

Matthew Lee

she plays

A Hotwife
Story

She Plays

A Hotwife Story

By Matthew Lee

Chapter 1

Her hair is red but that's not why her mother named her Scarlett. Her mother named her Scarlett because somewhere back in their family tree there was a bank-robbing ancestor named Scarlett. My wife is named after her. Not that my wife robs banks. She doesn't. She plays. My wife plays violin, and plays it well, which is why I found myself in Amsterdam, sitting in an audience of five-thousand at the National Institute for Music, listening to Scarlett weave her way alone through Concerto in D Minor by composer Jean Sibelius. Arguably one of the most difficult pieces ever written for violin, my wife is laughing with joy as her fingers fly and beautiful notes soar. The audience sits mesmerized, and so do I. Her solo leads to another piece, this time fully backed by the orchestra, and the music soars.

The concert concluded an hour later. The conductor has each section stand for applause one by one, saving my petite and lovely wife for last. She rises, smoothing her conservative pleated dress and dipping her head in a small shy bow. Strands of gorgeous red hair fall forward. The ovation is thunderous, clamorous, overwhelming, and Scarlett is humbled, timidly gazing at the floor. The conductor isn't having it and leaves his podium to guide her to the front of the stage, her brilliant red dress dazzling in the spotlight. Behind her the orchestra spontaneously stands, wildly applauding the genius they just heard. The crowd responds, rising as one to their feet, clapping giving way to whistles and yells. Scarlett's jaw drops, stunned by the unplanned outpouring of appreciation and respect. Tears fill her eyes. My heart fills to bursting with pride and gratitude for my lovely wife. I'm on my feet like everyone else, cheering her incredible talent. The conductor backs away and sweet Scarlett is all alone, a thin needle under a yellow spotlight. The adulation seems to last forever.

Our routine for these events is that I wait out front for her and that's what I did this time. With my back to the Amstel waterway and facing the massive white-marble building, I breathed the cool night air. A rumble of distant thunder lumbered through the narrow streets. At last Scarlett said her final goodnights, shook her last hand, gave her final hug. The door opened and my pretty wife emerged.

"How'd I do?" she asked.

A joke, yes, but even with the crowd response she'd received, insecurities nevertheless ate at her.

"You were breathtaking," I said.

She flowed into my arms and I kissed the top of her head.

"I love this life, Jake," she murmured. "All of it. You. The travel. The crowds. The music. The hustle and the headaches. All of it."

I slipped my arm around her shoulder and squeezed. She'd worked so hard and come so far. She was talented at birth, born with a mind and fingers built to play, but incredible amounts of hard work, discipline, and tenacity had lifted her to world-class heights. She would play again at the institute in four days and again two days after that. It had been thirty-seven years since an artist was booked for three shows. Meanwhile we were free to travel, see the city and possibly visit other countries too. We'd made no definite plans. We rarely do. She burrowed her face into my chest and exhaled, relaxing for the first time since she received the invitation to play for such a prestigious venue.

"You hungry?" I asked.

"Famished."

"You have a food mood or shall we wander and see what happens?"

"Wander."

I led the way but she kept her grip tight, arms circling my waist, head on my chest. She was exhausted, drained physically and emotionally. I guided us over the first bridge, watching her wrinkle her nose at Thai food. We held hands and ambled, in no hurry at all, soaking up the moment. We stopped to watch a small boat pass under the next bridge and leaned against the old stone railing.

"A standing ovation," I said.

She hugged my arm.

"A motherfucking standing ovation, Scar. Think of it. That level of recognition in that place, from those people."

Her bottom lip wobbled like a drunk navigating steps. Then the dam burst. She buried her face in my chest like she was Ed Norton Jr. and I was Meatloaf. Tears flowed, the accumulated stresses and strains of maintaining that level, but then winning and feeling your fears leave. I held her tight, smiling at the concerned people walking by. Scarlett lifted her face to kiss my cheek.

A man and woman, recognizing her from her recent performance, turned to purchase a bundle of tulips from a street vendor. They approached carefully, apologizing in broken English for the intrusion, and laid the bundle at Scarlett's feet. My wife swooned, leaving my side to hug them both.

"You are fantastic," the man said. "Sublime. Heavenly."

He went on praising her, explaining his love of the violin. Eventually the woman tugged the man away but not before everyone did multiple cheek-kisses and hugs. I collected the tulips.

"I can't take much more of this," Scarlett sighed. "Let's get off the street."

We started walking again, crossing a few more bridges before reaching an Italian café. I gave her a look and she nodded.

The food was fantastic and Scarlett ate like a horse. A full belly helped settle her nerves. I'd placed the flowers in a glass of water center table and she kept glancing at them, clearly moved by the thoughtful gestures: mine, and the couple who'd purchased them for her.

We left the restaurant and wandered again, soaking Amsterdam in through our skin. Thunder rumbled again and a light, misty rain began to fall. We didn't care, continuing our meandering, enjoying the moment.

Chapter 2

Thirty minutes later, and without warning, the rain turn heavy. No sound, no flash of lightning, just falling water droplets ten times bigger. We burst out laughing at the shock and ran down the sidewalk, darted into the first open doorway we found, a place called Casa Rosso. About two dozen people ran inside with us, laughing and shaking off rain. An older gentleman, white haired and slightly bent at the shoulders, ushered us all inside, waving for waitresses and doormen to help. We were hustled to small tables, extras added for the rush, and menus thrust into our hands.

The place was built like an old-time theater, cozy, with tables and chairs right up to the stage. A massive red curtain hung across that end of the room. Our tablecloth was black linen and a tiny candle flickered in the center. Our elaborately carved wooden chairs were covered in crushed red velvet.

"I love this place," Scarlett whispered, opening her drink menu.

I sent my gaze around, noting statues of nude men and women, paintings of nude men and women, photographs of nude men and women. A trapeze bar sat tied off near the vaulted ceiling. Everything had an old-time vaudeville feel.

I wiped the rain off my face and examined the drink menu too. We ordered when the waitress came to our table and I tried to ask when the show started. My Dutch and her English could not get along so we ended up just pointing to the items on the menu we desired and smiling as she walked away.

"She was pretty," Scarlett said, removing her wet jacket and draping it over the back of her chair.

High overhead the lights flickered three times and then dimmed.

"Showtime," I said, smiling at my lovely wife.

"Perfect timing," she said.

Stragglers quickly took their seats. The darkness grew until only the flickering candles lit the crowd, casting tiny pools of orange glow. A spotlight hit the huge red curtains and a black crease appeared down the center. A lithe black woman stepped through wearing only a leopard print thong. Toned muscles coiled as she pretended to look out over the horizon, one hand shielding her eyes from the spotlight. She pointed high above our heads, slowly sweeping her hand to take in the whole room. She reached one side and switched hands, sweeping to the other side. She retreated behind the curtain.

"I wonder what that was about?" I asked.

Scarlett lifted one shoulder in a lazy shrug.

"Don't know," she said. "But what a body."

Our drinks arrived, three of each. I raised a finger to protest but Scarlett touched my arm.

"We're going to drink them anyway," she said. "This saves the waitress trips."

I nodded agreement, noticing the same occurring at the tables around us. I also noticed something else: the style of chairs changed in three separate arcs the farther you got from the stage. Closest, like ours, were intricately carved. The next half ring were more traditional restaurant chairs and the farthest and last half ring were folding chairs, easily moved. Given the cramped nature of the theater, I could imagine why.

On stage the curtains parted again and a man stepped out. He dished one-liners, mixing Dutch and English, zinging both sides of the Atlantic. After him a woman played guitar and sang and her show blended nicely into a troupe of incredible dancers wearing only colorful scarves tied around legs and arms. Scarlett mentioned how sexy they were and I agreed. Endless flashes of hot male and female bodies, combined with the drinks we were powering through, had us both feeling a bit frisky.

I noticed the toned black girl wandering through the crowd, moving from table to table. As if on cue, several tables wet their fingers and extinguished their candles. The black girl stopped at the table next to ours. Their candle still burned.

They were in their late thirties, handsome, well-dressed, and obviously married. Their wedding rings matched but more than that, they moved like a couple long familiar with each other. He was blonde, she a brunette. The black girl circled several times as their nervousness grew. Tension filled the air. Scarlett took my hand.

"What's happening?" she murmured.

I shook my head. The black girl stopped before the couple and held out her hands, which they took uneasily, regretting that, of all the couples seated close, they'd been chosen. They rose and followed her to the stage.

Our waitress checked if we needed more drinks and I said yes.

On stage the girl positioned the couple so they faced each other. She moved them closer. She moved them closer. She moved them closer, and then closer again. The audience laughed and so did the couple. From behind the curtain two more girls appeared dressed in sheer white gowns. One carried blindfolds but the other circled the couple many times before kneeling behind the wife. She reached under the woman's knee-length skirt, surprising her and making everyone laugh again, and with exaggerated effort tugged the woman's panties down. She held them overhead like a boxer's championship belt and the audience applauded.

The girl with the blindfolds covered the couple's eyes. The girl with the panties waited until her companion had finished, then made a big show of pulling them over the husband's head. The audience laughed again. The fit black girl checked to be sure the couple could not see and then walked them another step closer. She had them take a step back. She had him step to the right and her to the left. She made them take another step back before stepping forward again. She played with them, moving them all around, making us laugh while also getting them to trust her directions.

I would soon learn she had a deeper motive.

She brought them facing each other once more. She moved them close until their toes almost touched. She took the man's hands, guiding him to unbutton his wife's top. The wife froze, arms stiff at her sides. The man finished and the woman's top hung partially open, revealing a simple white bra.

"Oh my," Scarlett whispered.

Oh my, indeed. My heart raced. We'd stumbled onto a racy amateur cabaret, complete with innocent and unknowing victims. The woman was attractive, like so many we'd seen in this city: slim, with nice breasts and butt and pretty face. They were anxious, on the spot, but willing to go along with the show. Peer pressure, even with a group of strangers, is a powerful thing.

The black girl now took the woman's hands and had her unbutton the man's shirt. When she finished, she was told to push the garment off his shoulders. The girl circled, whispering instructions, guiding them in the blind undressing of their spouse. There was an especially tense moment when the wife lost her skirt, exposing her pubic hair, but she was a good sport about it, cringing with embarrassment but allowing the black girl to continue her show. I was sure the relaxed sexual traditions of this city helped. Everyone knows Amsterdam's reputation.

When only bra and boxers remained, the black girl had them stop, arms at their sides. Their chests rose and fell with nervous energy. The wife licked her lips often, mouth gone dry. The husband's legs trembled. The girl moved the husband one step to the right. She did the same to the wife. They still faced each other, but now unaware they were off-set, the space directly in front of them open.

The black girl faced the audience and raised a finger to her lips. She swung her head side to side, silencing us. We went as quiet as a cemetery.

Once she felt we were under control, she waved a hand. The curtain parted and a second couple stepped through, also dressed in only bra and boxers. The girl maneuvered the new woman before the husband and the new man before the wife. The girl placed the husband's hands on the new woman. He had no idea he was no longer touching his wife. The girl placed the wife's hand on the new man's hips, touching the waistband. The wife had no idea this was no longer her husband.

My palms were sweaty. Scarlett watched with narrowed eyes. She breathed through parted lips.

"Almost there," the black girl said. "You're doing great. Such good sports. I thank you for playing along."

I held my breath and so did Scarlett. The whole audience did. Undressing them in front of us was embarrassing but harmless. This was out of bounds. This was a violation of sacred vows, but done in a way both would take no blame.

Insidious, I thought. Damned clever, but insidious.

"They are going to be pissed," I said.

Someone close shushed me.

"They sat in the volunteer seats, didn't they?" the voice said, Dutch accent thick.

"They left their candle burning," said another.

I understood. Scarlett took an instant longer and then she understood too. Her eyes grew large. She looked at me with disbelieving shock and then her gaze dropped to our candle. I knew what she was thinking: That could have been us.

She was right. We'd been one table away. I turned to the stage and saw the married couple in a new light. That could be Scarlett. That could be me.

"Begin," the black girl ordered.

The husband began removing what he thought was his wife's bra. The wife began sliding down boxers she believed worn by her husband.

The actor's penis was huge. A mere inch from her face, the oblivious wife held the boxers open while the man stepped free.

The tension in our little theater was palpable. Nobody breathed. Nobody moved. This went way beyond mere nudity. The audience began to squirm in their seats. Soon, all the players were nude.

"Kiss," the black girl said. "But do not touch. Lips only."

The married couple had no idea what was being done to them. They smiled, happy to play along. They believed they kissed their beloved. They leaned in, arms stiff at their sides. Lips touched. Mouths connected and opened. The wife hammed it up, slipping her tongue out to play with what she thought was her husband. The audience softly gasped. The black girl let them make out while the spectators gazed astonished. The oblivious wife was in danger. That dick just hung there, thick and heavy, wide head aimed at the floor. Large testicles hung from the base, stretching the skin with their weight.

"Wow," Scarlett whispered.

I couldn't breathe. The wife stood there, unaware, her bushy pussy inches from a stranger's cock.

The black girl directed the husband to kneel with a push on his shoulders. She did the same to the wife.

"Kneel," she said.

They did. The actors did not.

The heat in that theater rose twenty degrees. The husband and wife probably anticipated more kissing down on their knees. The husband tilted his head and his tongue reached into open air, playfully searching for his wife's mouth. The actress eased her hips forward, a wicked smile on her lips. His tongue disappeared into the soft pink folds of her pussy. Believing his wife's pussy filled his mouth, he got to work pleasing her. The wife opened her mouth too, anticipating another naked make out session with her man. Her tongue searched open air, seeking her husband, hamming it up again. Her pink appendage barely missed the penis hanging in her face.

"Oh my God," Scarlett whispered, realizing what was about to happen.

Time slowed to a crawl. The actor shuffled closer, bringing his limp penis to the wife's questing tongue. He raised on his toes and then sank, resting that fat head in her open mouth. She jumped, surprised, but quickly realized what she had and slithered her lips over and around the head, swaddling the man in hot wet flesh. She assumed it was her husband she pleased and why wouldn't she? The switch had been performed flawlessly. She teased and sucked with playful delight. The actor grinned, waiting. The wife sucked, struggling to draw an inch into her mouth, opening her jaw wider, twirling her tongue around the crown.

She hesitated, sensing something was amiss. They'd also had three drinks and that alcohol buzz hampered her now. Her hands floated up to grab the penis in her mouth but remembered her instructions and brought her arms to her side again. She opened her mouth wider, wobbling her head to ease more dick farther back, but found herself blocked by the thickness. She tilted her head like a confused puppy and a chuckle swept the crowd. She sealed her lips behind the head and sucked, hard, pulling the spongy skin like gum.

I glanced at Scarlett. My wife was struck dumb, stunned by the display. I wondered what shocked her most: that all this was done publicly? That the wife sucked a man not her husband? Or was her astonishment for the penis itself, being of such substantial length and girth?

The wife on stage stopped, holding the cock in her mouth calmly, catching her breath. I could almost hear her calculating, putting two and two together. Two feet away her unaware husband happily ate pussy. Sounds of wet slurping drifted over our heads. The wife folded her hands in her lap. She straightened her shoulders. She'd reached a conclusion. She knew this was not her man. A moment passed, and then another. I wondered what she'd do: end it, or continue?

