

Rachael Gets Her Affairs in Order

MATTHEW LEE

Rachael Gets Her Affairs in Order

By Matthew Lee

BunnyLovesBigCarrots@gmail.com

Chapter 1

Rachael Orchard stirred the lemon slice in her sangria with a fingertip. She glanced around the airport bar to see if anyone caught her and discovered the place had filled up. Three older men in suits sat in the corner booth watching.

The bartender sat another sangria in front of her.

“You have admirers,” he grinned.

“Thanks, Jimmy. The three suits in the corner?”

“Yup.”

Rachael finished her drink in a gulp and raised the new glass in a toast. The three men raised theirs in unison.

Rachael sipped and smiled; Jimmy’s sangria was the best thing about the Miami airport. The men waved her over and, as always, she collected her purse and went, pulling her wheeled carry-on behind. Company is better than alone.

All three hurried to exit the booth. The oldest man, around sixty with only a few gray wisps for hair, extended his hand.

“I’m Victor,” he said. “This is James and Robert.”

James was short and thick with massive arms and legs and Rachael guessed retired body-builder. Robert was tallest and strikingly handsome and wore wire-rimmed glasses and a black sportscoat which did not match his black pants, but Rachael doubted anyone other than she noticed. Victor asked when everyone’s flight left and as Rachael’s left last, she took the middle spot in the booth. Robert ordered another round.

The men knew each other as competitors; all three sold industrial machine and their paths crossed frequently.

“What do you do, Rachael?” James asked.

“Drugs,” she joked. “No, seriously, I’m freelance pharma. I used to work for Pfizer but I got so dang good at this I went rogue. I got licensed in all forty-eight contiguous states and now I take contract work, flying around and selling for whichever company pays me the most.”

“Your husband must miss you,” said Victor, fishing.

Rachael smiled. “Very much. Walter, my husband, is a movie producer and travels as much as me. We can go weeks without seeing each other.”

“That sounds awful,” James said.

“It is, but the money is great and we won’t do it forever.”

The conversation moved on to war stories about life as a salesperson and the booth erupted with laughter often.

“I thought you were a model,” Robert said. “Tall, gorgeous, thin, beautiful blue eyes; all the boxes checked.”

“Thank you. I was until about ten years ago. If you think traveling salesman is hard, try modeling. The pictures look glamorous but the life most definitely is not.”

“Any kids?” asked Victor.

“No. I still have time. Maybe in a few years and then just one.”

“You carry any drugs in your bag?” James said, rubbing his hands together.

“You looking for Pfizer handouts, James?”

The men laughed.

“Actually, I do,” Rachael admitted. “I’m only supposed to offer them to doctors but everyone breaks that rule. For now, anyway. Rumor is DEA will start cracking down.”

She lowered her voice and leaned over the table.

“You boys want some free Viagra? Surprise the little lady when you get home?”

All three nodded like little children sneaking candy.

“Robert, grab my carry-on.”

Minutes later she passed around three small blue packets. “Half a pill will be plenty, and read the waring first. Anybody have heart problems?”

All three shook their heads.

“This should be fun. If we ever see each other again, remember to share the story. I’d love to know how your wives react. I’m sure none of you need the pill but better a gun to a knife fight and all.” She leaned in again. “Besides, you’ll get a little size boost too and who doesn’t love that?”

Always her favorite line to deliver, Rachael enjoyed the anticipation in their eyes.

Men and their preoccupation with size.

She moved to repack her case and noticed the top two buttons on her silk blouse had come undone, exposing deep cleavage.

“Oh for Christ’s sake,” she laughed. “Not one of you told me? How long have I been flashing you guys?”

Victor pointed across the bar to her original bar stool. “When you stood up and walked over. I thought that’s just how you liked to greet men.”

Robert and James chuckled.

“Why the fuck would any straight man tell you?” James added.

“In fact, you’ve got me thinking about taking my pill now,” Robert said.

Rachael playfully punched his shoulder and then buttoned her top. “Men.”

The waitress brought another round and conversation returned to work. Robert’s flight was called first and Rachael was sorry to see him go.

“Let’s all swap phone numbers,” Victor said. “Be good sometimes to have a kindred spirit to talk to.”

Four cell phones hit the table and numbers were passed around. Rachael felt a delightful tingle giving Robert her number.

Later, James’s flight was called and he finished his drink and wished everyone good luck. Victor and Rachael talked until Victor’s flight was announced and then he, too, collected his belongings and wished Rachael good luck, and an instant later the PA announced her flight had been canceled due to weather.

“Terrific,” she groaned.

“That’s awful,” Victor said.

“Happens all the time. I’ll just fly to a city close to home and drive the rest. Ugh.”

He gave her a friendly hug and headed for the gate.

Chapter 2

Eight hours and three flights later, Rachael stood at the Enterprise car rental counter in Flagstaff, Arizona, drumming her fingers.

“One?”

“I’m afraid so,” the bored woman behind the counter said.

“A Yaris?”

“Toyota makes an excellent vehicle.”

“All right.” Rachael handed over her credit card.

The moon was out but almost invisible behind dark clouds as the woman walked Rachael to the car.

“Are you expecting rain tonight?”

“Yes,” the woman replied. “But you are headed west and the storm is headed south. You’ll get some sprinkles but then you’ll be out of it. You should be home in about four hours.”

The attendant addressed a few last-minute instructions and handed over the keys. A quick handshake and the woman headed for the office. Rachael watched her go and then surveyed the empty lot. This late, no one was around. She opened the car door and removed her shoes, breathing a deep sigh as she wiggled her toes. Another quick look around and off came the bra, working down the sleeve of her blouse to be withdrawn like a magician’s scarf and thrown in the back seat. Lastly, the panties she’d put on almost fourteen hours earlier landed next to the bra. She shook her body to loosen her clothing before stepping around the car and loading her suitcase on the passenger seat.

“Thank God,” Rachael breathed. Cool night air swirled up her skirt.

Behind the wheel, she started the car and pulled into traffic. She made a few turns and then entered Interstate Freeway-Forty headed west.

She’d been driving just over an hour when she realized the need for coffee. She regretted not stopping at the last convenience store. The roads out here were rural and unlit and the warm car interior combined with her long day had her drowsy. Beyond the glare of her headlights she saw dim pine trees swallowed by darkness. Miles sailed by as she waited for signs of civilization, or even another motorist.

By her second hour the temperature had dropped considerably and raindrops started; big, fat balloons splashing her windshield and thumping her roof. The interior grew cold so she turned on the heater but that fogged the glass. She rolled the driver's window down an inch but the blast of arctic air made her shiver hard so the window came right back up.

"Damn it."

Mile after mile of pitch-black night enveloped her. Only the road directly in front was visible but staring too hard made her queasy. When the first snowflake fell, she began to suspect the woman at Enterprise had been wrong about the storm, and with another minute, her suspicion was confirmed. Soon Rachael drove through slush. Snow stuck to the rain on her windshield and the wipers just smeared everything around. The side windows were obscured.

After another hour, she thought she saw a gas station ahead. She slowed and took the off ramp but as she pulled into the lot she discovered a rest area with several cars in the lot, waiting out the storm. She wondered if they knew something she did not but too eager to finally be home, she pulled back onto the freeway. Walter was in Germany so no point in calling or sending him a text and it was too late to reach out to one of her girlfriends. She wasn't even sure where she was or how much longer she needed to drive.

On the road, flurries swirled and her tires occasionally slipped. She drove at half her former speed. She had just crested a small hill when the blizzard hit. Even on the highest setting her wipers could not keep the windshield clear. Blinded, she pulled to the shoulder and set her emergency flashers, realizing she must wait out the worst part of this storm. She dug her phone from her purse and discovered wherever she was, she had zero reception.

"I just want to go home!" she yelled, her voice loud inside the car. She opened her case and put on a light sweater before stepping outside. Cold wind sliced through her thin garments.

"Son of a bitch!"

The headlights illuminated two small cones of whirling snow. She looked up and down the freeway but saw neither headlight nor taillight. The outline of dark pines boxed her in on either side but she could not see beyond the first row. The winds were growing stronger so she returned to the car, locking the doors. She pulled her sweater tight and turned up the heat.

Cold woke her. The emergency flashers still worked, barely, but the engine had died. The heater fan blew cold air. The headlights were out. She turned the keys in the ignition and found them already on.

“Fuck.”

She cracked the driver’s door and ice fell inside. She stepped out into a surreal scene of moonlight on powder, every sharp angle muted by the smooth curve of snow. High clouds sailed by with patches of starry sky. The soft blanket on the freeway told her no vehicle had come by while she dozed.

For the first time, she felt afraid.

Get a grip, Rachael. You have two power bars, half an Italian sandwich, and a liter of water, and you’re parked next to a freeway. The storm has passed. Someone will come by soon.

She returned to the car and shut the door hard. She turned off the headlights but left the flashers on. She found an old National Geographic behind the driver’s seat and read every article to the light of her phone.

She’d lost track of time when she heard the distant thrumming. She tilted her head, listening intently, and realized the sound was coming closer. She quickly exited the car. Far down the freeway behind her, a billowing wall of snow churned in brilliant headlights. She quickly plucked her red skirt from her case and waved it over head.

Chapter 3

Brandon Waite leaned forward in his seat and tripped the wipers again.

Did I see a flash of red?

He downshifted and eased off the accelerator and the cloud of snow and ice, stirred up by his rig, shrank.

Far ahead he saw a small car on the shoulder. A lone woman stood waving a red flag in the dark. He slowed more and eased to the right, preparing to stop. As he drew closer, he saw what a stunning beauty she was; hair to the waist as straight as uncooked spaghetti and so dark brown it looked black. Her body was slender but her tight sweater could not hide her big tits. She wore ridiculous clothing for this weather; a tight black skirt, silky white blouse, and black pumps, but he wasn't about to complain. He stopped his rig even with her and powered down his passenger window. She climbed on the step and then the battery box to see him.

"Problem?" he rumbled.

Rachael summed the man up in an instant; redneck simpleton. He was around fifty, heavy, thick wrists and big hands resting on the steering wheel. His four-day growth of beard and messy hair told her he'd probably not showered for a day or two.

"Car died," she answered, waving at the vehicle behind her. "Can I get a ride?"

Brandon pursed his lips. He saw in her eyes what she thought of him.

"Where are you headed?"

"Whatever town is next," she answered. "I'll rent another car. I'm just trying to get home. I've been traveling almost twenty-four hours straight. I can pay you."

He studied her face. Closer now, he had to reassess his first impression. She was breathtaking. She held herself up with both hands clinging to the passenger door and that shoved her tits together. Her sweater had opened and glorious cleavage stared back at him.

What I would give.

"I don't need your money," he said. "I have plenty."

Rachael thought a little conversation might loosen him up. He was obviously pleased with her looks, like so many men before him, and she knew she could use that to get what she wanted.

"You're the only person to drive by all night. I can't believe you went out in this."

"I drive this route every Friday night, midnight to seven, rain or shine. Brandon Delivers is the name on the rig and I always do. Never missed a run yet."

"I have no idea how long I'd have to wait for the next person to come along but my heater's dead. Thank you for stopping. You're a good man."

"No, I ain't. You take a big risk jumping into a stranger's truck. I know some of the guys that make this run and you would not want to be alone with them.”

“But you’re all right, aren’t you, Brandon Delivers?”

“Grab your stuff. I’m headed for Vegas.”

“That’s home. Thanks again”

Rachael dropped to the snow and quickly gathered her items from the car. She saw her bra and panties in the back seat.

Nothing to do about that now, she thought. I can’t get dressed in front of him.

She stuffed them into her case and zippered it shut again. Moments later she was climbing the steps to the passenger seat and Brandon was searching for first gear. The rig pulled away with a shudder.

“I’m Rachael,” she said, extending a hand. He shook it.

She gazed around the interior of the cab noting all the gauges, knobs, and lights. The dash only came up to her knees and she felt like if not for the windshield, she could fall out onto the hood. The snow, which had been such a problem for her, flew away from the front of his truck like a continuous explosion. He saw her watching it.

“Heavy load, he said, jerking a thumb over a shoulder at the trailer behind him. “Makes weather like this easier. Good traction.”

She looked to the back of the cab before understanding what he meant. Behind the seats was an open area with seats, a sink, and a single bed, unmade. She looked at his left hand but saw no ring.

“Cover a lot of miles?” she asked.

“I drive three-hundred-sixty-five. Have for five years straight.”

“You saving up for something?”

“No. I just like driving.”

Brandon kept his eyes out the front so Rachael let him concentrate. In the dim light, she saw he wore shorts and a blue plaid flannel shirt. The heater was like a furnace and soon she slipped off her shoes and sweater.

“Too hot?” he asked.

“No, I like it. I got such a chill back there.”

Brandon nodded. A sideways glance showed her hard nipples rubbing against the silk. He left the heater on high.

They drove in silence for a long time. Rachael fought to stay awake but the day had exhausted her.

“You should grab some sleep,” he said. “We got a ways before the next stop and I’ll need about two hours to doze before we continue.”

Rachael was too tired to argue. “All right. Back here is fine I guess?”

“Make yourself comfortable.”

Rachael found the mattress surprisingly spongy. She smoothed her skirt and made sure her top was buttoned and covered his pillow with her sweater. She shut her eyes. The hum of the road and warm cab combined to put her to sleep quickly.

The hiss of airbrakes woke her, disoriented and confused. She’d moved while sleeping and her skirt had ridden up and her damn top unbuttoned itself again, exposing a round tit and nipple. She glanced at Brandon but his focus was on the road. She stuffed her boob into place and fixed her clothing before sitting up.

“Welcome back,” he said.

“How long did I sleep?”

“Over an hour.”

Rachael considered asking him what he’d seen but felt too embarrassed. “Are we stopping? Where are we?”

“Ida’s Truck Stop.”

“Does Ida have a phone?”

“Sometimes. When she remembers to pay the bill.”

Rachael looked out the windshield at the ramshackle building in the headlights; three sheds connected by plywood walls and covered with galvanized tin roofs. An open lot held several trucks like Brandon’s.

“What is this place?”

“Used to be a garage but her old man died so she converted it into a diner. Now she cooks for truckers. You hungry?”

