked it. No, let's keep things honest; I'd loved it.

She looked so sexy. I'd never imagined her like that. Twenty minutes ago, I moved have confidently bet a million dollars she was incapable of such a thing, did not have such behavior in her. No way.

My rational brain tried to tell me she did it for me, she did it for our kids, and if I'd only found out about it, if some friend had broken the bad news and I'd not ever seen her in action, I would have completely believed that was why. But I had seen her. I'd watched everything. There was no faking what she did; she loved sucking Andrew's big cock.

Logic told me this was at least the second time. Were there others? Had she been doing it all along? They first met years ago. How many times had she sucked him off?

I calmed down some. My gut told me this was a recent change. I was almost certain that she had only done it twice.

So, what the fuck do I do now?

I was thinking the same thing when Emma woke me just before dawn. Her lips pressed against mine and my morning wood slid smoothly into her hot wet pussy. Part of me wanted to push her off and crawl away but a larger part felt a powerful need to reassert myself as her man. I was only half awake when I flipped her onto her back and started fucking her hard. I surprised her but she welcomed it, tangling her legs around mine and squeezing my biceps.

"Yeah, do it, Honey. Fuck me."

I did. She came hard for cumming so fast but I did too.

After a few minutes, she asked what brought my attack on.

"I can ask you the same thing."

"I woke up horny," she teased.

I thought of a million responses. I said nothing.

We showered and dressed for breakfast and made our way to the big house. When I first saw Andrew on the front porch, my face flushed red and I gasped. Emma turned to look at me.

"Are you alright, Honey?"

I pointed to a large tree that the storm had toppled and continued moving, but I must have stolen a hundred glances at the man. Now I'd seen him naked and hard and fucking my wife's pretty face, and while he was still just my boss, he seemed so much more. He seemed like a tribal leader or a king. He was definitely one up on me and unless I wanted to make a huge ugly scene, I had to just take it.

I was shaken to my foundation, make no mistake about that, but the problem was I found the whole sordid affair oddly exciting. I'd heard of men that share their wives and everyone has heard of swingers and I've never considered myself one of them. I'm a pretty-face and big-boobs kind of guy.

But last night I saw the reality, and that is vastly different than thinking about the topic in the abstract. I never thought I'd like to see such a thing, but once I did, I did. I liked watching her.

If I saw Andrew in a new way, I looked at Emma differently too. I understood what drove her, at least at first, but there was no hiding how much she loved that big dick in her mouth. She sucked Andrew like she was making a movie. Even after subtracting the fact she was doing her best to please him, I still saw plenty of lust and passion that was all her own. She'd never been a bad girl in her life and I think she loved it. I wondered if she'd confess and my gut told me not until we left the island and then yes, certainly. Do I confront her or wait for her to admit everything? What do I want to happen next? An apology? So what?

My mind raced as I pulled her chair out and seated her. Kim handed me a plate stacked with bacon and I asked how she slept. Small talk circled the table.

I could not take my eyes off Andrew. No one caught me but I simply could not get over what I'd seen. He sat there, laughing and chatting, a huge snake coiled in his shorts and his semen in my wife's stomach. I forced myself to eat.

After breakfast, we played some cards again and then charades. Emma and I won and even I was surprised how good we were. We were on the backside of the storm now and although the winds still whipped around, Emma suggested a walk along the beach. It was warm and humid and we set off headed east. I lasted twenty minutes before I decided I must tell her what I'd seen. Emma noticed my thoughtful silence and asked me what was on my mind.

"Mouthwash," I replied.

She forced a giggle. "That's a funny thing to think about."

"Normally, yes, but I was trying to remember how many times you've returned to bed smelling like mouthwash because that's how many times you've slipped away to suck Andrew's dick."

Guilt flashed in her eyes before she scrambled to cover it. "What the hell are you talking about, Sam? Is this a joke?"

"No, Honey, and I'm not even mad. I'm hurt and jealous, but I'm not angry."

I saw her mental gears whirring as she searched my eyes. Whatever she saw there made her stop and give up on her cover story.

"How did you find out?" she said.

"Before I answer, tell me truthfully; how many times?"

"Twice."

"Okay. That's what I thought. I woke up both times and went looking for you. I went outside and looked in windows. The first time I couldn't see through the sheers but I secretly adjusted them and the next time I saw you clearly. You came to bed smelling like mouthwash both times. Would you have told me? Once we were home?"

"I don't know. Probably. Honestly, I can't say. If my guilt had receded enough, maybe not. Are we getting a divorce? I'll never forgive myself if by trying to save what we have I've destroyed it. You know exactly why I did it. Please believe me when I say I'm sorry."

"I do."

"Why aren't you angry, Sam? Wait a minute. You say you saw me clearly? You mean you watched me?"

She was nervous and talking fast. I decided to answer her last question first. "Yes, I watched you. I am angry, some, but not nearly as much I expected to be. I don't want a divorce but this is serious. Why wouldn't you tell me?"

"Better left unsaid? It was emotionally meaningless but I doubted my ability to convince you of that. I saw it as the lesser of two evils so I did it."

"Emotionally meaningless? Maybe before you did it. But I watched you, Honey. I saw how much you loved doing it. And why twice? You would have gotten away with it if you hadn't gone back two nights in a row."

Emma looked out to sea, staring at the blurry horizon. The wind blew her long brown hair back. She looked beautiful.

She faced me. "You're right," she sighed.

We searched each other's face a long moment, neither knowing what needed to be said next.

"I told myself at the time I wanted to be sure Andrew got the message, and that is partially true, but the real reason is I enjoyed it so much I went back for more. I'll stop."

We both searched faces again. We were talking, but we were leaving a lot unsaid. The view I held of my wife was altered. I realized what a sexy woman she was. A little soft all over but still, with that face, those eyes, and that long hair, she was feminine and pretty. I hadn't looked at her in a purely sexual way for a long time.

"Do you think it worked?" I asked.

She blushed! She looked down at her toes.

"Yes. He was quite impressed with my...skills. He assured me you were safe. He said some guy in the receiving department struck a co-worker so Andrew intends to fire him and hint it was because of budget concerns. He'll let that rumor motivate people. Two birds, one stone."

"Sounds like I was never in danger."

"Oh, you were. So was Kim. Actually, I think she still is. You will be again unless your sales turn around. I assured him you were just going through a small slump. He said he understood but at some point, a decision must be made. He said if you don't produce people will begin to suspect."

She moved towards me and snuggled against my chest. She knew she was off the hook with me. I wrapped my arms around her body. My stomach churned over our conversation and my head was cloudy. I had to admit I felt relief her plan bought me time. Under the surface I knew I had a lot more to say but nothing broke through. Maybe I was still in shock. I took her hand and we kept walking.

"I'll stop," she said again. "But just remember; originally, it was your idea."

I bit my tongue. "What did you do with him? Anything beyond a blowjob?"

"No, Honey. No way. I swear I was only buying you time. Andrew's no dummy. He knew exactly why I was there. Intercourse would be way too far. He didn't even attempt that with me."

The winds picked up and rain spattered us but we stayed out anyway. We approached a rock jetty and I kissed her mouth and started to stiffen. Her thigh bumped it.

“Oh, really?” she teased, squeezing the front of my trunks.

I got hard fast. Emma knelt in the sand and pulled down the elastic waistband and started sucking me. I was shocked. We were alone so I held her head and fucked her mouth. I guess I was a little angry and hurt because I was rougher than usual. She just grunted encouragement and sucked harder. Maybe she felt she deserved her punishment. I closed my eyes and imagined looking though the bedroom window again, watching her slobber all over his dick. The visual combined with her expert mouth was too much; I shot my load. She grunted in surprise but swallowed and then wiped her mouth with the back of her hand. My legs felt weak.

She stood and sat on one of the boulders and pulled the leg of her shorts to the side. I found myself staring at her furry pink slit.

“My turn,” she said.

I was feeling dazed but dropped to my knees in the sand. She was already so wet. I leaned in and ran my tongue up and down and then rubbed her clit like an elevator button and she hooked my head with her leg. I dove in. Her sounds of pleasure made me happy and I ate her madly. I wanted to please her. Perhaps Andrew threatened me some and I was trying to remind her I was a good lover. Whatever. All I know is she came fast like me and I was proud.

Once we returned to our bungalow we showered and got into bed to nap. Before we fell asleep I teased her about staying in bed. She turned on her side and propped her head up with a pillow. She stared at me long enough I got uncomfortable.

“What?” I asked.

“I never expected to get caught but I have to say, your reaction has me confused.”

“Welcome to my world.”

“Why aren’t you furious?”

I propped my head the same way, facing her. “I’m surprised by my reaction too, Baby, and do not take this as implied consent for more. It most definitely is not. You looked hot. That’s all there is to it.”

“Hm.”

“I mean it, Emma. Just because I liked it does not give you permission.”

Her eyes sparkled in the dim light. “Why not?” she asked.

“Are you asking if you can again?”

“Yes. Maybe. What if I was? I mean, it’s too late to shut the barn door; the horse is gone. You joked, I acted. But we seem fine, Baby. Better than fine if our little adventure by the jetty means anything. So why not? Think pragmatically. I can cement your position and buy you more time.”

“Because I need to believe you acted hastily and with desperation for me and the kids. Doing it intentionally is cheating.”

“Not cheating if you know about it.”

“Emma! This is so...scandalous, and frightening.”

“Frightening? What are you afraid of?”

“Losing you to him. Fear of change. Fear of the unknown. Fear he’s a better lover than me, more of a man than me. Name it and take your pick.”

She touched my face softly. “My sweet, confused man. Don’t you understand I did it because I love you and my life with you. I could never be with Andrew.”

This was too much. I wanted out of this conversation.

“Let’s nap and finish this conversation later. I’m overwhelmed.”

“Okay, Sweetie.”

She leaned forward and kissed my forehead and closed her eyes. I did too but my brain was tumbling. No way could I doze. Soon I heard her breathing deepen and I knew she’d fallen asleep. I opened my eyes.

I felt adrift. I resolved when I returned to the mainland I would triple my efforts at work. I’d get a second job if I had to. I searched my heart for the pain of my wife cheating on me but I had to manufacture most of it. I simply did not see what she’d done in that way. I’m sure I’d think differently if she’d done more than oral sex but in a way, that proved to me what she was after with him. I was disturbed and aroused simultaneously.

I sighed softly. Life sure is messy.

I gazed at her pretty face and full lips and again the images of her indiscretion rose in my mind. She’d looked so hot. I was shocked how strongly affected I was. Nobody knows how they’ll react to something until they find themselves in that situation and I sure did not see this coming. I was glad I discovered what she was up to and we’d talked but I was also happy the whole thing was behind us, and I was relieved she’d never do it again.

I woke first and jerked my eyes open. Emma lay across from me, still sleeping. I smiled, relieved to not wake up alone. The winds were once again buffeting the cabana and I slipped from the bed to peek out the window. The clock on the nightstand said four-twenty in the afternoon and it was dark outside. Heavy, murky clouds covered the sky. My tummy rumbled and I accidentally bumped the coffee table. Emma opened her eyes and gave me a huge smile.

“I had the most wonderful dream,” she purred.

“Did it involve a rock jetty?”

“It did.”

She eased out of bed and came to look out the window with me.

“I’m starving,” she said.

“Me too. Let’s shower and head to the big house for dinner.”

This time I sat next to a guy from Legal whose name I could not remember. He was dull and factual, speaking curtly in words as short as his black hair. Next to Emma sat Debbie and they talked a hundred miles an hour. Paul was up but looked frazzled.

The kitchen handed out short menus and brought everyone what they ordered. I went with an Angus burger and fries and Emma did too but added avocado. Andrew talked about where he saw the company in one, three, and five years and the whole time he spoke I remembered his dick in my wife’s mouth. I wondered if I’d ever see him the same.

After dinner we moved to the den and people peeled off to play cards or shoot pool or talk. I sat with Brian, another salesperson, and we discussed greatest quarterbacks of all time. He was a die-hard Browns fan. My heart went out to him. Emma sat with Debbie for a while but then Debbie moved to check on Paul and Emma left the big room, headed, I assumed, for the restroom.

Focused on football, I never noticed when Andrew slipped away too. When I did, I smoothly ended my conversation with Brian, finished my drink and swirled the ice as if considering another, lifted my chin as if I’d been struck by an idea, and left the room as if I was going in search of the chef.

Smooth, indeed.

Outside the room I stopped and listened. The house was huge and filled with people so I heard noise from every direction, unable to discern Emma’s voice. I noticed painting down the walls and began moving from one to the next as if I had an appreciation for art. There were way too many people awake and about for me to go outside and look in windows so I just meandered from portrait to portrait and hoped to get lucky. I moved deeper into the house, my angst and anxiety growing by the minute. I was sure Emma had rendezvoused with Andrew again and that had my guts turning somersaults. I'd told her no more.

I never did find her. After a complete circuit of the first floor, I found myself back at the den. I stuck my head in and there was Emma talking again with Debbie. Our eyes met and hers held a burning intensity which excited me. Without looking away, but continuing her conversation with Debbie, she wiped her mouth with the back of her hand. Anyone watching would have noticed nothing unusual but my temperature shot up. I knew exactly what she meant.

My heart jumped! I quickly looked around for Andrew but he was missing. Emma raised a devilish eyebrow at me and returned her attention to Deb. I was floored! When the guy from Legal started talking to me again I barely heard him. Emma had boldly gone off on her own, leaving me to wrestle with my conflicted heart. I loved her and hated her for it. I guess my face showed everything because I glanced over and her eyes were laughing.

Paul approached Debbie, looking sick, and Debbie excused herself to guide Paul back to their room. Emma left her spot to join me and I ended the conversation with Legal and took her elbow to steer her out into the hall.

"What happened? Where were you?" I hissed.

The wind blew something against the outside wall and Emma jumped at the thump. Instead of answering she stepped closer and kissed me. Her slippery tongue pushed into my mouth and I pulled away. That wasn't the taste of Angus burger or red wine.

"Emma? Where'd you go?"

"Stockroom, off the kitchen."

"Why?"

She leaned her mouth close to my ear. "To spend some time with Andy."

I don't know what my face did but my wife started laughing at me.

"Baby," she said. "Take a deep breath. Nothing happened. Well, he gave me a shot of twelve-year-old Scotch he's hiding from everyone else but nothing, you know, wet and sloppy happened."

“Oh my God.”

She took my arm in both of hers. “You thought I sucked his dick again, Honey?”

“Yes! Of course. Now I need some Scotch.”

She giggled. “Your face, Baby. You were so conflicted. I’m sorry, that was mean. I was just fucking with you, but you should have seen your face.”

“Not funny.”

“Come on, it was a little funny.”

I wanted to tell her I meant it when I said no more, but worried I’d sound contrite and insecure. How do I get from an erection to anger?

“Alright,” I admitted. “You got me good. I couldn’t believe you’d caved so fast.”

She hugged my arm and looked up at me with those big hazel eyes. I saw something in them.

“You want to do it again,” I stated.

She made a little shrug. “Well, sure. Look at it from my position; hot guy, nice cock, and my husband gets hard thinking about me doing it. Win-win-win.”

Good point. My stomach churned.

“Let’s get you that Scotch,” she said.

She took my hand and led me to the kitchen. The chef gave her a smile as she cut through the aluminum racks and aimed for the storeroom. She shut the door behind us. Andrew had the bottle on a top shelf above frames of shot glasses. She poured us both a drink.

“To job stability,” she murmured.

I rolled my eyes and tapped my glass to hers. We gulped it down.

Outside I heard men shouting and peered through the slats on the door.

“Holy shit!” I exclaimed and quickly lowered my voice. “There’s a man with a gun telling the staff to head for the den.”

“What?”

“Keep your voice down. Seriously, Emma.”

She crowded the door to look. The kid looked about eighteen, messy blonde hair, and wearing orange coveralls. As he ordered the chef and his staff to the den he grabbed two croissants, eating the first in one bite. He glanced around the kitchen and then followed everyone out.

“What’s happening, Sam? I’m scared.”

“Me too, Baby. I know there’s a detention center on Stock Island. Maybe the storm damaged a fence or something and prisoners escaped? I don’t know. His gun looked real.”

“What do we do?”

“Stay here for now. We got lucky. I should try to get to the radio and call for help, let someone know that kid is here. Maybe if we hide here long enough he’ll fall asleep or leave. He looked hungry. Maybe he just wants food?”

Emma looked like she was about to cry so I wrapped both arms around her. She buried her face in my neck.

“He’s young so I doubt he’s violent. He had no scars or tattoos. He looked kind of innocent. I know that’s no proof, but it’s something. Let’s quietly move some boxes in here and make a place to hide. He may come back and open the door but not come in and it would be best if we were hidden.”