She drew a deep breath through her nose and opened her mouth wider, taking as much of his heavy snake as she could. Unable to stop herself, and needing her hands to do this right, she broke the rules and gripped the thick cock at the base, holding tight with one hand while stroking the length with the other. Maybe she couldn't tell for sure using just her mouth but there was no way the lie continued with her hands. She felt the difference between this man and her husband. It was obvious. There was no disguising it. She sucked with ever increasing arousal, pumping in time with her bobbing head.

"She knows," Scarlett murmured, reading the signs. "He's so big. She must. She knows and sucks anyway."

I studied my wife. Scarlett was riveted to the scandalous exhibition, enthralled by the intimate act on full public display. We all watched something twisted, wrong, and decadent, but nobody walked out. Nobody even looked away. My heart pounded like a sledgehammer, partly from what I witnessed but partly from the fact that Scarlett witnessed it too. Scarlett's excitement excited me.

The man on stage smiled, feeling victorious. He let the wife work her magic, sucking his cock, causing him to lengthen and thicken, making his dick rise like a battleship cannon taking aim.

The husband was hard and the actress put her back to the man, reaching underneath and between her legs to guide his penis in.

"They're going to fuck," Scarlett murmured, disbelieving.

The husband groaned, amazed his wife could be so turned on she'd fuck in front of a crowd. He eagerly slid his penis in.

These actors had been told to take the immoral skit as far as they could. There was probably a sign near the front door, in Dutch no doubt, that said we waived our rights by entering. I wagered locals knew all about this place but hapless tourists like us got caught in the spider's web every night. The actress took the husband's pumping penis and smiled wickedly over her shoulder at the audience.

Now it was the actor's turn and he reached under the wife's arms to help her stand. She knew what was coming. She knew this was not her husband but allowed him to continue, too excited to stop. He turned the wife away and tugged a butt cheek, showing the crowd her puckered anus and swollen labia. Scarlett sat up straight, deeply interested in what would happen next.

The man rested his hands on the wife's hips and the entire audience held our collective breath. She leaned forward slightly, easing her ass towards the man. He lowered his hips, aiming his rigid cock from below, targeting her dripping hole. He straightened his legs and the thick spear rose. We saw the wife stiffen and heard her gasp. She leaned farther forward, hands on knees, offering her married pussy. She knew this was not her husband but desire weighed more than loyalty.

Scarlett moaned so softly I barely heard her.

I've never in my life witnessed sex except for the sex I was having. This was mind-boggling. The man held the wife's hips and began to slowly thrust, working his meat deeper each time, exposing his gleaming cock to the crowd, proving this unfaithful woman wanted him inside her. Scarlett reached for my hand across our little table, tangling her trembling fingers with mine. She gave me a look I couldn't decipher but now was not the time to ask.

The man fucked the wife slow and deep, taking his time, letting her feel his inches, letting her feel him gliding inside, giving her time to savor, to experience. She would soon face her husband and what happened here tonight, there would be a reckoning, but for now she moved her body in time with his, chewing her lip, her face twisted in sweet, delicious torment. His strong cock made her feel things she'd never felt.

Her piercing cry of orgasm soon filled the room, completing her act of betrayal. Scarlett was powerfully affected by the satisfied sound in the woman's voice, squeezing my hand and exhaling deeply. The wife's husband was too busy fucking to realize his wife sounded too far away to be the woman in front of him. Instead, he smiled, pleased with himself, and thrust his hips faster, believing that since his wife had orgasmed he was now free to do the same. He grunted, driving his penis all the way in and spurting. The black girl whispered in his ear as he climaxed and his smile broadened. She untied his blindfold with agile fingers, drawing away the scarf but leaving the panties on his head.

Until this moment the husband had suspected nothing. Until this moment he believed he and his wife had fornicated for our amusement. He probably imagined they'd talk for years about that crazy night they'd spent at the Dutch theater and the wild thing they'd done.

He was right, but not for the reasons he believed.

His vision slowly cleared. He saw the big-dicked actor pumped his wife and his gaze dropped to where their bodies merged. His smile crumbled. He watched in frozen silence as the fat cock pumped in and out. With perfect timing the actor gripped the wife's hips and growled, thrusting all the way in and holding himself there. He growled again and again, each a sign he'd spurt another bucket of sperm inside the woman. The paralyzed husband bore mute witness to his wife's insemination. He raised a hand, finally ready to protest, only to see his woman arch her back and cry out a second time, climaxing around that hard, invading pole. The actor held her tight, pumping gobs of hot dripping jizz far up inside her.

Scarlett squeezed my hand. Hard.

The husband suddenly became aware of the woman on the end of his dick, quickly piecing together the trick that had been played on them. His eyes darted from one person to the next, reality falling on him like bricks raining from Heaven. The actor squeezed out one last blast of semen and then withdrew his sopping cock, globes of ejaculate oozing from the wife's gaping cunt. She slumped to the floor, blindfold intact, dazed and breathing hard.

The tension was as thick as London fog. We all held our breath, wondering what the husband would do. They were wise to keep the man's penis deep inside the actress. Who could start trouble while inside a pretty woman? The moment hovered in the air, waiting.

Several in the audience began to applaud. Scarlett shocked me by joining in. The cheering spread until all of us boisterously congratulated their performance. Our adulation calmed the husband, reminding him he was on stage and being watched. His deflating penis fell out of the woman's pussy, dribbling semen on the stage. That reminded him he was just as guilty as his wife and had no right to be angry with her.

The actors held hands and stepped forward, smiling and bowing. The man's heavy dick hung limp now, still oozing semen. The fake husband and wife waved cheerfully, took one last bow, and then exited stage right.

The black girl removed the wife's blindfold and helped her stand, leading her and the husband to the front of the stage, instructing them to take a bow. The cheering got loud. Scarlett whistled with her fingers. The married couple looked bewildered and I knew there was a long conversation in their future. Of course, the wife could always claim she thought it had been her husband fucking her.

"I want to leave," Scarlett said. Her sudden grip on my arm like a vise. "I don't care if it's still raining. I don't care if it's pouring."

I helped her with her coat and we dropped money on the table, walking quickly to the exit. The rain had lightened. She picked a random direction and set a fast pace, burning nervous energy. I hurried to keep up. At the first alley Scarlett pulled me aside and we kissed passionately.

"That. Was. Amazing," she said.

I returned her hot kisses, just as blown away as she was. She took my hand and pulled me forward again, leaving the alley to march up the street again.

"Can you imagine?" she asked, lifting her hands to reach the universe. "Real sex. Naked. On stage. And at the end discovering it's not your husband!"

"I think she knew."

"Oh," Scarlett replied, emphatic. "She knew. That man was so obviously different from her husband. She had to know. He was big. What a mind-fuck."

"What would you have done?" I blurted.

I instantly regretted my question. I wasn't ready to hear her answer. Lucky for me she was too excited to stop and think, continuing her stream-of-consciousness rant.

"We were one table away, Jake. One! The whole time I kept thinking that could have been us. That lovely black girl looked right at me. She wanted to pick us. She almost did, I know it."

Scarlett's eyes were wide. She was talking fast and twisting her fingers.

"Would you have gone on stage?" I asked.

"Of course! It started so innocently. Nobody wants to be the one to ruin someone's act. If I would have felt you unbuttoning my top I probably would have let you. You're my husband. I would never humiliate you by refusing your touch. We're thousands of miles from home, surrounded by strangers we'll never see again. I'm not going to slap my husband's hands away and embarrass him. If you wanted to show my boobs to everybody I would have allowed it."

She was thoughtful a moment.

"That's what made the show so good. Each step built organically on the next. Once the victims had taken one step, another was easy. It was clever the way they eased them forward. Before she knew it, that wife found herself penetrated. Excitement took over. Nature and instinct took control. Jesus!"

I was trembling. I knew with absolute certainty Scarlett pictured herself as the woman. She probably felt that thick penis pushing inside her right now. Not that she wanted to have sex with that man, but her powers of empathy put her in the wife's shoes. She felt what that woman had felt.

"I need a drink," I said. "A strong one."

"Great idea," she agreed.

Chapter 3

I glanced around. Across the waterway was a bar called The Black Tiger but we could walk directly to it. we'd need to walk a long horseshoe, heading for the nearest bridge, crossing, and then backtracking. Next to me was a stand-alone restroom with only one person waiting.

"I need to use this," I said with a jerk of my thumb. "You head for the Black Tiger over there and I'll join you in a few minutes. Put our names on the list or grab us a table. I want a cabernet."

She kissed my cheek.

"Sounds good," she said. "See you soon."

I waited in line, watching her walk the extended U-turn and disappear into the bar. I stood there much longer than I expected before my turn arrived. After, I jogged to the bar. Concrete stairs led up to the door while more steps led down to a smoking room below street level.

The insides were long and narrow like a shoebox, with wood panel floors and ceiling, and crowded. Artwork from the Sixties music scene on the walls. Jimi Hendrix, Jim Morrison, and John Lennon looked down on me as I entered and began my search for Scarlett. I checked the many fixed barstools running the length of the place and then turned to the other wall. One long padded bench ran from front to back, tables spaced all along.

Scarlett sat near the back, a man on each side and two across the low table. Three empty shot glasses already sat in front of her. Many more littered the spaces in front of the men. I added those shots to the three drinks she'd had at Café Rosso and did some quick math. Scarlett had a pleasant buzz.

"His balls were so big!" she said, explaining the show to her new friends. She hadn't noticed me yet.

"How big?" the man on her right asked. He had an odd beard that ran under his chin from ear to ear.

Scarlett held two fists over the table next to each other.

"Bigger than this," she said. "My hands are too small."

"Guys love that," joked the man on her left, raising a large mug of beer. "Handjobs make us look bigger."

Everyone laughed including Scarlett. I stared at her fists, wondering why the man's testicles had made such an impression. Did I miss the part where she talked about the man's cock? My heart jumped a little to hear her speak like this. I was a voyeur to my wife's true feelings. That comment was something she would never say to me.

A waitress sailed by depositing another round for everyone. A shot of vodka landed before my wife. She still hadn't noticed me but that wasn't surprising given that she wasn't looking. She was deep in the moment, reliving the wild show we'd witnessed and making new friends. She'd think to look for me soon but not right now.

I took a step to barge in and plant myself next to her but pulled up short. I'd never been in a situation like this. I was wound tight, coiled like a spring. Scarlett had to be too. For the moment, I had a window to spy on her. What else would she say? The idea made me nervous but also intrigued me.

I turned my face away and hunched my shoulders, moving beyond her table, I took a spot behind a supporting pillar. I was close enough to hear and I could watch her reflection in the Heineken mirror over the bar.

She downed her vodka and shrugged off her jacket, oblivious to the men sharing knowing looks. These boys thought one of them had a shot at bedding this unattended and slightly inebriated little lovely. I'd missed a lot of their conversation but if Scarlett was telling them about the show, they had to sense how horny she was. The waitress stopped to suggest I take a seat at the bar but I told her no thanks and ordered a mug of beer. I perked my ears up when I heard Weird Beard speak.

"If you like big balls," he said. "You should say hello to Johnny."

He gestured at one of the guys that had been silent up to this point. Johnny waved him off. Some of the guys laughed.

"My name is Finn," he said, quietly.

Scarlett made a face.

"If your name is Finn," she asked. "Why does he call you Johnny?"

"That a fine question, Red," Weird Beard said. "Why do we call you that, Johnny? Bring the lady up to speed."

Johnny who was Finn waved his friends off again, but they would not be turned aside. Weird Beard turned to Scarlett.

"You ever heard of John Holmes?" the man asked my wife.

"No."

"Google him. You've got your phone right there. Google him. I'll wait."

Scarlett picked up her phone and tapped keys. Her expression turned confused and then shocked.

"Oh my God!" she exclaimed.

All the men laughed. Scarlett showed the phone to Finn.

"Is your penis that big?" she asked.

Yup, she was buzzed.

Finn sat frozen.

"It is," Weird Beard said. "He's shy about it, which is a damn shame. What a waste! Give me a pecker like that and I'd lay pipe all day."

Scarlett looked at her phone again, flipping through pictures. The guys left her to it, talking football. Finn stayed out of the conversation, watching Scarlett closely. My wife's eyebrows rose and fell with each shocking picture. She looked up to ask a question but spotted Finn watching her. Their gaze locked for an instant. My wife smiled. Finn smiled back. Neither looked away. My gut did a flip. What a night. The football conversation had grown into an argument, voices slightly raised.

"Is it true?" Scarlett asked Finn, keeping her voice low, flying under the attention of the other men.

Finn nodded ruefully, embarrassed. Scarlett reached across the table, patting his hand, reassuring him.

"Where's my husband?" she said suddenly, remembering me at last. "I need to go look for him."

She freed herself from the men and plucked her jacket from the bench.

"I'll go with you," Finn said. "It's getting late."

"That's so sweet," my wife said.

They headed for the exit together.

This posed a problem. She was about to be alone with Finn but I couldn't join her without revealing I'd been inside all along. After so much time, she'd instantly know I'd been spying, and how do I explain that?. A waitress approached carrying a tray of drinks.

"Is there a back way out of here?" I asked. "I'd like to avoid someone."

She nodded.

"Give me a second," she said, with a heavy Dutch accent. "I'll take you."

From behind my pillar, I watched Scarlett leave with Finn. The waitress made her rounds, handing out drinks and emptying her tray. I tapped a foot, mentally trying to speed her up. At last she returned.

"This way," she said, waving for me to follow.

We walked the length of the shoebox and then passed into a store room. Heavy plastic crates filled with beer bottles and other beverages lined the walls. We snaked through high stacks, entering a small kitchen. She pointed at a backdoor propped open with a case of beer.

"There a small courtyard beyond," she said. "Jump the low wall on the east side to get back to the street. Thanks for not fighting."

"Thank you," I said, allowing her to believe what she wished.

I followed her instructions. The courtyard was littered with trash and cigarette butts, and everything was soaked from the rain. I used some crates as a step and climbed the wall, finding myself in an alley with high walls on either side. At the end of the alley to my right was a narrow street one block over. To my left the alley ended in the main waterway and sidewalks where I'd entered and where Scarlett and Finn waited. I decided to loop all the way around, explaining I'd gotten turned around exiting the bathroom. As a precaution, I silenced my phone. Scarlett was sure to call or text any second now.

She did.

Where are you? my screen read.

I ignored the text.

I froze when I heard her voice getting closer.

"I just want to see it," she said. "I won't touch."

The alley was packed with boxes, crates, and trash bags and I made quick use of them, sliding behind a stack and blending with the shadows. My heart was a sledgehammer pounding iron. I quietly gasped for breath.

See it? Scarlett wanted to see it?

I heard them enter the alley and move closer to me. They stopped in a small bricked-over doorway. Finn leaned his back against the wall. Scarlett stepped closer, eyes aimed at his jean-covered crotch.

"What about your husband?" Finn said, always the gentleman.

"I'll tell him what I did," she said. "What's the difference between seeing a naked man on stage or in an alley? I'm just curious and like I said, I won't touch."