Rachael realized she was and slipped her feet into her pumps. Brandon hefted his bulk out of the driver’s seat and together they crunched gravel and snow to the front door. Brandon went through first and the door swung back and almost hit Rachael in the face.

Inside was warm, with a large stone fireplace blazing in the corner of a big open room. On one wall barstools ran along a counter. Seated around the fire were other drivers and Brandon gave a nod of recognition here and there, which was returned. When the men saw Rachael, they sat up.

Brandon picked a table between the checkout and the fireplace and plucked a plastic covered menu from between a pair of porcelain salt and pepper shakers shaped like swordfish.

“Where’s Ida?” Rachael asked.

“Give her a minute. She’s sometimes busy.”

Soon a trucker driver exited the back room through a swinging door and a moment later an older woman, short red hair, denim miniskirt and a tight black camisole, exited the back room too. She adjusted her clothing, saw Brandon and Rachael, grabbed a notepad from the counter and headed over. Rachael looked at the menu.

“Hello Brandy,” Ida said. “Find yourself a girlfriend?”

“Cheeseburger, coke, and fries, Ida.”

“How about you, Hon?”

Rachael looked up. Ida had two hickeys on one side of her neck and one on the other, all three different sizes.

“I don’t see salads on the menu.”

“Cuz I don’t sell them, child. Where’d you find her, Brandy? Harvard?”

“I’ll have a cheeseburger and fries too, thank you.”

Ida scribbled some notes on her pad and returned to the back room.

“Is it just her?” Rachael asked.

“No, her retarded son helps in the back. Cooking mostly, cleaning up.”

The front door opened and another trucker came through. Tall and skinny, he glanced around the place, eyes resting on Rachael, before taking a seat at the counter. Ida popped her head out and they exchanged a few words and then the man followed Ida into the back room.

“Are the bathrooms in back?”

“Bathroom,” Brandon replied. “Yeah.”

“I’ll be back.”

“Suit yourself.”

Rachael thought his response odd until she stepped through the door separating the front from the back. Several grills lined one wall with a desk and two beds along the other. To her immediate left was a dirty bathroom with one dim bulb but what caught her eye was Ida on her knees sucking the cock of the most recent customer. Her head bobbed rapidly and saliva drooled to the floor. Ida’s son kept himself busy at the grill. The trucker noticed Rachael and grinned, turning his hips to give her a better view.

Rachael blurted: "I'm sorry," and quickly entered the bathroom, locking the door.

Fuck, she thought. That was nasty. Poor woman.

She stood over the toilet to pee, touching nothing, and scrubbed her hands after. She drew a deep breath before opening the door. She couldn't help it. She had to look. Ida held the man's scrotum in one hand while the other jacked his bent dick. She appeared to be swallowing rapidly and the grimace on the man's face confirmed it.

Back at the table, Brandon read her face and seemed to know something had happened to her. They sat in silence until the food arrived, which Rachael inspected closely before devouring. Brandon watched her eat for a minute, amused, before joining in. The food was tasty and satisfying, Rachael was pleased to discover. Both finished everything on their plate.

Brandon pushed his chair back and headed for the back door. Rachael thought nothing of it until ten minutes passed without his return. She had sticky ketchup on her hands and needed to wash them again but worried what she might see behind that door. Brandon had ice in his empty coke glass so she tried using a cube and a paper napkin, but that didn't work. She sighed and moved to the backdoor, noting that several of the truckers around the fire watched her go.

Perverts.

Rachael cracked the door and peered through the seam. The boy still worked the grill, scrapping away accumulated fat, but the rest of the room was out of view. Rachael cautiously opened the door wide enough to slip through and angled for the bathroom.

Too late, she saw Brandon standing behind Ida, shorts around his knees and denim skirt around her waist. He held her hips and sawed his cock in and out of her hairy pussy and Rachael's jaw dropped; the man's penis was bigger than any she'd ever seen. To her, the appendage belonged on an animal, not a human man. His balls swung smoothly with the motion of his hips and she couldn't help but notice Ida's bright pink slit, visible even in the low light, was stretched wide to contain him.

Disgusting.

Brandon's belly hung from under his blue plaid flannel shirt. His thick thighs were white and hairy. His eyes were tightly closed and the tip of his tongue stuck from his mouth as he grunted in pleasure. Rachael shivered and entered the bathroom, quickly locking the door again. The image of Brandon was burned into her brain. She washed her hands three times before exiting the bathroom and returning to the table.

They'd finished their business and Ida stood behind the register, whistling, a tiny smile curling her lips. Brandon had his wallet out, counting cash to the table top.

"Eight fourteen," he said when he saw her.

She fished cash out of her purse, inadvertently glancing at the front of his shorts and saw the outline of his enormous penis. Her throat constricted and she almost gagged. The last few buttons on his shirt were open and she saw his hairy belly and cavernous bellybutton. She handed Brandon twenty-five.

"I got this," she said.

"You might want to grab a seat by the fire. I'll need to sleep before we make the cut through the pass. With this weather and all I want to be alert."

Rachael turned and discovered every trucker gazing at her. By the cash register she saw a rack of newspapers and magazines.

"I'd rather read something in the truck while you nap, if that's all right."

"Sure."

At checkout, she added two magazines and a copy of the Los Angeles Times. She noticed when Brandon handed Ida the cash, he'd added two hundred dollar bills. Rachael asked to use the phone and called Enterprise to tell them where they could find their dead car. After, she and Brandon jogged across the snowy lot and climbed into the truck.

Brandon slept in his clothes, on his back, and soon rhythmic snoring filled the cab. Rachael settled into the huge passenger seat, thumbed the light on her phone, and propped it against the middle console.

Outside, it started snowing again.

She'd finished Cosmopolitan and opened O, The Oprah Magazine, when Brandon, still snoring, shifted in his sleep. A glance showed he'd spread his legs and his shirt had ridden up. Her seat blocked most of her view so she leaned sideways for a better look at him, unsure why she did.

There it was. Like an impossibly large earthworm, his flaccid cock draped across his thigh until the helmet head rested on the mattress. Rachael made a face but did not look away. The ugly beast was thick and covered with squiggly veins, like a child had scribbled with a blue marker. The head was wider than the shaft with a flared ridge and a large hole at the tip. How Ida took the thing baffled her.

No way would that fit in me. Ugh.

The thought made her queasy.

She leaned farther out of her seat. His balls rested on the mattress between his legs and she struggled to see them. Hairy and huge, she remembered a bull on her sister's farm last Thanksgiving.

Ida must be sloshing.

She grinned and almost laughed. She took one last look and shivered again.

No thank you, she thought. Dis-gust-ting.

Chapter 4

Rachael was halfway through O Magazine when Brandon woke. She ignored him, acting oblivious as he straightened his clothing and got himself behind the wheel again. He pulled a thermos of coffee from the center console and drank two cups.

"Ready?"

"Ready," Rachael replied.

Brandon pulled onto the freeway.

Conversation started slow but soon they were trading stories about their chosen careers. Brandon had never married and never wanted to, loving the life on the open road. Rachael admitted she'd been thinking about kids more and more recently.

"I met my husband, Walter, while I was modeling. He's a movie producer and almost twenty years older than me with a razor-sharp mind. I can talk to him for hours."

"You both travel so much. Must be hard."

"Sometimes."

"He must be really confident. A woman looking like you will have guys crawling out of the woodwork. He must trust you with so much time spent apart."

Rachael laughed. "You'd be surprised, Brandon. I don't get hit on as much as you think. Everyone always says that but it's simply not true. I had one boyfriend before Walter."

"Well, you're right, I am surprised."

"What about you? Are you, how do they say, worldly?"

Brandon laughed. "And then some, darlin'."

Rachael laughed too. "I believe it."

"Not bad for an ugly old man."

"You're not ugly, Brandon. Overweight, but not ugly."

Brandon laughed again. "Rachael calls them like she sees them. Fair enough."

They drove into the night. As they cleared the mountain pass, dawn tinged the sky pink behind them.

"We made it," she said.

"Brandon delivers."

He used the airport turnout and dropped her at the car rental line.

"Give me your cell number," she said. "I want to send you a Christmas present."

"Not necessary," he said but did as she asked.

"Brandon, I cannot thank you enough. You're my knight in shining armor. You said you weren't a good man but here we are."

"I'm not."

He dropped the truck into gear. Rachael backed away, waving to him as their eyes met in his rearview mirror. Soon the freeway swallowed him again and she raised her phone to call Walter in Germany, leaving him a detailed message about her cursed trip home but avoiding any talk of Brandon naked, Ida, or the airport boys.

A ten-minute line at the rental counter and then a twenty-minute drive home and Rachael at last walked through her bedroom doorway. She dropped her purse and carry-on and stripped, aiming for a long hot bath and scrub. When Walter called, she put him on speaker so they could catch up.

"So Brandon turned out to be the man after all."

"Yes, he did. A lifesaver. How are things going there? When will you be home?"

"Not for two weeks more."

"Well, I have the run of the place then. I've nothing scheduled."

"Relax, Rach. You've earned it. Take some time."

They chatted a while longer and then said they loved each other and signed off. Rachael eased deeper into the hot water.

Two weeks. What will I do?

Her hands drifted to her lap and her fingertips brushed against her labia. A surprisingly strong tingle raced down her legs.

It has been a long time.

Rachael closed her eyes and settled in. One hand came up to run a hot, wet palm across her breast and the other rubbed a small circle just above her clit.

That feels amazing. The stress of travel always winds me up.

She kept her eyes closed and remembered Robert sitting across from her; handsome face, bright eyes, clearly interested in her. She felt flattered and that excited her. Her fingers moved faster beneath the hot water. Her nipples stiffened and she teased them before cupping her big tit. She loved the weight of her boobs in her hands. She pictured Robert leaning over the table for a kiss, eyes fluttering, that slight, knowing smile...

Brandon's big cock pumped in and out of Ida.

What the hell?

She opened her eyes.

I must be exhausted.

She closed her eyes but again her mind betrayed her. This time her memory followed the blue veins running up Brandon's hefty penis.

No way. What is wrong with me?

She left the bath and dried, moving to the huge bed. She pressed buttons on the remote and found some soft porn, something she viewed rarely, and zeroed in on two hot guys and two hot girls. The guys took turns with the women, passing them back and forth. Nothing graphic but her imagination filled in the blanks. She ran her hands over her body, teasing her sensitive clit and nipples, and soon a mild orgasm swept through her. Disappointed and slightly frustrated, she closed her eyes and sighed deeply.

What a fucking day.

Chapter 5

She awoke hours later, still nude, spread-eagle on the bed. The slant of sunlight through the bedroom window told she'd slept to late afternoon. The television now played a lesbian scene, which Rachael clicked off. Groggy and out of sorts, she aimed for the kitchen and coffee.

She checked her phone but Walter had sent nothing so she heated some leftover spaghetti and watered a few houseplants. Walking around the house naked always thrilled her. She stopped to look at her reflection on the sliding glass door.

Saturday night and I'm watering plants. I should call Amy and go out tonight.

She finished cleaning the house and unpacking and sat with her phone. Thirty minutes later the night was set. She'd not spoken to Amy for almost two months but as always, they'd picked up where they'd left off.

"I know just the place," Amy had said. "Surrender at Encore just opened. Great dance music. Lots of hot guys."

"Same old Amy," Rachael chuckled. "I'm happily married but I'll have fun watching you flirt."

"Stop. You're going to dress as slutty as me. I know Walter doesn't care when you have a good time and besides, what he doesn't know won't hurt him. I know that's why you called me. I'm your party girlfriend. Doesn't dancing your ass off sound fun?"

"God yes. I've been so crazy busy. I could use a night to vent."

"I'll pick you up at ten."

Rachael killed time with household chores and a movie. She entered her closet around eight to try on outfits, deciding on a little black dress she hadn't worn in years. Gazing at herself in the mirror made her blush.

Was this dress always this short?

She almost decided on something more conservative but she heard Amy; Jesus, Rach, did you join a convent?

She knew her night with Amy would be wild fun.

Fuck it.

She slipped out of the little black dress and dug through her drawers. Minutes later she had on pointy-toe black boots that came up over her knees, a sparkly black skirt that barely covered her ass, and a red lace top with no bra, with only strategically placed stitching hiding her nipples from the world. Gazing in the mirror now left her breathless.

Too much.

She wrestled with her choice until she took a picture and sent it to Amy, asking what she thought.

Perfect! Amy fired back.

Rachael decided to quiet her fears and just go with it. Amy arrived with her curly blonde hair framing her pretty face and blue eyes. Several inches shorter than Rachael, she wore a tight, white cotton dress to mid-thigh with no visible panty lines or bra bumps. Rachael called her a slut.

“You say the sweetest things, Darling,” Amy replied. “We haven’t dressed like this since New York.”

“Oh my God, New York. Let’s hope we never have a night like that again.”

They joked and laughed as they finished getting ready. They decided to Lyft so both could drink.

The club decor was lavish with a dragon running along one wall and a pool at the end of the main room. Amy and Rachael started by dancing with each other and after a few drinks guys started to invite themselves, hitting on Amy far more often than Rachael.

After a while Amy needed fresh air so they took their drinks and found a table outside, away from the music. Rachael asked how work was going and, after an update, Amy asked the same. Rachael described how hard she was working and how many days of traveling she had put in, ending with her last trip home from Miami, Victor, James, Robert, and, finally, Brandon.

Amy sipped her martini and gave Rachael a coy smile.

“So, your eyes tell me you thought Robert was hot but your voice tells me Brandon’s big cock got to you.”

“Shut the fuck up! You are so mental. Ew. Brandon’s cock did nothing for me.”

“Oh, please. I know you too well, Rach. I bet you thought about it later. I’m sure you told yourself it was disgusting but you thought about it. I’m not saying you want to fuck the man. He sounds gross. I’m just saying you have a soft spot for big dick.”

“I do not. Why would you say that?”

“Remember Cabo? Remember Taylor? Remember that foam party ten years ago? Those dancers had you hypnotized. I’m not judging you, baby girl. I’m just pointing out you have a fascination with them. What have you been with? Two guys? Walter and Dean? I've had a big dick or two in my day. I get why you wonder."