Emma calmed herself and drew a deep breath. We carefully stacked cardboard boxes to the ceiling and moved racks, creating a wall of foodstuffs so the stockroom looked four feet shorter than it was. We huddled in a corner and waited. We heard nothing, which made the tension worse, but remained still. Emma talks fast when she gets nervous but she kept her mouth shut.

Time crawled by. I opened a few boxes so we had something to eat and bottled water but waiting was excruciating. Finally, we both started fidgeting so much she said we need to check. I’d guess five hours had passed.

“I’ll be back,” I said.

“The fuck you will. I’m coming with you.”

“That increases our chance of getting caught.”

“Then we get caught together. No way am I sitting here alone.”

I nodded and kissed her forehead. “I hear the winds banging stuff around outside so that should cover our sounds a little. I want to cross the kitchen to the door and listen and then try to peek out into the hallway. We take everything one step at a time. You have any ideas?”

“Don’t get caught?”

A sense of humor even now. “Yes, that’s an excellent idea.”

We moved our fake wall and put it back. I listened at the stockroom door, opened it just a crack, scanned the kitchen, and then we hustled to the door across the room. At that one we heard distant and muffled voices.

“Sounds like a large group in the den,” Emma whispered.

I nodded agreement. I dropped to the floor and opened the kitchen door an inch to look down the hall. Through the arch I saw a gathering of people in the den. I kept watching and another orange coverall paced, a young black guy, bringing the number to two. Andrew was tied to a chair but I saw Paul and Kim standing next to him. Everyone seemed to be looking towards the other end of the room where something held their attention. I assumed a third villain.

I eased the door closed and reported to Emma and stopped talking just in time. I heard heavy footsteps coming up the hall, from Andrew’s office, too late for us to run back to our hiding place. We froze. They drew closer and then were right outside the door and then continued towards the den. I cracked the door again and saw a fourth orange coverall carrying what was left of the short-wave radio. He was the oldest of them, crew-cut, rounded, broad shoulders, and thick legs. I noticed a strand of seaweed attached to his leg.

When Fourth entered the den, he threw the smashed radio on the floor. So much for that plan. He pointed towards the end of the room where everyone watched and said: “Dylan, knock that shit off. Listen up everyone; we won’t hurt you unless you make us. Patrols are searching for us so we need to hide until they move on. Once they move on, we’ll move on.”

At this point Debbie walked up to Paul and she was topless. She wiped her mouth with her hand and covered her big bare tits with her arms. Kim looked down at the carpet. I suspected “Dylan” had been making her suck his dick while they waited and that was what everyone had stared at.

Crew-cut continued: “My name is Oscar and if everyone does what Oscar tells them, everything turns out fine. I’m hungry. Where’s the kitchen?”

Fast as I could I took Emma’s elbow and hurried to our hiding place. I had just rolled the rack into place when I heard the outer kitchen door open. Oscar told someone to make chili for his guys and the chef said he’d get started. By the sound of pots and pans I knew Chef had some help. I wondered if he remembered us back here.

Ten minutes later the stockroom door opened and someone stepped inside. I heard boxes open and then deep-freezer door and then Chef murmured: "If you're still back here, lay low. Three of them are just punk kids. They'll be gone in a couple hours."

The freezer door closed and Chef left the stockroom. Thirty seconds later the stockroom door opened again and heavy booted feet stepped inside. We held our breath. Boxes moved as Oscar read labels and grunted when he found the Scotch. "Nice," he muttered. We heard him drink from the bottle and smack his lips and then leave the stockroom, closing the door behind him. Emma fell into my chest, trembling. Thirty minutes later Chef announced he was finished and everyone left the kitchen.

"That bottle is big enough to put them all to sleep," I whispered.

We waited forever. The noises from the storm mixed with the noises from our uninvited guests so leaving our hiding place never felt safe.

"I wonder what's happening?" Emma said.

"Me too. Should I go spy?"

She chewed a lip but then nodded.

"You wait here this time?"

She nodded again. I don't know what had changed but now she was okay with the idea. I slipped out and replaced the rack and then moved through the kitchen. Through the crack I saw the prisoners had moved everyone to the end of the den I couldn't see, but I heard their muffled voices.

I remembered the locked drawer with all our cell phones. Reception was terrible but if I sent a text the system would keep trying to get it through. Andrew's office was down the hallway in the other direction, away from the den and the bad guys. I felt it worth the risk. I returned to Emma and told her my idea.

"Can't we just wait it out?"

"Sure, but what guarantee do you have these guys will keep their word? Did you see Debbie? Who knows what they were making her do. These are bad people and now they have booze too. If I get caught they'll add me to everyone in the den."

"But then I'll be alone."

"And safe. You want to wait? If I get caught, you stay hidden and wait."

She hated the idea but understood these punks were unpredictable.

“Alright. Please be careful.”

“I promise, Baby.”

I took my sandals off. We hugged and kissed and I moved for the kitchen door again. The hallway was clear so I hooked a left and padded down to Andrew’s office. The door was open.

I’d not been in this room since we first arrived and I crossed the thick carpet to his huge oak desk. The drawer was still locked but I grabbed a poker from the large fireplace and pried it open as quietly as possible. There was my phone. I hit the button and dialed 9-1-1 just in case but as expected the call did not go through. I considered which of my friends back home would be the right guy to help and sent Tommy a text telling him this was not a joke and to send help to Andrew’s place on Halfmoon Key. I hit send and the little hourglass started turning but I did not need to wait. I silenced my phone and dimmed it and slipped into my pocket.

On a hunch, I searched the rest of Andrew’s desk and in the bottom drawer I found a loaded thirty-eight revolver in a leather holster and a small box of bullets. That made me feel better. I took everything. Beneath the gun was a polished wooden box. I opened it too, thinking I’d find more ammunition. Instead I found photographs of Andrew’s cock in Debbie’s mouth.

Sumbitch. She wore the hair style she had last year so I knew they were at least that old. Under them were pictures of other women sucking his dick. I recognized a few as women who worked or used to work at the company. This motherfucker had his own harem.

“It’s good to be king,” I muttered.

Then it hit me. The background on all the photos was his bedroom and now he had pictures of Emma sucking his dick too. She’d joined the ranks of the seduced. I put the box back.

My search revealed nothing else useful so I tidied up and headed for the door. As I reached for the knob, I heard commotion down the hall. I risked a quick look.

Oscar had Erin by the hair and was practically dragging her down the hall towards the kitchen. What the hell? I had to listen to them for a minute before I caught what Erin kept repeating, her voice a high-pitched whine: “I don’t know where she is! I don’t know where she is!”

“But you saw her head into the kitchen?”

“Yes, but that was a long time ago.”

“What’s she look like, bitch?”

“Pretty, long brown hair and hazel eyes. OW! Let me go! I just wondered where she was. I didn’t say I knew where she was.”

“You idiot!” Oscar growled. “You knew someone was missing from your group and said nothing.”

Fucking hell. Stupid Erin had noticed Emma absent and commented on it. What a dumb shit. I wondered if I could shoot the man before he opened that door but I worried about hitting Erin and what the other convicts would do. Even if I took Oscar out, I still faced multiple guns. I shoot Oscar, what do they do to my friends?

Fuck! Goddamn it, Erin!

They disappeared through the kitchen door. I heard banging and clanging as Oscar shoved things around looking for Emma. I held my breath. Erin yelped once and then everything got quiet. I waited. The door opened and now he had Emma with him. He pulled Erin along by her arm but Emma walked stiff and proud, refusing to let him terrify her. Good girl! He marched them to the den and I wondered what kind of special idiot Erin had to be to mention Emma but not me. I realized she’d honestly forgotten about me. The three of them disappeared into the den and Oscar roared: “Who else?”

“That’s it,” Andrew calmly replied. “You have everyone now.”

I looked down the hall away from the den. There was a door to the outside at the end of it. I’d be exposed for about ten seconds if I made a run for it, and I had no idea if more convicts waited in the yard around the house or in the bungalows. My gut told me Oscar would not take Andrew’s word and a search of the house from top to bottom was about to commence. If I was going to go, I had to go now.

I’ve never sprinted so fast in my life. I ran on my toes to stay silent and the spot between my shoulder blades tingled like a motherfucker the whole time. I expected a bullet to slam me any second. I rounded the corner and twisted the knob and I was outside and breathing hard, quietly closing the door behind me.

It was night and the storm was giving us it’s last dying kick before breaking up. By late tomorrow morning it would be gone. I ducked behind some shrubs and put my back against the house and waited, listening intently to see if I’d been discovered. When I was sure I hadn’t, I wove a path through shrubs and trees until I came to the bungalow Emma and I shared. I listened and then slipped inside.

Of course, I left the lights off. I traded my white T-shirt for a black long sleeved and my shorts for jeans. I put on my Nikes and laced them up tight. I had no plan, I just wanted to be ready if my brain produced a plan. At the last second I got an idea and moved to the bathroom. Emma's make-up sat by the sink and I crisscrossed my face with black lines, then smeared them around. I felt foolish at the same time I felt excited. I made myself focus.

I had a question that needed answering before I took another step; could I actually shoot someone? I had no doubt about a heat-of-the-moment shot, but the question I needed to answer was a cold, calculated shot. Since the four of them had hostages most likely it would never come to that but I felt I needed to confront myself before I left this cabana.

I lifted the gun from the bed and attached it to my belt. I hunted as a young man but that was rifles and animals. I drew the pistol. It was heavier than I expected. I sighted down the barrel.

Yup. They had Emma. Fuck them. I wouldn't put the others at risk but if opportunity presented itself, I'd shoot. I filed my decision away and tried to think of a plan. First, I had to know more; how many were there? I knew of four. Were they all in the den? Was anyone hurt? I wished I'd paid more attention to north, south, east, and west. As it was I had no idea where this key was in relation to the others, so going for help was out of the question. I left the bungalow and headed for the big house, hiding as I went, working my way towards the windows that looked into the den.

What I saw wasn't good. Three orange coveralls sat with my colleagues and all the staff. I'd guess about twenty-five people. Emma leaned against the wall with Oscar next to her, talking. I worried that she'd drawn his direct attention until I saw her smile. He smiled too and I knew she was working her charm on him. The one missing orange coverall had to be Dylan, who I still had not seen, but it took me a minute to figure out which guest was missing; Debbie. I instantly checked on Paul and he looked concerned but not insane with rage and fear. Erin kept her eyes down and Jared wouldn't even look at her. Andrew was seated in the same chair but no longer tied. My heart sank when I saw every escapee had a gun. I had to assume Dylan did too.

I circled around the house towards Andrew's bedroom. As I suspected, Dylan had Debbie on the bed with her legs over his shoulders. He pounded her like a man that's gone years without sex. He was a big guy, mid-twenties, muscular, with tattoos across his chest and around his shoulders. He had black hair which hung in his eyes. I expected to see Debbie crying or fighting but she wasn't. At all. She had her fingers laced behind his neck and gazed into his eyes as he fucked her like a bull. Even through the glass and over the wind I heard his grunts and her cries of pleasure, which meant everyone in the den heard them too. I began to suspect there was more to Paul and Debbie and Andrew than I understood.

My timing was good because after a few minutes at the window Dylan slid an arm under her hips and really laid into her. The piercing cry of her orgasm almost rattled the glass. Dylan came shortly after and then held himself up, breathing hard and grinning. Debbie touched his face affectionately. He pulled out of her and fell onto his back.

I needed to see Paul. I crawled through the shrubs again until I peered into the den. Andrew's face was stone but Paul looked like he was about to grin! How could that be? I kept watching as he regained control of his face and then Dylan and Debbie entered the room, dressed again. Messy Blonde prisoner gave Dylan a fist-bump.

Debbie wandered over and Paul quickly stood to give her his seat and then stood behind her. She looked dazed but had a faint smile.

Emma spoke to Oscar and he grinned broadly and took her hand.

My brain almost exploded! He led her through the seated gathering, turned back to give some instructions at the archway, and then left with my wife.

No. No, no, no, no.

My first few steps around the corner were at a run until I remembered I needed to remain hidden. I crouched as I darted through the shrubs back to Andrew's window. Oscar was just locking the bedroom door.

Emma stepped back and began unbuttoning her shirt as Oscar set his gun on a high shelf out of her reach. Emma opened her top just as he faced her. I had no idea she'd skipped a bra but her round tits just tumbled free. Oscar's eyes got big and Emma reached out to him.

In the back of my mind I wondered if this was all a ploy and any second she'd kick his balls and grab the gun, but no. Instead she held his face and pulled his mouth down to her nipple. My hands curled into fists.

His big hands came up and squeezed both tits and Emma's head fell back. I watched her left hand slide down the front of his body until it gripped his large bulge.

That was all Oscar needed. He stepped back from her, excitement on his face, and practically ripped his overalls off. His boxers hit the floor and a large and aching erect penis bounced up. He reached out for Emma but she swatted his hand away and dropped to her knees. Almost reverently, she guided his big erection into her steaming mouth. Oscar melted. How long had it been for him? His cock had a strong upward curve and Emma struggled to take more into her mouth. The thing would not bend. He impatiently held her head and started thrusting his hips and Emma just held on to his thick thighs. He looked like a dock-worker from the thirties.

I considered shooting him right through the window.

Emma wrapped both hands around his shaft yet an inch or two and the head remained uncovered. I saw her shiver but from revulsion or delight I could not tell. She started jerking him aggressively and sucking hard on the tip and he put both hands on his head in disbelief, looking down at this wild suburban housewife and mother.

Emma attacked his cock. I stared, stunned. After a minute, she said something I could not hear and stood. She rapidly unbuttoned her pants and pushed them down to her knees. She turned away from him and bent at the waist and aimed her sweet pussy right at his face. I saw her clearly for the first time and she wanted him, desperately, lustfully. This was no ploy. It may have started that way. If she used sex on Andrew why wouldn't she use it on Oscar? But no more. Any plan she had was replaced by a raw desire for his outlaw dick. She pushed her ass back at him. Her face was contorted with want.

Oscar stepped forward and aimed his cock with one hand while spreading her pussy with the other. Emma bounced her butt with impatience. He leaned forward and her face told me the moment of penetration. Her eyebrows went way up, her mouth dropped open and her jaw went slack. Her fingers dug into Andrew's comforter and her back arched. Even through the glass I heard her say: "Oh, my, fucking, God!"

He put his hands on her hips and began to stroke, slowly at first, wetting his dick, then faster. He was fucking a woman, and a pretty one at that, for the first time in a very long time. Her big tits bounced and swayed.

My mouth was stone dry. My heart had stopped beating long ago. I'd seen her suck cock but this was infinitely more powerful than that. A bomb detonated in my brain when I realized he was inside her bare. This man felt my wife's tight pussy wrapped around his turgid cock like a snug blanket of wet enveloping flesh. He was enclosed, surrounded by a hot gripping prison. His face showed a kind of pain as he savored her insides. If not for what happened next, rage would have taken me over.

Emma shocked us both. One minute she's meeting his thrusts with backward shoves of her pussy and then without warning she's arching her back and twisting her spine as a powerful orgasm slams her. An orgasm! Her hips rotated and her head seemed ready to come loose as waves of pleasure tied her in knots. It was a climax like I'd never seen her have before. Her upper body hit the mattress as Oscar fucked her hard through the whole thing. She cried into the bed, beat the duvet with her fist.

This was all too much for Oscar. Like someone touched him with fifty-thousand volts, his body began jerking and convulsing. I knew he was pumping Emma full of sperm but I was frozen in place by how much she seemed to relish it. She urged him on, slamming her pussy back at him.

When his balls were empty at last he fell forward, crushing her body beneath his. He kissed her neck and shoulders and she took it all in a post-coital fog. Her calves came up, still trapped in her jeans and panties. Her face looked blissful.

After a long time, he lifted and pulled his long shank from her guts. I expected his cock to flop down, spent, but not Oscar. Softer than it had been, his dick still stuck out from his body an inch above horizontal. Emma rolled onto her back to look at him and when she saw he was still mostly hard, her face lit up. She must have said something about getting her shoes and pants off because she stuck her feet in his face and he quickly removed her shoes and threw her pants and panties in a corner. She reached behind each knee and pushed her legs up to her tits. She spread her thighs and Oscar's gaze, like any man, fell to her swollen pussy. I wondered if he saw his cum leaking from her. I heard nothing but her lips were easy to read: fuck me.

He stepped up to the bed and stroked his cock, aiming it for her flooded hole. Her back arched again at penetration. He moved over her, covering her body with his, kissing her mouth as her legs coiled around his waist.