Curious? She left out drunk and horny. Finn looked unsure and nervous, glancing towards the main street often. Neither thought to look farther down the alley. I was safe.

"It's cold out here," Finn said.

"Want my jacket?" Scarlett offered.

"No. It's not that . . ."

His voice trailed off. I took a moment but then I got it. He was worried he'd fail to impress, the cold making him shrink. Scarlett understood a heartbeat later.

"Oh."

She chewed a lip, weighing her next move.

"Fair is fair," she said.

With a final glance at the main street she unbuttoned her shirt. She pulled each side far apart and then lifted her bra. Her gorgeous pale tits tumbled free. Finn stared, rubbing the front of his pants. Scarlett made a few adjustments, opening her top wider and moving her bra. Her breasts looked fantastic but I was most blown away by the moment. Scarlett had her tits out in public, hiding in a grimy Amsterdam backstreet. If I hadn't seen it myself, I never would have believed. My legs were shaking so much I leaned against the damp brick wall for support.

Finn reached for his fly. Scarlett smiled once to his face and then lowered her eyes to watch. The man checked his surroundings one last time and opened the front of his pants, pushing underwear down with a hooked thumb. His free hand dug around in that dark space and then withdrew a fleshy log, draping his impressive spear down the front of his pants. He stroked the loose skin a few times before digging again and resting his large nut sack outside too.

He was big. Scarlett stared.

"Play with it again," she said. "Make it bigger."

"Play with your tits," Finn answered.

Scarlett teased her nipples with both hands and caressed the twin orbs. She lifted them in offering, taunting Finn as if she'd let him suckle there. He lifted the heavy shaft of his dick and stroked, growing harder fast.

"You're as big as that man on stage," Scarlett murmured.

Finn was getting turned on now. Scarlett flipped her red hair forward and smiled seductively. Finn stroked faster, staring as my wife fondled her luscious tits. The young man sucked air.

"Can you cum?" Scarlett asked, surprised.

"Yeah," Finn grunted.

"Oh my God," she whimpered. "Do it."

Finn jacked in silence for a long minute, Scarlett playing with her breasts and staring at his pumping fist and hardened cock. Without warning a long milky rope of thick semen launched from the tip of his dick, splattering her dress. Scarlett mauled her tits now, murmuring encouragement, eyes huge as the man blasted long ropes of sperm. His huge load sprayed wildly, landing on the wet pavement like white rain. Scarlett laughed, amazed and pleased by how much the man shot. I was shocked as well. Finn flexed his hips as his fat weapon spurt again and again.

"Oh my God," Scarlett mumbled. "That's beautiful."

At last Finn slowed and stopped. He was breathing hard but so was I. He hurried to button up but Scarlett stopped him, asking him to let it hang and drool.

"Penises are so sexy," she said. "I can't imagine cumming so hard I shoot something out of my body. Men are lucky. All that syrup just exploding. Look at you now, dripping long strands of liquid. God. It looks so hot. Just leave it for a minute."

Finn felt awkward but did as she asked. His thick cock slowly deflated, oozing cum and rolling on its side. Finally, it was too much and he stuffed his organ back inside, buttoning his pants.

"That was fantastic," Scarlett said. "Thank you." She blew him a little kiss and put her tits away. "Now let's find my husband."

They left the alley for the main street.

Chapter 4

I exhaled all the air in my lungs. I found my phone but my hands were shaking too much to type. I drew deep breaths, calming myself as best I could. Once I was able, I sent a message: I got turned around! You still at Black Tiger? I'm headed there now.

Send.

I waited and then crept to the corner. They stood in front of the bar together. Her phone lit up and she read my message.

I'm standing out front with a new friend I'd like you to meet, she sent back. Hurry! I miss you!

I turned and ran to the other end of the alley, cutting across the next bridge when I reached it and doubling back so I came down the other side of the street in front. I waved from forty feet away. Her smile was huge. Finn smiled too. I arrived and she introduced him, mentioning she'd met him at the bar while she waited for me.

She did not mention their time in the alley.

We stood outside the bar chatting, exchanging details about our lives and work. We talked about Scarlett's performance that night and her standing ovation. We casually conversed about a multitude of everyday things and all I could think about was the big cock hiding in his pants and my wife's fascination with it. I noticed his dried cum on her dress but said nothing.

My stomach was boiling, my nerves on fire. The well-hung young man had jacked off for my wife and yet she'd kept him around. What was she thinking?

"May I show you my city?" Finn asked.

We headed into the Amsterdam nightlife. Scarlett mentioned she was hungry and Finn said he knew a quaint place with the best kabobs. We put Scarlett in the middle and walked the streets, winding our way closer, listening to Finn act as our tour guide. We stopped for drinks along the way, sampling various wines and beers. We floated along through the chill night air and Scarlett held my hand and after a little while took Finn's hand too. He was shy at first but relaxed. Soon we were all best friends out for a fun night.

But that was how it looked from the outside. On the inside, I was a twisted, knotted wreck. Why was Scarlett keeping him around? Why was she holding his hand? I was convinced she loved the novelty of his oversized member, like she was hanging out with a celebrity. It was fun, thrilling, maybe, to walk around holding the hand of a handsome stranger she knew was hung. How much would I love Gal Gadot joining us for a walk around town? I'd love it, but my wife not so much.

As the heat of their moment cooled, I was expecting my wife's guilt to grow. It didn't. Finn was Scarlett's new toy. After countless twists and turns we arrived at the kabob place: a dilapidated shack on the waterfront. Finn was right, they were delicious. The owner had set up a shed on the inlet, complete with picnic tables and chairs. We gazed across the Het IJ to the lights on the north side of the city. Finn filled us in on Dutch history, pointing at various buildings or piers and narrating events that had happened there. He pointed at a cluster of old warehouses.

"You play violin?" he asked Scarlett.

"I do."

"That is our renegade art district, for the unconventional. Street art, they call it, including music and dance. Some violinists play there."

"I'd love to see it," Scarlett said. "How can we get there?"

"Water taxi," Finn said.

We walked to a pier where several men had tied off dinghies. Finn spoke Dutch, negotiating a price, then waved us over. I paid the man. We climbed into his small boat and zipped across the water, laughing in the night spray.

"I've gotten wet so many times tonight," Scarlett chuckled.

I raised an eyebrow.

"I mean rain, silly!"

We both laughed. The boat skimmed the surface and in minutes we aimed for a rock jetty covered in overgrowth. The man pulled alongside and Finn jumped out to help. Soon we stood on a narrow gravel peninsula. Old rusty warehouses sat here and there, each covered with dense and colorful graffiti. The ground was plagued with trash: broken bottles and food wrappers, empty cans of spray paint and rotting clothes. Finn led the way towards the larger buildings in back.

We entered a surreal district of abandoned industry and thriving art. Every open surface was painted with brilliant colors and designs. Rusting vessels sat moored and forgotten, turned into vibrant canvas. Huge metal containers, long forgotten, had been transformed into a works of art. A massive crane, once used to unload ships, had become a stage for theater and music. A lone saxophone player wailed from high above. Scarlett and I walked with eyes wide, taking in every inch of the place. The contrast between industrial decay and resurgent art shocked the eyes, like an orchid growing on a cadaver. I felt a strange sense of triumph.

The largest building by far was topped with a faded and crumbling company name: Nederlandsche Dok en Scheepsbouw Maatschappij. Finn brought us to the front door and swung it wide open.

"Be prepared," he smiled.

The space inside was vast, with vaulted ceiling and walls separated by huge distance, like an Olympic gymnasium. Steel girders set in the concrete floor held the roof. Every inch of the walls, floor, ceiling, and even air space had some kind of fantastic exhibit going: mobiles or paintings or sculpture. Scarlett and I staggered about, twisting our necks to see it all. Clusters of people sat around small open fires, sharing weed or bottles of wine and Avant Garde ideas. Most looked like dirty hippies to me but their faces were kind and gentle, their mannerisms welcoming. Finn saw a friend and walked us that way. As we passed through the gathering we saw people continuing to create art left and right.

We arrived at the small fire and Finn introduced us as his new friends from the United States. There was enough English spoken that light conversation was possible. We dropped to the spread blankets and shared a bottle of wine. At a nearby fire, a woman began playing guitar and singing.

I passed some money to Finn to help pay for wine and he thanked me, offering the money to a tall man with a shaved head. Two more bottles were opened and joined the first making the rounds. Scarlett shed her jacket and rested her head on my shoulder. Finn soon joined us on the blanket, staring at the flames and listening to the music.

We talked and talked and talked into the night.

Scarlett shifted, now resting her head on Finn's shoulder. I had no idea what to do about it, if anything was supposed to be done about it, so I continued staring into the fire. Before too long Scarlett shifted back to me, tilting my chin for a kiss. We started simple but melted into something sexy. Her hand slid behind the back of my head and we kissed. She poured every minute of our crazy night into that kiss. Her tongue soon slipped into my mouth and I savored it, twisting and writhing along with her. Finn tapped her shoulder with the wine bottle and Scarlett broke the kiss to take a drink. She passed the bottle to me and I raised it to my lips.

I froze when her head turned and her eyes closed. She kissed Finn on the mouth with the same passion she'd just shown me.

If I was going to protest, I needed to do it now. Right now.

But I didn't.

I watched.

The kiss had started innocently: a peck of puckered lips. That quickly changed as she opened her mouth and sought his tongue. I saw Scarlett's small pink tongue slide between his lips and enter his mouth. He hesitated an instant, because he's a shy and decent man, but her hands came up to hold his face and he crumbled, returning her passion.

I had no idea what to do.

That lasted until Scarlett turned her attention to me again, kissing me with fire. She scooted closer, hand on my shoulder, pouring her passion into me. I felt movement and looked down, discovering she'd placed Finn's hand on her breast. He caressed her fleshy orb, slowly but with increasing desire. Her hands moved to unbutton my shirt. She pushed it off my shoulders and began fumbling with the clasps of her dress.

This is happening, a voice in my head murmured. This is real.

I watched these events as an uninvolved observer. Finn's strong fingers dented my wife's breast as he mauled her. Scarlett moaned.

This is real, the voice said again.

Scarlett kissed me again and I jumped, startled, as if awakening. I met her pleading eyes. Decision made, I pushed her hands away and whipped through the remaining clasps. I couldn't think straight. I couldn't think beyond the moment I lived in. I couldn't think beyond Scarlett's full pale breasts coming slowly into view.

Scarlett turned away and began to work Finn's button fly. He quickly stood to make it easier and my wife tugged his jeans down his legs, taking underwear along for the ride. His cock swung free, bobbing with a pendulum weight. I'd seen it already, in the dark of an Amsterdam alley, but from this close it looked bigger, like a firehose, like an elephant's trunk, like a goddamn penis but a really big one. It swayed as he moved, testicles hanging like boiled eggs in a soft leather pouch.

"Stand up," Scarlett told me.

My mind was a blank but I stood. She opened my pants too, pulling them down. I dutifully stepped out, shedding my shirt. Finn had done the same and we both stood naked, looking down on my wife. Across the fire, a girl with long dreads straddled a young man with an afro and began to slowly ride him, watching us the whole time.

"Now my turn," my wife murmured.

She stood, arms pointed at the ceiling. Finn got to work removing her dress so I helped. We drew the long zipper and lifted the garment over her head. Next, her bra and panties hit the ground. My wife's body glowed orange in the firelight.

"You're such a lovely woman," Finn said, marveling at her.

Scarlett met his gaze and then her eyes traveled down his skinny body. I gasped a little when she stopped to stare at his dangling cock. One heartbeat, two heartbeats, three heartbeats: she finally pulled her eyes away to smile at me.

"Come closer," she said. "Both of you."

I couldn't speak. My throat was tight and my lips glued shut. We both stepped closer and she curled her fingers around our shafts at the base and stroked a few times. I spotted her wedding ring nuzzling his sparse pubic hair. She adjusted her fingers, working her hands closer until her knuckle pressed against our pubic bone. She wanted to see every inch we had hanging in free space. She didn't mean to compare, she was just lost in the moment, holding two cocks at once. But men care about these things. I did. He had twice as many inches sprouting from her fist as I did. She lightly slid her hands to the heads and back again. She turned her body to faced me, releasing us.

"Kiss me," she said.

She pressed her naked body against my naked body and the comfortable familiarity almost killed me. I leaned into her, into the kiss. I wrapped my arms around her waist and squeezed. She slipped one arm around my neck but the other reached behind her. I felt Finn's stomach press my forearm. He was kissing the nape of her neck from behind.

"Closer," she told him.

He leaned in, pressing the front of his body to her back. I felt his weight move us. I knew his bare cock nestled between her ass cheeks.

Until now, my mind had been mostly on autopilot, doing what my body said. His touch suddenly snapped me back to reality. Scarlett, my wife, was sandwiched between us. His cock was inches from her unprotected pussy. Given his length, he might be pressing against her labia, his smooth head perhaps splitting her pussy lips.

My heart lurched and tumbled. This was happening.

A kind of panic grew in me, crawling up my legs. I'd never been in a threesome. Scarlett had never been in a threesome. We weren't the kind of people that found themselves in threesomes.

But we were in one now, and I didn't know what to do.

My body was trembling but so was Scarlett's. I looked into her eyes and saw love. Love, and a desire blazing hot enough to burn us both. The sexy night we'd shared had pushed her over the edge.

Finn trailed kisses down her spine, pausing between her shoulder blades. Her nipples rose, straining towards the ceiling. I know nothing of threesome sexual etiquette. A man was giving my wife pleasure and that man wasn't me. Was I supposed to wait for my turn? Were we supposed to attack my wife simultaneously? What did Scarlett want me to do?

I couldn't stand it. Finn had her moaning while I stood doing nothing.

I bent my head to her throat and began kissing from the other side. I inched lower, veering off to adore her sensitive nipples, and then continued, crouching as I littered kisses down her stomach. I arrived at her dripping pussy the same time Finn arrived in back. My tongue snaked her clit as his licked her slit. She placed her hands on my head to balance.

"Ohhhhhhh fuuuuuck," she moaned, wobbling on her feet.

We ate her at the same time. I licked and sucked her puffy labia and teased her clit. Finn gobbled her labia too, occasionally sliding back to tongue her asshole. She moved a hand to his head too. Some unspoken understanding made Finn and me work as a team, bringing her close to orgasm but then knowing to back away. I slipped in a finger now and then to heighten her pleasure. He wet his thumb and boldly pushed up her ass. I held my breath: that could be the end of all this. Scarlett does not allow anything anal. But my wife merely rotated her hips, moaning deeply and enjoying the new sensation.

Finn stuck his head around her hips to look at me.

"Lean back," he said. "Offer your dick. Make her blow you."

I bristled at his directions regarding my wife but did as he suggested, sitting down and spreading my legs, pulling Scarlett by the head between them. My dick waved in her face and instinct took over. She guided my spongy penis into her mouth. I watched my dick disappear and grinned.

Too late, I realized what this position meant for Finn.

Scarlett was on all fours now, sucking me. Finn was on his knees behind her. Over the top of her ass I saw his big erection curving away from his body. His hands moved to her butt and he pulled her cheeks apart. Scarlett tilted her hips to make it easier for him.