"I don't care about stuff like that."

"Whatever."

Three guys wearing suits approached and the conversation moved on. Amy and Rachael stayed until the urge to dance rose and then they told the guys good night and moved back into the crowd. Amy grew fond of a blonde surfer type and Rachael graciously danced with his short friend.

Eventually, both girls ran out of gas and called it a night. Rachael offered for Amy to sleep over and Amy accepted. They undressed and showered again to wash the smoke from their hair and then Rachael dressed in a pink pajama top and panties. Amy borrowed Walter's wife beater. Amy asked if she should head for the guest room but Rachael said no.

"This bed is gigantic, Ames. You take the left side. Want to watch a movie?"

Amy grabbed the remote. As the screen lit, a soft porn scene took shape; two girls in a sixty-nine with a young man fucking one from behind.

"Now we're talking," Amy teased.

"Well, shit. I forgot I left it on that channel."

"Is this what you watched when you got home yesterday?" Amy turned the volume up, filling the bedroom with fake moans. "Did you diddle yourself fantasizing about Brandon's huge cock?"

Rachael threw a pillow at her head, catching her mouth open about to speak again, and sending the remote flying off the bed. Both girls fell over laughing. When they finished, Rachael surfed until landing on Mel Gibson's movie, What Women Want. The two friends collected pillows all around and got comfortable, talking infrequently about life or the movie until both dozed.

Rachael woke to an electric surge running up her legs. Confused, she looked down her body to see her panties pulled aside, Amy between her legs, soft tongue slathering her trim pussy. Before she could protest, Amy swirled her clit with a tongue. Rachael's mind lit up.

"Oh. God."

"Since we're reliving New York and all," Amy whispered before lowering her mouth and licking Rachael's pussy again.

Rachael did not try to resist. Truthfully, the sensation was far too intense and her body ached for release. Weeks of accumulated stresses rose, brushed aside by Amy's soft, warm tongue. Rachael spread her legs and rested her hands on Amy's curly blonde hair. Confident now, Amy pushed a finger into her friend's tight cunt and was rewarded with a moan. She licked all around Rachael's pussy, teasing, coaxing, enjoying a woman she hadn't had for years. She slid in a second finger. Rachael was ready to climax quickly but Amy backed away.

"Two feels better than one, Rach?"

"Yesssss...."

"Bet three feels better than two."

Amy folded a third finger into Rachael's penetration, stretching her friend open. Rachael grunted at the intrusion but the sensation was fantastic.

"I'm sure you wish this was a cock instead of fingers."

Before Rachael could respond, Amy mopped her clitoral hood and burrowed the tip of her tongue directly on the girl's clit. A jolt of electricity shocked Rachael. Her legs shot out straight and locked.

Amy had gotten even better at eating pussy. She pumped her hand in and out of her friend's drenched cunt, relishing the power she had. She removed her fingers and sucked both labium into her mouth, where she softly twirled them with her tongue. Rachael whimpered in disappointment but soon moaned continuously. When Amy pushed three fingers back in, Rachael arched her back.

"Nothing like it, is there Rach? Tongues are nice but pussy craves cock, right?"

She slowed to give the girl time to answer.

Rachael chewed a lip before admitting it was true.

"I love being filled," Amy confessed. "Love it. When you described Brandon's cock I felt my pussy twitch. I know he's a pig. I don't care about that. I know his dick would feel amazing. Remember Ida's moans? She knows what I'm talking about."

Amy pumped her fingers a little quicker.

"Picture it, Rach; big and hard while fucking Ida. Soft and heavy while he sleeps. Can you see it?"

Rachael nodded. She could. In her mind, she was back in the cab of his truck, scrutinizing his blue-veined phallus. She felt dirty and disgusted. Amy pushed fingers deeper on every thrust.

"Can you see it?" Amy asked again.

"Yes," Rachael exhaled, feeling guilty.

“Imagine my hand is his cock,” Amy moaned.

She made her hand stiff and fucked Rachael’s tight pussy, looking at the beautiful girl’s tortured face.

“Amy, no. He’s gross.”

“But that cock is lovely, and that beastly dick is fucking you. He’s a scruffy old man but you don’t care. All you care about is that big dick.”

Rachael’s pussy clenched around Amy’s fingers and Amy grinned. Rachael would fight it but lose. She was losing already.

When Rachael called hours ago, Amy knew they’d end up in bed. She knew she’d end up eating Rachael’s sweet cunt. Rachael only calls when she’s conflicted about something and needs to vent. Rachael’s story about Brandon had surprised her but she recognized it for what it was. She spoke between tonguing her friend.

“Forget the man, Rach...just remember his penis...it was in front of your face; big, fat, hanging dick.”

“You’re a sick puppy,” Rachael gasped.

“Definitely, but I’m not wrong.” Rachael’s pussy sloshed with each push.

Deny all you want, Amy thought.

She lowered her mouth to Rachael’s clit and sucked hard, her tongue fluttering and teasing. Rachael shrieked and held Amy’s head. Her stomach clenched and her thighs flexed and a delicious climax exploded deep in her guts, sending waves racing through her body. Rachael gasped for air as another wave smashed her. Amy’s fingers pumped and her tongue lashed and Rachael screamed again.

“Fuck! Oh. My. God!”

She punched the bed and squeezed a handful of duvet. Amy was incredible and Rachael’s mind reeled at the thought of that animal cock pounding her. She felt every bumpy vein. She felt the flared head deep in her guts. She came like an earthquake.

“Ohhhh fuuuuuck!”

Another wave slammed her as Amy coaxed her along, drawing out the orgasm as long as possible. Her pussy pulsed and shuddered, clamped around Amy’s fingers. Amy’s tongue flickered, darted, teased.

At last, Rachael crested and headed for Earth. Her legs trembled and her hands were weak. She took rapid, shallow breaths.

Amy crawled up her friend's body and mashed their tits together, swinging a leg over Rachael's hips. She kissed Rachael's face and throat. They lay in silence for a long time.

"Walter can never know," Rachael said.

"Lips are sealed. He never learned about New York, did he?"

"No. Am I a bad person? Am I a bad wife?"

"No, Honey. You're a good person who just doesn't know herself as well as she could. I know you and you're an angel, and sex with other women isn't cheating. That's a rule. It's official."

Rachael chuckled. "Good God, girl, where did you learn to eat pussy like that?"

"I've been busy."

They cuddled and then Amy wanted water.

While she was gone, Rachael stared at the ceiling. Is Amy right?

Amy returned from the kitchen with two bottles of cold water. "I see it like this," she began. "What just happened is no threat to your marriage, and no worse than masturbating with a dildo. I masturbated you. I was your living vibrator. We couldn't have a relationship with a girl so Walter doesn't need to know."

They sipped a while, reflective.

"Do you think Walter has cheated on you?"

Rachael was thoughtful a moment. "No. Sex takes a back seat to his ambition. Honestly, when we go out and a guy flirts with me he takes it as a compliment."

"I get that."

Rachael reached for Amy's bottle. "Okay," she grinned. "Your turn."

Amy smiled broadly and flopped onto her back, spreading her legs wide.

Chapter 6

Walter had been back from Germany for a week when the invitation arrived. He read the contents to Rachael: "Help us raise money to end homelessness. Please attend the Smith Center Gala and enjoy with us this year's fund-raiser; bachelor or bachelorette auction."

“Sounds tacky.”

“Indeed.”

“Won’t most attendees already be married?”

“Yes, but you are forgetting the septuagenarian and octogenarian crowd. Plenty of rich widows and widowers will be in attendance. Old Vegas money.”

“I presume we’re going?”

“We must. I’m still trying to shore up financing for Jackson’s next film.”

Rachael sighed. She had to admit these events were not that bad. The crowd was intelligent and educated and she always met at least one interesting person.

“Formal?”

“Of course.”

“I’ll wear the Versace dress.”

“And I’ll go with my boring Boss tux.”

“Will I know anyone?”

“Doubtful.”

Rachael smiled. Walter’s social circles were intricate and world-wide. Each new movie generated almost an entirely new crowd. Combined with Walter’s artistic sense and a desire to avoid stereotyping himself, Rachael could go a year or two without meeting the same people. He loved what he did and that made her happy.

“We have such a perfect life, Honey. Thanks for working so hard.”

Walter leaned over and kissed the top of her head. “You work as hard as I, my Love.”

The days until the auction passed quickly and Rachael used the time to relax and decompress. She posted a message to her board about being available for work in ten days and then slept in, watched movies, hit the gym, or hung out with friends. She thought about calling Amy but did not.

On the ride to the gala Rachael asked if Walter would be bidding.

“Of course. It’s all political. I’ve made some calls and I know who I should allow others to win and who I should pursue. Dorothy’s grandson, Richard, will be a participant and he’s an obnoxious ass. I suspect few will bid to send him and Dorothy a message, so I plan on nabbing him to help her save face.”

“You’re shrewd.”

“I must be, Love. We swim with piranhas”

“Have we ever met him?”

“No, he’s east coast. Princeton asked him to leave, his third such Ivy expulsion, so the family sent him west to spend time with Grand Mother. He’s an arrogant prick by all accounts but I need Dorothy’s backing. Without her, Jackson’s film arrives stillborn.”

Rachael regarded her husband, attracted to his brains and wisdom, she enjoyed their age difference and tried to imagine herself with a younger husband.

No way. I need confidence and stability and intelligence.

She took his hand in hers.

They arrived at the Smith Center and Walter let Rachael out while he handed the car to valet. Inside, roaming waiters dressed as seventeenth century French page boys circulated with silver trays carrying crystal flutes of Champagne. Walter was always pulled from one group to the next so he and Rachael mingled sparingly together. Rachael didn’t mind. The crowd was lively and she often found herself in conversation with strangers. Soon the bell sounded and the crowd moved into the foyer. Rachael found Walter and stood at her husband’s side.

The auctioneer kept things moving swiftly. Walter bid here and there, allowing others to outbid him, raising a toast from across the room to well played old chap. Rachael had to grin. This was Walter’s element. The bachelors and bachelorettes were all in their mid to late twenties, no doubt the children and grandchildren of the assembled wealthy. After more than an hour, Rachael excused herself to use the ladies’ room, where she waited in line. Upon her return, she discovered the auction had completed and everyone once again mingled, sharing stories of victory or defeat and politely laughing.

She drifted casually through the room, searching for her husband.

She found him at last standing in line to pay his bid. He had a handsome, roguish looking young man with him, around twenty-five, with pale skin and a mop of unruly black hair. The line they shared wound between tables so Rachael remained where she was and waited. The young man with Walter grew increasingly impatient, fidgeting with his cuffs and carnation, and finally spoke a few words to Walter and walked away, inadvertently headed for Rachael. She smiled, ready to introduce herself.

“Versace is so gauche, don’t you think?” he said. “I’m sure everyone thinks so.”

“I’m sure Donatella disagrees.”

“And it’s especially sad because you are otherwise quite a lovely creature.”

Rachael swallowed her biting reply. This was Dorothy’s grandson and Walter’s winning bid so avoiding an unpleasant scene was important. Still, she needed to say something.

“I like the way your tux allows you to impersonate the grownups. If not for your ridiculous haircut, some here would mistake you for a man.”

The young man stopped and tilted his head back. “Damn! Yes! Pow!” He extended his right hand. “I’m Richard Folsom, Dorothy Folsom’s grandson. Pleased.”

Rachael took his hand, noticing for the first time how green his eyes were.

“I’m—“

Richard pulled her forward and cupped the back of her head, planting a full and deep kiss squarely on her lips. Stunned and supremely aware of her precarious position, she froze for an instant before stepping back. Tired of his bullshit, the rest of the room seemed utterly not to care. Her eyes darted instantly to Walter, who was busy speaking with the woman at the payment table.

“I’m—“ she stammered again

“Gorgeous. Stunning. Angelic, almost, but to verify that claim I’d need to see you naked first.”

Rachael leaned closer, lowering her voice to a hiss.

“What the hell is wrong with you?”

“I’ve a list in my hotel room, alphabetized for ease of use, and I’d love for you to come up and see it.”

“What?”

“The things wrong with me. I thought I made that clear. Perhaps you’re not as bright as that first sizzling witticism made you out to be.”

She gave him a stern look.

“Now I’ve done it,” he said. “I know that look. The odds of seeing you naked are dropping precipitously, aren’t they?”

“They started at zero.”

“I guess that’s it then; I’ve lost what little charm I had. May as well end it. At least let me buy you a drink to say goodbye.”

“It’s open bar.”

His laughing eyes annoyed her. Over his shoulder she saw Walter finish and put his wallet away. She composed herself, looking forward to Richard’s expression when he discovered he’d been flirting with the wife of his sponsor. Walter managed two steps before three older gentlemen intercepted him and began a conversation.

“All right, let me get you a fresh flute to say I’m sorry.”

His eyes turned sincere and his full lips held a faint smile. Despite his infantile demeanor, Rachael she found him charming. A glance showed Walter remained occupied so she gave Richard a nod. He took her elbow and steered her towards the bar at the back of the room.

“I’ll be honest,” he began. “The Versace dress looks fantastic. I find when I flirt with breathtaking women it’s best to hit them with something shocking and rude. They’ve heard everything else and are completely bored with men fawning over them. You’d be surprised how many gorgeous women I’ve taken to bed using that technique.”

“I’m not sure I like this new, honest Richard.”

“Call me Ricky.”

“No. I’ll go as far as Rick.”

“Rick then. And your name?”

“Rachael, and let me warn you now; you will never get me in bed or even see me naked. I’m happily married.” She turned to point out Walter but he’d moved out of sight.

“Your husband is here tonight?”

“Yes.”

“Where?”

“Off negotiating world peace.”

“What’s his name?”

“I’ll wait and introduce you.”

At the bar, they settled into conversation. Richard painted himself as the eccentric misunderstood genius who refused conventional schooling and Rachael gave him shit for his immature stance.

The longer the conversation lasted, the more drawn to him she felt. He was not nearly as charming as he believed, but as far as Rachael was concerned, he was witty enough. Behind the bar was a massive glass wall thirty feet high and the city lights twinkled beyond. Rachael and Richard shared several flutes and then Richard asked if she'd ever seen the view from the patio.