Finally, at long last, I had to look away.

I sat in the dirt with my back against the house.

What a fucking vacation.

I imagined confronting her when all this was over.

I saw you, I'd say.

You mean you watched me, she would throw back. And did nothing.

You had a gun. You watched me with Oscar just like you watched me with Andrew.

Fuck.

My boycott lasted less than five minutes. I peeked through the window again and saw Emma now rode him as he mauled her big tits. His expression was a little boy on Christmas morning. Emma put her hands on his chest just like she does with me and started grinding her pussy down on his dick.

What nature stole from me in the penis department it returned to me in brains. I'm intelligent, but not so big.

I know she felt a tremendous difference between his cock and mine. Proof of that came moments later when another monster orgasm rocked her body and made her swoon. Oscar kept her upright until she collapsed on him, breathing hard and sweating.

He rolled her onto her back and crossed her legs on his stomach. They'd rotated enough her pussy faced the window and I now saw her penetration. I gasped. His cock was so big her poor cunt lips were stretched thin around him. Each time he withdrew her labia clung to him forming a volcano of skin, like she hated for him to leave. He pressed down on her body to hold her firmly in place and fucked her until his big cock once again started spitting a gallon of semen into her fertile womb. I bit my bottom lip. His muscles writhed beneath the skin. Emma tugged her nipples and moaned like she'd been shot. Her nails raked his thighs as she tried to pull him deeper.

When he finished, he unfolded her legs and let them hit the bed but he stayed buried inside her. My wife was smiling! He leaned over her, supporting his weight on his bulky arms, and they kissed softly several times. He started to lift off her but her quick hands grabbed his butt and pulled him back in.

Maybe she did not need rescuing.

I sat in the dirt again and although this was not the right time and this was not the right place, I took a hard look at myself. I'd just allowed my wife to fuck a man. Why? True, I felt constrained by the situation. I worried breaking in to stop him would lead to those in the den being hurt. But what would most men have done? The fact that I was so rational in the face of her seduction bothered me. Most men would have become enraged. Most men would have shattered the window and blasted away at him as soon as he took his clothes off, their reasoning minds overcome by fear, hate, and rage. Not me. I watched. I watched twice. I shook my head. I needed some deep soul-searching when all this was over. I also needed a long and honest conversation with Emma.

I rolled over onto my knees and peered through the glass again. I expected they'd left the room to rejoin the others but they had not. Oscar sat with his back against the headboard and Emma curled up on his stomach. His penis was finally soft, mostly, and she lovingly licked it clean, even swabbing his big balls. He gently stroked her long hair.

I heard a door open around the front of the house.

Adrenaline surged through my body and I scrunched down behind a big bush. I knew it wouldn't be Oscar but maybe it was Dylan or Skinny Black or Messy Blonde. I put my hand on the cool metal of the revolver.

Skinny Black wandered out into the front yard, taking deep breathes of freedom. He pulled cigarettes from a pocket and lit up, the winds whipping his cloud of smoke away. It was dark that far away from the house but I felt the lighting was good enough. I saw his pistol in the waist band of his overalls at the small of his back. He meandered a little farther away from the house.

I decided to go for it.

The winds covered any noise I made, which was almost nothing, as I dodged from tree to shrub to bush until I was five feet behind him. My heart was pumping battery acid and my palms were sweaty. I left my tree and in two big steps came up behind him and cupped a hand over his mouth at the same time I jammed the barrel into the base of his skull. His free hand instinctively darted for his gun.

"Don't!" I hissed, and pressed the gun harder. "We are far enough away from the house and the storm is loud. No one will hear me blow your brains out. I don't want to kill you but fuck you, if you know what I mean."

His hands floated up.

“If you shout, I’ll kill you.”

I took my hand off his mouth and grabbed his gun. Now I had two! I pointed. “See that cabana down by the water?”

He gave a nod.

“Head to it.”

My mind was soaring. I couldn’t believe I was doing this. I mentioned before one never knows how one will react to a situation. I would never have believed myself capable of this.

I marched him down to our bungalow. Inside, I made him empty his pockets and lay on the bed. I tied his wrists and ankles spread-eagle and tested the bonds multiple times. I sat in a chair next to the bed. I decided to keep my connection to Emma secret.

My assumptions about Stock Island were correct. The four of them had been working in the yard securing the detention center against the storm. A tree had blown over, walloping the guards assigned to watch them and crushing a high fence, shorting out the power. He was sure they were the only four to escape. His name was Reggie and he was in prison for car theft. Billy, the guy I knew as Messy Blonde, robbed a convenience store with a note but no weapon. Dylan had a list of offenses but Reggie said he was basically a bad-boy rock-star. Oscar was the one true criminal; assault, robbery, attempted murder.

“That man will crush your skull without changing expression.”

Great.

“So, you guys were all friends?”

“Not really. Me and Billy hung but D and Oscar were in a different wing.”

I was trying to guess the reaction inside when Reggie did not return. Would they think he’d taken the chance to head out on his own, or would they assume someone grabbed him and they had an enemy in their midst? If they assumed an enemy hunted them, what could they do about it? Either way, I needed to head back to the house.

“Listen, Reggie. You’re not a bad kid. I must try to help my friends but I’m leaving you here. If you manage to free yourself, I want you to think about running. If you come back to the house, I will shoot you, and I don’t want to shoot you. Just head for the highway and try to make Miami. You can lose yourself there. You’re better off alone than staying with them.”

“I feel you. What Oscar and D did with some of the women in there is not cool. Fucking D always has to chase the ladies. He got a female guard pregnant at the center. Every dude there hit on her but D knocks her up. Women love that mother fucker. Me and Billy planned on cutting loose as soon as possible anyway. Now we accessories too.”

I know he wanted me to leave but I hoped my words reached him.

I gagged him and left him there in the dark and headed back to the house. I had no plan because I had to wait and see what the three convicts did.

Back at my window I saw Dylan arguing with Oscar. Both seemed angry with Billy. Dylan took Chef to the kitchen and returned with more food for everyone. What could their plan be? I know they were waiting for search parties to pass them but I'd been outside for hours and seen nothing. The winds were too strong for helicopters. If the storm broke in the morning I suspected every key would be crawling with officers.

Maybe the villains didn't want to get away? Maybe they just wanted some extracurricular fun before going back? I imagined them back in prison and bragging about the sex and great food they had.

I watched as the group finished eating and were taken in small numbers to the restroom. On one such trip Dylan moved over to stand by Emma. I have a hard time determining if a man is handsome but I know Emma well and judging by her reaction to him, Dylan was a stud. I know she played up the flirtation because of her situation but some things cannot be faked. My wife thought the young man was hot. I wondered how Oscar would feel about that. I found out minutes later.

Dylan had moved closer and closer to her and reached up to kiss her just as Oscar turned the corner. Emma closed her eyes to return the kiss. Oscar took in the scene in half a second and two steps took him to Dylan where he grabbed the boy by the hair and pulled him away. A big fist came up and sent the young man flying. Billy pulled out his gun and yelled for everyone to stay cool as Dylan rose to his feet, laughing. I could not hear the words exchanged but Oscar was obviously informing Dylan that Emma was his and therefore off limits. I felt a bizarre rush of pride. While everyone had their attention riveted to the two convicts, I spotted Emma quickly and discretely undoing a button on her blouse to show more cleavage and throw gas on the fire. Wow.

Dylan backed away but gave Emma a look of lust I knew went deep.

I decided to wait. Emotions were high inside that room. Both men seethed. With any luck the wheels would come off their bus without me doing anything else. I got comfortable to keep an eye on things.

For a long time, nothing happened. Many of the guests began to slide down into their chairs and go to sleep. Paul and Debbie laid on the floor and Kim joined them. Even Billy began to nod off until Oscar barked at him.

Later, when Billy started to close his eyes again, Oscar left Emma's side to go talk to him. Whatever bond Oscar thought he had with Dylan, he grossly overestimated it.

Dylan pounced. He hit Oscar just above the right ear with the butt of his pistol and Oscar crumpled in a pile of thick arms and legs. Billy looked dumbfounded. Dylan took Oscar's gun and pointed at the body and gave Billy orders. Billy started collecting belts to tie Oscar up, worry etched deep in his young face.

Dylan wasted no time. He pointed at everyone in the room and I got the impression he was instructing Billy to watch them and then he turned to Emma and held out his hand. I swear I saw arousal on her face. She loved that men were fighting over her! What would all our friends and co-workers think of her when all this was over? Emma stepped over Oscar as she left the room with Dylan. I watched for a minute or two, hoping for an opportunity to free everyone but Billy had received a jolt of adrenaline and was now wide awake. I left the window to check on Emma.

They were already on the bed. Dylan lay on top of her and they kissed with mad passion. She held his handsome face and their hot kisses rained. I saw her tongue writhing with his. He stood up and peeled off his jumpsuit and Emma gawked at his many intricate tattoos. His erection was bigger than mine but not as big as Oscar. Emma never hesitated. She jumped off the bed and stripped out of her clothes and threw her arms around his neck to kiss again.

He lifted her after a few minutes and lay her on the bed on her back. She urgently reached down between their bodies until she found his hard cock and directed him to her cunt. I saw her hand tug on him, forcing his inches deep. She was more passionate with Dylan than Oscar. She coiled her legs around his hips and he rolled her on top but only watched her fuck him for a few minutes. He rolled her onto her back and began to hammer her soaked slit. She ran her hands over his tats, fascinated and turned on.

He was a stud; I'll give him that. He moved sensuously, always in motion, always plunging his cock into her from every angle. He was relentless and Emma loved it. He fucked her smoothly in every position, moving from face to face to Emma on her side seamlessly. He never gave her a chance to catch her breath.

When he rolled her onto her stomach and lifted her hips half a foot, she covered her head with her hands and I heard her groan. He'd found some spot she loved and I watched as he stayed on it until he made my wife orgasm like an explosion. He wasn't close to finishing, however. He slowed while she came, barely moving his hard cock in and out, and Emma went a little crazy. She slammed her ass back at him as her sweet cunt smothered his cock. When her climax drained away he pulled out and I saw his weapon standing straight up, covered in juice, shiny in triumph.

He leaned down to kiss and nibble her neck and his cock dipped towards her pussy again. I thought he would fuck her once more. He had other ideas. He whispered things to her and I saw her head nod occasionally as his hips barely moved. He teased her masterfully. When his ass gently flexed, I understood.

Emma spread her legs wide and I saw he'd already worked his cock head into her ass. No one has ever fucked Emma's ass. He moved incredibly slow, kissing, nibbling, easing forward, nibbling, whispering. He was driving my wife crazy. She reached under her belly and I saw her manicured fingers appear on her clit, which she began to rub.

His ass flexed and my wife took more of his cock up her ass. Her empty pussy beckoned me. This was hot and nasty sex. This was raw fucking. The sight was so lewd my penis began to grow. I couldn't stop it. Emma lifted her butt ever so slightly and Dylan fed her rectum another inch. She groaned and hid her face. He pulled out half an inch and pushed in three and my wife cried out into the mattress. Her fingers rubbed fast now. His hips started a little rhythm, his cock a little deeper every time, and I watched as his balls moved ever closer to her pussy. The last inch he held himself still and made her lift her hips to capture him, which she eagerly did.

Now he was buried in her, balls deep up her ass, and he began to fuck her tight sphincter with incredible patience. Emma's face lifted off the bed and I saw astonishment on her face. She could not understand how it felt so good. Her fingers flew back and forth across her clit and then her whole body tightened as she started an anal orgasm on Dylan's cock.

She detonated. Her body began writhing wildly beneath him, twisting and turning. He fucked her little hole like an expert, allowing her to cum hard on his cock but keeping her pinned to the mattress. Just before she finished he drove his hips forward and emptied his big hanging testicles deep in her bowels.

My wife was wiped out. He left his shrinking cock in her ass for a while and then pulled the sloppy member out. Emma barely moved. The bed rocked as he moved and her body flopped, utterly relaxed. I wondered if she was even conscious. He covered his face with a pillow to wipe the sweat.

The bedroom door flew open. Oscar was on him like a Pitbull. Dylan still had his face covered when the first blow landed on his jaw and stunned him. He tried to rise but not only was Oscar a bigger man, he had way more fight experience. Dylan caught Oscar once near the eye but after that it was a beating.

Through it all, Emma did not move.

The last two punches left Dylan on the edge of unconscious and Oscar dragged him from the bed. He grabbed his gun from the shelf and hammered Dylan's pretty face a few times until the younger man went limp. Oscar opened a closet door and threw Dylan inside, walking a heavy dresser in front under the door knob. Oscar stuffed both guns in the band around his waist and started moving a dresser in front of the closet too.

From the corner of my eye I saw movement on the front lawn and thought Reggie had gotten free and was running back to warn his friends. I was wrong. Billy had heard the fight in the back room and had vacated the house. He ran full speed for the docks, looking like he intended to swim to Miami. The guests were unattended.

I ran to the front of the house. I stepped into the den and raised a finger to my lips and waved everyone out. You should have seen their faces. When Andrew got to me I handed him his gun and whispered Oscar was in his bedroom. I told him to get everyone safely to the trees and guard them.

"What are you going to do?" he whispered.

"Get my wife back."

He was in no shape to argue. I pushed him towards the front door.

The staircase up sat about twelve feet away from the door to Andrew's bedroom and I took a spot behind the heavy oak banister. I drew my gun. Oscar would either leave the room with or without Emma. She looked like deadweight the last time I saw her saw I was hoping without. The door was partially open and I saw Oscar's shadow moving on the wall. The door swung open. Beyond the man I saw he'd covered Emma with a sheet. She looked to be sleeping peacefully. He was furious and obviously headed back to check on the others. He did not notice me. His hands were empty. I raised my gun.

Time slowed. I briefly aimed at his head but that made me feel sick, so I lowered the barrel to his thigh. I felt like I had all the time in the world, like I was picking and choosing my target. I'd pull the trigger and then rush him. No way could I beat this guy in a fight but a bullet in his leg had to slow him down.

Goddamn guns are loud. The gun kicked and bent my wrist back and the air filled with smoke and a roar. I saw his leg fly backward and his body spin to follow it, all in slow motion. He landed on his side, his face contorted with disbelief and confusion, and I ran out from behind the stairs, my gun aimed at his chest. He wrapped both hands around his wound and groaned in pain.

"If you move, I'll kill you," I said, way too loud.

I looked into the bedroom. Emma was sitting up, leaning on one arm, stunned amazement on her face. I felt fucking good.

"You keep both hands on that wound or you'll bleed out. Don't fucking move."

I took his pistols and stuffed them in my pockets. He groaned louder with each passing second. Getting shot must hurt.

A cacophony of voices smashed through the front door. I thought it was my friends and co-workers coming to check on the shot fired but nope. It was a brigade of corrections officers. My text to Tommy had eventually made it through and he'd tracked down the number and given them Andrew's address. They had Billy with them so I pointed to Oscar and told them about Dylan in the closet.

Behind them my friends and co-workers did pour through the front door. When they heard, I was given more handshakes and hugs than the rest of my life combined.

An officer took Reggie's gun from me. As they hugged me one person after another mentioned how brave Emma was and talked about her incredible sacrifice. I thanked them and said nothing. They'd not seen her with the convicts. I knew the truth.

The police wanted to take Emma back to the detention center so they could evaluate her in the infirmary but she flat refused. Short of cuffing and arresting her, they had to let her go. It helped that she was a guest of Andrew's. He was known to them. She deflected any question about what occurred in the bedroom, telling them nothing.

I intentionally neglected to mention Reggie. I figured I could say I forgot in the madness. About two hours later everything had settled down enough at the mansion the cops said we could leave. Emma and I said goodnight.

We were twenty feet from our cabin when I told her about Reggie. When I opened the door, he was still gagged and tied to the bed. I told him what had happened and then I added I was going to cut him free. What he did with his life from this moment forward was up to him. Emma looked at me strangely. I gave him a shirt and a pair of pants and told him to bury the orange jumpsuit. He wouldn't believe me until the moment I shook his hand and patted him on the back and wished him luck. Last I saw he was headed for the line of trees. Emma and I showered and she scrubbed the mascara camouflage off my face.

In the morning, the storm was nothing more than scattered dark clouds. Emma and I showered again and sat on the bed.

"You haven't asked what happened in Andrew's bedroom," she said.

"Because I don't need to."

She pursed her lips and plucked at some lint on the bedspread.

"What did you see?"

"Everything; Oscar. Oscar again. Dylan."

"Why didn't you stop it?"

I explained my reasons, my rationalizations and my fear for the others.

"That makes sense," she said. Again, we both left volumes unsaid.