He's going to put that in her, my addled brain said.

My heart stopped. My mind sparked and shorted out. The only thing in my world was his thick and pulsing erection drifting closer. I pulled her off my dick.

"Baby?" I began. "He's about to—"

Her mouth opened like she was about to sing. Her eyes grew large and then softened, melting into bliss. His abs flexed. Her body pressed forward from his weight, her tits dragged along my shins. He was in her.

"Oh God," she whimpered. "It's big. It hurts but it feels so good."

His hips pulled away and her mouth dropped open. His hips advanced again and her expression turned to agony, but she wasn't suffering real pain.

"Oooohhhhhh," she moaned, hanging her head.

She remembered my penis and put me in her mouth but her attempts to suck were feeble. Finn continued working his big cock deeper and Scarlett could think or feel nothing else. His hips pumped slowly, smoothly, and my wife turned to jelly in my lap.

"That's it," he murmured finally. "You have all of me."

Scarlett rested her head on my thigh, panting.

"Don't stop," she pleaded.

Finn squeezed her waist and began slowly pumping her tight hole.

Another man was fucking my wife! My mind shrieked at me: a loud banshee wail. My heart beat like a kettle drum. I searched myself for something to say, something to do. What move was the right move? I glanced around the fire. Other were watching, some making out or feeling each other up, some just watching and smiling.

Scarlett fumbled for my dick and slipped me into her hot mouth. The sensation was fantastic and exactly the distraction I needed. I pulled her hair back so I could watch my penis slide in and out, spying her tits jolt in rhythm to his fucking. It was a terrible thing to see but the most erotic sight of my life. I watched for long minutes.

"Your turn," he said.

He carefully pulled his spear out of her guts. Scarlett collapsed onto my legs, moaning and covering her pussy with both hands. His cock gleamed in the firelight, covered with my wife's excitement. He waved me forward and moved to take my place.

Her pussy was still open when I got there, slowly closing to her original tightness. He'd stretched her and she'd loved it. I aimed my erection at the dark hole and pushed, burying my dick. I saw Finn drop in front, stroking his dick before offering it to her lips. Scarlett groaned at my intrusion and then sucked his plump head into her mouth. He laced his fingers behind her head and slowly fucked her mouth. Scarlett cupped her hand under his big balls, hoisting them like she tried to guess the weight on a bag of peaches. Surprised by their mass, she paused sucking long enough to look. Impressed, she enveloped the head again and sucked, harder, digging deep dents in her cheeks.

My mind did cartwheels. I scrutinized every inch of her, every sound she made, every movement of her body. I watched the muscles across her bare back, her talented fingers wrapped around his thick pole, teasing and stroking him. This moment would burn in my memory forever. I fucked her slow like he had but only to keep from blowing my load. This was wildly erotic, insanely sexy.

I needed to see more. I needed perspective. I caught Finn's eye and gestured towards her pussy. He nodded, pulling her vacuuming mouth off his big hard dick and circling around. I withdrew and Scarlett whined, but only for an instant. Finn knelt again and eased her onto her back, crawling over her body. She lifted her knees and reached down her belly, finding him and guiding him in as she opened her legs. Finn's inches sank deep, spreading her tight labia into a ring. I took two steps away, gazing at my wife on her back, legs spread wide, her thick-cocked lover plowing her cunt strong and sure. I tried to absorb it all: her moans, his soft grunts, the muscles flexing around his body, the squishy sound of her excited pussy taking his cock over and over. I just stood there.

Her piercing cry of orgasm gashed my heart. My dick throbbed. He curled his hips, thrusting deeper, and she cried out again, climaxing on his big cock.

Our threesome had become a twosome and I'd never been so excited. I jacked faster when he lifted her leg and turned her hips, tightening her hole around him. She clawed the blanket as her pussy clung to him like bubblegum, each withdrawal threatening to turn her inside out.

He fucked her faster now, plunging the slick shaft balls deep. She gasped for air, eyes wild, and suddenly came again, shrieking as her spine twisted and her bones cracked. I thought she was about to burst into tears. He straightened her legs and lifted them over his shoulders, fat testicles slapping her pulsing asshole on each thrust.

To my undying amazement, my wife orgasmed again.

I let go of my penis. I was too close and had no desire to spit my seed on these dusty blankets. I'd wait and fuck her in our hotel room. Scarlett would sleep with me inside her tonight.

The idea that she might also sleep with Finn inside her hit me like a thunderbolt. He wore no condom. He was in her unprotected pussy bare and gleaming. No man pulls out unless he must and based on the sounds my wife was making, she'd want him to cum inside her.

My skin caught fire. Excitement and terror exploded behind my eyes.

Finn rolled her onto her stomach and yanked her hips off the rug. He leaned over, kissing her neck and ears from behind. She lifted her ass to offer her cunt and Finn pushed it in, fucking faster, pounding my wife from behind. She stretched her arms in front like a sleepy cat, her tits mashed to the sides, and rolled her hips. Finn gasped at the increased pleasure. He sent a hand under to tease her clit. Scarlett started moaning loudly, rapidly building towards another climax. She never got there: Finn clamped his jaw and thrust several times and then drove his cock all the way in. Air escaped his lungs in loud hisses, each one a blast of semen inside my wife.

"Shoot it," Scarlett begged. "Shoot it, shoot it."

He did, pushing huge fountains of sperm up and out.

I dared not touch my throbbing penis. Several people around the fire actively fucked now, aroused by Scarlett and Finn. Our new friend shuddered as he pumped a hefty load into her and then he slid apart, fat cock leaving her hole with a slurp, dragging a shiny trail across her butt cheek and hamstring.

Scarlett, my beloved wife, was filled with another man's sperm. I wanted to scream, to wail, to stomp my feet and rip out my own hair. Just the thought was pure insanity but this was real. I saw his milk trickling from her slit.

I said nothing as I took his place, sliding into his soup, fucking Scarlett like a frat house whore, adding my load to his inside her.

Chapter 5

I scarcely had time to collapse on Scarlett's back, breathing hard and shivering with pleasure, when a murmur of concern swept through the crowd. Finn looked across the hall to the big doors where we'd entered and spotted a handful of Dutch police, moving from fire to fire, questioning people.

"We should dress," Finn said. "I know a back exit."

I withdrew my penis and grabbed my pants. Scarlett wouldn't look at me as she found her bra and panties. I watched those panties slide up her legs and settle into place, stretched tightly over her labia, sealing her pussy closed with all that sperm inside. Erotic heat flared inside my skull but my tired penis ignored it. We took a minute to dress and then followed Finn deeper into the dim labyrinth. We left the giant hall and entered a series of corridors, remnants of the shipping business that built the place. Old offices with dead florescent lighting fixtures and linoleum floors, forgotten desks and filing cabinets. Graffiti was sprayed everywhere, some of it astonishingly good.

We emerged in an open plaza of concrete and hurried to the far side. Scarlett took my hand, meeting my eyes for the first time and smiling. I smiled back. Her gaze revealed she was concerned for what we'd done but also excited and playful. She felt free and wild. She squeezed my hand as we ran. I think we all felt like high schoolers, like we'd just played a joke on a neighbor and he'd called the cops on pesky kids. Finn slowed and we caught up and Scarlett took his hand too, walking between us. Finn continued his narration about Amsterdam, explaining the recent changes to the city. We stopped at a standalone all night pizza place, grabbing tall bottles of beer. We sat on a bench to catch our breath.

I noticed an odd building nearby shaped like a volcano so I took my beer and proceeded to investigate. The structure was unique, covered with smoky green glass, the walls set slightly askew. I turned to ask Finn what he knew about the place and discovered Scarlett wrapped in his arms, locked in a deep and passionate kiss.

If I didn't know the etiquette for a threesome, I sure as fuck didn't know the etiquette for a new lover kissing my wife. If I shouted from here I looked jealous and petty. If I went back to the table and said nothing I looked meek. If I stood where I was and just stared I looked idiotic.

Finn sat on a concrete table and Scarlett sat lower on the bench, nestled between his knees. His arms circled her shoulders. Her neck craned to offer her lips. It was a pose of intimacy and familiarity. It was a pose filled with implications. Women rarely sit like that unless the man's dick has spent time in her mouth. Anybody walking by would have assumed that was true. Hell, anybody walking by would have thought Scarlett was with Finn and I was the fifth wheel.

I needed to do something and not just stand there like a dolt. I took a swallow of beer and began to circle the building, pretending to examine this fine and interesting structure but placing the building between us, buying myself time. The ground floor was all glass and I watched Scarlett and Finn through a blurry and distorted lens. She rested her head on his inner thigh, hugging his knee. She said something and he nodded slightly. She reached for his zipper, freeing his soft penis, and leaned closer to kiss the large head. She slipped his dick into her mouth. He played it cool, just a guy hanging out with his girl while she rested her feet. No big deal. His expression remained blank, even when she sucked several inches of soft meat into her mouth. He stroked her long red hair, brushing some to hide her face. I lost sight of his dick behind the shroud of her hair so I continued around the building, taking my time.

When I saw them next she sat on the table beside him, under his arm, huddled close. There was no way he'd cum that fast. After two orgasms, I doubted he even got hard. My wife had just wanted the simple pleasure of enjoying his manly, beautiful cock again.

Scarlett waved when she saw me, grinning like a goof. I aimed for them. I studied my wife as I drew closer, noting her body language. She liked Finn, and not just his dick. She was attracted to him. He was a guy she'd date if she'd never met me. They sat as close as possible, her thigh running along his, her shoulder nestled in his armpit. They looked like old sweethearts, like she'd known him since grade school. It hurt to see my wife so responsive to another man but I could tell she was as caught up in the uniqueness of the situation as I. She was happy I seemed okay with it.

"Where to next?" I asked.

"I'm getting sleepy," she said.

"Okay," I said, feeling relief combined with a strange disappointment. "We can call it a night. Finn, will you lead us back to the water taxis? Our hotel is just across the bay."

Scarlett chimed in before Finn could speak.

"Actually," she said. "Finn says the apartment he shares with his roommate is not too far from here. He's offered us to crash there and catch an Uber in the morning."

Our eyes locked. I saw hope, pleading, desire. She was not ready for this night to end. She was not ready to release this shy man. I knew exactly what I was agreeing to if I said yes. Actually, I didn't know. I suspected. The idea of more sex hung in the air like the scent of baked cookies but I'd already orgasmed, and Finn had cum twice. The possibility of sex floated around but truthfully, we might have been done for the night, once our heads touched a pillow and we dropped off exhausted. Scarlett had to know this too but the idea that something might happen titillated her. I moved my gaze from her to Finn.

"You sure?" I asked.

"I'd love to have you stay," he said. "My roommate, Daan, won't mind at all and of course I don't either." He glanced down at the top of Scarlett's head. "For obvious reasons." He beamed.

Scarlett sat up straight.

"All right," I said. "Lead the way."

Scarlett slid from the table to hug my arm and repeatedly kiss my lips. She gazed into my eyes with adoration and love. I found it remarkable how little we'd discussed what was happening. We just kept moving forward. If we stopped to have a serious conversation would we kill the magic? Possibly. Probably. This fantasy night existed in our minds without repercussions or consequences. Finn soaked into her womb right now. If we had a talk about that we'd stop, tell Finn goodnight, and scurry back to our hotel room, alarmed at what we'd done. So we said nothing. We lived in the moment. We acted on impulse. We followed our immediate desires and let life flow over us, carrying us along.

Finn reached a hand and Scarlett took it. She searched my face for a reaction and must have liked what she saw, extending a hand to me. I took it. We all walked to Finn's place together.

Chapter 6

Finn did live close. We walked through the warehouse district and over a grassy hill and he pointed in the distance to a series of boxy apartments running along a brick street. Trees formed a wall behind them.

"Home," he said.

I felt Scarlett's body tense. She squeezed my hand as we descended the embankment. We'd been chatty up until now but with the apartment growing larger with each step, we all fell silent. I knew what we were marching towards yet I kept marching. We stopped briefly at a small convenience shop and bought toothbrushes and another beer for everyone.

The neighborhood was lovely, modest but clean, with lots of tall trees and lush vegetation. The apartments were small but they were separated, so no shared walls. Every six homes had a loop of red brick driveway in front. Finn led us to the house third from the end.

"Daan works nights," he said, turning the key. "Doubt he's in."

Inside the place was sparse but tidy. I expected Ikea but got an eclectic mix of individual pieces of furniture and art. The guys had done a lot with little. Scarlett picked up a framed photograph and studied it.

"Is this Daan?" she asked.

Finn nodded from across the room. I leaned in. Finn and another man, black, but with light skin and thin lips, stood on a pier fishing, smiling for the camera.

"He's really handsome," Scarlett added.

"He gets that a lot," Finn joked. "That was his twenty-eighth birthday. His mom took that picture."

"He went fishing for his birthday?" I asked.

Finn shrugged. "He likes to fish."

"He's really handsome," Scarlett said again, absentmindedly.

Finn entered the hallway, opening a door and waving a hand inside. "This is where you'll sleep. Bathroom's that door at the end of the hall."

I peeked inside. The bed was a queen. No room for three people. That weird sense of disappointment and relief washed over me again. I'd need to figure out what that was some day.

"Where will you sleep?" Scarlett asked, staring at the too small bed.

Finn jerked a thumb at the living room couch. Scarlett turned to study the couch and then back again to study the bed. She chewed her lips.

My heart quaked: my wife calculated how to get Finn into bed! I know that idea had been following us since the pizza place but to see her mind racing, searching for a way, dumped a gallon of pure adrenaline into my blood. For an instant I wondered if she'd ask me to take the couch.

"Okay," she said, defeated.

"Daan gets home around six," Finn said. "That's coming up fast. Some night, eh?"

"Some night," I agreed.

Scarlett gave him a hug and headed for the bathroom to brush. Minutes later, the lights were out and we were all tucked in. The room was dark, the only source of light a glowing blue LED on his computer.

"Make love to me," Scarlett whispered.

"You're insatiable tonight," I chuckled.

"Don't make me feel weird about it," she said.

I quickly turned on my side to face her.

"You're right," I said. "I'm sorry. That sounded awful. What I should have said is how much I love you like this. It's wildly sexy."

"You mean it?"

"I do."

"It all felt so natural and right, didn't it? Like everything that happened was just the right thing to do. Finn was perfect for us. Nothing was forced. Nobody got hurt. We've never done anything like that. We've been married for years and never even had sexual conversations about stuff like that. It was beautiful the way everything just happened."

"It was," I agreed.

I took a deep breath, waiting for her to go on. I was sure she was about to drop a bomb on me: Honey, Baby, I want to sneak out to the living room and let him fuck me again.

I continued to wait. There, in the darkness of Finn's bedroom, she exhaled deeply, exhausted and asleep. I chuckled. We'd been through a lot. I rolled onto my back, staring at the ceiling . . .

I awoke confused, lost, wondering where I was and what was happening. Memories of her with another man came back in a rush. I turned on my side, needing the reassurance of my wife's lovely face, needing the comfort of her presence, needing to reach out my hand and touch her warm body.

Her spot was empty.