"We can go out there?"

"A Folsom can. You must see this. Tell your husband." Richard moved to the end of the counter to speak to the bartender.

Rachael scanned the room but Walter was nowhere to be seen so when Richard returned she said she was ready. The bartender opened a glass door for them and ushered them through.

Rachael gasped. The Center sat on a hill and the city skyline sparkled below. Richard let her gawk for a few moments and then drew her along the curve of the balcony.

"Over here you can see the mountains in the distance and the city below, and farther around the curve the balcony hangs over a dry riverbed."

Rachael followed him around the corner. She leaned against the railing and drank the last of her champagne. "Astonishing," she said, gazing out across the desert.

His hand on the small of her back brought her alert, then his thighs pinned her legs against the retaining wall. From the other side his hand covered her mouth. She tried to straighten but could not.

"Don't move," he rumbled, his hot breath in her ear.

She pushed back and found his arms like steel bands. Leaning forward against the railing nullified any leverage she had. His tuxedo crotch pressed her Versace ass and he maneuvered his erection between her butt cheeks, wedging his bulge into place. He leaned his weight on her and lifted her dress, then moved his hand to her throat, tightening slightly. Fear and anger rose in her simultaneously.

"You're so fucking gorgeous," he panted "You're the hottest woman I've ever seen. God! I had to have you the second I saw you."

Richard lowered his zipper and Rachael felt his cock slid up between her thighs. Instinctively she clenched her legs shut, trapping him several inches below her pussy. He sank strong fingers in her hair and pulled.

"Open your fucking legs, Rachael. You feel that hard dick? You feel how big that hard dick is? I'm putting that dick inside you. Open your fucking legs."

He slowly pulled harder on her hair. He tightened the grip on her throat. Rachael felt waves of excited heat coming off his body. She heard the rampant sexual tension in the strain of his voice. He was dying for her. He was dying to be inside her. His want was a force of nature, boundless, surging through him like a flash flood.

“Open your fucking legs,” he said again. He waited. She felt his heartbeat through his cock. She held a hot iron pipe between her thighs. Her mind raced but she did nothing.

Why aren't I fighting? she wondered.

She moved her right foot and inch to the right.

His hot cock rose to fill the new space and Rachael gasped. Still an inch or two below her pussy, she felt the scorching heat of him.

“Pretty Versace dress,” he breathed. “Panties?”

Rachael tried to swallow in a parched throat. She tried to whisper but could not. Slowly, she shook her head an inch.

“Thought not. Can't have panty lines running a classic.”

Richard tilted his hips and pushed forward. The tip of his cock grazed her bare labia and knocked all the wind from her lungs.

“Open your fucking legs, Rachael.”

Rachael felt her body responding. Her nipples were screaming points of sensitivity. She felt feverish and weak. Lightheaded, she felt her pussy pulsing to her heartbeat. She knew she was drenched. Everything felt so wrong but desire trampled every worry. She loved being wanted like this. She loved his aggression, his dominance, his inflamed lust and runaway need to have her. He risked so much. She could ruin him. She could destroy his grandmother.

How wrong this was only excited her more.

She moved her foot another inch.

Richard's cock rose like the sun. The plump head shocked her labia as it landed squarely over her hole. She groaned to have a new cock so close and opened her mouth to breathe. Richard pushed forward and this time the head split her lips and slipped on her wetness.

He growled: “I knew it,” and pulled her hips down while slowly driving upward. Her labia spread over his penetration, wrapping themselves like butter around the head. Her pussy flowered to greet him and the first inch traveled into her.

They groaned together and the sound made Rachael bite her bottom lip.

He tightened his fingers in the hair and held fast to her throat. Pulling her body down onto his spear at the same time he forced himself in brought another deep moan from her throat. He was surprised at how wet she was. Most girls struggled with his thickness. He felt the tightness of her cunt but she was soaking, dripping, eager for him to bury his meat. He withdrew slightly and slid his cock home again. Rachael whimpered and grasped in a moment that this man could make her cum.

Richard pulled back and thrust forward. Her pussy gripped him like a vise. He began a smooth piston, slowing as he reached her cervix, pressing the head deep until she groaned, stuffed with more cock than she had room for.

Rachael lifted a hand and bit her knuckle. His cock was turning her inside out and she wanted to scream. Sensations like this were never part of sex. Her body was on fire. Every nerve danced with electricity. When Richard began to thrust harder, she felt the familiar tingling of an approaching orgasm. Disbelief flipped her world. How can she climax at a time like this?

He held his rhythm steady and the pressure built until her legs shook. She stuffed her knuckle into her mouth and strangled the scream his cock ripped from her. She couldn't get enough air and almost suffocated as her body began to thrash and jerk. Her orgasm exploded and she heard herself grunting and coughing. Several drops of pee escaped her but she did not care. The top of her head burst and her eyes rolled back.

His weight pinned her to the retaining walls as her legs gave out. Her head filled with brilliant white light. Dimly, she felt his thick rod swell and grow even harder. She felt him throb and pulse and sensed he was spitting sperm far up into her. She welcomed it. His pulsating manhood buried deep inside was the most exquisite sensation she'd ever known.

She seemed to drift for a long time. Slowly other sensations came to her; the rough steel of the guard rail, the pointy stucco poking her knee caps, the cool desert night air, and Richard's slowly deflating cock. She rolled her head and filled her lungs with fresh air.

His cock fell out and she dribbled semen. He stepped back, leaving her on the wall, and tucked his penis in his pants. He smoothed her dress back in place.

Slowly, the world took shape again. She faced him.

“Do you bruise easily?” he asked, his voice much deeper.

She slowly shook her head.

“Good.”

She stared at his handsome face. That man had just fucked her. Her list of lovers had grown from two to three. Her pussy tingled like bee stings beneath her dress. He ran his fingers through his wild black hair, already composed like he did this weekly and maybe he did, but it felt special to her.

Fucking hot, in fact.

“Fix your hair,” he said.

Rachael got her long hair in place and then scanned her dress for marks or stains. She smoothed a wrinkle and stopped her hand over her lower belly.

He’s inside me, she thought. A wicked thrill ran through her. She searched his handsome face again. I’m carrying him inside me. I’ve got cum inside me.

“I have to find Walter,” she said. “Where’s my husband?”

Richard’s eyebrows went up. “Your husband is Walter? Walter Orchard? The Walter Orchard.” He laughed softly. “Fucking Christ.” He pulled a pack of cigarettes from an inside pocket and lit one. “Give yourself a minute, Honey. Walter can wait.”

Rachael’s body felt light. She looked down to see if she was floating. Richard took a hard drag and the cherry glowed bright red in the dark. He exhaled and she caught the sweet smell of weed.

“Maybe you should hit this once?” he offered.

She held out a hand and he slid the joint between her fingers. She took a small puff and gave it back. She gazed at his face a third time, searching for her rage.

“That will divert any suspicions,” he said. His eyes roamed every inch of her.

“What are you thinking?” she asked.

He exhaled another puff. “I’m looking at you because you’re even more beautiful now, after, than you were before, and that never happens. What I’m thinking is about all the thing my grandmother has scheduled for me to do tomorrow but all I want to do is make time to fuck you again.”

She shook her head. “We are not doing this again. Ever. Never.”

He watched her.

"I mean it," she said. "We are not doing this again."

He leaned closer from the waist. "Yes, we are."

His confidence sent another thrill through her. It felt good to tell him no but it felt better to hear him insist on yes. They stood in silence until Richard asked if she was ready. She gave him one quick nod.

They kept at least a foot between them while they searched the center for Walter. Remarkably, their absence had gone undetected and their dalliance undiscovered. When Rachael checked the clock, she found they'd been absent roughly twenty minutes.

"Seemed like hours," she told Richard.

He agreed.

Rachael allowed him to walk slightly ahead, laying low to collect her wits. She studied his body and his face. He was so sure of himself as they moved through the crowd, so poised. She knew she should be furious, distraught, and buried somewhere deep she felt rumblings of guilt, but on top of all that was a delicious quiver, an intoxicating brew of exhilaration and adventure. She'd never been that girl. Her friends always had the wild stories, the crazy exploits about hot sex with hot men in bathrooms or backseats of limousines.

Not anymore.

This time it was me.

Richard cut through the crowd. People got out of his way. He had a physical presence without being especially big. People noticed him.

Her hand discretely drifted to the front of her dress. She checked for wetness, found none, and then remembered she carried his seed. Heat rose in her. She felt a connection to Richard, one she was sure he did not share.

Typical male-female dynamic, she thought. I bond while he moves on to the next girl, the next conquest.

He stopped to scan the room and moved off in a new direction. She followed in his wake, stealing brief looks at his round, firm butt.

Christ, what the fuck have I done?

Such a mix of emotions swirled inside her she could not sort them. She tried hard to hate him, to muster rage against his audacious act. She could not.

They found Walter in the orchestra pit having a lively debate with several older gentlemen about converting Hemingway to silver screen. He smiled when he saw Rachael and introduced her all around.

“I see you’ve somehow already met Rick?”

“I saw you both in line,” she replied. “We’ve been chatting.”

Walter kissed her cheek and held her hand while he finished the debate. The older gentlemen said goodnight.

“Now what?” Richard asked. “Auction rules say I’m yours until midnight.”

“Anyone hungry?” Walter asked.

“Famished,” Richard replied, but his eyes were on Rachael.

Chapter 7

Rachael, alone in her big house, stared at her phone and nervously chewed inside her lip. Walter would be two days in Los Angeles and Rachael did not want to be alone.

In the days after the gala she’d avoided Richard completely. She’d convinced herself too much champagne had played a huge part in her actions. Richard was relentless for a few days and then disappeared. Now her secret ate her up inside. She needed to talk and only Amy would understand. Only Amy could be trusted. But talking about it would bring everything back again and she’d spent tremendous energy forgetting, burying that night forever.

“Oh for fuck’s sake,” she said. She clutched her phone and dialed Amy’s number.

Two and a half hours later Amy leaned back against the lime green vinyl in the booth at Hamburger Mary’s and folded her hands.

“That. Was. Fucking. Hot.”

“Amy! I cheated on Walter!” Her voice was a strained whisper. “It was so wrong.”

Amy ignored her confession and leaned over the table.

“Have you fucked him again yet?”

“No!”

“But you want to?”

“No!”

“Liar. I’d fuck him. Sex that hot is awesome. If you haven’t yet called the cops, you want him again.”

“Amy. Are you deaf? I cheated on Walter.”

Amy took Rachael’s hands. “Rach, Honey, I’m not the friend you call when you want to discuss the morality of an issue. You have stuck-up Jennifer for that. I’m not the friend you call when you need a shoulder to cry on. Sweet Tina will hug you all night. I’m the friend you call when you want to talk about the hot guy that fucked you up against a wall under the desert night sky.”

Their eyes held a long moment.

“That’s why you called me and no one else,” Amy added.

Tears filled Rachael’s eyes. “Fuck.”

“Right? I envy guys and their simple minds. Are you on birth control?”

“No.”

“Get some. I’m not educated like your other friends but I have more street smarts than all of them combined.”

Rachael sighed. “Do I love Walter?”

Amy’s face softened. She squeezed Rachael’s hands. “Baby girl, don’t believe the Hollywood crap. Of course you love Walter. Cheating isn’t automatically a sign of a loveless marriage or even unhappiness. That’s what the movies sell but it ain’t so. We’re still animals, on the inside, and sex is a primal drive. Do you only visit Disneyland when you’re miserable? We can have everything and still want more.”

They finished their meal and shared small-talk about work and family and then parted company. Rachael headed for the gym to work her body to exhaustion.

Amy always cut to the bone but she never feeds me bullshit. No way am I getting birth control, though. That’s just throwing in the towel and admitting I’m a horrible, unfaithful wife. I made one mistake but I won’t make another.

At the gym, she changed clothes and headed for the stretching mats. Along the way she noticed how many hot guys worked out there.

Were they always here or did they just join?

She practiced some yoga until her body felt warm and then moved to free-weights, determined to make herself sore. She was in a mood to punish herself. A handsome blonde man worked out alone on the bench press and Rachael caught him ogling her twice and liked it.

Before Richard I would never have noticed blondie.

She moved through her workout, pushing herself hard, and then finished the day running on the treadmill. When she got home she updated her bulletin board to say she was available for work now.

Fuck this, I need to keep busy.

For the first time in many days, she slept like a rock.

Chapter 8

The next six weeks were a blur for both. Walter scrambled to arrange financing and Rachael crisscrossed the country pushing pharmaceuticals at a furious pace. Life was a mash of hotel rooms, restaurant food, and airports. Both changed their itinerary frequently to take advantage of sudden opportunity. Rachael spent two day in Dallas the whole time thinking she was in Houston.

They spoke on the phone as time zones and work allowed, and Rachael began to crave the sound of his voice each night. When he was unable to leave a message, she felt depressed.

Saturday brought her to Chicago and fifteen meetings in three days. By Saturday evening she was exhausted and collapsed on her hotel bed as soon as she got back to her room. She napped in her clothes and then stripped to take a scorching bath. Too restless to stay put, she left Walter a message about her day, dropped her phone in her purse, and headed down to the hotel bar.

She took a seat by the big screen to watch the Rams play and ordered an appetizer. She welcomed company and returned any smile given to her. Before long two thirty-something guys in polo shirts and sports coats asked to sit with her. She offered them chairs.

Zack and Eddy were from Seattle, in town for a real estate seminar. Rachael found Eddy better looking, with big brown eyes and tousled brown hair, but Zack had an artist's intensity to him. He spoke of things passionately, including his dog Marcus back home. Rachael found herself following his conversation closely, listening to every word, watching his mouth form them. She liked his full lips and scruffy five o'clock shadow.

"Are you Persian?" she asked abruptly.

He stopped his story about learning to play guitar. "Iraqi."

"No accent."

"I came to the States when I was a year old."

Rachael nodded thoughtfully. Eddy smiled and leaned back in his chair. She wore a thin, V-neck blue sweater and simple cotton skirt but she'd caught them checking out her body several times.