The front of her robe parted slightly, revealing the soft curve of a breast. She hooked her hair behind an ear and met my eyes. Lust welled up in me like lava rising to a volcano. I pounced. She wrapped arms and legs around me as I pressed my lips to hers and fumbled at the belt of her robe.

She was doing the same and seconds later both our robes were open. My eyes feasted on her body like I was seeing it for the first time. I was hard before I'd finished moving over her. She reached down and guided me in and her white-hot cunt ripped a loud gasp from me. I plunged balls deep and started fucking her hard, my penis sinking into a swamp of semen. She met me thrust for thrust. We accidentally hit the nightstand and the lamp smashed on the floor, but we ignored it and kept going. We had the most intense sex of our married life.

She practically screamed when she came and I roared like a lion as I added my sperm to Oscar's. We sweat like pigs, sucked air like sprinters, and then laughed like children. Towards the end her laughter turned to quiet snuffles as the very real fear she'd felt at the time overflowed. I held her a long time. Despite her lusty side taking over, there was also dread and fright with those men. I rocked her until she came back to herself.

"You looked like a sexy badass with that smoking gun in your hand and Oscar wounded on the floor."

"Thank you. I was terrified. Adrenaline saved the day."

"You know, Honey, my plan was to separate and control the men. I thought if I could—"

"Baby," I interrupted. "I know. I know you and I know your mind. I know that was your plan. But then something else happened. Something neither of us anticipated."

"No."

"But both of us seem to love."

"Yes."

"You should be hysterical. I should be enraged."

"Yes."

We sat in a long silence.

"What do we do?" she said at last.

"I don't know. Emotionally, everything is up in the air. I will say I feel like we've gained something but not lost anything."

"I'm not sure what you mean."

"I'm saying I feel like we've made a discovery, like we've uncovered some new insight. I don't feel betrayed or deceived. I don't feel robbed. Everything has shifted."

"Go on."

"Like the way I look at Andrew now. It's totally different."

“Like what?”

“Hard to explain. He’s got something over me but I find it oddly exciting. He’s had you, my wife, and it kind of turns me on.”

“He’s not had me. Not really. I only blew him.”

I heard something funny in her voice but ignored it. “Which reminds me; I’m sure he has pictures.”

I told her what I found inside the wooden box. She thought about the new information for a minute and then said: “I find that annoying and immature. Will you confront him?”

“Yes, once things settle down.”

She rubbed her chin thoughtfully. “Are Debbie and Paul and Andrew swingers?”

“I hadn’t thought of that but it fits.”

A question had been growing since her comment about Andrew not having had her but I hesitated to ask it. My palms were wet and my throat dry. I decided to wait.

“I guess we should have breakfast with the others,” she said after a long pause. “Show them we’re okay.”

“They think you’re a hero. Debbie too, but not as much. They say by drawing the escapee’s attention to yourself, you kept the rest of them safe. They say you made a huge sacrifice and they all owe you a lot.”

Her smile was coy as she stared at the bedspread.

We walked through the front doors to a standing ovation. Everyone cheered. Chef made waffles for breakfast because he knew they were Emma’s favorite and Andrew handed me a brand-new bottle of Scotch. Debbie and Emma wandered off together, which made me anxious for some reason.

Andrew put his arm around me after twenty minutes or so and led me away towards his office. He shut the door behind us. He pointed to a smoke-detector on the ceiling in the corner and said: “Camera.” He pointed to another in the other corner. I knew the implication; he watched the video and saw me go through his desk. He knew I found the wooden box.

“You’re a lucky man,” I said.

He smiled, appraising me.

“I know about you and Emma,” I said, before he could start down some road of bullshit. His smile went flat. “I’m not angry,” I finished.

“Damn, Sam, I brought you back here to reward you.” He chuckled. “Boom, boom, boom; Sam dropping truth-bombs. Why aren’t you angry?”

“Mr. Stone, with all due respect, the private conversation between Emma and me needs to remain private. I just wanted you to know I knew and that I’m not hurt or full of rage.” I pointed at his bottom drawer. “Those photos...you have some of your time with Emma?”

“Yes.” He looked guilty.

“I’d like to see them.”

His eyebrow shot up to his hairline. “Really?”

“Yeah.”

He walked to a built-in cabinet and opened the doors. A large television screen filled the space with electronics below. He powered on and hit a few buttons and then video played of Emma on her knees sucking his big cock. The picture quality was great and he had three angles. The cameras were set to auto zoom and auto focus.

“This means you have video of Emma with Oscar and Dylan.”

“It does, but you don’t want to see that. Trust me.”

“Show me.”

“Sam, she did what she had to do. She did it for us.”

“Show me.”

He punched a few buttons and there she was, loving every inch those ultimate bad-boys gave her.

“Have you copied this?”

He watched my face closely. “No.”

“Good. I want the originals. Your blowjob vids with her too.”

“Fair enough. Are you alright? You’re frighteningly calm, considering.”

I nodded. Andrew did not need to know my new kinky secret.

He opened a drawer and pressed a button and a plastic tray slid out. He removed two CDs, which he handed to me. “That’s everything.”

“Thanks.”

“No, Sam, thank you.” He waved vaguely at the electronics equipment. “All this other business notwithstanding, you did an amazing thing. We all owe you a lot but I especially do. My land, my house, my invitation; I was responsible for everyone here. You saved us all but you especially saved my ass. Tell me how I can repay you.”

“Don’t fire me. Give me time to turn things around. I love the company and I love what I do. I’ll make things right.”

“Done, but what else? Emma already convinced me not to fire you.”

I thought for a moment. “Actually, there is something else. Do you have scuba gear?”

“I do.”

“I’d like to borrow it.”

He said no problem and we talked a while about how I overcame three out of four bad guys. I lied and said Reggie wandered off into the night as soon as he finished his cigarette. He asked how difficult it was to shoot someone and I said given what I’d seen Oscar do to Emma, pretty fucking easy. We both laughed and he said he hoped I wouldn’t shoot him. I gave him a knowing look.

“I think that might piss her off,” I said. “She seems fond of you, if I remember correctly.”

“And I of her,” he replied.

We regarded each other.

“I’m going to share a secret with you,” he said. “I’m into some interesting hobbies. Sometimes I have parties at my house in Vegas. Invitation only parties, if you know what I mean. Paul and Debbie have attended on occasion. Any interest?”

I looked down at the two CDs in my hand. “Before this vacation? No. Now? I have to admit I do.”

“Alright. Next time I throw a party I’ll invite you and Emma.”

“Sounds good. Thanks.”

“What’s the scuba gear for?”

I lied. “I thought I saw some interesting coral on the east side of the island. I’d like to see it underwater.”

“No problem. My boathouse guy is Charles. I’ll let him know you’re coming.”

We left for the den.

Everyone was there, gathered in knots, talking excitedly about their kidnap adventure, sharing the experience from their perspective. When I walked in most of them looked up and waved. I knew it wouldn’t last long but I must admit I was loving the fame.

Debbie and Emma were still absent.

I worked my way around the room as it seemed everyone wanted me to join their group. Emma and Debbie snuck in about half an hour later and blended quickly. As my wife made her way around the room towards me, I noticed everyone seemed to embrace her, overflowing with compassion and affection. Debbie too, sort of. Emma may have fucked two of the convicts but nobody judged her for it. At last she joined my side and we kissed briefly.

“Nice meeting with Andrew?” she asked.

“Yes, excellent. Nice meeting with Debbie?”

She lowered her voice and pulled me away from the others.

“Her and Paul are swingers. Andrew throws wild parties and they’ve gone a few times. Can you believe it?”

“Yup. I got us an invite to the next one.”

She looked shocked. “You’re amazing.” She was thoughtful for a moment. “Are we going to go when he invites us?”

“Probably. I also got us use of scuba gear to examine the galleon.”

“Terrific, Sam, but maybe you can take Paul or Jared? I just want to lie in the sun until we leave.”

“I don’t trust anyone but you.”

“Fine. What are those?” She pointed at the CDs in my hand.

“This is video of you blowing Andrew...and you with Oscar...and you with Dylan.”

She covered her mouth with one hand. “That bastard has cameras everywhere.”

“Indeed he goes. Remember that.”

She wanted to say more. I saw it in her eyes. She remained silent and I did not goad her.

Most of us gathered our beach gear and spent the day in the sun, keeping the staff busy running cocktails. On our way back to the cabana I stopped by the boathouse and met Charles and arranged for an early morning outing. Emma and I were asleep the second our heads hit the pillow.

I had Charles drop anchor around a bend of the beach. Emma and I would go under and then follow the shore to our secret inlet and then head to the bottom to see what we could see. Charles listened to a soccer game on the radio as we got ready to dive, disinterested. We were just two more guests having fun.

Emma and I made good time and passed under the overgrowth that shielded our hidden port. The bottom dropped out quickly and we followed it down. I'd been right about a wreck. I'm not trained but the ship looked like a Spanish galleon to me. We signaled to each other, our eyes filled with excitement.

The vessel was mostly rotten timbers, well-encrusted and home to thousands of colorful fish. We explored, our hearts hammering in our chest the whole time, and found odd little trinkets. Emma kept a solid silver spoon and I saved a silver picture frame. I'm sure taking them was illegal but we did it anyway. We burned through our air fast and all too soon our dive was over. I felt vindicated I'd been right though, and I could tell Emma was proud of me. We told Charles we found the objects under sand on the ocean floor and he surmised the storm must have kicked them up and deposited them there. He guessed they were probably only a few years old and we did nothing to dissuade him, smirking as we packed them away with our stuff.

At dinner that night we learned the airport would be opened in the morning and flights could resume. About ninety percent of the guests announced they were leaving. Emma wondered if we could stay just a few more days and enjoy the vacation we never got to have, and I said sure.

I helped drive the departing guests to the airport and docks and was gone for most of the day, leaving Emma and Debbie on the beach. Paul came with me but drove another car. By the time we got back it was late afternoon and I was starving. Chef made us some roast beef sandwiches.

A funny thing happens once your wife fucks another man. I found myself watching her every move but from curiosity, not suspicion. Each time she interacted with the bartender or the gardener or the pool guy, I checked to see if she wanted him. She seemed infinitely sexier to me. Over the years I'd allowed myself to go from seeing her as a hot sex partner to just a partner. We balanced our budget together. We raised our kids. We attended parent-teacher conferences and debated the merits of different shampoos.

Now I looked at her tits the way another man would. I looked at her ass the way another man would. I noticed, for the first time, the way some guys turned around to look as she walked by. I once again saw her as a sex object and when I told her that she was thrilled. We'd both fallen into a routine without knowing it.

"So, you're saying you like it when other men check me out?"

"Surprisingly, I do, very much."

"Good, because I do too."

She was sexier and I saw her as a more sexual creature. One was the way I saw her and the other the way she saw herself. She flirted now. I know her weight always bothered her and made her shy but this vacation taught her men didn't care as much as she did. Even with gorgeous Debbie in the room, guys chose her. I know that made her feel like a million bucks.

She asked me a few times if I was still okay with what she'd done, first with Andrew and then Oscar and Dylan. I told her I felt like Oscar and Dylan was done to her, at least at first, and only Andrew was something she did. I still get flustered whenever I see her talking to Andrew but excitement is woven in there too.

When I returned to the cabana after my long day with Paul, I opened the front door and discovered the bungalow had all the lights off and Emma had lit a dozen candles. I made my way to the bedroom, discovering more candles along the way, and found her in bed, waiting for me, dressed in the skimpiest pink lingerie. She'd not worn lingerie since our honeymoon. She looked stunning.

I opened my mouth to tell her so and only then noticed the television was on and displayed on the screen was the frozen picture of Oscar standing behind her with huge cock in hand. Her pants and underwear were around her knees. I remembered the moment perfectly but seeing it again astonished me. He was so big and she so petite. No way would that massive spear fit inside her. Emma hit play and on screen she bounced and wiggled her ass to make him hurry and I moaned as he sank that enormous cock into my wife. Emma crawled across the bed and then slid off to stand behind me. She watched the television over my shoulder, her mouth close to my ear.

"He felt like a python, Baby," she purred, while on the screen Oscar held her hips and began to fuck her from behind. "I was ready to cum so fast but I fought it. I wanted to savor how good he felt. I wish I'd known you were outside watching. I'd have really put on a show for you."

She reached around to loosen my shorts and free my penis. I could not pull my eyes from the screen. Next she pulled my shirt off over my head.

"He was so hard, like steel. He shoved my insides around, touching me in sensitive places I didn't know I had."

She reached around to play with my dick. I was already stiff.

"Why didn't I know I had such places, Baby?"

That stung. I drew a deep breath, decided to forge ahead with the truth. Why not? We'd been through so much. "Because I've never touched them."

"That's right. Watch him fuck me, Baby. Watch that brute fuck your wife. Amazing to see, isn't it? Look how much I love it."

She moved to the edge of the bed but faced the screen. She spoke to me over her shoulder. "Fuck me like he did, Love."

She bent at the waist and aimed her bare pussy at me. With my eyes glued to the monitor, I stepped up and sank my dick into her. I held her hips and everything Oscar did on screen, I copied as I fucked her. We watched him take her and relived every second of it. She was drenched, literally dripping off my nuts. I slammed her pussy as she urged me to fuck her harder.

On screen, we watched her climax and I fucked her even faster. She looked so intensely beautiful and sexy. He pounded her cunt so I did too and she came again on the end of my penis. I almost lost it. She was the sexiest thing I'd ever seen. Watching her get fucked was the sexiest thing I'd ever seen.

We spent the night in this way; watching until we got too excited, fucking until we exhausted ourselves, only to watch some more and do it all again. We stuck with Dylan and Oscar, leaving Andrew out of our playlist. When Dylan rolled her over to fuck her ass, she told me to do the same to her.

"Are you sure?"

"Yes, Baby. I never knew it could feel so good."

I was trembling as I pushed my penis up her rectum. I lasted only a few minutes, overwhelmed I finally got to conquer that little hole, but she lasted a short time too. Just the idea got us so excited.

Near dawn we started yet another round. I was out of cum but continued getting hard from pure arousal. She'd had her back to me and I'd scooted close and brought my erection up between her legs which she invitingly parted. On our side, I slid one arm under her and the other over and hugged her tight. The question I'd been too afraid to ask the day before, returned. I snuggled close as my penis pushed inside.

"Do you want Andrew?"

"Unnngh," she moaned.

I needed something more definitive.

"He's my boss, not some convict we'll never see again. Fucking him will change everything."

Her mouth opened as her breathing increased. Over her arm I watched her big tit jiggle each time I thrust.

"Does he excite you?"

She bit her bottom lip.

"His cock is really big. Did sucking it make you want it inside you?"

"Ohhhh, Baby, don't stop."

I felt her pussy growing wetter. I had my answer; my sweet wife wanted Andrew. I've heard that a hard dick don't lie but then neither does a wet pussy. Anxiety churned my stomach but my penis remained unaffected. Handing Emma to Andrew was fraught with risk. I was already his subordinate but at least I had my private life where I was king. I lost all that once he fucked Emma. If it was just something he wanted, saying no would be easy but clearly Emma wanted it too. That worried me at the same time it aroused me. I loved that my newly sexual wife wanted another man but also, and this was hard to admit, some part of me liked the idea of us both submitting to Andrew; her via sex and me through her. Twisted, I know, but I'm being honest here. Her pussy was gushing over my dick. I knew what she fantasized about. I took a deep breath and plunged in.

"I can see his big cock sliding into you, Honey. I see his big balls moving closer and closer. I know you want that. I know you want to fuck him. It's okay, Baby. You can let go. Let yourself imagine it's Andrew behind you right now."

Her hips started curling back to capture my dick each time I moved into her. Her eyes were squeezed shut. I held her tight and fucked up into her sopping cunt and her groans filled our bedroom. I knew at that moment it was Andrew fucking her, not me. Her tight pussy began to lock down around me, coaxing and teasing my dick, until I heard her suck air into her lungs.

“Andrew is bigger than Oscar,” I hissed.

My wife cried out like she’d been stabbed. Her head bounced all around.

“Oooooohhhhhh, fuuuuuuuck,” she moaned. I felt a little overwhelmed. Emma was cumming for Andrew and cumming hard. A surge of blood filled my penis and she felt it and her climax jumped up a level. I moved faster and suddenly lost control and began to spurt what little fluid I had. Her body rocked and jerked as she came for my boss. We both slowed gradually until we came to a stop. After, we fell into a deep sleep.

We woke late morning to an unexpected awkwardness. I decided to meet the beast head-on. “Emma, Honey, let me just say last night was more fantasy than reality. You understand that, right?”

“Oh, of course, Baby. Just hot pillow talk. I know.”