We'd gone to bed with the specter of more sex hanging in the air and I was not surprised Scarlett had awakened and gone after Finn. I slipped out of bed and crept across the carpet. I swung the door open soundlessly.

Scarlett had both hands braced on the arm of the couch. She was bent forward at the waist, long red hair swinging. The tank top Finn had given her to sleep in was pushed high up her back, freeing her tits to swing in time with the deep thrusts she received from behind.

But it was Daan that fucked her, not Finn. Finn slept on the couch below, dead to the world. Daan held handfuls of her hair and sank his black dick into her slick cunt again and again. He was fully dressed, arriving from work only minutes ago, his thick cock stuck through an open fly.

I knew exactly what had happened. Scarlett had heard a noise. Possibly it was the noise that woke her. She'd assumed Finn was still up and left the bed with me to go to him. But it hadn't been Finn, it had been Daan, and he'd done what every man would do finding a half-naked and horny woman in his apartment.

Scarlett groaned a little too loud so Daan covered her mouth with one big hand. With his free hand, he palmed a fat tit. He rocked his hips slow, withdrawing his hard inches like a dagger. He pushed deep again. He leaned his mouth close to her ear.

"What's your name?" he rasped, his accent more British than Dutch.

"Scar-Scarlett," she exhaled.

"Come to my room with me, Scarlett," he said. "Finn won't like me fucking his date. Trust me. It happened before."

She gave several quick nods.

He pulled his dick out and took her hand. He wasn't as big as Finn but he was big. His cock was covered in darker skin than the rest of him and stuck straight out from his body. The head looked too big for the shaft. He tugged her forward and she obediently followed, casting a backward glance at the bedroom, eyes snapping wide open when she saw me standing in the doorway. Her expression changed to a mix of helplessness and hopefulness. Helpless to tell him no and hopeful I'd understand her need. Daan threw his bedroom door wide and spun Scarlett onto the bed. The man had his clothing off before she righted herself. He came at her fast, throwing her legs wide one at a time, drawing a tiny yelp from my wife. He crawled quickly up the unmade bed between her legs, folding her ankles tightly behind him. He kissed her surprised mouth and the tip of his black cock found her soft and protruding inner lips. She drew breath to speak but he covered her mouth with a hand and sank his wide cock into her hole. My wife groaned again, deeply penetrated.

"Finn rarely brings a bird home but I'm glad he brought you," Dann said, his British accent singing. "Love the hair."

Scarlett pulled his hand off her mouth.

"Finn's a sweetheart," she murmured, scolding.

"Aye. A right good lad he is. But a bit lost around the ladies."

"Not like you," Scarlett gasped.

"Not like me."

Daan rolled onto his back taking Scarlett with him. Now she was on top, riding his cock, grinding her hips against his.

"Lose the top," he told her.

Scarlett yanked the shirt over her head and sailed it towards the wall. Her eyes met mine and I again saw a plea for understanding, just before she closed them to savor the new cock impaling her. Her head fell back and her long hair cascaded. Daan reached for her pale tits. Her handled them roughly and pinched her nipples, then slapped one hard. Scarlett sucked air but kept riding, her face scrunched with pain.

"Other one," she whimpered.

Daan chuckled and slapped her other tit a stinging blow. Scarlett groaned. No man had ever treated her like this.

"Did you fuck him?" Daan asked. "Did Finn get his big cock in you?"

"Yes."

"That's lovely. I'm happy for the lad. Did he cum in you?"

"Yessssss."

"Splendid. I thought you felt slippery. I'll do the same."

"Oh, God, yes," Scarlett moaned.

Daan grabbed her hair and pulled her over. Scarlett tumbled to the bed but Daan was quickly up and on his knees behind her. He tugged her hips into position. His black cock gleamed with wetness and the combined cum from Finn and me. Daan rose higher, aiming his hard dick at her puckered asshole. She felt pressure and tried to twist away but he was ready. He held her in place and her ring began to expand, opening before his irresistible advance. She gasped in pain, gathering sheets in her fists.

"Easy," he murmured. "Reach under and play with your clit. That will help. Forget about what I'm doing."

Scarlett closed her eyes and reached for her clitoris. Daan took his time, waiting for her to relax, easing his black cock into her ass. Her wrinkled ring was a tight seal around his shaft but his cock slowly disappeared anyway, drawing in the skin around it. Scarlett began to moan.

"Nice, right?" he said. "Dirty girl. Take that black dick in your bum."

My penis peeked through the hole in my boxers. I was rising, slowly, and without being touched. Scarlett rubbed her pussy faster now and the little sounds she made told me she would cum soon. A black dick fucked her ass but she would soon orgasm anyway. I could not grasp that reality. My dick could though. My dick saw Scarlett getting fucked and wanted a bite. I entered the room and approached the bed. Daan saw movement and his head snapped to the side.

"Right!" he said. "Now who the fuck are you?"

"I'm her husband," I stated.

Daan looked me up and down. Then he grinned.

"Full of surprises tonight, Finn my boy," he said to no one. Then, to me: "Lose the shorts and get yourself some. Unless you'd rather spectate."

Scarlett turned her face towards me. Daan withdrew three inches and slid them back in. Scarlett looked drunk on lust.

"Fuck my mouth, Baby," she said, eyes full of guilt.

Her hair was a mess. Her eyes watered and her lips trembled. Tonight she was gorgeous in a way I'd never seen. All night she'd been this sexual creature I'd never met before. I feared if I touched her now, she'd instantly become just my wife again.

"No," I said.

Her face fell.

I quickly crouched and smiled, kissing her on the tip of her nose.

"Your mouth is not for me," I finished.

I left the room, returning with Finn a moment later.

"She wants her mouth fucked," I told him. "I know my limits. I've cum too recently to give her what she wants, but I'm betting you can."

Finn gawked at me. Scarlett gawked at me. Daan laughed out loud.

"Get at it, Finn," Daan taunted. "It'll be like the summer of twenty-fifteen."

Scarlett jumped her disbelieving gaze from me to Finn to me. Finn shed his boxers, thick penis already rising. He stepped in front of Scarlett's face and lifted his dick to her mouth, stroking her messy hair. Her eyes were on mine as she opened wider and worked his flexible snake in. Her tongue slithered along the underside, cupping the head and coaxing him deeper. The tip disappeared followed by the crown and an inch of shaft. She closed her lips softly, caressing his long shank.

At last she switched her gaze to him, raising her eyes to meet his. He was no experienced ladies' man like Daan and my wife's fiery gaze flustered him.

Daan was done waiting. He grabbed both ass cheeks and gently pulled them apart, opening her hole. He pushed the rest of his black cock up her ass. Scarlett groaned like she'd been shot. He pushed until his dark scrotum covered her pussy slit.

The sight rocked me. My talented wife had a black cock buried in her ass and loved it. She sucked and licked Finn's big dick, again marveling at the size of his balls. Her sloppy tongue painted wide swaths over his sensitive skin.

"I love sucking your beautiful dick," she said abruptly. "But I want you inside me."

"I want that too," Finn said.

Scarlett looked over her shoulder at Daan.

"Stop for a second," she said. "I want Finn under me."

Daan grinned but held still. Finn lay on his back and wiggled under her, aiming his stiff dick straight up. Scarlett awkwardly tilted her hips and sheathed his cock in her pussy, groaning loud at the double penetration. Her breath fled her lungs and her eyes rolled in her head. The men waited, giving her time. She leaned forward, resting her head on Finn's chest.

"That . . . feels . . . incredible," she muttered, barely moving her hips. "I have two men . . . inside me. Sweet Jesus. Not in my wildest dreams."

Daan pressed her body on top of Finn's and began a slow in and out of her ass. His expression was gleeful. Certainly not the morning he expected when he got home from work. Finn was gazing into Scarlett's eyes. They shared a connection and that daunted me, but the raw sex I was witnessing overrode those feelings. I was watching my wife get royally fucked, porn-star fucked, high-priced whore fucked. Yet, my eyes told me it was still just Scarlett. A tiny voice in the back of my mind told me this would be a one-time event: we were thousands of miles from home, surrounded by people we'd never see again. Tonight, the planets had aligned and granted us this dream, placing in our path exactly the people we needed to meet for something like this to happen.

I dropped into a nearby chair to watch. None of them noticed me. Scarlett began dragging her pussy up and down Finn's thick erection and Daan tried to keep time, fucking my wife's tight asshole. I was barely clinging to reality. How could this be real? My balls felt tight and hot and I played with my dick some but he was too tired to get hard. Maybe it was all just too overwhelming. Finn tenderly sucked Scarlett's nipples, gently moving from breast to breast. Scarlett closed her eyes, trying to feel everything at once. They all moved with a slow rhythm, savoring the fantastic sensations. Daan began kissing Scarlett all around her nape. Goose bumps rose down her arms and her breathing quickened. She turned her head, searching the room, looking for me. Our eyes met and I saw she barely held on to sanity too.

"Kiss me," she grunted between thrusts.

I left my chair and crouched near her face, my head sandwiched between Finn and Daan. She tilted her head and closed her eyes. Our lips met and the gentle rocking of her being fucked transferred to me. The moment was surreal. Our tongues twisted and writhed together, wet and slippery.

"That's lovely," Daan teased.

I held Scarlett's face and kissed her tenderly. She looked ready to cry. Not from regret or sadness, but from a deep emotional release. She pursued this night the same way she'd pursued her musical talent. If she decides to do a thing, she does that thing all the way.

Finn hissed something in Dutch from the bottom of the pile and then began thrusting harder and faster. I tried to pull away but Scarlett whimpered and followed my lips. I was kissing my wife when Finn pumped a jet of hot sperm into her. Scarlett whimpered into my mouth as Finn pumped more, filling her up with cum. Our tongues danced. We both groaned from the pure insanity of the moment. Daan reached his limit too and thrust several times hard and fast, planting his cock deep to empty his balls, discharging a bucket of semen.

I let go so Scarlett could rest her head. I returned to my chair and burned the scene before me into my memories forever.

Chapter 7

The crowd sat silent as the singular, quivering note soared above our heads. Tonight, Scarlett played like the blood of God flowed through her veins. A stranger seated next to me watched my wife in awe.

"Such discipline," they murmured to a friend. "She's passionate, you can feel it, but impeccably precise."

Their friend nodded enthusiastically. Somebody behind us shushed them.

We'd crawled back to Finn's bed and slept like the dead. We'd risen, dressed, ate breakfast with both men, Red's Boys, they named themselves, and caught a cab back to our hotel. We started the shower but never made it.

A strange thing happened to me. As I watched Scarlett move around our hotel room, a powerful and overwhelming desire to touch her came over me. I grabbed her as she walked by and we kissed with more passion than our wedding night. I ripped the clothes from her body, running my hands over her smooth skin, skin so recently enjoyed by others. She melted under my touch.

I pushed her backward onto the bed, realizing to merely touch was not enough. What I needed was something more intimate, something more intense. The force of my bottled desire frustrated me. I trailed kisses from her mouth to her breasts and from there to her stomach. I fanned out, needing to savor every delicious inch of her. My lust grew, demanding something deeper. I began nibbling her body, then biting her. She groaned, partially sensing what consumed me. I bit her harder and roughly grabbed her tits. I went lower, my body between her legs now, my face hovering over her unfaithful cunt.

At last I understood what it was I craved. Her pussy was the center of our universe and I buried my face in it, licking every slick inch. The proof of her infidelity consumed me. I sent my tongue far up inside, roughly probing, tasting every man, including myself, to have visited her there tonight. My runaway desire drove her insane. My disregard of convention, attacking her dripping, naughty pussy without reservation, showed her I still believed she was mine. Relief poured from her, relief and lust. She grabbed my head and held on as I tongue-lashed her most sensitive places. Suddenly, her body stiffened. She shrieked in orgasm, hips convulsing, fingers clawing my hair. I pinned her with the strength of my arms and attacked, nibbling, sucking, licking, until I brought her to a howling climax again, her eyes filled with tears.

Exhausted, we slept.

The next day we lounged by the hotel pool, playful, silly, feeling closer and more intimate than we had in years, possibly ever. In the sauna, we sweated the alcohol out of our bodies. We made love in the afternoon and then prepared for her concert tonight.

Her passionate experiences of the last few days poured out through her music. We all felt it. She held the audience enthralled. Her fingers darted and her bow flew. I've heard her play Sonata Number Nine by Beethoven a thousand times and the difference was obvious. Flawless, soulful music danced around us like forest sprites, each note wrapped in a blanket of her recent memories.

Her standing ovation was long and loud.

There would be no second night of adventure. Our flight out of Amsterdam left at eleven that night. We dozed on and off on the plane, talking and laughing, touching constantly. Our connecting flight from New York got us closer and an Uber ride finished the trek. We were home.

We saved unpacking for the next day, crawling into bed and making slow, sweet love with an intensity we'd never shared before. Watching her with other men had been threatening but also revealed her deeply buried and wild sexuality. I treasured her now more than ever. For her, my love and adoration were confirmed. She knew I'd love her through anything. She had concrete proof. She felt cherished.

Woven into our lovemaking was an intense lust. As I watched my penis penetrate I remembered Finn's big cock doing the same. I remembered Daan's cock piercing her too. I considered taking her ass as he had but knowing he'd had her that way and I hadn't sent an erotic surge through me. I eyed her puckered ring but left it his.

My mind was aflame, my dick harder than ever. I had no idea how long this elevated fascination would last but for now we devoured it. We returned to our routines with a heightened love of life. Everything tasted better, smelled better. Colors stood out. We laughed and laughed with the joy of being alive and in love.

It lasted three months.

I saw the light first dim stepping out of the shower. My naked body had been enough to trigger sex, or at least a blowjob, but this time Scarlett was preoccupied. The stresses and strains of life had her distracted. The outside world had succeeded in corrupting our bubble. I knew it would happen, eventually, but the moment still saddened me. I let it go, talking to her about her situation, being a good husband and best friend.

Weeks began to pile up. Our night of adventure dwindled smaller and smaller in the rearview mirror. Details began to fade. We were returning to the life we had before. It's a great life, and totally satisfying before our incredible night in the Netherlands. But now, knowing, it wasn't enough.

I began an online search of sex clubs in our city, hoping to find a stage show like the one we'd watched in Amsterdam. There were a surprisingly large number of clubs so over the next few days I shrank the list, reviewing them for cleanliness, location, and how many people were likely to attend. Too many and the risk of Scarlett being recognized rose too high. Few had shows like we'd seen. Mostly they were gathering places for like-minded people.

I had narrowed the list to three and was ready to present my findings to Scarlett. I had no idea what her reaction would be. The musical world she moved in would never tolerate something so indecent. I sat at my computer to check those three clubs one last time and discovered Peaches, the club closest to our home, would be filming an X-rated movie on Saturday night and needed extras for the background shot of an orgy scene. The extras would be out of focus while the camera zeroed in on the lead actors. Scarlett and I could make love in a room filled with people. The idea intrigued me. I wondered what she would think. I read the details again and went looking for my wife.

"No one will see us?" she asked.

"They'll see blurry shapes in the background."

She pulled a lip, thinking. I thought she weighed the risk but I was wrong. Her mind had gone in a different direction.