"So you were telling me about playing guitar?"

Zack continued. Rachael listen now with only one ear. Her eyes drifted down his chest, noticing the cluster of chest hair poking up from his collar. He had big hands and thick thighs, like he raced bicycles. She was barely listening to him now. She was trying to guess what he looked like naked.

Too late, she realized he'd stop speaking moments ago.

"Sorry?" she said. "Say that last part again?"

"I said we're in room four-twelve. Would you like to come up and hear me play?"

Rachael looked at his sincere face and then turned her gaze on Eddy. Her heart beat strong. Prior to Richard, she would have rejected the offer before the words were completely out of the man's mouth.

"I can't," she relented, showing her ring finger. "Highly improper."

"I understand," Zack said.

Eddy smirked. "Well," he said. "Since you aren't coming, I'm going to use the room to sleep. You guys have a great night. Rachael, it was an absolute delight meeting you. Hopefully our paths cross again."

He stood and they shook hands and he left. Rachael watched him go.

"He's a great friend," Zack said.

"He seems nice."

Rachael finished one martini after another while Zack began a story about the worst clients he'd ever had. The conversation remained light for some time but eventually grew serious when Zack spoke of his father's death. Rachael listened intently and, leaning closer, slipped her arm around his shoulders. He teared up near the end and couldn't go on.

"Want some air?" she asked.

“Yeah.” He finished his bourbon in a gulp.

The hotel bar had a patio overlooking Lake Michigan with a winding path through topiary animals. They ordered fresh drinks and took them along. The cold breeze off the lake raised goose bumps on Rachael’s arms and stiffened her nipples making them painfully obvious through her light sweater. Zack seemed not to notice. They walked slowly, keeping the bar in sight, and Zack continued his story.

After some time, they reached a sheltered area with wooden benches and sat. Rachael scooted close for warmth. Zack slipped an arm around her shoulder and she leaned under it. They’d been talking for ten minutes when she saw the outline of his erection through his pants. With her head on his chest, her face was directly above it. His thick thighs pulled the fabric tight and his dick had no place to hide.

Her first instinct, and one she would have done just a short time ago, was to sit up and act ignorant. She did not. Instead, she dragged a manicured red fingernail around his crotch, tracing the outline. Zack gasped. Rachael reached for his zipper and tugged but the material was too tight until Zack lifted his butt. The zipper came down and her small hand slipped inside.

Her hand was cold but his cock was warm. Neither spoke as she worked him into her hand and moved the loose skin. She slid her palm toward the head and discovered he was uncircumcised and was suddenly curious to see her first. She withdrew her hand, bringing his cock along into the open air.

The skin was dark and the foreskin covered the head all the way to the tip. She pulled the skin down the shaft and the head appeared, a small opening at the tip. Zack was so different from Walter. He wasn’t fully erect but she already liked the size. She squeezed the swelling shaft and a clear drop formed at the opening and Zack groaned. She licked her teeth without opening her lips, debating. She impulsively wanted him in her mouth, but, strangely, sucking cock felt more like cheating. Walter was not interested in blowjobs. She’d done it rarely.

She slid off the bench to the ground and reached inside again to pull his balls out too. Zack helped, lifting his ass and adjusting his pants, and now Rachael saw his dark penis completely. She planted a kiss on the tip and pushed her tongue into the hole, smearing his salty fluid. She felt reckless, like breaking the rules with Richard had left those rules permanently shattered.

“Tell me how, Zach,” she murmured. “I don’t do this for my husband.”

“Oh, God,” Zack groaned.

He gazed at her gorgeous face and slipped a hand behind her head. He gently pulled her forward while aiming his cock at her mouth.

“Open up,” he whispered, and she did. “Stick your tongue out.”

Zack watched his dick enter her face and his world lurched. Never in a million years did he imagine a girl this pretty would want him. His stiff cock pulsed.

“Close your lips around me and suck.”

When she did as she was told he almost died.

This is truly happening.

“Use your tongue too. Suck as you move your mouth up and down.”

Rachael lacked skill but Zack thought this was the best blowjob he’d ever received. She was easily one of the most beautiful women he’d ever seen. Above her and looking down, he took a chance and slipped his hand down the front of her sweater to caress a big, firm tit. Rachael welcomed it. He watched her struggle with his hard cock, charmed by her amateur fumbling. He decided to push things farther.

He adjusted his butt on the bench and then told her to stand. Before she could ask any questions, he closed his legs and drew her forward, her legs outside his. A moment later her panty covered pussy hovered above his cock. He pulled her underwear to the side and tugged her hips down. Rachael followed his urging, gazing down at his exotic, Mideastern cock. His uncircumcised head hit her slit and guilt flashed through her mind. She opened her mouth to voice her second-thoughts but he circled her throat with both hands and tugged her onto his waiting penis. As her steaming pussy enveloped him, both groaned.

“Yeah,” she gagged, slightly strangled. “Make me take it.”

He squeezed tighter and thrust upward. “Lift your feet off the ground,” he ordered. She did and her weight drove his cock balls deep. She growled and mauled her tits without being told, stretching her sweater.

“Fuck me,” he said. “Fuck yourself on my cock.”

Rachael did as instructed. Balancing on her tippy-toes, she worked her dripping pussy up and down his pole. Both stared at the point their bodies merged, riveted by the scene. Another new cock sent her mind whirling and her heart pounding. She had to fight for air around his grip on her throat, and she loved it. Ragged breath sucking and eyes watering, Rachael was lost in an ocean of lust. A stranger was buried inside her. A man she'd only just met. The wickedness of her deed fanned a fire that swept her away.

Through bleary eyes she noticed the darkened windows of the bar up the hill. A dark silhouette behind the smoky glass told her at least one person watched them, and possibly more than one. A new thrill of exhibitionism boiled up. She slammed herself repeatedly on Zack's curving spear, staring up the hill at the shapes behind the window.

Her orgasm hit her blindly. She rode his cock forcefully and moved her hands to his wrists, loving his control over her, when suddenly her pussy clenched and juice gushed and pleasure exploded. She cried out, snapping her hips back and forth, feeling him buried. Her long hair flew, her big tits bounced. Overtaken by her passion, he swelled and threw his head back, yelling as he released his flood into her womb. She felt her palpitating pussy sucking up his load.

She folded her arms around his head as she tried to catch her breath. He released her throat and moved his hands to her hips, breathing hard too.

"Fuck," he whispered. "Fuck, fuck, fuck. Holy shit."

Rachael realized with a jolt they'd never even kissed. She rose and looked down at the tight grip her pussy had on him. She flexed her legs, lifting herself, and watched as more of his shaft was revealed. When his cock came free it flopped on his stomach, followed by a wash of leaking sperm. She staggered back and fixed her panties, closing her labia and trapping him inside. She dropped her skirt in place.

A glance at the bar showed the same dark shape still watching. Now that the excitement was draining away she felt exposed and ashamed.

"Can I get your number?" Zack asked. "We're here a few more days."

Rachael shook her head. "I have to go." She turned and rapidly walked up the path between the sculptured animals.

Back in her room she threw herself onto her bed and buried her face in her pillow. She felt like she might cry but tears did not come. She tried to force them, but nothing. Her mind boiled with emotion; guilt, exhilaration, fear, worry, joy... each new sensation rising to the surface briefly before supplanted by another. She rolled to her back and stared at the ceiling.

After a moment, she lifted a finger to her mouth, remembering the feel of Zack's cock on her tongue. She sucked her finger and closed her eyes. He'd been so different from Walter, so obviously someone new. She worked her finger in and out.

If he was here I'd fuck him again. She shook her head, disbelieving. I'd fuck Eddy, too.

She continued sucking while her other hand found her pussy and slipped under her panties. Her clit was still sensitive when she began rubbing circles just above. Her insides tightened, ready to cum again. She pictured Eddy behind her, slamming his cock deep while Zack knelt in front fucking her mouth. An earthshattering orgasm ripped through her seconds later, leaving her stunned and trembling.

What's happening to me?

Chapter 9

Walter Orchard thumbed the power button on his tablet and slipped it into his briefcase. He sipped his ice water and leaned back, scanning the restaurant.

That went well, he thought. Two more meetings and I can grab some dinner.

He pulled his cell from his pocket and noted the flashing red light; a message from Rachael. He pictured his gorgeous young wife and smiled.

I am such a lucky man.

Three gentlemen in suits approached his booth.

"Mister Orchard?" the eldest asked, extending a hand. "I'm Thomas Thompson and these are my associates, Reggie Vern and Dylan Marks."

Walter put his phone in his pocket.

I'll make it up to her, he thought. All this time apart. She's young. It must weigh on her.

When the meetings concluded hours later, Walter made his way back to his hotel room. He had seventeen messages on his phone to work through and he needed quiet. At the desk in his suite he opened his notebook and got to work.

Much later he'd learned two things of immediate consequence; tomorrow he'd be catching an unplanned flight to Chicago for a meeting with Bank of America, and his lovely wife Rachael was already there.

He sailed through his morning meetings and got a preliminary contract signed for his next film. After lunch, he took a taxi to the airport and hours later arrived in Chicago. Another cab ride and he soon walked through the doors of the Hyatt where Rachael was staying. He called her but got no response.

Probably having dinner, he mused. I'll grab a drink and try again later.

He entered the hotel bar and rolled his suitcase against a far wall. He asked the bartender for a whiskey neat and once it arrived, he turned to survey the room. He blinked. Rachael was already there, provocatively dressed and enjoying a conversation with two young men.

Walter collected his napkin to join them and introduce himself but when he turned he saw Rachael eyeing one of the men like a piece of meat. The other man soon excused himself and after a brief conversation, Rachael slipped her arm around the remaining man's shoulders. At this point more curious than jealous, Walter hung back to watch. Soon they ordered another round and once the drinks arrived, they exited the far door onto the patio. Walter knew they could not see through the dark glass so he moved to an open table and watched them walk the garden path. Rachael stood close to this new man.

Walter saw they were headed for a small open area with benches and was not surprised when they sat. He could not see the lower half of their bodies behind the hedge but he saw enough. When Rachael's head disappeared into the man's lap, there was no question what she was doing.

Walter was stunned. That Rachael could be unfaithful had never occurred to him. She simply was not that kind of woman. He was sure of it. He remained seated, watching, sipping his drink. Soon her head rose and she stood before the man. When she stepped forward by her body movements Walter knew she'd lowered herself onto another man's cock.

Her gorgeous hair fell around her face. Her chest heaved. He saw more passion and lust in those few moments than he'd ever seen from her. In that moment, he saw how she loved sex.

Her arms circled the man's head and she rode him hard, urgently fucking him. She looked up at the dark glass and knew someone watched but Walter knew she could not see him. He saw her passion surge at the thought she had an audience.

Walter gasped. He'd never seen her like this, never suspected this tigress within. The man's hands circled Rachael's throat and a protective urge rose in Walter. He stood, determined to save her. Rachael gripped the man's wrists and fucked him even harder and Walter slumped in his seat, glancing around the restaurant to see if anyone else witnessed his wife's infidelity.

When he returned his gaze to the lovers, he beheld sweet and gorgeous Rachael climaxing on another man's cock.

The torture was too great. He stared at his tumbler of whiskey. His heart ached but other, undefined emotions fought for his attention too. He gulped his drink and caught the waitresses' eye and ordered another. He wrestled with himself, wanting to look and never wanting to see that scene again. The want won and he lifted his eyes to his unfaithful wife.

The lovers spoke briefly and Walter read Rachael's body language perfectly; this had been spontaneous and impulsive and now that the excitement was evaporating, Rachael wanted out. Walter's spirits lifted.

Her first time? he wondered. Maybe she's drunk.

Rachael left the encounter quickly with hardly a word to the man. Walter sat and finished his drink, thinking about what he'd seen. He turned his eyes inward, sifting through everything he felt. When the waitress came, he ordered another. His mind drifted over their long years of marriage, wondering where things stood.

I can't get too outraged, he thought. There was that woman in New Orleans.

He was still sitting there over an hour later when Rachael entered the bar walking between the two men from earlier, her arms slipped through theirs.

Chapter 10

Eddy heard room service knock on the door and hurried to answer. He was starving. He swung the door wide and found Rachael in the hallway wearing a flimsy white top with a plunging V-neck to match her extra short miniskirt.

“Buy me a drink,” she said with a smirk.

Before Eddy could answer the elevator doors at the end of the hall opened and Zach stepped out. He froze, staring at his friend and his recent lover.

“I came here looking for you and Eddy,” Rachael said. “I’m thirsty.”

Next to Zach a second elevator opened and a young man with a wheeled cart took two steps towards the room and stopped, looking at all three.

“Food sounds good too, though,” Rachael said. “Let’s eat first.”

“I’m sorry I ran away,” Rachael said after the food server had gone. They were comfortably seated around Zach and Eddy’s suite watching Eddy eat. Rachael nibbled a slice of sourdough bread. “I panicked.”

“No apologies necessary,” Zach said. “I understand. Do you want to talk about what happened?”

Eddy stopped chewing to listen.

“No. I’ll figure out what’s going on with me later. Right now, I need a drink and I do not want to drink alone. Since you two are my only friends in town, you get elected to babysit.”

“Did you shower?” Eddy asked. “You look fresh and clean.”

“I did.”

“Then give me ten minutes so I can too.”

“Fifteen,” Zach added. “Me too.”

Rachael moved to the couch while Eddy finished eating and then both men shared the bathroom. They left the door partially open while they showered and Rachael caught several glimpses of bare ass and bouncing cock. They soon emerged ready to go. Eddy kept his distance as they walked to the elevator but Rachael slipped her arms through his and then Zach’s.

“I’m tonight’s date for you both,” she said.

“Don’t want to step on any toes,” Eddy replied.

When Zach tried to kiss her after the elevator doors closed, she let him. When the kiss ended, she turned her head and kissed Eddy too.

They entered the bar and Zach steered them towards an open booth. An uncomfortable silence settled on the threesome. Eddy broke the discomfort with another kiss. He tenderly held Rachael's face and pressed his lips to hers and she felt her insides melt. She had no idea what she was doing or where this was going. Three things she did know; she did not want to be alone, she needed more alcohol, and she was hornier now after fucking Zach than she had been before. She felt hungry for sex. Zach turned her face from Eddy and passionately kissed her again.