I detected disappointment in her voice but, strangely, her response also disappointed me, like I expected her to fight me for the right to fuck Andrew. Jesus, I was a mess. We ate some protein bars in our room and then headed to the main house for coffee.

After the mass exodus, our gathering had fallen to only a few; Paul and Debbie remained, of course, and Erin and Jared. Kim was gone as well as that weird guy from legal. Several others also stayed but they were from other departments and I did not know them. All together, we were down to ten.

With fewer guests to entertain, Andrew could have more fun. He joined Paul and me at cut-throat tennis, and then soaked up some sun after noon. After an hour Debbie asked if there was someone at the house that cut hair and Andrew said he would walk back with her and introduce them. I was surprised when at the last moment Emma said she’d join them. Paul and I stayed behind to sunbathe. About an hour later, the girls rejoined us without Andrew.

At dinner that night conversation was lively and spirited, but perhaps that was because we all knew tomorrow was our last day. Soon we’d return to the routine and predictable. We gathered in the den to watch Avatar on the big screen. Emma and I returned to our cabana late and made love one last time before heading home.

We called the kids as soon as we landed at the airport and grandma assured us they were well and having fun on their summer vacation. We took turns speaking to them but sensed they were eager to get back outside to the horses so we told them we loved them and said have fun. Emma and I would be back at work four more weeks before those rug-rats finally came home.

The flight back to Las Vegas was uneventful and we dozed. We arrived late Friday night, facing work for the first time in a long time Monday morning. What a trip. Travel is always stressful and we showered and dropped into bed.

At work Monday, everyone seemed stuck in first gear and Andrew joked about creating an army of zombies. Those that hadn't gone on the vacation were amazed by the stories we told and the adventure we had.

On Thursday, I clinched my first big sale in a long time and relief flooded my body. Even Paul congratulated me. The dark cloud over my head evaporated. Soon after I closed another significant deal. My slump was behind me.

Three weeks after, Andrew, as promised, invited us to one of his special parties the coming weekend. I told Emma and she turned into a nervous virgin schoolgirl. She fretted about what to wear and how frizzy her hair was and how much she weighed. I was understanding for a few days and then I had to mention she was sucking all the fun out of anticipating the event.

“You’re right, I’m sorry. I’m just extremely nervous.”

“What do you think will happen, Baby?”

“I’ve spoken to Debbie about them. She says they can get pretty wild.”

“Okay, but nobody is forced to do anything, right?”

“True.”

“Then let’s do this; our first visit will be observational only. We promise to hang back and watch, learn the ropes, so to speak. Just voyeur all night and then come home and laugh about everything we saw. That way there’s zero pressure on us to say or do the right things.”

She rubbed her chin. “I like that. We’ll just hide in the shadows, watch the regulars do their bit, get a feel for things.”

“Exactly.”

“I still want a new outfit.”

I laughed. “Of course.”

She shopped every night after work.

Saturday night arrived and she looked smashing; she wore a short plaid skirt and thigh-high black boots and a black long-sleeve dress shirt unbuttoned to just below her tits. I went with dress shirt and pants and a sports-coat, no tie.

I’ve worked at StoneWork Enterprises for years and years but I’d never been to Andrew’s private home. He has a flat in the city where we’ve met for professional events but never his actual home. The place was sprawling, nestled at the foot of the Red Rock Mountains in western Las Vegas. Emma and I talked about how nervous we were on the drive up.

Valet took our car and we walked the winding path to the front door in silence. Throbbing music from inside faintly filled the hot desert air. The exterior was dimly lit with deep orange bulbs and the inside was even darker. Pale blue and purple softly illuminated steps and corners, for safety, but the entire house was incredibly dark. We followed glow stick markers deeper into the home.

At last we arrived at the gathering. There was little light from bulbs and most of the illumination was provided by glow in the dark paint and stickers. A hostess handed us glow sticks and paint and brushes and we joined everyone else painting fun symbols and swirly patterns on our skin. I was way over-dressed and hung my coat and shirt in a small room and painted my chest with goofy splotches. Emma kept her shirt on but painted markings all the way down.

Once our eyes adjusted to the light we could see shapes and bodies well enough to determine everyone present was almost naked. I estimated about two hundred people present just in this open area and I was sure the house extended a lot farther. I expected Emma to freak out but she said she found it naughty and exciting and the big crowd made it easier to hide.

Faces were almost impossible to determine. I had no idea if I knew the person next to me or not. I got an idea and painted three small dots on Emma's forehead and she did the same to me. If we became separated we'd know from across the room where each other was.

We found an alcove to sit and for about ten minutes we just watched all the wild people dance and mingle. The party had a frenetic energy to it, fueled, in part, by drugs and alcohol, and by driving music and the general spirit of the crowd. The few people we'd spoken to were spacey and happy and utterly uninhibited. I recognized no one and told Emma that.

"What a relief," she shouted over the music.

Through a brief parting of the crowd I saw a bar across the room. I told Emma to stay put and asked what she wanted to drink.

"A cranberry Martini," she laughed. "And tell him to make it a strong one."

I kissed her and headed for the bar, amazed at the incredible bodies, male and female, I saw along the way. The bartenders were swamped and I had to wait three-people deep. To the left I noticed a large open area with low couches and ottomans, covered with virtually naked people. There were numerous instances of oral sex and intercourse taking place right in front of me. Everyone was so casual about it. Male-male and female-female too. The place was a carnival of flesh. Everywhere I looked I saw tits and ass and penises and pussies. I checked again to see if I recognized anyone from work but did not. That would have been pretty cool.

The bartenders were flying around behind the bar liked winged monkeys but the press was just too much. I finally got my drinks and headed back, but Emma was gone. You might think I was irritated after spending so much time fighting the crowd to get a drink she asked for, but I wasn't. I was thrilled. Never in a million years did I expect she'd be anywhere except exactly where I left her and the fact she was missing was exhilarating. Emma was alone in this carnal and extremely lascivious place.

My first protective impulse was to go look for her and make sure she was alright, but I ignored that instinct and sat my ass down. Maybe she'd merely gone to the restroom.

As I waited for my wife, my imagination blossomed. The various scenarios stung a bit, I'll admit that, but they were far more exciting than upsetting. At first my mind leaped to Andrew. I presumed he'd walked by and seen her and stopped to talk. One of them had broken the tension they share and suggested someplace more private. They were off in some room now. I pictured his big veiny cock in her mouth. Or perhaps while Emma waited for me, a man walked by she found incredibly attractive. She might be off with him right now.

I watched the circus of people swirl around me, wondering if Emma was about to step from the crowd on her way back from the restroom or if she was chatting with someone else, somewhere in Andrew's massive mansion.

How quickly life can turn; financial circumstances followed by a crass comment by me planted a seed in Emma's mind that took root and rapidly bore fruit. I learn what she's done and instead of anger I feel arousal. Before we could fully discuss what we'd discovered and what it meant to our marriage, another twist of fate delivered her to two men and propelled us into the Twilight Zone. Emma was as stunned and surprised as me, but our solid relationship allowed us to examine things with a clear mind. We both liked it, so why not? Maybe the introduction of outside excitement was exactly what our relationship needed at this point. Life is short and comes at you fast.

I thought I saw her dancing with someone and leaned for a better look but it wasn't her. She'd been gone long enough now I was certain this was no trip to the restroom. My wife was lost somewhere in this maze of sin. Did I want to find her? Or did I want her to pursue whatever had stolen her away from me in the first place? A tingle ran down my back.

I downed her Martini in two gulps and coughed. How the fuck does she drink those awful things? I sipped my whiskey to wash out the taste of her cranberry and meandered away from my seat. I'd become lost in this circus too, just like her, and see what happened.

Everywhere I went I was struck by the same thing; swingers are incredibly cool and accepting people. I watched everybody fucking everybody and nobody cared. Not in a bad way. I've never met such friendly strangers. I was kissed passionately by two beautiful women and had my crotch rubbed by a third. Andrew's house went on forever. I worked my way ever deeper and the crowd thinned. Honestly, there were so many sexy women around, Emma began to drift from my mind. When a stunning redhead approached, I stopped to talk.

She wore a white teddy and the black lights made her skin glow through it. Her teeth dazzled as did her pretty eyes but her amazing body held my eyes, especially her fantastic tits. She oozed feminine sexuality and I felt my dick wake up. She touched a lot as we chatted and my dick kept rising.

“Do you want to see my tits?” she said out of nowhere.

I hesitated for a second, preparing my apology and my excuse, but then I thought fuck it, I’m at a goddamn orgy for Christ’s sake.

“Very much. You’re gorgeous and so are they.”

She smiled and lifted the neck of her teddy over her head, lowering the lace until her breasts came into glorious view. For the first time, I wished for better lighting.

“Spectacular,” I gushed.

“Touch them.”

I showed her my wedding ring. “I’m married, sorry.”

“So am I silly,” she replied, showing me her three-karat rock.

Good point. I returned her smile and lifted both hands. Her tits were wonderful; firm yet soft, full and round. I followed the curve and then teased her nipples. I hefted the weight and lifted one to my mouth to suckle the nipple. She moaned. I moved to the other nipple and sucked a little before nibbling. That got a gasp from her and her breasts left my hands as she sank to her knees.

I had no willpower to stop her. Blame the whiskey and vodka or blame hours of wall to wall sex, but I let her take my penis out and suck on it. Sweet Jesus, that woman was skilled.

I backed against the wall and she followed, keeping my penis in her mouth the whole way. I braced myself and she went to town on me. She seemed to have three mouths, six tongues, and four hands. I had no plans to cum but she robbed me of a choice. Five minutes later I was bucking and jerking and grunting as her mouth sucked and her tongue teased. I had to give her my load.

She hung around for a few minutes and then kissed me and said she had to find her husband. I thanked her, which felt weird, and we kissed again and she was gone.

I waited for guilt but none came. I suspected I may be deep into a rationalization and guilt would hit me later so I made a mental note and filed the event away. At the moment, I felt utterly justified in what I’d done. Emma had certainly done far worse and while she had ulterior motive and even some things thrust upon her, I remembered her face during all of it and she suffered not at all.

When I had my legs again I continued my exploration.

I entered a large room with a bed centered and dim blue spotlights aimed. There was barely enough light to see and I moved slowly. About twenty people circled the bed and I found an open spot in the wall of bodies.

On the bed a Hispanic giant, braided beard and tattooed from head to feet, held open the legs of a lithe black girl and repeatedly sank his cock into her. She looked young and thin but he was a mountain of twisting muscles. Both his nipples were pierced as well as his nose. He eased back some and his cock popped out and a murmur went through the crowd including me. It looked about as large as my arm from elbow to fist and about as thick as my forearm. The hole at the tip had another piercing, a thick stainless steel ring which came out of the hole and entered again under the tip. A ball sat at the lowest point of the ring. I winced.

His cock was a weapon. The girl whimpered with frustration the second it left her body and she reached down hurriedly to get him back inside her. His bicep looked as big as her head. When the huge cock ploughed back in, her back arched as her tunnel expanded. She moaned in pleasure. A wave ran around the bed and I suspected the women watching were more powerfully affected than the men.

Now that they had adjusted to the dark, my eyes traveled the ring of spectators. Across the bed, I landed on a female with three glowing dots on her forehead. I focused and saw Emma and Andrew, watching from the front. Andrew was nude and Emma, now also nude, absentmindedly played with his big cock. He stood partially behind her and had his arm around her shoulder and across her chest, intimate and protective. She stared at the Latin monster and did not look away. I eased back, allowing two persons to partially hide me from them.

On the bed the dusky Hulk lifted the girl and pumped her on his enormous dick. The display of strength was staggering. Her eyes were fixed at the point where her body swallowed his and her face was contorted in a grimace of pleasure and pain. He stretched her tiny pussy wide.

Emma leaned back into Andrew, his large cock in her hand at her hips. She began casually stroking. Andrew lowered his fingers to her pussy.

The gorgeous woman that blew me earlier walked up to Andrew and whispered something in his ear. She then pointed across the bed and Andrew locked eyes with me and I almost panicked. I'd been set up! My boss whispered something to my wife and her eyes found me too. Blowjob Woman told her something and Emma looked at Andrew and nodded once slowly and they stepped back into the crowd and I lost them.

The young girl on the bed mewled as her orgasm approached and the bodybuilder placed her on her back and started giving her the entire length and girth of his meat. The girl whimpered from the intensity.

I wanted to stay and watch but I also wanted to spy on Andrew and my wife. I was torn. I understood now that woman had been sent to find and seduce me, clearing the way for Andrew to take what he wanted from Emma. He gave her a reason to cave. Clever bastard. I tried to track as they cut through the crowd but of course I lost them. I looked back at the girl on the bed. Her eyes had rolled back in her head.

Fuck. Did I really have a choice? I worked my way through the group and started in the direction I last saw them head.

I met a man in a tuxedo standing at a wrought iron gate. Behind the gate was a long hall. I tried to move past him but he stopped me.

"Dress code, sir. No clothing. You can use the cubby holes along the wall."

I looked where he gestured and saw fifty oversized pigeon-holes, like in a post office but bigger, and half a dozen held shoes and clothes. I stripped and stuffed and he opened the gate.

I entered an area of cubicles like a business office but instead of desks there were twin sized padded mattresses. The first three were empty and I worried I'd lost them but then I turned a corner and there they were.

Emma was on her knees with Andrew standing behind her. Five guys, ranging in age from early twenties to late sixties, formed a half-circle around her. She had the mid-sixties cock in her mouth and Andrew held her hair back and guided her mouth up and down the old-timers dick. The other men waited their turn. Emma, eager to please, sucked hard, swirling her tongue and fondling the old man's hairy balls.

"Swallow everything Fred gives you, Emma."

My wife nodded enthusiastically.

"Put your hands behind your back. I'll make you blow him."

Emma did as she was told and Andrew took control. She let him use her mouth like a tool to make Fred orgasm. The old guy lasted only a short time and then his hairy balls lifted and he groaned. Emma's eyes got big and her cheeks swelled as she sucked. The guy's load must have been big.

"Who is she?" I heard one of the men ask.

"Emma, Sam's wife."

"She's fucking gorgeous."

"She is. Loves cock, too."

"Andrew throws the best parties. Where does he find these girls?"

I know Emma heard them because she moaned around the dick in her mouth. It was too dark for me to see faces but one of the voices sounded familiar. Fred pulled his cock out with a pop and stumbled away.

Andrew shuffled his feet and I saw his cock swing into view next to my wife's pretty face. He looked bigger close, especially his balls. I was surprised by their size.

"Alex, your turn, step up."

I knew no Alex but Emma just opened her mouth wide, ready to receive the next man. Andrew aimed her mouth at the approaching phallus and Emma closed her lips in a tight seal around the shaft.

My dick started to rise. She was a plaything to them, a slut, completely submissive to Andrew, pleasing him by pleasing others. Even in the dim light I saw she was guilt free and having fun.

A brief glow from a cell phone illuminated everyone. Andrew barked at the guy, telling him that wasn't allowed back here and to take it outside. He hustled off but not before I saw John, a friend from sales I'd known for years and the source of the voice I'd recognized. Andrew spotting me amongst the gathered men. The darkness closed in again and Andrew said nothing.

Alex moaned. "Fuck, she's got my whole dick down her throat."

"Do you want Alex to cum in your mouth too, Emma?"

"Mmnh hmm."

"She said yes, Alex. Don't hold back. She wants it. She wants all our cum. Don't you, Emma?"

She pulled her mouth off Alex for a second to say: "Yessssss," before slurping his dick back in.

One by one Andrew fed my wife every cock in the room save mine and his. Something told me his was only minutes away. As each man climaxed, Emma sucked their sperm out and then they wandered back out to the party. At last it came down to him and me. Emma was still oblivious to my presence.

“Did that turn you on, Sam?” he said.

Emma’s head whipped around. Our eyes met.

“How long have you been here?” she asked.

“Almost from the beginning.”

“You’re always watching me do naughty things, Baby.”

Andrew helped her to her feet and steered her towards one of the padded beds. She sat on the edge and he lifted his dick to her mouth. She was smiling at me as she slipped him in. He held her head and fucked her mouth for a few minutes, growing harder, and then he pushed her onto her back.

“Go around to the other side and get on the bed,” he told me. “Grab her ankles. Open her up for my cock.”

I knew exactly what he was telling me to do. Any protest I had needed to be stated now. He had dropped a bomb at my feet and dared me to throw it away. I couldn’t. Emma looked so sexy on her back, her pussy only a few inches away from his cock. My hesitation made his dick pulse harder. He knew he had me. No matter what I pretended to, I wanted him to fuck my wife.