"Music is my life," she said. "I've been kept in a tiny box since I was six. My parents put me there but later in life I kept myself there. I'm still there. I love playing. I'll play until the day I die. But what we did in Amsterdam showed me there's a world on the outside of that box. A thrilling yet dangerous world. I learned it's okay to take some risks, maybe introduce a little chaos. Don't act like an idiot but don't deny yourself life. I've reached an age where there's room for more than just music."

She took my hand.

"Let's visit Peaches," she said. "I'll dye my hair black."

Chapter 8

We stood naked, shoulder to shoulder with about forty other people. We'd stripped well in advance of the actual filming. Clothing leaves lines on the skin and the director wanted our skin smooth. The director, an older man with a full head of long silver hair, stood on a chair, reminding us not to look at the camera nor do anything which would draw the viewer's eye.

"Just fuck," he said. "Just have sex with each other like you would in your bedrooms."

He went on with other instructions and Scarlett and I paid close attention. She was nervous. She worried about getting caught. But the idea of reintroducing something so sexy into our life was too much to resist.

"We'll be careful," she'd said. "It sounds like fun."

The director raised his voice.

"I know you all have lives to lead. I thank you for giving me part of your day. I know you don't do this for the money."

A murmur of laughter swept the room.

"I shoot scenes out of order and then edit them together. A scene like this, with lots of people, means lots can go wrong. I will shoot you first until we get it right and then you are free to go. Leave your email address with the receptionist and I'll send you a free copy of the film. Any questions?"

Scarlett tickled my penis with her fingernails. Surprised, I jerked my hips away. She snorted a short laugh.

"Okay," the director said. "Let's get moving."

Numbers had been taped to the floor that matched the numbers we'd been told. Everyone fanned out, searching for their place. The scene was a Roman Senate chamber with arena benches and Doric columns. A large sculpted fountain of Aphrodite bubbled in the middle of the room. I jerked my chin at it.

"Should I tell them Aphrodite was Greek?" I asked. "Not Roman."

"Leave it," Scarlett said. "Let's find our spot."

Her eyes held mischief. My wife was horny. I made a mental note to always have some little sexual adventure planned for us. She found our spot on the second row of steps and laid on her back. She spread her legs just a little, smirking playfully. People filled in all around us, covering the floor and steps. Bodies lay next to each other everywhere.

"This is sexy," Scarlett said, lifting her head to look around at the others.

I was busy playing with my dick, trying to get hard. The director had informed us an erection was not necessary. Lots of men couldn't get hard under these conditions. He asked if that happened, please assume a position, like missionary or cowgirl, where the fact could be easily hidden.

I would not need to do that. Scarlett pointed her feet at the ceiling and slowly spread. Her labia clung to each other for a moment and then parted, gorgeous pink slit gleaming in my face. My dick rose fast after that. She looked delicious lying there, surrounded by naked bodies, staring at my hand pumping.

"He needs to start filming," she rasped. "I want you in me."

I knelt between her legs and she reached for my erection, guiding me forward. Several couples had already begun. Most were still getting in position. I looked down to watch my dick part her lips and sink in. We groaned together.

Before too long the room was filled with people fucking. The sounds were incredible. The director had placed the stars and begun filming and I'd missed it, so engrossed in my wife. We gazed into each other's eyes, delighted and excited.

The pretty Asian woman next to Scarlett reached a hand to play with my wife's tit. We both froze in shock for a moment but then Scarlett shrugged, sliding a hand over to play with the woman's breast. I got a jolt of lust seeing Scarlett's strong but delicate fingers playing with a tit not her own.

We fucked missionary for a while but then she said she wanted to blow me. I pulled out and carefully rolled onto my back, hard dick waving in the air. Scarlett crawled forward on all fours and flipped her black hair over a shoulder, giving me a perfect view. She grinned as she began working on my throbbing inches. I relaxed and enjoyed it. She was a different woman in bed now: scandalous, naughty, lustful, spicy.

She froze, eyes huge. I lifted my head to see why. A man was kneeling behind her, gazing down, holding her ass. He leaned forward and Scarlett groaned deeply, her head falling to my thigh. Assuming an orgy scene meant an orgy, the young man had taken advantage of her empty pussy waving in the air.

He withdrew and pushed back in. Her unfocussed eyes rose to mine. "Do something," she murmured.

I understood. She wanted nothing to draw attention to her. If she threw a fit or chased the man away the director might kick us out. Everyone would look at her. She wanted me, since I faced the man, to tell him to back off.

Instead, I grabbed her dark hair and stuffed my dick in her mouth. She struggled for five seconds but he was thrusting again and that she could not ignore. With a heartfelt moan, she lifted her hips higher, surrendering her cunt to this stranger. I forced her mouth farther down my penis.

I could see nothing but her face, ebony hair, and swinging tits, but sweet Jesus did my dick get hard. I saw the exquisite pleasure twisting her face. I heard her ragged breathing, sucking my dick as an anonymous stranger fucked her. His cock worked wonders. I watched an orgasm start from deep in her psyche and race boiling to the surface. I saw it all. Her face contorted with pure pleasure until she clamped her lips around my dick and whimpered and groaned. I almost came too. The sights and sounds were too much. I ripped my dick away and held her face, forcing her to meet my eyes as she gave him her orgasm. He wasted no time, whipping his cock free and returning to his partner, a blonde woman that now had another lover too.

I pulled Scarlett forward to kiss me and an older gentleman left his partner to assume the position behind her and quickly push his stubby dick in. He hurried like he was about to get caught. Scarlett jumped at the intrusion and tried to look behind her but I held her face in my hands.

"Another man," I murmured. "A new cock."

Scarlett sagged, deeply aroused at the slutty use of her body. I guided her mouth towards my erection and she sucked, moaning and gasping in time to the man fucking her. He must have had a no-climax rule because he fucked Scarlett hard for several minutes, moans growing increasingly louder, then abruptly stopped and returned to his woman. Scarlett crumbled at the sudden withdrawal and lay panting in my lap.

"On your back," she told me. "My turn."

She climbed on top and guided my dick inside, riding me slow and smooth. I enjoyed gazing up at her. We all fucked until the director made an announcement.

"Take fifteen, everyone," he said. "There are snacks available in the next room but don't eat too much. Nobody put on any clothing. There are bathrooms at the back of the hall. I suggest you use them. See you soon."

Everyone floated to their feet, wandering off in different directions. Hard dicks pointed everywhere. I kissed Scarlett and headed for the bathroom. She said she'd grab us some snacks.

I was back in two minutes but Scarlett wasn't in the other room grabbing snacks. Scarlett was in the other room speaking to the director and the male star of the film, Manuel Ferrara. I recognized him from his extensive online presence. I've even masturbated to a few of his films. His female co-stars seemed to genuinely love having sex with him. Tall, buff, and handsome, with a cock known for incredible girth, naked Manuel faced my naked wife, chatting casually.

I stopped, suddenly feeling like I had months ago when I spied on Scarlett in that quaint Dutch bar. I shuffled to the side, out of her line of sight. I don't know why it was such a thrill to spy on her like this but it was. I tried to act busy with the vegetable tray.

Their conversation was light with lots of smiles and laughter. Scarlett's eyes darted down at his cock several times. Finally, he said something and she acted coy, reaching a hand to circle his shaft and another to cup his big balls. She made a point of showing him how her fingers did not meet around his circumference. He chuckled. She grinned roguishly.

"Every woman in the business wants to work with Manuel," The director told my wife. "His agent has a waiting list."

I stared at his cock and balls in her hands. Her wedding ring sparkled. She held him softly, gently caressing. They shared an intense look.

"Make sure she gets my number before she leaves," Manuel told the director. He turned to her again. "Maybe we could meet for coffee?"

"I'd love that," she said. "I'm sure my husband wouldn't mind."

My dick started to rise.

"All right everyone," the director shouted. "Places!"

He grabbed a set technician and conveyed Manuel's request. The man jogged off to get the star's number. The director and Manuel headed for the set again and I took that opening to slide up to Scarlett.

"Making friends?" I asked.

She had the audacity to blush.

"He's very handsome," she said.

"How would you know?" I asked. "You never looked at his face."

Her eyes got big. She laughed out loud.

"No, I guess I never really did."

"What did they want?"

"Nothing," she said, chuckling. "I approached them. He's very handsome."

"You keep saying that."

"He offered to do a scene with me. The director said it would be no problem to add my scene to the script. I told them I couldn't. My line of work would never tolerate it. I told them I only agreed to come today because the ad said the extras would be blurred. The director promised to keep me hidden."

"That's a relief."

"Yeah."

"Flattering too," I added.

"Truly. That man could have any woman he wants."

A stage hand approached.

"I slid Manuel's number into your locker," he said.

"Thank you," Scarlett replied.

I raised my eyebrows.

"A porn star's number? What could you possibly do with that?"

"Exactly," she smirked. "Imagine the possibilities."

"Places!" the director shouted again.

All the stragglers, including us, returned to our designated spots on the set. I took my position on my back and Scarlett straddled me. She flipped her dark hair behind her.

"Why haven't you tried to fuck other women?" she asked. "I've certainly had my fun with other men. It's only fair. But you haven't even tried."

"You're the only woman for me," I said.

She shook her head.

"Every man loves new pussy," she said, skeptical.

"Are you saying I can?"

She leaned over to kiss me.

"I'd let you. I would hate it but I'd let you. That's fair."

Her nipples grazed my chest hair and I reached up and pinched both.

"That's sweet," I said. "But it's far hotter watching you get fucked. Another woman would only complicate everything. I'd constantly worry how you were feeling. This is better. New dick for Scarlett."

"I just decided that will be the title of my autobiography," she said.

I laughed out loud.

She lifted her nipples to my mouth, brushing across my lips but then pulling out of reach. She teased herself as much as me. I watched her up there glancing around at all the people fucking. Her gaze would land somewhere and she'd watch them for a while, getting more turned on. I wasn't hard yet so she only pretended to ride me.

"Get hard," she pouted. "I need you in me."

"Doesn't work like that, Love," I said. "These things don't come with an on-off switch. I can't just tell it to rise."

She smirked at me.

"No?" she asked. "You sure?"

I smiled, refusing to get drawn into her teasing. If she wanted me hard she could start sucking.

Scarlett slid off my hips and crawled a few feet, stretching out towards a man nearby. His wife was busy blowing him, holding his thick cock in both hands.

"May I help you with that?" Scarlett asked.

The wife grinned and moved to make room. Scarlett cozied up next to her and engulfed the man's bulbous head in one swoop. The wife ducked under to suck his balls and Scarlett soon joined her, each sucking a testicle into their mouth and pulling the man's nuts far apart.

That my wife had chosen from the crowd a big dick was not lost on me. The lucky bastard dropped his head back and groaned. Both women tortured his scrotum, licking the loose skin and sucking his balls. Soon his shaft was laced with bulging veins, his moaning constant.

My wife left the other woman to do her work and trailed kisses up the pulsing shaft. Scarlett pushed his dick deep and then drew a breath, pushing another inch of cock into her mouth. She lifted her soft and adoring eyes to mine and then began bobbing.

Unreal. My dick began to swell instantly. Scarlett sucked this stranger's cock like she'd just seen the porn actresses do and I was hard in less than a minute. She kissed the wife on the cheek.

"Thanks," she chuckled. "You take it from here."

A heartbeat later she held my dick straight up and lowered her steaming slit. I penetrated and sank all the way in.

"How did you know that would work?" I asked.

"I know you better than you know yourself," she grunted between thrusts.

For the next thirty minutes or so the set was a mass of writhing bodies. The two stars went through their lines and their positions but the rest of us were free to have sex as we wished. The longer it went on the more people branched out. The staged orgy became a real one. Some woman crawled over my legs to lick my balls while Scarlett rode me and I almost shot my load. A man approached my wife's face with his hard dick waving and she grabbed it and started sucking.

It got more frantic from there. The sexual energy was climbing fast.

Within minutes it exploded. I was distracted eating Scarlett's pussy when a man started sucking my dick. It felt good so I let him for a few seconds, but it weirded me out to see a dude down there. I gently pulled my penis away and he turned his attention to the woman next to him.

What happened next almost defies description. Some critical overload threshold was breached and a roomful of humans turned into animals. Bodies writhed, hands groped, mouths licked and sucked. I twice had to fend off guys from fucking my ass. The women seemed especially affected, latching onto any hard dick that happened near. Feminine cries of orgasm echoed all around. Hard dicks penetrated wet pussies and winking assholes. I saw women stuffed with dick in every hole. Women who'd never had anal sex suddenly moaning from mind-boggling pleasure as a hard cock pumped.

Scarlett was in the thick of it. A muscular black man scooped under her butt and lifted her off my dick. He lifted her higher, telling her to grab his cock and put it in. She did! He carried her like a basket of laundry, pumping her up and down on his prick, until she told him to put her down and fuck her properly. He put her on all fours and slid that fat black cock home. I moved to her open mouth, fucking her from the other end. He ran his big black hands all over her pale body, cupping her swaying breasts, spreading her ass cheeks obscenely to look at her asshole, and trailing kisses down her back. He leaned back to watch his black cock slide in and out.

A man pushed me out of the way, my dick leaving her mouth with a pop. He took my place, holding her head and shoving his cock deep, gagging her. I don't know why I let it happen but I did. A woman knelt to suck my dick but I pulled it away, stepping around to see Scarlett better. My wife saw what I did and groaned, embracing her role as my personal porn star. Her groan grew into a full-throated moan and then she became like a woman possessed, slamming her pussy against the cock fucking her and ravenously sucking the man that had replaced me. Her eyes moved all around, witnessing the decadent and carnal display surrounding her. She was in it, a player, a dripping slut like every other woman there only more so, teetering on the edge of lusty madness. We'd spent years in society's upper crust. Now we wallowed on the floor like animals. The contrast was liberating and exciting.

The black man fucking her began to pound her body, slamming his hips against her ass, ramming his stiff meat deep until he growled like an animal and erupted with frothy cream, filling her married cunt before her husband's eyes.

"Fuuuck meeee," she whined, hold her ass firmly against him, taking every hot drop as deep as she could get it and climaxing on his dark meat.

The black man grabbed her ass and clenched his balls, shooting into her. Scarlett looked up at the man in her mouth, pulling his dick out briefly.

"Take his place," she whimpered. "Fuck me."

The man hurried behind her, his cock easily gliding in on the coating of cum. He looked shocked to be fucking such a pretty woman.

I worried that men would line up for their turn but that's not what happened. The room was a seething carpet of people fucking. Scarlett sucked random cock as strangers fucked her here and there, but I soon took my place between her legs again. Her eyes were wild with lust when she looked up and saw her husband fucked her once again. She stroked my hair softly.

"Are you going to cum in me too?" she murmured.

"Is that what you want?"

She closed her eyes and grinned.

"I want all the cum," she exhaled. "I'll take every man here. I love feeling a man cum inside me."

My dick throbbed. I sank into her sloppy tunnel and lasted only a short time.

Chapter 9

Some singers carry raw emotion in their voice. We hear it the moment they open their mouths. Some singers can hit a note perfectly but the sound is devoid of feeling. The same is true of musicians. We all hear the feeling when Carlos Santana or Jimi Hendrix plays.