She had only just slipped him the tip of her tongue when, over his shoulder, she thought she saw Walter watching from across the room. Distance and shadows made it impossible to be certain.

An Arctic chill froze her to the bone.

She continued the kiss but studied the man's face, her mind racing. Just then the man leaned forward into the light and then she knew. Walter, her husband, was here.

She looked to see the hurt she knew he must feel. She looked for rage, disappointment, sorrow, and jealousy, but she saw none of these. Instead, he had a curious, bemused expression.

How can he be here?

Zach said he'd order drinks and Rachael suggested Eddy go with him to help carry them back. As soon as she was alone Walter crossed the distance. Rachael had no idea what to say.

"Having fun?" Walter asked.

She detected no bitter sarcasm. "Yes," was her meek reply.

He ran his eyes over her. The inadequate top and miniskirt revealed plenty of flesh and that was highly unusual for her, but there was something else at work here, a deeper change he'd not been around enough to see.

"You look...stunning," he said.

"Thank you. Are you mad?"

Walter scrutinized his wife's pretty face. "No."

She relaxed some. "I was just fooling around. I swear nothing happened."

Do I tell her I already watched her fuck?

"Just a harmless kiss, right?"

"Exactly. Let me tell them goodbye and we can go up to my room."

Walter rubbed his chin. "How about not yet? This is a wonderfully awkward situation and I'm kind of enjoying it. It's written like a Tarantino scene. Will you indulge me, Sweetheart? Can we stay a bit?"

Rachael gave him a blank-eyed stare. "And I tell them what?"

"Tell them I'm a client you've known forever. Tell them I work for some doctors."

Always working, she thought. To Walter, life's just one long movie.

"Walter, Honey, that's crazy. Let's just dump these guys and go back to my room. I'm so happy to see you."

"I'm thrilled to see you too, Rachael, but you've got to admit this is a once in a lifetime situation. I want to go through it."

"You want me to keep flirting with them? What if one tries something?"

"Let's see what happens."

Rachael's brow furrowed. So much can go wrong. I must find a way out of this.

She checked on the guys and found them watching the table and talking. They'd noticed Walter and were no doubt busy formulating a plan.

Rachael wondered if Zach would try to get Eddy laid.

They returned to the table and Rachael did as Walter asked, introducing him as a client she'd know a long time. Walter pulled a chair over to face the table and the guys slid into the booth with Rachael in the middle. They all took turns trading stories about their careers and travels, common ground for each of them. Zach was sharing a tale about a difficult closing when under the table Eddy put his hand on Rachael's naked thigh. She barely stifled her gasp in time. Zach was oblivious but Walter sensed her change right away. As Eddy slid his pinkie higher, Rachael's face flushed.

Walter watched his wife closely, amazed how sexy she looked.

I forget she's still a young woman and I'm an old man.

Eddy's hand slipped under her skirt. Her panties radiated heat and he teased her lips with his fingertips. Rachael took a long drink from her wine. When his fingertip slipped under the elastic, she gasped.

Aware at last, Zach grinned.

Rachael's eyes flew to Walter. Her husband sipped his whiskey neat and observed her, revealing nothing except mild amusement. She saw the corner of his mouth curl into the tiniest of smiles. On the inside, Walter's heart lurched and his mind stumbled. She was ravishing, radiating enough raw sexual energy to fill the room. Her rosy cheeks, full lips, and dilated eyes told him arousal ate her alive. This was a Rachael he'd never seen and she was intoxicating. He was curious to see more.

Eddy's pinkie split her soaked slit. She made fists on the table and bit her bottom lip. In a moment, she'd regained her composure and apologized, announcing she had to call it an early night. Neither man budged.

"Stay," Walter suggested. "I've not seen you in so long and we have so much to catch up on. Sit with us a while."

Eddy curled his finger and teased her inner flesh. Rachael squirmed.

"So, Rachael," Walter calmly asked. "How does your husband feel about all this traveling you do?"

She gave him a hard stare. "It's difficult, ungh, sometimes, but we have such a deep and unconditional love for each other nothing gets in our way."

Eddy pushed his finger deep and Rachael hung her head, gasping for breath.

Walter made a decision. He faced Zach. "Maybe we should all head up to your room. The bar is starting to fill up with the after-work crowd."

"Good idea," Zach replied.

Rachael let Eddy lead her to the elevators. Walter and Zach walked behind the couple, watching Rachael's ass sway.

"She's bewitching," Zach whispered, leaning close to Walter. "I fucked her earlier. Unbelievable." He kissed his fingertips. "She's tight like you wouldn't believe and looked at my cock like it was the first she'd ever seen. After she freaked out and ran away but then she came back. Isn't she beautiful? How lucky are we?"

Up ahead Eddy put his arm around Rachael's waist and Rachael leaned into it.

"Luckiest men on Earth," Walter answered.

He stared at Eddy's arm resting just above Rachael's ass. The sight stung, he had to admit that, but seeing her with Eddy forced him to see her as an attractive stranger, the same way they saw her. He realized just how hot she was.

"You say you fucked her earlier. How'd that happen? Did you make a move, or did she?"

"We'd had a drink or two and went for a walk. We found some benches and sat. Next thing I know she drops her head in my lap and starts blowing me. I couldn't believe it. I saw the guilt in her eyes, like she felt bad for cheating, but that didn't stop me. I pulled her over my dick and she sat on it. I can't believe she came up to our room looking for more. Today's lesson is don't neglect your pretty wife."

Rachael and Eddy arrived at the door and Eddy scanned his card. He held the door open while everyone entered. Walter took a rounded-back art-deco chair in the corner facing the room. Zach headed for the bathroom and Eddy sat on the arm of the couch. Rachael seemed lost for a moment and remained standing. Eddy patted the couch cushion so Rachael headed for it.

When Zach emerged from the bathroom he moved behind the bar and made drinks for everyone. Eddy excused himself to change into comfortable clothes and Rachael turned to face Walter.

"What's happening here?" she murmured.

Walter glanced at Zach and shrugged. Rachael was a new woman, like he was seeing her for the first time. Her outfit clung to her curves, hiding just enough to make it legal but showing enough to make it tantalizing.

That's how she dressed for them, the old man thought. To turn them on.

Walter left his chairs and circled the room, dimming lights. Rachael's jaw dropped. Zach joined them carrying a tray of glasses and Walter complimented his memory.

"You remembered what we drank at the bar. Astute."

Zach smiled. Rachael took her wine and sat Eddy's drink on the coffee table in front of her. Eddy returned from the bedroom wearing pajama bottoms and a baggy T-shirt and took the spot next to Rachael, close enough their thighs touched. Rachael stiffened and shot a look at Walter.

Awkward silence descended. Eddy finished half his drink in a swallow and turned Rachael's face by her chin. Their eyes met and Eddy gently kissed her lips. Her discomfort was obvious.

"Too many people?" he whispered.

She gave a half-nod. "Kind of, yeah. Sorry."

"No worries."

Thinking that meant he would back off, Rachael relaxed. He took the wine glass from her hand and stood, holding his hand low. She took it, confused.

He stepped towards the bedroom, tugging her hand. Her eyes flashed to Zach and then Walter. Zach just grinned like a frat boy but Walter's eyes narrowed.

"Eddy," she began. "I can't. This is too—"

Eddy held her jaw and kissed her deeply. He knew this was the make it or break it moment. He'd been in group situations before. He held the kiss and let Rachael feel his want, let her feel his desire. He forced nothing, but let her know how badly he craved her. Rachael felt it.

In one moment, Walter was centered in her thoughts; worried and self-conscious. The next moment, Eddy's lips met hers and Walter began to recede.

She opened her blue eyes and gazed into his big brown ones. When his tongue slipped across, she naturally and instinctively met it with her own. When Eddy's big hand grazed the side of her breast, she leaned into it. When he pulled her to her feet, she rose, his handsome face filling her field of vision. Her hands slid down his back to his firm ass. He hugged her tightly and she felt his erection pressed into her stomach. She exhaled.

Eddy took that as a sign he was winning. He slid one hand behind her head, burrowing his fingers into her long dark hair, and pulled her head back, exposing her vulnerable throat. He gently scrapped his teeth along her sensitive skin, sending shivers racing through her body.

She moved one hand from his ass and followed the waist of his pajamas. Once in front, she slipped her hand inside, eager to meet this new, throbbing cock. She squeezed him once, pleased with his solid firmness, and then pulled the front of his bottoms down. Touch was not enough. She had to see it.

Unlike Zach, Eddy was well groomed, with trimmed pubic hair and shaved balls. He was also circumcised and a little bigger, which gave her an extra thrill she did not fully understand.

Why does that matter? she wondered.

Eddy peeled his shirt off and kicked his pants away and was nude in an instant. They kissed for a long minute and then his hands went for her clothing, drawing down the side zipper of her short skirt.

Rachael gasped when, from behind, Zach lifted her top over her head. As Eddy lowered her skirt and panties, Zach released her bra.

Rachael kept her eyes glued to Eddy's hard on, even when Zach hugged her from behind, his cock lodging perfectly in her ass crack. Eddy stepped close, sandwiching her between their hot male bodies.

One hard dick is poking my butt and another stabbing my stomach and I feel hard abs in front and behind and four pairs of male hands gliding over my skin and Eddy is kissing my throat and Zach is nibbling my nape and oh my fucking God.

Rachael moaned with desire from a well so deep her toes curled into the shag carpet. The air left her lungs in one long trailing sigh.

Walter eased back in his chair, his mouth frozen in an O shape, his eyes wide open. His heart smashed his ribs and bruised his spine.

Fucking Hell, he thought. Look at her. LOOK at your wife.

In the low light Rachael's breasts looked even bigger. Thrust upward, she pulled Eddy's mouth down to suck her nipples. Zach kneaded her round ass and spread her butt cheeks to stare at her winking sphincter and Rachael felt him looking. The embarrassment was a charge of pure electricity; so lewd, so dirty. Her jaw ached. Her mouth watered. She sank to her knees and captured Eddy's cock head in her mouth and sucked hard. She used both hands and her tongue and her lips and a gallon of saliva. This was not oral sex; she was sucking cock. She stroked and sucked like a whore, leaving Eddy no doubt she wanted his sperm.

Walter was shocked by Rachael's decadent behavior.

Zach looked to Walter. "Get undressed, old man. She's obviously hot for dick. Get yourself some."

Walter waved him off. "You go ahead for now," he said. "I'm happy just watching."

If Rachael heard her husband, she made no indication. She pushed Eddy's dick to the back of her mouth and tried to slip him into her throat. She gagged loudly, backed off an inch, and tried again.

Zach reached under her ass to finger her slit. "She's dripping," he exclaimed. "I must sample this pussy again." He knelt behind and took his cock in hand, probing the overhang of her round butt until he found her slit. "Her cunt's a thousand degrees," he mumbled. He walked closer on his knees and then curled his hips. Rachael groaned from penetration. "Remember me?" he asked. He took her hips and began to fuck her.

Walter shook his head and leaned forward, his eyes intense. Another man was fucking his wife. Rachael had a cock inside her and loved it. Walter heard her wetness from where he sat. Her eyebrows were twisted from maddening pleasure. Her body writhed between her struggle to suck the stiff erection in her mouth and her desire to get that cock as far into her pussy as possible.

“Enough,” Eddy announced, pulling his dick free with a pop and backing towards the bedroom. “My turn.”

He held his hand out to Rachael who took it and then carefully pulled herself off Zach’s dick. Zach took her other hand and, without a glance at Walter by any of them, walked the hallway to the bedroom.

Walter remained where he was. His mind whirled. He finished his whiskey and sat the tumbler beneath the chair and drew a deep breath.

I dimmed the lights, he reminded himself. We all knew where this was going.

Rachael groaned from the bedroom. His pulse jumped.

When Walter entered the room, he saw Rachael on all fours in the center of the bed. Eddy held her hips and worked his cock in and out from behind. Zach knelt before her and fucked her mouth. Rachael was so excited her pussy slurped and sloshed. Her spit drooled off Zach’s dick. Walter pulled an Ottoman around and sat close to the bed.

At last, through watery eyes and a haze of naked lust, Rachael saw her husband. They still maintained their façade so she gave away nothing other than to hold his gaze while Zach’s meat pumped her mouth. Rachael tried to imagine what her husband must be feeling but his expression gave no clue. She expected jealousy or anger but saw only whispers of each. She realized more than anything he felt excited. Rachael gripped Zach’s cock and waved Walter closer. He hesitated, but then knelt beside the bed.

“Kiss me,” she said, her voice heavy with barely controlled emotions. “It seems wrong, you just watching.”

Despite the smear of fluids around her mouth, Walter leaned in for a kiss. Zach’s cock was inches from his face. Rachael’s lips were slick with saliva and her head bounced each time Eddy thrust. They kissed and Walter’s head swooned.

They opened their eyes and kissed again and each felt a deep and loving bond arise. They saw the truth in each other’s eyes; Walter loved Rachael and Rachael loved Walter. That they both felt it while another man fucked her was undeniable proof of their unconditional connection. Tears welled in her eyes and she mouthed, “I love you” to her sweet husband. He mouthed them back, kissing her again, holding his lips to hers as Eddy thrust. Zach and Eddy saw nothing other than the kiss but Rachael and Walter shared a moment they knew they would never forget.

Walter kept his lips pressed to hers, enjoying the jolting of her body each time Eddy drove his cock home. Erotic rushes like nothing he'd ever known surged through him. He pictured that cock reaching far up inside his wife, probing her womb, learning her folds and warm, slippery embrace. Rachael and Walter kept their eyes open as they kissed and Rachael saw exactly what all this was doing to her husband.

"My turn again," Zach said.

Walter backed off but only just far enough. Zach's wet cock passed only an inch away on the trip to Rachael's mouth. She was looking at Walter when she opened wide and Zach pushed his cock onto her tongue. The sight boggled Walter's mind.