I did as I was told. I walked around the bed and then climbed up on it. I crawled forward on my knees until my balls were over her face and then I reached down and gripped her ankles. Emma whimpered. I straightened up and pulled her legs back and spread them and her married pussy blossomed in his face. He leaned forward and aimed his cock at her wet hole.

I had no sheers or glass between us, no distance or distractions. He was mere inches away from Emma’s hot cunt and he was huge. His head looked too wide for her small tunnel. Her hips rolled sensuously, anticipating penetration. He placed the head at her entrance and paused.

“Tell me to fuck your wife,” he said.

“Fuck my wife,” I instantly replied. Emma moaned. “Fuck her deep and strong and slow. Fill her with your sperm.”

Andrew looked down and held her upright thighs. He eased his weight forward and her labia blossomed around his invading head. Emma moaned, Andrew moaned, and I moaned.

Andrew started to fuck my wife.

My dick turned to iron. Emma moved her pelvis to take his girth, grunting and gasping as he stuffed her with inches. I knew this was their first time by the look on his face and the unpredictable way her body jumped and writhed.

I handed off her legs to him and crawled off the bed to watch. She turned her face to me but her hands went to his shoulders.

“Kiss me,” she said. “Kiss me while Andy fucks me.”

I leaned over. The fireworks going off in my mind were astonishing. Her lips bounced to the rhythm of his pounding. I kissed my beautiful wife while another man fucked her and it was delicious and erotic. We were both submitting to him. I tenderly brushed her hair from her face. Her eyes were filled with love. I cupped her fat tits and offered them to Andrew and he feasted on her sensitive nipples, his tongue lewdly circling her areola.

“Is that huge cock going to make you cum, Honey?” I asked.

“Yessssss,” she breathed.

I leaned down her body to lick her clit while his shank sawed in and out. Emma cried out and covered her face. My tongue touched his slippery dick-skin a couple times as it sailed by but nobody cared.

I leaned back to watch again and began stroking my dick. Andrew smiled but Emma got a look of rampant lust.

“Oh, fuck, Sam,” she groaned. “That’s so hot! Jerk your dick while I get fucked. Watch your wife, Baby. Isn’t it the hottest thing? Do I look sexy?”

“Like an epic slut,” I said. “You look amazing.”

She turned her attention back to Andrew and started raising her hips to him. I faded into the background for both. Her tits bounced and his hips rose and fell, slapping skin on skin.

I became dimly aware we’d been joined by someone and looked over to see Jared and Erin. Their eyes were huge, clearly never expecting to see Emma and I at one of these parties. They were naked and Erin had a much better body naked than I’d expected. Jared was scrawny but his dick was beefy. Not huge, bigger than mine but smaller than Andrew. I guessed only the Hispanic Giant had a dick bigger than Andrew. It seemed everyone had a dick bigger than me. I wasn’t feeling sorry for myself; I had an amazing wife and two wonderful kids. I had health and wealth and happiness. I’m just saying.

Jared left Erin's side and stepped to the edge of the bed. He offered Emma his soft cock. I suffered a tense moment of indecision, unsure how I felt about this development. Andrew made my choice for me. He leaned over and kissed Emma and then turned her face to Jared's cock. She hesitated, having never been with two men at the same time, but Jared aggressively aimed his prick at her mouth. My wife opened up instinctively. Erin's expression was one of a woman who has often put up with her partner's thoughtless decisions and she came to sit on an unoccupied corner of the mattress.

Jared held Emma's head and forced his cock into her mouth until his pubic hair brushed her nose. She resisted only a moment, stiff and tense and then relaxing and opening wide. Now a man fucked her at each end and that began to stoke a fire she's never had lit. When Andrew flipped her over onto all fours, she quickly sought to replace Jared's penis in her mouth. Now the two men could fuck her smoothly and they did.

After a while Jared said he wanted her pussy and Andrew told him no, enjoy what you have. The kid looked frustrated but took his lumps, fucking my wife's mouth harder, which she loved. Andrew smacked her ass and the slap echoed around the room. Three more men entered the room to watch.

I thought Erin must have come to terms with her boyfriend's infidelity because she now openly masturbated as she watched Emma get fucked, but quickly realized it was Andrew she lusted for. I wondered if the men would move on to her but no, they stayed with my wife. I suspected my presence had something to do with that. Fucking another man's wife right in front of him must be intoxicating.

One of the men watching came and took Erin's hand to lead her away and she tried to catch Jared's eye but he was too focused on my woman. With a little shrug, she went with the man to a nearby bed and laid on her back, spreading her legs. I sensed she did it as much from a desire to annoy Jared as a desire for the man. The man did not care either way. Erin was cute and he wanted to fuck her. He moved on top and they began. Erin crossed her ankles behind the man.

The threesome in front of me had my blood boiling. Emma was a natural. Andrew drove her close to climax again and again, only to slow down or pull out, driving her crazy. Jared came first, filling Emma's mouth with hot syrup. She swallowed all of it because that's what she did now. He took a position to watch like me, unaware, yet, of Erin's tryst.

One of the men watching took his place. He was an older gent, balding but well-maintained, and Emma welcomed him with a wicked smile. My wife had a new love for sucking cock.

Andrew grunted and a thrill tingled my balls. I realized I was anticipating him filling my wife with cum. That same charge I got back on Halfmoon Key the morning after I saw her sucking him returned, titillating me, tightening my nuts. He was my boss and he was fucking my wife. I knew before too long he'd flood her insides with hot cum. She'd carry him around inside for days. I groaned involuntarily and stroked faster.

The gentleman fucking her mouth stepped back and pushed her head to the mattress. Andrew gripped her hips and began slamming his cock home. Emma emitted a constant flow of moans now and I knew that cock was driving her towards orgasm. Andrew's cock. In my wife. About to make her cum. My heart hammered in my chest. I was dying to see it. I wanted the man to conquer my wife right in front of me. He looked away from her obscenely spread cunt and found me.

"Where you want it?" he grunted.

Emma knew what we negotiated.

"Oooooohhhh, fuuuuck," she sobbed.

"Flood her cunt," I growled, because I wanted him to. "Pump her full of your sperm."

"Give it to me, Andy," she begged. "Oh my God. I can't believe it. Yes, fuck me. Fill my little pussy with your jizz. Fuck me, fuck me, fuuuccckkk meeeeeeeeeooooo! Fuck! Here it comes!"

Her body went nuts. Older Gent held her down while Andrew pounded her and she screamed as she climaxed all over Andrew's driving rod. Her body shook and her lips trembled. Her screams became sobs and nonsense words and Andrew pushed his dick all the way in. Emma squirmed, stuck like a pig. Whatever he touched way up in there seemed to send a climactic surge racing through her. She cried out and went limp.

Andrew slowed to a stop. Everyone caught their breath. When he moved a leg his cock rubbed her insides and she jumped, sucking air as her overly-sensitive nerves begged to be left alone.

I marveled at the sight. Andrew behind, fat cock buried firmly. Emma, head down, ass up. Older Gent, still erect, keeping her shoulders pinned to the bed. Glorious.

After long, silent moments, Andrew started the machine up again. Emma took it like a champ, soon pushing her hips back to meet his thrusts. She wanted his cum inside her. After a while he slammed her faster and drew a lung full of air. Here it comes. His hips pounded my sweet wife.

“Ungh! Fuck. Yeah. Aaaagh! Take it, Emma. God! I love fucking you!”

The first spurt splashed her cervix and he drove every inch deep. The second spurt shot through the tiny opening directly into her womb. He held himself balls-deep and pumped another surge into her. Then another and another. His back arched and his hips tried to shove more of his formidable cock into her but he could go no deeper. The fat shaft bucked and jumped as he drained his balls inside her. He roared with pleasure, filling her at last. Emma urged him on, begging my boos for his seed.

I sank to my knees and leaned on the edge of the bed. My jerking hand was a blur. I shot white-hot cum all over the carpet watching Andrew inseminate my lovely wife. I came so hard I felt like my balls were going to turn themselves inside out.

When he was finally spent, Andrew dropped to the floor. His cock looked like a gleaming snake. The Older Gent turned Emma on her back and hurried around to the other side. She offered no protest. He slid his dick along her slit, looking for her hole, and then sank deep. He fucked her wilted body until she came around and began fucking him back. By the time he emptied himself inside her, she was coaxing him, asking for his load.

The last man stepped up. He too pushed his erection into Emma. Now she was awake and ready for more and she encouraged him to fuck her hard. All of us watched with admiration as he ripped an intense orgasm from her exhausted body before draining his balls in her pussy.

From the bed next to us, Erin cried out in climax. Jared finally noticed and his head whipped around, his face twisted in displeasure. He jumped to his feet, pointing.

“Sit down,” Andrew barked.

Jared stopped cold. He sat, but kept his eyes on Erin. The man had her legs in the air and reamed her pussy like an athlete. He leaned over and they kissed and his hips moved faster until stopping abruptly, pushing his cock all the way in to erupt inside her.

What a night of unearthly fucking.

I climbed on the bed next to my wife, desperately wishing I had a hard dick. I wanted to add my cum to theirs. If we ever did this again, I'd have to learn better control.

"Hey," she murmured.

I gazed down at her. She looked enchanting. Her swollen nipples had smeared saliva from multiple men, her puffy labia were a mess of seminal fluids, cloudy milk leaked down her ass-crack and into the mattress. She had hair stuck to her sweaty, bite-mark covered skin; black, blonde, even gray. She was a whorish mess.

"You okay?" she asked.

I grinned. "I'm great. Wish I could fuck you right now but other than that I'm fantastic."

I kissed her and tasted the bouquet of men she'd swallowed.

Monday morning, everything was different. I saw Jared first and he gave me that chin-jerk hello guys do and said nothing but I saw him in a new way. He'd had his dick in my wife's mouth. I'd tasted his semen.

When Andrew got to work, my heart thudded under my ribs. He'd fucked my wife silly. His sperm was still inside her at this moment. She was most likely grocery shopping, walking the aisles, looking for spaghetti sauce or apples, carrying Andrew's seed deep. Just the sight of him turned me on again. I wanted to offer Emma again. I wanted to see his big cock split her open and stuff her full. I took a deep breath and looked down at my work.

Andrew stopped by my desk and said good morning, something he does rarely, and I said good morning back. Our eyes met and he had a secret knowing behind his, a shared bond.

"I'm thinking of a new product and I'd like you to come over after work on Wednesday night. Is that possible? Bring your wife. We'll have dinner and brainstorm. Can you make it?"

I was stunned but found my voice. "Absolutely. I'll text her now. What should we bring?"

"Nothing. I'll have the chef make us ribs."

"Perfect."

He continued down the row of desks, talking briefly or saying hello, until he reached his office and disappeared behind the door. I text Emma right away and she fired back; "I guess I'm dessert?"

Fuck! I was so hot. He wanted her again and she wanted him and I couldn't wait to watch. I took an hour to get myself focused and under control and start working again.

Tuesday was more of the same. Every time I saw Andrew, I got nervous. He seemed taller and broader to me. I caught myself staring at his bulge often. I had no interest in his penis personally, I just remembered what it looked like and what it did to my wife. I felt a strange responsibility towards keeping that python happy and satisfied. I knew my wife loved his cock and loved fucking him, and I wanted her happy too.

Wednesday was a disaster but I hid it. I was useless, as you'd expect, but I successfully covered and even made a big sale. I have no idea how. After work I went home to change clothes and freshen up and then Emma and I left for Andrew's place. She looked stunning in a simple, black, knee-length skirt and tight pale green long-sleeved top.

We ate and then sat around and shared a drink while Andrew told us about a new membership idea he had. We brainstormed several hours and Emma added a ton of great ideas. I volunteered to investigate how other companies had established their memberships and he thanked me. We all fell into an awkward silence.

Emma left her spot next to me on the couch and circled the coffee table to sit on Andrew's knee. Ice-broken. He tilted his head to kiss her and her hand went to his crotch. A minute later he stood, lifting her in his arms, and headed for the bedroom. I gulped my drink and sat the tumbler on the coffee table and then trotted along behind, growing stiff in anticipation.

Emma had no time for formalities. Once in the bedroom, clothing flew. She was desperate to get him inside her again, pulling him down as she fell backward onto the bed. His cock was a spear aimed at her wet cunt.

I stepped to the bed and grabbed his dick in my fist. My fingers did not meet on the other side. He was rock hard and I pulled him forward, briefly rubbing that large head around her opening. She told me to put him inside so I steered him into my wife.

I stepped back to watch them mate. I loved watching Emma fuck and probably would have all along if I'd discovered that fact earlier in our marriage. Her pussy clung to his shaft like a child to its mother. She hugged every inch of his veiny rod, a tight seal around his circumference. Her sweet cunt coaxed moans from him I never heard a man make. He was too big for her small tunnel and that thrilled them both. Emma soon climaxed like a cyclone.

After a long while Andrew told me to get undressed. He was ready to share. My penis throbbed on hair-trigger as I climbed onto the bed. Her hot mouth enveloped me and I fucked her face as he fucked her pussy. I leaned over her and to the side so their merged genitalia were only inches from my face. The squishy sounds of her wet cunt excited me. When Andrew was ready to have her suck him, he told me to take his place. He waited until I was ready to slide in before he pulled out and the side by side comparison of our dicks sent a humiliating thrill through me. No wonder Emma loved fucking this man. We traded openings often, savoring her.

She rode him when I moved behind her and carefully eased my penis up her ass. She went nuts. We fucked her slow and smooth and were both balls-deep when she had an orgasm I worried might kill her. I'd never seen anything like it. I came up her ass towards the end of it. We all had to take a short break after that.

They stared up again and I watched, astonished at my wife's sexual beauty. I wished we'd started this life years ago. I held her firmly in place when, later, he pushed his huge cock deep and pumped her full of sperm.

When we got home we skipped a shower and went straight to bed. I'd never felt closer or more intimate with her and she said the same. It was the great mystery of our life; adding others to our sex brought us closer.

The next weekend Andrew had another party but much smaller and different people. I shared her with several men that night, including, of course, Andrew again, and spent time with a gorgeous blonde woman while Andrew took Emma to a private room where they could be alone. After, Emma asked if I enjoyed myself, which I did, and she left it at that. She had no desire to know about my dalliances but I loved hearing about hers.

The kids arrived home from their summer at the grandparents and we took them out for ice cream, listening to their stories of hiking and horseback riding and building forts. School started ten days later and we fell back into our old-time routine, with one difference; every few days or on a weekend, we'd hire a babysitter and head over to Andrew's place for a special night.

We made friends with the regulars and Emma had a few preferences. She never said anything about it but I noticed a common theme; every man she favored was well-hung. I think she never commented or shared her opinion about it to spare my feelings. I'd enjoy another woman from time to time but the frequency dropped as time went by. I wasn't there for that. I was there to watch my wife.

One night Andrew and I watched Emma as a gorgeous blonde woman ate cum out of her. I asked him about the giant Hispanic man I'd seen so many weeks ago.

"El Rinoceronte," he laughed. "The Rhino. The man's a beast. He crosses the border for special occasions but mostly he stars at a private club down in Mexico. People come from all over the world to watch him perform. He has a waiting list of women wanting to be his lover. You liked him?"

"He was fascinating. All those tats and piercings. He looked scary and intimidating. His cock was enormous."

"Biggest I've ever seen. He told me he was born fairly big but he also uses a plant that grows in the hills farther south; injections, creams, and pills. He says there's a seventy percent chance it does nothing, ten percent chance it makes your cock grow, and a twenty percent chance it makes your stuff shrink. He offered me some and I said no thanks. Twenty percent? Fuck that."

"Yeah."

Easy decision, I thought, when your cock is already naturally big.

"Do you want me to get some for you?"

Ouch.

"No, I'm good. The risk is too high."

He studied my face. There was nothing cruel in his eyes. He was sincerely asking. I knew he had another question and moments later he asked it.

"Would a smaller cock excite you?"

I was about to blurt no, but didn't. Would it? Andrew went on. "I mean no disrespect. I've seen your face when we're side by side. I get a little humiliation turns you on. You're not the first man I've seen feel this way. Think about it. The stuff is insanely expensive but if you want to try some, I'll buy it for you."

We both lay there naked and I looked down at our soft dicks. Andrew's scrotum was twice my size.

He read my mind. "His sperm count is off the charts, too. The supplement affects everything. He produces jizz like a racehorse. Scared me the first time I saw him shoot. He gave a woman a facial and we were shocked. She had puddles of sperm in her eye sockets for Christ's sake. Does Emma want him?"

"No. I suspect he's not her style. I've never brought the guy up and neither has she. I bet she thinks he's disgusting."