Or my wife, Scarlett.

I sat, again, in the five-thousand seat National Institute for Music in Amsterdam, capitol of the Netherlands. Scarlett wove her way through the complicated notes of Twenty-Four Caprices by Paganini. She was masterful, enthralling, mesmerizing, but now her music carried the added weight of experience and understanding. Scarlett had stepped right to the edge and looked over, and her art was better for it. Nobody moved. Nobody even breathed. The audience was riveted, some with tears resting on cheeks, ignored so as not to disturb this poignant moment.

Eight months had passed since we frolicked at that orgy. Scarlett's music had intensified. Everything had intensified. We'd traveled all over and almost every performance was followed by a new lover. We'd learned to associate an invitation to play with the excitement of someone new.

Then came the invitation to return to Amsterdam. Mark Rutte, Dutch Prime Minister, was scheduled to attend her performance tonight and my wife was determined to leave him stunned.

I shifted my eyes to his executive box and saw he clearly was.

Scarlett played with heart and soul, pouring out everything she had. Her face glistened with sweat. The audience felt it. We all lived it with her. Sometimes fast, sometimes slow, sometimes wild, sometimes plucking the strings: sweet, sorrowful notes caressed our ears and stirred our hearts. I've heard her play hundreds of times and I'm still deeply moved.

If only they knew.

She stood on stage under a bright white spotlight, alone and exposed. She played before thousands, petite, unprotected, vulnerable. Wrapped in her favorite red evening gown, she was the definition of feminine grace, the picture of womanly elegance and sophistication.

If only they knew!

At last she finished, arms slowly lowering to her sides, violin trembling. Silence filled the huge auditorium. Scarlett lowered her eyes.

Thunderous applause exploded. People surged to their feet, me with them. We cheered and clapped and stomped our feet. The ovation went on and on until Scarlett gave us a small wave, overwhelmed. A second groundswell of adulation poured out.

An hour later she'd said all her goodbyes and exited the building. I waited in front, as always.

"Hungry?" I asked.

"You know what I want," she replied.

I took her hand, heading east across the bridge. We retraced our steps from a year ago, my heartbeat increased steadily, my palms turned wet. The night was cold and windy but I felt overheated under my jacket. Scarlett was focused on the path ahead. Soon we saw Casa Rosso ahead. A small line waited on the sidewalk. At the ticket booth, they asked in what ring we'd like to be seated.

"Volunteer," Scarlett said.

My stomach flipped. Since the orgy, Scarlett had been insatiable. Something had awakened inside her. She was ravenous for sex. We'd used her worldly invites to find new lovers all around the globe. Some of those encounters had been especially exciting, and although Scarlett had never voiced a proclivity for a certain part of the male anatomy, we both tacitly understood what she craved.

We paid and they handed us our tickets. Scarlett led the way to our seats by the stage. Our jackets landed on the backs of our chairs and we settled in. A waitress took our drinks order. High overhead the lights flickered three times and then dimmed.

"Showtime," I said, repeating myself from over a year ago.

Scarlett grinned like a goofball.

The room turned dark. Flickering candles dotted the tables closest to the stage. I knew what they meant and my heart bounced around inside my chest.

A spotlight hit the center of the huge red curtains and a black chasm appeared. This time a man stepped through, agile and muscular, nude except for a feathered headdress and tail. It took me a moment to realize he was a phoenix. Toned and oiled muscles twisted as he pretended to look to the horizon, one hand shielding his eyes from the spotlight.

"This is a nice change," Scarlett murmured, eyes eating the man alive.

Phoenix Man prowled the stage for a minute, strutting like a bird and pretending to search for something, long soft cock swaying. I noticed a silver strand of precum drifted like spider web from the tip. When he arrived at the steps from the stage to the theater floor, he descended, continuing his hunt. Many people closest to the stage extinguished their candles. Most, but not all. Certainly not us. Phoenix Man plucked a feather from his tail harness and handed it to each woman seated at a table with a burning candle. When he reached Scarlett, he did the same. My wife's big eyes roamed his impressive body as she accepted his gift. My eyes dropped to his penis. He continued to ooze silky strands of cum. Before too long he returned to the stage, passing through the gap in the curtain. My wife's expression showed her disappointment.

"Every inch of that man looks delicious," she whispered.

The show continued. An older man came out and did a stand-up routine. Half his monologue was in Dutch and half English. It was fun to watch the room take turns laughing. Next a young girl with an angelic voice sang several songs, followed by a troupe of exotic dancers wearing almost nothing and dancing hard to heavy drumbeats.

At the close of the dancers, the room went pitch black. Nobody moved because nobody could see. A single soulful violin note rose and drifted around in the darkness. Finally, a small, deep red spotlight hit Phoenix Man, wrapped in a tight ball suggesting agony, descending from the ceiling on the trapeze bar. His body was riddled with arrows, all the phoenix feathers missing from his tail. As he neared the stage he fell the last few feet in a crumpled pile. A murmur of concern swept the crowd. Even Scarlett gasped a little.

An angelic voice came over the public address, speaking Dutch. Several of the women seated near the stage and holding a phoenix feather from earlier headed for the steps up. I tapped Scarlett to draw her attention and she gulped the last of her drink and joined them. The announcer spoke again in Dutch.

An older woman, lovely silver hair and kind eyes, knelt by the fallen man and inserted her feather into his barren tail. The woman next to her did the same. Fallen Phoenix Man stirred as if coming back to life. He rolled on his side facing the crowd, an arm falling loosely, thick, soft cock flopping over his hip, massive ball sack hanging like a pink grapefruit. Silver Hair spied his hanging penis and lifted the shaft on her palm, stroking gently several times before reluctantly letting go. A gossamer strand of precum connected her palm and his dick. The crowd chuckled. The penis rolled over like a beached whale. The length grew until the head reached the wooden stage. The shaft behind the head bent, folding as he gained in size. Every eye in the place was on the man's growing, leaking cock. The second woman copied the first, tugging the substantial penis, pulling like a rubber toy. The crowd chuckled again. She yanked a few more times and then bent to plant a quick and gentle kiss on the head.

Now it was Scarlett's turn. My wife knelt like the others and placed her feather in the tail harness, helping the phoenix to rise again, reborn. She reached a tentative hand out and touched the man's shoulder, admiring his physique as she ran her fingertips the length of his body. She arrived at his penis as the other women had and my breath caught in my throat.

Scarlett was different than the other women. They played to the crowd, all in good fun, nothing taken too seriously. Scarlett was worshipful, reverent, awestruck. She lifted his heavy cock and stared at it.

To become a world-class violinist, she'd sacrificed so much, exercised staggering levels of discipline, set stratospheric standards and held herself to them. She'd accomplished much, but paid a high price, ignoring virtually all other aspects of her personality to focus on one.

Until that first night in Amsterdam. That stage show, and then later, Finn and Daan, revealed to her something she could not ignore.

As if she were alone and not on stage, Scarlett bent her head to his cock and opened her mouth. The crowd hushed. Mesmerized, my wife closed her eyes and licked, tasting his slippery semen, and then wiggled his hardening cock as far back as she could take it. The remaining women slipped their feather into his tail harness but that was no longer the show. My wife was. His thick curving cock rose and stiffened. Silver Hair joined in, nibbling along the shaft. The second woman nuzzled his balls, licking. The crowd stirred, quiet arousal climbing fast.

Caught in the moment, the other women on stage played along. One kissed his rippled stomach, another slid her dress aside to feed him a nipple. Scarlett relaxed her throat as best she could and eased his hardened shaft deep, her lips a tight seal around his veiny shaft.

A few men from the audience got angry. They moved up to the stage, barking at their women to stop and come away. Some did, remembering where they were and who was watching. Scarlett and Silver Hair feasted on this man's cock, ignoring the others. He allowed them to continue until he could delay the show no more, gently prying them away to a laughing audience. He gripped the trapeze bar and began his ascension, rock hard and throbbing, slowly turning as he climbed into the sky. A long shiny strand of semen floated from the tip. My wife and Silver Hair returned to their seats. The lights went out.

Chapter 10

The show continued but we barely saw it. Scarlett was beyond aroused.

"I need a hard dick in me now," she hissed.

Her lips were puffy from sucking and when I kissed her I tasted him. We respectfully remained seated until the show ended but she was eager to get back to our hotel room. We paid the waitress and since people had queued up to leave, Scarlett and I stayed in our chairs until the line died. We were about to rise when Phoenix Man pulled up a chair at our table. My temperature shot through the roof.

"Allo," he said, Dutch accent dripping.

We said hello and I made introductions.

"I know who you are," he told Scarlett. "I was in the crowd a year ago when you first performed in Amsterdam. I am so pleased to meet an artist of your magnitude and standing. I have utmost respect. Tonight's dirty secret is safe with me."

Scarlett blushed, flattered.

His name was Badr Hari and he and Scarlett could not take their eyes off each other. I felt a pinch of jealousy as my wife gazed at this handsome stranger with intense longing. He was charming and funny, smart and clearly smitten. We all chatted but soon I began to feel invisible. They wanted to know everything about each other. Badr placed his hand over Scarlett's as they talked, leaning forward, hanging on her every word. The place emptied but they didn't budge. The waitress came to our table and informed us we needed to leave so they could set up for the next show.

"Do you need to get ready?" Scarlett asked.

Badr shook his head.

"No, Rogier, a friend, plays the phoenix next. I was headed to a gathering of friends. We are meeting on Princess Alexia, a yacht moored at the end of Guldehandsteeg Centrum."

His eyes lit up.

"You should come with me!" he exclaimed. "As my guests."

Scarlett shook her head.

"We'll know no one," she said. "I'm not good with a crowd of strangers."

"You'll love them," he insisted. "I'm afraid they like dub-step, not classical violin like me, so they will not recognize the incredible guest of honor they have sharing their night, but that's okay, I will know."

Scarlett looked to me. I was conflicted. Being ignored had annoyed me and I wanted to say no from spite. I chastised myself for being immature.

"Let's go," I said. "If we are uncomfortable we can leave."

"Excellent," he said.

He stood and offered his hand to Scarlett.

The streets were narrow. They walked ahead, together, and I walked a step behind. He never let go, holding her hand, slipping an arm around her shoulder, scooping her waist to hold her close. He was so pleased to have such a world-class talent spending time with him he obsessed over her. I read her face and body language: she loved his smothering attention.

The yacht was gorgeous, all teak and brass and strings of tiny white lights. Music blared, a powerful rhythmic beat we felt through our skin. Scarlett was in awe as we climbed the plank and stepped onto the deck. About forty people danced and drank and talked, all of them young and beautiful. Badr led us below decks to meet the ship's owner.

Niels was an older man, dressed in an impeccable thousand-dollar suit, and he kissed Scarlett's hand as Badr introduced her. I saw in his eyes he too knew who she was. I doubted anyone else on board did.

We grabbed martinis from the open bar and found a quieter place to talk: a small alcove of three teak benches surrounding a small teak table. Next to Scarlett's head was a small round porthole and through it I saw the city lights outside. Again, they were so into each other I felt awkward.

The space was cramped so after twenty minutes I told Scarlett I needed to stretch my legs. She'd scooted closer to Badr as they talked, thighs touching, elbows touching, faces close. She turned at my words and I kissed her cheek. My stomach was a tight knot of hot plumbing.

I left.

I made a slow circle of the deck, gazing at the beautiful city as often as the beautiful women. They wore little, despite the cold, and it slowly dawned on me they were probably paid escorts. Badr never mentioned what this party was for. The young women were stunning, with incredible bodies and gorgeous faces. I felt more out of place with each minute. Something was going on here but I had no idea what. My mood soured. I decided to get Scarlett and leave, continuing our night some other way. I finished my loop and headed below deck, returning to the cramped corner where I'd left her.

Of course, she was gone.

My heart sank. I searched below deck and then above but found nothing. I started to get nervous, which made no sense. I'd seen Scarlett with other men. Why worry about this one?

The answer came quickly: with other men Scarlett was mostly interested in their bodies. This time, she was also keenly interested in the man. Finn was charming but Scarlett felt no complicated emotions towards him. I'd read her expressions and her body language tonight and the truth was obvious, now that I allowed myself to see it. Scarlett wanted everything about Badr. She wanted every part of him. He knew who she was and adored her. My wife had a crush, a strong attraction that had grown stronger by the minute, and I'd done nothing. I'd allowed his hooks to sink deep.

Now I was anxious. Panic rose in the back of my throat. Images of her on stage reverently sucking his cock flashed through my brain. I needed to find her. This was the first of her liaisons where I felt keenly threatened.

Many of the doors below deck were locked. I moved on after trying the knob. Now I went back and knocked, knocking again until someone answered. I interrupted many couples and threesomes having sex but I was determined. When I came to a locked door that no one answered, I stood my ground, refusing to stop. The door never opened. I became convinced Badr had Scarlett in there, fucking her deep and slow like she wanted. The torment was pure agony. I called out her name and knocked again.

"Can I help you?" a deep Dutch voice said.

It was, Niels, the ship's owner.

"I'm looking for Scarlett," I said. "I think she's in this room but the door's locked."

"The door is locked because that's my room," he said, stretching his O's and E's. "No one needs to enter my cabin when I'm not with them."

"Oh," I stammered. "I'm sorry"

"No problem."

He gave me a little dismissive nod and stepped aside so I might leave. I took one step. Scarlett's soft but high-pitched moan seeped under the door, followed by a deep male growl. Niels and I locked eyes.

"She is in there," I stated.

For half a second he thought about flat denial but changed his mind.

"Indeed," he admitted.

"Let me in," I demanded.

He raised a hand, showing me a palm.

"I will, but first you must understand this was her request. She's behind a locked door because she wishes to be. Cause trouble and I'll have you arrested."

Scarlett moaned again. I visualized that big cock pushing into her, stretching her hole. I nodded and he stepped forward with keys. His hand made a quick turn. The door swung wide. We took a small step inside.

Scarlett was at the end of a large bed. Badr knelt on the floor. My wife's thighs rested on his shoulders as he cupped her ass and ate her pussy. His large cock was fully erect and throbbing, aimed at the bed skirt. She'd been gone all this time and he was still only eating her. Her hands covered her face. Her beautiful red hair was spread across the black comforter. Her tits wobbled from his eager tongue. The ship owner and I stood there, unmoving, taking in the intensely sexy scene. The lovers were oblivious to us, lost in their own world.

Badr devoured my wife like she was made of ice cream. He licked and sucked all around and up inside. A brief turn of her hips showed me he had a thumb up her ass, pumping as he feasted, anchoring her in place so he could consume more easily. His cock drooled precum like a leaky faucet, gobs flowing down a silver strand to the carpeted bedroom floor. Scarlett grabbed both tits and her body tightened. She climaxed through clenched teeth, trying to remain silent, twisting side to side as the waves of pleasure rocked her.

"Enough," she rasped, trembling. "I need you in me."

My eyes dropped to the stream of precum leaking. The man's balls were huge. The skin was smooth, not wrinkled, like he hadn't orgasmed in months. I wondered if he abstained because he had to get hard every night for the show.

How much sperm is he carrying? I wondered.