He stood and walked slow circles around the threesome, watching his gorgeous wife take cock at both ends. Zach again invited Walter to join and again Walter declined. Rachael was inching towards an orgasm and Walter wanted to see it. He moved towards the end of the bed, amazed by Eddy's erection spreading his wife wide.

Rachael stopped sucking and her head hung loose. Eddy smacked her ass and her head snapped up and he gripped her hips and pounded her hole.

"Oooooohhhh myyyy Gawwwd," she drawled. "I love your cock, Eddy. Love it. Fuck me, Baby. Fuck me hard. Make me take it."

Eddy tightened his grip and shortened his stroke. He could not wait to unload his hot cum into this alluring babe. He'd thought he'd lost all chance earlier when she'd preferred Zach but here she was again, soaking wet and ready.

Walter abruptly realized Eddy intended to shoot sperm into Rachael. He'd been so wonderfully dazzled that reality had not occurred to him.

But can I handle seeing that? God!

He held his breath, unsure what to do.

She's supposed to mean almost nothing to me. What reason can I give for stopping them? Why should I care? She must be the one stop him.

"Fuck, here it comes," he growled.

This is the moment, thought Walter. He's given her fair warning. Now is when the woman tells you to pull out and shoot on her ass. Now is when she warns him away.

But she did not.

Eddy grabbed her long hair with both hands and pulled, drawing her head backward and bowing her spine. Walter worried the young man would hurt her until he saw how much his wife loved it. Eddy lengthened his strokes to fully enjoy her tight cunt and the sound of their flesh slapping filled the room.

“Don’t stop,” Rachael demanded. “I’m almost there. Give it to me.”

“Fucking take it, bitch,” Eddy shot back.

An evil smile spread across her face.

Eddy tightened his grip on her hair and tugged harder still, like halting a team of horses. Rachael made a choking sound but slammed her hips at his cock and Eddy sucked air and then started blasting away, thick, hot gouts of seed spewing into her wet tunnel. Rachael felt him swell, stuffing her front to back and side to side, and Eddy was filling her up and Walter was there to see everything. Walter witnessed her insemination and it was all so immoral and wicked and wrong that her climax slammed her like a sledgehammer and she and Eddy were abruptly cumming together.

“Oooohhhh God!” she cried, almost sobbing. A terrible wave of guilt rolled over her which only fed her salacious fire and made her cum harder.

How terrible, she thought. How terrible my poor husband sees me cum with Eddy, soaking his hard cock as he floods my womb.

Walter looked thunderstruck as Eddy came again and again until finally his hips slowed and his rhythm lost.

Rachael collapsed to her elbows and chest and Eddy pushed away, breathing hard, withdrawing his dripping penis from her guts and falling onto his back.

Zach saw his opportunity.

Rachael still had her hips high off the bed and in two steps he was behind her, throbbing cock poised and curving like a horn. She was too dazed to understand what was about to happen so when Zach lined up and pushed his cock deep, her head snapped up and she tried to pull away. Zach grabbed her by the hair and pinned her.

“No,” he commanded. “You’re taking mine too.”

Rachael dropped flat on her stomach and Walter wondered if now was the time to get involved, but Rachael lifted her ass to offer Zach her sloppy cunt.

“That’s my girl,” Zach chuckled.

He wetted a thumb and pushed it up her ass while feeding her pussy his dick. Rachael grunted, fearful he might try to fuck her there.

Walter stood amazed.

Zach used Rachael for a while before she started to grow excited. Once she started showing signs of life he circled her throat and held her immobilized while fucking her hard. He didn’t care if she climaxed. He only cared to empty his nuts. He fucked her hard and selfishly and Walter noticed that turned Rachael on, soon driving her to another orgasm. Zach came and all three lay in a tangle of bodies on the bed.

Chapter 11

Rachael and Walter left together hours later.

The boys were exhausted, fucking her again before allowing her to leave. Walter volunteered to walk her safely back to her room. Rachael wanted a shower the moment they reached her suite but Walter said no.

“How many times?”

Rachael looked confused

“How many times?” Walter repeated. “How many men? How long have you been doing...this?”

His voice was calm and Rachael couldn’t tell if he was angry or not. She wrestled with revealing what happened with Richard. Dorothy complicated that relationship. Walter saw her hesitate.

“Spill it, Baby. Come clean. I’m not angry. Far from it.”

Rachael sighed. “Two times. Three men.”

“Three? So those two and one other? Who?”

She chewed a lip. “Richard. The night of the gala auction.”

Walter’s face contorted. “Richard? Dorothy’s grandson? How?”

“He got me buzzed on champagne and took me outside. He pinned me against a low wall, lifted my dress, and fucked me from behind.”

“Pinned? He forced you?”

“Yes. No. Kind of. He did at first but if I’m honest, I was glad he did. I liked it. You say you aren’t angry but what are you? I can’t tell what you’re thinking.”

Walter drew a deep breath and let it out slowly. “I’m wondering if you did this because you are dissatisfied with me. That you are unhappy in our marriage. Is our relationship finished?”

Rachael’s face fell. “No! Oh, God, Honey, no, no way. I love you, Walter. What we just did was insane and intense and I know I this must sound crazy but I feel super close to you. That kiss we shared while Eddy fucked me was unbelievable.”

Walter relaxed some. Rachael stepped closer.

“You don’t hate me?”

Walter shook his head slowly. “Baby, you looked astonishing. I don’t want to take four hours and dissect every little thing but my eyes still ache with what I saw. You’re a whole new Rachael to me.”

He stopped talking to choose his next words carefully.

“Can we—“ He cleared his throat. “Can we do it again? Or something like it?”

Rachael took a step back. “What?”

“I’m already thinking about next time. Do you want to do it again?”

“Do you mean with Zach and Eddy or do you mean other men?”

“Other men. Perhaps when we get home. I very much want to watch you again. Or, if having me stare makes you uncomfortable, perhaps you can enjoy a tryst while on the road and tell me all about it.”

Rachael sat on the arm of the couch. “Are you serious?”

“Very much. What you just did with them was intoxicating. I was enthralled the entire time. You were this mythic creature; insatiable, ravenous for more man-flesh, thrilled to be used. I found it exhilarating. Maybe we can just try it once or twice and see if you wish to continue?”

Rachael could not believe her ears. “That sounds...interesting. Sure”

“Fantastic. Now, before you shower, come here. I need you.”

Chapter 12

“Bullshit,” Amy said. “No way.”

“It’s all true,” Rachael replied. “Every word. I got Eddy and Zach’s phone number the next day. I’ll show you.”

Amy picked at her Caesar Salad and swept her eyes around the restaurant. “Fuck you and your perfect life, Rach. You have more luck than any one woman should. Bright, tall, gorgeous, money, and now a husband that lets, no, encourages you to take hot lovers. Fuck you, Rach.”

Rachael giggled as she showed Amy the boys numbers. She couldn’t help it. Her night with Eddy and Zach was two weeks behind her yet she still rode a euphoric wave.

Walter had flown out the next morning. Rachael took two meetings during the day and then met the boys for a hard, fast fuck before catching her late flight. She’d taken several graphic pictures and sent them to Walter with the caption: “How’s this?” He’d quickly responded with a request for more, which she’d ignored, too busy getting her brains fucked out.

“So who’s next on your list? With your looks, you can have any man you want.”

Rachael folded her napkin and dropped it on the table. “That’s the catch, Amy. I don’t want to target a man and go get him. I want him to chase me. What Richard did that night was perfect. He risked everything because he wanted me so badly. I want that. I want to flirt with a man until we know the connection is there, and then he just loses control and takes me.”

“Like all those hot scenes in the movies.”

“Exactly.”

“Times are changing, Love. Guys don’t act like that anymore.”

“So where’s my luck now?”

“Do you know what brought all this on, baby girl?”

“I have no idea. Maybe just getting older and braver?”

“That’s true but I think you’re forgetting something.”

“What?”

“Brandon.”

Rachael made a funny face and leaned back in her chair. “What does he have to do with any of this?”

Amy watched her friend closely. That struck a nerve.

“Never mind. Probably nothing. It’s just after your ride with him, you called me, and you only call me when you feel conflicted or need to vent. I’m thinking that ride stirred up something in you.”

“Nonsense. Brandon is a nice man but he was disgusting. I had zero sex thoughts about him.”

“All right. I guess it’s a mystery then.”

They continued their day at the mall but Amy knew Rachael was upset. She tried to start a conversation but Rachael seemed too preoccupied to put feelings into words and any discussion died. After two dresses and two pairs of shoes, the girls walked back to their cars and said goodbye.

Rachael felt too agitated to drive home. Walter would be there packing for his flight to Los Angeles and talking a mile a minute about his latest project.

She pulled off the freeway and into a Starbucks. She ordered her drink, found a corner table, and sipped her latte while reading the news on her phone.

When she felt better, she headed for home.

Chapter 13

Brandon eased the rig into the dirt lot, listening to the gravel crunch beneath his big tires. He was early because the weather had held but Ida wouldn’t mind. Two hundred dollars is two hundred dollars. He checked his side views and rolled the trailer along the north edge, pulling in under the elms.

A meal, a fuck, and a nap, he thought.

He set the brakes and checked all his mirrors again. He grabbed his phone and climbed out. The wind was kicking up so he kept his head down. When he reached the lumpy asphalt, he looked up.

Rachael had worn her shortest black miniskirt and a gauzy white top with no bra. Black boots rose higher than her knees. Her make-up gave her eyes a smoky intensity and her hair framed her gorgeous face and hung to her waist. She leaned casually against the diner wall, legs crossed at the ankle, hands behind her butt. She was simultaneously relaxed and tense. She wanted him to understand why she was there just by the look of her.

Brandon stopped dead. The first time they’d met he’d seen her at her worst; frazzled, tired, and irritated.

“Goddamn,” he heard himself say.

He met her eyes, searching for why she was there. He was about to ask if her car broke down again or she was craving a cheeseburger and fries, but those flippant words died in his throat. He saw something in her expression that said now was not the time for jokes. For a moment, he wondered how she found him but then he remembered; "I drive this route every Friday night, midnight to seven, rain or shine." He thought about asking her if she'd had to wait long but that comment died too. There was something in her eyes he was close to recognizing.

"Nice shorts, Brandy," she said.

He looked down at his clothing; same as always, shorts and a flannel shirt. He thought about caring for an instant but rejected that.

"What you see is what you get," he replied. He ran his eyes over her body again.

"Wind's chilly," he said. "Talk in the truck?"

Rachael hesitated for an instant, just half a fleeting second, but he caught it and understanding bloomed. He turned and marched back the way he'd come, knowing she'd follow. He held the passenger door open but did not help her climb up. He made himself walk normal speed around the cab and climb in on the driver's side.

Rachael sat with her knees facing the dash but her torso facing him. He waited. Uncertainty had crept into her gaze which told him her husband had no idea.

The more I talk, he thought. The greater chance I fuck this up. I don't know exactly why she's here, but I've seen that look in other women enough to know what she wants.

Brandon stood, head awkwardly bent, and began unbuttoning his shirt. He threw it aside. He was fit once, Rachael saw, with bulky muscles coiled beneath layers of fat. He was solid as a linebacker. He was pale and hairy. She noted his wrists looked thicker than her arm. She looked away to survey the surrounding parking lot and heard him speak: "My truck is known. No one will bother us."

She faced him as his shorts came down. He wore no underwear, which she already knew, so his long, fat, veiny member hung revealed. She didn't want to look. She didn't want this man to see how that thick snake affected her. She didn't want to hand over control to this uneducated hick. She tried to look away but instead just stared.

I don't know why it matters, but it does.

Brandon grinned. This was his favorite part. He'd been with lots of women, including beautiful women, when he'd paid for them, and even the bored ones stopped and took notice when he got his cock out. He loved the looks on their faces.

Rachael wasn't as surprised as he expected which only confirmed she'd seen something while he slept. No doubt, that's what brought her back today. He may love the way she looks at his cock, but he wasn't about to wait.

"I fucked a lesbian, once," he bragged. "It got to her, too." Brandon moved closer and took her head in both hands. "Open your fucking mouth," he commanded.

She sagged a bit, relieved he was taking control, and opened her mouth wide. He lifted his meat and pushed the first inches in. He didn't have to tell her to start sucking. Her eager lips closed around his knob and the heat made him gasp. He put his hands on her head again and looked down to watch his cock pump in and out of her gorgeous face.

"Christ Almighty," he rumbled.

She struggled, which he enjoyed, and after giving her a minute he held firmly and slowly forced his thickening shaft deep. She gagged and tried to pull off him but he gripped her.

"No," he barked. "Stop panicking like a little bitch. Relax your throat. Breath through your nose and calm the fuck down. I'm going to fuck your gullet and there's no two ways about that. Believe me, you can do it. Smaller girls than you have taken every inch. Put your hands behind your back. Use only your mouth."

Rachael felt her pussy gush. His cock felt like a steel pipe forcing her jaw open but his aggression thrilled her. His voice demanded obedience and she surprised herself how ready she was to give it. She drew a deep breath through her nose and closed her eyes. She relaxed.

Brandon inched closer and raised on his toes. This angle was better and he slowly eased his fat worm into her mouth. She gagged when he touched a tonsil and fought him hard enough he worried she'd vomit, but she got herself under control. With eyes streaming water, he began to push deeper. She rotated her jaw to lessen his passing. A massive thrill surged in him. He looked down at her stunning face and watched his cock disappear.

"Open your eyes and look at me. I want you looking at me when you take the whole thing."

Her gaze hit him like a punch in the gut. So fucking beautiful.

He stopped his advance to saw in and out for a few minutes, savoring the sight. He withdrew his dripping cock and ordered her to lick every inch, including his balls. She seemed as revolted as aroused but she enthusiastically swabbed every inch. He knew her jaw had to ache but she said nothing.

He reached behind him and turned the driver's chair to face her. He kicked off his shorts and shoes and took a seat, spreading his legs wide. His balls hung lower than the seat cushion.

"Get to work," he instructed. "This is going to take a long fucking time."

Rachael crawled out of her chair and knelt between his thighs. His cock rose straight up, a commanding tower of masculine power and vitality. She stroked him with both hands, admiring his oversized behemoth, wondering why it affected her the way it did.