"Don't make that bet. We were across the bed from you that night and before you showed up Emma said he was intriguing."

"Really?"

"Yeah, that was her word; intriguing. I never mentioned him again but something about him got to her."

That gave me something to think about. I made a mental note to ask Emma about it, but forgot.

"Hey," Andrew said. "While we're on the subject of sperm, I don't know what precautions you guys take but if Emma gets pregnant, I'll pay for a paternity test. If it's mine, I'll pay you guys a fortune for her to carry it."

My stomach flipped and then flopped. Honestly, I'd not given much thought to the serious side of our new life. Emma pregnant with my bosses' baby? Holy shit! Blood rushed to my penis and I casually moved my leg to hide my reaction from him. Why was that idea so hot?

"I'm sure you guys are being super careful and I highly doubt anything will happen, but you never know. Nature is a bitch. I just wanted to float that out there so you knew in advance how I felt."

"Yeah, no problem. Why do you want a kid? I thought you'd be a bachelor to your dying day."

He laughed. "I don't want to raise it. I just want to know he or she is out there. I just want my lineage continued. You guys are great parents. I've seen you with your kids. I hate the idea of dying and ending my family line. I'd put the child in my will."

Amazing. "Yeah, good to know. I'll tell Emma."

"Fantastic. Let me know what she says."

Time, as they say, flies.

The project Andrew gave me was a massive success and I was promoted to Vice President. I never mentioned Andrew's offer to Emma.

With our new income, Emma stopped looking for work. My sales stayed strong and for Christmas he gave me a new Mercedes. I was floored.

New Year's Eve sailed by.

In February, I flew Emma to Paris for a week to celebrate Valentine's Day. Before we could take a breath, summer loomed again. Andrew announced the date for this year's island get-away, calling it the "Prisoners of Halfmoon Key Annual Extravaganza." We made arrangements for the kids.

Again with the heat. Sticky air and unrelenting, brilliant sunlight falling on your head like red chimney bricks. Light so bright it hurt your eyes even behind sunglasses.

"Enough of this bullshit," Emma grumbled. "I'm going for a swim."

She stood and I glanced over. How far we'd come.

Emma wore tiny bikini bottoms and nothing else, her big tits a golden brown. Debbie, three chairs over, was completely nude. Paul wore ridiculously small white Speedos that Debbie teased him about.

Paul was even more like me than me; I'd seen Debbie fuck a dozen men over the last year and Paul was right there watching and jacking off. I've seen him eat fresh cum out of Debbie's pussy. I've seen him suck cum right out of a cock. Once, he and Debbie kissed passionately while a street-hard thug fucked her ass and then his and then back to hers and then back to his. The brute finished by pounding Paul until filling his ass with cum. Not my thing but Paul and Debbie loved it. I knew right now under that Speedo, Paul wore a tight stainless-steel penis cage. Emma has several times asked me to try one. She says I've always been the one in charge of our sex-life and she thinks she'd like to be the boss every now and then. So far I've declined.

Emma headed for the water. She'd lost a little weight over the last twelve months, performing naked in front of people is fantastic motivation, but she still had that all-over soft look I loved so much. Her tits were big as ever, which thrilled me.

I heard Andrew call out from down the beach. I raised my head and saw him pointing at a bank of storm clouds boiling on the horizon. I lifted to one elbow.

“Again?” I mumbled. “What the hell?” Then I remembered we were in hurricane alley at the peak of the season, so, yeah, again. Andrew jogged up.

“I just got the weather report. Big storm shifted our way. Not like last time but still pretty fierce.”

“How long before it hits?”

“Hour. Maybe two.”

“Thanks.”

He wore wrap-around white linen pants that tied at the waist and no shirt and the tube of his penis was visible down the pant leg.

It was a much smaller party this year. Many declined after last year’s storm and kidnapping fiasco, but also he sent out fewer invitations. He’d mentioned to me he wanted something more private this time and I’d sarcastically suggested he leave the convicts in their cells. Many of the guests were from his European offices. With a smaller crowd, and especially a European one, we could all be a lot more open and carefree and often walked around the grounds only partially clothed, which is what indirectly led to Emma spending last night with Andrew in the mansion.

We’d arrived on the island a few days ago and settled right in, nabbing the same bungalow from the year before. When we learned Andrew had invited so few people and that most of them were from sexually liberal countries, Debbie joked about how she could walk around topless. Andrew told her to go ahead and, in fact, Emma joined her an hour later, complaining of the heat and humidity. After that Andrew announced it was a clothing-optional vacation and that sealed the deal. The staff loved it too. All that skin had everyone horny. Sexual tension filled the air.

We ate dinner late but everyone from StoneWork US had eaten earlier so none of the individuals at the table knew Emma was my wife. She took a seat next to Andrew while I was washing my hands and by the time I got to the table the only seat open was at the other end. She further disguised the point by flirting with Andrew throughout dinner, acting familiar and wifely.

After we finished everyone moved to the den and Andrew started King Kong on the big screen and Emma again took the seat next to him. Debbie poked her head in and asked if I'd seen Paul and I said no, and she then made a funny face at the distance between Emma and I. She left to look for him.

Everyone paired up except me. I knew none of these people so I nabbed a plush armchair and settled in to watch the film, keeping one eye on my flirtatious and wayward wife.

Soon the sounds of kissing and the rustle of touching filled the darkened room. Andrew's Euro friends were just as horny as his American ones. I was a fifth-wheel, sitting alone in my chair.

The screen provided enough light for me to watch the escapades going on around me. Emma and Andrew made out for a long time, tenderly running hands over each other. She lowered her mouth to his bare nipple and after a minute continued down to his lap. Her hands worked his draw-strings and a moment later his thick shaft appeared. She aimed the head into her mouth as her delicate hands stroked the shaft.

All around the circle of guests, people stopped to watch. I heard comments about how gorgeous she was, how sexy, how firm her big tits were and her round ass. They all had something nice to say and I hated they did not know she was with me. Someone said they made such an attractive couple and someone else followed that with what a lucky man he was to have her. My blood turned cold. We'd been swingers for a year now and yet these strangers succeeded in making me jealous. I wanted them to know the truth; Emma was with me! That's my stunning wife, thank you very much. I knew over the next few days they'd see us together and the truth would make the rounds, but right now their ignorance was a thorn in my side.

Andrew leaned back in his chair and Emma put on a show. She knew everyone watched her. A glance at my face told her what I was feeling. She toyed with it. She sucked his cock like she was in love with him and not just in love with his dick and my heart ached. The anguish was strong and tore me up inside.

I loved it.

Her gaze drifted around the gathering and I followed where she looked. Hands were everywhere and I saw cocks and tits and pussy fondled and caressed. She realized she led the room and they responded to her actions with Andrew. She smiled. When her eyes again found mine, a wicked look crept into them. She held my gaze but lowered her mouth and began to suck Andrew but with the goal of antagonizing me.

“I love your cock, Baby,” she told him. “You’re so big. You get so hard. You have a man’s cock. When you fuck me, I leave the world behind.”

I heard the truth in every word.

She stopped sucking long enough to slip out of her T-shirt and shorts and then knelt between his knees and slid him back into her mouth. He softly brushed her long hair off her face and gazed adoringly down at her.

The group removed clothing too. Mouths closed on cocks and fingers penetrated pussies. Soft moans began to fill the room. Everyone watched Andrew and Emma together.

I’ve never seen Andrew get so hard. The veins along his shaft looked like earthworms in the dark. Emma licked his cock like ice cream and suckled his fat balls. I saw her suck a droplet of cum from the slit at the tip. She squeezed his cock in her fist and lifted the next drop with the tip of her tongue and crawled up his body to kiss him. A murmur of excitement ran through the crowd as my wife shared Andrew’s semen with him.

I undressed too. I felt like a pervert as the only one without a partner.

Emma maintained their kiss as she reached down for his turgid cock. She split her pussy lips and lined him up to her hole and then slowly sank her weight onto him. I’d seen Andrew take my wife before but something was in the air tonight. This was different. Emma made little mewling noises and Andrew moaned like he hadn’t had sex in ten years.

I wondered if he had shared his surrogate idea with her, too. I wondered if her heightened passion was fueled by a desire to conceive with him.

My body heat rose sharply. Their kisses lingered. Their touches carried so much feeling. They were sharing deep intimacies and it hurt like hell to watch but made my dick hard as stone.

She began lifting her hips and easing them back down and my eyes focused on his big balls. How many hundreds of million sperm did he carry? Andrew is a virile and robust man. He might have well over a billion and my sweet wife would soon get them all. Even in the dim lighting I saw his steely shaft glitter with her arousal.

I looked around the circle again. Everyone saw what I saw. Their eyes were welded to this hot couple making love. No one could look away.

I had no partner so I began to stroke as Emma fucked him.

After a while he lifted her and put her on her back in the chair. He fucked her deep and incredibly slow. It was tortuous to watch. Emma never took her eyes from his. They drew out every moment they shared and I agonized over every second.

The crowd could take no more and turned to each other.

Andrew scooped Emma into his arms and stood, her legs around his waist, her arms around his neck. Her weight sank her pussy all the way down onto his inches and forced all the air from her lungs. The pleasing discomfort of him buried so deep flashed across her face.

They kissed like newlyweds. Emma hugged him tightly and Andrew backed away from the chair and headed for the archway. Only the tight bag of his scrotum remained outside her body. I followed them as they kissed and Andrew aimed for his bedroom. He swung the door closed. I lost sight of my wife.

I heard the door lock.

I raced around outside but the curtains were drawn. His house had swallowed her. She was his tonight. Only his. All his. I could only imagine how many times he'd take my wife and fill her with seed.

I returned to the den to dress. My balls ached, my hard penis felt scorching. A tightness ran through my skeleton and I realized I hunched from the weight of an invisible burden. For the first time, I felt disconnected from my wife. Andrew had her. She was wholly and truly his alone. We'd never played our escapades this way.

I hurried back to our bungalow and spent the night furiously masturbating. I don't know why I was so affected. That old feeling I used to get when seeing Andrew the morning after had returned, as if by submitting to him so completely, Emma forced my submission to him as well. I liked it.

At work, and in every other aspect of my life, I'm a hustler who doesn't take no for an answer. I'm aggressive, persistent, and relentless.

But let a confident, successful man with a big heavy cock seduce my wife and I fall right in line, wondering what else I can do to please him.

I fell asleep with my dick in my hand.

Emma returned to me in the morning, glowing. I shared my feelings with her from the night before and she listened intently, admitting she'd felt something special in the air too. When I asked if he'd mentioned being a surrogate for him, her eyebrows shot up.

"No, no he hadn't," she answered.

She seemed calm but I saw her mind raced, weighing, calculating. She wondered if she could carry a baby for a man that was not her husband. She pondered how she'd explain to family, friends, and our kids. She imagined herself pregnant with Andrew's child.

Now that man stood next to my chaise lounge and we watched my wife swim topless in the Gulf of Mexico. I glanced again at the bulge in his pant leg and saw he'd grown from watching Emma take her dip. It excited me after having her all night, he wanted my wife again already.

I felt proud. He didn't love her like I did. I felt no threat from the man or Emma and Andrew. They had feelings for each other; after that much sex you'd have to. But I knew the feelings were not of a standard relationship type. My marriage was not threatened. Two men adored and desired the same woman and that woman adored and desired her two men. But I was her husband. Andrew was her Bull-cocked Lover. Our roles fit us perfectly.

I realized I felt a connection to Andrew I'd not been aware of, a connection which had been growing for almost a year. He looked down at me looking up at him and smiled. He looked back out to sea, watching Emma walk up the sand, big tits swaying. He was still my boss but now I also had a sense of kinship, a brother-in-arms. We shared esprit de corps.

The secret I'd been keeping from him popped into my head. I decided in an instant.

"Hey, Andrew, I've been meaning to tell you. I think Emma and I found a ship wreck on the far side of your island. We should investigate it."

He looked down at me.

"Really?"

"Yeah. Remember last year when I borrowed the scuba gear? Emma and I found some trinkets and I thought I saw something on the ocean floor. In the excitement, I forgot all about it. We should go back."

White lies are okay when used to escape a big lie, right?

He scanned the clouds on the horizon. "Too late today but with luck that front will miss us and we can go tomorrow."

The front didn't miss us. The front slammed into Halfmoon Key around midnight. A large palm frond shattered the window of our bungalow but fortunately we weren't there to experience it. We were in Andrew's room with another couple fucking like mad to the sounds of the storm. We had the French doors and all the windows open and just let the wind and rain howl through the room.

As always, when he has more than one pussy to choose from, Andrew always nuts inside Emma.

In the morning Andrew set the groundskeeper to clean up and then had Charles get the boat ready. I told Emma what I'd done and she felt relief, like she'd been hiding a secret from a friend.

Charles barely remembered our outing from a year previous and I had to give him directions all over again. Vegetation was a year denser and we motored past the inlet the first time but I had him swing the boat around and when I spotted a tall Poisonwood tree, I told him to drop anchor.

I explained to Andrew what I'd seen last time but minimized how much exploring Emma and I had done. He was excited to go so we ran a quick test and over the side we went. I acted confused for a few minutes and then as if I'd remembered and aimed over the shelf and for the ocean floor. Andrew followed.

As the murk cleared and our eyes adjusted, the shape of a galleon formed. Andrew's helmet had floodlight LEDs, which he clicked on, and brilliant light filled our pit.

Adrenaline surged. Hundreds of tiny silver sparkles shone back at us. We looked at each other with bug-eyes. He knew what he was doing so I moved aside. Within minutes he'd cleared a section. Silverware and jewelry glittered all around. He pointed towards the surface and we left the ocean floor behind.

"That's a lot," he exclaimed as he pulled his mask off. "Well done, Sam!"

He swam over to the boat and told Charles to call the house and have a second boat join us. He gave additional instructions for which tools to bring and who to call in Miami. He turned and hugged me fiercely.

Over the next few days we learned the ship, La Delgada Señora, was part of a small fleet attached to the Angustias, a Spanish galleon headed out of Havana in seventeen thirty-three, when a hurricane hit and first scattered and then sunk them all. We scrubbed the ocean bottom until we were sure we'd found everything.

Halfmoon Key was swarming with reporters within hours. They interviewed Andrew and then me and then Charles, but Andy and Charles gave me all the credit. The ambassador to Spain contacted us hours later and came to visit the island and offered Andrew a reward, which he took. We'd not hit some monstrous mother-lode but the haul was decent.

We celebrated over a casual dinner that night and Andrew handed me a check for eighty-five percent. I was floored. Emma cried with joy.

Well after midnight we'd moved to the ballroom when my wife approached me about one of Andrew's European associates, Marcel. She found him attractive and wondered if I was okay with her spending some time with him. I knew what she really asked.

"You mean alone."

She gave a quick nod.

"I must tell you, Emma, this new thing you're doing hurts. I admit it sounds exciting and dangerous, like walking along a cliff's edge, but we've always shared these adventures. What you did recently with Andrew and what you are now suggesting worry me. Why are you shutting me out?"

She held my chin and kissed me. "Sweet Sam, I'm twisting the dagger. You like it, don't you? You told me you masturbated the whole night I was with Andrew."

"True."

"If deep down you truly hated it, how could you have done that? I think you love it. I'm thinking of new ways to play."

"Is that why you do it? To torture me?"

"Partly, but also because I feel naughty. I'm a married woman, alone and in another man's arms. Baby, I get so wet. I feel so adventurous."

"It scares me in many ways."

"Yeah," she grinned. "Like a roller-coaster."

I sighed. "Point him out to me."

She scanned the crowd. "Over there. Under the sunset painting."

I looked where she indicated and saw a tall mulatto man, more black than white, about thirty-six, shaved head and small gold hoop earring. He had angular features and an athletic build and even I could tell he was handsome. I felt instantly intimidated.

Emma giggled. "Your face tells me exactly how you feel," she said. "Which makes me want him even more."

She kissed me again and wandered away, grinning at me once over her shoulder. Minx. I watched her ass disappear into the crowd.

I looked down into my glass and saw only ice cubes so I headed for the bar. After a quick refill, I found the sunset painting and looked beneath it. Emma stood inches from Marcel, her fat tits trapped behind the twin yellow triangles of her bikini top, pressed against his muscular chest. He had his fingers laced behind her head. She held her denim skirt tightly to his hips. They shared an animated conversation, smiling and laughing. Emma caught me looking but kept her face blank as she studied me.

A strong hand clapped me on the back.

"Here's the man of the hour!" Andrew spun me around. He was tipsy. "I know it wasn't a huge haul," he continued. "But I love that our names will be written down in history as the guys that found her. We're Indiana Jones, man! That's wonderful."