Because way down deep, buried in my primitive primate DNA, that's what it was all about. His drooling cock might as well have been a loaded gun in my face. It was a weapon aimed at my wife, and she'd already spread her legs. His cock was long and bulky. She'd feel every inch. That head sitting atop that long pole would reach far up inside her and deposit gobs of sperm. I'd witness her insemination and her pleasure and delight in receiving it. My skin was on fire. My feet stayed rooted.

The ship owner closed the door and quietly shot the bolt. Scarlett lifted her shapely legs to point at the corners of the cabin. Her moans got louder. She opened her legs even wider, offering Badr everything. She began to toss her head side to side, another orgasm building.

"No more," she whimpered. "Give me that big cock."

Badr reluctantly withdrew his thumb and tongue. He stood, his wide cock like an imposing animal tusk. Scarlett grabbed her legs behind the knees and pulled, smashing her tits and aiming her drenched cunt at him, aligning her slit to his pulsing cock. She looked around her legs at it, biting a bottom lip in anticipation. That cum oozing beast crept closer.

"I know it will hurt at first," she rasped. "Don't worry."

I'd forgotten to breathe. My heart had stopped. He was too big for her but that's why she wanted it. The dribbling slit touched her swollen and protruding inner lips and Scarlett sucked air through her teeth. His hips shifted, pulling away for only a second, and a long spider web strand of cum connected them. A fat dollop leaked from the tip and flowed towards the floor.

"You leak a lot," Scarlett said. "That's so sexy."

I knew she meant it because once, years ago after a long abstinence, I'd leaked a lot and she'd loved it. He leaned over her, the head mashing her labia before dipping into her hole and spreading her pussy lips.

"Ungh," she groaned, eager, rotating her ass, trying to capture his cock.

He wrapped his arms around her legs and leaned farther forward.

"Nuugh!" she grunted. "God!"

His ass tightened and his cock began the invasion. Scarlett gasped again and again, twisting her hips to avoid discomfort but gripping the edge of the bed to hold herself in place and take all he had. He was gentle, feeding her tight cunt one slippery inch at a time.

I realized Niels was watching me and not the taking of my wife. I ignored him. Badr was halfway in when he grabbed her ankles and made a wishbone of her legs. He opened her wide, as far as his arms would go. Scarlett groaned from his heavy penetration. He bowed his back and sank until his cock head touched bottom, leaving several inches outside. His enormous balls hung underneath like a boxer's speed bag. He moved his feet farther apart and began sawing, holding her legs spread at the ankles and fucking her soaked pussy.

After a minute, he withdrew and laid his cock upon her mons. His balls hung down covering her opening and the shaft extended beyond her belly button. Scarlett lifted her head to see and marveled at his oversized meat.

"Sweet Jesus," she murmured, her eyes rolling.

She slid a hand down her stomach and steered him lower, guiding his cock into her pussy again. Her eyes roamed his athletic body, landing on his handsome face. She smiled, thrilled he was her lover. He pushed his cock all the way in and her head snapped back.

"Unngh!" she cried, grabbing handfuls of tit again.

She tugged her nipples and rocked her hips. He pumped slowly, stretching her, waiting until she was drenched and ready.

His hips began moving faster, gaining speed until he pounded her, his body smashing into hers, his cock ramming her cervix over and over. Scarlett was so turned on she felt no pain, only the thrill of deep penetration and utter submission. Badr's cock filled her world, horizon to horizon.

My wife arched her back and orgasmed wildly, legs kicking, cunt gushing.

"Yes!" Badr shouted. "Cum for me!"

He fucked even faster, driving my wife insane. Her climax still bounced along the upper atmosphere when he roared with pleasure and exploded. The first blasts of sperm sent some spraying backward around his thick shaft and dripping to the rug. He pushed all the way in and forced out more, flooding her womb. Jealous agony gripped me. He was stealing her right in front of my face. She was delirious with pleasure, throwing her head side to side, clawing the sheets and screaming.

His thick beast ejaculated jets of sperm, over and over and over, filling her tubes, overflowing her uterus. I realized she was coming again during all this, orgasming at her own insemination, excited beyond belief to take him as a lover. He pumped until his legs turned weak and his balls had no more to give. He leaned over and released her ankles, which she folded behind him, trapping him in a circle of legs. They kissed.

I expected them to part, for Badr to withdraw his sticky pole and step away. He didn't. They continued kissing, his hips making tiny in-and-out movements, extending the exquisite sensations, dragging out the feelings even as they faded and his penis softened.

Nope.

I mean maybe that's what he felt, but his dick stayed hard. Fully hard, with raised veins and tight skin. Had he taken a dick drug for his performance on stage? Did he still enjoy the effect? Scarlett did. Scarlett was immeasurably pleased. Her hips curled upward, sheathing that cock as deep as she could. Her expression was absolute delight. She was shocked and surprised but all that turned to a kind of beautiful agony each time his cock head reached the depths of her. Her low-throated groan told me he was hitting something wonderful. He grabbed handfuls of tit and began fucking again, her hole a sloppy, slurping mess. She laced her fingers behind his neck and closed her eyes.

What must that feel like? All my pleasure from sex is external. How much better does it feel to take someone inside your body, to be wrapped tightly around them moving inside you.

Judging by her expression it was the greatest sensation ever. I caught glimpses of the intimacy she felt, the sense of closeness it brought, but it was complicated: a tangled mess of physical and emotional intensity.

Scarlett was growing more aroused by the second. Badr staying hard pushed buttons in her head. She felt incredibly desired. She felt beautiful and sexy. Badr could have any woman he chose and he chose her.

I watched her tits bounce as he began pounding. His body slapped her flesh. His balls had dropped after his first orgasm and I heard them banging against her asshole.

"Nnnuugh . . ." Scarlett moaned, her spine slowly arching.
"Ohhhhhh . . ."

My wife was about to cum again. His fat cock owned her, giving her pleasure like none other had. Her pussy lips were sealed tight around his girth despite the deluge of cum he'd released. He slid against her flesh easily, plunging deep before withdrawing to the head and plunging deep again. Scarlett squeezed her eyes shut and took it all in. Her body was being supremely fucked and she welcomed it.

"Aaaaaarrghhh!" she shrieked, lifting her head and shoulders off the bed and cumming hard, impaled by his meaty stick.

He fucked her faster after that, ignoring her moans. She was confused and disoriented but he didn't care, hammering away at her tight hole until he spurted again, another flood of hot potent sperm. He'd never pulled all the way out so this huge load poured on top of the first, an ocean of semen sloshing inside her. He roared again, shouting with delight as his huge balls emptied.

I wondered if maybe now they were finished.

They weren't.

Badr scooped her under the legs and crawled forward on the bed, carrying my wife as he went. She was tightly coiled around him, arms and legs, keeping his thick and still solid cock deep. He wasn't as hard as he'd been moments ago but he was still stiff enough to force her open in every direction. He was a fleshy plug filling her tunnel. They lay there kissing, murmuring sweet affections. Any attempt he made to pull his cock free was met with instant whining and a tightening of her arms and legs.

She loved him in there, filling her from end to end and side to side. I stared at his trapped penis, a mass of veiny flesh serving as stopper to all that semen. His seed was everywhere inside, swimming freely, hunting egg.

My balls were in a vise, hot and tight. I desperately wanted to fuck her but I remained motionless. This agony was a bizarre kind of pleasure: intense and addicting, like nothing I'd ever felt before. As long as I did not reclaim her, she was his, and that set my heart pounding. My penis and testicles ached with sexual tension but the ache felt strangely fantastic. I'd bear the burden for now, savoring the poignant mix of pleasure and pain. Scarlett lifted her crossed ankles farther up his back, tightening her grip on the man, and acid dripped on my heart. Every move she made sent pain lancing through me but I had no wish for her to stop. Actually, that's false: I desperately wanted her to stop but my desperation for her to continue was greater. She'd not even glanced at me once. Badr and his stiff dick were her entire world. Marriage, career, even where she was physically on Planet Earth had all fallen away. There was only this moment with this man. I waited and waited but she never looked my way.

"We should go," the ship owner said. "Badr can last all night. I've seen it. No husband should witness such a thing. Each time you bed your wife you will remember and suffer. Better to remain ignorant."

What a terrible decision I faced. I watched them on the bed. Badr flexed his ass and sent his spongy dick deep, gliding along her slippery flesh. Fully embedded, he then stretched his neck to kiss her. My wife held his handsome face with both hands.

"Come," Niels said, gently tugging my arm.

I let him lead me away. He was probably right.

We left the cabin and he locked the door behind us, ensuring Badr and my wife had complete privacy for their intimate time together. He waved me forward, drawing me to the bar on deck. He poured me a tall whiskey.

"She still loves you," he said, patting my hand. "Badr makes them forget, yes, but only for a short while. She'll remember. Do not fear."

I sat on a small teak bench. Dazed, I watched the crowd laugh and dance.

"I must attend my other guests," he said, looking concerned.

I waved him away.

"Thank you for your kindness," I added.

I stared into my drink. Were they fucking again already?

The ship rocked and the crowd applauded. We drifted away from the small pier and the current caught us, tugging the bow. The engine powered up, a low hum and vibration behind the music, and we were underway, sailing the waterways of Amsterdam, a party boat filled with beautiful people, high spirits, loud cheering, and my wife, below deck and in bed, humping her hips against the fat cock hidden in her.

Chapter 11

The . . . hours . . . crawled.

I was surrounded by happy people celebrating life but lost in my own misery. The problem was, I liked it. I'm never one to wallow. I always pick myself up and get back in the fight.

Not tonight. My wretched gloom was strangely delicious. I suffered, knowing Scarlett was with him, but savored my despair.

The first hour I told myself they'd finished and lay there talking, enjoying each other's company. My second hour I speculated they'd drifted off, napping after their amorous exertions. The third hour my rationalizations collapsed into the fantasies they were. Badr was a world class stud. He knew who Scarlett was. He idolized her. No way would he allow this night to pass without an epic conquering. I heard the ring of truth in my head when I considered they started fucking again minutes after I'd left, and continued fucking until this moment.

He was fucking her now.

She may have taken a moment to suck his impressive cock. She may have even allowed him up her ass, desiring to feel this hot lover in every hole, to give herself to him every way a woman can. He'd want the same, treasuring the knowledge he'd had this world talent in every opening. That's how you truly conquer a woman. You want bragging rights over every other man? Fuck her everywhere.

I knew in my heart that's exactly what he was doing. I felt it.

I lost track of how many whiskeys I had and was completely unsurprised when I awoke below deck sleeping on a small table. Someone had shaken my shoulder. Bright light streamed in through the rectangular windows running around the room. I rubbed my eyes and focused, expecting the owner to tell me we'd docked. Instead, I faced a mortified and guilt-ridden Scarlett.

"I am so, so sorry," she said. "Baby, I was terrible last night. A horrible wife. An awful friend. I never should have dropped you like that. I'm sorry. I feel awful."

I sat up, massaging an astonishing number of body aches. I had kinks in my neck, lower back, shoulders and knees. Scarlett moved close, slipping into my arms. The way her tits wobbled told me she'd lost her bra somewhere. She looked awful but in a sexy way. Her mascara streaked away from both eyes. Her hair was a tangled mess, matted where the mattress and repeated motions had tied it in knots. Her cheeks were rosy and her lips puffy.

"Show me your pussy," I rasped, my voice shocking us both.

She stiffened in my arms and thought about talking me out of that request, but abandoned that ploy, choosing to give me whatever I needed. She stepped back and looked around, suddenly modest in the morning sunlight. She gathered her dress like a curtain rising on a show. Her legs were streaked with rivers of dried sperm. She wore panties.

"Pull them down," I said.

Her embarrassment grew. She held her dress in one hand and worked her underwear down with the other. As her pussy came into view, I saw the damage he'd done. She was swollen, pink, raw. Her inner-lips, normally invisible, peeked out at the world, gleaming with his semen. They were swollen too. My eyes dropped to the crotch of her panties. A coating of thick white paint stained the panel. Cum oozed from her gash.

"He fucked you all night," I rumbled. "Tell the truth."

She lowered her eyes to the floor.

"He fucked me all night," she admitted. "He fucked me minutes ago."

"You sucked his cock."

"I sucked his cock," she quickly admitted.

Our eyes locked. I was going to ask if he'd fucked her asshole but her eyes leaped forward to the answer, knowing I'd ask. I saw the truth plain as day. His seed polluted her body from every angle. She carried him everywhere.

"What now?" I croaked.

She shrugged.

"I pull up my panties. We go back to our hotel. I have one last performance tomorrow and I need to sleep first. After that, we get on with our lives. We fly home. We go from there. "

The desire to fuck her washed over me, followed by that goddamn desire to leave her untouched and fucked by only him. I think she expected me to rip her clothes off and my inaction worried her, like I was angry and unforgiving.

"Come here," I said, and she shuffled forward, panties still around her thighs. I held her face with both hands and kissed her deeply, tasting semen.

"So we just return to our life?" I asked. "Just like that?"

She shook her head, calculating it was now okay to pull her panties up.

"No," she said, taking my hand. "This last year has shown me something. I'm forever changed. I can never go back. It's not a choice. I've awakened to who I truly am. You have too."

She leaned against my chest and I hugged her.

"Baby," she continued. "If a man sticks a hard cock in my face, I'll be unable to resist. That's the truth. That's who I am now, or who I've always been, really, but didn't know it. There's no going back."

"Will you stick with classical violin?"

She gave me a tired smile, nodding.

"I love to play," she said. "I'll never stop. But maybe I'll throw in some rock and roll too. Wouldn't it be fun to play some of the wild clubs in town?"

I pictured it.

"We should stick with the red hair," I said.

Chapter 12

Manuel had hot babes draped all over him but his attention was on Scarlett. Few would recognize her tonight. She had the same long red hair but curled in waves around her face. She wore black lipstick and eyeshadow that made her eyes pop and matched her scandalous strappy black leather outfit, tits spilling out, miniskirt too short to cover her ass. She flew through the arrangement on electric violin while Darren led on electric guitar. Boris hammered the drums. A German man named Dark, who I'd never spoken to, screamed powerful vocals.

Manuel noticed me and waved. I waved back.

He'd called Scarlett soon after we returned to the States, eager to meet for coffee and conversation. Yeah, right. Scarlett avoided him for months, nervous about playing around at home, nervous about the new way she saw herself. It's one thing to understand who you are, but another to act on that new understanding. With trembling hand, she'd sent Manuel a text inviting him to the show. He'd accepted instantly.

Now he watched her play and his admiration was obvious. So was his desire. My wife had invited a thick-cocked porn star to her performance. We all knew why. My hand trembled too as I lifted my drink. I remembered him from the orgy. I remembered his sexual stamina. I remembered what he'd done to those actresses and I knew tonight he'd do the same to Scarlett.

I dropped my eyes to the front of his jeans. I remembered the girthy cock that lay hidden there. I knew what that dick would do to my wife.

I looked forward to watching that.

End.

Join My Mailing List
Get a FREE Hotwife Story!

Follow My Twitter

Find me on: GoodReads

Talk to Me

BunnyLovesBigCarrots@gmail.com