"Amy's a smart girl," she murmured.

Brandon put a big hand on top of her head and brought her mouth down again. Rachael opened wide and took his cock. Soon she rose to her knees to take more, curling her arms around his thighs to help force her head down. Inch by inch he felt his stiff rod work deeper. Her throat was a tight, wet tunnel. She stopped often to breathe or rest but he didn't mind. He knew he'd never forget the sight. Spit dripped to the floor of the cab and Rachael's drool hung in loops from her hands, but the girl was determined.

"You're close," he gasped. "Look at me and take the rest."

Rachael needed ten more minutes to capture that last inch but she did. Brandon smiled and Rachael felt so proud. He saw the look in her eyes.

"Leave me buried and use your throat muscles. Just pretend you're swallowing honey. Unngh, fuck, yeah, like that."

Rachael felt thrilled with her new skill. Inside her mouth she swabbed his shaft with her tongue while working the head with her muscles. Brandon was in Heaven and allowed her to work on him for a while.

"You got good fast, girl. Now get out of them clothes. I'm going to fuck you."

Rachael pulled her mouth off and wiped away the saliva. She hurried to whip her top off over her head and shimmy out of her miniskirt. When she went for the zipper on her boots, Brandon told her to leave them on. She nodded, gazing at his erection.

“Can I take pictures?” she asked.

He gave her a disbelieving look. “Why?”

“For my husband.”

Brandon laughed. “What the fuck?”

She looked away, embarrassed. “He let me do this, if I send pictures.”

“You want to take pictures and send them to your husband? Where is he?”

“London.”

Brandon reached for his phone. “Sure. We’ll both take pictures. That way if you try to use them against me, like going to the cops, I have proof too.”

Rachael took a step forward bringing her pussy directly over Brandon’s head. She started the camera and handed him her phone.

“No cops,” she said. She reached down to stand him straight up and bent at the knees. Her pussy dropped and she aimed his head between her labia. “No cops,” she said again. She looked down at his girthy inches. “Will it hurt me?”

“It always does,” he said. “But that hasn’t stopped one of you yet.”

Rachael bit her bottom lip and lowered her pussy. She aimed his head to split her labia and Brandon felt her drenched tunnel envelope the crown like a blanket. Her tremendous heat reached all the way to his balls. She stopped with just the head in her.

“Huuun,” he gasped. “Jesus, that’s a hot wet place.”

He raised her phone and snapped a picture.

“The moment of no return,” he teased. “That one’s going to stab your old man through the heart.”

Rachael had nothing to say. Brandon’s cock stretched her hole wide open. She concentrated, controlling her breathing as she sank onto him. The first intense waves of pleasure began to rise. Occasionally she’d wince when he bumped something tender.

“Nnngh,” she groaned. “I’ve, I’ve never—“

Brandon let her slid down onto him, snapping pictures as her cunt swallowed his cock. She had several inches to go when he touched her cervix and she stopped. Her jaw dropped open and she looked at him in disbelief.

“Lift your feet,” he told her.

Zach had said the same thing but he never felt like this. Rachael put her hands on Brandon's gut and raised an inch or two and then lifted her feet and forced his cock deep. The pressure on her insides made her gasp with a mix of pleasure and pain. She felt like he was buried behind her lungs. He sent a surge of blood up the shaft and Rachael howled.

"Holy Fuck! What was that?" Shivers turned her skin to goose bumps.

Brandon cupped a full tit and snapped another picture. "Lift off and suck me again. I want your husband to see my cock in your mouth. Let's take some with your face in them."

Rachael hated to leave but did as she was told. Brandon took half a dozen of her worshiping big dick before telling her to climb on again. Rachael enthusiastically straddled him and sank down and he snapped more pictures, this time capturing her legs and boots too.

When she'd worked the shaft deep, he handed her the camera and circled her waist with both arms. He rose from the chair and she locked ankles behind him. His fat no longer bothered her. She didn't even see it. He was a solid man, strong and thick, and she felt his physical power.

He carried her to the sleeping mat and put her on her back. Every step he took moved the turgid spike inside her and rubbed her clit against his body. Constant little gasps and grunt escaped her.

On her back, Rachael spread her legs as wide as she could. Brandon moved into a missionary position over her, supporting his bulk with his arms, and began to thrust. Rachael felt he was turning her cunt inside-out each time he withdrew. The tip of his tongue stuck from his mouth as he grunted in pleasure. She sat the phone aside.

"That's enough pictures for now," she said. "Fuck me."

Brandon hesitated, dazzled by her beauty. Her long hair was spread across his pillow and her eyes were filled with want. She looked at him like no other woman had and it hit him hard.

"Fuck me," she said again, impatient. "Fuck me, Brandy." She giggled.

Brandon seized her wrists and pinned them next to her ears. He leaned his weight over her and began dropping his cock into her tight hole. Each time his pubic bone made contact near her clit, she saw stars.

Fuuuuuck, I love your cock. Give it to me you motherfucker."

Rachael gushed wet. Already drenched, Brandon reached places she'd never had touched before. His body hair scoured her sensitive nipples and rubbed her belly. She was utterly powerless beneath him and loved it. Her juices flowed like a faucet, soaking his sleeping mat.

He leaned down to kiss her and she shot her tongue into his mouth, kissing him passionately and lifting her hips to meet his. His whiskers scratched her face. She did not care. His cock inside her was making her feel things she'd never felt. Knowing she was capable of driving hours just to entice a man into fucking her lit her mind on fire. Now she knew who she was. She'd left too much of herself unexamined, distracting herself with work.

"Fuck me, Brandon. Smash me with that huge cock. Fuck me and fill me with cum. Empty those big balls in me, Baby."

Brandon buried his face in her neck and repeatedly drove his cock home. Her cunt was a furnace wrapped tightly around every inch. He knew this time would be different, this time he would not last long.

"Oh fuck!" she cried. "I'm gonna cum. I'm gonna cum! Oh, fuck! Arrrrgh!"

Rachael's head tossed side to side like a woman possessed. She growled and screamed as her pussy twisted with spasms. Her orgasm was a hurricane centered on her hips and radiating outward, wracking her body with convulsions. She screamed again and then buried her face in his neck and bit down hard. Brandon felt her body shaking under him, tremors of uncontrolled bliss racing all around inside her. He held back as long as he could but she was too much. He roared as his cock erupted spewing molten lava, flooding her tubes. She tried to wrap her legs around his wide waist. She begged him to cum in her, to empty his big nuts and give her every drop.

Finally, he dropped to his elbows and released her sore wrists. She circled his head with her arms and rolled her hips around his still semi-stiff penis. They lay together like that a long time. When Brandon rolled onto his back, Rachael moved down to suck his cock clean. She loved the taste of her pussy on his meat. After, she curled up under an arm, feeling small next to him.

She awoke to his tongue probing her ass. She was sleeping on her stomach and Brandon had gently pulled her butt cheeks apart and nuzzled her rosebud hole. She smiled and reached back to drop a hand on top of his head, guiding his tongue. Soon he dipped lower and licked up and down her slit, circling her raw clit before returning to her sphincter. It felt fantastic and she let him go on. He moved to get his knees under him and then she felt his legs pin hers, his hands pin her wrists. He dipped his cock head into her well lubricated pussy and she purred, believing he was about to fuck her again, but then he withdrew and moved an inch higher.

She felt pressure at her asshole.

“Brandon? What are you doing?”

He eased more of his hulking weight onto her. His feet forced her ankles farther apart and then she felt him push. Suddenly she knew. All traces of sleep vanished.

He's going to fuck my ass!

She squirmed a little, trying to turn enough to see his face, but he pinned her and growled in her ear like a Pitbull. She went still.

“You’re going to take my cock in every hole,” he said. “I’m fucking you every way a man can fuck a woman.”

Her heart leapt. Excitement rose. No man had ever taken her there and she felt scandalous. She struggled with genuine worry, but loved when he pinned her again. His hips inched forward and she felt her tight hole spread, thanking God for all the pussy juice, spit, and cum which coated her tight ring. Brandon groaned and pushed again and Rachael gasped. Even slick, his cock felt huge! She forced herself to relax.

She loved he took what he wanted. He released one of her wrists and rested his weight on that elbow while circling her delicate throat with his big hand. His thick fingers dented her skin, partially restricting her breathing, and a buzz electrified her brain. He increased his grip, making her feel utterly helpless, and then pushed his cock forward. When the head slipped inside the ring, she yelped.

At first there was pain and she instinctively tried to crawl away. Brandon held her in place and sank another inch up her ass. He pulled back and pushed deeper, and the pain began to mix with pleasure. He leaned back, pulling her throat back with him, until her back bowed, exposing her breasts.

“Pinch your nipples,” he demanded.

She did and sparks flew. Rachael moaned.

“Harder. Hurt yourself. Asphyxia raises your tolerance.”

Rachael did as ordered. She pinched and twisted her nipples until her lips trembled, and discovered something wonderful.; the deeper his cock went, the more pain felt like pleasure. He tightened his grip on her windpipe until her breath wheezed, and then pushed several more inches up her ass.

Rachael had never felt anything like this. She tugged her nipples, overcome by this new sensation. She was trapped and helpless and skewered by a stiff cock and loved every second of it.

“Fuck my ass,” she whimpered. “Oh, God. I’m getting fucked in the ass.”

Brandon cut her air off entirely, waiting until she saw stars to let her breathe again. Pleasure flooded her mind and left her weak and dizzy.

“Again,” she sobbed.

Brandon fed her rectum more hard dick while choking off her air. Her entire body tingled like a clit.

“Oooooohhh fuuucck.” Her head slumped.

He put her on her stomach and used both hands to circle her throat, cutting off air as he slowly filled her ass. Rachael was almost crying from pleasure. At last she felt his big hairy balls smother her slit. She had all of him.

“Get...a...picture...” she panted.

Brandon took three; head at her sphincter, half way in, and buried balls deep.

“Never had your ass fucked, have you? That’s all right, don’t answer. I know by your reaction you haven’t. I fucking love that I’m your first. These pictures will kill your old man.”

He sat the phone aside and filled each hand with nice round butt cheek, spreading her so he could watch himself go in and out.

“Reach under and play with your clit. I want to feel you cum.”

Rachael hurried to obey. Brandon held a smooth rhythm to help her get there but Rachael was ready fast. She came screaming, rubbing her clit with Brandon’s dick balls deep. Days from now she’d confess to Amy it was the strongest orgasm of her life.

Brandon held off, allowing her to finish, and then pounded until spurting a gallon of jizz in her bowels.

They rested, speaking little, each lost in their own thoughts, until Brandon mentioned a motel a few miles down the freeway. Rachael staggered back to her car and followed him. After a shower, she spent more than an hour sucking his heavy cock until she got him hard again and drank a hot, salty load. They dozed a second time and, upon waking, Brandon fucked her the rest of the night, cumming deep inside her womb as they kissed passionately. They took no pictures of that encounter.

Brandon wanted breakfast but Rachael had to get home so they hugged and kissed and parted company. Once she was home she began sending Walter pictures, one every fifteen minutes until he was texting rapidly, begging for more. After she sent the first ass-fuck picture there was a long pause and she worried she'd gone too far. Then Walter sent back a photo of his own turgid, crimson penis and she knew all was well.

Chapter 14

Walter was in a meeting when he felt his phone vibrate. Almost two hours passed before he was back in his hotel room and able to check the message. When he did, his legs went weak and he flopped into a nearby chair.

He recognized his wife's gleaming pussy poised above a fat, erect penis. He wondered who the man was. He wondered where his wife was. She'd sent a message about something she had to do and then had dropped off the grid for twelve hours.

Now, this.

He zoomed the photo, examining her freshly shaved labia and his bright pink head. How badly he wanted to be inside her was obvious by the swell of the veins.

I need to be naked for this.

Walter flipped the deadbolt and undressed. The next picture arrived as he was settling into bed; Rachael stretched wide, two or three inches of the man buried.

Walter reached for his penis.

The pictures came in slowly and no amount of begging made Rachael send them faster. Walter had to wait, lightly stroking, as his wife unveiled her decadent escapade gradually.

In the end, he was glad he postponed his orgasm until the final pictures arrived. That thick and veiny cock expanding her ass was more than he could take. Whoever this man was, he now knew Rachael in a way Walter did not, and that fueled an orgasm so powerful Walter swooned.

Chapter 15

Amy's face was pure shock. In their favorite lunch-time restaurant, she held Rachael's phone and scrolled through the pictures a fourth time.

"That cock though," she enthused. "The man's not awful, better looking than your first description, chubby but kind of buff, but that cock. Jesus. Pornstar much?" She lowered her voice, glancing around at the other tables. "And you took that in your ass?"

"I did."

Amy high-fived her. She studied the pictures one last time before handing the phone back. "He looks old-school, too. I bet he threw you around, handled you rough just the way you like."

Rachael hid her phone. "He did. I loved it."

"How long ago was this?"

"About a week."

"And you sent those pictures to Walter?"

"Yeah. He loved them. Sent back pictures of his own hard penis and then his cum on the floor. It was pretty hot."

"You on birth control yet?"

Rachael ignored her question.

"All right. As your friend, I had to mention it. You seeing Brandon again?"

"No. I don't know. I doubt it. I don't want to ruin it, you know?"

"I totally get that. Next thing you know you guys are arguing about what kind of food for dinner. Yuck. Better if you wait six months to fuck him again. Everything will feel new. Maybe he has friends."

Rachael giggled.

"What about those other guys? Zach and Eddy?"

"Eddy says they're coming to Vegas for New Year's."

"Hot. Who else?"

“Victor and Robert and James.”

“Jesus. Slut.”

Rachael giggled again. “Right? I need a day planner to keep my affairs in order.”

Amy leaned back in her chair. “Fuck you, Rach. Fuck you and your perfect life.”

Rachael raised her glass of Cabernet. “I’ll share,” she said.

Amy clinked glasses with her. “To sharing.”

The women drank.

End.

Follow my Tumblr blog; MyEroticBunny.tumblr.com

Follow My Twitter; twitter.com/MyEroticBunny

Get a FREE Hotwife Story!

Join My Mailing List
<http://eepurl.com/cTvA7P>