He raised his glass of Scotch. "To the Slender Lady."

I raised my glass to touch his. "To the Slender Lady."

We gulped alcohol. He went on about the adrenaline in his veins as we approached the ocean floor and he saw the skeleton of the ship and his excitement uncovering that first trinket. Others were pulled into the conversation and it was twenty minutes before I could check on Emma again. Of course, she and Marcel were gone. I told Andrew I was headed outside for fresh air and he nodded, already focused on some black-haired short skirt from Spain.

I had no idea where Emma was or if I should even try to find her. I wanted to watch, because I liked that, but then I wondered if I'd ever witness Emma do something I'd rather not see, like form an emotional connection to a man which would rattle me. I doubted it, but one never knows what life has in store. In the end, I returned to our cabana to wait.

She came home two hours later, high on weed, looking like she'd fucked a football team. Her legs barely held her upright. I wore a light robe, opened in front, and as I surveyed her carnal evidence my penis rose. Sperm trickled from her pussy and a dried circle looped her mouth. Her lips were swollen from use and her pussy looked ravaged.

I helped her sit on the bed and she spotted my erection. She closed her fingers around it.

“I love you, Sam.”

“I love you too, Emma. You were a bad girl tonight.”

“No, not tonight. I’ve always been one, on the inside. This last year has taught me I can be one on the outside, too. My amazing husband loves me no matter what. I’m the luckiest woman. I hope you know how much I love you.”

“I do, Baby.”

She faced me, suddenly serious, blood-shot eyes deep red. “No.” She held my chin as I tried to undress her. “I mean really, really, deeply love you. We have so much to do together, so much life to live. I feel like we woke up this last year and only now are realizing our true selves. The universe is opening doors. This new lifestyle has many unexplored levels to it. We’re only just beginning.”

I chuckled. I felt what she was saying. “I think you’re right, Honey. This has been a great year.”

“I have an idea, Sam.”

“What?”

“Let’s buy a house, a big one, like Andrew’s. We can be the king and queen. Andrew can come visit us at our place. You know what I’m saying?”

“I do.” I left the kids out of it for now.

I tossed her bikini top and skirt against the wall. My penis waved in front of her face and she instinctively guided it into her hot wet mouth. She worked me over for several silent minutes.

“Should I give Andrew his baby?”

Blood surged to my dick.

“Should we have this conversation while you’re high?”

She nodded slowly. “I kind of need to be high a little bit. This is serious shit. Life-altering, you know?”

She looked all around the room, her gaze drifting from furniture to luggage to wallpaper. She continued. “You’re such a good daddy, Sam. I mean it. I watch you with our kids. You’d be an amazing father to this child too. You wouldn’t care it was mine and Andrew’s. You’d only see the half that was mine. You’re centered. You have a strong ego.”

“You’ve thought about this.”

“I have. We tell family and friends the baby is ours, of course. You and Andrew have similar skin tone, hair, and eye color. Only a paternity test would prove the baby wasn’t yours.”

She put my dick back in her mouth for a minute.

“You’re saying you want to do it.”

She stopped sucking and aimed bleary eyes at me. “I’m leaning that way.”

“Why, Emma? Why do you want to have Andrew’s baby?”

“Too many reasons to name,” she said. “We owe him, he’s wonderful, money, it’s terribly scandalous and turns us both on. I feel how hard your dick is, Sam. You love a little humiliation. This would be a big dose yet you’re still hard as steel. Will you consider it?”

Was this crazy? No man lets his wife get pregnant with another man, right? She was right; I found the idea scorching hot. My balls were so tight my scrotum was almost gone. Forget about the money; this was major life event stuff. I tried to ignore how hot the thought made me and imagine the negative possibilities of doing such a thing, but all I could think of was if we ever got divorced, which I knew we wouldn’t, we’d have one child that wasn’t mine. But Emma had been right; I love being a dad. I’d still care for that baby like my own.

I was too turned on to think straight. What turned me on the most was the way my wife wanted it. Emma wanted Andrew to get her pregnant.

I tried to understand what it must be like from a female point of view but failed. What do I know about carrying a baby inside me? I found it far easier to imagine what Andrew would feel and I admit, that was pretty intoxicating. Knocking up another man’s wife had to be the ultimate power-trip. What an ego rush. I imagined getting Debbie pregnant and looking at Paul and my dick grew even harder.

Emma’s question still hung in the air. I couldn’t answer. Conflicting emotions raged inside me and kept my mouth shut.

Emma sucked hard and surprised me with a finger up my ass. My head exploded! I grunted and spurt a blast of jizz down her throat before I knew what was happening to me. I saw stars. She finger-fucked my rectum and I came so hard I started coughing. Sperm flew out of my like I had no control.

Where had she learned that trick and why hadn’t I known of it before now? This orgasm was different from any other. I guess she rubbed my prostate, and that felt astonishing, but there was also a delicious sensation from my sphincter having something to hold and squeeze as my balls drained. My head spun.

We flopped onto our bed. She was asleep almost instantly. Poor thing. I did a slow examination of her body, thrilled by each bite mark and handprint I found. I gently parted her pussy lips and eyed the cloudy milk leaking, fully aware that was black man's sperm flowing out of my wife. Hot. Marcel had used her like a whore and her sweet and serenely sleeping face told me she'd loved it.

For three days, our collection of friends and co-workers ate, drank, slept, and fucked. Emma stuck by my side throughout. I saw her wave to Marcel a few times and Andrew too, but at least for now, she'd scratched that go-it-alone itch. She wanted to be near me all the time.

On the fourth day, the crowd began to leave. Ones and twos, at first, but then more the next day and even more after that. By Friday afternoon only myself and Emma and Debbie and Paul remained of the guests. Andrew sent most of the staff home too and the five of us moved into the mansion.

Friday night Debbie and Emma spent with Andrew in a loud and wild threesome while Paul and I watched Die Hard in the den. He kept shifting in his seat, trying to get comfortable, and I asked if he was wearing that steel cage.

"Oh yeah."

"Can I see it?"

"Why?"

"Emma has mentioned she wants me to try one."

He shook his head. "Not your style, Sammy. You're too assertive."

I considered mentioning Andrew's breeding offer but decided not to. The whole thing seemed intensely personal.

"Emma says I'm always in charge. She wants to try reversing our roles sometimes."

He gave a little shrug. "Try it then. Maybe I'm wrong about you."

"What's it like? Why do you wear it?"

He untied the front of his sweat pants and pulled them down. His dick was wrapped in heavy wire mesh, his testicles had thick wires separating them and pulling them apart. I noticed for the first time the cap over the head was held in place by a hollow tube which ran inside his urethra an inch or two. I leaned closer and he lifted his hips slightly.

“Since you already share Emma, I don’t need to tell you about that aspect. I notice you rarely take another woman, preferring to watch Emma with a man.”

“All true.”

“I feel the same way watching Debbie, only more so. This cage is an extension of that arrangement. I couldn’t take another woman if I wanted to. I feel a constant reminder of Debbie’s higher position.”

I noticed his trapped penis had begun to swell. Tiny squares of flesh poked through the mesh.

“Is this turning you on?” I asked.

He shifted again, lifting his hips and moving his penis and scrotum to rest on his inner thigh. He looked about the same size as me but it was hard to tell with the cage around him.

“Yeah. No worries, nothing gay. There is also an element of humiliation from wearing this and I love being humiliated. Nothing too rough but just you seeing me like this is pretty exciting. Plus, I can hear Andrew making Debbie moan.”

I tilted my head. He was right. Someone was making her moan and I heard Emma her moan too. I wondered if Andrew serviced both women at that moment; cock in one, tongue in the other. Paul gave me a look.

“Now imagine your dick is locked away. Another man makes Emma moan like that and your penis has been locked away, any chance of reclaiming your wife eliminated.”

He kind of had a point. My turn to shift uncomfortably. Emma had been right; there were yet many undiscovered facets to this life.

“You ever sucked a dick?” he blurted.

“No.”

He nodded his head knowingly.

We finished the movie and said goodnight, then retired to our rooms. I spent the night listening to Andrew and Debbie drive Emma wild. In the morning, Paul and Debbie headed for home.

If.

My mouth might as well have been stuffed with cotton. I trembled all over. We were well past midnight.

Andrew stood at the foot of the bed, absurdly rampant and throbbing. His cock head was brilliant red, the plump shaft behind it, purple.

Emma lay nude on the bed, her torso propped up with pillows. She gazed down her body and between her legs at that angry monster coming towards her.

If.

Emma and Andrew only had eyes for each other. I sat off to the side, watching, trying to find a comfortable position. When a clear drop of cum welled at the end of his cock, to me, it might as well have been poison.

IF.

Once Paul and Debbie left the island, Andrew, Emma, and I had a nice long talk. In the end, we reached an agreement; for sixty days, Emma would only fuck Andrew. If she became pregnant, she'd carry the baby for him. If not, she'd go back on birth control and Andrew would pay us half the money anyway.

I couldn't breathe.

Andrew wanted to get started immediately. I thought we should wait until we got back to Vegas. Emma sided with him, eager to open her legs to this conquering king. I saw it in her eyes; this arrangement changed everything.

She looked at him with runaway lust and insane levels of desire. Andrew would be fucking her now with purpose. This went way beyond the pursuit of pleasure, physical and voyeuristic.

My wife and I stared at his enormous cock and I realized now I was just like Paul. I wore a cage too. Mine wasn't metal or visible but for the next sixty days, I had my penis wrapped up and removed from the equation.

If you think that made my dick go soft, you are dead wrong. I was as hard and throbbing as Andrew. The difference was my erection served no purpose, I would ejaculate to no end. My seed would hit the carpet or the bedspread but his would get injected far up inside my lovely wife where they would quickly set to work seeking her egg.

He reached the bed and walked forward on his knees. His cock swayed like an elephant's tusk. How gratifying this moment must be for him. I wondered how many times he'd take her over the next two months.

We hadn't discussed that. I supposed as often as work or the other inconveniences of life allowed.

Why did his testicles have to be so big? I felt like I was only truly seeing his cock and balls for the first time.

Emma whimpered with impatience. She wiggled her hips, ready for penetration. Her labia were already swollen with anticipation and excitement. She wanted him so badly. I realized if I tried to stop it now, neither would allow it.

Andrew kissed up her thighs to her stomach and then higher to suckle her nipple. Emma groaned loudly with desire. I saw his erection brush her cunt hole and she jumped.

He moved his mouth higher and they kissed. "Put me in you," he whispered.

She bit her bottom lip and reached for him but stopped, reconsidering. She turned to me. "Sam, come here. Show me this is okay. Take his cock and guide it into me."

I hesitated but then left my chair. What was I going to do? Besides, I'd held his cock and pushed it into her before. He leaned back so I could see how close he was to her opening. I gripped him at the thick base and nudged him forward. His head covered her opening, so much wider than her hole.

"Kiss me, Honey," she whined.

I leaned over and pressed my lips to hers as I pulled him forward. She exhaled as he speared her. I pulled harder and slid my arm out of the way as their bodies met. He sank every meaty inch deep. My wife sighed.

I returned to my chair and began stroking my dick, but not too fast. I suspected this would take a while. I tried to keep my attention on his big cock pumping in and out but occasionally glanced at them kissing. His mouth explored her body, devouring her breasts and nipples, nibbling her neck. This was not a simple fuck and I knew she'd orgasm fast, which she did. I almost shot my load way too soon hearing her cry out.

He slowed while she recovered and then started up again. Her cunt clung to his shaft like pink taffy. Eventually he worked every inch he had into her and held it there, watching her writhe. I was fascinated by his big balls resting against her asshole. The sack looked as big as a softball. I tried not to think about how much sperm they carried.

Emma came again right away. I was focused on his shaft sliding in and out when I heard her suck in air and growl. He pumped her faster this time and my wife threw her head back and howled. What did that huge cannon feel like?

He grabbed her wrists and pinned them to the pillow. He shoved her ankles wider with his feet. She was a beautiful butterfly, pinned to a board, and he began to pound her tiny hole relentlessly. She took it. She took it and raised her hips to meet him until her muscles gave out and she collapsed into the bed. He hammered my wife until his sperm began to boil from deep in his nuts and the potent froth started to rise up that long, hard shaft until exploding like lava deep in her fertile womb. He pumped and pumped and pumped out a deluge of semen, howling like a beast as he unleashed his flood of cum. I listened as she begged him for it.

I stopped stroking lest I shoot.

He lay atop her, his fat cock a fleshy plug in her tunnel, catching his breath. She curled her legs around his and when he released her wrists she wrapped her arms around his neck. They murmured, too low for me to hear, and remained in that position a long time. I stayed hard, waiting, wondering.

When his hips began a slow rhythm, I knew he was ready again. This was so much more than him getting his money's worth. He wanted to put a baby in my wife. He wanted Emma carrying his child.

Nnnnngh, fuck, that's a big cock," my wife groaned. She lifted her legs away from him and pointed her toes at the ceiling, giving Andrew the deepest possible access to her vagina. Another trick she'd learned with someone else.

A glob of sperm oozed out of my erect penis and dribbled down the shaft, resting on my balls.

Andrew bore down and started long-stroking. His balls had loosened a little from his first orgasm so they began to slap Emma's ass. I risked touching my penis. The sights and sounds were simply too hot not to. Her hands clawed his back, trying to get him deeper, which was not possible. One hand moved to his ass, where she pulled hard, the other sank fingernails into his shoulder.

"Cum in me," she snarled. "Oh, God, I love it when your big cock explodes inside me."

I let go of my penis. Emma was killing me. I'd never been so excited. Andrew bit her neck and his hips pounded hard.

“Aggrh!” she cried. “Fuck! Here I cum. Here I cum again! Aaaahhh!”

Her body locked down and her head flew back. Andrew’s face showed the wet vise-grip her cunt had on him. He grunted and rutted and started to sweat. He battered the tunnel that enveloped his cock, driving my wife over the edge. Her head snapped side to side as her long orgasm shattered her world.

His ass clenched and he drove his long dick into her heart. I knew that slab of beef spit more sperm. His ass clenched again and his balls lifted, he groaned and then clenched again. More semen shot into her.

She went limp and then he did too. He dropped on top of her. Neither moved. I looked down at my lap, my penis covered with leaking drool. I was dying to cum but waited still. I don’t know why.

They drifted off to sleep. I sat gazing at my wife and her big-cocked lover, his member once again a fleshy stopper in her vagina. I crawled on the bed so we had her between us and fell asleep too.

We awoke around noon and showered and dressed. Emma and I packed and I discovered Paul had left a gift in my suitcase. I unwrapped it and looked down at a shiny new steel cock cage. Emma laughed out loud.

“Nice!” she said. “I always liked Paul.”

“Don’t get your hopes up,” I countered. I thought about leaving it behind but added it to my luggage.

We took a helicopter to Miami but Andrew stayed behind to close the house and pay everyone. On the flight home Emma and I were strangely quiet. Finally, I asked if everything was alright.

“With me? Absolutely. I’m a little worried about you, I admit.”

“Why?”

She gave me a look. “Hello? Did you not just watch me and Andrew? You had to see how different that was between us. I worried we hurt you. Can you take sixty more days of that?”

“I saw it. I noted the difference. I guess we’ll see.”

“And you’re okay with it?”

“Yes. It hurt, that’s true, but watching you is exciting. The hurt adds to my arousal. Also, sixty-one days from now I’ll fuck you to death, so you have that to look forward to.”

She rested her head on my shoulder and looked out the airplane window.

“What if I get pregnant?”

“If,” I said.

“If.”

“Then we follow the plan, but that’s a big if. Remember how hard the first two were for us.”

She grinned. “It’s exciting. I enjoy being pregnant. It’s scandalous it will be another man’s baby. What wild secrets we have, what an exciting life we lead. If I do, I say we keep it secret from our special friends. No one needs to know Andrew has a kid. If he gets me pregnant, only we three should know.”

“If,” I said again.

Her grin grew into a smile. “You know he’s coming over tomorrow, right? We have two weeks before the kids get home. I bet he fucks me every night.”

My throat closed and my mouth went dry. I’d wondered how often he’d take her. I forced myself calm.

“We’ll have to wait and see what actually happens,” I said. “He’s a busy man. Road-blocks will arise.”

She snuggled farther under my arm, her head on my chest.

“I’m happy either way,” she said. “That island will always be a magical place as far as I’m concerned.”

I laughed. “We were held prisoners there, Emma, remember?”

She lifted her head to meet my eyes. “No,” she announced. “That’s not correct, Sam. You have it backward. Halfmoon Key set us free.”

Visit my blog; MyEroticBunny.tumblr.com